

Teen Center Perspectives

By: Ginny Gilpatrick
Rockcastle Teen Center

Stephen (not his real name) is 18 years old and homeless. He has no parents or extended family who can or will take him in, so after his eighteenth birthday he was on his own. He found his way to Rockcastle County by way of the CAP Family Life Center, but it was not appropriate for him to stay in that program. If he drank or used drugs he could be sent to a rehabilitation center; if he broke the law, perhaps he could go to a detention center. But he is drug free, and has no court record.

He has been a "regular" at the CAP Teen Center for several weeks. A staff person there has taken him to a Job Corps recruiter in Somerset and he is signed up and ready to go...but processing takes six or seven weeks. He stayed with friends for a few days and currently he is at a local motel for a few more days until the money runs out, but his problem is not solved. He has sought local employment to no avail since he will be here such a short time. He has done some odd jobs and earned some money to replace his broken glasses frames and buy some food. He now has more friends and ties in this county than anywhere else. But he has a problem: too old for foster care, too young and inexperienced and transient to get work, too able-bodied to qualify even for a medical card.

It is very easy to criticize teenagers. But personal knowledge of their situations often makes one see them in a different light. Stephen's case may be a little extreme, but actually it is only a heartbeat away from the predicament of many teenagers.

Concerned citizens need to identify and address the gaps in the system which fail to address the needs of the Stephens of this world. Looking at teenagers individually rather than categorically stereotyping them dissolves criticism and provides a foundation for developing services that will encourage and enable them to live productive lives.

Destination Graduation

This summer, Destination Graduation tutors asked Rockcastle County merchants and community members to support the Rockcastle County/Destination Graduation Summer School Awards Program through donations to the Summer School Awards Program.

The response of the Rockcastle County community was outstanding. In fact, it was so great that, in addition to funding the Awards Program, a scholarship has been established to be awarded in the Spring of 1993 to a graduating college-bound Rockcastle County High School senior who has participated in the Destination Graduation tutoring program while at RCHS.

Rockcastle County has clearly indicated through its outstanding support of this program that it is a

Habitat for Humanity

A movement to help the homeless will be examined when KET airs Persistence to Dream at 10:30 p.m. Wednesday, August 7. Habitat for Humanity consists of volunteers from around the nation who gather to donate their know-how and/or labor to build homes for those who need them. It became much more visible when a special citizen, Jimmy Carter, began giving his name and time to the organization. The problem of homelessness is huge, and volunteering alone will not

Workshop at school

The Kentucky Council on Economic Education and Renfro Valley Folks Inc. are working together to integrate economics into Rockcastle County Schools.

Supt. Bigge Towery and principals at county schools have met with council members to determine the needs of the schools.

A teacher reception to showcase quality classroom materials was held Tuesday at Renfro Valley Lodge.

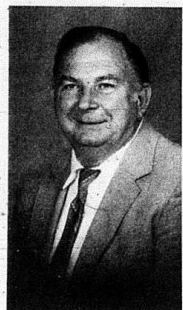

On Tuesday, Aug. 6 two workshops will be offered at Rockcastle County High school to train teachers with "Econ and Me" a program that help young students think their way through their own economic problems, understand basic economic concepts, and extend their basic skills in language arts and mathematics. That program is for students grades one through five.

The other workshop is named "Stock Market Game" for grades six through 12. It is a 10-week simulation designed to introduce participants to the American economy and the world of finance and investing. This competitive activity provides opportunities to use math skills and critical reading skills in a motivating way to learn about economics, financial markets and the stock market.

Teachers interested in attending either workshop should contact Shelby Reynolds at the Rockcastle School Administration, 256-2125.

Norman Rockwell works subject of new special on KET

Their faces are as familiar as the boy or girl next door; youthfulness, innocence, and mugs of a time gone by. The works of Norman Rockwell, whose illustrations are nearly synonymous with Americana, appear on countless calendars and numerous knickknacks and are beloved by nearly everyone with a yen for nostalgia.

Many of the 46 original Rockwell illustrations in Murray's National Scouting Museum are showcased in Norman Rockwell: Scouting Through the Eyes of an Illustrator, airing on KET at 10 p.m. Aug. 5.

Doctors say cantaloupes can kill, if not treated properly

An outbreak of the food-borne disease Salmonella involving cantaloupes has prompted the Food and Drug Administration and health departments to issue an advisory to the public to treat the popular melon with caution.

At least 185 laboratory confirmed cases of Salmonella have been found across the nation since June 1.

13 percent tobacco increase

Kentucky tobacco farmers go into topping time of late July and early August, a University of Kentucky tobacco specialist declared this year's crop to be 13 percent above last year's.

"We have at this time a really good crop. Most experts are predicting that the state's producers will have 13 percent more to market this year than last," said James Smiley, a University of Kentucky extension tobacco specialist.

Smiley said that the increase will help Kentucky producers more closely fulfill their quota. The state's farmers have been underproducing their quota in recent years. The increased tobacco production this year may be due in part to federal law that allows farmers this year to market 20 percent more, he said.

"If the crop goes into harvest as well as it looks like it will now, we can expect a harvest of close to $900 million worth of tobacco," Smiley said.

Smiley urged tobacco farmers to begin topping their crops soon as 50 percent of the plants in the field have at least one flower open on the head.

"If proper topping is followed by favorable weather for three to four weeks, the crop will increase its weight by 20 pounds each week," he said.

Because many farmers have planted more tobacco this year than in recent years, they may have housing problems. Smiley suggests farmers let the tobacco stand in the field five to six days, if possible, after cutting so that it can be placed closer together on rails in the barn.

"Extra field time after cutting will help decrease the moisture content and more leaf can be cured in the same barn space," Smiley said.

Retirees to be honored

Persons who have retired from service at the Lexington-Blue Grass Army Depot are invited to attend a Retiree Appreciation Day at the facility from which they retired.

Retiree Appreciation Day will start at 11 a.m., Aug. 7 in Building 220 (Supply) at the Lexington facility and at 11 a.m., Aug. 8 at the Blue Grass Facility's Igloo Club in Richmond.

The activities begin with a luncheon, including a welcome by Col. William R. Humbaugh, depot commander; recognition of directors and hosts and hostesses; and special recognition certificates presented to retirees.

During the afternoon, the retirees will be offered tours of the depot. There will also be drawings for door prizes throughout the afternoon.

School Begins Monday, Aug. 19

Students will attend the first day of classes for the 1991-92 school year Monday, Aug. 19. Classes will be in session for 172 days.

Tuesday, Aug. 20 will be the first full day of classes for students. August 14, 15 and 16 will be Professional Development and Teacher Preparation Days with no students in attendance.

An advisory went out earlier to food retailers, and food service institutions after reports of salmonella poisoning from cantaloupes.

Typical symptoms of the disease are nausea, vomiting, abdominal cramps, diarrhea, fever and headaches which usually develop six to 48 hours after exposure. The symptoms usually last one to two days if treated.

Symptoms are most severe in the case of infants, the elderly and chronically ill persons, particularly those with weakened immune systems, according to Dr. James T. Corum of the Rockcastle Health Department.

For preparation of whole cantaloupes, the rind should be vigorously scrubbed in a clean non-toxic detergent solution to remove all surface soil and then rinsed in potable water, or water that is considered fit to drink.

The whole cantaloupe should then be dipped for one minute in a chlorine solution (maintained at 100 parts per million) and then rinsed in potable water.

For sliced cantaloupes, sanitized knives and cutting boards should be used when the melon is cut for eating or display.

The rind should be removed from cut cantaloupe wedges or chunks sold or served to customers in salad bars. As an exception, cut and wrapped cantaloupes offered for sale should not be needed.

All important, cut cantaloupes should be maintained at or below 45 degrees during storage, display and service.

Retail display and service of cut cantaloupes should be limited to four hours and then discarded.

In addition, preliminary information indicates the possibility of contamination of other fruits, for example, strawberries and grapes, but the advisory applies only to cantaloupes.

Housing money is available here

Pointing out that housing continues to be one of the cornerstones of community development, a newly formed Rockcastle County Housing Corporation has taken steps to help low income persons to obtain adequate housing.

Bobby Hornsby of FHHA, told the group at a recent meeting that funds are available through his organization to help.

He said, for example, a senior citizen whose income is $9,600 or less per year can get a grant for $5,000 and a one percent loan for $10,000 for up to 25 years to improve their house.

The board then asked Gordon Campbell of CMW Engineering of Lexington, who was present, to do preliminary work on behalf of the board.

"This will include identifying classifiers of substandard housing throughout the county; seeking funds to replace or improve these with owner occupied units, and extend utilities where needed.

These individuals represent all sections of the county. Further, they represent agencies, professions, and businesses that have daily contact with families in need of housing.

For further information, interested persons should call the Daniel Boone Development office at 256-5315 or the office of County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins, 256-2856.

Congressman Rogers in town August 9

U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers will hold a town meeting in Mt. Vernon and tour the Northern Rockcastle Water District, which is receiving federal funding for expansion, as part of his Fifth Congressional District Tour in August.

Rogers, R-Ky., will meet with area residents from 10:30 a.m. to noon on Friday, Aug. 9, at the Rockcastle County Courthouse. The town meeting is one of 16 he will be conducting in 14 counties from Aug. 5-16. The remaining counties in the Fifth District will be visited in September.

His itinerary following the town meeting includes, lunch with county officials and civic leaders, location to be announced; tour Northern Rockcastle Water District, 1:30 p.m.; travel to Brodhead and tour Brodhead 2:45 p.m.

"These town meetings give me an opportunity to visit with the people of Southern Kentucky and hear about whatever is on their minds," Rogers said.

"It can be national issues or concerns about health care, education, veteran's benefits or any problems folks are having with Social Security or any other agency of the federal government," he added. "In other words, if a topic is important to the people who show up, then I want to hear about it."

Rogers will also be visiting a number of schools, local government offices, businesses and federally funded projects under way in the Fifth District. In addition, he will hold a forum focusing on rural health care and another on efforts to improve workers' basic skills.

A dozen health care professionals will take part as panelists in the first session, a roundtable discussion scheduled for 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. on Tuesday, Aug. 6, at the Corbin city Hall.

"Our nation faces a health care and health insurance crisis, and Congress will soon attempt to put together comprehensive legislation to address these great health policy questions," Rogers said. "I want to make sure that any legislation we finally pass addresses the unique needs of rural America."

"I also hope that, through this roundtable hearing, we will have a better understanding of the kinds of obstacles faced by health care providers and the kind of obstacles the

Our Readers Write

Dear Mt. Vernon Signal,
This is Private Gibbons. I am the son of James and Pauline Gibbons. The reason that I am writing is because I have a small problem with my mail. What I mean is I wrote about forty letters back home about three months ago and I have not heard a response from anyone. I do not know if the mailroom is keeping my mail or if anyone has not written me in the last three months.
I need you to do me a favor. I want you to put an ad in the paper that reads: This is Private Gibbons - graduate of R.C.H.S. Class of 89-90. I am the son of James and Pauline Gibbons. I am in the Army and if anyone or someone would please write because I haven't had any mail in the last three months and I would like to hear from someone please.
Also put the address at the bottom. My address is Private Gibbons, Janies Est SSN# 407-21-2873, HHC #5032 Mortars, AP 96251-0325 P.S. Also tell them that I will write them back so that they will know how I am.

Sincerely yours,
Private James E. Gibbons

You know who you are if you are among the 25 people to whom I owe letters and I'm not even talking about being a hand full of seed into an envelope and seal it up to deal with those and there is a bunch lying here on my desk waiting for the harvest to dry. But there's also a bunch of people waiting to hear from me who have little, if any, interest in Fall beans.

"Hah!!", she would write in closing.
"Hah. Hah. Hah." And then she'd sign the Governor's name and put it in the mail to you. But if you stop and think about it for a minute, Jennifer's message would make as much sense as anything else you're ever going to hear out of Frankfort and be at least as honest, if not reassuringly different.
Let's say you wrote to Washington to complain that your mail wasn't getting delivered on time. (By the way, if you've done that because you haven't heard from me, there might be a chance that it ain't the Congressman's fault.) You'd expect to get a letter back from Perkins telling you that he was going to contact every person in the Postal Service until he got to the bottom of your problem. I'd like for anybody to write and tell me if they've ever gotten a letter from a congressman who was going to solve something himself. They're always gonna ask somebody else to do it.

If the Chris from our household answered the letter, you'd discover that the dogs had chewed the fan belts off of every mail truck in the country, that the car companies had stopped making belts that size and that it's too hot for people to be out delivering the mail in the kind of weather we've been having anyway.
"What's wrong with your telephone?" Chris would want to know. "Why on earth are you running around in the heat trying to get a piece of mail when you can pick up the phone and get practically any information you could possibly need without having to move more than two or three muscles. Why do you want people to go to so much trouble for you?"
"Hah!!?" he would close the piece and sign Perkins' name to it.
"P.S. Hah! Hah! Hah!"
That may not be more than slightly like the form mail that comes out of Washington, but it would render precisely as much change in whatever you want fixed as anything else you're apt to get.
If either of the kids were answering my mail, people would get insulted at me and stop writing. They'd give up, just like that 60 percent of the population who don't vote anymore have given up on politicians ever solving anything in Kentucky.

Specialized care for women

A new alternative

Excessive (menstrual) bleeding, the reason for over 30% of hysterectomies, can now be treated with a procedure called endometrial ablation. Beyond the emotional distress of a hysterectomy, the risks of complications and infection are significant. Endometrial ablation, a fairly uncomplicated, minor operation is usually performed under light anesthetic and requires no incision. Using a YAG laser, the uterine lining is destroyed, eliminating the source of the bleeding (and the possibility of pregnancy). At the Women's Health Care Center, we believe women should have access to the latest technology and treatments. And, we're committed to providing compassionate care that meets the needs of the whole person.

Welcome Back to the Signal

ROAMIN' ROCKCASTLE

By HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

Hello from Clear Creek.

How many of you remember this column with that greeting in the Mt. Vernon Signal in 1985?

And a "big hello" to my Berea Citizen readers. I will be coming to you from any of these places where ever my path crosses yours be it Clear Creek, Wildie, Scaffold Cane, Hig Hill, Climax, Berea, Madison County, Jackson, Borthhead, Mt. Vernon, Cartersville, Copper Creek, and any county that touches Rockcastle.

Look for me and be ready to give me your news whether someone married, welcomed a new baby, passed away or your wife ran off with your best friend.

I'm interested in your love life as I told Wanda Miller Russett of Clear Creek.

"Why, Hilda Gabbard, I wouldn't tell you anything about it if I had one. You'd spread it all over the country," she laughed.

I'm accused of promoting a match-making business, too.

More about that later.

It is good to be back in Rockcastle writing this column and I owe it to my new boss, Richard Anderkin of the Anderkin Family Publishing Company for giving me space to write this column again.

I've been with the Berea Citizen newspaper, who has printed this column since 1985 and changed hands as often as I wash my face. Each time I feared I would be sold out too.

I've seen the staff here at the Citizen changed, switched about, dropped until I was half way afraid to start writing for fear I would be let go, too.

Dorothy Miller, an important staff member (she handles the money) and I are the only ones who haven't been moved about.

I keep holding my breath and take hope since Rick passed me in the lobby saying, "Ha, what do you mean, sold with the paper?" I'm going to tell you of my first reader and caller.

From Cincinnati, I hear from Lelia Durham by telephone who read me in the Signal years ago and is still subscribing to this magazine.

I know the staff appreciates you being a loyal reader all these years and would thank you. (Let me say I thank you, too, for being the first long ago reader of my column to contact me now.)

Lela says she had just been down to Orlando to the Felix and Irene Reamer anniversary celebration and wanted to get in touch with old school friends, Verda Shearer and Martha Hill.

She attended Berea College in 1924-25 with Verda.

Flossie Burdine, who lives on the same road that I do, called to offer us some red plums to make jelly. Sorry I couldn't get there, Flossie. Maybe next year.

Nyra Hart has returned home from Berea Hospital after treatment for heart pains. She is better.

I took Nyra lunch one day when she came home for I knew Nyra wouldn't feel like cooking.

So I packed a basket with "little greasy, green beans, new flaky potatoes from our garden, and hot cornbread hockeacs. Also I put together a fruit salad of different colors.

Nyra had onions, tomatoes, and cucumbers in her "fridge" so she had a complete meal.

I guess that was my good deed for the day, for I told Nyra the Lord put it in my head to do this for her.

Today I received the prettiest "thank you" card with a red bird (my favorite) on it from Nyra. We have the best neighbors I do believe. Now take Arthur and Genevieve Davidson who have given us lots of vegetables from their garden. She has gone so far as to send us a jar of old-fashioned homemade sweet cucumber pickles, and I am telling you, I'll send the jar back with hopes she fills it for us again later. I'll tell you about their visitors for the summer. One was a four-legged visitor that they didn't want, also will have pictures of their guests, as well as the one not wanted.

Another neighbor, Stewart Williams, has given us two dozen eggs of the nicest brown color which I like because the yellow of the egg is just that. Stewart is the fellow who bought our 15 Cornish chickens.

Long ago folks had to do their own kind of treatment in the hills for their family since doctors were scarce and far away. Folks used plants, and roots to make the medicine they gave out and people just got to using the word "Doc".

My brother, Cleve Payne, M.D., is good at that and John, my husband, has been telling some folks how to cure themselves.

Well, it seems Woodrow Gabbard on Scaffold Cane Pike is about to have the M.D. (Mountain Doctor) tacked on to his name.

Woodrow told John and myself that he had a fellow to tell him what his mother in the hills used to cure or control cholesterol.

She would put a pinch of sulphur on her tongue each day which helped her.

But Woody does not guarantee this remedy. You can take it and hope it works for you.

I was finally able to reach Joe Abney on Clear Creek for a chigger remedy.

"Take a big meat skin with all the fat cut away. Never leave any fat that could be used to cook green beans, potatoes or turnips. This is a waste. There will still be enough to use. Rub that meat skin all over yourself where you think the chiggers will get at you and sail right out into the patch of blackberries or any other plants and fight them on their own ground. They won't stand a chance," Joe said.

I don't know how this remedy will work out but I'll pass it on to you.

Mike Berry of Bridle Ridge country has been in charge of the Service Department Chevrolet-Olds has been in the Sales Division where he now sells new cars. If anyone knows cars, Mike should.

Boy, that's great! I suppose now would be a good time for me to give Mike by bill for causing the many telephone calls from all the girls who hope he'll stop being a bachelor after seeing his picture in this column recently. Remember, Mike, you'll owe me if ----.

Til next week when I tell you how one apple broke up several romances.

Laugh, and the world laughs with you, Cry, and you cry alone.

"POINTS EAST"

The only excuse that I can make is that my newspaper column has become a tad more popular than I ever thought it would and I have made a lot more friends than I know how to handle. I've made more promises to go to meetings and stuff like that than I can handle and still answer my mail.

So if you have written to me and you are expecting a reply, please keep expecting. You may not get it till Christmas, but if I owe you a letter you'll get it. And if you haven't written and you desire my indebtedness to you, please feel free to write anytime. I honestly love to get the letters. I honestly do plan to take a couple of days off in August and go to some quiet place and answer most if not all of them.

Don't try to call though. Chris and Jennifer have not yet been hired to write letters for anybody and they have just as many friends as I do. And believe me, they're not more than ten minutes behind on their communication with anyone.

A One-Sided Love
By: Mayzell Ries

Don't ever get involved

In a one-sided love
Make sure he loves you
As sure as the stars above

Don't let him use you
Like I did mine.
You'll never be happy.
Anytime

A one-sided love
Will break you in two
You know in your heart
He'll never love you

You are the giver
And the taker he'll be
A one-sided love
Will never let you be free

I'm free and I'm glad
I got away when I could
From the one-sided love
That was never understood

My advice to all women
Get out while you can
In a one-sided love
You'll never be happy with that man

Financial Advice Is Often Filled with Misinformation

If you are an individual investor, you've probably been on the receiving end, at one time or another, of advice that is more fiction than fact. Unfortunately, many people believe the stock market myths, a sample of which follow:

Buying stock is a gamble. The fact is, common stocks have proved to be excellent investments, posting long-term annual returns averaging 10 percent or more.

Only people with money to lose should be in the market. The stock market is actually an important tool for anyone who wants to stay ahead of inflation. Any amount can be invested through special programs designed for those who can afford to invest only a small amount each month.

Only professionals can compete in the stock market. Not only can individuals compete with professionals, but they also can actually beat the pros at their own game.

To win the stock market, you must buy low and sell high. This strategy can do investors more harm than good because it generally doesn't work in the real world, at least not consistently. The key to stock market success is selecting companies with value and growth potential, and investing in them over longer periods of time.

Watch what your stocks are doing on a daily basis. Closely related to "buy low, sell high," this strategy ignores the value of long-term investing. The truth is, it's more important to watch the fundamental of the stocks you own—monitoring the issuing companies for financial stability, growth, earnings, dividends and the like. Stock prices may fluctuate daily, weekly and even monthly, but as long as value is there, the prices will nearly always rise in the long term.

You never go broke taking a profit. Here is the more in-and-out trading philosophy. Most investors who profit from the stock market do so over a longer period. In addition to the potential tax liability of short-term trading, you often have to settle for a limited, short-term profit while facing the challenge of finding another profitable place to invest. Holding for the long term can often earn two to three times or more what you paid for the stock.

The stock market is neither a Utopia for fast profits nor a graveyard for individual investors. It is an open market where ownership in our economy is bought and sold. There is nothing mysterious about the stock market. Success demands hard work, knowledgeable decisions and patience. And that's not stock market myth.

It's time for all to be concerned about environment

Like most Americans, I am somewhat concerned about the environment. I think that most of us, especially our forefathers have taken Mother Nature and her vast natural resources for granted for too long. In many cases we are destroying our own children's very future.

And, as are the majority of Americans, I am somewhat ignorant of all the environmental issues. I only know that something needs to be done, a concerted effort put forth to help the earth.

If you have been to a national forest, and most people have because we have several in the area, including in our own county, you know how beautiful and full of life they seem to be.

Last week we ran a story concerning a local group and their disgust with the National Forest Service. Appalachian-Science in the Public Interest is right in this case. The national forest is no place for off road vehicles.

But, the powers to be decided to widen the walking and horse trails in the forest so the motorbikes and four-wheelers would have room to roam.

They decided to do the dastardly deed in the national forest at S-Tree Tower in Jackson County.

If you have never been to S-Tree, it is absolutely beautiful, but now there is room for off road recreation vehicles, in a place where there should be none.

This is certainly no knock on Ohio or Indiana folks, they are only taking advantage of the situation, but in Indiana and Ohio they are not allowed to ride their vehicles in their forests. But in Kentucky and at S-Tree Tower, the forest service has given them a helping hand.

The days of a leisurely walk or horseback ride through the forest at S-Tree will soon be gone if the off road vehicles are not stopped. What was once a beautiful parcel of Kentucky woodlands will soon be nothing more than a racetrack and an obstacle course. Erosion has already occurred along some of the trails where the forest service used a little bobcat to widen them and if the trails are continually used by the off-road vehicles more erosion will occur and more trails will be closed. Some already have been. All of us make poor decisions and whoever at the forest service made this one, certainly made a bad one.

factor." Faulkner said he expects tips to the newly-installed Strike Force citizen's hotline, 1-800-DOPE-TIP, to help continue the success.

"We're keeping the pressure on the people who insist on breaking the law and growing marijuana, and we will continue to do so as long as marijuana is found in Kentucky," Faulkner added.

Participating Strike Force agencies include: Civil Air Patrol; Federal Bureau of Investigation; Governor's Office For A Drug-Free Kentucky; Kentucky Association of Chiefs of Police; Kentucky Attorney General's Office; Kentucky Division of Water Patrol; Kentucky National Guard; Kentucky Sheriff's Association; Kentucky State Police; National Park Service; U.S. Attorney's Office, Eastern and Western Districts of Kentucky; U.S. Drug Enforcement Administration; and U.S. Forest Service.

About 180 marijuana plants were found and destroyed at Burr July 25. The plants were in six plots. There were no arrests.

Participating in the police action were Sheriff Shirley Smith and deputies Darrell Doan, Ronnie Roark, Leonard Miller and State Trooper Craig Sutton.

GTE takes over telephone operation in Contel area

Today, Contel telephone operations in this area will begin doing business as GTE Telephone Operations.

Customers will be greeted with "Hello, this is GTE, may I help you?" when calling Contel, and items such as signage on buildings and public telephone bills and company vehicles will gradually be changed.

Bill inserts, bill brochures and bill messages are being used to remind customers of the name change, and ads will appear in many local newspapers with a message illustrating the new name.

GTE Telephone Operations, the largest of GTE Corporation's three business groups, provides local phone service through 18.4 million access lines in portions of 409 states and two foreign countries.

In Addition, GTE telephone Operations markets telecommunication products and services internationally and supplies computer software and data processing solutions. Revenues in 1990 totaled $15.4 billion. GTE Telephone Operations has approximately 114,000 employees.

"SWEET AND SOUR"

will air a few of mine anyway. And I will begin with the one about our driving habits that seems to be my biggest peeve anyway.

Turn signals are as good a place to start as any. When I learned to drive we didn't have automatic signals but had to use our hands held out the open window to let others know our intentions. The position of the hands determined if we were going to stop or turn either left or right. Now if the weather was near zero or a hard storm was brewing I could understand if a person didn't roll down the window and hold his hand out while he signaled, while the car was filling with cold or wet air. But for the life of me I can't understand why people can't push a button or turn a switch to let others know they are going to make a turn. This switch should be activated several feet before the turn is made so other can adjust their own car's speed or begin their take off from a stop sign. This is not only a courtesy but a law.

So many times I have seen the turn signal go on after the turn was in progress and brakes had to be used to avoid an accident.

Another aggravation is when the signal is acting improperly and stays on after the turn has been made. When this happens everyone meeting or following the car must use extra caution for there is no way of knowing the intention of the driver of the car with a signal flashing a warning yet still driving in the straight flow of traffic.

Another peeve is when someone cuts directly in front of a car going the allowed limit then slows down causing the passed car to drop back if he is to have a safe distance between cars.

And I do not like the person who seems to think he or she is the only person on the road that needs to get to their destination therefore they use extra speed to whip around all other traffic one bar at a time. Many times this same person is passed later sitting beside the road with a patrol officer close by. One of the most serious peevish is the way people are ignoring the child restraint law. When I see a parent, or whomever is driving a car with a child sitting on his or her lap or standing in the seat beside them, I want to stop the car and ask the driver if he or she realizes the danger they are putting the child in. Just one quick step on the brake could throw that child into the windshield or even out onto the road and if it survived the impact it could be injured for life. Or if the child should happen to fall from the seat the driver will automatically reach for the child and could lose control of the car therefore causing a wreck taking the lives of others as well as their own.

Car restraints are for the purpose of saving lives and should be used. It is much better to hear a child fuss about having to sit in one than attending his or her funeral.

By no means am I the perfect driver but I do try to obey the rules and am constantly trying to avoid the possibility of a wreck. To be in control of a car one must know all the rules and keep up with the changes being made as more cars and highways are added. One must keep alert to all that is going on, in front, in back and on each side. There is much more to driving than using the steering wheel and gas pedal.

Be as courteous to other drivers on the road as you are your neighbors and seat mates at church.

Marijuana destroyed

Thousands of marijuana plants are falling daily across the Commonwealth, thanks to the eradication efforts of the Governor's Marijuana Strike Force.

As of today, 311,752 marijuana plants have been reported destroyed in Kentucky since Jan. 1, and 118 alleged growers have been arrested. Those figures represent an increase of 185,971 plants destroyed and 57 alleged growers arrested in the past two weeks.

In Rockcastle, 2,682 plants were destroyed and two arrested. In the eight county CVADD area, 90,003 plants have been destroyed with 18 arrests.

There are several reasons for this dramatic rise," said Gary Faulkner, chairman of the Governor's Marijuana Strike Force Committee. "I think the time invested in preparing for this year's eradication season last fall, winter, and spring is paying off now. The cooperation shown daily by personnel from all 15 participating agencies is an another important

How to handle Zucchini Boon

Zucchini is a summer vegetable that creates a problem for many a home gardener—how to use it up. Let us count the ways to prepare this versatile vegetable that's low in calories and a good source of vitamin C and fiber, along with other vitamins and minerals.

Raw young zucchini sliced thinly is good in summer salads. Or, steamed, stir-fried or microwaved, it makes an easy side dish. Young zucchini make excellent pickles and relish. Or simply preserve some to perk up winter meals; it can be canned in a pressure canner but the quality is better if frozen.

Here are a few new ways to fix zucchini now and to enjoy it after the season.

Steamed Summer Squash
6 medium summer squash, shredded
1/2 - 1 lemon
Salt and pepper to taste

Put squash in hot pan and cook covered for two minutes. Stir. Wash cover off, heat two minutes more, letting moisture evaporate. It should be crisp. Squeeze lemon juice over and season. Serves 6.

Italian-Style Zucchini
2 tablespoons oil
1/2 cup chopped onion
4 medium zucchini, thinly sliced
1 (16 oz.) can stewed tomatoes
1/4 teaspoon salt
1/8 teaspoon dried whole oregano leaves
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese

Preheat skillet with oil at medium high. Add onion and zucchini; stir-fry 3 minutes. Add tomatoes, salt and oregano; simmer 6 to 8 minutes or until zucchini is crisp-tender, stirring occasionally. Remove to serving bowl, and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese. Yield: 6 servings.

Zucchini Relish
(use less-mature zucchini, unpeeled)
12 cups coarsely ground zucchini
4 cups coarsely ground or chopped onion

Cards of Thanks

The many expressions of love and kindness extended to our family during the recent loss of our daughter and sister will never be forgotten. The ongoing support of our friends has enabled us to endure the pain that comes with the loss we have sustained. Words can never express the appreciation and gratitude we feel for the people of this county. The concern displayed by the calls, visits, beautiful flowers, food, cards and so many other acts of kindness are cherished reminders of the love and compassion of Linda's many friends. We regret that it was impossible to personally recognize and thank each person.

The Cummins Family

We the family would like to thank everyone who helped us during the illness and death of our beloved brother George William "Bill" Thomason.

Thank you so much to everyone who was so kind to us during the illness and loss of our loved one Henry L. Duncan. A special thanks to the singers and Bro. Tim Hampton and Bro. Jackie Renner for their wonderful words and also Northside Baptist Church and Maple Grove Baptist Church for the food and loving support and all the others who helped in any way.

Wife Rosie Duncan, sister Monette Bullock, nieces and nephews.

The family of Luther McKinney wish to say thanks to all the people who gave flowers, donated money, gave food and gave us the friendship we needed in our time of sorrow. Special thanks to Cox Funeral Home, Rockcastle Co. Hospital and staff, and Dr. Griffith, the ministers, also Bro. Fontaine Jones, Bro. Owen Edwards, and Freedom Baptist Church Choir and pallbearers.

Family of Luther McKinney

- 5 tablespoons salt
- 2 1/2 cups 5% vinegar
- 6 cups sugar
- 1 red bell pepper, coarsely ground or chopped
- 1 green bell pepper, coarsely ground or chopped
- 1 teaspoon dry mustard
- 3/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 3/4 teaspoon cornstarch
- 3/4 teaspoon turmeric
- 1 1/2 teaspoons celery seed
- 1/2 teaspoon black pepper

Mix the zucchini, onion and salt and let stand overnight. Rinse with cold water to remove salt. Drain. In a large kettle or pan, mix sugar, spices, vinegar and cornstarch. Heat until mixture starts to thicken. Add ground vegetables. Mix well. Cook 30 minutes. Fill hot quart or pint jars. Adjust lids. Process in hot water bath 10 minutes for pints, 15 minutes for quarts. Makes about 5 quarts.

- Zucchini Pickles
- 2 pounds fresh firm zucchini
 - 2 small (or medium) onions
 - 1/4 cup salt (pickling salt is best)
 - 2 cups white sugar
 - 1 teaspoon celery salt
 - 1 teaspoon turmeric
 - 2 teaspoons mustard seed
 - 3 cups cider vinegar (4% - 6% acid strength)

Wash zucchini and cut in thin slices. Peel and cut onions in quarters, then slice very thin. Add to zucchini. Cover zucchini and onions with an inch of water and add salt. Let stand two hours. Drain thoroughly. Bring remaining ingredients to boiling. Add zucchini and onions and mix. Let stand two hours. Bring all ingredients to boiling point and heat five minutes.

Back into pre-boated jars. Leave 1/8-inch head space. Adjust caps and process in water-bath canner at simmering temperature for 15 minutes. Cool. Test for seal. Store.

Take precautions with home-canned green beans

Spoilage can result when green beans are canned improperly at home. But you can take several precautions and guard against this.

The first clue to bad beans may be that the lid is no longer under vacuum although lack of a seal alone does not mean the product is spoiled.

A better indication is a cloudy brine which is almost always the result of bacterial growth.

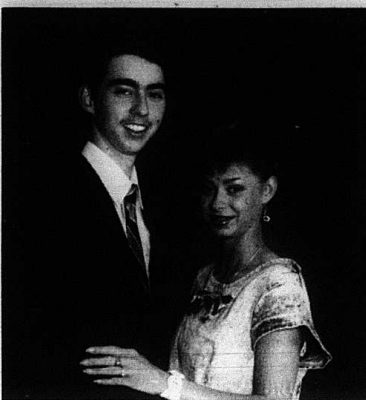

Along with this, gas bubbles and a foul odor usually indicate the presence of bacteria. This type of spoilage is usually the result of under-processing.

Some people still process with boiling water when a pressure canner is absolutely required. Others pack too much product into the jar and may not have washed the food or jar properly.

And make sure you process the beans the proper amount of time for the particular size jar.

Too far from home

I reach out my hand to you, my friend
While traveling down life's road.
My spirit lifts a little
And my love lightens the load
As we travel through the highways
Keep smiling and soon you will find
That the days will be brighter
And our words will be kind.
Traveling through life's pathway
There are many new friendships born
And it blooms like a rose in the garden
Where the beauty is kissed each morning.

My friend I will never desert you
While you stand by my side all the while
When the cares of the day overtake you
Remember me with a smile,
For a smile is love everlasting
Which holds the warmth of the sun in spring

It sparkles fresh as the water
And as happy as the birds that sing
A love is as fresh as the breezes
That ripples the water blue
Its soft as the night's heavens
With the stars and the moon shining through.

My love will last forever, you were the only one.
But sometimes people change, when things can't be undone.
No matter what might happen in the years to come, my dear
Remember my love, I hold so deep
Because my love happened as silent as the drop of a tear.
So if by chance you might read this Remember my words amidst
"As you watch the sun come up
Or as the nighttime beckons through
Smile and keep smiling,
Love and keep loving,
Remember me for a moment,
In everything you do.

Lordy, Lordy in nine more years, you'll be forty. Ha! Ha! Gotcha!

Happy Birthday!

Agri-Business Tour group spent week in southern states

The Rockcastle Agri-Business, under the direction of Roy Brown, took their annual tour July 8-13, 1991.

We left the courthouse at Mt. Vernon July 8. Our first stop was at Knoxville, Tenn. for breakfast at Bob Evans. We then traveled on to Ashville, N.C. where we spent five hours visiting the Biltmore Estate. This estate was a mansion of George Vanderbilt with collections of his European art and architecture.

We traveled on to Savannah, spent the night there. We went to the beach and took a tour of old Savannah. Places visited in Savannah were the waterfront, The Waving Girl, 1850's homes, Chippewa Square, Tomo-Chi-Chi Colonial style homes, Washington Square, General Sherman headquarters, Davenport House of 1820's, John Wesley; Founder of the Methodist Church, and Tybee Island, where we stayed.

Next we headed for Orlando, Fla. We arrived about 3 p.m. that evening and visited the largest mall in Florida, (The Florida Mall).

On Thursday, July 11, we went to MGM studios, Disney World, Ocala, Fla. or Epcot Center (whichever you choose).

Friday, July 12, we visited a Post Treatment Plant at Argyle, Ga. (close to Ocala, Fla.) We spent most of the day going to Atlanta. We arrived there about 6 p.m.

We visited the "Country Market," one of the largest in the country. Some bought melons, apples, etc. Some of the group went to the under-

Target spot devastating some tobacco fields in eastern Kentucky, UK plant pathologist says

Tobacco is the "target" of a disease that is causing dinner-plate-size lesions on plants in some eastern Kentucky fields, according to a plant pathologist at the University of Kentucky.

"Target spots showing up in burley and dark tobacco fields around the commonwealth," said William Nesmith, Extension specialist with the UK College of Agriculture.

"Nearly all fields in eastern Kentucky have some level of disease activity," Nesmith said. "Target spot has nearly destroyed some fields in eastern Kentucky, where heavy shade and poor air movement are involved."

Nesmith said some growers have described "dinner-plate-size lesions." Some tobacco farmers are saying their tobacco plants look like strings; the lesions are so large that all the leaf tissue is gone.

"There is no chemical control available for target spot," he added. "Ridomil has no effect on this disease."

The first cases of target spot were identified in 1989 on burley tobacco in Fleming and on dark tobacco in Logan County, he said.

The fungal disease causes lesions that can be confused with either brown spot or blue mold, according to Nesmith. He said growers can identify target spot by examining lesions carefully.

Target spot lesions start out as a small, circular water-soaked area about 1/2 of an inch in size. The area turns white as the spores germinate. In situations where hot, humid weather prevails, the fungus continues to colonize, causing larger spots featuring concentric rings and a yellow halo. Lesions can vary from a white fleck to the size of a dinner plate. Leaf tissue becomes brittle, paper thin and often splits.

Brown spot also can have concentric rings, but black fungal spores can be observed with some magnification. The brown spot lesions, which generally are smaller than target spot lesions, have sharply defined margins surrounded by yellow halos.

Blue mold initially appears as light green or yellow spots on the leaves. But with age, the lesions turn brown. However, the distinguishing characteristic of this disease is a grayish-blue, fuzzy mold growth on the underside of leaves.

"Target spot is a relatively new situation and little is known about the disease," Nesmith said. "We have experiments underway to evaluate controls for the disease. As information becomes available it will be passed along to county agents and the tobacco industry; but I don't expect any miracle controls to arrive on the scene this year."

Glen Thompson makes some notes before playing a song.

They record the Gatherin' in Renfro Valley

Many Rockcastle Countians are unaware of the Renfro Valley Sunday Morning Gatherin'. But, just ask just about anyone in Detroit and they'll know what you are talking about.

WJR, a huge AM radio station in Detroit has been carrying the Gatherin' since the early 1940's when John Lair began producing the first shows from the quiet Kentucky valley.

The show is heard over 200 stations in the United States and Canada.

Fifty-years ago, those who recorded the Renfro Valley Gatherin', program, used primitive equipment as compared to the electronic wizardry used today.

The new 1,500-seat auditorium recently built as part of the Renfro Valley Complex, houses the newest recording studio. The studio used before the new addition, was located in what is now the museum.

The old studio had a glass wall so that visitors to the shows for the weekend, could watch the actual recordings as they happened. Though this was an attention-getter, it was not always practical.

The new studio is in the back of the show barn and has had much added to purify the sound of the recordings. High-tech sound boards help to separate each individual instrument and vocal track.

Many of those who are part of the "Saturday session", as it is called by the musicians and singers, remember just a year ago when an error was costly. If you sang a song perfectly, and then made an error on the last note, you had to re-record the entire song.

That situation became costly because each musician and harmony singer had to stay over and repeat the song. It often took eight hours to record only a few songs.

However, with the new equipment, when any one person makes a mistake, only that person has to re-record the part of the song where the mistake is located. Everyone else may leave.

This not only saves time and money, but takes a lot of pressure off the musicians.

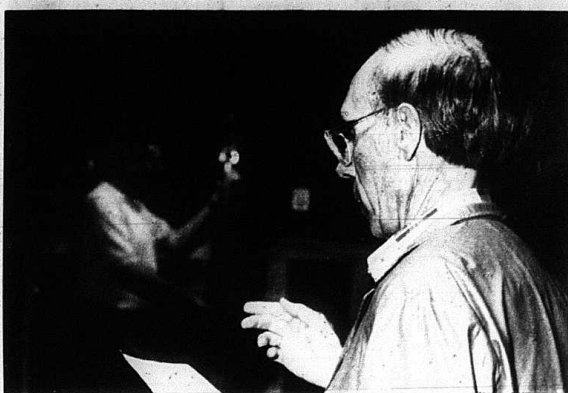

"It's impossible to play everything perfectly, all the time," said one performer.

Another advantage to this new studio is the recording equipment itself.

The quality of music is much better. In fact, many would-be artist have been going to Renfro Valley to record their demo (demonstration tape).

The Saturday sessions can still be long and tiring, but as with any job, the entertainers are much happier to get to work with new and updated equipment.

It has often been said that the entertainers at Renfro Valley become like family in a very short time. It has been suggested that any Emcee and Gatherin' producer Jim Gaskin looks over his script before recording starts. Gaskin has been emcee of the program since John Lair gave up the microphone in the early 80's.

Bobby Sloan plays the fiddle during the Gatherin'. He is also a regular performer on the Barndance and has played with several big name stars from Nashville.

Pete Stammer has been involved in the recording of the Gatherin' since the 1950's.

singers and musician who work well together become very close.

But, it seems obvious to those who work the recordings, that it's those Saturday sessions that bring each performer closer to each other. It is a very hard schedule and a hectic pace on Saturday mornings, but everyone works together. Not as a team...but as a family.

In the end, the listener will receive the most benefit from the new studio.

The quality of music that comes out of the 200 radio stations that broadcast the show, is the end result that interests both the owners of Renfro Valley, and the listeners.

Dale Ann Bradley tests her microphone before recording.

10 year-old all-stars give good showing at Burnside

The Rockcastle County 10 year-old all-stars put in a good showing, after losing their opening game, to come back and place third in the 10 year-old all-star tournament at Burnside this past week.

Rockcastle began the tourney last Monday with a loss to Burnside, 11-1. However, they won by forfeit over McCreary County on Wednesday when McCreary failed to show and then defeated the Rockcastle County nine and 10 year-old all-stars, 16-6, in four innings on Friday.

The 10 year-olds from Rockcastle earned their biggest win in their first game this past Saturday. They defeated the heavily favored Burnside team in a rematch, 14-9. The 10 year-olds were eliminated from the tournament by Pulaski, 7-5, in their second game Saturday.

"We hit the ball well and came back to play some pretty good ball," said coach Clayton Cash in a summary of the tournament.

Seven and eight year-olds finish third at Lee County

The Rockcastle County seven and eight year-old all-stars finished third in a tournament held at Lee County last weekend.

The all-stars started the double-elimination tournament with a loss to Powell County #1, 11-4, and then defeated Powell County #2, 4-2, for their first win of the tournament. The all-stars were then eliminated from the tournament in a rematch against Powell County #1, 4-2.

Coach George Bishop, Jr. said, "I feel we could have won this tournament. We made too many errors, we did not play like we are able to."

Bishop also said they would be no seven and eight year-old all-star tournament at Brodhead due to the lack of participating teams.
