Margaret Alcorn killed at Family Dollar store

By: Travis Flora

An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.

Last Wednesday, August 7, at around 2 p.m. that became a life for a life, as a Mt. Vernon woman was shot from behind and killed at work in broad daylight.

The victim was Margaret Louise Alcorn, 30, a Mt. Vernon resident who worked at the Family Dollar Store in London.

Her alleged killer, Michael Wayne West, 22, of Barbourville Road, who had apparently never met Alcorn, approached Alcorn from behind and fired six shots from a .25 caliber pistol into her as she was stocking shelves in the middle of the store.

Alcorn was shot once in the chest area, three times in the abdomen and twice in the back of the head.

She was taken to Marymount Hospital, then flown by helicopter to the University of Kentucky Medical Center, where she was pronounced dead at 10:30 p.m.

But this story of death did not begin Wednesday, nor did it end.

Alcorn's murder was just the latest chapter in a deadly tale that began early last year at a trailer park in Mt. Vernon.

The Beginning

The events leading to last Wednesday's killing actually began February 1, 1990, with the death of a six-year-old girl.

That night, a Thursday night, at around 8:15 p.m., Lana Curry apparently found a note on the door of her apartment at Dixie Boone in Mt. Vernon.

The note was supposedly from Ed DeBorde, a man Curry had been dating off and on for several months. DeBorde and Curry had met in the spring of 1989 at a Mt. Vernon festival and had been seeing each other off and on ever since.

Curry even had a key to DeBorde's post office box.

The note asked Curry to come to DeBorde's trailer in Cox's Trailer Park in Mt. Vernon, Curry told Mt. Vernon police at the time.

Curry, her two children, Earlanna and Elvina, and two of Curry's friends, Joe and Janet Prewitt, went to DeBorde's trailer.

There they were met by a reportedly intoxicated Alcorn, who was DeBorde's daughter.

Alcorn and Curry's groups apparently argued about money Curry said DeBorde owed her.

According to reports taken at the time, Alcorn began yelling at Curry and the others to leave.

Curry and the others did attempt to leave, but in the process, backed their car into the tongue of DeBorde's trailer.

A shotgun blast then burst through the back window of Curry's car. Curry drove away.

Upon arriving back at Dixie Boone, the group found Curry's youngest daughter, Elvina, lying in her eight-year-old sister's lap, dead.

According to Rockcastle County coroner, the girl died almost instantly from seven pellets from a 12 gauge shotgun blast that hit her in the back and the head.

Deadlocked Jury

Alcorn and a 17-year-old Pulaski County boy, Kevin R. McCoy, were both charged with murder in the shooting.

However, even though McCoy admitted to the shooting, charges against him were dropped.

In November, 1990, Alcorn went on trial for the murder of six-year-old Elvina June Curry.

Conflicting stories were given during the three-day trial, including the type of gun used and who actually fired the shots.

In statements to Mt. Vernon Police Chief Joe Howard after the shooting, both Curry and the Prewitts said Alcorn used a pistol to fire the shot.

Only Elvina's sister Earlanna said she saw Alcorn with a "long gun" standing on the porch.

Police searched the premises and did find a shotgun, but no pistol, Howard reported at the time.

"It is a mess, a young girl is dead and we have a lot of people telling different stories," he said at the time. One reason for the confusion Howard gave was all the adults had been drinking that night.

Lana Curry testified during the trial that she saw Alcorn fire the shot.

The jury deliberated over three and a half hours before informing Circuit Judge Dan Venters that they were deadlocked.

Alcorn was released on a $20,000 property bond. Her retrial was set to begin Sept. 10.

Revenge Motive

Since the trial, Alcorn had been receiving death threats on a regular basis, said London City Police Chief Bill Smith.

Alcorn often called the police to check out people she thought were suspicious, he said.

At around 1 p.m., a man entered the Family Dollar Store, walked up behind Alcorn, who was stocking shelves in the middle of the store, and shot her six times.

The man then ran out of the store.

threw the gun in a trash can, and continued off on foot.

Using descriptions given by witnesses, police Detective Bill Justice and members of the Kentucky State Police picked up West, who was walking east on Ky. 80 in the city limits about a mile and a half away from the scene of the murder.

About an hour later police arrested West's girlfriend, Lana Curry, at her home off Ky. 229 in the Campground area.

Both were charged with murder.

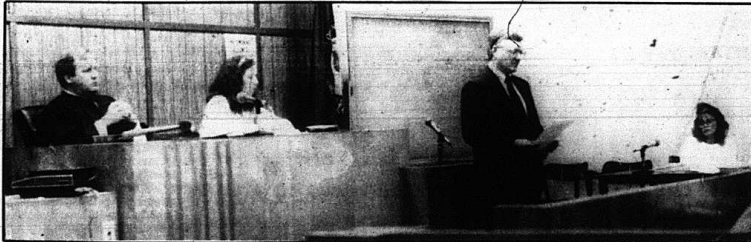

"The only motive we can come up with is revenge," Smith said.

"Alcorn was accused of killing Curry's daughter last year," he said. "That's the only motive so far."

As for how Curry apparently talked West into killing Alcorn, even though they had only dated three months, Smith wouldn't say.

Curry and West had applied for marriage licenses the week before from the Rockcastle County Clerk.

"What I do know is that they have only been dating about three months," Smith said.

Margaret Alcorn, far right, was tried in Rockcastle Circuit Court in November of 1990.

Bowling trial set for September 20th in Laurel

A Laurel Circuit Judge has set a Sept. 20 date for the trial of Ronald D. Bowling of Manchester charged with the murder and robbery of service station attendants in Laurel County.

Bowling is accused of the murder of the Rev. Marvin Hensley Sr., of Mt. Vernon and Ronald Smith of London, both of whom were shot to death during a robbery attempt of the service stations where they were at work in 1989.

He is also charged with two counts of burglary and robbery in the first degree.

Bowling is also charged in Rockcastle with the attempted robbery and attempted murder of Ricky Smith at a Sunoco Service Station at Burr. That attempt failed and Bowling fled.

33,800 experience phone outage Monday a.m.

A "glitch" in a main office computer at London knocked 33,800 telephones out of service Monday in a five-county area, including Rockcastle.

He said that type of problem is usually corrected by the computer, but in this case it failed.

Calver stated the outage occurred at different times in different locations. At London, it occurred at 10:08 a.m. and service was restored at 10:30 a.m. Some areas were out as late as 11:15 before service was initially restored across the system.

The official noted the company is continuing to work on the problem so it will not happen again.

GTE recently became owner of Contel and serves in Rockcastle, Pulaski, Laurel, Knox and Clay counties.

Rogers holds town meeting at courthouse

By: Travis Flora

Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers took advantage of a recess of the Congress to take a two-week tour of his district.

But the debates and hard questioning he received in a town meeting held in Mt. Vernon last Friday proved that not all great political battles take place on Capitol Hill.

The main points of discussion between Rogers and about 40 local citizens centered on two topics: health care and labor laws.

"Health care is one of my biggest concerns," Rogers said. "It is very expensive, and in some cases, people just can't afford it."

Rogers showed government statistics which indicated over 55 million Americans don't have any insurance at all.

"And 80 percent of them have full-time jobs," he said.

Rogers also pointed out that Americans spend over $608 billion a year for health care.

The increased price of health care is the result of improvement in technology and knowledge, Rogers said.

"People are now living longer and healthier, and many more diseases can be cured now than several years ago."

"It's working, but you are paying for it," Rogers said.

To help pay for the number of people needing help paying for health care, Rogers said the federal government was constantly allotting more money for health service programs such as Medicaid.

"Medicaid is the fastest growing part of the government," Rogers said. "It's going to break the federal government."

"We're almost broke now," he said. "We only owe three trillion now."

It was Medicaid that set off the first round of debates with Rogers.

medicaid had gone down for the past several years.

"Well, man, I still don't see how I'm for the rich and against the poor," Rogers said.

The woman questioned Rogers on where the extra money Rogers claimed the government was putting into Medicaid was going, since her benefits had been reduced.

Rogers responded that one reason was that even though the amount the government puts into the Medicaid program was growing, the number of people who received Medicaid benefits was growing even faster.

When more people receive benefits, Rogers said, that leaves less benefits for everyone else.

Rogers again came under fire a little later, this time by two women who asked why Rogers was against organized labor.

Rogers said he had voted against a bill that would have given union members the right to strike and not be replaced.

The reason for his vote, Rogers said, was that the law would have tipped the scales between management and labor too far in one direction.

"If that law was passed, Rogers said, 'the employer has no bargaining chips at all.'

Rogers said currently an employer must wait eight weeks before replacing striking employees.

"We've existed under the current law for fifty years now," Rogers said.

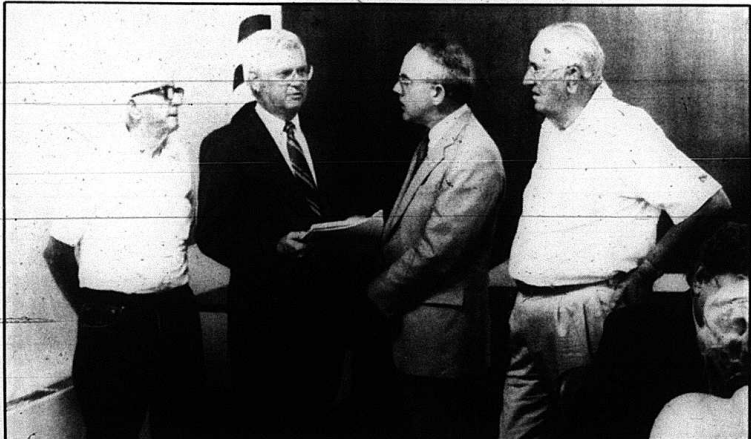

"No wonder the unions don't have any power anymore," one of the women said. "The unions no longer have any backing."

The woman gave as an example a recent case where she said Gibson Greeting had placed ads in the paper to replace employees even before the union had voted on a contract.

"At least the law would have made the employers come back to the bargaining table," the woman said.

"Believe me, I understand your point," Rogers said.

"Do you?" the woman responded. Rogers will finish his town meetings in London this Friday.

Congressman Harold Rogers was greeted by Rockcastle County Schools Superintendent Bige Tawery and Alonzo McCollum, Republican chairman, far right and Archie French, far left. Rogers was in town Friday for a town meeting.

'First Day at Cardinal Hill'

Dear Editor:

I left a super hospital, the Good Samaritan at 10 a.m. Aug. 9.

Barbara Watson and Eugene McBee were there to take my valises from Good Sam in Eugene's car that followed the ambulance with me rattling around in it.

What a beautiful place Cardinal Hill buildings and grounds were!

After an entrance exam, I was taken to my room near the front entrance.

My roommate, a former golfer and "hit it off" quickly.

So many doctors and aids came in to welcome me that I surely felt flattered!

I devoured a delicious lunch at 2 p.m. and then at 5:30, a supper it was called. Pecan pie caught my eye and started my gastric juices running!

I asked for my dope, a cup of coffee, to help wash it down. Delicious!

A nice fourth grade boy, a grand-sun of my roommate, offered to push my wheelchair back to my room.

I am to push it with one foot off the floor and turn and guide wheel to my room from now until I leave. Oh, I will be walking again before I leave! Won't that be great!

That's what I'm here for - to learn to walk again after I fractured my hip from a fall in my home Aug. 1.

If each and everyone gave a prayer for me, that has sent me a card. I believe it would be heard by God!

Yours in Christ,

Dear Editor,

Good evening. Let's talk about baseball. My oh my. My last baseball season last year, 1990, wire to wire, Big Red Machine is on fire. What's wrong with this 1991 baseball team. The sorry, that is what I said, sorry Reds are on that date, 8/1/2 games behind the first place Los Angeles Dodgers.

They went out and got Brett Butler, a free agent from the San Francisco Giants, Darryl Strawberry, nick named, Strawman, a free agent from the New York Mets and Gary Carter, also from the New York Mets.

August 8th all four games played at Riverfront Stadium, Cincinnati, Ohio, the Dodgers showed a mark of a good ball club, winning 3 out of 4 games played at Riverfront Stadium.

Another thing wrong with the sorry Reds, if they would get rid of (cry baby) Eric Davis. Reds fans if I sound critical God forgive me, I am criticizing Eric Davis. Why don't they trade him off to L.A. and let him play baseball on the same team with Darryl Strawberry. A player that is paid 3 point 6 million dollars for 5 years should not hurt all of the time. My point of view, old (cry baby) Eric Davis is not any longer helping the Reds.

David Brock

P.S. I hope Marty Brennan and Joe Nuxall and even Davis read this.

Dear Editor,

In last week's edition of the Mt. Vernon Signal (8-8-91) there was an article about a Ku Klux Klan Rally in Laurel County. I would not have felt compelled to write this letter if their ideas were simply personal feelings or a political view but they claim God teaches their doctrine. Quoting from the article, "At the rally that night, Klan leaders argued that God did not want all races united in fellowship. Any preacher that teaches that should be hanged said Klan speaker Dale Reusch." If God did not want all races united in fellowship, that would be fine with me, but these folks are in error on this matter and are teaching a false doctrine, thus I feel compelled to defend the gospel on this matter. Phil. 1-17.

In Mt. 28:19 Jesus said, "Go ye therefore, and teach all nations," the word nation comes from the word Ethnos, where we get the word ethnic. Jesus says that the gospel is to be preached to all nations or ethnic groups. Jesus goes on to say "Baptizing them." Who? Those whom they teach the gospel to, and who accept the Word of God.

Paul said "For by one spirit are we all baptized into one body." People of all nations are to be taught the same spirit inspired message of the gospel, all who accept the Word are all bap- (Cont. to A-3)

Thankful for some rain

Late last Friday afternoon as I was walking around in the rain and thanking God that I was getting wet, the sun suddenly poked through a hole in the clouds and Paint Lick was painted a glowing, golden hue as if Midas had suddenly touched the landscape. Then across the road, a rainbow commenced forming in Gladys Nave's back yard, arching gently upward and then back down across the creek, two miles away into the edge of Madison County very, very close to where our friend, Dean Cornett lives.

I rushed inside, grabbed my camera and took a couple of three pictures, but by the time I had loaded film and fiddled with the light meter, the rainbow had lost most of its color and the light was almost back to normal. I'm never ready for things like this.

I teased Gladys later, when I went to borrow her camera, that I wanted to borrow a maddock too and dig around in her back yard to look for the proverbial pot of gold. Now as I sit at my typewriter, it occurs to me that gold comes in more forms than metal, and that Mrs. Nave and Mrs. Cornett were the treasure trove at both ends of that rainbow. Both these women care for and do so much for our community and so much to help other people without asking for anything in return that I know I'm not the only person who would tell you that the rainbow was appropriately fixed.

I was out in the rain because it was finally coming at the end of a long dry spell. My yard hasn't been mowed in three weeks and I had been thinking about calling up the forest service to see if I could borrow one of those Smokey the Bear signs to put out front. I had started worrying that a passing motorist might flip a cigarette out on the grass and start a prairie fire. (When I do mow it, my yard seems roughly the size of a small prairie.)

I've put so much city water on my Buford Caudill Fall bear patch that I'm scared it will ruin their taste. I also have 62 stamped envelopes lying in front of me right now and the people who address their expect them to be filled with bean seed and returned some time this fall. You might say that I've been watering for my life because two or three people have indicated that they'll kill me if they don't get some seed back in the mail.

Loretta handles the bill paying at our house, but I've been sneaking around to see if I can find any old envelopes that the water bill comes in so I can figure out what time this month I need to go fishing for a week.

I've also been watering the maters heavy. E.J. Hasty, Mary Rigby and (Cont. to A-3)

tized in that same body, thus all are united in fellowship in Christ and are made partners of the same blessings and the same hope. Paul said that God "hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on all the face of the earth" Act 17:26. Dear Editor,

I wish to remind and inform all Ponder descendants that the Ponder reunion is being held Sept. 7 and 8th at Jackson State Park in London with all day dinner for Sunday the Sept. 8.

Saturday is a good day for different branches of the family to get acquainted. Last year we had cousins from 28 different states (some 50). Old Revolutionary Soldier Daniel Ponder and wife Elizabeth Patterson moved their family from York County, S.C. to Buncombe County, N.C. 1790. Their three sons married three Holcombe sisters, the daughters of Lt. May Holcombe (battle of New Orleans 1813).

John Ponder married Winnie Holcombe and they brought their 16 children to Clay County, Ky. in 1840. Joseph Ponder married Katherine Holcombe and also came to Clay County. Their descendants in Rockcastle County include - Sams, Murray, McDaniel, ect.

Robert married Elizabeth Holcombe and stayed in North Carolina - their descendants in Rockcastle County include the names of Sams, Rockcastle and Pulaski County line area and many others - if you don't know your line - see our book called "Kentucky Ponders" at the library - it is indexed by family names for other names.

Thank You,

Carolyn Kinnaird will testify that I weighed a 2 lb. 11 ounce at Hasty's grocery in Lancaster last Thursday. I have a green one on the vine that I'm guessing will weight at least a pound more than that, in which case some skeptics who have made substantial wagers that a three pound cantelone produced are going to be crossing my palm with green spending money.

Katie Rollins who is in charge of the scales at Uncle Tom's grocery here in Paint Lick has sent word that a three pounder has already been weighed-in there and it's still way early in the big water season.

But my bet wasn't that I'd grow the biggest one. I bet only, that I would grow a three pounder. There's some gardeners in this neighborhood (North Nave is only one of them) who put my efforts to shame. Molly Helton and Bertha McQuerry have also humbled me. I won't be at all surprised if a four pounder is ultimately weighed in.

A call the variety I grow the Molly Helton Sunburst as a matter of fact. It's yellow with pink and purple streaks running through it and they come together in a blaze of color at the blossom end. Absolutely the best eating tomato I've ever tried. Loretta's in the kitchen as I write peeling two five gallon buckets full of them and we aim to see how well they can be before the night is over. People say yellow tomatoes won't keep, but Loretta maintains that you can put two tablespoons of lemon juice in each quart and they'll do just as well as red tomatoes. These are, for all practical purposes, half red anyway.

Along with them, however, we have ten other varieties. We have the Molly Helton Big Purples, Burpees Big and Better Boy, New York Determinants, Jung's Giant, two other yellow tomatoes. Philadelphia Freedom, Irish Rose, and Heinz Improved. We take matters very seriously here in Paint Lick and by the way, matters is, in fact a more correct pronunciation of tomato than you might think. For whatever information it may be worth, the Dutch spell tomato, to-ma-ter and pronounce it just like it's spelled. The next time somebody looks at you funny when you say "ma-ter," tell 'em your great granddaddy came from Copenhagen and you're just trying to hang onto a bit of the old language.

Anyway, it rained for over an hour here last Friday afternoon. A slow, steady drizzle that soaked into the ground instead of washing down Paint Lick in a frenzy to reach the Kentucky River.

After the rainbow, I harvested tomatoes in the downpour barefooted, and simply enjoyed myself as I soaked and sloshed through the mud pile my garden has become. There is something indescribably wonderful about the feeling of thick clay mud squishing up between your toes and soaking up your feet while you are safe in the knowledge that you can hose it off without ruining any footwear.

And no soap or detergent is as cleansing to the body and the soul as a warm August rain that you can just stroll about in without getting chilled or struck by lightning.

Few thoughts are as comforting as the security in knowing that it's okay to wind the hose back upon its spool to get it out of the lawn mowers way. Because that's what I'll be doing tomorrow and for the first time since I, I actually look forward to the chore.

My Rainbow
By: Linda Kirby

Your eyes show like a rainbow Upon a cloudy day I've been so blue ever since you went away But through life's rainbows, no matter how many they are

From here and forever far I've cried my tears for you I wonder how you cried too Through life's highways that we travel down I wonder do you see me crying Do you remember me now

Do you ever see my tears, when the rain is falling down

Do you ever follow rainbows or know the world is round Do you ever remember my kisses Or the way I held you tight Do you remember when I would hold You until the morning light Do you know about the raindrops that Fall gently to the ground Do you ever think about me when Everything is quiet, and you speak not a sound When you look up at a Rainbow that is shining bright Remember that I love you and Hold you with me each night For dreams cannot be torn apart Sometimes they come true So when you look up in the Heavens and the sky is blue When the rain drops start pouring I'll always think of you

When I met you it hurt so good I thought that I would die You placed a ring upon my throne Promised you'd always be mine

I've tried so much to tell you Just how much I care I tell you that I love you I tell you everything we share

You are the best man That anyone could have But you'll always be mine And I'll always care

I know that you are a family man And that you work hard And at night when you come home That you're always tired

But I'll always love you You are the only one No matter how long, that you must be away I'll always love you more each and every day

Where Did Our Love Go

It's just like yesterday I can remember it so plain The day you came into my life And asked me my name

You told me that you loved me You said that you cared I thought that I was the only one But that just wasn't fair

For suddenly you call me friend And tell me I'm not your girl And take away all my dreams You told me that it must end

I miss your kisses and Your warm embraces Your touch that made my heart race

I miss those days of passion shared I miss the feelings that you Always cared

Please tell me friend I need to know Why did you leave Why did you go.

But there's always the memories And you know I'll always care You'll always be my best friend Someone made to be shared Loved and to be shared To a friend!

By HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

By HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

There's a change in the weather. Every year in July I feel fall. We know the world starts to change in seasons. We have nice days and cool nights. Great for sleeping.

John uses a cup of cold water to rouse me. Earl Hammond said it takes a club to get some people up. People in passing:

Teresa Singleton (Hair Plus' Miss Rockcastle) and family vacationed at Panama City, Florida. I told her she should register in the Miss Rockcastle beauty contest before she left but she forgot and missed it so she failed this year.

I met Fred Williams in the bank lobby and asked if the tellers were allowed to throw things at the customers.

"Lord, no, who did that to you?" "Well, I was talking to Mary Startzman and she asked if I had seen the picture of her and their pet possum in the paper. When I said yes, but which one was the possum she reached for a stapler and I thought she meant to throw it at me."

Fred hid a grin and said, "I'll talk to her." "Who he knows, and I do too, a woman as pretty as Mary won't have that mistake made."

Dawyne Dollins new owner of Hair Plus, has done such a good job as interior decorator of the shop I asked why he didn't take up that line of work. He said he had to make a living and there was more hair to be done than rooms decorated.

One morning I dashed in to "be changed" as they can do there at the shop. I saw a lovely woman having the finishing touches put on her hair. She was so friendly and nice and talked with me about her husband Cliff being tired a lot. I told her what yellow root water did for me and it might help him. These mountain remedies are sure.

After she left, I asked Mary, my hairdresser, who the pretty woman was. "Why that's VerRon Moore." I groaned and hit my forehead. "Here I've been wanting to meet VerRon Moore after reading all the things she does, talk to the woman, and let her get by without knowing her name."

Bruce Agee is a pleasant faced, friendly person whom I met while he was delivering a big stack of the Citizens of Piggly-Wiggly grocery store one early Thursday.

He also works with the County Exchange shopping magazine which tells you where the bargains can be found.

I like perfume and the mood it can put you in.

I walked out of Superior Market's parking lot with a carry-out boy, a lady passed between us with the best smelling fragrance drifting behind her that I've ever sniffed.

I asked her, "Lady, would you care to come and pass us again? I've never smelled anything so great!" She turned and said, "Yes, I will. I like it myself," and she did just that.

As she climbed into her car, I followed her over and asked, "May I have your name?"

"Sure, I'm Norma Daniels," and the car slid away.

The carry-out boy looked at me as if I didn't have it all! I'd just love to have the name of that fragrance.

Our neighbors, Arthur Davidson and Geraldine, have been on a weekend vacation to Dollywood. They say he sits around and day dreams a lot since they've come home but he doesn't need to, having a wife like Geraldine.

I saw one time neighbor in Radio Shack who is Bonnie Carter. You remember good neighbors, and Bonnie was one who worried that her television might disturb us.

Bonnie works as a nurse companion for the elderly (don't say I could use her).

Cousin Russell Robinson carries the title of Lion Tamer in the Lion's Club in Berea. I'm curious as to whether he has to tame a real lion and how? I know I'd run if they depended on me to tame a wild lion but I see no scratches on Russ.

Then I saw a group picture of the Lion's Club in the Citizen with Lonnie Reppert who has been selected as president for the coming year. He wore a big stifle which probably meant "Trust me, fellows. I'll do a good job!"

Congratulations, Lonnie, as well as to John Christmas who will become vice-president of the club. I've heard vice-presidents don't have much of anything to do in office but John, you can do what Bush did for Reagan, hold up Reppert!

Now I'm talking politics. That is what we'll do on Clear Creek in the next few weeks as we get ready for the coming election and don't say I didn't warn you.

Things get rough out there!

In Berea, old friend, Bill Malicote, lays in a hospital bed, sometimes not knowing anyone.

He has been so good and kind to me and my family that I went by to see him last week but it is too late. He doesn't really remember.

Maxine, his wife, is exhausted in the care of him so the woman who has helped in his care at home for 10 years, Janice Gadd, has come to do

Superintendent's Message

Striving for success

The Rockcastle County School System is very much involved in the process of restructuring the operation of our schools. As we reflect on the 1990-91 school year, we know it was a very challenging one. We had to constantly study and review the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA). Throughout the year we developed an acute realization of the dramatic effect KERA would have upon schools in Kentucky and Rockcastle County.

I commend our staff and the citizens of the district for accepting the challenges presented by the reform/restructuring efforts and for maintaining a commitment to Rockcastle County schools will be successful in implementing the various components of KERA.

In recent years we have proven that we are capable of making tremendous progress in Rockcastle County. Student performance on the CTBS has steadily improved, our attendance rate has established an all-time high of 96.3% (among the best in the state), our expectation level is much higher than in the past, and the climate in our schools is very positive and purposeful which is conducive to teaching and learning.

We view the 1991-92 school year as one in which tremendous growth and improvement will occur in our district. Obviously, we must continue to successfully implement KERA, but you can sense that our efforts to improve education in Rockcastle County go far beyond the mandates of H.B. 940. Our staff and our community are sincerely committed to developing and maintaining effective schools because it is the right thing to do for children. I have no doubt that the students in Rockcastle County are going to receive an education which will prepare them for the 21st Century.

Rockcastle School Superintendent Bige Towery, Jr.

Rockcastle selected to participate in the Institute for 21st Century

Rockcastle County is one of ten school districts in Kentucky to be selected for participation in the Institute for the 21st Century. The ten districts are Daviess County, Hopkins County, Nelson Independent, Shelby County, Somerset Independent, Warren County, and the Louisville-Catholic Schools.

The Kentucky Educational Foundation is a statewide, non-profit organization formed in 1984 to harness the energy, expertise, and resources of the private sector in order to provide an excellent system of education in Kentucky.

The Kentucky Educational Foundation developed the Institute for the 21st Century to address critical need for professional development in implementing the changes mandated by the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA). Participating school districts have assembled teams of key educators who attend resident sessions and carry out distance learning modules over a two-year period. The teams receive training in developing strategies for the leadership and management of change. They also study every aspect of KERA, and choose one area of the reform package on which to focus.

The team for Rockcastle County Schools includes Bige W. Towery, Jr., superintendent; Claudinia B. Cash, supervisor; Ronnie D. Cash, principal; John Hale, principal; Donna Hopkins, principal; Mark McKinney, assistant principal; Nancy Mullins, teacher and Shelby B. Reynolds, instructional supervisor. The team's focus will be performance-based assessment.

The Rockcastle County School System was nominated for the Institute for the 21st Century by Kenita Valley Folks, Inc., who also contributed the school district's tuition expenses.

All district teams have completed one four-day resident session. The second resident session has been scheduled for October 25-29, 1991, in Bowling Green, Kentucky.

The Institute for the 21st Century is a partnership between the Kentucky Educational Foundation and a number of major Kentucky corporations and foundations. Founding sponsors are Humana Inc.; Ashland Oil, Inc.; Texas Gas Transmission Corporation; the James Graham Brown Foundation; the Greens Foundation; and the Bingham Fund.

"Business and community involvement in the school is critical to the success of the Kentucky Education Reform Act," said James R. Daniel, President/Chief operating officer of the Kentucky Educational Foundation.

School system has two new full-time counselors

There is a lot of new and exciting things happening in Rockcastle County this year in the area of guidance counseling. At the top of the list is the addition of two more counselors in the grades K-8. At this time there is one counselor in each elementary school and two counselors at the high school. The two new counselors are Rose Brown and Debbie Cummins. Rose has been placed at Roundstone Elementary and Debbie at Livingston Elementary. Both are highly qualified and professional in their work.

The area of guidance counseling has taken on much responsibility and importance during the past several years. The role of the guidance counselor in particular has risen to new heights because of the ever-changing, complex society in which we live. Each day brings on a new adventure and a different set of situations and problems to handle. In the future the role of the counselor will become even more important in the total development of a student's education.

The following is a list of the counselors in Rockcastle County and the schools they work in:

Rose Brown - Roundstone Elementary; Betty Conley - Rockcastle County High School; Debbie Cummins - Livingston Elementary; Molly Hamm - Brodhead Elementary; Loretta Powell - Mt. Vernon Elementary (vice-president of Upper Cumberland Association of Counseling and Development); Dale Whitaker - Rockcastle County High School (president of Upper Cumberland Association of Counseling and Development).

The following profiles are of Betty Conley, Rose Brown, and Debbie Cummins.

Rosamond "Rose" Brown

Rosamond Brown is a graduate of Berea College with a B.A. in Elementary Education. She also earned a M.A. and Rank I counseling certification at Eastern Kentucky University, and has recently completed an endorsement in appraisal of Individual Intelligence.

Ms. Brown has been employed by the Laurel County School District for the past eleven years; first as an elementary teacher, then coordinator of the student assistance program, and recently as an elementary guidance counselor.

Rose and her husband, Clotis, live in Mt. Vernon and have two sons, Clotis, Jr. and Matthew.

Deborah B. Cummins

Deborah Cummins is a 1982 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University. She received her Masters in Community and Industrial Counseling.

This past summer she completed certification for school counseling and guidance grades K-12, along with her Rank I. Deborah is married to Mark Cummins. She has three children, Jay, Shaunta and Jessica. She

Rockcastle County School's Mission Statement

The mission of the Rockcastle County Schools is to develop students who have the knowledge and basic life skills to lead productive, fulfilling lives; therefore, we must create a positive, educational environment which requires a well-defined curriculum, appropriate facilities, and a total commitment from school personnel, students, parents, and community.

KERA - Six learning goals

Schools should develop their student's ability to:

Goal 1: Use basic communication and math skills for purposes and situations they will encounter throughout their lives.

Goal 2: Apply core concepts and principles from mathematics, the sciences, the arts, the humanities, social studies, and practical living studies to situations they will encounter throughout their lives.

Goal 3: Become a self sufficient individual.

Goal 4: Become a responsible member of a family, work group, or community including demonstrating effectiveness in community service; in school situations and in a variety of situations they will encounter in life; and

Goal 6: Connect and integrate experiences and new knowledge from all subject matter fields with that they have previously learned and build on past learning experiences to acquire new information through various media sources.

The National Education Goals are:

Goal 1: By the year 2000, all children in America will start school ready to learn.

Goal 2: By the year 2000, the high school graduation rate will increase to 90 percent.

Goal 3: By the year 2000, American students will leave grades four, eight and twelve having demonstrated competence in challenging subject matter including English, sciences, mathematics, history, and geography; and every school in America will ensure that all students learn to use their minds well, so that they may be prepared for responsible citizenship, further learning, and productive employment in our modern economy.

Goal 4: By the year 2000, U.S. students will be first in the world in science and mathematics achievement.

Goal 5: By the year 2000, every adult American will be literate and will possess the knowledge and skills necessary to compete in a global economy and exercise the rights and responsibilities of citizenship.

Goal 6: By the year 2000, every school in America will be free of drugs and violence and will offer a disciplined environment conducive to learning.

Mrs. Pensol named Technology coordinator

Mrs. Kelly Pensol began her duties this summer as the Rockcastle County School System's first technology coordinator.

A vital component of the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA) is technology and the Rockcastle County School System will implement the use of many classroom computers this school year.

Mrs. Pensol will be working to coordinate the smooth and efficient functioning of all technology operations, including software, hardware, curriculum design, training, and district-wide planning. She will also help develop, implement and evaluate the district's technology plan.

Mrs. Pensol will serve as a resource person for teachers to help implement new computer programs and disseminate technology related information.

Mrs. Pensol has 6 1/2 years teaching experience. She is the daughter of Tom and Kathryn Payne and is married to David Pensol.

Kelly Pensol

Betty Conley

Betty Conley isa 1990 graduate of Eastern Kentucky University with a master's degree in secondary school counseling. Before coming to Rockcastle County she was a high school and business college teacher. She is the mother of three children. She and her husband, Larry, live in Winchester.

Freshman Orientation Day

Freshmen Orientation Day at Rockcastle County High School on Thursday, August 8 was a huge success. The 152 students who attended were introduced to information on school policies, attendance, transportation, guidance services, clubs, sports, and schedules and a tour of the building.

The students, as a result of the orientation, left with a sense of feeling of comfort and security. The anxiety that the students came with was replaced with excitement and anticipation. The administration and faculty at RCHS appreciated the large number of students and parents that attended.

Family Resource and Youth Center

Rockcastle County received $180,000 to implement a Family Resource and Youth Services Center. These centers are a part of the requirements for KERA, approximately 100 schools or school districts were funded for the 1991-92 school year.

The Family Resource Center will serve children ages 12 and under and their families. Programs for this center will include issues such as child care, parent education, and much more.

The Youth Services Center will serve children ages 12 and up and their families. Programs for this center will include job training and counseling, drug and alcohol counseling, a hot-line for help, and much more.

These centers will provide a mechanism to address the unmet needs in our county. They will utilize the strengths of our community in an effort to overcome our weaknesses. They will work with existing agencies, service providers and volunteers to build awareness and utilization of services.

The Family Resource and Youth Services Centers will be governed by the Advisory Council. The Council is represented by members from various agencies and parents. The school system will provide housing and serve as the fiscal agent.

Information will be circulating when the staff is hired and programs are underway. For more information call 256-2125.

Tobacco leaf spot diseases

Tobacco leaf spot diseases are worse than normal this season. But growers who harvest early to reduce disease spread and maintain crop quality may be cutting profits as they cut leaf, according to a plant pathologist at the University of Kentucky.

"Hot, humid weather earlier in the season produced conditions favoring a bumper crop of leaf spot diseases around the Kentucky, especially in burley tobacco," said William Nesmith, Extension specialist with the UK College of Agriculture. "Disease activity is above normal both in number of lesions per leaf and number of leaves per plant with spotting."

"Under normal growing conditions," he added, "potential weight gain per week after topping is about 150 to 200 pounds per acre. Most of this gain is in the top half of the plant. So, unless the problem is in the top half of the plant, the disease should have little impact on the plant's future weight gain."

Lower leaves usually have gained whatever weight they are going to by the time a grower discovers the leaf spot disease, according to Nesmith.

"Normally," he said, "there is no benefit to an early harvest in a leaf spot disease situation because damage to the lower leaves usually already has taken place; harvesting early stops weight gain in the upper leaves."

"Even where leaf spot diseases have developed, growers usually are better off leaving tobacco in the field until normal harvest time," he added. "Although yields will not equal those obtained without the disease, they usually will exceed those achieved if the crop is harvested early."

Nesmith said early harvesting is warranted only under the following conditions:

Serious disease damage occurring in the upper leaves and lower and mid-stalk positions.
Yield loss exceeding 150 to 200 pounds per week of cured leaf per acre as a result of lower leaves dropping off the plant.

The disease problem is confined to hot spots in the field. Removing the hot spots will reduce the inoculum (pathogen) level and increase the potential success of other disease control programs.

P.O.V. Looks at Life of Female Guerilla Leader

An "enemy" of the United States is the focus of the upcoming P.O.V. film "Maria's Story," airing on KET at 11 p.m. Saturday, August 17.

Maria Serrano is a wife, mother of three, and guerrilla leader in the FMLN, El Salvador's rebel army which has been fighting U.S.-backed government forces for 11 years. Dodging mortar attacks and helicopter surveillance, and preparing a major offensive, she opens her world to two young American women film makers. Related entirely from Maria's point of view, the film straight forwardly reveals the daily life, the motivations, and hopes of an unforgettable woman.

New KET program examines high cost of health care

Highlights of the Blue Cross/Blue Shield-sponsored summit will be featured in the new production Search for Solutions: The 1991 Kentucky Summit on Health Care Costs. The two-hour program begins at 8 p.m. Monday, August 19.

Lessons Learned by You
By: Linda Kirby

Thinking back on years gone by

I really have to smile
For all the things you've taught me
It's made my life worthwhile

You gave me everything, in my life
Even though you've done some wrong

You put music in my life
And filled my heart with song

You taught me that it's good to love
And to be loved in return
You taught me that respect is not a gift.

It always must be earned
I've learned a lot from watching you
And I can plainly see
I hope that I taught you
As much as you taught me

I hope you know how much I care
And how much I love you too
I could got have come this far
Without a friend like you

3,098 "pot" plants found in Rockcastle

A total of 3,098 marijuana plants have been destroyed in Rockcastle County this year, according to a report from the governor's Marijuana Strike Force.

Although seeming a lot, it's a "drop in the bucket" to some counties. Take for example, Clay, where 62,034 plants have been destroyed; or Knott, 36,748; Leslie, 37,613; Floyd, 98,112; Bell, 21,365; Owsley, 59,673.

In the eight-county Cumberland Valley Area Development District, a total of 116,352 plants were destroyed with 27 arrests, none in Rockcastle.

Some counties around Rockcastle, totals were: Pulaski, 8,359; Madison, 85; McCreary, 5,764; Wayne, 10,045; Whitley, 5,363; Jackson, 4,157; Laurel, 3,227; Garrard, 2,976; and Lincoln, 509.

Seven marijuana eradication teams are operating across the state. Although the majority of marijuana is raised in remote, mountainous areas, other parts of the Commonwealth are also seeing large numbers of plants destroyed. As of today, 462,302 plants have been reported destroyed in Kentucky since January 1, 1991; 144 alleged growers have been arrested.

"We have destroyed marijuana in 104 of Kentucky's 120 counties this year," said Gary Faulkner, Chairman of the Governor's Marijuana Strike Force Committee. "Clearly, this is a statewide problem."

Brodhead man slightly injured near Crab Orchard

An 85-year-old Brodhead man was slightly injured last week when his car rammed a mobile home on KY 39 south of Crab Orchard.

Everett Nicholas of Rt. 1, Brodhead, was northbound on KY. 39 when his 1982 Chevrolet station wagon plowed into the rear corner of a mobile home that was being hauled to the Richard Cox property.

The mobile home, which was being hauled by Parrell Blanton of Somerset, had partially crossed the centerline as Blanton made the turn onto the Cox property, according to police reports.

Most of the trailer was off the road on the right side, the rear left corner was sticking out into the northbound lane.

Lincoln Deputy Sheriff Harold Cunnagin estimated that Nicholas was traveling 45 or 55 when his car hit the mobile home. He apparently didn't see the flagman warning approaching cars.

The impact broke the windshield from its frame on Nicholas' car. Nicholas was injured but not seriously enough to be admitted to the hospital. He was treated and released at the Fort Logan Hospital Emergency room.

Police find more "dope"

A total of 21 marijuana plants were destroyed Tuesday in a wooded area on U.S. 25 in the area of Chestnut Ridge Church of Christ.

Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan and State Trooper Craig Sutton destroyed the plants.

In Lexington

$400,000 man indicted by federal grand jury

The Illinois man in whose car police found $400,000 in cash was indicted last week by a federal grand jury in Lexington on money-laundering and cocaine charges.

Miguel Angel Garcia Jr., 32, called attention to himself when he paid $1,200 on July 12 to have his car towed from Laurel County to Miami. The car, a 1982 Mazda, was worth only $500, a federal drug agent said.

Police searched Garcia's car and found a special gas tank underneath in which they found $390,000 in cash. In addition, police found $16,000 in a bag Garcia carried and $3,000 in his pocket. In all, police found $411,414. Garcia, who listed his address as Glen Elynn, Ill., a suburb of Chicago, was arrested and charged with money-laundering.

At a hearing July 23, federal drug agent Frank Finken testified that traces of cocaine also were found inside the car. Finken said he thought the car had been used to transport cocaine.

Soddy U.S. Magistrate James Cook said he thought Garcia had delivered a load of cocaine from Miami to Chicago and was returning to Miami when his car broke down in Laurel County. Cook said he thought the money was proceeds from the sale of the cocaine. Cook granted a government motion that Garcia be jailed without benefit of bail while he awaits trial. A government prosecutor had argued that Garcia, if released on bond, was a risk to flee.

He faces up to 20 years in prison on each of the two money-laundering charges.

18-year-olds can register for draft at Ky. State Fair

Registration with Selective Service is, for a brief period, going to be easier than ever.

Young men about to turn 18 may register while attending the Kentucky State Fair in Louisville, Aug. 15-18. Selective Service officials will be on hand to explain the registration process and answer any questions.

Young men are required to register at the post office within 30 days of their 18th birthday by filling out a simple card. Registration is linked to federal student aid, job training benefits, and most federal employment.

"By adding their names to the Selective Service list, a young man not only complies with the law, but also guarantees his eligibility for many important federal benefits," said Brig. Gen. Taylor L. Davidson (Ret.), Kentucky Selective Service State Director.

Reward in trooper's death to be rescinded

A group of state police employees will rescind its $50,000 reward in the case of slain state trooper Johnny Edrington on Sept. 1.

The Kentucky State Police Professional Association hopes the deadline will push anyone with information about the killing to come forward once they realize the reward is not permanent, said Bob Scott, president of the association.

"The association would be very happy to be able to pay that money," Scott said.

The association established a $10,000 reward for information leading to an arrest and conviction in Edrington's case soon after his death in late 1988.

Edrington's body was found Dec. 21 lying beside Ky. 80 seven miles west of London. He apparently had been killed just before midnight Dec. 20.

Kentucky's high compliance rate reflects the willingness of their young men to accept the responsibilities as well as the benefits of citizenship, and to serve this country in time of need. Of the 14 million young men who are registered, over 220,000 are from Kentucky.

Annual talent contest at Renfro Valley is Saturday

Company's coming to Renfro Valley at 10 a.m. Saturday, when the Renfro Valley Folks open the doors of the historic Old Barn theater and welcome participants and spectators to the 1991 Talent Round-Up.

"We started this event in 1975," said Pete Stamper, entertainment director at Renfro Valley, "and the original plan was that it would be a day to honor John Lair, the gentleman who founded the Renfro Valley entertainment Center in 1939."

According to Stamper and other long-timers at Renfro Valley, John Lair was a modest man, and a bit embarrassed by all the hoopla. He suggested that instead of a "John Lair Day," a Renfro Valley "Talent Search" for amateur musicians and vocalists who wanted a chance to come and perform on stage.

There are four categories in this year's talent competition: Country vocalists and groups, gospel vocalists and groups, instrumentalists, and comedy acts. Entry fees may be paid in advance or on Saturday morning before 9 a.m.

Charges vary will be awarded in each category, with a grand prize for best overall performance. Spectator tickets will be available at the door for $3 per person.

Rockcastle Teen Center

This week's column is addressed to those who don't ordinarily come to the Teen Center. It is a questionnaire, and you don't need to sign your name. When we re-open September 3, we want to be the kind of Center that's needed and wanted by all teens in the community with a program that varies from day to day. Please write this out thoughtfully. ## Tiger Pause

The 91-92 school year has already begun for many teachers and administrators. Educators attended professional development seminars at RCHS, Monday, August 5, where they participated in activities relating to discipline, performance, based assessment and the non-graded primary. Also, teachers have been busy in their classrooms getting ready to greet their students, who will be registering Monday, August 19 from 8:15 to approximately 11:30. There will be a breakfast served the 19th. Students will begin their first full day, Tuesday, August 20th. Breakfast and lunch will be served. Meal prices are: lunch - 80¢; reduced 40¢ and breakfast - 45¢; reduced 30¢. School will be dismissed Labor Day, September 2.

Teachers are not the only ones who have been busy. Students are going to be proud of the brightly painted hallways - the results of a lot of hard work by our custodians, Jackie Lawrence and Bill Melcher, with the help of district maintenance, Frank Arnold. Thanks to the art work of Mrs. Sharon McKinney, the "Tiger" mascot appears throughout the building, masquerading as student and staff.

We would like to extend congratulations to Mrs. Kelly Pensol, who is now the Technology Coordinator of the Rockcastle County Schools. Mrs. Pensol taught at BES for six years. We will miss seeing her every day, but she will be on the scene working with our students and teachers. Good luck, Kelly.

Mrs. June Taylor has retired, after teaching for nearly thirty years. Many students and parents will remember Mrs. Taylor as a dedicated professional, who appreciated children. A recent phone call to Mrs. Taylor revealed that she is planning to spend her time as wife, mother, and grandmother. Doesn't sound like retirement to me!

With the hiring of additional counselors in the district, Miss Molly Hamm, our guidance counselor, will be assigned to BES full-time. She would like to remind parents with concerns regarding their child's curriculum, progress, homework, attitude, behavior, learning difficulty, etc., that they are welcome to call 758-8512 for an appointment, Monday through Friday.

You are encouraged to join PTA, an organization that has coordinated many beneficial projects for our school, most recently, PTA provided the materials for the building's "facelift". Membership is $2 and meetings are the second Thursday of each month, at 7 p.m. in the cafeteria.

Miss Linda Cummins, our fourth grade teacher and dear friend, lost her life in an accident a few weeks ago. Linda met situations and people with an enthusiasm, a concern, an energy, and a positive attitude that could not help but affect those she was with; that could not help but influence the situation and aid in bringing out the best in everyone. She was someone who could be trusted; she was someone to whom you could always go and find a willing listener with a receptive ear; she was someone who could be counted on to offer help in each and every case. Our only consolation is the knowledge that we were privileged to know and work with Linda over the years. During that time we came to know her as a person of intelligence and integrity, indeed, an inspiration to us all. We also take comfort in the fact that a part of her will continue to live, reflected in the lives of the students who she has instructed and guided over her years. Those are the students who were fortunate enough to have her as a teacher who carry her ideals, her knowledge, and her moral principles into the world, and the world cannot help but be made a better place because of it. Our lives shall be emptier for her absence, because they were made fuller by her presence.

Three attend Science seminar

Three Rockcastle County teachers are among 30 educators taking part this month in a two-week Summer Science Institute for Teachers at Eastern Kentucky University.

The Summer Science Institute is designed for teachers of grades 5, 6, 7, or 8 who teach physical science or earth science concepts.

EKU's Department of Curriculum and Instruction is sponsoring the programs, which run from Aug. 5 to 16.

Local participants include: Nelson D. Graves of Broodhead Elementary School, Ken Abney and Brenda Ballinger both of Livingston Elementary School.

During the program, participants will be divided into two groups. Each group will receive 2 1/2 hours of instruction Monday through Friday.

Half of the instructional time will be devoted to physical/earth science concepts, while the other half will be devoted to developing related inexpensive hands-on teaching materials. Participants also will have access to the EKV Science Education Center for an additional two hours per day for activities related to the Institute.

Instructors will be Dr. Robert J. Miller, professor of science education in the Department of Curriculum and Instruction, and Dr. John O. Wernegreen, professor in the EKV Department of Natural Science.

Upon completion of the program, participants will receive a $500 stipend, free tuition for the three-hour graduate level course, and materials to enhance hands-on science learning by their students.

Participants will then be able to function as science education resource persons for in-service instruction in their school systems.

Library News

By: Geraldine Robbins

School will be starting next week and we are going to be missing a lot of children that have been coming into the library this summer. We hope the parents will continue to bring them in after school or on Saturday. We will especially miss the little ones that have been coming to the story hour on Wednesdays. Several of them will be starting kindergarten this year.

We feel we have had a small part in preparing them for school. They have learned to share their toys and other things, to sit quietly and listen to stories being read and how to take turns in being leaders in some activities. They have been allowed to choose their own books to take home and how to care for them.

We'd like to invite any of you who have preschool children to bring them into the library on Wednesdays at 1 p.m. for an hour of fun and learning.

We never can start too early to teach our children the love of books. Most children enjoy sitting in your lap and listening to you read to them or just talk to them about the pictures. I have read to my grandchildren since they were just babies and I did my sons also. We have enjoyed looking at the encyclopedias and talking about different subjects such as birds, snakes, farm animals and other things.

There will be 70 new large print books available next week. The ones we have from the Department of Libraries in Frankfort have been sent back and they will be sending us new ones. There is always a good variety of books in each collection including westerns, mysteries, romances, non-fiction and biographies. I have been purchasing some large print books to add to our own collection. Several of these are by Janette Oke. The ladies like these really well.

There has been an anonymous donor leaving us a large number of almost new paperback books in the drop box. We want to thank you very much for them and thanks to all the other people who have donated paperbacks to the library and anyone who wishes to give us your books after you have read them, please feel free to do so. They will be appreciated by our readers.

Two of the new books in the library are 1. The Endowment by Lavryic Spencer. From the streets of 19th century Boston to the harsh frontier, she wove a web of deception to catch her man.

Lovely, fiery Anne Reardon was forced to flee to leave behind the street urchin's life that shamed her - and to become Karl Lindstrom's mail-order bride in the beautiful, treacherous Minnesota wilderness.

Karl soon forgave Anna for her deceptions, but there was still one shameful, burning secret she had to keep from him at all costs - for it's revelation would destroy the love that had become her very life.

2. Free Spirit by Fern Michaels. Reality doesn't always turn out the way you think it will. When Dory first left Manhattan for life with Griff Michaels in Washington, D.C., she threw herself into cooking, cleaning, baking and decorating with the same energy that had made her magazine career such a success.

But as the months passed, she had to work harder and harder at happiness. She grew fat and sloppy, putting off the classes and writing she'd planned. And the more she tried to be a good homemaker, the more distant Griff became. For the first time, she was afraid of losing-purpose, love, and most of all, herself...

We also have two non-fiction books that would be enjoyed by both men and women. 1. A Question of Character: A Life of John F. Kennedy by Thomas Reeves. 2. The Man Who Kept the Secrets, a story of Peter Lawford by James Spada.

'Evening at Pops' with Bobby McFerrin to air on KET
