Civil Action File No. 91-CI-00126

Citizens Bank PLAINTIFF
VS: NOTICE OF SALE
Russell Bullock and wife, Magdalene Bullock, ET AL DEFENDANTS

Pursuant to judgment and order of sale entered in this action on September 13, 1991, and for the purpose enforcement of mortgage lien to recover the amount of $26,030.78, plus interest thereon, I will offer at public auction the hereinafter described real property in Mt. Vernon, Rockcastle County, Kentucky.

At the Courthouse Door on Friday, the 11th Day of October, 1991 Beginning at the hour of 10:30 a.m.

said property being more particularly bounded and described as follows:

Bounded on the north by the lands of M.E. Owens; bounded on the east by the lands of S.D. Lewis; bounded on the south by the lands of S.D. Lewis and A.B. Lewis; a portion of this line beginning at a white stump in a low gap and running west a straight line to a dead post oak, has been surveyed and the line marked by Henry Hanaman and by the lands of Jordon Dameick; and on the west by lands of G.W. Brown and Jarvis J. Nix.

The above boundary of land is in two tracts, the larger boundary is known as the McKenzie land and the other boundary consisting of about 18 acres was purchased by James Hensley and John McKenzie and Ella McKenzie and in all contains 155 acres, more or less.

There is excluded from the above and not now mortgaged 10.062 acres which was heretofore conveyed to Benton Bullock by deed dated September 2, 1987, which is recorded in Deed Book 132, page 52.

There is also excluded and not now mortgaged 12.126 acres heretofore conveyed to the Commonwealth of Kentucky for right of way by deed dated January 23, 1983, recorded in Deed Book 120, page 515.

Defendants, Russell Bullock and Magdalene Bullock, obtained title to said real property by deed dated November 25, 1975, from J.C. Bowling, et al, recorded in Deed Book 99, page 604, Rockcastle County Court Clerk's Office, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky.

The property will be sold upon the following terms and conditions:

1. The property shall be sold to the highest bidder(s) for cash or for a deposit of TWENTY-FIVE (25%) per cent of the purchase price in cash at the time of sale and balance payable in SIXTY (60) DAYS. The purchaser(s) shall be required to execute bond with surety thereon, to be approved by the Master Commissioner, for the balance of the purchase price. The bond shall bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) per cent per annum from date until paid, and to remain and be a lien on said property until fully paid.
2. The purchaser(s) shall have the privilege of paying all of the purchase price in cash or paying the bond before maturity by paying the principal amount thereon, together with all interest accrued thereon to the date of said payment.
3. The purchaser(s) shall pay the 1991 County, State and School taxes on the property.
4. The purchaser(s) shall have the possession of the premises upon complying with the terms of sale and risk of loss improvements shall thereafter be on the purchaser(s).

EKU Homecoming

You've been to the county fair, maybe even the state fair.

But have you ever been to a Colonel Country Fair? You'll have the chance at Eastern Kentucky University's Homecoming '91 Friday, Oct. 25, and Saturday, Oct. 26.

What's a Colonel Country Fair?

It's live entertainment. It's clowns and magicians. It's food booths featuring all your favorites. But, most of all, it's a chance for alumni and friends of the University to gather in an atmosphere of fun, excitement and fellowship.

"Our goal is to bring people together in a central location on campus," said Larry Bailey, EKU director of alumni affairs. "What we've tried to do is make it possible for people to get together and eat before the game."

The fair will be held from 11 a.m. until game time (2 p.m.) Saturday, Oct. 26 in the Alumni Coliseum lot. It will feature continuous live entertainment on stage, including the EKU show choir, clowns, magicians and dancers. Also, concession booths will feature such favorites as metwurst, corn on the cob, cotton candy, popcorn and soft drinks.

"We want to make it into a circus, an absolute circus," Bailey said.

The fair is not the only new twist to what Bailey termed "a traditional Homecoming with new spice."

For the first time in many years, alumni can join friends and classmates in a Homecoming dance. The dance, to be held from 8 p.m. to midnight Friday, Oct. 25 in the Keen Johnson Building Grand Ballroom, will feature the sounds of The Quack, a Central Kentucky band that specializes in music from the 1950s, '60s and '70s.

Also at the dance, the Homecoming queen candidates will be presented.

The other new wrinkle in this year's Homecoming calendar is the Homecoming Golf Tournament, to begin at 1 p.m. Friday, Oct. 25 at Arlington. Advance registration is required and participation is limited to 140 on a first-come, first-served basis. The cost is $45 per person. To register, contact the EKU alumni office at (606) 622-1260 or 1-800-262-7493, ext. 1260.

"We hope it grows into a tradition," Bailey said of the golf tournament.

At 10:30 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 26, the annual Homecoming Parade will proceed down the usual route -- Lancaster Avenue to Main Street. The parade will feature floats, marching bands, motorized units, queen candidates and a few surprises.

A 5,000-meter Homecoming run, with categories for all ages, will lead the parade. The entry fee is $10 before Oct. 24, $12 afterward. Trophies will be awarded to the top finishers. High school participants will receive a free general admission ticket to the football game. For more information, call (606) 622-1244.

This year's parade theme is "Salute the Stars," which Bailey said could include academic or athletic stars, movie stars, military heroes or even the astronomical variety.

The 1991 Homecoming queen will be crowned at 1:40 p.m., just before the Colonels take on the University of Tennessee at Martin Pacers. The Pacers are members of the Gulf South Conference, but are scheduled to join the Ohio Valley Conference next year.

Game tickets are $8 and may be reserved by calling the EKU athletic ticket office at (606) 622-3654.

There will be an open house at the Richards Alumni House on Lancaster Avenue at 9 a.m. Saturday, Oct. 26. Then, after the football game, a reception will be held in the Arlington Mule Barn at 4:30.

The football game is not the day's only athletic event. At noon, the 1991-92 Colonel basketball team will hold an intrasquad scrimmage in McBryer Area. At 6 p.m., the EKU volleyball team will host Furman University. Both events are free and open to the public.

Reception, brunches and other events are planned for various EKU colleges and departments. For more information about these or any other Homecoming events, contact the alumni office at 622-1260, or toll-free in Kentucky, 1-800-262-7493, ext. 1260.

exciting experiences for their students. Mrs. Carolotis shares so much joy to others.
We are extremely proud to have

Charles Bullen as our new P.E. teacher.

In physical education, the junior high students have finished their unit on soccer. They covered all the skills and the basic rules of the sport. The junior high is now working on the skill associated with basketball. The elementary grades have been learning low-organize activities and are now involved with scoops and beanbags. The students are working on hand-eye coordination.

The LES Library and Chapter 1 Program are very fortunate to have a new person working in our school. She is Mrs. Patricia Martin. She is a great help to our total school program. Welcome Mrs. Martin.

Our library received more funding for books this year. Mrs. Arnold has been busy ordering new titles for our students. Mrs. Martin is busy processing the new books. This year the library has a flexible schedule. This means that teachers and students are able to use the library when they need to, not just during their regular library class. More of our students are reading this year.

Ms. Jenny reports she's been busy screening for pediculoses and it seems to be under control. She is getting ready to start hearing screening.

Our cooks expressed their concern over the school closing issue. They are proud of LES and glad to be part of it. Alda Bond stated, "I graduated from Livingston and I'm very proud of it. We should be able to keep our own school."

Hat's off to Bobby Wilson and Earnest Mink for their many services to each of us at L.E.S.

The thing was a joke to her for Evelyn is employed at the Hendry correctional Institution there as a Librarian and has six more years to go before she can retire.

I thank you for being a reader and wonder how come you're taking the Citizen there. I can't go along with your suggestion as I don't have the time. I was not here at the times you mention. Tell the boys hello from Kentucky as well as yourself.

Literacy Council attends celebration

An invitation was received by all literacy councils in Kentucky to attend a reception in honor of Literacy Day in Kentucky on Sept. 30.

Rockcastle County's literacy council was among the many to attend the celebration, having six students and four volunteer instructors to Frankfort on the sunny Sunday afternoon.

"I don't think two of our students have ever been to Frankfort," said participating.

Christian Appalachian Project provided a van to transport the group

Paula Woodman, literacy coordinator. "It was a good experience for us all."

The group toured the capital in addition to the governor's mansion. One student was impressed by the beautiful mirrors and chandeliers.

In addition to refreshments, the guests were treated to viewing an excerpt from the play, "Miss Cora."

The play depicts the Eastern Kentucky woman who, in the early 1900's, began the literacy movement in Kentucky by originating the "moonlight schools". Moonlight schools were the first sources of adult education for Kentuckians.

Moonlight school was coined as such because classes were only held during full moons. With primitive transportation, the students could only travel with sufficient light, therefore lending it impossible to travel without moonlight.

Laura Lee Duncan plays the part of Miss Cora which she will perform later in the school year at Rockcastle County High School.

Paula believes the trip was beneficial in that it gave students a chance to meet other adult students who share many goals and become encouragers for one another as well as friends.

Motel owner upset over Renfro sewer surcharge

By: Ray McClure

Help! That was the plea of Wayne Gregory, owner of Gregory's Motel, to the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night, but none was forthcoming. Gregory was incensed by what he called a 900 percent increase in his motel water and sewer bill for September, caused by a surcharge on Renfro Valley area businesses...

He told the council it will be difficult for him to pay such bills, and he will have to lay off a worker and make other changes. He stressed it would take a big bite out of his income and profit. Gregory also claimed the city did not tell him and other businesses between Mt. Vernon and Renfro Valley how much the surcharge would be when the sewer system was originally discussed with them...

to meet the debt until all final costs for the system were determined by the engineers. He added there is nothing he or the council can do about it now. The city borrowed about $454,000 for 15 years at a 3.8 percent interest for the project and received a grant of $312,615 to make up the rest of the amount for the construction costs.

Incidentally, businesses in the area pay the surcharge but not residents. The council decided to contact the county concerning the placement of septic tanks and lines around Lake Linville. The Rockcastle Health Department asked the city to check on the tanks and lines so that residents do not contaminate the lake with raw sewage.

The council decided since the city only owned a certain amount of land adjacent to the lake, buildings would not be on city property but on county property. A.B. Thompson questioned the council about the ban on water line extensions. The mayor told him the ban is still in effect and was put there by the state Division of Water.

The September police report was made by Police Chief Bill Mink. It showed 19 arrests, 40 citations, 181 complaints, 6 motorist arrests, 9 assists for other agencies, 11 traffic accidents investigated, 12 transient reports, 4 criminal cases opened, 8 Mt. Vernon Fire Department runs, 3 fire department assists to the UK helicopter, and one false fire alarm. The Livingston Fire Department had one run.

New 150 may actually be built

A new U.S. 150 from Stanford to Mt. Vernon will soon be starting, but from the Stanford area. A low bid of $2,429,570 for a 2.6 mile stretch east from Stanford was accepted by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet last week for Walker Construction Co., of Mt. Sterling. From west of Crab Orchard to Mt. Vernon will not even have the design started until 1998, according to a revised six-year road program released by the state. The design is estimated to cost $600,000.

bypass at an estimated $4,606,000 for 8 tenths of a mile in 1997. The other improvement is the construction of Copper Creek bridge near Lincoln County line in 1994 at an estimated cost of $605,000. Also, listed jointly are projects on U.S. 421 from south of the Madison County line extending over Big Hill 3.1 miles in 1996 at a cost of $9,380,000, and 3.1 miles in 1996 continuing the Big Hill project at an additional cost of $7,520,000. The six-year plan does not include any details on continuation of U.S. 150 to I-75 at Mt. Vernon, nor adding another lane of I-75 to the Tennessee state line, a federal project.

Local people voice opposition to state school building plan

By: Laura Mize "This hearing is not a debate," declared Paul Hampton, state hearing officer, as he brought Thursday's public meeting to order. Many supporters gathered at the high school to voice complaints against the District Facility Survey Plan. "I am here to gather facts and the complaints of why you feel the way you do. I will take them back to Frankfort where a decision will then be made by the state board," Hampton pronounced.

to popular belief, it proves more cost efficient to build a new high school rather than renovating the old. Towery addressed the alteration of Livingston Elementary by stating that the plan specifies Mt. Vernon Elementary as having space for Livingston's students and, according to state law, no state funding can be used for LES after the merger. "At that point it would be a local board decision whether or not to continue to use local funds to keep the center open," informed Towery.

well-communicative relationship. "It's not a school coach's goal to have Olympic athletes -- that's not what those extra-curriculars are all about. Those things create socialization skills," said Buzz Carlotis. Unequal opportunities for students as a result of consolidation were of importance to many of the facility plan resistors. Carlotis spoke for community involvement and declared that removal of the Livingston school impairs such participation.

Booze returned to Somerset man by Jumer Cain

By: Laura Mize For the first time in a long while, the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department is returning confiscated alcohol rather than destroying it. In mid-July, Larry Adington of Somerset, was stopped by Deputy Phillip Chestnut in violation of the speed limit when the deputy noticed a large amount of alcohol stashed in the back of Adington's van. "The beer was not covered up by anything," said Deputy Darrell Doan. "We have pictures that show the beer was in plain view -- the van had windows that let you see right in."

Rotary club discusses Country Music Hall of Fame in Renfro Valley

By: Laura Mize A fast growing trend is captivating the attention of audiences world-wide. And the fact that a great deal of it originated in our part of the country is quite an achievement for Kentucky. Country music was the state of Kentuckiana long before the part's existence, and the desire to preserve that heritage has scarcely been achieved -- until now.

Hampton continued by reading the recommendation, then called on Superintendent Bige Towery to present his response to the plan. "Towery's presentation addressed the concern of building a high school rather than a middle school. "We recognize that a middle school is now a mandated component of the building plan," said Towery. "Although Rockcastle County High School is less than 20 years old, it does not meet the standards for today's comprehensive high school in many areas. However, we are told the standards for a very appropriate middle school can be achieved in this structure."

A new facility plan must be developed every four years, and Towery stated that during this four years, until 1995, he deems the construction of a new high school as the only completed item on the plan. According to Hampton, few facility plans are fully completed. The plans are formed with the greatest need first, and the rest of the priorities are completed as funding becomes available. Citizens who attended the meeting were given the chance to speak before the officer to comment on their dissatisfaction with the plan.

Livingston teacher, Martha Eversole represented teachers of Livingston and informed Hampton that they were all dedicated teachers who believe in LES. In addition, Eversole proposed that these revise the plan by transforming Mt. Vernon Elementary into a middle school and building a new elementary on both the northern and southern ends of the county.

In addition to the numerous cases of alcohol, a Smith and Wesson .38 caliber pistol was found in the van that in 1986, had been reported stolen in Knoxville, Tenn. The man was arrested and charged with receiving stolen property over $100, speeding 10 miles over the speed limit, and transporting alcoholic beverages in dry territory. District Judge William Cain presided over the hearing and dismissed all three charges with no apparent reasoning, according to Sheriff Shirley Smith.

Correction

A break-in reported at KOA campground in last week's Signal did not occur on the camp grounds. It was in a nearby trailer rented by Jim Jarvis. He lost $3,500 in electronic equipment.

Mandy Meadows still missing

Mandy Meadows, 15, is still missing, according to members of her family. The girl has not been heard from since Sept. 18. The daughter of Johnny Meadows of Burrard Vicky Meadows of Berea, she is 5-ft.-ca., 4 inches tall, has dark brown hair and weighs about 185 pounds.

A bill was passed by the Kentucky Legislature to recognize the Museum of Kentucky Music as a non-profit organization to promote the preservation of the state's musical history. The bill was introduced by State Representative Danny Ford.

According to the superintendent, the high school lacks science labs, computer labs and instructional technology programs, all due to absence of space. These items are essentials in meeting KERA goals and expectations. "We must implement these components of KERA and we want to implement them successfully for our students," Towery pronounced.

The majority pleaded for non-consideration of middle school students and abolishment of the transitional plan for Livingston Elementary. The main complaint appeared to be that elementary age children should not have to be bused to Mount Vernon, and that such a merger would leave many children from Livingston as well as all other areas, at a disadvantage.

Attending to past plans, LES principal Jerry Mink stated that Livingston has been told that a new school will be built to replace the present building, and now the plan implements no such act. "I think people in Southern Rockcastle County deserve a fair punch, too!" declared Mink. Hampton closed the meeting, stating that a decision should be reached by Nov. after the next state board meeting.

Festival this weekend

Don't Forget! The Bittersweet Festival is scheduled Friday and Saturday on Mt. Vernon's Main Street. The storybook parade for children will be at 3 p.m. Friday. There'll be story telling. Saturday there will be magic, storytelling, rock and country music groups, clogging and gospel music.

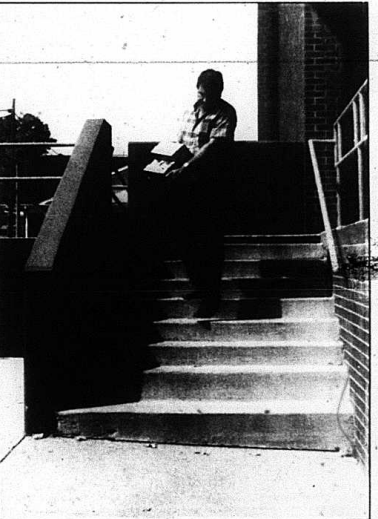

The Rockcastle County Rotary Club hosted an informational breakfast on Oct. 8, to rally support for the proposed Museum of Kentucky Music and Hall of Honor. To be located in the county, the club supports the project due to its educational values and its probable advantage to the local economy.

Barry Back tells council

Small leak found at Brodhead

Rural Water Association employee, Barry Back, attended October's Brodhead City Council meeting to report that a water leak has been located. Recently, it was discovered that the city is receiving more water than the master meters are showing.

three helpers to assist him in securing and replacing sewage pipes in order to pass future inspections. A request was made by fire chief David Ott for a temporary leave of absence due to personal reasons. He suggested the deputy chief for his replacement for the next two weeks to two months at the most.

Larry Adington of Somerset was busy last week as he loaded up the beer and whiskey which was ordered returned to him by District Judge William Cain. 30 cases of beer and a case of Maker's Mark were returned to Adington.

Burglary reported

The home of Harold Barnett on Flat Gap Road was burglarized Saturday night. Taken in the break-in were a 22 caliber rifle, yard rake, and three plastic five-gallon jugs. The break-in was investigated by Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan.

The projected cost for the museum is $3,250,000. The state government has agreed to provide $2,000,000, and a donation of land from the Lair Family, valued at $250,000, leaves $1,000,000 to be collected. Governmental funding is pending with one stipulation -- local funding must reach $300,000, which is two years operating costs, and coordinator Glenn Westbrook indicates that approximately one-half of the amount is already secured.

"Somehow, the city is receiving x amount of water and the Association is getting paid for less than what the city is receiving," stated Back. Barry Back suggested that the master meters be checked for accuracy because he does not believe the small leak they located is responsible for such a high volume of water loss.

In preparation for the holidays, the council discussed purchasing Christmas decorations for the street lamps. A committee was previously formed to locate durable, attractive, yet inexpensive decorations. The committee chair informed the council that the cheapest decorations for the street lamps would cost near $1700. No motor was made, however Councilman D.A. Robbins stated that, "$1700 is too much to pay for Christmas decorations, but that's one man's opinion. Why not use that money to give a decrease in taxes to the taxpayers -- use it for something that benefits the city."

He also recommended that each residential meter be checked every 10 years for accuracy. In addition to problems with water lines, the sewer lines require immediate attention as well, according to Dee Bussell. He requested that the council allocate

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor, Just wanted to let you know that I look forward to receiving the Signal in the mail every week.

I has lots of information to keep us informed on what's happening in our county.

I especially like the "Charting Rockcastle County" article and when I read a weekend I miss it like I'm right there. When she's talking about how beautiful Mother Nature is and also when she goes back in time.

I can't help but laugh when I read "Points East". I have never met these people but would love to meet them sometime when they're not in the paper.

I have found many things through the Want Ads and also purchased some. Thanks for publishing a great paper.

A Signal reader for years, Freda Warf

Dear Editor, Good evening! It is me, David again.

I went up to Leslie County one week ago this past Friday night, Oct. 4, will be a week ago, Sept. 27, I went with Howard Saylor and his wife Sharon and their little boy Max and Howard's father, Mr. Cleston Saylor. The odds said the Rockets would lose their first game. The score was closer than indicated. Final score, Leslie County and the officials 34, Rockets 30. Why say the officials? They cost the Rockets the football game on one bad, bad, bad, call.

Young Scott Parkey, Rocket's quarterback, had a right to get mad at the officials. Everyone, well about everyone, I talked to said it was a pitiful, pitiful call.

Scottie McFerron's father, Brother Dale, asked me after church this past Sunday night Sept. 29, David, did the Rockets get cheated out of the football game. I shook my head and said yes, everyone that was there said it was a terrible, terrible, terrible call.

In closing this letter, Rockets will not face any tougher, tougher, tougher, quarterback than Leslie Counties No. 2 Greg Couch. I told him he was the best quarterback I had ever seen. In my opinion Greg Couch No. 2 is the best quarterback in Leslie County. But Scott Parkey, No. 14 is our best quarterback in Rockcastle. Mr. Greg Couch and his Leslie County Eagles, if the two teams meet again, Rockets, will rock you Eagles.

Better close for now, Rockets No. 1 fan always, David Brock

P.S.: Please publish in Signal issued Thursday Oct. 10. Hopefully Rockets will be 5 wins, and one loss and 1 and 0 in the District 2A. Rockets will rock Oct. 3, Thurs. you Somerset Briar Jumpers. Oct. 11, Corbin Redhounds; Oct. 18, Wayne County Cardinals; Oct. 25th, Madison Southern Eagles; Nov. 1st, Middleboro Yellow Jackets, Senior night.

Dear Editor, I have read at one time the City of New Orleans issued a $10 bank note with the English on one side, French on the other, called a Dixie, French for ten, to where when people talked about Dixieland, they were referring to a $10 bank note regularly used at that time in the southern part of the U.S.A.

Also in 1808 our Congress made American law, no longer would it be legal to bring anyone into the United States to be sold as a slave but in a political compromise with industry, as they didn't know what to do with black slaves and only being a country since 1776, to be too great an economic loss and the loss of the productivity of slaves, slavery was kept for existing slaves and their native born descendants. Our Congress was responsible for not giving all slaves freedom in 1808. But our Congress influenced by industry passed laws restricting southern industry in favor of northern industry. Many having little to do with slavery, to where the Civil War was really a conflict of the southern states rights to govern their own industries against federal mandates in favor of northern industry expansion. But when the north won, industry decided to prevent the south's recovery of industrial strength. The south would be responsible for the former slaves livelihood.

I have worked with, lived near, and served in the Army with black descendants of former slaves, who were American, only wanting to have what they may be able to earn, but there are others who believe the former black slaves did the work, to where they should be given the best without the work for it now.

One hundred twenty-five to two hundred years or so after, who are not real Americans, as our country was established on builders who would take a break every bit, to see what they had built, then go out to build some more, each in their own way.

Not to sit back and think what work they had done would last, to not have to work again for hundreds of years.

That is, in a way, socialism and after a bit over 70 years, the U.S.S.R. has found out the communism form

Rockcastle football has arrived

I could write about Tuesday night's gubernatorial debate, Governor Raabe's announcement that he would greatly reduce the Soviet Union's nuclear arsenal, the fact that the 5th district is being gutted by the state legislature or the problems they are having at Kentucky State University, but guess what I want to write about football.

As the Rockets hit the field Friday night, assistant coach Tony Saylor, turned and made the comment that in a couple of hours we would know whether Rockcastle County football had arrived. To a higher plain I'm assuming, and with the sleeking Rockcastle laid on Somerset, they were indeed arrived.

Myself, like most other sports fans, am somewhat fair weather. Well the weather is certainly fair over Rockcastle County. High School, these days with the Rockets sporting a 5 and 1 record, their one blemish came about mainly because of some coached referees at Leslie County. Coach Tom Larkey, who always plays down his team's ability, has even commented to some of the people close to him, that this may be his best team ever at RCHS.

For Larkey to make such a comment, Rockcastle must be good because he has had some very good teams during his tenure at the Rock. The Rockets massive destruction of Somerset was no fluke. They beat them every way possible Friday night. Had it not been for a late, (after all they were ahead 28-0) the Briar Jumpers would not have scored the seven points they did. It is hard for young kids to keep their intensity level up when they realize that they are much the superior team.

For many years Somerset has been one of the better teams in Kentucky football, that is not the case this year, but there was one of the better teams in Kentucky on the field Friday night. The boys from the Rock.

Rockcastle football has arrived, and Friday night, we'll find out just how far they have really come. They go to perennial state powerhouse Corbin. Corbin's coaching staff has said they think Rockcastle may be one of the best teams in the state and you can bet they are worried about Friday night's outcome.

But for Rockcastle to win, they must have some breaks, not get cheated by the refs and turn in their best performance of the season. The Redhounds are not accustomed to losing at home to anyone and you can believe that they are not planning to to lose to Rockcastle Friday night.

If Rockcastle does pull off the upset it would no doubt be the biggest win ever by a Rockcastle County football team. It would also give Rockcastle sole possession of first place in the district and almost assure them of playing their first two playoff games at home.

Corbin is a tough place to play. They use their homefield advantage to the fullest so Rockcastle needs a good following Friday night. The more fans the Rock has the less it will seem like they are playing on the road. Go early because it is going to be crowded.

Debate not helpful...

by perlina m. anderkin

After watching most of Tuesday night's Hopkins-Jones debate, I did not feel particularly enlightened. My main impression from the debate was that Hopkins is a plodder as a public speaker and Jones' supercilious air offended me greatly. Both men appear to want to run on their own reality? Hopkins record in Congress appears to be mediocre at best and all we have to look back on for Jones is his promises for the future.

I am turned off on politics. The recent exposures of check-bouncing and unpaid (by anyone other than the taxpayer) restaurant tabs have only enforced my ho-hum attitude. I think I could have gotten a little excited about Larry Forgy's candidacy but that may be just because he didn't make it. At least he appears to be the type of person that when you ask him a question, you would get a straight forward answer. I admire that. I strive for this same trait and I know I wouldn't have the chance of the progressive snowball of votes that he would in public office so I don't know why I expect professional politicians to take chances with their careers by saying what they think.

Also, just once, I would like to see the people who conduct these debates plainly say, when they ask a candidate a direct question and he spends his 90 seconds not answering it, "thank you, for nothing, Mr. X." Actually, I thought Jones came across better in the category of actually answering the questions asked him during the debate but, why not, he's had 4 years as Lt. Gov. with nothing to do but anticipate the questions and compose answers to them.

I hate to come across as such a cynic but I do feel that under our present political system, in order for a candidate to reach the level where he can compete for high-level state or federal office so many deals have been made that it is impossible for him to be his own man. The last one that came closest to being his own man was probably Jimmy Carter and those of us who pay interest on borrowed money know what he almost managed to do.

Ike Adams has a point in his column this week that I thought was interesting and my husband thought was a little extreme. His conjecture of socialism will not build a Utopian Society, as everyone is not equal in ability or motivation and there will always be people who will take more than they earn and demand more.

The Rockcastle County Jaycees would like to thank our community for all the fantastic support that made our recent magic show fundraiser a huge success. Since we weren't involved in the telephone marketing, we didn't get the chance to thank everyone personally. Points East

By: Ike Adams

A friend came into my office a couple of weeks ago, his face ashen and his jaw hung low, carrying the front section of the daily paper. According to the front page, members of the United States House of Representatives routinely write cold checks and go on about their business.

If you're a member of Congress and you run out of cash, they have a bank there in the lobby where you can do business like that. The story said that about all of 'em were guilty and the little bank had nearly nine thousand rubber checks amounting to several hundred thousand dollars that our lawmakers had written without having any money in the bank.

Now if you or I do that, we get to sleep on a steel cot in a little corner of the county jail for a few months. But apparently, the Congress of the country has been authorizing the government to pay out money that it doesn't have for so long, that they have decided there's nothing wrong with them doing it personally. It's only a felon for the rest of us.

My buddy was shocked. Unlike myself he is a strong, devoted, advocate of public service as defined by our federal, state, and local governments and he has held much confidence in what our country calls the democratic process. He's helped out in campaigns in three different Kentucky Congressional Districts over the years and three of his grandkids currently reside in Washington. He was agast.

On the other hand, I wasn't surprised at all and I told him so.

"Tip of the iceberg," I said. "It's unsettling what all that bunch is doing if you really got to checking on 'em." He stormed out of my office madder than a wet hen because I didn't feel the same level of concern and worry he was experiencing.

Last week he was back again. New headlines. This time well over half of the lawmakers are delinquent in their restaurant bills. According to the paper, they eat lots of fancy meals, put it on the tab, and then forget about it. We're not talking about credit cards here because if you're a congressman and it comes time to eat, all you have to do is say, "Charge that to my account Reginald", and as you walk out, you wink at ole Reg and hand him a buck to make him feel good about you and you go on about your business. In other words you just go around charging stuff that you have no intention of paying for when you get elected to Congress. The government does it all the time so why shouldn't you?

"Aren't you even surprised about this?" My buddy wondered as I read the piece and chuckled.

"Lord yes I'm surprised," I told him. "It says here that less than three quarters of them are guilty and I thought that the whole bunch were crooks."

So what we have going on right now is denial. So far, at this writing, 17 Representatives to Congress have fessed up. One of them owed nearly 20 bucks to the restaurant and the others said there might have been some "oversight" here or there that caused them to fail to pick up the check at the restaurant. A few others said they had hoped their paycheck would beat their rubber to the bank.

I'd be willing to bet that all 17 of those guys are telling the truth. I've been caught a couple of times myself on the checking deal. I've never walked out on a restaurant, but I have, in fact, bought groceries on Wednesday that I paid for with a check that I knew wouldn't be any good till Friday. My bank has dutifully processed the check and backed up an additional $12.50 when I lost the race.

What I can't understand is over 8,000 cold checks -- that's a stack

"RAMBLINGS"

death-grin on his face I'm sure.

Rick pays a good deal more attention to state and federal issues than I do and is much better informed usually. He can back up his decision to support or not support a candidate while my reasoning ranges from, "he has shifty eyes," to "he's from West Virginia," or, on the other hand, "Forgy would have beaten him if he had announced earlier." (Now that's a real in-depth one for me).

I had better quit. My husband will read this and say, Congratulations, with one column you have managed to alienate every Democrat end Republican in Rockcastle Co. (Oh well, how many Independents do you suppose we have?)

Kentucky delegation is willing to tell us who it was.

If you want to study the perfect example of organized crime in this country, why waste time trying to track down the Mafia? We live in a country, like it or not, that is run and managed by a bunch of crooks and they are remarkably well organized.

We live in a state that has one of that crew running for governor. Do you hear that Larry Hopkins? How about a list of the check bouncers in Congress? Which of your buddies in the Capitol have been getting the free lunches? Let's have a list.

Of course Mr. Hopkins' opponent in the race for governor is a regular saint. Hopkins has, at least, divulged his income tax records for the past ten years and we do know a bit about his financial status. I'd also be willing to bet that Larry doesn't have any outstanding cold checks and I'd bet my paycheck that he pays for his meals as he goes along.

How about you Brer? Mr. Hopkins is only covering up for his buddies as far as I can tell. I'd also bet my paycheck next week that if the voters of Kentucky knew what the heck you're hiding about your financial condition we'd have a Republican Governor come 1992.

In the meantime, I'm giving up on politics. I don't know what to do or where to turn, but at least I understand why most people don't vote anymore. Honest people don't associate with crooks. It's as simple as that.

And I don't want to hear anymore about this "negative campaign" business. When we get some honest people running for public office, we won't have to worry about negative campaigns. Right now there isn't much of anything that can be said positively and upbeat about candidates for public office. I'm real curious about what a positive campaign would sound like.

There doesn't seem to be much of anything to vote for in this upcoming election. Unfortunately we can't vote against the whole bunch. And that, my friends, is what we have to figure out a way to fix.

Snapshots . . .

County Clerk Norma Houk is shown in the above photo with Joe Folton from Kentuckiana Election Service. Mr. Folton is busy these days as he and his staff service 22 counties in the state and Rockcastle is among 12 of those counties that use electronic machines. Before each election, the machines must be re-programmed to accommodate the current election. A practice machine is available during regular business hours in the county clerk's office for those interested in learning to use the machines or information on write-in ballots.

A tree was downed early Saturday morning during a severe thunderstorm in Mt. Vernon. The tree, on the corner of old US 25 and Main Street, fell across a utility pole breaking it and disrupting service to many homes and businesses in the south end of Mt. Vernon for several hours.

The Annual Molasses Makin' Festival was held at Renfro Valley over the weekend and was well attended. In the above photo, the cane is being ground for the molasses. Many craft booths provided extra interest for those attending.

Kentucky Music is a unique opportunity for Kentucky to share and preserve our rich musical heritage. The museum will pay tribute to the many Kentucky artists who have brought so much pleasure to so many people over the years.

The museum will fulfill its intended purpose by housing and retaining songs, music, instruments and other artifacts that contributed Kentucky's music.

A celebration of Kentuckians and their music, the Museum of Kentucky Music and Hall of Honor board of directors includes many native musicians and personalities involved in the regional music scene. Among them are John Conlee, Jean Ritchie, Ralph Gabbard, Ann Lair Henderson, Barbara Lair Smith, Glenn Westbrook, and Rep. Danny Ford. The Rotary Club is dedicating its time and energy to the project because they believe it is needed as well as wanted. The club expressed its desire for the music to be preserved and exhibited, and welcomes other supporters to join in the efforts.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

One of the great qualities that is taught in the Bible, is the virtue of contentment. We live in a very affluent society, where the "American Dream" of a family, a house, a garage, 2 cars and a good job with benefits, and a good retirement, all seem to be essentials to happiness. Now there is nothing wrong with any of the above mentioned things. But when we do not have all these things and thus feel we have "reason" to be discontent, we had better go back and read our Bibles on the subject.

Paul said "But godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out. And having food and raiment (covering NAS) let us be therewith content." 1 Tim. 6:6-8. Food and raiment (covering), are the things that we really need! We must be careful to see the difference between "needs" and "wants." Much of what our society has is just merely "wants." We don't have to have T.V.s, cars, VCRs, garages, own a home, refrigerator, carpet, riding lawnmowers, etc. All these things are nice, and nothing wrong to own or have them, but I should not be discontent and "down in the mouth" because I don't have them. If we have food in our stomachs, clothes on our back and a warm place to sleep what else is essential to life, (There's plenty of air to breathe)?

Contentment is a learned and taught quality. "Not that I speak in respect of want: for I have [learned] in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content. I know both how to be abased, and I know how to abound; everywhere and in all things I am instructed both to be full and to be hungry, both to abound and to suffer need." Phil. 4:11-12. We must learn to be self-satisfied or content in the "lean" times as well as the "full" times. Through the various walks of life with all its ups and downs, we must put trust and faith in God to always provide and help for all our needs (not necessarily our wants). "Let your conversation be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have: for he hath said, I will never leave, nor forsake thee." Hebs. 1:3-5. Now if God said he would never leave nor forsake his children, then I need to trust and believe his promise and live in contentment.

Brock - Cameron

Donald and Sue Brock are proud to announce the upcoming marriage of their daughter, Angel Rochelle, to Carlos Lee Cameron, son of Mr. and Mrs. Billy Joe Cameron of Jackson Co. The wedding will be held at the home of the bride at 2 p.m., Oct. 19, 1991. The reception will follow the ceremony, also at the home of the bride. Rev. Odis Caudell from Hamilton, Ohio will perform the ceremony. All friends and family are welcome.

Willing Workers

Elizabeth F. Mullins, reporter (using Patsy Fletcher's notes)

On Sept. 27, the Brodhead Willing Worker Homemakers Club met at Margie Brock's home.

Carol Riddle, the club's president, led the discussion on changing the monthly meetings to the third Thursday night instead of the fourth.

So filling out yearly cards, etc., was put off until next month, as well as officers selection. A vote was taken to give REAP Program canned goods, $25 will be given to them to buy health and beauty items to give those in need of these items.

So all members should bring can foods at the November meeting, which will be the third Thursday night instead of the fourth.

Younger Woman's Club of Berea quilt and needlework expose'

The Younger Woman's Club of Berea will sponsor a Quilt and Needlework Expose' on October 11 and 12 at the Berea Folk Center on Jefferson Street in Berea. The show will be from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. and will feature a variety of quilts and needlework owned by Berea's and friends of Berea's. Pictured are two antique quilts and a handmade doll that will be featured in the show. The quilt on the left is owned by Jan Gill, a member of the BYWC. The quilt was made in the 1800's and has been in Ms. Gill's family for many years. The heirloom quilt on the right is owned by Nancy Coffey of Brindle Ridge and was made by her great great grandmother, Adelaide Perkins-Freeman who lived on the Rockcastle River in Rockcastle County, Ms. Coffey received the over 10 year old quilt as a gift from her maternal grandmother, the late Mrs. H.E. Jones.

Mrs. Jones talked fondly of the quilt when she gave it to her granddaughter and told her how the family home caught on fire and the quilt was one of a few items saved in a trunk. Mrs. Jones said her grandmother made the quilt as a wedding gift for her mother, Ms. Caroline Cooper French. The design is a broken heart that the quilt-maker copied from a magazine. A unique feature of the quilt is the homespun backing. The doll sitting on the quilts is owned by Stephanie Wyatt of Berea and was made by her paternal great grandmother. The Quilt Show will show many antiques and heirlooms that the public would rarely view and promises to be a treat for historians and artists. Homemade baked goods will be available for purchase in a refreshment area. Tickets for $2.50 each may be purchased in advance from BYWC members or at the door during the show.

Traveling down Memory Lane

According to the response I received from my request of what you like best about "Sweet and Sour" you don't care what I write about as long as I continue the column. O.K., that gives me the freedom to mix and match as I please. Thanks again for your interest in my rambling and meandering through parts of my life.

Today I'm taking you on a trip down memory lane. This is a real trip I recently made back to Olive Hill, my birth place. As all roads seem to join memory lane at some place or other this one was no exception and I found so many memories by the wayside it will be hard to get them all down on paper. In fact I won't try to put them all down but will share a few of the most treasured ones.

When Ish, my brother, called Friday morning and asked if I'd like to go to Olive Hill and look for kin folks and do a little rambling through some old memories my answer was a quick one, you bet, I'll be ready in half hour. So in a half hour, he, Pauline and I were on our way back to the place of the beginning of our life.

Olive Hill is in Carter County on Rt. 60 and forty miles from Ashland. It isn't much more than a wide place in the road now but at one time it was a thriving little town. Its main industry at that time was the Harbison-Walker brick yard, later known as the Harbison Walker refractory. Several years ago the brick yard closed down and now Olive Hill is learning to survive without it.

My dad worked at the brick yard when I was a baby and until we moved to Ohio when I was about five years old.

At the restaurant where we stopped for lunch we asked for a phone book and so our search began. We saw a familiar name and upon inquiry found our cousin had passed away about a year ago. Then another name blazed out at me that was also familiar. It was of a cousin I hadn't seen fifty five years or more but finally we had a connection and began knocking on doors. Sure enough, the first door we knocked on was answered by a pretty woman I knew had to be a relative for she looked just like me (Cont. to A10)

Carolyn Morris honored at C.R.A.M.I. dinner

Cumberland River Alliance for Mental Illness had its regular monthly meeting Sept. 26 at the Cumberland River Comprehensive care center in Mt. Vernon.

A plaque award of appreciation and a dozen red roses were presented to Carolyn Reppert Morris by Kentucky State AMI Treasurer Ernest Bean in appreciation for the sincere dedication Carolyn has given to the Gateway Club and the Cumberland River Alliance for Mental Illness. Mr. Bean's wife Josephine Bean, Judge Roland Mullins, Executive Director, Ralph Lipps of the Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center and C.R.A.M.I. and Gateway Members, and many guests, attended the awards dinner for Mrs. Morris.

Tina Hasty, a local licensed pharmacist was the guest speaker following the festivities. Mrs. Hasty's remarks were well received by the audience and kicked off Mental Illness Awareness Week October 1-6, 1991.

It's colortime in Kentucky

It's colortime in Kentucky, but only about 10 percent of the leaves have turned to red and gold in Rockcastle and Pulaski, so says the state's color forecasters.

It also feels like fall, especially in the mornings. It was 32 degrees on Monday and 31 on Tuesday morning. But a warmup is on the way, according to weather forecasters.

Rainfall to date in October is 1.08 inches that fell at Cox Funeral Home weather station Saturday. The high this month was 84 on Oct. 4.

"Actually, the vibrant colors we associate with fall and the appearance of Jack Frost have been present for some time but they are masked during the growing season," said Doug McLaren, Extension forestry specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "We have an abundance of fall leaf-colors in Kentucky because many southern and northern species grow in our diverse climate."

"Fall leaf colors are masked by chlorophyll, green pigments that use sunlight to manufacture the food trees need for growth and development," McLaren explained. "However, when day length shortens, these pigments are used up faster than they are produced. The supply of chlorophyll gradually dwindles, and the masking effect fades away to reveal brilliant fall leaf colors."

McLaren said the process of developing fall leaf color begins in late summer when pigments (carotenoids) begin to develop in the sap of leaf cells. These pigments produce orange, yellow and brown colors and all hues in between. As days become shorter, a hormone is released that causes the tree to absorb each leaf. The residual sap becomes more concentrated as it dries, creating fall leaf colors.

"Fall leaves are more than pretty colors," he said. "They contribute to the ongoing ecological system. When leaves drop off, minerals previously taken into the tree are recycled as the leaves decompose, returning nutrients to growing plants and trees and adding organic materials to the soil."

"Even as this year's leaves fall, next spring's leaves are tightly wrapped in buds. When the buds unfold, they will replenish the air by absorbing carbon dioxide and giving off oxygen."

What's the outlook for the year ahead? The Old Farmers Almanac summed it up in its latest issue. For the Ohio Valley which includes the lower half of Indiana, Ohio and Pennsylvania, and all of Kentucky and West Virginia the almanac reports: "November through March is expected to be highly variable, with temperatures and precipitation averaging well above normal, with being..."

grandma. I hadn't seen her since we were teenagers but we recognized each other because of our family resemblance. After a bit of us all getting reacquainted she mentioned her brother whom I thought was long dead and he lived just around the corner from her. That was another unexpected and happy reunion. They live in one of the prettiest and nicest villages for seniors I have ever seen. The rooms in their apartments are well arranged and big with plenty of light and all the conveniences one could ask for.

After a half hour or so of chit chat with Violet and Eric and an exchange of family news we were on our way again to the third member of their family still living in Olive Hill. While Ish and Pauline, and Violet visited with Phyllis in the living room I stepped off in the kitchen and got acquainted with Phyllis' daughter Pam. She was decorating cakes and since that is one of the loves of my own, I felt right at home.

This was only the prelude to our afternoon of searching for our roots. Soon we were heading out to find the resting places of our long gone ancestors. Phyllis knew where they were all buried so she joined our pilgrimage. Our first stop was at the Garvin Ridge Cemetery. This is a beautiful cemetery overlooking Olive Hill and the whole country side. Here we found the graves of my oldest sister buried between two of her children. One of them was a new grave, my nephew had died just two weeks ago. We had not been notified of his death and hadn't known about it until Violet told us as we caught up on family news.

As I looked at the earth covering these three people who had been an important part of my life my mind did some quick flash backs and once again I saw Willie, my sister, as a younger woman raising a family of five children. Her husband was ill so she had the burden of raising her family eking out a living on a farm. She was a hard worker and a talented seamstress so her children were well clothed and fed. My memory took me back to a time I was visiting her in the farm. We had to walk several miles to the country store to get supplies. It was a general store that carried odds and ends of clothing as well as food. On this particular day there were several big boxes full of old fashioned high top shoes for women. They surely must have come from a clearing house for they had been out of style for years. A peculiar gleam came into her big brown eyes as she hesitated beside them and picked one up to test the softness of the leather. Then she insisted I find a pair that would fit, which I did with much misgiving, for I was sure I would never wear such old limey shoes even on the farm. After I finally conceded and found a pair that fit perfectly. She continued the search till she found the correct sizes for her three daughters and another sister, Thelma, that was along. What would I say when she paid the ten cents a pair for them and we began our trek back up and over the hill to her house. I was afraid I would hurt her feelings if I refused but was also sure I would not wear them. It was a teenager at the time and wanted cute clothes.

When we got back to the house and the girls tried them on with much laughter while modeling them, and all of us exclaiming over the pretty brown color and soft leather while still wondering how we could get out of wearing them, her secret came out. With a pair of good strong oxford shoes I found a pair that fit the tops. Finally she had them shaped like the expensive oxfords that were in style at the time. With a strong needle and brown thread she hemmed the tops as neatly as if she had been a shoe maker. Then the tops that had been cut off were shaped into fans and slits cut in them to make fringes and were sewn onto the top so they hung over the laces and here was as neat a pair of modern oxfords as one could wish for. We all wore them proudly to church that night. She retained this skill until she died at the age of 83. It doesn't take long for memories such as these to pass through ones mind nor did it take long for me to close my eyes and ask God's blessings on these three.

Next on our agenda was a climb up another hill to the grave yard where grandma and grandpa are buried. Once again as I stood beside the graves of my grandparents' memories flooded my soul. The little white burying ground is located on the hillside directly above their old home site. I could see plainly from where I stood beside their graves a green lawn where once stood their big log house.

And instead of a green lawn the whole area was filled with flowers that my grandma and grandpa lovingly cared for. I could almost see her wending her way between them clipping off dead leaves and plucking the brightest one to fill the vase on the old organ. There is a pile of wood stacked now where the well used log house once passing by was always welcome to sit awhile on the porch and have a drink of the sweet cool water from the well. Grandpa, with his quick heavy laughter seemed to always attract people to him so his porch and table at meal time were seldom ever without friends to share his wit and humor. As I turned to look up the valley from his place I could almost see a check of white hair, partially covered by a floppy brimmed hat, and accompanied by a mustache just as white, rising above a team of horses as they were being harnessed to a surrey with a fringe on top. That is where his table had been and he took pride in his span of fat horses. The surrey was used to take his family to church and I remember envying those that were allowed to ride in it.

Close by, the graveyard was once a building used for a small country store and later converted into living quarters for grandma after grandpa died. It was here I visited grandpa for a few days and had the privilege of eating her biscuit and gravy breakfast. She was known throughout the county for her good gravy. My memory says the praise was worthy.

On the hillside, across the valley from the graveyard is where we lived when I was a very little girl. It was there that dad would call to us children to come and sit quietly on the porch and maybe we could hear mom and grandpa's voices as they led their singing at church which was perhaps a half mile away. And so we did. We would line up on the porch, legs dangling over the edge and be as quiet as mice until we could hear their voices as clear as bells chiming only to us much prettier. They did not need amplifiers nor loud drums to accompany their voices. All they needed was an audience and mom's soprano and grandpa's tenor or bass would fill the air for a mile away.

I don't memory lane a pleasant road to travel on! One doesn't need gas to take one of these trips and we can go anywhere our memory takes us back to and stay as long as we please.

Adington gave an affidavit on Sept. 16, stating that the alcohol was for personal use only -- not for intended sale.

As a result, the sheriff's department received notice from Judge Cain on Oct. 2, to return the alcohol to Adington.

Early last Thursday afternoon, Adington returned to recover his alcohol, although the gun is being held by the sheriff's department.

The department is bound by law to destroy all confiscated alcohol only upon receipt of a court order to do so. If Adington would have declined the opportunity to obtain his property, the merchandise would have remained in the sheriff's office until further notice from the district judge.

After Adington loaded his van, unassisted by the sheriff's department, and left the courthouse, Sheriff Smith did not persist by once again citing the defendant with illegally transporting alcohol. According to Smith, the probability of getting sued for such an act was great.

"Community Scholarship"

from the interest and creating a larger scholarship each year.

Guidelines for the scholarship have been established by Dale Whitaker, a member of the committee and guidance counselor at RCHS. According to Mr. Whitaker, the requirements are simple: a 3.0 standing, have been accepted in college, an 18 on the ACT, involvement in school and community activities and must not have received any other scholarship. Members of the committee will determine the recipient each year.

Personal solicitation by Mr. Napier, Larry Burdette of WRVK and Pat Midkiff, a teacher at RES, will be the main basis for coming up with this year's $5,000 along with a Country Music Show on November 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the high school. Music will be provided by the Strait Shot Band and New Found Gold of Lincoln County.

Admission will be $2 for students (K-12), $4 for adults and $5 at the door.

The personal solicitations are taking the form of request for $100 donations which will make the donor a member of the 100 Club. These donors will have their names engraved on a plaque which will be placed in Citizens Bank in Mt. Vernon. A certificate will be given to each donor along with a card granting free admission to the donor and their family to any fund-raising events.

Besides Strait Shot and New Found Gold special thanks are due: Boone Trail Printing (certificates, cards, receipts); Coach Tom Larkey and the football team for agreeing to set up the cafeteria for the country music show; Mrs. Betty Glover for taking charge of refreshments for the show; Charles Napier for providing the plaque; Lowe's Sporting Goods for the engraving.

To date, Mr. Napier reports $2,200 in contributions and, each week, we will report those contributing. Contributors to date are: Ford Brothers Realty and Auction Co., Mt. Vernon Oil and Tire, Westgate Mall (in memory of Lyn Mabry), Convenient Food Mart (Broadhead), David's Tire Center, Gary Gentry of Southern Belle Dairy, Foodtown, Dwight Griffin, Bobby Bailey, Mt. Vernon Automotive, Singleton Insurance Agency, James W. Lambert, James H. Lambert, Joe Lambert, Druther's, Convenient Food Mart (Mt. Vernon), Rockcastle County Hospital, Dr. and Mrs. Orson Arvin, Mr. and Mrs. Gatliff Craig and Mrs. Jewell Parsons, Taylor Produce, Johnny Wilcop.

If you should be missed by those soliciting donations, please feel free to contact any member of the committee or, if you do not feel able to make a cash donation, please be sure to attend the country music show November 26 at 6:30 p.m. at the high school. You not only will enjoy an evening of fine music but will be making your donation to a good cause. Committee members are: Lawrence Bullock, Tom Mills, Janie Grigsby, Pat Midkiff, Charles Napier, Larry Burdette, Debbie Smith, Debbie Abney, James Miller, Betty Glover, Dale Whitaker, Connie Riddle, Mary B. Hamm, Keith Smith, treasure and Perlina Anderkin, chairman. This endeavor also has the sponsorship of the Rockcastle County Education Association.

low-normal snowfall. Frequent temperature fluctuations above and slightly below normal may persist through November and early December. Expect larger temperature swings from mid-December through February, with warm spells predominating over cold ones. Watch for major cold waves at year end and early February. A cold and snowy middle of March will be balanced by a milder beginning and end. Precipitation will be particularly heavy in the south.

April through June will average slightly warmer than normal, with below-normal precipitation, particularly in the west. Mild periods in April will be balanced by cold ones, with possible snows in the fourth week. May and June will be warm and dry with cool and rainy periods at the end of each month.

July through September is anticipated to be slightly warmer than normal with close to normal precipitation. Expect brief heat waves in early July and at the middle and end of August, while September may have frequent cool spells. Rains should occur with normal frequency but be more intense near midmonth.

October may see warm and sunny periods at midmonth and toward the end, preceded by rains early in the second and fourth weeks.

Local Blood Drive nets 75 pints Monday

The drive was held Oct. 8 at RCHS to aid in the recovery of Bobby Joe Hansel. Hansel suffers from Hodgkin's Disease and has under gone a bone marrow transplant.

The school collected 75 pints of blood that will help supply the blood needed for the many blood transfusions Bobby Joe will have.

The family extends their thanks to the community for their support and especially those who donated their blood.

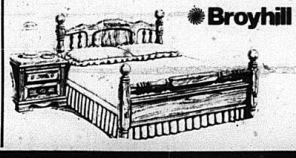

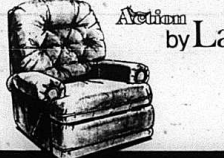

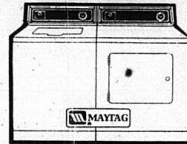

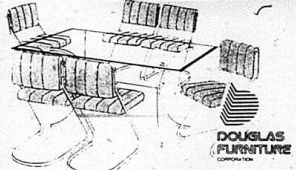

Mary Brock of Mt. Vernon grew this 6 lbs. Southern Queen sweet potato in her garden. Mrs. Brock lives on the Lake Linville Road. The picture was taken by her granddaughter-in-law, Kaen Shepherd.

Bentley Allen planted some sweet potato vines but he said they all went to "root."

Eversole Brothers love mountain life, music

By: Kathy McCracken

If you think handsome, hard-working, soft-spoken mountain men can only be found in novels these days or live only in the movies, you're wrong. Two of them live and work right here at Renfro Valley.

Eric and Ethan Eversole, known on the Renfro Valley Barn Dance as the Eversole Brothers, are the embodiment of all the good things that come to mind when someone says "a real Kentucky mountaineer." They were born and raised in the mountain tradition, and they intend to continue that tradition both in the way they live and the music they make.

Wildie, Kentucky, a community just "over the hill" from Renfro Valley, is home to the Eversole boys. Part of their farm, which covers over 300 acres, has been in the family for 175 years. But the day we went to visit they showed us the "new" part -- a beautiful log cabin set in a clearing at the top of the ridge. The Eversole's dad, Elbert ("Frosty" to his friends), hand-hewed the logs with his granddad's broadaxe. He is retired from the Bluegrass Army Depot and the boys' mother, Norma, is a teacher at Roundstone Elementary. For them, the cabin is a place to "come and read or just sit awhile."

"Francis Ramsey and his son Allen, ancestors of Ethan and Eric Eversole on their mother's side, were two of the first people to settle in Renfro Valley. The Eversole forefathers, though, came from Perry County, Kentucky. "You've heard of the French and Eversole feud," says Ethan. "Our family was a part of that." The old log Eversole house, built in the 1800's, still stands in Perry County. Eric says it's full of bullet holes, but he's not sure how many are from the feud and how many from the Civil War.

Musical ability runs in the Eversole family. Elbert Eversole played a mandolin while the boys were growing up, and their Grandpa Eversole played the banjo clawhammer style. With a background like this, it's not surprising that Eric and Ethan showed an interest in music at an early age. When their Granddad Ramsey bought them a guitar, they started to practice seriously. Ethan, the younger of the two, says he has always liked "most all music" (with the exception of "rap"), but Eric has been a traditional country and bluegrass fan all his life. His first attempt at fiddling almost got him in trouble when he rosined up a curtain rod and played his dad's mandolin.

The boys say they learned their music and the way they play it by listening and watching as the older people played. Eric learned many of his fiddle tunes from neighbor Walter McNew, and Ethan acknowledges Dora Mae Wagers as one of the strongest influences on his banjo playing. The Roan Mountain Hilltoppers were another learning source for the young Eversoles.

Old country music and mountain ways are not just part-time interests for the Eversole Brothers. Their daily lives revolve around the traditional chores and pastimes found on a Kentucky hill farm. The boys and their dad raise about 3 1/2 acres of tobacco, and when they aren't working in that, Eric and Ethan do a little squirrel hunting in the woods near home. Ethan is the plant lover of the two and can identify just about anything he finds growing. He enjoys digging ginseng, a medicinal plant that grows wild in Kentucky and, when dried, fetches a handsome price.

With their work at Renfro Valley, the boys don't have a lot of free time, so their farm doesn't have many animals. "Not tame ones, anyhow" says Eric. The woods are full of wild creatures, but the only ones that cause much trouble are the snakes. Ethan killed a copperhead just a few days ago, and a white back they tangled with a four-foot rattler. Their dad was bit last spring while pulling tobacco plants.

Live "varmits" aren't the only scary things in the woods. As he points out a spot down in the valley, Ethan says, "Our grandpa Bishop used to say to

Rockets earn first district win; easily whip Somerset, 35-7

By: Paige Benge

Despite a pre-season forecast of Somerset being one of the top contenders in District 3, the Rockcastle County Rockets proved their mettle by rolling over Somerset Friday night, 35-7.

"This could have easily been the biggest win for this football team ever," head coach Tom Larkey said Tuesday afternoon. "It has created a lot of excitement among our fans and our student body," he added.

The win is the first district win for the Rockets since they moved to their new district in Class 2A. The Rockets are now 1-0 in district play and 5-1 on the season.

"I feel moving into the new district was the best move we could have made, not because we won, but because it creates a lot more excitement for everyone," Larkey said.

After Friday night's victory, the Rockets left no doubt in everyone's mind that they belonged in the new district.

The Rockets took the opening kick-off Friday night, and after a series of 10 plays and four first downs, J.D. Harris scored from inside the 10 yard line on a good block by Jason Kirby. Curtis Cotton's extra-point kick was good and the Rockets had an early seven point lead.

On Somerset's next drive, sophomore J.D. Bussell intercepted a Somerset pass and the Rockets took over on Somerset's 31 yard line.

Four plays later, William Bullens scored the Rockets' second touchdown of the game from the 20 yard line. Cotton's extra-point attempt was good and the Rockets had a 14 point lead with 2:38 left in the first quarter.

"I feel William Bullens had an outstanding game. He looked good blocking, he carried the ball well and played good on defense," Larkey said. The Rockets forced Somerset to punt on their next possession and Harris returned it to their 25.

Harris picked up three yards on the first play of the drive and then quarterback Scott Parkey completed a 31 yard pass to William Hellard for a Rockets first down on Somerset's 41 yard line. Nine plays later, Harris scored yet another touchdown from the 1 yard line. Cotton's extra-point kick was good and the Rockets were leading 21-0.

Somerset returned the Rockets kick-off to their own 41 and on the next play sophomore Michael Shaffer intercepted a Somerset pass and gave the Rockets' field position on their own 38 yard line.

After a series of runs by Bullens, Johnathon Saylor and Harris, Bullens scored the Rockets fourth touchdown of the night from the five yard line. Cotton's extra-point kick was good and the Rockets had a 28 point lead at the end of the first half.

First half statistics show that the Rockets held Somerset to only two first downs and the Rockets had 11 first downs.

Somerset returned the second half kick-off to their own 30 yard line and after 18 plays and 10 minutes of the third quarter, Somerset scored what would be their first and last touchdown of the game. Somerset's extra-point kick was good and Somerset was still facing a 21 point deficit with 2:28 left in the third quarter.

Somerset held the Rockets on their next drive, a first for the Brian Jumpers, and the Rockets in turn held Somerset on theirs.

The Rockets returned Somerset's punt to their own 42 yard line. After a 16 yard gain by Saylor, a nine yard gain by Parkey, and a first down to the eight yard line by Harris, Parkey scored around the left end with 5:19 left in the fourth quarter. Cotton's extra-point kick was good for the final score of 35-7.

Sophomore Jason Fletcher ended Somerset's last drive of the night with an interception on the Rockets 8 yard line.

"I felt all long we were a three touchdown better team than they were," Larkey said.

"Defensively, Bobby Coffey had an excellent game. He was everywhere," defensive coach Tony Saylor said.

Somerset's head coach was quoted in a Somerset newspaper as saying that "Friday night was the most physically abused his team has been in ten years." Coach Larkey added that, "defensive coach Tony Saylor did a tremendous job in preparing the defense for every play of the game."

Coach Larkey also felt Curtis Cotton's performance at kicker should be noted. Cotton was five-for-five in extra-point attempts Friday night and is 15-for-16 on the year. He is one-for-one in field goal attempts thus far this year. Cotton currently holds the record for most extra points in one game, which is six. He also currently holds the record for most points scored by a kicker in one season which is 29 and most extra points in one season, which is 26.

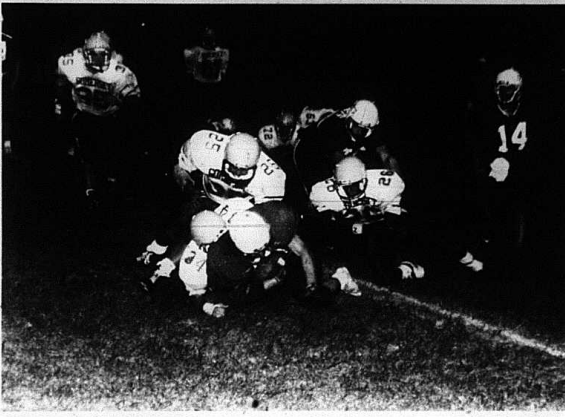

In the statistics department, the Rockets rushed for 303 yards and passed for 38 yards.

Harris carried the ball 25 times for 158 yards. Bullens had eight carries for 64 yards. Saylor had 10 carries for 55 yards. Parkey had two carries for 19 yards. Bussell had one carry for four yards and Shaffer had one carry for three yards.

Parkey was two for two in the passing department for 38 yards. Harris had one reception for seven yards and Hellard had one reception for 31 yards.

Defensively, Saylor had seven tackles and one quarterback sack. Stacy Nisely had one tackle. Mike Durham had two tackles. Cotton had four tackles. Hellard had two tackles. Bullens had eight tackles. Bobby Coffey had 13 tackles. Harris had five tackles. Bullens had one tackle. Shaffer had three tackles. Ricky

Scouting Report for Corbin Redhounds

Game time: 8:00 p.m.
Directions: Field is not at the high school. Take the first Corbin exit and turn right on US25N. Turn left at second light and the field will be in that vicinity. Larkey says to go early because parking is limited.
Scouting report: Head Coach Tom Larkey feels this will be the toughest game this year. Corbin is loaded according to Larkey. They were state runners-up last year and lost a few key players but they are still strong. Corbin has a lineman who is 6'0" and weighs 295 lbs. He was selected as one of the top five players in the southeast United States. He was the only lineman from Kentucky to be on the list. Corbin is a big team. They will play a lot of people. They are mostly a running team. Larkey feels his team must try to control the ball, make no mistakes and capitalize on Corbin's mistakes.

Rockets' JV split team and win two same night

Not many high school teams can split up a junior varsity and go separate ways on the same night but the Rockets did just that Monday night when one team traveled to Bell County and defeated the Bobcats 28-6 and the other team played Lynn Camp at home and defeated the Wildcats 24-6.

In the Bell County game Jason Fletcher got things going when he caught a 12 yard touchdown pass from J.D. Bussell for the first touchdown of the game. The extra-point kick failed and the Rockets had an early lead of six points in the first quarter.

Bussell scored on a seven yard run and also completed a 20 yard touchdown pass to Fletcher, both in the second quarter. Jeff Navarre completed the two-point conversion for a 20 point lead at the half for the Rockets.

Bell County scored their only touchdown of the night on a 20 yard run in the middle of the third quarter. Their fake field goal failed and the Rockets still had a 14 point lead. Bussell completed yet another 15 yard pass for their last touchdown of the night. Navarre completed the two-point conversion for the final score of 28-6.

J.D. Bussell intercepted two passes and the Rockets defense had six quarterback sacks.

In the Lynn Camp game, Brian Carter completed a 30 yard touchdown pass to Nathan Boggs in the first quarter for an early six point lead for the Rockets.

Zach Cromer scored on a 10 yard run in the second quarter and the Rockets had a 14 point lead at the half.

Sherman Collins scored on a 50 yard run and Jason Cromer scored on a three yard run, both in the fourth quarter for the final score of 24-6.

Josh Bullock had one interception for the Rockets.

Roustin' Grouse

Grouse hunting is underway on several Kentucky wildlife management areas (WMAs) in the eastern half of the state.

Except for restrictions during periods deer gun hunting is allowed on some areas, the following WMAs are open for grouse hunting from October 1 through December 31, 1991: Beaver Creek, CaneCreek, Mill Creek, Big South Fork, Clay, Dewey Lake, Fishtrap Lake, Painsville Lake, Redbird, Fleming, Grayson Lake and Lake Cumberland.

Grouse hunting is a challenging sport accompanied by outstanding outdoor enjoyment. Most of Kentucky's ruffed grouse are found in rough country. But upland bird hunters willing to climb steep hills and walk rugged terrain, encountering briar tangles and other low shrub growth along a way, are usually rewarded as sudden bursts of flapping wings break the air.

Quite simply, the birds are there. According to Jeff Sole, who coordinates the upland game program for the Kentucky department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, grouse numbers in Eastern Kentucky equal or surpass grouse density in surrounding states.

Of course, suitable habitat is the main reason grouse flourish. Over the last few years the birds have been spreading westward and northward, especially along river valleys, settling into additional living areas in the commonwealth. The fish and wildlife department is speeding up the process by trapping grouse in

Governor's Strike Force continuing operation into fall

The year-round activities of Governor's Marijuana Strike force are continuing into the fall. Although some people consider the destruction of marijuana to be a summertime activity, marijuana eradication is continuing into autumn this year.

During the past two weeks, 41,776 plants have been reported destroyed, bringing the 1991 total to 772,846. Thirty-one alleged growers were arrested during the same period, bringing the 1991 total to 288. Those figures represent an increase of 276, 584 plants destroyed and 38 arrests over 1990's total.

"As long as marijuana remains in the field, the participating Strike Force agencies will be out there cutting it down and burning it," said Strike Force chairman Gary Faulkner. "Tips are still coming in daily on the Strike Force Hotline (1-800-DOPE-TIP, or 1-800-367-3847, and Strike Force personnel are still finding and destroying plants daily."

Faulkner noted that marijuana is a hardy plant, which can survive the first frost. He also said that the longer the plant grows, the stronger its concentration of THC (the chemical which gives marijuana its psychoactive effect) becomes, increasing its value on the illegal drug market.

"That is why we are still finding marijuana plants. Some growers are trying to wait until the last possible moment to cut them, which gives us additional time to find more growers, arrest them, destroy their crops, and prosecute them."

Governor Wallace G. Wilkinson created the Strike Force in May, 1990. To date this year the Strike Force reports a total of 9,879 plants have been destroyed in Rockcastle County.

In the Cumberland Valley Area Development District's eight counties, a total of 190,580 plants have been destroyed and 49 arrests made, only second to the Kentucky River area counties where 303,745 plants were destroyed. Those counties, Leslie had the most, 129,313. Second was Floyd County with 109,385.

heard somebody draggin' chains around there at night." "Dark Holler," a damp and misty area not far from the Eversole farm is supposed to be the home of a Headless Horseman. "But personally," says Ethan, "I've not seen too many haints."

There's a common belief in the mountains that most "haint" trails were started to keep travelers and hunters away from the locations of moonshine stills. But when it comes to naming places stills might be found, Eric, flashing a rare smile, says "We ain't tellin'."

Even though at 27 and 24 Eric and Ethan are two of the youngest members of the Barn Dance, their style of playing the banjo and fiddle is probably the oldest there.

Ethan says, "The way most Bluegrass pickers play the banjo is down with the thumb and then up with the fingers, using picks. With the 'clawhammer style,' the fingers go down on the strings."

Eric explained his fiddle playing. "I use real short bow links. It's more of a rhythmic style playing." The boys explained that, in early days, the fiddler often played without accompaniment, so he had to keep up a rhythm suitable for dancing. Eric says he plays the melody on the highstring (counterstring) and his the base string every other lick, producing a sort of "drone" similar to bagpipe music.

Ethan explained some of the intricacies of old-time banjo tuning. "Modern pickers play in one key, but old-time pickers tuned the banjo to suit what they played."

Around the Eversole cabin, wild greens are plentiful and Ethan feels he could live off the land if necessary, even though their "Granny" is the one who really knows how to cook wild greens. Their favorite foods aren't wild greens, but they certainly are country. Eric says, "My favorite thing to eat is on the stove soaking right now, soup beans!"

"Ethan said he doesn't care much for beans, so I asked, 'What's your favorite?'" Here it comes, "I thought, 'There has to be something that just isn't country. It's going to say 'Pizza.'"

"I like chicken," said Ethan. "Fried chicken or chicken and dumplings." With so much emphasis on the past, just what's in the future for the Eversole Brothers? Eric says "I'm satisfied the way I am right now. If there's music in my future, it won't be in Nashville or any other city. I need plenty of space." Ethan nods in agreement.

So for right now, and probably for a long time to come, Eric and Ethan Eversole are happy in Renfro Valley doing exactly what they both love most - living, working, and making music in the old-fashioned way.

Memories of Childhood... The Eversole boys old treehouse still stands on the family farm.

Farm pond fish; You put 'em in Pickup trucks and vans loaded with bags of fish start rolling this month as the annual farm pond stocking program conducted by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources gets underway.

Farm pond owners who applied for the stocking program before the October 1 deadline will receive fingerling-size fish this fall and next spring. Normally, bluegill and channel catfish (if requested) are delivered in fall and largemouth bass in May.

Applicants are responsible for picking up their fish from an announced meeting place in the county where their farm pond is located. Owners also are responsible for releasing the "new" fish in their ponds.

If you're interested in the farm pond stocking program but missed the deadline, contact your state conservation officer (CO) or district fisheries biologist to get your name on the list for the next go-round (fall, 1992). District fisheries biologists also offer free technical guidance on renovating ponds or constructing new ones. If you don't know your CO or district fisheries biologist, contact: I&E Div., #1 Game Farm Rd., Frankfort, KY 40601; phone, (502) 564-4336.

A free booklet, "A Guide to the Management of Farm Ponds in Kentucky," is available upon request.

Boating user fee required on some Kentucky waters

Kentucky boaters using certain waterways in the state are required to purchase registration stickers from the U.S. Coast Guard, in action taken by Congress.

Stickers cost between $25 and $100, depending on boat length and type, and must be renewed annually. Some boats are exempt from the user fee.

For complete information, call 1-800-451-9148. You will reach the U.S. Coast Guard District office, St. Louis, Missouri, which can supply you with a list of Kentucky waters where the requirement is being enforced.

Stickers may be purchased by calling 1-800-848-2100. Use the same number to request order forms which list fee amounts and specific boats requiring stickers.

The Recreational Vessel Fee, which applies to all major river systems in the nation, is expected to help offset the federal deficit by pumping millions of dollars into the U.S. Treasury over the next few years.

The user fee system is being challenged in a federal district court.

October Hunting

If you want to bag a fall turkey, get out your archery equipment and get going -- to the nearest area open for turkey hunting.

Legal Kentucky turkey hunters may take one turkey of either sex from October 1 through 31.

During the October season, all of Butler and Christian counties are open for turkey archery hunting in addition to portions of Ballard, Bullitt, Caldwell, Calloway, Hopkins, Laclede, Logan, Muhlenberg, Nelson, Todd and Trigg counties.

Ballard Wildlife Management Area (WMA) south of Terrell Landing Road, Ballard County, and Higginson-Henry WMA, Union County, are also open for October turkey hunting. Hunters on Higginson-Henry are required to check in and out daily.

Beginning October 1, bowhunters also are allowed afield to pursue whitetails. Kentucky's deer bow season continues through January 15, 1992.

Muzzle-loading and crossbow hunters get their first opportunity to deer hunt in Kentucky October 19-20.

Western zone squirrel hunting continues through October 31, while the eastern zone season runs through November 8. Statewide squirrel hunting reopens November 19 and continues through the last day of December, 1991.

Bullfrog season closes midnight, October 31.

For complete information on any Kentucky hunting season contact: I&E Div., #1 Game Farm Rd., Frankfort, KY 40601; phone, (502) 564-4336.

Teen Center Perspectives

By: John Wylie

Teens appreciate something more when they have worked for it, earned it and paid for it. With this idea in mind the teens have opened their own savings account with about $150 earned at the last dance. They are squirreling their money away for special items they decide together to purchase. A new pool table is the first item on their list.

This weekend the teens will have another opportunity to earn money as they work the Bittersweet Festival. Please come out and support the festival this Friday and Saturday, our teens may earn enough at the festival to buy their new pool table!

Beginning with this week, the teens will be coping with a change at the teen center. Ginny Gilpatrick, who has been the Teen Center Coordinator since the re-opening of the Center, will be taking a new job with the Youth Services Center for the Rockcastle County Board of Education. Ginny will still be serving teens and will continue to be involved in some activities at the Teen Center. However, we will miss Ginny's full-time involvement and wish her the best in her new position.

The search for a new coordinator has begun and I will be assuming Ginny's duties until I have found a special person to take her place. During this transition, there are no changes or reductions in the Teen Center schedule, so come on down!

Roundstone Eagles were on the air waves Monday at 11:30 a.m. The weekly program is on WRVK in Renfro Valley. Monday's program featured Mrs. Kathryn Howard, Roundstone principal, as narrator.

Mrs. Gabbard's first grade students read an original story written by the students. Luke Hayes and Okete Egoaduste, fourth grade students from Mrs. Coffey's class entertained the first grade students with riddles. Listen each Monday for the Roundstone School broadcast from 11:30 a.m. to 11:45 on Renfro Valley WRVK 1460 AM.

The Pizza Hut Book-it Program has started at Roundstone Elementary School in grades 1-6. Book-it is a reading incentive program sponsored by Pizza Hut that encourages children to read books and explore our world. Students can win individual prizes and help win prizes for their class or for the school simply by reading. Parents are encouraged to ask their children about the Book-it Program.

Mrs. Paula Davis' preschooler students have been exploring fall colors. The children made tissue paper leaves. They have discussed how the green leaves are changing colors. Changing to red, yellow, orange, and brown. The student enjoyed using scissors to cut out construction paper leaves. Also, the students made colorful pictures by gluing corn and corn cobs.

Roundstone Cheerleaders sponsored by Tracy Gabbard will be competing in the YMCA Cheerleading Competition at EKV on Saturday, Oct. 12, at 8:30 a.m. At this level could lead to competition on state level. Good luck girls!
 Mr. Gabbard's fifth grade students have been learning about nature and ecology. Several unusual items were found on their last nature walk. Our playground seems to be "growing" strange looking balls that are easily identified when they are dissected.

The student body and faculty enjoyed a stirring performance by the performing Arts classes, Thursday. Sing and Celebrate, under the direction of Mrs. Pam Martin and Mrs. Caroine Graves, included a moving tribute to Miss Linda Cummins. STATIC, our primary book, recognizing National Fire Protection Week by visiting the Broadhead Fire Department. Brian Bussell gave an informative talk to the attentive students regarding fire prevention and safety.

 Safety preparedness is stressed often at BES. The students drill in proper buss and fire evacuation procedures and tornado and earthquake safety, which makes them aware and knowledgeable of the proper precautions should a disaster occur.

Along the lines of safety, Mrs. Cheryl Witt, county extension agent for Home Economics, is presenting a program to the fourth grade students called "Home Alone," which provides information which helps one make wise choices if at home alone.

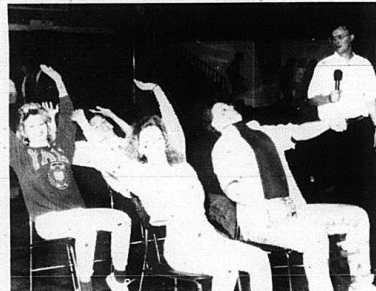

The classes of Mrs. Lena Hayes, Mrs. Sharon Ponder, and Mrs. Duina Thompson will present "Witch Watch" at the October meeting of PTA. This meeting on the 17th will also serve as a kick-off for the Book Fair which runs through the 24th. Please make plans to attend this meeting at 7 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Use this meeting to meet your child's teacher.

The eighth grade science classes of Jim Ward visited Hummel Planetarium, Eastern Kentucky University, Monday. This culminating activity followed a study of the solar system. Mr. Ward and Allen Pensol, basic arts coordinator, painted a room-sized solar system on the walls of the science lab. Students enjoy the colors they learn about our Solar System. Jeffrey Owens, seventh grader, is making quite a name for himself as a member of the Rockcastle County High Golf Team. He played in the Regional Golf Tournament at Eagles Nest Country Club Tuesday, in Somerset. Other members who played were Trent Clark, Corey Craig, and Scotty Wintstead.

Have you ever had to stuff your mouth with marshmallows and try to scream? Two RCHS students, Katie Mason and Greg Goff, attempted to try. Mr. Bobby Baugh handed each student an extra marshmallow before each scream and the student with the loudest scream won. The winner of the contest was Greg Goff. This skit was performed during the "I Care Hotline" presentation held September 26, 1991.

Mr. Bobby Baugh presented skits performed by the RCHS students. The skits involved teenagers drinking and driving so four chairs were set in the middle of the gym to represent a car. Four students acted as if they had been drinking and tried to drive in their condition. The teenagers were having the time of their life until their lives ended. The teenagers were killed in a simulated drinking and driving accident. Mr. Bobby Baugh is from San Antonio, Texas and is a representative from the "I Care Hotline."

"Teacher of the Year"

The Rockcastle County Board of Education takes great pride in announcing this year's "Teacher of the Year" recipients. The three teachers chosen have a combined sum of 45 years in the teaching profession and have continually stressed the importance of the student.

Paula Clark, fourth grade teacher at Mt. Vernon Elementary School views the new reform program challenging but feels it will give everyone a chance to improve. "There isn't anyone who can't improve" says Clark. As a mother herself, Clark simply tries to treat every child as she would like her child to be treated.

 Janie Grigsby, eighth grade teacher at Livingston Elementary School feels that "Each child is such an important part of our future, therefore, we must reach each student academically, emotionally, and artistically on a personal basis. Caring is an essential part of all education."

Iris Young, English Department Head at Rockcastle County High School, believes all children can learn and that most students can learn at high levels. Young remarked, "As a teacher I have an obligation to assist my students with meaningful learning experiences which they will carry into their adult lives."

Upon congratulating Clark, Grigsby and Young, Mr. Bige W. Towery, Jr., school superintendent, expressed his gratitude to "Forward In The Fifth" for their continued support of the educational efforts of Rockcastle County Schools and in providing a panel of judges which helped select these three distinguished educators.

Livingston Link

Ralph Andrew Powell, a fourth grader in Mrs. Martha Eversole's class, contributed the winning title for our news section. Ralph said he chose The Livingston Link "because this makes a link between all county schools in the newspaper."

We would like to thank all students who participated in our contest. It is for certain that many events have been occurring at Livingston Elementary.

Brenda Bullock, teacher, and Rhonda Bates, aide, have been helping the kindergartners learn about fire safety. The students have had a great time pretending to be firemen. They will be taking a trip to the Livingston Fire Department soon. Next week the students will learn about Christopher Columbus. Also, preparations are being made for a pumpkin painting contest.

Ms. Peggy McClure's first grade class has been very busy. They have just about finished their first reading book. They have met 14 of the Letter People. They enjoyed eating doughnuts from Mr. D., popping popcorn for Mr. P, and eating vegetables for Mr. V.

They are enjoying their new math book, using many manipulatives and working in groups to learn math.

For the past two weeks, first and second graders have been learning about nutrition and the Basic Four Food Groups in the Health Unit taught by Ms. Peggy. Vegetables for the Nutrition Unit are donated every two weeks during the six weeks by Taylor's Produce of Broadhead. Ms. Peggy and the primary students at Livingston would like to thank Taylor's Produce for this donation.

Miss Paula Phillips joins our staff this year and lives in Mt. Vernon with her parents. Miss Phillips's students are studying about transportation. There are many ways to travel as one can easily see by the student displays outside their classroom. We are delighted to have Ms. Phillips as our cheerleader sponsor.

Students are being taught a thematic unit, "Nocturnal Animals," by Mrs. Becky Fain. Many enjoyed the owl display created by her students. Many other activities are planned.

Mrs. Becky McClure reports that her students have been involved in the study of deserts and grasslands.

Fourth graders in Mrs. Martha Eversole's class have been doing many hands-on activities. Students have created globes, volcanoes, and the layers of the earth. Also they made books about earthquakes, Crater Lake and Hawaii. The entire class enjoyed making combread with Pioneer Annie.

Mr. Robbins fifth graders are beginning a unit of study on Indians. Students brainstormed and developed a list of topics for possible research. Each student selected four projects to complete.

Michael Roark, who has a minor in geology, is introducing his fifth graders to the world of rocks and minerals.

Mr. Ahney's seventh graders are pleased to have Mrs. Gwen Ponder as their aide. She has been very helpful and nice. The students under the direction of Mr. Penson, completed geometric string art projects.

Students in Mrs. Grigsby's eighth grade have been reading lots of books. In addition to reports, students completed book projects. Project winners were: 1st, JR Hopkins; 2nd, Myrtle Hopkins; 3rd, Robbie Singleton; 4th, Michael Crouch; 5th Elecia Jones.

Also, students have been busy making posters and writing essays concerning recycling. Poster winners were: Robbie Singleton, Sue Lamb, Shawna Burkhardt, Michael Crouch, and JR Hopkins. Myrtle Hopkins had the winning essay.

Presently, students are preparing 4-H speeches and Modern Woodman of the World Essays.

As the first six weeks ends, plans for the Schoolwide Chapter I project are well underway. All students are involved with reading and reporting through written, oral and illustrated projects. Student attendance is closely monitored. Some students are involved in computer usage through the TLC program.

Student performances are planned for each P.T.O. meeting. Recently, we enjoyed our first presentation by Mrs. Eversole's and Ms. Fain's classes. We encourage parents to be involved with us as we work toward meeting these goals.

Effective Schools

The LES Effective Schools Committee members are: Jerry Mink, principal; Mrs. Vicki Arnold, librarian; Mrs. Brenda Ballinger, teacher; Mrs. Peggy McClure, teacher.

Open House was held at LES on October 3, 1991. We want to thank Mr. Penson, for all his efforts in helping students recognize, develop, and share their creative talents. Student council members, Mark Carpenter, Jason Medley and Sue Lamb did a super terrific job serving refreshments. Also, much thanks to Ms. Leigha, Mrs. Vicki Arnold, Mrs. Carolyn Bryant and Vickie's mom for their help.

The Livingston P.T.O. met on Oct. 1, 1990 with 150 people present.

The state's recommendation that LES become a transitional school was discussed. Community members expressed their sincere desire for Livingston Elementary to remain as it is a vital part of the community.

Everyone is encouraged to become actively involved with the P.T.O.

We are privileged to have Mrs. Leigha, Mrs. Vicki Arnold, Mrs. Gregory (Speech) and Mrs. Bryant (Challenge) in our school this year. Many helpful and creative ideas are coming from these two ladies.

Mrs. Cornelius' chorus is working on "Boys Head" Festival to be presented by 7 and 8th grades, for December P.T.O. meeting.

Our Resource Room students are studying about Indians. They learned Red Deer and Tom Blackbird. They are producing individual books about these Indians.

We are very excited about our new boys' basketball coaches, Jerry Penson and Charles Bullen. Let's Go L.E.S.S.I!
7th and 8th grade girls won their first game. Congratulations Coach Bugg! Glad to have you at L.E.S.S.I.

Members of the RCHS chorus prepare for their presentation of the Gilbert and Sullivan classic, "The Pirates of Penzance."

Chorus presents Operetta

The RCHS junior and senior class will present the Gilbert and Sullivan classic, "The Pirates of Penzance" Oct. 24, 7 p.m. at the Rockcastle County High School.

This delightful venison has Federic planning to give up life as a pirate on his 21st birthday and marry Mabel, daughter of the Major-General Stanley. But, alas, it is discovered that he was born on leap year, Feb. 29, to be exact. As birthdays go, he is only four and will not reach his 21st birthday for 66 years. When all seems lost, it is discovered that the pirate crew are, in fact, peers of the realm, and they give up their lives on the high seas to settle down as gentlemen. The tuneful score includes such favorite songs as "I Am the Very Model of a Modern Major-General" and "Poor Wandering One."

Tickets will be sold at the door for $2 adults, $1 students.

Forest Ranger Marvin Stone, left, looks on as County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins proclaims Oct. 6-12 as Fire Prevention Week.

Proclamation by Roland D. Mullins, County Judge Executive for Rockcastle County

To all to whom these presents shall come;

Whereas, Every year Rockcastle County landowners suffer irreplaceable loss in value of their timber resource due to forest fires, and,

Whereas, Forest fires cause extreme dollar losses to timber values and losses to the values added to our local economies in manufacturing a damaged timber resource; and,

Whereas, The cost of controlling forest fires is a cost shared by all taxpayers in Rockcastle County; and, Whereas, Forest fires present a threat to other valuable property and even to human life; and,

Whereas, The vast majority of forests fires in Rockcastle County are man-caused and therefore preventable;

Now, therefore, I, Roland D. Mullins County Judge executive for Rockcastle County, do hereby proclaim October 6-12, 1991 as Fire Prevention Week in Rockcastle County, and urge all citizens to be aware of the importance of maintaining high quality timber for all landowners of Rockcastle County by protecting their woodlands from the damages of wildfire.
