Fairview News

By: Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend. Sunday school attendance was one hundred and twenty eight.

Our revival services closed Friday night Oct. 7. We heard some good sermons by Rev. Owen Edwards and enjoyed having both he and his wife with us. During this revival we had a number of rededications but no additions to the church. We just ask God's blessings on Bro. Edwards as he continues to work for the Lord. Let's each one of us remember to pray for our pastors. They, like we all, stand in the need of prayer at all times.

We certainly want to extend our deepest heartfelt sympathy to all those who have lost loved ones recently, including Mrs. Louise Adams of Richmond, Mrs. Matye Belle Baker and Charlie Owens of Berea and David Mullins of Florida, formerly of Climax and Charles Alfred Mullins of Mt. Vernon. All these loved ones need our prayers -- not just today but in the future too. Death of a loved one is not an easy thing to bear.

Connie Adams of LaGrange, Ga. has spent the past few days here with her mother Mrs. Janet Ridgell and family and other relatives and friends. She was here due to the death of her grandmother Mrs. Louise Adams of Richmond.

Several folks around here are suffering from colds, flu and laryngitis. Mrs. Charlene Hall near Fairview has returned home from a few days stay in the Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. Bless her heart, she has suffered so much but continues to be that good, kind and loving lady that everybody loves. And Charlene your many friends wish for you, much better health real soon. God bless you and your family.

Hubert and I recently visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander.

Mrs. Mary Cope attended church at Fairview on Sunday morning went with Eugene and Hallie Alexander to the Galilee Baptist Church on Sunday night. She enjoys going to church, but hasn't felt like being out too much lately.

I enjoyed so much the telephone calls recently from my cousin Billy Norris in Augusta, Ga. and my sister-in-law Berdine Reppert of Paxton, Ill. It is so good to keep in touch with those we love.

Visiting in our home last Sunday was one of my relatives, Luther Mullins of Snider.

Mrs. Mary Cope and her daughter-in-law Mary Cope visited Mrs. Charlene Hall Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. William Cope of Dayton, Ohio spent the week here with his mother Mrs. Mary Cope, and also spent time at his farm at Bee Lick in Pulaski County.

Visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander recently have been Mrs. Tretha Alexander of London last Saturday, Mr. and Mrs. William Cruse on Sunday, and on Monday Mr. and Mrs. J.T. Gadd, Woodrow Gabbard and Larry Abrams of Berea and Mr. and Mrs. John Blair of Fairview.

A big thank you to all those that I run into from time to time, who tell me how much they enjoy my article in the Signal. I recently saw Richard and Sarah Ann (Kirby) Harris of Indiana and she said to me "you don't write enough" in the Signal. When I miss a week there is always someone, somewhere to remind me of it. But thanks again for your interest, I appreciate it. It's always good to have loving people that care and love one another. One thing that I have always been blessed with and that is a lot of wonderful friends.

"The Week at Livingston" from the Air Force. They also visited some grandchildren in Coeur d'Alene, Idaho.

Lois Mullins, Nell Nicely and I (Frances Dickerson) visited Nell Cummins at Gum Sulphur, Sunday. Nettie Mullin's daughter Fern of East Bernstadt visited her Sunday.

The railroad crossing at the southeast of the railroad bridge has been repaired, thanks to the company. All who travel across the bridge appreciates this.

There was two work days at the Ward Cemetery this week. The gang working this week was John Hall, Mr. and Mrs. Bud Lovell and his daughter Kelli and Lois Mullins.

"QUAIL NEWS"

in-law Dr. and Mrs. G.P. Tadjewski at Louisville a few days.

Mrs. Justin Scott spent a few days in Ohio with her son Mr. and Mrs. John M. Scott. She returned home Wednesday.

Wayne Caldwell has returned home to Ohio after spending a week with his mother Mrs. Edna Caldwell.

Around Brodhead

By: Mary McWhorter

Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Ridgell and daughter Sherry visited his parents Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ridgell of Corbin on Sunday.

Mrs. Nancy Williams of near Fairview and Mrs. Garnett Williams of Berea visited Mrs. Mary Cope last Monday.

Please remember Sunday School and church and attend every time you can. Let's always thank God for all the blessings of life - they are many - love and prayers to you all.

Metropolitan Opera Presents Rossini's Semiramide

An epic tale of murder, romantic intrigue, and royal power struggles in ancient Babylonia opens the 15th season of The Metropolitan Opera Presents when "Semiramide" airs on KET at 8 p.m. Wednesday, Oct. 16.

Job Adams is a patient in the Sowder Nursing Home and his wife Mary Adams is a patient in the Rockcastle County Hospital, Mt. Vernon. Our prayers are for them and all others who are ill. Also all who have lost loved ones.

Mickie Lea Pruitt of Ashland was weekend guest of her mother and brother Pat Pruitt and Freddy Jr. and also visited me and Junior Craig a short time.

Recent visitors of Elva Mobley were Mrs. Dana Moore and children Justin and Jason, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Bradley, Mrs. Norma Crank and daughter, Ruth Ann and her husband David Deborn and their baby little two week old Cody.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Murphy Cash and Mrs. Ruby McKinney spent several days in Middletown, Ohio visiting their sister and brother-in-law Madge and Billy Harp. They also visited two cousins, Mary Lou and Jessie Marie Chandler. They enjoyed visiting with them and their families in Cincinnati, Ohio.

Those attending the Bryant Family reunion in Wolfe County were Roy and Esther Hubbard, Stanley Hubbard and wife Sue and daughter Ashley, Mrs. Eva Woodall and daughter Barbara Singleton.

Mrs. Hubbard had all her children visiting her over the weekend and also saw the other two at the reunion. Norman Lewis and friend Carol Myre and Dallas Lewis and girl friend Debbie Seawright all from White Lake, Michigan. Herman Lewis and friend Laverne Wakefield of Iowa Park, Texas.

Dallas and Debbie surprised everyone by getting married at the Brodhead Baptist Church Oct. 7 at 6 p.m. by Brother Melvin Riley. We wish them a long happy life together. Others visiting were Rose Blankenship and husband Victor and granddaughter Heather of Dayton, Ohio. Rose is the oldest daughter of Mrs. Hubbard.

Mrs. Bertha Adams attended her grandson's wedding, Shannon Adams and Tracy in Reading, Ohio and said they had a beautiful wedding.

Mrs. Bertha Adams visited her son Jackie and wife Wilma in Fairland, Ind. and also visited her grandchildren, daughter Anna and husband Frank in Marion, Ind. and Charles and Butch and their families, her brother Robert and wife Mary. All had dinner together and Butch and wife Lana escorted her home. Mrs. Beulah Quinn and son Johnny and wife Stephanie were recent visitors of mine and we visited her son Glen Douglas in Mt. Vernon a short time and had dinner at Leah's and also visited on Copper Creek and got some really good molasses.

Bob and Clara Proctor reports a very enjoyable and very beautiful vacation tour through Pennsylvania and also enjoyed having their daughter Elizabeth Clay of Lexington spend the weekend with them on their return home.

LEAP aiding Livingston residents to better themselves economically by using local strengths

By: Laura Mize

The old adage, "You can't squeeze blood from a turnip," is accurate when applied to Southeastern Kentucky's economic situation. If the region has no opportunity to financially prosper, how can it become economically stable?

Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress has created an opportunity by implementing Livingston's regional strengths, abilities and know-how in developing an economic relief system.

In the early 1980's, a group of citizens formed a non-profit organization to devise ways of providing economic assistance for local residents. At a meeting, the group decided to utilize the qualities and abilities the region had to offer rather than trying to train workers in new fields and spend money building job sites. This meant using the various fields of agriculture.

From a one room office in Livingston, the group began the efforts by raising sorghum and making, bottling and selling molasses.

"When we began making the sorghum, tobacco was going for such a small price. We needed an alternative to help increase the (average regional) salary," said LEAP Director, Ina Taylor. She believes that the organization is growing, and the public is slowly responding to its efforts because it is operated by local people.

With financial aid from foundations and various church affiliated groups, such as the Commission on Religion in Appalachia, the organization provides jobs for many area residents.

The sorghum seeds are provided by LEAP to farmers. The harvest is then purchased from the farmer to make the molasses. The organization is utilizing the farmer's agricultural skills and paying him for his efforts. From the initial sorghum, the organization has expanded to include candies, dessert toppings and biscuit mixes in its production line.

A fairly new establishment that has already withstood hard times, the organization forecasts financial independence in the near future. "Right now, the sorghum and candy sales pay the Opportunities for Women workers," commented Ina. She then explained that the Opportunity for Women is the branch of the organization that prepares the foods.

Taylor elaborated that a non-profit organization's objectives include making only enough money to support the organization independently. This includes salaries and building maintenance, which includes electric bills, etc.

In addition to providing jobs, LEAP offers aid through assisting in home repairs, providing farmers with free seed and also accepts applications for Heifer Project International. The project provides farm animals to people who have the facilities and the need. "We received a one-time grant to buy farm animals. Each person that gets an animal has to give the first born offspring back to LEAP so we can give it to someone else who is in need," stated Ina.

"No one owns this - it is the community's organization supported by foundations and volunteers," Ina said in mentioning the many volunteers that help, including three EKV students. "The money goes towards wages of those who make the candies."

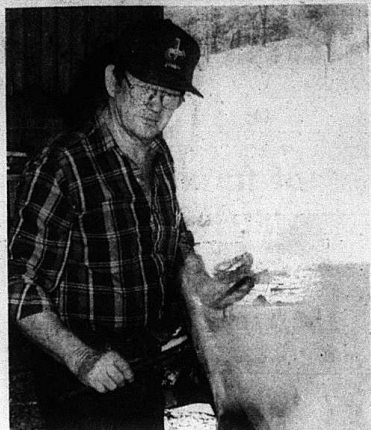

"People have to see success before they'll have anything to do with an organization," she continued, "I think people see we have put a lot of time and energy into it, and now they see we are in it to succeed, local people."

LEAP proudly retains a mailing list of over 5,000 addresses across the US and even one in Africa. The funding limits the organization's advertising ability, although they have done a few small ads in two magazines. "They didn't seem to draw the business like we hoped," said Ina. The organization does, however, boast two articles that were written about their cuisine in large, food related magazines.

LEAP offers a wide variety of absolutely delicious home-made candies, and beautiful ones at that. Available are gift packages, full of dessert toppings, biscuit mix, recipe books and much more. Each is in a hand-made basket (a must-see) and boasts a very reasonable price tag. These gifts can be obtained by visiting the LEAP office and health approved kitchen on US 25, 2 miles north of Livingston. It is located next to the Calloway Thrift Shop, another of the organization's projects. For further information, call Ina Taylor at 453-9800.

Ina Taylor, of LEAP, stands with Evelyn Brown, center, who makes the candy for LEAP and Neil Hurd, right, who designs the baskets.

Earl Baker scrapes the foam off the molasses that he is making for LEAP.

"BURLEY"

all called saying, "What are the rates going to be?"

The tobacco sales season is scheduled to begin Nov. 25. McKinney said the delay was not costing farmers and warehouses money so much as causing other problems.

Henry West, who is chairman of the committee that developed the co-op's support price recommendations last spring, said growers were preparing their tobacco for the market and needed to know the prices to maximize profits.

The co-op's proposal, which will not become official without the Department of Agriculture's approval, would raise the average market price for each pound of burley by 5 to 7 cents, McKinney said. The average price for a pound of burley during the 1990-91 sales season was $1.75.

The support price is the minimum price guaranteed by the Agriculture Department under the federal tobacco program. If tobacco companies decide to buy tobacco on the auction floor, the burley co-op will buy it at the federally supported price.

The surplus burley is stored and processed by the burley co-op, then sold later.

The support price for the highest grade of tobacco would be $1.84 under the co-op's proposal. McKinney said his primary concern was ensuring a decent price on some of the medium grades, such as B3F and B3FR. A lot of tobacco normally is classified under those two grades, and McKinney said their prices could have a dramatic effect on the market. The co-op recommended prices of $1.81 on both of those grades.

McKinney said he thought the delay could have been caused by pressure the Agriculture Department was getting from tobacco companies about the medium grades.

"The companies have told me that they want those grades set lower, and I'm sure USDA is getting pressure from the companies," he said.

Whoopin' it up
New voter registration down

Some folks say it is going to be a dull election in November. And, if figures of voter registration around the state and in Rockcastle County are any indication, they are probably right.

According to figures at the office of Norma Houk, Rockcastle County Clerk, Republicans gained only about six more voters since registration opened in May.

At that time, the GOP in the county had 6,621 voters. During the registration period 42 registered to vote, but 36 were deleted for various reasons, including moving out of the county.

The county Democrats had 1,630 registered in May. A total of 30 more registered by the time registration was over on Monday. Seven were deleted for various reasons. The county total is now 1,653 for a net gain of 23.

A total of 33 registered independent. The Republicans, hoping to gain more voters with Larry Hopkins heading the ticket, are disappointed. For example, Clay, Leslie, Cumberland and Pulaski Counties, all heavily Republican, showed very little interest in voting.

Statewide, Democrats have 1,261,163 registered voters. Republicans have 553,869. "It's very quiet," Leslie County Clerk James Lewis said Thursday. "You'd almost think there wasn't an election going on."

In Clay County, voter registration was "below average," Clerk Florence Baker said.

"The election hasn't picked up at all around here," she said.

Clerks statewide said they detected a lack of enthusiasm for the governor's race among Republicans and Democrats alike. "On both sides of the aisle, this election is very quiet despite the potential interest we thought there would be," Pulaski County Clerk Wilard Hansford said.

Hansford and other clerks said an increasing number of voters are turned off by politics and weary of the process.

"Kentucky has too many stupid elections," Hansford said. "People are just burned out."

Council write-in highlights election

By: Ray McClure

A constable candidate and city councilmen and women in Mt. Vernon, Brodhead and Livingston make up the local candidates on the Nov. 5 election ballot in Rockcastle County.

In every office in the state and county there will be ample space for write-in candidates should the voter not like those printed on the ballot.

The most is in Mt. Vernon where six seats are to be filled on the city council. There are only five candidates listed. One candidate will have to be written in if there is to be a full council.

Candidates listed on the ballot are incumbents Bobby Bailey, Clark "Joe" Mullins, Lou Vanhose, Bessie Tracy and Clarice Kirby.

There will be room for six write-in candidates if the voter wishes to vote for others than those listed.

At Brodhead, four candidates are to be elected. Those on the ballot are incumbents D.A. Robbins, C.B. Owens Jr., Johnny Wikeop and newcomer Ricky Vanzant.

At Livingston, there are four seats to be filled with one candidate listed. He is incumbent Todd Mink.

There will be four write-in spaces in Brodhead and Livingston if the voter wants others than those listed.

There is only one candidate listed for constable, District 4. He is Leonard Dale Miller, son of deputy sheriff Leonard Miller who resigned as constable to take the deputy job.

His son was appointed to fill out his father's term until November. There will also be a space for a write-in. The winner will serve until the 1993 election.

Incumbent 28th Judicial Circuit Judge Daniel J. Veniers is the only candidate on the ballot for that office. There's room for a write-in.

Also on the ballot will be state office holders, including Governor, Lieutenant Governor, Secretary of State, Attorney General, Auditor of Public Accounts, State Treasurer, Superintendent of Public Instruction, Commissioner of Agriculture, Railroad Commissioner and two judges of the Court of Appeals.

People Poll

The restrictions and requirements imposed by the Kentucky Education Reform Act has many Rockcastle Couintians agitated.

The merging of all elementary students, the building of a new high school, and the transition of Livingston Elementary are the basic components of the reforms that create the upset.

According to Superintendent Bige Towery, the local school board accepts that the facility recommendation made by the state will allocate no state funds for LES.

The plan states that all elementary students could be merged into the Mt. Vernon Elementary building leaving Livingston without need for a school.

"We do understand that according to law, no state funds can be used after (the merger) for the upkeep and maintenance of LES. At that point, it would be a local board decision whether or not to continue to use local funds to keep the center open," stated Towery in his presentation at the public hearing on Thursday, Sept. 27.

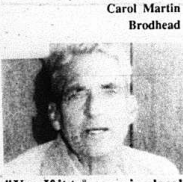

Although Towery did not elaborate on the issue, it implies the possibility of allowing LES to remain open whether or not the state gives any funds.

If the state school board decides that Livingston will be a transitional school, which would deny any state funding to be used on that school, would you favor letting the Rockcastle County Board of Education spend local tax dollars from the general fund to keep the school open? That question was asked of some Rockcastle Couintians and here are their responses.

"Yes. They deserve to keep their school because they've worked hard for it. Our tax dollars have probably gone for less important causes."

Carol Martin Brodhead

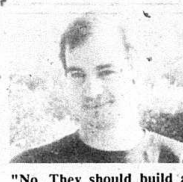

"Yes. If it takes paying local tax money to keep Livingston Elementary open, I'd be for it, if it doesn't raise taxes too much."

Fred Ponder Livingston

"Yes. It benefits the kids down there but I don't think they ought to raise school taxes."

Carlos McClure Mt. Vernon

"No. They should build a school large enough to hold the capacities so they wouldn't have to fund Livingston School."

Gilbert Mullins Mt. Vernon

"Yes. They'll have to bus kids too far if they close the school down."

Donnie Woodall Brodhead

"Yes, but if taxes go up anymore, we'll have to leave home. The tax hike was ridiculous this year."

Dear Editor,
 Two weeks ago there was a rumor that James Cromer, son of Gary and Jana Cromer, was arrested for dealing in drugs. Many of the students and teachers at Rockcastle County High helped to spread this rumor. I know this to be a fact because my own girlfriend goes to RCH and a teacher told her he read James' name in the paper and he was arrested for having drugs.
 There was a large drug bust in Pulaski County several months ago, and my wife with the same name, different middle initial was arrested. My son's middle initial is A.
 We left Rockcastle County when Jamie was in the 8th grade, and we have heard rumors ever since about one thing or another. We have laughed at these rumors and the small minded people who start them but when it comes to hurting the integrity of my son, I feel the need to speak out.
 We are hard working people and we have raised our children to respect the law. Rumors of this kind hurt families and friends and unless you know what you're talking about, I suggest you keep quiet.
 When grown adults help spread rumors they know nothing about, then I am very glad I took my children out of Rockcastle County.

Dear Editor,
 Those of us who live in southern Kentucky are happy to have had Somerset Community College since 1965. Many people gave time, money and energy to help get it established. It has opened the door to higher education for many people and a great many of them have gone elsewhere to continue their education. I think we all have admiration and appreciation for the excellent work that has been and is being done at SCC! The enrollment has grown "by leaps and bounds." This semester there are more than 2,600 enrolled and attending classes either on campus or elsewhere part-time. There are not enough classrooms on campus, so many classes must be taught elsewhere. There are those who are saying that we should expand into a four year college, as a UK branch campus. I differ with this opinion because I believe that Southern Kentucky University is long overdue and should be established in ninety-two. If enough people in southern Kentucky work for it I believe it can be done! A "four year college" is not what we need for many reasons. There are some grants and programs available to universities that are not available to either two or four year colleges. A four year college would not meet the need of teachers who are required to have a masters degree to continue teaching. I called Frankfort and asked about the current requirements for certification. College graduation with either a BA or BS degree and student teaching are required before a five year certificate is issued. The first year of teaching is internship. By the end of the five years of teaching fifteen semester hours of graduate credit toward a masters degree is required for renewal for five years, by which time the masters degree must be completed, is what a lady told me. This should convince anyone that a four year college is not adequate for our need. We believe that our Somerset Community College should have become Southern Kentucky University in 1968 when Northern Kentucky Community College became Northern Kentucky University. One needs only compare what we have here with the NKU campus with its classrooms, health facilities, athletic program, student center with cafeteria and dormitories to see how far we are left behind. They have had masters degrees since long ago. One of our daughters received one there in 1984. Of course the other universities have them, and so should we!

I have been working for many years for Southern Kentucky University and have asked the help of many local groups and organizations here and in other southern Kentucky counties. Many letters of support have gone to the Council on Higher Education asking that our Somerset Community College be expanded and renamed Southern Kentucky University during the next session of legislature. When Northern Kentucky Community College became NKU it was left behind. They have had masters degrees since long ago. One of our daughters received one there in 1984. Of course the other universities have them, and so should we!

We have just outgrown our facilities and perhaps as SKU we can have some of the buildings that are desperately needed - classrooms and student center with cafeteria we need so much!

Dear Editor,
 I guess if money made the world go round, I would have to get off at the next stop. When I asked my wife to marry me I said, "Honey, we probably won't never have very much but we will always have each other." She married me anyway. We were not Christians then so I didn't know how prophetic were the words I was speaking. We've never been too concerned about the size of our income. We've always had one, though sometimes it's been bad a slow trickle. We've never worried much about making a living. We've always been busy just living. It's great to be alive.

Sometimes when I become frustrated trying to survive in this materialistic, humanistic society that is consumed with the prospect of making money and getting gain. I sometimes refer to the biography of Smith Wigglesworth. Smith Wigglesworth was an English evangelist sometimes referred to as the "Apostle of Faith" and always revered to be a well of wisdom. Once when he was questioned about some financial matters from a Christian perspective he replied, "Far too many people spend their entire lifetime making a living. Making a living is the small, time serving dwarfed and paralyzed mans object. Making a life is the kingly, righteous and holy mans object. The one lives in the narrow, prison limited circle of self, and the other in a world which is bound only when infinity and eternity have limits."

He said, "It's not poverty from which Christians suffer, but it is the disease called stinginess and selfishness; and hence, while they have enough and to spare for themselves, their children, and their pleasures, they lack the heart to give in order to promote Gods glory and the good of their fellowmen."

Truer words were never spoken. Many church folks would drive 50 or 60 miles, stop all and pay $150 for a pair of brand name sneakers, when a $40 pair would do just as well, just so their child will be socially acceptable when he starts to school. They wouldn't give a dime to see the town saved; much less send a few dollars to the mission field to help someone who's starving to death.

Most of my Christian friends are definitely not suffering from poverty. Many of them are working and getting it with both hands; reaching two jobs and overtime trying to get all they can and can all they can get. They've been blessed, pressed down, shaken together, heaped up and running; but nobody seems to be satisfied, always wanting bigger and better things.

 In the past few months we've seen this world's systems crumbling and changing before our very eyes. A New World Order is on the Horizon. It will be short lived. The darkness, the terror and the horrors that will follow will be unthinkable. When the whole earth is in total chaos and the world is crumbling beneath our feet and everything around us is coming unglued, we won't need a bank account. We'll need God. If God is the source of our supply, we can always get money but if we don't honor Him with our substance, He may hide himself from us in time of trouble.
 William Mullins

Dear Editor,
 Perhaps trying to think of too many things to try to write resulted in more than one problem in my past few letters to the Editor, did not fully express my ideas.

With hill areas, it may be possible by using perhaps a bulldozer to terrace small growing areas of noched steep growing areas on the sides of a hill, to form shallow hydroponic pool growing areas of soil substitutes down the sides of hills, which do not require soil cultivation which may have farm tractors tip over, trying to cultivate the side of a hill on too steep a grade, sideway. To let the water-nutrient solution flow by gravity from the highest steep growing area to lower step growing areas to be mostly recovered at the base to be repumped to the top to repeat the process and if hydroponics will produce from two to 30 times the crop yield, as compared to that in soil by notching out stepped growing areas, say 20 or so wide, in the side of a hill may make that area of terraced steep growing areas more productive than the same area best bottom land for growing crops, and so long as it doesn't get too wide, a noched growing area in the side of a hill may cost 1/3 to 1/2 less or so to build perhaps a plexiglass sudogreenhouse to extend the crop growing time, as so long as the water-nutrient solution does not freeze over, the crop given the essential elements will grow at least some all year round.
 It all depends on how much time and money you can put into the expense of trying to grow a crop as the expense of a sudo greenhouse for perhaps controlled growing temperature artificial sunlight to grow any plant faster with controlled temperatures at any time of the year, etc.
 The hills may be more ideally suited

Tourism and Timber

Bill Bishop, the fire-trooped columnist/editorial writer for the Lexington Herald Leader and for whom I have profound respect, recently noted in the paper that he didn't have much confidence in candidates who would have eastern Kentuckians believe there was much development opportunity in tourism or timber. I can't remember his exact quote, but the gist of it was that anytime somebody comes along who doesn't know much about economic development, the first things they start touting are the fortunes to be had in having yankees visit and spend their money. In the region, or they start talking about sawmills. Bishop said he didn't trust 'such people and I hope that is not offended as I try to join his club.

To get where he is, Bishop spent some dues-paying time as a reporter for Lecher County's weekly paper, The Mountain Eagle, under the tutelage of its Editor/Publisher, Tom Gish. Gish is the most outspoken, articulate, nonpartisan critic of political misbehavior that I have ever known. I don't know how Bill feels, but Tom Gish is my favorite Kentucky hero. I'd love to grow up and be just like him.

In Lecher County, the favorite past-time of officials in the courthouse is talking about how much you hate Gish. The newspaper office has even been burned and there's no telling how many plots have been laid to run him out of town. (I realize this isn't news to Eagle readers, but my column gets in several other papers, so bear with me.)

Wallace Wilkinson, in a rare fit of sanity, even put Gish on the State Board of Education. I can't understand that, because he could not possibly have made a better choice. The editorials that Gish has written about corruption in education over the last few decades would fill a book. And Wilkinson is a politician of the same ilk that Gish despises most.

It's sort of like a cobra inviting a mongoose to dinner. Wilkinson said he was serious about education reform. When he appointed Gish to the board, I commenced believing. It's the only sign of truth I've seen in this administration.

Bill Bishop is simply a younger version of Tom Gish so I read everything he writes. Bishop makes me think and he helps me put together the right about things - blunt, abrasive, insulting and brutally right. If you don't read his column, you should.

But Bill didn't elaborate on his skepticism about tourism and timber being any kind of cure for our region's economic ills. What I'd like to do with the space still left, is jump right in where he left off.

Tourism. We have, in Kentucky, a devoted corps of well-paid, public-relations types who make their living by running around talking about the jobs that have been created in the tourism industry and what wonderful potential it holds for the rest of us who have never had a part-time job changing sheets at a Days Inn or flipping burgers at a fast food, drive-thru window.

That's a lot of jobs at first glance. Unfortunately, 3,000 of them pay minimum wage with no benefits to high school students who work fewer than 20 hours a week at the burger pieces. Another 1,000 jobs pay minimum wage for 20 hours each week to part time maids and janitors at the hotels during warm weather. Another 500 people find work picking of those tourism jobs around Lake Cumberland and see what you come up with. You'll be thanking God for welfare when it's over.

Timber is an altogether different proposition. If we can figure out a way to turn oak trees on top of the mountain into fine furniture before they leave the region, we would be onto something. The potential is, in fact, there because the trees are, as Harry Caudill preached over the last several decades of his life. But it's a complex issue clouded with poor transportation and a host of other problems. You can bet that its going to happen when you see some major corporations coming in and leasing up the forests for a buck an acre like they did our coal reserves at the turn of the century.

Millions and millions of dollars worth of logs are being harvested from eastern Kentucky's mountaintops

by: perlina anderkin

My generation gap with my 5-year-old has arrived. In fact, it arrived about two years ago when she began noticing what clothes she was wearing and immediately took issue with the style.

This was a major shock. With the first five, they didn't care. If their body was covered they were happy (and actually that was not a necessity with them). They were obediently each year and sold for a pittance of their actual worth. They are being sawed into squares and shipped in all directions to furniture manufacturers around the world. If we can figure out a way to get those manufacturers to locate where the trees are, then we might see some economic development begin to happen.

And if you talk to a politician who is making wild promises about tourism and timber, ask him or her precisely what's on the mind. Ask for a few details. What kind of jobs are they talking about. Find out how they intend to get Broyhill to move to town if they start talking timber. They'll shut up if you push them a little bit.

like it, it immediately hits her "wouldn't wear that to a dog fight" category and the battle is on.

We were at a sale in Lexington recently. I immediately spotted this sporty little outfit that I loved. She immediately turned thumbs down and came up with a black outfit consisting of stretch pants and a black shirt which had a chiffon ruffle on the bottom with black and white polka dots on it. I immediately turned thumbs down and her next choice was a cowgirl shirt with blue and pink and yellow colored stones scattered over the front for the bargain price of 21.99. Needless to say, we didn't wrap this one up to go either. We finally settled on a sweat suit and the only reason she gave in was that it is hot pink with a rather wild design on the shirt.

You say, this is ridiculous, the child would wear whatever I bought her. This is Allison of whom I speak and she has backed me (not the wishy-washiest of people) down time and again by flatly refusing to wear my choice even to the extent of staying at home.

Maybe she senses that I don't have the energy to join the battle that I used to have or maybe I have learned that a little freedom of choice at the age of five isn't all that bad (as long as we keep the colored stones and rhinestone under control).

I didn't follow the Hill-Thomas debacle as closely as I should have. I read several accounts in the paper and was terribly embarrassed for all

Head of the Hone

BY GARRY BARKER

In recent years much has been written about the healing wonders of folk medicine, the potliques and potions concocted from barks, berries, leaves, and mystery, the unexplainable therapeutic values of the old mountain voodoo-like medical treatments.

Lots of them worked. My grandfather was sort of a medicine man, a treater of copperhead bites, burns, cuts, bullet wounds, warts, colds, or whatever else might ail a family member or neighbor. Somewhere, we hope, Granddaddy's old notebook of remedies still exists.

But, a generation removed from my grandfather, I was more likely to get dosed with castor oil, doused in turpentine or coal oil, or treated with tobacco juice, liniment, whiskey, or some sort of patent salve. Fortunately, my brothers and sisters and I were basically healthy enough to outlive the treatments.

When I got stung by a lumbering bumblebee, my step-grandfather quickly applied a juicy wad of chewing tobacco. Unfortunately, I'd been stung just above the eye. My juice-scaled eyeball did hurt so bad that I forgot all about being stung, so in a week or so, I regained most of my vision.

We all quickly learned to conceal any stomach or bowel upsets. Vile, thick, foul, slimy, a stinking castor oil, two or three tablespoons full, was standard treatment for whatever ailed you. Early preventive medicine is the best description for castor oil; anybody who'd ever swallowed a full dose simply refused to ever get sick again. Or, if you did, you hid in the outhouse or barn and hoped you'd get well before anybody noticed.

For most cuts and scrapes, out came the turpentine or coal oil (that's kerosene to you city folks) and I can attest to the healing power of both fluids. Wounds treated with either turpentine or coal oil heal quickly, cleanly, without scars.

When once worked my bicycle and slid thirty feet across rough asphalt on my elbows, my father took it one step farther. He coated my skinless parts with roofing tar, sticky black pitch, a more than generous application. I spent the next week trying to get it off. And, either the pitch or the coal oil I used to soak it off healed the injuries. With no scarring.

Poison ivy was and is the bane of an active country kid's existence, and there's still nothing better than a baking soda paste to cure the itch. Wondrous baking soda. It defuses insect stings, heals poison ivy rash, cleans the teeth, absorbs odors, settles the stomach, and even is used for some sort of cooking.

About 10 years ago, though, after a heavy Sunday dinner and too little activity, I couldn't sleep. Indigestion, gas, a bloated stomach, and nowhere in the house was there a handy jar of antacid tablets. "Go take two big spoons of baking soda and a glass of water," advised my wife.

After 30 more minutes of misery, I agreed it was a try. I stumbled downstairs, gagged down two tablespoons full, chased it with two glasses of water, and came back to bed. After a few minutes, it was obvious the magic wasn't working. I was worse. I was swollen, bloated, gasping for breath. I'm not one to suffer in total silence. "You're the worst doctor I've ever been to," I grumbled to my wife. "I think you've killed me."

She, puzzled, offered sympathy but could not understand what had gone wrong.

"It's that damned baking powder," I wailed.

She got a strange look on her face. "Baking Powder?" she asked. "Yes," I gasped. "Baking powder. Two spoons full and two glasses of water, just like you said."

She started giggling. I started gassing, best as I could under the circumstances. "I said baking soda," she gasped through tears of laughter. "Soda. Not powder." "What the hell's the difference?" I smored.

She dissolved, huffed her belly and laughed until she fell out of her chair.

Obviously, I survived the long night. But I learned better than to try and make biscuits without a mixing bowl and oven, and learned the difference between baking soda and baking powder.

(Ed's note: Garry Barker is a professor at Berea College and writes for the Berea Citizen.)

Now, whenever I feel a little bloated, I just drink me a Pepsi.

for hydroponic growing, more than bottom soil land.

Now there are other problems of concern such as excess ultraviolet radiation exposure from our sun, which has been implicated as the cause of skin cancers, cataracts and immune deficiencies, which may also cause a reduction of crop yield, but it has not been widely publicized problem to the farmer.

It has not been widely publicized yet to be a problem of major concern and there are still a few problems I have to work out in my mind to perhaps make it more affordable. It is ozone gas in our atmosphere absorbs most of the ultra violet radiation from our sun, but ozone gas at ground level has been determined to be a health hazard.

Yet an alcohol fueled electric generator will produce both electricity and some oxygen as exhaust. When electricity is parked through oxygen, it changes oxygen O2 gas into ozone O3 gas, which may be containable in clear plastic sudo bags over a crop growing area which may only be affordable if the increase in crop yield would justify the expense of doing it.

In notched stepped growing areas cut into the side of hills, if not too large, if a sudo greenhouse can be affordably built into the side of a hill, it may be affordable to get a bit more pleg-liss to build a container to hold this ozone gas to where it will absorb ultraviolet radiation from our sun, while not interfering with the growing process, if there would be an appreciable increase of crop yield.

Teen Center Perspectives

By: John Wylie

One in five teenagers carry a weapon to school, according to reports in the nation's news media last week. The rate in Mt. Vernon is much lower than that, if our experience at the Teen Center is any indication. We have had over ten thousand visits by a couple of hundred local teens over the past year, yet there have only been two or three times that I can remember a teenager carrying any kind of a weapon. Those teens removed themselves and/or their weapons from the Teen Center when reminded of our policy against having weapons at the Center.

We have not had a problem with violence at the Teen Center since reopening and our teens deserve a lot of credit for treating each other with respect and making better choices when resolving disputes than violence. But our Teen Center, the Schools, Home and Community are not immune from the problems of violence. Across the country adults and teenagers alike are too often becoming the perpetrators or the victims of violence. The huge number of available weapons, substance abuse, financial problems, bombardment of violent programming, learning violence at home, and simply making the worst possible choice are some of the factors involved.

Programs at the CAP Teen Center can help youth and families to work out basic problems that can sometimes lead to disputes, anger and hostility. The same is true for other CAP programs in Mt. Vernon, including our Spouse Abuse Shelter, Counseling Services, Respite Care, Outreach Services, Child Development, Family Life School, and Family Life Services and recreation. Together we can find a better way and keep Mt. Vernon a safer place to live.

Thanks to all of the teens who worked the refreshment stands at the Bittersweet Festival and to everyone who came out and supported the event. We don't have the final figures on how much the teens earned, but they did well on Friday and Saturday was far better. All of the teens did a great job preparing and selling the food and they turned out in more than sufficient numbers to keep the booths well-staffed. The money they earned will go into their new savings account for the purchase of a new pool table.

There are a few changes in our programming on Thursday at the Teen Center. Our Teen Challenge group will be trying a new format. They will open with prayer and testimony from one of the young men in the Teen Challenge Recovery Program. Following that they will get involved one-on-one with the teens in social and recreational activities. They will also be bringing Christian Rock Music tapes for us to gain exposure to this growing field of music.

Another change is that Traveling Chorus with Theresa Renner will meet at the end of the evening on Thursday, allowing that group to have the center to themselves for practice. Other teens will be transported home when the Traveling Chorus is ready to begin rehearsal.

We want to thank Teen Challenge and Theresa Renner for helping us to make the Teen Center a challenging and exciting program!

People have been wondering if Rockcastle County students are getting more intelligent or if RCHS has been invaded by "munchkins." Neither is totally correct. Due to KERA and the new pre-school program, 3-and-4-year old children are utilizing the food service facilities at the high school.

school. These children are not in contact with the high school students during the school day; however, some of the 10th and 11th grade students like the "togetherness" of the seating arrangement.

Community unites to help REAP

By: Lu Ed Nielsen
Director

If a rich person sees his brother in need, yet closes his heart against his brother, how can he claim that he loves God? My children, our love should not be just words and talk; it must be true love, which shows itself in action.

I John 3:17-18

Love in action. During the past few weeks R.E.A.P. or Rockcastle Emergency Assistance Program, has seen what "love" can do.

The Cub Scouts, (from Mt. Vernon Elementary), and Boy Scouts from Mt. Vernon Elementary and Roundstone finished up a food drive on September 23rd. The boys collected a total of 600 canned goods which will help R.E.A.P. with Thanksgiving baskets. The Cubmaster is John D. Tyler; Darrell Allen, Scoutmaster; Cathy Allen is Asst. Cubmaster; Vicki Tyler is Den Leader. These parents are to be commended for helping teach our future world leaders the value in helping other people. There are some people who feel that we do not have a need to help others in Rockcastle County. The boys were hurt by some remarks that were made to them while collecting food. It is rather difficult to teach children to volunteer, to learn that to give is better than to receive, and to live by the Golden Rule, when adults are telling them that "I don't believe in giving to things like that."

Scout cautions were given to the following Cub Scouts for collecting the most food: John McClure (1st place) and Matthew McClure and Christopher Foster (tie for 2nd). The winners for the Boy Scouts were Robbie Allen and Justin Thomas. They tied for 1st and each collected 64 cans of food. Jerry Bullock is Den Leader for the Bears Den of the Cub Scouts.

Letters have been sent out to the churches that we have a correct mailing address for and a number of Sunday School groups, ladies groups, churches, homemakers groups are responding to the plea for help. I would like to thank the following for their monetary donations/food donations: Maple Grove Baptist Church, Mt. Pleasant Baptist Church (Paula Clark's class), David McCauley, Jr., Dorothy H. Landrum, Mt. Vernon Church of Christ, Doris Nicoley, Lewis D. Nicoley, Ginny Gilpatrick, Allen Gilpatrick, Bill and Sandy Dowell, Henry Cox, Nellie Colson, Shirley Cummins, Our Lady of Mt. Vernon Catholic Church and the Sunshine Sunday School Class of First Christian Church. These have been received and special Thank You's are on the way. I have heard that a number of groups have collections going now and it has been very exciting to see. Special thanks to the Ministerial Association.

This program is so very important to our people from all over the county. All ministries receive help in many ways besides food. During the month of September we served 65 people. Forty-five were children. We served food for 1,345 meals. The reasons for assistance were: 1 unemployed; disabled; 1 illness; 2 separated; 1 food stamps stolen; 1 food stamps insufficient; 3 waiting for food stamp approval and 5 other. Referral to other agencies in the county were two to WIC; 1 Social Insurance; 3 Social Security; 1 Community Action Program; 1 CAP; 7 GED/Literacy; 1 free lunch program; 1 County Extension office; 1 for transportation; 3 American Cancer Society and other—found one a job. Communities served were: Mt. Vernon, Brodhead, Orlando, Livingston, Roundstone.

Anyone with doubts about the need can spend some time with me. You will soon find out what it like to be without utilities, no job, terminal illness, divorced, moved, death in family, no one to talk to, help in getting assistance from other agencies, and whatever else the needs may be.

True Love Shows Itself in Action. Be a Doer. Tax deductible donations can be mailed to P.O. Box 60, Mt. Vernon, KY 40456. You can usually in from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Thursday. Other times by appointment.

Believe it or not, I had a life before the Signal when I worked as a secretary for several years and I was a little shocked that a woman of Ania Hill's reported intelligence and beauty couldn't have handled better what appeared at most to be an awkward situation.

This is not Jack the Ripper we are talking about here, I hope, and, if the situation were as Ms. Hill painted it, it appears that she was not very adept at turning aside unwanted attention. Sexual harassment in the work place is a serious matter but you do not allow a man to say inappropriate things to you, which offend you greatly, and then go out to dinner with him and then follow him to another agency. I am by no means defending Thomas, I was hoping he wouldn't be confirmed because I will never be able to think of the man again without also thinking of the various "revelations" about himself he reportedly made to Ms. Hill which only demeaned him in my eyes.

Please do not take offense ladies, sexual harassment is demeaning and usually without defense, not to mention against the law now, and I suppose that not being a great beauty I was never subjected to it on the scale that Ms. Hill says she was. But, she obviously did not have the same type mother as I did who (being of very strong character) never put up with foolishness from any man and taught her daughters the same trait.

I don't know which one I believe but I do know that the entire situation was handled in the very worst way possible. When Ms. Hill first brought her charges, the judiciary committee should not have brushed them aside thereby setting the stage for the public spectacle to which we were treated.

"Charley"

By: John Hess Parsons
I've lost a friend and it makes me sad

To see him go away.
But, he left me memories that will make me happy
Until my dying day.

Kind words he had for me one time
When he knew I was down.
And when he thought the time was right,
He began to act like a clown.

"Close that door. Were you raised in a barn?"
He'd tell me when I came to his place.

But I would see a twinkle in his eyes
And mischief on his face.

In my back door he came each day,
Smiling and singing off key.
There were four other persons in the office.

But I always hoped he came to see me.

I learned from him by listening to his stories
And I enjoyed every one.
Some I heard seven or eight times
But each time it was great fun.

So, thank you Charley, for being my friend
And for putting a smile on my face.
Hope I'll be seeing you another day
When we are both in a better place.

Watching as Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson signs a proclamation declaring Oct. 13-20 as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Week in Kentucky are, from left: Ida Lyons, R.N., manager of the Department for Health Services AIDS program; Richard Greathouse, M.D., Louisville coroner and pediatrician and consultant to the state AIDS program; Beverly Stewart, R.N., chairperson of the state AIDS Advisory Committee; Gov. Wilkinson; Human Resources Secretary Harry J. Cowherd, M.D.; and Health Commissioner Carlos Hernandez, M.D.

Infant Death Syndrome

A healthy, happy baby dies while asleep. The infant was not abused or neglected. Nor was the child sick. The doctor declared the death healthy and normal at a recent well child check-up.

Tragically, this scenario is played out nearly 100 times in Kentucky every year when a baby dies of Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS), sometimes called the "Crib Death".

Gov. Wallace G. Wilkinson has proclaimed Oct. 13-19 as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Awareness Week in Kentucky.

Valerie Isaac and Phyllis Holbrook, Rockcastle County SIDS counselor, says that SIDS is the sudden and unexpected death of a seemingly well infant whose death remains unexplained even after an autopsy.

"Because doctors can't give the family a reason for the death, their grief is compounded by feelings of helplessness—many times they blame themselves for the death of their child," she said.

"But in SIDS death, no one is to blame because the deaths are not caused by something the family did or did not do," they explained. "Since all of these emotions are extremely difficult to deal with, we offer counseling for families who have experienced a SIDS death."

A network of SIDS counselors is available to help families in all 120 Kentucky counties work through a SIDS crisis. The counselors are usually contacted by emergency room personnel, funeral directors or coroners when an infant dies of SIDS.

The counselor asks the family for an appointment to talk about the death.

"The main thing that we offer is information about SIDS—we want them to know the facts because that seems to help them cope," they said. "We explain that doctors know of no way to prevent SIDS and that the family didn't do anything to cause it. We try to listen and answer their questions."

We also check on older brothers and sisters in the family because sometimes they feel guilt and confusion, especially if no one has explained to them what has happened.

"Many times the brothers and sisters need special attention that grieving families might not be able to provide right away," they stated. "So it helps them to have someone who will listen."

Isaac said that friends and other family members can help parents by simply being there to listen. "It can be a tremendous comfort to parents to have someone to share their thoughts with," she said. "And don't forget that the father is hurting just as much as the mother and needs the same type of understanding."

Library News

By: Geraldine Robbins

There has been a large number of books donated to the library from CAP and our thanks go to them for this generous donation. We were able to give a lot of these away to our patrons and we have others that are to be checked out. Several of these are from Rodale Press and some of the titles are... 1. The Doctor's Book of Home Remedies. 2. The Healing Herbs. 3. Understanding Vitamins. 4. Voices of the Civil War. 5. Battles and Leaders of the Civil War. 6. Everyday Health. 7. Visual Encyclopedia of Natural Healing. 8. Anique Houses; Their Conservation and Restoration. 9. Miller's Pocket Book of Antiquities.

We also had several college students coming in to do research for reports and we're always glad to help them with the books and materials that we have here. If we don't have the information needed, we can usually get it for them. Some are children's books. Usually it takes a few days so it is important for these people to come in as early as possible when they determine what they need for their report.

We also have students from the high school and the elementary schools who come in and we do our best to help them with the books and materials that are needed but like the college students, it is good to start early in order to find what they need.

Again I'd like to remind you about our audio tapes that are available. We have 26 titles. Some are children's books. The others are adult reading. Come in and look over our selection and select some to take home and enjoy.

The long awaited book, Scarlet; a sequel to Gone With the Wind, has finally arrived. We only received one copy so we have a waiting list but if you would like to read it, we will put you on the list and let you know when it is available for you.

Some other new books that are ready to be checked out are—1. The Wild Rose by Doris Mortman.

Sweeping from Budapest sold-world elegance to the vishnyu hills of Manhattan, from the rolling hills of Kentucky to the power centers of Washington, London and Paris, The Wild Rose is the remarkable saga of Premier pianist Katalin Gaspar, a woman leading a double life.

In her finest, most moving novel yet, the author of the New York Times bestsellers Circle, First Born, and Rightfully Mine weaves a powerful story of love and danger, passion and heart-stopping intrigue that spans the decades between Hungary's valiant bid for freedom in 1956 and the final parting of the Iron Curtain.

2. Matian Bob by Elmore Leonard. The setting is Palm beach, Florida, where some places a live ten-foot alligator in the backyard of bigoted, red-neck Judge Bob Briggs known to all as Mr. Briggs. The judge's house, and there's a long line of suspects who love to see Briggs done in.

Trying to pick out from Leonard's assortment of bad guys, sociopaths, and punks the one who's tried to kill Edward becomes a pure entertainment. Only Elmore Leonard, with his ear for the sound and eye for the sight of low-life, could provide such a cast of quirky characters emeshed in such an insidious plot.

3. The Success by Jude Deveraux. This is a magical love story set in late nineteenth century Scotland. Claire Willoughby, an all-American girl, goes to Scotland in search for a titled husband. Once there, she finds handsome Harry Montgomery, the eleventh Duke of MacArran, and quickly becomes engaged. Harry owns his own castle, Bramley Castle, and upon their engagement, takes Claire with him to visit. Claire meets an odd assortment of relatives and discovers, in many unusual twists and turns, some curious branches on Harry's family tree.

Black Hills White Justice by Edward Lazarus... This is the untold story of the longest running legal fight in American history: the Sioux nation's one hundred-year effort to secure restitution for the seizure of the Black Hills of South Dakota. As Edward Lazarus recounts in vivid details, behind the legal claim lie the defining moments of the tribe's history: the astonishing victories of Sioux warriors under Red Cloud, Crazy Horse, and Sitting Bull; the solemn treaty promising the Sioux an isolated homeland including their sacred Black Hills; and the invasion of those hills by Custer's soldiers and the discovery of gold. Lazarus finally recounts the loss of the Hills and everything they represented as the U.S. discarded the treaties and defeated the tribe in battle.

Cumberland River Alliance for the Mentally III Mental Illness Awareness Week Update 1991

We are families and supporters that have joined together to form an Alliance to educate each other and the community in order to erase the stigma of mental illness. We strive to make the community aware of the significance of mental illness, to inform consumers and families of current and alternative treatments, as well as the services available for the mentally ill in our communities.

We must increase our membership if we are going to build a powerful and effective alliance. There are many good things happening, yet we know that we still have a long way to go before persons with serious mental illness consistently receive the quantity and quality of services that they deserve. We, as members and supporters of AMI, are the only ones that can ensure that those improvements are made.

WHAT IS MENTAL ILLNESS?

Mental illness is a term used for a group of disorders causing severe disturbances in thinking, feeling and relating. They result in substantially diminished capacity for coping with the ordinary demands of life. Mental illness can affect persons of any age - children, adolescents, adults, and elderly - and they can occur in any person. Several million people in this country suffer from a serious, long term mental illness. The cost to society is high due to lost productivity and treatment expense. Patients with mental illness occupy more hospital beds than do persons with any other illness.

Mental illness is not the same as mental retardation. The mentally retarded have a diminished intellectual capacity usually present since birth. Those with mental illnesses are usually of normal intelligence although they may have difficulty performing at a normal level due to their illness.

Gilpatrick Awarded 1991 "DSS staff worker of the Year"

Allen Gilpatrick, Rockcastle County's newest Department for Social Services Family Services Worker, has only worked here a year. Obviously, one person can make a difference! On October 4, 1991, Dr. Gilpatrick was presented a 1991 DSS Staff Worker of the Year plaque, representing Rockcastle County at the Cumberland Valley District Conference in Jamestown.

What makes him tick? "A reverence for life and an awesome respect for God and mankind," he says. In his own family life, Allen has experienced spouse abuse, drug addiction, poverty, divorce, remarriage, blended families, handicaps, loss of loved ones and the "launching" of his children. A father to three, step-father to three and former foster parent, he's learned first-hand what makes and breaks families. He values education, striving to attain dreams, "telling it like it is," expanding one's horizons and

"walking you talk."

"Families are the foundation and framework around which a society (or an individual) survives or thrives," he says. "Their demise brings down the whole house of cards, sets the individual adrift. But, given enough strong families, the 'lost' individual can be 'adopted,' cared for and nurtured toward overcoming. DSS helps in that process. (If anyone is interested in becoming a Foster Parent, they should call Caryl Reister at our office: 256-2138!)"

"I've felt that 'chain of strength,' like a strong family, among the staff in our Rockcastle DSS office. Without each one of them, sharing their expertise and demonstrating their caring commitment, I would have had a much harder time 'striving!' The award belongs to each and every one of them, not just me." Congratulations, Allen!

An accident at the intersection at Days Inn in renro Valley Friday afternoon during the Bittersweet Festival completely destroyed the car of Bruce Morris of Manchester. The Morris vehicle collided with the cutes driven by Mt. Vernon policeman John Bradley. Bradley was treated at Rockcastle County Hospital and released. Morris and his passenger were not injured.

ROAMIN' ROCKCASTLE

By HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

People in Passing:

Maurice Stephens, good old Scaffold Cane kinfolk, came out of Piggly Wiggly grocery carrying (not one but) two sacks of groceries. John and I were walking through the parking lot when we met Maurice. This was kinfolk but I have a grudge against him for every time we go over to his house in Berea, he is gone. Maybe Maurice is trying to tell me something!

Someone was holding the door open to Wal-Mart's store for me as I walked up to it and I was very happy to see a person that I like so well.

Barbara Moore Farmer is such a likeable, friendly person, (raised in Climax, Rockcastle County) that I'm always glad to see her and it has been several months since our paths crossed.

"I was reading the Citizen and saw when you had wished me a happy birthday this month (Sept.). It made me so happy to be remembered". She hugged me.

That's why I like this lovely, dark haired, with brown eyes woman, she is so outgoing with her affections (that is if she likes you). Barbara invited me to come to see her but what she doesn't know is that I take folks at their word and go for a walk.

I saw it - picture of a lovely girl in the paper recently and I thought she looked like someone that I knew. Dog gone is the in' kinfolk of mine, Susan Hagan.

Now I didn't get any of the pretty features such as this girl has from that side of the family but I can sure be proud of the girl that did.

Susan is the granddaughter of Bill and Bessie Shouse who live on Scaffold Cane road out of Berea. Bessie tells me that the girl is now married and how nice the wedding had been.

I met kinfolk Edd and Dorothy Mullins of Scaffold Cane when they were in Berea not long ago for their weekly groceries.

Edd resembles his mother so much, Eliza Swinford Mullins who lived on Clear Creek. Edd and Dorothy live near Steve Bullens. Wonder how they are about borrowing coffee from each other.

September was a month of losses for me. I lost one set of cat keys, but two little brown mallard ducks. They flew after many trial flights over this valley. Among several people I depended on, Mary Watkins who was my hair dresser at Hairplus Salon resigned her job there.

My heart went home to make hot biscuits for breakfast for her husband, Jerry, saying she had done the hairdressing work for 27 years. Our Galilee Baptist Church pastor, Brother John Dodson also resigned his work as an evangelist among the churches.

I want to congratulate John and Lola Cox of Three Links in Rockcastle County whose picture was in the Signal. They were celebrating their Golden Wedding Anniversary at their home in October.

Now I tell you 50 years is a long time to be together but with a good marriage such as John and Lola have, nothing has gone wrong.

I send a bouquet of real roses (on this page) to you both, John for keeping Lola so pretty, and Lola showing the love she has for him (I saw the picture).

We went from church one Sunday to Burr on the interchange off I-75 to eat dinner at the Ole Kentucky

Dedicated to LEAP 'People helping People'

By: I. Taylor
V. Anglin
E. Brown

People helping people is what you'll see as you travel through rural Appalachia.

Creative folks working hard making things of pleasure and things we will always treasure.

Farmers in the field cutting tobacco, hay and cane.

Hoping for fair weather, maybe it will rain.

Children laughing while dropping cane sticks in a foam can.

Just in case the young folks need a helping hand.

Friends and neighbors in Appalachia.

People helping people. Is the way it has to be.

The rest of "Poet's Corner" will appear in next week's Signal.

Kitchen which is between Mt. Vernon and Livingston.

The restaurant is run by Sue and Glenn Cromer and is famous for its foods some which are the apple stack cake and dried apple fried pies.

You have to be careful or you could swallow your tongue when you eat either.

I learned Glenn had sold his restaurant, (same name in Berea), and is now there with Sue at the Ole Ky. Kitchen over at Mt. Vernon. I asked what he was doing now.

"Nothing much, picking up cans and digging ginseng," he said.

Now you and I know Glenn Cromer doesn't have to pick up cans.

We were able to get a kodak picture of the couple which will print here later. Sue is the pretty one in it.

Speak early if you want one of Glenn for your spring garden.

We attended a wedding in Paint Lick at the home of Ted and Ina Gabbard, John's sister last week. Their nephew, Fred Gabbard of Texas, and Louise Brock from Mt. Vernon were united in marriage by the Reverend James Blanton of the Calvary Apostolic Lighthouse Church in Mt. Vernon.

It was a lovely occasion with the bride dressed in a pink suit, wearing a corsage of white carnations and of course the groom was handsome. All men in love look handsome.

Now the cake excited me. Ina had baked and decorated it with a bride and groom. The decorations were daisies but I didn't get to eat any. Eugene Johnson tried but found they were not to be eaten.

Everyone had been laughing and talking until it was time for the ceremony and the room got quiet.

Brother Blanton went through the ceremony saying and doing all the things to be done. The couple exchanged rings. Later the preacher later told me that this was his first wedding he had performed.

Afterwards there was the taking of pictures of the couple eating the cake and some of them feeding cake

To the Best Papaw Ever - Bro. Virgil Brock

Often times I think of you
Your laugh, your smile got quiet.
You were someone who Meant so much to ones close by
And meant so much to Him in the sky.
I don't understand why you were called away.

But I do understand to you it was a glorious day.
For on April 15, 1991, you left your home here
And moved to a far greater one up there.

You are GREATLY missed and still loved just the same.
A smile is present when I speak your name.

I know one day I will see you again
For we both share the same Lord that we believe in.

Never a day passes when you aren't in my heart.
For there is where we will never part.

We have parted down here on this earth
But because of Jesus, I have a new birth.

This birth will bring us together once more.
Never to part like we did before.

We will rejoice to see our Savior and gather at His feet.
We together and loved ones to meet
Until I see you in our home above
This poem is a way of returning my love.

For all this poem, I pray someone will see
Just how much Jesus meant to you and means to me.

Thanks Papaw,
I love you and miss you!
Your granddaughter,
Regina

of state government where politics is an obsession -- Clerk Don C. Hulet said he has seen a slight increase in voter registration, but it was "not due to any interest in this (governor's) race."

In Fayette County, Hopkins' home, voter registration drives are in progress at the University of Kentucky and elsewhere in the community. But the numbers are only average for a gubernatorial election year, clerk Don Blevins said.

"So far, this time, there isn't anything to brag about," he said.

to each other while the guests drank pink punch and ate cake.

Brother Blanton and I started talking when he learned I was "Roamin' Rockcastle".

I liked talking to this preacher. Someone brought us some punch and cake but we talked on. I liked hearing what he had to say about religion.

"Don't be surprised if you look up some Sunday morning and see John and I in your church".

The crowd thinned out with rice being thrown - John and Ted Johnson hoped some rice would fall on them but they've been "hitched" too long.

The couple will make their home in Mt. Vernon.

John has been doing some odd jobs for Sue Abney. She sent me some red and green tomatoes raised in her flower beds. I'll fry the green ones.

Sue's daughter, (and one of my readers in New York) Carol Hayes calls her mother about every week. Sue said, Carol is married to Allan Hayes, a retired Naval Commander.

Wonder if they would like to have one of my plurgamatics that I've been giving away, but may make Carol so homesick for Kentucky that down she will come.

Still next week.
Happiness is something that's never far away --

It's as close as the things we do and say.

Happy 17th Birthday, Jeff Mom, Dad, Nadine & Teresa Patricia, Penny & Uncle Danny

Danny and Lisa Bustle are proud to announce the birth of their first child, a son, Jacob Logan, born August 30, 1991 at Humana Hospital Lake Cumberland. He weighed 6 lbs., 8 ozs. and was 19 inches long. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Estil Kirby of Mt. Vernon and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Coffey, also of Mt. Vernon.

Adrienne Beth Cromer, daughter of Ricky and Patty Cromer, celebrated her 2nd birthday Friday, Oct. 11 with a party at her home. Beth would like to thank all her family and friends for all the nice gifts she received. Beth is the granddaughter of Mac and Hilda Henson, Lois and Olan Burton, Geneva Cromer, all of Brodhead and the late Alvey Cromer.

Instrument builder is artist-in-residence

Instrument builder, David Musser, will be artist-in-residence in the Rockcastle County Elementary Schools for 20 days during the first semester and two weeks during the second semester.

The residency is jointly funded by the Kentucky Arts Council and the local school board with "Forward in the Fifth" providing funds for the purchase of scaled down versions of a guitar and an Appalachian Dulcimer.

Musser's children's guitar is a small, four-stringed, open-tuned guitar which allows young students to perform and understand what they intuitively want to accomplish with their music.

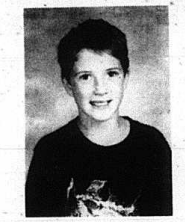

As the children gain confidence, other instruments are added to the ensemble - Appalachian dulcimer, autoharp, hammer dulcimer, bowed psalteries, fiddle, and a half-size cello which is used like a bass.

Students from his previous residencies have performed in many civic, church, and college functions around Kentucky and have appeared on five KET programs.

"Kentucky has a wonderfully rich musical heritage," Musser says, "I want each student actively involved in the music making process. The future of our traditional music is in the hands of our children."

Births and Birthdays

William Henry Bryant, Jr. celebrated his 11th birthday October 5 with a party. He says thanks to his brother, sisters, family and friends for the nice cards and gifts. William is the son of William Henry and Margaret Bryant of Brodhead.

Local 4-Hers celebrate 4-H Week

By Laura Mize

The four leaf clover has symbolized luck around the world for many years. Today, the clover continues to represent good fortune as it signifies 4-H.

Last week, members throughout the US celebrated National 4-H week, and the festivities included Rockcastle County.

To celebrate 4-H locally, county 4-H agent, John McQueary, scheduled activities for the members, including a recognition banquet held on Oct. 8, and a dance the following evening.

4-H is a world-wide organization for students ages 9-19 which promotes learning by doing. From speech presentations to running business meetings, the members are challenged with various contests and events.

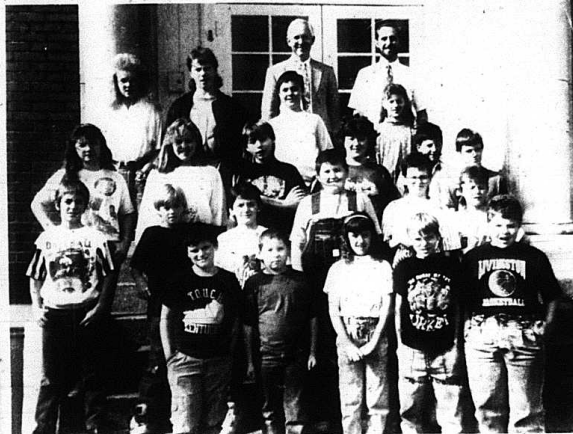

The events include poster contests, talk meets, variety shows, demonstration contests, fashion revues, fair exhibits, dairy quiz bowl, 4-H camp, dairy judging, vegetable judging, land judging and project groups.

4-H is offered in all Rockcastle elementary schools and the meetings are held once each month with the help of a volunteer teacher. All meetings are held in an orderly, professional manner as the elected student officials lead the group by saying the Pledge of Allegiance, calling roll, taking minutes, discussing old and new business, etc.

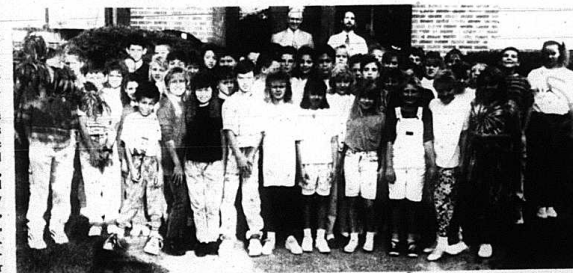

4-H groups elect a president, vice-president, secretary, activity leader and pledge leader. Each fulfills their duties which range from the president's presiding over the meeting, announcing meetings, and having everyone prepared, to the secretary's duties of taking minutes and calling roll.

In addition to the roles of the president and secretary, the vice president makes assignments, creates programs for each meeting and assists the president, whereas the activity leader prepares games or songs for the meetings.

4-H promotes the desire for success among America's youth as its motto is "To Make The Best Better."

Rockets slip away with 14-10 win over Corbin; possibly biggest win since school founded

Corbin hung their heads in disbelief as Rockcastle players, fans and parents flooded their field to celebrate, what most would consider, the biggest win ever by a Rockcastle County High School football team.

What the Rockets accomplished last Friday night, with their 14-10 victory over the Corbin Redhounds, is what most teams at RCHS have been trying to do for almost twenty years, defeat a team considered a powerhouse (top team on the schedule) in the state and do it on the road.

"Everybody in the state looks at Corbin as a powerhouse in football, so for us to go into their place and beat them, it was probably the biggest win we've had at this school," said Rockets head coach Tom Larkey earlier this week.

The Rockets did the inevitable in front of an estimated 800 Rockcastle fans, not to mention a capacity Corbin crowd.

The match up started, played and ended with no disappointment as to how the game was anticipated from the beginning of the season. The message relayed from the field of play was one of two excellent football teams striving to be better than the other.

In fact, no real threat by either team occurred during the first quarter. Both the Rockcastle and Corbin defenses were superb denying any offensive threats.

Yet, Corbin did post the only points in the first half by successfully connecting on a field goal for a mere 3-0 lead at intermission.

However, Corbin would get only one touchdown and extra point throughout the second half while the Rockets connected for two each.

"Our team doesn't know when to give up, they refuse to quit, that's what I like about them," Larkey

Sophomore Mikhael Shaffer deflects a pass in Friday night's football game at Corbin. The Rockets beat the Redhounds 14-10 for their second district win.

Larkey's comment was based on a nerve bending finish when they had to dig deep to fight off a battling Redhound team. It appeared the Rockets had clinched the win then they had possession of the ball with just over a minute remaining in the game. But a last minute fumble gave Corbin the football and, with three consecutive pass completions, a chance to win.

But on the last play of the game, Corbin's attempted pass into the end zone was deflected by Rockets' defensive back Jason Fletcher at the buzzer.

"This was the first time we'd played Corbin, so maybe that helped us take the attitude that we could beat them," said Larkey.

Larkey also said that his players were in the right frame of mind all week before the game and that they really did believe they could win.

Statistically, the Rockets did what they do best and rushed 244 yards out of 47 attempts, compared to Corbin who had 121 yards out of 32 attempts.

Corbin's 75 yards from the air did good field position while never giving us good field position," Larkey said.

The Rockets began the second half receiving the ball on their 26 yard line. It took the Rockets' backfield of J.D. Harris, Jonathon Saylor and William Bullens 14 plays with short but positive gains from the ground to get the ball to Corbin's two yard line. Saylor had the honor of getting the two yard run for the touchdown to put Rockcastle's first points on the board. Curtis Cotton's kick afterwards was good and the Rockets led 7-3 for the first time in the game.

Again, Corbin rallied late in the third quarter and, after receiving the ball on their 49 yard line, marched 47 yards to the Rockets four yard line for another first and goal situation. Corbin was successful with the touchdown and extra point to regain the lead, 10-7.

Rockets' defensive coordinator Tony Saylor commended the Rockets' defense on their performance against Corbin. And although the Rockets had an exceptional 51 tackles on the night with Bobby Coffey leading all with 11, Saylor said, "Our defensive stats do not display our defensive performance on the night."

"Coffey had one of the best defensive games a player can have and

Head Coach Tom Larkey gives instructions to quarterback Scott Parkey during Friday night's game at Corbin. Parkey completed two of four passes for 18 yards on the night.

Clark Mullins had his best game of the year," Larkey added.

The Rockets' defense expelled throughout the fourth quarter forcing an exchange of possessions until their offense had an opportunity to capitalize.

Following a Corbin punt, the Rockets received the ball on their 27 yard line. A first down run by Saylor combined with a facemasking penalty against Corbin quickly moved the Rockets to Corbin's 45 yard line.

Saylor and Harris combined running skills to pick up the next 42 yards and give the Rockets their second first and goal situation on the night. Saylor again got the call and rolled in from the three yard line for the final touchdown of the game.

However, Cotton's kick afterwards proved to be the key point of the game. It forced Corbin to have to get a touchdown instead of a field goal to stay in the game.

"It was the second key play of the game," said Larkey, "instead of having to get a field goal to tie the game, Corbin had to get a touchdown to win the game."

However, the Rockets seemed to have the game clinched when Parkey intercepted a pass on Corbin's 30 yard line during Corbin's next possession. But, yet, just two plays later, Corbin retrieved the ball on a Parkey fumble on their own 40 yard line with just under a minute remaining in the game.

best the Rockets' mere 18 yards. In fact the passing game for the Rockets set up Corbin's first score.

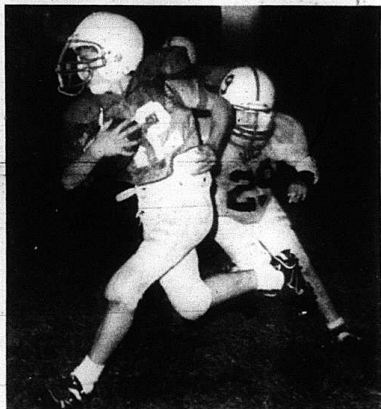

After countless attempts by both teams to move the ball down the field in the first quarter, the Rockets committed the first mistake.

In the closing seconds of the first quarter, Rockets' quarterback Scott Parkey's pass attempt to tight end William Hellard was picked off by a Corbin defender on Corbin's 39 yard line and returned to the Rockets' 27 yard line before being tackled by lineman Mike Durham.

"Durham catching this man and tackling him was a key play in the game," said Larkey, "the end result was Corbin only getting three points instead of a touchdown," he added.

It took Corbin eight plays thereafter to reach the Rockets' four yard line and set up a first and goal situation. But, despite the situation, the Rockets enforced their traditional goal line stand and forced Corbin to take a three point lead into the half instead of seven.

"Rockets beat Corbin"

Corbin quickly connected with three consecutive passes and found themselves on the Rockets 10 yard line with only four seconds remaining in the game.

With the game on the line in a win or lose situation, Corbin released their final pass and play of the game toward the middle of the end zone. But as the horn blew, a white shirt worn by Jason Fletcher deflected the ball and with it, possibly the biggest win the Rockets have ever encountered.

"It was the final key play of the game," said Larkey.

"We're on a very big high right now," said Larkey. "I can't stop the kids from celebrating what they've done. But we've got a mature group of players who realize there are even bigger games ahead of us if we want to make the playoffs."

The Rockets will take to the road again this Friday night and face Wayne County at 8:00 p.m.

Muzzle-loading deer season Oct. 19-20

The first segment of the 1991-92 Kentucky muzzle-loading season for deer is Oct. 19-20. Hunters required to possess a hunting license must also purchase a deer permit and wear hunter orange on the head, chest and back during the muzzle-loading seasons. Bowhunters hunting Oct. 19-20 must also wear hunter orange on those days. Deer hunters are reminded that squirrel hunters, who are not required to wear hunter orange, will also be in the woods during this period. Always positively identify deer, and what lies beyond the animal, before shooting.

This year, mandatory hunter education is required for hunters born on or after Jan. 1, 1975 before going hunting. Hunters required to have a hunting license may purchase a license before completing the course, but must have the orange, course completion card in possession while in the field. WHAT'S THE BEST WAY TO GET THE JOB DONE?

That's the "bottom-line" question that launched 45,000 cooperatives in the United States over the past 250-plus years.

And the answer -- cooperatives that meet people's needs for all kinds of goods and services. For example, credit unions, electric and telephone service, housing, farm marketing and farm supply, health and day care, news services, insurance and anything else people need that can be provided efficiently and economically.

Nearly half the nation's population relies on cooperatives for goods and services of one kind or another. Co-ops are locally owned and operated. And, they help their communities grow and thrive.

So check out the cooperatives in your neighborhood. No matter where you live -- city, town, suburbs, farm -- there might be a co-op for you too.
