SENIOR ENJOY TRIP TO STEARNS. - Several seniors, along with staff from the Mt. Vernon Senior Citizens Center recently visited Stearns, Kentucky and took the scenic train ride at the South Fork Mining Camp. The group enjoyed trail walks, a picnic lunch at the historic mining camp and purchased souvenirs at the gift shop. Those who went on the trip were, front row, from left: Pearl Newton, Audrey Bishop, Vivian Owens, Mary Wallace and Clara Mae Jones. Middle row: Helen Taylor, Spicy Carter, Cuma Abney, Juanita Scott, Sallie Mullins and Hazel Stemp. Back row: Jack Laker, Harold Jones, Geneva Bradford, Christine Brown, Ruby Thompson, Ruth Mink, Albert Lunford, Lou Ed Nelson and Barbara Adams (not shown).

Harper - Bussell

Donna Denice Harper and Marty Bussell were united in marriage on Oct. 18, 1991 at Union Chapel Pentecostal Church by Bro. Davell Rogan of Monticello. Mr. Bussell is the son of Jim and Barbara Bussell of Brothead and Donna is the daughter of Bernice Beasley of Mt. Vernon and the late Phillip Harper.

Ladies Aid Missionary Society

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins, reporter

Betty Machal's home in Mt. Vernon was the meeting place of this ladies group of Brothead, Nov. 9, at 7:30 p.m.

Ella Mae Martin, the president, asked Nellie Colson to give the lesson first. The lesson was on "A Testimony and a Witness."

In Psalm 62:11-12, God speaks. In Psalm 40:1-2, God rescues; Psalm 42:8 says God reassures; Psalm 46:1 tells us God protects; in Psalm 103:2-3 God heals; and in John 15:12 we learn that God uses human love.

Nellie read a story to prove that all these scriptures could come to pass. Prayer ended this excellent lesson.

The group enjoyed hearing Betty Machal read a letter from the missionaries we help to support -- Mike and Brenda Disken.

Lu Ed Nielson sent us a thank-you letter for the donation to REAP.

At Tuesday's meeting

Board hears concerns from Livingston area

By: Laura Mize Approximately 45 people attended Tuesday night's school board meeting requesting their complaints be heard and their questions answered. Alison Reynolds, of Brodhead, pleaded with the board to reconsider any plans for consolidation of schools. The question was posed to the board, "When the decision would be made to close Livingston Elementary..."

between the board and the residents, stating that the Signal did not present the facts as they were hearing them there at the meeting. The Signal representative informed the people of where the information concerning the facility plan, the public hearing, and the Livingston PTA meeting was obtained.

The crowd seemed to leave the meeting content with the board's announcement to take no action on Livingston Elementary until the middle school is in effect. Bob Spradlin, a representative of WKXO radio from Berea, attended Tuesday's school board meeting to express his discontent with a contract between Rockcastle County Schools and WRVK radio.

A contract had formerly been devised that allows stations other than WRVK to broadcast school events, such as football games, only with permission from WRVK. WKXO previously broadcast a game without Larry Burdette's (WRVK) permission, however they were unaware of such a contract at the time.

Spradlin requested that the board disregard the contract and grant any station the privilege of broadcasting Rockcastle County School events. Burdette stated that his business suffered a $1,000 loss as a result of WKXO's broadcast and sale of advertisements to local businesses. He had no objection to having other stations broadcast Rockcastle County games as long as they were in the interest of the opposition, not the Rockets.

Spradlin stated that the contract specifies live coverage, and that WRVK is not fulfilling the agreement as Burdette broadcasts the game on Saturday. Burdette replied by saying that

A proclamation observing Nov. 19 as Community Education Day in Mt. Vernon was signed this week by Mayor Gary R. Cromer. It calls on citizens to support the Kentucky Literacy Commission and to provide opportunities for all to lead better and more productive lives. Left to right seated are Claudia Dineen, Chapter 1 supervisor; the mayor; Paula Woodman, county literacy coordinator; Standing are Larry B. Hammond, director of student services in the school system and Shelby B. Reynolds, instructional supervisor.

Open House for Literacy

The inability to vote, read road signs, fill out job applications, and complete insurance forms all stem from a lack of reading and writing skills. One in every five Rockcastle Countyans is illiterate.

Water problem is Mt. Vernon's

Representatives from Mt. Vernon and Brodhead attended the Brodhead City Council meeting to inform them that the problem with the water has been determined.

The city was not receiving more water than it was paying for. In fact, the City of Brodhead was paying for more water than they were receiving. The representatives explained that the new master meter was inaccurately reading the amount of water that was coming from Mt. Vernon to Brodhead. The default was fixed by installing new gears into the meter.

The council also voted to match any donations given to the city for the purchase of Christmas decorations.

Literacy is an important aspect of everyday life, and is therefore important to our community's well-being and prosperity.

Christmas parade

The Rockcastle County Christmas Parade, organized by the Rockcastle Region Street Rodders, will be December 14th at 1 p.m. The theme of the parade is a Story Book Christmas and everyone is invited to attend.

The Rodders are proud to announce that the Rockcastle County football coaching staff and the Rockcastle County Rockets are the grand marshals for the parade.

Postal service tells fiscal court numbering needed locally

By: Ray McClure

The Postal Service notified the Rockcastle Fiscal Court last Wednesday that the Postal Service is available to number buildings in the county, if the court approves. A representative, Wayne Wylie, of the Lexington Sectional Center told the court the service is working toward automation and street names and numbers are needed. He added that it must be a joint venture with the court.

Wylie said the cost to the county would be no more than between $350 and $500 depending on the amount for the postage it took to notify the residents.

He added there would be no more rural routes and the number assigned would be forever. He told the court the numbering does not include Livingston, Brodhead and Mt. Vernon unless they want it.

The court decided to delay a decision until the magistrates could talk with residents to see how they reacted to the project.

If approved, the numbering could begin about May. Palaski County is now being numbered.

A group seeking a Little League sports complex in the county asked the court for assistance in obtaining a state grant to help with construction. Dr. John Parsons told the court the

Hensley guilty; wife and co-defendant acquitted

A federal court jury has convicted a Rockcastle County man of marijuana charges, but the man's wife and another defendant were acquitted.

Jack Doug Hensley, 27, of Mt. Vernon in Rockcastle County, was convicted Wednesday of conspiracy to possess marijuana with the intent to distribute and of possessing marijuana with the intent to distribute. He was acquitted of a third charge, using or carrying a firearm during a drug trafficking offense.

Hensley's wife, Betty Hensley, 28, was acquitted by U.S. District Judge Karl S. Forester.

A third defendant, Stiering Hoskins Jr., 31, of Orlando, was acquitted by the jury of the same three counts contained in the indictment against the Hensleys.

Jack Hensley faces a maximum sentence of 40 years and a $2 million fine, according to Assistant U.S. Attorney David Marye, who prosecuted the case. Sentencing will be Jan. 10.

Museum to keep track of Kentucky music

(Reprinted from Lexington Herald-Leader)

Renfro Valley -- From William Shakespeare Hays, a post-Civil War songwriter, to today's mother-daughter duo The Judds, Kentucky is said to have contributed more stars to country music than any state except Texas.

But despite the influence and success of these native singers, songwriters, musicians, broadcasters and others, there has never been a place in Kentucky to document and keep track of their contributions.

If a group of southeastern Kentuckians has its way, however, there will soon be such a place in Rockcastle County.

The Kentucky Music Museum and Hall of Honor is planning to open in the summer of 1993 near the site where John Lair's barn-dance programs were nationally broadcast.

Not only has Renfro Valley been a center for country music for a long time, (but) the Lair family was the first to put together a group to talk about a museum and to donate some land for it, said Loyd Jones of Berea College's Appalachian Center. Jones is director of the museum.

A non-profit group headed by one of John Lair's daughters, Ann Lair Henderson, is nearing its goal of raising $3.2 million to build the museum in Renfro Valley, which is 50 miles south of Lexington off U.S. 25. The land drive began in May and has intensified this fall.

Gov. Wallace Wilkinson has committed $2 million in state money to the project. About $250,000 remains to be raised to ensure that ground for the museum can be broken by spring. Though the museum will primarily document and preserve the music native to Kentucky, it will also celebrate the accomplishments of past and present Kentuckians successful in any music form, not just country or bluegrass.

"Our original studies made us realize that we need to honor Kentuckians like Rosemary Clooney, Lionel Hampton and all the others from the state who have achieved distinction in music," said Glenn Westbrook, who is working for the museum on behalf of the Oberlin-Land Valley Area Development District.

The museum will have a hall of fame to salute Kentuckians who have been successful in specific areas of music and a smaller hall of fame made up of distinguished Kentuckians in music. Members of both will be selected by the board and a committee of entertainers.

Westbrook, who is primarily involved in raising money, said major contributors included the Rockcastle County Tourist Commission, which has pledged $100,000, and the Mt. Vernon City Council, which has pledged $30,000. Entertainers, rural electric cooperatives and various businesses have been asked to take part.

Others on the museum board include first lady Martha Wilkinson; singer John Conlee; state legislators Danny Ford, Pete Worthington and Raymond Overstreet; Ralph Gabbard, president of Renfro Valley Folks, Inc. and president and general manager of Lexington TV station WKYT; Pee Wee King, a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame; folk singer Jean Ritchie; Barbara Lair Smith, another of John Lair's daughters; and Somerset contractor D.C. Trimble.

Renfro Valley, off Interstate 75, first began attracting public attention in the late 1930s.

John Lair was a native of Renfro Valley who moved to Chicago and became a newspaperman. He wrote about music. Concerned then that the "cowboy sound" was having too much influence on country music radio shows, Lair came up with the idea of developing a radio program that would feature the kind of talent he remembered from his youth.

Lair persuaded Red Foley, a Renfro Valley native and well-known musician, and Foley's brother, Cotton, to invest with him in more than 100 acres of Rockcastle County land where a music barn and campground would be built.

Lair's idea corresponded to the plans at the time of Cincinnati radio station WLW to increase its power to an unheard-of 500,000 watts. In the days before recordings were as popular as they are now, radio was the main way for performers to reach an audience. WLW was already broadcasting more than a dozen hours of country programs each week.

Lair, approached by WLW, helped bring in country musicians from rival WLS in Chicago and then put together his own program.

Lair's "Renfro Valley Barn Dance" went on the air on WLW in October 1937 -- but not from Renfro Valley because the site wasn't ready. The show was first done at Music Hall in Cincinnati. Then it was done from Memorial Auditorium in Dayton, Ohio.

When the show finally went on the air live from Renfro Valley in November 1939, Lair offered to prove that the show originated in a real barn by sending a free photograph of it to anyone who wrote to ask for one. More than 250,000 people sent post cards in response.

The show continued as a national broadcast for more than 15 years and featured such musicians as Foley, Lily May Ledford and the Coon Creek Girls, Homer and John, guitarist Jerry Byrd, Tex Ritter, Ernest Tubb, country gospel singer Molly O'Day and virtually every well-known country music performer of the era.

"It was a very exciting time," said Ann Lair Henderson. "There were enough shows being produced that the entertainers had full-time employment. It was a real community, and that idea came across on the programs."

Lair operated Renfro Valley until his death, when Henderson assumed operations.

In 1989, the area's potential as a major tourist attraction received a multimillion-dollar shot in the arm when Renfro Valley Folks Inc., a Lexington-based partnership, bought most of the Lair land from his estate and began major development there.

Since then, stores and shops have opened, tourism has increased and a new $1.8 million barn for concerts has been opened. Plans call for a theme park.

The Lair family still owns 12 acres of the original Lair homestead, and it is on 2 acres of this land that the museum is to be built.

Planned for the spring is a public campaign for museum operating money, along with a benefit concert by Kentucky musicians.

Jean Ritchie is the lone representative of working folk musicians on the museum's board.

"Between Loyd Jones and myself, I hope we don't let folk music get lost and that we have some sort of say in the thing," she said.

"A lot of people start into modern country music without a clue as to its roots, and that's another one of our functions: to try and educate people along those lines."

Country Music Hall of Fame member Pee Wee King, writer of the "Tennessee Waltz" and other songs, said he decided to get involved in the museum plans because he remembered John Lair's influence.

"I know that John had aspirations like this," said King, who now lives in Louisville. "Renfro Valley was something to be proud of in Kentucky."

For additional information about the museum, details on making a contribution or other aspects, call Westbrook at (606) 256-2775.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,

There is no way in which to individually thank the voters of your county for the support I received in my campaign for Attorney General and I would therefore appreciate your publishing this letter of gratitude to all the voters of Rockcastle County. This was one of twenty-four counties in which I received the majority of votes and your confidence in me will always be remembered and hopefully some day I will be able to serve you as well as though it may not be in an elected office.

I have just completed the ten hardest working months of my life and I have no regrets for I have met wonderful people across the Commonwealth. We Kentuckians always be ready to serve in order to improve our community in any way that we can. We should all join together to continue our encouragement for improved government services and forget the partisan battle that was just completed. The true battle is over which candidate wins but whether our collective families across Kentucky win. This can be accomplished if we all continue doing that which is right and accept no losses from any elected official. I will always do my best to improve the lives of Kentuckians and I encourage each of you to do the same.

With kind regards, I remain,
Sincerely yours,
Tom Handy

Blue Ridge residents hall of Berea College would like your help in publicizing their Dance For Hunger.

This event is essentially an effort to refill the food bank at St. Clair's Catholic Church in Berea. St. Clair's normally distributes food baskets at Thanksgiving as well as any other time of need. Unfortunately this year their food bank is empty.

Our Dance For Hunger will be on November 22. It will begin at 9 p.m. end at 1 a.m. It will be held at the Russell Action Folk Center on Jefferson Street in Berea, straight across from the park.

Admission will be two non-perishable food items or two dollars. Extra donations of food would be nice.

This dance should have a large variety of music.

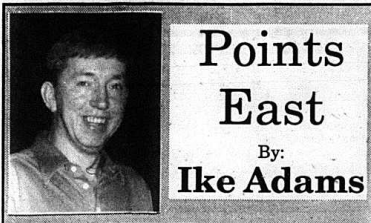

Thank you for your time,

Dear Editor,

I think most Christians believe that a one world church and one world government is eminent. It may be closer than we think. I begin with a quote from Global Forum News release. And I quote, "We are entering an era of global citizenship in which we will take a stand for human life everywhere. This new consciousness transcends all barriers of race and religion, ideology and nationality. . . This new consciousness must draw upon all the achievements of the human spirit on the universal principles which are the bedrock of all religions, on the great secular philosophies and on the astounding insights of science. . . unquote.

The New Age movement is sweeping the world and humanism has invaded the church. I can't believe what I'm hearing from some of the so called Christian leaders of our day. Another quote from our self-esteemed Rev. Robert Schuller, (Quote)

"I don't think anything has been done in the name of Christ and under the banner of Christianity that has proven more destructive to human personality and, hence, counterproductive to the evangelism enterprise than the often crude, uncouth, and unchristian strategy of attempting to make people aware of their lost and sinful condition."
"The classical interpretation of this teaching of Christ on bearing our cross desperately needs reformation. . . The cross Christ calls us to bear will be offered as a dream. . . an inspiring idea. . . that helps self-esteem-improv-

Points East By: Ike Adams

I voted. I had virtually sworn that I wouldn't because I didn't want it on my conscience that I had helped elect either of the candidates for Governor.

Loretta pinned me down late on Election Day. "Who would you vote for if you had to go to the polls?" she wanted to know. "Larry Hopkins!" I replied, "but I'm not so sure about him either." (It is, I believe, common knowledge that I think Brer Horse is a bigger crook than Wallace Wilkinson ever thought about being and that Hell would freeze over hard enough to skate on before I'd vote for him.)

"So why don't you go out and vote for Hopkins?" my beloved wanted to know. "You don't have to worry about him getting elected and at least you can go on record that you did, in fact, vote against Jones."

"You're a genius baby!" I replied and off I took to the Fire Department to register my disgust.

And I'm glad that I did, because I managed to vote for a person running for statewide office who actually got elected this time. I don't believe I've ever done that before.

I voted for Paul Patton because he's from Pike County. Back in the late seventies I had the opportunity to do some business with Mr. Patton and he treated me fairly. He didn't want to know who I was kin to or how I had recently voted. He evaluated my proposal in terms of the way it got to the bottom line and he didn't try to figure any political shenanigans into it. I remember coming back to Berea with rave reviews of this maverick County Judge because he had evaluated something strictly on its business merits. It's not something that happens much in Eastern Kentucky courthouses. . . .

So when I got home, Loretta wants to know how I voted in the Governor's race cause she just likes to make me cuss every once in awhile and we had a house full of company to boot.

People checking out our new digs to see if we need any help moving now that we have everything hauled from one place and sort of dumped in the other. When we get company, especially polite folks, Loretta likes to show them how to make me cuss. It's her favorite stupid pet trick.

But in my calmest voice I told her that I had voted for Paul Patton for Governor. One of the neighbors then informed me that he was running for Lieutenant Governor.

"I know that. But I voted for him for Governor, I said."

"Oh you wrote him in."

"Nope. I just pulled the trigger beside his name. But I'll bet you a hundred dollars folks he's governor before the next election," I replied.

"You think Jones is gonna die or get shot or something!!?" they wanted to know. "Nope. I think he's gonna be in jail keeping company with some sheriffs from up in the mountains before 1993 ends," I explained.

The next four years of Kentucky politics should be the most interesting, and disgusting at the same time, in any of our lifetimes. Bob Gable and the Republican hierarchy are going to go after Brereton Jones' financial improprieties like ducks after fat June bugs. And when they get done, the guv is gonna be in deep trouble.

Mark my words and mark them well. State Government in Kentucky is now set up and primed to be a soap opera that will make anything on television seem melodramatic by comparison. It is inevitable.

While the Republicans are investigating and trying to dig up enough evidence for the grand jury, look for Brer Horse to solicit bookies of those $100,000 "gifts" from anybody doing business with the state to pay off his old Lieutenant's race. Those are the first headlines you'll read. Then look for extra special legislation for the horses' sake. How much do you want to bet that an XKE Jaguar isn't on a list of farm implements proposed for tax exempt status in the next legislature?

Look for Jones to wrap around on school reform as he tries to dig up some grass roots support from the old line patronage boys who have prostituted our school systems for the last century and a half. And then look for headlines that a grand jury has indicted him on felony charges of corruption and fiscal misdealings that will make Richard Nixon look like a

"POINTS EAST" (Cont. From A2)

I'm not accusing the spineless wonder of anything. I'm just anticipating and I'm trying to mark my calendar so that I won't be terribly surprised if certain events begin to unfold.

It's also interesting to me that Francis Jones Mills was re-elected. Talk about proof that Kentuckians love to have crooks in office. She's even been elected to keep an eye on our money. Sort of like having a chicken hawk stand guard at the hatchery, don't you think?

It's no surprise to me that Larry Hopkins lost the race. Gatewood Galbraith said he self-destructed. I have a different theory.

It's fairly common knowledge that Brer is a rather knowledgeable man when it comes to equine diseases. A lot of people will tell you that he had the state veterinarian fired when that worthy failed to cover up a deadly horse disease on one Brer's farm.

And it's perfectly obvious to me that Hopkins' campaign died of hoofin-mouth disease. Everytime Larry got in front of a television camera, there he was, chewing on either one or both feet at the same time. Self destruct my eye. The Jones people simply poured a little tainted horse serum in his coffee and nature took over.

But if you're a Republican, don't be worrying so much just yet. Chances are that you are going to have a lot of fun out of this administration. The last laugh as they say.

In the meantime, what's this we hear about relocating the State Capitol? It seems that one group is mounting an effort to move it to Eddyville. The state already owns a building there that would be perfectly suited for the bunch we've just elected. Being hospitable folks and all that, it's important to us that they feel right at home.

enriched persons to discover their self worth... possibility thinking is the possible mechanism of the cross!

When I first saw a plaque in someone's office declaring the gospel of self-esteem, I was stunned. The beginning statement was: "I am me. I am all that I am, I owe it all to myself." I thought about a Publican and a Pharisee who went into the temple to pray. The Pharisee told God what a fine fellow he was; that he paid tithes and fasted twice a week etc. After the poor Publican heard the Pharisee's self-righteous, self-exalting speech; he just smacked himself on the chest and said, "God be merciful to me a sinner." He was justified rather than the other because he had a revelation from God that he was not okay and all that he was, was lost.

Our humanity sinks in the sight of a Holy God. All Christians are engaged in a lifetime battle; committed to the destruction of the flesh and self, until their human nature is crucified, mortified, dead and buried, forgetting where it's buried; so we can't go back and dig it up. Until they can say it's not that live any longer, but it's Christ in me; realizing that all their self-esteem, self-image and self-wrath wasn't worth anything.

I guess we've all been told or heard young people being told, "get a good education; learn all you can and make something out of yourself." But the truth is anything we might possibly make out of ourselves wouldn't be worth a dime anyway. Except the Lord build the house; they labor in vain that build it. The humanist can preach self-esteem and self-worth until the elements are on fire, but they cannot improve themselves. Man has no redeeming qualities, except for the atoning blood of Jesus Christ. He is worthless, hopeless and helplessly lost.

Some people may think the New Age Movement is some religious cult far removed from Rockcastle County, think again. The public school system together with the social services are promoting their self-esteem and other man-exalting philosophies with a religious fervor. Our children are being programmed with humanistic principles every day.

I think these people believe that Christian are poor pitiful creatures, badly in need of education and enlightenment, who view themselves as being no more than worms in the dust.

They couldn't be more wrong. The saints are going to judge the world. They are going to rule and reign as kings and priests. They are heirs and joint-heirs with Jesus Christ, (present tense), and He has all power in Heaven and earth. They share that power. That's high esteem; but it is not self-esteem. All that we are, we owe it all to Him.

Specialized care for women.

The pain is very real.

One of the most common and distressing problems faced by almost all women is dysmenorrhea, or pain associated with the menstrual period. Sometimes, the pain is so severe that it interferes with normal activities.

At the Women's Health Care Center, we believe dysmenorrhea is a very real problem with a definite cause that deserves careful attention and appropriate treatment.

If you'd like more information about the treatment of this common, yet often-ignored problem, please call the Women's Health Care Center. We're committed to providing care that meets the needs of the whole person.

ROAMIN' ROCKCASTLE

By HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

Halloween is over but we still feel the disappointment of having someone steal a nice pumpkin and a large cushion from our front porch. They were given to John by our neighbor, Arthur Davidson and I looked forward to having a jack-O-lantern on our porch with cut out features and a light showing through.

John said, "It is just as well for folks passing would think it was you out there!"

Our ducks are all gone and I miss feeding them on the pond near our yard. The two little brown mallards ducks took off flying one morning but they stopped off at Hyster's Lake to be with some others and never returned.

An animal attacked the last white duck (out of the four I raised). She was bloody but unbowed, and joined the others.

Garnet Short thinks we have killed them all to eat. Eat my family! I'd never do that. Dessie Sels, a neighbor, suggested we visit around here and see who's cooking in a kettle on the stove. I'm wondering if I should start at her and Bluford's house first as they live close.

Fall brings to the hills the last sweet fruit of the season, the persimmon. Someone said they aren't much as a tree in summer but oh, boy, they come out in red and yellow leaves in the fall dangling their round, orange colored fruit that tastes like candy, unless you bite into one not quite ripe. It will give your mouth a pucker which makes folks think you are ready for a kiss!

George Bryant deals in second hand furniture. We sold our refrigerator to him because I wanted to change the color in my kitchen.

George came down and brought his attractive wife, Christine, who is a very friendly person.

I asked George, "What did you tell such a pretty woman to get her to marry you?"

George hitched up his pants as he was preparing to load the refrigerator and said, "Well, she wanted a man who came from Cartersville and I was the only one left down there that she could get," he said and I didn't believe that.

I hear that Rocky Wiser, who lived and worked at Reppers Funeral Home in Berea last year, then made a home to greener pastures, was back in Berea to visit his friend, and former employer, Lonnie Repper.

Rocky was one of the nicest persons that I've met.

He wrote such a nice letter to this paper in Reader's Opinion, about how this column had helped him adjust to living in this neck of the woods, while I was off the job, that made me leave Clear Creek's banks and got me going again.

I'm wondering if he is growing that beard again to keep from washing his face or buying razor blades (as I accused him one winter here).

Speaking of beards, we've had some doozies of ones around.

Our mailman, John Gilbert bears anyone that I've seen. I had just gone to the mailbox when he shot around the corner and pulled up to where I could see his face.

I tell you his wife is a brave person to look at that bearded face. I wouldn't bake hot biscuits for his breakfast until he took it off if I were Mrs. Gilbert, not meaning to start family trouble. When I meddled in their marriage before, about the beard John threatened to leave all the junk papers in our mail box so I had to keep quiet. He is a pretty nice fellow to bring me stamps with cute pictures on them so I'd better keep quiet.

Bill Stephens, or Scaffold Cane, gave me a way to predict the weather for the coming winter and I'll pass along to you. If the bark on a sycamore tree in late fall looks white, we will have light snows this winter, he says. But I've also heard a thick growth of leaves on a tree means a hard winter.

I'm not going to be caught, I'm bringing out the long johns anyway.

There have been a few flakes falling which caused Reese Puckett to send wife Edith to the attic where their inter clothes are stored.

Bill Stephens did say he was trying to get rid of the thick pile of leaves in his yard. One careless path pitched out could really cause damage. Flossie has been suffering with a bad case of sinus trouble she told me.

In Long John's eating place in Berea, a man came back to the rear carrying a tray. He stopped as he came near to where we were sitting and said, "Law, I'd know that face anywhere after seeing it in the paper every week!"

I don't know if it was meant for a compliment or to put me down but I got tickled.

"Hello, what are you doing over here?" I said to DeAlva Robbins, a former schoolmate of mine at Brodhead High School who later became its principal after getting into the educational field of the school system.

DeAlva said he had retired from Brodhead High and was now a farmer. As always with retired teachers, we discussed the education system as it is now and were glad to know we'd done our part for the boys and girls of Rockcastle.

Britton Chevrolet and Olds threw a Halloween party last week. I tell you, folks, that those of us

The Mount Vernon Signal, Thursday, November 14, 1991 P-A5 who attended are not going to have the same opinion of those people who work for the agency. After seeing those employees in their Halloween dress, we are going to think long and hard before we believe what they say about cars. I hardly knew Luster Britton, owner of the place in his get-up. He must have set the pattern. I went over to his wife, Mary Louise, and asked if he were there. She pointed to a country standing there and I did a double take before I recognized Britton in his funny disguise.

In the picture of this column, you see Jerry Morris, one of the top car salesmen (but who would think it) and his cute wife, Virginia who is Recreation Director at Berea Health Care. She is the pretty one in the picture; seeing Jerry, I said to myself, I'll think twice before buying another car from him.

Mike Berry, another salesman caused me to start laughing. Remember his picture I made before and put in this column, he sure didn't look that well at the party.

I don't know the names of the other salesmen except Boone Tillery who looked so awful I expected to have nightmares, but they were all a caution to see. Even the office girls looked funny.

There was such a crowd that we got near the country music band and stayed late. I was about to claim kin to one of the players, PEANUT Payne but he had a heart attack next morning probably from fright of being too kind.

I owe Mark McGuire one. He is no longer boss at his house. Jacky, his kid, has taken over. Mark bought him to church one Sunday (while wife Rhonda was working) and Jacky kept his Dad busy pulling him out of things.

Mark played one n me. You see I missed a lot of church this summer as I was feeling tough. So when I started coming again, Mark came around after church shaking hands with folks. When he came to me, he said, "Glad you stopped by today and came to my church. If you are ever in this part of the country again, be sure and visit with us," and he walked away laughing.

Till next week: Sometimes just living takes courage.

pick up the phoniness of your message to them. Nobody scores 100 percent on self evaluation; just try to identify areas where you are weak and can realistically make some changes. If you are a pencil and paper person, make one column labelled "Value", another labelled "Reality", and a third labelled "Change". A value might be that the family spend quality time together each day. The reality might be that you see each other for a few minutes coming and going, supper is up for grabs on the stove, and the family rarely sets time and table for a meal together. The change could include a set homework time in the evening with parents involved (or whatever suits your lifestyle). Warning: involving the kids in family changes is important; expect some resistance, but hold tight to your value if you expect to see a positive change in your offspring.

Besides family time together, some other areas to evaluate include: means of family problem resolution, assignment of responsibilities, level of respect, openness about drugs, sex and other controversial issues, educational expectations, parents' involvement in school and children's activities, sharing and understanding of one another's feelings, use of tobacco and alcohol among family members, religious affiliation and participation, openness to children's opinions and their participation in family decision-making. Of course there are many others that may come to mind for you.

Consistency between parents is so important to children. Spouses must get their act together first, and if there are important areas of disagreement they should ideally seek counseling before they convey a mixed message to their child.

Last week I entered the Livingston Elementary classrooms as a virtual stranger to the children to whom I was presenting the Drug-Free Schools curriculum. I was struck once again by the wonderful openness of children to pour out their thoughts and feelings. Third graders were eager to role play their conflicting attitudes about right-wrong, risk-compliance issues. The uninhibited lines they invented underscored their need to be heard and express themselves. Parents can keep this spirit alive as their children grow through the more difficult stages of the maturing process. Parenting groups will be offered in each community as part of the Drug-

Protective Parenting

"It's my life. It's not your problem."

It is often difficult to find the time and place for a real conversation when family members' lives are fragmented by their individual pursuits. But find time, we must. Teenagers face a confusing world of decisions, and their defensive retorts to their parents are often the only means of communication they know. It is up to parents to teach them a better way.

This takes practice. But there are some definite steps that your parent can follow in order to develop real dialogue with their teens. Protective trust, and awareness of genuine caring between parent and child. This week's column, and those in the next few weeks will offer guidelines to help you get started. Be patient and know that you will improve with practice. While many parents are primarily concerned with protecting their children from drug abuse, and want to focus these skills in that direction, the principles apply in all areas in which teenagers need guidance in developing sound judgement.

So, the first step is to examine your own values and evaluate your own behavior in relation to those values. If you skip this step, your children will

As a parent of an adolescent, do you find that many of your "conversations" are actually interspersed monologues?

"Amanda, turn that music down!" "Mom, where did you put my jacket?"

"I didn't touch your jacket, where do you think you're going, anyway?" "Who cares? You just want the house quiet, so I'm going out."

"If you got straight A's you could do what you want."

"If you want a perfect kid, you got the wrong one!" "I'll be back by dinner."

"And you'll spend the evening doing homework I'll bet."

Charting Rockcastle

By: Richard Anderkin

There is a very important meeting next Monday, that is if you are concerned about a place for you and your children to recreate at. Many concerned citizens are attempting to secure a grant that would help county officials build a new outdoor park for the entire county's use.

A park of this type is needed and Monday night a recreation committee will be elected. The meeting will be held at the Mt. Vernon Elementary school at 6 p.m.

The county has been somewhat lax in providing this type of community services, probably because their good facilities at Thacker Field and the facilities at Roundstone school. Both facilities are used extensively and have provided fun and recreation for hundreds of children for the past several years. But, fact is we do not have enough facilities for all of our youngsters and even adult athletes, actually there are not any for adults and there should be.

I did not vote last week, and I should have but fact is, by the time I got to the polls the line was long and I had other things to do. I felt badly about not voting, but then I got to thinking about it and I'm afraid I felt the same way many other Kentuckians must have. It isn't going to make any difference who I vote for. I truly believe, and I hope I am wrong, that if you are not going to gain personally from who the Bluegrass Music Benefit Show Governor, then it makes little difference to the regular Joe on the street who is elected. I hope Jones does a better job than his predecessor and a better job than many of his critics think he will. One thing is for certain, Rockcastle County has gotten a lot done during the Wilkinson administration. Some of it was good and some was not so good, but regardless, things did happen, much to the credit of our current Democrat County chairman.

Please plan to attend the Open House to learn more about literacy in our county, how it affects us, how we can help to improve it and how the Family Life Center is reducing percentage of illiterates.

Rockcastle County Literacy Council urge everyone to attend the Open House on November 19, from 3-7 p.m. at the Family Life Center School.

It is important that the community understand the need for literacy. Not only does an increase in literacy benefit the individual, but the politician, employer, driving instructor, etc., as well.

complex would be good for the area and especially for parents with children.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins told Parsons the county could not be involved in the project, but if the application is presented to the court he would recommend it be funded by the state.

About $10,000 is available in grant funds. To get the estimated $200,000 needed, the remainder must be furnished locally.

"This will have to be left up to the Little League board or some such organization," the judge said. "The county has nothing to do with the project, but we will help you get the grant if possible."

Similar to the Mt. Vernon City Council, a request was made to the court to help finance a Country Music Museum and Hall of Honor at Renfro Valley. The court approved $500,000 a year for about nine years, or up to $50,000, for the museum project. The money comes from a payback of a loan the county made to Mt. Vernon Plastics.

The court put off until later a request from Attorneys Burdett and Coffey asking to rent office space in the present courthouse when the Judicial Annex is completed.

Also approved was a contract to continue the commodity program from Oct. 1 to next June 30.

County roads to be worked between Oct. 20 and Nov. 15 are Mt. Zion, 1.6 miles; Maple Grove, 1.4 miles; Freedom Road, 1.6; Flat Gap, 1; Green Hill, 3.5; Byron Baker Road, 2.5; Carl Brown, .85; Dailey Street, .1; Bryant Ridge, .75, and Cove Branch, .1.

the coaches and students requested delayed coverage, however he is willing to comply with any wishes of the school board.

Superintendent Towery stated that the school board is not accustomed to breaking contracts, and the board's consensus was that the contract should be honored.

Four architectural firms and two construction management firms met with the school board on Tuesday to give a brief description of their services for possible employment in the construction and design of a new high school.

A committee previously interviewed the various businesses and gave the firms a chance to speak before the board.

A special meeting will be held on Friday, November 15, at the Central Office to hear the views of the administrative committee. A decision may be made at the meeting as to who will provide the construction management and architectural services.

In addition to hearing the presentations, the board approved a revised job description for Richard Bray. The revision will extend Bray's responsibilities and authority. The position will primarily assist the Superintendent with certain duties. The revision amended the salary supplement to a $5,000 increase per year.

The purchase of two 34 passenger buses and three 70 passenger buses were approved as well. The cost of the five buses will total $203,599.

Debbie Whitehead was chosen to serve on the Steering Committee of the District School Based Decision Making Committee, with Earl Cummins as an alternate.

"Jamboree of Sharing" to be held

More than 50 years ago, John Lair characterized the entertainment center he founded as "a tiny mountain community where neighbor helped neighbor."

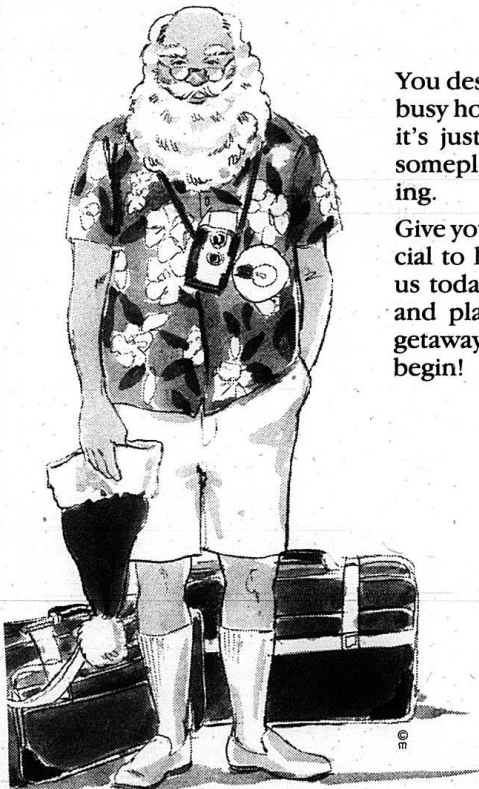

"That spirit of caring is alive today in Renfro Valley, as evidenced by 'The Jamboree of Sharing.' On Friday, Nov. 15, Renfro Valley Folks will waive the customary admission to their famous Jamboree show.

Instead, guests will be treated to the exciting 90-minute music/comedy show simply by donating one non-perishable food item. Food collected by Renfro Valley will be donated to needy families in Rockcastle County.

"As we reflect on the season we've experienced thus far, we are extremely grateful for the support we've enjoyed from our local community," said Dean Henrickson, chief executive officer. "The Jamboree of Sharing" is one way for us to show that the support is a two-way street.

Showtime for "The Jamboree of Sharing" is 7 p.m. and reservations are suggested. The one-and-a-half-hour show will feature contemporary country music, performed by: Dale Ann Bradley, Donna Dailey, Carrie Stone, Steve and Don Gulley, Scott Thompson and Ernie Sowder. The comedy of Peas Stamper and Bun Wilson ensures a well-rounded evening of entertainment.

Scholarship Fund swells to over $7,500

The Community Scholarship Fund is still gaining impetus and the goal, including the expected proceeds from the Country/Bluegrass Music Benefit Show scheduled for November 26th at high school, has now been increased to $10,000. It is expected that the proceeds from this amount will provide the $500 scholarship to be given next June without having to use any of the donations to make up the difference.

Be sure to get your tickets for the Country/Bluegrass Music Benefit Show. They are available at several outlets in the county including the schools, Pridemore's in Livingston; Wilder General Store; Citizens Bank (Both locations); Convenient at Broadhead and Mt. Vernon; Rose's One Stop; Dabney Feed Supply at Willalla; the Mt. Vernon Signal; Citizens Bank; Bank of Mt. Vernon; Ford Brothers Realty.

Recent donations to the 100 Club include: North Renfro Valley Merchants; Bank of Mt. Vernon; Save-A-Lot; Rockcastle Auto Parts; Dr. Karen Saylor; Roundstone PTA; Dowell-Martin Funeral Home; Mt. Vernon PTA and the faculty of RCHS ($260). Other donations have been received from: Joyce Baker, Bryan Russell and Hiatt's 5 & 10.

Please help us to be sure to reach our new goal of $10,000. If you have not been contacted for a contribution and wish to do so (no matter what amount), contact Charles Napier or Pat Midkiff and your donation will be picked up.

Also, Don't Forget the County and Bluegrass Music Benefit Show scheduled for Tuesday, November 26th at the high school. Entertainment will be provided by Strait Shot and New Found Gold and admission will be $2 for students (6-12), $4 for adults and $5 for adults at the door. Contributors to the 100 Club and their family members will be admitted free. Recognition of members of the 100 Club will be made during intermission at the show.

Help us help some deserving high school senior with our own local scholarship!!

Grandpa Jones bringing Christmas to Appalachia

Christmas time's a comin', and Grandpa and Ramona Jones and their family and friends are busy wrapping up a big holiday surprise for the children of Appalachia.

Grandpa and his helpers — John Hartford, Ramona Jones, Alisa Jones Wall, Mark Jones, Ron Wall, Larry Sledge, Ruth McLain Smith, Alice McLain White, Al White and Jim Gage — will perform a special holiday benefit concert for Save the Children.

The show will be held on Saturday, Nov. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the Phelps Stokes building on the Berea College campus. Admission is $8 for adults and $4 for children and college students, plus the donation of a nice toy.

Grandpa Jones is a member of the Country Music Hall of Fame and the Grand Ole Opry, and appears regularly on the nationally syndicated television show Hee Haw.

John Hartford is a three-time Grammy Award winner, including one for writing "Gentle on My Mind." In addition to being a river boat pilot, he is a noted singer/musician.

Ramona Jones, the wife of Grandpa, has appeared on the Grand Ole Opry since the late 1940s. She is a premier old-time fiddle player, appears regularly on Hee Haw and was the first woman to receive the prestigious Uncle Dave Macon Days Heritage Award.

Proceeds from the event will be used to buy holiday toys for the Appalachian children. Any extra money will be donated to Save the Children.

Save the Children is an organization that serves children and families throughout the United States and 38 countries around the world.

All tickets will be sold at the door. For those unable to attend but would like to help, tax deductible donations may be sent to:

Enlisted in 1951

Baker served his country in Korea

"These old hills might not look good to some people, but to me they looked great. They're home," said Floyd Baker as he reminisces of his return to the U.S. after the Korean War.

Enlisting in 1951, Baker spent three years in the Army, with his basic training spent in Fort Knox. From there, Baker was shipped off to Korea where he fought for two years. "I wasn't ready to go. I don't think anybody's ready to go be shot at," recalled Baker.

"A lot of people think a war is just two armies. The civilian people carry a lot of the burden in a war. People are without clothes and food and they even get killed just like the soldiers," said Baker.

During times when the soldiers were given time to sit down and eat in a mess hall, Baker recalled feeding the local civilians. His sergeants would clean out a garbage can where the soldiers would empty scraps for the civilians to eat.

"The military is like anything else - team work. You have to work together," said Baker. Like most soldiers, Baker felt a close bond with his fellow service men. "They are your family. You don't want to get too attached to somebody because tomorrow they may be gone. But you get close to them anyway," said Baker.

Keeping track of the weeks was Joyce Baker, wife of Floyd Baker, says that the experiences her husband gained as a result of the war gives her a better insight on war and its tribulations.

easy for the 1st Cavalry Division. Baker recalled that "the way we knew when it was Sunday was they gave us a pill every Sunday for Malaria. And some guys still got it."

Baker felt that being in the war was an enlightening experience that made him realize the ups and downs of war. It also, however, made him aware that war is sometimes a necessity as well.

When Baker returned to the U.S.

in 1954, he asked for a two week leave so he could stay in California before going home. "I may have never gotten the chance to go to California after I went on home, so I wanted to stay for a while," said Baker.

Baker's wife, Joyce, said that she still talks about the war frequently. "He's talked about the whole war. He's had nightmares where he's woke up fighting the war. Even within the past few years."

Served two different times

McNew is 'Nam' vet

After enlisting in the Army in 1964, Alfred McNew went to Vietnam not once, but twice. His first trip sticks in his mind. "It was very fearful going for the first time. I was on a C-141 Starliner, which is more a cargo aircraft, but when there was room, passengers would ride on it. There were 41 seats on the aircraft, all filled and facing the rear of the plane. In the rear of the plane there was 41 coffins. I'm sure it was very coincidental."

Alfred McNew recalls that his days spent in rest and relaxation, in the Hawaiian Islands, were most enjoyable.

His training qualified McNew to serve as an indirect weapons infantry crewman, where his duties consisted of adjusting and directing artillery fire.

McNew remembered when his Company Commander received a Congressional Medal of Honor. During monsoon season in 1966, the company consisted of 86 soldiers.

Being his first day with the company, the Commander had just taken over command when they came under fire.

As the Viet Cong drew closer to the American soldiers, they began waving white flags and speaking in English, saying, "We surrender."

Within feet of the American front line, the white flag carriers and the soldiers who begged to surrender dropped quickly to the ground. They were acting as a decoy, for behind the Viet Cong front line stood an army of armed soldiers fiercely firing on the startled American Company.

The Commander took a mortar explosion in the stomach, refused medical attention, and still led the company through the battle. He called Battalion Headquarters for reinforcement, which came within 15 minutes. McNew recalled the Commander's exact words. "I've got enough people and enough ammunition to hold off one more wave, then we'll have to go into hand to hand combat."

According to McNew, the assisting company was able to "break a hole in the perimeter, and we pulled out for evacuation. We sustained heavy casualties. 14 people (out of the 86) were not killed or injured."

After two trips to the Vietnam War, McNew returned to the United States, decorated with a Bronze Star, and became a recruiter.

"I was not harassed," he said as he recalled the way many Vietnam vets were treated. "We were directed to put on civilian clothes. I saw a lot of protesters at the airport, but due to the fact that I was in civilian clothes, I was not harassed. I saw people in military in clothes harassed."

Served in 100th Infantry Division

Shepherd served in WWII

The Shepherd's flag is the first thing one sees while driving back through the woods to their Livingstone home. It's not put up just in November to commemorate Veteran's Day or because company is coming. It is there every day. "That flag means a lot to me. It's something we all should honor," said Gilbert Shepherd.

A World War II veteran, Shepherd was drafted in 1941, when he received his basic training in South Carolina. Immediately following, he was chosen to join the 29th Infantry Division where he toured the US to show civilians how the Army worked and lived. "All the money we took in went to help families whose father, husband or first born son was in the war," he commented.

In the fall of 1944, Gilbert found himself in the midst of the war as part of the 100th Infantry Division. Pushing through France, the infantry had their first baptism of fire on Nov 12, 1944. "I had a guy tell me once that he was never scared. I told him he didn't know what he's talking about," Shepherd stated.

With the exception of First Sergeant and Master Sergeant, Shepherd served every rank of enlisted man, including a battlefield commission of Second Lieutenant. Shepherd has a problem with his hearing as a result of a mortar explosion on a piece of pavement that was close to his head. "I had 25 men under my command. When that mortar hit, I worried more about them than myself."

Decorated with defense, victory

Baker relates to the veterans of the Gulf War and says he's proud of the soldiers who fought there. "As far as the young women go, I'm proud of them, too. When they start throwing shells over there, they don't ask what sex you are before they kill you."

Mink served during World War I

World War I was the war of generations ago, but 98-year-old Bradley Mink still remembers it well. "I was lucky. I didn't have to kill anybody, but I'd have had to if I was on the front line."

In 1918, Mink enlisted as a Marine hopeful, however, was released for the Navy.

Spending most of his enlisted time in Seattle, Washington, Mink did not have to go directly into the war zone.

During a routine physical minutes before departure to the front lines, a bad tooth was discovered in Mink's mouth. The officers were in a hurry to get men over to the front lines and did not have time to care for his tooth. Bradley therefore remained state-side.

"We got $31 a month, and $60 a year for clothes. I didn't like them old Navy clothes," said Bradley.

In addition to the clothes, Mink and good conduct medals, as well as battle stars, Shepherd returned in 1946, to the task of re-adjusting to his family. He said that his Army buddies had become his family since they lived, ate, drank and fought together. "It's a different life altogether, just like turning around."

Four years ago, Shepherd attended a reunion where he reunited with friends and buddies that he hadn't seen since 1945. "I didn't realize men hugged and carried on," said Ruth Shepherd, Gilbert's wife, "until that reunion."

Mrs. Shepherd was pleased to attend the reunion as it gave her the chance to meet the men to whom her husband felt so close. "They told me he was a hard man to get along with, but once they got over seas, they said they were really glad that he'd been

Colonel Robert Robinson served 28 years, and fought in three different conflicts

Retired Air Force Colonel Robert Robinson participated in three of the five wars of the 20th Century.

Having served in World War II, Korea and Vietnam, Robinson flew his aircraft over the Pacific 37 times, not to mention the fact that his total flying hours total nearly 17,000 hours. Robinson had his share of tense war-time moments as he remembers. "I was shot down two times. Once in New Guinea, and once off the coast of Japan. Instead of using my parachute, I went down with the bird."

Having flown the duration of his military life, Robinson said that he "felt more confident in the air than on the ground. I felt my training was good enough that I saved my own life two or three times."

During his service in Vietnam, Robinson recalls episodes where the officers didn't have the power to be officers in their full right. "I remember General Three Finger Jack Ryan, sat there with tears in his eyes because he had to call the White House for permission to send Air Force support for an infantry division that was getting clobbered. I watched him set there and cry. There were soldiers there as good as WW II soldiers but Johnson wouldn't let them fight."

The highlight of Robinson's military career happened after his service in the war. He was chosen to be a pilot in the Special Air-Missions Assignment for the President's Outfit. Although he never flew for President Eisenhower himself, Robinson disliked the hammocks they slept on every night. The discomfort of the hammocks served as only a part of his dislike.

He recalled an episode where an officer frequently came into the barracks at two and three in the morning. He would roll the men out of their hammocks for no reason. Some of the men decided to put an end to the officer's antics by waiting up for him with a piece of lead pipe. "That officer came in around 2 a.m. and stuck his head in the door. Then guys struck the door face's wood to his head and busted the wood all to pieces."

"Them officers were awful mean sometimes. They never gave you a good word," but old Roosevelt stopped that real fast," Mink said with a grin on his face.

Bradley's memory surges back as far as the Spanish-American War when a relative who fought in the war stayed with his father. "I can barely remember him, bringing in wood."

Bradley Mink is the only World War I veteran left in the county.

Gilbert Shepherd and his wife, Ruby, relive Shepherd's days in the Army by looking through his old picture album of his military tour of the U.S.

Terry Belcher served his country during the Persian Gulf War

"Seeing my 1st Sergeant fatally injured led me wondering what we were getting into," Terry Belcher, a Gulf War veteran, as he recalled a vivid memory of the war.

Having been in the military for 17 years, Belcher has been stationed many places, and is now in Germany. Belcher was even stationed in Bambrleber, Germany, in the same Infantry Division as Jeffrey Dalmer, the mass murderer.

As part of the Field Artillery Battalion, his war-time duties included ensuring that the equipment was conditioned and ready for use. Belcher assigned maintenance teams to various units to check on the equipment and make any necessary repairs on a daily basis.

Belcher's battalion began moving into Iraq on the first day of the war. "As we drove deeper into Iraq, we were constantly seeing Iraqi troops surrendering. About 3:30 or 4 o'clock p.m., I heard a boom, then I started hearing a lot of them, so I prayed and thought to myself, 'this is it.'"

Belcher stated that the war was an uncertain feeling. He said he didn't know what to expect, and he wondered in the close hours before the war if he would have to shoot anyone. "I had to look death in the eye several times. I never take anything for granted because I could be here today and gone tomorrow."

The war was a learning experience for Belcher as he learned first hand of the suffering the civilians encounter during a war. "During my trips to visit the firing batteries, I met some Iraqi families who had set up camps close to the units and they were very nice to me considering what was happening to their country. The children were very sweet. I gave the families some food, water and fuel for their family trucks."

Spending almost six months in the Persian Gulf, Belcher returned, decorated with a Bronze Star, to Germany to resume his duties. Having served on the General's Staff as a vehicle inspector, Belcher has also held the ranks of company motor sergeant, platoon sergeant, and a part of the Army Warrant Officer Program. Another promotion will be assessed to Belcher on December 7, 1991.

Gulf War veteran, Terry Belcher, is spending his 17th year of military service in Germany.

frequently flew Vice-President Nixon.

"He was one smart individual. When Watergate broke, it like to have broke my heart. I really loved Mr. Nixon."

Upon Robinson's return to civilian life, he spent five years adjusting. As most military men, he became close to his military friends, who eventually became like his family. "Retired Officer (matazine) has a listing each month of officers that have passed on. Every time there's two or three of my buddies that I grieve over. I still remember the things we did back then. When you get older, you think about these things."

With the recent flag burning issue at hand, Robinson stated, "I still get a chill up and down my spine when I see it. Flag burning is disgraceful. We just don't have the guts to stand up for our flag now."

Rockets whip Mercer 29-7; advance to regional semi-finals

They're good, they're awesome, they're the Rockcastle County Rockets and they won their first play-off game Friday night with a big win over Mercer County 29-7.

With the victory, the Rockets are ranked fourth in Class 2A, and have moved up from 20th to a tie for 18th in the state in the Courier-Journal's Littenhous rankings.

The Rockets will now host Corbin this Friday night in the semi-finals of the region. The Rockets defeated Corbin earlier this season 14-10.

The Rockets got things rolling first when Johnathon Saylor scored on a nine yard run with 9:23 left in the first quarter. Curtis Cotton's extra-point kick was good and the Rockets had an early seven point lead.

"I felt pretty confident all along that we would win, but I was really pleased when our boys came out in the second half and played like they know how to," head coach Tom Larkey said.

Mercer County was threatening to score early in the game when Mercer's running back broke loose for what appeared to be a touchdown before Saylor could catch up with him and stop him on the Rockets' 20 yard line. Three plays later Jason Fletcher broke up a Mercer pass and William Bullens was there to intercept it and return it to the Rockets' 40 yard line.

On Mercer County's drive after the Rocket's first score, the Scotiees broke loose for yet another big run, this time for a touchdown, but due to a clipping call against Mercer County the ball was brought back to Mercer's 44 yard line. Four plays later Mercer's quarterback found one of his receivers in the end-zone for a 37 yard touchdown pass. Mercer's kick was good and the Scotiees had tied the game at seven all with 6:58 left in the second quarter.

It took the Rockets only 40 seconds after the Scotiees scored their first touchdown to score yet another touchdown when Saylor scored on an impressive 74 yard touchdown run with 6:10 left in the half. Cotton's extra-point attempt was good and the Rockets had a seven point lead.

William Hellard was the man at the end of the second quarter when he sacked the Scotiees quarterback to end their drive and was on the receiving end of a 45 yard pass from Scott Parkey to end the half.

The Rockets got things rolling in the second half when they started their first drive on their own 20 yard line and marched down field for a J.D. Harris touchdown from the five yard line with 8:34 left in the third quarter. Cotton's kick was good and the Rockets had a 14 point lead.

Mercer County's offense just couldn't handle the Rockets awesome defense when on their first play of the second half, the Scotiees coughed up the football and J.D. Bullens was there to recover for the Rockets on Mercer's 48 yard line.

Once again the Rockets offense showed just how superior they were to Mercer County when eight plays later Parkey found Jason Kirby wide-open in the end-zone for a six yard touchdown pass with 4:10 left in the fourth quarter. Harris completed the two-point conversion for the final score of 29-7.

The Rockets seemed to have the game well in control and Hellard was there to put the icing on the cake when he sacked the Scotiees quarterback once again to end Mercer County's next drive.

"I feel that Hellard and Bullens' defensive play really turned the game around for us," Larkey said.

The Rockets now have two running backs this year that have rushed for more than 1,000 yards in one season. Johnathon Saylor has rushed for 1,054 and J.D. Harris has rushed for 1,520 yards. This is a first at RCHS.

Play-off

By: Preston Parrett

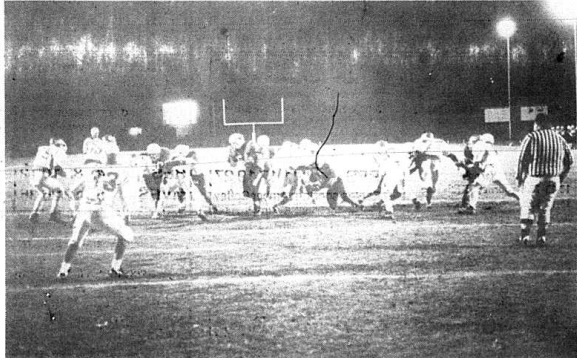

It was a cold day in November Rocket fans were gathering in, Wearing quilts and ski-masks To protect body, ears and chin.

Rocket fans had come prepared Dressed to beat the cold, They were shouting their favorite slogan Our defense will not fold.

For it was football playoff time The Rockets were doing great, And their state wide ranking Was high in the state.

Scottie fans came rolling in They had a lot of guts, For they were carrying signs That read "Kick Rocket Butts."

But when the game was over They left with a sigh, For their legs were too short, To kick that high.

The Rockcastle County Rockets locked heads with the Mercer County Scotiees last Friday in first round action of the play-offs. The Rockets went on to defeat the Scotiees 29-7.

On the far side of the field The Scotiees erected a tower, Getting closer to Heaven So the Lord could hear their pleading prayer.

Captains met at mid-field For the traditional coin toss, Which the Scotiees won They yelled, "We are the Boss".

The Scotiees received the kick-off We're going to put on a show, The only thing wrong with that Rocket defense wouldn't let 'em go.

They kicked away to the Rockets Whose start was also slow, But their fans kept on yelling Go! Rockets! Go!

In the second quarter The Rockets got on track, John "Dog" on a nine yard run Over the goal line cracked.

The tough Scotiees came right back From bottom to Bugg a pass, And speeding down the sideline He crossed into the end zone grass.

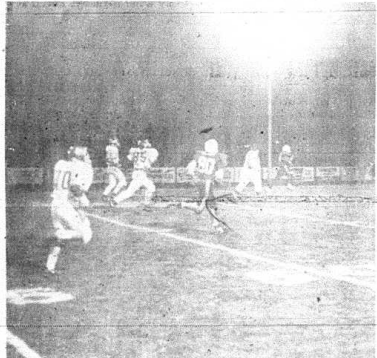

John "Dog" Saylor took a hand-off

Motored down the middle on flying wheels, He crossed over the goal-line With a Scotie nipping at his heels.

Seniors were honored at half-time Had a tear in their eye, For this was the last season They'd be representing Rockcastle High.

But when the play-offs are over They can be proud, For they've left a winning legacy To be long remembered by the

Now in the second half The Scotties were fighting hard, But they were having trouble Trying to gain a yard.

A pass from Parkey To Sticky Fingers Kirby, Who could run faster Than a horse in the derby.

That pass broke the Scotties back Sailed the game away, And the "Butt Kicking" Scotties Would have to wait for another day.

A salute to the unsung heroes Who hardly ever get any fame, But without their defense and blocking We'd never win a game.

To coaches, cheerleaders and players Congratulations for another great game.

May you keep on winning And find your niche in the 'hall of fame'.

Kentucky's Deer Gun Season Opens

According to John Phillips, deer program coordinator for the Kentucky

Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR), over 540,000 white-tails now populate the commonwealth. Just five years ago, the statewide deer herd was estimated at 200,000 animals.

The staggering increase in deer numbers and hunting opportunities is a direct result of sound harvest guidelines set by the KDFWR in recent years. This season, Phillips predicts that about 88,000 deer will be taken and reported to a deer check station.

The 1991-92 season limit is two deer, as it has been for several years. However, hunters who have harvested only one antlered deer this year, when hunters purchase the $17.50 deer permit, they will find that one of two tags can only be used for an antlerless deer. Regardless of what equipment hunters use to take deer, bow, crossbow or firearms, the yellow tag for the deer permit may only be used to take antlerless deer.

With the exception of the one buck limit for this season, there are few other changes in deer hunting laws from last year. Hunters must be sure they know what zone they are hunting in and how the two tags included in the deer permit may be used in that

Remember that deer hunters must wear hunter orange color on the head, chest and back while hunting during the Nov. 9-18, regardless of what equipment is chosen, during this period hunters must follow the tag restrictions in effect for the general gun season. These restrictions are listed on page 5 of the 1991-92 Kentucky Deer Hunting Guide, a free booklet that provides complete deer season information. The current deer guide is available where licenses are sold and from the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources. Not too long ago the Harmony Chapel Church over near Big Split called a new preacher, Bro. Aeshal Goforth from across the mountains in Lynch Valley. Being only two years past twenty and unmarried, he's quite

Many students here at BES have a secret we must confess: We work real hard, we're sweet and kind. But pencils are just hard to find! They're sometimes lost or chewed or dropped, and our hard work then is stopped. They're kicked or borrowed, thrown away. Those pencils just don't seem to

Saddle Club News

Bring your wife and a pic, show off what kind of cook you have, to the Rockcastle County Saddle Club Annual Pic Supper and Auction, Nov. 16 at 7 p.m.

If you have anything to donate, we will have an A-1 Auctioneer. Come and join us, we'll have a great time. Mark your calendar for Nov. 23 at 9:30 a.m. The Rockcastle County Saddle Club (old Broadhead Road) will have Veterinarian Susan Helton there to pull a coggins test which will be half price $3.50 and E.E.E. (Sleeping Sickness) for free.

to make an even better impression than he'd made the Sunday before with his rousing sermon on the Rap-ture.

"We call this service a prayer meeting, so let's make sure we do more praying than anything else," he pronounced with prophetic urgency. "Let no one say that Harmony Chapel's like those white-sepulchered, cliffrid churches that announce prayer meeting and do everything but pray. Let us trim our lamps, gird up our loins, and storm the battlements of heaven!" Some of the elders didn't see how that would do any harm, so they said "Amen!"

Thereupon Bro. Aeshal called for a "season of prayer" wherein anyone and everyone had an opportunity to pray, and the deacons were expected to. Well, that brought looks of consternation to more than a few faces-but not Ona Mae Higgenbottom, who waved her hand toward heaven and said "Praise be!"

Bro. Aeshal hadn't heard about Ona Mae's lengthy beseechments. She was a simple widow who spoke to heaven rather than the congregation and fully expected heaven to hear. Her petitions were rarely under twenty minutes, and right before revival time they seemed however to end as she singled out every backslider and child of perdition she could think of within five miles of the church. About a year before Bro. Aeshal came, prayer meetings had gotten so long-and embarrassing-that Esby Aherton, Head Deacon, implored the pastor to try something else.

"Why, some of our most faithful has stopped comin', and a lot that does come just to hear what Ona Mae's gonna say next so they can talk it all over the county," said Esby. "Preacher, it's gonna be a sideshow if it we don't get a handle on it." And they did.

Esby wasn't all wrong. Ona Mae prayed for sufferers of every sickness from sinus to syphilis. She singled out schemes and affairs, perpetrators and victims, and even got right personal with regard to herself. One of her well known pleas was uttered after a thief took her washing from the clothesline while she napped.

"Lord, I beg you to forgive whoever it was that stole my washin'. And Lord, if you see fit, tell him to bring it back. I've got plenty of bloomers, but, Lord, you know I just can't afford a new petticoat."

Well, Bro. Aeshal opened the door, and Ona Mae walked in and almost grew wings as she took the congregation up every hollow, shedding tears and making intercession for saints and sinners. When she finished, Bro. Aeshal knew something was amiss, seeing as how nobody else made supplication. And after Esby apprised him of the problem, he changed the format for Wednesday night.

The next week they sang a song or two, and Bro. Aeshal passed out a printed sheet that listed the sick and dying, the bereaved and the shut-ins, the missionaries who had birthdays that week, and the "lost"-no names mentioned. He made a few comments, asked for additions to the list, and called on someone to voice a general intercession (brief for that summed up all the requests). For the remainder of the hour, Bro. Aeshal engaged the elect in a study of the first chapter of Hyram Bloodfoot's "Trail of Truth," a history of their denominational doctrine and distinctiveness.

Attendance and offerings are at Harmony Chapel, and the talk of building a kitchen and fellowship hall for church suppers and such, especially wedding receptions. Everyone speaks well of Bro. Aeshal. This is his first full-time pastorate and no one expects him to be flawless (for a season, at least), and the "season of prayer" has not been revived, not even since Ona Mae went on to glory last summer. Bro. Aeshal agreed with Esby that it would be best not to go back to that practice lest someone else get carried away-like Ona Mae.

Teen Center Perspectives

By: John Wylie

During the next several weeks our teens will have a new service project, helping the Garrard Teen Center staff and teens move from their old location on Lexington Street in Lancaster to a much nicer building and a better location on South Campbell Street. The Garrard Teen Center is a part of our CAP Teen Services project and our teens have had frequent contact with our teens in Lancaster. Their help will be appreciated, setting up the new Teen Center there will be a big task over the next several weeks.

In future columns I would like to get more input from the community about issues that affect our teens and their families. We would appreciate any comments and questions. Any correspondence should be mailed to the Rockcastle Teen Center, Route 4 Box 117, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky 40456. Letters may be published in this column, however all requests will be answered.

Some other new items that will occasionally be featured are writings and remarks from our teens, news about teen issues of the Rockcastle Teen Center and our Teen Services project. The plan is to create a column that will provide a better forum for the community discussion of teen issues from a variety of teens and adults.

We would like to thank the Bank of Mt. Vernon for the colorful pencils for each child and the chalkholders for the teachers. We are ever grateful to local businesses for their support and concern.

Citizens Bank of Brodhead/Mt. Vernon and the Bank of Mt. Vernon are co-sponsoring A Day On Campus along with Ashland Oil Company. This program allows our eighth graders a day on the campus of a nearby university in the spring of each school year. This year our students will be going to Berea College and will enjoy lunch at Boone Tavern. The objective of the program is to allow students an opportunity to view the value and challenge of a continued education.

Mrs. Nancy Sexton's Resource Room students and the Beta Club students have begun a Harvest Food drive for REAP (Rockcastle Emergency Assistance Program). A grocery basket is parked inside the front door of the building to receive the food offerings of students who wish to participate. The class collecting the most food items will be rewarded with an ice cream party.

This week is National Children's Book Week. We would like to encourage parents to take an active role in your child's reading experiences by having them read to you or give them an opportunity to see you reading for enjoyment. Research has proven that 15 minutes per night spent with your child will make a positive impact on his/her learning.

Cherleaders for 91-92 school year are: Heather Bussell, Jamaica Bradshaw, Kelly Lane, Heather Burton, Tonya Stewart, Ashley Scoggin, Bonnie Burton, Angie Murphy and Danette Harris.

The PTA meeting is tonight, Thursday, November 14 at 7 p.m. Please show your support.
 Lunch tickets go on sale Monday, November 18.
 The Academic team will be wearing their new sweat shirts to the meet at Moece Tuesday evening. The shirts are black with orange tiger paws and lettering. We wish the team and Ms. Regina, team coach, Good Luck!
 We would remind you that we are still collecting Campbell's Food Labels and Kroger receipts. Send (Cont. to P-B6)

The Roundstone P.T.A. will meet Tuesday, November 19, at 6:30 p.m. The 2nd, 5th and 6th grades will present a Thanksgiving play in the gym. Afterwards, the P.T.A. business meeting will be in the school library. All P.T.A. members and parents are invited to attend.

Mrs. Hale's and Mrs. Center's sixth grade students are looking forward to visiting the Museum of Natural History in Cincinnati on Friday, Nov. 15. The students are very excited about this educational trip and are expected to gain information for class reports and presentations.

Extended school services are continuing to be successful at Roundstone Elementary. We presently have 25 students enrolled at RES. The tutors for ESS are Nancy Hale, Terry Parkey, Linda Osborne, and Carol Pybas. Students receive tutoring and guidance in Academic areas. Also, they receive help with completing homework. If parents need more information about the program, please contact the school at 256-2235.

Roundstone school news and special school programs featuring Roundstone students can be heard each Monday at 11:30 a.m. on Renfro Valley WRVK 1460 A.M. Thank you WRVK and Larry Burdette for this service.

Whitaker to speak at National Conference in Washington, D.C.

Dale Whitaker, counselor at Rockcastle County High School, will give a presentation at the School, College and University Partnerships Program Conference in Washington, D.C., November 12-13. The presentation will concern the impact of Destination Graduation (tutoring program) in Kentucky and Rockcastle County. Rockcastle County was chosen as the model program.

Rockcastle Scouts tour Great Saltpetre Cave

On Saturday, October 19, approximately 50 people toured the Great Salt Petre Cave. The caving adventure was a joint effort between Rockcastle County Boy Scout Troop 263, Roundstone Cub Scout Pack 203, and Mt. Vernon Cub Scout Pack 263. Approximately 14 of the Scouts and leaders braved the cold weather on Friday night and camped near the entrance to the cave.

On Saturday, November 2, the Bluegrass Council of the Boy Scouts of America held its annual Pow Wow in Richmond on the campus of Eastern Kentucky University. Pow Wow is advanced training for Cub Scout leaders. The Bluegrass Council covers a 50 county area. Kay Bullock, Jerry Bullock, Cathy Allen, John Tyler, and Vickie Tyler attended the training from Mt. Vernon Pack 263. Kathy Coffey and Vickie Thacker attended from Roundstone Pack 203. John Tyler, Vickie Tyler and Cathy Allen served as part of the training staff.

Three volunteer leaders from Rockcastle County Boy Scout Troop 263 withstood the freezing temperatures Nov. 8 - 10 and attended outdoor training for scoutmasters. The training was held at Camp McKee near Mt. Sterling. Darrell Allen, John Tyler, and Stacy Singleton slept in a tent all weekend, cooked their own meals, and somehow managed to survive! Darrell serves as Scoutmaster for the troop. John and Stacy are Assistant Scoutmaster.

Children in Kentucky go to bed hungry every night. Please help Scouts feed the hungry. Scouting for Food is the Boy Scout's and Cub Scout's method of helping feed the hungry in their community. Scouts nationwide will be going door to door to their neighbors to collect food during the month of November. Please fill a grocery bag or a box with food and help us feed the hungry in Rockcastle County. All food collected will be donated to the local food bank. Contact any Cub Scout or Boy Scout if you would like to donate. Remember: your cans CAN make a difference.

Pack 203 of Roundstone and Pack 263 of Mt. Vernon enjoyed a tour of the Saltpetre Cave on October 19. About 35 boys attended and each had a parent to share this trip with him. The boys enjoyed seeing the bats and cave spiders. We want to thank Lake Stocker, Bill Simpson and Wesley Keifer for being our tour guides. They cam from Ohio.

Grade 4 - News

We are working on our writing portfolios. This will be a part of the new kind of testing. We will have seven finished pieces of our own writing completed by the end of March.

We are also anxiously looking forward to our trip to Richmond. We will be going on Monday, Nov. 18 to see a play called, "Alice in Wonderland." We get to eat out on our trip, too!

Girl Scout News

This past Saturday, Nov. 1, the IVES Daisies, Brownies and Juniors attended a performance at the Lexington Opera House. The ballets they saw were the Soccer, Selenic Games and the Passions of Dracula. For most, it was their first trip to a ballet. It was a unique and educational experience for the Girl Scouts. The girls agreed that they enjoyed Dracula the most.

Ms. Grigsby's 8th grade news: Mr. Penso has helped us with our "Horn of Plenty Collages." We have displayed them in the hall. Mrs. Bryant helped students create "Theosavvy wheels." This was an interesting task and our vocabulary is increasing. Modern Woodmen Essays, which theme was "Walk With Me" were turned in Friday, Nov. 8. We are collecting $100 from our class to donate to the 100% Club for "The Community Merit Scholarship." Mrs. Ginny Gilpatrick visited our room twice and talked about Drug Abuse and Refusal. Thanks to everyone who helped our 8th grade do special things. A School Wide Project Meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, Nov. 13 at 1:30 in the library. Committee members will review the progress of our goals established. Our goal is that each child at L.E.S will read and report on at least 15 books throughout the school year. Another goal is maintaining 90% attendance and increasing P.T.O. membership. Parents are encouraged to help see that their child is a successful part of L.E.S. meeting these goals.

Livingston Christmas Shop Update: Our Christmas Shop is progressing splendidly. We would like to thank Danielle McClure and Judy Hammond for helping sort through the volunteer list to help organize the schedules. We would like to thank all the parents who have volunteered to help! You are GREAT!!! The PTO will be visiting local businesses asking for donations from Scotch tape, candy, wrapping paper, bows, toys. Anything you wish to donate would be greatly appreciated.

Mrs. Bullock's kindergarten class, along with Mrs. Becky McClure and Mrs. Brenda Ballinger's class did a wonderful job with their play, "The 2nd Thanksgiving" at our P.T.O. meeting. Congratulations on your performance!

Our Fall Festival was a success! We want to thank parents for providing so much help.

Students of the Week were: Brandon Gross, Byron Mason, Angela Johnson, Tammy Peyton, Misty Hamilton, Amy Parker, Joshua Little, Teresa Gibbons, Carissa Seales, Angela Bradley and Angela Gibbons.

Livingston Elementary was well represented at the Central Kentucky Music Educator's Association Elementary Choral Workshop on Friday, Nov. 1st. Students attending the event were Brandt Sexton, Crystal Lear, Judy Spencer and Raymond Carpenter. The students were part of an honors choir that was made up of students in our district. The students were accompanied by their music teacher, Mrs. Jamie Cornelius. Congratulations, we're proud of you.

The 7th and 8th grade chorus are busy working on a Madrigal Dinner which they will present the first week in December. The ceremony of music and drama features such characters as the Lord of Misrule, Good King Wenceslas, jesters, mummings, traveling musicians and various others. The chorus is under the direction of Mrs. Jamie Cornelius and Allen Purdy, who serves as the Arts Coordinator for our county. Be watching for further details concerning this festive event!

Office For A Drug Free America sponsors poster contest

The Governor's Office For A Drug-Free Kentucky is asking the Commonwealth's youth to use their creative talents to help share the alcohol and other drug abuse prevention message with their fellow students. The Office is sponsoring a Poster Contest for students in kindergarten through sixth grade.

"One of the most effective ways to share the prevention message is to involve children in the process," said Gary Faulkner, Executive Director of the Office. "Many students face the temptation to use alcohol and other drugs every day. Fortunately, a growing number of children are saying "No!" to these problems. So we are asking them to share that message with their peers through a poster."

Three winning entries will be chosen from grades K-2, 3-4, and 5-6, and will be used statewide to promote a healthy, drug-free lifestyle. "We believe the children of Kentucky have something to say about these problems, and their messages are worth hearing. That is why we want to get them involved in this effort," Faulkner said.

The poster may be any size, and should include the student's name, age, grade, school, address and phone number on the reverse. Copyrighted characters such as Bart Simpson, Mickey Mouse, the Teenage Mutant Ninja Turtles and others may not be used. Entries must be received by Monday, December 16, and should be sent to: Governor's Office For A Drug-Free Kentucky, 90 Airport Road, Suite 3, Frankfort, KY, 40601.

Travel with KET

Upcoming programs on KET offer journeys into the interior of Madagascar with naturalists and below the surface of the ocean with a U.S. Navy submarine crew. Other highlights include a fresh look at the disastrous Johnstown flood of 1889, a new installment of Scientific American Frontiers, an examination of how Japanese companies are beating out their American competitors in the marketplace, and a jazz festival.
