Cumberland Valley District Home Health Agency would like to make Rockcastle Co. residents aware of the following law:

Description of Kentucky Advance Directive Law

In compliance with the mandate for Kentucky to develop a written description of its statutory and case law concerning advance directives, this office presents such a description below, which is based on statutory law, there being no case law which has specifically addressed the issue.

Kentucky Law on Advance Directives for Medical Decisions

The Kentucky Living Will Act

The 1990 session of the Kentucky General Assembly passed and the Governor signed into law, Act No. 113, known as the Kentucky Living Will Act which is codified at KRS 311.622-.644 and now sanctions the right of adult Kentuckians of sound mind to execute a written declaration which would allow life-prolonging treatments to be withheld or withdrawn in the event they become terminally ill and can no longer participate in making decisions about their medical care. The living will must be signed by the declarant in the presence of two subscribing witnesses who must not be blood relatives who would be beneficiaries of the declarant, beneficiaries of the declarant under the descent and distribution statutes of Kentucky, an employee of a health care facility in which the declarant is a patient, an attending physician of the declarant, or any person directly financially responsible for the declarant's health care. The living will must be notarized.

Two physicians, one of whom being the patient's attending physician, would have to certify that the declarant's condition was terminal before the living will could be implemented. The living will would not allow for the withholding or withdrawal of food or water, or medication or medical procedures deemed necessary to alleviate pain, and it would not apply to pregnant women.

The Health Care Surrogate Act of Kentucky

Also enacted into law by the 1990

session of the Kentucky General Assembly and the Governor was Senate Bill No. 88, the Health Care Surrogate Act of Kentucky, which is codified at KRS 311.970-986 and allows an adult of sound mind to make a written declaration which would designate one or more adult persons who could consent or withdraw consent for any medical procedure or treatment relating to the grantor when the grantor no longer has the capacity to make such decisions. This law requires that the grantor, being the person making the designation, sign and date the designation of health care surrogate which, at his option, may be in the presence of two adult witnesses who also sign or he may acknowledge his designation before a notary public witness. The healthcare surrogate cannot be an employee, owner, instructor or officer of a health care facility where theantor is a resident or patient unless red to the grantor.

Except in limited situations, a health facility would remain obligated to provide food and water treatment for the relief of pain, and life-

My Christmas Gift

My Christmas gift to you this year is always in demand.

But one that is not purchased in a store or website stand.

My gift is one so special that it brings a guarantee of ever lasting friendship for all the years to be.

My Christmas gift to you this year is never out of season for may it ever be returned whatever be the reason.

It is a sweet reminder that when your eyes are grey somebody cares about you who is not far away.

I bring to you the gift of love that shows all coldness out sustaining and uplifting as we learn what life's about.

It will remain unblemished and just as bright and as a hundred years from now as when I gave it first to you.

For County

Judge says outlook uncertain

By Ray McClure

"Overall, the county is as good as it's been in recent years," County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins reported as 1991 drew to a close.

He said the past year has been tough because the county had reductions in the budget that were reflected locally. "So we'll have to be cautious in 1992 because of the state short-fall."

He said the county cannot be sure of the money coming from the coal severance tax that could cause the county to reduce its spending.

The Judge noted some good could come from tourism if the recession begins to end in 1992.

What did the county do this year? Here is a look at some of the actions the Rockcastle Fiscal Court took in 1991.

In January, the fiscal court approved Rural Secondary Road Maintenance Program for FY 91-92. Total allotted amount, $566,729; presented Mrs. Alleyne Davis with a plaque commemorating 37 years of service to Rockcastle County Public Library; initiated Community Service Prisoners Program for cleaning of illegal dumps and purchased Judicial Annex property from Henry Hines at negotiated rate between Administrative Office of the Courts and owner at $50,000.

In February, the court directed issuance of $1,730,000 first mortgage revenue bonds (Court Facilities Project) to be repaid by the Administrative Office of the Courts in Frankfort; approved County Road Cooperative Agreement Program for FY 91-92 in the amount of $451,523; bids were opened on the Courthouse Annex Project with the successful bidder CB&S Construction Co. of Somerset for $1,360,000 and approved holding tourism conference in courthouse.

In March, the court accepted low bid of Ross-Sinclair of Lexington as successful bidder on Court Facilities Revenue Bonds at $1,955,000; approved jail budget for fiscal year 91-92 in the amount of $386,629 in estimated receipts and expenditures; appointed Joseph Clontz as County Treasurer, and appointed Chester C. Lakes as County Road Supervisor.

In April, the court approved replacement of Singleton Valley and Anglin Falls bridges; purchased two tractors, two mowers and one dicer for $65,507; approved holding housing conference at the courthouse; held Judicial Annex groundbreaking; held program honoring Desert Storm Troops; Rockcastle Housing Corporation was formed and approved Tourism Commission by-laws.

In May, the court approved resolution in opposition of the siting of a nerve gas incinerator at Blue Grass Army Depot in Madison County; exchanged three county-maintained roads for five state maintained roads, those roads being Lake Linville Road #1333, Hummel Road #1090, Spiro/Mareburg Road #1294 for State Roads, Sand Hill #2788, Sand Hill across I-75 #2791, Burr #2792, Old 25 #2789 at Rockcastle Steakhouse and Brindle Ridge #2794.

In June, the court approved Anglin Falls Bridge Construction for $38,500 to N & N Contracting; Singleton Valley Bridge Construction $70,000 to London Bridge Company and approved second reading and final adoption of fiscal year 91-92 budget at $1,622,244 the estimated receipts expenditures.

In July, the court purchased four trucks for $37,200; re-appointed Carol Bryant and Judy Proctor to the Rockcastle County Library Board of Trustees and approved on Ois Contracting as low bidder on N & N Maracle Road Bridge Construction at $14,400.

In August, the court approved filing of application for funds for water in Hines' Three Links, Brush Creek; authorized preparation of an application for solid waste grant at a match of 75/25 percent to purchasing equipment for clean up of existing dumps; approved tax rates for fiscal year 1991-92 with no increase in the county rate.

Mt. Vernon Elementary schoolteacher, Juanita Robinson, dies unexpectedly.

Local school teacher dies after giving birth to healthy twin girls

What should have been a joyous celebration to start the new year, turned to tragedy last Sunday, when a local school teacher died only three days after the birth of healthy twin girls.

Juanita Cox Robinson, 43, a fifth grade teacher at Mt. Vernon Elementary school, died Sunday at Humana Hospital in Lexington, after apparently suffering a series of heart attacks. No autopsy was performed.

Mrs. Robinson had given birth to two twin girls on Thursday afternoon, December 26. Both girls were healthy and everything seemed fine. Mrs. Robinson was even able to hold her girls shortly after their birth.

However, about twelve hours after the births, Mrs. Robinson began having chest pains, according to family members who said she apparently had a series of heart attacks following the first one which led to cardiac arrest.

Mrs. Robinson, who had been treated for high blood pressure and toxemia, had taught for several years in the Rockcastle County school system, and had also worked several years with the Kentucky Department of Social Insurance.

In Mt. Vernon

Outlook promising, Mayor says

Things look promising in 1992 for the City of Mt. Vernon, according to Mayor Gary R. Cromer.

The mayor said morale in the city police department is excellent as it is in all departments of the city.

"We also have a good working relationship with Cumberland Valley Area Development District, which has helped us a great deal," the mayor stated.

He added the city still does not have a sufficient tax base for all its needs, but will try to manage.

The mayor noted some of the city council's actions during the past year: William A. Mink was sworn in as new chief of police; First Street was closed for the construction on the court house annex; duck hunting ordinance was adopted by the council; Bittersweet Festival committee appointed and produced a successful festival.

Cable-television service was extended to newly annexed areas; state pay scale was adopted for city employees; the Coon Club renovated the club house at Lake Linville; city streets were all patched during the year; streets in Owens Subdivision were resurfaced; Richmond Street was resurfaced and marked.

Postal service to assist in house numbering; new computer replaced inadequate system; new motel and fast food restaurant opened in North Mt. Vernon; the boat dock was totally destroyed by a wind storm; VFW leased ballfields and recreation area; Lake Linville boat dock leased to Gary Linville of Berea.

New boat dock building constructed and opened for business; major water plant renovated completely; water ban lifted for city only; Renfro Valley sewer completed and operational.

All-American club adds streets to clean-up program; a new dump truck was purchased; three employees were certified in telecommunications at ECU; new radio replaced worn out equipment; DARE officer completed training; CAP requested sewer service.

Redbud Road sewer extension approved; pledge for Kentucky Country Music Hall of Honors approved; one police officer was in basic training at ECU - an unsuccessful offer was made for a recreation site; the third annual Christmas Parade was sponsored by the Rockcastle Region Street Walkers and state leave guidelines adopted for the city employees.

The city begins the new year with one new councilman. He is Lee Keene, who is Rockcastle Hospital's administrator.

Senters home destroyed by fire

The home of Mrs. Patsy Senters and her three children was destroyed by fire about 6 p.m. Friday on Bullock Street in Livingston.

Assistant Fire Chief, David Mason said the fire was probably of electrical origin. It burned the interior of the wooden frame house before Livingston firemen brought it under control.

The Senters lost most of their belongings and are in need of household furnishings. They may be left at the Fire Department or call 453-3481.

Mrs. Senters was next door when the fire started. The children were visiting in Covington.

A blue fire slightly damaged the home of Stanley Cook on Mt. Holly Road, Livingston, on Dec. 22.

Happy New Year!

Happy New Year!

Residents air their gripes

By Ray McClure

Happy New Year! more or less, unless there are a few things folks would like to see remedied in 1992 to make it an even better year. Some call them gripes, others call them wishes, or hopes.

We asked around the county for some graining, those that make a good grimace and groan. In short, things residents would prefer to do without. Here are a few.

Some said Rockcastle's a perfect place with absolutely no problems. A few said it was hopeless. As usual, there were the pros and cons.

Most all Rockcastle residents we asked said they would like a better exit from the Mt. Vernon post office. Maybe a right turn - only would be better. Sorry, it's a state highway department decision and they have reportedly said NO.

Several wished that people would learn to drive on Richmond Street, meaning some drivers turn left from a right lane and across two lanes. Others stop at the no-stop lanes. Others wished for slower drivers on all city streets.

Some hoped there would be no more selling of little items on a television channel known as QVC, whatever that is. It's wasting a good television channel. Who buys that stuff?

Speaking of television, one resident said he wished there would be less car advertisements on TV this year. Sir, yours is a losing cause.

Speaking of cars, almost everyone mentioned the loud stereos playing in cars with the windows open. Who wants to listen to someone else's music?

Another gripe was for folks to quit throwing garbage over the hill, beer cans on roads and diapers in the creeks. Sure it would be great if they did.

Some want bigger lottery pots and more winners. It'll never happen.

No drinking, or the legal amount, and driving. That is always a good idea.

There were those who hope more people will stop at home. That is, if they can find the items they want locally.

No more new restaurants in the area, someone said. There's already 11 with Denny's still to open.

Most said they hope prices will go down along with the interest rate. I suppose they were thinking of food, clothing, shelter and the high medical costs. Oh yes, and gasoline.

Some people hoped for more smiling faces and fewer frowns. Just out of Mt. Vernon city limits, many people wished the state highway department would remedy the off road from new Ky. 461 onto old 461 in the Spiro area and a better road around Lake Linville.

Here's a new one. One couple wished there'd be no smoking areas in public buildings and restaurants. Don't worry folks, we're well on the way to no smoking, except outside.

And, finally, one fellow hopes for cooler summers and warmer winters. Said it would save him money.

Outright resolutions were out this year, it seems. Most said they broke them. If they didn't the most mentioned, in this order, were: lose weight, quit smoking and arrange finances better. All great ideas.

If there are yours, good luck. I'm gonna pass, but wish everyone a happy new year!

By: Ike Adams

Yes. Yes. Yessss! There is, in fact, a Santa Claus. He read my recent column about the unfairability of the Troblyll biller for which I have pinned these many years and it now sits securely locked inside my garage.

Jennifer, who didn't get the diamond ring for which she pines, and who gave up writing letters to the North Pole several years ago has asked me to make mention of her desire in the newspapers. From her observation, my column works a lot better than writing letters or sitting on a fat man's lap. Or pleading in vain to Mom and Dad. I've told her that the ring she wants is probably going to mean washing dishes and doing the laundry for some hairy legged man the rest of her life and if she'll be patient I might sign her over in about ten years...

Christmas Day was nice enough at our place. In fact the whole affair leading up to it didn't get out of hand so we decided at the last minute to invite a dozen or so friends and family to dinner. I mean invitations were still going out as late as nine A.M. Christmas morning when we finally got in touch with Dean Cornett. To say that it was nice to be surrounded by good company and good food in the middle of our halfway unpacked household goods is an understatement. It was wonderful...

But the day after Christmas, I received a letter in the mail from Robert Cummins, formerly of the Mullins Station/Pine Hill Country in Southern Rockcastle county and now living in the hills of Nicholasville. The letter described the tiler of my dreams along with a list of attachments that went with it. Robert said he had read in The Mount Vernon Signal that I was looking for such an implement and that he would part with it for a "reasonable price."

I read the letter aloud to Loreta who quickly pointed out that no specific price had been mentioned.

"He said it was reasonable," I told her. "I aim to give him a call."

"$5000 is probably reasonable for a new Cadillac," she told me. "But that don't mean we could afford it." "So how much can I spend on this tiler and still stay out of divorce court?" I want to know.

A few hours later I have Mr. Cummins on the phone. He wants $6000.00 for the whole kit and caboodle and I relay that information to my still skeptical wife. And my hands are literally trembling. Loreta just frowns. She had put some time and effort into exploring the possibility of surprising me with a new one for Christmas. Robert's price is just under one third the best deal she could find.

"It's gotta be torn up," she tells me.

"Troblylls don't tear up," I tell her.

"I'll bet it's worn out," she says. "They just get broken in." Anyway, I call Mr. Cummins back and make arrangements to come and look at the tiler on Saturday. I explain to him that it may take me a few days to round up $6000 because I don't believe the Credit Union's Loan Committee is meeting this week and all that. I'm figuring that if the tiler is as good as Robert says it is, I can make a deposit and pick it up in a couple of weeks. I'm also figuring that it is, indeed, just like he says it is because Robert Cummins sounds like an awfully honest man.

On Saturday afternoon, I talked Junior Helton into riding over with me and we finally found the Cummins residence much closer to Lexington than Nicholasville to just Tates Creek road.

The rain had pored all the way over and gave no signs of letting up and three grown men got soaking wet getting the tiler fired up. It hadn't started in nearly a year so it required a bit of priming. But she fired right up and Robert put on a demonstration in the middle of the downpour.

And I tell him I want it and trying as hard as I can to not sound over the top. The truth of the matter is that I was so excited that I could have stripped off and streaked through the neighborhood in what Junior called, "the coldest rain he'd ever felt."

So Robert tells me to turn my truck around so we can load her up. I'd already told him about my financial condition, but he tells me that he.

Lady Rockets take second place in Wayne County tournament

The Rockcastle County Lady Rockets fell five points shy of capturing the Wayne County Tournament this past week. After putting on a good showing with wins over McCreehy Central, 38-20, and Wayne County, 47-45, the Lady Rockets fell to Boyle County 55-50 in the championship game Tuesday night.

With the two wins and one loss the Lady Rockets have extended their record to 6-3 on the year.

After being behind by as many as 18 in the fourth quarter, the Lady Rockets rallied to cut the Boyle lead to only two with minutes remaining.

"I was proud of my girls for not quitting. They got down but they fought back," Lady Rockets' head coach Christy Beaver said. "We just waited too long to try and come back."

Boyle County jumped out to an 18-10 lead in the first quarter and extended their lead to 15 at the half, 34-19.

"You have to give Boyle credit, they really lit it up in the first half, they hit everything," Beaver said.

After intermission, the Lady Rockets, led by Jennifer Thacker's 21 points, won the first quarter by outscoring Boyle, 11-8, and cutting Boyle's lead to 42-30.

Still, the Lady Rockets had their best quarter in the fourth when they rallied with a 20 point run. The end result was an eventual two point margin, but a margin the Lady Rockets couldn't break in to as Boyle extended their lead to five, 55-50, at the end of regulation time.

"We played a great six minutes in the fourth quarter," Beaver said. "We had some opportunities that we executted well and some that we didn't," she added.

One specific opportunity came from the freethrow line throughout the night. The Lady Rockets were only successful in connecting one eight of 23 attempts from the charity stripe, thus giving up 15 unanswered points.

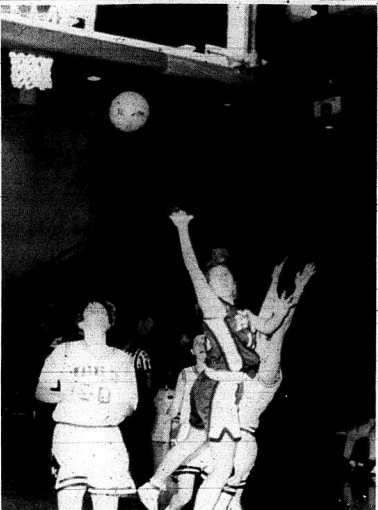

Scoring for the Rockets were: Jennifer Thacker, 21; Kristy Sargent, 9; Cindy McCauley, 9; Beth Amyx, 6 and Danaeta Ford, 1.

The Lady Rockets began the tournament with a victory over McCreehy Central.

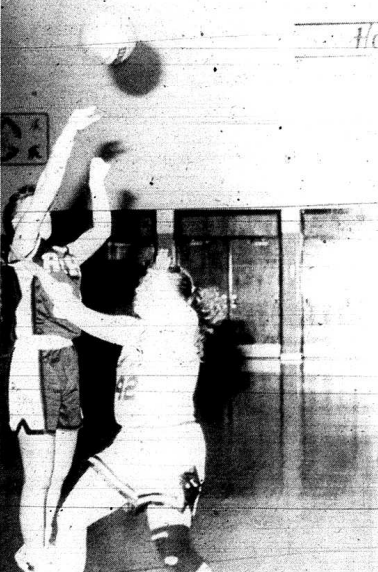

The Rockets jumped out to a 10 point lead at the end of the first quarter 17-7 and expanded their lead at the half, 29-12.

"We played a really good first half, but we let up in the second half," Beaver said.

Beth Amyx shoots over a Wayne County defender in Monday night's second round action.

It was Christmas Eve night. Families were gathered around, Sparkling snow softly falling. In Rockcastle beauty did abound.

Houses were brightly decorated. Lights twinkling inside and out. Children were wishing fervently. That Santa would soon be about.

Grandmas were watching the children

Their beautiful faces all aglow. Grandpas were listening to the chatter. Their hair whiter than snow.

Christmas trees were beautifully strung. With garlands and balls shining bright. Twinkling stars at the top. Were guiding Santa through the night.

Just as they guided Kings of long ago. Bearing gifts that were tokens of love. For Mary and Joseph's baby Jesus. The Christ Child from Heaven above.

Straight Talk

The art of dealing with the angry child

Handling children's anger can be puzzling, draining and distressing for adults. In fact, one of the major problems in dealing with anger in children is the angry feelings that are often stirred in us. We as parents, teachers, counselors and administrators need to remind ourselves that we were not always taught how to deal with anger as a fact of life during our own childhood. We were led to believe that to be angry was to be bad, and we were often made to feel guilty for expressing anger.

It will be easier to deal with children's anger if we get rid of this notion: Our goal is not to repress or destroy angry feelings in children but rather to accept the feelings and to help channel, and direct them to constructive ends.

Parents and teachers must allow children to feel all their feelings. Adult skills can then be directed toward showing children acceptable ways of expressing their feelings. Strong feelings cannot be denied, and angry outbursts should not always be viewed as a sign of serious problems; they should be recognized and treated with respect.

To respond effectively to overly aggressive behavior in children we need to have some ideas about what may have triggered an outburst. Anger and a desire for revenge, painful feelings, it may be associated with failure, low self-esteem and feelings of isolation; or it may be related to anxiety about a situation over which the child has no control.

Angry defiance may also be associated with feelings of dependency, and anger may be associated with sadness and depression. In childhood, anger and sadness are very close to one another, and it is important to remember that much of what an adult experiences as sadness is expressed by a child as anger.

We should distinguish between anger and aggression. Anger is a temporary emotional state caused by frustration; aggression is often an attempt to hurt a person or to destroy property.

Anger and aggression do not have to be dirty words. In other words, in looking at aggressive behavior in children, we must be careful to distinguish between behavior that indicates emotional problems and behavior that is normal.

In dealing with angry children, our actions should be motivated by the need to protect and to teach, not by a desire to punish. Parents and teachers should show a child that they accept his or her feelings, while

Tracking the Cats

By Jim Master

The "Dream Game" was fantasy for the Kentucky Wildcats and a nightmare for the Louisville Cardinals. Kentucky would upstage its cross-town rival, but not by the final margin of 14 points. The pregame line favored the Wildcats by 10 and that appeared generous. Especially against a Louisville squad that upset Louisiana State in Baton Rouge a week earlier.

Score the knockdown in this one to experience and savvy. The gifted Cardinals made several runs at Kentucky, but the men in blue failed to crumble to the constant pocking. Big-play men like Jamaal Mashburn, John Polphrey, Richie Farmer and Dale Brown continually thwarted the Louisville surges. They shot down the high flying Cardinals with a shotgun.

One more game stands in the way of opening its defense last season's Southeastern Conference-best record of 14-4. Notre Dame arrives in Lexington for a Thursday night tipoff. This is the first game in recent memory for the Wildcats and Irish in Lexington. For years, the rivalry was renewed in Louisville and later in South Bend as well.

I've said that great teams make great rivalries for Kentucky and in the past, Notre Dame was nearly as heated as it could get. The Irish, then coached by Digger Phelps, always had very good teams with great talent. Back in 1980, when I was a freshman, Kentucky was ranked number one in the nation. Notre Dame came into Louisville as the underdog, but pulled off the upset. Looking back, you have to wonder how we were supposed to wipe the Irish clean off the floor. After all, the two starting forwards were Kelly Tripucka and Orlando Woolridge, longtime NBA standouts.

Phelps never liked the neutral court in Louisville, but he only needed to look to his athletics director to blame. When the contract ran out, we played in South Bend in 1982 and the Irish were licking their chops. "Kentucky Fried Chicken" signs abounded on the Notre Dame campus, but in the end, we played a near perfect game against the John Paxson-led Irish and won going away. Derrick Ford and I played and shot as well as we could and it remains one of the highlights of my UK playing career.

As everyone knows, Phelps stepped down after a losing season last year and the Irish brought in John MacLeod from the New York Knicks. This could be the worst Notre Dame team in over 20 years. Still, they have some good talent, lead by LaPhoso Ellis, an inconsistent but talented center. Still, Notre Dame lost to Butler by 17 points and sports only one victory to its credit. Look for a Kentucky win, but the Irish could show a little fight. They lost to Louisville by three earlier this year.

On Saturday night, Kentucky makes its first true road trip of the year to SEC newcomer South Carolina. The Gamecocks have a reputation as a heavy hitter on their home court and Kentucky must be at its best to win. At 9-2, every game is important for Kentucky as it seeks an NCAA bid and a high seed.

Sue Bennett to expand athletic program.

Sue Bennett's athletic program will be undergoing some dramatic changes during the next two to three years according to Athletic Director, Owen Barker.

Traditionally, Sue Bennett has supported four sports: baseball, men's basketball, women's basketball, and women's softball. With planned expansion, the size of the athletic program will double. Four new sports will be introduced beginning next fall, including men's soccer, women's soccer, women's volleyball, and co-educational cross country.

At their fall meeting, Sue Bennett's Board of Trustees approved the funds to start these programs, and if all goes as planned, the new athletics would be in operation by the beginning of the fall term. At this point, the athletic department is in the initial stages of recruiting and hiring coaches.

The development of new playing fields for the additional programs is one of the central issues facing the athletic department. Sue Bennett has adequate space, but the construction of these facilities will extend into the 1992-93 school year and beyond. Until that time, the new teams will have to practice and compete off campus until facilities can be built.

At this point, plans call for the soccer teams to play behind London Elementary School. The volleyball team will play in Sue Bennett's Health and Physical Education Center, and the cross country team will practice at Levi Jackson State Park and compete at various schools in the area.

One of the hopes of everyone at Sue Bennett is that by offering additional athletic opportunities that school will attract a more diversified student body, as well as increase the residential student population.

In addition to the introduction of the new sports, the athletic department is committed to developing existing programs. The last eight months have seen the gradual renovation of the baseball field with hopes of completion in early March. Additional plans include putting in a grass infield, practice pitcher mounds, and batting cages.

"Lady Rockets"

The Lady Rockets could only extend their lead by one point in the third quarter, 38-20. But thanks to superb play early on, were able to nurse their lead throughout the final period of play for the win, 44-28.

"We fundamentally played a pretty good ball game against McCreary," Beaver said. "Kristy (Sargent) highlighted the evening by playing a great game both offensively and defensively," she added.

Lady Rockets scoring against McCreary were: Kristy Sargent, 15; Jennifer Thacker, 10; Beth Amyx, 9; Cindy McCauley, 8 and Irene Gruter with 2.

The Lady Rockets were involved in, what some thought to be, the best game of the tournament when they took on host Wayne County Monday night. Although the Lady Rockets led throughout the game, Wayne rallied in the second half, especially in the fourth quarter, to pull within only two points. However, the Lady Rockets held on for the nailbiting win, by two, 47-45.

"We made stupid mental mistakes, we let up in the second half," Beaver said, "but they managed to hang on and win," she added.

"Kristy Sargent and Cindy McCauley played good games," Beaver said.

Scoring for the Rockets were: Kristy Sargent, 17; Jennifer Thacker, 12; Cindy McCauley, 12; Beth Amyx, 4 and Christy Coleman, 2.

The Lady Rockets now have a weekend trip when they play at Johnson Central Friday night and Phelps Saturday.

State provides funds for drinking water needs

The amount of water used by Kentuckians in 1990 was 228.2 million gallons per day, up considerably from the 10.75 million gallons used per day in 1900. In 1991, the Rockcastle water plant produced 440,896,000 gallons of water, up slightly from last year. The state's 2.15 million people in 1900 used an average of 5 gallons of water per day per person. By 1990, the population had risen to 3.68 million, and each person used an average of 62 gallons of water per day. Providing all that water to meet today's needs is an expensive task for water plants across the Commonwealth because of the constant need to expand, upgrade, renovate, repair, and maintain equipment and distribution systems. In addition, federal and state regulations require monitoring and treating drinking water to make it safe for consumer. Complying with these regulations has created extra expenses for water suppliers. Recognizing the financial needs of these suppliers, the state has provided for loan and grant programs for drinking water plants, $34 million has been appropriated since 1988 for the state revolving loan fund. Twenty-eight projects have received a total of $27,764,979 in low interest loans. In its special session in 1991, the Legislature appropriated $6 million for grants for eight projects; $5,662,000 has been awarded. It also appropriated $30 million for water resources loans to four area development districts, Gateway, Big Sandy, Kentucky River, and Cumberland Valley. A total of $23,904,807 has been distributed to 13 cities and water districts in these area development districts. Projects funded are classified as public water systems—those that serve a minimum of 15 service connections or an average of 25 people daily for at least 60 days per year. A community system is a public water system that services those same customers year-round. The Kentucky Division of Water regulates 869 public water systems. Of those, 545 are considered community systems; 185 are non-transient non-community systems (serving such facilities as schools, hospitals, and factories) and 139 are transient non-community systems (serving facilities like rest areas, campgrounds, and service stations).

figures I'll pay him for it and I may as well take it on. Not only that, but he insists that there's no sense in getting a loan. To make a wonderful long story short, he agreed to finance the tiller!

No credit check. No calls to see if I was in trouble with the law. Here's a man that I have known for about 30 minutes agreeing to let me haul his tiller to parts unknown in Garrard County for a small down payment and telling me that I can pay him the rest of what I owe him as I get it.

"I know from reading your column that I can trust you," he tells me.

Not only do I have the tiller I've been wanting for most of my adult life, but I have also been paid the highest compliment a newspaper writer can receive.

And now I wish it would stop raining for a day or two. My immediate goal is to have my peas up before my kin folks in Letcher county. That means they need to be planted in the next day or two.

And speaking of seed, in case you have been away for the last couple of weeks or you just haven't had time to read the paper, please be advised our seed catalogue scam has a full head of steam. So far we have about 15 takers and we need at least 60 of you to sign up for our mailing list. Send me two 29 cent stamps, your name and address and we'll see to it that you receive 50 or 60 high quality catalogues over late winter/early spring. Not just seeds either. We're also talking fishing tackle, pocket knives, tools & hardware and sexy underwear just to name a few of our major concerns. The address is 6945, highway 52 west, Paint Lick, KY 40461.

suggesting other ways to express the feelings. An adult might say, for example, "Let me tell you what some children would do in a situation like this..." It is not enough to tell children what behaviors we find unacceptable. We must teach them ways of coping. Also, ways must be found to communicate what we expect of them, contrary to popular opinion, punishment is not the most effective way to communicate to children what we expect of them.

Political notes

Hopkins won't run; Baesler will be candidate

A few interesting political notes emerged this week around the area and the state.

U.S. Rep. Larry Hopkins, Republican of Lexington, will not be a candidate for reelection in the May primary election, he said this week. That leaves Lexington Mayor Scotty Baesler, a Democrat, the only announced candidate to date for Hopkins' job.

Hopkins said he did not have the energy to mount another campaign. He was defeated in November by now Democratic Gov. Brereton Jones.

In what is expected to be a hotly contested race for the new 5th District seat now held by U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers, Republican of Somerset, appears to be under way.

In the newly redistricted district, the primary will pit Rogers against incumbent U.S. Rep. Chris Perkins who squeaked by Republican Will T. Scott by only 1953 votes in last year's election.

Rep. Perkins' big Democratic 5th District will keep 12 counties but still be 55 percent Democratic compared to 44 percent Republican, apparently giving the Democrat candidate the edge, whenever he may be.

Already Perkins faces Democrat Jerry Cecil of Hazel Green in Morgan County and probably Carole Hubbard, wife of U.S. Rep. Carol Hubbard, Democrat of Mayfield in the May primary. It's a good bet there will be several more

Gibson unfairly fired striking employees in 1989

Gibson Greetings, Inc., of Berea unfairly fired 10 striking employees in a 1989 strike at the company, so reports the administrative law judge for the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB).

The company is appealing the decision which has been submitted to the NLRB for a final ruling.

The complaint against the company was filed by the International Brotherhood of Firemen and Oilers, Local 77.

It stemmed from a strike in May, 1989 when 260 workers walked out after contract talks broke down.

The decision said the company failed to bargain in good faith with the union.

Beer returned to driver by Judge Cain

For the second time since October, a man has had his truck load of beer returned after his transporting charge was dismissed in District Court.

Judge William T. Cain dismissed the charge against Melvin Ronald Myers, also known as Ronald Myers, of Byrdstown, Tenn., On Dec. 30, ruling the Commonwealth failed to produce any evidence that Myers has a reputation for trafficking, or transporting, alcoholic beverages, or that the destination of the beer was anywhere other than Tennessee.

Myers was stopped by Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan southbound on Ky. 461. He had 27 cases of beer in his vehicle.

Judge Cain ordered the beer returned to Myers.
 Both County Attorney James Lambert and Deputy Doan voiced strenuous objections to the dismissal.
 Judge Cain based his dismissal on Kentucky Revised Statutes 242.290.
 On Oct. 2, Judge Cain dismissed a similar charge against Larry Addington of Somerset who was arrested on Ky. 461, transporting 30 cases of beer. Addington also had a stolen pistol in his possession.

 The beer was returned to Addington who asked Sheriff Shirley Smith and deputies to carry the beer out to his van. A furious Sheriff Smith and his deputies refused.

Trailers trashed in hunt for marijuana?

By Ray McClure
 Someone is apparently still looking; meaning, someone who knew Betty Brogan was carrying 60 pounds of marijuana in the trunk of her car when she was swept into Dix River Dec. 2 and drowned.

Mrs. Brogan's mobile home, and one nearby belonging to her sister Laurie Brogan, were broken into and trashed Sunday while Laurie Brogan was in Tennessee.

Police believe the burglars were looking for the marijuana.

"It was one big mess," reported Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan, who investigated the break-in. "Every drawer was pulled out and clothes and belongings scattered around the rooms. They even pried open places in the trailer that seemed obvious there couldn't be anything there."

The only things missing were a television and shotgun from Laurie's home and a stereo from Betty's.

The body of Betty Brogan was found Dec. 4 about a mile down Dix River from the point where she attempted to cross Grassy Branch while the water was rising. She was not in the car.

After the car was found and taken to the home of Brodhead policeman Joe Bussell, two strangers were reported in the area around the car before it was drilled open. They disappeared after the marijuana was found.

Speculation at the time was that Betty Brogan may have been a hauler for drug dealers and left the "pot" in the trunk awaiting a pickup.
