Rockcastle Champions Clubs

By: Ginny Gilpatrick

Members of the Creative Writing Champions Club at MVE's turned into reporters last week to "cover" what was happening in several other clubs. They first practiced painting "word pictures", and learned it was all right to sometimes have their topic sentence mid-paragraph.

Loud banging. Smashing racket making hands sweat. People hammering on wood. Wood screeching for help as nails are being jammed in them. Bang! Bang. They are laughing and hitting. They seem happy as they are making bird boxes. Their teacher is Jim Maxwell. He is teaching them to clean up the environment.

Some of them were getting lost. Some even had to ask the teacher what to do. Some had to take their grumpy squares out. It was the crocheters working on a... and about to start on the orange. Some were doing very good and wanting to do more. The teacher's name is Sue Chesnut. They were making grumpy squares for an alphan for the old people at the hospital.

By Debra Ann Spencer

People were getting restless. Soon everything was silent. They started. First they did some exercises. Then they saw how far up their legs would go. They were doing good. It was karate. It's at the Teen center every Tuesday and Thursday with Michael Durham. The lessons are for Teen Champions only.

By Susan Gray

Colorful things are lying on the table. Some are bright and others are light. They are making posters to take to the hospital every month. They were watching a movie about tobacco too. The teachers names are Lu Ed Nielsen and Joy Roberts. The name of their group is Community Service.

The emphasis in each Champions Club throughout the county is on goal setting and achievement. Community members will be invited to see the results of the various clubs' activities in mid-May.

In spelling, the students have made 24 weeks of A's. They are still climbing their way to the top.

They are still working on attendance. So far this year, they have had only 6 absences. Their goal is to finish the year with an award for everyone... Only 45 days to go!!!

Schedule of Events

- March 19 - Monday - D.A.R.E. Graduation for 6th grade - 6 p.m.
- March 31 - Tuesday - Portfolios Due - Cheerleader Tryouts - 2:10 p.m.

On February 10, 1992 eighth grade students at Mt. Vernon Elementary began working on the first science fair to take place at the new school. In the weeks that followed Mrs. Virginia Garst's and Ms. Debbie Abney's third period classes have been working diligently to complete their projects by the March 20th deadline. Due to this hard work and dedication these students reached their goal of completing their projects by the deadline date. Upon completion the projects will be judged at the school and the winners receiving a blue ribbon for first place will then go on to a county wide science fair for judging. Those first place winners from the county wide competition will then be sent to Cumberland College for a state wide science fair. All students who participate in the science fair will receive a white ribbon for all their hard work over the past few weeks.

The completed projects will be displayed in the gym at Mt. Vernon Elementary this Thursday and Friday (March 19th and 20th). The parents of the students, along with the general public, are strongly encouraged to stop by and see the results of these students' hard work and dedication. Remember, students need our support and encouragement in order to do well in school. Hope to see you

Library News

By: Geraldine Robbins

The art exhibit "Images From The Mountains" is still on display at the library. I hope more of you will come in and see the beautiful art work from these Appalachian artists. The show will be here until March 28th.

In observance of National Library Week, the Rockcastle County Library will sponsor another Local Art Show April 5th - 18th. Those of you who wish to participate in the show please let me know on or before March 23rd so that we will be able to plan space for the art display. The number at the library is 256-2388.

Libraries across the nation highlighted the importance of the public's "right to know" when they observed Freedom of Information Day on March 16th.

"The right to know is inseparable from the right of speech," said James A. Nelson, state librarian and commissioner of the Kentucky Department of Libraries and Archives.

Champions Clubs encourage cooperation. Here Mindy and Shannon Nicely, Stephanie Bradley, Donna Bullock and Ashley Scoggins share fabric paints.

It means people having the information they need to live, learn, work and govern in a democratic society.

"This is the information age," Nelson said, "a time when the American people's need for information and the 'right to know' cannot be separated if we are to live full and productive lives."

Nelson cited library budget cuts, which are occurring throughout the country, as competition for lagging tax revenue stiffens, as one threat to the "right to know." "America's libraries," both rural and urban, are in a state of financial crisis," he said. He noted that during the last year, many libraries have had to shorten hours, freeze new book purchases, lay off staff and cancel special services such as bookmobiles and literacy programs.

Governor Jones has recognized the importance of libraries here in Kentucky," Nelson said, "by increasing state aid to public libraries and making a strong statement about libraries his budget message. This action will help Kentucky improve its ranking of 48th among the states in support of local libraries."

Freedom of Information Day will be used by the American Library Association to kick off a month-long national campaign, "Call for America's Libraries." The campaign will encourage citizens to use a toll-free number to register their support for the "right to know." According to Nelson, the number, 1-800-530-8888, will give everyone who cares about and appreciates libraries "a chance to stand up and be counted."

The Rockcastle County Public Library has a wealth of information and we want to share it with the citizens of this county. If we don't have the information needed, we are able to borrow materials from other libraries quickly.

The library is still having a problem with people taking books and not bothering to return them. This places a hardship on our other patrons who need these books for information and pleasure reading. In order to help alleviate this problem, the Rockcastle County Library Board has established a new policy regarding checking out books and materials. We want everyone to be familiar with these new policies and please abide by them so that all people will have access to our services.

New Policy

1. Books are checked out for a period of two weeks and they may be renewed at that time unless a time limit has been set for a special book. A fine of 20 cents per week will be charged for each book that has been kept longer than the two week period unless it has been renewed. Patrons that have not returned books after sixty days, will forfeit their privilege of taking book and materials from the library.

2. Videos are checked out for two days and a fine of $1 per day will be charged for overdue videos. If videos are not returned in two weeks, patrons will not be permitted to take any more out.

3. Audio tapes may be checked out for one or two weeks. This will be at the discretion of the librarian. A fine of 50 cents per week will be charged for overdue tapes. If audio tapes are not returned in four weeks, patrons will forfeit their privilege of using them, also.

We have received a new shipment of videos and audio tapes. These include informational and entertainment tapes as well as children's tapes. The total number of these is 108.

The titles of the new books are: 1. Treasures by Belva Plain - The Owlhouse - two sisters and a brother - seem to be a typical Ohio family, but following the death of their mother, the sparks of dissatisfaction arise with small town life. Extraordinary circumstances ignite for two of them. Only one is left in Ohio.

up each time. Eddy builds a great financial empire, but only through some questionable deals. Lara, with her husband Davey, fights a hostile takeover of their family business.

All three of the siblings face unusual challenges. But Eddy, with one reckless act, tests their loyalties to the minimum. It is a story of happiness, sadness and triumph.

2. Hideshow by Dean R. Koontz: - Although accident victim Hatch Harrison dies en route to the hospital, a brilliant physician miraculously resuscitates him. Given this second chance, Hatch and his wife, Lindsey, approach each day with a new appreciation for the beauty of life - until a series of mysterious and frightening events bring them face to face with the unknown. Although Hatch was given no glimpse of an Afterlife the period when his heart stopped, he has a reason to fear that he has brought back with him a terrible Presence from the land of the dead.

When people who have wronged the Harrisons begin to die violently, Hatch comes to doubt his own innocence - and must confront the possibility this life is just a prelude to another, darker place. He and Lindsey are afraid not only for their own survival but that of Regina, the delightful child who has given them a meaning and purpose to their lives.

Winter's last hurrah?

The ground was covered with a white blanket of snow Sunday morning causing many roads, such as Cupps Chapel Road, to become snow covered. However, the snow was gone almost as quickly as it arrived. By noon, only traces of the snow remained as clear skies and rising temperatures melted the covering.

Rash of break-ins occur in Rockcastle County

A Pine Hill man has been arrested and charged with possession of alcoholic beverages in a dry territory for purpose of sale.

Sheriff deputies and state police reported they found 352 cans of beer, 32 bottles of whiskey and half a bottle of vodka at the residence of James Lewis Mink.

The home of Willard Collingsworth at Renfro Valley was broken in on March 9 and $300 worth of jewelry was taken including gold chains and earrings.

Michael Woods of West Virginia, lost his temper and battered down the back door of the courthouse on U.S. 150.

Sheriff Deputy Darrell Doan said Woods got mad at District Judge Walter Maguire. He paid $561 to replace the door.

A motorcycle was stolen from Eugene Writ on Green Hill while parked at the residence of Brenda Ambrose. The 1974 Suzuki was yellow.

A Chevrolet Vega was stolen from Quarry Meadows. The 1975, red vehicle was at the home of Johnny Meadows when it was taken.

A tool box, chain, cables and a 8x14 inch speaker, were stolen from a pickup truck owned by Larry Strunk of Mt. Vernon. Estimated value was $187. Deputy Darrell Doan investigated.

Barbara Dooley, 31, of Mt. Vernon told Deputy Doan she was traveling on U.S. 25 at Burr, hit a pool of water, ran off the road and hit a cliff. She did not suffer serious injury.

Lucy Helton, 65, of Copper Creek, was arrested Tuesday by state police, ABC agents and local police for selling alcoholic beverages in a local option territory.

Police found 216 cans of Busch beer, 350 cans of Budweiser and 11 bottles of whiskey.

Steve Milburn, 31, of Mt. Vernon, has been captured by state police and sheriff deputies on a charge from Lexington for parole violation.

He was arrested by State Troopers Jack Lawless, Herbie Adams and deputy sheriff Darrell Doan at the home of Billy Rash on Chestnut Ridge.

Milburn also had been charged in Rockcastle for failure to appear in District Court. He owed $297 in District Court.

Chief Mink reported D.U.I. arrests in the city have increased in the past two months.

There were five arrests last month and four this month. The chief thought they might have been increased by the warm weather.

A break-in that netted thieves about $6,000, or more, in cash and checks occurred Sunday from Saylor's Pharmacy in Mt. Vernon.

Howard Saylor told Police Chief Bill Mink he left the business but forgot to activate the burglar alarm. When he returned, about midnight, the glass door at the rear of the business was smashed. Saylor also said he had forgotten to make a deposit.

The chief said some drugs were known to have been taken, but the investigation is continuing by the chief and policeman John Bradley.

The residence of Billy Hiatt was burglarized about 9 a.m. March 12 after Hiatt went to his store.

Register to vote by May 26

Rockcastle County citizens who want to vote in the primary election on May 26 have until April 28 to register, according to County Clerk Norma Heaton.

Citizens can register to vote or check their voter registration records at their county clerk's office. There they can obtain and fill out a voter registration card.

The clerk can also identify their voter precinct and tell them where to vote.

Time to start thinking about spring clean-up

Let's keep our county clean for our own health and enjoyment as well as for visitors who come our way.

So said County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins this week as hints of spring were in the air.

"If you have adopted a road, now is the time to think about spring cleanup," the judge said. "Our yards need to be cleared of debris to make way for the lawn mower and household garbage must have proper disposal."

Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary R. Cronin also urged residents to cleanup around their houses when the weather is better.

He also mentioned not to forget to recycle glass, aluminum, plastic and paper. The schedule is Mt. Vernon, Main Street near Sears building on Monday. Brodhead at Convent Store on U.S. 150 on Wednesday, and Livingston on Friday at parking lot across from Livingston Elementary School.

The judge said if residents have not registered to do so right away.

"You may call one of the permitted haulers who will be glad to add you to their route or you may take your bags of garbage to the transfer station at Burr."

Haulers with permits include: Bee Garbage, Mt. Vernon; William K. Bullen, Mt. Vernon; Helton Sanitation, Gray; Glen Parker, Livingston; The Perks, Berea; Charles Ingle, Berea; Linda McWhorter, Renfro Valley.

The solid waste office in the courthouse can give information at 256-2313.

It is unlawful for any person to: dispose of garbage, refuse, rubbish or debris by illegally dumping same on any premises in the county with or without the consent of the owner of the premises; dump or permit the illegal dumping of garbage, refuse, rubbish, and debris on any property within the county limits; deposit solid waste collection and disposal.

Fail to have solid waste disposed of as provided by the county ordinance; interfere in any manner with solid waste collection and transportation equipment; dispose of dead animals in any container to be collected by the solid waste collection service; own or operate a dump; dispose of solid waste at any facility or location which is not approved by the county and the Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection; engage in the business of collecting solid waste without a permit issued by the county; fail to be catalogued by a permit holder for proper collection and disposal of solid waste.

One confirmed case of Measles found in county

A recent outbreak of the measles throughout central Kentucky has many Rockcastle Countians concerned.

Only one account of the disease has been found in the county, although a second unconfirmed case was listed among possible contaminants.

According to one local health consultant, the possible contaminant was a child thought to have the measles, but the cause was not known. The child's mother was suffering from the measles, and when she realized her condition, she immediately got a vaccination for her child. According to an informational pamphlet provided by the Cumberland Valley District Health Department, some symptoms of the measles can appear following an MMR shot. "About 1 out of every 5 children will get rash or slight fever lasting for a few days... after getting the measles vac-ination," the pamphlet reports. Since unknown as to whether the symptoms were caused by a reaction to the vaccination or the child was actually contaminated by the mother, it is not considered at this time a "case" of the measles. Therefore, only one actual case of the measles has been reported.

"Every child should have shots, especially before going to school, and they should be kept current while going to school," said Dr. Orson Arvin. According to Arvin, people who are in an epidemic area, such as a college, are at high risk, and those who received their immunization in 1957 should be re-evaluated. He also added that people who have measles should avoid taking aspirin, but take Tylenol instead. Plenty of liquids are important as well.

Rhenda Mills, Director of Infectious Disease Control Center, stated, "The first dose vaccines are for anyone born in or later than 1957, who never had measles vaccines prior to 1970, or who had measles, mumps and rubella vaccine prior to 12 months of age need a dose of the vaccine now."

Mills continued by stating that her advice was not just recommended because of the recent outbreak. "This is a general recommendation for this age group -- not just because of the recent outbreak. This [is a recommendation for every day of the year."

The average amount of vaccinations given in the state for the measles has slightly increased, according to Mills.

Common symptoms of measles include a rash, high fever, cough, runny nose, and watery eyes, sometimes lasting two weeks. One out of every 10 children who get the measles experience an ear infection or pneumonia as well.

The greatest danger in the disease stems from an inflammation of the brain. The condition, known as encephalitis, can lead to convulsions, deafness or mental retardation.

"Statistics show that one out of every 1,000 children suffer from encephalitis, and only enough one out of every 10,000 die from the disease.

Children are not the only ones susceptible. Women of childbearing age are at risk as measles in pregnant women can cause a premature baby or even a miscarriage.

Vaccinations generally protect 92 percent of all recipients for life, however, vaccines given early in life are not as apt to last a lifetime. The suggested age for a measles vaccination is 15 months old or older.

Although some shots should not be given simultaneously, a combined shot for measles, mumps and rubella (MMR). These immunizations have no known risk factor and cost little at a local health department.

See the adjoining chart for information on when to immunize children and what vaccines are compatible with each other. For further information, contact the Rockcastle County Health Department at 256-2242.

What is your prediction-- Will the UK Wildcats win the NCAA Tournament?

Eddie Mahaffey

Doug Hamm

Glenn Miller

No. I don't believe they have enough horses to win 6 games straight. I mean, a team gets this far along, it's anybody's ballgame but I don't look for them to win it.

The odds are against it but Rick Pitino may repeat his luck like when he was at Providence. I think the key to it is how well Brown plays. They have a chance.

Well, that's kind of hard to predict. It's anybody's game right now. There's 64 teams right now that could win it. They've got the potential to win.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,
How are you doing this cold, wintery morning? While you and your family are in bed, I am up wide awake and keeping fire. I told David Perkins, Rockcastle County's retiring Basketball Coach, I would write a letter about him.

Mr. Perkins coached Rockcastle County boy's basketball teams for seven years, 1985 through 1992. Mr. Perkins wife, Becky, was a Rockcastle County cheerleader sponsor.

Mr. Perkins may never had a winning season in his seven years but he told me he went to the region his first year as Rockcastle County coach.

Mr. Perkins' 1992 basketball team won 12 and lost 14. The Clay County Tigers defeated the Rockets by 47 points, 116 to 69, March 3rd.

The Clay County Tigers have a beautiful new gymnasium. Clay County won the 13th region but they will not win the state tournament.

Fans, ladies and gentlemen, let's get behind whomever our new coach kebabal coach is. Give the new coach all of our support.

In closing I want to thank Mr. Perkins.

Just My Opinion

By:
Richard Anderkin

The news from Frankfort these days is not good, and further more it is hard for the average Kentuckian to swallow.

Two years ago, with reckless abandon, the State Legislature hit Kentucky taxpayers with one of the largest tax increases ever for any state in the entire union.

Now, lawmakers tell us there is not enough money to spend on our schools, and cuts are imminent. The tax increase amounted to about $1.6 billion and yet we don't even have enough money in the state's budget to fund our education programs. That certainly seems like mismanagement on someone's part and in the end that mismanagement will likely stagnate the Kentucky Education Reform Act.

It seems that Gov. Jones is trying to do everything that he promised he would when he was running for the Governor's seat and he wants a succession amendment placed on the ballot. I personally think a succession amendment is a good idea. Most voters are intelligent enough to decide whether or not a candidate has done a worthwhile job during their four-year term. By re-electing Governors we would, in fact, have a little more stability in state government. It is hard for any Governor to get anything of major importance done in four years and, if by chance for some unknown, reason we were to get a good Governor in Kentucky, we should be able to keep him or her.

Many Kentuckians will vote against such an amendment as they have done in the past, simply because they think four years of any Governor is enough. But, if we all stop and think about it, a Governor that does a good job should be allowed to continue to do the same good job for as many terms as he or she desires.

Dear Editor,
My family, friends and I enjoy reading the Mount Vernon Signal very much. However, there is something we would like to see added to the paper that we feel would be both entertaining and beneficial to your readers. We have never seen an advice column, and I believe it could even increase circulation. I would even be interested in doing the column myself.

I'd like to see it directed to single parents and problems they are having, teenagers with step parent problems, etc. There are so many possibilities. I have been a single parent for 12 years. I have experience in the step parenting problems. I believe I could write a book. We could even encourage readers to call my number and leave their questions or problems on my answering machine. I'm on disability so I can devote a lot of my time to a column.

Please give it some thought?
Thank you,
Mary Lebo

Parents can ask KET about school reform

The sixth program in KET's new series designed to spread understanding of education reform among parents will focus on student portfolios, a new way of evaluating student performance. School Reform: Answers for Parents airs at 9 p.m. Thursday, March 26.

4, local democrats will decide who will be their chairman for the next four years. Present chairman Verla Scott is being challenged for her seat by virtual political newcomer Larry Doyle.

Doyle was Brereton Jones' local campaign chairman during last year's Governor's race and if local observers know what they are talking about, Doyle will most likely replace Mrs. Scott. No doubt, Mrs. Scott has gotten a lot done for the county during her tenure as chairman, but last year she rode the wrong horse, or wrong "horsette" if you will. When Mrs. Scott backed Wallace Wilkinson four years ago she was amply awarded with the chairman's seat and now she should simply support Doyle.

One of these days I'm going to arrive in an airport, flag a cab and meet a driver who speaks English. This person and I are going to have a pleasant conversation for thirty minutes, because that's how long it takes to get from most big city airports to downtown, and he or she is going to explain the sights we are driving by. I would, for example, settle for someone like Archie Bunker. Last week, in San Francisco, I made a point of looking disinterested as I waited in the ground transportation depot after getting off the plane. Actually, I was scouting the line of cabs for someone who looked like he had been in the states long enough to say hello and know the meaning of that word. I wound up in a Dodge Charger driven by a fellow who had just got off the boat from Bulgaria or one of those other European countries. I had to show him, on a map of the city, where I wanted to go and he took off.

My best guess is that this cab had about a million miles on it. And the guys at the factory had forgotten to install shocks. Not only that, but my driver was apparently ticked off because they wouldn't let him in the NASCAR circuit. I would have been afraid to get this vehicle up to 50 miles per hour on a long straight stretch. He was up to 75 within 300 yards of take-off. At 85 the car stopped wobbling and shaking and the ride, more or less, smoothed out. I may have been because the wheels weren't touching the ground.

My driver weaved across, and back and forth 12 lanes of traffic as efficiently as Richard Petty. We literally were passing everything on the freeway, but I have become accustomed to that. I believe that, at one time or another all big city cab drivers got kicked out of the racing circuit because they are so much better than the other drivers. If they spoke enough English to carry on a conversation and solicit sponsorship with folks at Gatorade, Skoal, Goodyear and the like, guys like Bobby Allison, Mario Andretti, Richard Petty and company would be forced into early retirement. And racing would become boring, because there wouldn't be any wrecks.

Anyway, my driver took an exit several miles sooner than I thought he should. I had looked at the map enough to determine that my hotel was only three or four blocks off the main drag. I was tired and grateful for that because it meant we wouldn't have to fight city traffic. I thought to myself that he was going to do it anyway...perhaps to run the fare up on the meter. But that's not what he had in mind at all.

San Francisco is built around the side of a mountain that has what we in eastern Kentucky call flats around the side of it. I'm talking about dozens of flats, one right after another. Instead of having streets built around the side of the mountain on the flats, they have the major ones going straight up and down the side of the hill so that there is one huge bump after another after another.

Somewhat or another, my driver got us to the very top of the mountain and we headed down a long, long street. I honestly don't know how fast we were going because the dashboard became a blur. I swear to you that it felt like the car was flipping end over end instead of rolling. My head kept slamming against the roof about every five seconds for what seemed like an eternity. I assume the cab was simply leap frogging across the bumps because when I got out it didn't appear to have a dent on it.

We pulled into the hotel and the driver simply pointed at the meter. I don't think he could pronounce $26.90. The fare was nearly $2 cheaper than the one suggested at the airport. I also assume that he couldn't count. I handed him a $20 and a $10 and he simply shrugged and held out both hands, palm up. I simply waved him off in an effort to let him know he could keep the change. He smiled - actually he grinned - and I felt happy because that made twice that we had actually communicated with each other since I got into the vehicle.

In my spare time over the next five days I spent several hours walking the streets of San Francisco and I actually got on a tour bus. It turns out that the street we had come down was made famous for a chase scene in a

Roamin' Rockcastle

BY HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

Well, we've had some winter, not all has been fair and warm.

Bill Stephens said foodstuff in their root cellar had begun to go down so he told Flossie they would have to dig into where he had "holed down" cabbage, potatoes, turnips, big squash, or whatever.

Before the day of the "deepfreeze", folks could only can, dry, or use small cellars to carry them through the winter. And if you have some fat meat hanging in the smokehouse, then you're really live well.

That's why Hallie Alexander's brother, Harold Powell, living in Ohio (and reader of this paper) comes often to visit even if Eugene doesn't offer him a chew of hand twisted tobacco.

The tobacco beds are beginning to spring up like white mushrooms on Clear Creek. Frank Himes on Davis Branch Road has a large one planted. That means money in the bank, or pocket, this fall.

John begins to eye around to see whom he could raise a crop with this year.

John Harding has a large bed on the ground by their house. Westopped to talk to him and Mary one day. She was standing outside waiting for a school bus to drop off her granddaughter, six year old Jenna Owen, who is in a preschool class at Roundstone, which gets her ready to be a full time pupil this coming school year.

Jenna was the prettiest little girl who talked to me later and showed me the workbook and class lessons she had done.

Now, I don't steal, but I sure would like to steal this cute little girl. I feel I was punished for something by only raising three little boys.

I'd like to get out in the woods where the dead leaves can be pushed back and one can find the plant call trailing arbutus. The flowers on this ground vine look like tiny pink stars.

Hey, I better stop my mind wandering and get some news. I left off last week where we had gone to Lamerdown near the Laurel County line and were on our way home. Then we came to the Ole Kentucky Restaurant at Burr, which is owned by our good friends, Sue and Glenn Cromer.

The menu had a special feature for the day of fried chicken and boy was it good!

Glenn always has a wild tale to tell for I guess I look like I will believe anything, and would, if Sue didn't laugh so hard.

Today I asked Glenn if he were still picking up cans by the roadside to sell (and I believed that, too) to help Sue in expense.

"No I don't have time now since we're into this fried chicken deal. It goes over well."

"The other day I was killing chickens by wringing their necks when one got loose from me and ran out of here into the restaurant flopping around."

"One fellow at his table got scared and ran out the door," and he looked over at Sue and John who were laughing as hard as they could, at me listening with wide open eyes. (Yes, I believed it, too.)

Back in Berea, I got the final bill on my hospital stay and went to see their credit manager, Bill Sowder, for the Berea Hospital, to make some kind of payment plan.

Bill is a member of the Jubilee Echoes singing group. Not only is he from Rockcastle, but they make great music with their singing.

He said the group was going to Tennessee (the past week) to cut some records which will be for sale later.

Bill lives between Mt. Vernon and Brodhead. He not only works this hospital job but he is a cattle raiser in business with his dad.

Bill said he had been up real early "hoping his dad who takes care of the calving on the farm."

"Then you are something in the way of a midwife to your cows," I couldn't resist teasing this handsome, tall man.

Bill laughed, "You might say that cause there is trouble sometime and I help out."

"Tell me now about this payment that you and I agree on. Suppose I fall behind (and Rick Anderkin may cause me to) and don't make regular payments, are you going to come to my home to collect?" I said.

"And have you put it all over the country by the papers that I'm after you to get the money?" Good Lord, no, I won't do that and he started laughing.

Sowder turned the talk to my Boss whom Bill said he played golf with sometime. "I tell you, all this newspaper work, dashing from Mt. Vernon to London, back to the Signal, and over to the Citizen and on to Richmond has ruined Richard Anderkin's golf game," Bill Sowder declared.

"That's between you two fellows," I said and left to think of some way to pay that hospital bill since I no longer had ducks.

I learned that Stella Does had been in the hospital and was now at the home of her daughter, Mary Sue Bowman, where she is being spoiled by all kinds of good treatment.

It seems there are more folks having a birthday in March and I'd better talk about them but I believe nobody wants to get older than Cousin John E. Gabbard who went around singing, "Happy Birthday to Me," over and over at his place of business, 1-75 Shell, at Byrga.

John and his partner, Sam Farthingill, won the title of "Best Service" last year on the Richmond Register and John hasn't been the same since. Anyway, his caps don't fit anymore. He was born on the 12th of March.

Brad Proctor as well as John gets a Happy Birthday on the first day of March. Brandon Spurlock has one on the 2nd and now chases girls more than ever. My husband, John, celebrates on the 2nd too, but he better not be chasing girls.

Houston Burger doesn't want his age to be told, but I can say Happy Birthday on the 9th. His wife, Connie, is too pretty for him to chase girls. Daisy Todd Finell has one on the 16th, Myrtle Rudie one of the Glorybound Inspirations singing group has a birthday on the 13th.

My good friend Lura Clarke of Anglin Falls Road has a birthday on the 13th, Stella Does will have a cake on the 20th. Judy Cornett, my daughter-in-law, in Edgewood, will have one on the 20th.

Now, Juanita Croucher, who always makes whoopee to celebrate her birthday, says this year will be no different as she plans for a bigger, better whoopee on the 20th. Higger, I get there in time, I could use a little myself.

I'll finish next week for birthdays. Another healthy remedy: Retin A, a prescription medicine, will help wrinkles but is used to make the brownish liver spot, which has nothing to do with the liver, (these spots come from the sun), disappear.

Till next week: Give me today what I need for today - Help me believe you will do the same tomorrow.

movie called Bullit. I'd bet even money that my driver was the stunt man in that scene. I also spent considerable time, worrying about how I was going to get back to the airport after discovering that hitch-hiking can get you five days in jail.

My friend and colleague at work, Barry Leonard who also attended the same conference, had rented a car and he graciously agreed to drive me on Wednesday afternoon. Barry talked up a storm, and negotiated the freeway like a pro at the same time. It had never occurred to me that anybody from Kentucky would attempt driving in California.

When he dropped me off, I told him that he need never worry about being out of work. Just buy a cab, put a sign on top of it that says "I speak fluent english" and he could be a rich man in a couple of years.

Trees are wonderful

But...

...despite their contribution to the natural beauty of the landscape, they can be destructive and dangerous if they interfere with electric lines.

Trees can play an important role in solving our global environmental problems. But trees that grow too big, planted too close to power lines, can create a safety hazard and cause widespread power outages, especially in windy or stormy weather.

Not all kinds of trees cause problems, however.

KU offices across the state will give away 55,000 tree seedlings to our customers on April 1, 1992.

These one-year old, field-grown Redbud and Flame Amur Maple seedlings, 12 to 24 inches tall, will mature into trees suitable for today's typically smaller residential lots...minimizing interference with power lines.

Do your part for the environment while helping us ensure reliable electric service.

Tracking the Cats

By Jim Master

Let the party begin. March Madness begins this Thursday night and the Kentucky Wildcats make a triumphant return to the NCAA Tournament on Friday evening in the state that their beloved coach graduated from college.

Fresh off a smashing rout of Alabama in the Southeastern Conference Tournament, Kentucky received a second seeding in the East Regional, behind only top ranked Duke. Wimp Sanderson of Alabama earned the tournament on Saturday night that the Wildcats received the easiest road for any SEC team. He's probably right, but he also forgot to recognize that Kentucky did win the SEC Tournament title in convincing manner, entering the tournament at 26-8, won the East division of the league, won 11 of its last 12 games and is ranked in the top eight teams in the country. Deserved? You betcha!

Sanderson also did not give Kentucky as much credit as it deserved after the title game. The Crimson Tide coach, who has done a great job this year and for the past 10 seasons, lamented his team's physical and emotional states, especially after a thrilling win over Arkansas in the semifinals. Three things here. Yes, it did drain the Tide. Would they have been able to offset the Wildcats and win the game? No. Secondly, didn't Kentucky also play on Saturday in a tough game against a wounded LSU squad that played with a great deal of emotion? And lastly, don't great teams rise to the occasion when the title is on the line? Duke did it last year in the Final Four after knocking off UNLV. They finished the job against Kansas. If there was ever a reason for let-down, that was it.

Jamel Mashburn showed why he is the most versatile player in the SEC and one of the top 15 players in America. He connected on 26 of 31 shots from the field and posted two doubles in rebounds and points. His only drawback was a surprising 8 of 18 from the free throw line. I would imagine that Mashburn will be hard at work this week from the free throw line.

Now to the tournament brackets. This is the fun stuff, the office pools and predictions that help make March Madness a delight to follow.

I will pick the Sweet 16 and potential surprise teams. Next week, we'll take it to one step further.

In the East, take Duke, Seton Hall, Massachusetts and Kentucky. These four teams will collide March 26 and 28 in The Spectrum in Philadelphia.

Kentucky hosted U Mass earlier this year and posted an easy win. Don't expect a cakewalk in the two teams next again.

The West will have UCLA, Oklahoma, Georgetown and Indiana. These teams have a tough row to hoe to make it to Albuquerque, The Hoosiers possibly must make it past LSU and the Tigers could jump on the broad shoulders of Shaquille O'Neal. Center Bostwick-Dale Brown faceoff is enough to watch the sidelines only for that game. UCLA is a potential early exit, with Wake Forest a darkhorse. Georgetown could encounter Florida State, which finished second in the Atlantic Coast Conference. Watch Oklahoma. They could make a serious dent in the tournament.

In the Midwest, Kansas, Cincinnati, Arkansas and Georgia Tech should advance to Kansas City (second home to Kansas; what about that rule of playing on the home court?). Southern Cal has one of the most exciting players in the nation in Harold Miner, but they are suspect in Milwaukee. Cincinnati has a short 45 minute drive to Dayton, Ohio for their game against Delaware. Arkansas could win this regional. Darkhorse, Try Evansville. This team can play (ask Notre Dame).

The Southeast regional semifinals and finals will be played in Lexington, with opening games in Cincinnati and Atlanta. Ohio State has a short drive from Columbus to the Queen City and should advance to Rupp Arena. North Carolina will make yet another Sweet 16 appearance, while Arizona (with former UK player Chris Mills) is a favorite for Rupp. Remember, also that "Take the Late" Olson twice used the UK coaching vacancy to get a fat pay raise at Arizona. And finally, a former UK coach, Eddie Sutton will not return to Rupp with his Oklahoma State Cowboys, as St. John's will pull the upset. Darkhorses? Connecticut and Stanford.

So sit back and enjoy. Next week we'll evaluate these picks and look ahead as the Wildcats make a move to Minneapolis and the Final Four.

Basketball tournament

A basketball tournament will be played at Dogwood Recreation Station April 3rd through April 5th.

This will be a double elimination tournament, and 16 teams will be involved. There is a $100 entry fee, and all proceeds will benefit Project Protect A Child, Inc.

Trophies will be given to 1st, 2nd, 3rd, and 4th place finishers, with individual trophies going to 1st and 2nd place finishers. There will be an MVP trophy given also.

Entry fee and team roster must be received by March 27, 1992. For more information, call 256-4263 after 6:00 p.m.

Don Lane's 1992 Basketball Camp at Transy

Young basketball players from across the state—and from other states—will sharpen their basketball skills at Don Lane's 1992 Transylvania University Basketball Camp this summer on the University's campus in Lexington.

The camp offers seven sessions for boys and girls between the ages of seven and 18. Lane, head coach at Transy for 17 years, and his staff of high school and college coaches provide individual attention to the campers, who are grouped according to age, size, and experience. High school teams may elect to attend the camp as a group.

Tuition is $195 for resident campers, $170 for commuters, and $80 for 7 to 12-year-olds, who attend a special half-day camp.

Following the 1992 camp dates: June 8-12 - Boys, 9-14 yrs.; June 15-19 - Girls, 12-18 yrs.; June 22-26 - Boys, 13-18 yrs.; June 29 - July 1 - Boys and Girls, 7-12 yrs.; July 6-10 - Boys, 13-18 yrs.; July 13-17 - Boys, 9-14 yrs.; July 20 - 24 - Girls, 9-18 yrs.

Last year, nearly 1800 campers represented 110 teams, 20 states, and three foreign countries.

For more information, contact Coach Lane, Transylvania University, Lexington, KY 40508, or call 606/253-2277.

Congratulations P.D., for hauling in a 6 1/4 pound large mouth bass at Lake Linville Tuesday. P.D. Owens said he caught the fish with a gaff blade.
