CARDS OF THANKS

The family of Cossie Lunsford wishes to thank everyone who helped during the illness and death of our dear father. A special thanks to the Rockcastle Hospital, Berea Hospital, Rockcastle Ambulance Service, Dr. Griffith, Dr. Arvin, Dr. Stewart, Home Health, nurses and aides for their kind care and service. A very special thanks to all the people who brought food and sent flowers.
Children, grandchildren, great grandchildren

The family of Odie Ballinger would like to express our appreciation for the kindness shown to us during the loss of our loved one. Thanks to everyone who brought food and for the lovely flowers. Thanks to Bros. Joe Carmens, William VanWinkle, and Wendell Roman for their consoling words and for the beautiful songs by Steve Hammond and his sisters. Thanks to Dowell and Martin Funeral Home for their kind services.
The Family of Odie Ballinger

Thank You
Thanks a thousand times to everyone that has helped during my home burning. Thanks for all the nice gifts for replacements. The fire departments were super in helping me.
Thanks Again,
Cory Williams

In Memory of Eliza Jane Cotton Westerfield
Well mama, as your birthday is coming, no, we haven't forgotten it and never will. We think of the good time we all had and your funny remarks. How it filled our hearts and we had such a happy time but now that you are gone we still think about you. We remember your advice and the way you taught us, the Bible way, I can never go astray when I think of how you taught us. As long as you could you were thinking of us doing right. You brought us up right and I wouldn't trade you off for any other. I'm very proud of you but as the years go by you are still in our memories. But mom all your family have gone but your two daughters. But all the family will be together. Our family will be reunited. I know you are not worrying about us. You are too happy.
Your loving daughters,
Mollie Westerfield

Library News

By: Geraldine Robbins

The Local Art Show is still on display at the Rockcastle City Library and will be here until April 18th. There is some very good art work exhibited in this show and most of it is amateur artists. Come in and show your support to the artists and enjoy viewing their work. As a special treat we have a young artist that will be demonstrating his drawings in pencil and chalk each afternoon from 3 to 5 p.m. Also on Saturdays, 11th and 18th, 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. You may watch Randy and ask questions if you would like to.

Our Summer Reading Program will be beginning June 2nd and running through July 17th. The theme of our program this year will be "Rediscover Kentucky." Again this year, we will be giving special prizes for the most books read in two different age groups and we are planning special activities each week. We are encouraging you to bring your children in this summer and let them enjoy the library. There will be more information later about the Summer Reading Program but I wanted to let you know the dates now so that you There's still time to make your call for America's Libraries, "Say yes to your right to know." Just call 1-800-530-8888. Stand up and be counted.

Your "Yes Vote" will help us to tell our legislators that Americans value their liberties and want to see them fully supported.
Some new books that we have are:
1. A western novel, The Rainbow Runner by John Cunningham. During the last forty years, three western writers have towered above the rest: Jack Shafer, A.B. Guthrie and John Cunningham. Author of the legendary High Noon story and the classic western Warhorse, Cunningham has now written the most powerful novel of his career.
In Jack Donohue, Cunningham creates a hero to rank with his own Will Kane, the hero of High Noon. Hired to transport a priceless religious shrine through revolution-torn Mexico, Donohue will find nothing but trouble - betrayed on all sides and shot by Franco Villa's army. This is story-telling on a grand scale, told by one of the finest western writers of our time.

2. Garden of Lies by Eileen Goudge. The story of two beautiful women caught between a terrible secret and a shattering truth. (The perfect page turner.)
Some non-fiction books are:
1. Kentucky State Parks by Judy King Coggill. The wonders of Kentucky's State Parks are revealed in this beautifully illustrated book, a words and pictures tribute to the most beautiful state park system in America.
2. Small Claims Court Without a Lawyer by W. Kelsea Wilbur, (attorney at law). Included are: Deciding if you have a case; When, where, and how to file a lawsuit; How to prepare for your day in court; Easy ways to serve a summons; Collecting your money after a judgement.
3. 1001 Ways to Improve Your Child's Schoolwork by Lawrence J. Greene. An A to Z guide to common problems and practical solutions.
4. Home VCR Repair Illustrated by Richard C. Wilkins and Cheryl A. Hubbard. Most VCR problems are caused by one component that is worn out, loose, bent, or dirty. Now, with Home VCR Repair Illustrated, you can save hundreds of dollars in repair bills by fixing your VCR in your home - and no expensive tools or test equipment is required.
Don't Forget: Come in and see the local art show while it is on display.

Stamp collectors take note
The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) has announced that all back issues of the Kentucky trout and waterfowl license stamps will be destroyed, and no longer available for sale, after February 28, 1993.
Stamp collectors requested the KDFWR to destroy the surplus of older trout and waterfowl stamp issues in order to increase the value of collections. Collectors who desire to complete their set of these stamps, or those who want to begin a collection, should contact Jeff Kays, KDFWR License Division, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone (502) 564-4224, ext. 437, for more information.

Remaining back issue stamps will be sold at face value, as supplies permit, through the end of February 1993.
KDFWR auction to be held May 4
The annual auction of surplus and confiscated equipment conducted by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) is scheduled for Monday, May 4th at the Game Farm in Frankfort.
Bidder registration will be from 8-9 a.m., and the auction will begin shortly thereafter. All purchases must be made by cash, certified check or money order.
Items to be sold include vehicles, boats, motors, rods & reels, rifles and shotguns, lawn equipment, office equipment, etc.

total nutrition
The Supplement Most of Us Never Notice
As a nation-of-food label reader, many of us now take note of what foods include added nutrients. However, one addition that few even notice is iodine in salt, probably because it's always been there, says Mary Helen Gunkler, registered dietitian and staff nutritionist for Total cereal.
As iodine was first added to table salt in the 1920s to help prevent goiter in Americans. This condition is evidenced by a swelling of the thyroid gland and can be a result of inadequate iodine intake. Iodine is essential in the body for normal function of the thyroid gland.
Prior to the 1920s, goiter was most common among people who lived in the plains states as well as the Great Lakes and St. Lawrence River areas. This was attributed to the fact that these areas have very low levels of iodine in the soil. Therefore, produce grown in these regions contained little, if any, iodine. Iodine was added to salt because salt was a product that most people used regularly. As a result, iodine deficiency problems decreased sharply.
Other factors have also contributed to the dramatic decline in iodine deficiencies. For example, our country's food distribution system is now national in scope. Therefore, people who live in iodine-deficient areas are more likely to have access to foods grown in iodine-rich areas. Also, more people are eating seafood, which is a rich source of iodine. In addition, iodine is used in dough conditioners, so it is found in trace amounts in bread.
Gunkler notes that about 50 percent of the salt sold in supermarkets today is iodized. But even people on low-sodium diets probably are getting enough iodine due to the other changes in our food supply system.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Cumberland Valley Water Supply Planning Council is in the process of preparing a Water Supply Plan for the eight counties comprising the Cumberland Valley Area Development District (Bell, Clay, Harlan, Jackson, Knox, Laurel, Rockcastle and Whitley). The purpose of the plan is to assess the need to provide increased or alternative water supplies for the water supplier systems within each county, formulate recommendations to protect water supplies and prepare a water supply contamination response plan. If increased or alternative water supplies are needed, the council shall develop water shortage response plans and evaluate water supply alternatives.

Each city and county, as well as each public water supplier or distributor, within each county, is a member of the Planning Council. The Planning Council will hold its next meeting at 10:00 a.m., on April 24, 1992, at the Cumberland Valley Area Development District Office Building located at 342 Old Whitley Road in London, Kentucky. The major item on the agenda is to formulate goals and objectives to guide the planning efforts as well as provide direction for addressing water supply issues as they arise within the eight counties.

All individuals and groups interested in Water Supply Planning are urged to attend this meeting and will be given an opportunity to be heard and/or to submit written comments which will be accepted and made a part of the record up until the time of the meeting on April 24, 1992. Any written comments received after April 24, 1992, will be entered into the minutes at the next Water Supply Planning Council Meeting.

If you have a question of questions concerning this meeting or its purpose, please contact Mr. Jim Cass, Deputy Director, Cumberland Valley Area Development District, P.O. Box 1740; London, Ky. 40743-1740 or phone 606/864-7391.

Juvenile arrested

A local juvenile has been arrested in connection with a break-in at Westgate Mall March 13. Patrolman John Bradley, while on patrol, found the glass doors shattered on the Family Dollar Store and Westgate Flea Market. Only an ice cooler and case of shoes were taken at the Dollar store, and only the inner office of the flea market was vandalized. He was charged with burglary and criminal mischief.

Mailboxes damaged

Several mailboxes in the Brothead area have been damaged or destroyed in the last month. U.S. Mailboxes and the mail inside are protected by Federal law from theft, damage, and destruction. The violations are felonies, which carry penalties of between three to five years imprisonment and/or fines between $1000 and $2000. The U.S. Postal Inspection Service offers a reward of up to $1000 for information which leads to the arrest and conviction of those person(s) responsible for the vandalizing of mailboxes. Any acts of vandalism or information concerning vandalism of mailboxes should be immediately reported to the local sheriff or police and to your local postmaster.

Fire brings fine

A fire that burned over 300 acres in the Daniel Boone National Forest has cost a 41-year-old Williamsburg man five years imprisonment. Paul Kenneth Rainwater, 41, was convicted of arson on U.S. Service Lands by a Lexington jury. Rainwater was arrested by Kentucky State Police for willfully setting a fire that burned forest lands in McCreary County. Maximum sentence is five years and a $250,000 fine. No restitution was ordered by the court.

Body found

The body of Mary-Sue McCaney of London, who had been missing for over a week, has been found near the Rockcastle River in Pulaski County. The 49-year-old woman's car was found earlier parked near the river. She had a history of manic depression and was on a 10-day leave from Eastern State Hospital. She had left London to visit her daughter in Somerset.

Friendly Reminder!

Residents who wish to vote in the May 9 primary election have until 4 p.m., April 10 to register at the office of County Clerk Norma Houk.

One of several reported

Thieves break-in Bullock residence

The residence of Frankie Bullock on Lake Enville Road was broken in recently and several items totaling $7,000 were taken.

Entrance was gained through the back door.

Lost were: $500 in money, a 30-30 rifle, 20 gauge shotgun, 22 marlin rifle with scope, two cameras, camcorder, CD player and cassette player, case of CD records, 2 wrist watches, gold pocket watch, 10 Nintendo tapes, brown leather jacket, crossbow and accessories, 2 sets of darts, vase and bowl and two candle holders.

Earl Sandlin of Mt. Vernon told police he lost tools from a chest while his truck was parked at Drubbers. He estimated his loss at $390.

James Branaman of Brush Creek reported his garage was set afire recently with a loss of $6,659. A car nearby burned at a loss of $700.

Sometime Sunday night Robbie's Antiques owned by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Robinson at Boothe's Gap was broken in and 20 quilts valued at $2,000 were taken along with eight antique picture frames valued at $800. Mrs. Robinson told Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan, who investigated, she consulted her fortune teller and was told a "black-haired guy with a big belly and a blond guy" stole the quilts and picture frames, and that they were in a shed beside a barn.

Deputies are continuing to look for the shed.

Deputies also reported the case against James Alexander of Brush

Brodhead council decides to collect delinquent taxes

A decision made by the Brodhead City Council last Monday night may prevent taxpayers from neglecting to pay their taxes on time.

An unanimous vote was made to submit all delinquent property tax and privilege licenses to the city attorney, Jerry Cox, for collection.

According to the council, the decision was made in hopes of discouraging future late payments of taxes and licenses.

City records show that within the past five years, approximately 50 citizens have ignored their responsibilities of paying property taxes for at least one year. In addition

Creek, accused of transporting alcoholic beverages has been dismissed.

Alexander was arrested March 10, 1990 after then Deputy Phillip Cheson saw beer stacked above the windows of a van at a roadblock.

The case was dismissed Aug. 12, 1992 by District Judge Cain after Cheson left the sheriff's department.

Caregivers program

With the continual increase in need for elderly health care, Sowder Nursing Home in Brodhead, and Berea Hospital combined efforts to teach caregiving of the elderly and ill at home.

Several local residents completed the training, which was offered through the Berea Hospital Outreach Services under the Rural Health Transition Grant.

During the six-week class, participants learned skills to take care of an ill or elderly person at home. Nurses from Berea Hospital, led by Ruth Davis, R.N., M.S.N., taught such things as how to take temperature and pulse and how to give a bath. Students were also shown ways to take care of themselves, such as avoiding injury to the back when lifting and moving disabled people.

Members felt they gained a lot from sharing their experiences with others in similar situations as the pace of the class was easy and relaxed without a lot of pressure. "I was just about at my wit's end until I went to this class," said participant Ruth McFerron. She continued by saying how much she appreciated the group's support.

Home caregiver training was one of the needs identified by the Care for the Elderly Advisory Committee which has served to guide the Rural Health Transition Grant activities.

Fiscal Court approves $440,000 plus budget

By: Ray McClure

A budget of $442,795 for fiscal year 1991-1992 was approved by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court at a meeting Tuesday.

The budget showed personnel at $150,897, operating expenses at $87,700, equipment at $7,900 and administration at $196,298.

The budget indicated the Jailers salary at $41,648, and deputies and matrons at a total of $75,000.

Also approved were the 1992-93 Conservation District budget.

It shows total receipts at $67,325 and a like amount for expenditures.

The court agreed to use officer James Bingham in enforcing the county ordinance regulating garbage dumping. Officer Bingham will now be able to ticket persons he finds illegally dumping garbage.

The vote was 4-0 with Amos Burdette abstaining.

Work will continue on county roads. The magistrates drew numbers to determine which districts would get work.

Amos Burdette drew, first, Clinton Brown, second; Jack Bradley, third; Donald Bullock, fourth, and Charles Holbrook, fifth. Work will be done in that order.

Passed over by magistrates was a county road speed limit. The magistrates agreed 55 miles an hour was already in effect and if officers felt a motorist was driving recklessly then he should be ticketed regardless of speed.

The court listened to Carlan Vanhook, architect for the courthouse annex. He said although the contractor was behind schedule he felt the work could be completed by June 1 unless some unforeseen event delayed the work.

Vanhook also reviewed remodeling plans for the jail.

Jailer Billy Kirby told the court he plans to resign the "first of the year."

He noted he will be 62 years old and has been in politics for many years.

When asked if his wife, Gladys, would carry on, he said, "No, when we quit, we quit."

Two roads were added to the county road program: James Taylor Road, old, U.S. 25 at Pine Hill, and Camp Ground Road Barr.

The Conway Loop Road name was changed to Copper Creek Loop Road at the request of all residents who live on the road.

A total of 300 feet of guardrail will be installed on Chestnut Ridge Road bridge over Dix River at Brothead for $1,586.

Court sets '92 priorities

Priorities for the county in 1992 were approved by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court at a meeting Tuesday.

Among items which districts will be able to gravel roads, complete courthouse annex construction by June 1, and to continue to work on water expansion.

Also on the agenda is to assist Conway community in establishing a fire department or affiliate, if feasible, in order for a quicker response to fires in that area.

Other items include; to now grass all county roads; to now brush center along remainder of roads; to patch potholes and do routine road maintenance; to add the heavy duty vibrator roller to equipment fleet for blacktop project.

Included are complete engineering for Three Links/Climax/Brush Creek; complete abandoned mines study for Sand Springs/Pongo; submit application for balance of county; secure funding for Brush Creek, Climax,

Three Links area; to "rough-in" access road to new industrial site; to remove 15 major dumps; to bid the jail expansion project. To initiate the re-allocation of space in existing courthouse; to secure funds for emergency housing program.

To submit application for owner-occupied housing funds; to continue work with Western Water Association to get the water storage and transmission project under way; to assist Little League to get park ready for season; to continue work on The County Music Hall of Fame at Renfro Valley; to assist fire departments in getting their funds; to increase the solid waste recycling program by 10 percent.

To increase the house to house solid waste pick-up by 20 percent; to train staff for new courthouse maintenance; to make court offices new facility; to set budget for fiscal year 1992-93; to cap Coffey Creek roads.

Doris Petercheff again hired as Rogers aide

An aide who took over $77,000 from U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers campaign between 1984 and 1986, has been rehired.

Doris Petercheff, 56, has been a consultant to Rogers since January his final report showed.

Petercheff, who once ran the lawmaker's district office in Somerset, made restitution for the $77,669.71 in 1986. Rogers did not pursue any criminal or civil action against her, and they have remained friends, Petercheff said.

"It's kind of a chapter that is long gone," said Mary Driesler, Rogers' chief aide in Washington. "He hired her for her campaign skills, and she's one of the best there is."

Rogers new district includes territory where Petercheff has worked as a consultant. In 1988 and 1990, for example she was a consultant to lawyer Will T. Scott, a former Pike County circuit judge, who ran for Congress against Rep. Chris Perkins, D-Hindman. Perkins is not seeking re-election, so the Democrat who wins the primary probably will face Rogers.

Petercheff worked for Rogers from January 1981, when he came to Congress, until April 1986 when he discovered that she had used funds from his campaign to write more than 36 improper checks to herself over a two-year period.

Former state trooper here involved in shooting

A State Trooper formerly assigned to Rockcastle from the London Post was involved in a shooting at Williamsburg Monday.

Trooper Charles Wooten attempted to stop a vehicle traveling at 100 miles an hour but the driver refused to stop.

The vehicle left I-75 at the south Williamsburg exit traveled across the roadway through a guardrail and collided with the side of the Shell Kwik Mart.

Trooper Wooten attempted to arrest the driver Gary W. Henderson, son, 37, of Harlan, Henderson lunged for Trooper Wooten's revolver. Wooten fired one shot striking Henderson in the left side.

Henderson was taken to Baptist Regional Medical Center at Corbin where he is listed in stable condition.

Henderson was charged with speeding, reckless driving, attempting to elude, D.U.I., resisting arrest, no insurance. He was previously arrested by state police for Emergency Mental Detention and assault 4th degree on June 17, 1986.

Dear Editor,
 The June or July 1992 issue of "Scientific American" had a report on the depletion of Ozone Gas in our atmosphere which absorbs most of our missing MIA's.

 When I read this, I became very angry, not because they're trying to find our MIA's, but because my husband, Billy, who fought in Vietnam, was denied a service connected disability for his rating of PTSD, which was a result of his fighting in Vietnam.
 Billy died July 24, 1988, at the VA Hospital on Cooper Drive in Lexington. The way in which he died was questionable to me. I also think his death was a result of Agent Orange. Billy was told by some at the VA Hospital that he was too young to draw a pension. He was also accused of sponging off our government. He was refused treatment because it cost the government too much money.
 Billy's claim has been treated unfairly. There was sufficient evidence to prove he should have been drawing a service connected disability, but VA paid little attention to this. I have been trying to reopen his claim, but VA refuses, even though I have sent them enough evidence to support its being reopened.
 My boys and I have a hard time making ends meet. VA's motto, "To Care For Him Who Shall Have Borne The Battle and For His Widow and His Orphan," is nothing but a huge lie! Vietnam receives help; veterans and their families don't!
 Sincerely,
 Judy C. Owens
 Brodhead, Ky, 40409

the ultra-violet rays of our sun, in which it was stated excess exposure to ultra-violet has been implicated to be the cause of skin cancers, cataracts, and the A.I.D.s virus.
 If you study a bit on it, "Magic Johnson was perhaps excessively exposed to the ultra-violet rays or strong artificial light and white surfaces may prevent the transferring of the H.I.V. virus, it does not address the cause of this virus.
 Although ozone gas has been determined to be a health hazard at ground level, when electricity flows through oxygen gas it produces ozone gas, but the problem is to have ozone gas in our atmosphere or perhaps contained in clear plastic to where exposure would be highly unlikely at ground level.
 Excess exposure to the ultra-violet rays of our sun may reduce the growth and development of food plants, which may be a greater problem as growing vegetation produces most of our oxygen gas.
 The use of alcohol as a motor fuel does release oxygen gas in the exhaust but when there is a concentration of excess oxygen in an area, the oxygen gas combines with the hydrogen gas in our air to produce excess rain.
 This is basic high school, which I graduated from in 1960, but our government for special interests started the wide use of gasohol as a motor fuel and since then, its excess use has produced excess rain in places where it is not normal.
 Perhaps our government, especially Congress, should go back to school. But the Bible has foretold thousands

People Poll

Is welfare a fair and effective program?

Some people need it. It is a needed program because of that, but it needs to be administered more carefully.
 Isabelle Jones

No, it is not. Seems to me a lot of the people getting it could work. We need more jobs around.
 Bill Livesay

I think so if people get it who really need it. A lot of people get it who don't need it. If they're able to work, they ought not get it.

Owners and television have ruined baseball

Just My Opinion

By: Richard Anderkin

To most folks this means nothing, to me it should mean nothing, but the 1992 baseball season opened Monday and the five million dollar kids took the field.

Owners, and I suppose television have ruined baseball. It is going to get the point that teams in smaller cities, that do not receive millions in television revenues each year will not be able to compete.

Think about the Big Red Machine of the middle 70s. Cincinnati would have had to sell their tickets for a $100 each per game just to pay the likes of Johnny Bench, Pete Rose, Don Gullett, Joe Morgan, Tony Perez, Bobby Tolan, Ken Griffey and Dave Concepcion. Teams of their caliber, that won back to back championships will never be assembled again. Financially it can never be done again. And that is really a shame. When the Reds were a dynasty you never heard about salaries or signing bonuses, you just heard about players, playing hurt, willing to change positions for the good of the team and pitching on three days rest, because another pitcher had a sore arm.

Pete Rose moved to third base, a position he never played before in his career, to make room for a kid by the name of Ken Griffey in the outfield, who would bring a great bat to an already strong Cincinnati line-up.

Unlike Ricky Henderson's whining a year ago because he wasn't the highest paid player in baseball, the Reds never took their financial business to the public, they simply won baseball games. In 1976 they swept Pittsburgh in three straight games and then thumped the Yankees in four straight. Quiet simply, they were magnificent.

In '76 they started Bench at catcher, Perez at first, Morgan at second, Concepcion on short, Rose at third, George Foster in left, Cesar Geronimo in center and Griffey in right. Their first six hitters humbled most all pitchers in the major league. Rose led off, Morgan batted second, Griffey was third, Foster cleaned-up, Bench batted fifth and Perez was sixth. Geronimo hit .300 most of the '76 season and moved up no further than seventh in the line-up.

The Reds seem to have a good team this year, but most of them are nothing more than Triple A ball players compared to the 'Big Red Machine.'

And what is more of a shame, the average salary this year $1.1 million.

There is something good about this year's Reds, Eric Davis is in Los Angeles.

I was listening to a comedian the other day that said in this day and time especially, with the way things are in politics, that he was not an member of any organized political party, he was a Democrat.

After Tuesday's New York primary, all indications are that the comedian actually was telling the truth.

With all of the economic problems in this country and the growing disgust among American voters, our Republican President is ripe for defeat.

However, unless the Democrats get their house in order, get a viable candidate and come up with a solid platform, they will once again lose and lose big.

Taxpayers are fed up with all of the political problems in this country, from the house bank scandal to the apparent votes for money on the state level. I may be wrong, but from the looks on the faces of some of the state legislators, there has been some money passed around under the table in Frankfort and there will no doubt be some convictions.

Local 4-H plants Coffeetree on Courthouse lawn for Arbor Day

In honor of Bicentennial Arbor Day, officers from each 4-H club in the county joined together to plant a Kentucky state tree on Friday.

Following remarks from County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins and the reading of a proclamation signed by Mayor Gary Cromer, each student was given the chance to help plant the tree on the courthouse lawn.

The tree planting was held to demonstrate the need to plant, protect and conserve trees.

Trees not only provide a natural resource from which to build, but they produce oxygen, a gas that is slowly being depleted by the destruction of the ozone. By planting trees, the increase in oxygen will help reduce the harmful greenhouse effect.

By planting the tree, the Rockcastle 4-H Clubs joined in a state-wide program as all Kentucky counties were welcomed to join in planting a tree in their area. Among the participants was Governor Breton Jones, who planted a coffeetree on the Capitol grounds in Frankfort.

"Simultaneous plantings are meant to demonstrate the unified determination of Kentuckians to protect trees and to promote this resource that means so much to the economy and well-being of our Commonwealth," said Phillip J. Shephard, secretary of the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

The newspaper routes I had back when The Courier outsold The Herald. It was not "my roots" I sought. It was my youth.

Gone are the Dinner Bell and the grocery stores where you "got wanted on." The place where I lived is no more, and the elegant, white two-story house where I would like to have lived is dilapidated and dirty.

A new post office covers the lot where the Henderson home stood. My buddies and I spent many hours playing around that place. Under its canopy trees our Dirty Work Gang devised many a daring, dastardly deed.

Standing in the parking lot, I tried to visualize the front porch of the Henderson house. It became "The Sheriff's Office" when our pack re-created the Saturday afternoon cinema. Then a blaring carhorn startled me out of my reverie. There I was in the center of a traffic jam -- sandwiched between five vehicles going six ways!

The Vernon Theater is now a discount store. Ah! Those were the days -- the era of Bob Steele, Johnny Mack Brown, and the Cisco Kid (the one played by Gilbert Roland). Their farical companions like Gabby Hayes, Fuzzy Jones, and Pancho are memorable, too.

Occasionally, I see an old, low budget film on television. I marvel at how gullible I was -- or how willing I was to suspend disbelief and savor every drop of the drama.

Could Lash LaRue fire his six-gun twenty-one times without reloading? Who kept the white stallion that showed up anytime and anyplace Charles starrett donned a black mask and outfit to become the Durango Kid? Would every last man in a 'curlish world of outlaws nervously pitch his pistol on the ground when Hopalong Cassidy says, "Drop them guns unless you aim to use 'em"?

Well, who cared? It was grand entertainment! Who cared that stage-coach wheels rolled backwards and Batman drove a Mercury convertible? Who cared that Dracula, the Wollman, and the "Monster" could not have survived the fiery collapse of Dr. Frankenstein's castle and appear in a sequel with Abbott and Costello? Who cared that the natives in Tarzan films only knew two words -- "balahula" and "umghawha"?

Who cared that the enchanting Esther Williams could not have stayed under water for ten minutes without breathing? I mailed her a love letter. She didn't answer because her husband, Ben Gage, read it and became insanely jealous. When she divorced later, I liked a girl named Barbara. So, Esther had to settle for Fernando Lamas.

Who cared that people didn't go around singing and dancing all the time; like Danny Kaye, Jane Powell, and Fred Astaire? I still enjoy their songs, but I never learned to dance

"Brohdad Council"

Agency, the Brohdad City Council voted to purchase another pump for use in the sewage plant. The old pumps did not meet the requirements set by the EPA in disposal of sewage, therefore the city will buy a pump with larger horsepower and grinder. The old pump will be used at another location.

The council also unanimously voted to acquire a dumpster at the sewer plant. In compliance with the regulations set by the solid waste committee in Rockcastle County, the dumpster will be used to dispose of waste from city hall and the sewer plant. The council declared that it is not intended for public use and will be available to city officials only.

The incumbent C.B. Owens, Jr. was sworn-in as a council member at Monday's meeting. Owens had been ill and unable to attend the swearing in ceremony previously.

"Letters"

of years ago, these things would happen as signs that mankind is in the last days before the only true messiah, in my opinion, Jesus Christ returns to bring everlasting utopia, which mankind has been trying unsuccessfully to achieve, but it is not possible in my opinion, without faith and belief in Jesus, though the anti-Christ in the last days is revealed to deceive much of the world, in a one world socialist government, that mankind can achieve utopia without Jesus, to lead much of the world to everlasting failure.

These may be signs that mankind is in the last days when the world will ignore the Bible, named Jahweh in Hebrew (e.g. Deut. 6:13,14) if mankind has not changed Bible scripture. This may also be the start of the trials and tribulations of the last days when the messiah may carry off those who believe.

believe and have faith to not have to go through this time of great problems because the seeds of Abraham did not honor their covenant with Jahweh for the coming of Christ.

A.D.D., the H.I.V. virus, the reduction of the growth and development of food plants, corruption in government, etc., may be signs we are in the last days and Jesus may be even at the door, to knock and he will come in to all who believe and have faith in Him and Jahweh, the Lord God of Bible scripture.

Berea United Methodist Church will present the Lenten Drama, "Lord Is It I?" on Wednesday, April 15 and Thursday, April 16 in the sanctuary. In its ninth consecutive year, the drama portrays the thoughts, hopes, and frustrations of the twelve disciples. A reception will be held in the Parish House (across the street from the church) immediately following each performance. Everyone is cordially invited to attend.

Points East

By: Ike Adams

During the week before our State Legislature closed its biennial session, our Senators and Representatives, in a fit of self-righteousness and with high hopes that the folks back home would believe them close to God, passed a law allowing The Ten Commandments to be framed and hung on every classroom in the state. Never mind that the highest court in the land has held that our nation's constitution forbids the teaching of religion in public schools. Never mind that the specific act of displaying The Commandments has been struck down as illegal by our Country's Supreme Court. Our Legislators know that religion and politics are close kin in Kentucky and that the more pious they appear to be, the more apt they are; to be applauded at the pulpit on Sunday morning.

So even though they know that legislating religion is a Federal crime, they also know that cramming a little more Christianity down any open throat is tantamount to getting votes the next time the polls open. Let's face it, Most Kentuckians are, in fact, Christians and most of us believe that anyone who isn't just like us is hell bound for certain.

"So forget about schools and roads and parks and crime and garbage dumps and spouse abuse and election reform and abortion and all the other issues crying for attention," said the House of Representatives and the Senate. "We have proven to ourselves and to the people that we are incapable of doing much about anything that matters, so let's spend the last week or two seeing if we can keep the populus out of Hell. If we can pull that off, or at least make a reasonable attempt, maybe most of us will be re-elected."

And so it became a priority. And, low, the law was passed and they all went to Flynn's and rejoiced as the bartenders poured them quarts of bourbon and served them cases of beer and the lobbyists picked up the tab. They slugged each other on the back and chuckled. They congratulated themselves that they had passed an election reform bill that would make it virtually impossible for any potential opponent to ever raise enough money to compete against any incumbent member and they held out their hands and opened their pockets as the vote buyers came around with fistfuls of money.

Then, on the following Monday, the FBI arrived with subpoenas for almost everybody who is anybody. Suddenly, instead of blowing spitballs at each other and chuckling jovially and trying to look up the skirts of any woman on the premises, we had a Legislature that looked solemn. Dead serious. Suddenly both floors looked like they meant business. Unfortunately 58 of the 60 days that our constitution allows our dead beats to serve themselves had passed and it was a little late to get down to real business. But bless their hearts, they did look worried and God knows that our state has plenty enough problems for them to be worried about. If they'd had the same attitude throughout the session, they might have gotten some work done. On the other hand, if a frog had wings it might fly.

Herbie Deskins a lawyer who represents Pike County, showed up, on the last day, in a felt duncap and hibited overalls that had hillbilly (literally) written all over them in an effort to promote "Hillbilly Days," a local festival that will be held in

Pikeville later this year. But not too many folks were paying attention to Deskins. The clown corps, as a whole, was too worried about which of its individual members were going to be spending time in jail. And the individuals were sitting around wondering whether or not the bribes they had taken might have been recorded.

Two years from now, those of us who believe in honest government should petition the FBI to show back up on day one of the Legislative session. Lobbyist and Legislators alike should be warned that they are being watched and they should, in fact, be watched. If that's what it's going to take to get a tad of honesty out of Frankfort - If that's what it's going to take to keep this crowd from robbing us blind while they use the virtue of the office to make themselves wealthy, then I suggest the FBI take up permanent residence in the Capitol. God knows it could stay busy.

In the meantime, I am not gloating about all this investigation, as a few callers and letter writers have suggested. I am not proud nor do I take any satisfaction in the knowledge that our government is written by liars and thieves. I am personally embarrassed when I try to explain Kentucky politics to my out-of-state friends. I'm angry and I am sad and if all Kentuckians felt the same way -- even if a narrow majority felt the same way, then we might begin to convince some honest, competent people to run for office and they might do something to help this state instead of helping themselves. But I'm not holding my breath.

I'm afraid that our attitude toward politics will always be like our religion; Very narrow minded and exclusive. And I'm afraid that our lawmakers will always try to convince us that freedom of religion means that we have the right to go to the Baptist,

Methodist or Presbyterian Church of our choice.

You Presbyterians, by the way, should watch out. I hear tell, that if half the current Frankfort crowd manages to stay out of jail, there will be a House Bill in the next session that makes you against the law. The same law will propose that Catholics, Jews, Hindus, Buddhists, and the like simply do not exist. I don't know why, because I thought they just got finished doing precisely that.

Old Windows WASTE Energy and Money

Over 50% of the heat loss of a typical house is through windows and doors. Heat conducted through glass and frame can lose the equivalent of a pint of oil every day - for every window! In a properly insulated house (R-19 insulated attic) with Insul-Glass windows, the thermal-induction draft is dramatically reduced. The heat will evenly distribute (about 1° per foot is normal). By properly utilizing the heat created by the furnace, the house is much more evenly heated using less B.T.U. This increases comfort and drastically reduces fuel bills.

65th Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Gill of Berea will celebrate their 65th wedding anniversary Thursday, April 9th. Mr. Gill is a native of Laurel County, and turned 90 on March 24th. He was married April 9th, 1927 to Grace Coffey of Rockcastle County, who will be 89 on September 17th. Mr. Gill is a retired carpenter and sawmill operator. They are the parents of one daughter, Mrs. Noel (Bonnie) Kendrick of Berea. They also have two granddaughters and one great-granddaughter. Open house will be held from 5 to 9 p.m., April 9th at their home on 216 Mary St., Berea. All friends and relatives of the couple are invited. No gifts upon request.

Gabbard honored

A Lexington broadcaster has been elected to one of television's most prestigious industry groups' board of directors.

Ralph Gabbard, President of Kentucky Central Television, which operates WKYT in Lexington and WYMT in Hazard, has been elected by his fellow broadcasters to the National Association of Broadcasters (NAB) Television Board of Directors. Gabbard won in a nationwide election, being one of six new members selected from a slate of twenty-five. The NAB is the broadcast industry's main professional organization.

Gabbard, a native of Berea, has been with WKYT since 1970 and was named General Manager at age 27, making him the youngest general manager of a major market affiliate in the country. The CBS affiliate has been number one in the Lexington market since 1975 and as a Herald-Leader story once observed, "he's accustomed to leading."

In 1985, Gabbard built and signed

"Happy 50th Wedding Anniversary"

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Bingham wish to invite you to celebrate with them the 50th wedding anniversary of their parents at First Baptist Church fellowship hall at Mt. Vernon on Sunday, April 12 from 2:00 - 4:00 p.m. on WYMT-TV in Hazard, and the combination of the two stations means he runs the biggest television operation in the state.

Active in a number of civic groups, Gabbard was named an "outstanding Young Man of America" in 1970. Last year he was elected to the CBS Affiliate Advisory Board and as a member of the NAB TV Board, he will have a major role in helping decide industry policies.

Gabbard and his wife, Jackie, have four sons and live in the Greenbrier Estates area east of Lexington.

Judge proclaims April Volunteer Awareness Month

Volunteer Awareness Month in Rockcastle in April was proclaimed by County Judge/Executive Roland D. Mullins. On hand were members of the All America Club who have volunteered to pick up trash along highway U.S. 150 and two county roads and all the city streets in Mt. Vernon. The All America Club has also been taking out trash at the Rockcastle County Courthouse.

To All To Whom These Presents Shall Come:

Whereas, It is essential for private citizens to volunteer their time and effort to support worthy causes for civilization to advance; and, Whereas, Rockcastle County is founded on the principal for private citizens to ban together and accomplish worthy goals and objectives; and,

Whereas, Government cannot cure all of the county's problems, and only by each of us contributing our time and talents can problems be overcome and solutions found for those which affect our society; and,

Whereas, Citizen involvement is essential to Rockcastle, to Kentucky and to America's future well-being;

Now Therefore, I, Roland D. Mullins, Judge/Executive of Rockcastle County, Kentucky, do hereby proclaim April, 1990 as Volunteer Awareness Month in Rockcastle County, in conjunction with the recognition of volunteers of Kentucky, and I urge all citizens of this county to pay special recognition to those who serve without charge, in community services and other duties.

DONE AT THE COURTHOUSE, in Rockcastle County, City of Mount Vernon, this the 2nd day of April, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred Ninety.

Poet's Corner

Loneliness

By: Preston Parrett

An elderly lady sitting forsaken
In the shade of a tree
Her life's work behind her
Patiently waiting for eternity.

Her face was eroded by time
And her body frail and lean
Her sight was poor
And her hearing not too keen.

But with all her aged frailities
Her mind was sharp and clear
As she wondered what had happened
To the ones she had loved so dear.

Her husband had passed away
Leaving a vacuum in her heart
All of the children had grown up
And from the old homestead did depart.

She thought of childhood friends
Who had been dear through the years
But they too had passed away
From this vale of tears.

Her thoughts went full circle
From the present to the past
She had many fond memories
And she hoped to make them last.

For the pale horse and rider were approaching
With each passing day
Soon she and her loneliness
Would join those in heaven far away.

The Thin Gray Line

By: Preston Parrett

The courageous patrolman
With pistol at his side
Goes into his patrol car
For a long lonely ride.

With flashlight and cuffs
He starts off into the night
Not knowing what he'll be facing
Or whether he'll be alive by first light.

He patrols along streets and high-ways
Checking all around
Trying to sense the trouble spots
As he makes his way through the town

His radio begins to chatter

As reports start coming through
There's a speeder on the highway
And the driver is drinking brew.

He speeds off with flashing lights
As his siren clears the way
Falls in behind the speeder
Soon has him at bay.

He has him walk the line
Giving him the sobriety test
But the driver has drank too much brew
Staggered, fell and began to rest.

He cuffed him and put him in the rear.
Hauled him off to the cross-bar hotel
Where if everything goes as usual
He'll soon be out on bail.

Getting back into his patrol car
An excited voice left no doubt
There's a hold-up in progress
So check it out.

Speeding off to the scene
He coasted to a stop
Drew out his weapon
As guns began to pop.

The hold-up men came rushing out
Firing back into the store
He yelled "Throw down your weapons"
But they turned and let 'em roar.

The bullets were flying everywhere
Ricocheting off cars and concrete
The patrolman aimed carefully
Knocked them off their feet.

Calling for ambulances and back-up
Then giving first-aid as best he could
While he waited for back-up
A crowd gathered and stood.

Finally all the reports and evidence
Were gathered and filed away
These are just examples
Of what they face each day.

We all should be grateful.
For "The thin gray line"
For without these courageous men
It would soon be jungle time.

Roamin' Rockcastle

BY HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

If you didn't know it, old timers said the weather we're having now is March paying back April the 12 days of nice weather it borrowed from her when we thought spring was here...

So now we get winter weather of blowing snow, icy porches, and icicles dripping from the porch roof. Herman Spires of Scaffold Cane country, who drives to Jennings Auto Parts in Berea to work every week day, tries to burrow back down into the blanket when his wife calls him to get up on a day like this.

That's a bad example for your kids, Herman. They'll want to stay in bed, too.

This is a "Hello Old Times" to Tom Owen in Florida who is a reader of this paper. Tom is the fellow who lives in a tree house. The house is built around a tree.

Tom, you ought to quit chasing those pretty girls on the beach. It will hurt your arthritis and you'll be writing me for some of those m.d.'s (mountain doctor's) remedy.

Patricia Coffey from Scaffold Cane called me to learn where Jean Payne was living. She said she used to help Jean before Jean went to the Berea Hospital burn ward had lost track of her.

Jean is a resident of Berea Health Care Center, I told her. Then Patricia talked about this column and how she liked reading it.

You know, Patricia, that's like putting the icing on the cake so I thank you for being a reader of the Citizen as well as my column.

Jack Denjoy on Jefferson Street passed the word that I was the only one who enjoyed drinking popcorn only.

Our new pastor at Galilee Baptist Church on Scaffold Cane Road, Brother Steve, and wife Shirley Cole.

He told John he liked it very much and wished he had a cup of the smooth tasting tea. John invited him to come and get some of the branches John had brought in from Rockcastle hills. We'll be willing to share, Mr. Denny.

You see the picture in this week's column, of our new pastor, Brother Steve and his wife Shirley Cole.

I tell you, he's a reason why one would do some old time shouting as I've seen my mother do long ago.

Brother Cole will give the chapter and verse from which he will preach (which I have heard many times and know what happens), but I am still held at close attention by the way Brother Cole delivers the message. So we are thankful to the Lord for people work in our church.

I am thankful to have these everything about this little country church.

I'm willing to bet that our Galilee Church has something that no other church near, as our church, has in three church members who sing for us.

Those three members, with their instruments are Lee Abney on a guitar, Mike Gay using a bass guitar as his fiddle, and Mark McGuire on an electric guitar, joins Lee in lead. We get some of the greatest music from these men.

When they give out with "These Holy Hills," and "God on a Mountain," I'll declare I could start shouting as my mother used to do.

I didn't know there were millionaires in Berea until I met Junior (Leonard) Hayes of Hayes Furniture Co.

We were talking to him about buying an electric stove as ours took a spell not wanting to burn (John says I don't want to cook anyway.)

Mr. Hayes told us the story of a man whose wife didn't like to cook. He told his neighbors he and his wife sold the stove, then he drew a picture of a stove on the wall of the empty space and, "Now, we eat out all the time," he said.

I'm wondering what the wife did to get out of cooking!

Mr. Hayes came to our home to see what he might give us for the stove we used. He also brought one of the cutest little girls I had seen, his granddaughter, Lindsay Arnold, who was about three or four years old.

As we talked of her, Mr. Hayes said, "Yes, I have about six million."

I took another look at this man, who claimed to have six million in a calm voice. He didn't seem to be a big shot for he had come to our house to bargain for our stove as a trade-in.

He also brought a sales catalog so I could pick a stove to buy.

"Mr. Hayes, could I tell in my column that you have six million?" I asked excitedly.

"Oh yes," he smiled, "but you'd better tell that it is in the grandchildren we have. Every one of them is worth a million dollars to us, and I wouldn't even sell them for that!"

I let out a big sigh with the breath I was holding over talking to a "big shot."

Patricia Oliver Jones was in Berea from Texas due to the illness of her grandfather, Ohio Oliver. She is the daughter of Sonny Oliver and Dr. Susan Payne Delton, and a great-niece of mine whom I hadn't seen since she was a small girl out on Clear Creek. Patricia is very much like her mother, Susan, in looks as well as actions, very lively and pretty.

Patricia has a daughter who works as a stewardess for an airline. Her husband, whose great passion is tinkering with and repairing cars, kept their two younger children at home while Patricia made the trip to see the grandfather who was very ill.

She hopes to have a return trip this summer.

Coming up the hospital steps, I ran into two of my readers, George Moore and his wife, Katie coming down. They talked so nicely about the paper, and what I wrote for it that they made me feel great.

Everybody made the change in time on their clocks Sunday except Harold Cole and me. He and his family deliver the Herald on Sunday.

Now Harold finds it harder to get up anyway for that's the morning he turns over for another nap, but I'm tired of standing by the cold roadside while Harold is spoiled by his pretty wife and daughters. I'm wondering if the Register has a Sunday paper!

Back to Superior Market's pictures of their employees. Did you notice the row of the Saylor children employees and how nice they looked? They sure are their good looks after their pretty mother Virginia.

Roy Quinley did all right too, he married the boss's pretty daughter, Penny.

I'll stop off here with the other employees whom I don't know. After this, I'll probably not get a single box or bag carried to my car - but I'll go to Virginia. I hear she has more weight around there.

I have been ill the past week end and just now (Monday) getting this in to Sara, who types it out for the paper.

I was coughing very badly as we entered Western Steer restaurant on Saturday. One of the waitresses, Roberta Thomas, who is very good at her job, brought me a piece of lemon to suck on and by George if I didn't stop at once.

Till next week. There are no big tasks, only little minds!

because that was "a sin" back then - if you were a Baptist.

Who can forget tough guys like Cagney, Bogart, and Edward G.? Then there was that terrifying, forties creature-feature, "The Thing!" When those Arctic scientists opened a door and that alien monstrosity (played by James "Matt Dillon" Arness) howled and lunged for them, we screamed and almost died. It wasn't all bad. A girl named Carol threw popcorn all over our side of the theater and jumped in my lap. But one lad, later named "Puddles," went home.

Children under age twelve paid nine cents to see "the show." Oft times a dime was all I had. So, I said to others, "Can I have your penny?"

Five bought popcorn. The Vernon ran four films each week, three for two days each and a western on Saturday. We endured Pathé newsreels but relished cartoons, especially Bugs Bunny, and "short subjects" like the farcical Three Stooges.

On Friday and Saturday, we saw "the serial." The "main player" found himself in dire straits at the end of each chapter (twelve or fifteen), but in the end he conquered the enemy. In one episode the Phantom, fleeing from a lion, fell through a trap door into a pit of crocodiles. How could he get out of that? The next week we found out it was a lovely croc posing as the Phantom.

Some preachers and parents in Mt. Vernon said shows were "biked." They probably went overboard a bit, but a boy named Jacob did take the flick too far. He swiped a sheet, dyed it blue, and fashioned a crude, hooded cape. Then he became Batman and crept around town confronting crime. Jacob gave it up after swinging off a sky scraper in Gotham City (the roof of his grandfather's farmhouse). He nearly hanged himself when his car caught on the vent pipe.

In most features the star won out. No matter how perilous the plot, he somehow escaped or was rescued. The Texas rangers and the cavalry (we said "calvaries") saved people from ruthless desperadoes and fort-hating Indians, like the Apache, Comanche, and the Cherokee, who also hated the Atchison, Topoka, and the Santa Fe.

Jacob - too easily swayed - let that "Main player" mentality take root in his soul. So, growing up, he had it in the back of his mind that no matter what he did or how far out of bounds he went, he would come out all right.

Jacob forgot the films that depicted brave settlers heading westward only to fall in an onslaught of arrows. It was worse for those who took short cuts, leaving the longer trail and the safer company of the wagon train. Like them, Jacob ignored the pleading voices of experience. He was a "Main player." That old advice - good enough for others - didn't apply to him.

Years later, on a night "darker than the midnight depths down in a cypress swamp," the angry entered Jacob's camp. Escape was impossible, the rangers didn't know, and the cavalry never came.

Green supplies distributed to more than 1,300 families

Approximately 1,370 families received seed and fertilizer between March 24 and April 3, according to Christian Appalachian Project officials.

Each spring the Christian Appalachian Project, helps low-income families and elderly people grow vegetables by giving them seeds for 15 varieties. This year the distribution will include flower and herb seeds.

An additional 1,500 families will be served through other regional agencies which receive planting supplies from CAP.

The program enables participants to supplement their diets with fresh food through their own efforts.

Participants are encouraged to can and preserve some of their harvest so that they can enjoy wholesome food throughout the year.

During the growing season CAP workers visit participants to provide friendship, Christian witness, and gardening tips, but often receive more than they give.

The seeds are donated by Agrow Seed Company, the Society of St. Andrew in Virginia, and individuals.

Let's talk about some things that might shock you.

If anything you're touching makes contact with a power line, you could get a serious - or fatal - electric shock.

Look all around for power lines, and don't risk accidental contact when you're involved in any outdoor activities, such as...

- flying kites.
- using ladders or scaffolds.
- installing or moving an antenna.
- cleaning swimming pools.
- trimming trees.

And before you dig, be sure there are no underground lines in the area.

When using electric tools outdoors...

- be sure they're properly grounded and in good condition;
- don't use them in rain or dampness;
- use a ground fault circuit interrupter.

And remember to stay away from all fallen lines and report them immediately.

Protective Parenting

By: Ginny Gilpatrick

Between Mr. Vernon and Broadhead there is a pasture with six or eight sleek, dark colored horses. A couple of weeks ago there appeared in this field a new born foal, dark colored like the rest, but all mane and white spotted so that passersby chuckled and wonder where it came from.

Sometimes a couple has a child who is so unlike the rest of the family that they joke about the "milk man" or some other unlikely source of its origin. When this happens it is often difficult for the family to bond with the child because of the mis-fit. The child feels misunderstood and feels that he is doing something wrong. Consider a family I know where the father and three of the boys are very "macho." They enjoy roughness: hunting, cussing, and generally aggressive behavior. Perhaps the sons learned this behavior from the father, who knows for sure how much is genetic and how much is environment? But there is another son, a kinder, gentler son, who likes art, is not good at sports, and prefers helping the elderly in the neighborhood to roughing it. He has been pushed and pulled by the other males in the family since he was a toddler, and is now very confused about his own identity. To get attention he sometimes acts aggressive like his brothers, but it is unnatural for him and he generally overdoes it, or does it at inappropriate times and places which gets him in trouble.

Why is it so difficult for us to accept a child who is different? For one thing, it is just unfamiliar, kind of like trying to relate to someone who speaks a foreign language. When we say and do the things that we usually do the child is not interested or does not react as we anticipate he should. This naturally frustrates well-meaning parents as they learn new ways to communicate. The sports-minded family simply does not know what to do with their child who ducks from an on-coming ball, or prefers to sit in the lodge when they go skiing. The same is true of the close-knit family who loves country life and has to deal with a kid who constantly needs to be on the go and seeks excitement away from home.

So what do you do if your foal turns out to be spotted? Chances are that before he gets old enough to have a real conversation you have already looked horns over a number of issues. Usually by the time a child reaches school age, realization that he marches to the beat of a different drummer has begun to sink in. You probably know deep down, though you may have trouble accepting it, that you are not going to change the child's spots. Your relationship with the child is going to take more work than with the others; this means more focus on communication, more time for conversation, and especially a lot of listening to show him you are eager to understand him.

What a joy it would be to find an unexpected exotic flower burst in to bloom in your garden. Chances are most of us would study each petal with wonder as it unfolded... and so we should with our "odd" child. Learn from him what his different-colored world is all about and you will find ways to nurture his unique growth. This might lead you on special trips to his home, or prompt you to find the implements or opportunities with which he can cultivate his interests.

With naturally handicapped adults, I have gotten to know numerous families who initially faced the shock of learning that their child would be different. I marvel at the commonly expressed feeling that normally they were the parent of a "special" child, they would not want it to be any other way. The joy that follows our taking time to find the blessing in each unique child is ample reward.

It is time you drive out Route 150, watch the proud black mare grazing in peaceful acceptance alongside her contrasting offspring.

Parents, public invited to area meeting on new primary school

Parents and citizens in this area are invited to attend a training session for local educators on Kentucky's new primary school program at Somerset High School auditorium, Tuesday, April 14, 4-7 p.m.

The area meeting is one of eight being conducted by the Kentucky Department of Education's Early Childhood Division between March 28 and April 27.

Registration information is available locally from schools, family resource centers, Head Start centers and Parent-Teacher Associations.

Carri VanZant named Region 15 Historian

Congratulations are in order to Carri A. VanZant. Carri was named FHA, Region 15 historian. Twenty eight schools are involved in Region 15. The Regional meeting was held at Dunbar High School, where she competed against several students from other areas.

Carri attends Berea Community High School, where she is a junior class member. She is involved with BETA, NHS, Pep Club and Spanish club. She is student council parliamentary, senior class secretary and FHA historian. A third year member of the flag squad and currently co-captain. She is a member of the girls golf team and a baseball statistician. Carri is the daughter of Roger D. VanZant from Mt. Vernon and Barbara Shirley from Berea.

Head Start offers the following ideas to families who urge them to participate in this celebration week. Praise your child's efforts to succeed. Read a special story together. Take a walk with your child. Fix your child's favorite food. Let your child choose and wear a favorite outfit. Begin to read a positive parenting book. Sing songs together in the car. Have your

"We want all Kentuckians to understand and be involved in the process for planning and implementing Kentucky's exciting new program for children between the ages of five and eight," said Abbie Robinson, administrator, the state director of early childhood education.

All elementary schools in Kentucky are required to begin implementation of the primary school program this fall. Full implementation is required by the fall of 1993.

Part of the Kentucky Education Reform Act of 1990, the Primary School program uses a variety of state-of-the-art techniques to prepare young children to enter the fourth grade.

It features individualized instruction, multi-age and multi-ability grouping, cooperative learning and active "hands on" learning. The emphasis is on continuous progress in the successful development of each child's physical, social and aesthetic as well as academic abilities.

Make children feel special during Week of the Young Child

April 5 to 11 is being designated by the National Association for Education of Young Children (NAEYC) as the Week of the Young Child. The theme for the week, "Their Future is in Our Hands," encompasses both parents and care givers.

This is in keeping with Kentucky River Foothills Head Start's philosophy of nurturing children. The program provides in caring for children, we join with NAEYC in focusing on the needs of young children, their families and quality child care.

Vocational Industrial Clubs of America Skill Olympics

Bobby Barron, a student at Harry Sparks Area Vocational Education Center was a first-place winner in the secondary welding contest at the Region 13 Vocational Industrial Clubs of America Regional Skill Olympics. The competition was held March 26, at the Bell County Area Vocational Technical School, Painesville. These events were a preliminary qualifier for the VICA National Leadership Conference and United States Skill Olympics to be held in Louisville, June 22-26, 1992.

Placing second place in the Electronics Skill Competition secondary category was George Clark, second place in the post-secondary Electronics Skill competition was Chris Creech, and second place in Automotive Technology demonstration secondary category was Jesse Morgan. Placing third place in the Electronics Skill secondary competition category was Karl Pittman, third place in the Welding Skill category was Mark Richards, and third place in the Automotive Technology secondary Job Interview was Chuck Gray.

Contestants in the regional competition were given a timed, practical demonstration of the student's experience in applying technical knowledge by completing an assigned hands-on project.

By placing first in his skill, Bobby Barron will be representing region 13 and Harry Sparks Area Voc Ed. Center at the State VICA Skill Olympics to be held in Paducah, May 6-9, 1992.

Attending the Regional Skill Olympics with the students with their Advisors, Mike Kincaid - Automotive Technology Instructor and Ralph Baker - welding instructor.

Take a chance on Nostalgia

The old Mt. Vernon School, Livingston School and Broadhead School are part of many people's pleasant memories. Many of us attended school there and some of our children do now as well as our parents long ago.

One dollar will buy you a chance to win a print of one of these schools. You select which one you want to buy the chance for and maybe you'll get lucky!

The Broadhead and old Mt. Vernon School prints are by the well-known Rockcastle artist, the late Mrs. Barbara Owen. The Livingston print is by promising young Rockcastle artist, Leslie Scalf.

Prints will be displayed at the Bank of Mt. Vernon where chances may be purchased or you may buy them through the 6th grade teachers. Call school for details. Proceeds go to the Mt. Vernon PTA annual fund-raiser. Money will be used for educational supplies for the kids.

The Livingston Link

The Livingston Elementary School-Based Decision Making (SDBM) Council for the 1992-93 school year is Vickie Arnold, librarian; Martha Everette, teacher 4th grade; Deberah Cummings, counselor; Judy Hammond, parent; Deni Gray, Mrs. McKenney; and Cheryl Kera. The guiding purpose of the school council is the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA), is to provide "an environment to enhance the student's achievement and help the school meet the goals of KERA. KRS 160.345 (2)(C).

The LES "Find the Good and Praise It" Rally was held on Friday, March 27, 1992. Students, faculty, and staff wore special t-shirts for this event. We would like to thank Claudia Calk, -distriet supervisor, Roland Collins, -principal, and executive; and Allen Penell, Area Coordinator for their splendid help. Also we enjoyed special music by students organized by Jamie Cornelius, music teacher. We had many positive activities and messages focused on during March will continue with everyone.

Congratulations to Mrs. Everette and her 6th grade students for presenting a splendid Medieval Festival on Friday, April 3. This event was a celebration of their Medieval Times unit. Students projected, displayed, and sold their wares. We were awestruck at the excellence in their work. Costumes, castles, traditions and special food were enjoyed by all.

We really enjoyed the fine music and entertainment presented March 3 by Mrs. Johns Ward and the Castle Chorus. Many students commented that they would like to be in chorus when they get to RCHS.

On Thursday, April 2, Mt. Mink presented copies of the LES "Effective School Plan" to be faculty. The Effective Schools Leadership Team is: Robert Myk, Margaret McCreary, Patricia Martin, and Vickie Arnold. Much time and effort was put into the development of our school plan. Members are to be praised for their positive role in the school plan. The School Plan will be located in the library for public view.

We are presently evaluating the 1991-92 Schoolwide Chapter 1 program. Mrs. Vickie Arnold and Mrs. Patricia Martin prepared a comparison of FY91 to FY92 in regard to the library. The results were a positive for the inclusion of Schoolwide. To better serve our students next year, new goals must be set. The development of these goals are presently underway.

In celebration of Kentucky Library Week Mrs. Arnold organized the "Parade of Characters." This event was held Friday, April 3 in the gym. Students and staff dressed like their favorite book character. Much creativity was witnessed, as we viewed students and staff in their costumes. Everyone who participated received a special button from Mrs. Arnold. Each of us enjoyed the stories shared by Mrs. Claudia Calk, Bobby Webb and Mrs. Arnold. Reading is so important and LES is very fortunate to have a librarian that promotes the love for reading like Mrs. Arnold does. We appreciate all special activities involved in us throughout this school year.

Dear Editor, The faculty and 8th grade students of Mt. Vernon Elementary wish to thank the Bank of Mt. Vernon and Citizens Bank of Broadhead for helping to fund Ashland Oh's "A Day on Campus" trip. Mt. Vernon 8th graders traveled to Eastern Kentucky University for February 28th for a visit to the Art and Music Department and a visit to Hummel Planetarium. Thanks again for making our trip possible.

Mt. Vernon Elementary Eighth Graders

This is the last week for tutoring, according to Mr. Waddles. Also, Mr. Waddles reports that the spring semester will begin on June 1st and end on June 30th. Fifth graders should remember to get their physicals and MMR on measles shots, according to Mrs. Kay Singletary. You must have the physicals and shots before you can be enrolled in 6th grade. There will be wrestling April 16th in the gym at 7 p.m. Tickets are available in advance for $6 general admission and $3 for students. Tickets are slightly higher at the door with ringside seats at $7, and general admission seats at $5. There will be no discount for students at the door.

The wrestling lineup will include: The Texas Hangman vs. the Fabulous Danny Fargo, The Devils' Duo vs. The California Dudes, Exotic Adrian vs. Dan Childers, Big Bubbas vs. Pransmette Brian, and the Russian Assassin vs. Mountain Man Miller.

There will be a school based decision making council meeting on April 15th at 5 p.m. and the PTA will meet on April 18th at 6 p.m.

What classes are learning the number 20? and the letter "W" each week? Miss Parkerson's morning and afternoon kindergarten classes are!

The students of the week in the morning are Nicholas, Tom and Gregory Pickett, and Chris Tole and Stephanie Sturges in the afternoon.

The letter "W" and the number "20" is again making news. Both are visiting Mrs. Irene Alexander's kindergarten class.

Santo in the afternoon. The letter "Y" has been visiting Mrs. Allen's kindergarten class in "Writing to Learn" work, which is completing their cycle work books.

A pizza party is the big news for the week in Mrs. Smith's class. The class has been reading "Charlotte's Web," and will finish the book this week. Along with pizza, they will celebrate with a video of the book. The students of the class are Nicole Nicely, April Grubb and Dominic Robinson.

The students of the week in the class are Ashley Mink and Shawn Cloud. Frog eggs are turning into tadpoles in Mrs. Carra's class this week. Several students have brought in frog eggs to study this change.

The class is reading the book, "Charlotte's Web". The students of the week are Todd Arnold and Nicholas Allen.

A new student is making news in Mrs. Webb's class. Connel's primary music classes, the students were introduced to the school acoustic guitars, which were purchased through a grant. These guitars now bring the total to 12, along with 12 dulcimers. The guitars purchased were made by David Musser of Crompton. Mr. Musser has been at our school teaching the students about the fundamentals of music. Mrs. Cornelius hopes to have a very special performance soon.

Also, during the month of March we celebrated "Music In Our Schools" month. The students in grades 4, 5, and 6 were busy learning songs which they sang in "The World's Largest Concert" during music class. Mrs. Cornelius wishes to thank everyone for their support of music in our school.

The lives lived once again last Saturday night, as the Mt. Vernon Brownies and Girl Scouts held a 50's style dance. According to Mrs. Lovell, the event was held at the Family Life Center, and enjoyed by all.

The group's next event will be International Day on Saturday, April 11. There is open practice in the gym on Tuesdays and Thursdays. According to Coach Cooper, all boys in the 4th through the 8th grades are invited to attend practice. In the Special Education T.M.H. class, Mr. Fletcher is substituting for Mrs. Reed, who is on maternity leave. The class has been involved in several "Spring Art" projects, including spring making with the use of the wall outside their classroom. Also, the class is learning about household chores, and daily routines.

The students of the week had a poster contest, and the winner was a difficult decision. There were four entries, and since all were well designed it was decided that all were winners. Mrs. McKinney's class received runner-up shirts from the Corbin Optometrist Invitational Shoot-out. Those receiving the shirts were Chad Anderson, John Brown, Tim Owens, Blake Blackfish, and Chris Miller.

The students of the week are Joshua Weaver and Brittany Thomas in the morning; and Jessica Kidd and Nicky

The class is busy beginning a project of building a habitat for earthworms in science.

Ananda French, John Renner, and Marilyn Miller are all enjoying their status as students of the month in Miss Lear's 4th grade class.

Sliders, gliders and clay boats for sink-and-float experiments are part of Mrs. Powell's A.C.E.S. activities. These experiments make learning science fun!

Check writing and balancing is the math topic in Mrs. Kincaid's class.

In science, the class is studying the solar system. They have studied how the planets received their names, along with the number of moons in the system. Also, life on other planets was discussed.

Amada Osborne is the 5th grade princess.

Mr. Napier's students of the week are Kevin McClure and Tiffany McCook. The class has had 25 weeks of "A's" in spelling, and are experiencing the magnetic ACES program.

Mr. Napier's class' primary music classes, the students were introduced to the school acoustic guitars, which were purchased through a grant. Those receiving the shirts were Chad Anderson, John Brown, Tim Owens, Blake Blackfish, and Chris Miller.

CTBS testing is over, and the class watched "The Martian Chronicles" by Ray Bradbury, after the tests.

Mrs. McKinney will celebrate her birthday on April 4th, and Heather Bray on the 13th.

April is a big birthday month for Mrs. Mink. Mrs. McKinney will celebrate her birthday on April 4th, and Heather Bray on the 13th. April is the birthday for Christy Mink, Xylene Parer, and Melissa Cromer. April 9th is Amy Moore's birthday and April 13th is Nikki Bannan's birthday.

The students of the week are Crystal Childers and Christy Mink. Ms. Bales' class has been busy getting ready for Spring Fling. The 6th grade candidates for the king and queen are Megan Holbrook and John Brown.

The class is back on track after CTBS testing. They have performed several experiments with the ACES equipment, and enjoy these lessons very much. They have been working especially hard on note-taking and gathering study information on their own. The skills help with their work now and next year in the 7th grade.

A student from Eastern Kentucky University is coming to visit the school in Mrs. Parsons' history class. Mr. Coffey is teaching the students about the very beginning of the United States. In association with the teaching, several students are designing posters about the era.

Of course, the eighth grade class, like all the classes, is looking forward to the Spring Break. And speaking of spring, many think of baseball, and eighth grade Scottie Cotton has his interest tuned in that direction. Scottie is a pitcher for the Rockcastle County High School baseball team.

Local student recognized at EKU's Annual Honors Day Banquet

A Rockcastle County student was among more than 220 Eastern Kentucky University students recognized for outstanding achievement during EKU's Annual Honors Day.

The student are honored for academic excellence, campus leadership and service to the University community during a luncheon banquet on Sunday, April 5 in the Keen Johnson Building.

Local student and honoree is Kimberly J. Barnes of Mt. Vernon. Clarance H. Gibbs Scholarship in the Natural Sciences.

Update on...

The 1992 General Assembly

By: State Representative
Danny Ford

According to the Kentucky Constitution, the General Assembly is to meet for 60 days beginning in the first week of January during even numbered years. Until recently, that would have meant we would have opened the Capitol by now. But legislative reforms of the 1970s and 1980s changed the calculation to mean 60 "working" days as opposed to 60 "calendar" days.

The planners of our legislative calendar have included a ten day recess period to allow the Governor time to review the legislation we have passed. That's where we are now. All that's left for us to do is return to Frankfort on April 14th and 15th to consider passing any bills the Governor might veto.

Because there is not likely to be a major surprise during this veto recess, this might be a good time to look back and recap for you the 1992 regular session of the General Assembly.

Before I detail each of the most important pieces of legislation, I want you to know that my overall impression of this session is one of frustration.

When I arrived in Frankfort last January, I had every intention of making tough decisions to enhance medical care, clean up our election process, and improve the functioning of state government. While I was able to cast many critical votes in committee and on the floor, most of the controversial legislation failed to make it through the entire legislative process to be signed into law.

Here's a quick review of the bills that dominated the headlines for the past three months...

Health Care

Since the adjournment of the 1990 legislature, most capital observers believed that the signature issue of 1992 would be reducing the cost of and improving the access to medical care. The fact that 700,000 Kentuckians are uninsured or underinsured and that more and more Kentuckians are depending on Medicaid means that health care deserves to be on the minds of every legislator at this critical time. Unfortunately, not a single piece of health reform legislation was even considered during this session because the Governor wanted to delay the issue for further study. After forming a 24 member panel on health care reform, the Governor announced his intention to call a special legislative session in November to deal solely with this pressing matter.

Mandatory Seat Belt Legislation

House Bill 460 sought to require all motorists to wear seat belts. Vjolovs were fined $25 if they were pulled over for another offense. The bill passed the House, but the 38 Senators split 19-19 until the Lieutenant Governor cast the deciding "no" vote to kill the measure. This measure is an unwarranted intrusion by the government into private lives, that's why I voted no on this piece of legislation.

Abortion

After lengthy and heated debate, the House passed three bills that would 1) regulate abortion clinics, 2) require minors to get parental consent before receiving an abortion, and 3) require a woman to wait 24 hours between the time she receives information about the abortion and the time the procedure is begun. All three bills were stalled in the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Prevailing Wage

As passed by the House, HB 485 would apply the state's "prevailing wage" contract guidelines to school and local construction bids. The measure was not acted upon by the Senate.

Campaign Finance Reform

Senate Bill 121 started off with the admirable goal of cleaning up Kentucky's election system. By lowering the amounts of contributions and prohibiting major contributors from receiving non-bid contracts, we can get to the heart of the election reform mess. But I voted against this bill because it went entirely too far. It uses taxpayers' monies to pay candidates to run for office! That's why I couldn't support this legislation despite my support for election reform.

Domestic Violence

Several bills passed both houses that change the domestic violence laws of the Commonwealth. They include bills that:

Require judges to consider evidence of violence when determining child custody.

Include domestic violence protection to unmarried couples that live together.

Make it a crime to stalk a victim. Allows courts to consider a history of domestic violence when determining self-defense cases.

In light of the failure of so many bills to pass both the House, and Senate, this domestic violence legislation is among the most significant to become law in 1992.

The "Bottle Bill"

Every two years for the last decade, a legislator has filed a bill that would place a deposit on beverage bottles. Kentuckians could redeem the bottles to get the money back. Supporters of the bill claim it would benefit the environment by reducing the kind of garbage that often litters our roadways and neighborhoods. Opponents don't want to create a burdensome system on Kentucky retailers. The controversy forced the Governor to withdraw his support of the measure. It never came to a vote.

Living Will

When Kentucky enacted a "living will" statute in 1990, it created a legal document that allows people to make their own life-and-death decisions should they ever be dependent on artificial life support machines. The sponsor of that measure returned this year to allow family members to make those decisions in the absence of a signed living will document. It was narrowly defeated in the House.

It seems that the legislature had a tough time getting bills passed in both chambers this year. But all the news surrounding the 1992 regular session is not bleak.

I am also proud that the caucus to which I belong introduced a dozen pieces of legislation that, if enacted, would make sweeping improvements in the way state government operates. Perhaps the most significant bill in that package to pass both chambers is House Concurrent Resolution 20. This legislation requires a thorough, two-year study of our entire tax structure. The study group is to make recommendations to the 1994 General Assembly that will reorganize the tax code so that it will be more fair to All Kentuckians. It is my hope that the recommendations will include a reduction in some tax rates and an elimination of certain other taxes.

Special Examines the State of American democracy

Even as people in the former Soviet bloc fight for self-government, looking to America as an example, Americans by the millions are choosing not to participate in their own political system. The Rage for Democracy, a new documentary airing on KET at 10 p.m. Monday, April 13, examines why so many Americans have "dropped out" of their own government - and what other people are doing to try to win them back.

Roger's Report

House Bank Scandal: Rogers' Checkbook Balanced

Kentucky's Hal Rogers was among the few Members of Congress who were totally innocent in the House Bank scandal.

The veteran lawmaker from the Fifth District was one of the first Congressmen to receive a written assurance from the Sergeant-at-Arms in October that he had not overdrawn his House Bank account.

He also received formal notification from the Committee on Standards of Official Conduct last month that he had not written any bad checks.

Rogers took the lead in calling for full disclosure of the names of all these members who abused the system.

"I never wrote a cold check, and I don't want to be tarred with the same brush as those who did," Rogers said. "Let the names come out. Those few of us who are innocent want to have our names cleared."

Rogers plans regional meetings in new counties

As Congressman Rogers starts organizing his re-election campaign, he plans to hold three regional meetings in May in the new counties of the Fifth District.

Details on times and locations will be featured in the next issue of Campaign Update.

To help with future scheduling and since you know best how to make the most effective use of his time while Congress is in session, your advice will be appreciated.

Cain attends vision project

Dr. L. Loe Cain, who practices in Mt. Vernon, participated in the Kentucky Vision Project's Give-One-Day Program during March. The month of March has been designated as "Save Your Vision Month."

Dr. Cain was one of over a hundred optometrists in Kentucky who set aside one day in March to donate hours of professional service to services to provide eye health care to the needy of Kentucky.

Dr. Cain said more than 400 adults and children were examined and, if needed, prescribed prescription lenses. The optometrists also found people with undiagnosed eye disease and provided treatment or arranged for treatment to be provided without charge.

"We are glad to be able to help these people and we plan to continue this effort year round as we have for the past eight years." Over 11,000 people have already been given free examinations since the program started, but the need remains great," said Dr. Cain.

Also involved in the program were the Salvation Army and Community Action Centers which established individual's eligibility and optical laboratories across the nation who donated frames and lenses.

To improve services

Berea

Hospital expands facilities

Berea Hospital's health care facilities are expanding to improve service to the community.

In order to meet the demand for expanded physical therapy services, the Physical Therapy Department's space will be enlarged to include the area now housing the cafeteria. A new, larger dining room will be built at the back of the hospital at the present site of the loading dock.

'We are excited about the expansion of the Physical Therapy Department said Ernestine Brashear, Physical Therapy Department Director. 'We are increasing our department from 800 square feet to 2,000 square feet. This expansion will allow us the space needed to offer additional progressive programs and to more effectively meet the needs of our patients.'

As Berea Hospital's physical therapy facility expands, the new dining room is taking shape. Mickie Hudson, Director of Dietary, explained her expectations of the project. 'I want our new dining room to be a bright, inviting and relaxing place that will provide our employees and visitors with a brief respite from their daily stress situations.'

Amateur artists invited to submit original paintings

Amateur artists from Laurel, Knox, Whitley, Jackson, Rockcastle, Clay, Pulaski, and McCreary counties are invited to submit original paintings for display in competition during the eighth Cumberland Gallery Spring Art Show, slated for May 12 - May 15 in London.

To be eligible for entry, artists must reside within the area composed by the eight above mentioned counties and be of affirmed amateur status. An amateur is defined as one who does not, or has not in the past, earned a sizeable portion of income through the sale of teaching of his/her art.

Participants in the Spring Art Show may enter two works in one of six categories: Animal, Contemporary, Landscapes, Portraits, Still Life or Kentucky Bicentennial. Prizes and ribbons will be awarded in each class by Neil DiTeresa, Art Professor at Berea College as judge for the event. DiTeresa also will be serving as judge for the special student competition, open to all Laurel County students, age 16 and under.

In addition to these displays by the area's fine amateur artists and Laurel County students, the show also will feature selected works by special exhibitors of the Lexington Art League.

Both DiTeresa, and our special exhibitors will be on hand to kick off the show at the opening reception, in Cumberland Gallery on Monday evening May 11 from 7 - 9 p.m. A special invitation to attend is extended to the public and especially to the exhibiting artists. During this time, the public will be given its first chance to view the show, which will be judged prior to the opening.

Applications for entry in the Cumberland Gallery Art show are available in London at Cumberland Valley National Bank Main Office and all branch locations.

Cumberland Gallery Spring Art Show is sponsored by Cumberland Valley National Bank. The Gallery is located on the lower level of the Cumberland Valley National Bank building on Main Street in London. Deadline for entry in the Spring

Art Show is 5 p.m., Friday May 8. No exceptions. For further information, contact Annie Chesnut or Maxine Cloyd at 878-7010.

Relocation project for part of 150 back on schedule

The portion of a relocated U.S. 150 that would include a 750-acre impoundment of Cedar Creek is back on the front burner in Frankfort.

State Rep. Joe Clarke of Danville, whose district includes the proposed lake, inserted into the state budget at the last minute full funding for the $12.9-million project over the next two years.

That means that work on the 4.7 mile stretch from 1.2 miles east of Preacherville Road to Deep Well Woods Road should begin sometime after July 1 this year and before June 30, 1994.

Chris McNeil of the state Transportation Cabinet said that the highway department is adjusting its six-year plan now to make it correspond with the projects the legislature funded in the state's budget.

The portion of U.S. 150 that has not been moved up was scheduled to begin in 1995 with the final completion in fiscal year that begins June 1, 1996.

McNeil said that the exact timing of the various phases of the project has not been worked out. The Transportation Cabinet learned only at the close of the legislative session last week that the project had been funded in the budget.

County Judge Executive John Sims said that the move by Clarke to put road into the state budget "made me feel 10-feet tall."

Sims said that Clarke, as chairman of the House Appropriations and Revenue Committee, was uniquely positioned to help move the U.S. 150 project back to the forefront of priorities for the state.

"Joe Clarke got it put back in and funded," Sims said.

Sims also said that the state division of Fish and Wildlife, which committed itself to purchasing the estimated 1,000 acres of land that will be needed for the lake, could begin acquiring property as early as July of this year.

It would be up to the county to raise $500,000 to finance the difference in cost between building a dam across Cedar Creek, which Sims wants, and the cost of building a bridge across that gap near where Charlie Boone Road crosses Cedar Creek. The state has estimated that it will cost $500,000 more to build the dam rather than a bridge.

The road is part of an envisioned four-lane U.S. 150 from Stanford to KY 461 at Mount Vernon, giving Lincoln, Boyle and Mercer counties a four-lane road linking the county seats with Interstate 75.

The initial construction on the first 2.6 miles of road from Stanford to near Preacherville Road is under construction. The $2.4-million construction contract calls for only two lanes of highway but enough right-of-way was purchased to someday expand the road to four lanes.

At Preacherville Road, the relocated U.S. 150 would join the existing highway for a distance of 1.2 miles then the portion that includes the lake would begin, taking a northerly route about a mile north of the existing highway.

The new portion is designed to rejoin the existing highway at Deep Well Woods Road near the Crab Orchard city limits.

The middle phase of the project, beginning a Preacherville Road, is in the state's six-year road plan for construction in fiscal year 1998, which is also the year the remaining 13.3 miles to Mount Vernon is scheduled for design work.

Citizens are "all heart" when paying fines

The American Heart Association's recent Cardiac Arrest warrants, served to Rockcastle citizens for crimes against their heart, has raised $365 in bail money, according to Sue Ward, Regional Director for the American Heart Association.

Ward added, "The American Heart Association thanks Rockcastle County citizens for responding to their arrest warrants. A special note of appreciation goes to Cardiac arrest Judge, Billy Hiatt, owner of Hiatt's 5 and 7."

Bail money raised will be used for heart health curriculum in Rockcastle schools, also thirty cents of each dollar raised will fund heart research at UK and U of L.

Nielsen receives Brown award

The only benefit LuEd Nielsen reaps from her job is the satisfaction of knowing she's helped someone - and a lot of help she is.

Last week, LuEd received an award of appreciation as she was the recipient of the Everett Brown Memorial Award.

Given to a Rockcastle County citizen each year, the Everett Brown Memorial award recognizes a significant contribution to the improvement of the county. Mr. Brown was a native Rockcastle Countyman who moved West but kept close ties to the area and wished to award those who help in its improvement.

LuEd works full-time as a volunteer for such programs as Rockcastle Emergency Assistance, American Cancer Society, senior citizens, Rockcastle County Literacy in Action, American Red Cross, the Rockcastle Housing Board and God's Food Pantry in Lexington.

"I believe it's sheer determination that keeps me going and helping these people," said LuEd. "I've been in the same position. I have cancer in my leg, a pace maker, and other illnesses, but it has become a mission to help other people."

Since LuEd and her husband arrived in Rockcastle County in 1986, she has become involved in over 12 organizations and programs. "I spend between 40-60 hours each week, plus I am on call 24-hours a day," she said.

In working with the various organizations, LuEd has seen the need throughout this county and believes it is worse than the average person realizes.

"Anybody who has a doubt that there is need in this county can come spend the day with me," said LuEd. "Then they'll see there really is."

LuEd Nielsen was the recent recipient of the Everett Brown Memorial Award. LuEd is pictured above with Sam Ford who presented the award on Thursday, April 2.

213 child abuse cases reported in Rockcastle County in 1991

Reporting suspected child abuse is answering a cry for help.

That's the message child protection workers from the Rockcastle County Office of the Department of Social Services want people to remember as they turn their attention to Child Abuse Prevention Month during April.

"We have two aims when we check out reports of possible abuse or neglect," said Mike Bryant, Family Services Office Supervisor. "First, to make the child safe, and then to help that family find the help needed to provide a stable and nurturing home for the child."

"We can provide parent education, counseling, subsidized day care or perhaps referral to other agencies that offer families assistance," Bryant said. "We'll work with the whole family to strengthen it, and ultimately to unite the child and the family whenever possible."

Last year alone, there were two hundred and thirteen cases of child abuse or neglect reported in Rockcastle County.

"It can happen in all types of families," Bryant said. "Everyone should be aware that a child is usually helpless to do anything about the harm he is suffering. All a child can do is tell a teacher, a relative, a friend or any adult he knows and hope that person will help."

Anyone can make that call for help toll-free - 1-800-752-6200. "People who fear getting involved should be assured that we protect the identity of a person making the report as carefully as we investigate every report," Bryant said. (Cont. to B11)

Proclamation

WHEREAS April, 1992 has been proclaimed National Child Abuse Prevention Month,

WHEREAS the April, 1992 National Child Abuse Prevention Month is being recognized by the Kentucky Cabinet for Human Resources, Department for Social Services, and

WHEREAS the Rockcastle County local office of the Department for Social Services recognizes the seriousness of child abuse, neglect, and exploitation, and

WHEREAS in 1990 there were more than two point five million reports of child abuse, an increase of more than thirty percent since 1985 and one hundred percent since 1980, and

WHEREAS in Kentucky seventeen children died from child abuse during 1991 through physical abuse and neglect. Be it therefore proclaimed that April, 1992 is Child Abuse Prevention Month in Rockcastle County.

Tracking the Cats

By Jim Master

If you think that this year was good for our Kentucky Wildcats, wait until next season.

Believe it or not, the 1992-93 Wildcats could turn out to be as good as this year's edition. Maybe not in the win-loss column, because of a difficult schedule that includes only 12 home games. But in terms of talents, by the end of the season, these Wildcats could be contending for a trip to the Final Four.

How do you ask?

Well, start off with Jamal Mashburn, who will be one of the top five players in America next season. He could become the best player in the Southeastern Conference, now that Shaquille O'Neal has taken his game to the NBA. The "Monster Mash" showed the country in the NCAA Sweet 16 why most coaches dread playing against him and why they throw superlatives on him after watching him wreck their defenses.

Next stop at the second guard, where Dale Brown has a real opportunity to blossom into one of the top guards in the conference. Remember, this was his first year in Division I basketball and the first time that he played before more than several thousand fans. And remember his big-time games against Georgia Tech, Georgia and Duke. Once he develops a consistency with his point outside shot, watch out! He is a prime time defensive stopper and should play with a great deal of confidence next season.

Take a look across the backcourt at a healthy Travis Ford and you know why Rick Pitino feels comfortable with his point guard. Injured all last season with a bum knee, Ford underwent surgery immediately after the season and is expected to be at full strength in June.

Look in the middle and see a rapidly improving Gimel Martinez, who will be complimented by sophomores Andre Riddick and Aminu Timberlake (a new found celebrity since the foot-stomping Christian Laettner left a huge imprint on his chest). You can bet that that trio will spend the summer in the weight room.

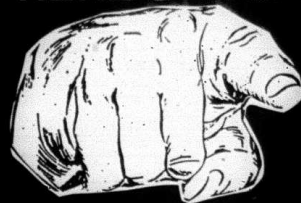

Look at the injured reserve list and see Jeff Brassow coming off and making a comeback from that serious knee injury. If the 6-5 guard-forward can be 80 percent the player he was before, he will make a big influence. He knows the system, loves the game and is tenacious on defense.

And lastly, but perhaps just as important as any of the above (except Mashburn) is the heralded incoming freshman class that was ranked first

Treasures.....

A couple of years ago I wrote about a hunting trip I had been on searching for memories and I found plenty of them all over the farm. Well recently I ran across a lot more in the attic that I had not been particularly looking for.

It is most often an old dish that other people see as a worn out piece that needs to be discarded or a piece of furniture all worn and stained and scratched and shoved back into a far corner that triggers these precious memories. And so it was with me.

I have a cake stand that to anyone else is a very ordinary cake stand that one thinks he, or she could find in any dish barn or place where glass cake stands are usually found. But not this one, it may look the same and serve the same purpose but it is a treasure beyond price to me. I have had it now for fifty seven years and it is seldom there isn't a cake on it. It was given to me to use and use. I have. For thirty years, I am pretty safe in saying, it was never without a pound cake, or the remains of one on it. Everyone knew where it sat in the cupboard and went freely to the when they entered the house and took a slice. I was a crank about it when it was sliced for the true taste of a good pound cake in the very thin slices so I kept a sharp knife on the stand with it. It didn't matter how much was eaten as long as the slices were paper thin.

Now in my attic closet, close to the door so I can open it easily whenever I get the hankering to ransack through moments of yesteryears, is an old hope chest. This chest is the most appropriate place I know to keep them for they all go together. This chest has been with me since before we were married for as I said, it was my hope chest. It is also what took the place of my engagement ring. I have never been a lover of jewelry and rings were not important to me so when Matt asked me to go with him to pick out my engagement ring I asked him if I could have a cedar chest instead of a diamond. Funny? Well it might be funny in today's world where glitters means more than stability and rings that glisten on one's fingers are more important than a piece of furniture for a home a young wife intends to live a lifetime in. A hope chest back then was a very important part of a young girl's life and was often her engagement gift from her fiancé.

I am sure I was as proud of that chest as any girl of today is with a big flashing diamond. The soft patina of the walnut finish, the simple lines without fancy carvings all over and the pungent odor of cedar when the lid was opened thrilled me more than any little piece of metal around my finger ever could have. This was a stable piece of furniture that we would live with through out our lifetime and when the old and pretty things I would accumulate before we got married and would later be the perfect chest to hold baby clothes, and still later extra blankets and quilts. It was truly a hope chest. Remnants of almost all the things that are still evident in the bottom of it.

The day it arrived was a big day for me and I lovingly had it placed in a show spot in the dining room. I wanted to be sure no one missed it when they visited. Before it had been there an hour a neighbor living next door to us came in. I'm sure she had seen the delivery truck and came out of curiosity but that didn't bother me for I wanted everyone to see it. This neighbor was a particularly special person in my life and I was especially glad to share my good news with her.

Mrs. Prather, the neighbor, had a tragedy in her life that had been almost more than a normal human could bear. She was the mother of several children, some still at home, and some married with families of their own. The big tragedy was the loss of her two small girls only a few months before we moved into the neighborhood. This was on Arlington Ave. in Arlington Heights, Oh. The railroad tracks ran close to our back lot, in fact they joined the Prather property and they farmed the field close to the tracks. Their children all played in the yard and field but were told to never go onto the tracks. There was a big tree over a part of Mill Creek directly in back of their property and children, being children, would sneak up and walk over it. One day the two smallest Prather girls with a cousin were playing in the yard and temptation got the best of them so they disappeared into the cornfield then up onto the railroad tracks and onto the trestle where they could tie rope across it to tie by. The first family knew they were absent from the yard when the five o'clock train with squealing brakes ground up a halt above their field. When Mr. Prather went to see what was wrong he was told three little girls had been caught on the trestle and the trestle had got stopped before it hit them. When someone removed a cord thrown over them to see if he knew them, he saw his own two beautiful little girls. Needless to say they had to be buried in closed caskets. This tragedy had almost been more than Mrs. Prather could cope with and she needed help, especially at a five p.m., the time the train would cross over the trestle and blow for the crossing. Many evenings I would go sit with her and would have prayer through this hour. Or maybe at bedtime she would need someone beside her other children to sit and distract her thoughts for bed time was another trying time to get through and again I would be there.

We had built a good relationship through the visits and I was always glad when she would drop in. Of course she and my mom were very good friends too. This day she came into the room very innocently but took a quick look around and when her eyes lit on the chest her eyes lit up like a candle and her first remark was, 'Oh! someone must be getting married!' When I proudly admitted it was I, she gasped, 'now you just wait a minute and I'll be right back' and was gone. But it was only for the minute she said it would be and when she appeared again she had this beautiful cake stand in her hands, it was one I had admired recently when she had brought a cake over to share with us. She reached it out to me, her face glowing, as she said, 'I want this to be the first piece in your beautiful hope chest. It was.

The cake stand is still as pretty as it was the day she handed it to me, constant use has only softened the glow, but the chest has not faded as well, the walnut finish has disappeared and age spots, that remind me of the spots and wrinkles I also have acquired, cover it. Yet, when I raise the lid and smell the still faint pungent odor of cedar I can close my eyes and see it sitting in our old dining room with a group of women aching and ohing over a wedding about to take place now when I look into that old cedar chest and find my baby dresses, and Roddy's first little pant suit and sweaters and baby blankets worn to a frazzle then look a little deeper and find beautiful art work created by tiny hands just learning to use crayons. I am doubly proud of my choice! I made the day we became engaged.

The depression we had all just been through taught many of us some true values, one of them being, 'all that glitters is not gold.' The real gold was in the simple white gold band with my name carved on the under side; Zvira Tackett Graves and that ring circled my finger for almost forty eight years and until death separated us.

in the country by most recruiting experts.

The first name that comes to mind is Roderick Rhodes, the superstar from St. Anthony's in Jersey City. His coach says he has as much talent as any player he's coached and that is a compliment, considering past stars included David Rivers, Bobby Hurley and Jerry Walker of Seton Hall, among others. Rhodes is regarded as one of the top three players in America and he's not surprised to see him find a slot in the starting line-up in the small forward. The news that he met the NCAA academic requirements was met with a huge sigh of relief by everyone associated with Kentucky basketball.

Tony Delk is another prep All-American that will arrive in Lexington this summer. The 6-2 Tennessee player of the year should see plenty of playing time at both guard positions. He has NBA range on his three point shot and scored 70 points in a single game this season.

Jared Prickett is a 6-9 musician from West Virginia and could see some valuable playing time. Walter McCarty, who the UK coaches absolutely love, is 6-10, but must stick to the season due to Proposition 48. He will, however, enroll at UK this fall and be eligible for the 1993-94 season.

And lastly, the player who could help make Mashburn (along with Rhodes) a better player is Rodney Dent, the 6-10 junior college transfer who is expected to enroll in the fall. Although I have not seen Dent play in person, his videotape impressed me enough. He could be that big man Kentucky desperately needs inside. The success of this season will never be forgotten, even more so than the 29-7 record because of the four departing seniors. Their leadership that brought the Wildcats from the ashes to the top may have a profound effect on the program for years. Not only did the NCAA-A Tournament end the overtime loss to Duke open many eyes, also gave Pitino several prime time appearances on national television. He was guest last week on the ESPN daily show, 'Up Close' with Roy Firestone. Pitino was in California recruiting at the time and was the guest last Thursday. And Friday night he was the guest on Dick Schapp's live show from the Metrodome. This all helps the image of Kentucky basketball, from a public perception and recruiting.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

In Mt. 21:23-25a, we read "And when he was come into the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came unto him as he was teaching, and said, By what authority doest thou these things? And who gave thee this authority? And Jesus answered and said unto them, I also will ask you one thing, which if ye tell me, I will likewise tell you by what authority I do these things. The baptism of John, whence was it? from heaven, or of men? These verses teach us many very important lessons.

There is a need for authority, for what one does religiously, and it must be from the proper source. Jesus shows us, from the baptism of John, that there are only two basic sources of authority: either from heaven or from men. Authority that comes from men, will, of course, come to naught in the end. But authority that comes from heaven, and does not overtake in the end. Many folks are not concerned about authority for the things they practice in religion but, they should be!

Jesus is the one who has all authority today. "All power (authority) ASU is given unto me in heaven and in earth," Mt. 28: 18. If we would ever be saved and stand in a right relationship to God, we must submit to the authority of Jesus Christ. "And why call ye me, Lord, Lord, and do not the things which I say." Lk. 6:46. Jesus is King of Kings, and if we are to become a part of his kingdom today, there must be willing and total submission to his rule and reign. Mt. 12:29-34, Heb. 12:28. Paul in Col. 3:17 says "And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the father by him. We must be concerned with what Christ's will is for everything we do. Far too many folks are not concerned with the will of the things they do in religion. That was the problem with those folks lost in Mt. 7:21-23. Only those who do God's will, shall be saved, the workers of iniquity (or lawlessness) shall be lost. Let's submit to Christ's authority in all things.

County Schools find the Good - and Praise It

During March "Find the Good and Praise It" month activities at the high school, a calendar of activities was posted at RCHs. Students Clark Mullins and Kertl Gauspitt look at the wall display, prepared by the TLK Club at the high school.

Kindergarten class, under the direction of Elizabeth Pike, perform at RES esteem rally.

Castle Chorus performing at MVES rally.

Excerpts from letters received

"I applaud the students and faculty of the Rockcastle County Public Schools for the dramatic strides made in educational reform in recent years. These achievements are proof positive that hard work does pay off and you all have every reason to be proud of these accomplishments..."
Senator Wendell Ford.

"...I am delighted to write in support of those goal and ideals which have led the Rockcastle County community to dedicating themselves to preparing their children for the challenges and opportunities of the coming years. I believe that every community is strengthened when individuals are prepared to give back to their community. Become a volunteer; get involved!"
Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Director of the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation for the Benefit of Citizens with Mental Retardation

"It is imperative that we let our young people know just how special each person is and that everybody has something unique to offer..." please accept my best wishes for a very positive and successful event."
Senator Mitch McConnell

The following letter is from Alex Haley and was written on Feb. 8, the day before his death.

"Alex, on Friday, March 27, I'm scheduled to appear in California. But, if I could, I'd sure be with your self-esteem rally, for self-esteem is, I think, the greatest lack among our young-folk today! Sincerely, Alex Haley."

"I am unable to attend your rally but wish you much success and, as always, I encourage children to work hard and finish their education. I believe it's more important now than ever."
Country Music Star Loretta Lynn.

"Our youth are our nation's hope for the future. With vision and dedication, each of them can become a truly great American."
Gen. Colin L. Powell, Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff

After a month-long celebration targeting the positive, Rockcastle County Schools found the good and praised it. Believing that every child can succeed at something, teachers and administrators alike spent the entire month of March providing encouragement, classroom projects and confidence building programs culminating with school-wide rallies in each of the elementary schools.

According to H. Allen Pensol, coordinator for the project, "It was interesting to see the cooperation between principals and counselors from each of the five schools while still working with their own school's agenda. Sometimes we forget that principals don't just sit in little offices all day waiting for problems to happen. They're out in the halls, in the classrooms and, most of the time, taking the blame for someone else's mistakes. The success of a project on this scale can only be determined by how a child truly feels about himself. If March is any indication of the possibilities for Rockcastle County Students, then parents, teachers and administrators alike must realize that academics are only a part of helping children become productive citizens."

In order to touch each student at various grade levels, the first week of March focused on the primary grades. Robert Huber, mime artist from Nashville, TN, visited and performed in all four elementary schools. The second week was spent targeting the intermediate grades viewing the self-esteem video "The Diamond Inside Me," which included projects designed specifically for young teens. The middle grades were targeted the third week with a visit from the Blue Apple Players. The high school spent the fourth week displaying booths and projects from each of the different departments. The Blue Apple Players also performed at the high school. Baseball great Doug Flynn made a visit to the county and shared his thoughts with the students at Mt. Vernon and Roundstone Elementary Schools.

The month-long project ended with rallies at Roundstone Elementary, Livingston Elementary and Brodhead Elementary on Friday, March 27th. Mt. Vernon Elementary held its rally on Tuesday, March 31st to coincide with the Castle Chorus' Spring Concert.

Local support for the rallies came from the Bank of Mt. Vernon, Dairy-Mart of Brodhead, Foodtown, Foodland and Carter's Market.

In addition to local support, encouragement from around the state and nation helped in celebrating this very special month. Among those who sent greetings included Hal Rogers, Barbara Bush, Loretta Lynn, General Colin L. Powell, the late Alex Haley, Gov. Breton Jones, Rep. Danny Ford, Marge Schott (of the Cincinnati Reds), Lamar Alexander, Elliott

Senator Wendell Ford, Judge Roland Mullins, Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Sam Walton, President and Mrs. Jimmy Carter, Texas Governor Ann Richards, Ted Turner, Billy Curry and Spiccer Christian.

Superintendent Bige W. Towery, Jr., a proponent of the idea that all children can learn, states, "the basic premise for reform is the relationship between home, school and community and how important these components relate to academic achievement. It is impossible to establish high expectations without first establishing good self-esteem. During the month of March, Rockcastle County and its school system set new standards with which, our children will continue to feel good about themselves and the educational process well into their adult lives."

At right, Hon. Roland Mullins, County Judge/Executive, speaking at LES rally. Claudinna Cash, Chapter I Supervisor, and as Mistress of Ceremonies.

Mary Roneker, Representative from Forward-In-The-Fifth, presenting "Oh, the Places You'll Go" by Dr. Seuss to John Hale, principal, at MVES rally. Richie Bray, finance director was also in attendance.

Students and faculty singing at LES rally.

Ginny Eager, director of Forward-In-The-Fifth speaking at RES rally. Larry Hammond, director of student personnel, also spoke.

Arts display at RCHS.

THE WHITE HOUSE
 WASHINGTON

March 23, 1992

Dear Students,

It is a pleasure to send greetings to all of you attending the Rockcastle County School System's self-esteem rally. As the mother of five and grandmother of 12 children, I know how important it is for you to start out on the right path, to learn the correct values and to build your own self-esteem.

I have long felt that knowledge is the key to a young person's inner pride, and that it is essential to be proud of your accomplishments. I understand over the last three years your progress in the area of technology and the arts and a dramatic increase in your test scores gives you much to be proud of. I share that pride.

Value your education. It can help you in almost every aspect of life. An education gives you options. It gives you choices, helps you be more flexible, more open-minded, and much freer to choose how you want to make your way in the world and what kind of person you want to become.

You are the leaders of tomorrow, and tomorrow begins today . . . with you. With all best wishes,

Warmly,

Barbara Bush
