Agent Mills says dairying is down

By: George Ferrell

Tom Mills has been the Agriculture Extension Agent for Rockcastle County for some 13 years and during that time he has seen some changes in the dairy industry, which is celebrating National Dairy Month during June.

Mills says dairying is off a peak from the 1960s. "There are approximately 30 dairy farms in the county now," Mills said. "That's down from back in the late 60s I believe there were somewhere between 70 and a 100 dairy farms in the county."

Mills said one reason for the decline is that dairying is a labor intensive operation and often requires two hands to run a dairy farm.

"It's a one man job to do the milking, breeding and feeding," he said. "It's also a one man job to raise and harvest the feed."

Most often, according to Mills, local dairies are run by family, either father and son or by brothers.

Mills said that government testing has made milk produced by local dairies one of the safest and most inspected products on the market today.

"Each load of milk has a sample picked up and analyzed," he said. "If residue is found there it (the milk) is dumped."

Mills said the checks insure high quality and that the rigid testing procedures safeguard the consumer.

"July 1 they're going to get even tougher," Mills said, while noting that this means that milk is a very wholesome food.

"Milk is one of the most checked foods we have," he said.

Quality standards are not a big problem, according to Mills, as he says that most farmers don't have residual drugs in their milk. Two violations and a farm will be cut off from the program.

Dairying is a major industry in Rockcastle County.

It produces some 3.0 million per years in revenues from the 1,500 to 1,700 head of dairy cows on local farms.

That makes dairying third behind tobacco and beef cattle.

Mills said that his office does a lot to help the dairy farmer.

"Basically our office deals with the adult education of dairy farmers," he said. "There are dairy meetings during the winter months."

The University of Kentucky is active in research and this data is often passed on to farmers, according to Mills, who said it often involves taking forage samples.

Mills said many dairy farmers are always working up upgrade their herd by genetics improvements and that most turn their herd over every four to five years.

Six herds in the county have been part of a UK dairy herd study which weighs milk and collects samples for analysis while returning a computer printout to the farmers involved.

Another study, this one involving three herds, is trying to adjust feeding programs to the herd's nutritional needs by balancing out the daily rations.

For more information, Mills may be contacted at his office at 256-2403.

facture of dairy products.

11. Last year, U.S. dairy farmers fed each cow 18 pounds of grain and concentrate per day.

12. Dairy farmers in Kentucky fed 598,000 tons of feed last year or 5,800 pounds per cow.

13. The average price received by U.S. dairy farmers for all milk produced in 1991 was $12.24 per hundredweight, or $1.49 per hundredweight below the $13.73 received in 1990.

14. U.S. dairy farmers received about 45 percent of the revenue from the sale of a half-gallon of milk.

15. The consumption of dairy products amounted to almost 572 pounds per person last year.

16. The per capita consumption of lowfat milk has increased over 36 percent in the last year.

17. In the past decade, per capita consumption of yogurt has increased almost 58 percent.

18. The average American drank 19 gallons of milk last year.

19. The average person ate more than 24 pounds of cheese last year.

20. Over 60 percent of all milk is sold in recyclable plastic gallon containers.

Rediscovering the dairy history

1. Gail Borden received the first patent on condensed milk from both the U.S. and England in 1856, and opened the first successful milk condensing operation at Burrville, Connecticut one year later.

2. Louis Pasteur began experimenting in 1856 with heat as a means to kill bacteria in milk. Commercial pasteurization machines were introduced to the dairy industry 39 years later.

3. Ice cream's origins extend back to A.D. 86, when Nero Claudius Caesar reportedly sent teams of runners into the mountains to retrieve snow, which was then flavored with honey, fruits and juices.

4. In 1670, Cafe Procope in Paris first made ice cream available to the public.

5. Dr. Harvey Thatcher of Potsdam, New York invented the milk bottle in 1884.

6. The dairy industry introduced the "REAL" Seal in 1980 to assist shoppers in identifying real milk and milk products from the nutritionally inferior imitations.

7. The first milk shipment by rail occurred in 1841, originating in Orange County, New York destined for New York City.

8. In 1921, the Commissioner of Ellis Island served all arriving immigrants ice cream as part of their first American meal.

9. The ice cream sundae was invented during the late 1890s. In response to religious criticism from eating "sinfully" rich ice cream sodas on Sundays, ice cream vendors left out the carbonated water and called their creations ice cream "Sundays."

10. In 1945, during World War II, the first "floating ice cream parlor" was built by the Navy for sailors in the Western Pacific.

11. The first plastic-coated paper milk carton was introduced in 1952.

12. Dairies began using tanker trucks to pick up milk from the farm in 1914.

13. Marco Polo returned to Italy from one of his Far East voyages with a recipe that closely resembled modern-day sherbet. Historians estimate that this recipe evolved into Italia ice cream during the 16th century.

14. Plastic milk jugs were introduced commercially in 1964.

15. As a conservation measure during World War II, dairies began delivering milk to homes every other day in 1942.

16. The first cheese made in America was cottage cheese. It was probably made in the galley of the Mayflower, dairy plants began making cottage cheese commercially in 1916.

17. The first settlers in the NewWorld did not bring cows with them. Without suitable food, especially milk, death rates proved very high. This mistake was recognized and afterwards one cow and two goats were added for every six people on a ship.

18. Records show the first cows arrived in America at Jamestown, Virginia in 1609.

19. Milk was originally perceived as a raw product to make butter and cheese. Americans didn't discover milk as a beverage until the late 1800s.

20. The first commercially produced breakfast cereal was manufactured in 1882. Shredded Wheat and its successors have made breakfast the number one consumption period for milk.

Loose dog hunted by relatives and police

By: Ray McClure

This little girl needs your help, or someone's.

Tiffany Logsdon, 5, was bitten, or scratched, by a dog Saturday at her great grandmother's home near Mt. Zion Church on Abney Road and the dog has not been found.

If not found after 9 days, she will have to undergo a series of painful rabies shots.

According to her grandmother, Carol Bullock of Village Apts. in Brodhead, Tiffany loves all pets and tries to pet them, including cats.

But Saturday proved to be an unfriendly day when Tiffany was playing at the home of her great grandmother Nellie Mosley when a dog strayed in. The dog either snapped at Tiffany or scratched her hand. He was about a foot tall with white and yellow hair with a "poodle look."

A family member shot the dog. It ran away leaving blood on the grass. However, no one is sure it was seriously hurt.

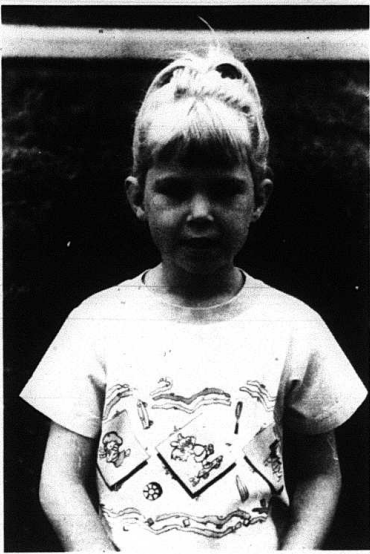

The dog was seen a couple of times later but ran away from deputy sheriffs when approached.

Since Saturday, Tiffany's mother, Cynthia Logsdon and other have looked for the dog.

"They're going to kill it," Mrs. Bullock said. "Time is running out, we can't wait. Four of the nine days are gone.

If anyone sees a white and "yellowish" dog, call the sheriff's department, or a family member.

"There are skunks and coyotes in the area and they may have rabies and bit the dog, we're not sure," Mrs. Bullock said. "We're doing all we can to find the dog."

Tiffany Logsdon was victim of dog bite.

Personnel changes made at Mt. Vernon Elementary

The Site Based Development Council at Mt. Vernon Elementary recently recommended five individuals to fill positions at the school.

According to Superintendent Bigge W. Towery, he will now notify those nominated by letter and after they are notified the Rockcastle County Board of Education will hear of their hiring at the regular scheduled meeting July 14.

The following individuals were nominated for the following positions:

- Charlotte K. Cameron, 5th Grade.
- Leon Davidson, 6th Grade.
- Troy Taylor, 7th and 8th grade Math.
- Johnny Coffey, 7th and 8th grade Science and Social Studies.
- and, Chris Cornelius, Physical Education teacher.

The high school English teacher's position has not gone through the 30-day notice period, which is up June 26.

The high school biology teacher's position finished the 30-day period June 22.

Towery said that the Site Based

Development Council chairman for the high school, Rennie Cash, is now on vacation but that the two positions will be considered for interviews and employment when he returns.

Car found

A car stolen from Croucher-Marcum dealership in Richmond was recovered by city police and charges have been filed.

Jamie Ramsey, 18, of Mt. Vernon, was charged by Richmond with receiving stolen property and two counts of possession of a forged instrument.

He remains in Madison County Jail under a $6,000 cash bond.

City Police in Mt. Vernon charged him with receiving stolen property over $100.

Police reported Ramsey stole a wallet from Tony Deborde of Mt. Vernon containing blank checks and paid for a car from the Croucher-Marcum dealership.

He was arrested by city policeman Larry Thompson and John Bradley, and later returned to Richmond.

Trash collection center closed after judge finds McWhorter in contempt

Linda McWhorter may have solved her legal problems.

At least she is reportedly out of business, but is still making pickups in the area, but not taking the garbage to her collection station at Renfro Valley.

Circuit Judge Dan Venters has fined Mrs. McWhorter $300 for contempt of court, with a warning if she still takes garbage to the collection station, it will cost her $200 a day.

She continued to operate the collection station at Renfro after the judge ordered her to cease and desist as of Jan. 31, 1992 or she would be held in contempt of court.

Under the county Solid Waste Management Program, Mrs. McWhorter needed a permit to operate the collection station. However, under the program the city council must pass a resolution permitting operation of the station in the city.

To date the resolution has not been passed although she has been before the city council two or three times. Once the resolution is passed, the Rockcastle Fiscal Court will take up the matter of an operating permit.

The council set 11 a.m. June 29 to discuss the resolution.

Mayor Gary R. Cromer declined to discuss the question when asked. He said it would be premature at this time since it will be before the council next Monday.

Mrs. McWhorter has operated the collection systems for considerable time. For awhile William K. Bullen was in the operation.

Neighbors complained the center was stinking up the area and with several homes and the KOA campground in the area, it was moved to another, the present, location.

Even though she has been fined she may still ask for a resolution and a permit.

Ticket fines

Mt. Vernon's new safety officer, Barry Adams, has been a busy fellow.

He is the new man marking overtime parking on Main Street in Mt. Vernon and doing a creditable job.

As of 4 p.m. Monday, he had written 156 overtime parking tickets. Violators have also been cooperative and paid 100 tickets, each $5.

Henderson property sold to local health department

The Rockcastle County Health Department has purchased the Henderson property next door.

According to Dr. Jack Henderson of Berea, an owner, the Department did not indicate what will be done with the property.

"I didn't ask what they will do with it," Dr. Henderson said. "Maybe they're going to make more offices."

A health department spokesman said for the time being the house will probably be used for additional offices and storage. "No long range plan has been decided."

The house in recent years served as the offices of Dr. Jack and Joe Henderson, dentists. It was built about 75 years ago and was the home of Emmett and Edith Bryant.

The Hendersons recently gave up dental practice.

More marijuana

Another 1,084 marijuana plants were found and destroyed by the Sheriff's Department, State Police and National Guard Thursday.

The marijuana was in 25 plots near the race track on Cove Branch, in Pine Hill Hollow and just off U.S. 25 at Burr.

Last week, a total of 4,306 plants were destroyed by the officers.

The Sheriff's Department searched and found 75 plants in four plots growing on the Troy Kirby farm on Juanita Davis Road. Troy Kirby Jr., will go before the grand jury.

Rail strike could be costly

Rail service came to a halt at midnight Tuesday and could eventually affect Mt. Vernon Plastic production.

Mt. Vernon Plastic gets its raw materials weekly by CSX, and CSX is on strike.

The Brotherhood of Machinists went on strike and all rail service halted except Amtrak in the northeast.

A spokesman for the auto industry said 25 percent of auto production would end in two days, with a complete close down in a week.

Meanwhile, congress will begin studying the situation, that could cost industry $50 million a day, with the possibility of a cooling off period mandated by congress.

Eludes police

A Conway area man was arrested by Sheriff's Deputy Leonard Miller following a high speed chase Sunday night.

Terry Potter was charged with speeding and wanted endangerment. He was stopped on Alonzo McCollum Road.

Deputy Karen Alcorn investigated a burglary at the home of Donald Hudson on Burnt Ridge Road Friday.

Taken in the break-in were a refrigerator, stove and window fan, as well as wiring throughout the house.

Hudson, who lives in Berea, uses the property, mostly during the summer.

Burdette, County Young GOP Club are chosen best at state convention

Local attorney, Jeffery T. Burdette, was recently honored at the annual Kentucky Young Republican Federation Convention in Louisville as he was chosen the 1992 Young Republican of the Year, statewide.

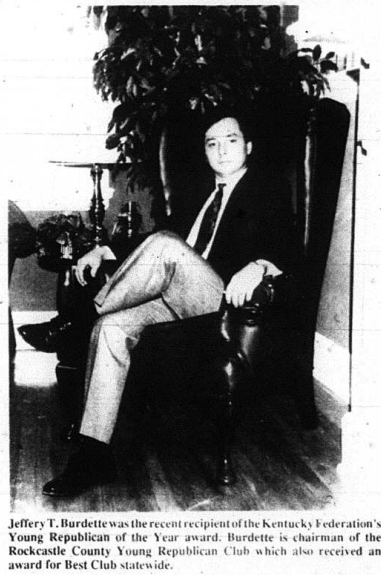

In addition to Burdette's award, the Rockcastle Chapter of Young Republicans was awarded the Club of the Year in Kentucky.

In its first year of existence, the Rockcastle Young Republican Club deemed the award a tremendous honor, as never before has such a new affiliate received the award so early in its existence. In addition, to the collection of state Young Republican officials, the award for Young Republican of the Year and Best Club has never gone to the same club, until this year.

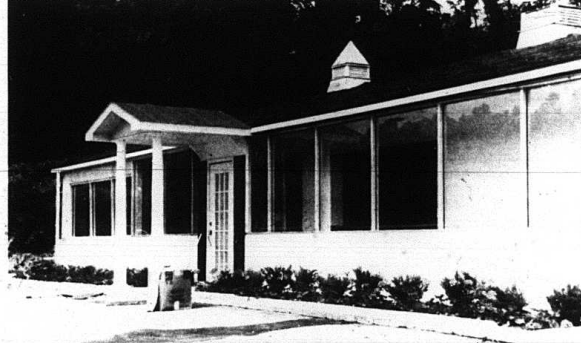

"Jeff's always stood up for the concept that it's not going to be business as usual when it comes to Republican politics because it's principles and values of the Republican Party that must endure," said State Young Republican Chairman, Russell Jones.

Activities such as decisiveness and stressing neutrality in the last primary gubernatorial race, then preaching unity during the final election as conveyed through the monthly newsletter was a great contributor to the nomination of Burdette for the Young Republican of the Year award.

During 5th District reports and assembly meetings, Burdette retained a stand for unity and conveyed his Jeffery T. Burdette was the recent recipient of the Kentucky Federation of Young Republican of the Year award. Burdette is chairman of the Rockcastle County Young Republican Club which also received an award for Best Club statewide.

Phillip Hunt, a native of Mt. Vernon, will soon be opening The Blue Plate Special, a restaurant featuring special daily plate lunches, homemade soups and pies and salads. It is located near the interstate on U.S. 25 North in the former location of the Kiwi Drive-In which closed about eight years ago. Hunt said he has no definite date for opening the business since he is waiting on various repairs and health inspections. He said he is counting on local customers for the major part of his business.

Dad's may mellow, but paddles don't

Well, another major holiday has come and gone, with most of the men over age 30 having at least one new tie or handkerchief to show for it.

Yes, I'm talking about Father's Day, the one day set aside each year to honor the traditional bread earner.

(A question: how did the word "bread" come to mean money? Just wondering.)

Really, though, one day isn't enough to repay most fathers for what they give their kids.

The sad thing in today's society is that many kids don't really know their dads.

I remember growing up and, because of the recession, depression, or whatever name politicians want to call the slow economic times, Dad would often work a pretty un-balanced schedule.

He'd work one week out of every four during the really bad times, which was okay because it gave him a chance to work on our new house.

The bad thing was, he started building the house before the recession hit, and still had bills to pay, despite the lack of work.

When he finally did get to go back to work full-time, he started working night shift, which meant that, except for an occasional glimpse of him on Sundays, I didn't see too much of him.

But I still had it better than a lot of kids do today. With divorce rates hovering around 50 percent, and with most dad's skipping town and "forgetting" about their little bundles of responsibility, many kids are facing life from the broken-home side of life.

Flora's Eye View
BY TRAVIS FLORA

Then again, there are the thousands of kids born into single-family homes (the result of it was fun while it lasted but now he's gone" relationships). These kids may never know the joy, and often times pain, of having a father.

Some of those painful memories still stick with me to this day, and for good reason.

My Dad started his professional life as a school teacher in Louisville in the late 1960s, when race riots civil strife were commonplace.

As the legend goes, my maternal grandfather, a master craftsman, made my father a magical and mystical weapon to defend himself with in those days of turmoil that was well suited for Dad's profession: a paddle.

But this was no ordinary paddle. No, with his skills, Grandpa made the paddle to end all paddles, the be-all and end-all of spunkers.

It is said a lightning bolt from Zeus himself came down and put 100 small holes in the paddle, each with the sting of a thousand bumble-bees, just to make sure the lesson was driven home.

(Okay, honestly, Grandpa put the holes in the paddle with a Black and Decker drill, but like my version better.)

The paddle even had the perfect name emblazoned across its base: Meat Eater.

And eat it did, especially rump roast.

Dad only taught school one year before calling it quits and heading to a factory job for more money. But the Meat Eater lives on with us to this day.

It's not that my brother, sister and I didn't try to get rid of it.

We hid it so many times I've lost count, so that when Dad said "Get the paddle," we could honestly say that we couldn't find it. (This, by the way, is the ultimate form of cruelty: making a child get his own instrument of pain. That's like making a convicted man about to be put to death by a firing squad go pick out the bullet.)

After telling Dad that we couldn't find the Meat Eater, we would eagerly offer him a belt to do his evil deeds with.

(P. S. kids, here's a tip. When choosing a belt to be spanked with, choose the thickest belt possible. Thick belts make awful, terrible noises, but don't really hurt that bad. After you hear that first loud pop, let out a huge scream and a few fake tears, and you'll be sitting in front of that Nintendo again, pain free, in no time.)

Actually, I should say "I," instead of "we." My younger brother and sister wouldn't know a spanking if it bit them.

This is because Dads, as a rule, mellow with age, and usually don't punish their younger offspring as hard as their first.

But Dad's not ready to give up the Meat Eater yet, or pass it on to the next generation. But when he does, I'll be ready. It's my birthright. And me, and my rear end, have certainly earned it.

Baseball is legendary stuff in America

First it's hot! then it's cold. This past week you might have thought the dog days of summer were coming and then everyone wonders if it might frost.

Frost? In June? I guess the weather is funny sometimes but if overnight Sunday is any indication there is no such thing as global warming.

What is there about summer that holds such an enchantment? There are the seemingly endless days of play for youngsters — plenty of activity, everything from little league to swimming.

I guess for a lot of folks baseball is the tradition when the weather hits the 80's and 90's.

I've been a fan ever since the early 1960s when my mother and father took me up to Crosley Field to see the Cincinnati Redlegs play, as my father called them.

Sleeced in tradition, the Reds didn't win any pennants during the 60s in that cozy little stadium.

Still it was exciting — I got to see superstars like Hank Aaron, Lou Brock, Pete Rose, and a good many other players who were my idols as a youth.

Then came Riverfront — the big time came to Cincinnati and so did the dynasty of The Big Red Machine.

This year things have started out like a doozy. The Reds are in first place — Atlanta, last year's favorite team for these parts, is trailing a close second.

In the other division, the Cubs, or rather, the Cubbies are going after first place — somehow they snuck right in there even though they play in a hitter's dream of a ballpark.

Baseball as a sport has come a long way since the 19th century when it first began.

Even though we call it the "national past time" at the present, many years ago it was a much more accessible sport to the public.

People played ball just about everywhere you could think — from cow pastures, to small parks in small cities throughout the land.

Local teams were organized and played whenever they could get a chance.

I've heard many times about my grandfather, Bruce Hamilton Chery, who played baseball almost into old age.

He was a pitcher and could really hit the ball hard.

There were teams all around his area of North Carolina.

Whenever he could get the chance he would drop his farm work and head off for a game.

It was the pastime of America. Rock men played on Sunday afternoons and whenever else they could get a game up.

Several years ago I went to South Carolina for a vacation. Picking up a local newspaper, I found something quite unusual in the sports section of the paper.

"The Carolina Leagues" — minor league baseball was thriving in the South.

I had realized that there was the Durham Bulls. Quite often, when visiting Durham, my father's hometown, I would read the copy about the Bulls.

They have never really done much. They're sort of like the Cubs of the minor leagues, except that now they've had a movie made about their funnier moments.

Anyway, baseball is legendary stuff in America. It is American above all other sports even though football and basketball have become quite popular.

Every year thousands of young men struggle in the minor leagues for that shot at the majors.

My father was also bitten by the lore of baseball, though he never played organized baseball.

I can remember him often telling me about the time he and other Americans played a game of baseball on the Rugby field of Oxford during WWI.

He said that to the English it was a peculiar game that they knew nothing about.

Often, Dad would tell me that he

Points East

One of the things you can't do from week to week, if you write a newspaper column, is pick on politicians. Not unless you're willing to take a lot of angry calls and deal with bundles of hate mail.

The queer thing about our governor, for example, is that a majority of the registered voters in our state actually wanted him to be right here when he is. I don't think any of them were in their right minds but they did it!

And when you say bad things about Brer Horse in the paper and the paper gets around, you start getting calls in the middle of the night from drunks and in the afternoon from old ladies. People who either want to shoo you or turn you across their knees because you can't see whatever virtues and leadership abilities they imagine the clown to have.

When you write a newspaper column and you speak ill of politicians, especially those who have been elected to office, every ill word you have to say is being taken personally by every person who voted for the scoundrel. I know what I'm talking about because I take a few of these calls and I get bunches of that kind of mail. I also get it from fans of the pretenders.

I believe that every single person who voted for Carol Brown Hubbard, the wife of soon-to-be former Congressman Hubbard, has been in contact with me over the last couple of weeks. I've been told hundreds of times that Carol is a good old girl. I said before the election that she and husband Hubbard were greedy little pigs and I noted, after the fact, that their great cost them a suburban house in Washington, D.C.

I've had dozens of people write and more than a dozen have called to give

It's been cool, you noticed.
Not the coolest in Rockcastle, but it is near the record which was 40 degrees on June 10, 1988.
The low Mopday, according to the Cox Funeral Home weather station was 42 degrees. By Tuesday, it was back in the 50s.
The high for June, to date, was 86 on June 17. Last year, it was 52. The high was 88.

The rainfall is about normal for June with 3.27 inches to date. June '90 had 3.7 inches and June '91 had 2.9.

Most rain this month was on June 18 with 1.30 inches. There was 68 of an inch on June 3.

Rockcastle DAR Chapter installs new officers

The Rockcastle Chapter, DAR, recently installed new officers for the 92-95 years to run concurrently with state and national officers. Installed at the May meeting were Miss Mary Batey Hamm as Regent and Mrs. Leroy Brown as First Vice Regent. In administering the oath of office, Mrs. Elbert Eversole, Organizing Regent of the Chapter in 1970, used the DAR Manual for American Citizenship to remind the members of facts and responsibilities all new citizens must know before becoming American citizens. She stressed the importance of perpetuating pride and knowledge of our homeland history. Mrs. Laura Durham, Chairperson for the Nominating Committee was the hostess for the meeting held in the Meeting Room of the Rockcastle Hospital.

Rockcastle students honored by UK Deans

Six students from Rockcastle County have been honored by the University of Kentucky for outstanding academic achievement.

The UK students were named to the dean's list of their colleges for the 1992 spring semester and are among the top five percent of all undergraduate students enrolled at UK.

UK had a record enrollment of 70,000 students this past academic year - 24,000 students in Lexington, and 46,000 at the community colleges throughout Kentucky.

"The academic quality of our students continues to increase each year," said UK President Charles T. Wethington Jr. "Students whose academic record earns them the honor of being on their college dean's list are among our very best."

Those Rockcastle County students named to the dean's list by their college dean are: Ivan J. Hayes, Mt. Vernon, Agriculture Education, senior; Charles Edward Mink, Mt. Vernon, freshmen, pre-chemical engineering; Carrie Celia Mullins, Mt. Vernon, sophomore, political science/arts and sciences; Leslie Ann Norton, Mt. Vernon, senior, history/arts and sciences; Jessica Lora Scalf, Livingston, sophomore, communications/disorderly health professions; Jason David Wilson, Mt. Vernon, freshman, secondary education/Mathematics education.

Summer enrollment record set at SCC

Dr. Rollin J. Watson, president of Somerset Community College, has announced that Summer enrollment of 634 has broken yet another record at Somerset Community College, with an increase of 22 percent over last summer's 521 enrollment.

"We are excited that so many students are taking advantage of our summer session to pick up that much needed extra class that will make their schedule better for the fall term or allow them to receive that degree quicker," said Dr. Watson.

Somerset Community College is in the process of establishing extended campus centers in Laurel and McCrory County. "With the emphasis on education throughout the state, we are continually searching for ways to serve the surrounding counties even more through our extended campus programs."

Rape victim services continue

The Cumberland River Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Board, Inc. will continue to offer Rape Victim Services in Region 13, including Rockcastle.

Services offered will continue to include: 24-hour Crisis Line for victims of sexual assaulting; Medical and Legal advocacy; Information and referral to appropriate community resources; Ongoing Counseling which includes: Individual Counseling, Couples, Family, Support groups, Community education and training programs.

Unfortunately, there are many folks who have been victimized and are in need of some type of counseling, and the number of reports to law enforcement of forcible rape continues to increase. Victims suffer from a variety of emotional symptoms resulting from such trauma. It is important that they be able to have access to crisis counseling as well as ongoing therapy.

The Cumberland River Rape Comprehensive Care Center considers services as a priority and feels fortunate to be able to continue this valuable program.

Since the Cumberland River Rape Crisis Center began operation in early autumn of 1989 through Dec. 31, 1992, this Center has served 943 victims of sexual assault.

To speak with a sexual assault counselor, one may call the local Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center weekdays -- or at night or on weekends, one may call collect 1-864-2104 for the crisis line.

Twilight Absolute Auction

of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Cromer's
Modular Home & 10 Acres - m/i - In Tracts
Friday, July 3, 1992 - 6:30 p.m.
Level Green Section of Rockcastle County

Location: Approximately 6 miles Southwest of Mt. Vernon via Hwy. 461 or Hwy. 2549 (Old 461). Watch for auction signs

Mr. and Mrs. Cromer have purchased other property and will soon be moving their residence and business. Therefore, they no longer have a need for this property and have authorized our firm to market it at absolute auction.

- TRACT NO. 1 - contains 1.74 acres with 210 ft. of frontage on Hwy. 2549. It is improved with the above-mentioned 1987 model modular home which measures 24x40 with 3 bedrooms, 2 baths, kitchen/dining room combination, living room and utility. It has thermopane windows, w/w carpet, vinyl siding, washer/dryer hook-up and is total electric. It sells partially furnished.
- In addition to the modular home, there is a 24x40 shop or garage building presently being utilized as an upholstery shop and a 16x20 storage building.
- TRACT NO. 2 - contains 1.67 acres and has 210 ft. of frontage on Hwy. 2549.
- TRACTS NO. 3, 4 & 5 - contains 1.74, 1.83 and 2.97 acres, respectively. These tracts have frontage on the connector road which runs from new 461 to Hwy. 2549.
- When combined, there is a total of 9.95 acres by survey and all lots have city water available. These lots are good for residential use or may be used as a commercial venture, as Mr. and Mrs. Cromer have run a very successful upholstery business at this location for several years.
- These tracts will be offered separately then together, selling whichever way reflects the best returns for the sellers.

Auctioneer's Note: if you're looking for a home, a lot on which to build, or a baby farm, be sure to attend this absolute auction on Friday, July 3, 1992.
Terms: 20% down day of sale, balance in 30 days with delivery of deed.
Announcements day of sale take precedence over printed matter.

Mr. and Mrs. Jason Shane Coguer

Anderkin-Coguer vows said

Sara Anderkin and Jason Shane Coguer were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, May 16 at First Christian Church in Mt. Vernon. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Anderkin, Jr. and Mr. Coguer is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Coguer, all of Mt. Vernon. Bro. Doug Piatt, brother-in-law of the bride, officiated at the double-ring ceremony. Serving as matron-of-honor was Jane Piatt, sister of the bride. Bridesmaids were Jamie Bryant and Paige Benge, sister of the bride and Marla Towery. Alison Anderkin, sister of the bride, served as flower girl and Aaron Anderkin, the bride's nephew, served as ring bearer. Those in attendance to the groom were Pat Hansel, best man. Groomsman were David Perkins, Darren Allen and Benny Blanton. Travis Anderkin, brother of the bride, was junior groomsman. Attending the guest register was Angie Carl. Serving at the reception tables were: Edna Dawson, Martha Cox, Nancy Mullins and Cindy Anderkin. After a wedding trip to Myrtle Beach, S.C., the couple now reside in Mt. Vernon.

80th birthday celebrated

Five Generations

Miss Ponder to wed Mr. Gray

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin C. Ponder of Mt. Vernon wish to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Marita Jane, to Bobby Gene Gray, son of Mr. and Mrs. Larry Gray of Berea. The event will take place at Crestview Holy Sanctuary on July 3 at 7:30 p.m. All friends and relatives are invited to attend.

Willing workers meet

By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

Jean Albright was hostess of Brodhead Willing Workers Homemakers at Elizabeth Mullins' home June 19, 1992.

Their president, Carol Riddle, started the meeting at 8 p.m. which lasted until 10 p.m.

Patricia Fletcher had two old pictures she passed around. One had Odd Fellows Lodge on the back of it. Some recognized resemblances of people we know today, of the old men.

Ruth Bussell had the lesson on "Seafood, Finfish and Shellfish" popular choices include trout, shrimp, flounder and lobster.

The average American ate 20 pounds of seafood in 1987. Increased consumption is due to recent health studies that indicate certain types of seafood exert a protective effect against the development of heart disease in some individuals.

Ruth gave each member present an Extension Service pamphlet on "Seafood."

Patricia took up our pennies that help us to contribute to sending a child to camp this year and to the Memorial Garden.

The Memorial Garden will be made to honor all graduates of Brodhead High School.

The school at present is only an elementary school, it has been since Rockcastle High School was established.

The Brodhead Willing Workers planned a cruise on the Kentucky River in July. This will be an enjoyable trip!

Jean Albright served her specialty, vanilla wafers cakes besides dip, crackers and salad. Of course, she offered us our choice of a drink.

Williams-Boreing vows to be said

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Goe of Beautyville, Ky. would like to announce the forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Rebecca Lynn Williams, to Bobby Ray Boreing, son of Eino and Wanda Anderkin of Mt. Vernon. The wedding will be an event of June 27 at 2:30 p.m. at First Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon. All friends and family are invited to attend. A reception will be held immediately following the ceremony.

Twenty-two students on Dean's List at EKU

Twenty-two Rockcastle County residents are among 1,149 students at Eastern Kentucky University to be named to the dean's List for spring semester study.

To achieve Dean's List honors at EKU, students attempting 14 or more credit hours must earn a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0. Students attempting 13 credit hours must earn a 3.65 GPA, and students attempting 12 credit hours must earn a 3.75 GPA.

"We are always happy to recognize outstanding academic achievement at Eastern Kentucky University," said EKU President Hanly Funderburk. "We believe that the outstanding academic performance of these students is a reflection both of their hard work and the hard work of our teaching faculty."

Of the 1,149 Dean's List students last semester, 376 earned a perfect, 4.0 grade point average, University officials said.

Champions Against Drugs sponsor theater trips

By: Ginny Gilpatrick
Drug-Free Schools Counseling Consultant

Continuing a successful season of providing alternative activities for youth, Champions has planned two evenings at the theater this summer. Following the Bicentennial theme which focuses on the colorful history of Kentucky, trips are planned to enhance excitement over our state's past. Children will pay $3 toward each ticket and the balance will be paid by Champions. Money must accompany sign up by Friday before the show so that firm reservations can be made. The $3 is a commitment and cannot be refunded if the student does not show up.

School buses will pick up and deliver students at Mt. Vernon Elementary School parking lot. Students will need to provide their own transportation to the bus and home again after the trip. Parents are welcome.

Sign up notices for the shows listed below may be obtained at the Board of Education or by phoning Ginny Gilpatrick at 256-3982. They will also be distributed at each of the summer schools.

Thursday, July 9 Pioneer Theater, Danville, "Will Heal This Land." The bus leaves at 6:30 p.m., returns at 11:30 p.m. (Fast food stop on the way)

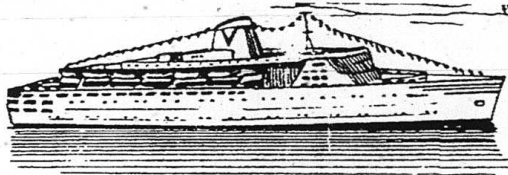

Thursday, July 16, Old Fort Harrod, Harrodsburg, "The Legend of Daniel Boone." The bus will leave at 6:30 p.m. and return at 11:30 p.m. (Fast food stop on the way)

BY HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

There was quite a crowd at Galilee Baptist Church Sunday with a large number of "fathers" present.

Even Eugene Alexander was there. He and John thought there might be an easy chair given for the laziest father. But none was given or one of them would have won.

However Bro. Cole made the fathers a present of a silvery writing pen which had printed on them, "God adds sparkle to my life."

David Goode was the only one at church to have the Happy Birthday song sung for him and his sister whispered his age to me - I'd better not tell except it was somewhere in 32.

The church sends apologies to Bro. Edd Croucher for his name with the title "Deacon" was left out of the list last week. He was being a good and faithful servant to the church and has had a lot of sickness these past months which kept him, and wife Juanita, at home.

There will be a Pastor's Appreciation Day at Galilee on Saturday, June 27th at the church with a pot-luck dinner starting at 5 p.m.

David Hale, as well as us, may bring some preserved turmps.

Stella Dees is making some progress with her sickness. We played a joke on her one day. During the last few years she has helped me with our mending and is a beautiful hand to close up tom places in clothes.

So John goes in with me to see her and said, "Stella, I want you to hurry up and get well. Hilda is letting me get awful ragged in my work clothes!"

We all laughed and this kind woman said, "As soon as I can sit up, I'll be glad to do some sewing for you on my fingers."

We assured Stella she was joking and to not even think she needed to help us.

Some of Stella's children are always with her, day or night, so I'm always meeting a new one and they joke with me as she does.

I see one now who is there a lot, Annie Parsons, a very pretty, woman who says she is not married. Her words were, "I'm foot-loose and fancy free" so I guess if you bachelors are in the same shape, you might look up Annie who is a lot of fun.

The picture this week is of Bro. Bill Hamilton, and his lovely wife China. He filled the pulpit at Galilee during the absence of our regular pastor, Bro. Cole, who had to be away.

Bro. Hamilton brought his powerful message as he always does with some good preaching.

China brightens up a pew when she is along. I've accused Bro. Bill of robbing the cradle when he married her for she looks so young. He doesn't deny it, just smiles as if he were guilty.

A story was told of a preacher who was talking of the evil in the use of tobacco. He talked of the danger of smoking, chewing and other uses.

One old woman in the crowd kept agreeing with him by shouting "amen" everytime he condemned a use.

Finally he came to the evilness of using snuff and then the old woman turned to another sitting by her and said, "Now he has quit preaching and gone to meddling!"

Joan Keith, daughter of Jack and Jean Engle goes to Hair Plus as I do. She's a pretty young woman, no doubt taking after her mom!

I had a nice letter from cousin Eureka McGuire Moore after I put picture in the paper. I remember Rick riding horseback on Clear Creek when her folks lived on Davis Branch. She and other friends rode toward Climax which is often brought on a wedding since her future husband, Beverly (Dock) Moore lived there.

Teresa Singleton, one of the hair dressers at Hair Plus Salon, does so many things for her children. Like the "cookout party" she gave Jarrod, her son, who graduated from the eighth grade at Roundstone Elementary School this spring with a lot of boys graduating with him.

I enjoyed the Startzman brothers cartoon in the paper a week or so ago for it reminded me of John, I told him. In the cartoon, the wife was scolding her husband for leaving his dirty clothes on the floor.

The husband complained to "Small Dog" about his wife always trying to change him.

The little dog thinks, "From the way they smell, you need to change!" The Small Dog is truthful.

We were having trouble with our cordless telephone and reported it to the head office.

Out to our house came one of the nicest repair men by the name of Bill Gabbard who said he came from Gabbard County but now lived in Berea.

I said, "If you and your family have lots of money, we will claim kin."

"You're out of luck there," he laughed, "I don't have lots of money but sure wish I did!"

I don't believe I've met a better repair man for he tested the phone carefully, including all the lines running into and out of the house.

He left saying he would come back anytime we had more trouble.

Volmer in Indiana, who is a good reader of this column both in the Signal and Citizen, has a friend, Susan Tomes, that we heard again from Renfro Valley's Saturday Night Show. She's really good on stage.

What has become of Naomi Edwards who wrote from Danville, Indiana? I haven't heard in a long time. Please write!

At the Forum meeting on Berea College campus, which is for retired people, I met Dr. Louise Hutchins who is a reader of this paper. (Me, too.)

Dr. Hutchins had an injured leg from an incident and was limping around. We had met before from an incident.

Also saw Ellen Best Wilson, who expressed a liking for this paper.

I'd like to thank Jim Lunsford from Cincinnati, a former Berea boy who came here on business recently, for his nice words as a reader of this column which were said to Teresa Mullins, one of the Citizen staff here.

It's great to hear from you, Jim, after all these years, and for your reading my stuff in this paper.

If you don't have much luck with doctors up there, I could send you a mountain remedy like yellow root soaked in water which you drink and is good for stomach pains.

Our number two boss drinks it after he eats a big dinner at Momma's and gets better. No charge for the prescription either!

I tell you the people at Farristown in Madison are the friendliest folks, even though they don't live in the hills.

As we drove through the used to be town one afternoon, Bill Martin, standing out in his yard, yelled at John, I thought for they joke a lot.

"Get out of that car and throw him out," he was saying to me.

John was laughing too as we drove on. He said he told Bill later, "You shouldn't have said that to her for she tried it three times before we got home. Now she's going to put it in the paper how you tried to stir up trouble in our family. All Bill said was, 'I'll get the paper and see what she says.'"

Raffle news - I'll declare some of the ticket buyers are telling that I've already had a drawing and that Sam Colville has won. Not so!

John E. Gabbard blew up when I told him what the raffle was for. Then laughed hard. "Why those are the dirtiest animals you could have around. Yes, I'll buy a ticket and give them to Fred Williams to put in his front yard of the new house that he is having built."

It seems this raffle is causing trouble between man and wife and I didn't mean for that to happen.

Becky Hogan, cashier of 1-75 Shell, bought a ticket saying, "Why yes, I'll take one and put the ducks in the new kitchen sink. That way I won't have to cook or wash dishes, which I hate!"

Along comes her husband, John, who said, "Let me have a ticket. I'll put those things in the back yard of the new home that we are building."

Cleve Payne (when pressed) said, "Yes, I'll take one and if I win, I'll throw them in the nearest sinkhole I can find, probably the one at the top of Logan Hill."

More next week. I must get to Mt. Vernon, the Anderkin family may want some changes.

Till Thursday in July: Behind every successful man is a willing woman and a thing of Pamela French (Boss #2's wife.)

KET premieres three new how-tos on the fourth

Three new series - focusing on exercise, quilting, and the outdoors - join KET's "how-to" lineup Saturday, July 4.

First, there's Sit and Be Fit, airing at 8 a.m. Hosted by Mary Ann Wilson, a registered nurse and certified fitness instructor, the program specializes in gentle yet effective chair exercises choreographed to music. Although designed for the older person, Sit and Be Fit can appeal to all age groups. The 30-minute programs feature slow, gentle movements; all exercises are performed sitting on a chair or standing beside it. It's quilter's call at 10:30 a.m., each Saturday as KET begins a new series of Strip Quilting with Kaye Wood. Each week, Wood demonstrates quick and accurate techniques for cutting and strip-piecing a different quilt block.

Health Center workshop

The Rockcastle County Health Center offered a workshop "Get Supermarket Smart" on May 29, 1992 to provide education on food shopping and planning a healthy diet. Our participants learned about current recommendations on cholesterol, fat, fiber, sodium, and sugar as well as the proposed regulations for food labels.

Free samples of recommended food products were made available. Our workshop was sponsored by several merchants, who donated cash prizes or gift certificates. Saylor's Pharmacy donated a blood pressure and pulse monitor. All of these were given to the workshop members.

We would like to thank all the wonderful merchants who gave their support: Carter's Food Market, Foodland of Broadhead, Foodtown, Mt. Vernon Drive-Thru Pharmacy, Porter's, Saylor's, A-L, Saylor's Pharmacy and Young's Pharmacy.

If anyone would be interested in learning about this subject, please contact Lynnet Forney, M.S., R.D. at the Rockcastle County Health Center.

Several attended the recent "Get Supermarket Smart" workshop sponsored by the Rockcastle County Health Center.

"Legendary Stuff" (Cont. From A2)

Sometime after the war my father went to see the Yankees play. The great Babe Ruth struck out three times in the opening game of a double header, then hit two over the fence in the second game.

Almost every adult male in America has played baseball, whether in their neighborhood, or in organized leagues and high school.

The game is both reality and fantasy. It is about pulling for underdogs, winning games in the bottom of the ninth with home runs, drives for the pennant, and legendary World Series games.

Once a person has played baseball they are almost always a fan for life.

It is an extension of the popularity of baseball that many a grown man exists to play softball in the summer, injuries and all.

The game is still a pastime. There are games to attend, to listen to and watch. Many people find the pennant drives a good diversion during the dog days of summer.

And then there's October. That's when the races get tight and the clutch players get hot at the plate.

I may be a 35-year-old overweight out of shape adult, but somehow I still hunger for a good fastball over the heart of the plate. Getting in the candy store is just a description of hitting — it is a thrill beyond compare.

The ball comes in at 80 or 90 miles per hour and in a split second you must decide whether to swing or hold back.

Hitters fail to get hits at least twice as often as they do. Still, it is the constant effort, the hustle and the strategy that makes baseball so exciting.

I still go up to Riverfront and more often than not I am amazed.

The ball exploding off the bat, the outstanding plays in the field and the pitchers that challenge batters...

Oh, well, it's summer time again. Just shake off that bit of cold weather — get ready for July, this is going to be a great season.

Receive U.S. Army Reserve National Scholar/Athlete Award

Kenton Scott Parkey and Christol Marie Sergeant of the 1992 Rockcastle County High School graduating class were recently awarded the U.S. Army Reserve National Scholar-Athlete Award.

This prestigious award is presented annually by the U.S. Army Reserve to high school students who have shown outstanding ability in both academics and athletics. The bronze Olympic-style Scholar/Athlete medals were presented recently at Rockcastle County High School's award ceremony.

The U.S. Army Reserve National Scholar-Athlete Award was created in 1981 by the Army Reserve to honor top students. More than 120,000 high school students have received this award and Kenton Scott Parkey and Christol Marie Sergeant join a long list of distinguished scholar/athletes. They truly put forth the extra effort at Rockcastle County High School to be all they can be.

It was with great pride that Sgt. 1st Class Craig V. Struening of the Richmond recruiting station presented the awards to Kenton Scott Parkey and Christol Marie Sergeant for their outstanding achievements.

Points East

me heck because I put in the paper that I was against Carol Brown Hubbard. I got two or three calls from Letcher County cussing me all to pieces and calling me a traitor because I was picking on a neighbor. (Carol, the wife, was born there and so was I and some people thought that was reason enough to not vote for anybody else.) (or at least not say nothing bad)

....I swear, I used to teach English, but it sounds so much better when you don't foller the book....

Anyway, I write about politicians about once a month for a reason. I don't have enough spare time to keep up with their fan clubs if I give them heck every week. That's why I write about gardening and the family and traveling and stuff like that most of the time. I'd much rather be telling you what a heel the governor is than writing about my pea patch, but believe it or not, the Governor has friends. And some of them get in touch with me.

Carol Brown Hubbard has friends. Her husband may have bought some of them for her, or had one of his buddies do it for him, but it makes no difference. In fact, there are some folks in Letcher County who grew up with Carol and liked her and you know they're gonna vote for her.

Letcher County is just like anywhere else in the world. You've always got a bunch of people trying to be way more important than they really are. Carol thought the whole darn population was that way and she wanted to be queen. She was out-pollied, in Letcher County, by two guys from outside the county and she finished way back in a pack of eight over the district. More importantly, her husband was kicked out of his Western Kentucky District because of his and her greed.

But the Hubbards, believe it or not, still have friends who want to be just like 'em. They want you and me to support them like England does it's royalty and they want us to relish and celebrate the status to which we have elevated them. And they want money, money, money. And they get it by selling us the dream.

Believe it or not, Wallace Wilkins has friends. So does Marty, bless her heart. I've heard from lots of them too.

But it's the Jones fans that are driving me crazy right now. There are people of modest means, just like myself, all over this state who are different than me only because they voted for Breton Jones. I think Jones is the phoniest phony to be elected to the Governor's office in my life time, if not the history of the state. I told you so and I told you so before you elected him and it ain't gonna get no better, at least for the next three and a half years.

If you don't feel screwed yet, hang on. It's coming. And Bler Horse is going to try and make you feel like it's your own fault.

The Lexington Sunday paper I read earlier today has a front page lead story about how much the Governor has cried because some people don't like him. Nobody understands all his double standards. Nobody understands why a governor has the right to be an outright crook and everybody else has to obey the law. Nobody else has to kiss so many butts. And it just ain't fair that we think he ought to have ethics because nobody else in politics does. So why pick on him?

Three and a half more years of this whining folks. Three and a half more years is what we have to take from this cheap little politician who needs just over a million dollars to pay off some old campaign debts and wishes you didn't know about it. Three and a half more years of old buddies who used to play ball or ride horses and learned to say duhnh to qualify for lucrative state government appointments! Three more years of a governor saying "What's wrong with that? I like 'em."

If you think he's whining now, just wait till the end of his term.

The real Greed Bill is yet to come. Enjoy. Or write. Or Call. I'm used to it. In fact, I love it. One of these days we'll elect an honest governor. That's when I'll go crazy or die of boredom.

June is Dairy Month

Hunts have seen many changes and improvements in years of dairying

Hal Hunt and his father, 74-year-old Lew Hunt, have been working their 230-acre family dairy farm for a number of years and have seen a lot of changes and improvements in the industry.

Hal is the President of the board of the Southeast Graders Association, a group of some 350 producers.

Hunt is keenly aware of the economic problems facing small producers and family owned dairy farms.

"The thing I see right now is there's not any young people going into it (dairy farming)," he said. "It's because there's no incentive for a young man to go in right now."

Hunt says his 15-year-old son says he wants to continue the family tradition, but that it will take a lot of interest and better prices if that is to happen.

Hunt's farm has been a grade A dairy since 1969, and currently produces 2,500 pounds of milk per day from their 42 head being milked.

Overall, the farm has 60 head of cattle in their state of the art operation.

An 80 cow barn built in 1988 is used by the University of Kentucky as an example of good barn design.

"This (the barn) is probably the best improvement we've done in several years," he said. "This is a freestyle barn."

The barn is open at the top and allows heat to be drawn out through an open ridge.

This helps cattle avoid heat stress during the summer, according to Hunt, who said several dairy farmers have visited his operation to see the barn's design.

Hunt is proud of his double three herring bone milking machine which will hold six cows at a time and milk three at a time and is fully automatic.

Prices have not been good in recent years, according to Hunt, who said he is hopeful that things will turn around for the small producer.

"We're hoping to see something this fall," he said. "We're looking right now at $13 a hundred."

Hunt said the break even point for his farm was $12 per hundred and that current prices leave little room for profit.

The farm produces about 2,500 pounds of milk per day, according to Hunt, who said he is making very little from current production.

Hunt also employs one man who milks five days a week.

Breeding is an important aspect, according to Hunt, who said it is important to improve the herd.

"You try to keep replacements coming all the time," he said. "We raise our replacements — in January we bought 21 replacement heifers to calve this fall. You like to put a few on every month."

Hunt said there is a timetable to bringing on new milking cows.

"We like from birth to milk line, we try to get them there in 24 months or less," he said.

Hunt said one main difference from years ago is that standards are much stricter, especially on drugs and antibiotics, which can taint milk and cause it to be dumped.

The tobacco allotment on the farm is leased out while the farm grows 55 acres of corn for silage and 30 acres of alfalfa.

The cattle are fed year round with silage when milking, according to Hunt.

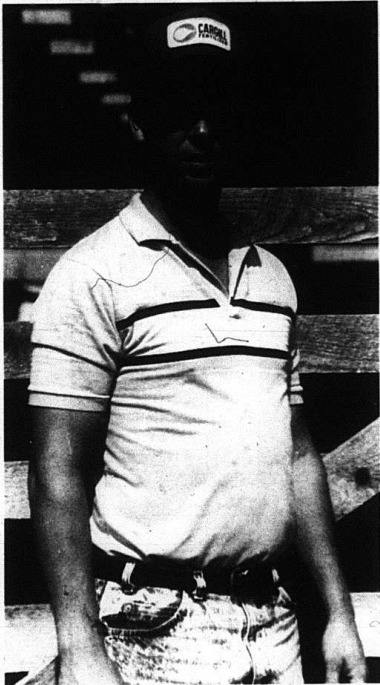

He said the farm utilizes the double crop method, which sees wheat planted after the corn is cut. This makes for a spring and fall harvest and keeps production high.

Hunt said third and fourth generation farms are now going out of business.

He feels that the big commercial dairies like those found in Florida are taking over the industry.

Hunt said he feels that smaller herds and family dairies produce a better quality milk.

He hopes to continue that tradition, possibly to pass it on to his son, but he realizes that the economics of running a family dairy will have to change for that hope to become a reality.

Hal Hunt runs the dairy farm, along with his father, Lew Hunt. Hunt is also president of a producers association.

Dairy products tested from cow to consumer

Shoppers may be confused by nutrition labels and product claims, but there is no mistaking the safety and quality of milk and milk products. From cow to consumer, dairy foods are among the most regulated foods in the United States.

For dairy farmers, the commitment to quality begins on the farm, where strict sanitary conditions are maintained for dairy herds, and cow health is closely monitored.

An exhaustive testing process begins when the tanker truck picks up the milk at the farm. A sample is taken for analysis at the processing plant. When the tanker arrives at the plant, the entire load is checked again for antibiotics and bacteria. Any load testing positive is discarded.

While the dairy industry has imposed its own quality standards, state and federal inspectors also monitor dairy operations.

According to FDA Consumer, a monthly government magazine on consumer safety, "Milk is probably more closely regulated at the federal and state levels than any other food."

Dairy farms and processing plants are regularly inspected for adherence to standard operating procedures, equipment safety and milk quality.

Even after milk reaches the retailer, it is routinely inspected for quality. FDA inspectors check product labeling and weight, and test again for quality.

Milk sold for consumption must meet the strict standards of the Grade A Pasteurized Milk Ordinance (PMO), which prohibits the sale of misbranded "Grade A" milk and milk products. In many instances, state and local requirements exceed the PMO recommendations of the U.S. Public Health Service and the Food and Drug Administration.

Stringent standards on the farm, at the processing plant and in the supermarket ensure the milk and milk products consumers serve their family are safe and nutritious.

Milk prices post first decrease in 30 years

Milk and milk product prices in 1991 declined for the first time in 30 years, down one percent from 1990 levels. In a weak economy, milk and milk products remained an excellent food value for consumers.

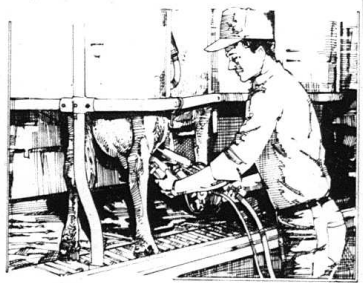

Retreating from 1990 price levels, milk and milk products were the only food group included in the Consumer Price Index (CPI) to show a decrease for the year. The CPI is compiled by the United States Bureau of Labor Statistics.

During 1991, the cost of all food at (Cont. to B2)

Hunt's major improvement is a feeding barn with a series of stalls. The hot air goes up through the open roof, which keeps temperatures down in the summer and helps the dairy herd avoid heat stress. This barn is often shown to people considering making improvements to their dairy farms.

home increased 2.6 percent, while fresh fruit and vegetables posted a gain of more than 4.5 percent for the year. Meat, poultry, fish and eggs rose 2 percent, while cereal and bakery products rose 4 percent.

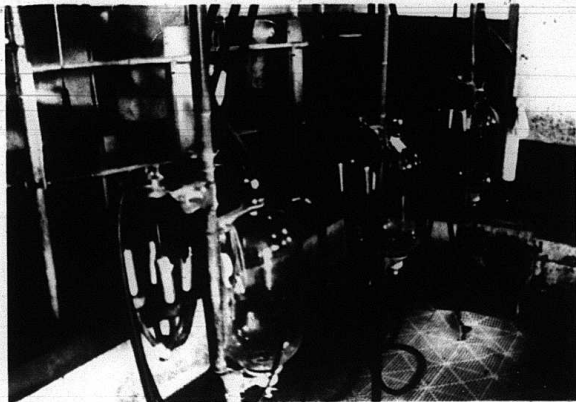

The base year is 1988 when all products were recalculated and assigned a value of 100.

Milk and milk product price averages were below year earlier levels in each quarter of 1991. The decline in the yearly average was driven by a three percent decline in the retail price of fluid milk products. Economists predict 1992 milk prices will be comparable to 1991 levels.

Dairy Facts

1. Kentucky's dairy industry generated an estimated $2.219 billion in economic activity last year.
2. There were 133 firms engaged in the processing, manufacturing and distribution of milk and milk products in Kentucky, employing 3,259 people at an annual payroll of $75,590,000.
3. In the state, dairying accounted for seven percent of the cash receipts for all farm commodities last year.

Let's do away with love! The word, that is. When Lige Arnet, over in Siler, says "I love my woman" and "I love my coon dog," you just know there's a difference! Comparing the word of newlyweds to that of a couple celebrating a golden anniversary is somewhat like trying to compare apples and oranges. With so many stages and shades of meaning, the word "love" is meaningless.

We do understand "puppy" love. I was eleven years old when I fell head over head (what's abnormal about "head over heels?") for a pretty miss who lived not far from my parents' grocery store. I wanted her to be mine alone, but I was a bashful novice in the art of wooing. So, I requisitioned a fifteen cents flask of exotic perfume from the "notions" counter of the grocery, wrapped it in toilet tissue, and tied it with a red ribbon. Then, I paid J.M. Manus a quarter to be my emissary. He delivered the gift with my note, returned, and reported, "She said she likes you."

Oh, not! Not that spurning word! She "liked" me - to her a kind word but to me a cruel way of saying she didn't "love" me! I would have bitten her a stairway to the stars, but she only "liked" me. How quickly my existence was bereft of meaning. How could I go on without her? I went into seclusion and sat hour upon hour at my piano, playing "Sentimental Me" over and over, with one finger (that was before I took lessons and learned to play with two). And she kept the perfume! (Actually, it was "Essence of Lilac" toilet water.)

I managed somehow to locate an eye and I lived improved when I became a teenager and understood all things (except Chemistry, which I would have failed had it not been for the mercy of Clyde Linville, my teacher). By age twenty, I had plumbed the depths of the enthralling mystery known as "young love." (If I had a hundred dollars for every time, when in utter ignorance, I said or wrote "I love you" or had it said to me, Nancy and I could afford to fly to Minneapolis to see our grandsons - often.)

A very popular song in those teen years was "Be sure it's true when you say 'I love you'; it's a sin to tell a lie. Millions of hearts have been broken, just because those words were spoken." The lyrics refer to "romantic" love, but they apply to other life situations. Consider the case of "Old Folks" Emmens, the town drunk of Appleton.

One summer evening, Folks, making his staggering surveillance of town, passed by the Appleton Baptist Church. The BASS Class (Brethren for the Advancement of Sainly Scruples) had just completed their mission outreach project of the month: a new church sign, with a bulletin board under glass. Just as Folks passed, a timer activated the fluorescent bulbs in the sign, and there his flickering started him.

Sam Phlipert watched Folks from his porch across the street. He said Folks studied the bulletin for a long spell. It read: IT'S AS SIMPLE AS ABC; GOD LOVES YOU AND SO DO WE!

Then Folks spied some leftover bricks beside the sign, picked up one, and said something Sam couldn't make out. But Sam did hear the glass crash when Folks hurled the brick into the sign.

More than a few in the church talked about prosecuting Folks, but a former charge was never made, and the BASS men repaired the sign. Pastor Ken Merwyn went looking for Folks the night of the incident and found him lying on a seamy cot in the abandoned KU pale town where Clint Smith "let him live."

"Folks, why did you crash our sign?"

"Because it's a @#!%#!" Folks said. "There ain't no God, and there ain't one soul in that church that gives a damn about me, either your and your missus. They don't love me. Never did. Never will."

Bro. Ken didn't argue with Folks. He had spent four years in vain trying to lead the rift that occurred when the deacons "asked" his predecessor to resign.

One faction, still loyal to the former pastor, used the Folks affair to cause Bro. Ken more grief. "If he'd spend the time on his sermons that he wastes on dead-beats and drunks," Cash Neely said at the barber shop, "our church might prosper."

Two weeks after the brick-throwing, Bro. Ken went before his Sunday morning congregation and declared that he was "totally disillusioned" and that he doubted seriously whether Christianity, especially the Sermon on the Mount, is possible. He also told them what Folks had said and that he agreed with him.

Then Bro. Ken closed his Bible, stepped down from the pulpit, and strode slowly up the middle aisle toward the foyer, looking right and left as he went. And with each trainee's index finger he said, "You don't give a damn - and again until he walked out of the building! By the end of the week, he had loaded his belongings in a Ryder truck and left for Atlanta with his wife and two children, there to look for employment - anything honest and totally secular.

The word around Appleton is that Bro. Ken had a history of instability and probably wasn't even "called." Cash said, "You'd think a man of God would have read where Jesus said, 'You have the poor with you always.' There isn't much you can do for people that won't help themselves."

Tribute to Buffalo Friends and Neighbors

Last week's article was the beginning of a series to give tribute to my friends and neighbors in the Buffalo area. This explanation was omitted from the column.

When Mat began building our new house and hired the men in the Buffalo area to help there was no longer a need to seek friends. These men became my friends and were the way to get to know their wives and children. Those I remember helping are, (forgive me if I leave someone out) Clark Mike, Loggie Renner, Tom Hall, Think Mike, Jennie Waddie, Doc Waddie and Ma's brother, Dee. Reece Mike hauled the newly cut lumber for the house with a wagon and team of mules. We had to wait until Swan stock, the Buffalo owner and operator of the mill, cut the timber, then sawed it into lumber. He lived at Bloss, several miles away, so it was a long haul for Reece. It took days and days to get enough to start the building so it was getting late into the fall before we could move into the bare shell of a house.

I had to cook dinner for this bunch of hungry men which was also a new experience for me to deal with. I had not as yet learned the art of keeping a fire going in the wood burning cook stove long enough to cook a meal. Neither had I learned how to gather vegetables from the garden, carry water from the spring to wash and cook them in and have dinner ready by eleven o'clock which was the time they usually ate their noon meal. The very best I could do it was always 1 o'clock before it was ready, and by then they were starved. I'll bet I was talked about and ridiculed in every home in the Buffalo area for my stupidity. Still, we survived, and those men who went hungry while I learned how to be a country woman became steadfast and true friends along with their wives and children.

It was at this time I got acquainted with Loggie's family. He invited me to come and see them as he left work one day, so on the following Sunday I dressed Judy in her prettiest clothes and took off walking the mile or so to their place. Mat stayed behind to take care of things so I had to face getting acquainted with a new family alone.

I never regretted it for I found a treasure in that little house at the foot of a big steep hill. The treasure was a family of good solid citizens ready to help in time of need.

They had a baby boy, Glen, the same age of Judy so we had something in common to start a friendship on. Judy and Glen are still good friends. Their other children were,

Cash continued. "Drunks, poor people, homeless- they choose to live that way. Their stories are all alike, and you get to the place you would rather they didn't come around."

By the way, if you don't know that song, look it up. You might enjoy singing it, the melody is captivating. And the young folks could enjoy it with a rap rhythm. Just go to a music store and ask for "It's a Sin to Tell a Lie." Being old song, it may not be listed by title, so look in a first line index for "Be sure it's true when you say 'I love you.' . . ."

The Mt. Vernon Signal Thursday, June 25, 1992 P-83

He's always asking foolish questions Like "Are you going to plant rice?"

After getting rid of Ricearoni My gardening is still full of woe Starting with the planting of seed To see if they'll come up and grow

When the corn pops through the soil Birds are standing by To get at the golden kernels And causing them to die

Then what's left of the corn Soon begins to tassel Then from Japan comes the Beatles Who raise quite a hassle

After carefully cutting the eyes From potatoes certified seed The bodily sign we've got to know And I'll better pay heed

For if the signs are in the bowels My planting had better stop For when planting then I'll get a messy crop

For potato bugs be on guard They'll lay yellow eggs under the leaf You can bet your bottom dollar That they'll cause me grief

When the tiny eggs hatch The little monsters all spread out. They'll soon strip a vine Making me say things not so devout

Then I'll grab my sprayer Load it with the latest spray. The monsters will get high And party night and day

Meanwhile over in the bean patch They're just beginning to grow When low and behold The bean beetle will show

He'll invite in all his friends To have a bean beetle bash. But the whole dog-gone gang Will stay for supper, breakfast and lunch

The tomatoes are doing well Everything seems to be going alright. Then I wake up one morning To find 'em hit by the blight

Out among the cucumber hills Things were going swell But that was before they got hit By summer floods and hail

But despite all these pit falls When harvest rolls around I can be proud and thankful That I put the seeds in the ground

My even become boastful Lying about how it was done. Working hard from daylight to dark Underneath the broiling sun

But the actual truth of the matter I surely want everyone to know How I solved the gubernatorial candidates speeches And all that horse manure made things grow.*

With apologies to the horses. P.P.

Bears, Pirates, Cardinals and A's advance in tournaments

Compiled by David Brock

The 1992 Rockcastle County Little League Tournament is underway. And after the first two rounds, only four teams remain undefeated. In Minor League play, the Bears, A's and Pirates all advanced in the first round with a bye. The Angels joined the three Monday night with a 13-9 victory over the Giants complemented by a game-winning grand slam by Brooke Roberts.

In the second round, the Pirates advanced to the semi-finals with a 16-8 win over the A's in Monday night's second game. The Bears also advanced with an easy 27-9 win over the Angels Tuesday night.

In Major League play, the Reds edged out the Pirates, 5-3, last Friday to be the first team to advance into the second round. The A's followed in the second game of the night with a dominant 16-3 victory over the Twins. Both the Cardinals and Cubs advanced with byes.

The Cardinals went on to double the score, 14-7, in Sunday's game against the Reds to advance to the semi-finals. The A's did the same in the following game with a 14-5 win over the Cubs.

Several games were also played this past week to conclude the regular season for the Minor and Major leagues.

The Pirates thumped the A's, 36-13, to begin the Minor League action last Thursday. The Bears followed with a 17-5 win over the Angels. The Pirates also defeated the Angels, 11-6, Saturday while the Bears also bested the A's, 15-5. Concluding the regular season Tuesday were the Bears over the Angels, 19-5, and the Pirates over the Giants, 11-6.

In the two final Major League regular season games played Tuesday, the Twins defeated the Reds, 19-17, while the Cubs defeated the A's, 11-8. Brian Houk hit his fifth home run of the year for the Cubs in the game.

Only two games were played in Senior League play. The Pirates edged out the Expos, 8-7, Saturday while the Expos took 10 innings to defeat the Reds, 12-9, in the second game.

Final regular season standings for the Minor and Major leagues are:

Minor League: (1) Bears, 16-0; (2) A's, 10-6; (3) Pirates, 10-6; (4) Angels, 3-13 and (5) Giants, 1-15.

Major League: (1) Cardinals, 13-2; (2) Cubs, 12-3; (3) A's, 7-8; (4) Pirates, 6-9; (5) Reds, 4-11 and (6) Twins, 3-12.

Standings thus far for the Senior League are: (1) Reds, 10-3; (2) Indians, 11-4; (3) Expos, 7-8; (4) Pirates, 4-10 and (5) Dodgers, 4-11.
