Steve Bullock and his father, Glyn, examine two of the animals Steve killed early Friday morning at his residence on Cove Branch.

Suit has been filed in Small Claims Court over the incident. In the suit, Regina Artley alleges the animals were gentle, trick dogs.

Bullock kills wolves (?) at his door

By: Ray McClure

Steve Bullock knows how little Red Riding Hood must have felt when she got home.

It happened at 1:15 Friday morning when Steve came home on Cove Branch Road from his business, turned in his driveway, and was confronted with four timber wolves, with growls and teeth showing.

"I sure was surprised," Steve said, remembering the incident.

"I eased out of the truck and threw rocks at them, but they wouldn't let me get in the house," Steve related. So I went to my dad's, Glen Bullock, and borrowed his gun and drove back. They were still there."

He explained he got out of the truck and yelled at the wolves. Two were near the truck and two were at a front yard pond trying to get his ducks.

"They kept running at me and snarling, so I shot two of them near the truck," he said. "The other two went on the patio and tried to get into the house. I was afraid they would get my wife who was in the house."

He then shot the two on the porch where they fell.

He said the wolves belonged to Dick Artley and he called Artley and told him.

When contacted, Artley said they were German Shepherd dogs and not wolves and he wanted to talk to his lawyer before commenting at length. He said the "dogs" were taken from his property.

Vonda Stewart who lives in the same area, reported they tried to kill her dog earlier and were on her porch.

Regina Artley filed a small claims summons Monday with the sheriff claiming the dogs were trained to do tricks and were very gentle." She asks damages of $1,500.

$200,000 grant for north area water

The Appalachian Regional Commission announced Tuesday approval of $200,000 in distressed counties funds for extension of a new water system in the Climax, Three Links, Orlando and Brush Creek areas.

Located in the northeast section of Rockcastle County, the project includes approximately 18.82 miles of 6", 4" and 3" waterlines to serve 148 families.

The Rockcastle County Water Association was established in 1991 in order to provide the means to deliver water service to outlying and fringe areas of Rockcastle County.

Jackson County Water Association has agreed to sell treated water to the Rockcastle County Water Association and has given assurances that adequate quantity will be available to the new water customers.

Total estimated cost of the project is $490,000. Farmers Home Administration has authorized loan assistance for the project in the amount of $254,600.

No one hurt in wrecks

A Rockcastle County couple escaped injury Saturday when their car was struck by another at the U.S. 150 - Ky. 70 intersection.

William I. Norton and wife, Arcteta, were not injured.

Marcia D. Robinson of East Bernstadt, the driver of the other car, and her passengers, Brian and Freddie Robinson were not hurt according to a report from Sheriff Shirley Smith's office.

Mrs. Robinson reported her brakes failed.

Teresa Stephanie, 31, of Long Beach, Cal., was traveling north on Brindle Ridge Road, came to a curve, lost control and went over an embankment.

Tap fees totaling $35,400 will be collected from the new users and will be used to help finance the project cost. FmHA will administer the ARC funds.

Customers will be billed for water use by Jackson County early in the usage period. Later, billing will be done from Rockcastle.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins called the notice of approval very good news for that area.

A request for funds for another area will be made shortly, the judge said.

Big Burley crop

The burley harvest is nearly half complete, and tobacco watchers expect a barnburning crop in Kentucky.

That is usually to be expected in the king of the burley states, but growers had reason to fear it would be different this year.

Spring was cold and wet, leaving the new crop vulnerable to an assortment of evils, and summer did not get much better. Then came the diseases

--blue mold, black shank and strange viruses carried by insects.

"This has been the year of diseases," said William Nesmith, a plant pathologist at the University of Kentucky.

Blue mold, a destructive fungus, was found on plants in more than 60 counties, and losses from it could be $18 million to $20 million, Nesmith said. An additional $15 million has

County sending help to storm victims in south

By: George Ferrell

Many people from various places and groups are working to help relief efforts in South Florida and Louisiana as the local people and businesses work on the relief effort.

A truck will leave from Derby City South Truck Stop by the end of the week headed for South Florida.

Donations for that drive may be made at the truck stop.

On another front the local Red Cross Chapter is working to take other vital supplies to storm survivors.

Surviving through what is considered the most costly natural disaster in United States history was a miracle for many victims of Hurricane Andrew, however the devastation has yet to cease as thousands remain without food, clothing and shelter.

A local relief "task force" recently formed in Rockcastle County to gather such needed supplies as non-perishable canned foods, clothing, water, bleach, garbage bags, candles, matches, batteries and cleaning supplies to take to Morgan City, Louisiana.

"Everybody around wants to try to find out what they can do to help," said Bob Bailey, who, along with Kevin Fletcher and LuEd Nielsen, have combined forces to create a way for locals to send relief.

"We decided to get this underway to give everyone a chance to help in some way," Bob continued. "We targeted the Louisiana area due to the fact that most of the relief is going to Florida. People in Louisiana need help, too."

Fletcher added that special interests in the area for another reason as well. "LuEd is from Louisiana and her daughter still lives there," he said. "She (the daughter) has been a contact person for us down there and it has helped a lot."

With the cooperation of the county fire departments and local schools, the donations are rapidly increasing as residents continue to bring bags and boxes of necessities.

"Taylor Produce is donating the truck," said Fletcher, "and we plan to have all of the donations gathered and taken to Broadway to load onto the truck by Friday."

According to Fletcher, the supplies will be loaded onto skids, covered tightly with shrink wrap, then lifted into the truck.

With donations from the Red Cross, Kiwanis Club, Silver Creek Elementary School in Berea, the local elementary schools, Mt. Vernon Plastics, county fire departments and many other organizations, Fletcher and Bailey said the trip will be fully paid for as not only have supplies been donated, but cash donations have been received as well.

"Taylor Produce is really giving a lot because the wear and tear on their truck is very costly," said Fletcher. "Money was received from such organizations as the Kiwanis Club which will be used to buy the gas and pay the driver."

Bailey added, "And there've been so many individual donations, too. They're too numerous to list."

"We have collected a large amount of clothing," said Fletcher. "What we need more than anything now is non-perishable foods in metal cans, cleaning supplies, garbage bags, bleach, batteries and candles."

Donations are still being accepted at all county fire departments. Anyone interested in giving should bring the supplies to a local fire department no later than Friday at noon.

County tax rate remains same

By: Ray McClure

As it has in the past two or more years, the tax rate for Rockcastle remains the same for real estate and tangible property.

The rate is 8.4 cents per $100 Assessed Property Value. The tangible property rate is 8.2 cents per $100.

The rate is expected to bring in about $132,434 to the county in the coming year, based on a real estate assessed value of $191,650,201.

Only change in county tax rates was for bank shares which stand at 23.14 per $100 down from 24 cents last year. Bank shares will bring in $21,482.

The motor vehicle tax remains the same at 8.2 cents per $100. It will bring in $27,788 with the same 8.2 cent rate, watercraft will bring in $981.

Other agencies that set their own rate includes the library with a rate of 1.5 cents per $100, and tangible at 1.7 cents, both up from 1.45 and 1.4 for real estate and tangible.

Soil Conservation is set at 7 of a cent per $100 assessed value, same as last year. Tangible is not applicable.

The real estate and tangible property rate for the Rockcastle Fire Department remains the same at 3.2 cents per $100.

Extension Service rate also remains the same at 2.5 cents for both real estate and tangible property.

A 3 cent per acre forest land tax is levied on all privately owned forest land for forest fire protection, the same as last year.

The total 1992 assessment growth showed real estate at $4,883,575; new property about $5,304,153; tangible property $1,173,029; public service corporations, $2,461,361 for total growth at $13,822,118. Last year the county grew $7,671,050.

This year homestead exemptions totaled $3,866,400.

The Rockcastle County Schools set their own tax rate which to date has not been approved by the board. It was 46.3 cents per $100 last year.

In other business, roads added to the county work program include Chastain Road, 10 of a mile; Preston Collins Road, 10 of a mile and Elliott Road, 10 of a mile.

The district warden, Paul Cummins, requested and received from the court up to $225 to purchase a share and live trap for use in his work.

The Rockcastle Conservation District presented its annual financial report to the county. It shows total receipts at $101,042 and expenditures at $97,578. Balance on hand on June 30 was $5,287.

Otha Marcum bid $105 for two unmoduled typewriters owned by the county. This was the only bid.

Dr. Griffith appointed to school board vacancy

By: George Ferrell

A new school board member has been appointed to fill the remainder of the term for the Division III seat. George Griffith, M.D., got the word from the commissioner's office this past Wednesday.

Griffith is not new to the board -- he was appointed once before and served for six months.

Griffith said he is looking forward to working with the board and Superintendent Bigge W. Towery.

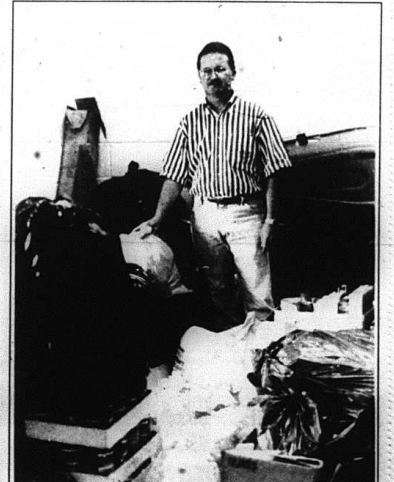

"I just want to try to improve the education in Rockcastle County to the best I can so that all students have an equal opportunity," he said. "I feel there's been a tremendous improvement in the education of the county over the past five to seven years and I want to continue to improve that growth."

Griffith, who is a native of Rock-castle County, has been in private medical practice since 1974.

Response to Hurricane Andrew is heartening and much needed

COMMENTARY
By George Ferrell

With the wake of storm damage in South Florida and Louisiana, many local residents are turning their efforts toward helping the storm survivors cope with the unprecedented damage to their homes and communities.

Many people may never fully recover from the damage—and even if they do, it will likely be a traumatic memory that will last for years.

I guess most of us are lucky, with the exception of an occasional tornado, we never have to see the awesome force of nature as it unfolds in a hurricane.

The bad news is that the initial effort was thwarted by bureaucracy.

The good news, on the other hand, is that the volume of the relief effort and the way it is flowing in means that survivors can slowly recover from the damages.

The TV stations continue to show footage, and rightfully so, because this has stimulated the public effort to bring the light of humanity to the degraded areas.

The media quite often gets a knock, but in this case it is clear that the reportage has helped mobilize America to aid the plight of storm survivors.

It is difficult to imagine what people in South Florida and Louisiana are going through right now. Where they will get their next meal, or even their next drink of water may well be up in the air.

Agencies such as the Red Cross and the Salvation Army are showing their muscle as they bring help and hope to the tens of thousands of people in those areas.

Locally, in central Kentucky, it has been heartening to see the donations, the businesses that have chipped in and the trucking companies volunteering to transport necessities to those hard hit communities.

Hurricanes are perhaps nature's strongest malady, and can wreck havoc without consideration for life and limb.

Several people in Louisiana have made the comment that had they not seen the devastation via TV of South Florida they might not have evacuated.

Television coverage brought the tragedy home and perhaps saved thousands of lives in Louisiana.

As that coverage continues, we will learn of the struggle the survivors have in front of them as they try to emerge from this terrifying ordeal.

As a child I was in Florida in 1967 when a Hurricane came up the coast. It was frightening seeing windows boarded up, and everything tied down tightly.

The storm passed within 80 miles of Daytona Beach where we were staying on vacation but it was still the fiercest weather I have ever been around.

If there was a Richter scale for Hurricanes, Andrew would probably have rated a 9 or a 10—it was that powerful.

I hope the early signs of volunteerism can carry South Florida and coastal Louisiana a long way.

The survivors have a long way to go, but if everyone chips in maybe their journey can be a little easier.

The compassion of the public can be a very strong force.

In this instance, without it the suffering would only be magnified.

Well, that's all for this week.

I like to stay with one subject when I write this column, but sometimes I get like a mummy—pressed for time—and have to serve up a potpourri (pronounced "po-poo-REE"), which means a mixture of elements that aren't alike. That expression is one of the few French words I learned in college, much to the dismay of Professor Maitre, who didn't laugh when I said "cut the grass" in French is moé laun.

Another French word I recall is oui (WEE), which means "yes." But I haven't used that term since I took dinner at an elderly deacon's house when I was a student preacher. His dearly beloved entered the dining room from her kitchen, carrying a meal platter, and asked if I liked beef Wellington. Well, the only Wellington I knew whipped Napoleon at Waterloo. But I pretended I was up on cuisines and answered with a hardy "Oui, oui, Madame." That dear soul blushed and looked at the floor. Then the deacon sorta sternly said, "It's down the hall, son, on your right."

One of life's little joys is naming a new pet. I just had that pleasure with the arrival of a big-eared, grey-striped kitten. Our daughter, Malissa, who is working on her Master's in math at UT, brought the homeless, little critter to our Wabband abode from Knoxville. (I told her husband, Lee, a Big Orange fan if ever one breathed, that I'd make a "Wildcat" of that leonine in one day flat.)

I took the kitty to the vet and had her properly inoculated—apaying

and de-clawing aren't far away. At first I considered a name Carrion Keillor or concocted—Mew Tse Tung. But out of esteem for the women in my life, I christened my cat Kate, which derives from Katherine, the middle name of Malissa and her mother.

However, Kate is only my cat's middle name. I have yet to come up with a first name. Several come to mind - Appli, Suffo, Eradi, Dupli, Compli, Fabri, Edu, Abdi, Ajudi, and Vindi—but none stands out, and I eliminated Forni right off. Kate claims to manifest a few signs of elite deficiency in the presence of my chow-chows, who have whole names. Any suggestions, dear reader? If so, call in your purrposals right away (256-2146 or 256-4613).

Well, call me a "has been," but I cannot adjust to the music of today's younger folk, especially rap. And being deaf in my left ear doesn't help. Occasionally, however, when the tempo slows a bit, I do comprehend. O my! What suggestive and lurid lyrics!

How this age needs a taste of the immortal tones of the flautful fifties! How I long for the scores of yesteryear, when songs had heartfelt melodies and image-evoking themes like "Tutti-frutti, Ah-Rudy!" and "Itsy-bitsy, itsy-weensy, yellow polka-dot bikini!" O how ecstasy draws nigh when I sing, in the shower, that most enrapturing song of songs, that euphoric zenith of empathy and amour, that quintessential articulation of a laddie's love for his lassie, that "Bee-Bop-a-lula, she's my baby! Bee-bop-a-lula, I don't mean maybe!"

Speaking of western Kentucky, I once lived in Carlisle County, where I met a man whose name was Willy Burgess. Willy fell in love with a woman named Willie. After they married, folks referred to them as "Willy-he" and "Willieshe." And that brings to mind a couple who lived across the street from us. She was Iwona Goodman before she married John Bone.

Time is now fleeting, the moments are passing, passing for you and for me—and I must get to Tennessee! So one later, precious readers, remember the words of Opiolonus II of Busselona, that ubiquitous and courageous Latin educator, that authority on horses and matter pertaining thereto, and that part-time diviner of horoscopes who, while walking his dogs at midnight, looked heavenward and exclaimed, "Scintillate, scintillate, aeternid mirrif!" Surely, you will agree that needed saying and is worth repeating.

Dalmations are missing, please help

My dogs have been missing since last Thursday night. We live right on the main road we know almost all the neighbors within a five mile radius of our house. Before last week-end, we didn't know more than 10 percent of them.

But we've been out asking about the Dalmations. Putting up posters with my picture and my best friend all over the place and reaching dead ends. My best male friend is a big black and white spotted Dalmation dog with one white eye and one brown eye. His best girl friend is a little smaller than he is and a lot less smarts, but she is also a Dalmation.

When I last saw them, she was sporting a nearly new, bright orange collar and he was wearing an old ragged thing that used to be red and still had a ring for the leash he didn't need. When a dog stays on the places he doesn't mean he is lost.

We know almost all our neighbors now because we've been to their homes to see if they've seen the dogs and we've met a host of folks who live just off the main roads and lanes within a five mile radius of our place.

And we have found dozens and dozens of folks who are just glad to know who we are and where we live. I could spend the rest of the space that your paper gives me just listing their names. And as surely as I tried to do that, I'd leave someone out. Just as surely, I know that they wouldn't want me to do it anyway.

Old time readers of this column know that the thing most important to me is my family. Right behind Loretta and the kids, however, there has always been a dog that helped me do my gardening. Last spring and summer, I've had two. Two big Dalmations that tracked and marked almost every move I made outside. Who rode to and from the grocery stores with me. Who loved me, as I did them, like family. I haven't written about the Dalmations because everytime I write about a dog in the paper, it seems to get killed on the road. The Bassett Hounds, Newton and Bogart, who used to be weekly features here, were both killed on the road. I decided that not writing wasn't doing them any good even though I'm pretty sure that Newton wrote this column half a dozen times. I write with a heavy heart right now, because my Dalmations are not dead on the road. I'd have found them if they were. And I'm glad for that. I write with almost certainty that they Rocket quarterback J.D. Bussell attempts a pass in the Rockets 21-6 loss to Belfry last Friday night at Pikeville.

A capacity crowd filled the stands for the Rockets at Pikeville Friday night.

Rockets lose season opener to Belfry, will face Metcalfe at home this Friday

Two of the state's top ten high school teams in their respective divisions (according to the pre-season coaches poll) met Saturday in their season opener in the annual Pike County Bowl.

Maybe it was the size of the schools or the teams fielded, nevertheless, the seventh ranked Class 3A Belfry Pirates routed the third ranked Class 2A Rockcastle County Rockets, 21-6.

"I thought we played a hard football game," said Rockets' head coach Tom Larkey earlier this week.

The Rockets did take a lot of hits from a larger and faster Belfry throughout the game. It was a different style that the Rockets will have to adjust to after losing some big guys of their own in last year's graduating class.

Belfry posted the game's first points when junior quarterback Jason Stacy broke free around the left end for a 71-yard run on their first play. Their extra-point attempt was good.

In the plays following the Rockets, after unsuccessful running attempts, put the ball in the air. Rockets' junior quarterback J.D. Bussell hit receiver Jason Kirby for a 20 yard touchdown with eight minutes left in the first quarter. However, the touchdown was called back for offensive holding. It was the first of two touchdowns passes declined due to offensive penalties. The second came in the fourth quarter when Bussell again hit Kirby but was called back due to an illegal procedure call.

The penalty denied the Rockets of any scoring and allowed Belfry to carry their 7-0 lead into the second quarter.

"We had several mental errors," Larkey said, "I expected it because of inexperienced players on the field, however I feel we can correct these types of mistakes," he added.

In a series of ground attacks, the Rockets opened the second quarter on Belfry's 40 yard line and advanced the ball to the 31 yard line. From there, Bussell hit junior end Jason Hunt for a 31 yard and penalty free touchdown.

The Rockets, who are in transition after losing kicker Curtis Cotton last year, failed to connect on their two-point conversion attempt.

Belfry countered with the final score of the first half when Stacy threw an 18 yard pass to Kevin Varney to increase their lead to 14-6.

"Our kids gave 100% and never laid down," commented Larkey. "We came out in the third quarter a little flat but overall I was pleased that we kept our composure after Belfry scored so fast."

Belfry tacked on seven more when Stacy hit Jason Browning for a 26 yard touchdown with just under five minutes remaining in the third quarter to up their lead to 21-7.

And other than the called back touchdown against the Rockets in the fourth quarter, neither team really threatened on the offensive side thereafter.

"Despite all of our mistakes and penalties (60 yards worth), I think we still could have won," said Larkey.

An odd statistic of the game was the fact that the Rockets passed for 120 yards while gaining only 103.

Offensively for the Rockets: Jason Hunt had three receptions for 80 yards and one touchdown; Jason Kirby had one reception for 11 yards; J.D. Bussell attempted 15 passes while completing six for 120 yards and one touchdown; Mikhael Shaffer had six carries for 12 yards and had one reception for one yard; Bobby Coffey had nine carries for 35 yards; J.D. Harris had 16 carries for 50 yards and one reception for 28 yards and Greg Bowman had four carries for nine yards.

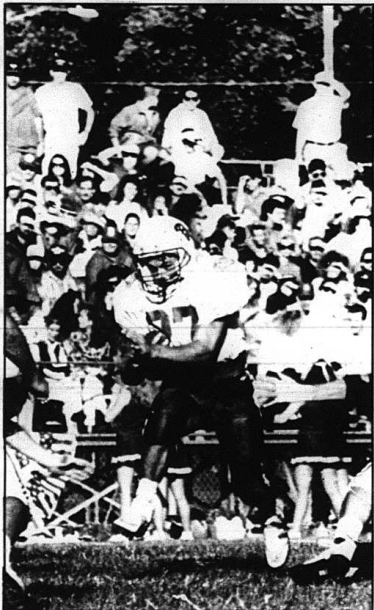

Defensively: Jason Hunt had two solos, one assist and one sack; Brian Mink had one solo, one assist and one sack; Stacey Kirby had two assists; Jay Stevens had two solos; Chris Goff had one solo and one assist; Bobby Coffey had one solo and seven assists; Louie Davis had one solo; J.D. Harris had seven solos and five assists; J.D. Bussell had one solo; Mikhael Shaffer had one solo, three assists and one interception; Jason Kirby had two solos and one sack and Greg Bowman had one assist.

The Rockets will face Metcalfe County at RCHS this Friday in the Jamboree Bowl. There will be a crowning of the queen as well as an offensive and defensive MVP. A trophy will also be presented to the winner.

The Rockets defeated Metcalfe 36-0 last year but had a hard time getting started off against their two running backs. Both are returning this year. Also, Metcalfe's quarterback has been moved to split end and has been replaced by a younger quarterback who throws the ball well from a run and shoot offense. Metcalfe also has two big defensive linemen and linebackers. They are a Class A team with 24 players and will put 11 on the field that play hard.

Scores of Little League Football and JV games

J.D. Harris tries to gain yardage for the Rockets in Friday night's game against Belfry. Harris had 50 yards rushing, 28 yards receiving and 12 tackles for the Rockets.

A participant in the contest for a $500 scholarship at the Pike Bowl was Callie Mullins, daughter of Roland and Nancy Mullins and a senior at RCHS.

Drive for storm survivors getting lots of local support

"We're taking all kinds of things," said LuEd Nielsen, Red Cross Disaster Coordinator for Berea, Richmond and Mt. Vernon. A $1,000 donation has been made by the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court and the local Kiwanis and Fire Department are also helping reach the $2,000 projected need for this county.

Nielsen said local donations will go to Morgan City, La., and two other small communities.

"They're right on the Gulf—they just got wiped off the map," she said. The Red Cross office and police department in Morgan City both blew away in the storm.

"They went through 140-160 mile per hour winds for about five hours," she said. "The snakes, the fire ants and the alligators are out."

The elements and wildlife have been challenging to the storm survivors.

"They are not only fighting the storm but the varmints as well," she said. "Some places are still flooded because the levies are down.

Nielsen said people with donations may call her office at 256-9599.

The list of needed items includes canned goods, bottled water, can openers, baby goods, baby bottles, trash bags, paper plates, medical supplies, juices, sanitary supplies, peanut butter, crackers, bedding, pillows.

At the present time no clothing is needed, according to Nielsen, who said food items need to be things that do not need to be heated or refrigerated.

Local elementary schools are also pitching in by having a food drive with the winning schools getting pizza parties.

Nielsen said that even though donations have been coming in, more is needed.

"Last year the total for all of our disasters was 184 million and the total of this disaster goes into the billions," she said, while noting that a relief effort is also being mounted in storm areas in Guam and war-torn areas in Bosnia.

Local students at Mt. Vernon Elementary sent out relief supplies Tuesday.

The school served as a collection point for food which was then taken to McAlpin in Lexington where it has been taken to the storm areas for the relief effort.

"This is a way they can help," said Loreta Powell, guidance counselor at the school. "Some did interviews with their parents to ask what was the worst storm they had lived through."

Powell said the food drive is from students' sympathy with the storm survivors because students had "seen it on the news." Powell said news coverage has stimulated the response as viewers have sympathy with the many families who lost everything in the hurricane.

Rockcastle jobless rate up slightly in June at 6 percent

Rockcastle's may jobless rate of 4.8 percent was the lowest in two years, but it took a 1.2 percent jump in June to 6 percent.

Total unemployment was 543 with 8,517 employed, out of a civilian labor force of 9,060.

The Rockcastle figures compares with 12.8 unemployed in June in Clay County and 10.7 in Jackson, the highest in the Corbin area.

In Loving Memory of Margaret Louise DeBorde Alcorn

1961 - 1991

Margaret was the daughter of Edward Green DeBorde of Mt. Vernon and Ina Ruth Woodall of Indianapolis, Indiana.

Margaret was the sister of Glenn Edward DeBorde of Mt. Vernon and Timothy Lee DeBorde also of Mt. Vernon. She is also survived by her husband Fred Alcorn of Mt. Vernon.

Margaret passed from this life on August 7, 1991 as a result of six close range gun shot wounds she received while at work at the Family Dollar Store in London, Kentucky in an ambush style shooting.

Margaret was killed by someone she had never met

Margaret is gone, but she will never be forgotten by her family and friends and to all those who knew her, she will be sadly missed.

Margaret was a member of the Body of Christ at Walnut Grove Church of Christ.

Even though Margaret is no longer with us, I know in my heart she is in a much better place because she was right with the Lord.

Margaret now lives in paradise.

Tobacco crop

already been spent to control it.

The tab could be $25 million from the black shank, another fungus. Viruses carried by aphids could cripple both fungus diseases, Nesmith said.

But there was speculation last week that the crop would bring $900 million, perhaps $1 billion, at auction this fall. Nesmith and others are looking for an average year, maybe better, despite the problems.

The crop is expected to weigh in at 700 million pounds, up 50 million pounds from 1991.

"The crop is a big one and appears to be a pretty good quality crop," said John Berry, president of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association in Lexington.

"It's been the wettest summer in my memory. Tobacco that grows fast in wet conditions has a tendency to be thinner and lighter. But this tobacco's swifly big. The leaves are long, stalks are tall, and I think we'll have a heavy crop overall," said Berry of New Castle.

But the heavy crop means crowded barns, which could cause rotting and "house burn" as the burley hangs to cure, said Gary Palmer, an agronomist at the University of Kentucky. "Even in the areas where we have good crops, we still could lose some in the barns," he said.

That is just part of the mix when trying to predict what the market will hold for farmers.

Dalmations!? Please return them home are alive and I hope they are well. But I suspect that they are stolen.

Kidnapped is a much more appropriate description. But according to the law, when dogs get taken, they are stolen. I speculate that my dogs are kidnapped because they are pretty friendly and I believe that they have the kind of personality kidnapers go for.

They don't have any utility except to be man's best friend. The best thing they do is hang around and keep us loving company. And the best thing they'll ever accomplish is hanging around me and Loreta and our kids and love us the way that we love them.

And God knows that we love them. We've put out more than a hundred posters and, as I said before, we've called everybody we know.

But even though we live among the finest neighbors in the world, we also live among the vilest thieves. Almost everybody we have talked with has been hit by those thieves too. Almost everybody can name them by name.

We know who the thieves are. All of us can put our fingers on them and almost all of us have told the police and sheriff's deputies who they are. The tax dollars we spend for police protection would be much better spent by burning them to warm the homeless as far as I'm concerned. And the judges who consistently let those crooks off the hook could use part of their big salaries to feed the friends they find so conveniently to befriend. We'd still be paying for it. What's that old saying about thieves among thieves???

Wouldn't it be nice to corner the whole darn bunch in the courthouse? Close all the doors and just lock it up? You know it would and I know it would and I'm probably in trouble for making the suggestion. But heck, I stay in trouble all the time.

But I'll keep driving around callin' my dog's names at night. I'm not telling you their names just yet. Because I can prove ownership by calling them. And there's still a chance that my dogs haven't become a part of the criminal industry.

If you've seen a couple of Dalmations, please call 792-2093 and if they're our's I promise we'll make it worth your while.

If they've just shown up on your place and you thought the prudent thing to do was tie them up, please keep 'em right where they're at and I'll come running and pay you well for their keep.

And I'll apologize if you felt like you were being called a thief in this column. Not only apologize, but I'll pay you the feed bill because these dogs are big eaters and I'll pay you for your trouble.

I just want my buddies back --- please call if you've seen them. Thanks!

Protective Parenting

By: Ginny Gilpatrick

As I opened the birthday gifts sent me by my three children last week, the nature of each one struck me as symbolic. It is not that they each perceive me as a different person, but they each latch on to a particular aspect of me with which they still bond.

Karen, a full time graduate student at New Mexico State, sent me a shirt with the school's logo. She knows I am taking yet another course at EKU this fall and identifies with that. Bonnie, an avid body builder, sent me a workout outfit to encourage my efforts at Brodhead Fitness Center a few times per week. Then my son Ken and his wife sent me an album of photos of my one and only grandson. So I am "student," "athletic," and "grandmother" to my children, just as all parents play multiple roles.

Parenting is a complex business. Our children expect us to be nurse, counselor, entertainer, banker, lawyer, chauffeur, valet... there is no end. One thing is certain: whatever we are to our children while they are growing up they will accept as "normal." If we read, they see reading as a normal way to occupy leisure time and are likely to enjoy the habit. If we put emphasis on material possessions, or work hard, or scream, or extend kindness to others, or overeat, or exercise, or smoke marijuana, or go to church, our children will be likely to do the same.

Parents are models for their children for better or for worse. We might all learn a valuable lesson from thinking about the gifts our children give us because these gifts are reflections of the way we are perceived... or perhaps the way our children would like to see us. Just as my workout suit might encourage me, just a little, to stay fit, so might the gift of a rose encourage one's sweet nature. If our children's gifts or words gently mold us to become the model they intuitively want or need we must cherish the message.

Suggestions for preventing illegal teenage drinking

By: Barbara Babb, R.N., B.S.N.

Every year, I talk about the subject of drinking and drunk driving, face-to-face, with nearly 50,000 students at more than 100 high schools and colleges across the country.

As a parent and nurse, I ask these youth to respect the laws of this country and their own common sense -- both of which indicate that while drinking can be acceptable for responsible adults, it is not acceptable for kids. I also ask them -- that if they make the first mistake of drinking -- they will please not make the subsequent mistakes of driving or of riding with a friend who's been drinking.

Students tend to listen to their messages, for several reasons. For one, I don't "lecture" them. I communicate my points in the context of easy to remember phrases -- whose job took me to the scenes of serious traffic crashes, where too often the common themes were teenagers, drinking and tragedy. I also show students graphic photographs of what happened to their peers when they decided to take unnecessary risks.

The result? Students are impressed with a surfer sense of their own mortality -- a clearer picture of their personal responsibilities, and of the consequences of their choices.

Final Notification of FmHA's Findings of No Practicable Alternative to a Floodplain Impact and No Significant Environmental Impact

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) has received an application for financial assistance from the Rockcastle County Water Association, Inc., SA# KY 910808-0916. The specific elements of this proposed action is the construction of 18.82 miles of 3,4, and 6-inch waterlines to serve the Climax, Three Links, Orlando, and Brush Creek areas of Rockcastle County.

FmHA has assessed the potential environmental impacts of this proposed action and determined that the location of the waterline would impact the 100-year floodplain. It has been determined that there is no practicable alternative to avoid this impact. The basis of this determination is as follows:

- The floodplain will be impacted by the location of the waterline in some areas.
- The waterline must be located in the floodplain in order to serve the proposed customers.
- All practicable mitigation measures have been agreed to by the applicant.
- The proposed action conforms to applicable state and local floodplain protection standards.
- The Appalachian Regional Commission is also participating in this project.

FmHA has also determined that the proposed action will not significantly affect the quality of the human environment and will not prepare an environmental impact statement.

Any written comments regarding these determinations should be provided within 15 days of this publication to Ms. Mary Ann Baron, State Director, Farmers Home Administration, 771 Corporate Drive, Suite 200, Lexington, Kentucky 40503-5477. Visitors to Renfro Valley up 30% this year

By: George Ferrell

Renfro Valley is now in its third year of operation as a country music performance center and crafts and arts concern.

Administrator Linda Green says the valley is doing well and that visitors are up 30 percent over last year.

"She says that although Renfro Valley is beginning to attract large crowds they have yet to see many local people turn out."

Many local folks have yet to venture to the valley, Green said she would like for them to consider trying to shop locally before going out of town.

Many items which people travel to Richmond or London for can be found in the small shops in the valley at a competitive price.

Renfro Valley is composed of the two performance barns and a variety of small shops.

There is plenty to attract local people, according to Green, who said that the shops have a number of unique products as well as ordinary products which are priced competitively.

"There's something for everyone," she said. "Jewelry, clothing, tapes and records and the prices are reasonable."

One unique shop is Arts Unlimited, a crafts shop operated by Deanna Hensen of Louisville.

The shop includes Hensen's banana art (fascinating items made from dried bananas), jewelry, trawls, cosmetics and real and costume jewelry.

"The crowd just continues to pick up all the time," Hensen said.

She has opened her shop for two months but thinks now is the time to expand.

Hensen compares Renfro Valley with Daniel J. Ventrone, Judge of the Rockcastle Circuit Court in the Circuit Courtroom, Mt. Vernon, on the 16th day of June, 1991, for service on the petit jury for and during a session of the Rockcastle Circuit Court to begin on September 3, 1992.

Sharon and Gene McFall run both the gristmill and the Designers Apparel and Fashions and Gifts. They also operate Old Joe Clark's, a fast food operation that offers hamburgers and other food in a hurry.

There is also a Holiday/Christmas Shop and a Crafts Cabin and the Country Store.

The store, which is owned by Renfro Valley, often sees performers drop by after shows to sign autographs.

Terry Jones, the manager, says the store has a wide selection of country, bluegrass and gospel tapes.

"We've got the hottest country tapes, gospel, traditional and a lot of the older entertainers that performed years ago," she said. "We've also got all of the top 40 (country)."

Jones said the tapes are reasonably priced at $9.98 per tape.

The store also has postcards, "juice" harps, strings, jewelry, souveners, cowboy hats, purses, books on music, sheet music and song books and children's music.

By: Lu Ed Nielsen

As of September 1, 1992 the Rockcastle Emergency Assistance Program was closed due to the lack of operating funds and lack of food.

At this time it is expected to be sometime in October before money will be available for food. Operating expenses are provided through private donations.

I would like to thank First Baptist Church of Mt. Vernon, the Mt. Pleasant Baptist, Buckeye Christian, Broadhead Christian, and Mt. Vernon Pentecostal Church, Wildie Christian Church, the Church of the Nazarene, Our Lady of Mt. Vernon Catholic Church, Flat Rock Baptist, Mt. Zion Baptist, Climax Christian Church, the Maple Grove Baptist Church, for their regular donations. I would like to thank the various Sunday School classes and Homemakers groups for their contributions. The individuals and businesses who have supported us are deeply appreciated.

We served over 900 people this last fiscal year and gave out food for almost 17,000 meals. As soon as we get money to operate on and enjoy food we will reopen our doors. I can be reached at 256-3217. Lu Ed Nielsen

Fall concert at Renfro Valley causes deluge at ticket office

When Renfro Valley announced its fall concert series, representatives of the entertainment complex anticipated good response from area music fans. But calls to the box office exceed even their most optimistic projections.

"It's been wild," says Connie Hunt, vice president of guest services. "We knew our lineup of stars was great and we added staff on phone lines and ticket terminals to handle the rush. But the volume of calls surprised even us," she added.

What advice does Ms. Hunt have for area residents who are hoping to see Highway 101 on Sept. 20; Conway Twitty on Oct 18; Patty Loveless and Marty Brown on Nov. 8 or Joe Diffie on Nov. 22 in concert at Renfro Valley? "Don't wait!", she says. "Tickets for every concert in the series are going fast. And please be patient with us. We're answering calls just as quickly as we can."

With tickets to the fall concert series going fast, what are the chances for good seats? "Excellent," says Pete Stamper, vice president of entertainment.

Stamper said "Our new barn was designed so there's not a bad seat in the house. Whether you're sitting from any side of the balcony or on either side of center, the visibility and sound are excellent," he said.

Two concerts will be held on each date, one at 2 p.m. and a second performance at 6 p.m. The Renfro Valley box office is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The phone number is 606-256-2638. Call early.

Rodeo time again

More than one hundred cowboys and cowgirls will bring a taste of the Old West to Renfro Valley for two nights of exciting rodeo action.

On Sept. 25 and 26, some of the top professionals in the country will compete for points and purses in a rodeo sanctioned by the International Professional Rodeo Association and co-sponsored by Pepsi.

Events scheduled for this weekend of fast-paced action include: saddle bronc riding, bareback riding, bull riding, steer wrestling, calf roping, barrel racing and specialty acts to please young and old alike. Among the competitors to watch are: Ann Hyde, ranked second in the world in barrel racing; S.L. Pemberton, 1990 World Champion bull rider and Chuck VanKern, third in the world in, bareback riding.

These contenders will compete at the September event in hopes of earning Yes, there was Bill Clinton when our young men were fighting in Vietnam.

Think about it dear parents. He does not deserve to be President of the U.S. and send our boys to war when he would not serve his country.

Dear Editor,

Let me first introduce myself. I am Perry LaFavers, Circuit Court Clerk of Russell County. Recently, the Circuit Court Clerk's Association held a Conference at Renfro Valley. I had never had an opportunity to attend the Country Music Show before. I had a wonderful overnight stay and enjoyed the show very much. Extremely good hospitality was displayed to all of us attending.

I have known your Circuit Court Clerk in Rockcastle County, Denver Miller, for a number of years. He is a very honest gentleman who works hard everyday for the people of your county. He worked very hard in setting up the convention for us to make it a success and brought money and commerce to Rockcastle County.

Let me close by saying, thank you very much Rockcastle County for being so nice and cordial to all of us Circuit Court Clerks of Kentucky.

Sincerely,
Perry LaFavers, Clerk
Russell County

Dear Editor,

I must say that I whole-heartedly agree with the lady last week. We pay our water bill also and hardly ever have any water to use. We had the same problem last summer, so drought cannot be the problem. I'm tired of having to schedule my life around the hours that we might have some water. If I get any laundry done, it has to be done early in the day. Forget canning, the water is done off.

There is a humanistic, liberal

And if you work late, you don't get a bath until the next morning. If we boiled our water every time it was off, we would be boiling it all the time. I think we have been patient long enough. I would like to have something done now.

Dear Editor,

I would like to pass on a little information to the general public.

A few months ago, in this newspaper, a representation of social services, during one of their reports went to great lengths to explain why they have a legal right to come into your home at their discretion any time they want to. Not so.

The Alabama Court of Appeals has just ruled that in fact according to the terms in the 4th amendment, they do not have that right.

In the past, social services could come into people's homes with no more than an anonymous tip on a hot line, take their children for days at a time, telling the parent it wasn't none of their business where their children were. The children could be subjected to interrogation by counselors, therapists and psychologists and a lot of other fruit cakes and if it turned out that the charges were false there was nothing they could do about it; no apology for the mental and emotional stress caused to the child who was screaming to go home, to its parents. Well, that may change.

Historically, all tyranny in the world, take their children for days at a time, telling the parent it wasn't none of their business where their children were. The children could be subjected to interrogation by counselors, therapists and psychologists and a lot of other fruit cakes and if it turned out that the charges were false there was nothing they could do about it; no apology for the mental and emotional stress caused to the child who was screaming to go home, to its parents. Well, that may change.

The Roman Catholic Church had their Jesuits, the Nazi's had their gestapo, our government has given us social services to be society's watch dog, to make sure the rest of us don't rebel against the system.

With social services' interaction with the school system, the health programs, abuse centers, and other state funded agencies, there is no privacy anymore. A child could say something at school that would cause eyebrows to raise, and cause an investigation.

There is a humanistic, liberal movement in this country to create a socialist state that will dictate to us the politically correct and socially acceptable way to think and live. The Hillary Clinton ideology and the whole liberal agenda is to redefine the family, the home and reprogram the children against our Christian bigotry. How dare we teach our children that Homosexuality is a sin, that abortion is murder, and pre-marital sex is a sin. After all this is the 90's. We've made leaps and bounds in education. We're much more intelligent than our forefathers, and the world is changing. Surely God has changed His mind about some things. Right? Wrong!!
