PART IV
Executive Summary

PART IV - EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The 1991-92 school year was a year of program expansion and continued implementation of the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA) requirements. Extensive professional development, designed to inform and assist staff with the successful implementation of KERA, was a major focus for the year. All stakeholders in the district continue to work as a team to comply with the KERA mandates and directives. 1991-92 was a year of transition for the Rockcastle County School District.

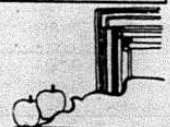

Primary accomplishments of the Rockcastle County School District for the 1991-92 school year are:

- Continued implementation of the District Strategic Plan.
 - Curriculum Development
 - Improved Facilities
 - Commitment from all Stakeholders
- Continued participation in the Effective Schools Process.
- Sustained a very high attendance rate - 96.2 for the District and improved the dropout rate.
- Opened one of the first Family Resource/Youth Services Centers in the state.
- Conducted a very comprehensive staff development program which emphasized writing, primary school and other reform components.
- Leadership training programs were conducted for the administrative staff and Board members; included participation in the Institute for the 21st Century (Rockcastle County one of ten (10) districts selected in the state).
- Compliance with the mandates/requirements of the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA).

The following goals have been established for the 1992-93 school year:

- To continue with the successful implementation of KERA.
- To continue with the implementation of the District Strategic Plan.
- Involvement in a Secondary School Restructuring Program.
- Sustain a high attendance rate and lower the dropout rate.
- Continue with the Effective Schools initiative.
- Maintain a quality professional development program.
- Plan for an innovative and progressive middle school education program to be implemented in the 1994-95 school year.
- To significantly improve the performance of our students on the new Performance Based Assessment.
- Inform and involve the parents and community as we continue with all school improvement efforts.

MISSION STATEMENT: The mission of the Rockcastle County Schools is to develop students who have the knowledge and basic life skills to lead productive, fulfilling lives; therefore, we must create a positive, educational environment which requires a well-defined curriculum, appropriate facilities, and a total commitment from school personnel, students, parents, and community.

Administrative Personnel "Connect" Resources

The Director of Student Services for Rockcastle County Schools, Larry B. Hammond works with a variety of personnel and agencies to insure students receive the greatest quantity and the highest quality services available to students today.

Mr. Hammond works closely with Ms. Jeannine Parsons R.N., the district wide school nurse. In addition to working with the school personnel in regard to health issues, open communication is maintained to the county health department and other agencies with this concern as their primary focus.

Related to health issues, Title V, Federal Grant monies that are to be utilized in an effort to promote a drug free lifestyle for the students of Rockcastle County. Open communication is maintained between the Advisory Council for Title V, the principals, Family Resource/Youth Service Centers, the DARE officer, the other school personnel and interested community members in an effort to establish an effective drug prevention program.

Extended School Service (ESS) is another area of concern for Mr. Hammond. The additional funds received by Rockcastle County School for these services are a direct result of KERA.

The Rockcastle County Family Resource/Youth Services Centers (FR/YSC) and Advisory Council for the centers work in conjunction with Mr. Hammond to coordinate all services currently provided in the county. The funding for these centers was also made possible by KERA.

Mr. Hammond, along with other central office staff, work diligently with the Rockcastle County Literacy Council and members of the community to promote literacy efforts in the county.

Attendance is of the utmost importance and a primary concern for Mr. Hammond. A collaborative effort, involving teachers, principals, counselors, FR/YSC staff, Court Designated Workers, District Judges, Community agencies, parents and Mr. Hammond, works toward the goal of sustaining good attendance for Rockcastle County Schools.

Glen VanWinkle, Director of Transportation and Facilities Management. Richard L. Bray, Director of Administrative Services.

School bus transportation is an integral part of the Rockcastle County School System. The first and highest priority is the safe delivery of students to and from school. The second priority is an efficient and effective transportation.

Rockcastle County has 47 buses on the road each day. The buses travel over 3,000 miles daily and 500,000 miles annually. Keeping the buses rolling is a never-ending job for Glen VanWinkle, Director of Transportation. His duties include: Operates and administers the pupil transportation program in compliance with state laws, regulations, and board policies; routes and schedules all school buses according to guidelines established by state and local regulations; maintains safety standards in conformance with state, local, and insurance regulations; develops and administers a transportation program to meet all the requirements of the daily instructional program and extra-curricular activities; approves and coordinates the use of all board owned vehicles for extra-curricular trips in accordance with state and local policies; plans and conducts required driver training and in-service; checks road conditions regarding school closings; supervises an efficient and effective vehicle maintenance program.

The public is urged to observe all traffic rules and regulations to help us ensure the safety of our children.

While working as Director of Administrative Services, Richard Bray assists the Superintendent's office in the Superintendent's absence.

Many of Mr. Bray's duties include implementing and supervising the total business operations of the entire school district in addition to maintaining all personnel, payroll and certification records.

In his capacity as treasurer to the Rockcastle County Board of Education, Mr. Bray maintains continuous auditing of all board funds, is responsible for investments portfolios, school revenue bonds, and attends applicable meetings and conferences in regard to the total business operations of the schools.

Larry Hammond, Director of Student Services and E. J. Smith, Food Service Director.

As Food Service Director, E.J. Smith works with all five schools in Rockcastle County. We are centralized, as all monetary funds are handled through the Food Service office. Therefore, all disbursements for food, supplies, equipment and salaries are handled by the Central Office Food Service Department.

As director, Mr. Smith purchases everything through his office. The designated person in each school gives him orders for their school and all sales persons from the grocery supply companies contact his office to receive their orders. Mr. Smith purchases equipment, as needed, and has the equipment repaired when necessary.

In order that federal and state monies will be received to fund our program, a combined reimbursement report for the central office is sent to the Kentucky Department of Education in Frankfort. Without the reimbursement monies, we could not function.

Mr. Smith also works with safety in the county schools by helping the principals with keeping records and reports "up-to-day" and submitting required reports to Frankfort. Mr. Smith stays knowledgeable on safety rules and regulations by conducting professional development training for employees, both certified and classified.

Instructional Supervisor and Special Education Director, Shelby Reynolds, with a staff of three, coordinates and supervises the development and implementation of several programs and curriculum strategies throughout the Rockcastle School System. Utilizing state, federal and grant funding, Mr. Reynolds' department includes instructional programs K-12; Special Education, Early Childhood and Gifted Education, Chapter II and Title II programming, professional development, technology and textbook adoption. As a driving force behind grant appropriations, Mr. Reynolds works in concert with staff and faculty to provide the necessary tools and materials which enable our students to surpass former expectations.

Claudinnia B. Cash, District Supervisor; H. Allen Pensol, Basic Arts Coordinator.

Ms. Claudinnia B. Cash, a District Supervisor, works not only with Chapter 1, but is involved with Primary School, Assessment and Basic Arts. She works with a support staff of 35. This includes teachers, librarian, counselor, Basic Arts Coordinator and instructional assistants.

The role of supervisor was changed with the implementation of the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA). Many decisions previously made at the district level are now handled at each individual school. The main focus toward student improvement has changed with the setting of higher standards. This important challenge of raising standards for student achievement is aimed at creating a system that will set world-class standards of quality for all students.

Mr. Allen Pensol, Basic Arts Coordinator, is interested in the portion of the new 1992-93 assessment which addresses Arts and Humanities. Our students will be evaluated in the Visual Arts, Music, Productions, Analysis of Forms, Aesthetic, Cultural Heritage, Cultural Diversity and Language.

MT. VERNON ELEMENTARY SCHOOL PROFILE

Primary School - A Part of the Total Team

We are entering our second year of Primary School at Mt. Vernon Elementary. We are looking forward to expanding last year's program.

To help with new plans for this year, a Primary Program Action Plan Committee was formed. The group consists of teachers, parents and administrators. They planned for our teachers to again have training in the areas of collaborative teaching, management of multi-age classrooms and cooperative learning techniques, all necessary components of the Primary Program.

One important feature of our Primary Program is that it allows teachers within a cluster to regroup for reinforcement or enrichment to meet the individual needs of the students. This regrouping is an on-going process.

Community/parental involvement plays an important role in our Action Plan. We would like to expand on the involvement we already have with parent volunteers, PTA, work on committees, etc.

Our Action Plan reflects recent changes in education in line with the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA). Our teachers will formulate working portfolios for each student with more emphasis on writing/thinking skills. There will be changes in the ways we assess or evaluate student progress. No longer will our students only be asked to answer multiple choice type questions. They will be asked to write out explanations to reflect thinking skills.

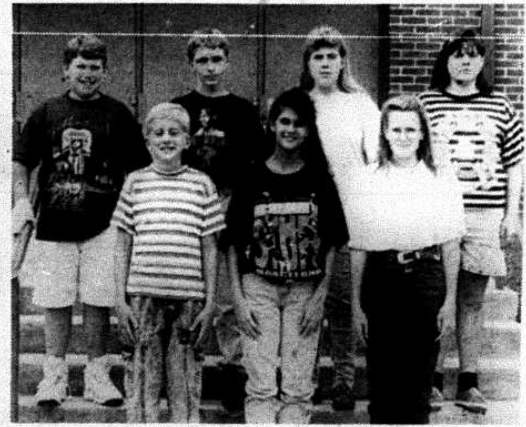

To help in carrying out our plan, we have several new staff members, including four instructional assistants, one for each of our primary clusters. They are: Kim Childress, Becky Griffin, Carolyn Griffin and Thana Connelly. We also have two student teachers, Julie Asher and Beverly Harrison.

JOSEPH BALDWIN ACADEMY-- These 7th and 8th grade students have qualified for participation in the Joseph Baldwin Eminent Young Scholars Program, based at NE Missouri State U. The students scored at or above the 97th percentile on the Total Battery of the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills on either the 90-91 or 91-92 test. Top photo - 8th graders: Matt Chaliff, Bethanie Hammond, Katie Wilson, Angie Lawless, Becky Lawhorn. Bottom photo - 7th graders, front row: Justin Thomas, Crystal Childress, Nikki Whitaker. Back row: Chad Silvers, Dusty McClure, Xylena Prater and Melissa Cromer.

Duke U. Talent Identification Program

The above students have qualified for involvement in the Duke University Talent ID Program. Students must have scored at or above the 97th percentile on a standardized achievement, aptitude or mental ability test with national norms during the 90-91 or 91-92 school year. Students are, front row, from left: Crystal Carpenter, Joy Howard, Melissa Cromer. Second row: Stacy Mullins, Xylena Prater, Heather Bray, Cherie McHargue, Nikki Whitaker. Third row: Josh Bray, Justin Thomas, Christy Mink, Crystal Childress, Holly Machal. Fourth row: Chad Silvers, Dusty McClure, Matthew Sowder, Cory Bailey, Aatish Patel.

MVES Student Council Elected

Our new 7th and 8th grade Student Council members have been elected by their fellow classmates. They are, front row: Justin Thomas, Heather Bray, Nikki Whitaker, Arthur Bailey. Back row: Amy Tolle, Angie Lawless, Malcolm Shepherd and Matt Chaliff, president. The Student Council's major responsibility is to help make decisions about school activities, including class trips, graduation, school programs, etc. This year, they have reviewed our Student Handbook.

Forward in the Fifth Local Affiliates

Forward in the Fifth was formed in 1986 to address the fact that Kentucky's Fifth Congressional District had the highest percentage of adults without a high school education. Forward in the Fifth's Board embraced a broad agenda, including improving school attendance, reducing dropout rates, improving science and math instruction, increasing the percentage of high school graduates who go to college, increasing the level of parental involvement in schools and raising the expectations of students, teachers and communities concerning academic achievement of students. Kentucky was redistricted in 1991 and the Fifth District has changed. Forward in the Fifth continues to work in its original 27 counties and is currently expanding to include 12 new counties that are now a part of the Fifth District. The founders realized that the most effective strategy for achieving these goals would be to harness the energy and talents of local people. It did this through the formation of Local Affiliates.

A Local Affiliate is a group of individuals who identify needs in their local schools. Local Affiliates strive to meet those needs through sponsoring programs and activities that benefit all school systems in their counties. Many of these programs are developed by the "parent" Forward in the Fifth organization, but Local Affiliates are also encouraged to develop and implement their own programs at the local level. Affiliates are basically autonomous in that members decide how the local organizations are governed, and what activities the organization will sponsor or participate in.

There are only two basic requirements for an organization to become an Affiliate of Forward in the Fifth: It must have a letter of support from the school superintendent of each school system in the county, and it should be composed of a cross-section of the community that includes parents, civic leaders, educators and business people.

Forward in the Fifth provides several kinds of support and assistance to Local Affiliates. It has a full-time Local Affiliate Coordinator, Mary Roenker, who maintains contact with each organization and provides them with technical assistance such as meeting facilitation techniques or fundraising strategies. It also provides some financial assistance for each Affiliate. First, is a matching grant program that provides up to $1,500 per year to match funds raised locally. This matching grant cycle runs from June 1, to May 31 of each year. To receive matching funds, an Affiliate needs to send a letter describing the methods used to raise the money along with a bank statement or deposit slip certifying that the funds are in place. The second opportunity is an Attendance Grant Program in which Affiliates can submit a proposal letter requesting $500 to be used to implement a local attendance incentive program. Neither the attendance grants, nor the matching grants are competitive processes; any Affiliate who applies will receive the grants.

The remaining grant opportunity is a competitive process. Forward in the Fifth awards three $500 grants each year to Affiliates for exemplary parental involvement programs. An Affiliate can develop a county-wide program, or submit a proposal written by one of its local schools or teachers. The deadline is usually in September. Additional details are mailed to Affiliate leaders at the beginning of the school year.

Forward in the Fifth also provides an opportunity for Affiliates to network and share ideas through District-wide meetings twice a year. Both the Attendance Improvements and Parental Involvement Grants are awarded at these meetings. A major portion of these meetings is devoted to sharing from Affiliate people so that participants can learn what is happening in other counties so they can perhaps replicate an idea or program in their own county.

An evaluation of Forward in the Fifth and its Affiliates showed that the following factors contribute to the overall success of an Affiliates strong internal leadership, support of the Affiliate by local business, the economic vitality of the community, a strong relationship between Affiliate membership and the local school administration, and an appropriate organizational structure.

Camp at Pine Mountain Environmental Center

Several students and teachers from Mt. Vernon Elementary School were privileged to participate in a week-long on-campus environmental seminar at Ludlow, Ky. The topics taught were native Americans, streams, trees, birds, early settlers and crafts. Everyone really enjoyed the interesting presentations, the mountain hikes, dormitory life and the bus ride to and from the Camp. Everyone really enjoyed the delicious food at the dining room and the fact that they could have all they could eat. The students who attended were: Jonathan Blackburn, Jenia Davidson, Jesse Croucher, Matthew Muncy, Bobby Rose, Victor James, Andy Lewis, Jim Owens, Michael Munch, Michael Kerns, Jesse Bugg, Raymond Blackburn, Cody and Courtney Alexander. Mr. Singleton was the bus driver who took the group to camp. Mr. Singleton had Mrs. Dean Singleton and Mrs. Louise Kirby to assist him as chaperone and guides. The teachers who attended the seminar were: Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alexander, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Roark and Jon Smith.

Candidates for judge on ballot

Two candidates will oppose each other in the Nov. 3 election for Circuit Judge of the 28th Judicial Circuit.

They are incumbent William T. Cain and Commonwealth Attorney Benny Ham, both of Somerset.

Attorney Ham has been a prosecutor for 13 years in the 28th Circuit, and has practiced law for 16 years. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and Louisville Law School.

Judge Cain has been District Judge for over 8 years and has practiced law in Somerset since 1968. He is a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Law and a Pulaski County native.

He was appointed Circuit Judge by Gov. Breton Jones in August this year to serve until the November election. The new judge will serve for six years of an 8 year term or until circuit judges run again.

The Governor has not chosen a District Court Judge to replace Cain.

Seniors do well on achievement test

By: Richard Anderkin
Managing Editor
Rockcastle County students fared as well as most of the students in Kentucky on the first component of last year's achievement tests, which will reflect how effective the changes brought about by the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA) were during their first year in Kentucky schools.

"Basically we are pleased with KERA and our students did comparably well with the rest of the state," said Rockcastle's testing supervisor, Claudina Cash.

"Of course we don't have anything to compare these scores with, that will come next year and that is when we will know how effective our new teaching methods are and how well our children are progressing," she said.

In this particular component of Rain forces officials inside for school groundbreaking

By: George Ferrell

Groundbreaking ceremonies for the new high school were held in the old high school's library Friday morning as the weather did not cooperate with the planned outdoor proceedings.

Big W. Towery, Jr., Superintendent welcomed and introduced the dignitaries to the small crowd at the opening noting that the class of 1994-95 was in attendance to participate in the ceremonies.

"I want to welcome you to this ceremony," Towery said. "We were on the site yesterday and concluded how beautiful the site was."

He called the groundbreaking an "exciting event" that "symbolizes the vision of a progressive nature of this community."

Towery recalled the board making initial plans for the new school in January of 1990 as the strategic planning committee emphasized "upgraded and better facilities for our students."

"Certainly this project addresses that goal," he said. "So this one project is going to take care of so many of our needs."

Towery noted that it will take two years to design the new curriculum for the students, and that it will help the local community.

"More jobs will be available for our kids if we have quality education in the county," he said.

Dr. John W. Thompson, deputy commissioner of the state department of education and Chief of Staff, addressed the group saying that "you can certainly see that the reform is in place." He commended the community and challenged the students to aim high in their goals.

"The school will be made up of all your talents," he said. "But most of all I challenge you to shoot for the stars."

Drop-out rate in county

By: George Ferrell

Rockcastle County Schools Superintendent Big W. Towery discussed recent census figures released on school dropouts for the local district Monday afternoon.

The figures were released and ran in the Lexington Herald-Leader and gave Rockcastle County a rate between 10 and 20 percent.

Towery said he had a difficult time understanding some of the figures because there are so many different ways to calculate the dropout rate.

He also said that a new method of calculation will go into effect this November as the state has hired a firm to calculate and track dropouts.

"Dropout rate statistics are very deceiving at times," he said. "It is a statistical thing — you can look at various sources."

Towery noted that the figures that ran in the Lexington paper reflected the number of young people ages 16 to 19 who were not in school or who had not graduated.

Larry Hammond, director of students services, has calculated the rate for the 91-92 school year at 2.22 percent, according to Towery, who said that rate is the percentage of students who drop out from the 7th to the 12th grades.

Even at that, according to Towery, the "statistic doesn't really tell you a whole lot." Towery said some students move and others enroll elsewhere and therefore, the statistics do not reflect an accurate rate.

"This year's annual performance report says there will be no reporting of dropout rates because the Kentucky Department of Education is revising the accounting for the dropout rate," Towery said.

The current statistical models used to calculate the rate all have flaws, according to Towery.

"Certain students get identified as dropouts when they have enrolled in another state," he said.

Right now emphasis is placed on keeping potential dropouts in school and a parent must come to the school when the child is between 16 and 18 years old to sign before they can drop out.

A young person must be 16 before they are allowed to dropout through parental permission.

"We would try to talk to the parent and say let's try to keep your kid in school," he said. "We try to give it that last effort."

In 1990, according to Towery, one 7th grader dropped out who was 16 years old and this counted on the rate for 7th through 12th grades.

A payroll tax was tabled by the Mt. Vernon City Council at a called meeting Monday night along with nonprofit tax and earned income taxes.

The vote was 4 to 1 to table the payroll tax. Councilwoman Lou Vanhose abstained. Councilman Bob Bailey did not attend the meeting.

The vote came after Mayor Gary R. Cromer told the council the payroll tax would be an "overkill."

"What we need right now is a quick fix and I believe we can improve our financial position without added taxes..."

The mayor cited the taxes owed by Renfro Valley on its ticket tax that has been in Madison County Court in a suit against the city. He said the case has been referred back to Rockcastle District Judge William T. Cain. If Judge Cain rules for the city it could be a substantial amount, the mayor said.

He also disclosed that RECC has never paid its 3 percent franchise tax which would whittle down the $22,000 deficit in the city's general fund. By law, cities must have a balanced budget.

The mayor also disclosed that at the end of 10 years the UDAG money the city loaned to CD&R Investments at Renfro Valley will bring in about $6,000 annually.

In long range, the city may be in a financial bind again by next June when a new budget will be set. If so, an insurance premium tax will likely be on the agenda.

The mayor and council did not speculate on an amount. It would be set by the council at that time. It could be as much as 5 or 6 percent.

A petition opposing the payroll tax was presented to the council by Donnie Lunceford, a county employee. Mayor Cromer told him to leave it, but that the payroll tax was no longer an issue.

Chamber of Commerce president Glenn Miller started to talk but the mayor stopped him saying for the past few weeks Miller had made his feelings known by talking against the tax issue.

The mayor suggested if Miller were unhappy he should move into the city and run for office.

Councilman Clark Mullins told the standing room audience most cities were in financial difficulties and probably would continue to be. He said all cities are struggling to make ends meet. He also thanked the audience for attending the meeting.

In other business, the council voted to sign contracts with Brothead and Northern water districts to supply water at $1.07 per 1,000 gallons. Mt. Vernon water rate remains unchanged. Now, all water district are charged the same amount.

"That should make the state Division of Water happier," the mayor said. "It could open the door in the future for additional funding."

The council set the city tax rate at 15.8 cents per $100 assessed value

RTEC plans Saturday trip Festival plans

Rural Transit Enterprises' Board of Directors (RTEC) plans to start a bus route in Mt. Vernon beginning Saturday, Sept. 26, according to Shirley L. Cummins, executive director.

The bus will run from 9 a.m. to noon and will cost 50 cent each way.

"We hope it will increase downtown shopping and other activities," Mrs. Cummins said.

Persons wishing to use the bus should telephone, 256-9835 on Friday to be sure the bus will come to your area.

If the service is well received then a regular route can be set up without having to call in.

"Folks can spend a couple of hours downtown and it will be helpful now that the Christmas season is approaching."

Mt. Vernon's Bittersweet Festival will be for only one day this year — Saturday, Oct. 10.

The annual parade will be at 9:30. Entertainment begins at 11 a.m. There will be a Mother Goose Parade for children at 3 p.m.

Booths are from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Council for the Arts will have a skit at 6 p.m. Also Different Way gospel group will have a concert at 7 p.m., the Danners gospel group at 2 p.m., the Hilltop Stompers will entertain at 11 a.m. and Bittersweet Cloggers at noon.

Theresa Manis is in charge of arrangements for the festival.

Boil Water

A boil water advisory has been issued for all water users on the Livingston water system.

Residents have been advised to boil water for two minutes at a full rolling boil for cooking and drinking.

The advisory is in effect until further notice.

Weather

A total of 1.66 inches of rain has fallen in Mt. Vernon during September, according to figures at Cox Funeral Home.

Monday night and early Tuesday a total of 1.65 of an inch fell.

The high for the month to date was 87 on Sept. 10. The low was 48 on Sept. 12.

"It's couch potato time"

COMMENTARY
By: George Ferrell

Whether you've noticed or not football season has arrived. Yes, wives, this is the season of the couch potato, that lowly mass of quivering flesh that will sit in front of a TV every Sunday and Monday watching football until Valhalla arrives in the form of the Super Bowl.

Every year about this time I vow that I won't be sucked into the fray - that I won't not watch televised football, instead taking an interest in the games that I attend as a news journalist.

Well, I know it sounds funny, but if I don't try to hold back, it could easily take over my entire life.

Yes, Sundays could be just one long blur with an occasional beer commercial.

Monday nights would be a continuation, and a midnight rendezvous with a field goal finishes my delight.

Still, again, this year I plan to only get interested several weeks before the playoffs.

Why? Well, football is a popular pastime and I suppose that there's nothing immoral in watching TV... still, there are other things in life. I'll probably be caught up in it in several weeks, but, for now, I am limiting most (I did watch a few series on Monday night) of my watching to the real thing.

What is the real thing? It is football excitement in the flesh - attending games in other words.

Yes, I do have to cover high school football and I will cover an occasional college game this year.

That is really where the spirit of football is. It is the thrill of a Friday night as darkness closes in and the home team takes the field.

The high paid millionaires we see on TV don't know much about school spirit or playing just for the competitiveness of the game.

Some of the best football I have ever witnessed has been on the high school gridiron.

Sure the pros can just bowl people over and leap higher and run faster, but then those kids on Friday night sure play with a lot of spunk.

Many couch potatoes should try to get out and see a game every once in a while.

Wives? Maybe ask your hubby to take you to a local high school game -- see the real thing instead of video. Sure it won't have slow motion play but a true fan savors the crunch of shoulder pads and the sound of cheerleaders and the crowd.

As a journalist I have to report on many of the games.

One thing that invariably crosses my mind is that it's sad to have winners and losers. (Cont. to pg. A3)

DEAR JON: Some things you write I wouldn't say in the presence of my husband. They certainly don't show good taste.

DEAR MY: Pardon me. Honestly, occasionally after an article has gone to press, I wish I had said something a different way, or not at all. I have petitioned St. Scriptus, patron saint of would-be-journalists, requesting that I be imbued with at least a modicum of decorum. But, being a back-slidden Baptist may keep my supplication from getting through. Will you pray, too?

Some of my aberration, however, may be a side effect of a medication I'm taking called Storic. It is anti-digestant that helps writers stay on their subject, and once the right dosage is administered, one rarely ever employs gaudy language or multi-faceted nomenclature.

Storic, unfortunately, has a per-turbing side-effect: it actually enhances faults during the initial weeks of usage. One religious writer, having taken Storic for only a week, urged good folks to not only "resist the Devil" but to "throw the... down and stomp the... out of him!"

My physician, Dr. Asa Goodin, explained that I need to be on the medication at least ten weeks before we can tell if it is even the remedy for me. He said that works for one. He doesn't always work for another. I asked if that could also be true of religion. He said he doesn't deal with things that cannot be tested in a laboratory.

DEAR JON: Are you ever serious?

DEAR SERIOUS: Rarely, but now and then, and not for long, but always when the thirty-first of the month falls on Thursday. Several

Our daughter, Carol and her husband, Dana Deatherage, have decided to become parents so Carol is pregnant. The baby is due during the first week of January. So is my 44th birthday.

And the way my luck runs, the baby will come out of the womb yelling "Happy Birthday Grandpa." Which means they'll want me to buy it better presents than the average rug rat gets for Christmas and birthdays and they'll expect me to babysit more than normal all that year.

I'm having no luck at all in convincing my wife and the rest of the family that this new baby is not something I'm all that excited about. In the first place, I've been looking forward to a nice long break from this business of rearing children. In the second place, I'm not a dam bit thrilled about being called Grandpa at the tender age of 44.

Loretta is already crocheting and embroidering stuff that I call "Grandma's." She intends to fill in the blank day the baby is born as soon as she knows whether it's a boy or a girl. I know you can have these tests run to determine a baby's sex for months in advance, but I don't see why she would want to be "Surprised." And that's something I can't understand.

It has to be either a boy or a girl. What is there to be surprised about? One has just as good a chance as the other. It's not we're like running a lottery or raffish here. One looks at Carol's tummy and you know she's gonna have a baby. The only surprise they may get is twins. One of each, but that wouldn't surprise me one iota.

The way my luck has been running, triplets wouldn't surprise me. I can just hear Loretta on the phone, calling from the hospital.

"Honey you're never gonna believe this," she's going to yell and wait for me to ask what.

But I'm not going to do it. "Carol just had triplets," I'm gonna reply dully and matter-of-factly without a trace of surprise or enthusiasm. Silence for thirty seconds.

"How on earth did you know that?" Loretta is going to mutter. "The third one is just now coming out and I'm on a phone in the delivery room."

It's my birthday. "I'm gonna reply, 'I always get three ties that I didn't want or need on my birthday and since you haven't had time to do any shopping and since you're where you are...'"

The way my luck has been running, as soon as they're washed up, they'll throw their arms around each others' necks and sing Happy Birthday Grandpa in three part harmony.

The way I had this Grandpa business planned is still 15 years away. I thought it might be nice to have a couple of eight-year-olds around when I retire that I could teach to catch my nightcrawlers and weed my garden. To fetch me a cold glass of lemonade when they took breaks from mowing the grass, to fill my pipe with good Dutch tobacco and to sit on either side of my Lazy Boy recliner and suggest worshipfully, "Grandpa, tell us about the good ole days."

Ain't that the way it's supposed to work?

The way my luck has been running, when I retire on my birthday at age 65, I'll also have a great grandchild being born at the same time. I don't even want to talk about it.

I'm thinking about putting all children under the age of 12 to call me Mr. Adams until I'm in my late fifties. No matter what kin they are to me, I intend to say, "That's Mr. Adams to you kid" if they call me anything else.

I also intend to see if I can't get Dr. Phil Chul to prepare a written medical opinion stating that I am allergic to any and all forms of diapers.

In the meantime, Loretta is accus-

That takes me back to the old motto "It's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game." High school football epitomizes those words.

All the hard work, the self-discipline, and the bumps and bruises teach young men about giving it their all and playing with teamwork to attain a common goal (winning). Years ago one high school coach told me that many young men in rural areas would drop out of school if it weren't for football programs.

You, know, that really may be true. Sports programs provide the spice for many young men who are at times less than enthusiastic about school work.

I didn't play high school football

(my school did not have a program), but I can guarantee that basketball and baseball were an ultimate consideration for me when I was in high school.

I guess I'll forget a lot of things about high school, but the friends I made in sports and the way I learned about team work and making things happen are things that carry over into my everyday life even today.

So while you enjoy football Sunday afternoons and Monday evenings, try to support a local program. Those kids need your support and it means an awful lot to them to see the fans in the stands.

Well, that's about all for this week. Take in a ballgame if you can.

Circuit Clerk Denver Miller sets an example

Rockcastle County's Denver Miller was one of 45 circuit court clerks who gathered last week on the steps of the Capitol in Frankfort to set a good example for all Kentucky drivers. In a symbolic gesture, the clerks signed the backs of their driver's licenses and waved them in the air, demonstrating their support for organ donation.

"It is estimated that six people in the United States die each day waiting for an organ transplant," said Miller. "If more people signed an organ donor card and discussed their willingness for their organs to be donated upon death, many of these lives could be saved."

"We've supported the organ donor program for many years," said John Kearns, Harrison County clerk and president of the Kentucky Association of Circuit Court Clerks (KACC). "But we're about to step up our efforts for this worthy cause through an extensive, on-going public awareness campaign."

The goal of the campaign, which will officially begin in October, is to increase awareness regarding the need for organ donations and to increase the number of people who sign organ donor cards, such as the one on the back of Kentucky driver's licenses.

The program will be funded by voluntary contributions. Legislation during the 1992 Kentucky General Assembly session allows circuit court clerks to collect a dollar donation for this purpose when they renew their licenses. The clerk's association established the Trust For Life, a non-profit organization, to oversee the campaign.

"I'm glad to be part of this program," Miller added. "When you come to my office to renew your driver's license, I hope you'll make a donation to the Trust For Life so this campaign can be a huge success throughout Kentucky."

Lieutenant Governor Paul Patton,

seeing the clerks gathering on the capitol steps, stopped by and commended their efforts. Patton said he had long been a supporter of the program, and showed them the signed organ donor section of his driver's license.

Statewide research conducted by The Preston Group, a public relations and research firm in Lexington, indicated that the majority of people support organ donation, but often don't know how to sign up or simply forget.

Anyone having questions or concerns about organ donation may call 1-800-525-3456, a 24-hour toll-free line sponsored by Kentucky Organ Donor Affiliates.

Denver Miller, circuit court clerk for Rockcastle County, demonstrates his support for the Trust For Life by holding his signed driver's license during a recent gathering of clerks in Frankfort. The Trust For Life is the service project of Kentucky's circuit court clerks to increase awareness of the need for organ donations. All Kentucky driver's licenses have a space on the back for organ donation.

mutating everything a baby could possibly need until it starts school. There's a changing bed stashed in my office. We have a fancy crib bed and a baby car seat. Tonight she came in with a stroller that has a striking resemblance to a Volvo Station Wagon and apparently tests drive better than any vehicle we have on the place. She has a line on a high chair and some potty training devices. They'll be under our roof by the weekend.

So far though, she hasn't asked me to put it up a basketball goal or anything like that. Maybe she's waiting to see whether it's a boy or a girl or a weeks ago one of my articles was totally serious. Art Heaven, my Wabdin neighbor, said, "I liked that one. You should use humor more often."

DEAR JON NORMAN: I'm curious. Did any readers eat and suggest a first name for your cat, Kate?

DEAR CURIOUS: Yes and no. Unfortunately, a mistake was made. Instead of my two telephone numbers, the numbers that appeared in The Signal belonged to a radio station and a Chinese pharmacy, owned by a Mai-ti Chou Yung. He received several calls, including one from Sallie Sowler of Cincinnati who suggested "Rollers" as a first name. A local auctioneer of Scottish descent -- and a canine devotee -- Seamus E'jord, suggested a French name, "Fideaux." Others possibilities were "L" and "Dion." However, because the pharmacy was inundated with calls, I have named my cat for that profession: Medi Kate Meadows.

DEAR JON: When you taught religion in college, what version of the Bible did you use? I'm confused. When I asked my pastor, Rev. Bradley Hadley, he said, "Child, if the King James was good enough for Peter and Paul, it's good enough for me -- and you." He even said we should pray in King James. I get mixed up going that.

DEAR CONFUSED: So do I. I don't ordinarily use words like thou, couldst, thinkst, sinketh, and thuseith. I may end up smelling burning sulphur, but I gave up King James long ago. If we really want to speak the language of the Bible, we should learn ancient Hebrew, Aramaic, and street-talk Greek.

The King James Version of the Bible is the greatest book in the English language (especially the Book of Job), but it is not the best translation of the Bible. Not only are many of its terms outdated, some mean the opposite of what they meant in 1611.

I used several translations of the Bible when I prepared my lessons, and I used the Revised Standard Version in-class alongside the King James. I had my students to use The Living Bible in class. It is far more a paraphrase than it is a translation. It's too easy to read your own opinion into Scripture if you say "In other words..." And Ken Taylor, who wrote The Living Bible, does that often and actually distorts Scripture in his effort to make the Bible "easy reading." Some other English versions I recommend are: The New American Standard Bible, The New King James Version, The New English Bible, The Jerusalem Bible, The Amplified Bible, Today's English Version, and The Version Mary.

Until later, dear reader, remember the wisdom of Sir William of Hulde, that staunch advocate of church supporters and peccolous defender of railroad time, who looked up one day while shaming the mayor's shoes, and said, "Freedom from incrustations of grime is contiguous of divinity."

whole darn team, either of which events might have some bearing on the height of the goal and the size of the court.

All this would be ok with me because there's nothing wrong with helping the kids out and I can even understand Loretta not being annoyed at being called Mamaw at 43. But none of these goodies are being delivered to Carol's house. They are scattered throughout ours at strategic locations and they are not being shuffled from place to place. They are already becoming fixtures even though this baby is three and a half months away. By the time it arrives, I expect this paraphernalia to be bolted to the floors and walls.

By Thanksgiving, I expect every corner of every room in the house to be stacked from floor to ceiling with cases, not boxes, but cases with twelve boxes of disposable diapers in each of them.

"We'll just have to keep the baby here," my wife is going to be insisting.

And she may be right. I know for sure that when the time comes to move all this stuff to Stanford, I intend to be many miles away.

Fleming Panthers no match for Rockets, 28-7

With intensity and precise execution, the Rockcastle County Rockets proved too much for Fleming County on the road this past Friday as they crushed the Panthers, 28-7.

"I knew we had to have a really good game to beat them," Rocket's head coach Tom Larkey said earlier this week.

However, no one realized that the Rockets (now 3-1) would uproot a team that finished last year with a 9-1 record and returned this year with a top ten ranking and everyone back except a couple of players.

"I was shocked that we won as big as we did," said Larkey. "Nevertheless, I was very pleased," he added. Indeed, the Rockets wasted no time in laying their foundation as all-star J.D. Harris carried a 30 yard run in for the first score of the game midway through the first quarter. Kicker Greg Bowman's extra-point was good for the early 7-0 lead.

The Rockets' defense proved solid also, denying any big gain by Fleming and allowing the Rockets' offense key possession time to rush for 265 yards.

The Rockets scrambled in for their second touchdown with 7:23 left in the first half when Harris blasted through for a four yard carry. Bowman's kick ranged wide and the Rockets carried a 13-0 lead into intermission.

Though the Rockets had a nearly flawless first half, they also had a near catastrophe. Harris injured his knee on the first scoring drive of the game and, although, he did see playing time afterwards, a prognosis after the game led to torn ligaments in his right knee. As of now, Harris is listed as sidelined for Friday's confrontation with Leslie County in hopes that he will return to the field next week.

Nevertheless, Harris completed another successful drive by the Rockets with a 14 yard touchdown run midway through the third quarter. Bowman's kick was good to up the Rockets' lead to 20-0.

"We really played intense the whole game and cut down a lot of penalties," Larkey said. "Our boys got really fired up, they wanted a win bad."

Yet, up against a bigger and more physical Fleming team topped by two superb running backs, the Rockets boosted their final touchdown of the game. With 2:50 remaining in the third quarter, running back Mikhael Shaffer took a sweep around the right side for a 32 yard touchdown. A fake kick afterwards led to a two-point conversion pass by J.D. Bussell to Mike Tackett to give the Rockets a 28-0 lead.

Fleming managed their only score late in the fourth quarter on a two yard carry. Their extra-point attempt was good to finish the game, 28-7.

Offensively for the Rockets: J.D. Bussell had nine carries for 49 yards and seven pass attempts with no receptions and one two-point conversion pass; J.D. Harris had 11 carries for 64 yards and three touchdowns; Bobby Coffey had five carries for 25 yards and Mikhael Shaffer had 16 carries for 110 yards and one touchdown.

Defensively for the Rockets: Jason Hunt had one solo, five assists and one and a half sacks; Brian Mink had two solos, three assists and one and a half sacks; Stacey Kirby had two solos and two assists; Jay Stevens had two assists and one and a half sacks; Chris Goff had two solos, five assists, two sacks and one fumble recovery; Bobby Coffey had four solos, seven assists and one and a half sacks; Louie Davis had two assists; J.D. Bussell had one assist; Mikhael Shaffer had one solo and one assist; J.D. Harris had two solos, three assists and fumble recovery; Jason Kirby had one solo and nine assists; Mickey McClure had one assist and Greg Bowman had one solo.

The Rockets will meet Leslie County Friday at RCHS at 8 p.m. It is also homecoming for the Rockets.

Leslie County is returning this year with only half of the starters from last year. However, they are returning two running backs from last year and have a new quarterback (brother of last year's starter) who is almost as good. Leslie is 1-3 thus far this year.

In junior varsity action, the Rockets defeated McCreary Central, 12-0, Monday night at McCreary.

The Rockets scored their first touchdown in the first quarter on a 30 yard pass from Jamie Livville to Sherman Collins. Chris McHargue ran in the Rockets' other touchdown in the second quarter on a 10 yard fumble recovery.

Rockets vs. Panthers

By: Preston Parrett

The Rockets roared into Fleming County. Snarling Panthers were behind every tree. They were primed, cocked and ready to deny the Rockets a victory.

But the might Rockets Made Panther fur fly. As they controlled the scrimmage line And waltzed right on by.

The Panthers had the ball Were going on a drive, But the Rocks shook it loose And then began to jive.

Cannon Ball Bussell went up the middle For a first down or two, Humming Bird added the final touch Behind the Rocket line's wrecking crew.

Tearing up big chunks of yardage Cannonball and Coffey blasted away.

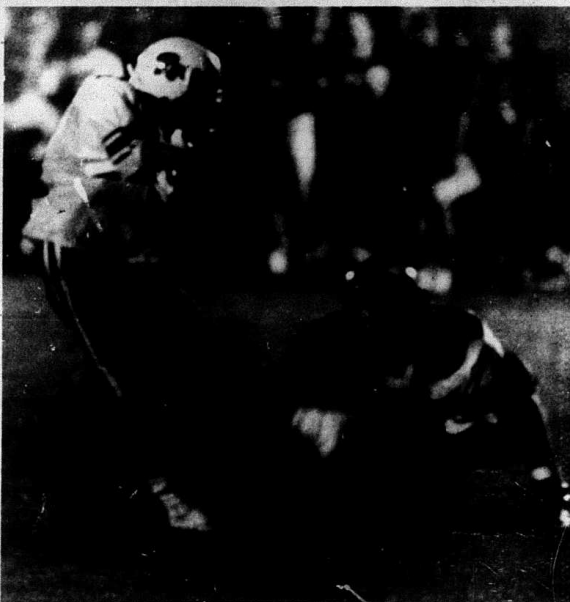

Before the Humming Bird Scored his second of the day.

Humming Bird in the third quarter Went through the Panthers like a greased pig.

Putting another score on the boards As Rocket fans danced a jig.

Shaffer had been tormenting the Panthers Picking up first down at will, Then he rambled thirty yards And went in for the kill.

Rocket fans were overjoyed And making a mighty racket, As Cannonball passed For a two point conversion to Tackett.

Kicker Greg Bowman sends an extra-point through the uprights in the Rockets' 28-7 win over Fleming County last Friday night.

In the fourth quarter Chris Goff saved a TD. But the Panther crew finally scored. It wasn't enough for a victory.

The Rock defense was great. A beautiful thing to see. As they shut down the Panthers And cinched the victory.

Congratulations to coaches, cheerleaders and players For a job well done. It is always gratifying To see our opponents on the run.

Roamin' Rockcastle

BY HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

This is a calendar from Dick Frymire's Weather Service in Irvington, which he gives every year. Clip and save to see how near right the man is.

October 3rd: The first killing frost.
October 18th: It could happen on this date, depends on the way the wind blows.
November 3rd: First big snow flurries.

November 24th: First tracking (a light skiff of snow) about 3:44 p.m.
January 15th: Winter's heaviest snowfall of 4 inches.

January 21st: The coldest day of the winter when it's 140 below.

March 25th: When temperature goes to 63 degrees.
April 5th: The last snow flurries of winter.

Now we have a booklet called The Old Farmer's Almanac which is in its third century of printing. The Almanac forecasts a warmer than usual winter in much of the nation. It forecasts a white Thanksgiving and a sunny Christmas.

There will be a Homecoming Day at Clear Creek Baptist Church on Sunday, Sept. 27. There is special music with groups in the afternoon. You are invited to attend both services, preaching in the morning and singing in the afternoon.

To correct the paragraph I wrote last week about Bonnie Mitchell, she said her grandparents rented the farm back in the 30s and her mother lived there with them.

Bonnie herself has lived in Glades Village for the last 11 years. I told Bonnie I would correct this for her, but I could get mixed up again and write that she was getting engaged. You should have heard her then! I'm glad I was here, and she was there. But Bonnie knows I joke a lot, don't you?

The Word of God says, "To everything there is a season and a time to every purpose under the Heaven, and there is a time for man to die."
Reece Puckett's time came on September 13, 1992 in the afternoon. He knew it was coming because God had said so. That was all the warning Reece had. No pain or general warning in his body.

He had told friends that when his time to die came, he would like to go silently and swiftly. God gave Reece this desire.

He had climbed up a ladder against his garage after church, to check on a tree limb near it.

He was gone quite a while when Edith had a feeling that she should see what was keeping him.

The stillness of his body when she found him where he lay on the ground in the ladder told Edith something was wrong.

Reece had gone to answer God's call and was gone from this earth. The general word on Reece is that he was a "good man."

In that goodness, I liken Reece Puckett to the Good Samaritan in the Bible. I would hear that he had taken someone to the grocery, or doctor, who had no way to get there.

He would go to the hospital and tell the folks of the sick people to go on home and rest until morning. He did that for my brother, Howard Payne, during his final days in the hospital.

Reece was a good neighbor to Bill Fennell and he also went with Bill to the hospital in Bill's final days, which helps the families so much.

The family of Reece asked for the Masonic Final Rites to be given.

John was one of the Masonic men in it. Afterward, he said, "I never saw as many Masons come out to take part as they did that night for Reece."

As each man, wearing the white apron and white gloves, part of the ceremony, walked up to the casket to honor Reece, he raised his right arm in a farewell salute, and dropped a sprig of green spruce on the casket that had been placed on Reece, saying as he did so, "The last, my brother!"

It was a touching scene. There were so many people who had come to bid a farewell to Reece Puckett on that night that the long line was formed out into the parking lot.

To Edith, a wonderful wife to the man, we say Reece hasn't gone too far, he waits by the Gate for you. God will see that you are not comfortless with all the years of wonderful memories of life with Reece that you have, until it is your time to go.

A cool, fall feeling, morning was on southern Rockcastle County as we drove up and down, up and down, mountain road bordered by thick trees falling leaves, as we drove to Pleasant Run Baptist Church where Bro. Bill Hammond, a "special friend" of John's was the pastor. Every hollow, leading up and down it where folks were thickly settled was the country scene that we saw as we drove along.

Bro. Bill preached his usual good sermon which was well received by the crowd.

Two sisters, Alma Allen and Mae Carter talked to us after church. Denise Carpenter who had a handicapped son was there with him, also Rita Mize, whom I wondered if she could be kin to Laura Mize, a newspaper reporter of the Signal.

Thelma Poynter who said she was getting a ride home with Clyde Carpenter and family talked to me after church. There are many friendly people in the church. We are sorry to have missed their Homecoming.

Mondella Spurlock, my niece, has been wearing black leather sandals trimmed in gold leather. They are a treat to see on her feet. I have looked at them so much, I guess Mondella got sorry for me so she gave me a pair of them just like hers so I would take my eyes off her feet. I was so surprised when she gave me a pair.

I exclaimed, "Oh, Mondella, you didn't have to do that." My thoughts on it was I guess she was tired of me looking at her feet so much.

"Well, I wanted to. You always bring me something every time you come to see me," she laughed.

I didn't tell Mondella I was having a time getting used to the strap that goes between the big toe and the rest of the toes. But dog gone if I'm not gonna keep trying!

The Gadd Reunion at the Berry-Ramsey picnic grounds was well attended with lots of food to eat, so J.T. Gadd tells me.

John went down in the afternoon and played horseshoes with the men for a while.

Finishing up on the Wildie social hour at Ballard Parson's store when Lynn Parsons, one of the rich men in Wildie (according to Jan Stevens) left the store after calling Stevens one the youngest men in this part of the county.

I turned to Ballard and began asking him news.

Ballard said he hadn't married of late and not even engaged after riding some pretty girls on his new four wheels, electric model. He talked of the reunion at the Ballard Parsons Day in Wildie given by his friends and customers recently.

Ballard said there was plenty of good food to each, such as the wonenfolk of Wildie country can do, and it sounded so good we were sorry we hadn't come down for it.

I told Ballard I had meant to bring his a jar of my preserved turnips. Ballard shook his head "so I know

I would know I wouldn't like the preserves."

This is the last time I will give you news from the Berea Citizen on June 29, 1911. This comes from Purng.

Brodhead Homemakers
By: Elizabeth F. Mullins

The Willing Worker Homemakers of Brodhead met at Margie Brock's home, Thursday at 7:30 p.m.

First, they looked at the blooming plants on her long patio.

Sliding glass door led to the family room where the homemakers sat for their meeting.

Carol Riddle passed out pamphlets on "Divorce."

We were so happy that no one present had experienced this death of a cherished dream created by two special people.

The healing process of a divorce, throws the couple in a state of crisis. It causes intense anger, hurt, deep sadness, betrayal, loneliness, depression, mental confusion and loss of control.

Patricia Fletcher reported that we had given a number of gifts to need to project this Homemaker year.

She passed out the Holiday Collection album to make our usual list of items for her to order. This helps our group achieve our fundraising goals.

The October cruise on the Kentucky River was discussed and planned. Husbands are invited to this dinner cruise.

Margie Brock's refreshments would have pleased our former county agent. They were all healthful.

They consisted of wedge shape pieces of peaches, pears, apples and cheese. The bean-nut and chocolate chip cookies tasted great with the fruit wedges.

We appreciate Tom Mill's letter each month of informative material.

Fairview News
By: Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church Sept. 20. Sunday School attendance was one hundred and three for which we are so thankful. Our pastor, Rev. Harvey Pensol, delivered wonderful messages and we all enjoyed the day very much.

Each day should be (and is to me) a great blessing to each of us. And I wonder if we fully appreciate the many blessings that He gives us. (I'm afraid not). Many of our churches have empty seats that should be filled. But the House of the Lord attracts that the House of the Lord does for some people. But there will come a reckoning day for everyone. So please if you aren't attending church -- won't you please start? You will be glad you did.

We extend our sympathy to all those who have lost loved ones recently, including the families of Mrs. Zella Thacker of Mt. Vernon and Mrs. Hazel (Sexton) Burdette of near Fairview. May God bless and comfort the loved ones left behind. They have our love and prayers.

We have had two baptisms recently and thank God for these four precious people.

Our Sunday School average attendance for the month of August was one hundred and one (101).

The Gideon speaker Bro. Ralph Grigsby of Hazard was with us at Fairview Sunday morning Sept. 13. We certainly enjoyed having him and welcome him back anytime.

Helping Mrs. Hallie Alexander to celebrate her birthday Aug. 28 were her children Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alexander and two children of Fairview and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Davidson and two children of Brodhead, also Mr. and Mrs. Ray Isaacs and infant son. We wish Hallie more years of happiness and good health.

We also wish the same for two other dear friends, Mrs. Mary Cope and Mrs. Gertrude Anderkin, who recently had birthdays.

Ronnie Reppert and son Ronnie Dale Conway and Lonnie Reppert and daughter Allis of Berea visited their parents Mr. and Mrs. Tip Reppert Sunday.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Cummins and family and other relatives were Dorothy Lambert and Mary Lou Reynolds of Augusta, Ga. for a few days recently. They also attended the Wheeler-Lambert family reunion along with a number of relatives and friends at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lambert of near Mt. Vernon. Everyone had a great time.

Helen Powell of Berea visited her mother Mrs. Mary Cope last Thursday.

Glydon Wilson of Beautyville visited his cousin Hallie Alexander and husband Eugene on Friday.

Some of our most recent guests have been our children and grandchildren plus great grandchildren also Allen Alexander, Rev. Ballard Rader, Tip Reppert, Mr. and Mrs. David Chasteen and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Todd.

On Sunday Sept. 20 Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander and family, Mr. and Mrs. Rex Davidson and children and Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alexander and family and also neighbors -- Mr. and Mrs. Ray Isaacs and son Logan enjoyed a very nice picnic at the William Whitney picnic area located between Crab Orchard and Stanford. They had a very nice day of enjoyment, good food and fellowship. It's always good for families to get together, time goes fast and we'll leave this world one by one. So love each other while they are still here. We never know when God will call us home.

Mrs. Edith Mullins of Snider recently spent nearly two weeks with her daughter Ardilla Tinch and husband Virgil of Franklin, Ohio. They enjoyed being together.

Please attend Sunday School and church when you can. It's a good place to be. God bless you.

Celebrates 90th birthday

Mrs. Maggie Fletcher of Brodhead celebrated her 90th birthday four days early with a family get-together at her home on Sunday. Preston from Brodhead were her son, Charles Fletcher and his wife Patsy, also daughter Audrey Fletcher. From Mt. Vernon, her grandson, Kevin Fletcher; her granddaughter Kim and her two daughters, Tricia and Lindsay from Berea; her son Clarence Fletcher came from Tipp City, Ohio with his fiancé, Linda Robinson from Centerville, Ohio; granddaughters, Melissa Hahler, husband Tom and son Andrew from Kettering, Ohio and granddaughter Pam Losutner, husband Al and sons, Matt and Nick from Lake St. Louis, Missouri and her daughter Judy Walker and husband Will from Fairfield, Ohio. Mary McWhorter visited awhile in the afternoon. Everyone enjoyed being together very much for such a special occasion. She received many nice gifts including a money tree of which she is trying to find the seed.

Below is a poem written by Preston Parrett, a wonderful neighbor in honor of Mrs. Fletcher's birthday. We hope she has many, many more.

Maggie and George Fletcher By: Preston Parrett

A beautiful fall day in September
With splashes of color among the green
It was Aunt Maggie's birthday
And she was the reigning queen.

The decorations were beautiful.
There were gifts galore,
And the Fletcher family
Had gathered in by the score.

There was lots of cooking
The smell of food was in the air,
To feed the hungry family.
Having a celebration there.

Recalling all the fond memories
Of their childhood escapades,
And of the many sacrifices
That their parents had made.

Their daddy was a railroad
Who had worked far away
He was a well known welder
The best of his day.

Maggie stayed at home
Working night and day,
She'd be waiting brave and true
To supplement his pay.

But on Friday afternoon
She'd be waiting brave and true
For George would be coming home
On that beloved engine number
Twenty Two

The family would be waiting
For the whistles lonely wail,
And as the engine entered Brodhead
To hear the clanging of the bell.

Soon George with suitcase in hand
Would come walking up the street,
He'd always dig into his suitcase
And come out with a treat.

The children grew up to adulthood
Went their separate ways,
But Mom and Dad had instilled
Values that would last out their days.

For a Mother's and father's love
Has no earthly bounds,
Love knows no height or width or depth

But is sincere, enduring and profound.
As Aunt Maggie and family
Celebrate her 90th year
We want her and her family to know
That in Brodhead, they're held dear.

Happy Birthday Maggie!!

The 55 Alive, or Mature Driving
Class, that was to be conducted Sept.
14 and 15 has been cancelled for the present time due to the illness of the instructor. A new date will be announced as soon as another instructor

The Mt. Vernon signal, Thursday, September 24, 1992 P.49 is available to teach the class. We hope everyone understands and will be back for the continuation of the class.

This will give anyone else who would like to take advantage of the course a chance to join us. This is not a learning to drive class but is designed to renew your skills and update your knowledge of the changes in modern day driving.

Money Matters

A Series Of Informative "Plain Talk" Thoughts Regarding Your Money Matters

Prime Rate

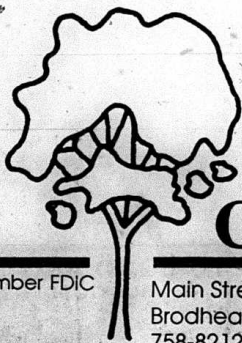

On occasion a customer will ask us why it is that our interest rate is higher than the prime rate that is often referred to in the news.

The prime rate is the rate that Big City banks offer to large corporate customers such as Standard Oil or DuPont. Prime rate is usually given to these customers for very short term loans.

So when you hear on the news that a large city bank has lowered their prime rate, realize the conditions or terms which enable them to loan at prime rate.

Our lending rates are determined by our "costs of funds". When our costs go down our rates go down, and vice versa.

We Think Money Matters!

Open Monday through Thursday

Every student was treated by the PTA Tuesday in recognition of KID'S Day. We appreciate the support of this organization and continue to encourage you to join! Also the students received a bouquet of balloons, compliments of the residents of Sewder Nursing Home. Thank!

Our music teacher, Mrs. Mary Whitlock, had a guest artist Sept. 10 and 11. Her mother, Jennie Ketchek, from Berea who teaches private singing, introduced a unit on orchestra. Mrs. Kitchek demonstrated and talked about the violin of the string family.

Members of the School Based Decision Making Council met last week to compare data generated from surveys of the 91-92 school year and test data from last year. Strengths and weaknesses were compiled and an implementation plan will be devised through the aide of parents, students and faculty to address concerns.

Our first six-weeks grading period ends Monday, Sept. 28 and report cards will be coming home with students the following Monday, Oct. 5.

We encourage your attendance at the Sandy Queen presentation at RCHS (tonight) Thurs. evening at 7 p.m. Sandler, humorist and educator has a special focus on helping children.

Parents will receive training on the Assessment Program-Parent Night, Monday evening at 5 p.m. Parents of last year's fourth graders will receive a letter from Dr. Boyson explaining the results of testing that was administered in the spring.

Our lunchroom looks friendlier with the artistic work of Allen Pensol, basic arts coordinator. We thank you Mr. Pensol for the cheerful fruit and vegetable characters.

Your children will arrive home a few minutes earlier next Thursday, Oct. 1 as a result of county-wide bus evacuation drills.

Mr. McKinney will acknowledge those students who have shown success or improvement during the first six weeks at an assembly, Thursday, Oct. 1. You are welcome to attend.

Protective Parenting

By: Ginny Gilpatrick

A very good parent I know cries so angry with her teenager's defiance that she lashed out with something she had in her hand and swatted her hard enough to leave marks across her legs. Once I got so disgusted with my teenage daughter's persistent ugly language on the phone that I grabbed out of her hand and in doing so, managed to leave her with a black eye. Are we child abusers? The barrage of TV shows on child abuse last week caused any caring parents to pause and examine their own behavior in regards to their children.

Certainly even a single angry outburst by a parent or anyone else can result in serious injury to a child. There are many far better ways to deal with anger than by corporal punishment. But the experts would agree that a pattern of repeated abuse, however minor, is more damaging than an isolated outburst by a parent who generally deals with differences and crises in a rational manner.

The Biblical adage about "sparing the rod and spoiling the child" incidentally refers to a shepherd's crook, not an implement used for beating. The shepherd uses his crook to get a firm hold on his sheep and steer him in the direction he ought to be going. Parents should not spare steering their child lovingly and deliberately along the path that they see us correct. Steering involves lots of conversation, lots of caring physical contact, and lots of protection from the "wolves" of life. The parent, like the shepherd, must be in control, and if the lamb, given a little freedom, begins to stray he must be prodded back in the herd.

None of us feels good when we "lose it." I know that the times I lost patience with my children I chalked it up to something called human nature and tried to learn from it to maintain more calm. But learn we must... or seek help.

Rockcastle County, I am sure, has its share of those parents who repeatedly torment their children sexually, physically or mentally. Very commonly these children don't tell anyone. They cope with the abuse by distancing or dissociating with the incidents and actually block their natural feelings because they are too painful. "Good" little quiet children and adolescents are often overlooked as needing help because they have learned so effectively to disguise who they are. They blame themselves and shame themselves for what is happening to them; they are often told they deserve it. They generally grow up unable to form intimate, meaningful relationships with anyone.

So what if you know of a child or suspect that a child in your family or another family is being abused? What should you do, what can you do? Maybe you, yourself are the abuser and can't seem to control your actions. Most people jump to the conclusion that the child or children will be taken away from the family, so they do nothing. But the fact is, every effort is made to keep the children with their own family and remove the danger by helping the whole family work things out.

When a call is made to social services (256-2138) a worker must make every attempt to check on the alleged victim who might be in imminent danger, within 24 hours. The process

RCHS student newspaper wins 2nd in news coverage

by Marlina Mason

For the first time ever, the RCHS student newspaper, The Rocket, placed in EKU's fall competition.

The newspaper won second place in the Best News coverage category last Friday when they traveled to EKU for the annual High School Journalism Workshop.

The 22 RCHS journalism students attending the seminar were given their choice of workshop sessions including ones on feature page, graphics, opinion page, sports writing, improving news writing skills, advertising, and photography.

The keynote speaker was Ms. DuAnne Puckett, editor of the Shelbyville Sentinel-News who spoke on "News in a Small Town." First place winner in the Best News Category was The Purple Gem, Bowling Green High School's newspaper; third place winner was Le Petit Colonel of Bourbon County High School.

The seminar was sponsored by EKU's Society of Professional Journalists.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

Paul in Rom. 1:16 said "for I am not ashamed of the gospel of Christ: for it is the power of God unto salvation to every one that believeth, to the Jew first, and also to the Greek."

In Hebs. 4:12 we read, "for the word of God is quick and powerful, and sharper than any two edged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the joints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart." Again in Eph. 6:17 "And take the helmet of Salvation, and the sword of the Spirit, which is the Word of God."

"Month after month and year after year" that we have run "What Saith the Scriptures" in the Signal, we have ever utilized the Word of God in our articles. The power to convict and bring salvation is in the sword of the spirit, U. Word of God.

"A Voice in the Wilderness" has claimed that we have been setting forth "false teachings and doctrines designed to overthrow the faith of weak and unstable people who are trusting God for their healing and deliverance and looking to God for a miracle."

It's true we have been setting forth the doctrine of Christ, that God no longer baptizes people in the Holy Ghost, nor gives the miraculous gifts of the spirit, nor offers miraculous healings of the body as part of work done at Calvary, but this will only overthrow the work of the teachers of error. Those who have been taught that God will miraculously heal their bodies, should "give up" their emrg and believe the Word of God, not the voices in the Wilderness, and their misled and misapprehended scriptures!

We stand ready to enter into a public discussion, person to person (or in written form) at Mt. Vernon or Brodhead (or both), on these vital subjects of disagreement. If this "Voice" or any of his persuasion, are ready to do battle, we shall see who "don't have any weapons of warfare," and we shall see who has the power to pull down strongholds.

"The wicked flee when no man pursueth, but the righteous are bold as a Lion." Pro. 28:1; "We stand boldly and confidently upon God's truth, and we don't "hesitate to butt heads" with any "Voice" who speaks words contrary to God's Will, of Ezk. 3:8-9.

"for many walk of whom I have told you often, and now tell you even weeping, that they are the enemies of the cross of Christ." Phil. 3:18.

Mr. Tracy Gabbard's Science Class at Roundstone has just completed a study on insects. Part of the study included a field day to find different insects on school grounds. Everyone really enjoyed this project. After they found insects they made a terrarium in their cooperative groups. The class also wrote reports and typed them on the computer. This unit tied together all curriculum areas. To conclude the unit they made "bug-shaped" cookies.

Susie Ambrose, Marie Lewis, Jessica McWhorter and Joyce Hoover enjoy reading about insects at the "Reading Center."

Most of 16 counties with rates above 20% in eastern part of state

By: Mary Ann Roser
Herald-Leader
Washington bureau

Kentucky had one of the highest dropout rates in the nation in 1990, and in 16 of its counties at least one in five young persons had not graduated, a report shows.

The U.S. Department of Education's fourth annual dropout study, released yesterday, showed that Kentucky had the ninth highest dropout rate among the 50 states and District of Columbia.

Rockcastle was in the average with a 10 to 20 percent dropout rate.

In the area, Jackson, Owensley, Clay, Knox, Garrard and Casey were in the 20 to 30 percent rate.

An average of 13 percent of Kentucky's 16- to 19-year-olds had not graduated or were not enrolled in school, the report said. It was based on 1990 census figures and does not reflect any effect that the state's education reform program, passed the same year, might have had on the dropout rate.

Nationwide, the dropout rate was 11.2 percent.

The rate varied widely among the state's 120 counties, ranging from 5.6 percent in Ballard County in Western Kentucky to 47.9 percent in Menifee County in the east.

The statistics surprised and upset school officials in Kentucky who insisted they had made improvements. The report was the first time the Education Department included dropout rates for states, counties and large cities. The previous reports focused on national data and trends.

"I've seen the number of reported dropouts cut in half in Kentucky since 1984," said Petite Day, a state Education Department consultant who works with school districts on dropout prevention strategies.

Indeed, Census Bureau statistics from 1980 show that Kentucky has made strides. That year, 21.5 percent of 16- to 19-year-olds were dropouts. But most other states have made significant progress as well, and Day said that more must be done to keep Kentucky students in school.

"We need to develop their self-esteem and opportunities... rather than just putting them in a holding room somewhere," he said.

Most of the state's 176 school districts have programs that identify students at risk of dropping out and give them special attention, including placing them in a special school. In addition, 72 districts have voluntarily agreed to seek the revocation of a student's driver's license if the student has more than eight unexcused absences, Day said.

Most of the 16 Kentucky counties with dropout rates above 20 percent were in Eastern Kentucky, which is plagued by poverty and high unemployment.

Fayette County school officials were surprised to learn their county's rate was higher than the state average and above Jefferson County's. The report said Fayette's dropout rate was 13.7 percent, compared with 10.4 percent for Jefferson.

"Unless we attract more non-graduates from outside the county into employment, I wouldn't have an answer to explain the discrepancy," said Charles Butcher, Fayette County's coordinator of attendance accounting. "I wasn't aware that we were any worse than anybody else in the state."

In Menifee County, which had the worst rate, the dropout problem is severe, but the data are skewed because many dropouts live at a job training center in the county, school officials said. There are federal job corps centers in the next two worst counties: Union, which had a dropout rate of 47.1 percent, and McCreary County which had a rate of 30.7 percent.

"That disturbs me because there is no way we have 47.1 percent of our kids dropping out," Union County Superintendent David Holland said. Many dropouts from other states enroll at the regional centers to learn job skills. They have no contact with the local schools. And although they are counted as county residents by the Census Bureau, many eventually leave Kentucky when they finish their training.

Even so, Menifee County Superintendent Richard Ratliff acknowledged that the school district has a dropout problem.

"We're one of the poorest counties in the state," Ratliff said. "We have a percentage of our population that can compete with any students in the state and another percentage that is extremely hard to reach. They do not see the relationship between staying in school and future success in the job market."

The situation has become worse by budget cuts, he said.

statistics, although not entirely accurate, reflect a better measurement.

Holding power reflects the number of students entering the 9th grade versus the percentage who graduate four years later.

"For the last three or four years we averaged 75 to 80 percent," he said, noting that one year it was over 80 percent.

The rate was 76 percent for the 1992 school year for graduates that began as 9th graders four years earlier.

Towery said the figures fluctuate

Rural Transit operators meet at local RTEC

The first meeting of the Kentucky Public Transit Association (KPTA) Rural Operators Committee was held at the RTEC Conference room in Mt. Vernon on Aug. 27.

Rockcastle County Judge Executive Roland D. Mullins gave a welcoming speech to the committee members made up of transit operators from various areas of Kentucky. Those in attendance were: Sue Jeffers, KPA President from BUS; Frankfort; Ned Sheehy, Committee Chairman from FTSB, Lexington; Phil Pack, CATS of Carlisle, Kentucky; Paula Kirchbaum, Central Kentucky Community Action, Elizabethtown.

The first roundtable meeting will be held during October.

and that with holding power students could still graduate elsewhere and there is a penalty for those who move to other areas while some might move into the county.

"It's a vague area to say just what your dropout rate is," he said. "Our dropout rate is much lower than the state average."

"It's going to change because in November we will have a new data method," Towery said, noting that the state has hired a firm which will track students moves and other factors which go into the rate.

moon. I understand this is rocket territory, so shoot for the moon."

Thompson said the new school will fulfill several needs, including a meeting center, year-round programs, and it will help with the restructuring process of education reform.

He emphasized that "teachers and students caring and sharing" will help form "partnerships in industry."

Ronnie Cash, principal at Rockcastle County High School also made several comments saying that he could remember to the time when he was told a new facility was needed.

He also said that a former valdoficarian had told him that computers were lacking and that other former outstanding students told him a new building was lacking.

"With this new facility we're going to be able to turn out more of these (outstanding) students," Cash said. "We're just really excited about getting into this new facility."

Cash also said the old high school will be a boost to the middle schoolers.

bothtown: Ray Young, Maysville City Transit; and Shirley L. Cummins, RTEC of Mt. Vernon, Secretary for KPTA and the Rural Operators Committee.

The Committee drafted a list of topics to be addressed by rural transit operators during upcoming roundtable meetings. The roundtable meetings will give an opportunity for Kentucky rural transit operators to tackle issues encountered in the rural transit industry. The Committee is charged with the development of a uniform plan to be used by choice by rural operators.

The first roundtable meeting will be held during October.

Seniors do well on tests

fifteen questions asked the seniors.

Nationalism is an idea which indicates a willingness on the part of a country to place its own interests above those of the rest of the world community. Nationalism has played a role in the foreign and domestic policy of the United States many times. The following is a list of events that helped shape our national policy.

- *Washington's Farewell Address
- *Manifest Destiny
- *Roosevelt's "Big Stick" Policy
- *American Involvement in WWI
- *Wilson and the League of Nations
- *American Involvement in WWII
- *Cuban Missile Crisis
- *American Involvement in Vietnam
- *Persian Gulf Crisis

Seniors in Kentucky were asked to choose two examples from the events above and describe the events surrounding each example. The students were then asked to describe the effects each has had on our nation's foreign and/or domestic policies.

All fifteen questions asked in component one were presented to students in the same form as the above question.

Rockcastle seniors did better against the state average than did the fourth or eighth graders tested. Although the fourth and eighth graders were usually at or near the state average in most categories.

The worst category for all three Rockcastle grades was math. The same was true of the rest of the state. The seniors did score higher than the state average in every category except for math where they scored the same as the state average.

"There were many bright spots for Rockcastle students in this part of the test, but we will not really know anything until January when we will get the rest of the results," Mrs. Cash said.

A complete rundown of all the test scores can be found in a special school supplement in this week's Signal.

Williams looks for support in county; calls Ford "big spender, big taxer"

By: George Ferrell

David L. Williams, Republican candidate for the U.S. Senate, met with local supporters and county officials Tuesday night at the local Best Western Motel. Williams was greeted by county officials including Rep. Danny Ford, Judge-Exec. Roland Mullins, Judge James H. Lambert, Republican Chairman Juanita Davis and Clerk Norma Houk. Williams, who is battling incumbent Senator Wendell Ford (D), said he has been trying to improve his name recognition with the public.

"At this point my name recognition is not as high as Senator Ford's so I would anticipate that we're behind significantly in the polls," Williams said, conceding that Ford may have a substantial lead at this time.

As a candidate, Williams said he has worked the campaign trail since January to win the three-way primary and head for the fall election. Williams said the public is not yet familiar with Ford's key votes and that Ford has yet to be challenged at the polls because he has had little opposition.

Williams said he is trying to get his message across to the public that Ford voted against Desert Storm, against the balanced budget amendment, against the line item veto, and that he was one of two members of the Kentucky delegation who voted for the 1990 budget agreement that added 174 billion in tax burdens.

"It was Ron Mazzoli out of Louisville and Senator Ford (who voted for the tax increase)," Williams said. Williams pointed out that President Bush, who ran on a "read my lips" platform is now being criticized by Ford. "Now he wants to criticize that (tax increase) when he himself voted for it," Williams said.

Williams know he is playing a numbers game and he is trying to get himself in front of the voters.

My strategy is to go out and see as many people as I can," Williams said, noting that often he speaks to groups and does interview with newspapers as part of his campaign. He said he would return often to this area, something which he claims his opponent hasn't done.

"I'm trying to bring attention to the fact that Wendell Ford hasn't been in this area except once in 20 some years," Williams said. Williams said the public is "tired of business as usual," and that Ford is vulnerable as "a big spender, big taxer and he's used to big perks."

He said Ford has "luminous service, a million dollar pension plan" and advantageous tax exemptions. "They (Congressmen) just lead a different life than the average American does," Williams said. Williams also thinks that Ford has been in Washington long enough.

"Eighteen years is long enough for anyone to be in the U.S. Senate," he said. "It's too long -- we need new blood and new ideas."

When asked about the Presidential election he said he feels it is getting closer.

"The President elect is much closer in Kentucky than the national polls indicate," Williams said. "Bush is within single digits." He said issues should bring Kentucky voters into the Republican fold this fall.

Pointing out a coal tax could shut down the mines, a health care proposal that would shut down small business, and a higher mileage requirement on new cars that would close down every American auto plant, Williams said Kentuckians should oppose higher taxes and more spending.

"The government can't spend enough to bring prosperity," he said. Williams is a native of Cumberland County, which he says is similar to Rockcastle County.

"I'm a mountain Republican who believes in government having an active role in improving people's lives," he said. "I don't believe in government controlling our lives." Williams said he is an opponent of big government. "I think that the bureaucratic welfare state has just destroyed people's ability to make something of themselves," he said.

Williams pointed out that tomatoes and green peppers rotted in the fields this year and that tobacco farmers had to hire Mexican immigrants to cut tobacco.

"All of that is because we don't have mandatory participation in work activity of people who are able bodied and on public assistance."

Williams, 39, is a graduate of the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville Law School.

He has been a practicing attorney for 14 years and was first elected to public office in 1984 when he became the youngest member of the Kentucky House of Representatives at that time.

Two years later he was elected to the State Senate representing the 16th district, and was re-elected in 1990. He and his wife, Elaine, reside in Burkesville which is in Cumberland County.

Water association's agenda items had county-wide implications, Mullins says

Agenda items for the Rockcastle County Water Association Board Members' meeting on Sept. 22, 1992 had county wide implications, according to County Judge Executive Roland D. Mullins.

The first order of business was the Brush Creek, Climax, Three Links project recently funded by FmHA and ARC in the amount of $379,000. Officials from FmHA presented the letter of conditions which allows the board to proceed with the project.

The second item of business involved the application for the balance of the county.

If approved, the project will allow the balance of the county to have access to public water -- Rod Hill, Lamero, Sand Hill, Parker Hollow, Bowling Ridge, Tark Hill, Slately Branch, Cedar Heights, Flat Gap, Lime Plant Hollow, and Quail. This application is being submitted to FmHA and ARC.

A second application was also approved for the Sand Springs to Pongo area. This application is being submitted to the Division of Abandoned Mines, Kentucky Department of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

It is being submitted subject to the Sand Springs/Blue Springs ground water contamination study prepared by Crawford, Crawford, & Stewart Engineers, Inc.

Election officers named

The following is a list of election officers for the November election to be held on November 3, 1992 as submitted by the Democrat committee and the Republican committee.

The study revealed that mining had taken place along the ridge tops in the Sand Springs area since the mid-eighties hundreds. In fact, there are 39 mines in the area. Most of the mines were drift mines, for example, small underground mines. Over 5,300 feet of tunnels have been identified.

Further, it was determined that over 30 homes are located within an average of 2,000 feet of one of these mines sites. Disturbance of the soils and rocks around coal seams releases acids that tend to move with the flow of water. These acids in turn dissolve metals and other salts which get into ground water.

It was the Darcie Stewart, engineer with Crawford, Crawford, & Stewart, "this study reveals high concentrates of acid, sulfates, iron, aluminum, and lead. The closer to the mine site, the higher the level of the metals."

"We don't know what the abandoned mine people will determine," said County Judge Executive Roland D. Mullins, "but it has been my contention all along that the mining affected the water in the Sand Springs area."

Judge Mullins continued, "the most startling revelation is the incidence of lead which was found to be above safety standards throughout the study area."

Should this application be approved, funding will be supplied to put in lines, pay for meters, and extend water to the homes of the residents.

Endorsement for proposed trash incinerator fails

A proposed trash incinerator failed to get endorsement from the Cumberland Valley Area Development of Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet.

It is being submitted subject to the Sand Springs/Blue Springs ground water contamination study prepared by Crawford, Crawford, & Stewart Engineers, Inc.

Rockcastle is part of the CVADD area referred to in the story. Corbin officials spoke in favor of the incinerator, which would recycle some trash and produce energy from what was burned.

But the planning agency's environmental committee declined to approve a non-binding letter of support drawn up by Sam Johnson of Lexington, who went to build the incinerator.

The committee's letter will be circulated among officials in the eight counties covered by the agency, said James E. Cass, deputy director of the planning agency.

"I think everyone was interested in the proposal, but there was confusion about the letter," Cass said.

The incinerator, which would burn up to 500 tons a day, would be the only municipal trash incinerator operating in Kentucky.

Johnson said it would provide a reliable alternative to landfills, would provide jobs and would not pollute. But the Knox County chapter of Kentuckians for the Commonwealth and the Knox County Solid Waste Advisory Board had decided to oppose the incinerator.

On Tuesday, the environmental committee toured a smaller but similar incinerator in Galax, Va. Cass, who was on the tour, said it was impressive, but was too small to provide an adequate comparison.

Brodhead Fire Chief cites community support

By: George Ferrell

Chief Keith Rigby oversees 23 firemen and one junior fireman on the roster of the Brodhead Volunteer Fire Department.

So far this year they have been on 37 county runs and seven city runs with their three fire trucks.

"We get a lot of help and community support," Chief Rigby said. "The Ladies Auxiliary helps us some, we get a lot of help out of the city and the county for western Rockcastle."

The Ladies auxiliary has about 15 members, but they help the department a great deal.

"They have fund drives," he said. "They put on bake sales and road-blocks and fundraisers -- they've even had a dance or two."

The department is strictly volunteer and is in large part funded by local donations.

"I'd say our support with ball games and stuff we probably get $1,800 to $2,000 -- some years (it's not that much)," Rigby said.

The budget was helped out by a $1,800 donation from the county this year, according to Rigby, who said that was the first help since a new fire truck was acquired in 1985. "The county and the city pay gas and oil on runs to their areas," he said. "The city pays fuel, light and phone bills and keeps the building up -- when we need help we go to them."

The Ladies Auxiliary is composed of wives and others interesting in supporting the fire department.

According to Chief Rigby, the Department can respond to a fire in broadhead within five minutes of the call and be on the road in the county. "We'll be rolling about the same length of time (in the county)," he said. "We try to go out within 10 minutes."

Rigby has a veteran squad of firemen, and the other officers are Deputy Chief, Bryan Busell; Assistant Chief, Joe Busell; Captain Jeff Albright, and two Lieutenants, David Colson and Larry LeFevres.

The department has no immediate fundraisers until January, when they will sponsor the Brodhead Invitational Basketball Tournament.

Rigby said the department recently received some turnout gear which was needed but that there are two other areas of need.

"We need pagers and fire hose, two and a half inches," he said.

The department has three trucks: a 1991 Ford which has only been on the road for four months which can haul 300 gallons, a 1985 Chevy which holds 1,250 gallons, and a city truck, a 1972 Ford with a capacity of 700 gallons that only goes on city runs.

The 1991 Ford tries to be first on the scene for most county runs, according to the Chief, who said it is a mini-pump.

Dear Editor,
At Monday night's council meeting the "discussion" of the payroll deduction tax was brought to motion by the mayor to be tabled. The payroll tax deduction was tabled by the council before the people were allowed to discuss reasons for its opposition.

However, the motion to table the payroll tax was not unanimous. The one nay or undecided vote was cast by an individual who would not even have been affected by a payroll tax, non-employed and spouse draws disability. There also happened to be another council member whose spouse apparently was attempting to speak up for a payroll tax who is also not employed, therefore it would not affect him.

It is my opinion as well as many others, that the council was a little bit overwhelmed that there were actually some people employed in Mt. Vernon who were going to have an influence on what the council wanted to do.

I am appreciative of the individuals who were present at Monday night's meeting. The council stated they were also, but I'm not so sure. I bet if it weren't for some concerned hard-working employed individuals, people employed in the city of Mt. Vernon could possibly be saying good-bye to 3 percent of a paycheck to bail the City of Mt. Vernon out of a debt of five years. Wouldn't we all like to know "Where the money has gone?"

I am not opposed to a tax to bring in revenue for the city, but tax in a fair way, don't tax individuals who just work in Mt. Vernon.

I am sure that just because the payroll tax deduction was tabled Monday night, it's not over. There is another council meeting in October and I would encourage all concerned people who work in the city of Mt. Vernon and pay taxes to attend. Let's remember our forefathers at the Boston Tea Party who fought for "No taxation without representation."

Dear Editor,
This is to say "thank you" to Rockcastle County High School Principal, Rommie Cash, for his continued support of Livingston Elementary/Checkleaders.

His contributions and words of encouragement let us know he cares about Livingston Elementary and us even before we are students at R.C.H.S. We appreciate you Mr. Cash!

We also want to thank each person who donated money to the Livingston Checkleaders during the Livingston Homecoming.

Dear Editor,
My experience in Washington, D.C. as I stand before you today, as God as "My commander-in-chief." I was a voice, not my voice, but the voice of all the people in Mt. Vernon. The people that didn't make it.

While my first flight boarding at Lexington airport. On the airplane, my first thought came to mind. Will I make it.

Then at Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania I said to myself, courage and faith to believe in yourself. While we left on the airplane at Washington Dulles Airport. There before Junior and I was standing Chuck Marlot.

He said that understand very much about Mental Illness. That I should go to Eastern College and get a degree.

A degree that helping those with Mental Illness. I believe in myself

Mullins Reunion

By: Patsy Mullins Hopkins

A very enjoyable time was had by all at the Mullins Reunion on Sunday, Sept. 6 at the Fairview Christian Church site at Mullins Station. Many from far and near were there.

I'd like to give thanks and appreciation to the Cummins boys and wives, they all know who. I'd be afraid to name names afraid I might miss someone.

The cemetery looks beautiful. It is one of the best kept anywhere. Anyone wishing to donate money see, Bill R., Garland or Money Ed Cummins. They are in the process of buying a riding mower. All donations would be appreciated. If you haven't been up there, please go, you'd appreciate it.

I remember as a child going to the reunions. Even as a child I enjoyed and had a family bond. My family that has gone on to be with Lord has left me such great memories that I thank God for. My children, Vanessa, Mike and Marc went as children now their children, Joseph, Wesley, Justin and Jordan go. Our country needs that family bond but most of all Jesus Christ.

McClure Reunion

By Lina McClure

Rigsby said training is ongoing and never stops.

"We've got three certified men here now that can put on training," he said. "They put on training here and go to fire schools -- we had two men that went to the London Fire School this past weekend.

The department meets on the second and fourth Tuesday nights of the month, according to Rigsby, who said the fourth Tuesday is Training night.

is available in Somerset and Lexington bookstores.

He recently received an Award of Honor from Ohio Division of the American Association for Marriage and Family Therapy.

Dr. Duncan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Duncan of Somerset, formerly of Mt. Vernon. He is the grandson of Mrs. Simmie Nicely and the late Mrs. Hazel Baker.

He will be giving presentations for his book in Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 25, Toledo, Oct. 9 and Miami, Florida, Oct. 17.

Woodmen of the World meets

The Woodmen of the World Lodge #888 met Thursday, Sept. 10 at 7 p.m. at the Berea Lodge #617 F&AM for their regular monthly meeting.

In the business meeting $500 was donated for Hurricane Andrew victims. This is matched by the Woodmen of the World Life Insurance Society.

The fish fry plans were finalized. It will be Sat., Oct. 3 at 2 p.m. at the Parker Seal Picnic area with prizes and games.

In other business a vote was taken on helping a member because of a death. Also plans started on the annual Christmas Awards Dinner.

Meetings are held the second Thursday of each month. All members are urged to attend.

Give Blood!

The Rockcastle County Extension Homemakers are sponsoring a Blood Drive on Tuesday, Sept. 29 at noon through 7 p.m. at the Agricultural Services Center on Richmond Street.

At Central Kentucky Blood Center, 200 pints of blood are needed every day to maintain a safe and adequate blood supply. Volunteer blood donors are the source of this lifesaving substance. Hospitals and patients depend on this supply and in an emergency situation, there is no time to waste. Blood must be available when needed.

The most critical need is O+ and O- but all types will be greatly appreciated! If you donated blood at the July 22nd drive, you will be eligible to donate at this time. We will have Wendy's coupons. So, come on and give the gift of life, and ask about the Triple Crown Club.

that what I will say here today.

I hope very much no matter what the problem or situation is The Kentucky Alliance, and the National Alliance of Mental Illness. They will be there to help you.

The Theme at the National Alliance of Mental Illness was "Fighting For Our Fair Share."

The main topic was the "Decade of the Brain of the 1990's." They say that they will find a cure for mental illness in fifty years.

As I stand before you all today I believe not only for myself but as others throughout this nation. They will come up with a cure in the near future.

For closing, I would like to say "Believe In Yourself." As we journey on someday we as a nation of nations. We will become more aware what mental illness is.

For myself, thank you the people of Mt. Vernon, staff at the Cumberland River Comprehensive Care Center for making it possible. Without you I would have never made it. Again thank you very much.

Bobby Joe Bullen

Dear Editor,
Election time is very near and I wish to be able to share my opinions with the working folk of this vicinity.

My name is E.B. "Reb" Allen, and I'm a retired coal miner from Harlan County. I held elected offices in my local union and was able to make many acquaintances in other counties through my union activities. I always worked to help my class of people get a decent wage and job and retirement security.

I am a life long democrat, but like many of the other miners in Southeast Kentucky, I voted for Tim Lee Carter and later his successor, Hal Rogers on the Republican ticket.

When I retired I had no income to go running hundreds of miles to the Black Lung Specialist and Social Security doctors the government and the coal companies would hire -- my health was gone -- and so many of these so called doctors were just for hire to give contradictory statements to get people's claims denied. I went to Congressman Hal Rogers on the advice of another miner, and asked if there was anyway I could get a fair hearing based on the medical facts. His office said yes I could, I should and I would ... I did.

Congressman Rogers has enough seniority and is on enough important committees that he can command respect and an honest reply and cut through all the red tape and run around down and out working people often get from the government bureaucrats.

Also, Congressman Rogers has, what appears to be, a lock on the Interstate Route 66 through Southeastern Kentucky - which will increase property values for this region as well as provide decent transportation routes for our commerce and ensure employment opportunities for children we are now raising.

Congressman Roger's integrity, his seniority, and his positions on important committees, as well as his bond with working people, justify this democrat's vote for a Republican candidate.

Respectfully,
E.B. "Reb" Allen

"Anyone building a house—if they consider the facts—will end up with an electric heat pump."

—Rick O'Connell
London, Ky.

"I had my first house with a heat pump back about 1975, and I think it's the way to go.

"It provides more consistent heat, rather than getting hot, then cooling down again. It's much cleaner than other heating systems. And it's two pieces of equipment in one, because it air conditions in summer.

"Our house is total-electric, so we don't have any fuel tanks to fill up, and there's only one energy bill to pay each month—which makes budgeting easier.

"We've been in this house three years, and we're really pleased with our heating costs. And we've never had to have our heat pump serviced.

"I would hate to buy another house without an electric heat pump!"

Commonwealth of Kentucky 28th Judicial Circuit Rockcastle Circuit Court Civil Action File No. 92-CI-00043

Betty Bernice Lewis and husband, Robert Lewis Plaintiff

VS: NOTICE OF SALE Gwendolyn Allen Defendant

Pursuant to judgment and order of sale entered in this action on the 11th day of September, 1992, for the purpose of partition, I will offer at public auction the hereinafter described real property in Mt. Vernon, Rockcastle County, Kentucky.

At the Courthouse Door on Main Street On Friday, the 9th Day of October, 1992 Beginning at the Hour of 11:00 A.M.

said property being more particularly bounded and described as follows:

Located in the town of Brodhead, Rockcastle County, Kentucky, and BEGINNING at a stone, the northeast corner of the Number 1 1/2 acre lot; thence with what is called the Railroad line, North 7 poles to a stone or stake; thence South 83 West 29 poles to a stone, thence South 4 degrees East 7 poles to a stone, southwest corner to the second 1/2 acre of, North 83 East 22 1/2 poles to the beginning, and containing one (1) acre. Being property which Betty Bernice Lewis and Gwendolyn Allen obtained by deed dated September 24, 1984, from Lou Payne, recorded in Deed Book 145, page 292 in the office of the clerk of the Rockcastle County Court, Mt. Vernon, Kentucky.

The property will be sold upon the following terms and conditions:

1. The property shall be sold to the highest bidder(s) for cash or for a deposit of TWENTY (20%) PER CENT of the purchase price in cash as the time of sale and the balance payable THIRTY (30) DAYS from the date of the sale, with interest at the rate of TWELVE (12%) PER CENT per annum from date of sale until paid. The purchaser(s) shall be required to execute bond with surety thereon, to be approved by the Master Commissioner, for the balance of the purchase price. The bond shall bear interest at the rate of twelve (12%) per cent per annum from date until paid, and to remain and be a lien on said property until fully paid.
2. The purchaser(s) shall have the privilege of paying all of the purchase price in cash or paying the bond before maturity by paying the principal amount thereon, together with all interest accrued thereon to the date of said payment.
3. All unpaid ad valorem property taxes of record at the time of entry of the judgment will be paid from the proceeds of sale.
4. The purchaser(s) shall have possession of the premises upon complying with the terms of sale and risk of loss of improvements shall thereafter be on the purchaser(s).
5. This sale shall be made subject to all easements, set back lines, restrictions or covenants of record or otherwise.
6. Should there be a lien on the property held by the United States, a federal right of redemption shall exist.

ROCKCASTLE COUNTY SCHOOLS

CONNECTIONS

"Making It Better For Our Kids"

September 24, 1992

The Rockcastle County Board of Education Provides Equal Education and Employment Opportunities

Superintendent's Message

Bige W. Towery, Jr.

The 1992-93 school year is off to a great start in Rockcastle County. It remains a very changing and challenging time for education in the state of Kentucky, but it is also a time of much progress and innovation for our schools.

The theme - the emphasis - for schools in Rockcastle County for the 1992-93 term is CONNECTIONS. Realizing that many projects/programs are being implemented in our schools, we must be sure that all of them are linked and fitted to support the same goals and objectives. Above all, we must make sure that the various activities and programs are student-centered and focused.

The various KERA components (Early Childhood Education, Primary School, Curriculum, Assessment, Professional Development, SBDM, Technology, Family Resource/Youth Services, Finance, etc.) must all be linked and connected to serve the best interest of our students.

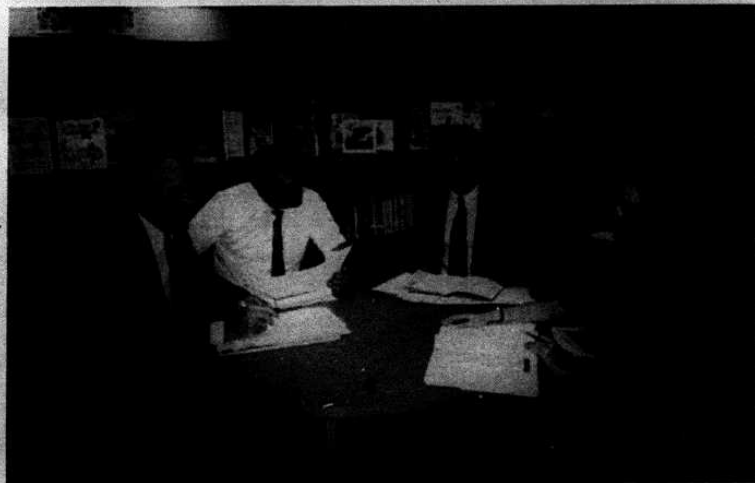

Soon, each school in our district will receive data/information from the Performance Based Assessment which was administered in the Spring of 1992. This initial information will serve as baseline data and from there a threshold level will be established as a future goal and each school will be expected to improve at an appropriate rate. We have been told that student performance in Kentucky will be low, but let me stress that we are being asked to achieve very high expectations - WORLD CLASS STANDARDS.

I remain confident that our schools will make tremendous gains in their performance levels and that each of them will surpass the established threshold levels in 1994.

The climate in our schools is conducive to learning, the attitude is positive, and staff members realize that we must restructure/improve because our students depend upon us to provide educational experiences and training which will prepare them for employment and life in a rapidly changing society.

School Superintendent Towery visiting Livingston Elementary Primary School.

Rockcastle County Schools Assessment Training Session.

Guest Commentary

Thomas C. Boysen
Commissioner of Education

Through education reform, Kentucky is attempting to do what no other state has done: leap from a lackluster past into a gleaming future full of opportunity for all students.

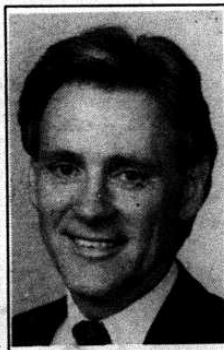

With education reform now two years old, all districts are transforming schools into learning communities that will ensure adult success for every student.

Through 75 "Valued outcomes" the state has defined what graduates should know and be able to do, with the emphasis being on students' ability to demonstrate skills relevant to real life. We are shifting away from the purely academic to a more active, hands on style of learning. With that shift comes new tests, new subject matter, new ways of teaching and, most importantly, graduates equipped to excel in a rapidly changing world.

During the period of transformation, the state Department of Education and central office staff are streamlining their regulatory process and concentrating more on providing technical assistance for teachers and schools. Through school-based decision making councils, teachers and parents will determine how each school is to meet state goals.

One goal is for Kentucky to be a national leader in science and math education. Succeeding in this effort will be critical for our young people and for Kentucky's economy: science and math teach flexible problem-solving skills demanded by the world economy of the 21st century.

In the olympics of education, we want Kentucky students to be world class competitors, gold medal winners, by 1996.

Dr. Thomas Boysen
Commissioner of Education

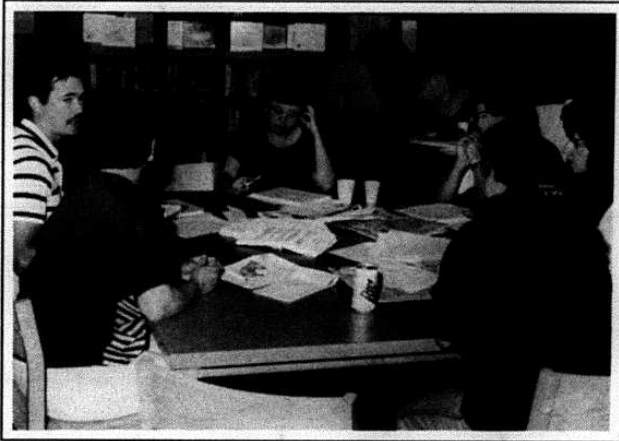

Jim Cox, Assistant Principal at Rockcastle County High and Ms. Betty Conley, Guidance Counselor plan for Assessment update.

Mission Statement

The mission of the Rockcastle County Schools is to develop students who have the knowledge and basic life skills to lead productive, fulfilling lives; therefore, we must create a positive, educational environment which requires a well-defined curriculum, appropriate facilities, and a total commitment from school personnel, students, parents and community.

Curriculum Alignment

By
Shelby B. Reynolds, Instructional Supervisor

This past summer our school system has worked very hard in the area of instructional programs. The most exciting part of the summer's work has been in the area of curriculum.

The state department of education awarded our system a grant to begin the process of curriculum alignment. The schools decided that we should begin the area of writing.

Dr. Betty Steffy, an associate professor in education at the University of Kentucky, was employed to help our school system with the process of aligning our writing curriculum with the valued outcomes, curriculum frameworks, and the performance assessment.

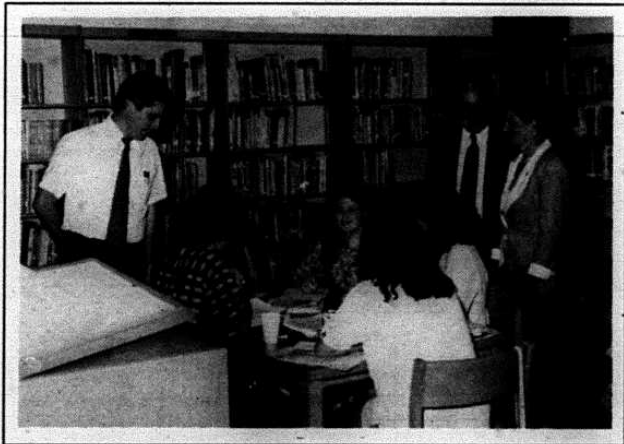

We began with the organization of a district curriculum steering committee made up of all the stake-holders of Rockcastle County's school system. This committee was made up of teachers, administrators, partners and business persons. Dr. Steffy made this committee aware of the issues at hand and we listened to their concerns about our system's curriculum.

The steering committee agreed that it was very important that we create curriculum guides that our teachers could use to help guide their instruction.

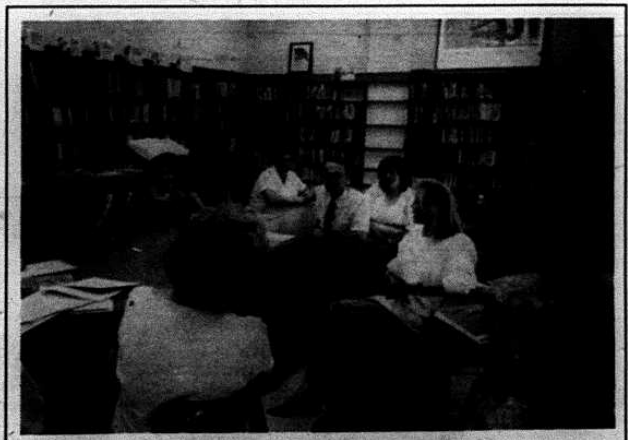

Our system then selected a committee of teachers to begin the work of writing the curriculum guide. Teachers from each school and each grade level worked very hard for four days to help determine what our students should be expected to demonstrate at different levels in the area of writing.

The result of all the hard work was the creation of a "lean and mean user friendly" curriculum guide that our teachers would be able to use as they teach our students how to effectively communicate in the area of writing.

The system has plans to continue curriculum alignment in the other disciplines later in the school year. We want to define what our students in Rockcastle County need to know so they will be able to successfully compete with other students throughout the world.

Professional Development Guest Speaker Dr. Betty Steffy, College of Education, University of Kentucky.
