Livingston report calls water plant condition deplorable

A scathing report by two former licensed operators of the Livingston Water Plant requested by Livingston Mayor Faye Baker has been forwarded to the Signal.

Boyd L. Eversole and Danny R. Bullock made the report.

Earlier the State Division of Water threatened Livingston with a fine for contaminating Roundstone Creek.

The report from Eversole and Bullock has been sent to the Commissioner, Division of Water, Frankfort, and Edgar Hayden, inspector, Division of Water Quality, at London.

The report reads: "When entering the water treatment plant on Saturday morning, September 19, 1992 at the request of the mayor of Livingston, we observed the following:

General condition of the plant inside was deplorable! The floor of the plant was wet and matted with empty and spilled chemical containers including sodium fluoride, aluminum sulfate, and soda ash.

The lower pump gallery was flooded with at least 6" of water, the floor drain was stopped up, and naked wires were exposed just above water.

The sodium fluoride feeder container was not pumping and was leaking out the side of the tank onto the floor of the plant.

A check valve was also gone from the end of the suction line.

The clear well was clouded over to the extent of approximately 12" visibility and very nasty with material floating on the surface. Later, checks showed 14 units turbidity in clear well effluent even after proper treatment had been started. Two other areas within the community also showed no chlorine in water supply.

The chlorine room adjacent to the plant was also wet on the floor with spilled bags of aluminum sulfate all over the floor.

There were numerous leaks in the chlorine feed system which was not calibrated to operate correctly. Feed system was installed with feed line across the front of door. Also, improperly sized chlorinator is extremely difficult to calibrate for this small treatment plant.

We found no visible Monthly Operators Reports to see latest methods or amounts of treatment.

There are no valve box wrenches on hand in case of a line being damaged.

Bulk water hauling was observed being loaded from a water hydrant with a fire hose, unsupervised by anyone.

There is only one raw water pump in service... this pump is in a flood prone pit, and the flood case is removed.

There is also only one high service pump operable in the plant.

Eight HTH swimming pool chlorine capsules were found in the settling basin troughs.

The sewage treatment plant has no chlorination equipment at the plant. The lift station at the north end of the community is out of service and flowing north of the water intake structure.

The water intake itself is in a bad state of repair.

The water line system has known leaks and has not been repaired.

There are numerous customers complaints of their water meters not being read for long periods of time.

The system has been depleted more than once this year of their total water supply and fire protection.

It is common knowledge in this community that some customers buy

Bowling trial begins in London

Ronnie Lee Bowling robbed two Laurel County service-station attendants he killed in 1989, but his main motive was murder, not money, a prosecutor said Monday as Bowling's trial began.

Bill Estep is covering the trial for the Lexington Herald-Leader.

Bowling went to control "whether or not these men continued to breathe," Commonwealth's Attorney Tom Handy told jurors.

"Murder, the intentional taking of a life, was the reason Ronnie Bowling went in to each one to shoot them five times in the head, and robbery was secondary," Handy said.

But Jim Cox, who represents Bowling, said Bowling is a quiet, shy man, not the kind of person who would control badly enough to kill someone. Bowling also did not need to steal because he had money from a lawsuit settlement, Cox told jurors.

The evidence will show that he did not commit these acts," Cox said.

Bowling, 23, of Clay County, is charged with killing Ronald L. Smith and the Rev. Marvin Hensley. He also is charged with two counts of robbery and two of burglary.

Handy is seeking the death penalty.

An assailant shot Smith, 28, six times Jan. 20, 1989, including five times in the head. Hensley, 48, was shot five times in the head Feb. 22 at his service station north of London.

The killer took money at both stations but also left cash behind.

State police arrested Bowling on Feb. 25, 1989, after a shooting at a Mt. Vernon service station.

Station owner Ricky Smith told police that a man asking about a job pulled a pistol and shot at him. Smith said he hid behind a wall and shot back, slightly wounding the gunman and causing him to flee.

Smith called police with a description of the car and state police began chasing the suspect minutes later on U.S. 25 south toward London. The chase led 26 miles to Bowling's home, where police arrested him.

Bowling did not have a gun with him, but police found one lying beside U.S. 25 between Mt. Vernon and the spot where police first saw Bowling.

There were no witnesses to the killings, so the case depends in part on physical evidence, ballistics tests and a lesson in how lead bullets are made.

Tests by the FBI crime laboratory show that at least some of the lead bullets that killed Smith and Hensley were from the same batch as 38-caliber bullets police found in Bowling's trailer, Handy said.

Handy said tests show that the shots that killed the two men came from the gun found beside the road.

Bowling told police he had never owned a gun, but his ex-wife will testify she was with him when he bought that gun, Handy said.

Handy said police found a pair of gloves they say Bowling threw out during the chase. The gloves had lead residue on them, indicating they were used to fire a gun, he said.

Cox, however, said that Bowling's fingerprints were not on the gun or at the crime scenes and that there was no gunpowder residue on his hands. Bowling did not own the bullets police found at his home, Cox said.

Powell retires; McClure in charge

After 35 years worrying about Mt. Vernon water, sewer and streets, Matt Powell Jr. is retiring.

He was treated to a luncheon Wednesday by the city.

Junior, as most know him, became a city employee in 1957 during the administration of Roy Cummins. At the time, Henry Cox was superintendent of water and streets, followed later by Jack Craig.

Junior took over his job as superintendent on March 1, 1974. He had 480 water customers.

His worst problem came in 1976 when there was a water line break at Exit 62 at Renfro Valley. The city water crew worked non-stop for 44 hours to repair the break.

Junior is married to the former Ruby McFerron in 1954. They have two children Melvin and Linda Neal.

He will be replaced by Dennis McClure who has been a city employee since 1982.

McClure will take over Oct. 1.

Fall is here

It was a cold Wednesday morning and it brought Mt. Vernon the first frost of the season.

A low of 35 degrees was recorded at Cox Funeral Home weather station. Some areas may have had lower. It was also the low temperature for the month. The high was 87 on Sept. 10.

For the records, a total of 1.89 inches of rain fell during September. That compares to 1.50 in September 1991.

It's 'Lasses Makin' time

Renfro Valley's usually biggest weekend of the year begins today with the 'Lasses Makin' Festival.

There'll be booths, entertainment and food and molasses-making among other events.

Notice

The City of Livingston is still under a Boil Water Advisory due to construction and breaking of lines, according to Mayor Faye Baker.

The city will be inconvenienced with interference in water service probably until the end of the week, Baker said.

"Rose" retiring after 22 years at post office

By: George Ferrell

Rose Taylor, a local postal worker for the past 22 years, will be taking early retirement with her last day on the job coming Friday.

Taylor started in Renfro Valley and worked there for two years before moving to Mt. Vernon and spending 20 years in the postal service.

"I've seen a lot of people go and come, too," she said.

"Seen a lot of changes and a lot of people."

Taylor chats with many of her customers and is a friendly face when she clerks.

She said the new post office is a big convenience but that computers have made the most difference over the years.

"It was kind of hard to adjust to them because I'd been here several years," she said.

Taylor says she is looking forward to her retirement.

"I just hope to really enjoy my retirement," she said. "I have a new grandbaby that's coming along -- I have six already and I'm expecting a new one in December."

When Taylor started James O. Smith was the postmaster.

"I've met a lot of nice people," she said. "I've had a lot of nice co-workers."

One thing Taylor has witnessed during the past 22 years is growth.

The post office went from 300 boxes to about 1,200.

Childress critical

Willis Childress, 75, of Pur Rigby Road, is in critical condition in U.K. Medical Center following a two car wreck Tuesday on Pur Rigby Road.

The two cars were involved in a head-on collision, according to State Trooper Gary Land.

Damrell found not guilty of charges

Elthur Damrell, 51, of Buffalo Hollow Road, was found not guilty in Circuit Court last week of three charges including the death of Roy Lee Roberts III.

The Rockcastle grand jury charged Damrell in 1991 of manslaughter in the second degree by wantonly causing the death of Roberts by giving him morphine tablets.

Damrell was also found not guilty of trafficking in a controlled substance (morphine).

In a third count, trafficking in a controlled substance by giving three morphine tablets to Maria DeShannon of Berea, he was also found not guilty.

A fourth count, an unlawful transaction with a minor, Damrell was also found not guilty.

Roberts was found dead in a heavily wooded area in Buffalo Hollow in Northern Rockcastle.

Roberts had been dead for about three days and had the focal point of a search.

Deputy Rockcastle Coroner Roy Martin ruled Roberts died of morphine plus alcohol abuse.

Trick or Treat night

Trick or Treat will be Friday night, Oct. 30 from 6 to 8 p.m.

Please wear light clothes that can be easily seen.

Wrecks clog I-75

A pile-up of cars on I-75 Sunday backed traffic from Berea to the Ky. 1505 overpass at Conway.

No local residents were involved, but there was an unusual aspect to the wreck.

A woman from Georgia ran out of gas and parked on the shoulder of I-75. A motor home struck the car (above) and landed on top of it.

The remains of a car involved in an accident on I-75 Sunday. Looking it over are Gary Brewitt, left and Ellis Lackey.

Perot getting back in makes for a "wild card"

COMMENTARY
By: George Ferrell

This week we've had another political iceberg hit the electorate with the announcement that Ross Perot plans to clarify his candidacy, non-candidacy, or endorsement plans this Thursday.

It was hoping that this wouldn't happen.

Perot is trying to position himself so that he can broker the election.

Whichever choice he makes, Perot has already made his mark.

His legions of volunteers and groundswell of support seemed ominous to the two traditional parties just before he pulled out during the Democratic Convention.

There is a lot that traditional politicians can learn from Perot's ascent. The public likes common sense, budget balancing, waste cutting and, all the things that Perot stood for in his brief campaign.

Now, like a phoenix rising up out of the ashes, Perot could come clamouring back into the race.

Not that he shouldn't — he's on the ballot in all 50 states so if he wants to run now is the time.

He also has thousands of volunteers to consider, the very people who spent blood and tears supporting him and getting him on the ballot.

There is also the fact that Perot can, by virtue of his wealth, play with the big boys.

He could very well flood the airwaves with advertising, and, if the message were to click with the electorate, he could gather a large block of votes and some of the electoral college.

I keep thinking of the man who said, when he pulled out, that he did not want to pursue a scenario which he called "an anarchist's dream."

If Perot's candidates were to throw the election into the electoral college, it would leave a sizable mark in history. Many people do not understand the electoral college.

Personally, I think that scenario would be exciting, but then it would put Congress on the proverbial seat.

Should Perot reannounce himself as a candidate, there may be a number of questions he should answer. What are his positions? What are his tax plans? What would he do to balance the budget? What are his plans for the economy?

These and other questions should be on the mind of the American people.

According to some sources, Perot's plans include some taxes, and that might hurt his candidacy with public that feels they pay enough already.

Of course, Perot is free to do as he pleases, and it may well be for the good of the country.

Some of his exploits, notably in the area of POWs who might have been held in Vietnam after the war, have been productive.

There's no reason to say he couldn't make a good president.

On the other hand, he did duck out of the heart of the campaign, hiding from the electorate when the political season was hot.

The public might well wonder if one month is enough to make a meaningful decision about a candidate and their platform.

I'm hoping that Perot won't re-enter the race.

The current two man race is begging to be interesting. A Perot entry would be a wild card that could muddle some of the issues.

Whatever he does, Perot has been an enormous influence in this election year.

Voters listened up when the small Texan carried a big stick.

Perhaps no third party candidate in the 20th century has ever garnered as much support — only to drop out.

Now he may elect to get back in the race — a decision which will mean a lot when the voters go to the polls that first Tuesday in November.

Whatever happens, this election is going to be one to tell the grandkids about.

Well, that's about all for this week.

Points East

By: Ike Adams

We've had dozens and dozens of people call since we lost the Dalmatians three weeks ago. Bean seed correspondents have also been asking that I publish whatever we find out. And even though I would like to get over losing them and even though it breaks my heart, the news is that they are dead. They died under circumstances that I don't want to talk about because it's simply too painful.

Ole Pete (Sweet Pete, I called him) and Dottie are gone wherever good dogs go and I can't imagine Heaven without a dog around. And if the good dogs I have lost over the years are all there and I make it too, St. Peter is going to have to find us a place way out on the back forty. Gonna be a whole lotta barking going on. A whole lot of rolling around and getting licked in the face.

Just after I placed the story about their being gone in the paper, a lady who said she was from Mt. Vernon called Loretta just minutes after I left for work on Friday morning. And since I wasn't around, she vented her wrath on my wife. She was apparently pretty upset about my frank opinions in regards to inadequate law enforcement. And, as I recall, I had few kind words for the local judiciary in that place. There's simply too many crooks getting caught, taken to the courthouse and then turned loose to suit me. There's another bunch that everybody knows about who are either slicker than the police or something else is going on in my opinion. But not according to Loretta's caller who had some choice, descriptive adjectives for yours truly that even I can't get away with putting in the paper.

Anyway, after she had ranted and raved, she proceeded to tell my wife that she wouldn't tell us for the world after what I'd had to say about the courtroom crowd. She knew right where they were and who had stolen them, but hell was going to freeze over before she'd let us know. Because we had it coming according to this wag.

Course it was a bare faced lie. We already knew the dogs were dead and I can only assume that the caller must have gotten off pretty light in court a few times to be feeling so gung ho about the justice system. Probably lied her way out of a few scrapes like she was lying about the dogs. Probably lying too about being from Mt. Vernon because I don't know anybody that hateful there and I do, in fact, know a bunch of people in Mt. Vernon.

Anyway, I hope she's reading this week and still feeling real good about herself. I hope that she's still pleased that she made Loretta cry more than she already had. But what I wish more than anything else is that she'd call me up and tell me a big whopper so I'd have an opportunity to tell her a bit more precisely what she is. Like I said before, there's some stuff that they simply won't print in our newspaper. But if it happens, I can almost guarantee I'll be able to write about it and give you something to laugh about. Keep your fingers crossed. I am.

In the meantime, we have something giving us a ton of laughs. Over the weekend I acquired two six-week old Dalmatian pups. I stopped writing about our pets a few weeks back because putting them in the paper seemed to be a death warrant. Now I'm convinced that writing about them has nothing to do with their fates.

Anyway, I got hold of Jerry and Linda Puckett who live a few miles out of Lawrenceburg where they breed Dalmatians and sell them at affordable prices. I had spoken with some other folks who had their pups priced in the same range as one of the Governor's race horses. Unlike the Governor, however, even these snobs weren't trying to legislate Collies and Hounds and Retrievers and Cocker Spaniels out of business to make their breed more profitable like Brer intends to do every nag that ain't a thoroughbred. I've known for a good long time that Brer Horse was just another greedy sneak looking for a way to line his hip pocket. But I sure never imagined he'd be missing Wallace Wilkinson. At least when Wallop stuck it to you, he did it right out in the open. Brer sticks you in the back and then tries to lie out of it.

Good ole Brer Horse is giving God all the credit for saving his life in that helicopter crash. If I was him, I would be thanking God that those two pilots were in there. If Brer had been in that whirlybird by himself, I gotta feeling she'd have fallen a heck of a lot harder.

But that's beside the point. In fact, that might be a whole column by itself.

Anyway, I drove up to Lawrenceburg late on Friday afternoon and closed the deal on a female pup faster than you can blink your eye. I wanted a male, but they were already spoken for. Then early Saturday morning, Jerry called me back up to let me know another fellow had backed out on a male. Did you ever start to get your pants on and a truck way to Lawrenceburg again before he had time to hang the phone up.

We've named them Pete and Pepper. Chris suggested Pete and Peppete, but we talked him into Peppete. They're asleep at the foot of the bed right now and I have to get them up before they do something on the floor that I can't put in the paper.

I hope we get to watch them grow and become our best friends for years and years. If you've lost a dog or dogs and you're still grieving the way that I have been, go out and get yourself a couple of pups. They'll make you laugh so much and love you so much and keep you so busy that you won't have time to grieve. At least that's the way it's working for me.

And if you're interested in a Dalmatian, Jerry and Linda Puckett are the folks to call. The number is 502-839-7387 and tell 'em I sent you. It might help me get an even better deal the next time I need a dog.

An early Wednesday morning wreck on Old Brodhead road injured an Indiana man.

Wednesday morning wreck injures one

Richard Gootee, 58, of Indianapolis, Ind., was treated at Rockcastle Hospital Wednesday morning following a one vehicle accident on old Brodhead Road in the Mt. Vernon city limits. He was driving a flat-bed truck loaded with lumber for Paul Cummins when he met a truck on the narrow bridge.

The trailer struck the bridge, he lost control and ran into the branch where he struck a second bridge. Gootee was treated for a broken leg and wrist.

Fire season has begun

The official Fall Fire Hazard season starts Oct. 1, and ends Dec. 15, reminds Marvin Stone, Rockcastle County Ranger for the Kentucky Division of Forestry.

During this period, weather conditions are such that the danger of forest fires is very much increased. For this reason, the law prohibits burning anything within 150 feet of any woodland before 4:30 p.m. during Fire Hazard season.

Other laws prohibit burning anything without first taking all necessary precautions to prevent the fire from spreading.

The Kentucky Division of Forestry is using airplanes both to spot forest fires and to detect violations of the law, stated Ranger Stone.

To help reduce the number of fires and to avoid paying a fine for illegal burning, Ranger Stone offers a few suggestions.

First, don't burn anything unless absolutely necessary. If you must burn something, be sure to observe all fire laws, burn only on a day with no wind, and stay with the fire until it is completely out.

For advice on burning safely, weather conditions, fire laws, or to report a forest fire, contact any Forest Ranger or call the Kentucky Division of Forestry office at London, phone 864-9396.

Rogers-Hays to debate

U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers, R-Somerset, and Democratic challenger John Doug Hays of Pikeville will participate next Wednesday in the only debate scheduled thus far between the two candidates for the redrawn 5th District seat, WYMT-TV news director Tony Turner said yesterday.

Rogers and Hays have agreed to a one-hour debate at 7 p.m. in the television station's studio in Hazard, said Turner, who will moderate the event. The debate will be sponsored by the Eastern Kentucky Regional Chamber of Commerce, he said. A reception for the two candidates will begin at 5:30 p.m.

No spectators or other news media members will be permitted inside the studio, but Turner said he would pose questions on behalf of other reporters. A large-screen television will be available for visitors outside the studio, he said.

Kathy C. Stewart received her 5 year service award at the Best Western Kastle Inn Motel on Aug. 27. She will also receive $200 in gift certificates from Wal-Mart.

Rockets average Leslie with 21-14 win; face Somerset Friday

Credit the Rockcastle County Rockets with maybe the biggest emotional victory this year as they whipped the Leslie County Eagles, 21-14, Friday night in front of a capacity homecoming crowd at RCHS.

"I think it could have been the biggest emotional win we've had here in several years," Rockets head coach Tom Larkey said Tuesday.

Larkey's comment could have been directed toward the poor sportsmanship and cockiness of the Leslie team, not to mention last year's, 34-30, loss to the Eagles in one of the most controversially officiated games of last year's season.

Nevertheless, the Rockets prevailed this year with key possession time and solid defense to keep the ball in their hands and not Leslie's. A tactic very successful for the Rockets in the latter part of the game rather than the beginning.

After stopping the Rockets on their first two possessions, Leslie keyed on their passing game during their second possession and, from their own 23 yard line, found an open receiver for a 76 yard touchdown. Although they were denied their two-point conversion attempt by the Rockets' defense, Leslie was successful in posting the early lead, 6-0.

"Our boys proved they had a lot of character and guts," said Larkey. "They got behind twice and came back, they held their composure," he added.

Larkey also felt that Leslie, who was a much bigger and possibly better team, made a lot of coaching errors. One mistake that Larkey felt stood out was when Leslie faked a punt in the closing minutes of the first half.

"I think when Leslie faked their punt, it was a coaching error because we stopped them and came back to score and take the lead before the half," he said.

Indeed, the Rockets took over on Leslie's 49 yard line and found the end zone four plays later. Running back Mikhael Shaffer took the first three carries for 42 yards while quarterback J.D. Russell capped the series with a 12 yard pass to receiver Jason Kirby. Kicker Greg Bowman, who is 10 for 11 this year, nailed the extra-point to allow the Rockets to carry a one point lead into the half, 7-6.

One advantage Leslie did have on the night was that they faced the Rockets without all-state running back J.D. Harris. Harris injured his knee in last week's game with Fleming County and was sidelined for the duration Friday night.

However, filling Harris' shoes in a big way was Shaffer, something Leslie may not have expected. Shaffer took on the Leslie defense with 26 carries for an impressive 149 yards.

"I thought we might have been out-manned without Harris," commented Larkey. "But I can't say enough of how Shaffer performed." "He took over," he said. "He knew he had to and he did."

Another strong point for the Rockets was punter Jason Hunt's performance. Hunt had two punts, one 46 yards and the other 48 yards to keep Leslie well back within their own territory.

Leslie came out of the chute on their first possession in the opening of the second half. After a successful 31 yard drive, Leslie punched in their second and final touchdown on a 15 yard pass. They followed with a two-point conversion to regain the lead, 14-7.

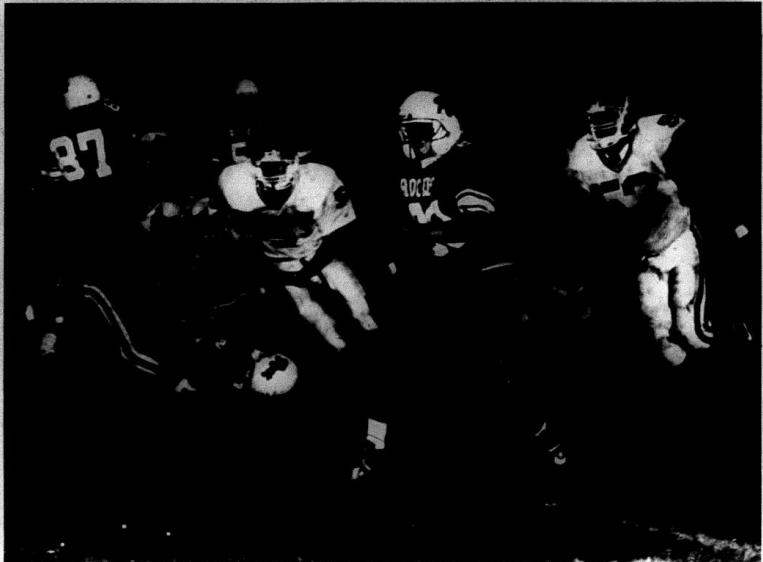

But what followed might have been declared the biggest play of the game. Leslie's kick-off went to Shaffer who charged up the middle for a 55 yard return to Leslie's 43 yard line. From there the Rockets eliminated crucial time by controlling the ball with 11 plays before fullback Bobby Coffey rolled his way in for the touchdown from the three yard line. Bowman's kick was just inches away from being short but was good to give the Rockets a 21-14 lead.

The Rockets' defense, which held Leslie to -9 yards on the ground and 168 from the air, pressed on Leslie's next possession with two outstanding sacks led by Brian Mink and Louis Davis to push Leslie back from their 33 yard line to their four.

Leslie was forced to punt and watch with no timeouts as the Rockets ran the remainder of the clock out for the win, 21-14.

Offensively for the Rockets: J.D. Russell had four rushes for nine yards and five pass attempts with one re-Mikhael Shaffer gains yardage in Friday night's homecoming game against Leslie County. Shaffer had a game high 149 yards and the Rockets went on to defeat the Eagles, 21-14.

Rocket's JV send Laurel running

In one of the wildest finishes this year, the Rockcastle County Rockets' junior varsity chalked up a big 42-0 victory over the visiting Laurel County Cardinals junior varsity Monday night.

Actually, the game concluded six minutes before regulation when the Cardinals left the field in disbelief. Whether it was in disgust for the officiating or for being outplayed on the field, the answer is unclear.

Nevertheless, the Rockets were strong as they posted at least one touchdown in each quarter of play.

Doug Cromer took a 60 yard reception from Aaron Cox to post the first touchdown for the Rockets in the early minutes of the game. Cromer again found the end zone in the second quarter with a 60 yard run. Brian Carter also pulled down two passes from Cox in the same quarter. The first was a 60 yard catch while the second was 12 yards. Cox was credited with two two-point conversion runs to push the score to 28-0 at the half.

Cox carried in the only touchdown for the Rockets in the third quarter on a two yard keeper. Cromer scrambled in for a 20 yard touchdown in the final quarter of play while Mike Tackett finished the scoring with the two-point conversion run.

Head coach Tom Larkey and assistant coach Tony Saylor remain intense after Friday night's homecoming game against Leslie County. The Rockets defeated the Eagles, 21-14.

My Pitch

By Spencer Bengé

If football games were scored by the sportsmanlike conduct of the teams playing, say a rating from 0-10, then this past Friday night's high school action would have been a blow-out.

Rockets - 10, Leslie - 0.

At least that's the way my scorecard would have looked. Truthfully, I don't believe I would have been the only one rating the game as such.

If you haven't caught on as to what I'm talking about then allow me to elaborate.

Last Friday the Rockcastle County Rockets hosted the Leslie County Eagles (the Rockets did win 21-14) in what was supposed to be an entertaining night of high school football. It had all the makings of a good game, two solid teams, a lot of fan support, homecoming night for Rockcastle and, most of all, tremendous tension stemming from last year's match-up when Leslie defeated the Rockets, 34-30, in a game which reeked of poor officiating.

It had everything except..... Integrity, sportsmanship and fair play.

Never before have I witnessed such an unsportsmanlike football team in my life. Unlike most teams, Leslie was not courteous, respectful or faithful to the unwritten rules of fair play on or off the playing field.

Leslie's rude style began before the game with foul language and

Rockets - vs- Eagles

By: Preston Parrett

It was homecoming at the Rock
And many old grads were back.
To enjoy the festivities
And to keep the Rock on the winning track.

School Supt. Towery appeared
What a hard working man He's either groundbreaking or dedicating
And always working as hard as he can.

He dedicated the new facilities
That were the Quarterbacks clubs fondlest dream.
He gave them special thanks along with the taxpayers
And his own administrative staff and team.

The opponents for the night
Were the tough Leslie County Eagles.
And before the game was over
They would be barking like Beagles

In the first quarter Maggard took a 65 year pass from

"My Pitch"

Coach,
And he motored into the endzone
For he was no football slouch.

Maggard was so overjoyed
He taunted the Rocks with fingers and wrist,
But before the game was over
The Eagles would be on the endangered list.

In the second quarter
The Rock took to the air
With Jason Kirby in the endzone Cannonball rifled the ball right there.

So at the intermission
The Rocks had a one-point lead,
And their position was precarious
Very precarious indeed.

At halftime the band and flag girls Performed ably and well for the huge crowd,
Emily Glaser was crowned homecoming Queen
And the cheering for her was loud.

In the third quarter
Coach hit Collins with a pass,

(Cont. From A4)

and Tony Saylor extended their hands for a handshake, they were both kind of half-slapped away by the Leslie coach. And that's not mention how the Leslie players reacted with their stammering remarks.

To be quite frank, there was a whole lot of character displayed by the Rockcastle players to avoid any confrontations. I have to commend them on that.

Bluntly, after what I witnessed Friday night, I have to say that the Eagles were a disgrace to Leslie County. There was absolutely no excuse for their conduct.

It's a shame too, because the Eagles did have a very good football team.

"Rockets beat Leslie" (Cont. from A4)

ception for 15 yards and one touchdown pass; Jason Kirby had one reception for 15 yards and one touchdown; Bobby Coffey had 12 carries for 80 yards and one touchdown; Michael Shaffer had 26 carries for 149 yards and one touchdown and Greg Bowman had seven carries for 41 yards and kicked three extra-points.

Defensively for the Rockets:
Jason Kirby had four solos and two assists; Gordon Sowder had one solo and three assists and two half sacks; Bobby Coffey had three solos and one assist; Jay Stevens had one solo and four assists and three half sacks; Chris Goff had one solo and two assists; Brian Mink had two assists and two half sacks; Louie Davis had two assists and one half sack; J.D.

Bussell had one solo and one assist;
Jason Hunt had one assist; Stacey Kirby had one assist; Michael Sharfer had one assist and Mickey McClure had one assist.

The Rockets will face Somerset Friday on the road. The game begins at 8:00 p.m.

Larkey feels that the Rockets can match-up with Somerset with size, speed and talent as well as anyone they have faced this year. However he feels that Somerset, with a record of 2-3 thus far, is a strong team which they have proven from their schedule this year. Somerset has implemented a different type of defense this year that is hard to analyze. Larkey expects a tough close game and said that the way the Rockets end up in the district this year may depend on the outcome of this game.

One note for the injury plagued Rockets is the fact that Jason Kirby, J.D. Harris, Michael Shaffer and Greg Bowman all have received recent injuries. Status on their playing time for Friday is unknown.

And he took it into
The endzone grass.

The air attack Eagles Went up by seven
And needless to say
They were in Eagle heaven.

The Rocks tightened up their belts
Went right back to war,
Demolition Coffee on a three yard run
Knotted up the score.

Late in the final stanza Missile Shaffer blasted through
And they got revenge on the Eagles
Which was long overdue.

When the Rocks face adversity
The cream always comes to the top,
And that's the reason why
The Rocks are hard to stop.

Congrats to coaches, team and cheerleaders
It was another great game
And you made the "Old Grads" proud
To bear the Rocket name.

Deer bow season opens October 1

Kentucky's deer archery season opens October 1 and will continue through January 15, 1993. The season limit is two deer, only one of which may be an antlered deer.

Hunters required to purchase a hunting license must also purchase a deer permit before deer hunting. Deer permits are available from county court/clerk offices and numerous other outlets such as bait and tackle shops, sporting goods stores, most Wal-Mart and K-Mart stores.

This year, resident and nonresi-dent hunters under age 16 are eligible to purchase a junior hunting license ($4) and will also be eligible to purchase either a two-tag deer permit ($17.50) or a one-tag youth deer permit ($11.50). In past years, all non-resident deer hunters were required to purchase the annual non-resident hunting license ($75) and two-tag deer permit. The requirement change was made to encourage more non-resident hunters to bring younger hunters with them to Kentucky to hunt, and to promote the sport of hunting as an enjoyable activity for youngsters.

According to John Phillips, deer program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR), state deer hunters should experience another good season this fall. Kentucky's deer herd stands between 450-500,000 animals, and about half of the state's estimated 200,000 deer hunters will be successful in harvesting a whitetail this year. Of the approximate 95,000 animals that will be taken, bow hunters will account for eight to 10 percent of the harvest.

"We continue to see expansion of deer numbers in the east, particularly the southeastern part of the state where deer populations have traditionally been lower due to poorer habitat," said Phillips.

"In the central and western two-thirds of Kentucky, our season framework is designed to primarily maintain the present herd level, but in some areas we will reduce deer numbers this season," the biologist explained.

In order to effectively keep deer populations from getting too large, antlered deer must be harvested, which is one reason for the one-buck limit implemented last season for all deer hunters. The one-buck limit also decreases hunting pressure on antler-ed deer, which results in a higher percentage of quality bucks available," said Phillips.

Also in the month of October, Kentucky deer hunters will have the opportunity to use muzzle-loading firearms for deer. The first segment of the muzzle-loading season is Oct.
17-18. Muzzle-loading rifles must be at least 40 caliber and muzzle-loading handguns at least .44 caliber.
Muzzle-loading shotguns must be 10 gauge or larger and used with single-projectile ammunition only.

During any period when firearms are permitted for deer hunting, wearing hunter orange garments on the head, chest and back is required for all hunters. Those hunting deer during archery-only periods are not required to wear hunter orange. Hunter education is now mandatory for all hunters born on or after January 1, 1975 and required to have a hunting license. Those for whom hunter education is mandatory may purchase a license before completing the course, but may not hunt without a hunter education course completion card in their possession.

Kentucky's modern gun season is November 14-23 in most counties.

seasons and hunter education course schedules, contact KDFWR Information and Education Division, #1

Hunting Guide. This guide is also

Miss Autumn

Today I saw a very shy Miss Autumn begin her dressing for the autumn season. As I was driving along I-75 between Berea and Mt. Vernon during the rain storm I witnessed the changing of the deep dark green of late summer into tints and hues of early autumn. This was one of the most subtle changing of colors I have ever seen. The clouds were hanging low and dark over the hills ahead and rain was pelting the road leaving dark streaks wherever it settled. The scene was astonishingly beautiful. The hills were outlined with streamers of white clouds enshrouded with the scurrying darker ones. This contrast of colors brought out the difference in the heights of each hill and made it look as if they had been stacked and designed by artists. I thought of children with their building blocks or lego sets designing now and wonderful scenes of the world. My foot lightened up on the gas pedal and the first thing I knew I was simply crawling along and letting all traffic pass me by. I wondered if I was the only person on the highway that was seeing beauty in this scene. I still wonder about it. Am I such an odd ball as to be the only one on a crowded highway to see beauty in the hills ahead that are covered by rain clouds?

The closer I got to Mt. Vernon the more beautiful the scene became. The wide valley leading to those hills began to narrow and it looked as though the road would end up in some narrow hollow and be lost.

Then in a very dark scope of trees I noticed a dash of dark red and slowed down a little more to try to identify it. Sure enough it was the leaves on a tree that was beginning to change color and I thought to myself, "now when this rain is over the fall colors will be evident everywhere."

Roy Hubbard of Chestnut Grove Road in Brodhead raised a bumper crop of tomatoes this year in his garden. Everyone who knows him says he is an expert gardener. These three yellow tomatoes weighed some over 3 lbs.

"Bowling Trial"

(Cont. From Front)

Cox said Ricky Smith, panicky because of the earlier service station slayings, shot at Bowling, grazing the side of his head.

Smith said that isn't true. Bowling didn't stop for police, Cox said, because he was scared, bleeding and just wanted to get home to his wife. A killer wouldn't go home with police on his bumper, Cox said.

The jury heard 11 witnesses Monday. Family members of Smith and Hensley wept as Handy showed photos of the victims to Laurel County Coroner Ed Bowling.

Among the witnesses was Tim Chappell, 30, a Leslie County truck driver who was in the Laurel County jail with Ronnie Bowling.

Chappell, who faced state and federal charges, said Bowling told him he shot both men.

Bowling said that he didn't know that Hensley was a preacher and that he was sorry he shot him, Chappell said.

Cox challenged Chappell's story, implying he wanted to trade the information for help in his case. Chappell said that wasn't true but admitted the first talk to police about Bowling perhaps being involved in the December 1988 shooting of state Trooper Johnny Erdington even though Bowling had said nothing about that.

Dear Editor,
In response to the Kentucky Supreme Court Decision (9-24-92) that declares the antisodomy law is unconstitutional, let me make a few observations.

The Biblical prohibition of Homosexuality (and Lesbianism) has not been struck down. Rm. 1:26-27 still reads, "For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections for even their women did change the natural use into that which is against nature. And likewise also the men, leaving the natural use of the woman, burned in their lust one toward another; men working that which is unseemly, and receiving in themselves that recompense of their error which was meet." Again I Cor. 6:9-10 we read "Know ye not that the unrighteous shall not inherit the Kingdom of God? Be not deceived: neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers nor effeminate, nor abusers of themselves with mankind (homosexuals NAS), nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards nor revilers, nor extortioners, shall inherit the Kingdom of God." Almighty God's Law cannot be struck down or changed, Homosexuality is still sinful!

Now it's true that people have participated in homosexual behavior through the centuries, but they have also murdered, stolen, have gotten drunk, etc. It saddens me that that the moral restraints that civil law provides has been struck down in this decision. Sure, people are going to steal and murder but should the state abolish the civil laws that restrains such? I wonder how the four justices (that agreed to strike down the state law), would feel if a homosexual approached them, their wives, or their children, to solicit them to have homosexual relationships?

And finally, I would like to commend our own Justice Joseph Lambert and Justices Reynolds and Winters for their dissenting views on this matter. Their views were not only clearly reasoned from a constitutional and historic perspective, but are certainly in keeping from the Biblical prohibition of this immoral behavior.

Dear Editor,

What special people live down here in Kentucky! We were "down home" over Labor Day for the annual Homecoming Day at our old church in Hummel. As usual, we had a good time of fellowship and good food.

But on our way back to Indiana, our car quit on us between Wildie and Roundstone. In just a few minutes three passers-by stopped and offered assistance - a gentleman in a van, a lady in a car, and another lady in a red car, who went out of her way to drive back to Conway to Bill Ramsey's service station. Mr. Ramsey towed us in to Conway. He suggested we get in touch with a local businessman, named Gene Caldwell who might be able to help us. "He is a Christian," he said.

Because of the holiday, all businesses were closed and we couldn't get parts to fix our car until Tuesday. So when we told Mr. Caldwell we were going to rent a car to drive home, he said he would loan us his truck to drive all the way back to Richmond, Indiana!

We accepted his offer and were home in a few hours. We have told family and friends about the nice way these people treated us and their response is usually, "you sure don't find many people like that these days." That is what you call Southern Hospitality.

Yes, there are many good people. We only see and hear all the bad things in the news it seems. We thank the Lord for His goodness to us and that He allowed our paths to cross with these nice people. Mr. Caldwell would not accept any money for the use of his truck, but I'm sure the Lord will bless him in many ways. I thank the Lord for the way He directs our paths and meets our needs. Again, we want to thank the following people: Bill Ramsey, Conway Sunoco, Inc., Mt. Vernon, 256-9833; Gene Caldwell, Thorough Truck, Mt. Vernon, 758-4317; Britton Chevrolet & Olds, Inc. U.S. 25 North, Berea; MaMahans 24-Hour Wrecker Service, Berea.

Dear Editor,

The wild controversy and the presidential candidates is not a new issue. As far as I know about the history on Presidents, I believe President Abraham Lincoln was the only one without an scandalous past. As far as I have read, I doubt if there ever was a scandalous accusation against him.

I suspect President John F. Kennedy was the most notorious of all of the U.S. Presidents and he was well aware of it. President George Bush might lose his race against Bill Clinton. According to reports, Bill Clinton had quite a robust time during his early days of office. He also admits it. After all, do the morals actually amount to anything in politics? Bill Clinton stands for abortion. Which amounts to the taking of the life of another human being. I believe the Americans would like to have a clean minded leader, but I wonder if the immoral candidates are the ones who win.

Cordially,
Margaret Dyehouse

Dear Editor,

Talk in Brodhead is that Ronnie Roark is going to work in Brodhead as Brodhead's policeman and that Joe M. Bussell, myself, is moving to the county as sheriff's deputy.

Joe M. Bussell, have no thought at this time of working for the sheriff's department. I have spoken to officer Roark. He told me he has no thought of working for Brodhead.

I just wanted to let the people of Brodhead know someone has started rumors that are not so.

P.S. I am driving my own 1991 Lincoln at this time for the police department. The city cruiser is in the body shop having some body work done and being painted.

Thank you,
Joe M. Bussell

Dear Editor,

We are writing this letter because we never saw a follow up article in your paper on this subject.

It is extremely sad that it takes a disaster of any type, to show how the people of the United States and a community such as Rockcastle County work together toward one common goal. The disaster that followed Hurricane Andrew did just that.

We were very proud to observe the people of Rockcastle County pulling together to send aid to Hurricane Andrew's victims in Louisiana.

The people who donated their time in packing, the churches, civic organizations, Fire Departments, students of Rockcastle School system, businesses and all others are to be commended for a job well done.

E.J. Taylor of Taylor Produce, Brodhead, deserves a gracious "thank you" from the citizens and organizations who participated in the relief effort. Mr. Taylor was generous enough to donate the use of his warehouse, personnel, equipment, and tractor and trailer and driver for only the cost of the fuel to deliver the supplies to Morgan City, Louisiana.

It is very gratifying to see the people of Rockcastle County pull together and support such an effort in cooperation with the Madison County organizations that contributed. Thank you for a job well done.

Automation and the court system: A Winning Combination

"Sustain," the automated court management system, is now operable in fifty counties across the Commonwealth, including Rockcastle.

"Sustain" is a personal computer-based case processing system for the trial courts. The system records every event which takes place from the moment a district or circuit case is filed in the clerk's office.

The system schedules court dates and produces a court calendar for use by the district and circuit judges. In addition, statistical reporting through the system's index is accurate and timely.

"Sustain" has eliminated inefficiency and lost labor time generally associated with manual court management. Chief Justice Robert F. Stephens noted "the automated system is evidence of legislative and judicial commitment to addressing court related issues including case load and docket management."

Recognized as a forerunner in technology and innovations in the court system, the Commonwealth will be completely automated by the end of the 1994-95 fiscal year.

Money Matters

A Series Of Informative "Plain Talk" Thoughts Regarding Your Money Matters

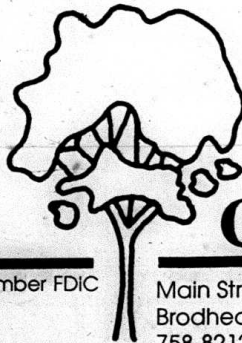

Financial Freedom

Achieving financial freedom is a tall order for anyone. It takes hard work, patience, and a whole lot of doing without.

Saving is one of those things that takes time before you really begin to see the progress that's being made. When you think of long term goals, such as attaining freedom financially, there is a tendency to lose sight of the fact that you reach the goal by doing the right thing on a day to day basis.

If you save every week, a geometric progression occurs by which you earn interest, and then you earn interest on the interest. With time this accelerates and before you know it, you've reached your goal - one day at a time.

FHA names its officers; planning active school year

by Callie Mullins

The Rockcastle County High School chapter of the Future Homemakers of America has already elected five new officers and is getting started on its 1992-93 projects.

The new officers are: Kim Shivel, parliamentarian; Gail Belcher, activity leader; Shauna Stevens, vice president of achievement; Donna Cash, treasurer; and Amy Childress, historian.

Officers from last year holding an office again are: Angie Parsons, vice president of star events; Brandi Chasteen, secretary; Kim Kirby, vice president of programs; Tracy Todd, president; and Callie Mullins, reporter.

With this new crew in for the 1992-93 school year, FHA is planning some big projects.

A seat-belt awareness project is planned to relay to students and to the community the importance of buckling-up.

Adding to their environmental education program (Adopt-A-Highway project) the club plans to place recycling receptacles in the school halls.

Officers also plan to get involved in REAP by helping with Hospice and the food drives.

Another goal for the year is to promote responsible sexual decisions among teens. They plan to educate about AIDS and encourage abstinence.

An anti-drug/alcohol campaign is also being arranged. Officers plan to work with the Teen Leadership Council (TLC) to help with this project. They hope to sponsor an anti-drug multi-media presentation for the student body.

For their goal of promoting world wide brotherhood, the officers have decided to adopt an orphan in Honduras, have foreign pen-pals for interested students, and sponsor a multi-cultural fair with foods from other countries.

FHA has always been known for providing wholesome recreation, and this year will be no different. The club will sponsor school dances, a track and field day, Prom Review, and a parent-member banquet.

Their goals to promote patriotism and school spirit will include helping with the 1992 election, encouraging each member to say the pledge, and supporting athletic programs.

A community program that the officers and members plan to become involved in is the annual blood drive. They also plan to get a project going with the nursing home and Family Life Center and will be continuing and adding to their Bid Buddies program which was carried out with the help of the Youth Services Center.

With such a busy year ahead of them, the officers and advisors are still making plans to attend the annual National Cluster Meeting.

This year it will be held in Albuquerque, New Mexico. They will be taking off on November 13. This cluster meeting will give the officers valuable information to complete their active year.

1992 FHA officers and advisor are: June Stevens, advisor; Brandi Chasteen, secretary; Tracy Todd, president; Donna Cash, treasurer; Callie Mullins, reporter; Shauna Stevens, vice president for achievement; Amy Childress, historian; Gail Belcher, activity leader; Kim Shivel, parliamentarian; Angie Parsons, vice president for star events.

Bunnell Rehired

Dr. Paul G. Bunnell has signed a five-year contract (1992-1997) with the Board of Trustees for his services as president of Sue Bennett College, announced Ed LeMaster, Chairman of the Board of Trustees of the College.

Dr. Bunnell came to Sue Bennett College on August 1, 1991. During the first year of his administration, the college added a four-year baccalaureate degree program in business administration and a two-year pre-nursing program. Five new sports - men's and women's soccer, men's and women's cross country, and volleyball - have been added to the athletic program.

Trish Goforth, Brian Thacker and April Thorpe are three Big Buddies in the FHA Big Buddies/Little Buddies Program. A Little Buddy enjoyed a trip to the Lexington Children's Museum set up by FHA and the Youth Services Center.

FHA and FFA members worked hard on Highway 150 on their joint Adopt-A-Highway project. Jamie Cromer, Jason Goff, Shauna Stevens, Doug Smith and Mrs. June Stevens helped pick up the littered highway.

Livingston Link

The Livingston P.T.O. membership drive ended Sept. 15 with 120 percent increase in membership. We commend the efforts of the committee: Martha Eversole, Carolyn Phelps, Sandy Nolan, Mary Leach, Connie Hamilton, and Patricia Martin. The school faculty and staff, and especially our parents. There were over 60 parents present at the Tuesday night meeting. Kathy Carpenter, P.T.O. president expressed much excitement over the turnout. Mr. Carter talked with parents about his goal of giving each child at school the opportunity to get the best education possible. He encouraged parents to see that their child attended school each day. He emphasized the importance of monitoring students homework and progress. Also that parents discuss the importance of school rules with their children.

Mrs. Cummins pooled parents on talents they have concerning Kentucky culture. Many parents and community members have a wealth of knowledge that can be utilized at school. Parents and community members have volunteered to share these talents at school - teachers have received a copy of the topics they can implement in their Kentucky schoolwide unit. We want to encourage everyone to get actively involved in planning a display for our celebration on October 20. If weather permits these displays will be set up outside. Such activities as soap-making, quilting, trapping, Indian relics, etc. are scheduled to be on display Oct. 20. Contact LES at 453-2121 or be present at the Tuesday, Oct. 6 P.T.O. meeting to get more information.

After the P.T.O. meeting on Sept. 15, primary students performed in the gym. A short play about Daniel Boone was enjoyed by all. The following students did a great job acting: Cole Hammond, Tammy Peyton, Chris Kirby, Justin Woodall, Jessica Carpenter, Ashley Francisco, Alex Martin and Joseph Clark.

After the play all P3 and P4 students performed the Kentucky Reel under the direction of Ms. Fain, Mrs. Cowan and Mrs. McClure. The highlight of the evening was Primary students showing teachers and parents how to dance the Kentucky Reel. We thoroughly enjoyed watching Mr. Carter glide across the floor as he led the last dance. Congratulations to Mrs. Eversole's class for winning the field trip sponsored by the P.T.O. There were 17 representatives present. You did a great job 4th grade!

"We've had our heat pump four years...and couldn't be happier!"

—David Miles, Richmond, Ky.

"This house is twice the size of our previous one, which was heated with LP gas. But the heating cost is the same!

"The heat pump keeps all the rooms comfortable. It's a lot cleaner than gas. We've got the benefit of both heating and cooling. And it's quiet.

"We don't have a humidifier, but the heat pump doesn't dry the air out as bad as gas does. And we don't have any trouble with static electricity.

"I always recommend that people consider the electric heat pump—especially those out in the country who are unhappy with oil, and unhappy with the fluctuations in LP gas prices. Electricity prices are more stable."

Get the full story on the advantages of the electric heat pump—the all-in-one heating and cooling system. Contact a customer service representative at the local KU office or your heating and cooling dealer.

More than $68,000 in scholarships will be awarded in 1993 through the eighth annual Showcase. Competitions will be held in Art, 2-D and 3-D; Music, vocal and instrumental; Journalism; feature writing and essay; Speech, Chess, Computer problem solving and Math.

Students entering the English and Journalism categories must also submit their entries with their registrations on December 2.

Since the Academic Showcase was started by Lexington Mayor Scotty Basler in 1985, about 482 scholarships totalling more than $300,000 have been awarded to students from over 250 Kentucky high schools.

A large portion of the funds raised for the scholarships come from an annual televised auction. The program is also underwritten by private sponsors.

Our sponsors include Ashland Oil Foundation, Central Bank, Commercial National Bank, Liberty National Bank of Lexington, General Telephone Company of the South, Greater Lexington Convention and Visitors Bureau, and Kentucky Central Life Insurance.

Protective Parenting

By Ginny Gilpatrick

For those of you who missed Sandy Queen at the high school last Thursday night, you missed not only an entertaining speaker, but also a great gathering of the community and some good food. Whenever parents come together it strengthens the bond that reinforces each one's determination to be a good parent. We are all in this business together and the product, of course that is all striving for a responsible, capable, enlightened, self-confident new generation.

I would like to underscore one point that Sandy Queen made. She talked about the normalcy and healthiness of adolescents' questioning, ignoring, and even defying their parents. She illustrated her point by saying that if children are chastised every time they say "no" to their parents, they will be less capable of saying an effective "no" to negative peer pressure. A child who is brought up to be compliant all the time will be compliant with his friends, as well.

A child does not wake up on the morning of his 18th or 21st birthday and suddenly be an adult. There is a weaning process which takes place over many years so that he is capable of standing on his own two feet. When a child begins to think for himself he is awkward at first. He may feel defensive because he is not used to getting his own way if it is different from that of his parents. The foul language and tears and stomping out of the house are all ways of protecting himself from his fear of defeat and embarrassment about his feeble ability to get his parents to take him seriously. It is a smoke screen of bravado to hide the insecure child. The emerging 'man' and 'woman' in the child is proud.

But challenge he must. Each person must develop his or her own set of internal values if he is going to have a clear, strong base from which to live his life. These values are usually very close to those of the parents, but they must be adopted anew in order to work for the new adult. It is kind of like trying on a pair of jeans in the store; they may fit fine, but they don't really feel like they are yours until you take them home, wear them, and run them through the washing machine a few times.

So when you feel like your kids have put you through the washer-even the wringer-remember they are going through an important process in their development. If they can't find the courage to do it in their teenage years, they will rebel in their early to mid twenties in one way or another. Delayed adolescence is far more emotionally traumatic and destructive than the normal sequence of events.

Parents must keep control of important issues while their children are testing the waters, but they should not be so rigid that their kids cannot ever make some mistakes to learn from. Sandy Queen's main message was for parents to keep a sense of humor...to laugh at those things that they can with their kids and save the voice of authority for priority issues that are not negotiable.

on the bookmobile. Also committee members, John McQueary, Karen King, Buzz Carlolius, Sue Hamm, Allen Penzol, Carol Bryant, Pam and myself, will be taking these surveys to different organizations and schools. If you can't come into the library, please ask any of the members for one.

This will be a chance for you to let us know your likes and dislikes. We want to make this library a place that everyone will enjoy coming in to visit. We have services for both information and pleasure.

A new non-fiction book that should be really popular is: First Hand Knowledge: How I Participated in the CIA-Mafia Murder of President Kennedy by Robert D. Morrow. Mr. Morrow, a senior CIA agent, reporting to the head of covert operations, reveals the extraordinary plan that resulted in the assassination of JFK. Now he tells the whole story for the first time.

The astonishing story that Robert Morrow tells is complete, uncensored and terrifying. He names the conspirators and explains the circumstances that caused the American intelligence community to conclude that President Kennedy was too soft on communism, a threat to the Mafia status quo and a betrayer of the Cuban freedom fighters.

First Hand Knowledge is the unbelievable-yet-true newsbreaking account of Morrow's years with the world's most powerful clandestine organization—a government agency that deliberately lied to and manipulated the American public, playing deadly games with those who crossed their paths and purposes.

A new fiction book that should be available is...The Silken Web by Sandra Brown. Sandra Brown is one of the country's few authors to have three novels on the best-seller list at the same time. Now the authentic emotion, irresistible characters, and unexpected plot twists that are the hallmarks of Sandra Brown's writing are about to thrill her new readers as well as old in this, her classic story.

The attraction between Kathleen Haley and Erik Gudjonson was instantaneous, intense, and overwhelming. A beautiful, sophisticated young fashion buyer, Kathleen was ophelated at the first time his attitude toward relationships and his career changed forever.

A totally riveting, emotional tale of a woman and the two men who love her, The Silken Web is a compelling Sandra Brown creation—beautifully written and plotted and not to be missed.

We also have purchased several new children's books that are sure to be enjoyed. 1. More Scary Stories by Alvin Schwartz 2. The Magic Pumpkin by Bill Martin 4. M & M and the Halloween Monster by Pat Ross. Also the 1993 Information Please "Student Almanac." This is a book of fast facts for students and should be useful in preparing reports.

In Memory

In loving memory of our daughter Mildred Ann Bullock who would have been 20 on this third day of October.

We were all so happy this past Easter Day

When suddenly God sent his angel down and took you away

We don't understand the reason why

All we can do is miss you and cry.

Perhaps he took you because

Your pathway was filled with many sorrows

So he took you home for some better tomorrows

And as we sit here and wonder the why's

We wipe the tears from our eyes

But we have God's promise that some day

We will meet you again in heaven above

Once again to share in our love.

Sadly missed by Mom and Dad, sisters and brothers

"To have known her was to love her."

Federal court gets annex

The federal budget includes $2 million to build an annex to the U.S. Courthouse in London.

U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers, R-Somerset, said yesterday that the General Services Administration is studying space requirements at the London courthouse. That process could be completed in four to six weeks, and bids to build the annex could be taken by the end of this year.

"This project will be built," said Rogers, who is running for reelection. Court officials have long said that more space is needed at the London federal courthouse.

Hurricane Andrew relief supplies reach Louisiana

By: LuEd Nielson

Mother Nature reeked havoc on the coast of Louisiana, along with total devastation to the Miami, Florida area, in the form of Hurricane Andrew. The storm formed in the Atlantic and never strayed from the course it chose to take. It aimed for the Miami area and went in with winds that were totally unbelievable. After seeing how Camille made her delectable appearance and then being in Houma, La. when Hurricane Juan came through that area in 1985, I was not prepared for the utter devastation that I saw when my daughter, Cathy, and I traveled to the Morgan City, Patterson, Berwick and Centerville area of St. Mary Parish, Louisiana.

I want to thank those who helped get a truck sent to Louisiana with relief supplies. I would like to thank Taylor's Produce for the semi-truck that we were able to make full. There was room for two pallets, so there was a lot of supplies sent to the Morgan City area. After finding out about Kevin Fletcher and Bobby Bailey working with Kiwanis and the Mt. Vernon Fire Department, I worked through the American Red Cross in Morgan City and the St. Mary Outreach Program and Ministerial Alliance to coordinate our efforts so that we could avoid duplication and also to know where the supplies were most needed and get them to the people. The first few attempts to get through by telephone were very difficult. The American Red Cross building and the Police Department had been blown away during the storm. The telephone company tried to help but it was impossible to get phone numbers. I finally got my daughter-in-law and she was able to put me in touch with the temporary Red Cross office. At this time the work began. I contacted several people and was put in touch with Reina Manville at St. Mary's Outreach Program. She told me the things that were needed desperately and where we needed to take them. Of course so many buildings were damaged it was necessary that we had a loading dock and forklift available to unload after we got the truck there.

A call went out for donations of supplies and I was soon contacted by Felicia May at Citizens Fidelity Bank in Richmond. Her daughters attend the local La. School in Richmond and 10 years ago adopted Raceland Jr. High, Raceland, La. (This happens to be where my son, his wife and three children live), and they wanted to help Louisiana. Felicia called the radio station, newspaper, and other banks and spent a week at that area, and it was to go with our truck from Rockcastle. I then heard from a representative of the Berea School District and Bobby Joe Whitaker wanted to get the schools there involved in collecting paper supplies and personal needs items and a drive was started there. Next we found out that there were 50 sheets of plywood to be donated by Berea and also 100 cases of corn from a trucking company in the Richmond/Berea area. The ball was rolling now. The Rockcastle County Schools got involved and canned goods were collected for our Louisiana trip at Livingston, Brodhead and Roundstone. Mt. Vernon Elementary collected for the relief trucks that left from Lexington going into Miami.

I contacted Father Carl Johnson to see if any Catholic Bibles could be donated. This is predominantly Catholic and this is a time when faith is needed. Thank you for donating Bibles. Also, Mt. Vernon Pentecostal donated some hymnals. Churches lost everything, as well as people losing homes and businesses.

Thursday afternoon, Sept. 3, Becky Segraves, Sherry Bullock and myself began separating, sorting, boxing, labeling, and rearranging the boxes that were ready to go. We spent all afternoon and evening at the Mt. Vernon Fire Department, while others (I have no names) worked at the Brodhead VFD. We were very happy with the response, but we really needed some help as boxes of water, formula and canned goods are extremely heavy. We finally called it a night and went home to return the next morning. On Friday we received a lot more goods and finally Kevin Fletcher got a large rental truck that we could load what had been sorted and give us more working room. After some volunteer help from Denver 77, who had dropped off some bottled water, we got the truck loaded. During the afternoon we received word that Centre College in Danville was coming in a van with supplies. They unloaded in Brodhead. The American Red Cross brought several van loads and an Overbay truck to Taylor Produce. We were working in all directions. This was a wonderful community, county, and individual effort.

I would like to thank everyone who donated items to this relief effort. I know that the Electronic Dealer in Richmond donated two vacuum cleaners which I had delivered to Rev. Reina Manville in Berwick. I am not sure of all the other people who donated, but thank you from the people in St. Mary Parish, Louisiana. The papers that I took of the devastation were lost due to my camera malfunctioning, but I had taken a picture of a sign in Berwick which thanked everyone for helping them in their time of need. I went to a Mass Feeding Center in Franklin, La. which was by the Red Cross and the South Baptist Association and they were feeding many people. The problem that they encountered was being shot at the first night that they set up their kitchen, in talking with Cal Jones, the director, about getting people to eat at the shelter and the fact that there was still no power and power was not expected to be re-

SIDS Awareness Week is October 11-17

In Kentucky last year, 89 families suffered the loss of a baby to SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome), also known as crib death.

Counselors say that families who go through this tragedy need support and a special kind of understanding from their friends and loved ones. Gov. Bretoner C. Jones has proclaimed Oct. 11-17 as Kentucky SIDS Awareness Week.

"The loss of a child is the most enormous loss parents will ever bear and when a child dies of SIDS, the parents' grief is often magnified because of feelings of guilt over their child's death," said Diana Napier of the rockcastle County Health Department.

SIDS is defined as the sudden and unexpected death of a seemingly well infant whose death remains unexplained after an autopsy.

"When doctors cannot give parents a reason for their child's death, many times the parents end up blaming themselves. They believe they did something wrong or failed to do something that resulted in the death."

"What we have to let them know is that this kind of blame is totally unwarranted," Napier said. "Babies have died from SIDS in the hospital with doctors and nurses looking on."

Medical research has produced various theories about the cause or causes of SIDS deaths, but no one knows what it happens or how to prevent it. To help families through a baby's SIDS death, the state Department for Health Services has a network of SIDS counselors at health departments throughout the state.

Ida Lyons, R.N., state coordinator of the department's SIDS program, says that counselors can help families by answering questions and providing factual information. "When counselors learn of a SIDS death in their area, the parents are approached with an offer of assistance," she said.

If they are interested, the SIDS counselor meets with them to answer questions, provide information and just to listen to what the family needs to express. Lyons says that many times brothers and sisters of the child also need to talk with someone about questions and fears that they have. Children have a hard time understanding what has happened to their baby brother or sister," she said. With parents going through a rough time, it is often hard for them to focus their attention on the other children.

"Although we can't give families an answer to every question, especially the most troubling one - 'Why did it happen?' - we can give them the factual, medical information that reinforces the family is not to blame."

Families in Rockcastle County can receive a SIDS counselor by calling Diana Napier at the Rockcastle County Health Department at 256-2242.

Kentuckians can also contact Ida Lyons, SIDS Coordinator, Department for Health Services, 275 E. Main St., Frankfort KY 40621. Her telephone number is (502) 564-3236.

Gov. Bretoner C. Jones declared Oct. 11-17 as Sudden Infant Death Syndrome Awareness Week in Kentucky. Looking on as he signed the proclamation are Patricia Nicol, M.D., Department for Health Services maternal and child health director; Ida Lyons, R.N., SIDS program coordinator, Department for Health Services; Beverly Stewart, R.N., chairperson, state SIDS Advisory Committee and SIDS parent; and Richard Greathouse, M.D., state SIDS program consultant and Louisville-Jefferson County coroner.

Roamin' Rockcastle

BY HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

If you didn't know by the calendar that we're into October, one of the cool fall months, then the weather such as we've had lately will tell you.

Our garden looks so bare with the potatoes dug, corn cut and stalks fed to the neighbor's horses and stock with the ears of corn taken off of course and put in the freezer.

John went to our neighbor, Arthur Davidson, this past week looking hungry, so Arthur gave him a "sugar squash" for me to cook. Hope I can do that but I'm not much on cooking strange vegetables.

I'm trying to get John to go next visiting Howard Woodson and his wife who live up the road near us. Howard might help us out this winter.

Lee Abney told me he didn't like the preserved turnips I meant to give him for his helping me with the ducks but he said he could eat peach preserves.

I took him a jar but that was a big mistake for when he opened the jar at the supper table he said Edna, Geneva and wife Kaye sure are some with the hot biscuits that Geneva had made. Anyway, my debt is paid.

I stopped at George Bryant, Berea City Councilman's home to check on the great looking baskets of apples that he had on his porch.

His pretty wife, Christine, came out on the porch and talked to me about them as George had gone to a meeting.

Christine said they had Grimes Golden and the Red Delicious apples. I learned George doesn't give samples of the fruit but she had a basket of red tomatoes that had come from their garden so she gave me some of those. I told her I would be back with a man who carried his money deep in his pocket and we'd try to get him to bring some out.

If you've heard of boys being "once a man and twice a child" in their lifetime, then I'll point you to one

John E. Gabbard, a cousin of my John.

I don't know if John E. is in his first childhood or second one but you can judge when I tell you this tale.

One day coming home from town, I pulled up to a red stop light and another truck pulled up in the right lane and stopped too. I glanced over and to my surprise, I saw John E. with his head hanging out the truck window and a tongue stuck out at me!

The lights changed and all traffic moved on with me laughing so hard at John and I said I'd tell this on him!

In Long John Silver's restaurant, we saw Winona Thomas and Bernice Robbins. Winona said she had been in Lexington the past week visiting Bob and Helen Abney who won't claim kin to me but I'll take Bob a cooked possum if he still likes them. Though I'm from the hills we kin-folks never hold a grudge against one nuther.

Winona said Bob played golf in the Senior Golf Classic as Helen and Winona followed him around the course.

Joe Abney was bent over a piece of machinery on Clear Creek where we stopped by.

"What's new?" John asked him. Joe raised up from where he was bending, wiped the sweat from his face with a big red handkerchief and said, "Lord, I'm so tired of eating possum no matter how Ruth fixes it. I'm telling you I'd like to have it a good old wild turkey. Man, that's what I call good eating!"

"Where are they? Have you seen any?" John was excited.

"They tell me they are all in these hills. As soon as tobacco is cut, I'm going to find me one!" Joe told John.

Brother Steven Cole, our pastor at Galilee Baptist Church made this statement at the beginning of his sermon on Sunday which was very interesting.

He said God didn't want us to call another "fool." But God himself did that saying there were four fools spoken of in the Bible. The first fool said, "There is no God." The second one did not believe in God. The third fool said sin was a joke and the fourth fool put his trust in material things of this world (like money).

One of the best songs that I've heard lately has these words in it: "Because he lives, we can face tomorrow."

Brother Cole sang it and asked the church members to join him in singing the song. It stirred emotions within home for I know you spent all you cash, and had to work to get back. Virginia ought to leave you wherever you went for all this trouble you give her everytime you leave town!" I scolded him good naturedly.

Conley was grinning as he said, "Well, I sassed oranges for shipping out one of the big orchards in Florida. Made good money too only Virginia wouldn't help this time. She wore her bathing suit and stayed on the beach which was my dad's job."

There was no tie on Mike Gaye at church Sunday. I only saw him wearing one once and I wondered who he was trying to make a show for. It didn't do him any good, I guess, so he's back without a tie. A bright red tie would have done the job. It's great in romance.

We were in Anglin Falls country Sunday after church and stopped at Laura and Kaye Clark's house to see if they had any chicken and dumplings left. That's what she told me the day before that she was having for Sunday dinner.

Laura was gone but she told me later that her son, Jim, from Somerset came and took Kaye and her to his home for dinner.

When I heard that Conley Saylor and his wife Virginia, owners of Superior Market in Berea, had gone on a vacation, I told one of the girl clerks I didn't want to know "where" but he would tell me how they got home. I would know where Virginia and Conley had been.

I'll explain. You see, every year Conley takes his pretty wife, Virginia, on a vacation trip. But the sad part is he never has enough money to pay their way back home.

One year they went to Florida and Conley had to help pick tomatoes (he said) on a big farm to make expenses home.

The next year his news was that he and Virginia went to Hawaii and he had to help cut sugar cane to get their tickets home.

So I was going to make a guess as to where they had been.

I was in the store the morning after they came back and there was Conley all smiles as if he meant to beat me at my own game.
