Wanted-Family in need during holidays

If you are aware of a family in need this Thanksgiving or Christmas, or if your family is in need, please contact the Department for Social Services located in the Scott Building on West Main Street in Mt. Vernon.

The Rockcastle County Department for Social Services Office will be distributing applications for Thanksgiving baskets and Christmas gifts between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday until November 13. Applications must be completed and returned no later than November 13. Selection of families who will receive a Thanksgiving basket or Christmas gift will be determined by the amount of donations received by DSS and R.E.A.P. Families with exceptional need will be given priority. Anyone wishing to donate gifts or money for the needy can contact the Department for Social Services at 256-2138 or R.E.A.P. at 256-9599.

Any person or group making Thanksgiving baskets or Christmas gifts, please contact DSS or R.E.A.P. so there will not be duplication in families receiving items. We want to give to as many families as possible.

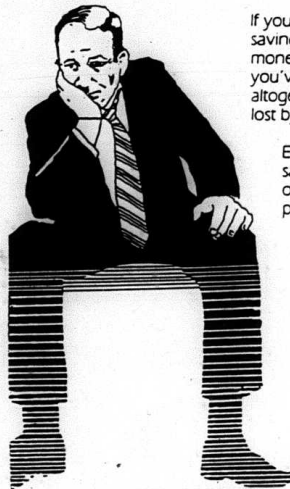

Politics and Music Highlighted on KET

The first week in November on KET features, appropriately enough, politics, both state and national, blended with vintage cabaret music and the country sound of Rosanne Cash, plus a new season of Sneak Previews and, to top it off, New Orleans cuisine and jazz.

Popular School Reform series for parents returns to KET lineup

School Reform: Answers for Parents returns to the KET schedule in November after a four-week interruption for KET's Health Care in Kentucky series. School Reform: Answers for Parents will air at 9 p.m. Thursdays beginning November 5 on KET.

YOU'VE LOST INTEREST

If you have made several attempts at saving money, only to end up taking the money out for one reason or another, you've probably lost interest in saving altogether. But think of the interest you've lost by not saving!

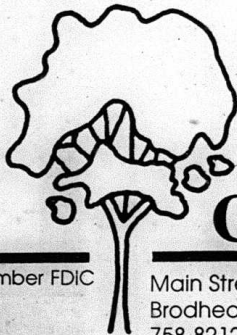

Every day that goes by that you don't save, you're losing interest. Regardless of how much money you make, it is possible to save.

It's a matter of priorities. Put yourself first, start saving today before you lose any more interest.

and helps them to find nearby veterinarians who participate in our network. These are the finest veterinarians in the country, people who care about the pet overpopulation problem, and who offer spaying and neutering at a reduced rate for people who cannot afford the full price. At this time cats and dogs are being killed at the rate of one million each month at pounds and shelters across the country because there are not enough homes for them. About seven dogs and cats are born for each human born so there can never be enough homes for them all until the birthrate is brought down sharply. We encourage people to spay and neuter their cats/dogs, and hope that we will find a fine local veterinarian in London to join our network.

Dear Editor,

'A little bit about Perot.'
Perot would consider eliminating Social Security and Medicare for the wealthiest Americans. He advocates placing severely disadvantaged children in government funded homes soon after birth to get them away from unstable environments.

What salesman and managers from IBM said about Ross' guy.

"He was not a team player and he was not comfortable working within the frame work of business ethics that IBM had adopted.

Perot sold a computer 7090 which retailed for up to $5 million. That was never actually installed. They didn't have room in the school for that computer they bought. The school bought a much cheaper one.

Perot walked away with a commission on the original order.

C.B., a former executive said the problem he had with Perot was that if the game doesn't go the way Ross wants it to go he keeps trying to change the rules so that he wins.

A.W. recalls being confronted with a stream of complaints from Perot. He had his organization geared to route even the slightest provocation to his personal attention so he could file a formal complaint. Some feared that Perot would harass them in the end.

Dear Editor,

People need to know Bill Clinton better. His father died before he was born, Clinton's mother remarried and Clinton had three or four stepfathers and one half brother.

Clinton was raised among black people but Clinton didn't play with black children.

After Clinton was elected governor of Arkansas, a lawsuit was filed against the state and Clinton personally charged that the Child Welfare system was riddled with abuse and neglect and Clinton had paid scant attention.

Clinton said parents who don't attend teachers meetings will be fined $50 for each one starting in 1993. Poor people in Arkansas pay sales tax on food they buy. Clinton has raised sales tax on the poor three or four times to give more money to teachers.

Clinton boasts about jobs, his jobs are mostly poultry industry, thousands of chicken growers and processing plant workers suffer from low wages and harsh even crippling working conditions. Most chicken laborers are unskilled and barely educated.

Clinton is for Gay Rights, if elected he will have them in the White House. That is wrong, God made women for men.

Clinton said that government should not have the power to send its citizens to war.

Dear Editor,

On Oct. 21 the eight county Cumberland Valley ADD Board (which includes Rockcastle County) met at London and discussed the proposed incinerator to be built in Corbin. A large group of citizens attended to oppose the polluting incinerator. The ADD Board assured us that they were simply signing a letter to support the City of Corbin's investigation of the incinerator plan.

However, the later dated Oct. 2, 1992, addressed to Corbin's Mayor Thurston and the Johnson Mgmt. Co. (the incinerator builder) states: "We, the CVADD Board, believe the technology exists to allow for such a facility and at the same time protect the health and safety of surrounding residents." Where on earth did they get this conclusion?

This no mere support for an objective endorsement of the incinerator project! When I told this to the ADD Board, they disregarded my objection as they proceeded to vote their support for the letter. (Judge Ex. Hinkle of Knox County was the only Board member to oppose the letter.)

The evidence of the hazards of incineration presented by citizens were passed over by the Board. If the ADD Board is serious about objectively evaluating incineration and the alternatives, as they assured us, why did they sign this letter?

Sincerely,
Andy McDonald

Dear Editor,

I want to commend the FHA members of Rockcastle County High School and let the parents and teachers know how well-mannered their young people are.

I spoke at the FHA October meeting last week. Seventy-five plus students listened attentively to a talk on Waste Management in Rockcastle County. Garbage is not the most interesting subject. The students showed the utmost respect. They seemed genuinely concerned about the problem of trash in our county.

And they are doing something about it: they have adopted a road, and they have begun a recycling project.

Here's hoping a lot of adults will follow their example!

Dear Editor,

In a very few days, fifty states of America will be facing another election day. Will we be on Easy Street as a result, or what can we expect? The brink of disaster could be the result.

We are all looking for the best candidate to win. Can we expect the best to be in full control of the right thing to do? The truth remains, that our creator is still in full control.

A couple of mud-slinging, luxury-clutching, power crazed candidates will have more control than a small boy driving a gaggle of geese.

I pray that we have enough Christians in the voting line this year, more than before. Do we have another Honest Abe, up for election this year?

Thank you, I remain as ever,
Margaret Dyehouse

Annual Cub Scout Camp-Out held at Richmond

On October 2 and 3, the annual Cub Scout Camp-out was held at the Bluegrass Army Depot in Richmond. It was an overnight camp-out with songs and games around a bon fire. The next morning the boys enjoyed walking a one rope bridge, watched how to shoot black powder rifles and archery.

October Monsters
By: Preston Parrett

The golden October moon
Was hovering in the sky,
Looking down upon the earth
Amazed at the view from on high.

For ghosts were swinging
From every limb and tree,
The white sheets and painted heads
Were a ghastly sight to see.

Fodder shocks in every yard
With scary pumpkins lying around,
Orange trash bags with horrible faces
Were glaring up from the ground.

Porch lights were on at every house
Who were dressed in every fashion
That was known to mortal man.

Some were dressed as Pirates
With one eye shining bold,
Others were Ninja Turtles
With colors of green and gold.

Some had polka dot suits
And were dressed as a clown,
Others had on Superman togs
And were flying upside down.

Batman and Robin
Joined the monster crew,
Along with Little Red Riding Hood
And a vicious wolf or two.

In each hand was carried
A trick or treat bag,
Decorated in scary colors
To carry home the swag.

For it was a night of exciting joy
That was like a birthday,
And all the horrible monsters
Would get a treat and be on their way.

Coby Robinson, son of Ken and Sherry Robinson, is shown here receiving the "Chief Scout" certificate from Fort Boonesborough. Awarding this certificate is State Park Ranger Kenneth Prewitt and park attendant Jack Winburn. This certificate is an honor to Coby signed by Commissioner Mark A. Cromer proclaims International Day for the Elderly at AARP meeting

The regularly scheduled meeting of the Rockcastle County AARP was held at the Rockcastle Library on Oct. 9.

Mayor Gary R. Cromer of the City of Mt. Vernon was the special guest as he proclaimed the International Day for the Elderly. Several local citizens were honored for their active involvement in their community. They were presented with a red rose and a certificate in celebration of this special day.

C.B. Owens of Brodhead was praised for his being active in Lion's Club, Brodhead Ambulance Board, Brodhead City Council, Deacon at church and president of the cemetery board.

C.F. Mullins of Livingston was recognized for being a member of Masonic Lodge for sixty-nine years and never missing a meeting, member of Eastern Star, Lion's Club, Livingston City Council, merchant in Livingston, member of Christian Church and actively mowing grass and picking up trash at the young age of 91.

Welkie Ballinger came into the AARP the year after the Charter and has served in many capacities. He helped to get the Senior Citizen Centers started in Brodhead, Livingston and Mt. Vernon. He has served as Chairman of the Board for Senior Citizen centers and is still on the board. He worked as a Sunday School teacher for years and still serves as a substitute Sunday School teacher. Elsie Cress is one of the eldest members of AARP and a Charter member. She serves actively as Telephone Committee Chairman. She taught Sunday School for twenty-five years and is still active in Sunday School.

Rissie Wright is the eldest member of our local AARP Club. She is a Charter member and presently serves as Nomination Chairman. She is a charter member of the Mt. Vernon Baptist Church where she taught the Adult Women's Sunday School class for 45 years and is still an active member.

Special guests were Mr. and Mrs. James Mullins from Kettering, Ohio, who escorted C.F. Mullins.

After comments from Mayor Cromer we enjoyed a delicious pot luck dinner and fellowship with entertainment by Bill Medley.

AARP sponsors 55 Alive Driver Training

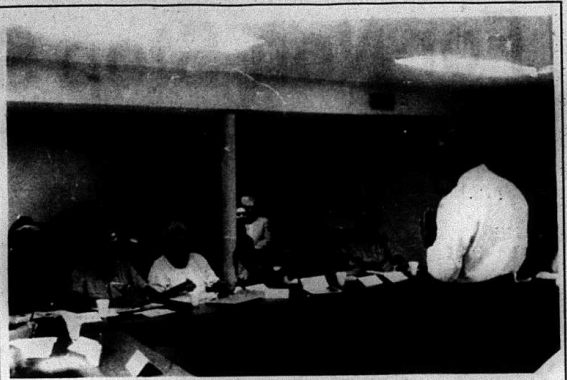

Rockcastle County AARP Chapter sponsored a driver's training program for those 55 years and over on Oct. 15 and 16. Eighteen people attended the program. The instructors were Clark and Hank Hanley from near Frankfort.

The purpose of the training is to refresh people's memory and remind them of the changes taking place in their bodies as they age. Precautions and alternatives are suggested as drivers age. One other big plus for the training is to get a reduction on your insurance billing. It is suggested that those 55 or over refresh every three years to stay alert and keep an insurance reduction.

Those attending enjoyed listening, participating, learning and fellowship with one another. It was a delight.

KET again provides comprehensive statewide election coverage

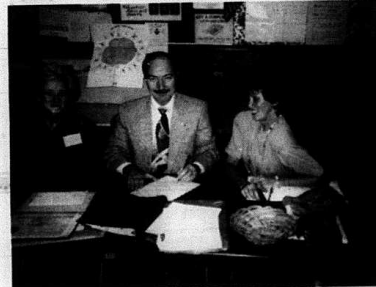

As Americans go to the polls November 3 to choose the next president, Kentuckians also will pull the lever for their choices for seats in the state legislature and the U.S. House of Representatives - and on three constitutional amendments which, if passed, would cause sweeping changes to the way state government is run. KET will be there again to provide comprehensive statewide results and analysis throughout the evening on Election '92: The Vote, beginning at 6:30 p.m.

The local AARP Chapter recently sponsored a 55 Alive Driver's Training program with instructors from Frankfort.

Maupin and Whitaker to take vows

Mrs. Ellen Maupin of Mt. Vernon wishes to announce the forthcoming marriage of her daughter Tammy Maupin to Kelly Whitaker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Don Whitaker of Mt. Vernon. The wedding will be an event of Sat., Nov. 7 at 7 p.m. at the Skaggs Creek United Baptist Church. All friends and relatives of the couple are cordially invited to attend. No invitations are being sent.

Tanya Hammond to wed Jeffery Cromer

Mr. and Mrs. Willie R. Hammond of Brodhead would like to announce the engagement of their daughter Tanya Lynn Hammond to Jeffery Dale Cromer son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Glen Cromer, also of Brodhead. The groom is currently employed at Taylor's Produce. The bride is currently employed as a dental assistant for Dr. Henry D. Coffey and Dr. Jamie S. Pogue. The wedding will take place on December 19 at Ottawa Baptist Church at 7 p.m., reception will follow. All friends and family of the couple are invited to attend.

Angelia Cook and Jimmy Hoskins wed

Angelia Lynn Cook and Jimmy Lee Hoskins were united in marriage October 2, 1992. Angelia is the daughter of Lillie Lakes and Larry Cook, both of Brodhead and the stepdaughter of Chester Lakes. Jimmy is the son of Doug and Jean Hoskins, also of Brodhead. The couple are making their home in Mt. Vernon with their daughter Lyndsey Nicole.

Michelle Poynter weds Liddell Vaughn

Donna Michelle Poynter, daughter of Don and Sue Poynter of Ferguson, became the bride of Earl Liddell Vaughn, son of Earl and Janet Vaughn of Berea and Helen Vaughn of Lake Butler, Florida, on Saturday, September 26 at 2:30 p.m., at Ferguson Baptist Church. The Rev. Darrell L. Vance officiated the wedding.

Pre-wedding music was presented by Fern Sewell, pianist. Selections included the theme from Romeo and Juliet, Somewhere Out There, The Wedding Song and That's The Way. The organist was Bob Ford. He played The Bridal Chorus and The Wedding March. Fern Sewell, accompanied by Bob Ford, sang The Lord's Prayer during the ceremony. The bride, given in marriage by her parents, was radiant in a gown of purest white, bridal satin. It featured a scoop neckline and dropped waist bodice with alencon lace appliques, opalescent sequins and seed pearls. The long sleeves were pouffed to the elbows and sheer to the wrist with lace appliques. It fell softly from the waist into a small elegant train edged in lace. Her elbow length veil of crystal white bridal illusion was attached to a rhinestone tiara and sprinkled with sequins. Falling from the slight puffs were strands of pearls and opalescent beads. She carried a cascading bouquet of white and purple satin flowers with pearl sprays, silver and purple beads and strands of pearl. The bride's veil and flowers were designed and made by Lisa Milby.

Michelle Noel served the bride as maid of honor and Lori Ping served as bridesmaid. The best man was Jake Childress and the groomsmen were Todd Elliott, Wayne Simpson and Jim Bloom were ushers. Jaci Paige Carter was the flower girl and (Cont. to B12)

Local DAR meets

The Rockcastle Chapter, DAR had its regular monthly meeting Tuesday night, Oct. 13 at the Rockcastle Steakhouse. Mt. Vernon Girl Scout Troop 619 presented the color guard and had opening patriotic exercises which included the singing of "America." The members appreciated the troop sharing its mutual goals of responsible citizenship.

Miss Motly Hamm presided as Regent; being assisted by Mrs. Norma Eversole acting as Chaplain, and Mrs. Ona Owens who presented a National Defense report. Members discussed a number of items of business and shared "Thank You" notes from State DAR officers who had been guests of the Chapter at the September luncheon at Boone Tavern.

Members enjoyed pecan pie and coffee while discussing remembrances of old friends and places of the past.

Classes of 1942 - 1959 honored at MVHS reunion

The Classes of 1959 and 1942 were honored recently at the annual Mt. Vernon High School Reunion.

The 1992 officers of the Mt. Vernon High School Association presided during the dinner meeting at the Rockcastle County High School. The officers were Ted Hart, president; Jimmy Purcell, vice president; Jean Brown Towery, secretary; and Pat Noe Baker, treasurer.

Oscar Fain, a member of the Class of 1959, welcomed and introduced the other 16 members. In attendance were two of the class sponsors, Billy and Barbara Hiatt. Carol Cummins Pybas awarded Billy Hiatt a plaque of appreciation for being a five-year sponsor.

Hart recognized the 1952-53 basketball team and cheerleaders. The team, coached by Jack Laswell, was the first and only basketball team from MVHS to earn a trip to the state tournament.

Paul Owens, a member of the Class of 1942, welcomed and introduced the other four members of the 50th Anniversary Class.

Before adjourning, the association elected officers for 1993. They are Jimmy Purcell, president; Lena Hurst, vice president; Jean Brown Towery, secretary; and Carol Purcell Riddle, treasurer.

The 1992 class reunion was a benchmark for the association. The Class of 1959 arranged live entertainment to follow the dinner meeting. A 20-piece orchestra from Lexington, "The Notables," featured the Big Band sound of the 1940s.

Bob Pybas, band director for RCHS, plays trombone for "The Notables." Jack Lincoln Adams, a former band director at MVHS, joined the band and played a trumpet solo to bring back memories of happy days at his alma mater.

Library News

By: Geraldine Robbins

My husband and I have just returned from visiting our son, Terry Robbins and family in Davidson, N.C. While there we toured Duke Power Plant where Terry works. This is a nuclear power plant and the security was very tight. I was impressed to say the very least. The uranium had been compressed into fuel pellets which are inserted into zircon tubes. We were shown where these were stored and how the processing begins in order to make the power. It is so complicated and I certainly didn't understand how it works. There was one large room that had controls all around the wall, with red and green lights flashing all the time and men sat and watched continually. There is very little danger of radiation, or so I'm told, but the workers have to go through a sensor each day to see that they are not contaminated before they leave the plant.

Terry has worked there eight years and doesn't feel there is any danger to himself and hopefully he is right. Anyway when I came back to the library, I found some books on uranium and nuclear power and I have been reading them.

Also, we visited Kings Mountain National Battlefield. This is located in South Carolina and was a great Revolutionary War battlefield. My ancestor, Richard Gentry Sr., was in this battle. I noticed on the monument there, that Isaac Shelby, Kentucky's first governor, was wounded in this battle. I looked at Isaac Shelby's biography when I came home to confirm that this was the same person.

So you see I use the library for my own information as well as helping others to find what they need.

Do you have a question about something you are interested in? Let us help you find the answer and if we don't have the information here at our library we will search until we can find it if at all possible.

The pictures that I took of the children, with Mother Goose, are here and I would like to give each child their picture. Some have already picked theirs up. If you haven't please come in and ask for your child's picture. Thanks again to all the children that participated and to all those who helped us.

Some new books available are... The Stars Shine Down by Sidney Sheldon... This is Sheldon's twelfth and most passionate novel, set against the glamorous world of international business and featuring a complex and compelling heroine faced with a series of life-shattering decisions.

Lara Cameron is young and beautiful. Rising from a past she seeks to repress, she achieves her wildest ambition, creating a much-envied business empire. Then, overnight, all that has gone before, her fortune, her achievements, and her marriage—everything—is at risk.

Paul Martin, a brilliant but mysterious lawyer, who is captivated by Lara, finally is faced with her desire

The Mt. Vernon Signal for independence and his own compulsion not to let her go.

Howard Kellor, Lara's longtime friend and mentor, is torn between loyalty to her and maintaining a terrifying secret, one that must never be revealed - especially to Lara.

It is Philip Adler who offers Lara an exciting new world, but at a devastating price that threatens to destroy them both.

From Scotland to Nova Scotia, New York to London, Rome to Reno, The Stars Shine Down is classic Sidney Sheldon at his best.

An exciting non-fiction book by Cheryl Langdon Wilson is Promised My Dad.... This is the book Michael Langdon's legion of fans have been waiting for, and the loving remembrance he would have been most proud of.

When Michael Langdon died, he left behind a legacy of love and devotion for his many millions of fans. One of his greatest fans was his eldest daughter, Cheryl. At his death Cheryl promised that she would honor and protect his name.

Langdon was one of America's most popular and most beloved television actors, a star whose career spanned thirty years and who developed a huge and loyal following in three long running series, Bonanza, Little House on the Prairie, and Highway to Heaven.

Cheryl, who was unofficially adopted by Langdon when she was eight years old, following his marriage to her mother, Lynn, had an especially close relationship with her dad. It was Langdon himself who gave her a home filled with warmth, love, and cherished memories, and who sat by her bedside, willing her survival, after a fatal car crash that claimed the lives of three of Cheryl's friends.

I Promised My Dad is a loving portrait of a complex, generous man, Thursday, October 29, 1992 P-811 and a larger-than-life story full of revelations and insights as well as intimate details and anecdotes of his private life.

The library will be closed Election Day, November 3rd.

In Memory of Lucinda Parker Hensley

On Oct. 27th would have been my grandmother's 100th birthday.

It would have been a special day. But on May 1st the lord called her to come home.

That's one day my grandmother looked forward to.

She will be missed by so many this year I'm not only speaking of myself but also others.

Ruby Weddle, Fred and Donna Brewer, Harvey and Laura Hensley.

There wasn't a one in the family who wanted to give her up but it happened. I thought I could brace myself for this day when it did happen but things don't work that way.

I think about her a lot and the tears come falling down my face, but we know she's in a much better place than we are.

Just think sometimes of how I would love to hold her hand and tell her I love her.

But those days are over but I still have the memories with me.

Sadly missed by my Granddaughter Patricia Mason

Sharon Anglin Kuhne to exhibit art at University of Kentucky November 4-16

North Carolina artist Sharon Anglin Kuhne, who grew up in Rockcastle County, will present an exhibition of her mixed media photographs at the University of Kentucky November 4-16. The exhibit titled "Mediated Landscapes" will be held in conjunction with the seventh annual Conference on the State of the Arts in Appalachia.

Ms. Kuhne, the daughter of H.C. and Geraldine Anglin, Rt. 4, Mt. Vernon, graduated from Broadhead High School in 1969 and holds the B.A. degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the M.F.A. degree from East Tennessee State University. Her art is held in collections around the world and she has received numerous awards during her career. In 1984 she was one of four photographers worldwide designated as outstanding in her field by Women in Design International, sharing this distinction with photographers from Germany and France. She has taught in several colleges and universities, now devoting her time to work in her studio, exhibitions, lectures, travel, and conducting workshops.

This exhibition will include images from a series Sharon is currently working on titled "My Father's Farm Was Once the Sea." While the title and images are poetic, they are based on geologic fact. Fossilized seashells and coral reefs found on her father's farm located off Highway 70 between Broadhead and Mt. Vernon inspired the series. Sharon says she became fascinated by evidence that Rockcastle County and much of the Ohio Valley were once the coast of North America. In Sharon's photographs, cattle graze in the ocean, land overtakes the sky, and there is a sense of transformation and process in the images. Her work is about the connectedness people and animals share with the earth and natural processes, even those occurring millions of years ago. Her son, Jody, also inspired by the fossils on his grandfather's farm, studied geology in college and now works as a geologic engineer.

Sharon resides in Little Switzerland, North Carolina with her husband, Dr. Keith Kuhne, a family practice physician. Her exhibition will be held in the Singletary Fine Arts Center on the campus of UK in Lexington and is open to the public. A reception to meet the artist, also open to the public, will be held 6:30 - 7:30 p.m. Thursday, November 5, at the Singletary Center. For more information contact the Center for Appalachian Studies, 641 S. Limestone, University of Kentucky, 606-257-4852.

Bush campaigns in Laurel County

President George Bush came to London Friday to a rally which was attended by more than 10,000 people on the football field at South Laurel High School.

The South Laurel and North Laurel bands and chorus formed the backdrop along with an American flag during the event, which was built around a pep rally theme.

Bush flew to the high school aboard Marine One, a helicopter used for short flights.

He had spent time in Louisville and came to Lexington on Air Force One.

with the Laurel County School Superintendent Joe McKnight and local proponent Tom Handy.

Bush told the crowd that he felt good about coming from behind as an underdog and he hit hard at Clinton for "waffling."

The president reiterated much of what was said during recent presidential debates.

Bush said that he is the best candidate because of his experience and that he could lead the country in the next four years.

The event was also well-attended by the media as the White House press corps turned out to cover Bush on his way to the Fort Lauderdale area.

It also had very tight security measures, with metal detectors used on everyone in attendance and tight secret service security throughout the president's visit.

"I thought it went great," said Superintendent Joe McKnight. "I thought it was a real good learning experience for the students — there were no problems at all."

From London Bush traveled back to Lexington and then headed on to Fort Lauderdale, Florida, to speak at another rally.

With the election coming this Tuesday, the candidates will be working hard to gather votes in crucial states.

Burley sale schedule

The official weigh-in for burley tobacco at the South Broadway, Lexington, Growers Cooperative is set for Nov. 10.

Most burley sales follow closely the Nov. 10 weigh-in.

Sales begin Nov. 23.

There are no sales on Nov. 26 and 27 in observance of Thanksgiving.

Students from South Laurel and North Laurel, as well as several other nearby school districts flocked to the event.

Also present, and endorsing Bush's candidacy were Rep. Hal Rogers, U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell and Larry Ford, who appeared in targeting Kentucky. Bush feels that he is close in the polls here, and that he has a chance to take a state which is nearly always in the Republican column in national elections.

Rep. Rogers appealed to the crowd to support the Republican ticket, saying that Bush would be the best for the state if re-elected.

Kentucky Utilities has dog problem

Man's best friend isn't always friendly toward the utility company's meter reader — or, for that matter, toward the letter carrier or other "strangers."

KU employees sometimes must come onto private property to read meters or restore electric service. "A dog attack can be a frightening experience," said Lynnwood Schrader, KU senior vice president, "and injuries can range from minor to quite serious — requiring medical treatment, lost work time, or even hospitalization and surgery."

"We understand that dogs are a good deterrent to crime," Schrader continued. "But the number of vicious dogs seems to be increasing."

He cited 19 incidents, across the KU service area, of employees being bitten by dogs in 1991.

"Our employees are just trying to do their jobs and provide service to our customers," Schrader said. "Please help us prevent dog bites."

It is suggested that customers call the local KU office to find out when their meters will be read, and keep the dog inside on that day. The day may vary from month to month. If the dog must stay outside, chain him securely out of reach of the meter. Posting a "beware of dog" sign will help alert

KU employees to the presence of an aggressive dog, and a call to the local KU office will allow the company to make a note in its records.

Sometimes, a dog has no interest in the meter reader until the owner appears, triggering the animal's defensive, territorial instincts. If you need to speak to the meter reader, wait until he or she is a safe distance from the dog before stepping outside.

In addition to causing difficulties for utility employees, a dog bite can lead to legal and financial problems for the dog's owner, who can be held liable for injuries.

Renfro Valley "Jam" for cancer

It is often said that country folks' hearts are bigger than other folks. The Nov. 8 "Jam" at Renfro Valley proves that point very well.

When Patty Loveless was forced to cancel her Nov. 8 concert at Renfro Valley because she was scheduled for surgery to correct a vocal chord problem, her first concern was for her Kentucky fans.

"My fans are very important to me," she emphasized.

"I want to assure them that I'll be back as soon as I possible can," she assured.

To ease the pain of the cancelled appearance, Patty and Renfro Valley staff got together to plan an event. On Sunday, Nov. 8, the new barn at Renfro Valley will ring with country music from 2 p.m. until who knows when. It's the Renfro Valley Folks and Friends Jam and the fans will not be the only beneficiaries.

Scholarship Fund stands at $17,000; activities planned

The Rockcastle Community Scholarship Fund now stands at $17,000.78 following the Strait Shot Country Music Show last Thursday night and the addition of several more contributions:

All proceeds from the "Jam" will be donated to the American Cancer Society-Kentucky Division. At Patty's request, the funds will be designated to support research to find a cure for breast cancer.

Long election season nears final week

By: Ray McClure

It will soon be over, thanks for small favors.

The election, that is, with voters going to the polls Tuesday to elect major office holders in the state and nation.

The top job will go to either, President George Bush, Bill Clinton, or Ross Perot, the independent.

Going with them will be either Vice President Dan Quayle, Al Gore or James Stockdale.

In the Kentucky election incumbent Democrat Senator Wendell Ford is opposed by Republican challenger David L. Williams and Libertarian Candidate James A. Ridenour.

In the U.S. Representative election for the 5th District, incumbent Republican Rep. Harold Rogers is opposed by Democrat John Doug Hays.

In the state senatorial race, 27th district, Dr. Walter Blevins, a Democrat, is opposed by Republican Richard L. White.

Danny R. Ford, incumbent Republican is unopposed.

In the circuit judge race in the 28th judicial district incumbent Commonwealth Attorney Benny Ham is opposed by incumbent Circuit Judge William T. Cain.

Also in the President/Vice President election are several minority parties.

Governor announces water grants

Grants totaling $310,000 have been awarded to Rockcastle by the Appalachian Regional Commission as expected.

A $110,000 grant goes to Western Rockcastle Water improvements to upgrade the system.

A $200,000 grant goes for water-line extension to Climax, Three Links and Brush Creek.

The western project is expected to get underway soon. The other project will be later when the engineering study is approved by the Kentucky Public Service Commission.

Currently 49 of Kentucky's 120 counties are eligible for funding through the Appalachian Regional Commission. Gov. Brereton Jones is responsible for making recommendations for funding by the commission based upon applications submitted to the governor through the Department of Local Government.

The governor also reminded residents that October is "Clean Water Month" in observance of the 20th anniversary of enactment of the Clean Water Act. The Kentucky Division of Water offers some suggestions and tips for helping to protect the quality of Kentucky's waters.

Everything that goes into the air or is deposited in or on the earth will eventually find its way into surface and/or groundwater. To protect water from pollutants, first, remember the three R's: reduce, reuse, recycle. Reduce the disposable materials you take into your home. Buy only the amount of a product you actually intend to use, whether it is a pesticide, paint, motor oil, transmission fluid, kerosene, or other substance.

Use up all of the substance or give it away to someone who can use it. Be sure products are in their original

Whittemore death apparent suicide

Harold Wayne Whittemore, 49, of Route 3, Brodhead, died Saturday at his home of a gunshot wound that State Police are investigating as a suicide.

Bill Dowell, county coroner, said tests were being performed and a ruling on the death would be made in two or three weeks.

He was a Madison County native and a resident of Rockcastle County for the past several years. He was a Parker Seal employee and member of the Silver Creek Baptist Church and the National Rifle Association.

Survivors include his wife, Melberta Sargent Whittemore of Brodhead; two sons, Kevin Whittemore and Jeffery Whittemore; a daughter, Susan Whittemore; his parents, Oscar and Doris Lamb Whittemore, all of Berea; two step-sons, Stephen Phelps of Mt. Vernon and Teddy Ray Holman of Brodhead; a step-daughter, Gaylen Settles of Brodhead; one brother, David Whittemore of Berea; two sisters, Shirley Whittemore and Lois McCracken, both of Berea; three grandchildren.

Services were conducted at Reppert Funeral Home Oct. 28 with the Rev. Roger Davis officiating.

pallbearers were Curt Elliot, Eddie Price, Darwin Clark, David Ellis, Craig Ellis and Ray Phillips.

During a press conference at the Governor's Mansion on Friday, October 23, Governor Brereton Jones presented a check for $25,000 to the Kentucky Music Hall of Fame. The grant was approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission at the request of Governor Jones for technical assistance for the establishment of a music museum and tourists information center in Rockcastle County. Pictured are Rep. Jo Bryant, John Bruner, Governor Jones and Senator Blevins.

During a press conference at the Governor's Mansion on Friday, October 23, Governor Brereton Jones presented a check for $200,000 to the Rockcastle County Water Association. The grant was approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission at the request of Governor Jones for the construction of 18.3 miles of water lines in eight separate areas of the county to serve a total of 148 households. Pictured are John Bruner, Ann Mullins, Nancy Meadows, and Governor Jones.

During a press conference at the Governor's Mansion on Friday, October 23, Governor Brereton Jones presented a check for $110,000 to Rockcastle County Fiscal Court. The grant was approved by the Appalachian Regional Commission at the request of Governor Jones for construction of a 200,000 gallon storage tank, pump station and 8 inch transmission line to serve 1450 existing customers. Pictured are John Bruner, Ann Mullins, Nancy Meadows, Governor Jones and Senator Blevins.

Lawnmower recovered

A lawnmower stolen from Mountain View Motel in Berea in June was recovered by Sheriff Shirley Smith recently.

The mower was found at the home of Wilma Furman of Scaffold Camp. Ms. Furman told the sheriff it was brought to her home.

The incident is under investigation.

Wreck

A wreck that sent four persons to Rockcastle Hospital happened last Wednesday at U.S. 150 and Ky. 70.

Ray Smith of Copper Creek was making left turn into Western Water Association office, when a car driven by James Johnson of Powell, Tenn. traveling west, passed another vehicle in the no passing zone and hit the Smith truck in the rear.

Passengers Pat and Elizabeth Johnson and Margie Huber, all in the Johnson car were treated and released.

Cumberland Valley Area Development District Board Chairman Troy Welch presented Joe Bussell and Keith Rigby of the City of Brodhead at $4,500 Area Development Fund grant check. The grant was awarded to the City of Brodhead to assist them in partial note payment on a fire truck. The presentation ceremony was held in conjunction with the regular monthly meeting of the Cumberland Valley Area Development District Board of Directors.

Window damaged

During the weekend someone shot out or rocked, a window at Hiatt's 5 and 10 Store.

The shot or rock cracked the window which will have to be replaced, according to Billy Hiatt, store owner.

The incident is being investigated.

Stolen

Items valued at $548 were stolen from Paul Dowell of Somerset recently at a logging project on Copper Creek.

Stolen were three batteries, tools and tool box, oil, Bluegrass ax, two chains and booms.

Trucks were damaged when transmission fluid was poured in the gas tanks.

Renfro "Jam" for cancer

Patty chose this charity for good reason. She explains, "My aunt died of breast cancer last year. It is only through research and education that others will be spared from this disease. I am pleased that the money raised from this "Jam" will be donated to such a worthy cause, in my name."

Patty's gift will be used to support vital research to isolate the cause and find a cure for this disease which affects thousands of women in Kentucky each year.

Scores of entertainers, from the Renfro Valley cast as well as special guests, will donate their time and talents to perform during the "Jam." "I never fail to be impressed with the generosity of country entertainers," said Pete Stamper, vice president of entertainment for Renfro Valley. "When presented with the opportunity to entertain Patty Loveless' fans and help this worthwhile cause, the overwhelming response was 'count me in!'"

Renfro Valley itself was the first volunteer. "We are proud to contribute our show barn, equipment, sound and lighting, staff, whatever is needed to make this show a success," said Dean L. Henricksen, executive vice president.

Although Patty Loveless herself will not be present at the "Jam," her presence will definitely be felt. All who attend will receive an autographed picture of Patty and will be able to sign a gigantic get well card Renfro Valley will present to Patty. Renfro Valley will also tape the "Jam" for Patty and include the tape in a gift basket of special gifts from Kentucky's Country Music Capital. Loveless fans who wish to include their own cards or gifts in this delivery may bring them to Renfro Valley on November 8th.

The Renfro Valley Folks and Friends Jam begins at 2 p.m. in the new barn and is expected to continue until at least 4 or 5 in the afternoon. All tickets are $5, which will be donated to the American Cancer Society-Kentucky Division in Patty Loveless' name.

District Champions again...

Rockets trounce Southern, 35-8

Alan Cutler calls them "the Rodney Dangerfield team" of high school football while Dave Cantrell apparently has no idea of who they are in his attempt to rate the state. Nevertheless, they are the district champions.....again.

The Rockcastle County Rockets swept through district play this year and, with their 35-8 trouncing of Madison Southern last Friday, will wear the District 2 crown for the second consecutive season.

In doing so, the Rockets have also established a new school record with eight consecutive wins while posting an impressive 4-0 district mark and overall 8-1 record.

"We have dominated this district for the past two years," said head coach Tom Larkey Monday, "I don't think anyone was expecting us to do that."

And unlike last year when the district title went down to the wire, this year's Rockets are enjoying the crown with one district game remaining, and less a little bit of the excitement.

It didn't come as a last minute thing like last year and it kind of took the excitement out of it," Larkey said, "Still, we were thrilled with the district win," he added.

Indeed, the Rockets have fielded a very strong and overwhelming team, who has continually taken most teams out of the game early throughout the year, as they did with the district crown.

Against Southern, the Rockets again were able to execute well early on with four touchdowns in the first half. In fact, a total of 29 players saw offensive action in the game.

In the process, they tallied up 65 yards with their passing game and another impressive 254 with their rushing game for 319 total yards.

The Rockets' defense was equally impressive as they limited Southern to only 57 yards rushing and nine passing. Southern's star running back managed all 57 of the rushing yards.

"It was another game where a lot of different people saw action," Larkey said, "That really helps our young people and especially in the years to come."

The Rockets' first scoring drive was completed in the first quarter on a 14 yard pass reception from quarterback J.D. Bussell to receiver Jason Hunt. Greg Bowman's kick afterwards was good to give the Rockets the early 7-0 lead.

"I was surprised we scored so many points early on because Southern has a lot tougher defense than what was showed," Larkey said.

Larkey's feelings were directed toward the second quarter when the

The Rockets held their helmets high in celebration of their 35-8 trouncing of Madison Southern last Friday. The win clinched the district title, which is the second consecutive district crown for the Rockets. They are now 4-0 in district play and 8-1 overall.

Rockets put together their biggest scoring attack by running in three touchdowns.

J.D. Harris took in the first on a one yard scramble to cap off the Rockets' second scoring drive. Bowman's following kick was good to set the score at 14-0.

The Rockets quickly set the score at 21-0 on their ensuing possession when they put together their biggest blow of the game, a 90 yard scoring drive. After receiving the punt and taking over their offense from their own 10 yard line, they pushed the ball to the 30 yard line with successful short gains from the ground. From there it took only one more play when Mikhail Shaffer found a hole up the middle to sprint 70 yards for the Rockets' third touchdown of the game. The following kick by Bowman was good.

Shaffer again rambled in for a six yard touchdown on the Rockets following possession to cap another solid 52 yard drive. Bowman's only extra-point miss followed to conclude first half scoring at 27-0.

After intermission, Larkey made the decision to keep Harris out for the remainder of the game.

"We were worried about Harris in the first of the game because he complained about minor pains in his knee," Larkey said, "So we kept him out the whole second half."

"Harris could really run up a lot of statistics if he gets the playing time he deserves," he added, "But he is a team player and likes to do what is best for the team."

"If he feels he might get hurt, he wants to come out," said Larkey.

Third quarter action went scoreless, which is mostly attributed to experimental type plays the Rockets used to evaluate their effectiveness.

"We could have scored more but we had a good lead," said Larkey, "We wanted to try some different plays in the second half to see if they worked and maybe use them later on if they did."

During the series, the Rockets scored their final touchdown in the fourth quarter on a 30 yard pass reception from Bussell to Hunt. Bussell hit Jason Kirby afterwards for a two-point conversion to up the Rockets' lead to 35-0.

Southern managed their only score on a blitz that forced Rockcastle to fumble with 1:53 remaining in the game. They returned the fumble recovery 57 yards. Southern followed with a two-point conversion to end the game at 35-8.

Defensively for the Rockets: Jason Hunt had one solo and three assists; Brian Mink had three solos, three assists and one sack; Stacey Kirby had one solo and one assist; Jay Stevens had two solos and four assists; Gordon Sowder had one assist; Chris Goff had one solo, two assists and one sack; Bobby Coffey had two solos and three assists; Louie Davis had two solos, four assists and one sack; J.D. Bussell had one solo and one assist; Mickey McClure had one solo and one assist and Jason Kirby had three solos, five assists and one fumble recovery.

Offensively for the Rockets: J.D. Bussell had seven pass attempts with five completions for 65 yards, two touchdowns and one point after touchdown pass reception; Jason Hunt had two receptions for 44 yards and two touchdowns; Jason Kirby had one point after touchdown reception; J.D. Harris had eight carries for 41 yards and one touchdown; Bobby Coffey had eight carries for 40 yards; Mikhail Shaffer had 15 carries for 135 yards and two touchdowns; Greg Bowman had three carries for six yards and three of four extra-point kicks; Jason Payne had two carries for three yards; Doug Cromer had three carries for 19 yards and Shawn Thacker had three carries for 10 yards.

The Rockets will travel to Middletown this Friday for the final regular season game of the year. The game, which is also a district game, will begin at 8:00 p.m.

Jason Kirby, Bobby Coffey and Jason Hunt stop Southern's star running back, Jonas Hill, in his tracks. The Rockets' defense had another impressive night by limiting Southern to only 66 yards.

ELECT BENNY HAM CIRCUIT JUDGE

Division #2
Pulaski
Rockcastle
Lincoln
Counties

Nov. 3, 1992

Susan, Brenda, Tim Benny

HE'S QUALIFIED
Benny Ham has served as Prosecutor for the last 13 years in Circuit Court. The other candidate can not match those qualifications. He served as prosecutor under Harold Rogers and then was elected twice to two terms as Commonwealth Attorney. He is a graduate of Somerset High School, Somerset Community College, University of Kentucky and University of Louisville Law School.

HE'S EXPERIENCED
Our Judicial Circuit has one of the largest case loads in the state. Benny has prosecuted hundreds of felony criminal cases in Circuit Court, that have ranged from theft, burglary, drug trafficking, rape, sodomy, serious assaults, murderers, child molesters and other criminals. HE IS THE ONLY CANDIDATE WHO HAS THE EXPERIENCE OF TRYING ALL TYPES OF FELONY CRIMINAL CASES IN CIRCUIT COURT IN THE LAST 43 YEARS.

HE'S RESPECTED
Commonwealth Attorney Benny Ham is respected by his colleagues. He has served as President of the Commonwealth Attorney's Association. He was selected Commonwealth Attorney of the year by the Attorney General in 1989. Locally he has served the Kiwanis Club as director, President Elect and is presently serving as President of Somerset Kiwanis Club for 1992-1993.

HE HAS A FEELING FOR PEOPLE
Benny was born and raised on a small farm in West Somerset, with his five brothers and sister. Benny paid for his education by working at Kingsford Charcoal, steel mills and U.P.S. Three of his brothers are farmers. He is a member of West Somerset Baptist Church and a veteran of the United States Army. He has always represented the people by fighting for the victims of crime.

Election, too close to call....

This week's news on the election front has been nothing short of a bombshell.

Perot is still the wild card, but some of his accusations have gotten wilder.

The news hit the papers this week that the FBI planted an undercover agent in a Bush headquarters in Texas to see if there were "dirty tricks" being played by the Bush campaign people.

Okay, we've heard for years that the Republicans are famous for "dirty tricks" going back to the Nixon years. I guess there was that one prank they pulled on the Muskie campaign in New York City and then Watergate, the most famous covert operation of all.

Still, the thought that the Bush people would attempt to sabotage a wedding is getting a little far fetched. Perot seems to be losing touch with the electorate. Last night's Perot segment (see thirty minutes on ABC) was little more than a lecture on personal and business practices.

What started off as a groundswell campaign from the grass roots has gotten a little bit out of touch. Ah, well, enough on Perot. He'll pay the price difficulty at the polls this Tuesday and may have to struggle to get 10 percent and at that without any electoral college votes.

President Bush, much to his credit, visited the Republican stronghold of London this past Friday and gave the faith a primer on how to come from behind.

He pointed out that Mitch McConnell, in his stunning upset of a popular Senate democrat, had come from 20 points behind and that other upsets had flown in the face of polls.

Two weeks ago the polls had given Clinton a whopping 19 percent lead. This week another poll said Bush was only down by five percent.

I think the later scenario is much more in line with public sentiment. Bush may be behind, but he is also aware of the fact that he can close the gap by campaigning furiously in the last days.

The Bill Clinton of a week ago was talking about a mandate during a tour of western states.

Now I think he would be happy if he can prevail by a margin that would be short of a mandate.

The real story on Bill Clinton, if he is elected, will be told in another four years, if he makes an attempt to gain a second term.

He has run largely on the Bush record and has turned the incumbent's lack of luck with the economy into what could be an election day majority.

In four years Clinton would have shown the public that his style of government works, not just his message.

There will be no excuses then. President Bush may be able to narrow the gap this last week by appearing presidential.

The ad showing the Oval Office seems to draw that out for the voters. Bush does have an impressive foreign policy and relations record. The public may concentrate a little more on that as an issue during the closing days.

The experts can be wrong. In 1932 everyone said Hoover would soundly defeat Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In 1948 they said Dewey had won and the newspapers even went along only to find out in the morning that Truman had swooped into office because of the rural vote.

The pollsters can be wrong. There are several factors in this election that may make it different.

One is the number of new voters who have registered for the first time. Just how many votes will be important because most have been registered.

The second factor is Ross Perot. Just how many votes he will siphon away from the major parties is up in the air.

The main factor, I guess, is the middle class vote. Will they believe Bill Clinton or run for shelter to the Bush/Quayle ticket.

Tuesday's economic figures told voters that the economy grew at a strong pace during the last three month reporting period.

That could help President Bush as the election rolls around.

Watching Bush on NBC's Today Show Tuesday, I sensed that he still thinks he will win in spite of the polls, and that he is going to campaign full throttle as the final days pass before the election.

Should the voters turn President Bush away from a second term I still think history may be kinder than the electorate.

He should go down as a better than average president who guided the country through tough times on the international front, but who lost on the basis of something he considered not control -- the economy.

If he is elected, the idea of the "new Congress" as he says, would give him a better chance at getting his programs passed.

If Clinton is elected, Congress should get out of the gridlock of the past several years.

Either way, Capital Hill is changing, and the times are changing too.

Well, that's all for this week.

None of the above

I can remember a time in my life when I was wildly enthusiastic about presidential elections. More often than not, I spent a lot of time campaigning for lost causes but I did get fired up. It used to make me mad when somebody would tell me that they weren't registered to vote, or worse, registered but not voting. I didn't think that there was any excuse for being too sorry to go vote. I considered it a civic duty.

But anymore, I ain't so sure. George Bush, Bill Clinton and Ross Perot. How on earth can anybody feel much enthusiasm about making it to the polls when you have to make a choice like that? If right below their names in the voting booth, they had another little lever to pull for "None of the Above." I'd crawl if I had to. It's not on there because it would win.

I believe the voters ought to have the right to make that choice though. And if it came out that way, we'd have another election in thirty days but the first three guys aren't allowed on the ballot. And you keep that up until the American Public has enough confidence in someone to make him or her President.

Same thing for vice presidents and governors and so forth too. I don't believe the current system of getting candidates on the ballot is working. I don't know how to fix it, or, for that matter, know what's wrong with it. But when it can't come up with more competence and honesty and all the other qualifications necessary to effectively govern this country than it has found among the candidates this year, then it has failed miserably.

What this country so desperately needs right now is a leader I can get behind and get some stuff fixed. But that person is not on the ballot. And I hope I live to eat those words.

Messing around with the tax base, the issue that seems most prominent on the minds of the candidates is not going to fix anything. It doesn't really matter much if you tax the rich a little more and the middle class a little less or vice versa. It won't help a bit if you tax both of them more or both less. But messing around with the tax base is the first thing that all three of these guys want to do.

We need a president willing and able to say "to hell with everything else for the next four years, I'm going to make this country better than it has ever been before."

And then we need a believable plan for getting this done. And right now it simply isn't there.

If making a selection for the presidency was the only reason I had for getting to the polls, I doubt very seriously that I would make the trip.

On the other hand, I don't often get to vote for anybody who wins so I try to take advantage of every opportunity to say amen to some candidates that I do believe in.

The first of those, a man whose name you won't see associated with BOPTROT and the other scams going on in Frankfort these days, is Lonnie Napier. Lonnie puts his heart and soul into being the State Representative from our District and he gets a lot done for his constituency. He's a good man and the Legislature needs more like him. He's made some votes that put me on the other side, but that's okay. I'd rather place my trust in proven integrity than in someone I don't know who may agree with everything I have to say. Right on Lonnie!

And Wendell Ford. I know that somebody is running against Wendell, but I also know that nobody else in Kentucky can have the kind of clout in Washington that Wendell Ford does and I believe that's worth hanging on to. Put anybody else on the ballot and I'd still vote for Wendell.

I'm also voting for Scotty Baseler again even though I'm still crying because we didn't elect him Governor. Scotty got some bad rap that he Halloween is coming....

"By the pricking of my thumbs, something wicked this way comes." Ah, Halloween! And I'm getting ready!

I have a bewitching recipe for Scottish brownies to pass out to the little ghouls and goblins who wrap upon my chamber door. Some ingredients, however, are not available in Mt. Vernon, such as "Tillet of a fenny snake... eye of a newt and toe of frog, wool of bat and tongue of dog... root of hemlock digg'd in the dark; and the 'Liver of a blaspheaming Jew," I may have to resort to Toostie Rolls. What a comedown.

"Trick" was more the objective than "treat" when I was an active Halloweener. Merchants fully expected to find their big plate glass windows "soaped" with paraffin wax -- an essential shenanigan for a serious imp. The light of the morning often revealed a bench or a piece of porch furniture in a tree, or on a roof, a mile away. And there being no town council regulations, our mischief was spread out over two or three nights. I'm not even sure we had a council.

The number one prank of which I'm aware, of which I would love to have been a part, took place on the campus of Georgetown College a year or so before I enrolled. Some enterprising tricksters put a calf in the belly of John L. Hill Chapel!

My Richmond Street cohorts and I didn't wreck and destroy. I didn't throw eggs, although it was done. (Rotting apples? Yes.) The only act of vandalism I recall had to do with the yellow, Nehi drink cooler in front of Brown's Grocery. I was not part of the crowd that threw it into "the sink-hole" -- but I got blamed.

Alas, I was still a culprit. One evening a group of "us guys" scooped up a couple of fresh cow patties from Henderson's barn, and put them in a large paper sack. Then we placed the pattied poke on a particular porch on Highway 25, set it afire, knocked on the door -- and fled! From behind nearby trees, we watch Mrs. So-and-so "stomp-out" the fire. Lordy, it was a gasser! We rolled in the grass, just about died cackling, and at least one of us wet himself.

To this day I have some guilt about that escapade. Mrs. So-and-so loved me and gave me advice about things I wouldn't have heard from my mother, like counsel about the birds and bees. The antic was funny then. But not now.

My most memorable tomfoolery occurred about a year after I married my first wife. We lived in Boyle County where I pastored a church. I also taught school in Lincoln County.

The students in the sixth grade at Broughtontown begged me to come to the school's Halloween carnival that evening. I told them I would love to attend but could not. I fully planned to be there, in disguise.

On the way home that afternoon, I stopped by the farm of Harlis Jones, chairman of the deacons in my church. He invited me in, and we sat at his table, drank coffee, and talked about a particular church matter. Annette, Harlis' wife, was ironing, but stopped to make the coffee, and also sliced and served pie. Food eaten and discussion over, I got up to leave. Annette invited me to stay for supper. I asked for a rain check and headed home.

I got an old suit out of the closet. It wasn't really old, but married life had put twenty pounds on me. Figuring I'd never wear it again, I suited it with my suit. Nancy helped me with my makeup and gave me a frazzled hat she had gotten from her father. I left for Broughtontown looking like a deadbeal.

Driving through Stanford, I "felt led" to stop at the home of Kit Yeaste, pastor of the FBC and the presiding minister at our wedding. I knocked on his door, and when he answered, I disguised my voice and gave him a hard-luck story that would make the Queen of England cry.

"Sarah, oh, Sarah," Kit yelled. "Come and help me put food on the table." He sat me down in their kitchen, and the two of them spread a feast before me. But when I started to taste the food, I got tickled and had to tell them who I was. They laughed too.

As I was leaving, Kit said, "Go out and knock on Harli's door! but don't let him know who you are."

I parked my car around the bend from Harli's house and walked to his back door, which was not locked. He came to the door and asked who I was and what I wanted.

"I'm Clyde Eppworth, and I'm on my way to my mother's home in Missouri and was wondering if I might get a bite to eat."

Harli said, "Feller, I'd like to help you, but my wife's been sick in bed for two days, and there ain't a bite of food in the house."

I thanked him and got out of there! To this day Harli doesn't know who "Clyde" really was.

I came upon Harli's in Stanford last fall. He had a good time reliving old times. He is full of witticisms and humor. He ran his hand through his thick, white, hair, and asked, "Johnny, what's old age and old furniture got in common?"

"I don't know, Harli, You tell me." He grinned and said, "When you get old, your tuster's gone, your legs wobble -- and your drawers bind!"

didn't deserve, particularly among my friends in the mountains. He's been accused of everything from being behind a scheme to flood several counties in eastern Kentucky so Lexington could have a water supply to trying to steal the fantasy of I-66 away from a proposed route through the hills.

If I felt for an instant that Scotty Baesler had those kinds of ambitions, I'd be out with a step ladder putting pictures of the other guy up on telephone poles. Neither item is or has ever been on Scoy's agenda because he looked me straight in the eye and told me so. I believe he has earned the opportunity to see if he can do for all Kentuckians the things he has accomplished for Lexington. And I trust him to try to do just that.

I wish I had the same sort of feeling for somebody running for President.

I'll probably vote for one of them, but I'm not going to say who now or after the fact.

Mental Illness Awareness Week update

We are families and supporters that have joined together to form an Alliance to educate each other and the community in order to erase the stigma of mental illness. We strive to make the community aware of the significance of mental illness, to inform consumers and families of current and alternative treatments, as well as the services available for the mentally ill in our communities.

We must increase our membership if we are going to build a powerful and effective Alliance. There are many good things happening, yet, we know that we still have a long way to go before persons with serious mental illness consistently receive the quantity and quality of services that they deserve. We, as members and supporters of AMI, are the only ones that can ensure that those improvements are made.

Hurst assumes command of research institute

Co. Charles G. Hurst assumed the command of the U.S. Army Medical Research Institute of Chemical Defense Aug. 25 in a traditional ceremony on the front lawn of the institute.

Hurst's predecessor, Col. Ernest T. Takafuji, commanded MRICD for a little over a year when it was announced that he would take over the reins of the U.S. Army Medical Research Institute of Infectious Diseases at Fort Detrick, in Frederick, Md. Maj. Gen. Richard T. Travis, commander, U.S. Army Medical Research and Development Command, presided over the ceremony, which included the First Army Band and the Aberdeen Proving Ground Support Activity Color Guard. In his address to the assembled guests and MRICD staff, Travis congratulated Takafuji on his "magnificent leadership and contributions to not only ICD but our Army as well in such a short period of time."

Col. Charles G. Hurst

He also welcomed Hurst to command, adding, "You now share the burden of leadership of one of the Army's most prestigious and producive labs." Hurst is already well-known to the staff of the MRICD. He was first assigned to the institute as a principal investigator in the Biochemical Pharmacology Branch in 1990. He was then assigned as chief of the institute's Chemical Casualty Care Office and served in Saudi Arabia with the medical team from the MRICDE attached to the XVIII Corps.

Hurst, a native of Cincinnati, joined the Army in 1972, during his last year of medical school at Ohio State University. After earning his medical degree, he interned at William Beaumont Army Medical Center in El Paso, Texas, and completed a residency in internal medicine.

Following his training at WBAMC, Hurst was stationed at Fort Lee, Va., where he served from 1976 to 1979 as chief of medicine at the Kenner Army Hospital. He then began residency training in dermatology at Walter Reed Army Medical Center, which he completed in 1982. From 1982 through 1985, Hurst was assigned as staff dermatologist at the Dewitt Army Hospital, Fort Belvoir, Va. This assignment included a seven-

Roamin' Rockcastle

BY HILDA PAYNE GABBARD

The high hills and rolling stream of Lower Clear Creek pulled at the heartstring of Jessie Chaston Norton in western Indiana, bringing her back from where she's been living for many years. With her was her lovely daughter, Dorothy Norton Grimes, who was interested in the roots of the Chaston family, starting with her grandfather, Sherman Chaston, first postmaster of the little Disputanta community, as well as one of Rockcastle's rural school teachers.

Jessie and Dorothy visited several places here that I wrote about in my column. They wanted to see the large sink hole at the top of Loman Hill where a constable was thrown in by some lawbreakers whom he was trying to arrest. Vines growing downward was all that saved him from going to the bottom.

Jessie and Dorothy wanted to meet Conley Saylor who does battle with me in my column but he was out of town. They wanted to see Mary Eliza Chaston Croucher and Nannie Shearer, her sister.

Mary and Jessie fell into a flooded Clear Creek and was pulled out by Sherman, when they were children, who couldn't swim a lick but saved them by the plait on their heads. Robert Chaston of Big Hill was their schoolmate.

They went with me to the Citizen office where Editor Mike French made their picture.

I hope they are rewarded by all the sights they saw while here for making the long drive.

Everybody is allowed a mistake a day and I made several last week in my column, as this:

Billy Croucher's wife probably said to him week before last, "Why honey, I didn't know you were in a Lexington Hospital, at least I didn't miss you!"

I hope you kids look over me for putting Bill in the hospital rather than his brother Jimmy.

And Marie Williams can't think why she was in the Berea Hospital as I wrote last week. I looked back on my first copy which I always do and couldn't find a thing about it except my thoughts got away from me. Only six days away from a tracking snow as your weather calendar I gave you says.

Hey, the frost helps ripen the wild grapes and makes them better to eat. Help! I need help to send to a reader, Dale Land, telephone number 624-3546, at 210 West Locust St., Richmond, Ky. 40475, the recipe for making turnip kraut. He read of it in this column and would like to try some. Dale says he'll even put me a jar on my porch which I will give the Boss #1 half.

I have made turnip preserves and gave Dale the recipe for that. So if you are one for trying out new food, get in touch with him. Did you read of, and see the picture last week of Hilda Welch Wood, daughter of a well known family in Berea who lived to be 102 in age?

My sister, Vergia, named me after this woman who she admired very much, when I was born. All my life I have wondered about this woman whom I was named after and now I know about her.

Henry Volmer of Indiana is an admirer of Susan Tomes, who works at Renfro Valley and is one of their pretty performers in the show. Her birthday was August 19th, so Henry gave her a present of the Berea Citizen because she reads my column.

Now I think that was the nicest gift, first from Henry to her, and then Susan being one of my good readers, everybody came out a winner in the deal.

What do you know, that handsome bachelor, Bodie Barnett, who is one of the owners of Lakes Funeral Home now has a new title - papaw, because he recently became a grandfather. Think of all the Christmas toys he will buy. Bodie is passing out cigars!

Mac Abney has returned home from a stay in a Lexington hospital and is doing better.

John Harding of Clear Creek has undergone an operation in a hospital at Lexington - Phyllis, his daughter in law, said he came through the operation all right but was still in intensive care at the hospital.

Mary, John's wife, is staying there with him.

Frances and Gayle Sael took a vacation by going to Vermont and brought John some maple tree syrup. I wish they'd told him I was to share in the deal. Only got one teaspoon so I can't tell much about the taste.

Not long ago I was out at the church building that the Galilee members are working on. A young man drove up in Lowe's Company truck with some supplies for the workers - I went out to make a picture of the group because I didn't focus it right, the young man was left out of the group. His name is Kirk Thomas, the son of Ernest and Elizabeth Thomas who live on Scaffold Cane Pike.

He said he likes working for Lowes and tried to make them a good employee and they seem to appreciate that. I've meant to call Sue Cromer of Ote Kentucky Kitchen Restaurant near Mt. Vernon and tell her what trouble she caused in our family by giving us one of her apricot cakes, individual cake size, to bring home with us.

I had to promise to let John divide the cake - do you think 3/4 of a size equals 1/4 of a part - John said it did but we have had trouble ever since. I'm going to learn measurement!

The Arthur Davidson family went to Gatlinburg, Tenn., for a weekend trip to see all the beautiful sights recently. They pulled their camper so didn't worry about getting a motel room as so many have had trouble over.

John and brother, Clay Gabbard, saw four deer in a group in the woods. Our dog, Spot, looked at them, then decided to give a chase. As fast as they are, he didn't stand a chance.

There is a blue, long-legged heron or kind of crane that lives in one of the ponds here. It flies from one pond to another low down which is a pretty sight.

At another time while mowing our yard next to a small creek here, John looked back to see a large snake, he said was a water moccasin snake, wildly turning over in pieces. He went back to see it and the mower had cut the snake into squirming pieces.

Amis Dean retired as Assistant Superintendent of Jackson County

Schools. He moved to Berea last year and has driven to McKee every day to be on the job. I'll bet he's one happy man to give that up. You have to like your job in the education field or you'll have sleepless nights.

Their daughter, Susan Patton, who lives in Morehead, is visiting them. Amos' wife, Judy, is still employed in the Jackson educational system concerning children and parents. Amos spent 30 years in the system.

The Galilee Church is coming along fine. I hope to get another picture when the outside is finished, along with the men who did the work.

The young people of the church had a winter roast and hayride one night last week. Someone said Mark McGuire fell off four times. Mark claims he was pushed off by Mike Gay but I'll bet Lee Abney had a hand in it. Those fellows should act their age.

You wouldn't believe what Conley Saylor did to get home from a trip here and Virginia made to Vermont county. Tell you next week.

Home Jennings is in Florida. He went to John from borrowing his Halloween mask. As pretty one as his wife Valette has, I'd sure like to borrow it!

Cliff Spires says his brother Herman, and John, gathered at the Jennings Loafing Parlor to tell "big lies" to entertain the others. So that's where John gets the ones that he tells me.

Till November: Flattery should be treated like chewing gum - enjoy it for a short while but don't swallow it!

Hello to all our good folks who read the Mt. Vernon Signal. Hope you are well and enjoying life.

Following our big frost and first ice, I had seen outside, we are now enjoying some of the beautiful weather and when we see the leaves turning into gorgeous colors we realize summer is gone and autumn is here. God has been good to us we've had good crops and gardens for which we are so thankful.

The frost and freeze killed some things such as tomato plants but most of our flowers are still blooming and so pretty such as geraniums and petunias and others. Anywhere or anywhere that we look we can see the glorious and great handiwork of God, and we thank Him for every blessing that He has given us.

On Sunday Oct. 18 for both the a.m. and p.m. worship services we had Bro. Rick Everett preaching for us. On Wednesday evening we had Bro. Jack Bruce with us. They both delivered very good messages, and we enjoyed so very much having them with us.

Our Sunday School attendance on Super Sunday Oct. 25th was one hundred and sixty eight (168). We thank God for each and everyone that attended and wish we could have them every Sunday.

Our Fall Revival started Sunday for evening Oct. 23. At this writing we had Bro. Rick Everett preaching for us. We really enjoyed Bro. Shawn Madden's message. We had very good attendance and hope and pray for a soul-saving revival.

Our pastor Bro. Haryey Penseal was in a revival last week at the Mt. Olivet Baptist Church in Loudon. Thank God for the good success there.

We extend our heart-felt sympathy to those who have lost loved ones recently including Miss Sheila (Spires) Shearer of Berea and Wayne Whitmore of Brodhead. May God comfort the loved ones.

I'll try to write more next time as right now is a very busy time.

But one thing I would like to say is this, please pray for our country and for guidance in the up-coming Presidential election. Let's all ask God to help us make the right decision when we go to vote. And let's not blame one man for the condition that our country is in. I feel that we have all played a little part in it. Let's ask ourselves, "What have I done to make my country better?"

I like the words spoken by the late John F. Kennedy when he said to us, "Don't ask what your country can do for you but ask what you can do for your country."

It's like the words in a song that we hear sometimes, "Everybody wants to eat at God's table, but nobody wants to work in His fields."

But I do thank God, and am so proud of the good Christian people that live Godly lives, and believe in decency, honesty, respect and truthfulness and can still have love and concern for others.

Please remember church and Sunday school. Children need to be brought up in the House of the Lord. And our Heavenly Father loves to see dads and moms there too. God bless you.

Rise and Shine

Homemakers Club

By: Zi Graves

The Rise and Shine Homemakers Club had an unusual setting for its October 19 meeting. The five members who were able to attend, along with two guests, enjoyed the business part of the meeting while riding in a van driven by member, Cathy McCauley. Our first stop of the day was at a restaurant, of course, we gorged ourselves at the breakfast bar. Who ever heard of a group of women getting together without finding a place to eat before doing anything else?

After visiting Cumberland Falls where we "ohed" and "ahed" at the beautiful fall scenery which blended perfectly with the grey rock floor of the river above the falls and made the clear sparkling water seem more alive than ever as it danced over the falls and sought its way to its destination, the sea. We loaded up and headed for home.

Alta, our president, conducted the meeting from the back seat of the van between exclamations of joy and yale dressed in their autumn finery. All the business was complete before we reached home and a schedule was planned for the rest of the year.

If you would like to be a member of such an interesting club you are welcome to join "Rise and Shine" and help with plans to make more of these interesting weekly meetings.

We are sorry some of our members had to miss this wonderful experience.

Busy Bee Homemakers

The Busy Bee's met on Sept. 8th at the home of Jean Fenton with five members present and two visitors.

The roll call was answered by giving a description of our first paying job, for most of us that was quite awhile back.

Wynona passed out the lesson on "Divorce and the healing process," which we read and studied by ourselves.

Since our meeting time was running late Jean taught us a lesson on "Origami" which was new to most of us.

Mrs. Carolyn McKinney and her mother Mrs. Bertha Adams were in Mt. Vernon recently on business. Mr. and Mrs. Bob Proctor, Carter Caundill, Johnny and Paula Allen and children Heather and Tanner, Louise and Josie Beane and Suzanne Graves were all in Covington on business Saturday.

Mae Doan was in Berea Monday. Their grandson and granddaughter also visited Walter and Mae Sunday.

Clayton Evans of the Sunrise Nursing Home in Somerset isn't so well at this writing.

Miss Cecelia Cress, daughter of the late Mitchell and Beatrice Cress of Lockland, Ohio passed away and was buried at Skaggs Creek Baptist Church Cemetery.

Becky won the door prize. Our October meeting was cancelled due to the county meeting being on our scheduled meeting date.

Our club traveled to Bardonia on Sept. 19 and took a tour on the Old Dinner Train, where we enjoyed a very delicious dinner. Everyone had a great time.

Our next meeting is Nov. 10 at the extension office. Becky Cash will be hostess. Everyone try to attend as we will be making plans for our Christmas party. Also we will be collecting dues for the coming year.

We would like to get some new members for the new year so if you would like to join just contact a Busy Bee or the extension office.

Attention Burley Tobacco Farmers

The AD-1026- Highly Erodible Land Certification form is required before receiving any program benefits. Burley tobacco marketing cards WILL NOT be issued without this form being completed in the Rockcastle County ASCS Office. We urge all landowners to take the responsibility of seeing the person(s) who shares in your tobacco crop or any farm commodity files this form. Operators that postpone the completion of the AD-1026 delay in receiving their marketing card.

The 1992-MQ-38 Eligibility Statements to Receive Price Support on Burley Tobacco were mailed to all farm operators with an effective quota on September 1, 1992. This form must also be completed and returned to the ASCS Office before receiving a 1992 marketing card. If you have misplaced the MQ-38 which was mailed to you, you may come to the ASCS office and complete one there. The ASCS Office is open Monday - Thursday 7:30 - 5 p.m., Friday 8 - Friday 8 - 4:30 p.m.

ASCs programs are open to all persons, regardless of race, color, national origin, sex, religion, marital status, age, or handicap.

Charting Rockcastle

By Richard Anderkin

In five short days this country will choose the leader of the free world. It is a volatile time in the United States and all registered voters should take their responsibility very, very serious.

Anyone that knows me, knows that I was raised a Republican and have voted Republican in most races. I've strayed from the party lines from time to time and in this election I will stray away from the Log Cabin in at least one race. But, I will not stray in the most important one.

Common sense has to tell the majority of the people that George Bush is the best choice for the American people. Granted he has his problems and could have done some things differently, but of the three major candidates he is the only choice we have. Gov. Bill Clinton smiles, shakes hands and gives political speeches with the best of them, but he has really taken a stand on anything.

He says he is going to increase government spending to create jobs and stimulate the economy, but how is he going to do this unless we pay more taxes, because the money just isn't there. As everyone who has listened to the debates knows, we are four trillion dollars in debt already. The only way to increase spending without sending the government five trillion dollars and more in debt is to increase taxes. You can rest assured that will happen.

If you think about it, Bill Clinton has not taken a stand on any subject, except to agree with everyone on everything. He simply is not a good choice.

If Bush wins, it will be a miracle. He has fought an uphill battle from the beginning, the national media can say what they want to, but the majority of them have been pro-Clinton during the entire race. A lot of folks in the media would have us believe that things are terrible. And I'll be the first to admit that things could be much better. But, they could be much worse as well. Basically people in this area are still working, they are paying less for their home mortgages and most of them have job security. When you go to the polls next Tuesday, remember one thing. The last time the American people elected a Democrat President, things were much, much worse than they are now. Most American people are reactionary and when things get a little tight, they have a tendency to look only at the short term. A vote for Bill Clinton would be devastating for the long term.

I actually had hopes for Ross Perot in the beginning, but after his choice for Vice-President and his latest announcement of 60 minutes and then in his press conference Monday he showed that he doesn't have what it takes to run this country.

Back to straying from party lines. In our U.S. Senate race I will vote for Wendell Ford.

He is one of the top ranking Democrats in the U.S. Senate and I think he has his constituents at heart most of the time. David Williams has worked hard to get his name out in the public, but he doesn't stack up against Ford.

On this page you will find a summary of the positions each major political party holds on key issues. Since I am sure that many readers will not agree with me, take time to read them and decide for yourself. And then go vote, it is your right and responsibility as an American.

Where They Stand

Highlights from the Democratic and Republican 1992 Platforms

Here is a summary of the positions each major political party holds on key issues, listed alphabetically, in the 1992 election campaign. This information is drawn directly from the official party platforms. It may be reproduced without permission.

Democratic Platform

Abortion
Stand behind the right of every woman to choose, consistent with Roe v. Wade, regardless of ability to pay, and support a national law to protect that right. The goal of our nation must be to make abortion less necessary, not more difficult or more dangerous.

Economy and Taxes
Renew prosperity through public and private investment, particularly in transportation, environmental technologies, defense conversion, and a national information network. Create an investment tax credit and capital gains reduction for investors in emerging technologies and new business, instead of capital gains windfall for the wealthy. Relieve the tax burden on middle-class Americans by forcing the rich to pay their fair share, providing tax relief to families with children. Regarding the deficit: Call for fair and shared sacrifice for the common good. Achieve defense savings; reform entitlement programs to control health care costs; cut federal administrative costs by three percent annually for four years; limit increases in the "present budget" to the rate of growth in the average paycheck.

Education
Oppose efforts to bankrupt the public school system through private school vouchers. Support site-based decision-making and public school choice, with strong protections against discrimination.

Environment
Reject the myth that energy efficiency and environmental protection are enemies of economic growth. Vote to protect old-growth forests and wetlands and oppose new offshore drilling. Promise a civilian conservation corps.

Foreign Policy (including Defense)
Swiftly action to help former communist nations. Maintain sanctions on South Africa until full accommodation with black majority. Would condition favorable trade terms with China on respect for human rights, market access for U.S. goods, and responsible conduct on weapons proliferation. A post-Cold War restructuring of American forces without undermining our ability to meet future threats. Reducing the size of our forces in Europe, while meeting our obligations to NATO. A U.S. troop presence should be maintained in South Korea as long as North Korea presents a threat.

Health Care
Support universal access to quality, affordable health care - not as a privilege but as a right. Cover all Americans regardless of preexisting conditions. Tough controls on health costs.

Religion and Public Life
Our future as a nation depends upon the daily assumption of personal responsibility by millions of Americans from all walks of life - for the religious faith they follow, the ethics they practice, the values they instill, the pride they take in their work.

Republican Platform

Abortion
Unborn children has a fundamental individual right to life. Reaffirm support for a human life amendment to the Constitution. Oppose federal funding of abortion.

Encourage abstinence education instead of school-based programs offering birth-control devices. Increase adoptions through tax credits, insurance and legal reforms.

Economy and Taxes
The tax increases of 1980 should ultimately be repealed. Reduce the capital gains tax rate to 15 percent. Create federal enterprise zones and make permanent tax credits for research and development. Decrease government regulation. Increase home ownership through a $5,000 tax credit for first-time home buyers and other programs. The proper path to create jobs and growth is tax rate reductions. Regarding the deficit: Support a balanced budget, including a balanced budget constitutional amendment. Reduce federal spending with a line-item veto.

Education
Parents should have the right to choose the best schools for their children; school should teach truth from wrong; advocate $1,000 tuition credit. Backs parents' right to educate children at home.

Environment
Progress must continue in tandem with economic growth. Crippling an industry is no solution. Banquart facilities only worsen environmental solutions. Will use scientifically respectable risk-benefit assessments to settle environmental controversies.

Foreign Policy (including Defense)
Pursue security policies in partnership with other nations through the United Nations. Support efforts by private voluntary agencies to help meet the needs of countries newly liberated from communism. Need to maintain the relationship with China to effectively encourage democratic reform. Reduce troop strength in Europe while maintaining military commitment and continued military ties with Israel while pursuing negotiated peace.

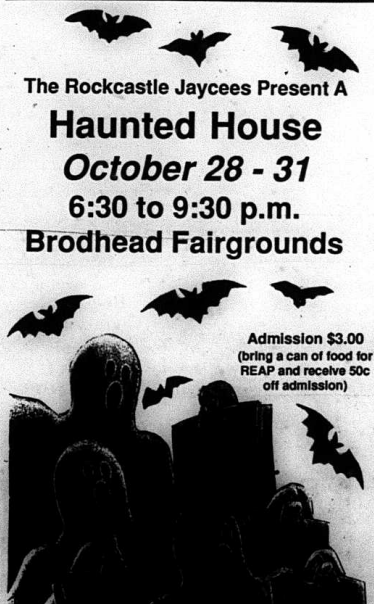

Health Care
Choices should remain in the hands of the people, not government bureaucrats. Offset insurance costs with tax credits and deductions. Require insurers to cover preexisting conditions. Make premiums full deductible for the self-employed. Cap malpractice claims.

Religion and Public Life
We believe in traditional family values, and in the Judeo-Christian heritage that informs our culture. America must remain neutral toward particular religions, but we must not remain neutral toward religion itself or the values religion supports. Allow voluntary prayer at community events such as commencement, and the right of students to engage in voluntary prayer in schools.

displaying posters and making speeches during lunch. The students voted in homeroom on Friday.

A sample election machine was displayed in the cafeteria so that students would be familiar with its operation. Approximately 600 of the 800 students tried this demonstrator while it was on display Tuesday and Wednesday.

A mock election using computers was held Wednesday and Thursday during lunch. Students had to register in homeroom in order to be eligible to vote. Members of the newly-organized History Club served as election officers. The final tally showed that Bush received 46%, Clinton had 28%, and Perot had 26%. Bush carried the freshmen, sophomore, and junior classes, but the seniors chose Perot by one vote over Bush.

Earlier in the week, students also participated in the Channel one sample election. Rockcastle's students cast 300 votes for Bush, 203 for Clinton, 196 for Perot, and 95 for "other."

What does Las Vegas, Ky., Gotham City, Fl., and Fire Hawk, Ky. have in common with Mt. Vernon? They are addresses for the classrooms that participated in a special writing program. The classes participating are Miss Parrett's primary class, Miss Johnson's primary class, Mrs. Coffey's fourth grade, and Mrs. Midkiff's fourth grade.

We Deliver is a program designed to orient students with letter writing and the United States Postal Service. Students write letters to and receive letters from designated pen pals in other classrooms. The letters are "mailed" in a "in school mailbox," and delivered to the various classroom addresses by mail carriers.

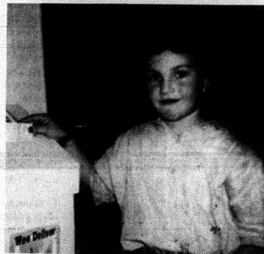

Before letters can be delivered they must pass postal inspection which includes: using capital letters, commas when needed, abbreviations, correct addresses and appropriate address forms. The students are very enthusiastic about the program. They are learning a great deal about writing friendly letters and about the postal system. They have made many new friends.

Super Kids Primary Cluster busy with several projects

The Super Kids Primary Cluster has been having lots of fun learning so far this year. Recently they have done thematic units on pets and friends.

During their unit on pets, they adopted classroom pets, studied pet care extensively, brought their pets to school for their friends to see, and visited the Rockcastle Veterinary Clinic.

Ms. DeBorde's and Mrs. Carter's classes both adopted hamsters. Ms. DeBorde's class named theirs Astro, and Mrs. Carter's class named theirs Sleepy. Mrs. Carter's class also has an aquarium full of fish, thanks to Mr. Alexander's know-how.

Many people in the school were astounded the day we invited the Super Kids' pets to join us in school. We had a parade of big dogs, little dogs, cats, ferrets, lizards, turtles, and who knows what else! They paraded to each of our classrooms, then tried to settle down in front of the school for a picture. With so much excitement, it was hard to be still.

We culminated our studies of pets with a trip to Dr. Chism's office. We had a beautiful day for a refreshing walk across the street to the new location of the Rockcastle Veterinary Clinic.

Dr. Chism again reinforced what the children had been learning in their studies, telling them to be kind to their pets by giving them plenty of food, water, and exercise, and have them vaccinated to prevent disease. He also gave them coloring books about pet care. The kids especially liked seeing the animals being held in Dr. Chism's kennel that day. They were very attentive as he explained his practice to them.

During our friends unit we visited the Rockcastle County Hospital to make some new friends. The kids made cards for the patients and sang them a couple of songs about friends. Mrs. Jamie Cornelius was so kind as to accompany them on piano while they sang. The patients gave each of the students a nice letter of thanks and a balloon to take home.

Learning sure is fun in the Super Kids Primary Cluster!

Bullock completes specialized training in effective mathematics

Charlotte A. Bullock of Brodhead has recently completed a semester of specialized training in effective mathematics education for primary grades and received her certification as a K-4 Math Specialist in the State of Kentucky. The Kentucky K-4 Mathematics Specialist Program is the first statewide teacher enhancement project to be funded by the National Science Foundation and currently serves as a model for other states and other disciplines wishing to conduct large-scale teacher enhancement programs. The Kentucky model utilizes talents of many different people in a team approach where mathematics monitor the mathematics content, teacher educators monitor pedagogy, and classroom teachers provide a reality check.

This three-year program has exemplary teachers, university faculty and school supervisors working in teams to train and establish a comprehensive network of K-4 math specialists across the Commonwealth. Through hands-on workshops incorporating manipulatives, technology, problem solving, and small group work, participants learn math concepts, procedures, and activities for teaching number sense, geometry, measurement, and statistics. The project also assists educators in implementing recommendations from the NCTM Standards and the Kentucky Council on Performance Standards. Participants in the project receive a rich variety of materials and teaching strategies which have been gathered and/or produced by trainers with a kaleidoscope of teaching perspectives and expertise.

A veteran educator of seven years with experience at all elementary levels, Mrs. Bullock teaches sixth, seventh and eighth grade at Brodhead Elementary School in Rockcastle County. She is a graduate of Eastern Kentucky University with degrees in both Early Childhood and Elementary Education.

Currently she is working on Rank I certification in secondary health.

Wishing to continue growing professionally, Mrs. Bullock has taken advantage of various summer institutes at different colleges, such as studying cooperative learning at Indiana University this past summer, becoming better informed on Business and Education Partnerships with the University of the Commonwealth Institute for Teachers at Western Kentucky University, and exploring the Foxfire method and theory of teaching children when she attended a Berea College Institute. She reports that she is eager to attend still more training sessions for professional growth and that she loves to share her education experiences with colleagues.

The fourth and fifth grade students of Mrs. Katrina Cash, Mrs. Kathy Reynolds, Mrs. Vicki Scott, Mrs. Judy Doyle, and Mrs. Cindy Ellington enjoyed a performance at the UK Center for the Arts, of the Lexington Philharmonic. The field trip was thoroughly orchestrated by music teacher, Mrs. Mary Whitlock.

Mrs. Beverly Sexton, storyteller and mother of fifth grader, Ellis Dale, will be visiting our classrooms (Primary-5) presenting a dental health program. Mrs. Sexton works at the Rockcastle Health Department. The program is being coordinated through our county school nurse, Mrs. Jeanne Parsons.

The 1992 Jim Claypool Conservation Poster and Essay Contest, sponsored by the Courier-Journal, is now underway. Please encourage your child to participate.

John McQueary, 4-H county extension agent, is working with our students promoting the annual speech contest. This is an excellent opportunity for our students to hone their speaking skills.

Allen Pensol, arts coordinator, has been in our school this week assisting teachers and students with their skill selections that will be performed at PTA meetings throughout the school year.

Our principal, Mark McKinney, continues his professional development this week in Louisville at the institute for the 21st Century. Participating with Mr. McKinney are fellow educators from our county and throughout the state.

Picture re-takes and group pictures for the annual were made Wed. Oct. 28.

BES students and staff dressed in red Wed. Oct. 28, in recognition of the national campaign for drug prevention - Red Ribbon week. The PTA provided large red ribbons for the outside doors and teachers coordinated the drug prevention activities across the curriculum.

SWAT Primary Team of Ms. Annette Gevedon, Mrs. Sharon Ponder, Mrs. Lena Hayes, Mrs. Deena Thompson, and Mrs. Jennifer Neely have completed a thematic unit on arachnids. Using the Whole Language Approach the students learned many interesting facts related to spiders. The students reported the most enjoyable event of this unit was making spiders from food - marshmallows dipped in chocolate for the body, pretzel legs, and chocolate sprinkles and chocolate chip eyes. The students enjoyed the reading of Charlotte's Web.

The School Based Decision Making Council will meet in the cafeteria; Tues., evening, Nov. 3 at 7 p.m. The meetings are open and you are welcome to attend.

The monthly meeting of PTA is Thursday, Nov. 12 at 7 p.m. Kindergarten classes of Mrs. Rita Shaffer, Mrs. Lalo Graves and Ms. Annette Gevedon will be featured.

Nelson Graves' sixth grade social studies and math students conducted a mock presidential election, Tues., Oct. 27. Faculty and students registered with precinct workers Natasha Reynolds, Jenia Davidson, and Tabatha Woodall and then cast their ballots. The percentage results will be calculated, graphed, and displayed.

A new flag, that was requested through the office of Representative Harold Rogers now flies over our school.

MVES hosted the first meeting of the Lake Cumberland Academic League, Tues., Oct. 27. County teams competed in quick recall. BEAST members are Angela Blanton, Chris Arch Bradley, Jeffery Owens, Emily Potter, Renee Day, Cliff Matkovich, Jeff French, Nathan Deleon, John LaFibers, Shannon Nicely, Josh McKibben, April Thompson, Beth Blanton, Jeremy Saylor, and Brandon Martin. We wish great success to coach, Ms. Regina Burton and team.

Trick or Treat for the City of Brodhead is at Saturday evening, Oct. 31 from 6 - 8 p.m.

There will be no school Monday, Nov. 2 and Tuesday, Nov. 3.

We are looking forward to the first presentation of the Performing Arts classes of Mrs. Pamela Martin and Mrs. Caroline Graves. The show entitled, Mix and Mingle, will be enjoyed by students, Friday, Oct. 30 at 2:15.

STATIC, the primary team of Mrs. Kathy Dyehouse, Mrs. Margie Bishop, Mrs. Jeleta Bradshaw, Mrs. Lalo Graves, Mrs. Doris Wright and Mrs. Goldie Blanton enjoyed a nature walk to the park, Friday, Oct. 23. Students collected leaves, acorns, feathers, and various nature materials to use for art projects.

News and Advertising Deadline (Including Classifieds) is noon Tuesday.

Kindergarten classes are studying the '92 Election. They are also studying the letter H and the number 9. Wednesday, Oct. 28 will be Hat Day. A costume party is planned for Oct. 30. Ms. Alexander's class would like to welcome their new student teacher, Mrs. Beverly Hixson. Ms. Parker's class is keeping a moth collection.

Ms. Smith's Student of the Week is Devon Bussell. The class is making pumpkin books and Halloween Rhyme books. They are studying the Election '92 and reading the newspaper.

Ms. Vanzant's class has been doing addition to 10, estimation, and circumference in math. In Connections, they have been exploring the child's role in each type of community: family, neighborhood, extended community and country.

Ms. Webb's class is studying the history of Halloween. On Friday, the Get-Along Gang will go trick-or-treat. They are going to pumpkin-carrots. On Tuesday, Oct. 27, they had a visit to Brummett's Apple Orchard. In reading, they have had lots of fun with rhyming words. During math, they are learning to add by counting on. Josh Bradley has been in the hospital with pneumonia. The class really misses him.

Ms. Clinton's class went to E.C. Porter's Monday and looked at different types of apples. They are looking forward to Halloween. They will be going to Brummett's Apple Orchard on Friday.

Ms. Maples' class has seven days perfect attendance. They have been studying about Halloween. They are going to an apple orchard. They are also going to the Courthouse to see a voting machine.

Ms. DeBorde's class will be learning about the election process this week in their Connections class. On Monday, they will be visiting the Courthouse to see a voting booth. They will also be reading and learning about spiders in their fourth level. They are looking forward to their trip to Brummett's Apple Orchard on Friday. Josh Taylor is their Student of the Week.

Ms. Ford's primary class during the week of October 19 has been working on a unit about trees. They have read many interesting and informative books about trees. They discussed why trees are important, the reasons leaves change colors in the fall, the different classifications of trees, how trees prevent erosion. They also discussed different uses of the wood that comes from trees. The boys and girls did activities that taught them how to tell the age of a tree. In spelling they worked on vowel-sounds. In math they are working on renaming from tens to hundreds. In writing, they are working in their journals and reading logs. They are all trying to read many books, and make reports on them to get "Book lists" from Pizza Hut.

In Mrs. Ford's multi-age, they have been studying about "Our Teeth." They are learning how to take care of their teeth and why they need to. They have read many fun books about teeth, and watched films about taking care of them. Mrs. Beverly Sexton presented a program about "Healthy Teeth." She gave the children a coloring book about teeth. The children will receive toothpaste, toothbrush and floss on Friday.

The Girl Scouts at MVES attended an investiture/rededication ceremony this past Monday.

Parents Are Teachers Positive Rules!

By: Kathleen Ford Leavelle Program Manager at CAP

When I was in elementary school, I remember my family watching the evening news together. (In those days the news was considered family viewing.) I remember being "laughing" when Don Kent, the weatherman, began to forecast "partly sunny tomorrow" instead of his usual "mostly cloudy." I thought he was trying to trick us - so we wouldn't notice the clouds and mean that we were "laughing" at his weather in positive terms. How many rules do we have for our children that begin with "Don't"? You ever said: "Don't hit -- Don't throw sand -- Don't go near the street!" -- or -- "Don't spit on your brother!" Are you shaking your head and smiling? I wonder how our children perceive us with all the "don'ts" we throw at them.

Yet, we can eliminate the same unwanted behavior with positive statements. Could we get the same results by replacing "Don't throw sand" with "Sand stays in the sandbox" or low about an emphatic "Talk It Out!!!" instead of "Don't spit on your brother!"

Here are a few re-writes that can take what children perceive negative, mean, rotten, stupid old rules and make them a little easier to follow. See if you can come up with a few of your own.

DON'T go in the street -- Stay on the sidewalk.
You CAN'T go out in the rain -- This is an indoor day.
DON'T pull his hair! -- PAT him like this.

15-week parenting program will begin November 5

A fifteen (15) week parenting program will begin November 5, 1992. The class will be from 4p.m. to 6p.m. The emphasis will be to offer parenting practices that will be positive for both the parent and the child. This particular program is open to the general public without cost and with emphasis on education in child development and discipline through the philosophy of caring and self-wisdom.

The Nurturing Program is based on four concepts:

1. Love of Life, Self and Others;
2. Care for all living things (Self and Others);
3. Structure and Discipline;
4. Laughter, Humor and Fun.

The Nurturing Program was developed by Dr. S. J. Bavolek, at the Family Development Resources Center at Park City, Utah. Dr. Bavolek's work is recognized throughout the United States and other countries.

The Nurturing Program is being made available to parents in Kentucky and has been in some areas such as Kenton and Boone Counties since 1982. The program offers through the Committee for Kids of Northern Kentucky served 12,000 parents and children last year.

The Nurturing Program will be facilitated by Cora LePore and Dolores Albright. Other community resource people and volunteers will join the program as the weeks progress.

Ms. LePore and Mrs. Albright both have specific expertise in areas of child development.

Mrs. Albright graduated from Eastern Ky. University in 1970 and has twenty-one years experience in counseling. Mrs. Albright also has continuing education credits from the University of Kentucky, Northern Kentucky University, and Syracuse University. Mrs. Albright participated in a forty-hour program followed by Dr. Bavolek this summer at the Highland Campus at Northern Kentucky University. Ms. LePore is a graduate of Boston College and has twenty-one years of experience in counseling. Ms. LePore worked in a direct service program to parents of preschool children in Rockcastle during 1972 and 1973. Ms. LePore has continuing education credits in this area from Eastern Kentucky University, Shelby Campus, University of Louisville and the University of Kentucky.

To register call 256-2138. There will be a limit of sixteen (16) participants. We welcome anyone who parents a child. The intention is to offer education, build positive self-esteem and demonstrate how parenting can be fun.

However, this vote did not match with the national totals from Channel One schools: Clinton carried 42 states, with Perot taking 6, and Bush carrying 2. The students are watching to see if they have correctly predicted the winner.

Teachers have also used the election as the basis for classroom activities. Writing speeches in English, calculating electoral vote percentages in Math, analyzing political cartoons in History, discussing the candidates' environmental policies in Science, and other activities have exposed the students to various aspects related to the election.

Mock Election Results: grade 9 - Bush - 26; Clinton - 12; Perot - 10

Grade 12 - Bush - 25; Clinton - 17; Perot - 26.

Grade 10 - Bush - 29; Clinton - 15; Perot - 11

Grade 11 - Bush - 26; Clinton - 21; Perot - 13

Channel One Results: Bush - 300; Clinton - 203; Perot - 196; Other - 95

Protective Parenting

By Ginny Gilpatrick

The counter where you check out at Rite Price holds the typical array of Halloween gizmos to entice an extra couple of dollars out of the customer with open wallet. Most of these have an active lifespan and interest index of about 10 minutes.

The woman in front of me had perched her toddler on the counter and his eyes and fingers were attracted by the orange and black wonders within his reach. One of those "teachable moments" was at hand! His mother, money in hand, cash register on 'hold,' asked him to make a choice. He selected the Bendable Pumpkin Man, she agreed, the clerk added it into her total and she was handing over the money. Meanwhile, his other hand had selected the Ghost Pumpkin (a jack-in-the-box affair) and she paused to give him time to choose one. This was the teachable moment in action and I was impressed. Here was an opportunity for the child to make a choice, based on his values; an opportunity for a little legitimate power and an opportunity for the mother to enforce limits based on her values.

Then in stepped Mama who was standing by. She reached into her purse and produced the extra money for the second toy. The moment was lost. An example that could have helped the child formulate a lifetime of secure balance between desire and the next generation of political leaders we cannot expect to see a change for the better down the pike. This means aggressively snatching those teachable moments in our children's lives and molding them to live thoughtfully.

(P.S. Next Tuesday is a teachable moment... be sure your child knows why you are going out to vote.)

Members were Carlene Lodmell of Woodford County, Willy Witt of Rockcastle County, and Helga Armit and Raelyn Easter of Magoffin County.

Happy Halloween
By: Preston Parrett
When last we saw the Dummy in his eye he had a tear, for his adopted family was stashing him away for the year.

Now the leaves are changing color; the fall months are here. The children are all waiting for the Dummy to reappear.

He's back on the porch, dressed in brown and black, seated in a lawn chair, all relaxed and tilted back.

His appearance has changed; He's got whiskers on his chin, while on top of his head the hair is growing thin.

Some say that he favors his well known master, with the only difference being his made out of straw and plaster.

When he gets drowsy he'll take a nap. Shading his marble eyes with a Citizens Bank cap.

Walking along West Street has become quite a hobby, and everyone walking by says "Hello Bobby."

When no one speaks back, we feel quite cunning; for upon a closer look we realize that we're speaking to a dummy.

Now on Halloween night the goblins are out in force, and the first place they head for is the Dummy's house, of course.

For the Dummy has goodies and it's a fun place to start. He knows the latest songs and dances, like "Achy Breaky Heart"

As he moves his straw legs and his feet of plaster, the children all join in and their little hearts beat faster.

The children dance and laugh as their shouts are heard to the sky, making the dummy happy before he has to say a tearful goodbye.

7th grade - 1st place - Cory Bailey (Mt. Vernon); 2nd place - Dale Green (Roundstone)

More Letters

Dear Editor:
The problem of unwed pregnancy is growing more severe, not because solutions are unavailable to us, but because the dominant worldview finds those solutions intolerable. Profilers who challenge the conventional wisdom are fighting against a slavish academic and media devotion to ideology rather than good sense. Cultural changes that have glorified unrestrained sexuality and minimized the importance of marriage while legitimizing single-parenting, easy divorce, and abortion have had a tremendous social, cultural, and economic effect.

Until we once again support those struggling to uphold marriage and moral values in the face of widespread disregard for them, and until society responds, the problems of unwed pregnancies will get worse. Some academics like to talk about complicated structural causes of poverty, but the key factors stare us in the face. Divorce and unwed motherhood, both resulting from individual decisions, account for essentially all the growth in poverty since 1970. "Every child a two-parent child" should be our goal, with the understanding that tragedy sometimes intervenes.

But what can pro-lifers do when sexual intercourse becomes more common in courtship than flowers? Over the past twenty years powerful forces of liberalism have led a systematic assault on the two-parent family. Piece by piece, they have dismantled the moral foundation supporting families in order to set women and children free to be... whatever. Instead of freedom, we have reaped sorrow. Families have been thrust into poverty, and children have suffered abuse. Millions of babies have been aborted.

Perot and Clinton support abortion, and would have no limits. President Bush would allow abortions in the case of "rape, incest, and health of the mother," but would end abortions of "convenience." Please consider these positions on election day, Nov. 3.

Dear Editor:
In this election we hear Americans saying over and over that they "are tired of taxes and Big Government," but, judging by the polls, these same Americans are supporting more taxes and more government in the candidacies of H. Ross Perot and Bill Clinton. If one is logical, and you are an opponent of high taxes and bigger government, it makes no sense to be supporting either Perot or Clinton who are going to give us even more taxes and more government than George Bush gave us. More taxes and more government will make our present economy - once again recovering from the destructive "1990 Budget Agreement" - turn into a much worse recession. In the Great Depression, for example, President Hoover and President Roosevelt increased taxes, increased the size of government, set up protective tariffs, and... the depression became worse.

President Cleveland, however, cut taxes, restrained government spending, ended many of the tariffs during the Great Depression of 1893, and, as a result, the economy recovered sooner rather than later. President Bush has not been a great president, but he has been a good president. Some of us have forgotten that. I remember the last time we replaced a good president for a presidential candidate who was advertising "change," and campaigning that "the economy could be better." At the time we suffered a 5.6 percent unemployment rate. We elected this new candidate of change for president in 1976, and watched as his tax and spend policies gave us a recession of 14 percent inflation, 22 percent interest rates, and an unemployment rate of 10.8 percent before it was all over.

By 1980, for those who remember, we were desperate. Liberalism had destroyed America and American families of all economic classes. We elected Ronald Reagan and George Bush in 1980, and we soon witnessed the resurgence of America not only as a military and moral power in the world, but as an economic one as well. I was 24 years old at the start of the 1980s, and I remember clearly (apparently more clearly than some editorialists) the dramatic differences between the Reagan-Bush 1980s and the late 1970s of the Jimmy Carter years. Reaganomics led, for those not blinded by ideology, to falling gas prices and plentiful supplies, declining unemployment, declining inflation and interest rates. The changes in the economy were amazing.

These changes were finally brought to an end with the "1990 Budget Agreement," but the good news is that the economy has weathered the damage and is on the mend unless we have another tax increase. Unemployment continued to fall this year, and Kentucky's unemployment rate is a full percentage point lower than in 1991. Housing starts are up 13 percent. Median income, with inflation factored in, shows a 7 percent percent in income since 1980. There has been a steady drumbeat of feathering on the economy since 1982, and these laws have had an effect on Americans. It appears, though, we have forgotten about the 20 million jobs created in the 1980s, and that America is still the land of opportunity. I don't see how, then, Perot or Clinton - who have similar economic plans - are going to help us by increasing our taxes and turning government into an even bigger daddy for us. President Bush, of all the candidates, clearly understands that increasing taxes and increasing government spending is bad for an economy. He has learned from experience; Perot and Clinton have yet to learn.

DON'T throw your clothes on the floor -
DON'T talk with your mouth full -
DON'T put that in your mouth -

Look at both sets of rules. Which ones will make us appear like the head guard at San Quentin? Which ones offer both the limitation and the expected behavior? And most importantly, which ones have a better chance of shaping a child with a positive view of her world? When rules are stated positively, they don't need to be translated to explain their reason. They are already guiding your child's mind toward understanding. Parents who have already put this into practice know the difference it makes. It turns partly cloudy attitudes into mostly sunny outlooks!

Re-Elect George BUSH

This may be the most important election we will face, as a nation, in our lifetime.
GEORGE BUSH is the best candidate for our nation at this time because:

- He is anti-abortion
- He stands for family values as we understand them
- He is a proven world leader with the experience and know-how to deal with world crisis as he showed during the Persian Gulf Crisis
- He is a proponent of free enterprise. Do you remember the 21% interest rates under the last democratic president Jimmy Carter? How much did your house payment go up?
- With a little cooperation from the democratic Congress, Bush has a plan to take care of our medical crisis rather than turn it into socialized medicine.
- He will keep Social Security safe.

President Bush visits London

A Day to Remember

President George Bush took the speaker's platform with a number of dignitaries including Larry Forgy, U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers, U.S. Senate candidate David Williams, U.S. Sen. Mitch McConnell and other local leaders including Laurel County Commonwealth Attorney Tom Handy and Superintendent of Schools Joe McKnight. Celebrity of Family Feud, Ray Combs, also took to the platform in support of the president. Judy Rose, of London, provided patriotic songs. President Bush arrived by "Marine One" and worked the crowd for a few minutes after delivering his speech.
