"Christmas Service Groups"

Between CAP, REAP, and DSS, Benfro Valley and others who distributed food, gifts, fruit, and other needs, it is estimated that we reached approximately 5,000 people in our county. We gave out 6,000 items from REAP that will have to be replaced by donations, food drives, or other means. Our goal was for 100 food boxes. We gave over 145. Approximately 2,000 hours of volunteer hours went into the REAP-DSS project. We want to thank Becky Sagraves and Sheila Downs for working some very late hours making up boxes. Edna Kirby worked till midnight on separating clothes and gifts. Ginny and Allen Gilpatrick for their hours put in with their volunteers, my family members, and the family members of the Sagraves and Downs families and Edna Kirby family. This really meant a lot to Edna and myself. Unfortunately my emergency eye surgery slowed me down and I had to just sit and supervise and talk many long hours on the phone. We received our re-wards by the smiles on the faces of children getting gifts, mothers getting food, and the "Thank you's" that came from the heart. Thank you, Teresa for the hours you donated.

Even though we had a sofa and chair stolen and lamps and other items stolen, the GRINCH could not keep somewhat higher rates in northeastern and south central Kentucky," he said. "The quota supply is historically tight in these areas."

The reduced tobacco income will have far-reaching effects, according to Forrest Stegeln, Extension agronomy specialist.

"Lifestyles will be affected because farm families will have fewer dollars to spend on day-to-day necessities and luxuries," Stegeln said. "As farm families tighten their belts to make up lost tobacco income, rural communities also will feel the pinch," he added. "Rural counties will see big dollar effects; some counties could see over half a million dollars in income loss. The effect would be very similar to seeing a small business go under."

Stegeln said the quota reduction will have minimal impact on sales of tobacco production input. However, some farmers might alter their production mix, including other commodities to compensate for reduced tobacco acreage and income.

Residents upset over condition of county road

Accidents that have been occurring on Bowling Ridge Road in Brodhead have some residents speaking out that the road is a hazard.

"The road needs to be widened and have guardrails put up," said Doris Brummett, 34, a resident who is leading a small group in efforts to get the road fixed.

The section of the road in question is commonly known as Bowling Ridge Hill in which Brummett says, "at least five accidents have occurred in the past year that I know of."

None have been serious but residents feel that if nothing is done to correct the road, one could soon be killed.

According to Brummett, the road is barely wide enough for two vehicles to pass. On one side the pavement has broken apart leaving scattered drop-offs too deep for cars to pull off. And on the other side lies an inclined hill that leads up to the road.

The only thing preventing cars from rolling over the hill when forced to that side are the scattered trees that bare scars from vehicles that have already struck them, said Brummett.

Brummett's decision to try to get something done for the road came Saturday after she and her daughter, April Price, 14, were involved in an accident on the road.

Brummett said she was passing a truck Saturday Morning when one of her tires struck a culvert forcing her car to leave the road and come to rest just over an embankment.

Brummett and her daughter stayed in the car fearing that any movement by them could possibly send the car rolling over the hill.

"I blew my horn until someone found us because we were afraid to move," said Brummett.

Once found Brummett remained in the car with her foot on the brake for 40 minutes before being safely pulled from the embankment by a wrecker.

Since the accident Brummett said she has contacted magistrate Clinton Brown as well as Rockcastle Judge/Executive Roland Mullins.

Brummett said Mullins told the group the road would be widened and blacktopped as soon as the weather warmed up to permit laying blacktop.

In a telephone interview Tuesday, Mullins also told the Signal that when weather permits, the Bowling Ridge Road would be widened and blacktopped. Mullins added that the county intends to correct the road not because of what happened but because they planned on doing it anyway.

"I hate it awful bad, but there's not a road in the county that hasn't had a wreck," he said.

According to Mullins there are many roads in need of blacktop and other such work but that the county is doing the best they can to correct the problems.

In the subject of guardrails, Brummett said Mullins told her and other residents to contact the State Highway Department.

Maguire files for judge

District Judge Walter F. Maguire has announced his intention to seek a fourth term as District Judge for Pulaski and Rockcastle Counties. In his announcement, Judge Maguire said, "It is with a deep sense of appreciation and genuine humility that I announce my intentions to seek a fourth term as District Judge for Pulaski and Rockcastle Counties. I deeply appreciate the opportunity my fellow citizens have granted me to serve them as an elected judicial officer during three terms, and I am humbled by the trust and confidence the people have shown me for over a decade."

Judge Maguire grew up in Somerset, graduated from public schools there and went on to college on an athletic scholarship, later graduating from the UK College of Law. In

Sears store here on hit list

A total of 45 outlet stores in Kentucky are expected to be closed by Sears-Roebuck which has indicated it will discontinue catalog sales across the nation.

It will cost about 50,000 jobs nationwide.

Tony Hopkins, at Mt. Vernon's store, said he expects the store to be closed in about 90 days.

"But business is normal and we plan to stay in business as long as we can," Hopkins said.

He said he was not expecting the decision by Sears. He knew the business was changing but the final decision came as surprise.

"We got a telegram recently that the company would cease operations early in '93 and '94," Hopkins stated. "They didn't say much more."

The spring 1993 catalog will be the last, although orders will be accepted until the end of the year.

Sears also said it would discontinue some of its auto-repair services and sell a chain of women's apparel stores. Eliminating the catalog also means closing some 2,000 Sears catalog stores, most owned by independent retailers.

The moves illustrate how badly

Sears has stumbled in recent years. Considered by many to be the most influential merchant in the nation's history, Sears sold more washing machines, coats and hand tools to Americans than anyone else.

In the 1980s, however, its sales ability began to wane, and in 1991 Sears lost its title as the nation's largest general merchandise retailer to Wal-Mart Stores Inc. of Arkansas.

Sears failed to keep pace with changes in the retail industry, according to industry, according to industry executives and stock analysts, while Wal-Mart cut costs by using sophisticated distribution systems and attracted shoppers with top-notch customer service.

Sears' killing off the catalog, or "Big Book," a world-famous American icon, underlines the seriousness of its plight. The catalog, which had estimated sales of $3.3 billion in 1992, is the largest in the country but has been losing money for at least three years.

Sears will have a "sharper focus on profitable businesses and considerably reduced debt, which we believe will enhance shareholder value" as a result of the moves, Sears Chairman Edward Brennan said in a statement.

The restructuring will cost $1.7 billion, to be recorded in the fourth quarter of 1992. But Sears officials hope the steps will eventually increase profits $300 million a year.

Sears is also taking $1.9 billion after-tax charge to provide for changes in how it accounts for retiree benefits. This charge is being taken by other U.S. companies to comply with new accounting rules.

These towns have catalog stores which may close: Albany, Barboursville, Bardwell, Beaver Dam, Cadiz, Central City, Canthana, Danville, Flemingsburg, Georgetown, Hindman.

Hopkinsville, Hyden, Irvine, Jackson, LaGrange, Lebanon, Leitchfield, London, Louisa, Mayfield, Maysville.

Monticello, Morehead, Morgantown, Mt. Sterling, Mt. Vernon, Murray, New Castle, Paris, Pikeville, Prestonsburg.

Princeton, Providence, Radcliff, Russellville, Scottsville, Shelbyville, Somerset, Winchester, Whitley City, Whitesburg.

less abundant in the eastern mountain counties.

Adapted to living in close proximity to man, the coyote makes its home in overgrown fields and brushy fence rows—along abandoned railways, woodlots and rocky hillsides along rivers. Coyotes often make their homes in suburban and semirural areas near large metropolitan areas.

They thrive in a mixture of open land and woodlands.

For the past 30 years, the coyote has been extending its range eastward from its historic range, the plains and mountains of western North America.

Biologists believe that the coyote's rapid range expansion into Kentucky was aided by severe winter weather in the late 1970s.

Adults weigh about 30 pounds, but much heavier males are common.

The bottle-shaped bushy tail is always carried at a downward angle.

The coyote has tall, erect ears and a long, slender nose. Coyotes trot in typical dog fashion and are capable of long runs in hopes of chasing down prey. Coyote tracks are generally longer and narrower than dog tracks.

They are creatures of opportunity but eat whatever is available, from pork berries and persimmons, to woodchucks and carrion, especially road kill skunks. They mainly prey on small mammals but also eat domestic cats, young wild turkeys, They're off and running! A total of 71 candidates are in the running for the May 25 primary election and they all claim they're winners.

When the filing closed Tuesday, there was hardly anyone around to explain for their candidates.

And, there were few surprises. Those who said they planned to file, did. Those who didn't, didn't.

Only a few have an easy four months. Norma Houk escaped with no competition, as did "Elmer" Hale, Property Valuation Administrator, Billy Dowell, Coroner and James L. Winstead, surveyor.

In the constable races, only Roy Parriman got by with no opposition. As they say, some of the races are doozies.

County Judge/Executive Roland Mullins will have to fight it out with Buzz Carlfort.

Sheriff Shirley Smith has formidable opposition as does Jaier Joseph Howard and all the magistrates.

And, the state warned candidates today that politicians are welcome on the state's roads, but their political signs are not.

The state Transportation Cabinet sent out a special notice yesterday to officials in Floyd, Johnson, Knott, Letcher, Martin and Pike counties. The notice reminds people in those Eastern Kentucky counties that putting political signs on the state right-of-way is against the law. It's the state law and it applies to all candidates.

"As a state agency, the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet represents all Kentuckians and is supported by all Kentuckians," Transportation Secretary Don Kelly said. "Although we certainly do not want to inhibit the sovereignty of political campaigns,

Renfro's season schedule

Renfro Valley plans to enhance its reputation as Kentucky's Country Music Capital by offering even more music in 1993.

The 1993 calendar is a star-studded concert series, with monthly appearances by country's brightest stars. The concert series, which runs April through November, opens with an April 18 appearance by Patty Loveless.

Loveless was scheduled to appear at Renfro Valley in September, 1992. That performance was cancelled because the popular singer underwent surgery to correct a vocal chord problem. Loveless is back on the concert trail, reportedly singing "better than ever."

On May 16, Renfro Valley welcomes Steve Warner to the stage of the New Barn. Warner, a regular at the top of the country charts, will appear in two shows, at 2 and 6 p.m. His one and only concert feature the full spectrum of country music, with Collin Ray appearing on June 6 and Ronnie McDowell on July 4.

In August, the concert stage belongs to country legend Don Williams. Williams, whose mellow style has earned him a place in country music history, appears on August 15. Expect full-scale excitement in the Valley in September. Finishing touches are in the works for a mega-concert, outdoors, featuring a roster of country's hottest stars. Looks for an announcement soon releasing the names of the three or four stars who will entertain at this September 19 event.

Contracts are being signed for the Oct. 17 concert.

Call the Nov. 14 concert a command performance. The legendary Conway Twitty returns to Renfro Valley. Fans attending Conway's 1992 concert at Renfro Valley will testify to the excitement of Conway's stage show.

Tickets for all of the 1993 concerts are on sale now. For reservations, phone the Renfro Valley ticket office at 606-256-2638. Each star will perform two concerts, at 2 and 6 p.m. Showtime for the September outdoor concert will be announced soon. Ticket prices for the concerts vary; prices are available at Renfro Valley ticket office. "With stars of this magnitude, tickets will sell quickly," cautions Renfro Valley Executive Vice President Don Hendricksen, "my advice to fans is to book early."

In addition to the star-studded concert series, Renfro Valley will feature a full calendar of special events during the 1993 season.

The traditional Easter Egg hunt, scheduled for April 10 this year, is joined by a special Easter Jubilee

If you or I were caught by the law and convicted of selling our votes to a particular candidate running for public office, we'd be in a heap of trouble. We'd get a hefty fine and maybe spend some time in jail along with the candidate who paid us off. If we were caught distributing money to voters on behalf of a candidate, we'd also be in trouble.

A few years ago, The Kentucky Legislature enacted a "voter reform" law that makes it a bit tougher to buy an election than it used to be. The net effect has been that not nearly as many people go to the polls anymore if they bother to register to vote at all. Many, if not most, Kentuckians figure that if you're going to get anything out of a politician, you darn well better do it before the polls close. Eliminate the potential for doing that and they don't see much sense in voting.

The purpose of such a law, however, was pretty obvious. The notion was that if folks were not tempted by a few dollars or a pint of whiskey they would vote their conscience. Hence good people with good ideas but little money desiring to be elected to political office might be able to compete with the crooks doling out the dollars. As much as anything else, the law was written to level the political playing field.

What, in fact, has happened is that voters no longer have to be paid off. The same crowd with the political money to dole out continues to hold and control power and the same money that has always purchased power and special privilege in Kentucky continues to operate as slyly as it ever did. The only difference between now and the days of more conspicuous vote purchasing is that the avenues of cash flow have changed a bit.

Big banking, big coal, big unions, big insurance companies, big horses, big oil, big health care, big money period continue to purchase their special agendas in much the same way as always. And the net effect is that Democracy in Kentucky is a contradiction in terms.

There are probably a few muni-palities and perhaps a few county governments where the basic hints of the democratic process are functioning. But don't expect the State Legislature or the Governor's office to point those out to you.

And don't be expecting the politicians you have sent to Frankfort to be changing the way things are when the Legislature goes into special session next week. You can count on the fingers of two hands the total number of elected Senators and Representatives who are genuinely interested in seeing real Democracy come to Kentucky. Because if it did, most of them would be in trouble come next election time.

Look instead, for a press tour of three weeks wherein the Legislators spend most of their time burling shrimp and t-bones and cursing the news media. Listen for one after another to stand up and tell you that just because they each took a few hundred dollars from Humana and ate the several best meals they've had in their lives as Humana guests, that had nothing at all to do with their passing special legislation that would have exempted Humana in Louisville from laws governing the rest of the health care industry.

The fact is that special favor is purchased in Frankfort every day. The fact is that most incumbent Legislators can purchase almost unlimited amounts of expensive advertising come election time to showcase the special interests give them whatever it takes to stay elected and snugly in the pockets that own them.

So get ready for a few million dollars of our money to be wasted while the good ole boys and girls party down for a week or two. That's all I expect to happen here.

When this state elects a Governor not owned by big money and special interests - one who is willing to lead and commit himself to changing the system, we might see some meaningful change. Brex Horse not only isn't that person but he hasna vested interest in keeping things the way they are. He's already announced that it ain't none of his business. If Brexton Jones were to walk into the House of Representatives and announce that he thought taking money in exchange for political favor was wrong, he knows that they would laugh him all the way back to the stable.

And if you find yourself shaking your head and mumbling at the end of this session, just wait a few minutes and see what the giv is gonna bring to you in the name of health care reform. This is just a warning. The real waste is still about six months off. If you think getting the cost of health care down is what the government when he says reform, you just

Commentary

By: George Ferrell

Photography is not only one way that I make a living, it is a passion as well as something of a shutterbug.

The world from behind a camera or in front of a picture has always fascinated me since I was a child.

Having become something of a science in less than 200 years, photography has a modernity that will depict the world's history for many generations in the future.

At times I have wondered what course the world might have taken had photography been discovered much sooner.

A painting or a drawing is all we have left from the ages before photography. We have all seen the realism and spontaneity that photography brings to the world.

Visual truth can often be stronger than written or spoken truth.

Many times, it is true, a picture can tell a story better than a thousand words.

In the 20th century photographers have documented the lives of diverse people from all across the globe, and have been instrumental in bringing about social change.

A photo, admittedly a videotape, sparked the Rodney King incident and eventually led to vast destruction in Los Angeles.

Nonetheless, photography can stir strong emotions as we identify with and experience the image.

Documentaries can explain cultural differences to outsiders, spark debate over social dilemmas, educate and generally inform the public.

At a news-paper there are two general categories that photography falls into.

One is the grip and grin, line up a group, take their picture and write down their names and information.

The other is more spontaneous and falls into category of covering events - ballgames, political speakers, community events and all the rest of the goings on in a local coverage area.

In over 10 years of newspaper work I have taken just about every kind of picture imaginable - from the Queen of England to the President to Cub Scouts and the county fair.

It has all been enjoyable and makes for great space between the trenchwork of covering board, governmental, and community groups as well as sports events.

I've probably written over 1,000 stories, features, government and sports columns. While I enjoy that side of newspapering, I find that the photography is what I enjoy the most. Someone can always disagree with or criticize a story, but more often than not a photo stands on its own.

*One reason that I like newspapering so much is that it is applied.

By that I mean journalists work with their hands - typing in stories, putting film on reels, taking pictures, writing down notes and so on.

We get to see a final product that is tangible. Other professions do not see a final product.

That product, which sums up our efforts for any given edition, is left burned on a page of newspaper.

Even though we make some pretty big mistakes, newspapering is demanding on the intellect in that a journalist continually has to manage his time, meet the next deadline and go on from one project to the next.

About the time we finish we have to start the process all over again - and sometimes that is the fly in the ointment as the process goes on with out end.

After you've worried about getting the names right, the picture printed properly, the layout neat and the ideas explained, the product goes off to the press and you get to do it all over again.

Community journalism has a very important place in most communities, but probably not in the stereotype of big city papers.

The big dailies are perceived to report sensational stories, serving them up as cheap thrills to the public in an effort to sell papers. While some, most editorial board rooms are not places where editors discuss how many papers the next edition will sell.

At smaller papers community journalism thrives, not by being sensational, but by reporting on the life and times of the people and concerns that comprise their coverage area.

Sure, at times there is a hard news photo that might be considered sensational, or a story that is graphic, but for the most part, small papers thrive on the grip and grin, the ballgame, the civic event or the community an-

Rockets average loss with win over Southern

The Rockcastle County Rockets averaged an early season loss by defeating Madison Southern, 54-49, Tuesday night at the high school. Senior Corey Craig paved the way for the Rockets with 25 points and 24 rebounds.

"Everyone played real well," said head coach Clayton Cash.

Defensively, outside the first three minutes, it was probably the best defensive game we've played," he added.

J.D. Bussell proved instrumental with 10 rebounds, five assists and three steals to enable the Rockets to come from an 11-0 rout early on to a 27-26 first half lead.

"I think we came out a little too emotional at the start," said Cash. "But we began to execute well when we settled down into our offense," he added.

The Rockets only recorded one three-pointer but connected for 22 field goals. They also sank 10 of 13 from the free throw line.

"I think we defended the three-pointer well," Cash said. "We forced Southern to miss a lot of shots."

With their defense, the Rockets limited Southern to only six points in the third quarter to take a nine point lead, 41-32.

Southern threatened in the fourth quarter by successfully cutting the lead to only three before the Rockets surged to pull back away in the final seconds.

"Craig hit the boards well and Bussell did a good job ingetting the ball in the middle," Cash said.

"Carter also did an excellent job, when he's in there our offense seems to run much better," he added.

The Rockets, who committed just 12 turnovers, looked solid in the second half by beating Southern's press with just two or three passes down the floor.

"We made a few bad passes late in the game, but we were looking up the floor and did a good job of getting the ball up the floor," said Cash.

Other scorers for the Rockets were: J.D. Bussell, 4; Mike Tackett, 2; Eddie Todd, 4; and Mickey McClure, 19.

In other action, the Rockets fell to Bell County, 53-46, last Friday.

The Rockets led in the first quarter, 15-13, and maintained one point margin at the half, 27-26, before Bell changed the tempo of the game in the second half.

Scoring for the Rockets were: Corey Craig, 13; J.D. Bussell, 13; Eddie Todd, 4; Mickey McClure, 11; Mike Tackett, 3 and Brian Carter, 2.

In junior varsity action, the Rockets picked up their first win of the year by overcoming Barbourville, 55-43. They also lost two games, one to North Laurel, 74-31, and the other to Madison Southern, 46-25.

Scoring against Barbourville were: Willie Morris, 8; Dallas Rigby, 4; Chad Severance, 13; Ken Hopkins, 16; Eric McGuire, 2; Corey Scott, 3; Jarrod Singleton, 7 and Jamie Linville, 2.

Scoring against North Laurel were: Willie Morris, 3; Jarrod Singleton, 2; Chad Severance, 1; Corey Scott, 4; Ken Hopkins, 14; Dallas Rigby, 2; Scotie Cotton, 4 and Adam Powell, 1.

Lady Rockets defeat Lady Bobcats, 55-50

The Rockcastle County Lady Rockets again garnered one win this past week while also suffering one loss. They defeated host Bell County last Friday, 55-50, and lost to host Monticello, 66-47, Monday night.

"We played good against Bell," said head coach Christy Beaver. "We played very hard and were team oriented," she added.

Junior Cindy McCauley recorded 22 points for the Lady Rockets while also pulling down an impressive 12 rebounds. Bell was led by Cindy Smith who bagged 24 points.

The game was knotted up at 14 all in the first quarter before the Bell pulled ahead, 33-27, at the half.

"We're working together better," said Beaver. "We're learning."

Christy Coleman helped in the Lady Rockets' boardwork by claiming nine rebounds. Combined with Becky Osborne's six assists, they managed to take the lead for the first time in the third quarter, 43-39.

"We committed some crucial turnovers late in the game but we ended up making up for them," Beaver said.

The Lady Rockets made up for them from the charity stripe where they respectively connected for 17 of 20 attempts to maintain their lead through the final period of play.

Bell managed only six of 14 from the free throw line.

Other scorers for the Lady Rockets were: Beth Amyx, 13; Christy Coleman, 4; Becky Osborne, 2; Melinda Smith, 8; Melinda Alcorn, 4 and Ginger Mink, 2.

The Lady Rockets never led in their loss to Monticello, 66-47. "Monticello was one of the best teams we have faced this year," said Beaver. "They rank right up there with Garrard County."

Monticello put eight players in the scoring column to post the early lead, 17-9.

While McCauley again led the way for the Lady Rockets with 21 points, they could never rebound from the early deficit.

"Overall, I didn't think we played that bad," commented Beaver. "The only thing is that we may not have rebounded like we should have."

While Monticello nursed their lead through the second half, the Lady Rockets suffered foul trouble. Both McCauley and Amyx entered the final period with four fouls.

"Melinda Smith and Osborne have been playing good the last few games," Beaver said.

The Lady Rockets again posted impressive statistics from the charity stripe by making 16 of 20.

The loss drops their record to 5-11.

Others scoring for the Lady Rockets were: Beth Amyx, 5; Christy Coleman, 4; Becky Osborne, 13; Melinda Smith, 2 and Melinda Alcorn, 2.

In junior varsity action, the Lady Rockets fell just three points shy of defeating Bell County Monday, 36-33.

Scoring for the Lady Rockets were: Heather Deckard, 12; Ginger Mink, 3; Melinda Alcorn, 2; Hanetta McLemore, 2; Janica Cummins, 4; Amy Robinson, 6 and Susie Carpenter, 4.

Liability insurance for employees

Kentucky Transportation Secretary Don C. Kelly today announced that the Cabinet has purchased liability insurance through the Kentucky Department of Insurance for its employees who, as a part of their job responsibilities, drive any of the 1,500 Transportation Cabinet-owned fifteen-passenger vans or commercial vehicles of one ton to 80,000 pounds. The move came quickly in response to new information which surfaced regarding the difficulty and expense in purchasing a drive-over-car rider for commercial vehicles and the lack of individual protection provided by the Board of Claims.

Although it is not required by law, employees driving state-owned vehicles are strongly encouraged to acquire and maintain a drive-over-car rider with their personal auto insurance policy. After a year, the cost is eligible to be re-imposed by the state. This rider is still needed to provide liability insurance for cabinet employees when driving small state-owned vehicles which include passenger cars, small vans, pickup trucks and non-licensed off-road vehicles. If a cabinet employee is currently maintaining a rider which also covers commercial motor vehicles, that coverage will now become secondary to the cabinet's liability insurance.

"The main priority of the Transportation Cabinet is to assist in maintaining the safety of the traveling public," Kelly said. "This does not exclude our own employees. We feel we have an obligation to both the public and our employees to provide insurance coverage while our employees operate state-owned commercial vehicles. Employees of the cabinet who drive commercial vehicles have established an excellent safe-driving record over the past few years with very few claims and none has incurred substantial personal damage claims," he said.

Grace Baptist #2 got their first win of the season by defeating Wildie, 58-44, in the third game of the night. Grace Baptist led all the way with a solid performance. Leading Grace in scoring were Michael Price with 14 and Jeff Bullock with 13. Tim Smith added 11. Wildie was led in scoring by Kevin Mullins with 27 and Steve Clark with 11.

Ottawa took the last game of the night with a win over Brindle Ridge, 52-40. They were evenly matched until Brindle Ridge hit a cold shooting streak in the fourth quarter with only two points. Dennis Harris had an outstanding game leading Ottawa with 28 points. Terry Burton added 11 points. Brindle Ridge was led by Chad Burdette with 13 and Shannon Parkerson with 11.

Please note a correction from last week's report: Brindle Ridge defeated First Baptist #2, 63-45.

League standings thus far are: Grace Baptist #1, 4-0; Bible Baptist, 4-0; Ottawa Baptist, 4-0; First Baptist #1, 2-2; Wildie, 2-3; Brindle Ridge, 2-3; Grace Baptist #2, 1-3; Teen Challenge, 1-4 and First Baptist #2, 0-5.

The Mt. Vernon Shink-Ugokasu-Yama Karate Club recently held its trimmer-bell-ranking exam. Those earning white-yellow belts were: Marsha and Christian Parsons, Traci Powell, Kristie Fain, Christopher Kirby, Paul and Tanner Abney. Earning a blue-green belts was Jeff Hansel; Brown belts were Myron Griffin and John Bradley. Also pictured are instructor black belts Chris Frith and Roger Lunsford. Cynthia didn't have a musket, so she got one from a friend. The gun Cynthia got was an old 1863 Springfield musket. The hunt began on Friday and went on through the next week. Cynthia got up every morning at four o'clock. She was thinking after a week that she was a bad hunter. But on the last day, she was lucky. Cynthia raised her gun and killed a 150 lb. doe. nouncement.

Small papers are the focal points of their communities. They represent something which the large TV stations and papers cannot give the public.

They represent news that is more localized, that focuses almost entirely on local people and their lives. A good newspaper provides a forum for community projects and problems.

I started off at a daily and have worked at weekly newspapers ever since.

Some people wonder why I haven't returned to a daily paper, but I really believe that weekly papers do a better job than most of their large counterparts because they have the space for local news. When I worked at a daily I thought it would be simple to work at a weekly. I learned my lesson on that one folks, as I found out that the weekly routine can be pretty demanding.

You've got to do more things, be more versatile and flexible to cut the mustard at a weekly paper.

The big circulation dailies have specialists that report on one particular area of interest. Weekly papers have jack-of-all-trades, and that, quite often, is not an easy hat to wear.

Well, that's about all for this week. See you around at the country store.

The only good news in sight is that another governor's race is scheduled for 1995. And if that doesn't work, there's 1999 and then 2003 and who knows, maybe one of these days...

Roamin' Rockcastle

By Hilda Payne Gabbard

Someone up at the printers blew the whistle on me in saying I had too much holiday and put it in the sub-head. Now I just said I had been drinking was the reason I couldn't write this column but shucks, I told what my drink was - spiced apple cider.

Lorna Pyles, one of our mail carriers writes me a nice note and puts it in our box. I had put a small gift of appreciation for her in the box for all the extra things she has done for us such as looking for a pretty stamp in the book of stamps.

The water line that is being put up Clear Creek is near completion. But no longer will the girls be able to drink spring water that made them pretty.

Over in the Health Care Home there are four women living next door to each other who used to live in Rockcastle. They are Nannie Chastened Shearer, Mary Eliza Croucher, Lou Dailey Moore, Mimie Drew Williams, and Jean Payne. They were glad to talk with each other after I told them who their neighbors were that lived next door.

A woman there motioned me to come and talk with her as I was leaving the place. I found she was Alice Welch, widow of Bob Welch, who had been there about a year.

Her father-in-law was Nathan Welch, a drummer (salesman) who had sold shoes to my dad, long ago in Clear Creek. The shoes were carried in a large trunk, just one of each pair, so there was no use for anyone to swipe them in case folks might do that.

Alice is a nice looking woman. She and I talked of times long ago and some of Berea.

I had a very nice letter of appreciation from Edith Packett thanking me for my writing about Reece. It was almost four months ago that Reece gave up life.

"It is the hardest thing that I have ever had to deal with," quoting from Edith's grief stricken letter and she goes on to say, "I know I can cope with the loneliness better than Reece could for we had talked of death and Reece said he knew it would be easier for me than him."

Wanda Russell was typing in the office where she works at the Berea Hospital. I peeped in the door and asked her how her love life was doing.

Wanda laughed and said, "Just fine. I love a lot of people that are in my life - in fact, I love everybody."

A thank you goes to Bruce D. Brown from Redfield, Iowa who writes and says he takes the Citizen and reads every one of my columns. Bruce, you are like several other folks who say they don't know anyone I write of but like to read the column anyway. So thank you!

Maria Williams has had visitors from Harlan. Her stepmother, Grace Hensley, brother Everett and wife, William Hensley.

Maria tells me, she and her grandson, William had a birthday January 12th on the same day.

January 8, Cleve Payne celebrated his birthday and was given a big package of rolls of toilet paper last year. Nothing this year from me.

More resolutions. Brenda Rogers in the office resolves "To cook less and go shopping more - with my husband's money."

That could be dangerous! Bob Herron in charge of the Berea Register office next door to Citizen said to me "You've asked me about my love and now I can tell you. I'm getting married soon and will move to St. Louis where my girl lives."

Cecil Abney and brother, William, were standing near the road at Cecil's house on Lower Clear Creek. Both men have retired but Cecil, being a bachelor, could have a love life which I asked him about. He said, "I have a great one!"

It was so dark and dreary one Tuesday morning, we decided to make a news gathering trip in Rockcastle. Starting with Cleve and Blanche Payne's home we went in and stayed awhile.

They had both had deep colds like so many others we'd heard about. When Cleve heard we were going down to Jan Stevens store in Wildie he said, "Tell Jan I wish he'd bring back the hog shoulder that I loaned him last fall until he got his hog killed."

Blanche has a young cat that leads a hard life, on a board fastened to the inside window ledge. Blanche put a piece of soft rug where lays the pampered, spoiled cat. I told them they weren't being good to her. She has the run of the house, leaps up to look out the window and lays near Cleve or in Blanche's lap.

Going on to Wildie, we went to the General Store and the Wildie Post Office.

Jan Stevens was gone to take a cow to the slaughter-house in Cartersville leaving, son Jeff's pretty wife, holding down the store.

Carolyn is such a pretty girl. She holds down several jobs in the store. Clerking, cooking, baby-sitting, painting window hangers, goes to E. K. U. for four days where she is a full time student, staying in the store four days a week. Pauline Ramsey has the other days.

Carolyn said her husband, Jeff, who is in the National Guard was an aide to one of the Generals who was with Governor Jones when their helicopter crashed some time ago.

Billy and Barbara Hiatt in Mt.

Vernon have a son named Willie visiting from Florida. I have learned he is a reader of this column and I hear he likes it because Willie has roots in Rockcastle. They do it every time!

Mayor Ballard Parsons was sitting in his special seat on his electric four wheeler when we went into his store to see how he liked his new job. There wasn't anyone in his store when we stopped but the Mayor said Old Timer Bill Stewart had just left and business was slow even the "under the counter kind" that he had.

Ballard said it was too cold to use his special car to ride the roads.

I asked him, "What's everybody cooking on these days?"

Ballard said his mother, whom he lives with, cooks soup beans and cornbread pretty often. That is the best kind of winter food.

A salesman from the Madison Grocery Company in Richmond came in the store carrying a large jar containing blow pop suckers. He wanted Ballard to buy some and set them on the counter.

I told Ballard to get the salesman to "throw in some candy or something" as salesman used to do.

My Dad had a country store long ago and when someone bought a new pair of tough hide shoes, Dad would "throw in" a new pair of socks.

As we turned to go, Ballard stopped looking at the candy jar which he was about to buy.

"Come back soon. We'll have something free," he told us and I'm a going.

In Fairview Country, we ran into Bodie Barnett hauling tobacco to be stripped out and sold. Of course I asked this bachelor the usual question.

Bodie leaned against the truck; threw his hands out in a hopeless gesture, and said "Oh, Lord, its so low my love life is dragging. I tell you I'm down to two girls now and doing no good with either of them. Why, I've got a preacher and two witnesses, that you have to have, all waiting but durned if I can find me a woman willing to marry me."

I spoke, "Then you are having bad luck. Do you want me to advertise in my column that you are looking for a wife?"

"Not now with all this tobacco stripping I have to do. I don't have time to get married. A wife would want more attention," Bodie said.

We left him with his troubles. I really didn't want to get mixed up in his romances.

This is the last column for January.

Till then: We're standing on the edge of tomorrow.

Fairview

By: Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Hello to all you good friends and readers.

Just hope you are well, but if some of you are ill you have my prayers and I hope you will be feeling better soon.

We are now having a few days of sunshine, after so many long days of dark, cloudy and rainy weather. But I must say again, God knows best and gives us many more blessings than we deserve.

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend and the Sunday School attendance was one hundred and sixteen for which we are thankful.

We also thank the Lord for the one addition to our church (by letter) recently.

Rev. Jack Bruce of Mt. Vernon visited with us Wednesday night Jan. 13th. Bro. Bruce is well-liked by all and we were glad to see him again.

My sister Mary Jean and husband Earl of Ohio are visiting their daughter Joan and family in Florida. She wrote me on her card that they are enjoying the warm weather there. I'm glad for them, because the winters are so cold and snowy where they live.

Dr. David Roger Lambert of Boston, Mass. spent the Christmas holiday with his father John Lambert.

Mrs. Jean Hayes of Winchester spent the night last Wednesday with her mother Mrs. Mary Cope.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander recently were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Whitehouse of Louisville.

On Friday, Jan. 15, Earley Pickle of Maryland visited his brother Lloyd Pickle of Snider. In his way he came through Virginia and brought Lloyd's two sisters also, Mae Smith and Bonnie Brown and her husband Ray. They had a very good time and enjoyed eating and visiting together. They left for home on Saturday.

Dorothy Lambert of Augusta, Ga. spent Christmas here with relatives. She was accompanied home by her brother James W. Lambert of Mt. Vernon and her sister Nancy Williams of Fairview. They spent a few days at Dorothy's home, then they all went to Hilton Head Island in South Carolina where they spent the last week of their visit. These two sisters and brother enjoyed so very much being together. (And I, the writer am so happy that these three family members had such a good time, they deserve it. Their love and devotion means so much. The Lambert family has meant so much to me since my childhood. They are good friends.)

Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Hayes of Winchester visited her mother Mrs.

Mary Cope Sunday, Jan. 17th. They all had supper that night at the Dinner Bell Restaurant in Berea.

Let's all try to attend Sunday School and church every time we can. We, as Christians should live a Godly life and try to lead others to the Lord. Our young people need a good example to follow. We should always remember that we as Christians, are the only Bible some people ever read. So if you love people you have to be concerned about their soul. Our love and prayers are with you all. God bless you.

Brodhead

Homemakers meet

By Elizabeth Mullins, reporter

Almost every member of the Brodhead Homemakers were present for the January 21, 1993 meeting. They met at Elizabeth Mullins' home on Main Street.

We had been told that our new county agent would be at the meeting. Sure enough, she came and seems as capable as we had hoped.

Those present were: Carol Riddle, Barbara Watson, Lorraine Newland, Sylvia Whit, Ruth Bussell, Ella Mae Martin, Joan Albright, Elizabeth Mullins, and hopefully our new members, Jean Artist and Betty Castro.

Carol Riddle read a thank you note for the $100 we sent to Florida's Hurricane victims and helped us decide that we would order items from Ton Wat Catalogue instead of having a booth to make money at Brodhead's Homecoming.

Betty Castro entertained us by quoting some famous men's quotations and having us guess who the men were.

Then our president, Carol Riddle, presented the lesson on "The Basics." Being overweight is not desirable but neither is being much below the "desirable weight" listed for your height. Going overboard in trying to lose weight can cause health problems.

Hazel Jackson, our new county homemakers agent, was introduced. We like her and she seems to know her job well.

Patsy Fletcher and Ruth Bussell filled a plate of goodies to serve to everyone. "Ooohs and aahs" were heard when the refreshments were put on the table before them.

Assorted drinks were offered as well as Freda Harris' coffee she made for us.

Weekend visitors

Visitors of Mrs. Mae Whitaker over the weekend were Mr. and Mrs. John D. Cromer; Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Whitaker; Mathew, Mark and Micah McKennie of Virginia; Mrs. Sherry Craig, Kari and Carson of Indiana; Mrs. Charlotte Hantel and Whitney; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Owens; Mrs. Verna Graves; Mrs. Eva Clark and Danny.

Busy Bee

Homemakers

The Busy Bee Homemakers held their regular monthly meeting Jan. 12th at the County Extension office. There were six members and four visitors present. Helen Jackson, County Extension Agent, also attended.

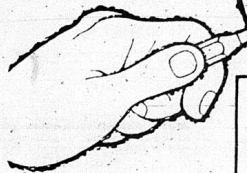

Roll call was given by Becky Cash with each member answering by listing where they went on their first date.

Homemakers lessons for 1993 were discussed along with special (Cont. to A13)

Certificates of Deposit

LOOKING FOR . . .

Better Rates?

Penalty for early withdrawal

Many Certificates of Deposit are reaching maturity and higher interest earning rates advertised by many financial firms doesn't necessarily mean it's a safe investment for you.

When the CDs you have with us or with others are ready for reinvesting, consider a Certificate of Deposit at our bank. We can offer CDs for nearly every time span imaginable and with an easy to meet minimum deposit requirement. Naturally, the larger the CD deposit and the longer the maturity you choose, the healthier the interest rate you'll earn with us.

Government backed FDIC protection at our bank is the difference between just an investment or a safe investment with someone you know and trust.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

A question that arises in the minds of people concerning giving, is whether tithing is commanded today or not. A lot of people preach that tithing is commanded for Christians, yet let's look to the Bible for our answer.

In the Patriarchal Age, Abraham gave tithes to Melchizedek, Gen. 14:20. Jacob vowed to give a tenth unto the Lord in Gen. 28:22. Under the Law of Moses, tithing was commanded, "Thou shalt truly tithe all the increase of thy seed, that the field bringeth forth year by year," Deut. 14:22. Later in Israelite history, God rebukes the people for robbing him, "Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But yet say, Wherein have we robbed thee? In tithes and offerings." Mal. 3:8. But we are not under Old Testament Law, Rm. 7:14, II Cor. 3:6-12, Col. 2:14, Hebs. 8:6-13, but under the Law of Christ, Gal. 6:2.

Where does the New Testament command people to tithe? It doesn't! You will not find one verse in the N.T. that teaches or commands Christians to tithe.

To go back and bind O.T. laws on people today is wrong as those who sought to go back and bind circumcision from the O.T. of AC. 15:1ff, Gal. 5:1-4.

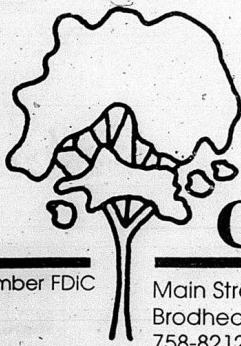

You see, tithing, a separate priesthood, holy garments, instrumental music, circumcision, dietary laws of unclean meats, etc., are taught by many religious groups today, but none of these things are authorized or commanded in the N.T. Paul gave the consequences of going back and following O.T. law in Gal. 5:1-4. Paul said, "Christ would profit you nothing." You would be a "debtor to do the whole law," "Christ is become of no effect unto you" and that they "are fallen from grace."

Christians are taught to give on the first day of each week, I Cor. 16:1-2. N.A.S. and we should give as we have been prospered. Sacrificial giving is exalted in the N.T., Mk. 12:41-44, II Cor. 8:1-5. We are to give willingly and according to what we have, not what we don't have, II Cor. 8:12. We should want to give bountifully or liberally, not sparingly or stingily, II Cor. 9:6. God desires that we give cheerfully as we have prospered in our hearts, not grudgingly or of necessity (under compulsion N.A.S.), II Cor. 9:7. Indeed Jesus set the example of sacrificial and liberal giving, when he left his riches to become poor, that we might be rich, II Cor. 8:9.

First study of reform shows it works

by Callie Mullins and Marilyn Coffey

Students across Kentucky may cringe at the thoughts of writing portfolios, cooperative learning groups and increased homework hours all of which have resulted from KERA.

The Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA) is now in its fourth year, and the first study of its effectiveness released recently reveals that students attending schools with long-term, whole-hearted commitment from teachers and staff to education reform improve more than those schools less committed to or not committed.

According to a recent article in the Lexington Herald Leader, the study by Regina Kyle, a Boston-based education consultant, shows that schools (elementary, middle and high schools) with a major commitment to KERA reforms have significantly higher percentages of students scoring above the 50th percentile in the CTBS (California Test of Basic Skills) than other schools.

In the article, Joseph Stephens, president of the Gheens Professional Development Academy of Jefferson County, the agency which funded the study, says, "The report shows that systemic, long-term approaches can make a difference where short-term, marginal interventions fail."

Kyle's report, which studied 131 Kentucky schools, found that schools with aggressive reforms have improved consistently from 1988-1992 while schools with little or no reform effort have ceased.

But how does this report relate to Rockcastle County and RCHS?

Watch for special articles in the newspaper and on TV. Roundstone's Middle School classes raised over $100 for the Rockcastle Scholarship Fund. The students are encouraging the staff to match this amount.

Local students receive "Dean's Award" from EKU

Five Rockcastle County residents are among 201 students at Eastern Kentucky University to receive the Dean's Award for fall semester study. To earn the Dean's Award, students must have achieved Dean's List honors at EKU for three semesters, not necessarily consecutive.

The lapel pin is presented to students by the dean of their academic college, according to Jill Alliger, EKU registrar. "Achieving the Dean's List three times is a significant honor."

To achieve Dean's List honors at Eastern, students attempting 14 or more credit hours must earn a 3.5 grade point average out of a possible 4.0. Students attempting 13 credit hours must earn a 3.65 GPA and students attempting 12 credit hours must earn a 3.75 GPA.

Local Dean's Award recipients include: Tiffany Carter, Mt. Vernon, Sherman Cook, Broadhead, Greg Daugherty, Mt. Vernon, Anita Durham, Livingston and Gene Lewis, Mt. Vernon.

Two makes Berea College's dean's list

Calley Pribonic of Mt. Vernon and Machelle L. Bussell of Rt. 1, Orlando has been named to the Dean's List at Berea College for the term just completed.

Pribonic is the daughter of Mr.

The Mt. Vernon Signal, Thursday, January 28, 1993 P-A9 and Mrs. Nick Pribonic of Mt. Vernon.

To be eligible, a student must maintain a 3.0 average and earn grades of B or better in at least four full-credit courses, the equivalent of 16 semester hours.

Important financial aid information

It's only appropriate that April 1 is an important deadline for Rockcastle Countians seeking financial aid to attend college.

For, according to Herb Vesico, it would be foolish for a student to squander a chance for assistance by delaying the application process beyond that key date.

Vesico, the long-time director of Eastern Kentucky University's Division of Student Financial Assistance, said ample dollars are available through a variety of grant and loan programs, but "certain programs run out of funds very quickly."

Students may pick up a copy of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid, as well as an EKU Request for Aid form, from their high school guidance counselor or at EKU's financial aid office in the Coates Administrative Building. Both should be returned by April 1 and April 15, respectively, for priority consideration.

"The processing will be faster this year," said Vesico, "making it more important than ever to get the application in as early as possible."

Jib Hasty For Sheriff

To the Voters of Rockcastle Co.

I would like to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for the office of SHERIFF

Brenda and I have seven children: Aaron, 3; Brahd, 6; Chris, 16; Sabrina, 22; Ted, 22; Everett, 23 and Melanie, 25. We also have two grandchildren: Brenda Lee and Brian

I am a veteran of the Vietnam War and a member of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

My dad, Clarence Hasty, is the son of Ambrose and Nora Sowder Hasty. My mother, Effie Doan Hasty, was the daughter of Nathan "Red Chin" and Dellie Cromer Doan. My wife, Brenda, is the daughter of Raymond and Winnie Norton Bullock. They live on the Robert Miller Road just off Hwy. 461 at Wabd.

As most of you know, I was Dog Warden for approximately 3 1/2 years. Deputy Sheriff for 2 1/2 years and Sheriff for 4 years. I know most of the people in the county and the ones I don't know I will try my best to get around to get acquainted.

I will do my best to do the kind of job that will make you feel that the Sheriff's office is yours, the "taxpayers" not mine and that I am your servant, you are not mine, and that is the way I feel it should be.

I have never made campaign promises before and I will not now. The only thing I will say is I will do my best and will not say anything about anyone running against me. I know and like all of them.

All of us would run the office differently I am quite sure. But, I think anyone elected would do their best.

I need the job and would really appreciate your Vote and Support.

THANKS,
FROM ME AND MY FAMILY

Rockcastle County School Superintendent Bige Towery said recently of reform in Rockcastle, even though it is up to the individual school to determine how far they want to go," he thinks Rockcastle County Schools are "aggressive in terms of making changes."

Mr. Towery, who likes to use the word "improvement," says, "We were already reforming and improving before we ever heard of KERA."

Mr. Towery said that a Long Range Strategic Planning Committee made of parents, teachers, and business leaders, had begun work to improve Rockcastle schools in 1990, the year before KERA was passed.

Mr. Towery went on to say that before site-based was mandated, he had begun to share the responsibility for hiring personnel with principals and teacher committees.

He also said that things are happening so rapidly that there seems to be little time to plan. "We do not have every piece in place. We are building the plane while we are flying it."

Mr. Jim Cox, curriculum coordinator at RCHS, said he is glad the study supports what he has believed all along, that "long-term commitment is necessary before any major benefits will be recognized."

"We did not get into the condition overnight and neither will we escape from the grasp of the "old way" in a short period of time. Educators today must be totally committed to a long endeavour of educational reform."

Isaacs named alternate in Sweet 16 competition

Spending a Saturday at a competition might seem strange to some, but to others it could mean a chance to compete with students from other high schools with big scholarship money at stake.

Five RCHS students traveled to EKU on Saturday, Jan. 23, for regional Sweet 16 competition.

Kevin Isaacs earned a second alternate rank as he competed against students from 20 other schools in the vocal music competition.

The other four students from RCHS who attended competition Saturday were members of the math team which advanced to the second round of the tournament by defeating Buckhorn High School 110-10 before losing to Model Laboratory School 150-130 in a close match.

Math team members were: Tracy Todd, Willy Witt Dallas Graves, and Marilyn Coffey. John Wells coached the math team and Ms. Janet Wells also attended.

4-H News

4-H VARIETY SHOW

County Show: Thursday, February 25, at 6:30 p.m. Broadhead Elementary School. Registration deadline: Feb. 22.

Area Show: Saturday, March 13, at 10 a.m. Renfro Valley.

Now is the time for 4-H'ers to begin their preparation for the county 4-H Variety Show. This event consists of specialty and club acts and is held annually on the county, area, and state level. It provides an opportunity for large numbers of 4-H participants to gain poise, confidence, develop character and sportsmanship, and working cooperatively with others.

Clubs planning to participate need to carefully read over and follow the rules and guidelines. Please note new rules five and six.

1. Specialty Acts shall consist of four or 4-H participants or fewer and have a time limit of four minutes. A 4-H club may have up to two specialty acts. Specialty acts will be divided into junior and senior divisions. Anyone in a specialty act who is 14 years of age by January 1 will be in the senior division.

2. Minimum requirements for the Club Act state that twenty percent (20%) of the club participants or five participants must be involved. Club acts have a time limit of eight (8) minutes.

3. Only one person other than 4-H participants, such as a pianist, may accompany the act. Other than the one accompanist, only 4-H participants may appear on the stage during the act.

4. Variety Show participants must be a 4-H club member or have participated in a 4-H activity since September, 1991, and may only represent one club. 4-Hers belonging to two clubs may not be in both clubs.

5. There shall be absolutely no pantomiming in any act, club or specialty.

6. Please use good judgement on dance routines.

7. An act exceeding the time limit should be permitted to finish but cannot be awarded champion.

8. Since participation is of the utmost importance, the combination of clubs for the purpose of presenting a club or specialty act is not permitted.

9. Dramatic readings can be entered as a variety act.

10. All acts must use the same P.A. system. No act will be allowed to provide their own system. As it was last year, an additional P.A. system will be used to supplement the existing Broadhead system. A recorder/player and tape recorder will be available and must be used by participants.

11. Leaders must take care of their own music. Have tapes set at starting point.)

12. Each school will sit together until time for their acts. Club leaders are responsible for keeping their group together and quiet. Parents should be recruited to help as chaperons.

13. Admission will be charged to those who are not participating in acts. Tickets for participants and leaders will be delivered after clubs call in to register their acts. 4-Hers who lose their tickets will have to pay the admission charge.

14. Clubs must register their act by calling the Extension Office (256-2403) by Monday, February 22, 1993. Acts that fail to register will NOT be allowed to perform. Registration information will include:

*Name of act
*Type of music that will be used (tape, record, piano)

*Number in the act (need names if specialty act)
*How many leaders assisted with the act

RIBBONS AWARDED
This year, all acts will receive citations. A red or blue ribbon according to their score. (No green ribbons will be given). The first place specialty and club acts will also receive champion ribbons. First and second place acts will receive plaques.

A Tribute

The Life of Margaret Deboard Alcorn

By: Ruby Marler Alcorn
Margaret Alcorn was my son, Fred's wife. I want to tell you about the things I know about her. She was the daughter of Edd Deboard. She was raised in Indiana by her father. Her life there was a happy time, growing up with her two brothers, Tim and Glenn. She moved to Rockcastle County with her father in the 1880's. Fred met Margaret and, at first, I thought they were wrong for each other. But, when I got to know her better, I saw they were meant for each other.

Fred asked her to be his wife. She said yes so they got married at Freedom Church with just the family and a few friends. My husband and I had a party after the wedding at our house and we all had a good time. Margaret was a beautiful bride.

Margaret would come to my house and help me with anything I was doing. She was a good person to talk to and she always had a lot to say. We just liked being together.

Margaret loved little children. She loved my grandson, Joe, and took time to read books and play with him. She never had any children of her own. She wanted some, but the Lord didn't give her any.

Margaret feared for her life but she would say the Lord was with her. On the day she was killed, Margaret was working, helping to make a living. She was at London Dollar Store stocking shelves in the back when a man came in and shot her. She died a few hours later. The Lord took her home.

We all miss you, Margaret

Helping your children learn to make good choices and decision

By Cheryl Martin CAP

It's not easy being a kid. Put yourself in your kid's shoes... you're shorter than everyone and everyone tells you what to do all of the time... what to eat, what to wear, what to say, where to go and when to go there.

It's no wonder that kids might get a little rebellious now and then. It's no wonder that if they have so little experience in thinking for themselves they might regret.

So what can we do to give a kid a little control in his life? I suggest him choices and let him make decisions. Dangerous, you say? Nonsense, I say. You are still in control of the choices.

I'm not talking about open ended choices like, "Are you going to school today?" "Are you going to do your homework?" "Do you want to get this shirt?" "What do you want for lunch?" He might say candy! Don't offer choices that you can't, won't or shouldn't follow through on. That is dangerous.

Coming up with choices for your child means that you have to be a little creative. Some choices you might offer are: "Do you want to get up for school at 6:30 or 6:45?" "Do you want to do your homework before or after you eat supper?" "Do you want to get this shirt on the right or left arm?" "Do you want your balcony sandwich cut into two pieces or four pieces?"

When is your child old enough for you to start offering him choices? Well, the sooner you start, the sooner he learns what it's all about. "Do you want your formula in the pink bottle or the blue bottle today?"

Not only will offering your child choices and chances to make decision give him the feeling that he has some control over his life, it will teach him about responsibility and improve his self esteem.

Buy Nutrition - Not Just Food

By: Hazel B. Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

The next time you go to the grocery store, take a look at what you are putting in your shopping cart. Is it just food or is it nutrition, too? When we buy nutrition instead of just food, we usually save money as well as provide for our family's well-being.

Watch out for virtually nutrition-empty food items such as these:
Potato chips - When you buy potato chips, you are buying potatoes at a very big price. You are also buying a large amount of salt with them, as well as high amounts of fat.
Cookies - Cookies are often high in fat and sugar causing them to be high in calories. Instead of cookies, try buying apples or oranges. They have no fat and considerably fewer calories.

Donuts - Donuts are high in calories and price. Too. Fried donuts have a relatively high fat content and little nutritional value aside from calories.

Hodogs and bologna - Although some hodogs and bologna have reduced amounts of fat, many of them have more than 30 percent fat content. Their price on a per pound basis is relatively high and even higher when you consider their nutritional value.

The next time you go to the grocery store, plan on buying nutrition instead of just food. Your family will be healthier for it and you probably will end up spending less money.

Ten Ways To Be A Smarter Shopper

If you are concerned about the freshness and quality of the food you buy at the supermarket, these tips will help you to purchase safe, high-quality foods:

Buy only from a reputable retailer. If you are interested, ask about the store's sanitation policies. Check supplies at home and make a list before you shop. Buy only amounts of foods that you can use in a reasonable period of time.

Always use your sense when shopping -- use your eyes, nose and fingers where appropriate to determine the freshness of raw meats, poultry, fish, fruits and vegetables.

Meat should have a typical pink, red or brown color; a moist but not slimy or cloudy appearance, and normal, not rancid or putrid, odor.

Poultry should have a typical white to yellow color; a moist, but not slimy or cloudy appearance, and normal, not rancid or putrid, odor.

Whole clams, oysters and mussels should be alive (shells will close when tapped). Lobsters should be alive moving in their tank.

Fish should have a clean, fresh smell with no fishy or other off-odors. Gills should be bright red or pink. Flesh should be firm and elastic, and the skin should be shiny with firmly attached scales. Undamaged eyes are bright and clear and protrude away from the head when fresh. Fillets should be firm, not slimy, and have a fresh smell.

Fresh fruits and vegetables should have a good appearance and color, be firm, relatively blemish and mold free, and have a typical odor.

Don't buy food in leaky, bulging or severely dented cans. Don't buy cracked jars or jars with loose or bulging lids. Select solid packages of food; avoid items that are in torn, dented or damaged packages.

Make sure refrigerated and frozen foods are below the cold line in their respective cases. Refrigerated foods should feel cool and frozen food should be rock hard. Frozen vegetables should be hard, but pieces should be white-tailed deer fawns, cottontail rabbits and groundhogs sought after by coyotes in late February and early March. Gestation is about 60 days, and litters of three to seven pups are born in underground or brush-pile dens.

They are monogamous and only breed once a year. The male helps care for the young, which begin to travel with adults about eight weeks of age.

Coyotes are predominantly nocturnal, secretive creatures that are seldom seen during daylight hours. Population densities vary with food and cover, but one adult coyote per square mile is considered average. The male coyote's home range may vary from five to 13 square miles.

They are most often seen as singles or pairs, rarely in packs or family groups. Territorial boundaries are maintained by scent markings.

In Kentucky, coyotes can be heard howling, yipping and barking at dusk, but they are less vocal than their western cousins.

performance on that same date. An authentic western rodeo, sanctioned by the International Professional Rodeo Association, opens the month of May in the Valley. Rodeo performances are scheduled for May 1 and 2.

June will be a busy month in the Valley. The Heritage Craft Festival is slated for June 4, 5 and 6, with the 13th annual Rockcastle Street Rodeo, Car Show on the 6th also. And on June 19, Renfro Valley celebrates its mountain heritage with the Mountain Dew Mountain Music Festival.

The Old Joe Clark Bluegrass Band, featuring the Nashville Bluegrass Band, Raymond Fairchild, the Osborne Brothers, Jim & Jesse, The Boys from Indiana, Wild & Blue, the Lewis Family, Traditional Grass, the New Coon Creek Girls, the Larry Stephenson Band, Randall Hylton and the Dell McCoury Band, takes over the Renfro Valley festival grounds July 1, 2 and 3.

On Aug. 7, it's Renfro Valley's All Night Gospel Sing, with Jeff & Sheri Easter, Karen Peck and New River, the McGruders, Dixie Melody Boys, Family Reunion and the Jubilee Echoes.

Talented amateurs compete for prizes and recognition at the Renfro Valley Talent Contest on Aug. 21. And bluegrass music fills the festival grounds on Sept. 3, 4 and 5 during the Renfro Valley Bluegrass Festival. "Lasses Makin' & Harvest Festival, Renfro Valley's most popular event, has been extended to two weekends in 1993. Visit on Oct. 1, 2, or 3 and 8, 9 and 10 to watch molasses being made as it was in years past. Cloggers and other entertainers perform throughout the festival and an enlarged crafts show adds to the fun. The Chuckwagon Gang and J.D. Sumner & The Stamps return to the Valley for Gospel Quartet Weekend. Concerts are scheduled for Oct. 16 and 17.

Fiddlers take over the Old Barn Nov. 5 and 6, for the 11th Annual Fiddlers Festival.

The holiday season in Renfro Valley officially opens on Nov. 26. Dazzling lights, Kentucky's largest outdoor light display, provide a magical backdrop for holiday shopping, special holiday fests, parties, clogging elves and Santa himself. Live performances of Renfro Valley's own special Christmas show, "Christmas in the Valley," will run on Friday and Saturday nights, Nov. 26 through Dec. 18.

For information on any of the concerts or special events, or to reserve tickets for these events, call the Renfro Valley ticket office at 606-256-2638. Renfro Valley is located on US 25, near Mt. Vernon, off Interstate 75 at exit 62.

"Road Dispute"

Mullins also told the Signal that he did give Brummett a telephone number to reach the state. He said that the county has never put up guardrails simply because they don't have the money.

However, state officials told the Signal that any request for guardrails concerning county roads must be made by the county judge.

Officials said the state sets aside special funds that can be used toward county use. They also said that making the request does not necessarily mean that it will get done. The funds are mostly used for blacktop according to state officials.

In response, Mullins said the state officials were correct. But, Mullins also added that he was not the case in every instance. He said the state has put up guardrails in the past without going through the judge's office first.

In concluding, Mullins said the county will make the request for the guardrail on Bowling Ridge hill.

Brummett and other residents plan to present a petition at the next fiscal court meeting.

According to tradition and the law of probability, presidential inaugurations and sub-freezing weather are inseparable. That should please, but make more cautious, die-hard Republicans who prophesied each fall for the last twelve years that "it will be a cold day before a Democrat lives in the White House again."

Inaugurations used to be held in March, but Washington weather then was much better than January's and waiting for a third of a year after November for the transition between presidents was too tedious, so they were moved up to January 20.

Most of the polls and members of the press are describing the mood of the country as guardedly optimistic.

On the whole, Clinton's economic summit, cabinet appointments, and general demeanor and energy since the election, along with a year-end lift in the economy in December, have received favorable reviews.

They have triggered widespread hopes that some flowers will be blossoming and poking up through the snow drifts of winter's discontents.

A remarkable thing is that the optimism, guarded as it may be, seems to know no party affiliation. One hears it from Republicans and Democrats alike. That bodes well for the nation's course for the coming weeks and speaks well of the ability of people to overcome whatever divides them from each other, once they set their minds to it. The art of being civil is what it makes one civilization out of many selves.

Naturally such surface concord, being so rare, is also fragile. It comes apart easier than it comes together. It doesn't take much of a shake to unmake. Like groundhogs, we see shadows that crawl back into our houses.

Because unity in optimism is a hard asset, we need to treasure and nurture it while we can. Ceremonies indicative of our moods will be of restricted to seize and capitalize on this rarefied national ebullience before we become Grinches again.

With a little luck, the pageantry and progroms may even carry over into a honeymoon period of progress in which matters of substance, and coming to grips with substance is what this beloved country craves for right now.

The human instinct is to want to feel good. But the roads that lead to good feeling are several. One is heart-breakingly self-serving: choreographic beauty of teamwork, glow of freely given benevolence, pleasure in others' pleasure, or the lift from personal causes elevated into larger purposes and causes, are examples.

Optimism summons forth the best in us. The best in us summons forth optimism. High quality of human performance goes hand in hand with high hopes. Given the choice between hedonism and heading, the road of heading is the one less traveled, but the best to take. With heading come helping, healing, and hoping. In this pendulum moment in the nation's and the world's cycles, we need a lot of that.

Most of us have seen so many presidential come and go that we have to bite our tongues to keep from being seasoned cynics. Having "seen and heard it all before," our basic instincts shelve our souls and harden our heads against needed changes.

But with a little luck—and a whole lot of Grace—our better instincts can unleash us from cynicism's imprisonment, shaming us (to quote the King James Bible and Bard Shakespeare) to "grind up our loins and to plume" "once more into the breach, dear friends."

Record number of burley growers attend '93 Expo

Randy Greene for the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association

Despite serious setbacks for American burley growers this month, they participated at record levels in the third annual Tobacco Expo, held Jan. 20 at Rupp Arena.

And growers' difficulties during January have been serious.

Environmental "Protection Agency findings link secondhand cigarette smoke to cancer.

Kentucky's governor is setting smoking limitations in state offices.

During auctions of 1992 burley, buyers passed over nearly 120 million pounds, sending about 10 percent to pool stocks.

U.S. cigarmakers plan to buy 85 million pounds less of burley's 1993 crop than they have during 1992 auctions.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture is expected, Feb. 1, to reduce burley's 1993 production quota by 10 percent from 1992 levels.

But few at the Expo reacted gloomily to these problems.

Quite the opposite, the event attracted more than 4,000 participants in 83 trade booths coupled with all-day seminars in two conference areas, according to Dr. George Duncan, an Extension engineer at the University of Kentucky.

Moreover, these numbers nearly double figures from last year's Expo, when about 2,200 participants visited 47 trade booths and attended all-day seminars in a single conference area, Duncan said.

Farmers have just finished selling a lot of pounds for a better price than a year before," said Danny McKinney, CEO of the Burley Tobacco Growers Co-operative Association. "That's why attitudes are upbeat."

The 1993 Tobacco Expo was sponsored by the Kentucky Co-operative Extensive Service and the Burley Co-op.

People came from Comprehensive Care Centers in Corbin, Williamsburg and Barbourville, Pioneer Services of Danville, Richmond

MARC Centers of Madison County, CAPRICE of Somerset, and Family Life Services of Renfro Valley.

Junior Hopkins tells the truth. I gave him one of them Tennessee Neck Scratchers and the next day he wanted a left hand scratcher, said his arms were too short to reach around his neck. That fellow who hangs around them banks trying to get a co-signer, Boom-Boom saw him trying on people's gum boots when they went in the back room to talk to them big shoe. He told someone at the Brothead Dell Delta that Junior was once whipped for telling the truth. Strange things, real strange, going on there. One feller has two backhoes down there, why he's so blind he don't even know what color they are. Him and that other backhoe man took some farmer a load of water, and thought it was creek gravel. One of my opponents was given three Tennessee beard scratchers, wore 'em out the first night cause at this rate he'll itch or scratch himself to death before the election, and them funny democrats can't even vote for him. Been down to Renfro Valley looking for my kin-folks, stopped at every store, wasn't no Holbrooks lived down there. Finally, Boom-Boom went to see the main man, the main man didn't know no Holbrooks either, he simply stated, describe this person to me. Boom-Boom walked with a big long stick and got a big long beard and he said he don't live in Renfro Valley cause we don't allow no hippies down here. It's bad for our business.

1993 will be my final year of seeking public office. If re-elected I will neither seek nor will I accept any retirement benefits from the good people of Rockcastle Co.

Special SSI rules for blind people who work

By: Gerry Hunt Social Security manager in Richmond

If a person can answer "yes" to the following questions, I've got some information he or she will be interested in.

Does he or she get Supplemental Security Income (SSI) benefits because of a visual impairment?

Does he or she want to work...or try going back to work?

If the answer is "yes" to both questions, people should know that some special rules that make it easier for them to continue getting SSI while they try working.

People getting SSI are familiar with the fact that the amount of their benefit is based on their income. Generally, if their other income increases, their SSI payment will decrease. Any money over $65 per month they earn from a job will usually reduce their SSI benefit. However, because of several special rules I mentioned above, some of their work-related expenses may be deducted before we decide how much of their income we must use to offset their SSI payment.

Here are some examples of the expenses we can deduct:

- * dog guides (including the cost of food and upkeep);
- * transportation to and from work;
- * licenses, fees, or taxes;
- * attendant care services;
- * meals eaten during work hours

* medical equipment or supplies; and

* other work-related equipment or services.

For example, if a person earns $800 per month, but pays $250 per month in Federal, State, and Social Security taxes, and pay another $100 per month for work transportation, we can deduct those $350 in expenses from his or her $800 income which means only $450 will be counted when we figure the amount of the SSI payment.

These special rules are part of a larger group of incentives that are designed to encourage people with disabilities to return to work. For more information, contact the Richmond Social Security office or call our toll-free number: 1-800-772-1213.

850 women now hold elective offices in Kentucky

Over 850 women now hold elective office in Kentucky, according to Secretary of State Bob Babbage. Babbage today released a report entitled "Women Elected To Public Office in Kentucky."

Babbage predicts that over 10,000 people will be candidates for elective office in the May primary election, and many of those will be women, he said.

"More and more people are becoming interested in the policy-making processes which affect their daily lives," Babbage said. "Many of the issues impacting families today are ones on which women are well versed and in which they are very interested," he added.

Babbage said that the fact that less than five percent of the Kentucky legislators are women while the national average is 20 percent has been

Denver Miller announces for RE-ELECTION

I want to announce my candidacy for re-election to Circuit Court Clerk of Rockcastle County.

It has been an honor and privilege for me to be allowed to serve you. I expect to operate the office in the same efficient and courteous manner I have in the past years.

Your past support has been really appreciated and I hope your support in the next election will allow me to continue serving you as your Circuit Court Clerk.

"Women in office"

a topic of both the state and national media but little mention has been made about the number of women serving in local or district offices.

"There may be a number of reasons why women aren't in the legislature," Babbage said.

"On the other hand, the interest in local government is great and women have found it easier and more appealing to win these seats," he added.

All local offices such as mayor, city council, county offices, some school board seats as well as numerous judicial offices are up for election in 1993.

Candidates for local offices file their papers with the county clerk while candidates for election to judicial posts and offices which serve multi-county areas file with the Secretary of State.

Two women have already filed with the Secretary of State as candidates for Commonwealth Attorney, an office currently occupied by men only. There are 125 district judge posts in Kentucky and so far 10 female candidates have filed for election to that office.

There are 93 Circuit Judges in Kentucky. To date only men have filed for the available posts.

A review of current office holders shows several gaps," Babbage said.

For example, on the average, almost every city council has a woman member but less than half the fiscal courts have a female member."

"While many cities large and small have women as mayors only five of the 120 counties have female chief executives," he noted.

Babbage noted that no women are currently serving as county or Commonwealth Attorneys.

Babbage quoted the staff of various government associations which represent local government groups as saying the number of women on their rolls has increased over the years.

According to the Kentucky League of Cities, 71 women serve as mayors of Kentucky's 436 cities. Over 400 women have been elected to the city councils across the state.

Five women are currently serving as county judge/executive and nearly 50 women are included in the 584 magistrates and commissioners who have been elected to their county fiscal courts.

Women occupy 206 of Kentucky's 885 school board seats. There are 671 men on the school boards and there are currently eight vacant school board seats, according to the Kentucky School Board Association.

In the county clerks' offices across the state women have been elected to 59 of the 120 offices.

Although two women are leading the sheriff's offices in their counties, many more serve in the capacity of deputy sheriff, and that number is growing. Four women have been elected coroner of their county and many women serve as deputy coroners, according to the Kentucky Coroner's Association.

There is one woman serving on the 14-member Kentucky Court of Appeals, three of Kentucky's 93 Circuit Judges are women and a total of 16 women have been elected to District Judge posts in the state's 125 district judicial divisions.

A total of 54 women have been elected circuit court clerks in the state's 120 counties. The post of proerty valuation administrator is now held by women in 31 counties.

More women than men are registered to vote in Kentucky, Babbage said. For the last general election 1,092,900 women were registered to vote as compared to 983,363 men.

Additionally, the percentage of women voting has been greater than the percentage of men since 1964.

Babbage noted that family leave, which many analysts describe as a woman's issue, will be one of the first topics the new presidential administration will ask the 103rd Congress to consider.

Service groups worked to make Christmas better for many local families

By LuEd Nielsen
Rockcastle Emergency Assistance Program (R.E.A.P.), Dept. of Social Services, Christian Appalachian Project, L.E.A.P., PTA, and many churches worked together to provide Christmas for many of our local families. Approximately 411 food baskets and gifts were provided by CAP and R.E.A.P. provided more than 77 food baskets for Christmas and 48 food baskets for Thanksgiving. The combined efforts of R.E.A.P. and D.S.S. put together gifts for 209 children and 178 adults. Each child received at least 2 gifts. Renfro Valley provided gifts for 21 families from the "Love Tree", and monetary donation for 28 families.

We would like to thank Mt. Vernon Plastics for collecting many cases of food, candy, and other goodies. Also they provided 102 wrapped gifts and many stuffed animals, and 19 food baskets for the Christmas project. Rockcastle Mfg. also participated in this year's Christmas project and gave us 222 wrapped gifts, and some food items. Denver Miller's office went out and bought 27 gifts and brought them to us. A very SPECIAL thanks to the families who ADOPTED A FAMILY for the Christmas project. We had several SPECIAL families who had a family member who is terminally ill or going through a crisis in their life. We tried to make this a happier time for them. Those who adopted families will know how much it means.

THE GRINCH paid us a visit and tried to ruin the holidays for many families. A sofa and chair, clothing, 2 lamps and a vacuum were taken from the building before we could get them inside. The sofa and chair were for a family who had just found a place to live and have been trying very hard to make it on their own. Please do not leave anything outside the R.E.A.P. building anymore. Because I had eye surgery on both eyes I am unable to life, drive, and many other daily duties. If you have anything to donate, please call 256-9359 or 256-3217 so that arrangements can be made to be at the building.

Those who made contributions for the Christmas project were: Cash donations: Wildlife Christian Church Ladies group, Mt. Vernon Pentecostal Church, White Barn (benefit), J.C. and Fannie Coldiron, Dr. Sandy Auvil, Allen and Ginny Gilpatrick, Maude Randolph, Renfro Valley, Mike and Carl Bryant, Matt Bryant, Bank of Mt. Vernon employees, First Baptist Church (Melisse Newcomb's funeral), Donations of gifts and food: Dr. Larry Smith, AARP, 4H Clubs, Mt. Vernon Plastics, Rockcastle Mfg., Allen & Ginny Gilpatrick, Teen Leadership Council, Joe Mullins, Calvin & Dene Mitze, Woodmen of the World, Ada Riddle, Norman Brice, "Mothers Who Can" Group, Kiwanis Club, God's Pantry, Pat Bryant (Migrant Program) and many others who dropped off food and gifts anonymously. Each and every item was put to use. We initially received 147 applications for help. We were not able to take care of all of the applications due to the large number of people needing help. We hope that we will be able to increase the number of families helped next year but it depends on the donations that are received. There were many people who brought things to us but did not leave their names. Please accept our thanks. Those who donated for Thanksgiving have already been acknowledged.

Dixon aboard USS LaSalle deployed to Persian Gulf

Navy Firearm Apprentice Michael B. Dixon, son of Jackie N. and Nell M. Dixon of Rt. 1 Mt. Vernon is in the Persian Gulf aboard the command ship USS LaSalle, forward deployed to Bahrain, where the U.S. and the coalition forces took recent military action against Iraq in response to continued Iraqi violations of U.N. Security Council resolutions.

Dixon's ship has been part of Operation Southern Watch, enforcing a "no-fly zone" over southern Iraq to protect the Shia population there. The air and missile strikes were ordered to restore an environment in which there is no threat to civilian aircraft enforcing U.N. resolutions.

Navy presence in the area includes the USS Kitty Hawk and its embarked air squadrons, the command ship LaSalle, four guided missile cruisers, two destroyers, two guided missile frigates and three auxiliary ships.

On short notice, these forces are poised to respond to crises in distant lands, from the sea.

The 1990 graduate of Rockcastle County High School joined the Navy in May 1992.

FHA piloting community improvement project

By Callie Mullins
Chapter reporter

There is a new set of faces for the patients at the local respiratory care center as a result of a new FHA project. "Caring is Sharing" is the theme of the Rockcastle County High School FHA project that "looks up" a bright, lively high school student with a long-term care patient who is hundreds of miles from home.

Students involved in the "Caring is Sharing" experience, visit children and some adults at the hospital. The students are encouraged to go to visit their friends once a week. However, many students go 2 or 3 times a week to visit their special friend.

Hayes gets highest degree awarded by national FFA

Larissa Hayes, of Brodhead, received the highest degree awarded by the National FFA Organization, the American FFA Degree. Larissa is the daughter of Henry and Riate Hayes. She is currently a sophomore attending the University of Kentucky majoring in Animal Science with an emphasis in Dairy Production. Larissa received this honor based on her work on the family dairy farm.

Larissa also received the Associated Milk Producers Scholarship from the National FFA Foundation. She was one of 1,161 members to receive the American Degree at the 1992 National FFA Convention, only one in 245 of the 400,746 FFA members have earned this national degree.

Larissa is also an Alumni member of the Rockcastle Co. Chapter. Larissa was a chapter officer for two years and regional officer for one. As reporter, Larissa's scrapbook was the first in chapter history to win the region and go on to the state competition. Larissa has won several regional contests such as, Dairy Impromptu speaking and was a member of a regional winning land judging team. Larissa also shows dairy cattle each year at the state fair in Louisville. The chapter is very proud to have Larissa as a Alumni member.

A committee of six set up the guidelines for the participants. The committee is made up of Future Homemakers of America club members: Angie Parsons, chairperson, Ashley Jasper, Melissa Cummins, Jamie Cromer, Julie Allen, and Anita O'Neal serve as committee members of the project.

Committee chairperson, Angie Parsons said, "This project is a learning experience for all students involved. It's been real fun sharing joy in the patient's life."

The 17 high school participants are both being changed and changing lives in "Caring is Sharing."

Open House scheduled for new Hospice office

Morning hours, four days every week. Hospice volunteers Vera Graves and Ann Mullins answer the phones and supervise the Rockcastle County office of Hospice of the Kentucky River.

Friday, that will change. Graves and Mullins will still be on the job, as will all the other local volunteers who have helped keep hospice work going here. But the office hours will be longer and the volunteers will have help.

The growing need for hospice care, in this area, calls for more locally provided services. Hospice of the Kentucky River—the agency that provides medical care and counseling to terminally ill patients and their families—has moved to a new location on U.S. 25 South, just across from the Rockcastle County Courthouse and behind Ford Real Estate and Carter's Food Market. Patient services are already headquartered in the new site and, on Friday, phone lines will be switched from remote monitoring to local response.

According to Gregory Hancock, executive director for the 5-county agency, local response enables Hospice patients to get help more quickly. It also allows the agency to obtain services and supplies from local merchants, which supports the local economy.

Since the first of this year, the number of patients seeking hospice care in Rockcastle County has more than tripled. Local physicians estimate the number of Hospice patients will continue to increase as Rockcastle Countians become aware the service is available, locally.

"In many circumstances, Hospice allows a person who is terminally ill to be cared for at home," Hancock explains. "Not every person who is dying needs to be in a hospital or nursing home. Many prefer to be in familiar surroundings with people they know and love."

Hospice makes the terminal patient more comfortable during the final days of his or her life. And hospice works with a patient's family to help them deal with and adjust to the difficulty of losing a loved one."

The local volunteers and staff of Hospice of the Kentucky River will host an open house in the new office center from 12-3:30 p.m. Friday, January 29. Everyone is invited and persons who would like to become Hospice volunteers are encouraged to attend.

No silver lining for Burley growers' cloud

There's not much of a silver lining in the cloud hanging over Kentucky burley tobacco growers this year.

The cloud is a 10-percent quota reduction for the 1993 crop. The silver lining could be the effective quota. It is based on an adjustment for under marketings that is added to the next year's farm quota, increasing the amount of tobacco a farmer can produce.

But Kentucky growers market fairly close to their basic quota, according to Bob Miller, director of the Tobacco and Peanuts Analysis Division of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. "They probably will sell 94 percent of quota for the 1992 crop," he said. "Beltwide, 83 percent of quota is expected to be marketed."

Miller said Kentucky growers are expected to sell about 95 percent of 1993 crop quota. Beltwide sales are projected to be 88 percent of quota.

A slight increase in the average support price could help growers recoup some of the tobacco income lost from the lower quota. The support price is set by a formula using a five-year moving average of market prices and an index of production costs.

"We anticipate that, according to the formula, the price support would increase a minimum of just over three cents a pound," he said. "This would be about a two-percent increase in the average support price."

Just how much will the decrease in basic quota cost. Kentucky farmers?

Kentucky's basic quota for the 1992 crop was 449 million pounds, said Will Snell, Extension agricultural economist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "We could be looking at an income loss of about $80 million from the quota reduction," he said.

Snell said the large quota reduction will lead to higher lease rates in areas with low off-farm employment opportunities. "We'll probably see

Rockcastle is included National Scout Week

A very special National Scout Week for the 50-county Blue Grass Council of the Boy Scouts of America begins Feb. 6.

Plans are nearly completed for a first-of-a-kind event for Scouts, kids, families, and anyone interested in camping or low-impact outdoor fun.

April 17, the council will stage its first Camping and Environmental Exposition at the Kentucky Horse Park. Expo chairperson Dr. John Thompson says he expects 2500 to 4000 Scouts and leaders to take part in the Expo. Sales of more than 60,000 of the $2 ticket/candy bar packages are expected, with as many as 30,000 attending the Expo. Sponsors so far include: Coca Cola, IBM, Kentucky Utilities, Kroger, Toyota, and W.T. Young Storage Company.

Scout units will open the public part of the Expo on Saturday morning with a parade including bands, judged floats, buggies, and mounted police, and that is just the beginning. Expo highlights include a model campsite, environmental demonstration booths by up to 225 Scout units, the council-wide pinewood derby finals, a juried talent show, an eye-opening high voltage safety demonstration, useable towers and bridges, Army and Marine Reserve helicopters, tanks, and rappelling demos, exciting celebrity guests, and giant fireworks.

Tickets to the Expo will be wrapped around large World's Finest brand chocolate-almond candy bars, and will include admission to the Horse Park and a 2 for 1 Burger King deal, all for $2.

The heart of the Expo for Scouts will be a unified Spring Camporee (official campout) for the council's Boy Scout troops, Cub Scout packs, and Explorer Posts. Participating Scout units will begin the campout Friday night, set up and close the Expo on Saturday, camp again that night and break camp Sunday morning following the weekend's second worship service. The weekend will also include meals, district campfires Friday night, and a large exposition campfire before the final night of camping Saturday.

Ticket sales will kick off February 6. For further information contact your district Expo chairperson. Scout show contact is 231-7811.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,

We would like to say a few words about the 2nd District magistrate Mr. Jack Bradley. Last year our Sand Hill road was supposed to have Chip & Seal put on it. Well it did to a certain point. All of it was fixed except 3/4 of a mile. When Mr. Bradley was asked why the road was not finished, at least out to where the school bus turns, he said he was told that part of the road was not used. Well there are sixteen homes on that last 3/4 of a mile of road. And if Mr. Bradley was half the magistrate he should be he would have known about those houses or at least come to see for himself. He couldn't finish our road but he could put Chip & Seal on private driveways, which he said were roads. Well it's a funny thing to us that there is only one house on each of those so called roads, and they got Chip & Seal but the last seven houses on Sand Hill got nothing. We the people of Sand Hill are sick and tired of getting the bad end of the deal.

Concerned Citizens of Sand Hill

Dear Editor,

We've come to the end of an era. For several years we've had presidential administrators that were sympathetic to the beliefs and values of evangelical Christians. That day is over. We now have a new administration that is openly hostile to the Church.

Some of the evangelical seem to be in disarray. They're all scrambling around trying to come up with a new plan of strategy. Although it would be a noble effort, Jerry Falwell will never be able to resurrect the moral majority. It doesn't exist anymore. Pat Robertson has organized a foundation of lawyers to fight this battle in the courts; but they're fighting a losing battle. As far as this world's concerned, we've lost and we know it. It doesn't mean we don't have a fight left in us. We are committed to fight to the earth this slaughter of the unborn children and the homosexual steamroller that is forcing its way into our schools and upon our children and grandchildren.

Many times down through history, rulers, kings and pharaohs have signed royal decrees clearing the way for the slaughter of children. The executive orders signed by President Clinton last week wasn't much less. At least in ancient times, they usually burned, burned or done away with the dead. They didn't use their little bodies and organs for scientific research.

The president's new appointees to the surgeon generals office pretty well let the cat out of the bag, when she died in their iniquity, then their blood will be required at his hand.

There is one thing about a democracy; the leaders represent the wishes and will of the people. We knew what they were when we elected them. It is "We the people, by the people, that will slaughter the people."

This country is judgement bound. Shortly and hereafter, I won't be at the great white throne judgement but I will appear at the judgement seat of Christ. I don't feel like I've accomplished very much in my life, I've faltered and fallen along the way and

I've not always held the banner high; but I've never compromised my faith to be socially acceptable or for monetary gain, and never backed away from a fight and compromised the truth because of public opinion.

William Mullins

Could life seem so brand new.

Then one day I met him
But at the time I did not know
That this was the man in my dreams
And I'd grow to love him so.

Each time we were together
We found it harder to part
We knew we loved each other
With a love deep in our heart.

When we were out together
People would talk and look
Because of the age difference
Which meant nothing in our book.

We knew we loved each other
And didn't let them get us down
We probably were more happy
Than anyone else around.

We were together day after day
And knew we'd never part

So we decided to get married
We loved each other with all our heart.

On the sixteenth day of May, 1992
We joined our hands before God
And proudly said "I do."

Eight months have passed
And I can happily say
That I love him more
With each passing day.

He's brought sunshine to my days
And beauty into my life
No one could know how happy I am
Just being Robert's wife.

So - To all of you who have wondered
And tried to figure it out
It's nothing but "Pure Love"
That's what our relationship is all about.

Signed: Robert's wife
