By: G.P. Newton

I went to the courthouse the other day
To see the Judge on a matter, just couldn't wait
When I told him the problem he said, that won't do
He grabbed his hat and coat out the door he flew

I went in his chambers sat down at his desk
Leaned back in his chair to take a little rest
About that time a man came through the door
I said, I'm your new Judge on the second floor

His mouth fell open, down the hall he ran
Saying, now just look what Bill
Clinton's done
He's done put a woman in the judge's seat

stuck yellow happy face stickers on their notebooks and letters. Now that they are young adults, they don't draw the faces and stick the stickers anymore. But their real faces are happy ones. They enjoy the hard work of real life.

The alternatives to "putting the best face on things" are two-fold, both of them stark: 1) we can either avoid facing up to troubles at all, hiding our heads and faces in the sands like ostriches; or 2) we can meet them head-on, again like ostriches, swallowing whole oranges of responsibility and forcing them down a narrow neck.

Our primitive human instinct is to avoid death or pain by refusing to face them at all. If one doesn't mention them, they will not come; acknowledge them by speaking of them, and they will surely will. Facing complexity and burdens too often turn into self-fulfilling prophecies. Would you ever invite Angela Lansbury to your home on a Sunday evening knowing that wherever she is that day of each week, someone will get murdered? What we don't know can't hurt us, we think, and so we choose ignorance over discomfort.

The hardest kind of facing up is that of getting beyond sur-face appearances. What we see in our morning mirrors is not ourselves, but our sur-faces. If death and disease and drudgery must disturb our universe and intrude themselves in depth and in fact.

We mu: see things as they really are. Our hope of surviving, prospering, and perpetuating ourselves in quality work can only be reaped by looking our challenges in the face, eyeball. (Give insurance salespersons their due in this: they make their livings warning us to develop our sense of foresight, a human trait as unexercised almost as much as the residual gills in our throats.)

The only way to think more highly of ourselves may be to think less of ourselves.

We work awfully hard at avoiding working on our public duty. Look at how much time is spent this time of year in looking for tax loopholes, as if paying for membership in this great democracy is some sort of disgrace. Getting out of traffic fines and jury duty, out of PTA and committee service, out of charitable contributions and babysitting, and other forms of not facing up, have become modern arts of form.

We humans spend inordinate amounts of time and energy in saving face and in avoiding facing up. When too many of us do that and when we do that too long, as we have in facing our national debt, we defer our short-term rendezvous with destiny only to wind up with long-term collisions with catastrophe.

The lines and furrows in our faces ought not be causes for shame, something to hide or paint. They ought to be chevrons of distinction, badges of honor applauded as signs of experience and longevity in facing facts and realities head-on. There is an inner glow in the faces of people who do not shun the real world. The happiest faces are the busiest ones. No one who worries so much about our world can be accused of hating it.

In the final analysis, the enlivening joy of being happy slouches over God's creation and of one another is all one has of any value. To counteract the deadening effects of blunders and burdens, one has to find happiness in removing the blinders and diving into reality with eyes wide open.

Now all of us men will be out on the street

A little laugh makes the day brighter. Pray for our leaders.

'Spring is Coming'
By: Wanda Burton
Feb. 21, 1993

It's such a marvelous wonder
How the seasons come and go
We know it's God's hand at work
That makes the trees and flowers grow.

Now winter is almost over
We'll be looking forward to spring

Watching for that first blade of grass
And to hear the birds sweetly sing

The daisies will be blooming
All up and down the lanes
The tractors will be humming
And there will be showers of rain

The robins will come bobbin
And we will know it's almost here
All things will be coming to life
It's the prettiest time of the year

God knows exactly what He's doing
He made the whole universe
He gives us all so many blessings
And only asks that we put Him first.

By: Mayzell Riles

I feel like a weight
Has been lifted from me
I'm so very happy
Because I am free

Free from aggravation
Free from pain
Free to be me
Even happy in the rain

I can go where I want
Nobody bugging me
Drive around the world
Because I am free

I can eat when I want
And sleep too
Just me and my cat.
We're happy through and through

I can take long walks
Or ride around the lake
Or get real happy
And bake a cake

I'm so very happy
I woke up in time
To enjoy the world
It's really sublime

Stop and smell the roses
Take time for yourself

And your life won't be dull
And wind up on the shelf

Man killed in wreck

A visitor from Tennessee was killed last week when his pickup ran off the road and hit a tree.

George E. Rector Jr., 27 of Paris, Tenn., was thrown from the truck. He was the only person in the Chevrolet pick-up.

According to State Police Trooper Jimmy Silvers, Rector was traveling on Bryant Road when the accident occurred. He was thrown from the pickup when it overturned March 3.

He was taken to Dayton, Ohio, for service and burial.

Mrs. Kirby found dead

An elderly Mt. Vernon woman was found dead Monday after she wandered away from home.

Mrs. Lacie Kirby, 89, of Floyd Street, who apparently suffered from Alzheimer's Disease was found near her daughter's, Lena Brewer's home on Chestnut Ridge. She died of hypothermia, according to coroner Bill Dowell.

Mrs. Kirby was wearing a flannel nightgown. She was found in a small stream in a deep gully and could not get out, Dowell said.

Mrs. Brewer awoke Monday morning to find that her mother, who was visiting and who usually slept later than she, was not in the house. The daughter began searching for her, then sought help from neighbors, who found the body in a wooded area;

Gilpatrick charged with murder

Being held under $250,000 cash bond

By: Richard Anderkin

Fingerprints found in blood stains on a paperbag have led to the arrest of a Mt. Vernon man for the brutal slaying of his wife.

Allen Gilpatrick, 47, is charged with killing Virginia "Ginny" Gilpatrick, 55, on February 7th in their Mt. Vernon home.

Gilpatrick, a local social worker, was arrested at his office in the Scott Building in Mt. Vernon around noon Tuesday by Mt. Vernon Detective Eddie Delaney and Chief William Mink. Gilpatrick went without incident and is currently being held in the Rockcastle County jail under a $250,000 cash bond.

Detective Eddie Delaney said the case will be presented to the Rockcastle County Grand Jury on Friday when they meet in their regular monthly session.

Mt. Vernon attorney John Clontz, who is representing Gilpatrick, entered a plea of not guilty in the case during a court appearance in Rockcastle District court Wednesday morning. District Judge Mike Henry declined to reduce Gilpatrick's bond and scheduled a preliminary hearing for Monday, March 15.

Rumors have been rampant throughout the community since Allen Gilpatrick called police on that fatal Sunday evening in February and told Mt. Vernon police that his home had been broken into and that his wife had been injured.

When police and ambulance attendants arrived around 6:30 p.m. they found Gilpatrick cradling his wife in a pool of blood. According to later police reports, Mrs. Gilpatrick had been beaten almost beyond recognition with a homemade club, made from copper pipe and wood. Initially Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell thought that Mrs. Gilpatrick had been stabbed several times, because of the amount of blood found at the scene, but an autopsy revealed that Mrs. Gilpatrick was stabbed only once.

During their investigation police found no sign of forced entry or nothing missing from the Gilpatrick home.

They also found blood in the kitchen, dining room and living room of the house, which indicated a tremendous struggle between Gilpatrick and her assailant. Police thought Mrs. Gilpatrick was initially assaulted while she sat at the kitchen counter reading a book.

Det. Delaney said that both murder weapons were recovered shortly after the investigation began.

The homemade club was found in a blood stained paper bag. Kentucky State Police Lab tests revealed that fingerprints found in the blood on the bag, definitely belonged to Allen Gilpatrick, according to Det. Delaney who said that no one was ever able to confirm Mr. Gilpatrick's alibi on the afternoon of the murder.

Gilpatrick told police that he was

Moon's bright tonight

Have you noticed the moon last few nights? If so, you saw it looked bigger and brighter. It was.

The moon has been the closest to earth it will ever get. Monday night was that night. Its "just" 225,000 miles away. That's unusual.

That makes it bigger and brighter. If there are no clouds the next few nights will still be brighter but only slightly bigger.

Speaking of clouds, there could be snow by Friday and Saturday, the weather folks are saying.

So far this month there has been 2.10 inches of rain according to records at Cox Funeral Home.

The high to date for the month was 56 on March 3. The low was 22 on March 2.

Just a Few Thoughts

By: Richard Anderkin

A lot of people will attribute the following remarks to the fact that I was raised a conservative Republican. That I didn't vote for Bill Clinton and no matter what he does, it will be wrong. Some of my friends even take delight in calling me a Nazi because of some of my views.

But, it is beyond me how the President can ask the American public to sacrifice and then promise millions and millions of dollars in aid to the former Soviet Union.

We all realize what a difficult time people in Russia have had since they made their move toward a more Capitalist society. But what about our own country.

I wouldn't have anyone suffer needlessly, no matter what part of the world they live in, but in this country many people walk around with blinders on and never acknowledge the fact that we have people living in worse poverty than any other time, besides the great depression. It boggles my mind how the supposed greatest nation in the world can get away with governing so screwed up that we have families sleeping in cars and rummaging through trash cans for their next meal.

Before we start passing out money that we obviously don't have - the national debt is now $4 trillion -- we should spend what money we do have to get our own problems straightened out. Then, we can help all the foreign countries that we want and need to.

Clinton's recent tax package doesn't actually effect the incomes of people making less than $30K, but it will affect their spending power. The tax package, if passed by Congress, would include increased taxes on necessary items such as heating fuel and gasoline.

It is also hard to swallow the recent announcement that Clinton wants to close 30 more military bases and scale down 150 more

If passed, 100,000 jobs will be lost in California alone. That state is already in the midst of a recession and losing another 100,000 jobs will be devastating to the economy there.

It would probably never happen, but what if 90,000 of the 100,000 people that lose their job, simply re-quit. Just don't file taxes, don't pay anything. Is there room in California prisons for 90,000 inmates. Can the state judicial system prosecute them all.

system prosecute them all. If you were someone that was going to lose your livelihood after twenty-five years, you may think about such a drastic matter. After all what can be more drastic than not having the means of support for you and your family.

There simply has to be better ways to cut federal spending than to eliminate so many military jobs and effect so many people. There has to be another way.

yet to fall before the middle of April. Bragging, I got so wrapped up in saying that I told Crawford about the several members of NAWWWWW who live in a woodpile in my basement. I let it slip out that, according to my houseguests, the worse was yet to come. I told him they were calling for a big snow, twelve to eighteen inches, between the middle of March and the middle of April. I capped the whole thing off with a few one-line snide remarks aimed at radio and television, "Meteorologists," as the broadcast weather people like to call themselves in the nineties.

Stuff like, "why on earth are they watching meteors when they can't even get the weather in Kentucky right?"

"And, 'Wouldn't you love to have a job where you can be wrong two thirds of the time and not get fired?'"

Anyway, Byron's confession came out on a Wednesday. Actually it wasn't a confession at all because he pretended to be a reporter instead of someone who had a personal stake in the controversy. In fact, it sounded so newsworthy that the Associated Press wire service picked it up. Way before daylight Thursday morning it began coming off the wire at radio stations in Louisville, Owensboro, Cincinnati and half a dozen other places. At least that's what time they started calling me.

I thought the first call was a prank so I hung up on the guy. He even had country music playing in the background. The second fellow called about five minutes later and he sounded a lot like the first guy, only he was from a different city and he was playing Steppin' Wolf's "Born to be Wild" in the background. I hung up on him too and hadn't even finished rolling back over in bed when a woman called. We're back to country music and she's from Cincinnati.

She tells me the woolly worms are on the wire service and she wants to do a live, remote interview with me at 6 a.m. for the morning news. To make a long story short, I got out of

COMMENTARY
By George Ferrell

There's nothing like it. It's tourney time, with teenagers giving it their all for a chance to make the state tournaments.

Here in Kentucky that game of hoops is practically the gospel come March.

Not only are the stands packed with high school fans, but old Big Blue is gearing up to make another run at the NCAA championship.

Ball is ball, but basketball is king in Kentucky.

I've seen some pretty good games, a number of double overtimes and even one game that went into five overtimes.

Still, every time I get around a basketball court I get that special excitement.

Having played high school ball, I know what it means to the young people who give it their all night after night.

The culmination of a year's hard effort ends in the trials and tribulations of tournament time.

Of course, in my book they're all winners and should keep their chins up.

It's one of the paradoxes of life that while there are winners, there are always losers.

I've seen a lot of good ball this year but that's commonplace in Kentucky.

I just hope that all the players can keep it in mind that "it's not whether you win or lose, but how you play the game."

Yes, it seems to be springtime. I've noticed a few crocuses out on the lawns pecking their way up at the sun. We may be in for a few more wintry blasts, but pretty soon good weather will be in.

I'm making plans to go south Easter weekend and see my family.

I can't wait to slip in my Uncle Richard's farm outside Stanley, N.C., and watch him steadily work his small sawmill operation or show me his many woodworking projects.

There's just something about working with your hands -- whether it's at a typewriter, or a sawmill, or making something with wood.

I like applied work. The mental drudgery I'd like to forget sometimes.

When I'm in a darkroom printing pictures or developing film I always find a certain amount of enjoyment from the labor.

Don't get me wrong -- I love writing too and it was always my first love, but photography has been a form of therapy over the years.

I'm still searching for that perfect picture, news or otherwise.

There's always something new to achieve and something interesting to document via photography.

My mother and father enjoyed taking pictures, and they have left behind a massive volume of family photographs.

I found a group of photos from the time when I was an infant, and somehow it was amazing that even I had such "humble" beginnings, just a little guy with loving parents.

I have this theory that you never really know a person unless you find out what they were like as a child.

In other words, evaluate people by looking at a childhood photograph.

There's just something about a picture from childhood that gives you an extra flavor or side of an individual.

You see the tender side, the youth

It just occurred to me that all nineteen of you readers may not subscribe to the Courier Journal or watch Channels 27 and 57. From the way a sacred duty to let those of you missed both my debut and subsequent retirement from a career in television know what your neighbors are snickering about.

It all began when I called up Byron Crawford at the Courier Journal to remind that worthy about the winter weather so far. I wanted him to admit publicly that The National Association of Woolly Worm Winter Weather Watchers (NAWWWWWW), had, so far, been right on the money.

Of course the other part of the story had to do with the fact that all the other forecasters, including the National weather service, had been predicting this to be a bad one. NAWWWWW called for misty wet and mild but we threw in a White Christmas and another notable snow

Coffey is National Merit Scholarship Finalist

One Rockcastle County High School senior has recently earned one of the highest academic accomplishments nationwide.

Marilyn E. Coffey has earned the Certificate of Merit as a finalist in the 1993 National Merit Scholarship Program from the National Merit Scholarship Corporation.

The distinction places Coffey in a group representing about half of one percent of U.S. high school seniors. The Merit Program operates without government funding and the scholarships offered are underwritten by some 600 independent sponsor organizations and institutions. It is the largest nationwide academic competition of its kind.

This year about 46 percent of the finalists will receive a Merit Scholarship. Coffey is one of 14,000 students being considered for National Merit $2000 Scholarships offered this year. There will be 6,500 Merit Scholars selected.

A financial aid workshop was held Feb. 4 at Rockcastle County High School. The purpose of the workshop was to fill out the 1993-94 free application for student aid. Many seniors and their parents attended the meeting and gained valuable information. College bound and vocational students can apply for financial aid.

Lawrence Bullock and the Rockcastle County Art Class recently visited Livingston Elementary School to draw and paint school murals.

working at his office across from his house while the heinous crime was being committed.

From the outset of the investigation most local residents believed Allen Gilpatrick had something to do with the murder. Many friends and acquaintances talked of an extra-marital relationship that Gilpatrick was involved in that may have resulted in the brutal slaying of his wife.

Det. Delaney would not say whether any other arrests are forthcoming in the case.

Ginny Gilpatrick was heavily involved in helping local teens. She worked at the Christian Appalachian Teen Center, started a school anti-drug program for the Rockcastle County School System and taught part-time at Eastern Kentucky University. She was a active member of the First Christian Church and wrote a column for the Signal, entitled Protective Parenting.

"I've yet to meet a better person. I think anyone that knew Ginny, knew how special she was," said close friend Maud Randolph.

Mrs. Gilpatrick was buried in Millis MA.

The Mt. Vernon Signal, Thursday, March 11, 1993 P-A5 class jobs and good behavior. On Friday they got to go on a shopping spree with money they had. The class learned a valuable lesson about taxes also. They didn't realize taxes had to come out before they got to spend their money. We had a few children upset, but after they learned what the tax money was used for they seemed to like the idea of taxes a little more. (Cont. to A-6)

commit until you acquaint yourself with the issues

Most public races center upon personality - especially name recognition - which makes it hard to focus our attention upon issues. The manner in which we approach the issues facing us will ultimately define our abilities to lead, the commitment we have to our community, and our character.

My opponent, being the incumbent, would, undoubtedly, prefer that this race be decided by name recognition or kinship. I, however, look forward to the day when we choose our officials by looking closely at the issues and, thereby, develop a true and meaningful kinship by what we find ourselves believing and dedicated to.

There are many issues facing us, and there are many differences between me and my opponent which I hope to make clear in the weeks ahead. In a recent circular given to voters, my opponent, suggested that he has been responsible for the creation of 1,730 new jobs already created during his term, plus a promise of 670 more jobs on the way. Sounds good. In fact, it sounds too good. For our sakes, I wish the jobs were here. If you stop and think about it, an increase of almost 2,000 new jobs would be very hard to hide in Rockcastle County. My simple question: Where are they?

This one claim my opponent makes has created serious concerns about many other figures he has been giving us on costs we may find ourselves burdened with down the road.

I want to run this race on issues. That is why I am extending an INVITATION to my friend and opponent, Roland Mullins, to join me in a conversation/debate on our local radio station within the next month so you can learn more about issues. It is wonderful to be able to disagree on issues and remain friends. I am glad I can do that and I am sure he can do the same. I look forward to a spirited public debate on the issues.

Thank you very much for the warmth with which you have received me into your homes and the support you have given me.

Livingston Link

The Title V - Livingston Community Club's cumulative event was held during the March P.T.O. meeting. Students from the cooking, arts/crafts, and clogging clubs really did a wonderful job with their program.

Everyone enjoyed viewing displays, watching the cloggers and eating the delicious refreshments provided by the cooking club. We want to express our gratitude to the late Ginny Grutpik for her foresight in beginning these activities last year knowing students benefit in a number of ways through their participation.

Also, hats off to the staff for their effort in providing interesting, authentic and productive activities for students.

The Livingston P.T.O. recognized Martha Eversole for her support and continued effort with the P.T.O. Martha Eversole has made a difference in Livingston Elementary. We benefit from her efforts. Livingston P.T.O. thanks you.

Livingston Elementary School was proud to send the following students to Centre College for a special chorus program facilitated by Ms. Jamie Connelley, music teacher. Mark Carpenter, Sharon Hensley, Amy Parker, B.J. Mason, Monica Phillips, Kyle Kirby.

Rumor has it Livingston Elementary students were complimented for their performance during this overnight trip from school.

Many parents have expressed interest in attending workshops at school to gain a better understanding of various topics. Ms. Cummins, -- LES Counselor and Betty Lewis -- Family Resource Center Coordinator are making plans to offer the first workshop by May. They are also exploring the possibility of summer programs for our parents.

Fourth grade portfolios will be judged on Tues. March 9 and eighth grade portfolios will be judged the following day. This will be the initial phase of evaluation for Livingston School P.T.O.

You may have seen them hoveled in small groups, measuring, graphing and discussing results in the last few weeks. Some were dressed like scientists with safety in mind first. These busy students are preparing for the Jr. High Science Fair to be held on Tues., March 16. Make plans to view the Science Projects Jr. High students will have displayed at this event. Ms. Carolyn Bryant has worked so hard to involve students with the scientific process and higher order thinking skills. Thank you Ms. Bryant for your time and hard work.

We would like to thank all parents for donating the items for the shopping spree. Also we want to thank all parents and school helpers who helped during our learning experience. Every one had a fun filled time learning this unit.

In Mrs. Renner's primary class we have been studying transportation. We made a transportation quilt with both old and new forms of transportation. We had to draw the kind of transportation we picked and also write a math story to go along with it. The class has been studying parts of speech this week and wrote a poem about it.

The primary enjoyed Barry Rudner, children's author, coming in Friday and sharing his time and experiences with us.

Sorghum can be money maker

For some farmers, producing sweet sorghum could be a good way to sweeten the financial picture for the overall farm operation.

"Sorghum production is increasing in many farms in the upper south," said Morris Bitzer, Extension grains specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "As more people learn to use sorghum in everyday cooking, the demand for sorghum syrup will increase."

Farmers should start planning now for this year's sorghum crop, Bitzer said. Direct seeding of sorghum should begin when the soil is near 60 degrees. However, a new float system developed for tobacco producers to grow their bed plants has proven effective also to grow sorghum transplants.

"If a farmer has access to this system, he can produce seedlings for transplant in about three weeks," Bitzer said. "Several had very good results last year."

But because some growers did not have such good results, Bitzer recommended growers not grow all their sorghum by this method until they gain some experience.

Prospective new sorghum growers should make sure they know which varieties are best for the Kentucky climate, Bitzer said. Four varieties have been proven to give a top quality syrup.

"One variety, called Sugar Dip, matures earlier than the others," he said. "It doesn't yield as much as some other varieties, but for those who want an early harvest or for some more northern areas, it is a good variety."

Later maturing varieties that produce high-quality syrup in Kentucky include Dale, M81E and Della. Dale should not be grown in areas north of southern Indiana or Ohio. Bitzer said, M81E should only be seeded south of central to southern Kentucky. Della is a new variety that matures about two weeks earlier than Dale and is said to be excellent for Kentucky and areas just north of it.

For further information, those interested in beginning sorghum production should contact the county agricultural extension agent.

Babbage explains party change laws

Rockcastle Countians who change their political party affiliation this spring won't be able to vote for partisan candidates in the May 25 primary election but will be allowed to vote in the nonpartisan races, according to Secretary of State Bob Babbage.

Babbage said that state law requires that voters in the primary can only vote in partisan races if they are registered with the same political party in the preceding November general election.

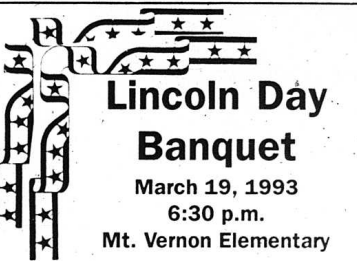

Babbage explained that state law (KRS 116.055) requires that a person who is qualified to vote in the primary election shall be a registered member of the party who is qualified to vote in the primary election shall be a registered member of the party in whose primary election he/she seeks to vote, and shall have been registered as a member of that party at the time of the preceding regular election.

"Often popular candidates will encourage registered voters to switch their party registration or citizens will change their political affiliation to support their favorite candidate, unaware that the change, when made between the general election and the primary election, will prevent them from voting in partisan races," Babbage explained.

Citizens can only vote in the primary for candidates or slates of candidates of the party of which they are a registered member, although, in the general election, persons can vote for candidates of any party.

Citizens wishing to register to vote or to change their political affiliation may do so at their county clerk's office. Voter registration books are open in the county clerk's office through April 26.

National School Breakfast Week

March 8-12, 1993

One third of children who do not eat breakfast do not meet their daily protein requirements and 75 percent of children who do not eat breakfast do not meet the Recommended Dietary Allowances for calcium.

In light of these facts, it is not surprising that statistics show that students who eat a school breakfast perform better on standardized tests, are on time for school more often, have better attendance and have fewer disciplinary problems than students who don't eat a school breakfast. School breakfast just makes good sense!

March is Kentucky Nutrition Month. Our theme is "Eat Right, Kentucky." It is a good time to assess your nutritional needs and perhaps change some eating habits.

Weight is an important consideration. If you are at a healthy weight, your caloric intake is balanced by the energy you expend. If you are gradu-

FmHA announces housing preservation grant program

The U.S. Department of Agriculture, Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) will accept preapplications from qualified public and private nonprofit organizations for Housing Preservation Grant (HPG) funds until the close of business May 17, 1993. These grant funds may be used to help repair or rehabilitate homes for very low and low income rural homeowners.

James B. Dunsmore, Acting FmHA State Director, states that Kentucky's allocation is $715,000 for Fiscal Year 1993. A request from any qualified applicant will be considered up to 50 percent of the State's allocation of funds. Applicants must demonstrate a need for home repair and rehabilitation in the area to be served, an acceptable plan for selecting individual recipients and assuring the quality of work performed, support for the program by the local government of the area to be served, and sources of other funds which would be used to supplement the funds received from FmHA.

Applicants must make their Statement of activities available to the public (for review and comments) fifteen days prior to the deadline for submission of the preapplication to the Agency. This notice to the public must be placed in a newspaper no later than May 1, 1993. Publication in a local newspaper is desirable.

Farmers Home Administration is an Equal Opportunity Lender.

"Nutrition Month"

ally gaining unwanted pounds, learn to control calories by eating right and increasing your activity level. Remember, an active teenager can eat much more food than a sedentary senior citizen without getting overweight.

While the meaning of eating right varies from person to person, some foods should be a part of everyone's diet. The USDA recommends three servings of vegetables and two of fruits, or a combined total of five, each day. If your daily vegetable-fruits eating pattern consists of juice in the morning and two helpings of potatoes at dinner, it's time to try some new fruits and vegetables and get your total daily servings up to at least five a day.

Whole-grain foods should be included in daily bread and cereal selections. The extra fiber and minerals in whole grains, as well as B6 and other vitamins are an important part of eating right.

Whatever your particular situation, "eating right" involves choosing foods that are healthy for you and getting the most nutrition for your money—whether at a grocery store, restaurant or snack machine. Help yourself to good nutrition during Kentucky Nutrition Month and make "eating right" a lifetime habit.

Dobson

Denzil Dobson, 58, of 28 Milestone Lane, New Lebanon, Ohio, died

good as you could expect for a bare footed feller sitting in a cold kitchen in his drawers without a cup of coffee. And he hung up on me. I think there was religious music playing in the background and I figure I was dealing with a DJ who didn't want any cussing on the air.

The rest of them didn't seem to mind it. In fact I thought they were great sports for weather the ribbing I had given weather forecasters as a lot.

Anyway it went on like that for an hour or two before I could get ready to go to work. I wound up having to go to an evening meeting and I didn't get back home till about 11 that night. Jennifer had stayed up late to let me know that Cindy Pressler, Channel 27's Meteorologist, had been in touch and would be calling back.

Cindy, as far as my kids are concerned, is the person you turn to for school closing information and if its cold and cloudy they'll generally tune in the evening news. They not only knew who she was, but they were impressed with old dad as well until they found out her call was about my woolly wool friends, at which point they were mortified and began preparing themselves for public humiliation.

Anyway, I agreed to round up a few representatives of NAWWWWW and meet with Cindy in my office the next day. The end result was that I wound up on statewide television with woolly worms crawling all over my desk insisting that a major snow storm will happen between now and mid April. And Gomer Pyle would have looked far less like a yokel than I managed to come across. I was humiliated enough when I saw the newscast. Now that people I don't even know are calling me up to let me know they saw me on television. I'm thinking about renting a fake mustache and a Groucho Marx nose so I won't be recognized in public.

Anyway, you won't be seeing me on television again unless someone is holding a gun in my back.

And if you don't have anything else to do over the next two or three weeks, please be praying for 12 to 18 inches of snow. NAWWWWW seems to be very confident that it's going to happen but I think some Divine Intervention wouldn't hurt their reputation at all.

"Commentary"

ful, exuberant side, the touching side and sense all that has come before adulthood.

I found one picture of my mother and my Aunt Mattie standing on a porch with their bonnets on.

That picture has helped me define who my mother was, and in a way, brought home to me just how precious her days with the living were.

I've also found pictures of my father from his WWI days, dressed up in his Army uniform.

He was a good bit more slender than I would have imagined and his features were finer in his youth.

Still, having that picture means a lot to me, and any future generations that might come into existence.

You might want to try it yourself. If you get any old folks ask them for a picture from their youth and see if you get any takers.

It's just a thought, but it might be fun.

Well, it's crying time again — yes, taxes are due by April 15.

I guess there's no other agony quite like it.

Yes, the forms, the deductions, the tax preparer and rushing to meet the deadline.

I'm one of the lucky ones, though. I have never done my own tax return.

Yes, like millions of other Americans I have a tax person who does my returns.

Some people do their own. I don't know whether I could get anything to make sense.

The money I spend getting mine prepared is money well spent.

Ever try to make sense of a tax form? You're not the only one who thinks it gibberish.

Politicians keep promising us a simplified tax form but I don't buy that idea.

A simplified return would probably mean more taxes to pay.

Then there are the humorous forms. Enter all your income in block A. Enter zero for deductions. Send in everything else.

That's all for this week.

See you around at the country store.

Renfro Valley lodge restaurant changes management

The changing hands of a restaurant is generally not headline news. Or is it? If the restaurant has a 50-year history and is part of one of Kentucky's most popular attractions.

With the opening of Renfro Valley Entertainment Center for its 54th season local businessmen Dale Coffey and Dennis Reynolds will be in command at the Lodge Restaurant. For Coffey, a Mt. Vernon native, and Reynolds, being directly involved in the Renfro Valley experience is a combination of other commitments already in place to serve the tourism and travel industry locally.

"Growing up in this part of Kentucky, I know how important Renfro Valley has always been to the life of our community," says Coffey. "Through the years, I've probably eaten hundreds of meals at the Lodge, and we look forward to carrying on the tradition of the restaurant and its vital part of Renfro Valley."

Coffey's experience as a guest at the Lodge will prove beneficial to this season's diners. Both Coffey's and Reynolds' respect for warm Kentucky hospitality and excellent country cooking ensure those traditions will prevail at the Renfro Valley Lodge.

Maintaining strict standards for hospitality and food quality is important to Renfro Valley. "Dining is an important part of the Renfro Valley experience," says Renfro Valley Executive Vice President and General Manager Dean L. Henriksen. "While our guests visit us for our great country entertainment, country cooking and charming Kentucky hospitality definitely make an impression. Dale Coffey and Dennis Reynolds have demonstrated their commitment to those standards, and we are delighted to have them involved here."

Evidence of Coffey's and Reynolds' commitment can be found in four of their other Kentucky ventures: the Days Inn Motel, Dairy Queen and Denny's Restaurant in Mt. Vernon and the Lakeview Restaurant in Somerset. These businesses draw heavily upon their business experience and their keen understanding of satisfying a local and traveling clientele.

Coffey and Reynolds replace the previous operator, "Country" Jim Lee, who has returned to Michigan where he operates two restaurants. "Jim is a good friend and was an asset to Renfro Valley," says Henriksen. "Unfortunately, the demands of running three busy restaurants — two in Michigan and one here — proved to be burdensome for him. Jim has our support and best wishes on his return to Michigan."

Minor renovations are underway at the Lodge. Menu planning, staffing and marketing plans are in the works. The lodge will be open March 20 to service tour guests and private parties and will open to the general public on April 1.

Home court key in Lady Rockets' loss to Jackson

True to statistics the home court advantage once again prevailed in the girls' district tournament last Wednesday at Jackson County.

The host Jackson County Lady Generals edged out the Rockcastle County Lady Rockets by eight, 62-54.

Both teams sported 1-1 records against one another during regular season play. Each team notched their wins at home.

"I'm very proud of their effort," said head coach Christy Beaver earlier this week. "But it was a big disappointment for us."

However, with statistics against them, the Lady Rockets' chances of defeating Jackson and advancing into the regionals were valid.

It may have been their turnovers that were not.

"We really didn't have forced turnovers," Beaver said. "We seemed to just throw it away."

According to Beaver it may have been the mental factor that weighed heavily on the players. For one, senior starter Christy Coleman didn't see any action due to an illness.

"I think that due to Coleman being out may have raised some doubts as to if they could win without her," said Beaver.

Doubts or no doubts the game proved close throughout.

While the Lady Rockets never led in the game, they also never fell behind by more than five points through the first three periods of play.

Still, the early upper-hand went to Jackson in the first half as they stretched a one point first quarter lead, 13-12, into five by the half, 33-27.

The Lady Rockets put seven players in the scoring column but it was junior standout Cindy McCauley that kept the squad intact. McCauley posted a game high of 28 points and helped enable the Lady Rockets to pull within four in the third period, 40-36.

Neither team excelled from the free throw line. Jackson made only 13 of 26 while the Lady Rockets connected for only 10 of 21.

But behind the play of Misty Bond, who posted 21 points, the Lady Generals surged in the final period for 22 points and their biggest lead of eight.

With the loss the Lady Rockets ended the season on a 11-17 mark.

Scoring for the Lady Rockets in the game were: Beth Amyx, 2; Cindy McCauley, 28; Becky Osborne, 6; Janeta McLemore, 8; Melinda Alcorn, 2; Heather Deckard, 2 and Susie Carpenter, 6.

Freshman Melinda Alcorn pulls down a rebound for the Lady Rockets in district play against Jackson County. Jackson won the game, 62-54.

RCBL tournament concludes Tuesday

The Rockcastle Church Basketball League tournament resumed this past Monday with Wildie and Teen Challenge squaring off in the first game of the night in an exciting way. It took an overtime rally for Teen Challenge to finally subdue Wildie, 58-51. Keith Johnson played an outstanding game for Teen Chal-leng scoring 29 points while teammate Bob Jones added 16. Wildie was led in scoring by Jeff Stevens with 18 and Kevin Mullins with 16. Brindle Ridge faced Grace Baptist #2 in the second game with Brindle Ridge coming out victorious, 64-59. Chad Burdette had a great game for Brindle Ridge scoring 26 points while Ryan Loudermilk added 12. Grace was led by the hot shooting hand of Tim Smith who pumped in 17 and Michael Price's 13.

Grace Baptist #1 kept their perfect record intact as they faced First Baptist #2 in the third game of the evening. After jumping out to an early lead they defeated First Baptist, 77-57. Jessie Mahaffey had one of his better games of the season scoring 24 points for Grace while Danny Offutt added 18. First Baptist was led in scoring by Chris Kirby with 14 and David Preston with 13.

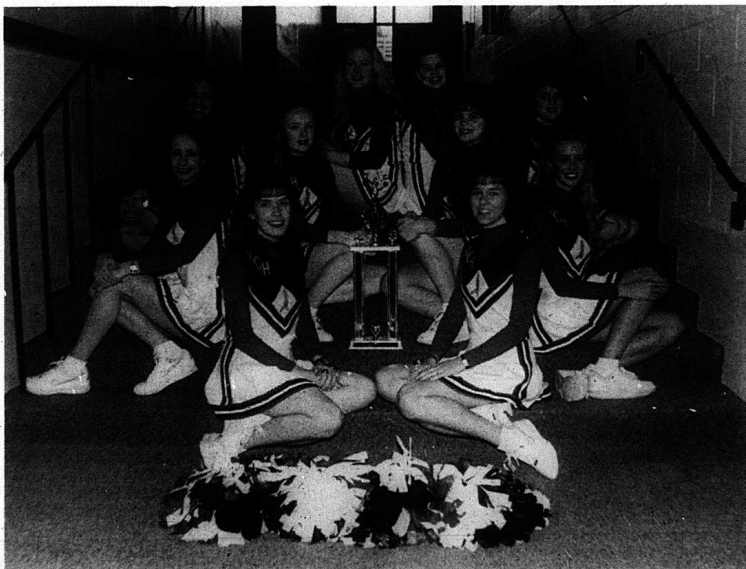

First Baptist #1 defeated Bible Baptist, 53-48, in the final match-up of the night. The game proved close all the way. Gene McAdams turned in a great performance with 19 points while Bobby Bailey contributed eight for First Baptist. David Bryant had 25 points and Devin Ford got nine to lead Bible Baptist.

Please note that the match-up between First Baptist #1 and Grace Baptist #2 during the week of March 1st was inadvertently omitted from last week's action. First Baptist won the game, 60-44. Gene McAdams led First Baptist with 15 points and Bobby Bailey had 14. Grace was led by Billy Reynolds with 11 and Butch Lunsford with nine.

Tournament action will conclude this Tuesday, March 16 with the first game beginning at 6:30 p.m. and the championship game beginning at 9:30 p.m.

thank him for bringing me home but I don't appreciate the discrimination of the other stores. I felt like I was a victim.

The handicapped and senior citizens don't have much of a chance. I wonder where we will have to be when he gets old? I hope I won't have to bother him anymore. Why does he have that sign on the door if he doesn't treat everyone equally? This discrimination is not good. So thanks again for bringing me and my groceries home.

Dear Editor,

For the past five years groups of parents, teachers, businesses civic organizations, and churches have greatly supported Project Graduation, the after-graduation party to honor and protect our seniors. Although the reason to honor the students is obvious, the reason to protect them may not be.

Each year many seniors throughout the nation are killed or critically injured because of accidents suffered after graduation parties that were not chaperoned. Because of efforts such as Project Graduation, the number of fatalities can be greatly reduced by donations and hard work by many individuals. The project is not one the community needs to lose because our students are very precious to all of us.

The following have already begun the contributions for our senior center with money or gifts:
Vergie Kelly - 2 Afghan, Dowell and Martin $200; B & R Body Shop, Kastle Inn Restaurant, hamburgers, CutAbove - 5 Tanning bed visits, Dicie Allen - Curling Iron; Mt. Vernon Florist-Plantier; Nellie's Flowers-$20 Flower Arrangement; Touch of Class - $25 Value Pack; Nancy's

Dear Editor,

I want to apologize to the manager of the E.C. Porter store in Mt. Vernon. I'm very sorry that I bothered him.

I needed some groceries since Foodtown had burned down and not knowing that the manager discriminated against the elderly and other stores, I went there to get my groceries. He had this sign on the door that stated he didn't deliver after one o'clock. So I got there about nine o'clock a.m. I got my groceries and was ready to come home. They told me they didn't deliver. The manager said he didn't deliver. He asked me didn't I trade at Foodtown? He said I don't know when Foodtown will build back. He finally agreed then to bring me home. All the time that I was in the car he was talking. Part of the time I didn't know what he meant. I was so humiliated and embarrassed I felt like I had done something wrong. I don't feel like going in the Porter's store anymore. I think as older folks are being discriminated against, I

Millard "Buckshot" Robbins — His "Mean" Boys

Both Lincoln and Kennedy were concerned with Civil Rights. Lincoln was elected President in 1860; Kennedy in 1960. Both were slain on a Friday and in the presence of their wives. Both were shot from behind and in the head. Their successors, both named Johnson, were southern Democrats, and both were in the Senate. Andrew Johnson was born in 1808 and Lyndon Johnson was born in 1908. John Wilkes Booth was born in 1839 and Lee Harvey Oswald was born in 1939. Booth and Oswald were southerners favoring unpopular ideas. Both Presidents' wives lost children through death while in the White House. Lincoln's secretary, whose name was Kennedy, advised him not to go to the theatre. Kennedy's secretary, whose name was Lincoln, advised him not to go to Dallas. John Wilkes Booth shot Lincoln in a theatre and ran to a warehouse. Lee Harvey Oswald shot Kennedy from a warehouse and ran to a theatre. The names Lincoln and Kennedy each contain seven letters. The names Andrew Johnson and Lyndon Johnson each contain thirteen letters. The names John Wilkes Booth and Lee Harvey Oswald each contain fifteen letters. Both assassins were killed before being brought to trial. Both Johnsons were opposed for re-election by men whose names started with "G".

RE-ELECT CHARLES D. HOLBROOK

Republican • Magistrate

As the campaign nears disaster for 6, and Victory for 1, my concern has and will be that all people should and will share in an open door policy of Government. It is with this thought in mind that I wish to enumerate my feelings as to how County Government will function and serve the citizenry, if I am chosen by the people. Surely, we will not stand idly by and be deceived again and again.

No additional taxation will be cast upon the people, as in the past term serving the good people of Rockcastle County, taxes have declined. I rest my case.

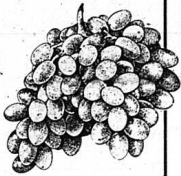

I am the same today as before. As in the past, I will abide by the laws of this great land. I have rubbed shoulders with the high and mighty and yet I remain the same.

Today, as before, the high and mighty are screaming. We need more and more of your money. This now as before is futile and as before, the battle will be lost.

Sweet and Sour

By Zi Graves

Last week I left you at the West Palm Beach Florida Airport after my marvelous flight from Roanoke, Va. mingling with the hustling people and enjoying my reunion with my sister, Kate and brother-in-law, Jim, who had come to meet me.

On my flight into the West Palm Beach airport I had missed seeing the ocean as I arrived which I usually see on the flights from Lexington or Cincinnati. The flight from Roanoke had been a land route and the ones from Cincinnati and Lexington follow the coast line down from Jacksonville. I like this flight best for the glimpses we get of the earth below is a combination of land and sea and as we break through the clouds, if there are any on the day of the flight, the expanse of ocean is in full view. As one gets closer to earth the view below gets bigger and bigger and the little boats that at first look like children's toys in a bath tub become ships at sea.

The dainty white ruffles on the water become breakers on the waves that keep pounding the beach. The long stretch of what looked like empty seashores becomes a seething mass of colorful little creatures that soon is found to be people decked out in their bits of bright skimpy bathing suits or maybe just strolling on the sandy seashore. Shortly before landing the plane seems to skim over the great expanse of water below and one can almost feel the sea breezes. The land route was different. Really it looked kind of blah as we broke through the grey clouds and left the glorious blue skies, brilliant sunshine and the dazzling white clouds that looked like the purest snow above us and saw below a grey landscape. Clouds were hanging close to the earth so it was hard to make out where we were with the short glimpses we had through the little plex holes of broken clouds until we flew over Lake Okeechobee where my two sisters live.

Lake Okeechobee is one of the largest natural lakes in the U.S.A. and is fed by springs. It is big enough till the human eye cannot see across it and is the fisherman's haven. There is a network of canals that also furnish good fishing for those lucky enough to have a fishing dock in their own back yard. They are big enough to allow small pleasure boats to cruise up and down them and small enough to be able to talk to your neighbor living on the other side.

Water fowl, such as ducks and egrets and herons are plentiful, as well as turtles and a variety of fish, and once in awhile an alligator is seen. It is peaceful and interesting to spend hours sitting on the patio or under one of the many fruit trees such as an avocado or orange or cumquat, and watch these, (unusual to us), creatures of nature go about their daily life. My sister Kate lives on one of these canals so I spent more than a few hours watching them. Mama ducks love to show off their little ducklings and will parade them up and down the canal till they are sure everyone living on both sides are aware the long nesting days are over and these little ducklings are the results.

Egrets don't swim like fish so they fly low over the water and snatch the fish when one gets close to the top of the water. And I watched the turtles as they came to the surface to get a fresh breath of air or whatever they do when they stick their heads above water then quickly disappear beneath the surface or drift down stream with only the top of their heads showing. If one watches long enough he will see the fish leap and skip on the surface as if tempting those on the canal that is only a few yards from their back door and fishing goes on constantly. The lines were watched while we played our favorite table games and when a line jerked one of them would run and take the fish off the hook, rebait the line and our game would go on.

One day while we were quietly sitting on the patio watching the activity on the water a beautiful snow white egret came slowly down the retaining wall of the canal ignoring us but watching the water closely. The egret is a very handsome bird, smaller than a heron but with the same delicate features. Slim bodies are held up by very thin, stick like, grey legs. They are snow white and walk proudly with head held high. Suddenly this beautiful bird darted for the water. I guess it had seen a fish on the line and before we knew what was going on, it became entangled in the fishing line from the wharf. Jim immediately jumped to the dock and began hauling in the line but before he could get hold of the bird it let out one small cry. Instantly another bird appeared in the sky and then the air was filled with what looked like hundreds of its mates. They were coming from every direction and mixing and mingling and darting to see what was wrong with one of their kind. I have never seen anything like it. The call was so soft we could scarcely hear it yet all the egrets in the area had heard it and had come to the rescue of one of them in trouble. Kate and Jim freed the wing that was caught in the line and it fluttered along for a minute then slipped to safety in a nearby yard. The air then was just as suddenly empty of the birds as it had been filled with them a minute before.

I could not help but wonder at how these creatures of the wild take care of their own when they hear the faintest cry for help when we, supposedly superior, humans, ignore all the cries of the suffering of other human beings going on in the world today. This experience was the high light of my trip, that is, except the visiting with my two sisters and brother-in-law which was the reason for my trip to Okeechobee.

It is good to be back with you again. Maybe all I needed was to be reminded someone is enjoying the things I talk about. Thanks for reminding me.

ROCKCASTLE FIRST

...Vote for Roland D. Mullins for County Judge Executive

New courthouse facility a bargain for local taxpayers

County court and judicial facilities are generally 50-100 year projects. Rockcastle's new building was made possible through bond sales, thus the facility belongs to us. Subsequent negotiations resulted in a contract whereby the state pays the entire bond payment. Secondly, the state pays the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court sufficient amounts quarterly to operate and maintain the building. Once the bonds are paid, the state payments will come directly to the county as rental income.

In essence, we have a new building paid for by the state. As state taxpayers, we still pay the bill, but by dividing the cost among all Kentuckians our individual cost is 54 cents versus $134 for each citizen if Rockcastle had to carry the entire burden. This comes from money already paid to the state and has no effect on Rockcastle's budget. This represents good trading on behalf of all the people in my opinion.

The state was scheduled to build a certain number of facilities. We were going to pay for it whether Rockcastle, Jefferson or Davless was the recipient. Rockcastle is just as deserving as Jefferson or Davless. Both the existing courthouse and the judicial complex will be fully utilized. The jail is being expanded to meet state standards; the county attorney will now have an office in the courthouse. The sheriff's department, the property valuation administrator, and the county court clerk are all getting added storage and office space as a result of the expansion.

YOUR FRIENDSHIP, ASSISTANCE AND VOTE ARE APPRECIATED
