Gilpatrick trial postponed

The trial of Allen Gilpatrick of Mt. Vernon for the murder of his wife, Virginia, has been rescheduled.

A trial date was Aug. 10 before Circuit Judge Daniel Veniers rescheduled it for Nov. 8.

Gilpatrick is under a $250,000 bond.

Mrs. Gilpatrick was found beaten and stabbed to death in her home on Feb. 7.

Her husband reported to police when they arrived that his home had been broken in and his wife was injured.

Police sealed off the house to begin their investigation. Blood was splattered in three rooms on the second floor. Police found no evidence of forced entry or anything missing. Later, Police reported fingerprints found in blood stains on a paper bag led to the arrest of Gilpatrick.

Mt. Vernon Attorney John Clontz entered a plea of not guilty in the case in District Court. A grand jury later indicted Gilpatrick of murder.

In other court news, Benny Brock has been indicted for assault in the second degree.

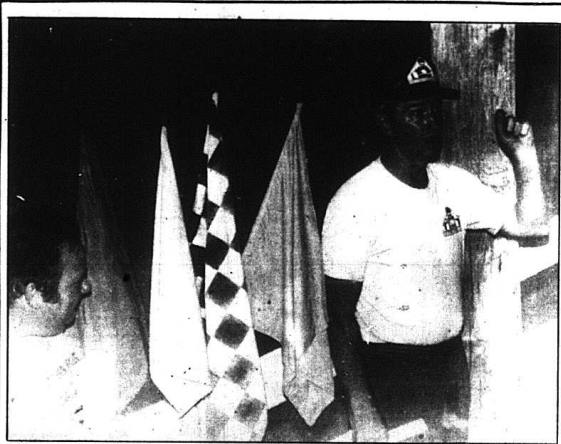

He is charged with intentionally causing serious physical injury to Leonard Renner Jr., by beating him, breaking bones in his face on or about June 21.

His arraignment is set for Aug. 13. David Thompson has been indicted for assault in the second degree by choking and inflicting serious physical injury on David Deboard.

His arraignment is set for Aug. 13. Barbara Bussell has been indicted for assault in the second degree.

She is accused of shooting Danny Spoonamore.

She will be arraigned on Aug. 13.

Development council seeks funds to buy houses and two acres

By: Ray McClure

The Daniel Boone Development Council plans to seek federal funds to purchase two acres containing six old houses on Town Hill in Mt. Vernon.

Demolition, excavation and rebuilding of at least four dwellings is planned. Four families are currently living on the site, owned by Sylvester Kirby.

The decision to purchase the property was reported at a meeting of the Rockcastle County Community Housing Development Board at its annual meeting Friday.

Daniel Boone Development has been approved as a Housing Development Organization (HDO). This lets Daniel Boone Organization purchase properties to renovate and use as rental properties for low income people or sell the renovated property to first-time homebuyers and use the money to buy more property to renovate.

Daniel Boone Council asks that the Rockcastle County Community Housing Development Board be the authority board and operate a program that is in the planning stages in Rockcastle.

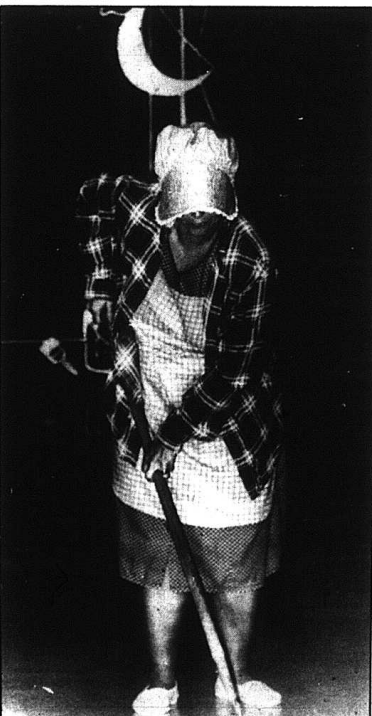

Daniel Boone Council has already inspected and evaluated the Mt. Vernon property, interviewed the tenants and taken pictures inside and outside of the houses.

The size and design of the new dwellings will be based on the size

Old houses will be purchased by Daniel Boone Housing if federal funds become available. Only the shell of one of the houses remain. Plans are to renovate them, rent or sell them.

Madden pleads guilty

Ricky Madden of Mt. Vernon entered a guilty plea in Circuit Court Tuesday and was sentenced by Judge William T. Cain to three years.

The sentence on a guilty plea in an amended charge of wanton endangerment in the first degree had been amended from criminal attempt to commit murder.

Madden was returned to stand trial from the federal correctional institution in Eddyville.

He will serve the wanton endangerment sentence concurrently with his federal sentence.

On Sept. 7, 1989 Madden was arrested for shooting into the house of State Trooper Jimmy Silvers and charged with criminal attempt to commit murder.

He was also charged with criminal attempt to commit murder of Chadwick Silvers, Trooper Silvers' son. That charge was dismissed.

A third charge was a concealed weapon, a handgun in his car.

A fourth charge, possession of marijuana less than 8 ounces was also dismissed Tuesday.

Correction

In a story in last week's Signal concerning campaign spending, we listed current County Attorney James H. Lambert as spending over $44,000 on his campaign for re-election when he actually spent $20,400. In the same story, we listed County Attorney Elect Jeffrey T. Bardette as spending over $19,000 when he spent $9,900. Former Sheriff Jib Hasty was listed as spending $4,600 when his total was $3,100. The Signal apologizes for this error.

Laurel County couple killed on I-75 Monday

A Laurel County couple was killed Monday when their pick-up truck overturned on I-75.

Kelly Jo Walton Moore, 25, of Happy Hollow Road, Lily, and Antonia J. Moore, 21, were dead at the scene.

According to State Police Trooper Jimmy Silvers, they were travelling south on I-75, between the Renfro Valley and Burr Interchanges, at a high rate of speed, ran off the road on the east side swerved back across the emergency lane and overturned several times. The truck came to rest on its wheels.

Both occupants were thrown from the vehicle and were pronounced dead at the scene by Coroner Billy Dowell.

No seat belts were in use and police were unable to determine the driver.

The 2 of you who have followed the drivel they have paid me to put in your bi-weekly newspapers over the last five years already know that I have been a frequent critic of the number racket, a.k.a. the Kentucky Lottery, since its inception.

It is no surprise to me a few months back when we learned that the case Wilkinson's key bench-one of men of a company that was selling millions of dollars worth of gaudy lottery tickets despite the fact that the punies had made lower bids to top the same stuff.

I was astonished to find that at least one board member had used lottery proceeds to set up a scholarship fund named for himself and arranged for his girlfriend to attend at least one of the frequent, expensive junkets that the lottery board likes to make, at taxpayers' expense, to interationally acclaimed resorts that cater to the rich and famous.

Nor did it surprise me last week when it became public news that the reigning officers and board members of our favorite scam have demonstrated less management proficiency than it takes a ten year old child to play a game of Monopoly.

The very lack of all these surprises that are suddenly coming to light, however, is that Brer Horse gets to name an entirely new Board of directors who will subsequently hire a new official staff. Brer struck out early on in this reign when he attempted to horse race to the lottery. Don't be surprised then, to find a new gambling club sitting around the board room with straw in their hair and a peculiar odor coming off their shoes. Don't bother asking about those sticky brown stains on the carpet.

And finally, don't be surprised to find that the lottery is suddenly kicking back a few million dollars every year to supplement purses at those races and pay for air fare, hotel lodging, plane tickets etc. that enable the new staff and board to learn more about the hayburning racket while they attend the triple-crown races. I'm not saying that will happen, mind you. I'm simply suggesting that if it does, you should not be at all surprised.

Unless Brer calls me up and tells me he wants to put me on the Lottery Board, the Gov and I aren't on speaking terms right now and even if we were, I seriously doubt that I have enough friends in the Legislature to ever be confirmed in the bid name me to the Lottery Board. I have this nasty nasty habit of questioning political motives and I'm perpetually disgusted with the personal greed and graft that seizes foremost the minds of our leadership when it ought to be concentrating on the well being of the Commonwealth.

On the other hand, I do know how to read a financial statement and I've had enough corporate experience over the last 20 years to know the difference between policy making and administration. I know the difference between right and wrong and I'm a fiscal tight-wad.

I'd be one board member that the Gov wouldn't have to worry about frequently flying to Boca Raton or Las Vegas. I'd expect to be paid a fair wage for my services and I'd want super paid for when the board had meetings but he should know that I'd be better off with a bowl of soup beans and a hunk of cornbread with a side order of onions than a hundred dollar meal from a French Restaurant.

In fact, I used to sit on a board that had evening meetings along with a catered meal just before they started. We'd have soup beans or refried beans or kraut or something else that ranked in the top ten of gas producing enterprises every single time.

As a result, it became dangerous to light a match in the meeting room within two hours and we'd normally adjourn around 9 p.m. Business got done with few wasted words. There ought to be a state law requiring members of the General Assembly to eat a bowl of soup beans at the beginning of every meeting. Then you might start seeing some work get done. But I'm off the point.

And the point is, if any of you all see Brer over the next few days, go ahead and tell him that I'm available for the lottery board. Tell him that he won't have to wait for the State Auditor to sniff around if I find any hanky panky going on and he won't have to worry about me running up much of an expense account.

Instead of setting up a scholarship fund, he can count on me to advocate spending money like it grows on trees. Instead of gambling addicts. Instead of traveling. I'll advocate that the Lottery subscribe to a couple of trade journals to keep up with what's going on in the industry. Instead of spending money like it grows on trees. I'll worry about saving every nickle possible and maximizing what goes back to the state.

Finally, I'd even try to make sure that folks who play the lottery get a little truth now and then when an advertising blitz goes out. In the meantime, I'm not going to be wasting a lot of time waiting for the phone to ring.

little poem you might like."

"What does it say?" I inquired, thinking she was going to compliment me on my "boldness."

Trudy quoted, "Lord, fill my mouth with worthy stuff--and stop me when I've said enough." Then she patted me on the shoulder, said "See you next Sunday," and walked away.

Another round of gossip in Tattle-town, in which Hannie was also a major factor, was far more serious--a rumor that a deacon of our church was "given to spirits." It was true; the deacon had talked with me about it. He honestly wanted to get "off liquor," but it wasn't easy.

I recalled Trudy's truism and tried to speak to that situation more tactfully. "No all gossip is false, but that doesn't mean we should tell it all about," I said in a sermon on "Our Little Member--the Turbulent Tongue." "Where there is smoke, there is fire, but there are two times when a fire smokes heavily--just before it flames up and when it's going out. Some fires need to go. Please don't fan them."

You are aware, of course, precious reader, that in "Heresay" I never gossip. My mission is merely to inform.

Until next week, consider the wisdom of an ancient Persian proverb: Mene menelek upharin, which loosely translated means "Be not unaccountably yoked together" and has absolutely nothing to do with the rest of my commentary but needed to be said, especially in light of a recent report about a dentist and a manicurist who married and after only one month of wedlock were fighting going after each other tooth and nail.

Heresay

By John Norman Meadows

One lived in "Tattle-town," the unofficial name ascribed to Kirkwood, Kentucky by many of its very own residents. After ministering there for three years, I agreed with them.

The primary source of misinformation at that time, in that sometimes past-harmless, was the "party line" telephone. The paragon phone was one of eight that used the same line. But worse still, Hannie Dimsole, the village MOAM (Mother Of All Mouths) was on our line! You would lose money betting that Hannie wasn't "listening in."

Our two-year old, Mark, had a very sore throat and a fever. We took him to our family doctor, who prescribed a medication and told us to keep him "in the house" for a few days.

When we got home, Nancy called Margaret Sexton, a good friend, and explained that Mark's throat problem was minor but that he wouldn't be in Sunday School the next morning. Margaret rejoiced that Mark did not have "scarlatina," which was said to be going around.

Come Sunday morning, our attendance was down--way down. Not a single child was present. It didn't take long to find out that Hannie had been at work--again. All over "Tattle-town" the word was that Mark had scarlet fever--and that Nancy was going to take him to Sunday School and church anyhow!

Hannie was opposed to me from the beginning--even before I gave her reason to be--perhaps before I even got there. She ceased attending services after I wore a corduroy suit in the pulpit "on Sunday morning. How unrefined!" (I had not yet been to the seminary where ministers take Pastoral Requisites 101.) According to her, my worn-out, "shiny blue serge" wasn't acceptable either.

I felt obliged to confront Hannie. She was sitting on her back porch, cutting up a chicken, when I walked up. I got to my point and asked why she disliked me so intensely.

"For a lot of reasons," she said as her knife ripped off a chicken wing. "But for starters I'll say here and now that the Lord never called you here."

I was dumb-founded. The contending of left Boyle County because Kirkwood had a new "Gold Medalion" RECC pastor and paid $75.00 per week--$26.50 more than Willow Grove. It was as if I had told Nancy to begin packing while I prayed about the "call." I had reasoned with myself about the Kirkwood invitation: "What's wrong with a move up the ladder of service? After all, was it not written somewhere that "When thou movest, leteth thy move be upeth and not downeth as doth the dunmehth?"

I set pastoral decorum aside and verbally tore into Hannie. And Hannie tore into me--and that chicken. That evening at the dinner table, word has it, Luther, her husband, said, "What's this?" "Chicken succotash!" she fired back. "Now shut up and eat!"

About six months before our arrival, Luther had been nominated to be a deacon of the church. The deacon board, however, struck his name from the list because he did not "rule his own household well." And I suspected Hannie herself had put Luther's name in the pot. Now, the man who was ordained also served on the Pulpit Committee that brought me to Kirkwood. Could that have ignited Hannie's ire?

Hannie was not the only culprit. Several tongues had passed on Hannie's prevarication, and I wasn't about to let them get away with it. Like many young preachers in those days, I saw myself more as a "give-em-hell-fire-and-damnation" prophet than a "long-suffering" pastor. And I was quick to use "smart" sayings I picked up from older preachers--older but not necessarily wiser.

"Some of you women," I thundered from the sacred desk, "ought to throw your vacuum cleaners in the dump because you pick up far more dirt with your telephones!" After that blistering exhortation, I gave the altar call. "Some of you might want to lay your tongues on the altar this morning, seeing how you've missed them. Our altar is sixteen feet across. I know that's not long enough for some, but come on down anyhow. As I stood at the exit that morning, Trudy Randolph, definitely not a gossip, came by. She said, "I read a

The cute and unusual things animals sometimes do often go unnoticed so we lose the lesson of how different species of the animal world get along.

Dogs and cats are supposed to be natural enemies but they can also be the best of friends as was proven by our dog Buddy and our big old farm cat. They each had the run of the place and kept unwanted things such as snakes, rats, and mice thinned out. The cat did the thinning out by catching every mouse or rat she could find and Buddy did the chasing of unpleasant creatures, particularly snakes and crows. They became such a perfect team one could almost imagine they planned their strategy as they cuddled together. We often found them sleeping cozied together, his paw gently over her back or her curled up on top of him. They played together like two little kids, he would chase her till she would run up a tree and tempt him to "come and get her." Then he would lie quietly at the foot of the tree until she would come down and prod him into another game of "chase me."

They wrestled like professional wrestlers, being sure neither of them were hurt. One outstanding incident was when Polly brought her two dogs down to the farm and turned them loose to run and play. These two dogs had never been told a cat could be their friend so they immediately began chasing her and her inborn fear of dogs told her she must escape these critters. So, off to the barn she flew and would not be seen till they left. Buddy didn't take too well to this treatment of his best friend so retaliated by being nasty to his guests. He death to them and spray the flowers you want to take in the house. Give the chigger time to get off the white lacy blooms and there you have it.

I have tried this method and it is sure fire to get rid of chiggers. John says Absorbine Jr. limment.

is the best cure for getting rid of the varmites.

Joe Abney on Clear Creek should have a good cure for stings after that wild run (streak) from the yellow jackets (abee like insect) that he is no longer friends with. I heard Joe took gasoline to them at night.

The Macedonia Baptist Church is having their Vacation Bible School this week and Flossie Stephen says they are having good attendance.

Different families are taking care of the refreshments each night. Flossie says she will go in with her family members for Friday night to bring food for all the Bible School members and guests.

I have decided to go after hearing what they meant for the group to cat stuff like that can bring folks to the 'dongs'.

On our way to Mt. Vernon we decided to stop at Fairview and visit our kinfolk, Neureul Holt Miracle.

Neureul works for a real estate business and does well when she is at it but lately she has had some summer colds to hold her down but she expects to return to business soon.

Neureul has had visitors from Florida, one was Opal Abney Sasser who is a good friend and good at playing cards. Bridg is one of them.

Another friend from Louisville, Lillian Powell Rouse, came to see Neureul. She owns her home down there in Florida and is a good friend. I asked Neureul about her nephew, Kenny Holt and his pretty wife, Darlene.

The couple had been west this summer which was good for their kids who knew about the country from school.

Kenny says he now shares the garden with Darlene, his wife, doing one half the work, which cleared the air at home.

Wendell Holt and nephew, William Holt, went to Florida deep sea fishing but I think the fish are still there, Neureul told us.

She also mentioned Greta McClood who has joined the Bridge Club and now plays with them. Greta is a relative to us all through the Abney line.

Neureul was having a bad time through her stomach so John began telling her of his mountain doctoring.

He told Neureul of the yellow roots remedy, that is to make her a tonic from yellow root and drink the water from it. Some folks put in a little bit of "White Lightning" which helps the taste.

John and I were going to Mt. Vernon so we took the Fairview Road and stopped to find Flossie Stephen, breaking up beans to can and Bill was talking with road men as we call the Rockcastle Road Department.

The men had every kind of heavy equipment down to screw drivers to do the work.

Heather Reynolds, granddaughter to the Stephens, had a birthday on July 21st. She works in the Bible school.

The Stephens said someone had stolen the beautiful flower decoration (saddle) that they had put on Uncle Will and Aunt Fannie Stephen's headstone in the graveyard in the Abney Memorial Garden. But again it might have been away during the bad storm that went through the country recently.

The big road machines got longer and bigger at Stephens place so we took off for Fairview down to Eugene and Hallie Alexander's place where we found Hallie canning green beans for what may be hard times ahead.

Eugene was so funny. He jokes me by calling me Grandma.

He was so funny in his country farmer's outfit that he wore. We finally got them together to make a picture. Just as John said, "Ready" to them Eugene pushed his dentures out to the edge of his mouth.

That was the funniest look on anyone that I'd seen.

If the picture turns out to be good, you will see it in here in a week or two.

We also met their son who is a school teacher, Gerald Alexander, on vacation, who was still working, doing some repairs to the house.

We heard the farmers were taking their regular tour of the south by bus again. Something the Agriculture Department does for farmers and it's great.

I wish they had done the same for teachers when I was in the county as a teacher.

Steve and Joyce Bullens are a couple who made the tour.

Also Tommy and Lora Mink were in the bus tour.

When we reached the Clyde Linville home, the two of them were sitting in a dark room watching television programs. Some people can't read as they get older but the program sure shows large life figures and the voices make the television seem real.

The rooms look so clean and well cared for, I said to Margaret that she was lucky to have someone to help her.

Linda Montjoy does this for us and drives us when we want to go, so I expect we are so lucky to have her.

Katherine Green, Margaret's sister, has been ill some this summer but her mother, Gilbert went to California with his family for a vacation.

Clyde said their garden, shared with Moss Linville, is doing fine. He thinks it is doing better than last year.

We made it to Wildie where we stopped at Ballard Parson's store. Jigim sold Ballard a quart of white clover honey that he robbed from the bees.

Ballard said, "I'll have my mother make me some biscuits for supper and will find out if it's good."

John said that the last I'll sell from his hive.

We asked Ballard if he had any sales going on in his store. Well I'm selling Wildie Flour real cheap and our milk is still fresh in the plastic bottles. Now Dave Beck had Chgoing tobacco, a real bargain bus they sold some folks a few weeks ago on cooling oil, folks don't see that much anymore.

"Are you ready for the coming season?" I asked him as I went around the store looking for cheap prices.

"Yep, I have plenty. Big ones for the week, small ones for the week, small ones. Not many use that kind and a great many do freeze their foods." Ballard looked at his shelves to determine how he would do this store.

I came to fly swatters and asked a price on them.

Folks just can't hardly do with a swatter in summer. I put out two for $1 and they're cheap for something folks can't hardly do without.

Ballard said, "I walked over to the little cakes on the bread shelves. There's a lot of banana flip, cream filled small sugar ball, a honey bun which won't let you quit and makes good lunches."

I was beginning to lose control myself. "Let's go John and I'll make you some biscuits at home," I said.

We drove up Clear Creek and I was getting late.

"Let's stop at the cane patch," John said, "and see how the cane is coming along."

"Some are up and growing. I think it will come out and make good showing."

When Tip Reppert was mentioning to folks around Scatterfoot Camp, they looked off and tried to change the subject.

We had heard that Tip Reppert was ill and going to be operated on for cancer on his back. Tip had been sick off and on this summer so we didn't have his home.

He came out on the porch to meet us. Tip looked the same as always.

We talked to folks around the community and got around to Tip and Tip asked us to guess his age.

I said I was 49 and had been for some time. Tip knew about my age and asked us to guess his age.

I made the guess of "about 50 or 55 years. He looked great and in good health. He said he was near 71, the oldest Reppert in the family and still living. The doctor told Tip to go on working but take it easy.

I think I would have been in a comfortable rocking chair before I went out!

Tip told us of the bad storm that hit them and blew everything away off the porch. It blew big trees over and they had been cleaning up the mess this week but Tip didn't work much.

The next day would bring a change in his life.

Galilee Baptist Church on Scatterfoot Cane Road will have their Homecoming Day by celebrating with their first church service in the new building on Sunday, Aug. 1, 7 p.m.

The speaker for this long awaited day will be Bro. Bill Hamilton. It's a good day, bring a dish and come in Galilee Baptist Homecoming.

I must close but I will write the finishing up of these folks next week. Till then: Begin today to collect happy memories.

13-year-old All-Stars advance to semi-finals of state tourney

It took an extra inning Monday morning but, a wild pitch from the catcher to the second baseman that also got through the center fielder enabled pinch-runner Jeff French to score and put the Rockcastle 13-year-old all-stars into the championship of the winners bracket in the state tournament being held in Catlettsburg (near Ashland).

The local all-stars had gone all the way to the 6th inning before picking up their first hit of the game, a double off the bat of third baseman Dusty McClure, which scored Matt Sower, who had walked and stolen second. McClure was then picked off second and thus was not in scoring position for the team's second hit of the game, a single by shortstop Chris Bishop.

But, the run was enough to tie the game and that was the score at the end of regulation. South Shore (Stan Spence) had scored in the third inning off a balk called on pitcher Scott Moore which scored a runner from third and this proved to be the only run the local team could rack up as an excellent pitching duel came down to a wild throw in the top of the 8th inning.

The inning started off with a clean single over second base by left fielder Sean Davidson after he had an 0-2 count on him.

Coach Bear Bradley immediately elected to put more speed on the bases in the form of Jeff French. Following a strikeout of Sower, French stole second and the South Shore catcher tried to throw him out. The throw went to the second baseman's left and the center fielder, backing him up, also let the ball through. French kept trucking and scored the all-stars' second run of the game.

Ronnie Vanzant then reached first on an error by the shortstop but was forced at second by McClure who immediately stole second. The pitcher then issued a walk to Bishop who worked an 0-2 count to a walk and, as he was going to first, McClure helped himself to third. Bishop then took possession of second on a steal while clean-up hitter Jimmy Houk was at the plate but Houk popped up to first to end the inning.

Moore had pitched an outstanding 0-2 game, for his second outing and what turned out to be his second win of the post-season sanctioned tournaments and his assignment in the bottom of the eighth was merely to keep the top of the order for South Shore from coming back for the win and that's just what he did.

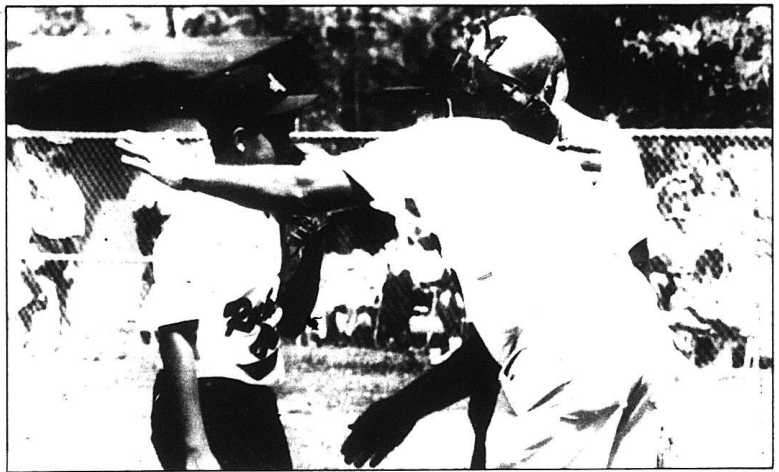

The first man fled out to Bishop as short; Ronnie Vanzant took care of the next fly ball to center field; South Shore then got a man on with a single up the middle and then a grounder to McClure at third who made the good throw to first ended the game and gave the all-stars their 2-1 victory.

South Shore's only run came in the third inning when the batter doubled, the second batter singled, putting a man on third. The umpire immediately called a balk on Moore which scored the runner from third and put the other runner on second with no one out.

But, Moore proved himself equal to the task and struck out the next man. The fourth batter in the inning hit a sharp line drive to Bishop, right and he made a diving snag of the ball for the second out of the inning. Bishop also came up with the ball for the third out and threw the runner out at first.

The all-stars then got a forfeit for their Tuesday morning game when the Bowling Green team opted not to participate and were scheduled to play the winner of Valley Sports' Paints at 1 p.m. Wednesday for the championship of the winners bracket. The tournament is scheduled to be concluded Thursday.

In the second game Monday, Valley Sports defeated the Berea all-stars, putting the neighboring team into the losers bracket.

Richard Anderkin / Mt. Vernon Signal

Manager James "Bear" Bradley talks with winning pitcher Scott Moore before the last out in Monday's first round game of the 13-year-old State Tournament at Catlettsburg. Moore pitched eight innings giving up only one run on a balk. The All-Stars defeated South Shore of Greenup County, 2-1.

"I wouldn't allow them to eat in peace nor play without being challenged by him. One day while they were busy exploring the area across the road from the house a gentle commotion in back of the house got our attention and we found Buddy and the cat having the time of their lives at their old game of catch me if you can going on. They had taken advantage of the absence of the two unwelcome visitors to get together again.

Another cute thing was when a possum discovered the cat food on the porch and decided it was his free handout. At first it was only her she who kept the dish empty and mama cat tolerated it without too much complaint, but when more of the family took advantage of the free meals she began complaining in earnest. I would first hear a low complaining growl, then the rocking chair would begin to squeak, the fussing would get louder and the rocking chair thump thump thumping like an old woman who's rocking away her troubles. Then I would know it was time to go chase away the possums that by now had increased to five. There, mama cat would be in her rocking chair rocking away and fussing at her food being eaten by these impudent young rockers away her raised a family on cat food that year and prospered.

Mastering the Art of Microwaving

By: Hazel Jackson

County Extension Agent for Home Economics

Microwave cooking can be challenging, but worthwhile. Like learning about any new piece of equipment, it takes practice to master the art of microwave cookery. After you have mastered the art, you can save time and energy while preparing nutritious and tasty meals.

During the microwave cooking series offered by the Extension Office, you can more fully master the microwave. The classes are on August 2, 16, 23, and 30, at noon until 1 p.m. During each session, there will be a discussion of microwave cooking, recipes, and a lunch of microwave foods. Pre-registration is required, and a $1 donation is requested to assist with food costs.

Here are two recipes from the first lesson on July 26, other recipes are available from the Extension Office by calling 256-2403.

Combine ingredients for sauce and pour over meatloaves. Return to microwave for an additional 7 minutes on full power or until a temperature of 140 degrees is reached. C.R.A.M.I. has monthly meeting

By: President Linda DeBorde

Cumberland River Alliance for Mental Illness (CRAMI) had its monthly meeting at the Mt. Vernon Manor Apartments in the Community Room behind Mt. Vernon City Hall and Fire Department. We would like to thank Tammy Thomas for letting us borrow their facilities.

We had a total of nine people present. We started the meeting by watching a movie called: Mental Illness and the People Who Are Affected by Them. An educational video tape for law enforcement officers.

This was also a working meeting where we completed most of the receipts for the convention donations. Bobby Bullen and Junior Griffin will be going to Florida to represent the Rockcastle County Cumberland River Alliance for Mental Illness (CRAMI).

There will be an update following our August meeting.

We would like for our newspaper readers to watch for the announcement of our August meeting and everyone is welcome to attend.

Report to Kentucky

We Want Jobs, Not Higher Taxes

To families in Eastern Kentucky, the most important issue facing Kentucky and America is creating jobs and improving the economy.

The results came through loud and clear from the spring questionnaire I sent to residents throughout the 5th Congressional District. (If you didn't receive a questionnaire, please call me at 1-800-632-8588, and we'll send you one right away.)

When asked what was the most important problem facing America, 39 percent said jobs and the economy while 27.7 percent picked the federal budget deficit. As for Kentucky's most serious problem, an overwhelming majority -- 55.3 percent -- picked jobs and the economy, while 13.6 percent picked health care and 13.2 percent chose crime and drugs.

The questionnaire results mirror what I have heard from families throughout Eastern Kentucky -- put everything else aside for now and do what you can to fix the economy!

It's also clear from this questionnaire that Eastern Kentuckians would be voting as I am on the huge tax increases contained in the President's budget plan -- if they are opposed.

A huge majority of respondents -- 91.1 percent -- said they would cut spending first to reduce the deficit. Specifically, 51.7 percent said they would only consider more taxes after all wasteful spending was eliminated, while 39.4 percent said they would reduce the deficit through spending cuts only. Just 5.8 percent called for higher taxes.

As far as higher taxes on Social Security recipients, which is called for in the President's plan, 85.1 percent said they are opposed to that proposal. And 75.5 percent said they were opposed to higher taxes on energy -- whether it be a BTU tax or higher gasoline taxes.

Finally, on the issue that has attracted hours of media coverage but little public support, 81.6 percent of people in Eastern Kentucky said they wanted the ban on homosexuals in the military to remain intact.

All in all, the message to me from the questionnaire is quite simple -- we want jobs and a better economy, not higher taxes. And that's what I'm fighting for this session of Congress.

Overbay Jr., 49, Mt. Vernon, electrician, July 21, 1993.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,

We would like to express our deepest thanks to the people in the Ottawa section for their calls and concern with our lost Collic, Shilo.

It was very comforting to know that there are people who still care enough to call.

Thanks again, Rhonda Brunnett

Dear Editor,

A couple of weeks ago I took into my home a homeless 26 year old young fellow. He had no place to stay. I took him to put applications in at different places in Mt. Vernon. I tried to help him.

Now I hear that some old buddies are trying to make something dirty and vulgar out of him staying at my place for awhile. He has since moved back with his father. I have been in a tight place myself with no food and no one to turn to for help. I think it's a shame when these so called Christians have nothing better to do with their lives than to run me down because I tried to help someone in distress. I thought of him like I would my own son. If my son ever got to where he was in a spot like this fellow was, I'd hope someone out there would try to help him. His mother lives away from here and she worried about him.

If I had had the money I would still be helping him, or anyone like him. You so called Christians should be ashamed of yourself for your evil thoughts, I wouldn't trade my life for yours any day.

Played in the USA celebrates Jazz

The late saxophonist Art Pepper battled alcohol and heroin addiction for most of his life and served several prison terms. Played in the USA tells the story of his rehabilitation and return to music in "Art Pepper: Notes from a Jazz survivor," one of three short films featured in a jazz-flavored program airing on KET at 10 p.m. Sunday, August 1. It focuses on his music -- the melodic, experimental bebop of which he was a master

McCConnell amendment adopted by Senate

An amendment offered by Senator Mitch McConnell (R-KY) to the National and Community Service Act of 1993 was adopted by the Senate last night. The amendment, which is identical to legislation the Senator introduced last month, established a Rural Community Service Program under the Department of Education.

"I am a strong supporter of Kentucky's colleges and universities, and I know they are an invaluable source of skills and talents," said McConnell. "My amendment will encourage educational institutions located in rural areas to work with the public and private sectors toward solving community problems -- such as work force preparation, limited access to health care, and rural poverty."

Currently, an Urban Community Service Program is authorized under the Department of Education, but no similar program exists for rural areas. McConnell's program would provide matching grants to eligible rural higher education institutions so that they may better address problems in their communities.

"My amendment is rooted in fairness," said McConnell. "Kentuckians know that the problems of rural America are just as important and pressing as those of inner cities. My amendment will provide rural colleges and universities with the same opportunities as their urban counterparts to address community problems."

Women scientists featured on KET

Breaking Through: Women in Science, airing on KET at 3:30 Sunday, August 1, examines the lives of three women scientists: a mechanical engineer, a biomedical researcher, and a physicist. Through the examples of women who are making significant contributions to the scientific community, the program encourages young women to continue their studies or mathematics and science through out high school and college.

1993 Rockcastle - Agri. Business Tour

Under the leadership of Roy Brown Article written by Dotty Roberts

We left the Rockcastle County Courthouse at 4:45 a.m. on a Seymour Bus out of Knoxville, TN, driven by Francis T. Lewis (Chip) on Monday, July 12.

Our first stop was near Covington for breakfast. We arrived at Pittsburgh, PA, at 3:30 p.m. We stayed at the Holiday Inn. After a couple hours rest, we took a four hour cruise on the "Three Rivers." It got its name from meeting of the Allegheny, Monongahela and Ohio Rivers. We had a delicious meal on the riverboat (Gateway Clipper Fleet).

We left Pittsburgh, PA, at 7 a.m. for Strasburg, PA. (an Amish Village). We arrived about two hours before our scheduled train ride on the Strasburg Rail, America's oldest short-line railroad through Pennsylvania Dutch Amish Country since 1832. Each of us had a choice to visit the Railroad Museum, 1700 sq. ft. of miniature trains, shops of several kinds, or sit and watch the trains come and go every 40 minutes. The finale was a train ride to "The Road to Paradise."

We left there for "Plan and Fancy Farm," for the great dining hall of the Amish Village for our evening meal. Here's an example of the family type menu we were served: ham, roast beef, chicken and dumplings, beans, corn, applesauce, apple pie, homemade wheat and white bread, potato salad, coffee, lemonade, apple pie and Shoo-fly pie. We then visited with some of the drivers of the buggies who took us on a buggy ride if we chose to go. They did allow us to take pictures of the horses and buggies. They preferred not to be in the pictures.

We then drove 6 miles to Lancaster, PA, where we stayed at the Holiday Inn. After a short rest, some went looking for shopping places.

Wednesday morning we left Lancaster, PA, and drove to McLeon,

PA, to shop at Tyson's Shopping Mall, a mall with over 200 stores. After a two hour shopping spree, we drove on to Washington, D.C., and picked up our guide, Judy Wilson, at the motel. The first place she took us to was the National Cathedral, which is the second largest cathedral in the U.S. and the sixth largest in the world. Some other places we visited were: two Jimma Monument, the Kennedy Center.

Vietnam Veterans Memorial Wall and the Vietnam Statue, Lincoln Memorial, Jefferson Memorial, the outside of the White House (to get inside you had to get up at 6 o'clock a.m. to get tickets), we saw the Department of the Treasury, The Blair House (where the President's guests stay), the Washington Monument, the Pentagon, and the Capital. (Several other interesting places). We arrived back at the motel about 5:30 p.m.

On Thursday, July 15, 9:15 a.m., we left for the Capital. We were greeted on the steps of the East Wing by Congressman Rogers.

Congressman Rogers shook hands and took pictures with us. He then took us on a tour of the Capital. We would love to have met other political leaders from Kentucky, but our busy schedule didn't allow the time.

We drove on to Strasburg, VA., ate lunch, then left for Roanoke, VA., for the Holiday Inn.

We left Roanoke, for Big Stone Gap, VA. (we made a couple of stops between). We attended an outdoor drama called "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." Some of our group were fortunate enough to participate in the drama.

They were: Harold Carter (former), David Baxton, Cam Holcomb, Bill Cash, Tommy H. Mink, Floyd Gabbard, Chip Lewis (bus driver), Charles Bishop and Steven Bullen. (Known as the hanging jurors).

The drama was about a feud between two families. Matters got worse when a city fellow came to the hills to get coal mining rights and to court a young girl from the hills. The city fellow tried to bring law and order to the hills. It ended with the hanging of two people.

We left Sat., July 17, for Big Black Mountain (highest mountain in Kentucky). After coming over Big Black Mountains (which was an experience), we were met at the Cumberland Library in Cumberland by Dr. Bruce Ayers, President of East Community College at Cumberland, Cary Evans of Cumberland and David Whilder of Cumberland Valley Regional Library of Harten County. We were served coffee and donuts, then we saw a film on early coal mining in Lynch and other Harlan County communities. Coal mining started in Harlan County in 1917. Since coal is no longer a dependable resource in Harlan County, an effort is being made to bring tourists into the area by restoring some of the buildings and adding an outdoor drama, etc.

We visited a memorial in honor of those that lost their lives in the mines of Harlan County. Cam Holcomb's brother, Owen Holcomb and a cousin of Ken Hopkins were on the memorial.

We drove back to Mt. Vernon, arriving at 5 p.m. A good time was had by all!

Poet's Corner

One Day

By: Lewis Bowling

One day each year we set aside, To honor all of those who died. Some on land, some at sea, That you and I could be free.

Those attending the Rockcastle Agri-Business Tour were front row: Roy Brown. Second row from left: Sandy Wilson, Mildred Buis, Flora Mae Brown, Ginger Mink, David Baxton, Lola Roberts. Third row from left: Joyce Bullens, Steven Bullens, Mary Holcomb, Becky Bishop, Dollie Roberts, Doris Cash and Chris Craig. Fourth row from left: Renita Hopkins, Cam Holcomb, Bernice Sowder, Lori L. Mink, Effie and Arville Spurlock, Greta Elmore and Lucille Durham. Fifth row from left: Kenneth Hopkins, T.H. Mink, Kathleen Wilson, Ed Sowder, Ruby Gabbard, Barbara Carter, Charles Bishop, Doris Wright, Lorene Lawrence, Pearl Burdette. Sixth row from left: Arletta Norton, Bill Norton, Dorman Wilson, Floyd Gabbard, Harold Carter, Bob Wright, Bobby Lawrence, Bill Cash.

There was one who died on the cross, He gave His life for all that were lost.

He went to Hell, took away the key, That all sinners could be free.

When the two Marys went to His grave that day, The angel came and rolled the stone away.

They ran and told the others what the angel said, He is alive, He is not dead.

Jesus met them on the way, And talked with them on that day.

Each day that we live in this land, We must live for Him the best we can.

Love, serve and obey, As we go along the way.

Then we can meet Him on that shore, To live with Him and loved ones for ever more.

Where there is peace, rest and love, In those mansions in Heaven above. In that home beyond the sky, In that land where we never shall die.

Father's Day 1993

By: Lewis Bowling

Father's Day 1993 What are the thoughts that come to me?

We want no praise for what we do, It is enough that we have you.

Without children life would be in vain, Like a cloud with wind but no rain.

I must give credit to your mother, She chose me over all others.

To bear my children and be my wife, I will thank God for that all my life. Fathers can't take credit for what they are, Mothers do more, by far.

We love you every one, Be you daughter or son.

Each one is special in some way, That is why we are proud of you today.

We fail to talk to you enough, We want you to think that we are tough.

Many times we turn away, Because we don't know what to say.

We do not want praise or fame, It is enough you carry our name. Children be happy you have your dad, Think of the good times you have had.

Think of the many things you have done together, In the sunshine or stormy weather. How he stood tall and true To love and protect you.

Not wanting thanks or pay, Just to be with you day by day. All it takes to make him glad, Four little words, I love you dad.

Coneheads Land in London

By: Paul E. Scanlon

Jane Curtin and Day Aykroyd as the "Saturday Night Live" Coneheads are "lost in space" and land on earth. When the two border patrol authorities, seething and his sidekick, find out the Coneheads have taken alias's, they try to track them down.

The Coneheads set up a housekeeping in suburbia USA and try to blend in. They have a baby, named Connie, who you see grow up to be a teenager played by Michelle Burke. Connie falls in love with a human named Ronnie, played by Chris Farley.

Jane Curtin says she hated her Conehead character after Donna Reed. You can plainly see this during the vacuum cleaner bit. Coneheads is not just a movie of "Saturday Night Live" bits. However, a whole series of laughs are threaded through the plot, makes a special point, although slightly exaggerated, about how we treat illegal aliens.

You don't have to be a Saturday Night Live fanatic to enjoy the Coneheads. This movie has special effects and a certain SCI-FI character to it. It even has a monster in it. You will enjoy it thoroughly if you like to laugh. The bits are funny especially the one about the bubble gum. Comes in now playing at the Regency Cinema 7 and is rated PG.

and blew them away. Then come the grave robbers, stealing flowers to sell some day

Every year, people spend, hundreds of dollars for flowers For their loved ones graves.

Then the robbers come and steal them away.

Robbing from the dead, how low can one be. Out to make a buck anyway you can you must be crazy.

On the roads, flower stands, Set up "Recycled flowers, cheap." People wise up. You could be buying.

Welcome back William, and Debbie too

It's nice to have someone in town as nice as you two

If you need gas, come on down, Or if your car needs some work, come around

Billy Atkins' work, you can't beat. He's a real nice guy, meeting him, is a real treat

They greet you, with a smile Stop in and, talk awhile.

They are a friendly bunch, as everyone can see. So come and get your gas from Debbie and William Bentley.

'Grandmas Foot Log' By: William Mullins

To get to grandma's house you had to cross the creek on a slippy foot log the water wasn't very deep

But in the winter time It was slippery and wet If you weren't careful You could break your neck

There was always laughter at grandma's house I would just wish her To provoke her wrath

"I believe I'll get drunk." I would some times declare Because I knew a drunkard she could not bear

She's say, "young man, don't talk that junk." And you'd better not cross that foot log drunk

I knew she meant it and I never tried Although nearly grown she would tan my hide

On the other side of the creek was that drinking crowd But across grandma's foot log It wasn't allowed

Grandma had some joy that she could not hide But her life also had a tragic ride

EKU assessing interest in a birth to primary certification program

Eastern Kentucky University is conducting a needs assessment to determine interest in a birth to primary teacher certification program.

The Commonwealth has mandated that by 1999 all public pre-school lead teachers in Kentucky be certified in interdisciplinary early childhood education. It is expected that many others working in day care centers and other early childhood facilities will also be interested in a certification program.

Eastern already has in place non-certificated, interdisciplinary early childhood personnel preparation programs at the associate, bachelor's and master's degree levels that were designed to match as closely as possible the expediting requirements of a birth to primary certification. Many of those students will also be interested in earning a certificate, according to Dr. Paul Wirtz, director of student services within EKU's College of Education and one of five members of the Interdisciplinary Committee developing the program.

"Eastern is well-positioned to conduct a needs assessment and subsequently to coordinate pre-service and in-service programs to meet personnel preparation needs," Wirtz said.

Surveys have been mailed or will soon be mailed to hundreds of individuals within EKU's 22-county service area expected to have an interest in the program. The survey request demographic information that will help EKU officials determine the shape of the certificate program, and the options that will be made available. All those who return surveys will be kept informed of the program's development, Wirtz said. Anyone interested in the program but who has not received a survey should call 606-622-1828.

"Our efforts will be focused on preparing outstanding teachers, while making maximum use of their previous experiences and training," Wirtz said. "This survey will permit us to identify the number and qualifications of personnel already working in early childhood, to respond to their needs for training leading to certification, and to establish networks to evaluate and improve teacher competencies outside the typical academic setting."

A separate assessment program will be designed for Head Start teachers who are already nationally credentialed, Wirtz said. "We see this program as recognizing some of this experience and training."

The certification program is expected to be implemented in the 1994-95 academic year, Wirtz said. While it will cover teachers in unusual settings where kindergarten is operated separately from the primary program, the program is not intended to prepare educators for the ungraded K-3 primary block.

Certification will help assure parents that their children are receiving the best care, Wirtz said. "The fact that every lead teacher will be certififed means they're not only educated, but also that they have already demonstrated that they can successfully work with children and their families."

Other members of the Interdisciplinary Committee are: Dr. Imogene Ramsey, chair, Department of Curriculum and Instruction; Dr. Don Hugness, chair, Department of Special Education; Dr. Susan Willis, chair, Department of Human Environmental Sciences; and Dr. Esther Leung, professor, Department of Special Education.

It was in the dead of winter on that sad day
When our dear grandmother finally passed away

She lost two sons in fatal car wrecks
Grandpa also died a tragic death

She'd quote King Solomon

When referring to it
All is vanity
and vexation of spirit

Grandma's wisdom was very unique
Some of it I can't remember
But some I've tried to keep

She said, "If salvation was in the head
And not a matter of the heart's condition
When John the Baptist lost his head
Away went his religion

It was terrible weather in mid-February
When we carried her body to the cemetery

There was a freezing drizzle
slowly coming down
And we were slipping and sliding on the snow-covered ground

If grandma had been there she would have said something funny
Like, "Ya' sure picked a fine time to bury somebody"

She could find something funny
in every situation
She believed that laughter was the best medicine

She was 96 years old and we all cried

As she walked that celestial foot log
And not a matter of the side

It's a slippery crossing
It is our understanding

But I really believe
she made a safe landing

All her faith and hope was in the Savior's Grace

She didn't have much confidence in the human race

O, how I long to see her once again, face to face

Stricter guidelines on protecting groundwater

Farmers and businesses will soon have to follow stricter guidelines for protecting groundwater around their crops and work sites if the state Environmental Quality Commission passes proposed new regulations.

The regulations, presented to the commission Wednesday, call for farmers and businesses to submit to the state Division of Water groundwater protection plans, according to Kay Harker, branch manager for the state Division of Groundwater. The plans must state the type of work to be done that could contaminate nearby groundwater, and what action will be taken to prevent contamination.

The plans would have to be kept on-site for six years and updated every three years, Harker said. People who want to read the plans could contact either the businesses or the Division of Water.

"This plan is not everything that everyone who participated in the process wants," commission member Henry L. Stephens Jr. said. He added, however, that he thinks the plan is a good, comprehensive plan.

The proposed regulations are unique in the country because comments were sought heavily from the public and from businesses, industries and farmers who would be afected by new groundwater protection regulations. The new regulations take a preventive approach to protecting the state's groundwater.

For farmers, a peer group would be established to help develop generic groundwater protection plans. The group would design plans to help ensure contaminants such as fertilizer or pesticides do not drain into groundwater, Harker said.

Kentucky's groundwater supplies about 20 percent of the state's drinking water, and some cases of contamination of drinking water have been documented in the past.

Activities that would have to have groundwater protection plans include commercial application of pesticides, hazardous waste treatment, storage and disposal, septic systems, mining, and oil and gas well drilling.

The amount of time businesses and industries would have to implement groundwater protection plans concerned Bill Quesberry, a Winchester resident who sells fertilizer to farmers, he said.

KET programs focus on race relations, music and Latin America

During the first week of August, KET features programs on issues affecting African-Americans, the progress women have made in careers in science, and music from gospel to jazz. The week ends with two programs about the war against the production of drugs in Peru and a group of Central American refugees who chose to return to their homeland during a war.

Reppert Reunion held

The thirteenth (13) Annual Reppert Family Reunion was held this year again at the Berea Memorial Park, Berea, on Sunday June 13, 1993.

We were fewer in number this year due to graduation, sickness and other hindrances, but hope more can attend next year.

Our father and Mother, Eugene and Lillian Catherine Mullins Reppert were parents of thirteen (13) children. Dad and mom and four of our brothers and two of our sisters have departed this life to be with the Lord. We now have living, five girls and two boys. Of these, we had four attending the reunion. Anna Lee Chasteen, Tip Reppert, Ruth Galtiff and Dorothy Pogorelc.

Again this year the good Lord gave us a beautiful day for the occasion, warm, sunny and breezy. We are blessed with good cooks in our family, so we had lots of good food; warm loving fellowship and much to talk about. The day is never long enough it seems. We always enjoy so much being together.

We certainly missed our two sisters, Mary Jane Sorah and Myrtle Wilson and all the others who weren't able to attend.

Attending from Ohio were Bob and Dorothy Pogorelc and James and Georgia (Alexander) McCall; From Indiana-Philip and Ruth Galtiff; From Georgia-Billy Norris and wife, Mary Elizabeth.

Kentucky folks were: Mr. and Mrs. John and Esther Hill of Lexington; Charles and Anna Noland, Independence; Berea, Wayne and Carolyn Chasteen; Kim Chasteen and son Cody; Darin and Monica Chasteen and daughter Darica; Darryl L. Kim and Zachary Chasteen; Curtis and Margaret Reppert and children, Sandy and Brian; Bill and Beverly Brock and family Brian and Tara.

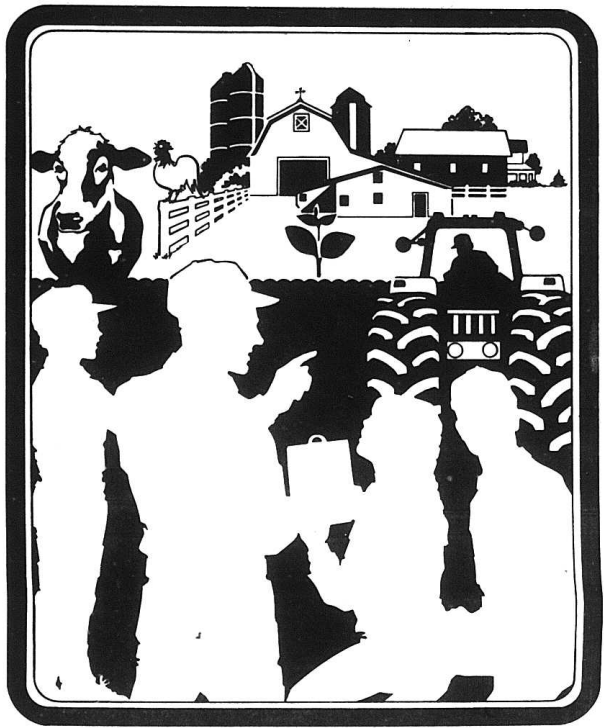

Belinda Reppert and Lonnie and Gerry Reppert and daughter Allis, of Berea, and daughter of Perry Valley, Ronnie Reppert and son Ronnie Dale of Conway; Jenia and Jeremy Davidson of Brodhead; Scaffold Cane; Tip and Florence Reppert; Kevin and Melody Reynolds; Hubert and Anna Lee Chasteen, and Janet Botigell and daughter Sherry, in the Fairview section; Eugene and Hallie Alexander; Cletus Peters and Gerald and Irene Alexander and children Courtney and Cody.

Our precious and most beloved aunt Edith Mullins of Snider was able to attend again this year with her daughter Velma Croucher of Conway. Aunt Edith celebrated her 93rd birthday July 2. She is still able to take care of herself and live at home. God has been so good to her and we are all so thankful.

Well, another year has come and gone and I thank God again for blessing us to be together one more time. Now we can look forward to our next reunion, June 12, 1994, God Willing. It was so good to have my sister and husband, Dorothy and Bob, in church with us at Fairview on Sunday morning and we so, so enjoyed our cousin Billy Norris and wife of Georgia, they hadn't been here since 1981. To all my sisters and brothers and everyone, take care, God bless you and I love everyone of you. Let's all try to meet again in 1994.

Love and Prayers,
Anna Lee (Reppert) Chasteen
