By Geraldine Robbins

Are you aware that the library has a special section of books about Kentucky and by Kentucky authors? Some of the authors of fiction books are: Harriet Arnow, Rebecca Caudill, Billy C. Clark, John Fox Jr., Jim Wayne Miller, Janice Holt Giles, James Sherbourne, James Still and Jesse Stuart. The non-fiction books include subjects about Kentucky history, Kentucky sports, poetry and Kentucky by Kentucky authors. One non-fiction book that has created a lot of interest is The Blue Grass Conspiracy. This book was published in 1990 but is still a very popular book. Kentucky reference books are a part of this section. Some of these are: The Kentucky Encyclopedia, 1993 Kentucky Deskbook of Economic Statistics, Kentucky Facts, Kentucky Agricultural Statistics, 1990 Census of Population and Housing in Kentucky and others.

We have purchased several new craft books that I'm sure a lot of the ladies will be interested in. Three of these are Christmas books. It may seem to be early to be thinking about Christmas but I always have to start in early fall to do crafts for gifts, especially if you do very many.

1. Christmas Handicrafts: Sub-titles are: Ornaments Galore, Victorian Trimmings, Festival Tables, Yuletide Wearables, Enchanting Decoration and Dazzling Trees.

2. The Spirit of Christmas: contains Christmas foods, gifts and crafts.

3. Vanessa Ann's 101 Christmas Ornaments, includes ornaments and decorations to make.

4. Great American Quilts, 1994, includes Traditional Quilts, Bee

Quilters, Quilts Across America and Absolutely Applique.

Two new fiction books that will be of interest to both our men and women patrons are:

1. L.A. Times by Stuart Woods... Vinnie Callabrese toils in the mean world of a Mafia hood. Violently enforcing his loan-shark boss's debt collections, but he lives in a world of the movies, one where he can tie a bow like Cary Grant and speak with the voice of Tyrone Power.

Vinnie is smart too, and he finds a way to turn his dream into reality. Arriving on the West Coast with a new identity and some ill-gotten gains, Vinnie discovers that his sociopathic nature is just the ticket for handling the intrigues of tinselewn.

He employs his old techniques of deceit, coercion, sexual conquest—envenomated murder—to carve out a place at the top of the film industry.

But Vinnie's old neighborhood friends have excellent memories and a long reach, and soon his fast-track career is facing derailment—or even worse, a new driver at the controls.

Stuart Woods delivers a stunning story of greed, triumph, and deception, propelling L.A. Times at break-neck speed from the first page to its harrowing climax.

2. Guardian by John Saul... The author of New York Times bestseller Darkness and Creature gives us his most mesmerizing tale of evil unleashed—as terror stalks an isolated community bordering Idaho's scenic wilderness, taking into its deadly maw an innocent family.

A telephone ringing in the dead of the night signals the beginning of a journey into fear as Mary Anne Carpenier, newly separated and struggling to raise her two children alone, hears the shocking news: two thousand miles away, her friends the Wilkenson's are suddenly, inexplicably dead, their only child, Mary Anne's godchild, abruptly orphaned.

Even as Mary Anne rushes to embrace her young charge, the disturbing questions mount. Was it merely a chance—though tragic—mis-hap that took their lives? Or was it murder?

And soon, as a series of horrific murders draws ever closer to her young family—killing that suggest some raging maniac, or worse, and

Christmas baskets through REAP, contributions to Early Childhood Education and public information efforts concerning "shaken baby syndrome." Local Kiwanis have and is in the Adopt-a-Highway program. Kiwanis celebrate Kids Day

A special program recognizing the youth of our community will be sponsored by the Kiwanis Club of Rockcastle County. Calvin Mize, president of the club, said the meeting will be held at noon, Sept. 23rd, at the Rock Castle Steak House. This event will feature a guest speaker and demonstrations of the work our young people have done toward community service, leadership and outstanding citizenship.

Kiwanis clubs throughout the United States and Canada sponsor Kids Day each year as a time to honor the boys and girls of the community as the leaders of tomorrow.

Mize says the Kiwanis Kids' Day provides the opportunity for every Kiwanis club to demonstrate to the entire community the Kiwanis tradition of interest and concern for young people.

Last year, Kiwanis clubs raised and spent more than $65 million on community service activities, with special emphasis on meeting the needs of young children.

Local Kiwanis service projects include a scholarship to a Rockcastle High School graduate, contributions to Project Graduation and sponsorship of children to 4-H camp. Donations include Thanksgiving and defy solution by a desperate police force. Mary Anne begins to know the true meaning of terror.

The next date for the Adult Reading Group will be announced soon. We hope you will be making plans to join us for an interesting discussion.

We are also wondering if any of the ladies would be interested in a craft class. Betty Lindblom, the children's librarian, has taught classes in flower arranging and has done other types of crafts. If there is enough interest we will make plans for this, probably in October. Please let us hear from you. The library number is 256-2388.

Also of note is her side kick J.T. (Val Kilmer), a character that adds a needed dose of humor. His small time movie star persona is perfect foil for McCoy's greater skills. For instance, J.T.'s home is full of stolen Beta VCR's—a video format that is now obsolete...

Movie Review

The Real McCoy

Next time you walk into your local bank, have a look around, also notice of the camera, motion detectors and the heavily reinforced safe. Seems like a secure place to keep your money, right? Then you need to see "The Real McCoy," a movie that takes bank robbery to a new level.

Just paroled from prison, we are introduced to Karen McCoy (Kim Basinger) one of the greatest bank robbers of all time. She was sent away when her last "job" turned sour due to a double cross by an old partner. But now that she's out, her attempts at going "straight" only lead to failure. No one wants to hire an ex-con, not her old boss, Jack Schmidt (Terence Stamp) needs her to pull off one last job for him. He wants her to break into the same bank she was caught in. When she refuses, Schmidt plays dirty by kidnapping her son. McCoy has no choice but to commit the most beautiful bank robbery ever — breaking into an unbreakable bank. At this point, movievies rushes into a great ending.

Aside from an intriguing story, we see some fine acting from Kim Basinger. She is definitely one of the most beautiful women on the screen today, but her acting ability only accentuates this magnetism.

If you're looking for a movie with suspense, action and a few laughs, "The Real McCoy" is playing right now at Regency Cinema 7. Catch it — if you can...

NOTICE OF PENDENCY AND PROPOSED DISTRIBUTION OF COAL CONTRACT ESCROW FUNDS

TO: All Persons or Entities Who Are Now or Were Electric Customers of Kentucky Utilities Company Between April 1, 1985 and December 31, 1990.

Kentucky Utilities Company ("KU") has filed with the Public Service Commission of Kentucky ("PSC") a plan for distributing funds received as a result of litigation with a coal supplier. These funds are court-ordered deposits (including interest) on contract deliveries between April 1, 1985 and March 31, 1989. KU customers during the period June 1985 through December 1990 paid fuel clause adjustments which included the funds distributed in a manner which differs from the PSC's proposed method. Final action on the application by the PSC may affect the rights of all current and former customers to pursue claims on the fund which differ from the plan approved by the PSC.

Any person, corporation, association, or other entity with an interest in this matter may, by timely written request, request leave to intervene. The request must be submitted to: Public Service Commission of Kentucky, 730 Schenkel Lane, P.O. Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601. Copies of the Application may be inspected at KU's Regional Offices at the above address in Lexington and its Division and District offices in its Kentucky service area.

Local man arrested after police find marijuana, booby trap

By: Ray McClure

An elaborate marijuana growing area including a booby trap was found and destroyed near the Three Links area by state and local police Monday afternoon.

The "pot" was found Friday by hunters who tripped the booby trap and called the local Sheriff's department.

Deputy Darrell Doan, who answered the call, said Tuesday, that the informant would not give his name.

According to police, James F. Dooley, 39, of Three Links, was arrested and charged with cultivating marijuana over five plants, a felony. He was lodged in Rockcastle jail, under a $7,500.00 cash bond. Police said other charges are pending.

According to Doan the informant, first thought he was being shot at, but later realized it was a dynamite cap attached to a fishing line and battery. The informant told Doan that the blast from the dynamite cap blew off his cap and caused powder burns on his face. He told Doan that he heard someone yelling, "don't let him get out." The informant told Doan where to find the patch.

When police arrived at the scene the first time, they found marijuana residue and attempted to get a search warrant, but were refused because of a lack of probable cause.

However, police said that Dooley later gave them permission to search his property.

Members of the Governor's Marijuana Task Force were flying in the area and spotted the growing marijuana. Officers proceeded to the area where they tripped a live dynamite cap to prevent injury.

87 plants were found in three different plots and 195 plants were found growing in a house/barn under a lighting system.

Police also found 700 plants in an old strip mine pit at Calloway last Thursday after two Laurel County men were shot at while ginseng hunting in the area.

According to police the two men had to crawl along the ground to get out of the area and when they reached their truck all four tires on the vehicle had been cut.

One of the men, Jerry Robinson, told police that they were scared and lucky to get out alive.

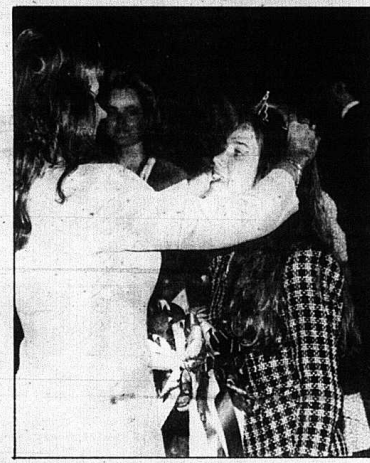

No arrests were made in connection with the incident at Calloway.

Indiana woman hurt after fall near Mullins Station

A 30-year-old Ft. Wayne, Ind., woman was injured Saturday afternoon when she fell off a 100-foot cliff near the old quarry, at Mullins Station.

Cheryl Mohr was sight-seeing and "fooling around" on a cliff next to the quarry when she lost her balance and plunged over the cliff.

She was taken to Rockcastle Hospital by ambulance with a broken leg and other injuries then transferred to U.K. Medical Center.

Shepherd supporters to rally

The highly publicized Gary Shepherd memorial and peace rally is scheduled for noon Saturday at the Rockcastle County Courthouse. Organizers are expecting thousands to attend.

The memorial and peace rally is the direct result of the shooting death of Gary Shepherd by Kentucky State Police on August 8 at his Purr Rigsby Road home.

Shepherd had told state police that they would have to kill him before they cut down his marijuana. Police in a helicopter had spotted marijuana growing around Shepherd's trailer earlier in the day.

Around 5:45 p.m. members of the Kentucky State Police Special Response Team shot Shepherd several times. Shepherd was holding an assault rifle at the time of the shooting, but he never fired any shots.

Many local citizens, members of Shepherd's family and veterans group became outraged at the way state and local police handled the situation. Many thought that police reacted too hastily and that Shepherd's death was needless. Kentucky State Police are investigating the shooting and the two officers who shot Shepherd were placed on leave until the investigation is completed.

The Rockcastle County Grand Jury also called for a special investigation into the shooting, by Kentucky Attorney General Chris Gorman, but apparently no such investigation has been launched.

On Saturday Sept. 25, a benefit concert will be held at the Thunder-bowl Speedway for Jake Shepherd, 4-year-old son of Gary Shepherd.

Guest speaker will be Gatewood Galbraith and several bands will perform.

Clark will run as write-in candidate

Add one more name to the list of write-in candidates for November's general election. He is former magistrate Joe Clark of Red Hill.

Clark filed the appropriate papers in county clerk Norma Houk's office this week. He is running in the fifth district.

He joins incumbent first district magistrate Charles Holbrook, who has also filed as a write-in candidate in his first district.

Clark lost in the May primary to incumbent Donald Bullock by thirty-eight votes.

Clark is no stranger to the write-in campaign, in 1977 he defeated then incumbent fifth district magistrate Ernest Mason on a write-in vote.

Clark's win withstood several rulings including one from the Kentucky Court of Appeals, which said that his election was valid. Clark was re-elected in 1981, and in 1985 he ran an unsuccessful candidacy for County Judge-Executive. In 1989 Clark was also defeated by Bullock.

Clark served as County Judge-Executive Pro-Tem under Hubert Thacker, from 1986 to 1990.

Anyone wishing to run as a write-in candidate for a county office, must file in the clerk's office ten days before the November election. According to Houk there is no charge to file and no signatures, other than the candidate's, is required. However, "if a candidate does not file, his or her write-in vote will not be counted," Houk said.

But, anyone wishing to run a write-in candidacy this year for any of the city council seats in the county, do not have to file, Houk said.

Basic rate drops Falcon changes more than prices

By: Ray McClure

Having trouble finding your favorite program on Falcon Cablevision? You're not alone, so is everyone else. There's been a lot of changes in the channels, to "better serve our customers," they say.

Among other things, they reduced the basic cable rate from $23.48 to $21.38. The rates are subject to change.

"We are doing our very best to limit the inconvenience and confusion that may result from the changes required to comply with the new cable law," according to Roy Baker, regional manager for Falcon Cablevision.

"There may be future channel lineup changes that will not be under our control. We will keep you updated as frequently as possible to all changes and appreciate your patience and consideration," he said.

The new rates are effective Sept. 1, and the bill will reflect the charge from Sept. 1. In short, rates are retroactive, plus taxes, fees, and other assessments.

Appointee would serve until January

Secretary of State Bob Babbage told the Signal this week that an appointee to Rockcastle County Judge/Executive serves until the completion of the term in January.

"We had been told earlier the elected official, Buzz Carlolofis, would take over after the November election. Rockcastle County Democrat Chairman Larry Doyle said Saturday that his executive committee had recommended that Gov. Jones appoint Carlolofis to fill the remainder of Roland Mullins' term. "Whether that will be the case or not, we are not sure, but we think he will follow our recommendation," Doyle said.

If Carlolofis doesn't get the nod from the Governor, he will be sworn in with the rest of the county officials in January.

Points East

By Ike Adams

The late Joe Creason who made his living detailing the more interesting and humorous points of life in Kentucky mounted an effort to have the Kentucky Coffee become our state tree. According to the World Book Encyclopedia he was successful. According to seven professional people I contacted this afternoon, however, it's still the tulip poplar which goes to show you just how seriously Kentuckians take their better journalists and the legislature who apparently made the whole thing official.

Now let me say right off that, as a journalist, I don't put myself in the same league as Joe Creason and the only thing the General Assembly is ever apt to pass in my regard is denigration papers. Joe did, however, set a precedent in that he proved important state symbols like birds and trees and such could be changed by law.

Of course the same people who change laws like that have also passed the one that says it's a crime to be an animal if you're a bird in Kentucky. I don't know about you but it makes me marvel at the genius of our lawmakers and also realize why incumbents keep getting re-elected but here I go disgracing again.

Because the point is that there is legal precedent for changing the state flower.

Kentucky's state flower is the golden rod, a vile weed that inflicts more suffering on some Kentuckians than, say, new taxes. A weed whose flower is better described as puke yellow than golden and whose pollen has darn near hospitalized me and at least a dozen other folks I met in the doctor's office where I made a futile search for relief.

The doc advised us to move some-where that a goldenrod doesn't grow until it's frosted a couple of times in Kentucky. I realize that this knowledge may encourage the Governor's office to order the Highway Department to begin planning our state flower along both sides of every road, but I'd also bet that if our lawmakers took time to check with their allergists, many of them would find that their throbbing temples, burning chests and inflamed nostrils are currently being caused by the state flower.

It seems to me that the same crew who picked a law declaring that a chicken isn't an animal ought to find it very easy to declare goldenrod to be the weed it is and demand eradication. If we have to have a state flower why not lady slippers or wild violets or Queen Ann's lace? For that matter, I could understand poison ivy quicker than goldenrod.

I run into out of staters all the time who make a point of letting me know they've heard about all the corruption in Kentucky politics. I tell 'em that if they think our politics stink, just wait till they get a good whiff of the state flower.

In the meantime, those of you who read this column hoping to get a chuckle or two every week are hereby advised that the pollen season is upon me and I have absolutely no sense of humor. But stay tuned, the doctor says it may come back after a frost or two.

Since Labor Day I've slept only because certain medications that make it possible for me to breathe also put me in a stupor. Most of the time my eyes burn and there is a ringing in my ears. I can take my pulse by lightly touching either temple.

Instead of using nasal tissue for my sinus drainage problem, I buy Brawny paper towels by the four-pack. I look like a cross between the devil and Rudolph. My nose is red but my horns are straight.

Loretta and the kids try to stay gone a lot but I've fumed and growled so much that they don't show much sympathy. The dogs who normally bark and wag all over when they see me coming tend to cower and slink off behind the house. Fat Cat, who normally rubs up against my leg keeps gnawing back over his shoulder to make sure he has running room in case I come his way.

And I figure it's going to be like this for another month or so. In the meantime I'd like to suggest to all the agencies currently out hunting for marijuana patches to cut down that they could also do the state a great favor by whacking down every goldenrod and rag weed they run across. And if the Governor is really serious about health reform, he could begin by eradicating the state flower.

Heresay

By John Norman Meadows

Our ever-verbose seminary president almost wore us out welcoming the guest chapel speaker that day in the fall of '75. Then that speaker, Dr. Edmund Steimle, strode to the pulpit, briefly voiced his gratitude for the "graduiquoent" greeting, and commenced his sermon.

"Once upon a time," he said, "there were three bears. There was a father bear, a mother bear and a baby bear." And the father Steimle went into that children's story the more curious the congregation of seminary profs and students became.

I thought, This man teaches preaching at a prestigious eastern divinity school? What's this "three bears" stuff?

But Steimle continued the tale right down to the part about the porridge another bear prepared, that needed cooling before eating. (Precious souls, the man was right. It was porridge-always was, always will be. Away with these modern soup-sayers!)

Then Steimle paused, smiled, and said, "You look at me as if I just flew over the cuckoo's nest. You may be right! (Laughter) But why are you listening so intently? You know the story, how it begins, how it ends."

Steimle answered his own question. "You listen because-although you know the story as well as I-you want to make sure I get it right."

Then he made his point. "Likewise, we here today claim to know the beginning from the ending. We have our biblical accounts of the dawn of the universe and of its demise. And we also know that as surely as our lives begin, they will end. We know and accept those absolutes. It's the getting it right in between that gives us trouble-Isn't it?"

What a clever opening! He centered our attention and drove home the point of his message. I used it several times later; it was always effective.

It's the getting it right in between that gives us trouble. Right you were, Edmund Steimle! And there is no end to those who tell you they know how to get it right. They press you to believe them because they got it from God, and it's all written down in an ancient, sacred book, and they understand the book.

Two illustrations are in order. The first is about a Tennessee town named Trezevant. ("Foreigners" simply cannot pronounce "Trezevant" correctly.)

Trezevant is unlike any other small town I know because of five buildings, side by side, on Church Street-a Church of Christ, a Methodist, a Cumberland Presbyterian, and two offices that belong to one Baptist congregation, an older and a newer sanctuary. And each of them says, "This way is the right way" or "My way is the only way." And they all use the same Book! When there is a difference of opinion about what that Book says, each of them begins its defense with "Well, my Bible says..."

In college I roomed next door to Toki, a Japanese student. He was a Buddhist-and the target of every "soul-winner" on campus. One evening, my roommate, Wally, and I tried to evangelize him but got no where. Toki befuddled us.

"Buddhism," he said, "has many faces. I am not truly a Buddhist because I do not know who is right. And now, I come to America and I am even more confused. You Christians

Monday morning the 10th and we had better hurry in getting food and heating supplies ready to live on this winter.

I hear Isaac Bowman is like the grasshopper, not getting ready for cold snowy days, but just going over to his son-in-law's home, Sam Fogberg and stays.

We only have two weeks left. I tell you I have never had so many folks laugh over that anniversary picture of John and I. Hallie Alexander said at church Sunday that she meant to save it. I was feeling proud until she said, "Yes, we are going to put it in our garden next spring and scare off insects and animals."

Then when we got to the office Monday, I asked for an extra copy of the paper when a woman came in and said, "We sure want one too to put in our garden. It'll keep out things."

Sara, the office clerk said to us both, "Well, I'm sorry I don't have a copy for either of you. After the Signal came out, there was such a run for the paper that the Signal was gone by Friday night. Folks wanted a copy for the same reason you all do.

Rick talked of doing an extra printing!

I left the Signal office and went back to the car.

"John, I'm going to have to drink more yellow root tonic or mix up the kind of tonic Russell Robinson swears by. It was genius rood mixed with honey and vinegar."

"Throw away the vinegar and use some Mountain Dew instead. It will keep you!" Russell said and I believe it for he looks and acts like a new man!

Kay Abney is such a pretty woman. John turns to look at her as she goes down the aisle by where we are sitting at church.

This Sunday she stopped by us to talk, saying she was wearing a new fragrance. Kay is such a pretty woman, she didn't need much fragrance.

The Gadd Family Reunion at the Berry-Ramsey Picnic Park on Lower Clear Creek took place on last Sunday afternoon. Quite a lot of the Gadds and their descendants were there. Hansford Gadd from Chicago was one who came the most distance to be with relatives.

At the Farmers Summer Market in Berea near the football field, I went to what was selling and saw Ben and Elsie with their pretty daughter, Donna Hunsucker.

Parent Tips

Parents are a key factor in determining what kind of school year their child will experience. If you, as parents, have not yet done so, now is the time to set some goals with your child.

The following suggestions have been effective in assisting parents in helping their children get off to a great beginning:

- (1) Expect your child to work hard in school and communicate high expectations to your child.
- (2) Establish regular routines for bedtime, homework, and other family times.
- (3) Limit the amount of television your child watches as well as being selective about programs.
- (4) Get acquainted with your child's teacher/teachers early in the year.
- (5) Encourage your child's natural curiosity and interest in learning.

If you are already following these tips, your child should be off to a great start. Don't hesitate to make needed changes now to assure a better year.

(Adapted from Fast Forward) Time with Mr. Carter

Until recently, being sent to the principal was anything but good news. However, at LES, spending time with our principal, Mr. Carter, on selected Friday afternoons will soon take on a new meaning for some hardworking students. It will definitely become a "bad" (which means "good") experience.

The criteria teachers will follow in recommending students includes attendance, behavior, academic performance, and effort. Mr. Carter is looking forward to the opportunity to recognize and reward students for their overall good citizenship.

PTO
The Livingston Parent-Teacher Organization (PTO) held its first monthly meeting of the school year on Wednesday, September 8. Eighteen people were present including 11 parents and 7 school personnel. Newly elected officers for the 1993-94 school year are as follows:

President: Ms. Linda Francisco; vice president: Ms. Sandy Nolan; secretary: Ms. Regina Stallworth; treasurer: Ms. Connie Hamilton; reporter: Ms. Carolyn Phelps.

The PTO membership drive is presently underway. Please show your support for LES by joining PTO today. Your membership is urged and needed. The fee is $2 per person.

Counselor Connection
An important part of classroom guidance is the development of positive social skills. Improving student's relationships with each other and school staff has many benefits for all involved.

A common source of conflict among students, for example, is a lack of clear understanding of how to enter conversations. Many students tend to interrupt and disrupt each other rather than expand the number of other students involved in their ongoing conversations.

For entering ongoing conversations, some useful guidelines are to wait for a brief pause in the conversation, to use "excuse me" or a similar phrase, to introduce your initial comment, to include a question in your initial comment, and to address one person directly.

Rehearsal of this social skill at home can be a delightful experience for parents as well as the child. After practice, have the child discuss how he or she felt about practicing the skill. Have them experiment with the skill and report the results, both positive and negative.

Attendance Winner
Jessica Mason, a student in Ms. Anderson's P3 class won the weekly attendance prize. Congratulations, Jessica!

Homecoming at the Rock is Friday night

Rockets easily defeat Dunbar Bulldogs 27-3

Miss Natalie Albright, above, center, was chosen Jamboree Queen by the RCHS student body. She was crowned during half-time festivities Friday night.

Phyllis Holbrook, Laura Shepherd and Ann Smith look over the ballot for Rockcastle County Little League baseball board members for 1993-94, during Sunday's annual picnic and awards presentation. The picnic was held at the fairgrounds in Broadhead. The new board members for '93-'94 are: Coy Taylor, James Smith, Paul Abney, Lynn Parsons, Keith Smith, Rick Anderkin, Cindy Anderkin, Calvin Rader, James Bradley, Wayne Vanzant, John Hale, Mary Ann McNew, George Bishop, Everett Harper and Ronnie Brown. The new board's first meeting is scheduled for Saturday at 2 p.m. at the Rockcastle County Courthouse.

The Rockcastle County Rockets topped their season record to 3 and 0 Friday night by defeating the visiting Dunbar Bulldogs 27-3.

It took the Rockets just 1:59 and seven plays for the Rockets to put their first score of the game on the board Friday night in the Jamboree Bowl against the Dunbar Bulldogs. Doug Cromer took the opening kick-off for the Rockets and returned it to the Rocket 30. Mikhael Shaffer got four yards on the next carry and then it was Shawn Thacker for the Rockets first first down of the game to the 42.

Quarterback J.D. Bussell found senior Jason Hunt open on the Bulldog 28 and then, on the next play, kept it for a 19 yard pick-up to the 9. Cromer got 6 and then Thacker went over for the touchdown. But the Rockets old bugaboo, the point after kick, was again missed despite a penalty against the Bulldogs which had the Rockets kicking from the three.

Aaron Cox did a fine job all night on kick-offs for the Rockets and his kick-off after the first down went to the Dunbar 25 and the return was only to the 30.

Dunbar couldn't get anything going on their first possession and had to punt the ball away but, neither could the Rockets when, after a first down they had to punt the ball away.

The Bulldogs began their drive by their own 14 and moved the ball well, with the help of personal foul against the Rockets (a hit out of bounds) but their drive stymied and, early in the second quarter, Dunbar tried a 38-yard field goal which was short.

The Rockets then took over on their own 20 and began their second scoring drive of the game. Shaffer, Thacker and Cromer combined for some fine running and Bussell hit Hunt with a pass to the Bulldog's 44 to set up an eight yard run by Shaffer into the end zone with 7:46 left in the first half.

The channel lineup includes three new channels - Bravo, Trinity, and E! for entertainment.

In the past the channels included WGN, WTBS, and Nashville Network. If you receive them it will cost an extra $2.95 a month. If you don't want them the charge won't apply.

The rate for some viewers will reflect senior/citizen discount which will lower the bill for those 65 and older.

So how much you'll pay you will only know from your bill, when you get it.

The line-up is: 2 HBO, 3 CNN, 4 Weather Channel, 5 Disney Channel (if you subscribe), 6, 7, 8, Lexington channels, 9 Family Channel, 10 ESPN, 11 Fox, 12 QVC, 13 PBS, 14 TNT, 15, Discovery Channel, 16 Country Music, 17 Showtime, if you subscribe, 18 WGN Chicago, 19 WTBS Atlanta, 20 Nashville Network, 21 Nickelodeon, 22 MTV, 23 VH-1, 24 USA, 25 American Movie Classics, 26 CNN Headline News (not to be confused with CNN on 3), 27 Lifetime, 28 Bravo, 29 Trinity, 30 E! Entertainment.

This time, Bussell found Mickey McClure alone in the end zone for the two point after conversion and the Rocket was ahead 14-0.

Rockcastle wasn't through. Following a quarterback sack by Louie Davis for a nine-yard loss, the Rockets drove to the five yard line where Bussell found Hunt for the third Rocket score of the game.

This time, the kick for the extra point by McClure was good and the Rockets were ahead 21-0 with 1:58 left in the half.

The Rockets began the second half by sacking the Dunbar quarterback back on the first play from scrimmage (Jason Hunt - 8 yard loss) and, two plays later, a Louie Davis rush for a three yard loss, calling for a punt by the Bulldogs.

The Rockets couldn't generate much offense on this series and called on Hunt for his second punt of the game. Hunt's kick, but a penalty for too many men on the field gave the ball back to the Rockets on their own 30.

On this series, Dunbar got some help when Bussell was hit on a pass attempt and fumbled the ball which the Bulldogs recovered on their own 37.

It was on this offensive series that Dunbar ran into some major penalty trouble as two penalties on one play, an offsides which drew the ire of a Bulldog who expressed his displeasure to an official and the Bulldogs were immediately hit with an unsportsmanlike conduct penalty, bringing on a 4-13 situation.

The fourth quarter began with the Rockets in possession of the ball and Doug Cromer, with the help of a personal foul against the Bulldogs, moved the ball down the field and took it into the end zone from the two for the Rockets final score of the game with 11:04 left in the game.

McClure's kick for the point after was no good. Dunbar again had to punt the ball away without a first down, thanks in most part to another Rocket sack by Shane Thacker for a loss of 12.

Jamie Linville took over at quarterback for the Rockets at this point and, hand-offs to Shaffer moved the ball for another Rocket first down. On the next series, however, the Rockets went for it on 4 and 4 and turned the ball over to Bulldogs on their 33 which set up the only touchdown threat by Dunbar all night and finally resulted in their only score, a field goal with 36 seconds left in the game.

After taking over, the Bulldogs completed a pass and the runner took off for the end zone. He was on the four yard line when he was dragged down from behind by Doug Cromer, saving the touchdown.

The Bulldogs lost three yards on the next play and two incomplete passes forced the Bulldogs to settle for the field goal.

Rockets head coach Tom Larkey said Tuesday that he was pleased with his team's overall performance, especially the offensive line, but he is very worried about his team's kicking game, especially in the extra point department.

Friday night, placekicker Mickey McClure converted only one of three extra point attempts and the week before at Southwestern the Rockets managed only one extra point in six tries. Four kicking, two running.

"We've tried different kids in practice and the last couple of weeks, McClure has hardly missed an extra point in practice," Larkey said. "I'm going to stay with him this week, when I don't go for two," he said.

"Our offensive line had played well all season, but I was extremely impressed with their performance Friday night. We were actually the first team that was able to run on Dunbar, inside the tackles," the coach said.

The Rocket's front five on offense is really seven because a lot of interchanging takes place. They are John Kirk, Eddie Todd, Jay Stevens, Chris Goff, Brian Mink, Donnie Eversole and Shane Thacker.

Junior defensive lineman Stacy Kirby re-injured his knee Friday night, but will be ready to go Friday night when the Rockets face Fleming County in the Rock's homecoming game.

"We are still somewhat banged up, but nobody is out," the coach said.

Defensively, senior linebacker Louie Davis lead the Rock with seven tackles and 2 1/2 sacks. Jason Hunt had six tackles and 1 1/2 sacks, while Brian Mink had four passes and a 1/2 sack. Gordon Sower had 3 tackles, Kirby had four, Jay Stevens, one, Chris Goff, one, Jerry Adams, one, J.D. Bussell, four, Mike Shafer, one, Mickey McClure, six, Mike Tackett, four and Doug Cromer, two.

On offense the Rockets had 267 yards rushing, while holding the Bulldogs to minus 17 on the ground. Dunbar did manage 118 yards in the air, 49 of which came on a pass late in the game that set up their only score. Shaffer led the Rockets in rushing with 93 yards on 14 carries, full-back Shawn Thacker had 70 yards on 13 carries and Doug Cromer had 65 yards on 11 carries. Shafer, Thacker and Cromer, each scored once.

Bussell had 12 yards on 5 carries, he threw five times completing four for 43 yards, one touchdown and no interceptions.

Jason Payne carried the ball twice for 15 yards and Neil Sparks had 2 yards on one carry.

Jason Hunt caught three passes for 43 yards and a touchdown and Mickey McClure caught one pass, that for a two-point conversion.

The Rock Freshman team defeated Powell County Monday night, 26-22.

Don't forget, homecoming is Friday night.

Blood drive Sept. 30

Members of the Rockcastle County community have the opportunity to join together to save lives on Thursday, Sept. 30.

Rockcastle County Homemakers are sponsoring a blood drive at the Ag Services basement from noon to 1:30 p.m. and from 3 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Central Kentucky Blood Center requires 200 units of blood daily to meet the needs of patients in area hospitals. At this time, only five percent of the American population are blood donors. Rockcastle County Homemakers and Central Kentucky Blood Center urge you to take time to donate. The simple process of donating blood will produce life-saving results for the Rockcastle Community.

Conley and Virginia Saylor of Berea, celebrated their 38th wedding anniversary on September 3rd.

They were champion sunflower growers and had brought some along to prove it. I don't believe I've seen such large flowers raised for their seed. The height made Ben and Elsie blue ribbon winners. These were very friendly people.

Last week's paper (Signal of course) had a picture of three Rockcastle men made in Germany during the last war. I was surprised to see that one of them was Steve Bullens, now of Scaffold Cane country. The war was hard on the men but it did have its moments!

We are giving our grapes to Cleve and Blanche to make juice. I heard John and Cleve laughing about loosening the lids on the jars. I'm going to tell Blanche to keep an eye on them (jars and men).

Of all the flowers that bloom, the rose is my favorite. So I was with much happiness that I heard Lee Abney sing and play his guitar on a song called "The Rose" at Rebecca and Gene Martin's wedding.

Lee makes any song he sings great to hear.

Saturday afternoon as I sat on my front porch listening to my little fountain girl pour water out of a pitcher she held. It brought back memories of water running over gravels down the hillsides to Clear Creek.

Then a nice panel truck pulled in our yard, and to my surprise three attractive ladies got out and came to meet me.

I don't have the mind of a goose lately for they had to tell me who they were.

Mildred Holtz from Lowell, Indiana, close friend to Henry Voltmer, one of my best readers, and her sister Lorene Cloning of the same town. Their cousin, Dorothy Browning, a Kentucky girl from Lewis County, were their names.

The girls had all been here before with Henry visiting Renfro Valley but this time, to my disappointment, Henry had an illness that wouldn't let him make the long trip.

Now I don't guess we were the only ones to be disappointed for I'm sure his Renfro friend, Susan Tomes, was sorry to not see him also.

John was not at home to see the Indiana girls when they stopped to visit. I might as well tell the truth and say I was kinda glad for like most men, pretty women upset him until he can't keep his mind on his work. I would like to extend congratulations to the attractive woman whose picture I saw in Livingstone (Homecoming celebration last week, Lucille Carolotis.

She was awarded "Citizen of the Year" for the many things that she had done for the betterment of the community. One of them was being a school teacher. I like that!

Mrs. Carolotis, notably is an ambitious woman, but she gave us one of Rockcastle's handsome officials, Bertz Carolotis, who is taking over as County Judge for the next four years.

They are the folks that go north for the winter when everybody else is going south.

I bought a half bushel of little "rassy country beans" from them so we should do well this winter if we can get any side meat for seasoning them when we cook the beans. Till next week: Keep on, keeping on.

Christiane Fahrman, director of the trust's Mid-Atlantic States regional office.

It bought the land from the Richardsons for $339,200 and sold it to the Forest Service for the same price on the same day.

Fahrman said the trust buys land and resells it to governments or private groups. It buys urban as well as rural property, concentrating on open space and recreation.

This is the trust's first purchase in Kentucky. It has bought land in 40 other states.

The trust and the Forest Service said the land is suitable for canoeing, fishing, camping, picnicking, hiking, sightseeing, hunting, birdwatching, swimming and nature study.

Although the land was obtained by the government without restrictions, logging is unlikely for some time. The land was logged 10 or 15 years ago and has young trees on it.

Federal rules also prohibit logging near a river or close to the cliffs that are common in the area. Forest Service officials said the first thing they do to the land might be measures to counter the effects of the earlier logging.

Forest Service gets 1,300 acres of wood by river

By: Andy Mead and Bill Step Herald-Leaer Staff writers

With the help of a land conservation group, the Forest Service has bought a 1,300-acre tract along the Rockcastle River in south-central Kentucky.

The land, which becomes part of the Daniel Boone National Forest, is just priver from a 16-mile portion of the Rockcastle that is a part of the Kentucky Wild Rivers System. A somewhat smaller portion is also being considered as a national wild and scenic river.

Forest Service officials said that the purchase is important because it will protect a section of the river for public use. it also will help protect water quality in the river, which is home to several species of muskells.

"We thought it was a good tract for public use and public conservation," said Gary Coleman of the Forest Service.

The land was bought with the help of The Trust for Public Land, a non-profit group founded 21 years ago in San Francisco.

The land belonged to Donald and Hilda Richardson of Monticello in Wayne County. The trust negotiated an option to buy the land about a year ago, then lobbied Congress to approve money for the purchase, said

Brown takes candidacy from courthouse-to-courthouse

Robert H. "Bob" Brown gave new meaning to running for public office last Saturday. Brown, a candidate for the office of District Judge in Pulaski and Rockcastle Counties in the upcoming November election, ran 25.5 miles from the steps of the Pulaski County Courthouse to the steps of the Rockcastle County Courthouse on September 11th. Friends, supporters, and runners showed up at 7 a.m. at the Pulaski Courthouse to see Brown off.

Brown completed the grueling 25.5-mile run in 4 hours, 5 minutes. He had predicted he would complete the run in 4 to 4 1/2 hours.

"I'm very happy with the time I ran the course," said Brown. "The weather cooperated beautifully, making it possible for me to run at the upper limit of my goal of 4 to 4 1/2 hours. I ended up running an average of 9 minutes, 45 seconds per mile. With a course as tough as that one, I can say I'm well pleased with the result. I ran every step of the 25.5-mile course."

than on any marathon course I've ever run," Brown added. "It's a tough course. I wouldn't want to have to run it again any time soon."

Brown, who had earlier announced plans to make the run from Court-house-to-Courthouse, said the run is symbolic of the determination and vigor with which I accept challenges I encounter."

Other runners joined Brown at various points along the 25.5 mile route. But one runner, Don Nims, whom Brown had never even met before the day of the run, joined Brown, also completing the entire 25.5-mile run. Nims was the only other runner to also complete the entire course.

George Jones to be in Renfro Valley Sunday, September 26

George Jones is more than a classic Country singer, he is the classic Country singer. He has been acclaimed worldwide for the last 30 years as the greatest Country singer alive. His multi-award-winning performance of "He Stopped Loving Her Today" was voted by the readers of Country America magazine as the #1 Country Song of All Time, and the same honor was bestowed on him by European country fans. Formal recognition of his greatness came in October, 1992 when he was inducted into the Country Music Hall of Fame. Jones is the only living legend in Country music whose sold-out concert dates are filled with thousands of young people who still consider George Jones' hip and cool. Entertainment

Weekly has inducted him into the Cool Hall of Fame, where he joins such figures as Aretha Franklin, Keith Richards, Bonnie Raitt, Paul Newman and Ella Fitzgerald. Jones' new MCA album, Walls Can Fall, captures the very essence of his artistry. Working with producer Emory Gordy, Jr., Jones recaptured a feeling he hasn't felt in the last few years. "I had been recording things where I didn't hear down and put it out the old hardcore way," he explains. "I didn't do myself like George Jones would have done. That's one reason I liked Emory. Gordy, Jr. I went in and got braced and all set to tell him how I wanted to be recorded and I didn't have to say a word. From the word go, he knew that I was Country and I love Country music and wanted to stay that way."

To many Country fans, the sound of George Jones is the heart and soul of Country music, and, as Jones explains, it really does come from the heart. "My favorites when I was growing up were Roy Acuff, and then Hank Williams and Lefty Frizzell. I got a lot of my phrasing from Lefty. You know, you make a five-syllable word out of a one-syllable word. Then you add a little bit from Roy Acuff and a little bit from Hank Williams. I don't have their voice, but I sing with my voice and their phrasing and I think those three people every day."

George Glenn Jones was born and raised in the Big Thicket area of east Texas. He made his first recordings in Beaumont on the Starday label in 1953, a year after his discharge from the U.S. Marines. His first big hit came in 1955 with "Why, Baby, Why." In 1957, he moved to Mercury, where he experimented with rockabilly under the name Thumper Jones and had a smash hit in 1959 with "White Lightning." In 1962, he began a stint on United Artists that included the classic single "She Thinks I Still Care" and "The Race is On" in 1964. He moved to Musicor in 1965, where his hits included "Take Me" in 1966 and "A Good Year for the Roses" in 1970. He moved again to Epic in 1971 to begin a 20-year association with producer Billy Sherrill.

Jones's hits only tell part of the story. He was the Country Music Association's best male vocalist in 1962 and 1963, back when the awards were still voted on by Country deejays. Nearly two decades later, he was still accepting awards for Male Vocalist of the Year and Single of the Year (for "He Stopped Loving Her Today") in both 1980 and 1981.

In addition to his solo work, "The Cool One" set the standard for duets in Country music, with partners ranging from pop star Gene Pitney in the '60s to new wave rocker Elvis Costello in the '70s to fellow Country superstar Merle Haggard in the '80s and, of course, 10 albums and more than a dozen hit singles with Tammy Wynette. In 1986, he won the CMA's Video of the Year award with "Who's Gonna Fill Their Shoes."

Jones' life has been likened to a Country song, and he is in the early stages of putting it on record in the form of an autobiography. His book will correct some of the "hearsay" that has been printed about him in two previous unauthorized biographies and in various other books and movies. He says he plans to "tell it all."

These days, Jones lives a quiet life, spending his days at his home in the Nashville suburb of Brentwood or on his 70-acre farm a few miles away. He still works hard on the road, about 156 dates a year. Despite the "No Show" sign on the front bumper of his tour bus, he hasn't missed a show in years. He has recently endorsed a pet food product -- George Jones Country Gold Pet Foods -- made by Sunshine Mills of Red Bay, Alabama.

Jones will appear in concert at Renfro Valley September 26 along with Kentucky native John Michael Montgomery and 1991's Top New Country Group, McBride and The Ride.

Renfro Valley to offer new Dinner + Show

Great country entertainment plus great country cooking at a discounted price equals a great value at Renfro Valley. That is the philosophy behind Renfro Valley's Dinner + Show Special.

"We want our guests to have the full Renfro Valley experience," said executive vice president dean L. Henriksen. "As thousands of guests will attest, that experience is enhanced when they have dinner in our historic Lodge restaurant."

The Lodge is a 50-year-old log building, which seats 300. Natural stone fireplaces and wide plank floors add to the ambience. In keeping with Renfro Valley traditions, the menu at the Lodge features good old-fashioned southern specialties, including a secret-recipe fried chicken and ham with raisin sauce. Made from scratch cobbler highlights the dessert menu.

For the duration of this special promotion, guests may enjoy a dinner entree chosen from the nightly specials, and either a Thursday night Barn Dance or a Friday night Barn Dance or Jamboree show for only $13.95. Dinner and two shows (Friday nights only) are available for $19.95.

Reservations for the Dinner + Show special are recommended and may be made by phoning Renfro Valley toll-free at 1-800-765-7464.

Whitaker elected president of state Counseling Assoc.

Dale Whitaker, counselor at Rockcastle County High School for the past eight years, has been elected President of the Kentucky Counseling Association for the 1993-94 school year.

RCHS was one of the first schools to go site-based. This year it was chosen one of only 52 schools in the nation to join the National Alliance for Restructuring. Before writing was required in all subject areas for portfolios, RCHS teachers were participating in writing workshops and getting writing grants which involved all teachers. Rockcastle is one of four high schools in the state to have already converted its industrial arts program to the highly automated tech-ed program.

Along with other more specific topics concerning RCHS's successful programs, Cash's almost two hour talk focused on improving teacher and student morale, believing that all children can learn, and making site-based decision making work.

According to Cash, the welcome he received from the teachers of this wealthy school district was overwhelming. "It was one of the nicest

Ronnie Cash, principal at RCHS was recently invited to address the faculty and staff of a progressive northern Kentucky school district during one of its opening day programs.

Our Open House, which was held last Thursday evening, was well attended and many parents expressed appreciation for the time allowing them to meet their child's teacher and get an idea of the year's expectations. PTA membership grew as a result of the open house being held on the same night as the monthly meeting. If you are not a member of the PTA, we continue to encourage you to become a part of your child's school through PTA.

The annual book fair, sponsored by PTA, is scheduled for Oct. 14-20. We need volunteers to conduct the book fair, please call Jim Ward, volunteer coordinator or Mrs. Debbie Bustle, PTA president, if you have time to devote to this activity. A school newsletter was sent home last week with pertinent information regarding release of students to divorcee, parent consent, or other events. If the calendar did not make it home, your child will need to ask for another one.

Four of our classes have maintained perfect attendance and have been awarded a pizza party. Recognition is the class of Mrs. Cindy Ellington, Mrs. Kareka Cash, Mrs. Vicky Scott and Mrs. Laloy Graves.

Students will have early dismissal Thursday, September 30 to allow bus safety evaluation drills. Also, school will be dismissed Friday, October 1 for Professional Development.
The 21st Century class enjoyed a tour of the Rockcastle County courthouse, Tuesday. They would like to thank the officials of the courthouse for their patience and helpfulness. The students are studying the value of authority and government. Mrs. Lu Ed Neilsen, local community volunteer, visited the class to stress the value of interdependence and helping and being helped.
The volunteerism program will be referred to as B.E.S.T. - Brothead Elementary Student Team. Jim Ward, coordinator continues solicitation for help in the areas of classroom assistants, tutors, health assistants, etc. Please offer your help by contacting the school.

Our community and school are saddened with the passing of D.A. Robbins principal of Brothead grade and high school from 1956-1970. We express sympathy to his daughter, Charlotte, and grandsons, Andrew and Stephen. Mr. Robbins was a stalwart figure in the history of Brothead School.

Hikers, Hunters Beware

Submitted by Rockcastle County Sheriff Shirley Smith

If you are an outdoor sportsman and like to hunt wildlife, ginseng, go hiking or even horseshoe riding, you should beware of unfamiliar territory.

YOU could become the next victim of a trap set by marijuana growers.

In the earlier part of the month, two private citizens, like yourself, were hunting ginseng near the Strip Pit area of Calloway in Rockcastle County, when they encountered heavy gunfire of which they were the targets. The officer and his companion fled by crawling and running to reach their parked vehicle, only to find all four tires had been cut and flattened. The officer drove his disabled vehicle to a nearby residence and called the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department for assistance. Upon a search of this area conducted by the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department, Kentucky State Police and units of the National Guard there were 746 marijuana plants found and eradicated.

As recent as this week, the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Office received an alarming call from a hunter, another private citizen like yourself, stating that he had been hunting in the Three Links area of Rockcastle County, when he stepped on a hidden wire of a trap, causing an explosion and leaving him with facial injuries.

Again, a search was conducted by the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department, Kentucky State Police and units of the National Guard where they found and eradicated over 200 marijuana plants. Also found was a lighting system used for growing plants indoors and various other explosive materials.

The safety of the citizens of Rockcastle County is of great concern to Sheriff Shirley Smith and his staff, and to the Kentucky State Police as well. Although many of you have hunted for years and are aware of the many dangers involved in this sport, you must also be aware of the hidden dangers such as the ones mentioned previously in this article.

There's thousands of acres of Daniel Boone National Forest available to the citizens for their recreational enjoyment. Employees of the National Forestry Service are in danger as they attempt to perform their required job duties. Good advice to anyone hunting in wooded areas or walking through unfamiliar grounds, should always let someone know the vicinity that you'll be hunting in and give an approximate time for your return home. Always be alert and on the lookout for traps of any kind. It is safe to let our children go out to play in open fields or near wooded areas?

If you don't play, you pay

"Under proposal, Kentuckians would lose standard tax deduction if they don't purchase health insurance"

By Becky L. Meadows
KPA News Bureau Director

If you didn't buy health insurance voluntarily under proposed health care reforms, you would pay for it come tax time.

Under health care reform proposals released Thursday, Kentuckians who do not buy health insurance for whatever reason would be prohibited from claiming the standard deduction given people on state income tax forms. The standard deduction is $650 per person, depending on how people file their forms.

Eliminating the standard deduction for Kentuckians who did not buy health insurance is described in the proposals as an "incentive" for people to buy insurance, but not every lawmaker favors the provision.

"I certainly would not endorse it at this point," House Speaker Joe Clarke, D-Danville, said Friday. "It is one way to make people look at buying health insurance. I was not aware it was endorsed as part of that report."

The health care reform proposals provide measures for lowering health care costs and insurance. The proposals, released by subcommittees of the state Task Force on Health Care reform, must be written into bill form, passed by the General Assembly and signed by the governor to become law.

Reaching a consensus on health care reform may be more difficult for lawmakers than first imagined. The subcommittee proposals differ on some provisions, and lawmakers are still arguing about basic health care issues. Gov. Jones had hoped to call another special session of the legislature to enact health care reform before the end of this year.

The task force subcommittees have been meeting regularly since the task force was formed earlier this year. The full task force could get together to combine the three reports into one full plan as early as September 15.

Gov. Brenton Jones called for the task force to be formed and sat on its access subcommittee, the subcommittee calling for prohibiting Kentuckians who do not buy health insurance from claiming the standard tax deduction.

Mindy Shannon-Phelps, Jones' press secretary, said the governor reserved comment on the tax issue until the health care reform proposals are combined into one report and presented to him.

Under the proposals, employers would not be required to provide health insurance for their employees. In addition, Kentuckians would not be required by law to carry health insurance, despite the "incentive" of eliminating the standard deduction for those who did not purchase insurance.

Sen. Tim Shaughnessy, D-Louisville, said eliminating the tax deduction for those who do not buy health insurance emphasizes the personal responsibility taxpayers have.

"If we don't exercise that responsibility, basically, the taxpayers have to pick it up," he said.

He added lawmakers decided the working poor would probably not be filing taxes and thus would not be affected by the provision. For those working poor who do file, there is the earned income tax credit to fall back on, he said.

The feeling was this would only impact people who could afford to pay for health insurance, and due to other lifestyle choices, did not, Shaughnessy said.

Other provisions of the proposed reforms include a Kentucky Health Purchasing Alliance which would bargain to get more benefits for lower prices for Kentuckians. Thus, insurance would be cheaper, according to the proposals.

Businesses with 50 or fewer employees would be required to purchase insurance through the alliance under the proposals, which also call for a State Health Policy Board which would set limits on fees doctors and hospitals can charge people for various services. One lawmaker suggested having doctors and hospitals post the fees so people can shop around.

WE DON'T LIKE TO SAY NO

"Your loan application has been turned down." When someone applies for a loan and is turned down it can be embarrassing, aggravating, annoying, and downright depressing.

You know you fully intend on paying it back or you wouldn't be asking for a loan in the first place. Turning down a loan request is one of the harder things in banking. But a bank is responsible for the care and safekeeping of the deposits of all its customers. The loans that a bank makes are examined by bank examiners.

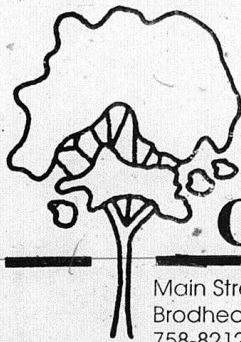

Many times when we have to say no, we surely don't want to. It's just that if there's a doubt we are forced to say no.

Could it be Fall already?

When Jack Frost hits, as he surely will each fall, many vacationers and residents will take to the hills of Kentucky to soak up the beauty of the red and yellow, the orange and amber forest leaves.

The beauty's there all right, said Doug McLaren, Extension forestry specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

It's just that Jack Frost has nothing to do with it. Chemicals do.

It looks like someone took a paintbrush and painted the forest," McLaren said. "That's a quotation we hear a lot each fall as visitors marvel at the range of different colors in the hardwood forests of Kentucky."

He added, "Although people may credit Jack Frost for the autumn color change, actually the weather has nothing to do with it."

Instead, he said, trees change colors according to complex chemical formulas. Each tree has its own fall color bound up in the chemicals in its sap which determines what color the leaves will turn.

"Iron, magnesium, phosphorus or sodium in the tree, along with the acidity of the chemicals in the leaves, cause the leaves to turn amber, gold, red, orange or maybe just fade from green to brown," McLaren said. "Scarlet oaks, red maples and sumacs have a slightly acidic sap which causes leaves to turn bright red."

The leaves of some ash tree varieties which thrive in the limestone areas of central Kentucky turn a royal purple-blue, he said.

What causes the color changes if the weather doesn't?

McLaren said a chemical clock inside the tree starts up when the days grow shorter and the nights longer. This "clock" releases a hormone which restricts the flow of sap to each leaf. As the sap slows, chlorophyll, the chemical which gives leaves their green color in spring and summer, disappears which creates the bright fall colors.

As the sap continues to slow, the leaf will soon die and fall to earth, McLaren said. But their job is not yet over. As the forest begins its long winter slumber, those leaves begin to enrich the soil and provide nutrients for future generations of trees.

Local farmers plan meeting

Dairy farmers of this area will meet this month for the Annual Fall District Meeting, according to an announcement made by Glen Croebel, Taylorville, president of American Dairy Association of Kentucky.

Featured activities of the meeting will be the election of a district director, a report on the ADA-SUDIA Promotion Program by Eric McClean, regional manager of American Dairy Association of Kentucky, and a free dinner for dairy farm families. Door prizes will be given away.

All dairy farm families are urged to attend the meeting in their district.

The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. at Ponderosa Steak House, Oct. 21, in London.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

In Jn. 17:20-21 we read "Neither pray I for these alone, but for them also which shall believe on me through their word; that they all may be one; as thou Father, art in me, and I in thee, that they also may be one in us: That the world may believe that thou hast sent me." Jesus was praying to God the Father, that all who had believed on him through the apostles would be one, not 2, 3 or 300. Just as the Father and the Son were one, even so Jesus prayed for oneness of his followers.

He prayed that we may be one in them, (God and Christ). That the world may believe that God had sent Christ. A lot of people of the world, are made to stumble at the division, sectarianism and denominationalism that they see all about us.

It's sad to see division and various kinds of churches and religious bodies that claim to follow Jesus. Jesus prayed for unity. Paul commanded division, heresies, and strife in Gal 5:20-21 as work of the flesh (not works of the Spirit).

But what's even sadder is, that there are some people who teach and say, that denominationalism and division is good and pleasing to God. The arrogance of some men, to say just the opposite of what our Lord prayed for. It's a pitiful shame, men would seek to justify and endorse division, and to try to claim such is upheld by the Bible. Such twisting of the gospel will bring the anathema of God, Gal. 1:6-9.

Our plea is for men and women to rally around Jesus and his truth, the word of God. Only the Bible is the reliable standard of right and wrong; truth and error. If Jesus prayed for unity and oneness, then no doubt we can be one, and be united in Christ. Did Jesus pray for the impossible? Did Paul command the impossible?

Don't let the teachers of error tell you unity is not possible, for you and I know better. Let us know if we may study with you.

Rena Jordan, teacher in a one-room school

by Kathy McCracken
As a child, Rena Jordan wanted to be a schoolteacher. During recess at Cove Branch, the little one-room school she attended in Rockcastle County, she often spent the time "playing school" instead of other games. When she became the only eighth grader, her teacher, Mrs. Leila Saylor, let her help with the other classes. As an adult, Rena Jordan spent 43 years teaching school children, 26 of those years at Cove Branch.

Rena's father, Willis Christopher Johnson, owned a small farm, but, due to cataracts, he had very poor vision. Her mother, Louisa McNew Johnson, was stricken with crippling arthritis. Needless to say, finances were always a problem. "That was the hardest thing we had to face," Miss Rena tells us, "but we all learned to work. We helped each other."

Despite the hard work, Rena, her brother and her four sisters all finished high school, and most of them attended college. Rena graduated from Mt. Vernon High School, then started her college classes at Eastern and Barbourville Union. As a 4-H Club member, she participated in a sheep-raising venture. Sheep were brought in from Wisconsin, and Rena financed much of her education by selling sheep and wool. She also stayed with elderly persons for a small salary plus room and board.

Her father helped her borrow money from the bank for expenses her earnings didn't cover, and as soon as she was able to teach on an emergency certificate, she began repaying the loan. "There were no government grants and loans then," she says. "I taught and finished my education with Saturday classes and correspondence courses." She graduated from Eastern in 1960.

Miss Rena's first school was at Scitz Branch at the western edge of Rockcastle County. She boarded with the Renner family, Jimmie and Ella and their three children. "I think they charged me $20 a month for room and board," says Rena. "I got three hot meals a day for that and I gained weight! I'd try to keep from eating, but it was such good food, I couldn't help it!"

She slept on a corn shuck bed and remembers that, about every two months, Mrs. Renner would empty the tick and put in fresh shucks. "When the shucks were new, you'd almost have to have a step ladder to get in bed," laughs Rena, "but it was good sleeping!" Evenings, she told stories as she and the girls washed supper dishes.

Her next school was Hummel, near Renfro Valley, and she walked six miles, one way. If her dad wasn't using the horses that day, she rode, but most mornings found her walking up the railroad track. Oftentimes, during revival at the church which was near the school, she walked home, milked five or six cows, and walked back for the church service that night.

One particularly cold morning, a neighbor called for her to stop in and get warm while their son went on to the school and built a fire. "When I went in, they started laughing," says Rena. "They brought me a mirror, and my hair, eyelashes, eyebrows and the collar of my coat were all frosted and white!" That was the same day she bit into the egg sandwich she had brought for lunch and found it was frozen, even though there had been a fire all morning in the old pot-bellied stove near her desk.

Besides keeping the fire going, a one-room school teacher had to make sure there was drinking water at school. "We always had a water bucket and dipper," Miss Rena tells us, "but I never let the children drink from the dipper. Everyone brought a tin cup or a can and we put our names on them." Enrollment at her school averaged about 30 students, and that included all eight grades. Rena calculated how long she had to spend with each class. It was three and one-half to four minutes! But in that short time, children learned reading, writing, arithmetic, history, health and all the other necessary subjects.

"The little ones learned by hearing the upper-grade classes," Rena says, "and by listening to the lower grades, the older ones got a good review of things they might have missed." This exchange of information proved especially beneficial one occasion.

An upper grade had a health lesson on what to do if a child got something stuck in his nose, and a small boy named Ray listened intently to the "big" class. Much later, Ray's little brother Jimmie got a bean stuck in his nose. Remembering what he had learned from the other class dis-

Rogers criticizes tax increase on tobacco to pay for Clinton's Health Care package

5th District Congressman says rural Kentucky being singled out to bear Health Care burden

U.S. Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers (R-KY) today criticized President Clinton's proposal to raise taxes on tobacco to pay for his new health care plan.

In a speech this morning on the House floor, Rogers said a tax increase on tobacco products would unfairly "single out" Kentucky families to bear the financial burden for health care reform. White House advisers working on the health care plan have proposed as high as a $2 per pack increase in cigarette taxes to pay for the package.

"We're all committed to solving the health care crisis," Rogers said. "I, too, look forward to helping make health care affordable and more accessible.

"But singling out tobacco — a crop that employs over 100,000 people in Kentucky alone, and provides millions of dollars for the people of our state — is unfair to rural families, and puts the burden of health care reform squarely on their backs," Rogers said.

cession. Ray applied the procedure and saved the day!

The one-room schools had to find their own source of funds for maps, charts, art supplies and other items not furnished by the school board. In later years, organizations sponsored schools and donated money but, for a long time, this was accomplished at fund-raising events called "pie suppers."

Pie suppers were, really, community get-togethers. There was always a Pretzels Girl contest and folks "voted" by contributing money, which went to the school. The Ugliest Man contest generated laughs, as well as donations, as people nominated almost every man in the community for this dubious honor. Couples entered the Cake Walk in the hope of winning a prize. But the evening's main attraction was the auction of the pies.

The young women baked pies, or sometimes cakes, which they donated to the school. Boys bid on the girls' pies and, with the pie, came the privilege of taking the girl home. Needless to say, a girl's best bid would spend his last time to keep another fellow from seeing his date home. If the crowd knew a young fellow was determined to buy a certain girl's pie, the bidders would "run it up" on him, making him pay an outrageous price. Once, Miss Rena's own beau, Coy Jordan, had to bid $45 for her pie! Coy may have proposed that evening, because soon after that, Miss Rena Johnson became Mrs. Coy Jordan.

Mrs. Jordan always worked to make learning fun. Letters painted on the floor taught the alphabet to first graders, and special games at recess taught addition. The children learned to make change as they worked in a make-believe store, and Mrs. Jordan even taught fractions as she prepared lunch. "Susan, if each second grader gets half a peanut butter sandwich, how many sandwiches should I make?" Sometimes it was "Danny, if you were milking at home, how many gallons of milk would we need today if we each had a half-pint?" Nature lessons were perhaps the most exciting, though.

One day Mrs. Jordan and the students found frog eggs in a nearby ditch. They transferred them to an aquarium and watched their hatch, but only one little tadpole survived. He grew into a little-looking frog and the children named him Hoppy.

When the outdoor frogs began to sing that spring, Mrs. Jordan explained to the children that Hoppy missed his friends. "Imagine," she said, "that you were in a room and could hear people talking and laughing outside. You'd want to join them!" The children agreed, and in a solemn procession, named Hoppy to a nearby frog pond and bade him farewell.

Mrs. Jordan's school days weren't always idyllic. Though one time, a neighbor's goat ate the tulips the students had worked so hard to plant. There were incidents with wet paint, and once two children had a head-on collision which resulted in an injury that was beyond the realm of Mrs. Jordan's first and last. The child was taken to Brush Creek on a horse, then on to Berea by car.

The most frightening memory, though, is of a shooting during a pie supper when one young man was killed and a young woman seriously wounded. Mrs. Jordan couldn't go back in the schoolhouse, but parents came by, cleaned the schoolroom and helped give their teacher the support and courage she needed to re-open the school.

In the 70s, Rockcastle County closed its one-room schools and Mrs. Jordan became a first-grade teacher at Mt. Vernon Elementary. With a room-full of children, all in the same grade, and with 45 minutes for each class, she would think a one-room school teacher might have time on her hands. "But I always felt rushed," she says. "You were always waiting for a bell, always pressed for time." She taught first grade for eight years then decided to retire. "I felt I could no longer keep up with first graders," she tells us, "so I knew it was time to do something else."

With both her daughters being grown and teachers in other cities, Mrs. Jordan's life-long hobbies — quilting, gardening, and writing poetry — occupy much of her time. A widow now, she is, as always, active in her church and she walks one to three miles a day, a regimen dictated by serious heart surgery. She also authored a book, the story of her 43 years as a teacher.

"I have everything filed," she says. "It's all divided into different parts of my teaching career. Now, as I think of something, I just write it down and file it." She's not sure just when her book will be finished, but she is sure about how she found the strength to accomplish what she did in those 43 years.

Mrs. Jordan often conducted outdoor classes. This is one of her very first groups of students.

A giant Easter Egg, donated by a restaurant, created quite a commotion one year.

At Southwest Elementary, Jason Robbins is succeeding against some pretty tough competition. Himself.

The classroom can be an overwhelming environment for young students. At Southwest Elementary in Calloway County, however, the Primary Program is giving Jason Robbins and his fellow students a personal challenge they look forward to every day.

Designed to allow young students to advance at their own pace, the Primary Program doesn't confine students to specific age groups or grade levels. Instead, kids are grouped and regrouped in order to encourage success in learning. In this way, each student is specifically challenged to reach higher personal goals than ever before. For Jason Robbins and other students throughout the state, that's the challenge they need.

A vital part of the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA), the Primary Program is providing Kentucky's kids with a positive outlook towards learning. And the self-esteem to meet every challenge that comes their way.

For more information on the Primary Program, call 1-800-928-2111 or 1-800-KDE-KERA.

Fairview News

By: Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Sunday School attendance at the Fairview Baptist Church on Sept. 12 was ninety three (93). Due to a number of Family Reunions on this day, our attendance for the worship service was down some.

We enjoyed so much having a Gideon speaker with us Sunday morning. He was Verrees Molden from Somerset. We thank God for dedicated men like these that give their time and effort to spread the Word of God internationally. They need our prayers and support. But we too need to remember all of our ministers and missionaries the world over.

And please keep on your prayer list the families that have lost loved ones recently, including Mrs. Charlene Hall, Mrs. Evelyn Dowell, Johnny Coffey and Mrs. Gertrude Hilton, all of Rockcastle County and Mrs. Flossie Burdine of Berea. These beloved family members left behind have our sympathy and prayers.

Marion Chasteen, son of the late Nick and Mary (Gadd) Chasteen died August 22nd in Fairfield, Ohio where he had made his home for many years. He was a brother of Hubert Chasteen of the Scaffold Cane area near Fairview. Attending the funeral were Hubert Chasteen and wife Anna Lee and Hubert's niece, Phyllis Jean Vos of Lexington. Marion was a good, kind and loving Christian man, who loved life and believed in giving a helpful hand to those in need. He was missed by many and will be greatly missed.

A couple (after seeing our church sign on U.S. 25) stopped by to attend worship service with us on Sunday morning. They were on their way home from vacationing in a number of states. They were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Eckhoff of Lucedale, Miss. She told me they always attended church and saw our sign and came on over. We were glad to have them.

Shirley (Mullins) Elliott of Corpus Christi, Texas attended worship service at Fairview Sunday morning, Aug. 29. She was here visiting her mother, Mrs. Elva Mullins of Smaer and other family members. She also was here for the wedding of a niece, daughter of her brother, Mr. and Mrs. Danny Mullins of Madison County. It was good to see her again, she is a very pretty young lady. She also subscribes to the Signal to keep up on the news.

Mrs. Mary Cope celebrated her eighty fourth (84) birthday Sunday, Sept. 12th. She told me she received several cards and phone calls. We wish Mrs. Cope much joy, happiness and good health this coming year. She is a dear, sweet lady and loved by many relatives and friends. I count her as one of my closest friends - God bless you Mary.

A few weeks ago Gerald and Irene Alexander and children, Courtney and Cody, vacationed in Daytona Beach, Fla. for a few days. While there Gerald visited his uncle Johnny Alexander and family in Orlando. They had a very nice and enjoyable time. Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Ridgell and daughter Sherry were recent Sunday dinner guests of his parents Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ridgell of Corbin. Jim Morrissey of Fort Walton, Fla. recently visited Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander. Other guests have been Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Gabbard of Berea.

On Sunday, Sept. 5th, Mrs. Edith Mullins and daughters, Mrs. Lucille Ponder and Mrs. Velma Croucher attended the Mullins Reunion held at Mullins Station in Rockcastle County.

Some of our most recent guests have been our son and wife, Wayne and Carolyn Chasteen, our daughter and husband Joyce and James Seals adn Hubert's step-mother, Mrs. Annie Chasteen and her son Robert Chasteen, all of Madison County.

Recently Eugene and Hallie Alexander visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Junior Alexander of Fairview.

Please remember church and Sunday School. Pray for one another and always be loving and kind to precious little children. And remember always God still has all power and is in control of all things. So let's always put our trust in Him. God bless you.
