Six indicted by federal jury in $3.5 million insurance scam

The indictments

An insurance scam that netted six Mt. Vernon and two Berea persons $3.5 million in bogus payments came to a swift conclusion Friday.

A federal grand jury in Lexington indicted Russell E. Ramsey, 61, of Mt. Vernon on 31 counts of insurance fraud.

He was arrested on U.S. 150 about 8:30 Friday and taken to Lexington where he posted $10,000 cash bond.

Also indicted were Gary Dale Ramsey, 27, Susan Ann Ramsey, 26, and Debra Jean Lunsford, 33, all of Mt. Vernon, and Michael Wayne Lunsford, 42 and Randy L. Fyffe Sr., both of Berea.

Information on the other defendants is not known, but they each face insurance fraud charges, as well as mail fraud, for some of them. A guilty verdict could result in a fine of $250,000 and five years in prison.

Forty area persons and others were named as co-conspirators meaning they were involved with the six in making false insurance claims.

The alleged scam began in 1986 and since that time the persons have filed 2,778 claims with 85 insurance companies receiving payments of $3,246,440 according to the indictment.

Ramsey, who was identified as the ring leader, would organize the others to buy several hospitalization policies, stage injuries or accidents and collect on the policies, the indictment states.

The charges are a result of a long-term intensive investigation by the U.S. Postal Inspector's office in Lexington, and Kentucky State Police.

State Trooper Gary Lane, Lannie Miller, postal inspector, and Darrell Doan, Sheriff's deputy, were all involved in the investigation over several years.

In a release from the U.S. Attorney's office it states that several persons have pled guilty over the past several months to charges related to their involvement in the scheme and are expected to cooperate in the investigation, which is continuing.

Earl Dean, a Harrodsburg lawyer, said he is representing all the defendants, which are to appear in court Wednesday, except Fyffe. He said he

The Tennessee Connection

The indictment reports an involved practice that resulted in the payments:

At first, the defendants would obtain several policies for hospital insurance, usually designed to pay the policyholder a certain amount each day for hospitalization.

Once they had the policies, the defendants would "stage, fake or fabricate an accident or injury," the indictment states. They usually had complaints of general pain or soft-tissue injuries.

The dates for the alleged accidents or injuries range from July 22, 1986, to Jan. 27, 1993. About four such cases were reported each month, according to the indictment.

After the staged accidents, the defendants and co-conspirators allegedly would travel up to 150 miles to see one of two doctors in Morrisville, Tenn. -- Dan Hale or Gene Lynch.

Lynch, reached at a medical center in Morrisville, said he had not known anything about the scam. He said he had not been contacted by federal investigators and that he had not been asked to testify before a grand jury.

"If I admit somebody to the hospital, I don't even see any of the insurance papers," he said.

Lynch said he and Hale have worked together for several years. He said he had been contacted by insurance investigators a few years ago, but never heard anything else about the cases.

Hale was out of town Friday.

The indictment says Hale or Lynch would admit the defendant to one of two area hospitals -- Morristown-Hamblen or Humana Morristown.

After hospitalization, defendants would submit multiple insurance claims and seek payments, court records say.

The Lexington Herald-Leader reported Tuesday, the lead investigator described the inquiry as a tedious review of thousands of documents.

"It made a real profile," Postal inspector Miller said. "All these people live in the same area, they travel down the same area, they see the same doctors. They have the same injuries."

The Co-Conspirators

The details of the indictment reads of an elaborate scheme to collect money from the companies.

Russell Ramsey would help the others obtain policies and find the admitting doctors, the indictment states. He would also take a cut of any pats, it reported.

Ramsey also allegedly kept records on the people involved, their claims and how much they received from the insurance companies.

He submitted false claims on his own behalf, the indictment states.

For example, on Jan. 17, 1989, Ramsey allegedly faked a hit-and-run automobile accident, and was admitted to the Morristown-Hamblen Hospital from Jan. 18 to Jan. 31, 1989, and then readmitted from Feb. 20 to March 3, 1989.

Afterward, Ramsey submitted claims for insurance payments to 16 insurance companies.

Fifteen of those companies made payments, totaling almost $60,000, the records state.

In other instances, the indictment states:

What is a co-conspirator

What exactly is a co-conspirator?

According to the assistant U.S. attorney that is prosecuting this multi-million dollar insurance fraud case, a co-conspirator is a participant in the criminal activity alleged in the other indictments that have been handed down by a federal grand jury.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Kenneth Taylor said Tuesday that some of the co-conspirators have already pled guilty in the case. He declined to disclose who those people are and said that some of the co-conspirators may actually be indicted at a later date.

Open day price for Burley tobacco down

The average price of $1,826.7 a pound opened the burley tobacco market Monday.

The price was down from last year's opening price by 3 1/2 cents.

The crop is rated from good to excellent by about 90 percent and most was rejected by buyers, going into the government's pool.

The average support price is $1.68 up 3.4 cents from last year, but buyers were refusing to pay 1 cent more than the support price.

Danny McKinney of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative said, "It's the worst opening day that I've ever seen."

"Despite the good quality and fair prices on the burley that sold there weren't many takers," McKinney stated.

Average prices around the Rockcastle area were London, $1.84; Danville, $1.82; Richmond, $1.81; Shelbyville, $1.83.

Earl Bailey, Laurel Tobacco farmer, said "This is one of the best sales I have ever had. The companies really want this local crop on this market."

Buyers purchased most of the London sale. It was reported that less than 20 percent went to the pool, and 80 percent went to buyers.

Fiscal Court hires Margaret Burdine

By: Ray McClure

Margaret Burdine of Livingston was hired by the Rockcastle Fiscal Court for janitorial work in the Judicial Complex building at a called meeting of the court Monday afternoon.

County Judge/Executive Buzz Carlifolis suggested she be employed at $4.25 an hour.

The annex needs three persons to do upkeep and maintenance, but the judge said the county cannot afford a full complement through December.

The state Judicial Cabinet furnished $53,296 last year for maintenance and salaries of persons working in the complex. Last year $8,500 was not spent by the county and the $53,296 amount was reduced by that much. The county can make it up in 1994 by spending more for upkeep.

Former employees were Donnie Lunsford, Gail McCollum and Shirley Hopkins. They resigned after Carlifolis became judge.

At work now is Ricky Miller and Myrtle Kidwell. Both work in both the judicial annex and the older courthouse. Mrs. Kidwell makes $4.25 an hour and Miller, $5.04.

The judge told the court employees from other departments are helping out.

It was reported Mayapple Bridge near Fairview Church will be rebuilt under a 100 percent state funded contract.

The 62-foot span may have to be bid, but the court was not sure until the contract is returned from the state.

The court by-passed the Waddle Road Bridge near Lamero. It would be financed 80 percent by state and 20 percent by county. The judge told the court no county funds can be used on bridges until after July 1.

The court approved a Community Development Block Grant of $190,000 for replacement of a water line in the Northern Rockcastle Water Association.

A water problem in James Noe Subdivision was not resolved. The court said the road will not be classified as a county road until the person

"Christmas in the Valley" begins this week end

The best holidays -- of memory or fancy -- are a combination of sights and sounds, seasoned with a little magic.

This is the recipe used by Renfro Valley Entertainment Center to create "Christmas in the Valley," a celebration which begins on Friday, Nov. 26 with the annual Christmas tree lighting and closes with the final show performance on Dec. 18.

The centerpiece of the four-week celebration is the live production "Christmas in the Valley." "Christmas in the Valley," which stars cast members from both the Barn Dance and Jamboree shows, shares the magic and memories of Christmas in Kentucky's Country Music Capital.

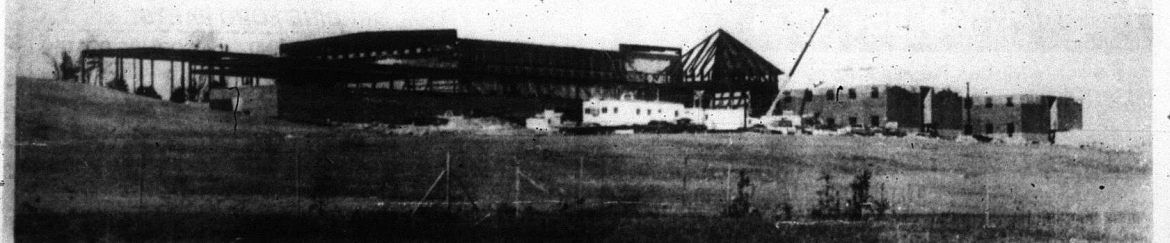

Traditional holiday carols help set the festive mood that dominates this 90-minute show. "Christmas in the Valley" is presented every Friday and Saturday night at 7 p.m. in Renfro Valley's New Barn, Nov. 26 through Dec. 18. Christmas on the contemporary side is spotlighted in the Christmas Jamboree, Friday nights at 9 p.m., Nov. 26 through December 17.

The spectacular Christmas shows are not the only elements which draw visitors to Renfro Valley during the holiday season. The charming village which surrounds the two-state-of-the-art show barn theatres is transformed into a virtual holiday wonderland. One of Kentucky's largest outdoor light displays adds twinkling brilliance to a village of quaint shops, an authentic one-room log cabin schoolhouse, city hall, tinsy church and working gristmill.

Work is continuing on the new $11 million Rockcastle County High School which will open next fall. School officials say that the project is a little ahead of schedule.

Points East

Remember the discussion we had here a few weeks back that had to do with canning the goldenrod as Kentucky's state flower and opting for something that doesn't make me sneeze?

Well, I was on the phone with Ralph tonight who called to let me know that there is another suggested symbol change on the table. Seems a Frankfort lawyer whose first name is Greg and whose last name starts with a C. Ralph knew how to pronounce it at least, and it sounded like it started with a C but neither one of us could get any farther than that. Chances are that it also has a Z and ski but we're not sure about that.

Anyway, if old Greg sticks to his ways we'll track him down for a follow-up story and get it right the next time, because Greg is unhappy with the state bird. Greg, in fact, is filing briefs and all that other stuff that lawyers know how to do to raise a heck and proposing that the blue heron would be a much more fitting representative of all Kentuckians than the University of Louisville's mascot.

For that matter, it has come to my attention that innocent little children going to school in the shadow of Rupp Arena are being taught that the state bird is a cardinal. When they stick up their darling little hands and say, "Yes, teacher, maam, but what please tell us, is the Kentucky cat?"

And the teacher's eyes well up and sometimes even a tear makes its way through the mascara and streaks a long crooked, bluish trail down her pretty cheek.

"There are no state cats," she innumbles as she struggles to repress a sob and reaches for the kleenex.

There is some merit, then, to Greg's contention that the current state bird needs changing. And there's probably grounds for a law suit contending that Lexington kids are growing up with inferiority complexes and that some may, in fact be psychotic because the University of Kentucky is not getting equal status with the University of Louisville on the state bird deal.

I personally believe that the blue heron would be a better choice than the cardinal, but to prevent a furor from developing along the Ohio River, there may be a more reasonable way to solve this problem. Why not have two state birds, co-tideholders as it were.

I've also found that a UK archeologist has found the skeletal remains of a prehistoric creature that probably resembled a large cat. Complete with fangs and wings, it likely was a ferocious beast and probably dined on cardinals quite frequently, especially during that time of the year that modern man recognizes as basketball season.

While the American Association of Dinosaur Nomers has not yet concurred, it has been suggested that this newly discovered creature be called Kentucky Wignidus Wildus Catusodactyl or Kentucky Winged Wild Cat for short. Apparently this creature had white wings and tail feathers and a sky blue body.

Certainly there are an alarming number of Senators and representatives from Jefferson County but at last count they were two votes short of controlling the state legislature. And even though this new find is extinct, it wouldn't be the first time that our government has dealt with a dead issue. Honest candidates for governor, for example have been elected for at least as long as most dinosaurs.

It seems fitting then, at least to me, to have Wildus Catusodactyl share equal billing with the Cardinal and I see nothing wrong with having two state birds.

If that doesn't work and Greg's blue heron effort fails then it seems to me that the Blue Jay would be a more equitable state symbol than the cardinal because it typifies basketball fans of any ilk. It can't sing. In fact the noise it makes is much more akin to a screaming curse and it has no friends among the bird family as a whole. It spends all its time awake making a general nuisance of itself and, as birds go, there is none more obnoxious.

We'll keep you posted on Greg's legal proceedings but we have to close the issue for now so that we can send him a fax of our position on the goldenrod. Seems some folks in Louisville have agreed with us and are suggesting that the Cardinal flower would make an excellent alternative. I'm personally lobbying for the Bittersweet vine.

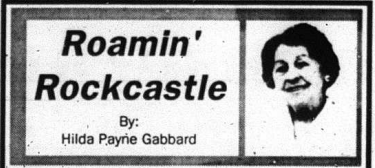

copied them from another source (even though the last line was about true).

I mentioned about Ruth Gatliff a few pages back. You see she keeps my mind and feelings all pumped up by bragging on me, about when I feel like quitting the paper.

She talks so good that I get up and start writing all I know on folks, and some I don't know!

Ruth tells me she and Phil, the man running around with her (see there, I write what I don't know for sure) are going by plane to California soon to spend some time with his mother who lives there. Then she says they are going to spend part of the winter where it is warmer. Shucks, I'll stay here in good old Rockcastle and just pull the quilt made like a feather-bed!

Roamin' Rockcastle

By: Hilda Payne Gabbard

This has been persimmon time in the hills. It takes a frost or two, but the fruit as it does big, blue, wild grapes.

Nature has its own plan to ripen wild fruit and it does that by using frost to mellow them.

The paw-paw trees ripen their delicious, banana like fruit in early fall. They are hard to find unless you know where a paw-paw tree is growing. Folks remember them as Ruth Gatliff of Indiana wrote me.

"Your write up in the Signal brought back childhood memories of my dad and paw-paws," she said.

The persimmon tree buds out in early fall with blooms and starts making flowers which will form the yellow, waxy fruit.

I told you a few weeks ago that Mike Betry of Brindle Ridge, and a top salesman at Britton Chevrolet motors in Berea, brought me about one half gallon of the yellow, waxy persimmons as he had promised last year. But he only was able to bring them this year. That, and his wanting to sell me a new car, caused him to travel to the back side of their farm and get persimmons before they turned the cattle into cat the pasture.

"Dog gone, those cows, they eat every persimmon they can find so I went a day early to get you some", Mike told me before he brought up the subject of new cars.

I froze most of the fruit in the deep-freeze which I'll put into a pie, cake or candy. I can't talk about that too much or some of the fellows will ask for pie or cake.

Out on Scaffold Cane Pike, I saw a tree with the limbs plumb full of persimmons so I stopped and knocked on the door of the house near the tree.

There I met Phyllis Adams, a cute woman with long black hair hanging almost to her waist.

When I told her I wanted to buy some persimmons she said, "Law, we don't like them. Get all you want. We don't take any money either."

So every few days I would go by and we would pick the fruit out of the grass where they had fallen. As I left, I put money into her bucket. I told Phyllis that's the way folks make money. When you have something that other folks want and are willing to buy, then that's the way things work for you to sell.

Phyllis and husband had two little boys. Cute, little, two year old Jason who helped pick up persimmons, and six year old Michael who came home on the school bus.

I went to Wal-Mart Store one day and as I stood before a shelf looking at the things on it, I heard a voice above my head in a kind of grumble saying, "What some people will do when they get a little money in their hands. They spend their husband's money and keep him in a hard place."

I knew the person was talking about me for a tall man stood right behind me.

I can't tell him it was none of his business whose money I used, and I drew back looking into the laughing blue eyes of Jerry Payne who is an ace with a guitar singing "Love Sick Blues On My Mind."

My nephew, Jerry and I, laughed at how near we came to being thrown out of the store. Jerry is a first rate bachelor trying to make an impression on the cute girls he tries to tie in with. An aunt wasn't who he meant.

I would like to send sympathy to the family of Mary McWhorter in Brodhead, a first rate news writer for this paper, upon the occasion of her death. Offly another news writer can know the many hours of hard work she has put in writing the weekly news of Brodhead.

Kaye Abney called me saying that was a good, funny closing page that I had at the end of my column where I wrote how I missed my mind. I thanked Kay for her remark saying I didn't compose the lines I only

Ms. Alexander's and Ms. Parker's Primary Entry Levels are reading the book Stone Soup. They are going to follow a recipe and make some 'stone soup' of their own. They are also working on the letter K.
 Ms. Smith's Students of the Week have been Britney Anderson and Mikey Denny. The class has been studying Indians. They made puppets and put on Thanksgiving plays. Kristy Graham did an art lesson in weaving. Happy Birthday to Jeffrey Cromer on Thanksgiving Day. The students are reading to the Kindergarten classes.

Ms. Reed's class has had ten days perfect attendance. The students and teachers would like to thank all the parents for their help and support during the practice and presentation of the play for the PTA meeting.

This week has been a very busy one for Ms. Clark's 4th grade. On Tuesday night, students presented two plays for parents and guests. The plays were "The Case of the Gone Gobbler," and "Give Thanks to the pilgrims." Ms. Clark and her class would like to say "Thank you," to everyone who came to see their play.

Also, the class is raising money to adopt a whale. They have been studying endangered species and they wanted to help save at least one animal. Adopting a whale doesn't mean it comes to live with you. It just means the students get newsletters, pictures, and we know which whale our money helps. On Thursday, Garland Vanook, who is an architect, visited the class. He told students how things they study in school can help them in a real job. He also showed us the architect's drawings of our school and the new high school. Thanks, Mr. Vanhook!

Ms. K. Cameron's 5th grade is studying weather. In reading, they have learned how and why a storm cellar was built in the early 1900's. Students are learning their multiplication tables and therefore doing better in multiplication and division. Ashley Lake is in the hospital. We hope you are feeling better, Ashley. Ms. Cameron came back Monday, the 22nd. She really misses little Billy Lee III.

Ms. Kincer's class has started division this week. In science, they are studying "Sink or Float." They made boats out of aluminum foil. In challenge on Thursday, students did a Thanksgiving activity where they were turkey farmers. For art, they made Indians, pilgrims and turkeys. With those items, Mr. Pensol helped them do plays.

In Mr. Napier's 5th grade, students are publishing persuasive pieces in writing. The students are sure going to get some nice things from their parents if their papers do the job. Reading has been a blast. The students started a new unit on Help. They came up with a lot of practical ways to help others at our school. They are helping clean the lunchroom, tutoring some students in the lower grades, and helping the janitor. They will be doing this for three days. In social studies, students are publishing the unit that includes pilgrims. Puritans and are asking themselves why religion played an important role in the settlement of our country. In science, they are studying muscles and bones. They have found over 600 muscles and over 200 bones. They are also finding that many of their muscles are a bit out of shape. Student of the Week is Brandy Frederick. She supports all her classmates.

Mr. Alexander's classes have been studying about respiration and lungs. Mr. Alexander brought in a cow's lungs and a pig's lungs so the students could examine them. James Lambert, Sr. visited their class to be interviewed about Thanksgiving and how it has changed over the years.

Mr. Coffey's class has several winners of the Water Conservation/Essay contest to announce. They are: Jamie Settle, Michael Parsons, and Dusty Burdette.

Appreciation Shown

Mr. Carter takes advantage of every opportunity to make the teachers and staff at LES feel appreciated for their hard work and dedication to the students at LES. Last week was no exception. The teachers and staff thank him for providing goodies and extras during American Education Week and want him to know that he is appreciated, also.

LES Teams Treated

On Wednesday, Nov. 24, Mr. Carter treated the Academic team, cheerleaders, and girls' basketball players to a pizza party in recognition for their hard work academically and on the basketball court. The students acknowledged that the party made them feel really special.

Primary News

Mrs. Bullock's primary group had a fantastic Halloween party. The students enjoyed having their faces painted by Allen Pensol and thought it was neat to see Mr. Carter, Ms.

Rhonda, Ms. Arnold and Ms. Bullock have their faces painted, also.

Ms. Bullock thanks everyone who sent treats for the party. Special thanks are given to Alice Mason, Glesse Hubbard, and Judy Scalf, who assisted with refreshments, and Kim McFerron, Judy Hammond, and Martha Jones who led the children in playing Pin the Tail on the Cat, Musical Chairs, Feed the Ghost, and Dig for Worms. Ms. Bullock says by working together the children were able to have a very special and wonderful party.

Primary News

During the month of November Mrs. Bullock's Seasonal Math unit focused on Indians, Pilgrims, and holiday of Thanksgiving. The skills covered were patterning, geometry, estimation, and counting.

The activities included the following: Make an Indian head band (Patterning); Make an Indian vest (Cont. to A4)

Attendance Incentives

Ms. Peggy McClure's and Ms. Martha Eversole's classes are leading the three week attendance contest for a trip to the Regency Cinema. Ms. Peggy's class now has 61 consecutive days of perfect attendance.

For individual efforts, Theresa Gibbons and Cassandra Shelton received a UK basketball.

early Americans.

Intermediate News

As an October writing project, Mr. Robbins 5th graders wrote letters to various 8th and Breakfast Inns. To date, class members have received 27 responses from at least 21 different states. Students have received letters, caps, brochures, state and local informational bulletins, maps, and pictures. One Bed and Breakfast responded by sending individual pins to all the students.

Students are displaying their response letters together with a U.S. map pinpointing the exact location of each inn. Each day students are eager to see if any other student has received a response. Students are beginning to write letters thanking owners and managers for sharing information with the class.

Thanksgiving turkey doesn't need to come out of the oven. At least that's the way it is in Ms. Everrole's class. Students just completed a tasty project where they prepared turkey treats. While making these gobblers for gobbling, students were required to use thinking skills and math skills. Afterwards, students turned the project into a writing activity.

Counselor's Connection

Parents, remember the excitement your preschooler showed when, she learned to tie her shoes and count to ten? Most young children are bursting with an inborn curiosity and eagerness to know more about the world. But as they grow older, children's enthusiasm often seems to fade. How can you keep their love of learning alive and well? Here are a few strategies that might just work:

Be a role model

Involve your kids in your own learning. Use a map to locate places on the news; look up new and unusual words; or discuss ideas from magazines or books you're reading. Share with your children things you are learning.

Reality Check

Don't let your kids buy into negative stereotypes about school. Talk about your positive experiences in school, things about school you appreciate and the positive people you know who are teachers, aides, cooks, bus drivers, etc.

Use the News

Many children, fourth grade and older, can read the newspaper. Read along with them and turn it into a game: who can find the most interesting fact; the happiest story; news for kids; and at least one fact about a country other than the United States.

Read Together

Many times we stop reading with our kids much too soon. Older children love the closeness reading together can bring and with parent's help even "hard" books are assessable.

OOFS!

Turn mistakes into learning opportunities. For math mistakes you can say "I understand why you tried the problem that way. Why not think about working it another way." You can also talk to your child about mistakes you've made and what you learned from them.

Rewards

Rewards can help children feel good about their accomplishments and provide a needed boost. But choose rewards carefully. One of the best rewards is spending special time with Mom or Dad. Try to tie the reward to the achievement - a trip to a museum or outdoors for a good science grade; a special paperback in honor of an improvement in English. Math improvement might mean a bike trip with a parent tracking distance, time and speed. But remember, the reward isn't the goal - learning is. Be sure to reward improvement as well as grades.

Adopted from Parent power

Question of the Week
How do you plan to spend Thanksgiving break?

Eldon Newcomb: "Eat turkey, watch T.V. and go outside and play."
Gus Scalf: "I'm going to play with my friends and ride my bike down to the cabins."
Jennifer Jones: "I'm going to play with my toys in my play room."

Heather Kerns: "Go to Maw Maw's house and eat turkey and pumpkin pie with my Uncle Johnny."

Angie Newcomb: "I'm going to go to the store to buy something to decorate my door for Christmas."
Miranda Skidmore: "I'm going to my Grandma's house in Corbin on Thanksgiving Day."

Kim Ayers: "Every year we always go to Mawma's for Thanksgiving. I always get to help set the table."
Amy Elliott: "We get to put up our Christmas tree and hang ornaments on it."
Stephanie Pigg: "I'll stay home with my Aunt Nina while my mom and grandma go Christmas shopping."

Thought for the Week

As the old man walked the beach at dawn, he noticed a young man ahead of him picking up starfish and flinging them into the sea. Finally up around my chin and tell John to put some firewood, that is slow to burn, for the night.

But thank you, Ruth and Phil, for being my "good readers" out in Rochester, Indiana and thank you for sending me the picture made last summer in August 1993 at the Todd-Gadiff reunion. I see now why Phil came back to Rockcastle to pick him a wife and I am putting the picture in my column for others to see, like the poem on Kentucky, "And the women are the prettiest!"

We were in Mt. Vernon last Monday (as we are about every Monday) and stopped for coffee at Sue and Glenn Cromer's Ole Kentucky Restaurant.

They have some of the best coffee I've had in a long time. That and one of their fried, dried, apple pies, makes it hard to keep from swallowing your tongue when you take a bite.

While we were eating, in comes Glenn with a man whom I was told was Danny Ford. I had wanted to see

Mr. Ford and thank him for getting a Kentucky Colonel certificate for me when I first started writing this column.

But the man said he was Sam Ford of the Ford Realty Company and a brother to Danny Ford. He also said he did read this once and awhile as he didn't have much time to read as he liked.

"I thought I knew you by a picture of your face somewhere as we came in the door," he told me. I'm still waiting to meet Danny Ford!

I must find out who Ruth and Joe Abney are, having for Thanksgiving dinner and what she's going to cook. Cleve and Blanche Payne made a flying trip to Richmond last week.

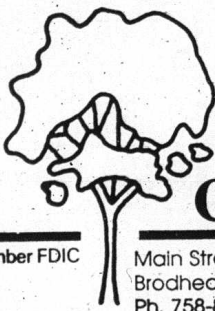

Henry Voltner called to wish us a Happy Thanksgiving but I think he felt we might invite him to bring Susan Tomes and come down for dinner. I would rather eat out myself.

Till next week in December, "What goes to bed with its shoes on and sleeps all night?" (answer next week).

Congratulations, Joanne Guilfoil!

MVES and BES to conduct Eleventh Easter Seal shootout

The 14th Annual Rick Pitino Wildcat Basketball Shootout is underway in Mt. Vernon and Brodhead. Chaired by Coach Rick Pitino, the event raises funds for Easter Seal programs throughout Kentucky. The Shootout is sponsored by Bluegrass Coca-Cola, Winn-Dixie and Dairy Queen.

Both elementary schools have participated in 10 Basketball Shootouts and raised $5,777,410 in last year's Shootout for Easter Seals. Trying to make this year's goal, students will be asking for sponsors in their communities during the next few weeks. School coordinators will be conducting the actual Shootout in December.

EKU's Dept. of Music to give Handel's "Messiah" Dec. 5

One of the most popular holiday traditions at Eastern Kentucky University will be presented Sunday, Dec. 5 when the 130 voices of the University Singers and Concert Choir join the EKVU Symphony Orchestra and four professional soloists for a performance of Handel's "Messiah."

The event, free and open to the public, will begin at 7:30 p.m. in Brock Auditorium. Seating will be

Students are awarded prizes based on the amount of money they raise. The boy and girl who raise the most money statewide will sit behind the player's bench at a late-season Wildcat home game. The Basketball Shootout is conducted by Easter Seal's state office in Louisville.

Schools such as Mt. Vernon and Brodhead Elementary Schools have raised over one million dollars in thirteen Shootouts. Of those funds, 99 percent stayed in Kentucky, 83 percent were spent on direct hands-on services to thousands of children and adults with disabilities in the Commonwealth. Last year, over 26,000 Kentuckians received Easter Seal services.

Under the direction of Dr. David Greenlee, the combined ensembles will perform Part I, which is regarded as the traditional Christmas section. They will also feature the soloists on "The Trumpet Shall Sound" and "Then Shall Break Them" from Part II. The "Hallelujah Chorus," "Why is the Lamb" and the "Amen Chorus" will close the concert.

RES performs for Forward in the Fifth

Members of Roundstone Elementary School performed during the Forward In The Fifth annual fall meeting on the Cumberland College Campus.

The 6th grade students program was entitled "Poetry and Beyond." Allen Pensol, Basic Arts Coordinator of Rockcastle County Schools and Tracy Gabbard, 6th grade teacher and Cumberland College graduate, traveled with the four member group to Cumberland College.

The district wide arts project involved groups from all four Rock-castle County Elementary Schools and addresses all the KERA goals.

"The students are encouraged to find the material they perform in their school library. That also means they gain valuable skills, such as how to use the library, they also will generate writing skills and creativity by working on their arts project," said Pensol.

The Roundstone Elementary students performing at Cumberland College were: Carissa Louallen, Luke Hayes, Mark Parsons, and Matthew Brown.

USDA adjusts 1994 corn acreage reduction program

Secretary of Agriculture Mike Espy announced November 15, that the 1994 corn acreage reduction program will be lowered to zero percent.

The adjustment to the corn acreage reduction program was made because the 1993 corn crop is down 31 percent from last year and the projected 1993 corn carryover stocks are at the lowest level since 1975. This action was taken in part to help assure feed grain supplies for domestic livestock producers and other users and to have sufficient feed grains for export in 1994. The Secretary is also authorized to make adjustments in the 1994 program not later than November 15 if the total supply of feed grains changed significantly after the 1994 ARPO percentages were first announced. Since the initial announcement, estimated feed grain supplies for the 1993 crop are down about 8 percent. Secretary Espy determined that the change was sufficient to warrant adjustment in the corn ARP percentage.

-Movie Review- Addams Family Values

"Gomez, great news, I am going to have a baby, Right Now!" says Morticia (Anjelica Huston) in her adoring husband (Raul Julia), in the sequel to the movie "The Addams Family," "Addams Family Values." The baby, named Pugsley, is the spitting image of Gomez and is the center of all that happens during this hilarious movie. The other children, Wednesday and Pugsley think that one of them has to die, because of the new baby, so they try several times to kill the baby.

Gomez and Morticia want to hire a nanny to take care of the children. After several bad attempts at a personality match, they find Debbie (Joan Cusack), a strawberry blonde bombshell, who has her sights on shy little Fester (Christopher Lloyd) and his money. Actually, she only has her sights on his money!

Debbie has Wednesday and Pugsley sent to camp because they have learned of Debbie's scheme. Of course, Wednesday and Pugsley have different views of what camp should be than the counselors or the other children. After seeing this movie you will never view Thanksgiving in quite the same way. In fact, you will probably never view life, or death, in the same way.

catching up with the youth, he asked him why he was doing this.

The answer was that the stranded starfish would die if left until the morning sun.

But the beach goes on for miles and there are millions of starfish, countered the other. "How can your effort make any difference?"

The young man looked at the starfish in his hand and then threw it out safely in the waves. "It makes a difference to this one," he said.

Babbage discusses corporate reinstatement

A total of 7,648 corporations—the smallest number in years—were administratively dissolved Nov. 2 for failing to file their annual report, according to Secretary of State Bob Babbage.

Any Rockcastle County corporation which has been administratively dissolved may apply for reinstatement by filing the required reports with the Secretary of State, paying the penalty fee and paying the current fee for filing each delinquent annual report. Kentucky now has a total of 85,000 corporations. New corporations are formed at a rate of about 1,000 per month.

More new corporations have filed their papers this year with the secretary of State than in any previous year, Babbage said.

Babbage spoke Nov. 5 to the Kentucky Paralegal Association annual meeting in Lexington to explain the services of his office including corporate information, UCC filings, trademarks and servicemarks and the processes for service on foreign defendants.

Legal services provided to 100,000 poor Kentuckians

Governor Britton Jones will soon receive recommendations to better fund public defender services and to upgrade the quality of those legal services provided to 100,000 poor Kentuckians each year.

The Governor's Task Force on the Funding and Delivery of Quality Public Defender Services, which has been meeting since July, 1993 approved 31 recommendations at its 6th meeting on Nov. 11. The vote tally is now finalized, and the recommendations are on their way to Governor Jones who will decide what changes to propose to the 1994 General Assembly.

Allison Connelly, Public Advocate for the Commonwealth, praised the passage of the recommendations as a giant step forward for Kentucky's poor. "Now, however, we must make sure that these important recommendations get implemented to insure that poor Kentuckians continue to receive quality legal representation in the next two years. These recommendations reduce the chances of a crisis while the Task Force studies long-term funding and delivery of services," Connelly said. "The Task Force has provided the Governor and the Legislature with a new, focused funding source, a $40 administrative fee and a $50 increase in the DUI fee, to pay for the infusion of money necessary to avert a breakdown of the system. Moreover, the Task Force has recognized and recommended that funding public defense is a necessary governmental expense, not just an optional matter."

The per case funding of Kentucky's defender system is the lowest in the nation, having dropped from 49th to 50th in the last year. Additionally, Kentucky has the lowest fee for death penalty cases in the entire country, $2,500.

Some of the significant Task Force recommendations are:

As a funding mechanism, the following two pieces of funding legislation should be enacted:
 • Amend KRS Chapter 31.120 to provide for an up-front $40 administrative or "user" fee for public defender services, which can be reduced or waived, at the discretion of the court, if the person remains in custody or does not have the financial resources to pay the fee.

Amend KRS 189A.050(1) and (3) to increase the current driving under the influence service from $150 to $200 and dedicate 25 percent of that fee to public defense.

Legislation should be enacted which would require preparation of a fiscal impact statement to measure the effect of all pending legislation on the criminal justice system, including judicial expense.

Increased funding for capital cases. Death penalty cases representation should be regionalized, state-funded and state-administered branch which provides both direct and consultation services in capital cases at trial, appeal and post-conviction levels. The funding for death penalty conflict cases handled by the private bar must be increased substantially.

IRS seeks volunteers

The Internal Revenue Service is now arranging fall and winter class schedules to train volunteers to help others with their taxes.

Debbie Campbell, taxpayer education coordinator for the IRS in Kentucky, says volunteer income tax assistants are often members of community organizations, college students, retirees, and professionals.

"Once they are trained by the IRS to prepare simple tax returns, volunteers set up free tax assistance sites in local schools, churches, libraries and other community centers," Campbell said. "Some volunteers help people with their tax returns while others assist with arranging, setting-up, scheduling, and running sites," she said.

Campbell pointed out that generally, volunteers assist people with disabilities, those with limited or moderate income, individuals who do not speak English, or those with special needs.

Persons interested in being a volunteer should call Campbell or Jean Ladington at the IRS. They can be reached at 582-6259 in Louisville or toll-free at 1-800-829-1040, extension 6259.

Publication 910, "Guide to Free Tax Services," provides a brief description of tax assistance services the IRS offers. This free publication can be ordered by calling IRS toll-free at 1-800-829-3676.

Thanksgiving travel expected to be strong, according to AAA

More Americans are expected to travel 100 miles or more from home over the Thanksgiving holiday period than in any year since 1985 when AAA began making travel projections.

AAA expects 24 million Americans will travel by motor vehicle while another 4.8 million will travel by plane, train or bus.

Heaviest motor vehicle travel will be in the Southeast, with 6.1 million Americans on the roads and in the Midwest, with 4.8 million motorists expected.

Motorists will find the average price of self-serve regular unleaded gasoline to be a bargain. AAA's most recent survey shows the average price nationwide to be $1.16 a gallon, four cents less than a year ago. State-wide, the average is $1.03 and nationally, it's $1.01. The Lexington area survey of 43 service stations showed a range in price of 98 cents to $1.06 a gallon.

AAA's travel projections are based on a national probability survey of 1,500 adults by the U.S. Travel Data Center, which does special research for the motoring federation.

Chronic tax problem? P.R.P. to the rescue

Taxpayers who feel they have reached the last straw in a chronic tax problem should contact the Internal Revenue Service's Problem Resolution Program (PRP) staff.

Janice Farley, problem resolution officer for the IRS in Kentucky, suggests that taxpayers handle tax problems as soon as possible.

"Taxpayers should respond to notices quickly and try to resolve any problem through normal channels," Farley said. "PRP is designed to handle difficult situations that persist after repeated attempts have been made to solve them," she said.

Farley said that a problem resolution officer can also be helpful when a taxpayer is suffering a significant hardship as a result of a federal tax problem. A "significant hardship" could mean that the taxpayer is unable to keep a job, a home, or is unable to buy needed medication.

To contact the IRS Problem Resolution office (PRO) in Kentucky, call (502)582-6030, or write to P.O. Box 1735, Stop 120, Louisville, KY 40201.

KU offers tips on saving energy and managing winter heating costs

Winter is coming, and that means colder temperatures and increased energy use to keep the house warm. To help manage your energy bills, Kentucky Utilities Company (KU) offers some helpful tips on weatherization:

• Keep your heating system in safe, efficient working order. Have it professionally inspected to help ensure trouble-free operation.
 • Clean or replace heating system filters monthly. Check belts and lubricate motors periodically, if required. Consult the owner's manual for details.

Stop air leaks in duct joints by sealing them with duct sealing mastic. Insulate ducts that pass through areas that aren't heated.

Make sure your home has enough insulation. Proper levels of insulation will also help the home stay cooler in summer.

Reduce air leaks around windows and doors with caulking and weather stripping.

Install tightly fitting storm windows. Plastic sheets, fastened over windows inside or out, are a good low-cost substitute.

Set thermostats no higher than necessary for comfort.

Close doors to unheated areas. Avoid opening outside doors unnecessarily.

Never let furniture, drapes or anything else block registers or air return.

Close dampers when fireplaces are not in use, or block the opening to prevent heated air from escaping up the chimney.

Stop by your KU office for free pamphlets on weatherization or contact a KU energy service adviser for more information on energy efficiency.

Kentucky Utilities Company, based in Lexington, is committed to serving its customers and shareholders by producing reliable, low-cost electric energy.

The company provides electricity to more than 430,000 customers in 77 Kentucky counties and five counties in southwestern Virginia. KU is the principal subsidiary of KU Energy Corporation.

License suspended

The State Board of Medical Licensure has suspended a Somerset doctor a second time.

The board reportedly involved the new suspension on Dr. Russell Holtzclaw after receiving additional allegations of sexual misconduct involving female patients.

Holtzclaw's license had already been suspended for three months after a patient alleged he had tried to rape her.

The board has directed its staff to prepare new complaints against the doctor.

To Whom It May Concern

About the poems,
 I write down.
 No flames are ever mentioned,
 From our town.

There are a lot of people
 That don't pay their bills
 They owe a lot
 Owe up to buy needed medicine.

I got a letter
 The other day
 From someone
 Who lived far away
 They didn't like what I had to say.

They wanted me about putting
 My poems in the paper
 And threatened me with slander

I hope they are looking
 And really take a gander.

If some folks complain
 That's their tough
 The courts ought to Really get rough.

We work hard,
 For what we've got
 They ought to be made to pay.
 The whole rotten lot.

Some sign notes
 Promising to pay
 We are lucky if we get some
 From them today.

People be careful
 Be wise from the start
 Don't give out credit
 And you won't fall apart.

Rockcastle County Schools Plan for Incremental Weather School Closing - Early Dismissals

Every effort will be made to keep parents and concerned citizens informed as to school closing, early dismissal and possibly a delay plan.

The number one concern is the safety of students. After an extensive evaluation of road conditions in the county, taking into consideration all roads, a decision will be made in regard to closing school.

School closing will be announced on four radio stations and three television stations and they are as follows: Radio - WRVK (AM-1460), WKXO (AM-1500, FM-106.7), WVUK (FM-93); Television - WKYT (Channel 27) WLEX (Channel 18), WTVQ (Channel 36). If possible, the closing will be announced the evening before the closing date. If a determination cannot be made the day prior to the closing date, every possible effort will be made to reach a decision by 6:00 a.m. The announcement will be made no later than 6:30 a.m. This will be conducted the same for the delay plan, if it is concluded the delay plan will be the appropriate plan of action.

If the delay plan is used, breakfast will be served upon the arrival of students at school.

Early dismissal of school due to inclement weather will be announced only on WRVK. Roads will be closely monitored as school is in session to determine if there is a need for early dismissal. If the need for early dismissal does occur, parents should make arrangements to meet children as they arrive early.

Parents and students should not call any radio or television stations to inquire as to the information they may or may not have received in relation to school closing. This could delay the information distribution to the necessary channel by phone lines being tied up.

Rockcastle County School System Delay Plan

Occasionally, there are mornings when an additional hour is needed to change bus routes and temperatures/weather conditions sometimes can change between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m. As a result, the Rockcastle County School System will consider a one hour delay in school opening due to weather conditions:

If a one-hour delay status is warranted, the delay will be announced by the following radio stations: WRVK (AM-1460), WKXO (AM-1500 and FM 106.7), WVUK (FM-93), and the following television stations: WLEX (Channel 18); WKYT (Channel 27), WTVQ (Channel 36), at 6 a.m. or as soon as possible.

There may be a time when a few isolated bus routes may not be made or may be delayed for an hour while the rest of the bus routes will be made on the regular schedule. These bus routes will be announced only on WRVK radio station.

In instances of a delay schedule, breakfast will be served as soon as students arrive at school.

Below-cost sales on timber has fizzled

The move to ban below-cost timber sales in the Daniel Boone National Forest has fizzled, but officials are taking steps to make a profit anyway.

In Washington, meanwhile, a wildlife biologist who is no friend of the timber industry has been named chief of the Forest Service, according to a report in the Lexington Herald-Leader.

Brad Powell, acting supervisor of the Daniel Boone, said the appointment of biologist Jack Ward Thomas might, in the long run, put more emphasis on managing eco-systems and less emphasis on logging.

But in the short term, the decision not to ban below-cost sales means there will continue to be cut in the forest, which covers 670,000 acres in 22 Eastern Kentucky counties. About 4,000 acres are logged each year.

It is good news for the logging industry in the region and for county governments that get a share of the money from timber sales.

It had been feared by environmentalists who contended that the Forest Service pays too much attention to timber and not enough to wildlife.

In the fiscal year that began Oct. 1, the forest might for the first time make more money selling timber than it costs to prepare trees for sale, Powell said.

The ledger usually has a minus sign on the bottom line.

In 1992, for example, the 38 million board feet of lumber cut on the Daniel Boone brought in $2.16 million. But the timber program cost $3.5 million to operate, including $544,000 paid to county governments.

Nationally, the Forest Service lost $300 million on 101 forests. The reason: Federal regulations require surveys for endangered species and archaeological sites before trees are cut. They also specify that logging road be built in areas where they won't cause erosion and that streams be protected.

Those costs, which are not required when trees are cut on private land, are charged against timber sales.

The way those costs are calculated means that, by the Forest Service's own reckoning, the Daniel Boone lost $8.2 million between 1987 and 1992.

Powell and other officials at the Daniel Boone say the accounting method is misleading. They say it does not take into account the hundreds of jobs created by logging, income taxes paid on those wages or the less tangible hundreds of thousands of dollars in long-term benefits for wildlife.

Critics charge that the accounting is just as misleading in the opposite direction. They say logging loses more money than the Forest Service shows, and that it spells long-term trouble for wildlife.

Already fewer trees are being cut than called for in the last plan. With more knowledge of ecosystems and threatened and endangered species, Powell said, the next plan is likely to call for less logging.

In the meantime, Powell said he is trying to squeeze more money out of the timber program.

Several steps have been taken in the last six months to make more money from timber sales, he said.

They include: Selling the trees in smaller parcels. The average sale had been 1 million board feet. Smaller sales increases competition because more companies can afford to bid.

Packaging sales to bring more money. An area that has some hardwood and some softwood might be split and sold to companies that want each. Cutting down on the administrative costs of preparing for sales. Officials say, however, that surveys for environmental and cultural resources are not being changed.

Saving money after sales by allowing logged areas to reseed themselves instead of replanting.

Coupled with the cost-saving measures is an increase in prices for timber, especially for hardwood.

And the accounting method has changed somewhat, that payments to counties are no longer considered an expense.

Under the new formula, for example, the $1.4 million lost in 1992 was shown as a loss of $800,000.

Water dilutes tobacco profits, experts report

Sometimes tobacco needs water; other times it doesn't. In fact, adding water at the wrong time can be down right expensive.

"Tobacco has cured and finished well this season; don't ruin a good crop with a water hose," said Bill Maksymowicz, Extension tobacco specialist with the University of Kentucky. "It will pay to bring cured leaf into order naturally before taking it down instead of using water. The water you use now will guarantee you a lower price later."

"Finish is what sells dark-fired tobacco," he explained. "And water washes the finish off cured leaf. Two pounds of water in 98 pounds of tobacco will cost you $30 to $40."

Excessive water also leads to spoilage by creating a growth chamber for microorganisms that cause decay.

"Growers who straight grade will see higher profits on the warehouse floor," Maksymowicz added. "The 50-cent difference in the support prices for straight versus mixed grades is a strong incentive. It costs a little more to straight grade, but that extra effort means more money in your pocket."

"If some of your finished leaf is darker than the rest, keep it separate," Maksymowicz said. "The darker leaf might fill a niche that will make you a little more money this year. Always put leaf that's dirty, green or sweated in a separate grade."

Nesting is an expensive game to play because it hurts the whole tobacco industry, according to Maksymowicz.

"Growers risk losing their crop and the check that goes with it because government regulations can require forfeiture of nested tobacco," he explained. "Nesting can tarnish the reputation of a market area as weed spread among companies that tobacco sold there is not what it's represented to be."

Maksymowicz advised growers to stick to a wood finish.

"It's false economy to use tricks like molasses and brown sugar to 'help finish' poor quality leaf," he said.

"These tricks make a sticky leaf that is hard to handle and process. This deception can hurt market prices."

"It all boils down to having the patience to wait for a natural season so you have the best possible crop to present on the warehouse floor," Maksymowicz said.

Sweet Sixteen Academic Showcase

Deadline nears

Dec. 1 is the deadline for Kentucky high school students to register at their schools to compete for college scholarships in the 1994 Sweet 16 Academic Showcase.

More than $48,250 in scholarships will be awarded through the ninth annual Showcase. The scholarships may be used at any Kentucky college, university or post-secondary educational institution.

Scholarships for individual first place winners are $2,000, $1,200 for second; and $850 for third. In the computer team competitions each first place student receives $1,350; second, $950, and third $650.

Two deer were killed Sunday by Bruce Wynn, right, and Howard McHargue. Wynn killed the 8-point buck and McHargue the 4-point while hunting on Chestnut Ridge. The 8-point weighed 135 pounds and the 4-point 120 pounds.

Tony Isaacs, Mt. Vernon, killed this 7-point buck on Nov. 16 on his family's property in Jackson County.

Robert Earl Newcomb, of Mt. Vernon, proudly displays his 20-point buck that he killed at near Scaggs Creek in Rockcastle County.

Interested students should contact their principals or academic counselors about registration and rules for various competitions.

All English and journalism entries for the Showcase also must be submitted by midnight December 1.

Competitions will be held in Art, 1-D and 2-D; Music, vocal and instrumental; Journalism; feature writing and essay; English, creative writing and speech; Chess, and Computer problem solving.

Regional competitions will be held at Eastern Kentucky University, Jan. 22; Morehead State University, Jan. 29; Kentucky Wesleyan College, Feb. 5; and Georgetown College, Feb. 19.

The state finals will be held March 20-21 at Transylvania University in Lexington.

This year about 1,500 students from 190 high schools in 90 counties participated in the regional competitions with 103 students from 103 high schools competing in the state finals.

Since the Academic Showcase was started in 1985 by Sixth District U.S. Representative Scotty Baseler, over $570,000 in scholarships have been awarded to 550 Kentucky students.

A large portion of the funds raised for the scholarships come from an annual televised auction which will be held Jan. 11. The Showcase is also underwritten by private sponsors.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

This Thursday is a national holiday in our country called "Thanksgiving Day."

Thanksgiving is an important thing for men and women to do, not just on the 4th Thursday of November, but something that should be done every day we live.

In Luke 17:12-19 Jesus teaches us the importance of giving thanks. Ten lepers cried for mercy and Jesus healed them. "And one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, and with a loud voice, glorified God and fell down on his face at his feet, giving him thanks: and he was a Samaritan. And Jesus answering said, were not ten cleansed? But where are the nine? There are not found that returned to give glory to God, save this stranger."

Yes, too many of us are like the nine, we receive blessings from the Lord, but fail to give thanks, shame on us!

In 1 Thes. 5:18 we read, "In every thing give thanks: for this is the will of God in Christ Jesus concerning you."

It's God's will that we give thanks for all the good things he does for us. Does he only do good things for us one Thursday a year? Is there ever a day that God does not do something that we cannot be thankful for?

Paul in Rom. 1:21 said, "Because that, when they knew God, they glorified Him not as God, neither were thankful; but became vain in their imaginations, and their foolish heart was darkened." We see two fundamental errors of the Gentiles, that led them down the path of the knowledge of God, failing to recognize Him as Creator. Secondly, they were not thankful, which implies two things. They had someone to be thankful to; God; and they had something to be thankful for. We too, have many things to be thankful for, both in the physical realm and in the spiritual realm. God gives us life, breath and all things, to sustain our bodies. He offers us all spiritual blessings in Christ to all who we believe and obey the gospel of Christ. Indeed, we have much to be thankful for, always! Eph. 5:20.

RE: Rockcastle Ministerial Association merchant statement

We, members of the Rockcastle Ministerial Association have expressed the desire to advance the cause of Christ in Rockcastle County. In testimony to that purpose we feel it only proper that we should also support the merchants of this county through the several needs our association might have by making the Rockcastle merchants our primary source for those needs. If, and only if, we find that a particular need cannot be met by a Rockcastle merchant we will then seek to satisfy that need outside the Rockcastle area. It is our intent to support the community with Notice To Parents, Teachers and Employees of the Rockcastle County Board of Education.

On October 22, 1986, President Reagan signed into law the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act (AHERA, Public Law 99-519). The law required EPA to develop regulations which provide a comprehensive framework for addressing asbestos problems in public and private elementary and secondary schools. On October 30, 1987, EPA published the Asbestos-Containing Materials in Schools Rule (40 CFR Part 763 Subpart E). This Rule requires all public and private elementary and secondary schools to inspect for friable and non-friable asbestos, develop asbestos management plans that address asbestos hazards in school buildings and implement response actions in a timely fashion.

To carry out the above activities involving inspections, management plans and response actions, the Rockcastle County Board of Education has utilized accredited personnel. On April 30, 1987, EPA published the Model Accreditation Plan (40 CFR Part 763 Appendix C to Subpart E) required by AHERA, which specifies training, examination and other requirements for persons who inspect, develop management plans and design or conduct response actions in schools. The Model Plan became effective on June 1, 1987.

In 1988, the Rockcastle County Board of Education retained Barry W. Cooper, P.E. who completed an initial inspection to locate all asbestos-containing building materials (ACBM) and developed and submitted to the state of Kentucky an Asbestos Management Plan that includes the results of the inspections. In December of 1988, the Rockcastle County Board of Education began to implement this management plan.

Copies of the management plan are always available for review for those interested persons at the Administration Office at Rt. 5, Box 69, Mt. Vernon, Ky, and at the Principal's Office at each school all year time during normal office hours.

Copies are available for duplication at a cost of 25 cents for each 8 1/2 x 11 page of the Management Plan.

In Memory of Gary Shepherd

Thanksgiving— Gary Shepherd's family will give thanks when our state police stop killing a man in their attempts to kill a weed. They shot him, execution style, in front of his family, his neighbors, his community and the country that he fought for. They shot to kill and did not attempt to save his life. They did not try to solve the matter peacefully and they did not let family members negotiate with Gary while he was alive. In short, they did not do their job. Everyone involved in his murder has committed a great crime and they need to be held accountable for it. When the truth prevails and justice is served, that's when Gary Shepherd's family will give thanks...

FHA gets project grant

A project which allows Rockcastle County High School students to interact with targeted at-risk children within the community has been funded by the Kentucky Department of Education.

The RCHS Future Homemakers of America's Big Buddies Program, will receive $1,000 this year to enhance the activities they have been involved in for the past two years.

Twelve grants were given throughout the state to promote community-learning service projects.

An extensive profile of the organization was submitted to a state committee by Ms. June Stevens, FHA advisor, in order to qualify for the grant. This profile sets guidelines the program must follow throughout the year.

The Big Buddies Program is a cooperative effort between FHA and the Family Resources Center whose staff members find the younger students and help monitor the relationship.

The goal of the program is for the Big Buddy to serve as role model, providing a positive influence in the Little Buddy's life.

Both the teens and selected children benefit from the companionship that is developed. The Little Buddies feel important and strive to achieve goals they feel their Big Buddies have set for them.

"I'm really glad to be a part of the program this year. I want to make a difference in a child's life," says Beth Collins, a new Big Buddy. "Most kids look up to teens, and I want to have a positive influence on their lives."

The Big Buddies gain greater understanding of responsibility, of various lifestyles and of children.

The relationship formed between the two is based on love and friendship. The participants spend time together tutoring, talking on the phone, cooking, playing, going to the movies or out to eat and sharing ideas.

The grant money will be used to assist the Big Buddies in carrying out these activities. The proposed budget includes allowances for such things as recreation, tutoring supplies, family outings, entertainment and

GROUP ACTIVITIES

The local Big Buddies Program has grown over the past two years and is gaining recognition throughout the state. Student leaders of the project have been asked to present the program at the state FHA convention this spring.

House approves Southern route for Interstate 66

The full House of Representatives gave its approval recently to legislation authored by U.S. Rep. Harold Rogers to lock-in the Kentucky route for Interstate 66.

U.S. Rep. Hal Rogers, R-Somerset, had this route locked into place by adding language to the highway authorization bill.

"It would be the most important thing that could be done economically for both Eastern and southern and even Western Kentucky," Rogers said.

Preparations are still in the early stages and no one knows yet how much the trans-continental road would cost. So far, money has only been allocated for a feasibility study.

Rogers said it would be at least a few years before construction could begin, but the road will be built. "It will be built in due course of time. I can't tell you when," he said.

Entering Kentucky near Williamson, W. Va., the superhighway would connect the Pikeville, Jenkins, Hazard, London, Somerset, Columbia and Bowling Green areas.

It would continue through Western Kentucky along a route centered on Hopkinsville, Benton and Paducah. U.S. Rep. Tom Batlow, D-Paduach, requested that these western cities be added to the locked-in route.

The exact path of the proposed highway is not spelled out, but the highway would be required to fall within 25 miles of these cities.

Rogers said only Kentucky and West Virginia would have I-66 routes specified in the law.

The feasibility study also is looking at adding more high-tech features such as a high-speed rail system, Rogers said.

The legislation passed Monday by a unanimous voice vote.

Rogers has worked for many years to insure that the new superhighway would run through Southern and Eastern Kentucky. On the floor of the House of Representatives today, Rogers said running the highway through Eastern Kentucky's mountain communities will help provide long-term economic growth to a region that badly needs new jobs.

"(This bill) contains an amendment which stipulates the route of the I-66 corridor in Southern and Eastern Kentucky, consistent with the early studies now underway," Rogers said.

"This insures that a new I-66 will come through our Eastern Kentucky region bringing economic development and jobs."

Lexington Mayor Pam Miller favors the southern route, said spokesman Susan Straub. She said Lexington already has Interstates 75 and 64, while southern Kentucky needs the economic benefits that would come with an east-west interstate.

Rogers said he expects the legislation to sail through the senate and be signed into law by President Clinton.

The American Experience chronicles two little-known events in American history

KET presents two films in The American Experience series. "The Hunt for Pancho Villa," airing Monday, November 29 and "The Hurricane of '38," airing Wednesday, December 1, which cover little-known episodes in United States history of the 20th century. Both begin at 8 p.m.

Just before dawn on March 9, 1916, a band of Mexican revolutionaries loyal to Gen. Francisco "Pancho" Villa crossed the border into the United States and attacked the town of Columbus, N.M. Seventeen Americans and 67 Mexicans were killed in the encounter.

Within a week, thousands of American soldiers would invade Mexico; within a few months, 150,000 U.S. troops - the largest American deployment since the Civil War - would be mobilized for an expedition into Mexico. Gen. John "Black Jack" Pershing led the mission to capture Pancho Villa, dead or alive. This dramatic effort brought the U.S. and Mexico to the brink of war, but failed to bring Villa to justice.

Each light of recognition will shine from the lighting ceremony at 6:00 p.m. Friday, December 3, through January 1, 1994.

To share in this community project, fill out the attached form and send it with your donation by November 30th to: Administration - Berea Hospital 305 Eastill Street Berea, Ky. 40403

Don't they understand that cannabiz helps ease with AIDS consume food which in turn increases their chance of longevity? Must one be arrested for wanting to survive? Living only a few months after the Science & Truth hearings, this person had given their best in the fight for truth and justice for all infected with AIDS.

Was this individual male, or female? Folks it makes no difference as we're all candidates for AIDS, and when it happens to one, we know, or one of us, we'll understand the intamination and humiliation experienced by those infected. Is this what it will take for society to accept the use of cannabiz for treatment of this disease?

Mister, can you help me find my friend?

Ten-year-old Catherine Williams seems to be asking directions in the showing at the giant North American International Livestock Exposition (NAILE) during mid-November. Texan Gary Buchholz responds with a bit of advice, amid an atmosphere of busy ringside action.

Gary and Catherine are typical of thousands of livestock producers from across America who compete at the North American International for over $450,000 in premiums and awards. Altogether, breeders like Gary and Catherine are among producers who have made American livestock agriculture the greatest production force in the world.

Gary Buchholz is a resident of Louisville with his purebred Shorthorns to vie for winning positions at the NAILE. While young Catherine's state was not identified, she is typical of thousands of young people who compete in showings and in various contests each year at the big livestock expo.

Both Catherine and Gary were in the make-up when the photographer captured this candid moment. They are both producers of purebred Shorthorn cattle.

More than 16,500 entrants from 43 states participated in the 20th Annual North American International Livestock Exposition. Visitors at the expo top 200,000 annually. The North American International is the largest, all-breed, purebred livestock exposition in the world. It takes place each year during the first two weeks of November in Louisville.
