Regional workshop on jobs growth planned

A regional workshop on jobs growth will be held in Somerset Thursday, January 13, at the Holiday Inn for governmental and business leaders from Rockcastle and 10 other area counties.

The workshop is the second in a series being presented by the Kentucky Institute for Economic Development (KIED) in cooperation with the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development, the Kentucky Industrial Development Council and the East Kentucky Development Roundtable.

Registration for the workshop will begin at 8:30 a.m. with the program beginning at 9 a.m. The registration fee of $45 includes course materials, lunch and refreshment breaks.

William L. Short, commissioner of the Department of Community Development, said the January 13 workshop at Somerset and those planned in the future are designed for mayors, city council members, magistrates, judge/executives, magistrates, city council members, business leaders and concerned citizens.

"The workshop is designed for anyone interested in being better informed about retaining, attracting and creating jobs for their local communities," Short said. He said participants will be able to gain a basic understanding of the essentials of local economic development, organization of an effective program, and the planning and preparation that are required for a local jobs development program to be successful.

Wayne Foster, KIED director, said that all economic development eventually happens at the local level. "Along with a community having a basic preparedness for industry, another key need is that of local leadership with a basic understanding of generally accepted concepts and principles involved in the economic development process. This workshop can provide such an understanding," Foster said.

Counties in addition to Rockcastle participating in the workshop will be Adair, Casey, Clinton, Cumberland, Laurel, McCreary, Pulaski, Russell, Wayne and Whitley. Persons wanting more information about the workshop can contact Steve Carter, director of the East Kentucky Economic Development Office, at (606) 886-0169, or Ms. Linda Ritchie at (502) 564-7140.

Hospital opens renovated wing

Rockcastle Hospital Administrator Lee Keene is all smiles this week. The state has allowed him to open seven private hospital rooms thereby completing Phase I of renovation of the older section of the hospital after nearly six months.

The state had held up approval for several days' due to an illness in Frankfort.

The seven beautifully appointed rooms were decorated by Rebecca Hammonds Interiors. They show a remarkable professionalism and are equal to any anywhere.

Four double rooms have also been opened for patients earlier, so all acute rooms have been completely renovated.

The entire area was torn out and rebuilt with an individual shower and bathroom facilities.

Each private room has a telephone and 19-inch television with a remote.

Looking into 105, which we did, there is a large solid cherry entertainment center. Across the room is a cherry night stand. All have closet and drawer space. Individual heaters are also in each room that can be

For the record, the private rooms cost about $10,000 each to renovate. The double rooms, $72,000 each. CBS of Somerset did the double rooms.

ton) was the architect for the private rooms.

Next phase in the hospital remodeling comes about April 1. Keene said, when there will be five double patient rooms added.

It was the first time in years that the hospital has been upgraded, except for the respiratory wing.

"It was long overdue," someone commented.

The hospital is a non-profit tax exempt facility. The building was constructed about 40 years ago and still belongs to Rockcastle County. It is operated by a Board of Directors. Supreme Court Justice Jose Lambert is chairman.

This past week every available bed in the hospital (all new) were filled with ill people.

"Some kind of virus hit everyone at once," one doctor said. "But we're beginning to cope."

Clays Ferry bridge work

Rockcastle Countians, as well as other I-75 travelers, will be experiencing traffic hard-ships for the next three years, as the Department of Transportation has decided it is time for a new Clays Ferry Bridge.

The $32 million bridge reconstruction project, which is estimated to be completed in 1997, is expected to solve two problems - improve safety and ease traffic congestion.

What does this mean for those hundreds of natives who travel I-75 every day, to work and play in Lexington?

Lots of backups and waiting, probably, as the plan also includes widening I-75 between Madison and Fayette counties to six lanes.

Clays Ferry Bridge, which presently consists of two separate two-lane structures with three foot shoulders, will be converted to a single, six-lane structure.

Project manager Allan Frank sees the new structure being safer and more convenient for commuters.

The present narrow roadway and lack of adequate shoulders present safety hazards to those traveling down

David McCall, an engineer with the Department of Transportation, notes, "Being without any place to get out of the traffic stream is very hazardous."

For those of you who have always wondered exactly how high up you are when travelling across the bridge, you are 245.5 feet above the Kentucky River.

The I-75 bridges have spanned the Kentucky River since 1946, when the present northbound structure was built. The present southbound bridge was added in 1963.

The bridge project will proceed in four stages:

- First, the construction crew will build a bridge between the existing structures to ease the flow of traffic during subsequent stages.

- Second, the southbound bridge will be removed and then replaced.

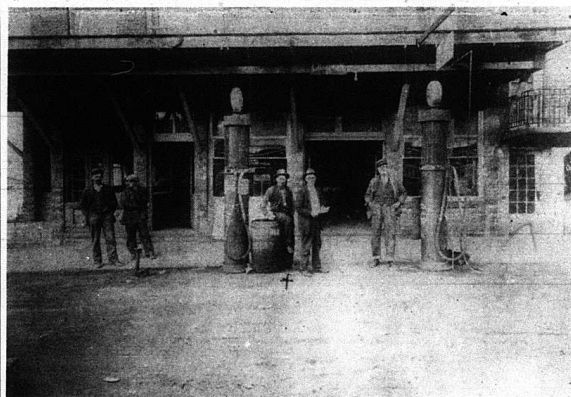

- Third, the northbound bridge will be removed and replaced.

- Finally, the new structures will be unified, giving each road a total of 60 feet, twice the width of the current bridge roadways.

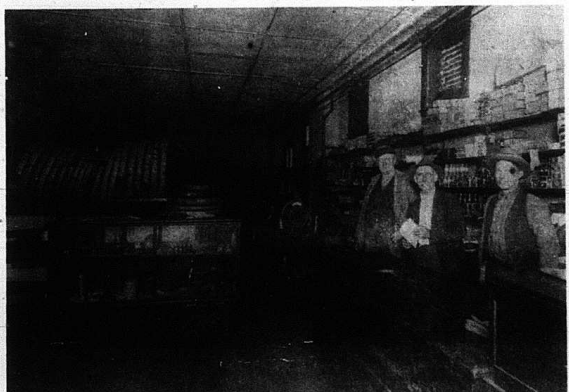

Another view of one of the renovated rooms. The panel behind the bed contains equipment for caring for the patient and the panel is also of cherrywood.

In days gone by

Brown, unidentified, Earl Phillips, Mr. Bowman and Preston Fralix. The bottom photo shows the interior of the garage which obviously stocked all the necessities to keep the Model As and Ts of the day on the road.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

Today we want to talk about the sinful practice of the wearing of religious ties or distinctions.

In Mt. 23:6-10 we read, "And love the uppermost rooms at feasts, and the chief seats in the synagogues, and greetings in the market, and to be called of men, rabbi, rabbi. But he that is greatest among you, let him be as the youngest, and all ye are brethren and call no man your father upon the earth: for one is your father, which is in Heaven. Neither be ye called masters: for one is your master, even Christ."

Jesus is dealing with a fundamental idea that the jews had, a two class distinction. Those who exalted themselves and those they were exalted over. But Jesus points out that in the New Testament order of things, there is only one class, brethren. All are brethren, saints, Christians, children of God, priests, and kings, 1 Cor. 12:1, Ac. 11:26, in Christ Jesus. This dual class has been taught and propagated in Catholicism and Protestant denominationalism. It's called the "clergy-lay" system. Some have a "Separate priesthood" instead of what Peter teaches in 1 Pet. 2:5, that every Christian is a priest unto God, able to offer up spiritual sacrifices through Christ Jesus. Others hold to a concept that these separate, distinct class of saints are above the rest of the common folk.

One of the most common examples of this idea in the minds of men is the religious titles or distinctions. Reverend, Most Reverend, D.D. or Doctor of Divinity, father, are all used to give distinction between the "clergy" and the "laity." When folks will take to heart Jesus' simple teaching of Mt. 23:8 that "All ye are brethren" they will lay aside the clergy-lay concept that there is God. There is an equality in Christ Jesus as Paul also taught in Gal. 3:28. Sure there is a functional subordination in the body of Christ, as in the Godhead, 1 Cor. 11:3, 1 Tim. 2:11-12, Heb. 13:17, but such does not uplift the notion of a clergy-lay doctrine taught by men. We encourage all to accept the teachings of Christ.

Dear Editor,
 You and I have never met and I doubt we ever will. However I want you and the people of Mt. Vernon to know that a treasure you have in your little town.

My daughter, Linda Bales and I came to Rockcastle County looking for information regarding my great grandfather. First we went to the courthouse. They directed us to your library. By this time, we only had twenty minutes before the library closed for the day. Now this is where your treasure comes in -- in the form of Geraldine Robbins' library director. We told her what we were looking for -- she gave us books and helped us look. My great grandfather was J.H. Merrymann born in Rockcastle County. His wife was born in Pulaski County. We are also related to Ruben C. Pew. We were able to connect several relatives with dates etc.

We will forever be grateful to Mrs. Robbins. She stayed a half hour past closing time, not once suggesting we leave. She knew we wouldn't be able to return again. She deserves an award for her dedication by helping those of us who she doesn't even know. Her help was invaluable in such a short time, for information she provided.

If you or the Historical Society needs information regarding descendants of the Merrymann Clan, that you don't have, we would be more than pleased to provide any information we have.

Thank you for your time.
 Sincerely,

The weight loss journey from TOPS

The lure of the journey is strong; it takes us away from what we've always known, promising fresh vistas and new experiences. It offers possibilities for re-making ourselves and living the life we could only dream about in our normal surroundings.

"Losing weight is like embarking on a journey," said Brenda Hamn, spokesperson for TOPS Club, Inc. "Now, as the new year begins and resolutions are still fresh, take a few moments to think about what makes a successful journey. Apply the same principles of your weight-loss journey."

Here are some travel tips as you embark on your weight-loss journey from TOPS (Take Off Pounds sensibly).

- Before you leave, determine your destination. Consult your physician and get a reasonable diet and exercise recommendation from him or her. Only your doctor can tailor an individualized program to fit your specific needs.

- Think about your journey. This heightens anticipation and prolongs the pleasure of your trip. Think about how you will feel healthier and lighter. Imagine feeling stronger.

- Talk to your travel agent and make reservations. Ask other people how their weight-loss journey worked for them, gather tips and information. Then, set reasonable small goals for yourself that you can really achieve. Tell other people about them. Ask for support.

- Choose your travel companions. Many times, being part of a tour group enhances your experience. It helps to take others along to share your experiences, challenges and success.
- Budget for your trip. Don't be hooked into diet gimmicks, high priced food or fancy equipment.
- Pack appropriately. That means light. Eat light, feel light. Enjoy light.
- Finally, show off your pictures. Let everyone enjoy seeing the new you!

One word of caution: Don't think of your successful weight loss at the end of your journey or you'll be disappointed to find you'll need to take the same journey again. Think of this as the beginning of many new travels to come. Start planning all the exciting new things you want to do, now that you've achieved your goal of weight loss.

TOPS Club, Inc. is a nonprofit, noncommercial support group for individuals interested in losing weight and maintaining the weight loss for a lifetime. TOPS members will be talking about weight loss journeys during the month of January. There are almost 12,000 weekly meetings. For information on a chapter nearest you call 1-800-932-8677.

Wintertime safety tips for your home

Most of us think of our homes as pretty safe places, and they usually are. But no home is entirely free of hazards, and winter brings with it a unique set of perils.

The Mt. Vernon Signal • Thursday, January 13, 1994 • P-83

Many of winter's household dangers are hidden," reminds William Griswold, vice president of Geico's Property Insurance Center. "But don't allow out of sight to mean out of mind. Take care of cold weather household chores now to prevent costly, possibly dangerous consequences later."

- To protect your family and your home, Griswold offers the following advice:

- Have your furnace professionally cleaned and checked for defects annually. A faulty furnace could release odorless but deadly carbon monoxide fumes into your home.

- Assure your fireplace is safe for use by having the chimney professionally cleaned and inspected for cracks that could allow flames to spread and ignite flammable house structures.

- Insulate pipes in basement crawl spaces and other unheated areas of your home to prevent freezing and bursting. Pipes leading to outside freeze, so cut off water to these pipes and open spigots to allow all water to drain.

- Clean leaves and other debris from rain gutters and downspouts to prevent water from backing up into your home and to prevent ice damage to your roof and its supporting structures.

- Assure your own safety and prevent liability for injury to others by keeping walkways and steps free of ice and snow.

"Why take chances this winter?" Griswold asked. "A few simple, relatively inexpensive steps today can help assure a safe, worry-free winter for you and your home."

Kentucky's underground water supplies free of most contaminants

Kentucky's underground water supplies are, for the most part, free of significant agricultural contamination, according to results of an extensive well water testing program.

Only 4.5 percent of the well tested in 108 Kentucky counties showed nitrate levels above allowable limits and less than one per cent displayed significant amounts of farm pesticides.

The findings were released January 5 by sponsors of the program. The testing began in 1990 as part of an industry initiative to determine the safety of rural drinking water supplies and to establish a database on groundwater quality trends.

"These findings are very encouraging for farmers and other rural residents, because it shows that the vast majority of water sources have not been seriously contaminated by agricultural activities," said William R. Sprague, Kentucky Farm Bureau president.

And for the problems that were surfaced, we are moving to determine their cause and to take corrective action," Sprague said.

Agriculture Commissioner Ed Logsdon called the testing program a "bold first step for Kentucky agriculture to proactively address environmental issues and safeguard agricultural resources."

Logsdon added: "our strategy is to get together as much information as possible, then devise common-sense approaches for future farming technology that is environmentally friendly. It's the right way, the only way to get the job done."

Although well testing for bacterial contamination is a common practice by local health departments, this program is thought to be the first in Kentucky to gauge concentrations of nitrates and pesticides.

Trace levels of nitrates are present in most soils and groundwater, but elevated concentrations from animal waste, home septic systems or farm fertilizers are considered a potential health threat.

A maximum contaminant level of 10 parts per million has been set by EPA as a threshold level for concern. Nearly one in four of the 4,859 tested wells showed levels between 3 and 10 parts per million, but fewer than one in twenty exceeded the EPA standard.

The pesticide testing, conducted on 2,479 well water samples, involved the widely used herbicides triazine and 16 percent showed traces of a chlordane. However, all but a tiny fraction were below the official health advisory levels of the two substances.

Six wells were above the maximum contaminant level of three parts per billion for atrazine, a triazine compound, and seven exceeded the benchmark of 2 parts per billion for alachlor.

Most of the problem areas pinpointed by testing were at least partially related to well construction and design, with additional factors tied to chemical handling, proximity to homes and outbuildings and methods of fertilizer and pesticide application.

Older wells, shallow wells, and wells that were either dug or driven, were at least three times more likely to show significant contamination than newer, drilled wells. Wells that were directly adjacent to crop areas and confined animal feedlots also had higher levels of contamination.

"These are factors that can be dealt with, and we are already moving to correct the problems we found," said University Agriculture College Dean C. Oran Little.

"Our extension personnel have already helped a number of farmers who asked for advice on ways to safeguard their water supplies," Little said. "We anticipate many more such requests in the future. This will be one of our top priority areas."

Along with the announcement of the test results, program sponsors say they will offer follow-up testing in 1994 and future years, with organized campaigns in separate spring and fall test periods.

Test kits will be made available to landowners in counties where at least 30 participants request them. March 1 is the enrollment deadline for the spring '94 test period, which includes April, May and June.

At least five test options will be available in this year's follow-up program. They include tests for nitrates, four types of pesticides, volatile organics, and two groups of toxic metals.

Sponsors say costs for this year's testing may exceed the $6 average from earlier drives, since federal funding has run out. In any case, the tests' cost will be discounted by the tab to reflect the program's group rate.

Dairy refund payment program announced

The Rockcastle County ASCS office announces the Dairy Refund Payment Program. Those eligible include persons who were commercial producers of milk at the farm level, those who received milk proceeds that were reduced by the statutory reduction, and those who did not during the year for which the reduction was made exceed their milk marketing from the equivalent months and days of the preceding calendar year.

A producer is eligible to receive a refund payment of withheld amounts if evidence is provided that the producer has an interest, did not increase milk marketing in the refund period, when compared to the immediately preceding calendar year.

The producer seeking the refund payment shall be responsible for proving that the refund payment is due by submitting all relevant data needed to establish eligibility of the refund payment amount. Acceptable evidence of marketings and reduction amounts shall be payment receipts or statements from milk handlers showing the following: name and address of producer, pounds of milk marketed during the refund and base periods (1992 and 1993), amount of assessment deducted for CCC during the refund period (1993), and the name and address of the milk handler.

Those interested in the Dairy Refund Payment Program should come by the Rockcastle County ASCS

Office no later than March 15, 1994, with the needed documentation to file an application.

ASCS Programs are open to all persons regardless of race, age, sex, color, religion, national origin, or handicap.

Kentucky Dairywomen's Conference

"Making Money in the Dairy Business" is the theme of the 1994 Kentucky Dairy Conference which will be presented at three locations on Jan. 18, 19 and 20.

Bill Crist, Extension dairy specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and coordinator of the conference, said sessions will be at the Holiday Inn North in Lexington on Jan. 18 and then repeated the next day at the Greenwood Executive Inn in Bowling Green and at the Holiday Inn in Somerset on Jan. 20.

"Our special guest speaker will be John Hold, farm management specialist at the University of Florida, who will talk about integrating herd, and farm management," Crist said. "He will look at how to manage long and short-term risks on the dairy farm. He is a dynamic speaker who presents financial concepts in an interesting and understandable way."

The conference also will include Steve Isaacs, farm management specialist at UK, who will discuss information pertinent to Kentucky dairy farmers and how to identify problems and make decisions.

Ken Nobis, a dairy producer from St. Johns, Mich., will tell how he and his brother increased their rolling herd average from 18,500 pounds of milk per cow per year in 1986 to 27,500 pounds in 1991 while increasing the herd size by two-thirds without buying additional animals.

Nobis was involved in a field trial using BST, a growth hormone which has been approved for general use beginning in February.

Bill Payne and Ross Russell, two Kentucky producers from Lincoln and Russell Counties, will report on two different, but successful, approaches to managing dairy farms.

Commercial exhibits will be present at all three locations where latest products will be on display and company representatives on hand to provide information to participants. For more information, contact the county Extension agent.

Eligible losses for disaster lease and transfer of tobacco quotas to be covered by ASCS

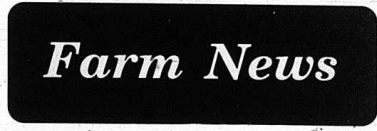

The Agricultural Adjustment Act of 1938, as amended, provides for disaster leasing of burley tobacco quotas. An eligibility requirement is that the lessor farm's expected production shall be less than 80 percent of the farm's effective marketing quota as the result of a natural disaster condition. ASCS policy has been that the tobacco must be affected by a disaster condition while it is in the field. Any disaster occurrence after the crop is removed from the field that affects the quantity of tobacco marketed has not been covered under ASCS rules for disaster lease and transfer provisions.

This policy is inconsistent with FCIC coverage for tobacco. FCIC insurance coverage begins when the tobacco is transplanted in the field and continues until the tobacco is weighed in at the warehouse. Therefore, a loss such as that occurring from a curing barn burning, when the cause of the fire is attributed to lightning, is covered and is eligible for indemnification payment.

ASCS has determined to change the policy and include any loss as a result of a natural disaster condition if this loss occurs any time before the tobacco is weighed in at the tobacco warehouse.

For example, an eligible loss would include tobacco destroyed by a barn fire when the fire was caused by lightning. If the loss was because of fire, verification from local authorities that the cause of the fire was lightning must be documented with copies of reports prepared by the local authorities. Losses resulting from poor management practices of faulty equipment will not be covered by ASCS regulations.

Logsdon says new pesticide law in effect April 21 presents serious problems to farmers

Agriculture Commissioner Ed Logsdon has asked President Clinton to delay implementation of the new Worker Protection Standard for agricultural pesticides, saying that farmers cannot be expected to meet the guidelines when the law takes effect on April 21.

The Worker Protection Standard requires agricultural employers to provide pesticide safety information to their workers and pesticide handlers. Farmers also will be responsible for training their workers in the proper application and handling of pesticides.

Logsdon and other officials are seeking a delay because the Environmental Protection Agency has been late in developing and distributing the necessary educational and training materials.

In a January 4 letter to President Clinton, Logsdon wrote: "There is absolutely no way that we can properly prepare the agricultural community of this state for the WPS program prior to the EPA's arbitrary implementation date of April 21, 1994. While I believe it is important that this program be implemented as soon as possible, I also believe it is imperative that sufficient time be allowed for education and training of the farming community."

Logsdon asked the President to act at least a six-month delay. The Kentucky Department of Agriculture's Division of Pesticides will be responsible for enforcing the provisions of WPS. The Division met an April 1993 deadline for developing a state implementation plan, but did not receive the training materials from EPA until September. Those materials had been due in April.

EPA was way behind schedule in developing training materials and implementation guidance to states on how to regulate the program," Logsdon explained. "This has made it impossible for us to reach the more than 90,000 farmers in Kentucky by April, 1994. We cannot reasonably expect farmers to be held accountable for all these requirements this year. But unless we get a delay, they could be held liable by their workers."

Several members of the U.S. Senate's Agriculture Committee, including Senator Mitch McConnell of Kentucky, have asked the President to delay implementation until October of 1995. The American Farm Bureau Federation and the National Association of State Departments of Agriculture also are objecting to the EPA's implementation date.

EPA, meanwhile, has postponed any delay. Logsdon stressed that he supports the intent of WPS, which is to provide the nearly four million U.S. farm workers with improved protection from exposure to pesticides.

"All we're saying is that more time is needed to properly prepare the agricultural community for implementation of this complex program," he said.

Senator McConnell agreed, saying: "I am in favor of protecting farm workers from pesticides, but it doesn't look like the federal government is fully prepared to make sure this program is operated properly. If we could just get EPA to delay the implementation date, it would allow farmers to have input into the education and training programs without putting an unnecessary burden on Kentucky farmers."

Rockcastle resident named Ky. Art Educator of the Year

Because most of her students go on to be classroom teachers at elementary schools lacking art instructors, Dr. Joanne Guilfoil is often the only link to art education at the primary level.

It's a responsibility she takes very seriously, as evidenced by her selection as the 1994 Kentucky Art Educator of the Year. The award, voted on by members of the Kentucky Art Education Association (KAEA), covers all educational levels from elementary through higher education.

Guilfoil, whose elementary art education classes are mandatory for all education majors seeking K-4 certification at EKU, said she tries to instill in her students "a willingness and desire to present art to their students."

"My main focus is on developing skills and an attitude that they can do it, and presenting some helpful strategies," she added. "If they go to a school without an art teacher, they'll be able to present what the students need and if they do have an art teacher, they'll learn how to work with that person."

An associate professor in EKU's Department of Curriculum and Instruction, Guilfoil said her students often enter class "scared to death, but by the end, it turns out to be exciting, even relaxing, for them, compared to some other classes they might take."

Dr. Joanne Guilfoil

Guilfoil earned her bachelor's degree from the University of Kentucky in 1971 and her master's and doctorate degrees from the University of Oregon in 1974 and 1983, respectively. She joined the EKU faculty in 1989.

The award recognizes not only Guilfoil's classroom teaching, but also her service to the state -- she serves on the Arts and Humanities Assessment Committee -- and to KAEA, which she now serves as president-elect after holding various other positions.

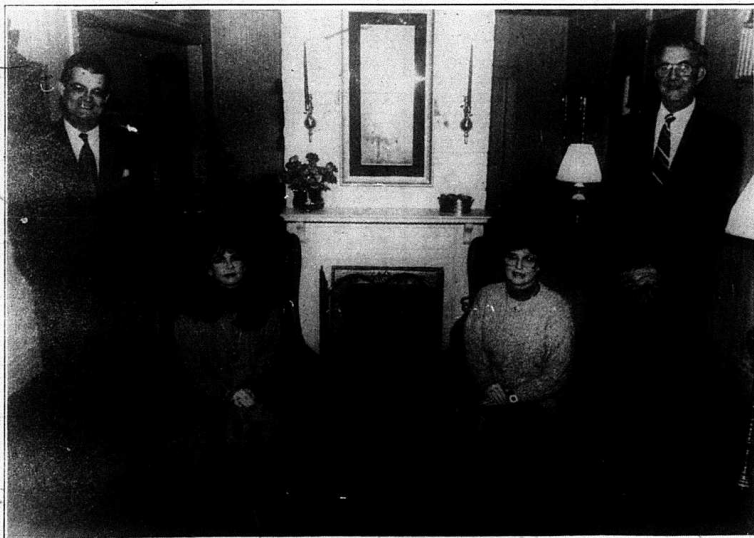

Guilfoil, who resides in Rockcastle County, will now compete for Art Educator of the Year in the South-eastern Region.

Planning committee changes recommendation

Local middle school likely to open in fall

By: Richard Anderkin
The Rockcastle County Board of Education voted Tuesday night to hold a special meeting of the board in order for the local planning committee facilities to present their district facility plan.
Superintendent Bige Towery, Jr., told the board that the plan calls for the closing of Livingston Elementary School and the opening of the county's first middle school in the fall of 1994.
Earlier the (LPC) had voted to delay the opening of the new middle school by one year because they (LPC members) were afraid that construction on the new high school may not be completed and that renovations might be needed to the middle school.
Local finance officer Richard Bray, who oversees the building project at the high school, told board members Tuesday night that construction at the new high school is on schedule and the building will be completed in time for the move from the old high school and the move into the middle school.

At Thursday's meeting the board will either accept the facility plan or ask the committee to re-evaluate their plan.
Also part of the committee's plan calls for the board of education to enforce school district boundaries so that none of the three remaining grade schools become overcrowded.
Superintendent Towery also told the board that a principal for the new middle school would probably not be hired until February. The only local applicant for the job is Mt. Vernon Elementary School principal John Hale. There are a total of six applicants for the job.

Whitehead chairman

Rockcastle County school board Chairman George Poynter announced Tuesday night that he will not run for a fifth term on the Rockcastle County Board of Education when his term expires next year.
In a written statement to the board, Poynter said that he also did not want to be considered for the position of chairman of the board in 1994. "There are some issues coming up this year that I would like to vote on as a regular member of the board," Poynter stated.

Debra Whitehead, who is in her eighth year as a board member, was elected chairman and Poynter accepted the position of vice-chairman.

Judge tells new court that spending now in line

Vanhook will receive final $7,000 payment

The bulk of Tuesday's first meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court for the new year, was taken up with discussion of the remaining $7,000 payment to VanHook Architectural Services for plans drawn for renovation of the Rockcastle County Jail last year.
County Judge/Executive Buzz Carlolitis expressed vehemently his displeasure with this court having to pay the balance of this bill which was incurred last year.
Carlolitis said, "We (the court) inherited part of a $20,000 bill owed to VanHook Associates that was not paid in the last fiscal year. It was carried over. The work was done by Joe Howard was jailer, before I got here and here we are having to pay bills created by the other court."
Carlolitis went on to say "the irritating point is this (the bill) was not paid in last fiscal year and is taking money from us (the present court)." The court has two new members this year, Billy McKinney and John Holbrook.
Vanhook took partial responsibility for the delay in the bill being paid, saying that his commitment to seeing the project through caused him to go back over his plans, redrawing everything, in an effort to bring the project off. VanHook said this caused him to be later than he normally would have been submitting his final bill to the court.

The bill was approved for payment and, at this point, the project is on hold unless additional money is found to go forward with the project which was bid, in February, at over twice the amount of money available.
Judge Carlolitis brought the court up-to-date on the percentage of expenditures from the county budget funds to date. Carlolitis said the General Fund was at 66%, the county Road Fund, 60%; Jail Fund 40%, LGEA (Local Government Economic Assistance) 24%, Economic Development 14% for an overall expenditure percentage of 52%.
Carlolitis said that since 50% of the budgeted road fund was spent the first three months of the fiscal year, the court has had to cut back drastically the next three months (October through December) on their spending to try to conserve funds for the last six months of operation. He reported that an average of 4% of the funds from the road fund had been spent each month October through December for a total of 60% now spent.

However, the General Fund is still in trouble, Carlolitis said with a projected deficit of $15,000 which would have been $35,000 without an interfund transfer, according to Joe Clontz, county treasurer.
The General Fund stands at 52% of expenditures at present but economies are still going to have to be found in order to avoid the projected deficit.
Some of the visitors to the court concerned an on-going request for a road in the James Noe Subdivision to be included on the county road program.
The court decided to take action as quickly as possible by having the magistrates and judge meet with Mr. Noe and the county road foreman to see what work would have to be done to the road, primarily concerning drainage problems, before the road can be taken into the county program.

The court agreed to pay a final bill of $3,000 to CB&S Construction.
It's either too hot or too cold, so goes the old song.
That's the case in both December and January to date, according to figures at Cox Funeral Home weather station.
Rainfall in December totalled 4.90 inches. Snowfall was 3 1/2 inches.

General Contractors for the judicial annex if certain minor repairs are done to the court's satisfaction.
Carlolitis reminded the court of the January 27th sale date for salvage equipment at the county garage by Ford Bros. Magistrate Amos Burdette recommended that the magistrates meet at the garage to look over the equipment and put a minimum price on the equipment to be sold.

As a last order of business, the court went into executive session to discuss hiring of personnel but delayed action until next week at a special meeting.
Most rain in December was on Dec. 4 when 1.40 fell 1.5 inches of snow fell on Dec. 25 and again in Dec. 28 following a heavy half-inch on Dec. 24.
And now, for January, to date through Jan. 10, a total of 3.07 inches has fallen. Most of that on January 2 when 1.03 fell followed by .96 on Jan. 4 and .97 on Jan. 7.
But biggest problem was ice with snow on top.
It was 57 Tuesday, Jan. 11 and 8 on Jan. 9.
In December, it was 60 on Dec. 9 and 6 on Dec. 30.

You can meet with the Governor January 21

On Friday, Jan. 21 at 4 p.m. Governor Jones will open his office door in the State Capitol, and will meet with any Kentuckian who wants to talk with him about any subject. The Governor promises to stay in his office at the Capitol until he meets with every person who wishes to speak with him. Members of his staff also will be available to help those people needing assistance.
"The first 'Open Door After Four' was one of the most exhilarating days I've had as Governor," said Jones. It was also one of the longest. The Governor met with more than 80 individuals, and he and members of his staff stayed at the Capitol until after 1 a.m. to meet with those who had come to talk to him.

Joe Lambert will run for second term

Joe Lambert, Kentucky Supreme Court Justice from the 27-county Third District, filed Tuesday for reelection. Justice Lambert was elected to the Supreme Court in 1986 and is now in his eighth year as a member of Kentucky's highest court. Lambert, elected at thirty-eight years of age, is Kentucky's youngest ever Supreme Court Justice and he is now fourth in seniority among the seven justices.
"It has been my great privilege to serve the people of this region and all of Kentucky on our highest court. Judicial decision-making at the Supreme Court level is always difficult and endeavor to hold up the highest principle of equal justice under law."
A native and lifelong resident of Rockcastle County, Justice Lambert, his wife, Debra, and their children Joseph and John, reside on old Highway 461.

Dr. George H. Griffith dies after long illness

One of Rockcastle County's most dedicated and best known physicians died Sunday at the Rockcastle Hospital after a lengthy illness.
Dr. George H. Griffith of Mt. Vernon had battled the effects of a massive stroke since 1980. He was 71.
Dr. Griffith practiced medicine in Rockcastle County for 35 years, delivering some 3,000 babies and was very instrumental in the building of the Rockcastle County Hospital.
On many occasions Dr. Griffith was the only physician in Rockcastle County, at times working as many as 150 hours a week.
Dr. Griffith, a Hazard High School graduate, came to Rockcastle County with his family in 1935. He served as a Captain in the United States Army Medical Corp during World War II, part of that time in Germany, and was a member of the First Christian Church of Mt. Vernon.
Probably Rockcastle's last medical doctor to make house calls on horse back, Dr. Griffith began his practice in 1945.
Dr. Griffith was a graduate of the University of Kentucky and the University of Louisville School of Medicine.

He was a past member of the Rockcastle Selective Service Board, the Rockcastle County Health Department and was the first president of the Cedar Rapids Co. "V Club, a club he helped found.
Dr. Griffith was born in Perry County, Sept. 10, 1916, the son of Edward and Mary Chaniot Griffith.
Dr. Griffith was a charter member of the American Academy of Family Practice and a retired member of the Kentucky Medical Association.
Survivors include his wife, Martha McFee Griffith; a son, Dr. George W. Griffith, both of Mt. Vernon; two sisters, Irene Hungeate of Frankfort and Margaret White of Molden, MO. He was preceded in death by a brother.
Services were Tuesday, Jan. 11 at Dowell and Martin Funeral Home with Bros. Wendell Romans and Tom Kelley officiating. Burial followed in the Elmwood Cemetery.

Whatever else may happen to the economy in 1994, the wedding business should pick back up. I know at least half a dozen women who are right on the verge of becoming old maids because they've been saving themselves for Billy Ray Cyrus. I'm assuming that every woman in the free world knows that Billy Ray slipped off and tied the knot last week. However, if you do see any women suddenly throwing the paper into the air, breaking into hysterics, pulling out their hair and wailing mournfully, you may assume that the word was not as widespread as I had figured.

In any event, it seems to be the most tragic blow to womankind since Elvis kicked the bucket. Country music radio stations have literally been deluged with calls from women with designs on Billy Ray to find out if the news was commensal waiting to the Deejays. One station in Ashland said it took more than a hundred such calls in the first few hours after the story broke.

Now, before I'm attacked and mangled by my friends, most of whom happen to be women, I'm not suggesting that Billy Ray had the same effect genderwise. On the other hand, how many men did you read about losing control of their emotions and acting jilted when word got out that Julia Roberts had gone to the altar with Lyle Lovett?

I, for one, felt pretty good about it. It's gratifying to me to have absolute proof that beautiful women aren't always interested in so-called hunks. Call Lyle whatever you want to, but "hunk" he ain't. In fact, my kids have suggested that even Mike Mitchell and I are better looking. Jim Varney is the only other guy on television with whom we've rated higher. And hey, Mike was available. If the lovely Ms. Roberts had called Mike up, he could have been had.

Of course, after last week's column about Loretta's bloomers, I, too, found myself dangerously close to being an eligible bachelor. For the record, Loretta's lingerie wardrobe is in much better condition than I led readers to believe. I was simply trying to give you something to laugh about and took certain liberties with the truth and my wife's underwear is on doing. Loretta, however, is not laughing. Also, for the record, neither am I anymore. Suffice it to say that I'll probably never know for sure whether her Christmas drawers fit or not.

I'm comforted only in her reassurance that Billy Ray Cyrus won't either.

Anyway it looks like the rest of the winter and probably most of the spring are going to be a lot cooler for you than I might have expected. Especially at night. At this writing, I'm thanking God for the garden seed catalogues that are coming in and trying to get the cat to snuggle up so that I don't freeze to death on my side of the bed.

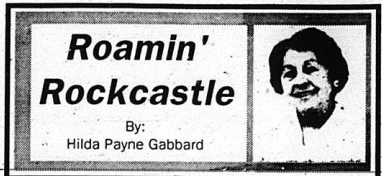

Speaking of seed catalogues, as many of you know we have perpetuated a catalog scam in this space for more than a decade. We've asked readers to send in their names along with a couple of postage stamps and we've subsequently put more than a thousand of you on more than a hundred mailing lists. We've recently been reminded that, however well-intentioned, our effort is contributing to the ruination of good timberland.

For the most part, catalogs are printed on virgin paper that can't be recycled. Our effort, then, has also been taking up expensive space in landfills. Our modest contribution to conservation this year is to offer the great seed catalogue scam and can you a reasonable alternative.

Over the next several weeks we will end the column with the names of a few companies that offer free catalogs. You may order the ones you would like to receive by sending a postcard to the company with a simple request and your name and address on the back side. It won't be as convenient or as economical as a good scan. On the other hand, you won't be overwhelmed with lots of literature you really don't want.

Here, for starters, are three excellent seed catalogs:
R.H. Shumway's, P.O. Box 1, Graniteville, SC 19829.
Henry Fields Seed and Nursery Co., 415 N. Burnett, Shenandoah, Iowa 51602.
Gurney's Seed & Nursery, 110 Capital St., Uxanton, SD 57079

Old timers in the hills could tell about the land in the coming year because they watched the signs of weather.

All this snow and rainy weather sinks into the ground and makes a good crop for next year, they say.

What I like to see is rain and water sweeping the land free of trash, leaves, limbs, and anything man has thrown on it like milk bottles, baby Pampers, old car parts and cans from soft drinks that man litters the ground or streams with anywhere.

Well, I've been real sick again my habit every winter. The doctor says I have low blood sugar and can't eat anything real sweet. So I've eaten fruits, canned or frozen, in their own juice.

To make life more wonderful, my teeth are beaking down when I had a four place dental bridge break away from my upper mouth.

My granddaughter, Diana Cornett, and boy friend, Joe (I've forgotten the rest of his name) came through the snow to visit us just after Christmas. They took John and I out to a late dinner (or early supper one) in Berea. We exchanged gifts. Then we met my once daughter-in-law Sherrill Cornett and her father, Burlly Baker of Union, near Richmond for a very nice dinner, so nice since I didn't have to cook or wash dishes.

I haven't been able to get out now because of the weather and to hear New Year's Resolutions but give me time.

Linda Swinford called me that some lady in Ohio had written her to get news of the Gadd relatives. She offered to turn the letter over to me but I said, law I can't do my own family. My granddaughter in Texas wants me to help her with a family tree that she wants to make on her job.

I told Linda I would like to drop in on her and Paris when they have turnip soup with cracklin bread.

Linda works at the Berea Hospital in Berea, and that helps out on grocery money.

The owners of the Mt. Vernon Signal featured a page of the employees, who are their family as well, wishing all their readers a joyous holiday in the last issue of the paper. You know you could tell all their faces because the women were so much prettier than the men, starting off with cute little Sara whom I learned to like to see when she was office manager while the Signal had roots in Berea.

Mr. Anderkin looked as if he had just returned from his last buffalo or bison hunt last fall when he didn't get a sniff of one.

When a body stays on the job, especially a newspaper one, about 50 weeks out of the year, he should have a little one when business is slow. Rick didn't have that famous black beard on that he usually grows to save on razor blades.

We went out for an early supper or late dinner one day here. I had been told by Nyra Hart that there was restaurant in Berea with the best food you ever ate, so John said let's try it. We found out this place was closed between the hours of 2 o'clock and opens their doors again at 5 o'clock to prepare some of the delicious food that they serve.

The owners are Linda Stone, Georgia Frazier and Charles Isaacs.

The place is called Homestead Cafeteria. The employees are very friendly.

Pat and Clyde Smith on Scaffold Cane Road had such beautiful Christmas decorations around their house. We stopped to take them a gift. Pat had the cutest white Teddy Bears as part of their decoration inside as well as out.

Pat and Clyde had a small gift of a parrot that hangs in a window so she insisted we bring a snow man doll home with us.

We thought it would do for a present for our great grandson, Chase, who came down with Chesley and all his family for the after Christmas, Birthday Party we had for Chess.

On Christmas Day, John and I stood in our front window and watched snow falling, thick and heavy, and felt our Christmas Party slip away from us, but if God knows what you need, He will send it. Next day the weather was clear and sunny so we had a great time. That night there came a heavy snow again so the Lord held up snow. I tell you, He is the best friend one can have.

Did I tell you of the nice landlord, Preston Seals and wife, Gaye, that we have here. Preston is a busy man and Gaye is a babysitter with grandchildren.

I had asked them for a new kitchen rug but Preston is a busy man on his farm so I let the time drift by.

One day I set the kitchen on fire accidentally but it brought out the Seals that night.

They looked at the rug with about 12 years use by us and I don't know by others.

Preston said it looked like the floor had a lot of cigarette burned holes but I declared I hadn't done that.

Well, we got a beautiful new kitchen rug but something else happened to me. I thanked the Seals for the best thing they had done for me. I was scared out of the kitchen by being afraid I could have dropped ashes and burned the new floor so the good that happened out of the fire was that I was scared out of smoking a habit I had been into since I was 35. So I thanked the Seals twice, once for the pretty kitchen rug and best of all, they had cured me of many long

Dear Niece and nephew, Peggy and Jim,

Greetings from the little town of Mt. Vernon that has a white blanket of snow covering it except where it looks like someone has kicked holes in it, or maybe spit something on it which has caused dark streaks to run its length and breadth.

The streets and cleared off parking spaces are the dark streaks and holes in the otherwise scantily white cover. We have been having beautiful winter scenery with snow and/or glittering ice covering every tiny branch and twig.

The other morning when I raised my window shades the exquisite beauty of the trees outside my front door that were glittering like an unseen hand had carefully covered the surfaces with shimmering diamonds of every size during the night then waited for sunrise to expose and magnify the sparkling brilliance brought forth a gasp of awe and tears suddenly overflowed as I realized the unseen hand was that of the Great Artist and creator.

Everyone I have talked to about the weather has remarked about the beauty of the ice covered world that morning. Some have likened it to shimmering new blown glass covering the whole area. But to most of the people I talked to it was diamonds they saw glittering from every tree and sprig of grass. The white frost covering everything before the freeze only magnified the beauty and brought forth the blues and glints of gold of rare diamonds as the sun peeped through the clouds and touched the cold world below with gentle warm fingers that added the final sparkling touch. Every hollow and hillside was a treasure trove that gave the appearance of white lace interwoven with sequins and pearls. Truly we have been blessed on Christmas of the rarest displays of unusual beauty of the century.

This winter, since I am living in town and don't have to worry about driving over ice and snow covered mountain roads if I need a doctor or food, I can more fully enjoy the beauty of wintertime. Yes, of course I miss my home in the hills but sometimes it is like missing a bowl and I am glad I don't have to worry with it anymore. I may miss the beauty of the old plank fence and birds flitting from tree to tree in search of a live morsel of food, and the sound of a lone owl hooting to a distant mate, but at least I don't have to worry that someone is having to drive over those hazardous roads to see about me. And the scene that greeted me when I raised the shades and saw the houses and streets covered with glitter like those on Christmas cards depicting old fashioned Christmas in little towns made me realize just how lucky I am to be able to live here where I can enjoy such scenery and also enjoy the farm whenever I want to.

By-the-way, I am not writing you to describe the beauty of Mt. Vernon on an icy morning. I'm writing to thank you for the birthday gift you sent all the way from Caracas, Venezuela, way back in September. The gift, a beautiful crystal bluebird, is perched on the shelf with wings spread

By the time Mt. Vernon firefighters arrived at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Denney in City Trailer Park Monday morning, their mobile home was completely involved. The 6:05 a.m. fire also spread to the home of Wilbur Brooks, but his home only sustained minor water damage.

Army Pvt. Bobby G. Kirby graduates

Army Pvt. Bobby G. Kirby has graduated from a helicopter repair course here.

During the course, students learned to perform direct and general support maintenance on helicopters. Also included were instruction in safety practices, usage of ground support equipment and special and precision tools.

Kirby is the son of Lloyd Kirby of Mt. Vernon.

Next is the cardinal or redheaded woodpecker. Bright colored birds and butterflies are a weakness of mine. My heart gives a special leap for joy when I see one soaring off into the sky or decorating a fencepost with his own special color, or see the multicolored butterflies flit from lilac bush to appletree in full bloom to extract the bits of honey from them. The magic of wings has always fascinated me. What would it be like to soar off into the yonder or flit about, delicately sipping from a choice bit of lilac juice in springtime or sip the heady juice of ripe grapes in the autumn, without getting ones feet wet with the morning dew? It doesn't hurt to dream does it?

Why is a thank you for a gift received in September just being sent? Well, you see it is like this, it seems I spend/most of my mornings hiding things from myself so I will have something to do the rest of the day hunting for them. So guess what I did, I hid your card with your address in it and also the one your dad gave me so well I have never yet found it. It surely was a special treasure for me to have hidden it so well. Uh, uh, I did not throw it away, I never threw a card away, my kids will really have themselves a time when they have to go through my things and find all the cards I have ever received stored away in unusual places. Anyway I called your dad the other day and once again got it and it is now safe in my address book until you change it again. Now I can humbly thank you for your lovely birthday gift and card and, for just being you. This morning I began singing. 'Twe a blue bird on my window sill.' When I glanced up and saw the blue bird poised as if he was about ready to fly down and light on my shoulder. Thank you again for him.

When I recently spoke with my three remaining siblings, Ish, Herb, and Katie, all was well unless one could call old age a terminal illness and put us all on the sick list.

As much as I like the winter months of ice and snow I am now ready for the first breath of spring to puff the diamonds off the trees and in their place allow the soft green leaves, and pink and white blossoms of lilac bushes and apple trees to appear.

I do hope all is well with both of you. And when you come back to the States try to make Kentucky one of your priorities to visit.

Love you,
Aunt 71

years of smoking! I haven't wanted to smoke since then.

The Edd Croucher's didn't have much of a time at Christmas - Edd became real sick and none of the children came from out of state because of the weather. Edd has gotten rid of his sick spell, not cured but some better.

Earl and Katie Hammond didn't go to see their children as usual and the kids came to see them bringing a turkey and a ham to help out on the meal. I wish I had known that for John and I could have gone down there and stayed all during the holidays saying it was too bad to get out in the snow. Then when the ham and turkey were gone, we could leave also.

Till next week. If God had wanted me to cook, he wouldn't have invented restaurants!

Air Force Airman Scherbing graduates

Air Force Airman Michael R. Scherbing has graduated from Air Force basic training here.

During the six weeks of training the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

In loving memory of Warren "Razz" Poynter Jr. on his birthday, January 15.

Going On

We will miss him while he's leaving,
We will miss him while he's gone,
We will miss him while he's leaving,
But we know he must go on.

Can you tell me where he's going?
Can you tell me where he'll be,
Can you tell me where he's going?
Will he be there waiting for me?

We will stand strong through all our sorrow,
We will stand strong through all our pain,
We will stand strong for tomorrow
We will see our dear brother again.

I can tell you where he's going,
I can tell you where he'll be,
I can tell you where he's going,
And he's there waiting for me.

He is going on to heaven,
A place he'll never grow old,
I can see him walk with Jesus,
Down those streets made out of gold.

I can tell you where he's going,
I can tell you where he'll be,
He is going on to heaven,
And he's waiting for you and me.

He is resting peacefully forever in the arms of Jesus
And he will be forever in our hearts
His last words were, "Sweet Jesus know our prayers."
Sadly missed by all who knew and loved him.

The Annual 6th Grade Christmas Play

By: Alex Tyler

On November 29, 1993 the Mt. Vernon Elementary Sixth grade decided to perform two plays for the whole school and the teachers and parents. We scheduled the play for December 22, the last day of school before Christmas vacation.

The next day, November 30, we had auditions. The first play was called "The Tale of King Frost," the second play was called "In Search of the Christmas Spirit."

The first play consisted of six people from Mrs. McKinney's home-room. They were: The Old Man (played by Daniel Morgan), The Dog (played by Thomas Daugherty), Galina (played by Leslie Robinson), Madelene (played by Sabrina Hensel), and King Frost (played by Jason Proctor). It was a delightful Russian comedy-folk tale.

The second play consisted of thirty six people, they were: Jody (played by Joel Deatherage), Mother and Guardian Mother (played by Debra Spencer), Judge (played by Katina McClure), Baliff (played by Brian McClure), Jury Foreman (played by Johnny Saylor), Court Reporter (played by Shawn Holsing), prosecutor (played by Alex Tyler), Jurors (played by Rachael Fisher, Kathy Mullins, Sandra Gay, and Kevin Robinson), Grey Stocking (played by Mary Jo Rodefer), Little Blue (played by Josh Dowell), Lolly Plu (played by Brandon Barnett), Cookie (played by Jessica McCoy), Candy Cane (played by Matt Isaacs), Gingerbread Man (played by Gary Coffey), Toy Soldier (played by Carl Roberts), Jack in the Box (played by Brandy Lee), Drum (played by Nancy Vanwinkle), Sled (played by Carissa Kelly), Top (played by Kevin Navarre), horn (played by Shelly Tankersly), Dictionary (played by Carolyn Griffith), Storyteller (played by Susan Gray), Storyteller's Helper (played by Angie Ford), Christmas Spirit (played by Bobby Hensley), Faith, Hope, and Charity (played by Katina Cromer, Lindsay Bell and Tiffany Deatherage). There was also two announcers, Dale Robbins and Jennifer McClumore. The players in the second play were mostly from Mr. Davidson's home room. Three were from Mrs. McKinney's. Mr. Alexander's home room performed Christmas carols under the direction of Ms. Janie Cornelius. They were very good.

We started practicing our plays on November 30, in our rooms until December 14. Then, on December 15, we started practicing our play on the stage. That day Mr. Pensol came to watch us. He gave us some helpful suggestions to improve our acting.

We decided to have the play on Wednesday, December 22, the last day of school before vacation. However, school was out because of snow and ice. Over Christmas Vacation no one got a chance to practice their parts. Then, on Monday, January 3, 1994 everyone showed up wanting to know on what day we would perform the plays for the school.

About eight-twenty in the morning we found out that we were going to perform the plays that day at nine o'clock in the morning. Everyone started complaining because not many people had remembered to bring their costumes. However, Mrs. McKinney assured us we would do great!

At the performance many people were very nervous. However, we did survive through the whole performance without "chickening out." Everyone who saw the plays said we did really well and that they enjoyed them. I think we did the best that we could have done with the things that we had to do with. Also, I think that the many parents that could not or were not contacted in time to arrive at the school were upset. However, I agree that we needed to have the play on Jan. 3 because it snowed the rest of the week and we did not return to school until January 10th.

It is my opinion that all children should have the opportunity to be in a play. It helps to learn the responsibility of participating in an event where others are depending on you.

PTA News
The "Make A Wish" Project was a great success, thanks to all of Santa's helpers.

Due to the weather and school being cancelled we were forced to go door to door to be sure our children had Christmas. With the help of a four wheel drive vehicle and a great driver we were able to reach the students. We had a total of 124 names on our tree. We delivered 74 presents and CAP and REAP had taken care of 50 of our presents.

A big thanks to CAP, REAP, WRVK, Mt. Vernon Signal, churches, business, all of Santa's helpers, teachers for all of their support and help. A special thanks to Ms. Judy Bullock, Mrs. Kay Singleton and Wesley Mays, who without these three the job may never have been done. The Mt. Vernon PTA only hopes everyone had a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

Sincerely,
Darlena K. Bowles

Babbage announces election deadline

January 25 is the filing deadline for Rockcastle County candidates who plan to run for elective office in the 1994 primary election, according to Secretary of State Bob Babbage.

Elections will be held this year for United States Congress, all 100 seats in the Kentucky House of Representatives, the 19 Kentucky Senate seats in even-numbered senate districts, some school boards, Kentucky Supreme Court Justice in District 3, and alternate year elections for city council seats.

Candidates for offices in districts which serve multiple counties such as Congress, the Kentucky legislature, and the Supreme Court are required to file their candidacy papers with the Secretary of State, Babbage explained.

Candidates for local offices like city council and local board of education file their candidacy papers with the county clerk of their county," Babbage added.

A Candidate Guide to Campaign Finance and a brochure entitled Guide to Campaign Finance Instruction and Forms have been prepared to inform candidates of current laws and regulations.

Continued migration shift from north to south, Census Bureau says

Of the nation's four regions, only the Northeast had a consistent net loss of residents (292,000 persons between 1991 and 1992) to other regions of the country during the 1980s and early 1990s. In contrast, the south had a net gain of 224,000 people who moved from somewhere else in the U.S. between 1991 and 1992, the Commerce Department's Census Bureau reports.

According to Kristin Hansen, author of Geographical mobility: March 1991 to March 1992 (P20-473), "The south continues to draw more residents from the other three regions of the U.S. than it loses. The Northeast's net loss of migrants to other parts of the country is offset by its substantial gain of migration from abroad."

The report also shows residential mobility for the "Sunbelt" — an official grouping of selected southern and western states. Between March 1991 and March 1992, 19.9 percent of the population living there changed residences. A total of 12.8 percent of the persons living in the Sunbelt moved within the same county, as compared to only 9.6 percent for those living in the remainder of the U.S.

Ninety three (93) persons attended Sunday School at Fairview January 9th. Several more attended worship services. The roads were clear for traveling. I thank God that we were able to be there. We had missed for the last two weekends, and it was just like "going back home." I count it a great blessing to be able to worship in the House of the Lord.

Perfect Attendance Sunday School Pins were awarded at our church January 9th. First year pins went to Rev. Harvey Pensol and Tiffany Gabbard; 2nd year, Steffany Gabbard; 3rd year, Brittany Blair; 5th Lucille Ponder and Thelma Thacker; 6th Jo Ann Croucher, Kelly Croucher and Glenn Ponder; 7th Chad Croucher; 16th Doris Gabbard; 17th Gail Lee Gabbard; 20th Cleus Peters; 22nd year Shirley Poynter and Jimmy Cummins; 24th Judy Cummins; 25 years Buddy Gabbard and attending for 28 years is Wesley Lambert. Congratulations to each of these. They are to be commended, and we are proud of them.

On December 18th Carol Isaacs entertained her Sunday School class at home for their Christmas Party. Attending were Lucille Ponder (teacher); Dreaama, Jamaica and Monica Cummins, Gwyn Fowler, Charon Hill and Sherry Ridgell. After enjoying eating pizza, they exchanged Christmas gifts. A very good time was had by all.

On Saturday, Jan. 8th Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood and Regina Pickle and son Cody of Frankfort visited with his brother Michael and wife Sherri Pickle of Snider. Others joining them for lunch and a nice visit were Nancy and Luther Isaacs and daughters Carol Isaacs and Jennifer Case; also Kitty Canterbury and children Cory, Kevin and Kara.

I'm not gathering news for this time, maybe more next time.

Please attend church and Sunday School with your children every time you can. Let's try to love and show concern more for others in 1994 -- God bless you.

25th Eagles Weekend at Land Between the Lakes

The Tennessee Valley Authority and Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR), in conjunction with the Kentucky Department of Parks will co-sponsor the 25th Annual Eagles Weekend this winter at Land Between the Lakes (LBL).

days of deer season expire and archery hunting concludes January 15th. John Phillips, deer program coordinator for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, notes that several rainy days during modern gun and muzzle-loading seasons caused poor hunting conditions throughout the state. Therefore fewer deer were harvested. All indications are, though, that we had good fawn production this summer and are experiencing low natural winter mortality, said Phillips.

This should mean an improved season next year barring any unforeseen weather disasters or other problems, added the biologist.

Kentucky's harvest will be around 70,000 animals this season, not including deer killed during quahots hunts. Kentucky's statewide deer herd presently exceeds 300,000.

Rockets start new year with a win over the McCreary Central Raiders

By: Sara Coguer

The Rockcastle Rockets kicked up their first win of the season last Friday, beating the McCreary Central Raiders, 81-77.

The Rockets trailed early on in the first quarter, but two key three pointers by junior Ken Hopkins brought the Rockets to within one, 18-19. McCreary Central scored again, however, before the end of the quarter, extending their lead to three, 21-18.

The second quarter saw senior co-captain Mickey McClure tie the ballgame early on, 21 all, with a three point bomb.

Central then connected on all three freethrows, after a Raider was fouled behind the three-point line, but McClure came through with another quick basket, cutting the Raider lead to one, 24-23.

The second quarter was dominated by the play of McClure, who scored most of the points made that half, with the exception of sophomore Chad Severance who dumped in seven final points for the Rockets.

Severance sank a big three, tying the score for the second time, 33-33. He then scored another needed bucket, giving the Rockets their first lead of the game, 35-33.

Severance once again, before the end of the half, took the ball to the goal, but was fouled. He connected on both free throws, giving the Rockets the edge at halftime, 40-39.

The Rockets fell behind during the third quarter, when Central hit several three pointers and had good rebounding off the boards. The Raiders took the lead at the end of the third quarter, 62-57.

The fourth quarter saw the Rockets slowly catch up, with a 10-0 run for the Rockets, tying the score for the third time, 71-71, ending with a three point bomb by senior co-captain J.D. Bussell.

McCreary Central went ahead at the 1:20 mark with a free throw on a foul committed by Severance.

Senior Aaron Cox rebounded the missed second free throw and Severance connected on two, giving the Rockets the lead by one, 73-72.

Quick footwork by Bussell gave him the steal from a Raider and a try for two, but he was fouled. Bussell went to the line for two, sinking both, extending the Rocket lead 75-72.

Senior Brian Carter was called for a foul on the defensive end for the Rockets, giving a Central player three freebies as he was attempting a shot behind the three point line.

The player connected on only one, but Central was quicker to the board for the rebound, putting the ball back up for two, tying the score for the fourth time, 75 all.

With nine seconds to go, the Rockets were given one last shot but McClure missed the long range three pointer, sending the game into overtime.

The Rockets started the overtime off with two quick fouls, but Central could only connect on one of the freebies, taking the lead with one, 76-75.

Cox then scored a bucket off a pass from Bussell, giving the Rockets the lead, 77-76.

At the 1:54 mark, Severance committed his fifth foul, sending a Central player to the line for the one and a bonus, in which he connected only on the first shot, tying the ballgame for the fifth time, 77-77.

It was all Rockcastle from there, who scored the rest of the points to be scored, ending with two free throws by Cox, who connected on both, giving the Rockets their first win, 81-77.

Rockets lose close one to Bell, 78-72

By: Sara Coguer

The new year win streak for the Rockcastle Rockets ended at one Saturday night when they visited the Bell County Bobcats and came home in defeat, 78-72.

It was a close game from the first whistle, but the Bobcats persevered in the end.

The first quarter, however, belonged to sophomore Eric McGuire, who started his second game for the Rockets. McGuire contributed twelve of the eighteen points scored in the first quarter, with senior Mickey McClure scoring the other seven.

The Rockets led 7-5 early on with a three point shot by McClure, giving Rockcastle the small advantage.

Bell County then went on a 7-0 run, regaining the lead at 12-7. They kept that lead throughout the first quarter, ending at the break 25-18.

The Rockets battled back in the second quarter after first falling behind by ten, 30-20.

The tide turned for the Rockets when senior Aaron Cox stole the ball from a Bobcat and converted it into two points, 37-32. Bell then called a timeout, but to no avail as the Rockets kept gaining on the Bobcats.

A good offensive and defensive rebound by McClure, who converted his last rebound into two points, cut the Bobcat lead to three. Two points by McGuire cut the lead to one, 37-36.

A Bell County Bobcat was called for an intentional foul, sending senior J.D. Bussell to the line for two shots, where he scored one, cutting the Bell lead back to two, 43-41.

McClure tied the ballgame with a much needed bucket at 43 all.

A big defensive rebound by junior Ken Hopkins, seconds before the end of the half, turned the table for the Rockets, giving sophomore Corey Scott the opportunity to score with one second to go.

Scott connected on his last second shot and the Rockets went with one (Cont. to A9)

Senior point guard J.D. Bussell takes the ball to the goal after a steal from a McCreary Central player in last Friday's action. The Rockets won 81-77.

Lady Rockets extend their win record with a defeat over Bell County

By: Sara Coguer

The Rockcastle Lady Rockets upped their win record to 6-5 Saturday night with a win over the Bell County Lady Cats, 70-67.

It was a close game from the start, as the Lady Rockets could not shake the Lady Bobcats during the first quarter, ending with a tie at 16.

The second quarter saw the Lady Rockets get outscored by eleven, scoring only eight points the whole quarter.

It was the quarter that changed the tide of the ballgame for the Lady Rockets, as the Bobcats went into the locker room at half (tired with the lead, 35-24).

A desperation foul on the part of the Lady Bobcats sent McCauley to the line for a one and bonus, where she hit both, taking the lead to three, 70-67.

Nineteen unforced turnovers by the Lady Rockets helped the Lady Bobcats extend their lead in the first half, citing the Lady Bobcats full court press as the reason for the turnovers and low scoring in the second quarter by the Lady Rockets.

The Lady Rockets could not get the ball up the court to score, leading to the eleven point deficit at the half.

The third quarter saw the Lady Rockets take control of the game and outscore the Lady Bobcats by six, but still ending the quarter without the lead and down by five, 48-43.

The fourth quarter was a tug-of-war between the two teams as the Lady Rockets got down to business and kept biting at the Lady Bobcats heels.

The break for the Lady Rockets came at the 2:51 mark with a BIG three point shot by guard Melinda Smith, which gave the Rockets their first lead in the second half, 62-61.

Bell County scored next, 63-62, but freshman Suzie Carpenter came up with two, once again giving the Rockets the lead 64-63.

Two aggressive rebounds by senior Cindy McCauley was followed by a bucket for her, extending the Lady Rocket lead to three, 66-63.

Bell scored again, but once again freshman Suzie Carpenter came up with a big bucket, scoring two, 68-65.

A questionable foul called on Smith, after the shot, sent a Lady Bobcat to the line for two, but who could only convert one, cutting the Lady Rocket lead to two, 68-66.

It was all Rockcastle from that point as they persevered and hit the boards well, taking control of the game and deciding the outcome of it.

A desperation foul on the part of the Lady Bobcats sent McCauley to the line for a one and bonus, where she hit both, taking the lead to three, 70-67.

The Bobcats had one last shot to try and tie the game with a three pointer, but it was not to be as they missed and senior Janetta McLemore pulled down the defensive rebound, ending the game with a Lady Rocket win, 70-67.

Coach Beaver was very pleased with the performance of Suzie Carpenter and Amy Robinson off of the bench. She said, "They made things happen."

The Lady Rockets, who had been struggling from the free throw line in earlier games, were 18-21 from the charity stripe against Bell County.

Senior Cindy McCauley had impressive statistics all around with 34 points, 19 rebounds, and nine blocked shots. She was also perfect from the free throw line, 16 for 16.

Mt. Vernon beats Foley; first time in county history

The Mt. Vernon Red Devils 7 & 8 grade team beat the Foley Eagles last Thursday, 51-39.

This is the first time ever that any county school has beat Foley Middle School.

It was the run and gun style of play that Mt. Vernon is known for that helped in the defeat of the Eagles.

Foley's big men could not run the floor with the Red Devils, wearing down early in the game.

The Red Devils man to man half-court defense and full court press also tamed that Eagles, who trailed Mt. Vernon from the 4:52 mark in the first quarter; when the Devils went on a 14-0 run, ending the first break at 20-6.

High point man for the Red Devils was point-guard Travis Anderkin who had 16. Also putting in a solid game with double figures was two-guard Dusty McClure, who had 12, and center Blake Childress with 11.

The Red Devils finished their regular season 14-1, with their second county championship under their belt. They also went undefeated in county play for the second year.

Freshman Suzie Carpenter shoots for two in Saturday night's win over the Bell County Lady Cats. The Lady Rockets improved their record to 6-5 with this win. Also shown in the photo is Melinda Smith.

The B.I.T. has begun . . .

The annual Brodhead Invitational Tournament began Monday night with a first round victory by the Mt. Vernon Red Devils over the Northern Pulaski Knights. The Devils won by twelve, 51-39. High point man for the Devils was Blake Childress, with 15, followed by Chris Miller with 10, Matt Sowder with 9, Travis Anderkin with 7, Dusty McClure with 6, John Brown with 2 and Jarrod Reams with 2.

First round action Monday night also pitted the Roundstone Eagles against the Science Hill Yellow Jackets. It was a close battle from the beginning but Roundstone was edged out at the end, 45-41. Roundstone's leading scorer was Michael Vaughn with 13.

First round action on Tuesday night saw the Livingston Blue Devils and the Brodhead Tigers play. The Tigers won the game, 59-26, and will face Science Hill on Thursday night (tonight) at 8 p.m. in second round action. High point man for the Tigers was Chris Bishop with 19.

The first game of the second round will pit the Mt. Vernon Red Devils against the Wayne County Cardinals. The game will begin at 6:30 p.m.

The consolation game will be held Saturday night at 6:30 p.m. with the Championship game at 8:00 p.m.

locker room with the lead, 47-45.

The Rockets came back after the half — without having lost their hot hand, staying even with the Bobcats throughout the third quarter.

It was a give and take quarter, with neither team gaining off the other.

The Rockets managed to hold onto the advantage though, leading the Bobcats 60-56 at the 1:47 mark.

Good board work for the Rockets kept them in the lead, but at the 1:15 mark Bell County stalled, holding the ball for a last second shot. They did not even attempt to make a play until seconds before the buzzer.

They then connected on a big three pointer, going into the fourth quarter down by only one, 60-59.

Bell County scored first in the fourth quarter, taking the lead by one 61-60.

Two quick fouls by Bussell gave the Bobcats the chance to go ahead, however they could not convert the opportunity into points.

A defensive rebound by senior Brian Carter with a pass to Bussell, who sank a big three point bomb, gave the Rockets the lead by two, 63-61.

Bell called a timeout with 4:04 to go, and then took the lead 65-63.

McClure scored for the Rockets then, tying the score at 65.

Bussell went down with an ankle injury at the 2:30 mark, and would not return to the ballgame.

Rockcastle then took a timeout with 2:18 to go, but could not catch up with the Bobcats, who had gone ahead 69-67.

It was downhill from there for the Rockets as they played catch up the rest of the game, but were not successful in grabbing the victory.

The Rockets were 0-5 from the free throw line in the second half, which contributed to the 78-72 loss for the Rockets.

The Rockets are now 1-9 on the season with a loss to Jackson County on Tuesday night, 102-69.

Northside Baptist Church established in 1959 with Bro. Lee Hopkins as pastor

By Phil Singleton

Northside mission was organized at Horseshoe Bend as a mission of First Baptist Church of Mt. Vernon, under the Will of God and the direction of the pastor, Bro. Lee Hopkins and five hard working leaders and assistants. The mission was dedicated on June 14, 1959 with Bro. Wendell Belwin in charge of the ceremonies.

The five workers were Mr. and Mrs. Lance Dillingham, Mr. and Mrs. Asher Cummins, George Parrett with Mrs. Nancy Cummins and Wesley Smith as assistants. The Sunday School grew from 10 to 35 in a very short period of time, with two classes. Bro. George Parrett taught the twelve year olds through adults and Mrs. Lance Dillingham taught ages five through 12.

Wesley Smith acted as Sunday School superintendent but only for a short time until the appointment of Bro. Asher Cummins who was the first official superintendent. Bro. Cummins held this position for several years. Bro. W.L. Reynolds, who was the associational missionary at this time, held services with the assistance of students from Georgetown.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ziegler was the two vacation Bible Schools at Horseshoe Bend with the help of all mission workers and some members of First Baptist Church. The attendance at the first Vacation Bible School was about 20, including leaders.

The little two room house where the mission started was soon inadequate to meet the needs with the attendance at approximately 50. At this time the Old Pentecostal Church building was rented for the mission. Bro. Eugene Bradley was the first officially called pastor and stayed only a short time. The second pastor called was Bro. James Mitchell.

There was soon a need for more Sunday School classes so two more classes were established. Bro. George Parrett was the adult teacher, Mrs. Lance Dillingham, junior girls, Mrs. Dewey Acorn, young people and Bro. Archie Howard, junior boys.

On May 27, 1962, Bro. Wilford Brown, a student at Clear Creek, was called as pastor of the Northside Mission. He held services on weekends.

The church began to move and grow for the Lord with the membership increasing to 72 and Sunday School attendance to 70 to 80. Training Union averaged 70 to 80.

The members decided to try to purchase a lot to construct a new building. Some land on High Street was purchased from Mr. and Mrs. Ed Burnett for $1500 dollars in which this amount being donated in a very short time.

Amos Owens had the low bid and was given the contract to build the new church. The State Women's Missionary Union bought the pews for the new church. The pulpit was purchased by Bro. George Parrett by the selling of a dollar gold piece and an old pipe. The Sunday School, Training Union board and table were purchased by Mr. and Mrs. Asher Cummins.

The congregation moved into the new building on High Street in March, 1965, with dedication services being conducted May 23, 1965 with Bro. H. William Hall, pastor of First Baptist Church bringing the dedication message.

Bro. Wilford Brown resigned as pastor August 13, 1966, after having served four years and three months. There were approximately 80 members at this time with an average Sunday School attendance of about 71.

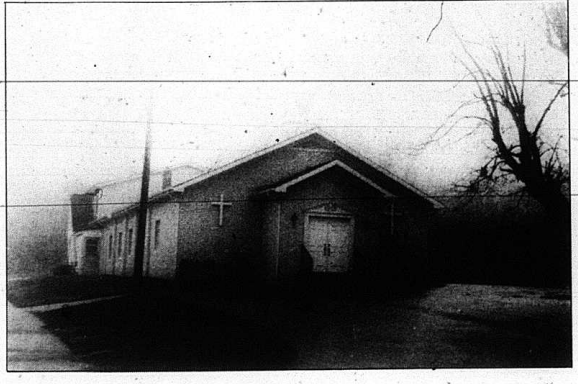

Bro. Jack Moore was called as pastor Sept. 3, 1966 and served until January 28, 1968, when he submitted his resignation.

Northside Baptist Mission was without a pastor for a period of six months. During this time students from Clear Creek and Bro. Lynch of Louisville held most of the services. Bro. Harvey Pencil was called as pastor Aug. 31, 1968.

At the time Bro. Pencil was called there were six classes at Northside. With the blessing of God and the hard work of the pastor and members, Northside Sunday School classes kept growing and a three room trailer was purchased to make room for the three more classes.

Northside kept growing and there was soon a need for more Sunday School rooms. It was decided to construct an educational wing on the present structure. The new addition was completed and dedicated Oct. 15, 1972.

As the Lord continued to bless Northside Mission, the men of

The present Northside Baptist Church

Northside decided to ask First Baptist for permission to become a cooperating Baptist Church. In a regular monthly business meeting on Aug. 1, 1973, the request was granted. Deacons selected were Floyd Owens, Phil Singleton, Bobby Kendrick and Jones C. Hiatt, to go with the present two, George Parrett and Glen Dalton.

Again the Lord blessed and with the labor of Bro. Pencil and members of the church there was need to expand. The church decided to construct a new building on top of the educational wing. The state W.M.U.

purchased new black top to provide a playground for the children.

The next project of Northside was more seating. The church decided to build a 20 foot extension on the old building and remodel the sanctuary.

Bro. Pencil resigned on July, 1977 and Northside was without a pastor for a period of four months when Bro. R.B. Owens was called as interim.

A pulpit committee was selected and on Dec. 4, 1977, Bro. Lester Caldwell, from Dry Ridge, accepted the call of the church as their pastor.

In March, 1982, Bro. Lester Caldwell resigned and again the church was without a pastor until late summer, 1982, when Bro. John Justice was called. In the fall of 1984 Bro. Justice resigned to accept a pastorate in Northern Kentucky.

After much prayer, Bro. Lester Caldwell was called to again pastor Northside. He began his second tenure in March, 1985.

In the summer of 1985 a shelter was completed and enjoyed by many.

In 1990 the shelter was closed in and a Fellowship Hall was ready for more Sunday School rooms and a wonderful place for fellowships. The Associational meeting was held in the new Fellowship Hall in October, 1990.

The parking lot was blacktopped and the old trailer which had become deteriorated was removed.

In the fall of 1992 a complete kitchen was donated by Don and Mary Singleton for the fellowship hall and with the hard work of some of the men was completed and ready for use for their Thanksgiving meal in November, 1992.

Bro. Caldwell is the present pastor with Herbie Alcorn, Jones C. Hiatt, Phil Singleton, Roland Isaac and Everett Thomas serving as active deacons.

Just as a few people had a vision in 1959 to reach the lost, our vision is still the same, to reach the lost and carry out the Great Commission. Come catch the vision, worship with us.

Campbellsville College to host Spring Visitation

High school juniors and seniors from Bell, Clay, Jackson, Knox, Laurel, Rockcastle and Whitley counties are invited to attend Campbellsville College's Annual Spring Visitation Day Saturday, Feb. 19, according to Marc C. Whitt, director of public relations and marketing.

Hosted by the Office of Admissions, the day will provide an opportunity for college-bound students and their parents to visit the private college campus as well as learn about Campbellsville College's academic and extracurricular programs.

The day will begin at 2 p.m. (Eastern Time) in the Student Activities Center with a welcome session, Campbellsville College President Kenneth W. Winters will lead that session and will introduce faculty at the college.

Other sessions will include a parents session, a student academic session, a student panel session, dinner on campus and campus tours.

Following dinner and the tours, guests are invited to attend two busketball games featuring the Campbellsville College Lady Tigers and Tigers Basketball teams. Game time begins at 5:15 p.m. in the Powell Athletic Center. A financial aid workshop will be conducted between the two games.

Also on that Saturday, students interested in auditioning for music scholarships may do so at noon.

If students and their parents are able to arrive on campus the evening of Friday, Feb. 18, they are invited to attend a concert performed by the world-renowned Louisville Orchestra at 8 p.m. in the Powell Athletic Center. Tickets are $2 for prospective students. Persons wishing to attend the performance may purchase tickets at the door.

The registration deadline for Spring Visitation Day is Friday, Feb. 11. For further information, contact the Office of Admissions at 1-800-264-14 or (502) 789-5220.

KBHC celebrating 125th anniversary with events

Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children will celebrate its 125th anniversary through a series of celebration events and a public awareness campaign this year.

The agency, founded in Louisville in 1869, is the largest private child care program in Kentucky and helps children who have suffered abuse, neglect or other family crisis.

"We want to do two basic things with this celebration," said KBHC President Curtis Mooney. "First, we want to say thank you to the people of Kentucky for their faithfulness in reaching out to meet the needs of hurting children for 125 years. Second, we want to raise the awareness level in Kentucky about the tremendous needs of children today. With 56,000 cases of abuse and neglect reported in Kentucky in 1992, we as a society have got to focus more time on dealing with problems facing our children and families."

Mooney said the celebration will have three basic components: a series of special events scheduled around the state, celebrations within Baptist churches, and a public awareness media campaign.

"The special events are planned to be outdoor birthday parties," Mooney said. "We'll be inviting families to bring their children and come out to the various sites for fun, food, and fellowship. We plan to have lots of activities that both adults and children will enjoy."

Birthday parties will be held in Elizabethtown on April 16, Pikeville on May 14, London on June 4, Middletown on June 25, Dixon on July 16, Morehead on Aug. 6, Erlanger on Sept. 4, Glendale on Sept. 17, and Mayfield on Oct. 8. Most will be held on the campuses of KDHC facilities, but three events (Pikeville, London and Erlanger) will be hosted by Baptist churches.

The largest event will be a birthday party and alumni reunion on the Spring Meadows Children's Home campus in Middletown on June 25. Spring Meadows began in 1869 as the Louisville Orphans Home and is the oldest KBHC program.

Mooney said Baptist churches will also be encouraged to celebrate by emphasizing the children's ministry in their services on June 26.

"We will be providing materials produced especially for the celebration to all of the churches and encouraging them to celebrate with us," Mooney said. "We won't be asking for an offering. We simply want to use this opportunity to say 'thank you' and make Baptists more aware of their wonderful heritage of child care ministry."

Mooney said the public awareness component will make use of print and broadcast media to help the public understand the great needs that are facing Kentucky's children.

"Using our own situation as an example, we were able to work with more than 700 children and families last year. But we had to turn away more than 1,000 others because either the space or the program the child needed was not available," Mooney said. "This being repeated in child care programs all across the state because the demands are far outstripping the available resources."

Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children is the child-caring institution of the Kentucky Baptist Convention. Residential programs include Spring Meadows Children's Home in Middletown, Glen Dale Children's Home in Elizabethtown, the Dixon temporary Shelter in Dixon, the Baptist Youth Shelter in Morehead, and Genesis Home in Mayfield.

KBHC also operates the First Step Pregnancy Counseling and Adoption service, manages private foster homes, and provides independent living, college, and career services to help older youth get established in life. KBHC's Cornerstone Counseling ministry provides professional Christian counseling to individuals and families through offices in Bowling Green, Erlanger, Hopkinsville, and Madisonville.

Kentucky Baptist Homes for Children is accredited by the Council on Accreditation of Services for Families and Children, Inc.

The only question mark during the 1993-94 season is the number of deer landowners took but did not check in. A change in the law this year dropped the mandatory check in requirement for landowners. Some landowners checked their deer voluntarily, but many others did not.

Requiring hunters to check harvested deer is the mechanism used by the KDFWR to keep an accurate count of the harvest. From that count, herd sizes can be determined and the hunting seasons tailored to the herd size in any given region. Without an accurate count, deciding how many deer inhabit a particular area and how much hunting that can be allowed is much harder to do. What impact using "guesswork" rather than hard facts will have on managing the herd, according to Phillips, remains to be seen.
