Rockcastle Health Dept. news

By: Beverly Carter-Sexton

Each year more than 3 million American young people under age 18 consume 947 million packs of cigarettes. More than 43,000 people die each year from smoking-related illnesses.

More than half of all smokers start using tobacco before age 18 and 90 percent start by age 21.

Tobacco use can lead to long-term serious health problems such as lung cancer, oral cancer, emphysema, and heart disease. In addition tobacco use may act as a "gateway" for abuse of other substances such as alcohol and drugs.

The problem of youth tobacco addiction is not confined to smoking. Among tobacco users, children are particularly heavy users of smokeless tobacco. The problem has reached epidemic proportions in some special populations. In one study of a high school's baseball players 40 percent had used snuff or chewing tobacco.

Children's imitation of adult role models plays a significant part in tobacco initiation and use. As adults, we recognize the habit forming dependency on tobacco use and the health risks involved. We do not want got to lose except a bad habit! The health department in cooperation with the American Cancer Society is conducting smoking cessation classes beginning Feb. 8. The classes are free and open to anyone 18 years old or older.

For more information or to sign up for classes call the health department 25-2342 and enroll today.

Old man winter hammers county

Extreme low temperatures cause power outages

By: Richard Anderkin
Brodhead and Gum Sulphur residents awoke Wednesday morning to cold homes after Kentucky Utility customers found themselves without power.

Old man winter dealt Rockcastle County a severe blow Wednesday when the mercury dropped to a record 24 degrees below zero. One Pine Hill resident reported a low of -42.

The cold temperatures resulted in a high demand for electricity which caused an overload at the Brodhead substation.

Ron Cain, manager of KU in Rockcastle County, said that the extremely cold weather caused everyone to turn their heat up, which in turn, turned the heat up on a main breaker at the substation.

Power was restored to most of the area by 9:30 a.m., it took longer in Gum Sulphur.

Cain said that during this extremely cold weather, people should conserve as much electricity as possible.

"Turn off everything that is not essential or the same thing could happen again," Cain said.

Jackson County RECC also asked their customers to cut back on electrical use because they were coming very close to losing their power out in the county as well.

While the electricity was off, Rockcastle County Disaster Emergency Services and the Red Cross opened a emergency shelter at Sower Nursing Home, mainly for the handicapped and elderly. A temporary shelter was also opened at Broadhead school. Mt. Vernon senior citizen's center, Livingston gym and old Livingston city hall.

Rockcastle County's official weatherman, Bud Cox said that the 24 below zero temperature Wednesday morning was probably a record. "On January 18, 1984 and January 18, 1985 the low was 18 degrees below zero," Cox said.

In Mt. Vernon residents came very close to losing their power as well early Wednesday morning. However, at Cain's request, via WRVW radio station, Mt. Vernon residents turned off all nonessential electricity, keeping the power from going off.

13.2 inches of snowfall here

This all began Monday when Mother Nature dumped nine inches of snow on Rockcastle, bringing the total for the month to 13.2 inches. Last Friday, Rockcastle also got a half inch during which closed school.

The normal amount of snowfall for Rockcastle during January is about 2 inches.

As of press time Wednesday, interstate 75 was still closed.

Shortages of heating fuel

Things could get very serious for local residents using home heating oil to warm their homes.

J. & L. Equipment is Mt. Vernon was completely out of fuel oil Wednesday, but according to Mrs. Libby Hammons, they were expecting a truck load Thursday.

"Our trucks simply have not been able to get through and when you are used to getting as many as three deliveries a week, it doesn't take long to run out," Mrs. Hammons said.

Mt. Vernon Oil has heating fuel #1 at the pump, but none available for delivery. "We are expecting a delivery today, (Wednesday)," said Amy Hamm.

Johnny DeBorde of DeBorde Oil Company said that while he does not have plenty of fuel on hand he does have enough to service his customers. "We have rationed our fuel to some extent so that everybody can have at least some," he said.

However, things are better for propane users: David Parsons of Parsons Gas said that his company has plenty of fuel on hand and are expecting a railcar load this week.

Fire destroys Brock home

The home of Roger and Tammy Brock at Slaty Branch was completely destroyed by fire Wednesday morning.

Brodhead firefighters were called to the scene around 10 a.m., but by the time they arrived the two story frame house was completely involved.

Brodhead fire chief Brian Russell said that fire apparently started around the flu on the second story.

Tammy Brock, who is a registered nurse at the Rockcastle Hospital, found out about the fire from a friend who was monitoring the police scanner at the hospital.

Roger Brock and two-year-old Jordan Brock escaped from the home unharmed.

Courthouse, health dept., restaurants, banks close

Wednesday's low temperatures caused several businesses, governmental agencies and factories to close.

The closings included the Rockcastle County Courthouse, Citizens Bank of Brodhead and Mt. Vernon, The Bank of Mt. Vernon, Rockcastle County Health Department, Rockcastle County Agricultural Service Center, Rockcastle Manufacturing, Parker Seal plant, all state offices, and several restaurants and privately owned businesses.

Mt. Vernon Plastics closed on Monday and Tuesday, but opened with a skeleton crew on Wednesday.

Rockcastle District Court was called off for the entire week.

No mail delivered

Monday's heavy snowfall and the extreme cold weather has also played havoc with the county's mail delivery.

On Wednesday, the Brodhead post office was closed the entire day because of the power outage and on Tuesday no mail was delivered throughout the county.

One mail truck did arrive in the county on Tuesday afternoon with that mail being delivered to some routes in the county on Wednesday.

As of 2 p.m. Wednesday no mail trucks had made it to any of the post offices in the county.

Major roads still closed

The Rockcastle County road department worked delinently Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday on the 518 miles of county roads but did little to help their condition. County Judge Buzz Carlifus said that all county roads are still very hazardous.

Donald Hurst of the Kentucky highway department said that officially all major roads in Rockcastle County, including the interstate, are still closed.

"Those that must travel can do so, if they exercise good judgement and extreme caution," he said.

Hurst said that the state has plenty of salt on hand and as temperatures rise, roads will become safer very quickly.

No school this week

Rockcastle County schools will be closed until next Monday. That means Rockcastle students will have missed twelve days of classes to date.

Students were scheduled to get out of school May 9. The high number of missed days has students in school until May 25. Only two days will be taken for Spring break on April 7 and 8.

Travel has been almost impossible in Rockcastle County since Mother Nature dumped nine inches of snow on the county Monday. To go along with the snow, temperatures dropped to a record low 24 degrees below zero on Wednesday morning.

Board accepts recommendation from (LPC)

The Rockcastle County Board of Education voted unanimously to accept the Local Planning Committee's Master Educational Facility Plan and the District Facility Plan as presented at a special meeting last Thursday night.

The plans, adopted by their entirety, were presented by Glen Vanwinkle, vice chairman of the LPC. The three main points of the plan recommend: the closing of Livingston School; the opening of the middle school in the fall and an equal distribution as possible of students throughout the three remaining elementary schools.

With the board's approval of the plans, they will now be submitted to the state and, upon approval on that level, will be returned to the county for a public hearing before final adoption.

Kirbys hurt in wreck

Two members of a Chestnut Ridge family were seriously injured in a two vehicle wreck Sunday evening. Edna Kirby, 39, of Mt. Vernon and her daughter Erin, 13, both received multiple injuries, including broken legs.

Both were transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington.

The wreck occurred at Chestnut Ridge around 6 p.m. Sunday. Clarence Jones, 29, of Mt. Vernon was charged with driving under the influence and no insurance. According to Rockcastle deputy sheriff Doug Thomas, Jones drove into the path of the Kirbys' vehicle.

He was released on an unsecured bond by District Judge Mike Henry. Mike Kirby and Tabetha Bell were also slightly injured in the wreck.

Bradley home damaged

Larry Bradley's home on Floyd Street was damaged by fire Saturday after he used a kerosene heater to try and thaw out water lines under the house. Mt. Vernon firefighters, including David Bales, at right, responded to the 3 p.m. blaze. The fire was contained mainly to one bedroom of the double-wide trailer, according to fireman Tiny Bostic.

More bad news for the tobacco industry. It was bad enough when President Clinton and her husband proposed an additional $2.00 per pack tax on cigarettes. Obviously, if and when that tax takes affect, most smokers who don't quit altogether are going to have to cut way back on their habits. Either that or give up the family car and move into government subsidized housing.

That's right, friends and neighbors. Don't smoke around your children and don't let them smoke cigarettes if you have any sense of responsibility. Encourage them instead to take up heroin and cocaine. Increase their allowance so they can afford to party down at the neighborhood crack house. Dr. Elders will do what she can to keep them from getting in trouble with the law.

And, of course our new Surgeon General, Dr. Elders, has just issued a tirade at smokers that accuses them of killing babies and being pretty much responsible for world hunger, war, pestilence and most other current social ills. The same Dr. Elders, just a few weeks ago, proclaimed that the best way to deal with the drug problem would be to legalize them. Of course, that suggestion came on the heels of her son's arrest for peddling cocaine.

The fact of the matter is that God gives slow geese considerably more brains than he give Clinton's surgeon general. I'm all for increasing the numbers of women and minorities in positions of responsibility, but women and black people across this country ought to be awfully insulted and up in arms right now. If Dr. Elders is supposed to be the most qualified black female doctor in the country, don't you just wonder how sharp the rest of them must be.

The new bad news for tobacco growers though, is that your's truly has decided to quit smoking. At this writing, I haven't had a cigarette in seven days. If I am as successful in this endeavor as I intend to be, the bad news is that absolutely anybody can quit. It means that the market for cigarettes is going to dry up.

"Every year we review the health care administration program to see if it reflects the needs of our students and the health care industry," Foster said. "We feel this program meets those needs."

The minor includes six courses: Principles of Accounting, Principles of Economics I, Introduction to Computer Information Systems, Principles of Management, Health Agency Accounting, and Seminar in Health Care Administration.

"Students minoring in health care administration gain an advantage in competition with others when it comes time for promotion decisions," Foster said. "And the interaction between our health care administration majors and those seeking the minor will be mutually beneficial."

Foster said the health care administration minor might prove especially attractive to registered nurses who currently have an associate degree and want to return to seek a bachelor's degree. "These people can appreciate the need for management skills."

For more information about the health care administration program, call Foster at 606-622-1094.

I've tried to quit dozens of times before. I've been to hypnotists and I've tried group therapy. I've used nicotine chewing gum, taken several different kinds of pills, dipped snuff, tried herbal remedies and gone off into the woods for week-long camping trips on which I took no tobacco. I've tried mineral baths, meditation and faith healers all with consistent results. The only thing I've gotten out of previous attempts to quit is a very strong desire for a cigarette and an extremely ill temper.

On one previous occasion, I went ten days without a cigarette during which time I accumulated a bad enemies that would have rivaled Al Capone. I'd pull into the driveway and see the kids climbing out windows so they wouldn't have to meet me coming in the door. Loreta took to working longer hours and spending a lot of time visiting her sisters in Berea.

Finally, I came home one day and there was a carton of cigarettes on the bed with a note attached. "Light up," it said. "Go ahead and kill yourself. Better you than one of us."

I've quit several times since that occasion and subsequently started back with far less drama.

This time, however, I've been to my doctor and received a prescription for Nicotrol, a hand-aid-like patch that has to be changed daily but which provides nicotine that the body absorbs through the skin. It also comes with some descriptive literature, a cassette tape and therapeutic program that the patient has to follow. It's expensive, $57 for a two-week supply and they say it takes about 6 weeks to wean yourself off the patches. For whatever it's worth, I also quit when the signs were in the knees and my buds. Rodney Miracle, says that's probably got a lot to do with it.

The bottom line is that I've been following instructions, using the patch and I haven't had a cigarette in a week. I was pretty contrary the first couple of days but I can honestly say that I'm as tame as a pussy cat right now and I really don't want a smoke. In the meantime, I'm enjoying smelts that I'd almost forgotten about. I'm not saying that it will work for everybody, but so far I'm finding it pretty easy to stay off tobacco.

Finally, as we promised last week, here's a few more excellent seed and garden plant catalogues you might want to order. All four also have a wide variety of flowers. The Adams family has certainly had good experiences with them.

Ramblings...

As a friend of mine has brought to my attention several times, it's a ill-wind that blows no one any good and I decided after watching the "Jenny Jones Show" very late Monday night that all these years I have fussed and acted ugly about having to work so much outside the home that actually I was better off -- otherwise I might have sat at home and become addicted to talk shows featuring weird people. When I say weird, I am not exaggerating as I am sometimes a little prone to do -- these are people who will sit on national TV and tell you their experiences such as "Women who have a baby and no one knew they were pregnant," or "I had intimate relations with my sister (or brother)-in-law and how it has affected my relationship with my brother (or sister)," or, hell, well, you get the picture.

Where do they get these people who will bare their souls on national TV, take hurtful remarks from the studio audience about their behavior and still be able to hold their head up in their circle of acquaintances?

I was raised on the premise that one did not air one's dirty laundry in public -- and if I inadvertently got aired, you denied whatever it was being aired to the last breath. And, if all else failed, you politely (or otherwise if necessary) refused to discuss the subject with anyone.

Oh, well, enough of that but I have a further bone to pick and it concerns what the national news media considers of "earth-shaking" importance to their viewers -- it began much recently with the media's preoccupation with Michael Jackson's peculiarities (to put it politely) -- they reported the initial charge (which Allison overheard and I spent a summering 20 minutes trying to explain in terms I hoped she couldn't understand completely) then we spent the next several weeks getting periodic bulletins on Jackson's whereabouts and how his troubles were upsetting his friend Liz Taylor but the coup de'tat was when CNN announcer reported that the news of the world was awaiting had happened. "Jackson had arrived in the states." I wanted to put my foot through the TV. This one little section of the world (the infinesimal part I occupy) could have cared less where Jackson was and would honestly prefer that he never be heard from again -- now that would be news.

Currently, I grit my teeth when the latest earth shattering tidbit about Tonya Harding or Lorena Bobbitt are broadcast, particularly when they are given practically the same amount of coverage as the California earthquake.

Library News & Views

The Adult Reading Group met at the library for their discussion of Maya Angelou's "I Know Why the Caged Bird Sings." Tuesday morning. The ladies all agreed that this was very interesting and entertaining book. I enjoy sitting in with the group and hearing different viewpoints about the books that they have been reviewing. Sue Hamm is in charge of the reading group but each lady is taking a month to lead the discussions. The next meeting will be February 8th and each person will choose a favorite poem to read and discuss. In April the group will be going to Joseph-Beth Book Store in Lexington to look at new books and choose some for future meetings. We invite anyone that is interested in good books and in meeting with friends for an hour each month, to come in and join the group. You will find this to be a rewarding experience.

Now is a good time to think about that garden that you will be planting this spring. For your convenience we have a good selection of 1994 garden catalog and garden books on display for you to choose from. I especially like to look at the flower seed and plants. I have a vegetable garden each year but this is a necessity. I'd much rather spend my leisure time working in my flower garden. I will have an arrangement of some kind of flowers in the library from early spring to late fall. I hope our patrons enjoy these as much as I do. Maybe I'll do a better job of arranging them since we had the class on flower arranging. Being an excellent job of presenting this lesson. I'd also like to invite those people that are interested in crafts to join our Craft Class. This group meets every other Monday at 1 p.m. The next meeting will be January 31st. We are doing a new registration of patrons, starting Jan. 1. Please ask for your new card if we fail to give you one. The last registration started in 1991 and a lot of our patrons have moved or changed their last name and we feel that it needs to be updated. It is important that we have the correct name and address of all our patrons.

Two new non-fiction books that I'm sure you will enjoy are Above Suspicion by Joe Sharkey... Many of you may have heard of this murder case and be familiar with some of the details since this happened in Pikeville.

Mark Punam is a rookie agent when he receives his first assignment to "Dogpatch," as the FBI's reform and tenuous outpost in Pikeville, is known. High in Appalachian coal country, a hundred miles from the nearest interstate, it's a place where lawlessness has been a way of life for generations.

It's exactly a plum assignment, but Mark and his wife, Kathy, are determined to look on the bright side. They're in love, they have two bright, healthy young children, and the dreams they have nurtured are beginning to come true. The boy who always wanted to be an FBI man is proving to be a neutral, making inroads in case after case with informants he has a knack for getting close to. And finally, too close.

Mark's illicit involvement with a coal miner's daughter known as "a no one artist, a thief, and a professional liar" turns into a fatal attraction that threatens to destroy everything he's worked for. In a fit of passion and desperation, he unwittingly commits the perfect crime. His victim has no shortage of enemies, while she has a model agent above suspicion, with the Bureau's impenetrable shield, which has long allowed it to remain a w unto itself, to protect him.

2... Sue McQueen; Portrait of an American Rebel by Marshall Terrill. Mrs. Terrill chronicles with life and images of this man whose power both on and off the camera is legendary. From the list of his woman friends, to he "love of his life," actress Ali McGraw, McQueen seemed to have it all. Portrait of an American Rebel relates vivid first-hand accounts of McQueen's extraordinary career and even more extraordinary life, leaving readers with the impression that they have met him, shared some of his grief, his joy and learned about the small-town rebel who kept so many millions spellbound.

A new novel that's available is... Disclosure by Michael Crichton. A brutal struggle in the cutthroat computer industry; a shattering psychological game of cat and mouse; an accusation of sexual harassment that threatens to derail a brilliant career... this is the electrifying core of Michael Crichton's new novel.

At the center: Tom Sanders, an up-and-coming executive with DigiCom in Seattle, a man whose corporate future is certain. Until, after a closed door meeting with his new boss - a woman who was his lover ten years before, a woman who has been promoted to the position he expected to have - he is accused of sexually harassing her. Now, as he scrambles to defend himself enlisting the help of a sagacious woman lawyer whose career has been built on the successful prosecution of men charged with sexual misconduct, he finds himself trapped between what he knows to be true and what he knows others will assume to be the truth. And, as he uncovers an electronic trail into the company's secrets, he begins to grasp just how cynical and manipulative an abuse of truth has actually occurred.

... Tackling one of the most divisive issues of our time, Disclosure compels us to see beyond our traditional responses. It is Michael Crichton at his best.

Snow shoveling can be hazardous to your health

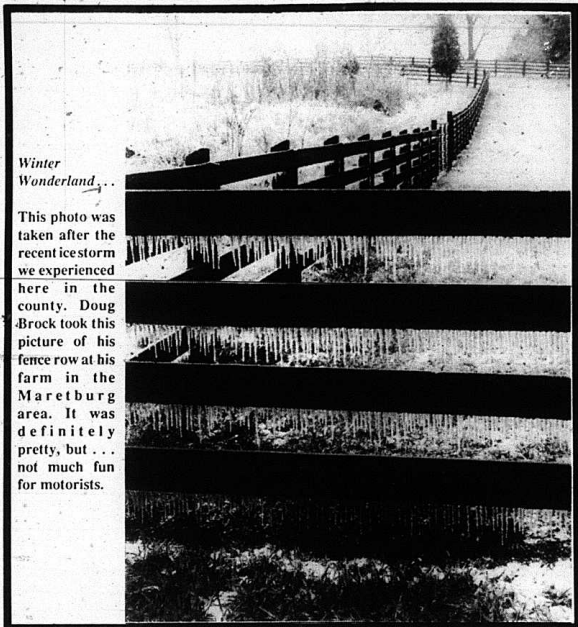

There's nothing prettier than a well-fallen snow—nothing more dangerous to your health either, according to the Council on Orthopedics of the American Chiropractic Association (ACA). The tragedy of the fatal or near-fatal heart attack or stroke attributed to shoveling snow tends to overshadow a hazard that is even more common. The same snow which causes heart stress also causes dangerous spinal disc stress. When you consider a shovel of snow weighs five to ten pounds, you realize the tremendous cumulative weight one has to lift to clear an area. The average driveway or walk will hold hundreds of pounds of snow.

Snow seems to present a challenge to most people; the cold air invigorates them to action; and, the same cold air numbs their senses of pain and fatigue, thereby masking the severity of sprain and strain. The result: too much exertion and too much work without rest breaks.

Tips for shoveling snow safely

1. Dress warmly, but don't bundle up so as to make it difficult and awkward for you to move naturally.
2. Use a lightweight pusher-type shovel. Spray it with Teflon so snow will not cling to it.
3. Keep one hand close to the base of the shovel to balance weight and lessen the strain on your back.
4. Try not to lift the snow or pitch it a distance. Merely push it or walk it to the pile.
5. Avoid sudden twists of the torso. Move the entire body to avoid strain on the back.
6. Keep your back straight when you lift. Bend your knees and use your legs for leverage.
7. Work slowly. Shovel about five minutes and rest about two minutes.

Winter Wonderland...

This photo was taken after the recent ice storm we experienced here in the county. Doug Brock took this picture of his fence row at his farm in the Mareburg area. It was definitely pretty, but... not much fun for motorists.

8. If you feel tired or short of breath, stop and take a rest. Stand up straight and breathe deeply.
9. If you feel a twinge of back pain, stop immediately and go inside the house. Sit down and rest. If pain persists, see a doctor of chiropractic immediately. If there is any indication of a heart problem, call 911 immediately.

The American Chiropractic Association and your family doctor of chiropractic issue this warning: Use good judgement in shoveling snow; pace yourself; be careful how you push or lift the shovel so as to avoid back strain. And if you have health problems or are not in good physical shape, don't even consider shoveling snow. Many times it is wiser to use your head instead of your back!

Central Baptist Church organized in 1946 with twenty charter members

The Central Baptist Church, located on U.S. 25 south, was organized June 5, 1946 having been a mission of the Bethlehem Baptist Temple of Cincinnati, Ohio.

The church organized with twenty charter members and called Bro. Raford Herrin, who served approximately one year as pastor.

Work was begun on the original building in 1965, and Bro. Ralph Sears became the second pastor that year and served until June of 1970. Under his ministry construction of a parsonage was approved in late 1966.

In September of 1970 Bro. Raford Herrin was called for a second term as pastor and served until November of 1981.

Darrell Sparks became the third pastor in December of 1981 and served until December of 1986. Dr. James Head became pastor May 31, 1987. During the present pastorate the church building has been completely remodeled and redecorated, doubling the size of the auditorium and adding a fellowship hall and additional rooms.

The church has a fully graded Sunday School with classes for every member of the family from adults to bed babies, with an attended nursery at all services. Sunday School is at 10 a.m. with morning worship at 11 a.m. and evening services at 7 p.m. Wednesday prayer and Bible study is at 7 p.m.

The Sunday School staff consists of Lydia McLemore, Linda Eaton, Lillian Caldwell, Imogene Sparks, Glenna Baker, Belinda Smith, Floyd Caldwell, Wayne Sparks, and Pastor Head. Trustees serving for 1994 are Byron Baker, J.C. Barnett, Michael Broughton, Timon Owens Jr. and Wayne Sparks.

In addition to the regular services, there is a Bible Club for the children at 6:30 p.m. on Sunday evening a monthly fellowship meeting for the ladies and special fellowship meetings for the meet of the church.

The church's missionary outreach extends not only to the United States but to Europe, Africa, Mexico and Central America, Indonesia, Australia and Canada.

The church will observe its 30th anniversary in June of this year with special services to be announced at a later date.

Pastor Head and the members of Central Baptist Church extend an invitation and a warm welcome to everyone to all our services.

Our invitation is "There Is A Difference—Come and See."

The present Central Baptist Church located on US Hwy. 25 South

This competition will be held January 22 at Eastern Kentucky University in Richmond. Students competing at Richmond represent 46 high schools in 29 counties.

A total of 997 students from 180 high schools in 100 Kentucky counties have registered statewide to compete in the 1994 Sweet 16 Academic Showcase.

The other regional competitions will be held at Morehead State University, Jan. 29; Kentucky Wesleyan

Students will compete for scholarships which may be used at any Kentucky college, university, or post-secondary educational institution.

Computer team members who are state winners each receive $1,350 for first place; $950 for second; and $650 for third. Trophies are also awarded to state winners.

A large portion of the funds for the program are raised through a televised auction held in Lexington each January. This year's auction raised bids totalling more than $75,000. Local EKU Alumni to participate in phonathon '94

Eight years, eight records.

That's the success story of the Eastern Kentucky University Phonathon. About 400 student volunteers will take to the phones again Jan. 30-March 6 in an effort to raise $145,000. The students will call about 30,000 Eastern graduates nationwide during Phonathon '94, including 451 graduates in Rockcastle County.

Calls will be made from 7 to 9:30 p.m. Sunday-Thursday throughout the five-week period.

The student volunteers will ask Eastern graduates to support the University's Alumni Annual Fund," said Doug Cornett, Alumni Annual Fund coordinator. "Private gifts continue to be very important to the University.

"This is also a good way for us to maintain contact and update alumni records."

Eastern graduates have had the annual Phonathon one of the University's most successful support programs.

Delay in "schools in crisis" underscores need for board oversight

Delayed implementation of a key part of the 1990 education reform law - sanctions for schools failing to meet standards of progress - is one more reason why the 1994 General Assembly should act to ensure local accountability of public education, according to officials of the Kentucky School Boards Association.

KSBA President Margie Bradford said Education Commissioner Thomas Boyson's Jan. 11 recommendation to put off until 1996 designating performance tested "schools in crisis" makes it vital that the legislature reassure the public about the results of school-based decision making.

"Students get to see the importance of private support for public-assisted universities like Eastern," Cornett said, "and it's also a good lesson in volunteerism."

Members of EKU's student organizations, mainly fraternities and societies, will place calls to alumni living in Kentucky and throughout the United States.

Students tell us they enjoy calling the graduates," Cornett said, "and every year they do a great job in generating support for their university."

Members of EKU's Student Alumni Ambassadors will provide additional support for the project.

Eastern's first eight phonathons raised nearly $650,000 in total pledges, and each phonathon has exceeded its goal for both total dollars and number of contributors.

The annual project also receives considerable support from the local business community in the form of food and prizes for student volunteers.

"Councils will be left to act as free agents unless legislators restore a system of checks and balances whereby policy boundaries are set by the school board and operated consistently by the school councils," said Keller.

The 1992 General Assembly amended the law to specifically state that councils set school policy "consistent with district board policy." A test case in Boone Circuit Court upheld that language. However, the November 1993 Court of Appeals ruling overturning the circuit court decision means that individual council policy may run contrary to district policies set by the board of education.

KSBA recently announced plans to ask the 1994 General Assembly to adopt more specific language to recognize local board of education policy as the framework within which individual school councils are authorized to act.

A resolution passed by the Kentucky Farm Bureau in December called upon legislators to strengthen school boards' authority to determine how individual schools are operated and financed.

EKU health care administration minor meet industry need

Eastern Kentucky University's College of Business is helping to meet a growing need in the health care industry.

In addition to its health care administration major, the college offers a health care administration minor, which gives individuals majoring in health-related fields the opportunity to obtain a background that will prepare them for the business aspects of health care.

"Professional education has not prepared health care professionals to deal with accounting, economic, management, and information system issues that are now vital to the health care field," said Dr. Benjamin Foster, assistant professor in EKU's Department of Accounting and coordinator of the health care administration program. "Changes in the health care field have increasingly demanded both financial and personal management skills from health care professionals, who now must deal with various reimbursement methods and cost-containment measures. Also, any health care professionals move into supervisory positions for which they have received no instruction."

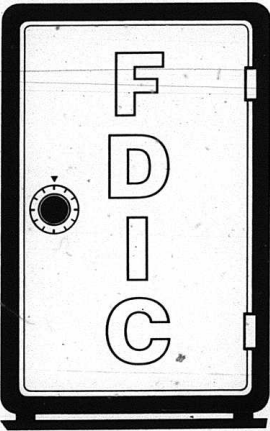

Foster said the impetus for the health care administration minor came from those already employed in the health care field and faculty and students in EKU's College of Allied Health and Nursing, which produces more health care professionals at the undergraduate level than any institution in Kentucky.

"Every year we review the health care administration program to see if it

Top winner of the American Farm Bureau Discussion meet

Chris Kummer, a 25-year-old Simpson County farmer, was named top winner of the American Farm Bureau Discussion Meet, held during Farm Bureau's 75th national convention last week in Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Kummer was judged best among entrants from 37 states in a day-long competition Sunday, January 9. Results of the meet were announced January 10 during a young farmer and rancher awards program.

Kummer and his wife Jill, who produce corn and soybeans on a 500-acre farm near Franklin, won a 1994 Dodge Dakota X 4 pickup truck, which is being shipped from the Fort Lauderdale convention for presentation to the couple by a local Dodge dealership.

The Discussion Meet is a competitive event for young farmers, which tests entrants' ability to discuss current farm issues in a panel setting and respond to differing points of view.

In another young farmer event at the national Farm Bureau convention, Union Countians Adam and Krisi Qian represented Kentucky in an Outstanding Young Farm Family competition. That event was won by Roger and Susan May of Oberlin, Kansas.

A Kentuckian was elected to the American Farm Bureau Board of Directors during the convention's business session. William R. Sprague of Sturgis will serve a two-year term on the board, which directs the management of the nation's largest farm organization.

Sprague will also continue as president of Kentucky Farm Bureau. He is now serving his third term in the post.

A Logan County couple will serve a two-year term on the AFBF Young Farmers and Ranchers Committee, beginning in February. That appointment went to Ti and Lori Hughes, of Woodburn.

Tobacco came in for some attention during the five-day AFBF convention. AFBF voting delegates reaffirmed language in the national policy book opposing higher excise taxes, including the 75-cent-per-pack increase in cigarette taxes proposed by President Clinton.

The anti-tax sentiment also found favor with visitors to a tobacco display at the convention trade show. More than 250 farmers from around the country signed letters to be mailed to their congressmen and senators urging defeat of the tax plan.

Iowan Dean Kleckner held off an electoral challenge to win a fifth two-year term as president of the American Farm Bureau. He defeated South Carolinian Harry Bell in a secret ballot contest among the convention's voting delegates.

Following that vote, T.M. "Mort" Ewing was elected AFBF vice president succeeding Bell. He is the president of the Georgia Farm Bureau.

reflects the needs of our students and the health care industry," Foster said. "We feel this program meets those needs."

The minor includes six courses: Principles of Accounting, Principles of Economics I, Introduction to Computer Information Systems, Principles of Management, Health Agency Accounting, and Seminar in Health Care Administration.

"Students minoring in health care administration gain an advantage in competition with others when it comes time for promotion decisions," Foster said. "And the interaction between our health care administration majors and those seeking the minor will be mutually beneficial."

Foster said the health care administration minor might prove especially attractive to registered nurses who currently have an associate degree and want to return to seek a bachelor's degree. "These people can appreciate the need for management skills."

For more information about the health care administration program, call Foster at 606-622-1094.

Illegal casino gambling machines being sold throughout the state

Recently it has been brought to the attention of Edward J. Holmes, Secretary of the Cabinet for Public Protection and regulation, that charitable organizations and private clubs, with facilities licensed to sell alcoholic beverages in the Commonwealth, are using the riverboat/casino type of electronic slot machines that give patrons pay offs in the form of tokens, coins or tickets. These types of machines are essentially the same as slot machines which are considered to be an illegal gambling device, the mere possession of such being a violation of KRS 243.500(7), gambling on premises which are licensed to sell alcoholic beverages.

These machines have appeared mainly in the Northern Kentucky area, with a few sightings in the Louisville, Paducah and Henderson areas. The vendors or owners of these machines have been misleading charitable organizations and alcoholic beverage licensees into believing these types of machines are legal. Until legislation is passed legalizing the use of these machines in Kentucky, they are considered illegal and may not be placed in a premise licensed to sell alcoholic beverages.

Secretary Holmes is instructing the Department of Alcohol Beverage Control (ABC) to closely monitor this problem and would greatly appreciate cooperation from licensees in order to keep these machines off their licensed premises.
