Patent sacking and weatherstripping might be insufficient because there are so many tiny openings through which beetles can enter. People troubled by beetles might need to have a professional pest control firm apply an outside insecticidal treatment to the further prevent pest entry. The key is to apply the residual treatment in August or September before pests enter to overwinter.

They become a nuisance when large numbers gather around windows, light fixtures, walls, ceilings, doors and other surfaces in the home. If you smash beetles, they have an odor and can produce a yellowish stain.

A broom or vacuum cleaner is the best short-term solution, according to Potter.

Most beetles emerging the next three to six weeks will not survive indoors more than a few days," he said. "A broom or vacuum cleaner is the easiest way to dispose of living or dead beetles in the home. They do not bite or sting and can be swept away from other surfaces in the home."

The entomologists do not recommend insecticides because ladybird beetles are beneficial insects. However, if populations exceed your nuisance threshold, a supplemental treatment with a pyrethrin-based insecticide might be warranted as a last resort.

"Although aerosol-type foggers can be used in attics, they do not provide residual control of beetles that have not emerged from protected areas," Potter said. "We do not recommend aerosol foggers or sprays for bedrooms or other living areas, because they provide only minimal control against new beetles emerging from wall voids."

Prevention is the best long-term solution to the problem of ladybird beetles, nor do they infest food, clothing or wood, the beetles do not breed in buildings.

The problem actually started last fall.

In October, we received many reports about large numbers of ladybird beetles gathering on the sides of homes and buildings," said Mike Potter, Extension entomologist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "Many beetles entered searching for a protected area like wall voids or an attic to overwinter."

"With the onset of warmer temperatures, the beetles will emerge and exit through cracks in window sills and baseboards, opening around light fixtures and ventilators. Some will inadvertently wander into living areas. If large number gather, they become a nuisance."

"The beetles are a serious problem in the eastern third of Kentucky, east of a line from Somerset to Cincinnati," said Les Townsend, Extension entomologist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "They are a sporadic problem in the central third. We've not heard much from western Kentucky."

The beetles are pale orange, usually with 19 black spots on the wing covers. They are oval and about one-third inch long.

"Ladybird beetles are not harmful to people or buildings," Potter said. "They don't bite, sting or carry diseases."

beetles, as well as cluster flies, lace flies, wasps and yellowjackets, according to Potter.

"Use a good quality silicone or silicone-latex caulk to seal cracks around windows, doors, siding, fascia boards, utility pipes and other openings," he said. "Weatherstrip around doors and windows. Repair damaged window screens and install insect screening - 20 mesh maximum - over attic vents."

Another problem is that the lady bird beetle resembles the Mexican bean beetle and squash beetle, according to Ric Bessin, Extension entomologist at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture. "Some people are concerned and want to know whether to plant beans and squash," he said. "The beans will be fine." Bessin said the lady bird beetle is a predator of scale and aphids in eastern Asia. "People have tried to establish it as a biological control agent in other states," he said. "However, the beetle was never introduced into Kentucky for that purpose."

The first specimens recovered in the U.S. were collected in Louisiana during the late 1980s. The beetles expanded through the South Atlantic states into Kentucky, where a few specimens were recorded in Hickman County in 1992.

The sessions are being offered by Berea College's Crafts Program and the University of Kentucky's Mountain Association for Community Economic Development, and the Eastern Kentucky Child Care Coalition.

Registration forms, which must be completed and returned five days prior to each workshop, can be requested from the New Opportunity School for Women, CPO 2276, Berea, College, KY 40404; telephone (606) 986-9341. Ext. 6676.

New Opportunity School director Jane Stephenson said enrollment for each program will be limited in order to give participants individualized attention. Those attending the crafts workshops are asked to bring an item for display.

Orchard owners will want to prevent their trees from overbearing in 1995, he said. Trees that are severely injured frequently set a heavy crop the following year, so vigorous thinning will be advisable next year.

That doesn't mean that orchard owners should rush out and do much as they can, however.

"Generally, we recommend that orchard owners treat the trees as if they're ok until they find out for sure that they're not," Brown said. "Don't be in a hurry to remove trees. It may be better to wait until late summer to determine the extent of injury and make a decision whether to remove the trees or work with them."

By that time, he said orchard owners should be able to evaluate not only tree damage but also the percentage of trees remaining and other variables that result in extra effort to manage a block of trees.

What damages are likely? The subzero temperatures in January may have caused more damages than the more recent ice storm, he said.

Freeze injured trees will show more injury in crotches of limbs, bases of branches and low on the trunk. In the spring, freeze injury may be identified by dead bark down to the snow line which may crack or peel to expose a discolored cambium or sapwood.

What can be done for winter damaged trees? "Check all the trees," Brown said. "Unless the bark is split, damage is more readily identified. If the bark is split, tack it down to keep the wood and cambium areas from drying out. Galvanized roofing nails are ok."

Generally, owners should not prune trees they suspect of severe winter injury, he said.

"Freeze damaged trees that are not pruned often recover better than pruned ones because they have a larger leaf surface and manufacture more food to produce new tissue faster than pruned trees. Summer pruning can be beneficial after the extent of injury is known."

Home based business workshops.

The "how-tos" of starting a home-based business will be examined during two Saturday workshops at Berea College.

On March 19, an all-day session will focus on producing and selling crafts from the home. Family day care as a home enterprise will be the topic of an April 9 workshop. Each program has a $10 fee which includes the cost of lunch at the college cafeteria.

The sessions are being offered by Berea College's Crafts Program and the University of Kentucky's Mountain Association for Community Economic Development, and the Eastern Kentucky Child Care Coalition.

Legislative Update

By Rep. Danny Ford

After nearly two years of study, a major health care reform bill cleared the first hurdle this week to becoming law. House Bill 250 is an attempt to make health care more affordable and accessible through changes in state law. Unfortunately, the laws of the state cannot repeal basic laws of economics.

House Bill 250 passed the House on Wednesday by a vote of 58 to 41. I voted "no" on this bill because it is a "band-aid" solution to Kentucky's health care problems, and its ultimate impact will dramatically increase health insurance costs.

House Bill 250 calls for increased government control over health care in order to control costs and prohibit persons from being denied coverage because of pre-existing conditions. The bill certainly has its good points, and like my colleagues who voted for the bill, I support the goal of guaranteeing issuance of insurance to all Kentuckians.

Kentuckians. The knowledge gained from the lengthy study of this subject, however, shows that requiring health insurers to accept all applicants will increase rates across the board by 30-percent or more. Clearly, this legislation will fall miserably in the high health care costs arena. These cost increases will further jeopardize the potential for extending health care coverage to the poor and those with pre-existing conditions.

Even many of the supporters of this legislation agree it needs more revision. The bill was loaded with 16 floor amendments when it passed the House, and it is expected to undergo even more changes when it reaches the Senate.

True health care reform needs to be based on a system that makes the individual more responsible for health care choices, and gives health care consumers an economic incentive to use their health care benefits wisely. The cost saving achieved through this approach could be used to build towards the ultimate goal of covering persons with pre-existing conditions, and achieving true reforms in our Medicaid program without the provider tax.

Hopefully, the Senate will completely rewrite this legislation, and return to the House a bill that adequately addresses the root causes of our health care problems.

Other bills of interest considered this week in the General Assembly include:

- House Bill 412 would allow a sentence of life imprisonment without parole as an alternative to the death penalty.

- House Bill 312 passed in the House this week and now goes to the Senate. This bill bans the possession of weapons on school grounds, buses and athletic fields. Weapons are defined include as firearms, explosive devices, boobytraps, and long knives. Pocketknives are excluded. This does not apply to weapons used for instruction at school-sanctioned recreational purposes.

- House Bills 528 and 529 relate to the safety and training of coal miners. The first bill prohibits requiring an underground coal miner to work in conditions in which he or she reasonably believes are unsafe. House Bill 529 requires that experienced surface coal miners be trained and certified.

- House Bill 534 brings state unemployment insurance laws in compliance with federal regulations. It would also require claimants to participate in re-employment services.

This bill also gives businesses, and organizations the right to prosecute claimants for false representation in regard to benefit claims.

As the session continues, it is vital for me to know your thoughts and opinions. Please share your comments with me by dialing the toll-free message line 1-800-372-7181. There are also several other toll-free telephone numbers that provide up-to-date information. To learn the status of a bill, call 1-800-592-4557. important that we have forgotten about God? In our darkest times do we ask God for help, but in our highest times forget our God? When we have plenty we want more. When we don't have anything we are begging for mercy. Our life is God's gift to us, what do we do with our life is our gift to God.

I have dedicated the rest of my life to my partner and to my young people. Life tends to have its ups and downs and sometimes a person needs help or simply someone to talk to. I am in the Campbell Air station at Ft. Campbell. I come back to Mt. Vernon almost every weekend. If any young person needs help or to talk, write me a letter at the address below. Dear Editor,

Things that make you say hmmmhmmhmm??

Researchers tell me of an experiment involving a roomful of 'monkeys'. In the middle of the room is a tall stool; suspended over head is a banana on a wire.

The 'monkeys' want the banana, but every time they climb up on the stool, a researcher appears with a hose and sprays all the 'monkeys' with water! After they've been hosed down a few times the monkeys no longer allow each other up on the stool. If one 'monkey' tries to get the banana, the others swarm all over him, pinning, punching, and biting him to the ground before the hose is turned on them all. Eventually, the 'prohibition' becomes the new 'law'!

One day, a 'monkey' is taken out of the room and replaced with another who does not know the 'law'. He enters the cage, sees the banana and makes a run for the stool, but is pulled down and beaten by the 'banana enforcement monkeys', until he gives up on the idea. This process is repeated, one 'monkey' at a time until the room is entirely populated with 'monkeys' who have never been on the stool, never touched the banana, and never been hosed down by the researchers. Now the law is sacred; an article of faith from an unknown lawgiver.

Experience is no longer at its base. The prohibition takes on a life of its own. Logic no longer has a role to play. Nobody knows why they must not climb the stool or eat the banana. But all good monkeys strictly obey and enforce the law.

With such an analogy, the question that sure comes to mind is... Has billions and billions of dollars been spent turning tax-paying citizens into a roomful of monkeys? Has Congress been allowed to regard Our Bill of Rights, in a minor List of Suggestions? In doing so??? Have we in the process forgot about the drug problem? Has fighting drugs become such Big Bananas we have ever looked at the drug problem??? Hmmmhmmhmm??

Tribute in Memory of Katherine Taylor Oliver

Mrs. Katherine Taylor Oliver passed away Friday, March 4, 1994 at the Rockcastle County Hospital at the age of 87. Mrs. Oliver's residence was 1307 Boone Aire Rd., Florence, Ky. She was preceded in death by her husband William L. Oliver who is buried in Rockcastle County. She is survived by one sister Sue Taylor Cook of Cincinnati and several nephews and nieces.

William and Katherine Oliver came to know and love Rockcastle County through their purchase of real estate from Marcus and Mable Reppert in 1961. The Reppert and Oliver family grew close over the years and shared joys and hardships alike. Katherine and Bill Oliver enjoyed the children, seeing them grow up into maturity.

Dorothy and Guy C. Martin were closest to Mrs. Oliver in the last 13 years. They sought joy and brightened many of her days by their attention and devotion.

Katherine grew to love the Renfro Valley area and established a sunny home here in 1980. Mable and Mrs. Oliver ramed the woods and admired their favorites: wild flowers, ferns and beautiful birds. Dorothy and Guy C. were there to take Mrs. Oliver to dinner on Saturday night for her favorite meal of steak and fried potatoes. Mrs. Oliver was visited often by a knock at door with a special Easter surprise, or her favorite white chocolate cake from Deloris Reppert. Alright who was able to carry on the family tradition.

Mrs. Oliver's words of wisdom and graciousness will be forever with us as we remember this special lady from northern Kentucky. On a lighter side the Cincinnati Reds were her avid fan and the many birds that gathered at her window for their daily feeding will now have to be nurtured by someone else.

She walked through the pages of our lives for 33 years. Like a good book, reading, punching, and biting him to the ground before the hose is turned on them all. Eventually, the 'prohibition' becomes our love for you.

Friends of Katherine T. and William L. Oliver

ATTENTION Parents of Students Who Will Be In The 6th Grade

The Ky. Department for Health Services requires all students to have two (2) doses of measles-mumps-rubella (MMR) prior to entry into the sixth grade. Since students have already received one dose of this vaccine, only one additional dose will be required. This 2nd dose of MMR must be received before the student can be enrolled in school this fall. The student will be required to present an up-to-date immunization certificate which shows the 2nd MMR.

If you have a child in the fifth grade, your child needs to receive a 2nd dose of MMR vaccine before the beginning of the next school year. To avoid anticipated backlogs in July and August it is suggested that you make plans to have your child immunized in the next few months. This vaccine can be received either at the Health Department or at your doctor's office. Please call for an appointment soon.

The students who will be entering the 6th grade this fall will also be required to have a second physical before they can be enrolled. Be sure the physical form has "January, 1993" in the upper righthand corner or it will not be acceptable.

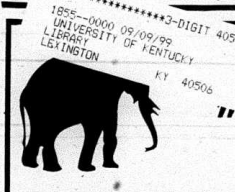

Physicals can be done either at the Health Department (if you meet the guidelines) or at your doctor's office. Please call for an appointment soon.

Thank you for your cooperation.

Mt. Vernon council discusses $500 a month raise for Mayor

By: Ray McClure

The mayor needs a raise. With this observation councilman Lee Keene set off a lengthy discussion of salaries at a meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night.

After a long discussion, the council put off a decision until they could think it over and bring up the question at the April meeting.

Rockcastle Treasurer Joe Clontz painted a dim picture for county finances at a meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Tuesday.

Raymond Terrell, 21, of Berea was seriously injured in a two vehicle accident at Roundstone early Wednesday morning. Terrell apparently lost control of his Grand Am, crossed the center line and struck James and Teresa Smith of Wildcat. The Smiths were treated and released at Rockcastle Hospital and Terrell was transferred to the U.K. Medical Center in Lexington with head injuries.

Released after shooting

A Rockcastle man was shot about noon Monday while on a tractor on Poplar Gap Road.

Both parties, County Judge/Execu

James Alexander, 52, of Poplar Gap was shot two times and struck in the face, chest and arms reportedly by Everett Higgins, 75, also of Poplar Gap.

Alexander was treated at Rockcastle Hospital and sent on to U.K. Medical Center in Lexington where his condition Tuesday was "good."

Higgins posted 10 percent of a $10,000 bond and was released.

He told Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan he was driving home when he tried to get by Alexander, who was driving a tractor. He said Alexander pulled over and started cursing him, then pulled a gun. When Alexander came toward him Higgins shot him from his car. He did not get out.

Alexander told police Higgins pulled up behind him and he pulled over to let him go around. Then Higgins shot him.

Deputy Doan reported he did not find a gun on Alexander.

I've never been so glad in my life to see anything over with as I am to be shed of the Winter Olympics. I don't ski and I don't skate and I have no interest or intention of learning how. I don't ride ice pans down ice-covered slopes so steep you couldn't walk up them if they were covered with crab grass. I would, however, just to satisfy my curiosity, like to see what kind of jock strap a luge racer wears. Did any of you all see that luge racer?

These guys literally lie flat of their gludius maximus, belly up, with only their buns centered on a little sled about the size and shape of a cookie sheet. Except it has an extension that reaches 18 inches or so out in front of the rider's straddle and sort of bends upward to hook around his right leg and keep it separated from his left so he can reach one foot out and kick himself into a straight line down the side of the mountain at somewhere near the speed of light.

But if a rider hits a rock or a bump or whatever and his leg came unhooked, it looks to me like the horse-shoe would come flying back and hit him in such a way that he could forget about ever starting a family. But lugging down is something else that I have no interest in learning how to do. But write if you find out what kind of protection those guys were wearing. I'm just curious.

I also use my bath tub to bathe in, my son, Christopher, and his buddy, Mikey, were onto me to make a trip to the dump to see if we could find an old tub, because, during the ice storm, they started fancying themselves as entrants in the 1998 bobsledding competition. Mikey even suggested that he'd help do the plumbing if we'd get around to replacing the tub in our house that Loretta keeps complaining about.

And, to be honest, I did give it some thought and I may do it yet. You could take our bath tub, a good rasp, some stick-on racing stripes and a 99 cent can of metallic spray paint and fashion a two-man bobsled in ten minutes. It would look at least as good as anything they had in the Olympics and certainly be as safe and probably faster.

But I've encouraged the boys to take up javelin catching in the summer games. It seems much safer and the equipment is cheap. Not only that, but it's something I'd be glad to help them practice if they don't quit aggravating me about this bobsled business.

In the meantime, you had 5,000 flunky journalists obsessed with a cat fight that never materialized. Even poor Charles Karault made sure that he frequently mentioned Nancy and Tonya in context with his descriptions of pristine mountaintops and observations of the gentle Norwegian culture.

We could take all the money that the big city papers and the network news media spent on air-line tickets to get reporters and cameras focused on the Harding/Kerrigan spat and wipe out starvation in several third world countries. If that little soap opera has done nothing else, it has at least demonstrated that far too many people in this country have majored in journalism and that most of them skipped the courses where you learn about responsibility and ethics.

In fact, it has demonstrated that the news industry, as a whole, has finally reached a point where it has absolutely no appropriate sense of priorities. If it's sexy and it'll sell papers that's enough.

If you really want to know what's going on, get out and see for yourself. Catch a cab and ride downtown or buy a three dollar pistol and go out shooting. That's what everybody else is doing and you sure aren't going to read about it in the papers or find it on television. Because the news gathering set is busy out documenting all the times that Tonya and Nancy went to the John or they're scurrying in the sewer to see if they passed anything.

In a day or two we'll find out something, as though we really need to know. In the meantime, mommas don't let your babies to grow up to be reporters. They'll never grow up and they may sneak around and position you to get a story some day.

If you really want to raise some daredevils, encourage your babies to take up luge racing. Just don't look forward to having any grandchildren.

Roamin' Rockcastle

It was such a warm, sunny day yesterday, Sunday the 6th, that we decided to get out and go to church at Pleasant Run Baptist Church near the Laurel County line where Brother Bill Hammond is the pastor.

John would go anywhere to hear this man, who has roots on Clear Creek, preach.

As we walked up to the door, after parking our car, Brother Bill was outside during the Sunday School break. When he came up to us, John held out his hand to greet him.

"No, I'm not going to shake hands with you, I'm going to hug you to show you how glad I am to see you this morning," and he did it. The man and John hugged until I thought one would get his back broken.

I had a strong hand clasp and a patting of my back so our hearts were warmed by the greeting of our former pastor at Galliee.

I have written about this beautiful church once before so we went inside. It is just as pretty inside as out, so it's a place to be proud of which Brother Bill seemed to be.

We took seats right down front where John likes to sit. I told him once, I believe he thinks that the nearer he gets to a preacher, the better chance he'll have to go heaven.

Brother Bill raised the roof with his good old time preaching. I tell you if you weren't much of a 'believer' you would become one after hearing this man.

I talked to a pretty, friendly woman before church, who came over to us after we sat down.

She said to John who was in the first place of the seats, "I'll shake hands with you but I want to hug your wife for all the good writing she does in the newspaper!"

Well, I'd never heard that before. Most people want to throw rocks at me for my telling everything they say to me and my putting it in the paper but this woman seemed so happy to meet me and I felt better.

After church, we talked again and she told me her name was Rita Mize and that she sometimes stayed with another lady.

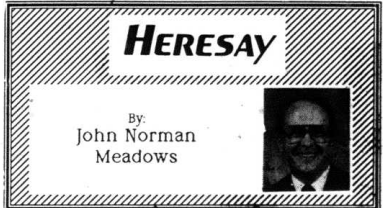

You don't know the person who likes your column so well that she has me read it to her as soon as the paper comes in on the route.

I stay some with Delia Oliver, an 87 year old woman who thinks there is nothing like it. When I tell her today that I met, and talked to, Hilda Gabbard, the Signal writer, she will be so thrilled and excited.

I'll tell her you talk just like you write and she'll want to know all about you," Rita said.

You ladies don't know how happy you've made me and to show you, I'll try to come to your home on our next attendance at Pleasant Run Church and have a cup of "sassafras tea" and I'll furnish the sassafras. All you need

The author of The Book of Ecclesiastes wrote, "Vanity of vanities. All is vanity." Talk about pessimistic! Or is he realistic? I'm old enough to remember when a dresser was called a "vanity." So, ladies (& gents), as you sit or stand before that particular mirrored piece of furniture—for which you likely paid too much—it whispers, "Primp and preen, but it's all in vain!"

"Whoa! John," I hear some modern retort. "You're taking ole Eccle' too far!"

Hey, I hear you, and I do encourage these of cosmetics. If I had known my cousin, Sally Sowder of Cincinnati, you'd speak up too. She had already "got religion" when I first met her, and, dear hearts, she looked like death eating a cracker. And to top that, she proudly said, "My Bible says lipstick and deodorants are man-made and should be banned!" But after her husband expired, Sally saw Scripture in a different light. Cosmology was suddenly heaven sent (by way of Amway). And make-up was kosher. And before long she remarried.

Speaking of "My Bible says..." When I was a young aspirer, prepping preacher, I thought that clause rang true—and would impress my audience. Yes, I know the world is congregation," but I did far more performing than preaching. And in my one-eyed mind I saw the "congregation" as an "audience."

I first remember "My Bible says..." being said at an annual Rockcastle Baptist Associational Meeting. It was uttered by a preacher named Druthers, who had the biggest Bible I ever saw used in a pulpit. When he preached that morning, it hung over the sides of the upper deck of the pulpit like the ears of a cocker spaniel. Later, all other brothers left their tomes in the church house for the dinner hour (pronounced air by true Rockcastleans). But Brother Druthers kept his big Bible under his arm as he stood through the dinner-on-the-grounds line, and used both hands to fill his plate—and stood up to eat, with that big Bible securely tucked under his arm! I marveled at that and reckoned it might help my preacher image if I did likewise.

The very next week a traveling Bible salesman came by, and I bought

by perlina m. anderkin

As I write this Tuesday night, our common garden-variety housecat, Sonny, is in the throes of a third litter or bundle as Allison puts it.

The other two litters were a star-crossed bunch with none of them surviving babyhood except a three-legged female who hit the dust in an encounter with two stray dogs in our backyard very early one morning.

Regardless of the fate of this "bundle," Sonny has experienced her last joys of motherhood. We have decided to have her fixed so if you want one of the best of breed, please write to let us know, quickly please.

Sonny may be a common, garden-variety cat but she is quite smart (just can't say no), fastidious and has the disposition of a saint. We acquired her at a very early age and Allison broke her in right. In spite of being put in some of the most grotesque positions imaginable, she will simply lie there with a long-suffering look on her face until Allison is satisfied with the arrangement. When she grows tired of being used as a live mannequin, she will simply await her chance and depart the scene quickly, then hide out until she's rested up for another mauling.

I was never very fond of cats. They are by nature a sneaky, condescending animal who can give you a look that says, "You? Why should I come to you?" But, Sonny has changed my mind in that she earns her keep just by the number of mice she sends to their reward - now if we can just break her of the habit of bringing them to us for the appropriate words of appreciation, everything would be well in that category. Also, Sonny is a very lovable cat who appreciates the occasional tickle under the chin more than cats and, she will amaze you with how quickly she reacts from anywhere in the house when you shake the Cat Chow box.

I have always thought pets were an important part of a childhood and have strived to provide our children with that contact. But, loving animals and desiring their company must not be a trait you can pass on genetically. Out of seven children, only four evince the same care for pets and one of those, Paige, will let everyone around know how unhappy she is if a cat comes around her.

I'm sorry, I am very suspicious of people, my own children included, who do not like animals. Animals provide companionship and unending devotion to young and old alike and in that it itself justifies their existence.

But, back to what started this train of thought. From the size of Sonny, I would say there are going to be "several" kittens available and beyond one promised to granddaughter, Kayla (if her father can be coerced a little), one for grandchildren, Aaron and Megan (if Rick and Cindy can be shamed enough, one for an office cat and one for us to let Sonny see some of the fruits of her "labor.") we will still need to place two or three in good homes in about 6-8 weeks so, don't be bashful, let us hear from you. We're in the book

I was moseying about the yard on the farm. Mat was away working and I, of course, was left at home to run the farm and take care of the two little ones, Judy, about four and Rodney about two years old. I have spoken about the isolation of our home and most people who read my column know about the loneliness I suffered from it. During this absence I had a neighbor girl, Ruth Renner, to stay with me and the children. She was good company and the kids loved her. She was about fourteen at the time.

Our house had not been completed yet on the inside. The front part of it was one big room with the stairs being the separation between the living quarters and the downstairs bedroom. The back part was kitchen, dining room, and a storage area all in one. (I get all squeamish when I bring these memories back to life.) Underneath the stairs was where we kept Mats old steamer trunk. Inside were things we had to keep safe and on the top was where he kept his ever ready to use, if necessary, 44 special in his holster. He could fasten it around his waist at a minutes notice. I wasn't quite that fast but I also could strap it on and use it if necessary. The truth is, Mat seldom it ever had it off. It was as much a part of his make up as his coat and cap. Yet he was a very gentle person and never knowingly hurt anyone. The reputation of the area had made us aware of the dangers lurking all about us so we prepared ourselves for any emergency. His 44 and my 22 rifle were kept loaded and handy. He had taught me how to shoot and take care proper care of a gun. The children were taught from infancy that a gun was not to be handled by them or any other child in our home and they honored our teachings. As they became older they were also taught how to handle firearms, but not for killing, we were in target shooting and we became quite proficient in hitting the bull's eye.

The Buffalo area had a reputation of being a rough part of the country to live in at that time and had good reason for the reputation. It was during the great depression and moon-shining was about the only way many men had of supporting their family. And of course there were many men who took advantage of this and our area was overrun with drunk men everywhere. It was told of one man in particular who enjoyed getting a few drinks under the belt then go to a home when the men folks were at work and ask for a drink of water or a light for his cigarette to get entrance into the home. When he got inside he would brandish his gun and tell the women and children to dance for him if they didn't he would shoot under their feet and Haw Haw at their fright. He was never known to really hurt any of them except to scare them half to death. This was the man I remembered today when I was reminiscing about the past.

It was getting late in the evening and dusk was beginning to settle in when we heard a call from the front gate. I asked Ruth to see who it was for company never came at this hour and passersby were seldom seen. A thick voice asked, "Is Miz Graves home, oh, is that you Ruth?" She looked back over her shoulder and whispered, "It's Newt Mink." By now he was walking up the path to the door and said he needed a light for his cigarette. I told her to give him a match but by now he was entering the front door. I have never turned a person away from my door so I greeted him and asked him to have a seat. He fumbled with his light and looked up with a sickly grin and said, "Ruth you'r afraid n't you?" By now I had motioned her to get the kids into the back part of the bedroom while I would try to get him to leave. His words kept coming "you're all afraid n't you" then he would drunkenly giggle and fumble with his gun tucked into his belt all the while trying to get his cigarette lit. By now, I must confess, I was afraid. When I looked into the bedroom, which was in clear view of where I was standing between him and the kids and saw the big eyed frightened look in their little faces and saw Ruth looking just as scared while she hovered over them I made a sudden decision to let this go no further. Before I would allow him to hurt or kill one of all of us I would shoot him first if it came to that.

I simply would not allow him to put us through this kind of degrading and dangerous experience if that was what was in his mind. I don't know where the idea or courage came from but my kids were in danger. So, very calmly I reached to the top of the the biggest one he had, it was a Gutenberg King James Deluxe (on sale), in brown leather with gold lettering, and plenty of notes, and maps, plus a chart showing the sequence of events before and after Armageddon, and this really hooked me—a picture of the fish that swallowed Jonah!

Well, I dressed up in my preacher suit and went to Olan Mills in Richmond to have my picture taken with my big Bible under my arm. I planned also to have some "Billy Graham" poses made with nostrils flared, the Bible open in one hand and the finger of the other pointing directly at the camera, the totality of which would say, "This word is for you!" I would need those for publicity purposes when churches all over Christian dome would want that fiery young preacher from Mt. Vernon for revival meetings. I could just hear people saying, "Why, he's only sixteen but can keep a big Bible under his arm and still wave both hands."

Alas and alack! It didn't work. I could not get that Bible to stay under my arm. It would never do to be preaching somewhere and have it slip out. And to go back to my other arm-book size Bible would be a shorting sort of lack-of-faith. So, I went to see Brother Druthers, hoping he could help me.

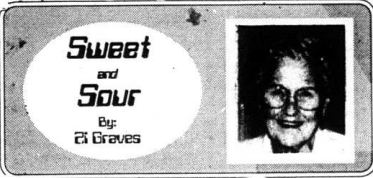

"Why, son, I can't believe First Baptist would license you to preach without telling you how it's done," he said to me. "That Bro. Below is a fine feller, but he sure slipped up on this one."

Then he told me. He had arm-pit surgery! Furthermore, he said most other preachers who wield big Bibles had done the same, with the exception of those who had really long arms. And even some of those went ahead with it because it was one of several ancient, preacher practices, dating back to the days of the early church, such as handkerchief holding, changing ones voice when preaching while working at the chancel during delivery, and using three alliterated points and a poem.

So, I drove to Lexington and consulted a surgeon. Forsóh! He told me that I was extremely thin and that it might weaken my arm if he excised part of the muscle. Furthermore, he would have to remove four ribs when he never before taken out more than two. He suggested I wait a couple of years, and put on some pounds.

I was really shaken. If I were going to be a preacher, I needed to look like one. I waited, I gained weight, Momma's dumplings, and drank chocolate malts (with eggs) hoping to increase my corpulence. Two years later I had gained two pounds. But by then I was in love, and when a survey revealed that wives of amputee-surgereed preachers are prone to divorce their husbands, I let go of the big Bible image. And just as well. By the time I graduated from college, the in-thing was to carry a thin, red-leathered New Testament that would fit into a suit coat pocket.

Nonetheless, I firmly believe the day of the big Bible is coming back. But it's a shame separation of church and state ideology will exclude amputee surgery from the President's health plan. I guess the only thing to do will be to use the title to pay the support. (Oops! I didn't complete my train of thought about 'My Bible says...' I'll try to get to that next week along with a review of my latest book entitled What! Saith the Seven Seals?

to do is furnish the good, cold, clear mountain water.

It's people like you two ladies that keep me going in this job. I'm going to tell readers Delmas and Ada Shell of Hamilton, Ohio, who worry about my passing away, that I drink these good mountain remedies like sassafras root tea and ginseng to help me have a hold on life. They are invited to come down to Rockcastle County and drink some. It will help you have a better outlook on life.

Hey, we ran into the boss and her family, Perlina and Jim Anderkin with my favorite Travis, the basketball player, Friday night at Long John Silver's.

They had come over from Mt. Vernon to eat fish, I said. Well, I see you folks have changed your eating habit from hamburgers to fish.

"To tell you the truth, my stove broke," Mrs. Anderkin said with a smile around her lips, and I thought of how John had drawn a stove on our wall when I sold my stove and we had to eat out.

Travis, do you remember me when I would come up to the office where you had a playhouse made, at about your seventh years of age?" Travis, being about 13 years of age and in basketball now, didn't want to talk about a playhouse. I said, "Well, how's your love life at 13?"

Travis shook his head but I saw the twinkle in his eye. I know he has one for he's a handsome boy.

John had a birthday on the 3rd of March. Henry Voltmer, our good reader, and friend from Cedar Creek, Indiana called to wish him a Happy Birthday.

Now that's all right but he invites John up for a weekend and says they'll go out on the town in celebration, I draw the line. We are not going any way soon. Henry can be a gulf chaser but not John.

We also talked to Mildred who is a good friend of Henry. She was saying they had bought property in Florida for winter.

Now there is a place we can all visit when they do down for the winter. "I can tell you where we went a year ago today," John said to me on his birthday, March 3rd.

"Law, I couldn't tell you where we were yesterday," You're so good in memory that you can't remember to shut the door behind you when you come in. Well, where were you?" I asked.

"We were at Clyde and Margaret Linville's home in Scaffold Cane when Margaret heard me say March 3rd was my birthday, she went into the kitchen in her wheelchair, and we heard her wheeling around. Then she came back into the room where John and Clyde were talking and wheeled over to John.

"It today is your birthday. I want you to have a piece of birthday cake with one candle on it blazing with light," and John was so pleased to be there.

When you read this, Margaret, John hopes you remember too.

I was in Superior store one night when I saw J.T. Gadd and wife, Doris, come toward me. She was limping.

"So you talked back to J.T. and I thought you had learned, Doris," I said, smiling, and J.T. had a grin on his face too.

She told me how it had happened but I've forgotten already (that's why I'm in trouble a lot).

Raymond and Virginia Nunn from Crab Orchard and John and I were at Cleve and Blanche Payne's for awhile Sunday afternoon.

As we returned from church on Sunday, we stopped at Harde's Restaurant on the north edge of Mt. Vernon to eat. One waitress was so nice to us and we appreciated it when we were tired as well as hungry.

I asked her name for I think when someone gives good service as she did, should be praised for the boss to know.

She is Fay Thompson of Harde's working there but lives at Berea.

I had heard that Stella Dees was very bad off in health and was expected to die at the hospital. I went over Sunday afternoon to see her Fabra Dees and Jim were there staying with her. Stella was very ill, her body swollen with big blue spots on her and could hardly talk. Fabra was feeding Stella.

As I left, I said to Stella, I always did joke with her, "Stella, if you get there first, don't let them shut the door until I come in, and I'll do the same for you, if I go first." She's been such a good friend to me as I've tried to be to her.

John may not have much honey business this year for the bees most all froze this past winter. His brother, Clay, called John and said his all froze out too.

Till next week.

But not the part of it.

trunk and quietly and quickly snapped the holster belt around my waist then turned to face him and said just as calmly." No sir! I am not afraid of you. "Butterflies were doing all kinds of tricks in my stomach and the sudden flow of adrenaline gave my weak knees a boost, so suddenly I was strong as I looked him straight in the face with my hand firmly clasped around the handle of the 44. Quickly he arose and as calm as a welcome visitor taking leave of a pleasant hour he said, "I gotta be goin', ma' will have supper waitin', go home with me Miz Graves." I have always wondered if the sight of the gun sobered him or if he was putting it on all the time. From that time on he was nice and courteous to me. His mother was one of the nicest women I knew and I loved her very dearly. She couldn't control what her adult sons did and confessed one time of being sorry for their actions.

One never knows what drastic things will pop into their brain until they are put to the test when their children's lives are in danger.

IRA - You Can Start Small

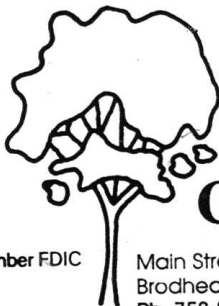

Usually when Individual Retirement Accounts are advertised, the main point of the ad is the fact that you can invest $2,000 annually ($2,250 if your spouse doesn't work). This is the maximum contribution allowed each year.

Because of the fact that the ads on IRA's always emphasize the maximum contribution, many people have been left with the feeling that you have to contribute $2,000 annually. This is not true. You can contribute whatever amount you want as long as it doesn't exceed the maximum.

The important thing is that you get started with an IRA even if you can only contribute $200 a year initially. Come in and see us about an IRA. Substantial penalty for early withdrawal.

Cattle producers urged to be prepared to prevent grass tetany

By Tom Mills
County Extension Agent for Agriculture

The welcome warmth of spring is only a few weeks away as well as a farmers best wish for spring grass to relieve his winter feeding chores. However, each year when pastures are growing fast, cattle producers see the occurrence of a disorder called grass tetany. In some communities, only an occasional animal will be lost, but some farms have this problem year after year.

Grass tetany results from a magnesium deficiency in cattle grazing lush, fast growing grasses. Ironically, better cattle producers are more likely to have cows that develop the disease than less conscientious cattle producers. Cattle producers who fertilize their pastures well run a higher risk of having their cows suffer from grass tetany. Because the soil is richer in nitrogen, the grass grows more quickly and the lush, spring growth may contain too little magnesium. In addition, those same cattle producers are likely to have their cows calving earlier in the spring, which further adds to their risk. Cows are more susceptible to grass tetany at calving and while they are nursing young calves. The more robust the calves and the more milk they produce, the greater the risk of developing grass tetany.

Fescue pastures low in endophyte may present a greater risk than those higher, even though the level of magnesium is the same. Cattle prefer the taste of low endophyte fescue and eat more of it -- and less of other feeds higher in magnesium.

Symptoms of grass tetany include rapid, labored breathing, staggering, excitability and prostration. Cows showing these symptoms need veterinary assistance at once.

Cattle producers can help prevent the syndrome by limiting the time cows graze fast-growing pastures. They should turn cows out for short periods of time at first, then increase the time they are out on pasture. Producers also should feed the best feed they have when pastures are greening up in the spring so that the cows will eat less of the grass and more of the magnesium-rich feeds.

Producers should consider feeding magnesium supplements. This can be as magnesium mineral mixes, supplement blocks or homemade mixes using magnesium oxide trace mineral salt and dry molasses. Since magnesium oxide is bitter to animals, some type carrier or force feeding will be required to get one ounce per head per day consumption. For further information, contact the County Extension Office.

1994 wheat and feed grain program sign up dates announced

The 1994 Acreage Reduction Program (Wheat and Feed Grains Program) sign up will begin March 1, 1994. Producers who intend to participate in ARP must enroll no later than April 29, 1994.

Producers enrolling ARP are allowed until the final certification date for each participating crop in the county to withdraw that crop from the agreement, that is, change an individual crop from participating to nonparticipation, without being assessed liquidated damages. History requirements for set aside acres have been changed this year. Land may be designated as ACR or CU for payment (set aside) if all other eligibility requirements are met and the land was planted, prevented from being planted, or designated as ACR or CU for payment in either: * 1 out of the 5 previous years; * any year from 1985 to 1993.

Producers may also plant their entire crop acreage base this year. Last year planted acreage was limited. This will be a big favor for those producers who need to grow all the corn that they can. For those producers who grow their maximum payment acreage and/or up to their entire crop acreage base, the set aside acres will be zero.

For more information, contact Rockcastle County ASCS no later than April 29.

Dairy refund deadline closing in Dairy farmers are reminded that the deadline to apply for your refund is March 15th. Producers may apply for a refund of the government assessment taken out of your proceeds. You will qualify if your milk poundage for 1993 does not exceed that of 1992.

If you're interested in applying for a refund please submit check stubs for each month stating your milk poundage and the assessment for 1993, and 1992. Or, you may submit a computer generated statement from your milk company that contains the before stated information. This information must be submitted no later than March 15, 1994 to the ASCS County Office in which your dairy is located.

Chestnut Ridge Church of Christ established in 1924

In 1924, the Church of Christ building at Chestnut Ridge was built on land two miles south of Mt. Vernon on Highway 25. This land on which the building was built was donated by Tip Langford and the parking lot property was donated by Paul Baker. The church building was built by the following brethren: Logan Owens, Bill Wheat, Aden Owens, Sam Fields, Aden Thompson, Walter Henderson, Burn Baker, Steve Drew, George Smith, Ova Smith, Beecher Smith and others from the congregation. There have been some additions and several changes to the building since its beginning.

Before this building was constructed, the congregation used the New Chestnut Ridge School House to worship in.

The congregation met for the very first time in their new building Dec. 25, 1924. Their first seats were boards supported by nail kegs. The church was set in order May 24, 1925 by preacher James Todd from Crab Orchard.

Some of the preachers from the beginning were Brothers Logan Owens, Steve Drew, Ova Smith, Russel Bullock, Amos Owens, Bill Smith and others. In October of 1987 Brother Ova Baker from London started teaching, along with brother Zade McClure teaching on the 5th Sunday of each month that had five Sundays. Later, Brother Dale McNew, Berea, joined Brother Baker. Also, on different occasions there were others.

The teaching brethren along with the congregation invite you to worship with us each Sunday morning. Sunday worship service 10 a.m.

BES reports results of fund raiser for Easter Seals

Broadhead Elementary School recently participated in the 14th Annual Wildcat Basketball Shootout for Easter Seals. Chaired by Coach Rick Fittino, the event raises funds for Easter Seal programs throughout Kentucky.

Fifty-nine (59) students at Broadhead Elementary School raised $1,850.10 for Easter Seals by soliciting sponsors for each basket made during a three minute period. These students were awarded prizes based on the amount of money raised.

Schools such as Broadhead Elementary School have raised over one million dollars in thirteen Shootouts. Of those funds, 99 percent stayed in Kentucky, and 83 percent was spent on direct hands-on services to thousands of children and adults with disabilities. Last year, over 26,000 Kentuckians received Easter Seal services.

"Fiscal Court"

an out. If it didn't have the money in the general fund to pay bills there can be a transfer of funds from other county funds, but the funds must be repaid by June 30.

The court timed out its meeting to tour the jail facilities and to discuss jail renovation with its new architect Jim Woodrum of the architectural firm of Architectural Plus Inc. of Georgetown.

Woodrum took the court on the tour explaining what is to be done in remodeling the jail.

He said the Corrections cabinet has approved remodeling the jail in three phases in three years.

Former Architect Garlan Vanhook told the court in a letter he learned of his dismissal as the jail architect in the Mt. Vernon Signal and explained.

He had asked CB&S Construction of Lexington, contractor for the Justice Building, to secure loose tile and repair the bridgeway leaks between the buildings. He said they agreed.

He noted the heating system operation is now the responsibility of the court since the warranty only lasted until June 23, 1992.

He wrote he has done his best and thanked the county for his services. The court signed an agreement with the state to replace Waddle Road Bridge on an 80 percent federal, 20 percent county basis but set no time to advertise for bids.

The state's bridge inspection report showed 15 structures in the county as sub-standard, an annual report.

The court gave Dr. Peter Monteyne permission to lay a 6 inch water line along county right-of-way on the road at the rear of Rockcastle Steakhouse.

It was reported the county spent $8,000 in gravel for roads in February.

County Attorney Jeffrey Burdette stated that the county could not maintain an old county road without an acquired easement, but to still work toward obtaining the 30-foot easement, and the magistrate could place the road in question on the county road work order.

The court designated March as Clean-Up month in Rockcastle.

Correction..

In last week's Signal we incorrectly stated that Mickey McClure was the first Rocket to reach the 1,000 point mark. However, Garlan Vanhook and Steve Centers also reached that pinnacle with Vanhook being the all-time leading scorer.

YES, on February 22, the Rockcastle County Board of Education accepted the County school facilities plan which will, among other things, close the Livingston School.

NO, the community does not have to accept their decision.

YES, the Board and Local Planning Committee say they have exhausted every option to keep the school running.

NO, we are not convinced that there is no way the school can be saved. We have spoken with members of other Kentucky communities who face the same struggle. They tell us that we have not been told the whole story, and that we can keep the school open if we really want to. We, as parents and concerned citizens, have every right to ask that.

OUR SCHOOL REMAIN IN OUR COMMUNITY!

Are YOU willing to work with the community to keep the school? If you are, we can make it work. If you aren't, you may as well say good bye to Livingston and other small communities in Rockcastle County. We need YOUR participation!

Please come to a community meeting on:

1994 proclaimed Year of the Family

In 1989, the United Nations General Assembly proclaimed 1994 as the International Year of the Family (IYF). The year's main objectives are to increase awareness of family issues and to enhance activities in support of families at all levels. The emphasis of the year will be on observances at the national and local levels.

According to Willard Hass, U.N. representative for Social Development Issues, "Family: Resources and Responsibilities in a changing world" is the theme of the Year, and its motto is "Building the smallest democracy at the heart of society."

Following the lead of the United Nations General Assembly, Judge Carolotis and the Rockcastle County education community recently joined together in proclaiming 1994 as the "Year of the Family" in Rockcastle County.

"This proclamation signals an important and meaningful commitment by our community and its partnerships with education to pay tribute to the special needs and importance of the family," stated Judge Buzz Carolotis.

"As Rockcastle County celebrates the 'Year of the Family,' priority initiatives must strengthen home, school, and community relationships," said Betty R. Lewis, Coordinator of the Rockcastle County Family Resource Center. "The upcoming 'Year of the Family' Parenting Fair is designed to reinforce these concepts," added Lewis.

The "Year of the Family" Parenting Fair, co-sponsored by the Rockcastle County Kiwanis Club and The Rockcastle County Family Resource Center, will be held on Saturday, April 16, at the Mt. Vernon Elementary School. The event will highlight exemplary exhibits by multiple community agencies and professionals as well as outdoor festival activities.

In addition to the "Year of the Family Parenting Fair," Rockcastle County will recognize April as Child Abuse Prevention Month. Blue ribbons will be distributed to motivate everyone to work towards the prevention of child abuse and neglect; for it is only through the prevention that we can truly promise our children a healthy, productive future.

"Live It Up" will be the theme for the Rockcastle County High School Youth Services Center's second annual Health Fair scheduled for Wednesday, April 20. Dawn Lang, Coordinator for the Youth Services Center, states that "Good Health begins at home. As Rockcastle County celebrates the 'Year of the Family,' it is our hope that parents as well as students will participate fully in this health education event."

"We are part of a global family and it is through our schools' Spring World's Fair Project that we promote not only local culture, but global cultural awareness," stated H. Allen Pensol, Rockcastle County Basic Arts Coordinator. "The students' very successful FY 92-93 World's Fair, a project involving all Rockcastle County students, explored diverse cultures and their influence on our local customs and mores. This FY 93-94 World's Fair, while focusing on the 'Year of the Family,' will question issues such as population expansion, global warming, food production, rain forests, nationalism, and world health as they impact the family units."

In accordance with the United Nations and Rockcastle County's proclamation, we are committed to the promotion and active observance of the "Year of the Family," said Larry Hammons, Director of Student Services. "Student Services programs in all our schools are dedicated to supportive activities which empower Rockcastle County families," continued Mr. Hammons.

"The 'Year of the Family' is perfect for our current effort to emphasize Family Literacy at the Adult Learning Center," says Paula Woodman, Basic Literacy Coordinator at the Christian Appalachian Project Adult Learning Center. "This is a holistic, family focused approach for parents and children with intensive, frequent and long term educational and support services, which is also a national endeavor as well as a Rockcastle County initiative."

When Rockcastle Countians and the world mobilize together in fostering the empowerment of families, only then can a secured and productive future be assured. Families do not make the difference; a difference without which civilized societies cease to exist.

Snow causes problems for buses, students

Several Rockcastle County students had trouble getting home last Wednesday afternoon, when a six inch snowfall blanketed the county. School was dismissed early, but principals and administrators with four-wheel drives had to take some students home. Other students were picked up at school by parents after several buses were unable to complete their routes.

Students stranded for short time after snowfall blankets county

Last Wednesday's snowfall contributed to two different accidents involving Rockcastle County school buses on the way home from school. School was let out early, but apparently not early enough to get all school children home before roadways became slick and hazardous.

A bus driven by Mary Collins of Mt. Vernon and a car driven by Hershel Willis of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon, collided in the center of the road on Clear Creek Road.

No one was injured, the school and police reported.

On the bus were students, Jimmy and Jason Puckett, Tommy, Mariba and David Collins.

It was reported that roadways were a factor in the crash.

Sheriff Shirley Smith investigated. A second school bus driven by Bob Pybus was turning around on Carter Drive when it slid, a limb from a bush went through a back window and hit student Kim Robbins. She was treated and released at Rockcastle Hospital.

School was once again called off Wednesday because of ice and failure of electric service.

Juvenile gun law

Governor Errettton C. Jones today signed into law House Bill 359. The legislation prohibits people under 18 from possessing, manufacturing or transporting a handgun, while providing exemptions for hunter or firearms safety courses, target shooting at an established range, man-to-man competition, licensed hunting or trapping, and with parental consent, self defense.

The new law also prohibits unlawfully providing a handgun to a minor or permitting a minor to possess a handgun.

"Gun ownership is a responsibility as well as a right," Governor Jones said as he signed the legislation

Governor Jones was joined by Republican General Chris Gorman and two of the bill's sponsors, Representative Greg Stumbo of Prestonsburg and Representative Jesse Crenshaw of Lexington.

Consider The Changes We Have Witnessed:

We were born before television, before penicillin, before valium shots, frozen foods, Xerox, plastic, contact lenses, frisbees and the PILL.

We were born before radar, credit cards, split atoms, lazer beams and ballpoint pens, before parityhose, dishwashers, clothes dryers, electric blankets, air conditioners, drop-dry clothes and before man walked on the moon.

We got married first and then lived together. How quaint can you be?

In our time, closets were for clothes, not for "coming out of." Bunnies were small rabbits and rabbits were not Volkswagens. Designer Jeans were scheming girls, and having a meaningful relationship meant getting along well with our cousins.

We thought fast food was what you ate during Lent, and Outer Space was the back of the drive-in theatre.

We were born before: jeans-was-hands, gay rights, computer dating, dual careers and commuter marriages. We were born before day-care centers and nursing homes. We never heard of FM radio, tape decks, electric typewriters, artificial hearts, word processors, yogurt and guys wearing earrings. For us, time-sharing meant tobacco;ness- not computer or condominiums; a "chip" meant a piece of wood, hardware meant hardware and software wasn't even a word.

In 1950, "made in Japan" meant junk and the term "making out" referred to how you did on your exam. Pizzas, "McDonalds", and instant coffee were unheard of.

We hit the scene when there were 5 and 10 cent stores, where you bought things for five and ten cents. Ice cream cones cost a nickel for a single dip or ten cents for a double. For a nickel you could ride a street car, make a phone call, buy a Coke or enough stamps to mail one letter and two postcards. You could buy a new Chevy Coupe for $600 but who could afford one; a pity too, because gas was 19 cents a gallon.

In our day, GRASS was mowed, COKE was a cold drink and POT was something you cooked in. ROCK MUSIC was Grandma's lullaby and AIDS were helpers in the Principal's Office.

We were certainly not before the difference between the sexes was discovered, but we were surely before the sex change; we made do with what we had. And we were the last generation that was so dumb as to think you needed a husband to have a baby.

No wonder we are so confused and there is such a generational gap today. But We Survived!! What better reason to celebrate!

port without any amendment. This "plan" is now in the hands of the State Board of Education.

When and if this "plan" is implemented, the Livingston community's school will be closed and Broadhead Elementary will become a transitional school.

The school in Livingston was made transitional several years ago and the community was promised a new school building at that time. Now the local school board has voted to close the school and has the Livingston students into Mt. Vernon Elementary School.

Now might be a good time for the citizens of the other two communities (outside the Mt. Vernon area), who have schools at this time, to ask themselves, "Who's next?"

The citizens of Livingston are and will continue to fight for our community school. We will speak out at the planned State hearing on March 14 at 7 p.m. at RCHS, in hopes of a change of heart from the state board.

It might be a good idea for the other communities to start their fight to save their schools now! After all, "Who's next?"

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,

Here is a description paragraph our granddaughter (Tanya) Vincenta Stilwell wrote in her 7th grade English class. We love it and our teacher liked it too. We read it aloud as an example. We believe the people in eastern Rockcastle will like it also. Here is how Tanya sees Horse Lick Creek.

Dear Editor,

Judge Executive Buzz Carltoffis' response to area criticism of him was a malicious attack on former administrator, Roland Mullins. Remember Mr. Carltoffis, "You are not a failure until you begin to blame someone else for your shortcomings."

Mr. Mullins' accomplishments attest to able, competent administration. His daily walk in the community and the outstanding children he and his wife, Nancy, have reared are a tribute to his character.

Watch your words! I do not think you can, but you would do well to emulate the former administrator.

Hilda Saylor Mullins
Spring Valley, Ohio

Dear Editor,

On Feb. 22, the Rockcastle County Board of Education voted to adopt the Local Planning Committee's re-

Dear Editor,

I am compelled to say a few kind words for former Judge Roland Mullins in an attempt to counter the carefully crafted attacks by our current Judge Executive, Buzz Carltoffis. I worked for Roland Mullins when he was Executive Director of the Cumberland River Community Care Center, as did Mr. Carltoffis. I will always be thankful to Mr. Mullins for hiring me in a professional capacity at a time when I could hardly get a job interview because of being an "outsider" or "foreigner" to the county and area. I became an administrator and worked several years for Roland Mullins. During the time I was employed by Mr. Mullins, he built his community mental health agency into one of the very finest, not just in Kentucky, but in the entire United States. In fact, when Grady Stumbo was Secretary for Human Resources for Kentucky, he wanted to know how to operate other mental health centers in Kentucky more effectively, he went to Corbin, and interviewed Roland Mullins.

When Mr. Carltoffis had no other qualification than a simple graduate degree in political science from Eastern Kentucky University, Mr. Mullins hired him as a mental health educator. My guess is that Roland saw promise in "young Mr. Carltoffis" and was following his pledge to always give priority to hiring qualified persons who live in counties served by his agency. I do not expect Mr. Carltoffis to be silenced by gratitude, but I do hope he learned during his employment at the mental health center that Roland Mullins has vision and believes in building a bigger and better future into which others might be invited, as were both Mr. Carltoffis and I hope that Mr. Carltoffis can develop just a fraction of the vision of

"What Saith the Scriptures"

Paul in II Thes. 1:10-12 said "for even when we were with you, this we commanded you, that if any would not work, neither should he eat. For we heard that there are some which walk among you disorderly, working not fit all but are busy bodies. Now them that are such we command and exhort by our Lord Jesus Christ, that with quietness they work, and eat their own bread." There is a tremendously needed principle taught here, that is badly needed in our society today.

God commands that all men are to work and to support themselves. In fact if people "would not work" neither should they be allowed to eat. Now he is not talking about people who physically and mentally are not able to work. Of course there may be some who can work in a limited scope, we understand this. But Paul was dealing with healthy able bodied people who choose not to work and become busybodies. We live in a country that has been influenced greatly by the principles of the Bible, such as compassion, mercy, helpfulness, being a "Good Samaritan." Most folks are willing to help another because of tragedy and hardship and are down on their luck. Many of our government and social programs were started during the great depression, to give a temporary helping hand to those who needed it, till they got back on their feet. But the problem has grown, even though it's only 50 years ago warned that such help was not to become a way of life.

People need to be taught that God expects every man to work and provide for himself and his family, I Tim. 5:8. We have far too many people in our society that do not want to work. Able bodied people who refuse to work a job to provide for themselves, sin! Not only do they steal from society in general to accept government handouts, knowing they are too lazy to work. Work is an honorable and God given command and responsibility that all of us must obey. The Bible solution for the lazy, slothful, sluggards who refuse to work is "neither should he eat." You see, hunger would have a way of changing peoples' thinking for the better.

Fairview news

By: Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

A warm and cheery hello to all readers of the Signal. On this Monday morning, March 7th, the sun is bright and the temperature is 65 degrees and oh how I thank God for the pretty days we have had recently.

We had another snow last week but it didn't last long.

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend, and we give thanks to God for the one hundred and seventy-seven (177) that attended Sunday School.

We also wish to extend our sympathy to all those who have lost loved ones recently including the families of Lillie Thomas and Noah Cox. They have our love and prayers.

Mrs. Annie Chasteen of Madison County is home from the Patic A. Clay Hospital. Hubert and I visited with her Feb. 25th and found her much improved. Thank the Lord.

Elmer Hale of Roundstone was dismissed Friday from the Berea Hospital and is now improving at home. We also thank God that he is some better.

Visiting Elmer and Edith Hale before his hospitalization were Eugene and Hallie Alexander and Hubert and I. My brother, Tip Reppert has been so good to visit them nearly every day and help them in anyway he can. I am so proud of him of his kind deeds. My precious little brother Ira Roland Reppert died of a heart attack in Crossville, Tenn. and was but only 36 years old today. He was a young man of 67 years. He enjoyed life and was always so jolly and happy. I miss him so much, I loved him with all my heart. I called his wife this past Saturday night and in talking about Ira, I said, "I miss him so much, but I'm sure not like you do." Bless her heart, she replied, "It's an emptiness that can never be filled." May God bless her and her family always in my prayer.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgle Tinch of Franklin, Ohio recently spent a few days in visiting relatives, her mother Mrs. Edith Mullins and others. They were on their way home following a vacation in Florida with his relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Isaacs and infant son Logan attended church at Scaffold Cane Feb. 27th.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Treon of Murray recently spent a few days with her parents, Dewey and Elizabeth Thomas. While here they visited Margaret (Tootsie) Allen who is ill; Doris and Buddy Gabbard and daughter Gail Lee and Mrs. Gladys Rose and also Everett Thomas.

Mrs. Cora Reed of Middletown, Ohio spent last week here with her mother, Mrs. Margaret Allen.

Mrs. Jean Hayes recently spent the night with her mother, Mrs. Mary Cope. Also on Sunday, March 6th she and her husband Frankie of Winchester visited her mother.

Our recent guests have been James and Joyce Seals and Wayne and Carolyn Chasteen and infant grandson Zachary Chasteen of Berea and Connie Adams of Richmond.

Eugene and Hallie Alexander and grandson Jeremy Davidson attended worship services on Sunday morning, March 6th, at the Conway Baptist Church.

Connie Adams of Richmond and Rickette Adams of Owsley Fork recently visited their mother, Mrs. Janet Ridgell and family.

Supper guests Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alexander and family of Sand Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Rex Davidson and family of Brodhead at the home of their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Alexander.

Mr. Lee Mullins has been very ill the past two weeks. We all wish him a speedy recovery.

Nettie Mullins daughter spent Sunday with her mother, Nettie is ill at this writing.

Roland Mullins, who would still be Judge, if he had waged a negative campaign against Mr. Carlotis. Instead Mr. Mullins chose to focus on projects to increase jobs and improve services for the citizens of Rockcastle County. I study state and local elected government officials, their campaigns, and performance in office, and I am willing to bet that history will show Roland Mullins to be the best qualified and most able Judge Executive in the county's history.

Perhaps soon Judge Carlotis will recognize that he actually won the election, and he can now cease his negative political campaign, at least for the next four years. Judge Carlotis should know that the voters will soon tire of him blaming his lack of vision and positive agenda on former Judge Mullins. Judge Carlotis has said he plans to do less and that he is now undoing all the bad things done during Judge Mullins' administration. Perhaps he can get this done in the next month and stop being so negative. I want to hear what Judge Carlotis is going to do to earn his nice salary by making Rockcastle County a better place to live.

Elmer T. Whitler

Dear Editor, Some of our God given rights have been taken away by mankind that perhaps will never be recaptured. Twenty years ago, who would have ever thought people would have to buy drinking water at a store. Some of our creeks, rivers and lakes were used to swim or fish, once so beautiful and clean, have now become dirty, polluted and no longer are able to swim or eat the fish. Our wells and springs, once pure and clean, now contain bacteria and diseases. Smog and pollution, once unheard of, now is in every major city in the United States. The air people breathe in these cities smells from pollution. The air we used to breathe now is not the same. Some of our most beautiful beaches, are now dead forever because of oil spills and trash dumped into our oceans. How far will mankind go to save and to make more money? How much is enough? Environment means "conditions in which one lives." Our environment looked good a few years ago. Today it is being used and abused unwisely by mankind, only to make more money. Large corporations and industries take short cuts by dumping toxic chemicals and other unwanted waste by any means possible. With money, these corporations and industries can get a law passed or vetoed, making their own laws and regulations. As mankind kills off our environment, Mother Nature retaliates with a natural disaster. How much is enough?

As each day passes the world becomes more advanced, too ad-

Cloning humans playing God is only one example. Today, there are 30 countries that have nuclear bombs on the means to make them. As most people know, there are enough nuclear bombs in our world to destroy it over and over again. Could this lead to great destruction or even a Third World War? How much is enough?

What does the future hold for mankind? Will our world keep getting worse? Certain events that have now come to pass are told to us in the King James Version Bible. According to the Bible, the future events don't look too good for mankind. What does it take for mankind to finally realize that there is indeed a God. For a long time scientists have tried to prove the Bible wrong. Today scientists studied a number of cases where terminally ill patients have had no hope other than prayers from their family, friends and pastors, to God. Out of the cases studied, there were over 120 healed. The scientists concluded it had to have come from their God.

While our world gets worse off as each day passes, what does it take for mankind to attend a church on a regular basis? Is money really so important?
