Potential big new market for corn production

Corn makes good alcohol to drink and maybe even a better alcohol to burn. At least the market to produce more corn for use in motor fuels -- ethanol -- could someday mean significant profits for Kentucky corn growers.

Ethanol is one of the safest and most environmentally friendly fuels that can be used in an internal combustion engine, said Morris Bitzer, Extension grants specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"Alcohol that is mixed into motor gasoline, usually a 10 percent blend, is the same alcohol that can be added to beverages for humans," he said. "That's why it is denatured to keep people from drinking it before it leaves the manufacturer. Denaturing means it is mixed with a powerful chemical -- unleaded gasoline -- to prevent anyone from drinking it."

"We sometimes joke about drink the best and burn the rest," said Phillip Lampert, regulatory coordinator of the National Corn Growers Association's Ethanol Work Group. Lampert was in Kentucky to speak to the

All persons and entities who have an interest in the defendant property may, in addition to filing a claim or in lieu of the filing of a claim, submit a Petition for Remission or Mitigation of the forfeiture for a non-judicial determination of this action pursuant to 28 C.F.R. Part 9, to Thomas Lee Getty, Assistant United States Attorney for the Eastern District of Kentucky, 110 W. Vine Street, Suite 400, Lexington, Kentucky 40507 (606) 233-2661, Attorney for Plaintiff.

Kentucky Corn Growers Association at its annual meeting and to encourage use of ethanol as a motor fuel. "In 1993 about 1.2 billion gallons of ethanol was sold," he said. "Production of this required 400 million bushels of corn. This level of demand added 15 to 20 cents of value to every bushel of corn which represents an additional $130 million of income to farmers."

As important as this income is to today's farmers, it is minuscule to the potential. In 1993 the U.S. consumed more than 115 billion gallons of gasoline, he said. Kentucky consumed 1.9 billion gallons. While Kentucky did produce about 230 million gallons of petroleum, the state remains an energy importer like most other states.

Bitzer added that other reasons for encouraging increased use of ethanol fuels.

Plant matter uses carbon dioxide in photosynthesis and gives off oxygen. Use of ethanol in motor gasoline reduces emissions of carbon monoxide, non-methane organic hydrocarbons and air toxics.

"Ethanol burns clean, increases the octane of motor gasoline and assists in keeping fuel lines and injectors clean," Bitzer said. "It also prevents fuel lines from freezing up in extremely cold weather like Kentucky recently experienced."

Ethanol also reduces pollution during the manufacture of fuel; there

Powell is new MVES principal

Mrs. Loretta Powell, a 20 year veteran of the Rockcastle County school system will replace John Hale as principal at Mt. Vernon Elementary school.

Mrs. Powell was recommended for the job by the school's site based decision making council, after the council conducted interviews last week.

Mrs. Powell, who has taught in Mt. Vernon's fifth and sixth grades is currently the guidance counselor at Mt. Vernon. A position she has held for the past ten years.

The position at Mt. Vernon opened after Hale was hired for the principal's position at the new Rock-castle County Middle School. Mrs. Powell and her husband Jesse have two children, Adam, a sophomore at Rockcastle County High School and Katy, a fifth grade student at Mt. Vernon.

"I am looking forward to the challenges involved with my new position and I intend to work very hard to see that Mt. Vernon continues to be an excellent elementary school," Mrs. Powell said Tuesday.

Powell and former Roundstone principal, Bill Jack Parsons were the only two applicants interviewed by the SBDM council. The only other local applicant for the job was Roundstone teacher David Penslo.

A Brodhead couple is in jail this week after being arrested for sexual exploitation of minor children.

Allen Charles, 28, and Charlotte McClure, 29, both of Brodhead, were charged with several felonies last Thursday.

According to a news release from County Attorney Jeff Burdette's office, after receiving information from concerned parents, his office, in cooperation with the Kentucky State Police, the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department and the Department of Social Services, discovered information which led to the issuance of a search warrant for the residence of Allen Charles.

The search produced evidence which led to the charges alleging that several minors under the age of sixteen, some under the age of ten, were being exploited. Burdette said the evidence included over 300 video tapes. Other charges are expected and further information will be forthcoming as the Kentucky State Police investigation continues.

According to Burdette, all minors Kirby indicted

A Rockcastle County man was indicted last Friday on four drug-related charges.

The charges stem from an October 1993 bootlegging raid at the residence of Billy Gene Kirby, 49, of Chestnut Ridge.

Charges against Kirby include trafficking in marijuana with the intent to sell eight or less ounces. The Grand Jury did not hear any evidence concerning the shooting death of Gary Shepherd of Brodhead last August.

Shepherd was shot to death by Kentucky State Police and according to a KSP spokesman the results of an internal investigation were to have been presented to the grand jury in February.

Commonwealth Attorney Ray Carmichael said Monday that he did not know when or even if the findings would be presented to the grand jury.

New jail costs, plan approved by court

By: Ray McClure

The new architect for the Rockcastle County Jail renovation, James Woodrum of Architecture Plus, Inc., brought his cost estimates to the Rockcastle Fiscal Court recently and won over the court.

The magistrates unanimously approved his plans for the jail. The state wrote Judge/Executive Buzz Carlolis Monday, that Rockcastle has showed good faith in its plans and the plans were approved as submitted. But the state warned a waiver to operate the jail will only be granted until July 1, 1994.

The state wrote Judge/Executive Woodrum has a "traditional plan" and a "contract management plan." The cost estimate on the traditional plan is $410,542. On the contract management plan" the cost is $359,835.

The court approved the contract management plan which calls for the county's representative to hire all subcontractors.

are believed to have been identified at this time and their parents are aware of the impending investigation.

Most of the alleged crimes occurred in an apartment rented to McClure at Kastle Village Apartments in Brodhead. But the bulk of the evidence was gathered from Charles' residence, which is on a dairy farm owned by Russell Parsons where Charles worked, according to Burdette.

The case has been referred to the Commonwealth Attorney's office which will present the case to a Rockcastle County Grand Jury.

Charles is lodged in the Rockcastle County Jail under a $57,000 cash bond and McClure is lodged in the Laurel County Jail under a $25,000 cash bond.

Arraignment proceedings were held Monday in Rockcastle District Court. Both defendants were appointed public defenders.

Local man killed in wreck on interstate

A Mt. Vernon man was killed early Tuesday when his coal truck was hit by a tractor-trailer near the Renfro Valley interchange of I-75.

Robert B. Settles, 64, of Mt. Vernon was pronounced dead at Rockcastle Hospital by Coroner Bill Dowell of internal injuries. Settles' loaded coal truck was struck by a Kimberly & Clark, Inc., tractor trailer, shortly after entering I-75.

It was driven by Michael Cummings of South Carolina, who told Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan he did not see the truck until it was too late.

His northbound tractor-trailer struck the Settles truck and both crossed the median and plowed into a rock cliff on the southbound lanes.

Cummings substitute driver, Jeff Cain of South Carolina was in the sleeper compartment. He was not injured.

Cummings received a broken neck, possibly in three places. The tractor-trailer left South Carolina about 10:30 Monday night and was due for a change of drivers, Cain told Deputy Doan.

The accident occurred about 6 a.m. Deputy Doan said. He said Settles, who was Doan's uncle, had driven a truck for about 40 years. He was enroute to Carrollton.

Survivors include his wife, Doris Doan Settles; two sons, Danny, co-owner and manager at Wendy's Restaurant and Larry, an assistant manager at Wendy's; two daughter, Debbie Parsons of Mt. Vernon and Carolyn Napier of Brodhead.

Deputy Sheriff Randall Reynolds also investigated the accident.

The charges against Charles include:

- Possession of matter portraying a sexual performance by a minor (Class A Misdemeanor)
- Promoting a sexual performance by a minor (Class B Felony)
- Use of a minor in a sexual performance (Class B Felony)
- Sexual abuse in the first degree (Class D Felony)
- Ms. McClure is charged with:
•Use of a minor in a sexual performance (Class B Felony)
In 1987, Charles was charged with manslaughter in the shooting death of Larry B. Kirby of Livingston. He pled guilty to reckless homicide and his two year sentence was probated to five years.

The arrests came as the result of an investigation by the Kentucky State Police, in cooperation with the Rockcastle County Attorney's office and the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department Demolition, supervise inmate labor for 50 percent savings, $32,980; new construction, $263,400; deduct sales tax and markup ($45,833); chain link fence, $5,000; contingencies, 10 percent fee, $25,555; p/m fee, $33,732; project representation, $30,000; miscellaneous furnishings and equipment, $10,000.

Grand total under the program management approach, $359,835, or says the architect, 12.3 percent or $5,707 savings.
At the end of the three phases the jail will be under total compliance, possibly earlier.
The magistrates toured the jail and Woodrum pointed out the various changes in the jail plans.
To pay for the renovation, the county has about $100,000 available in the jail fund. It will have to borrow about $250,000 to meet the $359,835 estimate.
But the real costs will not be known until the project is bid.

Points East

By: Ike Adams

I'm just home from Boston (and vicinity) which is arguably the finest big city in the free world. Fine because it's clean, vibrant and well kept after 250 years of civilization and because the folks who live there are a happy lot. Fine, too, because the hospitality of its residents make even country boys from Kentucky wish they could stay another day or two and that's a rare, rare feeling from one who hastens out of places metropolitan.

But Boston is much more than simply Boston. Cross a bridge and you're in Cambridge. Turn left or right and you're in Brighton or Woburn or one of more than a dozen other suburbs except in Boston you don't call that. Boston is surrounded by many little other places and when you cross the borders you will be gently reminded that you are wherever you are, but you won't really be in Boston.

My favorite town in Massachusetts now is Allston. It's just down the road below the hallowed halls of Harvard and the skyscrapers of Boston proper remind you that you're still in town. But it's Allston and don't be telling anybody there that you're happy to be in Boston. They'll tell you gently that Boston is a fine place to visit and that's where they work, but when you're in Allston, Massachusetts, that's precisely where you are.

They don't mind if you throw stones or clam shells into Boston and you can do just that. Just don't be breaking any windows out of Allston.

Strangely enough, (perhaps fatefully is a better word), I discovered Allston because a resident of Brighton had decided to have a beer in Boston.

My cohort and best friend at work, Teresa McAmy, and I were in the city, (Boston), attending a five-day marathon session of the National Society of Fund Raising executives (NSFRE). Believe it or not, that's what both of us do for a living. I mean that may be easy to believe about Teresa but I'm telling you guys that I do it too even though I couldn't raise five bucks to get in the card game last week. Just let me say that Loretta wasn't in Boston with me. I do work better when she's not around.

Anyway, Teresa and I were off-gassed up to go to an NSFRE dinner on Sunday night and we ran into John Meehan at one of those little sports bars off the lobby of our hotel. We stayed (in separate rooms, three floors apart, in case you're wondering) at the Copley Place Hotel which was built in 1891. The heating system in my room however, was invented by Ben Franklin in 1763. The temperature was in the 30's outside. I finally got it down to 93 in my room the day we left, but that's another story.

That's also my digression this week. They don't get much Kentucky basketball news in the Boston papers, but this place had half a dozen big screen TVs going with nothing but sports on them. Charlie, Teresa's husband, had called on Saturday to let us know that South Carolina had beat Kentucky and we were anxious to see if Rick Pitino had been fired.

So she was watching three channels and I was watching the other three and somehow John got interested in what was going on. At least that's the way I remember it. John introduced himself and decided to give us a proper welcome to Boston (and vicinity).

First of all we went to the NSFRE banquet at the Copley Place Marriott in mid-town Boston, just across the street. Food, food, food—enough chowder to feed a starving country, sausages and fish fillets and all the fixings. Boston baked beans. Desserts beyond description.

Two hours and ten pounds later, John suggested we go to his "favorite place" in Allston.

When we started to beg-off for transportation reasons, John let us know that he had a Cadillac parked just around the corner. It turned out to be a Biggie 1980 Sedan De Ville and the best ride I've ever had in my life. I swear to you I've already put an ad in the Lexington paper letting folks know that I want to buy one. I'm going to teach the kids to drive it and

Roamin' Rockcastle

By: Hilda Payne Gabbard

I tell you I'm sick of this weather and from the grumbings I hear, most of you are as sick too. March came in cold and rainy with some snow.

I caught some pretty days that gave us all a kind of "spring fever" with folks digging for sassafras roots to make tea which would drive away that dull feeling we had gotten into caused by the blood's sluggishness and one felt "lazier than a dog."

So I had started some house cleaning by getting John to wash windows (that we could hardly see out of) and I felt winter was over.

But with that "tricky March," no, it was not, John and I went to the grocery. It was blowing a keen wind and we had no thought of snow.

In Superior Market, I took a cart and headed for the fresh produce as I rounded a corner I ran into a young clerk who dodged by me saying, "Hello, good looking!"

Now if there's anything I dislike it's a person who tells fibs (or lies) I know, because I look in the mirror a lot, that I'm not good looking, but maybe "charming!"

Saylor, owner, ought to get after his clerks. Whom some folks may believe and buy more groceries than they needed.

I'll admit I felt great as I went on. I was looking for fresh pineapple since I've been eating a lot of it and losing some weight with grapefruit.

Superior does have a nice bunch of boys and girl clerks. I actually felt toward Gary Gay as if he were my son. He can be joked with (which we both do to each other).

But this young boy clerk needs to be told that he shouldn't tell a fib to a customer. He has a very pretty wife, maybe I should tell her. I did that to Penny Quinley, told her that Roy, her husband, was flirting with me by waving to me from the office. He might just have meant to be friendly or again he could have been flirting for her, and Penny laughed so hard when I said that for Roy said, "I always wave at the good looking women who come in," I left them still laughing.

Speaking of the boys, brings me to one of the girl clerks who is Teresa McKiddy. She's a cute kid, I'll say, and so nice and friendly. She must be in charge sometime as I see her in the office at the window where one goes to pay, or collect on lottery tickets.

I've never bought a lottery ticket because I'm such a bad gambler. I can't pay out money that I lose on so I just don't buy any tickets.

Jeanie Cole said she and Harold had been going to Dixie Park Baptist Church in Berea, since they had withdrawn from Galilee Church when a lot of the other members left because Brother Stephen Cole did. Now, we hear Brother Cole is moving back to Corbin (I think) where they used to live before coming to Berea to live, and work.

I can tell you now what Berea National Bank does to get the name of being such a good place to do business.

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greeting and solicitations from my Wabidian abode, nestled hard by Cummins Branch, which flows into the Gulf of Mexico, where I fished in '55 and caught a twenty-four pound Red Snapper. (Now that's significant. What? You don't think so? Well, it had me reeling.)
 My latest book, What Saith the Seven Seals, will be on the market soon. I begin a promotional tour on April 1 at the Pills R Us Pharmacy in Mt. Vernon and will autograph copies from 1-3 p.m. I know you will want one of the first editions. (I must be honest, however, and tell you that some passages were written by a ghost writer from Waco, and I can't make the April 1 opening, you may still get Seals at a reduced price if you order before May 1. Just send $19.95 to Really Good Books Book House, 55 South Northeast Street, Elvira, NY 01020 (include $37.50 for shipping and handling).

 Not everyone will agree with my interpretation of the seals. I'll get a spate of letters condemning me to Uterback, where there is weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth, and the persistent whistle of the Aitchin, Topka, and the Santa Fe. Many of those missives will somewhere say "My Bible says..." which means "Hey, stupid, wake up and see things the right way—my way."
 Well, what's new? Since John the Baptist organized the first church on the banks of the Jordan River (some scholars contend he was actually in the water), Baptists have lovingly proclaimed the truth to erring congregations and aberrations. But those straying flocks refuse to come to the light and retort, "Well, my Bible says..." (That's especially true of those who have forsaken the King James Version and imbibe perverse, modern translations like The New King James Version, and the Revised New King James Version, and the Version Mary.)
 At kidding aside, dear hearts, we do have a problem on our hands and hearts. And just between you and me and the dinner bell, the tiff-taff between denominations—and within denominations—has little to do with translations. Rather, it has to do with how we worship and whether we take the Bible literally or not.
 Some congregations prefer solemnity and restraint while others think the more you let it all hang out the closer you are to the Almighty. Not a few church goers applaud performances in worship, but some would deem that sacrilege. Some exalt the Table; other exalt the Word.
 Some interpreters of Scripture take hearing "coals of fire" on the head of your enemies literally; others don't. Some say the Savior rose physically from the dead, whereas others consider the Resurrection to be a metaphor that depicts the life of one who senses the "presence" of the Stranger of Galilee. Some say Adam and Eve are representatives of mankind, but others argue for their actual existence as the planet's first man and woman in an actual Garden of Eden.
 Well, who is right? In the words of Johnny Maddox, "it's not for me to say." To say that the Bible speaks both literally and symbolically doesn't solve the controversy. But I will say this about the fellowship in which I was spawned: the two ordinances (three if you count washing of feet) of a Baptist Church rest on symbolic

Spring

A few weeks ago a rare splinter of sunshine sneaked into my dining room and touched the wall long enough to get my attention and fired the old urge to do spring house cleaning. This is a sure sign that spring is on its way. All living things seem to respond to the first rays of the sun returning from its vacation in the southern most part of the world. One can almost see the trees stretch upward as the sap begins to respond to the pull of the sunshine and the buds begin to swell. We humans, women especially, want to clean out the residue left over from the ravages of winter. Boy, we surely have a job to do this year don't we?

Now to get back to the antics of "Miss Spring." She seems to be having the flirtation of her life as she peeks around a cloud and winks at the world below with one of her smiling bursts of sunlight then just as suddenly dunks back behind the clouds has bursts into tears that drench the sodden land below. Fickle spring, I have often heard her called fickle because of the uncertainties of her decisions. She doesn't seem to know whether she wants to wear a spring bonnet, a raincoat and umbrella or keep her fur lined boots on. But regardless of her whims she will be here to stay come Sunday, March twentieth.

The other day I saw daffodils bravely poking their stems above the frozen ground with their fat buds begging for attention, a sure sign that spring is on its way. So, I gave them what they were asking for. I chopped some of them off close to the ground, added a sprig from the lilac bush whose buds were also trying to respond to the first rays of sunshine, put them in a tall blue vase filled with water and low and behold the next day I had captured a bit of early spring beauty to brighten up the kitchen table.

Each season has its own special kind of beauty. Spring with its new life bursting forth in flowers and the streams overflowing with fresh water from the melting snow, and birds returning from their winter havens fills the heart with joy to be alive and once again enjoy the awakening of the world from its deepest sleep of winter.

Summer is when life comes to full term and the flowers and trees show off their mature beauty. This is the time for walks in the deep cool of the

I'm going to ride in the back seat. If we hit an 18 wheeler head-on, I'll pray for the guy driving it, but that's yet another story.

So Cecilia John takes us to the only real Irish Pub I've yet to see in America. It's called KINVARNA and if you ever get to Massachusetts forget about CHEERS, KINVARNA is where the real folks hang out after hours to drink a potent, dark brown brew called Guinness and throw darts and be friendly. Southern hospitality is surely nice, but I'd put the folks in Alston up against any place in the south any day.

In fact, I brought back a worn-out dart board that weighs upwards of 20 pounds. I'll hang it on my office wall and tack a couple of packs on KINVARNA matches on it to remind me of the best time I've ever had in the big city. Well, at least I was in spitting distance of the big city. I keep forgetting that Alston is really a very friendly little town nearby.

interpretation. If baptism isn't a symbolic act that depicts the death of one way of life and commencement of a new way, then Baptists had best join those who take the ordinance literally as the washing away of sin. And, if the Lord's Supper isn't taken to represent the atoning death of the Master, then Baptists should join with those who have taken the elements of the Meal literally, i.e., wine is blood, and bread is flesh.

Oops! I must go see a man about a horse, but until you get your copy of Seals, may I suggest that you read What Saint Thoreau Thought, the biography of geologist Marvin Lithmore, who graduated from Hazel Green Academy in '22, matriculated at Rockhold University, and graduated magna cum laua.

While in the bank I saw Sam Colville and asked him if he were going egg hunting on Easter.

"No, I guess not. The duck that I have, hasn't laid any eggs yet," he said while a lot of the tellers at their window tittered and laughed.

I have something else to tell you about the bank being accommodating to its customers. They will furnish a place for you to change clothes as I had to the other day.

Being in a great hurry, I rushed up to the bank after putting my slacks on backwards. I only discovered it after I was upstairs talking to one of the pretty girls who helps me balance my checkbook. You see I wear loose fitting pants so didn't notice I had them on backwards.

"You can go right down the hall and change them around," she was trying to hide the laughter on her face so she took a key and showed me the nice room to change in. "Be sure to lock the door as some of the men workers might come up," she told me.

That's why, I say the bank helps customers in more than one way.

I was in Hiatt's 5 and 10 Store in Mt. Vernon last week and I saw Billy Hiatt, the owner.

"I listened for a minute then burst out, 'Why, you're his dad!'"

Billy went to the other end of the store, laughing because it had taken a minute or so for me to sort that information out.

Say, I want to ask you if you are related to or do you know Willie Hiatt in Bradenton, Florida?" I asked.

Billy stood scratching his head as if it caused him to think.

"Well," he drawled like a Kentuckian from the hills, "It seems I do. My wife is his mother," and he rolled his eyes sideways to me.

A real good looking young man who seemed to be the manager came over to us.

He said his name was Carlos Kelly and he had just graduated from college about three months before Jobs were scarce for men just getting out of school, and looking to the future.

"This was the best offer I could get," he said.

"With your Spanish background, you should do well once the pretty girls find you're here," I told Carlos.

So drop in, all you pretty girls, at Hardee's restaurant going north on U.S. 25 just around the bend from Renfro Valley.

Jeanie Cole who with her husband Deacon Harold Cole, our newspaper carrier, delivers papers on this road and we all are members of Galilee Church.

Last winter about one half the church membership withdrew when the pastor, Stephen Cole, left the church. He plans to return to the town his family came from but I was told he was planning to retire so he won't be a steady pastor any more I guess.

We had several services at various places and just felt like orphans. Brother Cole advised us to find a church that we liked and take our membership there.

So we had been attending at several places to decide a church that we liked.

In talking to Jeanie, she said, "we have been attending church at Dixie Park Baptist and they have a new pastor, Mark Sarver, that you all should hear."

"I have never heard such preaching. I had a drawing power. The church was full and I almost said running over with folding chairs in the aisles. It seemed like everybody helped the pastor preach. The crowd echoed his words. They clapped their hands to anything he said which pleased them.

This preacher, young man, played the crowd like a musical instrument—whatever emotion he wanted the people to hear, he drew from them. The pulpit stayed empty most of the time for he joyed the members by walking in the aisles as he kept their attention.

I sat next to Mary Robinson from Cartersville and she helped him preach from her seat in a low voice and repeating some of his words. Several young men came up to talk to him and two boys became members. Everybody was so happy to have the pastor lead them that there wasn't a moment of silence in the church.

I told him, at the door, I had never heard anyone preach on Sampson in the Bible like that before.

Adapting recipes for health

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

March is National Nutrition Month, and it is a good time for looking at the recipes that you presently use. Cooking the low-fat, low-cholesterol way is no reason to give up your favorite family recipes. All you need to do is learn how to adapt the recipes to a low-fat, low-cholesterol eating plan. There is a three-step approach to adapting recipes. First, look for those "problem" ingredients, those high in fat, cholesterol or sodium. Next, find low-fat or low-sodium substitutions to replace these ingredients. Sometimes you can eliminate them completely. And sometimes you can reduce the amount of the ingredient or substitute a similar ingredient that is healthier for you. Finally, change your method of food preparation. For instance, instead of deep fat frying, try broiling.

Many baked foods can be changed by substituting low-fat, low-cholesterol alternatives for some ingredients. The serving size and frequency of eating are important factors in deciding when to change baked goods.

This traditional brownie recipe can be altered to lower calories and fat by substituting ingredients and omitting some ingredients.

Brownies-Original Version
1/2 cup margarine
1/2 cup sugar
1 egg

1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup flour
1/4 cup cocoa
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup chopped walnuts

Brownies-Low-Fat Version
Omit margarine
1/2 cup unsweetened applesauce
1 cup sugar
2 egg whites
1/2 teaspoon vanilla
3/4 cup flour
1/4 cup cocoa
1/4 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
Omit walnuts
Yield: 16 servings

In a mixing bowl, combine applesauce, sugar, egg whites and vanilla. Stir in remaining dry ingredients. Pour into a 9x9x2-inch baking pan prepared with nonstick spray coating. Bake at 350 degrees F for 20 to 25 minutes.

The original version of this recipe has 153 calories, 9 grams of fat and 13 mg. of cholesterol. The low-fat version has 78 calories, 2 grams of fat and 0 mg. of cholesterol.

For more information on adapting recipes for lower fat, cholesterol, and salt, call the Extension Office at 256-2403 and ask for the leaflet called "Adapting Recipes."

Renovating grass pastures with red clover

By Tom Mills
County Extension Agent for Agriculture

One of the best ways to renovate pastures, or incorporate legumes into grass sod, is with red clover. A good stand of red clover in Kentucky tall fescue can increase the yield more than 180 pounds of nitrogen and can increase the nutritive value of the pasture in terms of protein and energy. Clover will also give more summer pasture land and is still the most cost-effective way to work with the endophyte in tall fescue.

The first key to getting clover started is fertility. Clover needs PH levels of about 6 to 6.5 and good levels of phosphorus for best establishment. Soil tests are the only way to know if soil fertility is adequate for clover establishment.

Good soil and seed contact is also an important factor. Because red clover has exceptional seeding vigor and tolerance to some shading, it can be established in grass by a variety of means.

One way to establish clover is by broadcasting on top of closely-grazed sod in February or early March. Freezing and thawing or cattle traffic will work the small seeds into the soil. Seeding near April may require the use of disk or no-till seeders to get seed in contact with the soil.

Grass competition is something that has to be controlled. More seedlings in Kentucky are probably lost because of excessive grass competition than for any other reason.

Allow cattle to graze renovated pastures early to get the top growth off, and then let them come back as the grass begins to get ahead of the clover. Make an early cutting of hay on these fields to help control the grass competition.

Research at the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture has compared the performance of common or uncertified red clovers with that of better, certified varieties. The cost of the better varieties may be as much as one dollar more per pound, but this is worth the benefits they provide.

Seeding the better certified variety can mean a yield advantage of as much as 2,400 pounds in the first year, 3,400 pounds in the second year and 7,000 pounds in the third year.

Getting good stands of clover in Kentucky grass pastures can pay plenty if there is adequate soil fertility and a certified variety is used.

Nice advantage for dairy and beef farmers '94 Wheat and Feed Grain Program

The '94 Wheat and Feed Grain Program is a nice advantage for dairy and beef cattle farmers. For those producers who have an established corn base, and are interested in finding out about the Feed Grain Program, here are some advantages: In '94 you can grow your entire corn acreage base! In years past the acres you could plant and participate were limited to a certain amount. If you grow your maximum payment acres or up to your entire base, you have zero acres you must set aside! In years past there has been a certain percentage all participants had to set aside.

The program this year is definitely to the corn growers advantage. If you have to grow the grain anyway, why not sign up?

For more information contact the Rockcastle County ASCS Office no later than April 29.

Mt. Vernon Woman's Club

By: Alta Bullock

The Mt. Vernon Woman's Club met Feb. 22 in the recreation room at the library.

The theme for the month was "Fine Arts."

Our guest speaker was introduced by Kathy McCauley, Mrs. Beverley Sexton, who is a health educator and works out of our health department. She is a professional story teller and a published author. She gave us some very helpful information on services that may be obtained at the health office.

She presented a story which she also acted out each scene as she gave the details as it happened. She was very interesting. We enjoyed her very much.

Following the program, Mrs. Brenda Lambert, vice president, conducted the business session first by saluting the flag, minutes and financial statements were read and approved, other matters of business taken care of. Our hostesses were Mrs. Betty Cain and Mrs. Jean Allen. We were served a delicious arrangement of fruits and ice cream cake which was enjoyed by all.

Mrs. Lena Romans, our president, was out of town.

Our next meeting will be March 22 at 7:30 p.m. at the home of Donna Hopkins.

Mrs. Hazel Jackson who is our County Extension Agent for Home Economics, will be our guest speaker. She will be speaking on "Families of the Nineties."

We were dismissed by repeating the Club Collect.

Rise and Shine Homemakers Club

By: Zi Graves

Clarice Denny was hostess for the Rise and Shine Homemakers meeting this month. Nine members and one guest, Sandy Eldridge, were present. The warm glow of friendship filled the air as one after another arrived and was greeted by our hostesses or Alta.

Alta is the member of all positions, she can preside if the president has to be absent or be assistant hostess on a minutes notice, of course all our members can do the same thing but it is Alta who is willing to go the last mile when there is a need.

Getting caught up on the latest news is always first on the agenda and that starts the minute one enters the room and oftentimes even before one's coat is removed and continues until the meeting is called to order. This is the really fun part of the meeting.

After the short business meeting was taken care of the lesson on nutritious one dish meals such as casseroles or crock pot cooking was given by Faye McCauley. Even though most of us are familiar with both these methods we still gain a lot of new ideas when a lesson is given by a knowledgeable person, such as Faye.

A few word games supervised by Juanita Davis allowed us to get settled down before we were herded into the eating area where as usual we stuffed ourselves on Clarice's good old fashioned cooking.

Then we went next door to the antique store and browsed around for quite some time. That is one of the nicest antique stores I have been in. Shopping, whether it is buying or just window shopping is one of the things this bunch likes to do.

The next meeting will be at my house, Zi Graves, 40 Tevis St., April 12, at 10 a.m. You are welcome to come and join in the fun.

Bridgette Lear top money raiser for Easter Seals

Bridgette Lear, a third grader at Mt. Vernon Elementary School and the daughter of Bill and Joyce Lear of Orlando, was the top money raiser in the state in the recent Rick Pitino Wildcat Basketball Shootout for Easter Seals.

Bridgette raised $1,095.75 in an effort that gained her a trip to the UK vs. Florida game at Rupp Arena on March 2, a trophy, a banquet at the Hyatt Regency Hotel in Lexington before the game and the Easter Seal Shootout prizes.

While at the UK game, Bridgette sat behind the players bench and got to go into the locker room after the game for pictures and autographs of the players.

Mt. Vernon Elementary was the second highest money raising school in the state with a total of $7775 collected. Two hundred students participated in the annual shootout.

while. Most people know I really love winter time but I think I have even had enough this winter to do me for a spell.

One of my thoughts was, "God is looking down and doesn't like all the filth and destruction He sees so He is covering it up for a short time with His most precious treasures, pure white virgin fleece, sparkling crystal and glittering diamonds.

But now, come Sunday, we can get out the welcome mat along with our new spring bonnets and celebrate the first day of spring and hope the beautiful young lady brings along all the sunshine we have been longing for.

Spy
 By: Wesley Halford
 Grade 4

One day when I was out doing some spy work a man in a black hat tried to jump me. It is a good thing I knew karate. I flipped him over my back and on the ground before he could breathe.

Of course, I didn't have time to share my triumph because I had to deliver the note in my coat pocket. I had to give it to a girl named Big Mouth. She was supposed to be the prettiest girl in the world. I finally found her at the Ritz Club performing, but she was the ugliest thing I ever saw. She had eyes in the back of her head and hair was growing out of her ears. The people who said she was pretty must have been some kind of aliens. Boy, was she ugly! That's why I never worked for her again.

I said, my job was to catch spys that tried to steal our product. I caught more spys in one month than the whole Navy could in one year. One day my boss had me go on a dangerous mission. I had to deliver a love note to his girlfriend. It was a dangerous mission, but somebody had to do it.

I was jumped by ten men and not one of them got to even see the note. I got it to the address on the letter. It said, Lipstick Lane, NY 90874. I took it in the house. I asked a servant where the head of the household was. He pointed me to a girl reading a newspaper. She lowered the newspaper and it was Big Mouth. The moral of my story is you can't get away from Big Mouth because she could be anywhere.

Eagle Echoes...

Mrs. Jean Gabbard's Primary class is going on a field trip to Hummel Planetarium in Richmond to complete the unit on space. We are really looking forward now to starting our study of dinosaurs. We've also had a great time with our science experiments, studying volcanoes, earthquakes, tornadoes etc. We have three birthdays this month Happy Birthday, Andy, Jeremy and Mrs. Jean! We have made several math books from math stories, they did a great job! In reading, Charlie the Caterpillar is really growing. Each time the children read a book they get a "caterpillar" piece to add to Charlie. If you are at Roundstone School at any time come by and see Charlie the caterpillar.

Mrs. Renner's primary class is starting a unit on birds. They plan to make bird feeders and many other fun learning activities to go with the unit. In math they are starting to count money. They plan on making money kites to display in the classroom.

On Friday they presented the play Harlequin and the Gift of many color. The class had also made wooden animals and flowers for the parents to enjoy. The class would like to say thank you to all parents who attended the play and for all parents' help and support on the play.

Mrs. Burdett's class has been working very hard on multiplication in math. This week we will begin a unit on rocks. We have many activities planned to go along with this unit. We are looking forward to our field trip on March 28.

Mrs. Clark's Primary Class has started our unit on the Solar System. We are planning a trip to Hummel Planetarium in Richmond. We will get a personal view of the planets and make our study more real to us. We made wall murals on the solar system and wrote stories on how to preserve our planet. We have been studying money and learning the value of knowing how to count our own.

Ms. Mink's class has done a wonderful job on our St. Patrick's theme. We have several stories hanging in our hallway. We are also doing weather units and having fun with it.

Local students accepted into EKU teacher education program

A Mt. Vernon and Brodhead resident have been accepted into the teacher education program at Eastern Kentucky University.

Among the latest additions to the program is Carla K. Howard and David C. Sargent.

Students are accepted into the program their junior year only after meeting stringent EKU College of Education standards. They must display above-average academic ability, demonstrate proficient computer and communication skills (including a satisfactory performance on the University writing exam), perform satisfactorily in an individual interview and receive positive recommendations from four EKU faculty members.

Eastern's College of Education, the Commonwealth's largest producer of classroom teachers and administrators, also met a high standard last year when it was reaccredited by the National Council for Accreditation of teacher education (NCATE), the agency responsible for professional accreditation of teacher education programs.

When students graduate from EKU's program, they will be prepared to lead a contemporary classroom in the commonwealth, that means a classroom environment transformed by the Kentucky Education Reform Act (KERA).

Donations will be taken at the door and will go to the Project Graduation Fund. Everyone come and enjoy a great night of some of the greatest Gospel Music available.

Calvary Heirs
The Calvary Heirs formed in 1983 at the Calvary Baptist Church in West Irvine. Members include: Rebecca Deazam, pianist and a charter member of the group; Bill Eckler, II, tenor who lives in Berea and is also a charter member; Bill Singleton, who started with The Calvary Heirs as the bass guitar player and now sings baritone; Carl Williams, Jr., better known as J.R., sang with the Bishops for four years and is now the lead singer for The Calvary Heirs; Bill Eckler is the father of Rebecca and Bill II and loves to sing bass with his Calvary Heirs family; David Ellis plays bass guitar and has been with the group for two years. Johnny Cox plays the rhythm guitar and has a great love of gospel music.

Jubilee Echoes are no strangers to our area. They began singing in their home church, Ottawa Baptist, in the fall of 1981. In 1984, the Jubilee Echoes began singing at Renfro Valley for their gospel programs. In 1989, they won the Kentucky State Fair Quartet competition. Current members of the Jubilee Echoes are: the husband and wife team of Bill and Terri Sowler, Bill sings lead and manages the group and Terri sings alto; Greg Bullock, baritone, tenor and sometimes lead; Rodney Wright, one of the finest young bass singers in gospel music; Kevin Amurgey, bass guitarist and Scott Taylor on piano.

Teenagers get reward for community service

For high school seniors who are graduating this year, who will continue their education in a college, university, or vocational school next fall and who have volunteered their time and talents to service projects in their communities, the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP) will recognize them with its Community Service Scholarship.

CAP will award a $1,000 scholarship or two $500 scholarships in Rockcastle County this year.

The recipients will be chosen by a committee of local citizens. The scholarship is for the first year of school only. It is sent directly to the student, and is to be used to pay for educational expenses such as tuition, books, room, or board.

The scholarship is given in recognition for the contributions young people make in time and talent for the betterment of their communities.

Involvement in community service activities is the primary consideration for the choosing the recipients.

Students who are regular volunteers in hospitals, nursing homes, chambers of commerce, museums, or civic organizations; who participate in special service projects through a civic club, church or school organization are encouraged to apply.

Applications and more information can be obtained from your guidance counselor, or by contacting Glen Taul at Christian Appalachian Project, 322 Crab Orchard Road, Lancaster, KY 40446, or at 792-03051. The application deadline is April 15.

Parenting Fair to be held April 16

The Year of the Family Parenting Fair is a collaborative project to highlight the linkages among our schools, our families and our community.

The projects based on the premise that as partners we can educate and enrich the lives of our children, our families, our schools and our community.

The Rockcastle Kiwanis Club with its international service project, "Young Children; Priority One" and the Rockcastle County Family Resource Center with the assistance of community agencies and our resources are working together to sponsor the "Parenting Fair" to educate parents about support sources for effective child-rearing to help our children grow up to be healthy, happy citizens of tomorrow.

Parents seeking support and information is a sign of family strength, not indicative of deficits and problems.

The Mt. Vernon Elementary School gym will be the site for professional information booths that:

1. Introduce parents to resources in the community.
2. Offer professional advice about parenting and child development and answer questions raised by parents.
3. Provide an opportunity for parents in the community to interact and "trade notes."
4. Screen for vision, hearing, dental problems.

5. Provide an opportunity to learn about the Kentucky Education Reform Act by visiting the KERA Bus exhibit.

After visiting the exhibits, families will receive vouchers for the outdoor festival area, free food, entertainment and other activities.

The one day event will begin at 10 a.m. on April 16 and end at 4 p.m.

All Rockcastle County families with children under 12 years of age are encouraged to participate.

Remember -- parents who are confident and competent in their parenting roles are more likely to rear healthy productive children.

Local church disappointed in article

Dear Editor,

I am writing on behalf of the Fairview Baptist Church to express our disappointment in Kentucky Living's decision to publish in its February, 1994 issue the article On the Mark. The article salutes Maker's Mark distillery as a Kentucky success which provides many benefits to the Commonwealth. Our church has quite a different opinion regarding the effect that Maker's Mark and the bourbon industry have on our state.

Our church attempts to help the needy and less fortunate people in our community. We have found in far too many instances that alcohol is directly related in either causing or exacerbating the individual's problems.

The article points to the number of jobs in this state that are either directly or indirectly related to the Maker's Mark Distillery and the bourbon industry. Do these statistics include the additional emergency medical technicians (EMTs), ambulance drivers, doctors, wrecker services and police officers who are needed due to the alcohol related accidents and deaths which occur on an almost daily basis?

Finally, Mr. Samuels attempts to minimize the scope and impact of the bourbon industry by using phrases like "our little industry" and "we like to think we are (only) reaching friends." However, the article stated that last year the bourbon industry exported 8.5 million cases of bourbon totalling $500 million dollars. Clearly, alcohol abuse is a national problem which is perpetuated in large part by the bourbon industry.

This letter was unanimously authorized by the members of the Fairview Baptist Church at regular business session.

Respectfully submitted,
Wesley Lambert
Chairman of Deacons
and Trustees

Teen Center Schedule

Don't tell me old dogs can't learn new tricks. Glenna and Bobby (RTC Youth Workers) learned to ice skate, with the help of the Teen Center kids. Vanessa (youth worker) already knew how to skate. At first I was very nervous and afraid, but Bobby was cool and collective, the teens kept reassuring us we could do it. Bobby said "let's go for it." And laughed, "so what if we fall down." So we faced up our skates, and relied on help from the teens. I said a "Short Prayer." It was great. A couple of fall downs, no broken bones, and a lot of laughter and fun.

We will never be in the Olympics, but the trust and honesty we placed in each other that night, only goes to show, let's help each other learn. No matter what the age, let's laugh together and not at each other, let's talk together and not about each other.

I am proud to be part of the team at the Rockcastle Teen Center. I want to say "Thank You Teens," for holding my hand and making it a great experience.

P.S. To whom it concerns, Jeff (program mgr.) made sure everyone ate.

LOCAL FAMILY VISITS STATE CAPITOL-- Garry, Georgia and Garolyn Noe of Brodhead met with the House Minority Whip in Frankfort last week. The Noes were at the State Capitol to see State Representative Danny R. Ford, R-Mt. Vernon, and his staff. Ford is serving his first term as the Republican Minority Whip, a leadership position in the Kentucky House of Representatives.

A View of Horse Lick Creek

A descriptive paragraph of Horse Lick Creek, written by Tanya Vincenta Stillwell, granddaughter of Ben and Geraldine French.

My favorite place is Horse Lick Creek. It is part of the Daniel Boone's National Forest. Once it was a thriving community, where my grandparents spent their childhood. A state road ran along its banks, parts of that road crossed the infamous, but distinguished Wilderness Road.

The river tumbles onward toward the now sagiant but once fierce, barbarous, Cumberland River. When my grandparents take me there in the beautiful season of spring I enjoy hiking and picnics. I also enjoy the tumbling waterfalls, and Virginia Blue Bells. Visiting old, forgotten cemeteries of my ancestors, that are scattered among the mountains is also pleasurable to me. Horse Lick Creek is full of magnificent natural sites, and nothing could ever be more marvelous than that.

Time changes everything though. The state road changed its route three times, and each time it moved farther away from Horse Lick Creek.

Tanya Vincenta Stillwell
Stephen Foster School
Bardstown, Ky.

Families were left too far from a major road, and they began to move out. They sold their lands and property to the National Forest Service. These families left behind a legacy of true pioneer relics, old barns, log cabins, mowing machines, and a wild sparkling creek, called Horse Lick. Its head emerges from an underground mountain cave, and ends its destination into the rolling Rockcastle River.

At state monitored public hearing

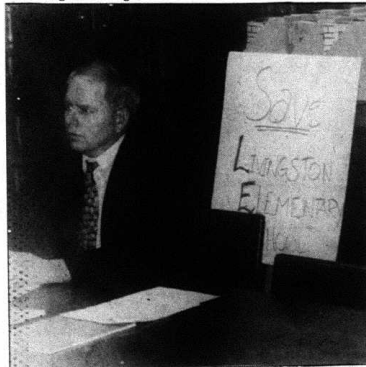

Livingston supporters make final appeal to save school

The signs made it pretty clear as to how Livingston supporters feel about the board's decision to close Livingston school.

School Superintendent Bige Towery, Jr., was interviewed on Channel 7 following the hearing.

State hearing officer Ross Mills listened to public comments.

By: Richard Anderkin
Livingston school supporters stood up one more time to voice their displeasure with the Rockcastle County Board of Education's decision to close their elementary school.

Their comments came during a state monitored public hearing at the Rockcastle County High School Monday night.

The hearing was the last scheduled forum concerning the Rockcastle County Local Planning Committee's District Facility Plan. A plan that calls for the closing of Livingston Elementary School and a plan that has been accepted by the Rockcastle County Board of Education.

The public forum was not a question and answer format, but simply a stage for citizens to air their views on the plan.

But, some Livingston residents did much more than voice their opinions on just the facility plan, they criticized everyone from Kentucky's Commissioner of Education Thomas Boyesen to Supt. Bige Towery, Jr., and State Representative Danny Ford.

Many of the comments made at Monday's hearing were inaccurate and some were even comical.

Livingston city councilman Edd Lyle implied that some underhanded dealings occurred between the board of the education and local businessmen Sam Ford and Clarence Carter and Rep. Ford, when the board purchased the site where the new Rockcastle County High School is being built. Lyle said that many people did not even want the new high school and that there is "no" property in Rockcastle County worth $9,000 an acre.

The Livingston councilman said that he had made copies of the deeds involved in the case and that it looked very bad on parties involved. "It is unbelievable that this school board would spend $600,000 on that rock pile and no money to keep Livingston school open," Lyle said.

Lyle also took another shot at board member George Poynter, who represents Livingston, saying that he, "Poynter," did not do all he could to help save the school. "That was obvious by the way he voted," Lyle said. Poynter voted with the rest of the board to accept the facility plan, in turn voting to close the school.

Lyle said that the local board has ignored everything the Livingston supporters has had to say and that they are even ignoring the good test scores achieved by Livingston students last year. "Is our reward for having good test scores, closing our school?" Lyle asked.

Lyle's wife Gail told the crowd and hearing officer Ross Mills that Livingston's needs were being ignored by the local school board. "We are tired of the lies, empty promises and sunshine being pumped up our skirts," Gail Lyle said. "For a change lets think of our children and keep their school in their community," she continued.

Gail Lyle also told the crowd that closing Livingston school was only a start and that board members intended to eventually close Broadhead and Roundstone Elementary schools.

Rita Carpenter told the hearing officer that she had four grandchildren and that she would teach them at home before she would allow them to be sent to Mt. Vernon.

"I think it is cruel and unusual punishment to get a child up before the crack of daylight and bus them for an hour," she said.

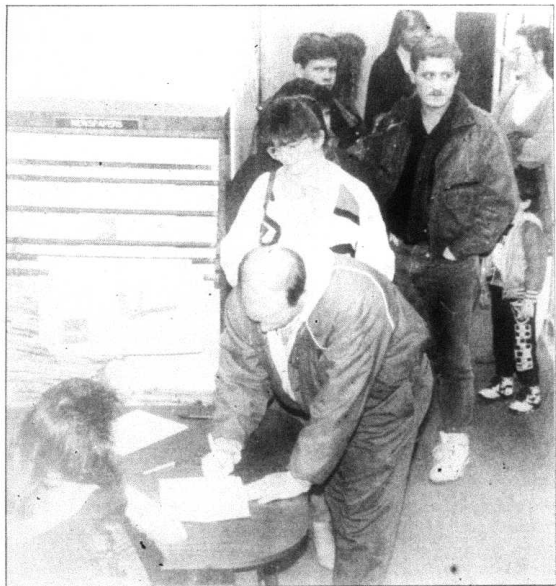

Sheila Hines told the crowd that Livingston residents had always been treated unfairly and poorly by the board and that redistricting in 1972 has caused the problems for Livingston.

Joyce Brewer said that her children had recently moved to Livingston school from Mt. Vernon and that they were receiving a much better education at Livingston than they did at Mt. Vernon. "My kids did not even understand their homework at Mt. Vernon and now they are making straight A's," she said. Brewer also said that she would go to jail before she would allow her children to go back to Mt. Vernon.

Sam Stallsworth said that the board has said repeatedly it was the Several Livingston supporters picketed in front of the Rockcastle County High School before Monday night's state public hearing. Mrs. Joyce Brewer, above, said during the meeting that she would go to jail before she allowed her children to go back to Mt. Vernon Elementary school.

A large crowd attended Monday night's public hearing, including board member Doug Mullins.

state's decision and the state has said it was the board's. "Someone is feeding us a line," Stallsworth said. Stallsworth also said that Commissioner Boyesen, "should be sent back to fairyland. Stallsworth, a Livingston graduate said that he did not think that the LPC explored all of their options when making the recommendation to close Livingston. "We have as good a staff at Livingston as you will find in the state," he said.

Dell Ponder said after the meeting that the LPC was nothing more than a puppet committee for the board. Peggy McClure, a member of the LPC and a teacher at Livingston told the hearing officer, that it was virtually impossible to make any other decision than was made by the committee. "If you follow the state's mandated guidelines, you have no choice," she said.

"The guidelines create a no win situation for the LPC, it wasn't fair, the guidelines weren't fair," she said.

The hearing officer said that comments gathered at Monday's hearing would be presented to the state board when they meet in July.

Editor's Note: With Monday night's format being strictly comment oriented, many remarks that were made and figures tossed out were inaccurate.

Seniors do not favor the Clinton Health Care plan.

Under the Clinton plan, senior citizens will surely face drastic cuts in Medicare coverage, lose their right to choose their own doctors, face long waiting lines, and possibly be denied life-saving medical treatment.

These matters are documented in a report, available at no charge to the 2-million member Seniors Coalition. I urge you to contact the Coalition today at (703) 2373-5449, get a copy of their report, then do stories that will alert people in our area to the real facts behind the Clinton Health Care Plan. Thank you.

Overnight camping, cookouts, trail rides, wagon rides, a horse show, the annual invitational hundred mile ride, and the cancer ride are but a few of the fun-filled activities planned for this year.

The calendar of events for April is as follows:

April 3 - Trail Ride - sponsor Gene and Jason Philbeck at clubhouse - 2 p.m. (coggins test will be given starting 11 a.m. this date)

April 10 - Club Benefit Ride (for club members) at campground - 2 p.m. $10 per person - chili supper served (you may bring dessert)

April 17 - Trail ride - sponsor Everett and Evelyn Adams - their farm - 2 p.m.

April 23 - Wagon ride - sponsor Tony Bullock - at Chimney Rock - 9:30 a.m. (bring our lunch)

April 24 - Trailride - sponsor Bobby Durham - campground - 2 p.m.

April 30 - Wagon Ride - sponsor Nicholas Leiger - at Pongo - 9:30 a.m.

At each trail and wagon ride a sign up sheet will be made available for members to make sure their attendance is recorded. This will eliminate confusion and mistakes and give the sponsor and riders recorded credit for their participation. Any sponsor needing a sign up sheet contact Bev Rockwell or Darrell Owens. New members always welcome. Happy trails to you!

McCollum selected as 1993 Volunteer of Year

Over 300 Republicans from across the state gathered in Louisville on Feb. 19 for the Republican Party of Kentucky's "Old Time" Statewide Lincoln Dinner, highlighted by the announcement of County Volunteer of the Year Awards. Volunteers from across the state were honored for their outstanding work towards strengthening the GOP.

Alonzo McCollum of Mt. Vernon was selected as the Volunteer of the Year from Rockcastle County.

"Volunteers like Alonzo McCollum are the backbone of the Republican Party," said Terry Carmack, State Republican Chairman. "Our Volunteers of the Year are to be commended for their willingness to dedicate time and energy to the Republican cause."

All award winners were special guests at a pre-dinner reception with U.S. Senator Mitch McConnell, Chairman Terry Carmack and keynote speaker, Congressman Robert Portman of Cincinnati.

Health Dept. News

By: Beverly Carter-Sexton

This year, "National Poison Prevention Week" is designated as March 20-26. The health department is promoting poison prevention. Poison prevention is a serious business. Many children are poisoned each year and many of these accidents could have been prevented.

Accidental poisonings occur most often to children under the age of five, but people of all ages are poisoned each year. Some prevention tips which will help you make your home poison proof are:

- Purchase medications and household chemicals with child resistant caps

- Keep poisons (detergents, medicines, etc.) out of reach on a high shelf or locked in a cupboard

- Pour contents of unused medicine or chemical containers down the drain or toilet and rinse the container before throwing it away (some chemicals may have other instructions for discarding which should be followed)

- Never store dangerous products in food or drink containers -- they can be mistaken for something to eat or drink

- Never tell a child that medicine is "candy" or tastes like candy; and don't take medicine in front of children

- Many plants and berries are poisonous, including indoor plants and should be kept out-of-the-reach of small children and pets

- Syrup of Ipecac should be on hand to give a person who has ingested a poison. Ipecac makes people vomit, which can help get rid of poison. But if certain types of poisons are taken, vomiting can make things worse. You should always ask a doctor or poison center before giving someone Ipecac.

- Children should not be allowed to chew on painted surfaces - some paints contain lead which is poison

- Through our well child program at the health department, children from 6 months through 6 years are screened for lead poisoning risk factors and if any are found, then a blood test is done. Also through this program syrup of ipecac is given for poison prevention and pedialyte is offered to infants on the well child program to help prevent death due to dehydration.

Brutal winter recks havoc for families

U.S. Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers today urged President Clinton to grant Kentucky's request for disaster assistance for damages that occurred during an ice storm last month.

"All of Kentucky has fought bravely through a brutal winter. Southern and Eastern Kentucky have been particularly hard hit," Rogers said. "This bad weather has placed tremendous burdens on every family, business and community."

According to estimates from the State Disaster and Emergency Services, total damages could reach over $20 million for the February 9-10 ice storm alone. The storm caused widespread power outages, damaged electrical distribution systems and created extensive debris removal problems for electrical utilities and state and local government.

Excess flooding from melting conditions also damaged road systems and forced evacuations in several communities.

Rogers urged the President to make available Federal Emergency Management Administration Assistance, Small Business Administration Disaster Loans, Federal Highway Administration Assistance, Farmer's Home Administration Disaster Loans and assistance from the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Soil Conservation Service and other USDA programs.

Fifth Congressional District Counties included in the request are: Bell, Breathitt, Clay, Harlan, Jackson, Johnson, Knox, Laurel, Lawrence, Lee, Magoffin, Martin, McCreary, Menifee, Morgan, Owsley, Perry, Pulaski, Rockcastle, Wayne, Whitley and Wolfe.

IRA - You Can Start Small

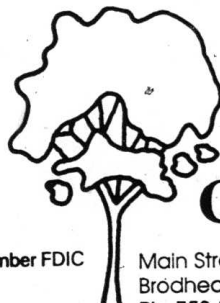

Usually when Individual Retirement Accounts are advertised, the main point of the ad is the fact that you can invest $2,000 annually ($2,250 if your spouse doesn't work). This is the maximum contribution allowed each year.

Because of the fact that the ads on IRA's always emphasize the maximum contribution, many people have been left with the feeling that you have to contribute $2,000 annually. This is not true. You can contribute whatever amount you want as long as it doesn't exceed the maximum.

The important thing is that you get started with an IRA even if you can only contribute $200 a year initially. Come in and see us about an IRA. Substantial penalty for early withdrawal.
