National Volunteer Week

Dear Editor,
April 17-23, 1994 is National Volunteer Week, and I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the people I believe are the most dedicated volunteers in our community, the volunteers of Hospice of the Kentucky River.

Most people know that hospice provides a very special kind of care for terminally ill person and their families, but it is less known that if it were not for volunteers, our hospice could not function. Even the federal government recognizes the importance of volunteers in the delivery of hospice care by requiring that Medicare-approved hospices utilize volunteers from the community.

Hospice care is provided through an interdisciplinary, medically directed team. This team approach to care for dying persons typically includes a physician, a nurse, a social worker, a chaplain and a volunteer. While our hospice employs paid professionals, we also rely on volunteers to provide assistance at all levels of skill.

Nationally, almost 100,000 people serve as hospice volunteers, and last year, they gave well over 5 million hours of their precious time to serve terminally patients and their families!

Locally in Estill, Jackson, Lee, Madison, Owsley and Rockcastle Counties, 95 persons donated 4,059 hours of service in 1993 to Hospice of the Kentucky River.

In a number of ways, volunteering for hospice differs from other community work. Volunteers are required to undergo standardized training before being allowed to work directly with a patient or family.

No task is too big or too small for our volunteers, but often the most important thing they can do is just "be there" for patients—to reassure them they are not alone, to hold a hand, to offer a smile, or to just listen. It is not easy work, but the personal rewards are enormous. The strength and courage of patients provide a constant source of inspiration, and volunteers usually feel they gain more than they have been able to give.

Our hospice is growing and more and more persons seek our help. For this reason, we have a constant need for new volunteers. If you would like to learn more about hospice volunteering, I invite you to call Hospice of the Kentucky River at 256-3577.

In the meantime, we should all be grateful to the volunteers of Hospice of the Kentucky River for the wealth of time and compassion they give for the betterment of our community. Annette Stolle, Volunteer Coordinator, Hospice of the Kentucky River

Our present volunteers are Mrs. Verna Graves (pictured), Mrs. Maude Randolph, Mrs. Charlotte Hansel, Mrs. Rose Ann Abney. Pictures not available for the last three volunteers.

Mt. Vernon commits $100,000 to Image Entry plant

By: Richard Anderkin
The City of Mt. Vernon has agreed to loan Image Entry Inc., a London based data processing firm, $100,000 to help fund the construction of a new plant in the Rockcastle County Industrial Park.

Image Entry made the loan request at last week's council meeting. Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary Cromer told council members that the city could loan Image Entry a portion of a $300,000 pay back from Mt. Vernon Plastics.

The council voted to participate in the project and loan the money to Image Entry. Image Entry will pay a 2% interest rate.

Reynolds Metals, the company that purchased Mt. Vernon Plastics paid off a $300,000 Urban Development loan the city had made to plastics in the 70's.

The city has already loaned $100,000 of the UDAG payback.

The total cost for the building project is $440,000.

Presently, Image Entry is em-employing 44 employees at a temporary site in the Renfro Valley Museum building.

Image Entry is planning to build a 8,000 square foot facility, with 100 parking spaces, on a three acre site in the Rockcastle Industrial Park.

Once the new plant is completed, Image Entry plans to employ at least 200 people. Image Entry employees are paid more than minimum wage and receive health benefits.

'I am pleased that Image Entry is making such a commitment to this community, it will be a great boost to our economy,' Mayor Cromer said.

Third District Magistrate Bill McKinney, who along with other county officials and Mayor Cromer, toured Image Entry's plant in London Monday said that he thought Image Entry was as good a company as you could attract.

'They are pollution free, willing to train their employees and seem to be in the type of business that is immune to swings in the economy,' McKinney said.

The fiscal court voted to provide $14,800 to grade the three acre site at the industrial park. That money will come from coal severance tax money received from the state by the county.

Image Entry is expected to begin construction on the new plant next month.

Federal Judge Coffman will speak at Kiwanis

United States District Judge Jennifer Coffman of Lexington will be the guest speaker at the Rockcastle Kiwanis meeting Thursday at noon. Coffman was the first woman ever appointed to the federal bench in Kentucky, when she received her appointment from President Clinton last year.

Coffman is best known to Rockcastle countians as the lawyer that successfully represented Sue Hamm against the Rockcastle County Board of Education in 1987.

A federal judge ruled that Mrs. Hamm had been sexually discriminated against by then Superintendent Charles B. Parsons and the Rock-castle County Board of Education. The judge's ruling also caused new hiring practices to be implemented in the school system.

The Kiwanis meeting is scheduled to begin at noon at the Kastle Inn Restaurant with Judge Coffman speaking at around 12:30.

Any voted pay increase would be for next term Ky. Constitution says council can't raise pay

By: Richard Anderkin
'A day late and a dollar short,' as the old cliché goes, but for Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary Cromer it is apparently a year late and $5,400 short. The Mt. Vernon City Council cannot raise Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary Cromer's salary during his current term of office, according to the Kentucky Constitution.

Last week Mayor Cromer broke a three to three tie to raise his monthly salary from $50 to $500 a month.

But section 161 of the Kentucky Constitution says: 'The compensation of any city, county, town or municipal officer shall not be changed after his election or appointment, or during his term of office; nor shall the term of any such officer be extended beyond the period for which he may have been elected or appointed.'

Section 235 of the Constitution says: 'The salaries of public officers shall not be changed during the terms for which they were elected; but it shall be the duty of the General Assembly to regulate, by a general law, in what cases and what deductions shall be made for neglect of official duties. This section shall apply to members of the General Assembly also.'

In a January 1990 opinion by the Kentucky Attorney General, Nathan Goldman an assistant attorney general, wrote, 'The salaries of city and county officials are required to be set no later than the first Monday in May in the year in which officers are elected.'

According to Goldman's opinion, the city of Mt. Vernon cannot raise the Mayor's salary until the next term of office. According to Goldman's opinion, Mt. Vernon has until the first Monday in May of 1998 to raise Cromer's salary.

Lancaster Mayor Billy Moss said this week that his council abided by the Constitution last April and took action that adjusted his 1994 salary when his new term started in January of 1994.

Moss said that his city council originally set his salary at $10,000, but the office of local government in Frankfort told Lancaster, that the Mayor of a 5th class city could only make $7,200 a year. 'We adjusted my salary accordingly,' Moss said.

Mt. Vernon is also a fifth class city, and if the council had voted last year in March to raise Cromer's salary, he too would be eligible to make $7,200 a year. Last week the council voted to raise Cromer's salary to $6,000.

'When the council started discussing the pay increase our city attorney told us that we had to do

County has good collection rate; $20,000 from FEMA

By: Ray McLure
Rockcastle County has one of the highest collection rates for property taxes in the state, thanks to Sheriff Shirley Smith, the Rockcastle Fiscal Court was told at its monthly meeting Tuesday.

Mrs. Nancy Meadows, county garbage coordinator, told the court a check showed 98 percent in taxes have been paid.

But she said a check of records also showed about $250,000 remains to be paid, some dating back as long as 10 years.

'If we included a late charge and penalties it could amount to as much as $300,000.'

County Judge/Executive Buzz Carlolis told the court when FEMA (Federal Emergency Management Agency) completed its figuring, it appears the county will get $20,000 for winter problems. The state will give $11,000 for snow removal.

Several votes on water improvements in the county were approved.

Authorization for final payment on Kentucky Infrastructure Authority (ISA 321) for Western Rockcastle Water Association's project.

Approval was made of disbursements for the Northern Rockcastle water improvement project $12,500 and notice of approval of Evidentiary materials and release of fund for continuing work on Northern Rockcastle water improvement project were noted. Bryan Kirby of Will Linder Associates said funds would be released by April 17 and lines should be laid in 60 days.

The court approved to begin the design process for the county jail renovation project tender the direction of Architecture Plus, Inc.

The court committed to some future date $14,843 to Image Entry that will complete a 'good faith' package to the state to the proposed new industry in the Rockcastle Industrial Park.

The Rockcastle Council for the Arts received official recognition and documentation by the fiscal court as the representative arts agency for the county at the request of H. Allen Penso, president of the council.

Two day meeting

The May meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court will be a two-day affair.

The Judge and Magistrates will tour the county to find roads in most need of work.

The meetings will be on May 10 and 11.

Now, you'd think Abe had learned his lesson. Not so. Some years later, he and Sarah pulled the same hoax on the King of Gerar. This time, however, he was treated better after the Almighty told the king to back off because: Abraham was a prophet!

End of story? No way! Wouldn't you know, several years later Abe's son, Isaac, pulled the same caper with his wife, Rebekah. On the same King of Gerar!

I have in my library several biblical commentaries that contend the three-fold "patriarchal lying" accounts are far-fetched and actually are one incident that ended up being applied in different situations to different patriarchs as it was handed down orally for hundreds of years. Knowing how incidents get altered with telling over periods of time, I have to say the scholar's suggestion is a possibility. But it sure does cause a problem for the devoted student of Scripture!

When I was a college teacher of Bible, students would ask me what I believed about the matter. I replied, "That's not so hard to believe. Lying is just in that family!"

barely-alive dog to Loretta.

In the meantime traffic had been backed up and a few holier-than-thou types muttered about the impropriety of a fire department digging up the road to save a dog. But Vint just laughed it off. "I feel sorry for people who can't understand why we had to save that dog," he told me later, "because they're missing something real important in their lives."

Vint was known as Guy on the Lancaster and later the Richmond Police Force where he had spent the last six years. He lived and breathed being a cop and a father above all else and he was an expert in both roles. We knew his as Vint because his father is also Guy. But it doesn't matter how anyone knew him or what they called him, the world is not so good now as kind as it was last Tuesday and we'll miss him for as long as we live.

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and salamanders from the wonderful world of Wadd, where dwells a fellow who will lie to you even when it isn't necessary. Rather than tell the truth, even about the most inconsequential thing, he prefers prevarication. You never leave off talking with him without feeling that somewhere in your dialogue he has presented you a fig newton of his imagination.

Not a one of us, of course, is fit-free. And there are times when some "innocent" lying adds spice to life. For example, liars gets the most enjoyment out of fishing and golfing. And what would Christmas be to children if parents leveled with them about Santa and such?

You find a lot of lying in the Bible, even on the lips of the faithful. Saying that usually brings to mind Simon Peter, who denied Christ three times before he could be crowned. But Simon couldn't hold Abraham a light to run by when it came to misrepresenting the truth. Abraham and his wife, Sarah, lit out for Egypt when a grievous famine fell on the Land of Canaan. On the way down there, ole Abe got to thinking: "Sarah's one good-looking woman. Some Egyptians are apt to be taken with her and take my life, then take her!" So, he instructed Sarah to tell folks in the Land of Ham that she was his sister. She was his half-sister. (Enter the half-truth, more devious than an out-right whopper.) Abraham was right. Sarah ended up in the house of Pharaoh, king of Egypt. And Pharaoh gave Abraham a stock yard full of cattle! The Almighty, however, wasn't too thrilled with Abe's shenanigan and slapped a plague on Pharaoh's palace. Before long, Pharaoh got wind of what was going on. He chewed out Abraham and ordered him and Sarah -- and the cattle! -- out of Egypt.

Last Tuesday afternoon, my wife's younger brother, Guy Vincent Embree, lost his life in a tragic head-on collision between his pick-up and a commercial tree-trimming truck. The accident happened on a sharply curving stretch of Highway 421 near Kingston that has claimed several other lives over the years. But faulting the road won't bring "Vint," as we knew him in the family, back to life nor will it aid the healing of six other people injured in the mishap.

Vint's fiance and both his children were seriously injured as were three men in the other vehicle. At the writing, now six days after the fact, 15-year-old Amy Embree lies comatose with severe head injuries in an intensive care unit at UK Medical Center. Five-year-old Jacob has been released with numerous cuts, a broken nose and a broken jaw bone. Vint's Sweetheart, Susan Kreck is also out even though she, too, suffered severe head injuries. If you make a habit of talking to the God we ask you keep all the survivors in your prayers. We particularly request that you petition our Maker that Amy be kept alive and be made whole again.

It had not occurred to me that I would find the energy or inspiration to write a column this week. Everybody in Loretta's family except for a few very young children have found rest and sleep very hard to come by. We struggle to understand why the best and brightest are so frequently snatched away. Certainly I could not have written on any other subject and perhaps it is not entirely proper that I dwell on this. But bear with me, I will because I simply need to reflect on Vint's life. And had you known him you would have been proud of the relationship.

Vint was born and raised on Blue Lick, literally on the edge of the woods just outside Berea. He had a keen appreciation for blue sky, open spaces and the subtleties of nature and he was fiercely proud to be a country boy. He entered the army straight out of high school in the mid seventies and spent more than eight years in service to his country, mostly as a member of the military police. On more than one occasion I've heard him say that he probably would have made a career of the service if Germany hadn't been so cold and so far away from home.

After mustering out of the service in 1985, he found work as a police officer in Lancaster and during the three years or so he worked for that force, Loretta and/or I saw him almost every day. We lived very close to each other in Cartersville where Vint almost immediately jumped head over heels into membership in the local fire department. When he was off duty and we couldn't find him at home, we routinely called the fire station. I have never known another person so devoted to the call to serve and protect. On the job he was epitome of cool, uniformed professionalism. But in that broad chest beat a heart that was soft as butter.

My favorite memory of Vint and perhaps the best description of the kind of person he was happened when our old family dog, Patch, had been missing for several days. We had searched the roads and woods for miles around in fear that he had been killed or perhaps caught in a steel trap. It wasn't like Patch to be gone for very long or more than a hundred yards or so.

Just before a thunderstorm was about to hit, our neighbor called to let Loretta know that she could hear a dog barking, but she couldn't tell where it was. To make a long story short, Loretta found old Patch stuck in a drain tile about 20 feet back under and nearly two feet beneath Harmon Lick Road. By that time the rain was pouring and he was in imminent danger of drowning. Some of the kids and neighbors and I began bailing water out of the ditch to keep it out of the culvert, while Loretta tracked Vint down at the fire station.

In short order, more than a dozen men were surveying the situation and Vint decided that the only way to rescue our dog was to dig through nearly two feet of blacktop and concrete. I remember thinking that hardly anything else would seem so futile, but somebody came up with a coal pick and somebody else a splitting maul. I tried hitting a lick or two and implements simply bounced back in my face. Vint grabbed first one tool and then the other and within minutes he had a huge pile of busted rock and gravel piled up in the road and then he was handing our terrified and just-

National Youth Service Day 1994

Do your part to bring national attention to community service. Join thousands of organizations and over one million people to celebrate National Youth Service Day 1994. NYSD provides the opportunity for policy makers, business and community leaders, educators, parents and young people to celebrate the idealism and vast potential of organized youth service.

National Youth Service Day is an annual public awareness and education campaign designed to broaden national, regional and local recognition of the power or organized youth service. It's a celebration of one day's worth of the hundreds of thousands of hours young people give each year to address our country's most pressing social problems.

Everyday, young people spend countless hours tutoring at-risk children, feeding the hungry and homeless, providing companionship and assistance to the elderly and sick, cleaning up parks and city streets and counseling their peers who are facing difficult situations. Unfortunately, their stories are rarely told.

Since its inception in 1988, National Youth Service Day has provided much needed recognition and visibility for the efforts of local programs and the contributions of young people who serve during the year. In 1994, more than one million people from over 5,000 programs will join in this national celebration of youth service.

Participation is simple. On April 19th, just do what you and your organization does every day to serve your community. You can also host a city-wide youth forum, plan a special service project and invite local official and the media to attend, or organize a rally with local celebrities in conjunction with a clean-up project. It's your day to show the power and enthusiasm of youth to address community needs. The possibilities are endless.

National Youth Service Day 1994 will:

- Recognize the service efforts of more than one million young people nationwide.
- Teach communities to view young people as resources rather than problems.

• Create avenues for collaboration among youth service programs, community agencies, schools, universities and local, state and regional governments.

For more information, call or write: National Youth Service Day 1994! 1101 15th Street, NW, suite 200, Washington, DC 20005. Tel: (202) 296-2992.

to attend! Please get your tickets from: Mike Robbins at Livingston School; Darlene Larkey at Roundstone School; Judy Bullock at Mt. Vernon School and Molly Hamm at Broadhead School. Tickets will be $2 in advance or $3 at the door the night of the dance.

4-H Dance

The Rockcastle County 4-H Council will hold a 4-H Dance on Friday night, April 22nd at Mt. Vernon Elementary from 6 - 8 p.m. Only 4th through 8th graders will be allowed

The Wilderness Trail Area 4-H Communications Day has been changed from Clay County High School to West Knox Elementary School in Corbin. Clay County will be having school that Saturday, so we have been forced to change places, but the date remains the same.

Details have been completed for Saturday, April 23rd:

9 a.m. Registration will begin
10 a.m. Competition for Talk Meet begins

10:30 a.m. - Variety Show

12:30 p.m. - Awards Ceremony

Congratulations to the three 4-H'ers!

Three youth from Rockcastle County were awarded champions in the Wilderness Trail Area 4-H Poster Contest this spring.

They were:

4th grade winner - Josh Hale, Mt. Vernon School

7th grade winner - Craig Sowder, Brodhead School

8th grade winner - Emily Potter, Brodhead School

Their posters will be entered in the 4-H Cloverleaf at the Kentucky State Fair this summer. Congratulations to Josh, Emily and Craig!

Participants of the Rockcastle Teen Center, ages 10-18, will be offering their services on National Youth Service Day in a variety of ways. Among them are planting flowers and assisting the elderly with house and yard work. Let's remember to encourage our youth and teens as they make efforts to serve their community.

"Voter registration"

Babbage said.

"Kentucky has about 54,000 persons who will turn 18 this year. Many will be eligible to register and to vote in this year's primary and general elections," he added.

Babbage noted that the passage of the National Voter Registration Act of 1993 which will make voter registration available when a person applies for or renews their driver's license will add about 500,000 registered voters in a four-year span.

At the time of the last general election, voter registration in Kentucky had risen to 2,129,251. New laws to expand the registration opportunity will certainly help Kentucky "rebuild its democracy," Babbage said.

Other sites, including state offices which offer assistance programs, and military recruiting stations will also be voter registration sites in the future, according to the federal law. Kentucky law directs county clerks to assist public high schools with voter registration opportunities for their students. In many areas the clerk provides voter registration cards for the students' use to the school principal or the designated school official who informs the students of the registration and voting opportunities.

"Important offices will be filled by election this year," Babbage said. "All of Kentucky's congressional seats and all of the Kentucky House of Representative offices are to be filled by election this year. One half the state Senate offices are up for election," Babbage said.

Incumbent Supreme Court Justice Joseph Lambert is seeking reelection to the court's third district. Three candidates are seeking selection to the Court of Appeals seventh district seat.

Races will also be held for Circuit Judge in three judicial districts and the office of district judge in the 16th district will also be on the ballot this year.

2. Have a relaxed environment. Avoid any activities and conversations that may arouse anxiety, conflict or unpleasantness.
 3. Try to avoid applying disciplinary measure to any member of the family on the evening before the test.
 4. Have your child go to bed early enough to get plenty of rest.
 5. Set the clock to alarm a little early in order to allow your child time to eat and dress without rushing.
 6. See that clothes that your child likes and feels comfortable in are laid out so that frantic searches are avoided.

Many parents have asked for suggestions concerning ways they can help their child achieve his potential during the Kentucky Instructional Results Information (KIRIS) assessment scheduled April 19-30. We offer the following ideas to assist in making your child calm, confident, and successful.

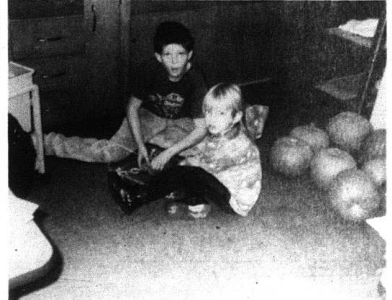

1. Help your child feel confident about taking the test. Express confi-

7. Be sure that paper, pencils, and other needed school materials are together and located where they will not be forgotten in the morning.
8. You may want to talk briefly about the test in an encouraging way. Let your child know that you understand how difficult tests are, but you are confident in his/her ability to do well. Emphasize that test results help in planning the child's instructional program.
9. Ask your child to do as well as he/she can. Think of something that would be very pleasing to your child and say that this will be the reward following the test.
10. Let all conversation about testing be casual and brief.
11. Prepare a good breakfast for your child, but not a heavy one.
12. Be sure that your child is not late for school.
13. The test is constructed to be given in a group setting. Children seldom do as well when given the test individually. Therefore, it is very important that your child be in school Monday to start the test and finish with the other students. Please make school attendance a priority!

Tiger Pause

Everyone returned from Spring Break renewed and ready for the successful completion of another school year.

The next two weeks, April 19-29 have been set aside for KIRIS assessment throughout the county. While we do not feel that students should become overly anxious about this testing, we do believe they should be made aware of the impact of the testing on their academic programs. Your cooperation in this matter, including seeing to it that your youngster is present in school during this time, would be most appreciated.

The class of the 21st century would like to thank the following guests: Don Jones, rural mail carrier; Sue Davis, Stoner Creek Treatment Center; Terry Burton, Medical Technician; and Shirley Cummins R-TEC.

Dale Whittaker, RCHS counselor, met with our eighth graders Tuesday, April 12 to discuss their transition to high school. The students were given program options for their fall schedule selections and will actually register for fall classes when Mr. Whittaker returns Friday. If you are a parent of an eighth grader, we would like to suggest your own and your child discuss the program options prior to Friday's meeting. Our eighth graders will not be going to RCHS for the annual tour this year since their building is still under construction. A freshman orientation will be held for students and parents this summer. Please watch for announcements.

There will be a special call meeting of the School-Based Decision Making Council, Tuesday, April 26 at 7 p.m. This meeting will be used to finalize the Transformation Plan. If you are willing to work, the help would be appreciated.

We would like to congratulate our winners of the Regional Science Fair held at Cumberland College. First place: Josh McKibben and Renee Day; Second Place: Abram Taylor and Andrew Cash; and Third Place: Danette Harris and Jessica Burton. Those receiving honorable mention were Heather Barton, Heather Bussell, Renita Blanton and Cliff Matekovich. Congratulations to our science teacher, Mrs. Gayle Scoggin.

We are proud to announce that two of our students, Craig Sowler and Emily Potter, had winning posters in the Wilderness Trail 4-H Poster Contest. The posters will enter competition at the State Fair in Louisville this fall.

There is a 4-H dance Friday, April 22 from 6-8 p.m. at MVES for grades 4-8 only. Tickets may be purchased in advance for $2 or $3 at the door.

We are looking forward to the presentation of "American Pop" by our Performing Arts students, Tuesday, April 19 at 2 p.m.

Don't forget to come to the PTA meeting tonight. Our primary students, under the direction of Mrs. Mary Whitlock will entertain.

Science Fair Winners

Rockcastle County High School, Brodhead Elementary School, Roundstone Elementary School and Mt. Vernon Elementary School participated in the 1994 Cumberland College Science Fair held on the campus of Cumberland College on March 30. Two hundred and seventy-eight students, accompanied by teachers and parents, from Kentucky represented ten schools in the annual Science Fair.

Rockcastle County High School was the overall school senior division winner and North Laurel Middle School, London, was the overall school junior division winner for the annual Science Fair.

The Science Fair allowed students to present the results of their research projects for evaluation. Most projects were the result of months of hard work. Projects were judged on the basis of criteria such as creativity, scientific thought or problem solving, and clarity of presentation. Projects that test some scientific hypothesis or address some design or engineering problem are favored.

Faculty and students of the Cumberland College science departments served as judges. Dr. James Ross, Chairman of the Department and Associate Professor of Biology, was the coordinator for the Science Fair. Students competed in two divisions: junior, grades 6-8, and senior, grades 9-12. Within each division were six categories of competition: behavioral and social science, chemistry and biochemistry, computer science and mathematics, engineering and physics, environmental science, and life science.

First, second and third place winners in each category won cash prizes of $50, $30 and $20, respectively. Matching cash prizes also go to the student's schools to be used by the sponsoring teachers to purchase scientific supplies and equipment.

Local students recognized at EKU's Honors Banquet

Four Brodhead students and two from Mt. Vernon were among more than 250 Eastern Kentucky University students recognized during EKU's annual Honors Day for outstanding achievement.

EKU recognized the students for academic excellence, campus leadership, and service to the University community during a luncheon on April 10 in the Keen Johnson Building.

Local students and their honors include: Brodhead students, Shashawna Dawn Patrick, William H. and Pauline Knapp Scholarship; Sherman Dale Cook, Outstanding Junior in Police Administration; Sonya Marlene Bullock, NBEA Professional Award; Angie Therese Buswell, Excellence in French.

Mt. Vernon students were Matthew J. Bryant, Weaver Oratory Award; and Bonnie Susan Sigmon, Agriculture Department Alumni Scholarship.

EKU show choir to hold event at Renfro Valley

Thirteen show choirs from four states will take their high-energy performances to the famed Renfro Valley stage Saturday, April 23 in Eastern Kentucky University's second annual High School Show Choir Spectacular.

The event, co-sponsored by EKU's Department of Music and Renfro Valley Entertainment Center, will be held from 9:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. in Renfro Valley's 1,500-seat New Barn Theatre. Tickets are $5 a piece and may be bought at the door. Reservations are available by calling Renfro Valley at 800-765-7464. Proceeds go to the EKU Department of Music Scholarship Fund.

Renfro Valley, "Kentucky's Country Music Capital" and a popular tourist attraction, is located just off I-75 at Exit 62, 25 miles south of Richmond. The Spectacular stems from a partnership established between EKU and Renfro Valley Entertainment Center to provide performance opportunities for EKU students and faculty at Renfro Valley and to showcase various forms of music available through EKU and Renfro Valley.

Kentucky schools represented in the Spectacular will be Franklin County, Grant County, Greenwood, Raedland-Worthington and Russell. Coming from Ohio will be North-west Senior in Cincinnati, Kettering (second last year) and Norwood (third in '93). Indiana schools represented are Chesterton (Drifters and the defending champion Sandpipers) and Merrillville. Participants from Tennessee will be Anderson County and Knox Central of Knoxville.

Show choirs combine vocals, instrumental and choreography in high-energy performances of popular material. Rob Lawrence, director of EKU's Show Choir, believes this to be the only show choir competition in Kentucky.

"We want to show the public one of the best-kept secrets in the state," Lawrence said. "And this is an excellent avenue to expose people to this type of entertainment."

The choirs, which will each perform up to 25 minutes, will be graded by four adjudicators knowledgeable about show choir techniques. A grand champion will be recognized, along with first runner-up and second runner-up. The top group will be invited to perform as special guests of the EKU Show Choir at its spring concert at 7:30 that evening at Brock Auditorium on the Richmond campus. (EKU's Show Choir will give a 10-minute preview of its evening performance immediately before the award presentations at Renfro Valley.)

"I think we have some super judges," Lawrence said. "Two directed choirs that were finalists last year in this show choir competition. This will be a wonderful opportunity for these show choirs to get some really constructive criticism."

The best accompaniment group will also be announced.

Show choir is just one of many forms of choral entertainment, Lawrence said, but it offers performers an experience not available in traditional, classical choirs. "We're becoming a visually-oriented culture, and fast-paced, high-energy shows are becoming more popular. Show choirs afford an opportunity for training future performers, starting at the high school level.

"These are some wonderful groups who promise a fun-filled day of entertainment," Lawrence added. "And you'll see a little bit of everything in musical styles."

Lawrence termed Renfro Valley's facilities and staff "a big selling point" for the event. "It's a state-of-the-art auditorium, and their professionals will be running the lights and sound system."

Renfro Valley's rich history dates back to 1939, when the Renfro Valley Barn Dance was first broadcast live to an appreciative radio audience. Now, more than 50 years later, the Valley includes a quaint shopping village, two state-of-the-art show barn theatres, two restaurants, lodging, and a full calendar of events and concerts, but the emphasis remains on entertainment. An RV park is scheduled to open late spring.

Eastern Kentucky University is a comprehensive university serving 16,500 students on its 560-acre Richmond campus, throughout its 22-county extended service region, and beyond.

BE TREE SMART

PLANT A FREE TREE AND SAVE ENERGY.

Like to lower your energy costs? Plant a tree. Trees not only beautify the landscape and help the environment, but save energy by shielding your home from the sun and wind.

That's why, for the third consecutive year, Kentucky Utilities Company is celebrating Earth Day on April 22 by giving away 60,000 tree seedlings, your choice of either redbud or dogwood, while supplies last.

The only thing we ask is that you be "Tree Smart" when you plant. Plant away from electric power lines, and check the location of underground utility lines before digging. For more information, please contact your local KU office.

Family fun with feathered friends

Bird watching isn't just for adults - it's educational and entertaining for children, too. And creating a bird sanctuary in your backyard this season can be a fun activity for the entire family.

If you'd like to make your backyard an inviting to feathered friends as human friends, start by taking a step out the back door to inventory your yard. Then gather the family for a trip to a nearby garden center or hardware store to look for four basics: a bird bath, bird feeders, bird houses and bird enticing flowering plants and shrubs.

A Bird Bath
Having a bird bath in your yard is essential to attracting birds. Birds need water for drinking as well as bathing and a bird bath will serve both purposes.

A simple ceramic or plastic bath is inexpensive and easy to assemble. Make sure not to place it near trees or bushes or other areas accessible to cats. Once in place, fill it with fresh water each day. Also, during winter months, you can keep the water from freezing by inserting a small water-proof heating element into the center of the bath.

Bird Feeders
Wild birds continually search for food sources. Though they rely primarily on natural food supplies, such as insects and seeds, most will easily recognize and eat from a bird feeder. And, if they eat from your feeder during spring and summer, they will know to return to your yard for food during the winter months.

Bird feeders come in a variety of shapes, sizes and varieties. Large bird feeders can be costly and difficult for children to hang or refill, so you may opt to start with a small, pre-filled plastic feeder, such as the Easy Feeder by Easy Gardener. The easy feeder comes ready-to-use and is durable and light enough for children to hang. It can be purchased at a local garden center or hardware store and comes filled with a well-balanced 50 percent black oil seed sunflower seeds, millet and milo, so that it lures a wide variety of birds.

An Easy Feeder is also a good choice because it dispenses seed mix only when needed. This protects the seed from the damaging effects of rain, wind, snow and contamination from bird waste. And, when empty, the durable feeder can be refilled at minimal cost or put out with the recyclables.

Hang the feeder in an area where the family can watch from the porch as well as from inside the house. The feeder should be placed in an area of abundant natural shelter, such as a tree or hedge, but out of reach for squirrels, mice and cats.

Bird Houses

Bird houses also come in many shapes and sizes. While most birds will nest in trees or bushes, some prefer a more secure and windproof site such as a bird house. Small, single-dwelling bird houses are usually inexpensive and easily hung in a tree or from a lamp post.

Some birds, such as purple martin, are highly social and build nests in close proximity to each other. Special large bird houses, called martin houses, are available for social birds. Though installing a martin house in your yard may be costly, it will attract purple martins, swallows and swifts, all of which eat hundreds of mosquitoes each day and will make your yard more enjoyable during the summer months.

As with bird feeders, your bird houses are best installed well out of reach of the birds' natural predators -

Shaffer and Cox throw no-hitters

Rockets beat O.B.I.

By: Jason Coguer

The Rockcastle Rockets returned home from a very productive spring training week to open up district play against Oneida Baptist Institute at Roundstone field.

Cleston Saylor, former Rockcastle County principal, coach and avid fan was honored by throwing out the first pitch to kick off the Rockets home opener.

The Rockets, behind seniors Mikhael Shaffer and Aaron Cox's no-hit pitching and timely baserunning, blanked O.B.I. 6-0 to improve to 2-0 on the season and 1-0 in district play.

Shaffer put on a fine performance on the mound by cruising through four innings, holding the Mountaineers hitless and fanning six before getting away with a stiff arm.

Cox took over in the fifth and continued to hold O.B.I. hitless while racking up five K's as he nailed the coffin shut on the Mountaineers.

The Rockets drew first blood in the bottom of the first as senior Mickey McClure drew a walk and reached third on some smart baserunning as sophomore Scotty Cotton laid down an excellent bunt along the first base line to help move McClure into scoring position.

Shaffer then hit a hot grounder that the O.B.I. third baseman was unable to handle and McClure scored easily.

The second inning saw the Rockets put the hit and run into play as senior John Martin was stretching second and took the O.B.I. shortstop out of the play as senior batter Greg Bowman drove the ball through the hole and into left field.

Senior J.D. Bussell then hit a scoring fly to left field to score Martin from third, making the Rocket score 2-0.

Bowman later scored from third on a Cotton bunt to push the score to 4-0, but Cotton was thrown out at second by trying to advance an extra base.

The Rockets were held scoreless until the fifth inning when Cotton hit a lead off basehit and Shaffer hit a tough two run blast over the 340 mark to give the Rockets a commanding 6-0 victory.

Head Coach Ryan Riddle was glad to get the victory but hopes that the offense can get going and produce more runs from this talented lineup.

"The pitches we saw in Florida were coming at us around 85 mph, O.B.I.'s pitchers threw in the mid-sixties and it threw our timing off," stated Riddle.

Although the Rockets just managed seven hits, not one Rocket batter struck out, something that hasn't happened to Coach Riddle in a long time.

Coach Riddle believes that when facing "regular" pitching, the Rocket offense will be just as strong as their rock solid pitching.

"Our bats will come around as the season gets into full swing," Riddle added.

The Rockets face another district rival, Jackson County, this Friday in McKee.

Dear Editor,
To the citizens of Rockcastle I would like to take the time to thank Steve Singleton and the Bank of Mt. Vernon for the quick action they took to loan the Livingston Fire Department the money to buy a tanker truck. On March the seventh, 1994, Sam Stallsworth, Jeff Carpenter and myself went to Cincinnati, Ohio, to look at the truck.
I called Steve at the bank from Cincinnati and told him about the truck. He immediately ok'd the loan.

Thanks from the Livingston Fire Department and all its members.

Receives Award

The Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms is pleased to announce that Dillard Bowman of Mt. Vernon has been selected to receive a Citizen of the Year Award.

Dillard Bowman has been selected to receive this Citizen of the Year Award because of a dedication to the efforts to preserve the right of the people to keep and bear arms as guaranteed by the second amendment to the United States Constitution according to Committee officials.

"If it weren't for people like Dillard Bowman, our Constitutional rights would have been eroded years ago," stated Alan Gottlieb, chairman of the Citizens Committee.
Criteria for selection of the Citizen of the Year Award is based upon the activities of individual members. Such as being active in local, state and national gun rights issues, by writing editors of newspapers, contacting elected officials or appearing for public testimony. It is not necessary that individuals meet all the criteria.

The Citizens Committee for the Right to Keep and Bear Arms is a national organization with nearly 500,000 members as well as more than 130 members of Congress serving on their National Advisory Council.

Charges likely sink bid for governor

By: Jamie Locke, Herald Leader political writer

John Rogers' ambition to be a U.S. congressman in 1980 cost him more than an election.

The $100,000 he borrowed for his unsuccessful campaign helped drive him into bankruptcy in 1991.

Just as that political decision had financial consequences, Rogers' indigent last week likely is to have political consequences for him and perhaps others in the GOP.

Rogers -- the highest ranking Republican in the Senate -- has been considering a run for governor next year. That campaign is far less likely in light of the four charges stemming from his support of a 1984 banking law.

Rogers is the highest-profile Republican implicated in the ongoing federal investigation of state government. If the charges stick, it might ban Republicans' use of the corruption issue against Democrats.

Yesterday, Rogers' Senate Republican colleagues were withholding judgment on the man who has been their elected leader for seven years.

"Senator Rogers should be accorded the same presumption as any other citizen -- innocent until proven otherwise," said Sen. Walter Baker, R-Osgow.

Sen. David Williams, a rival of Rogers, said: "I feel for John and his family. It's a very unfortunate turn of events. I'm disappointed it happened."

He declined to comment on whether Rogers' leadership position is at risk. Rogers' indictment comes at a time when Republicans have gained 14 of the 38 Senate seats, the most since 1969.

Williams predicted Rogers' staunchly republican 15th District, made up of Pulaski, Whitley and McCreary counties, is safe for the GOP no matter what.

Rogers, 53, of Somerset, was elected to the state Senate in 1976.

Four years later, he was one of 11 Republicans who tried to replace retiring U.S. Rep. Tim Lee Carter in the 5th District.

Rogers poured $200,000 into his campaign, more than any other candidate. But Hal Rogers won, spending $60,000 in the primary. He still holds the seat.

Republicans in the Kentucky Senate elected Rogers their floor leader in 1987.

In 1991, Rogers filed for bankruptcy, estimating his debts at $980,000 and his assets between $500,000 and $1 million. Four banks in Somerset, Mt. Vernon and Manchester had taken legal actions to collect money he owed.

In addition to the campaign debt, he said a loss on a Lake Cumberland marina contributed to his financial problems.

Bird-Friendly Landscapes

A bird-friendly landscape is one that provides habitat for nesting, eating and social activity. Trees provide natural settings for nests as well as perches for social interaction. Berry bushes and other flowering plants offer additional food and nectar. Before adding new trees, bushes or plants to the yard, ask a local garden center representative to recommend the appropriate foliage that will attract local birds. Also tell the representative about the existing plants in the yard to make sure that none are toxic to animals. Two plants to avoid are poinsettia and mistletoe, both of which are poisonous to birds.

Now that your yard is bird-friendly, find an animal book or encyclopedia to help you identify the different birds, flying and feasting in your yard. Then, sit back and enjoy the sights and sounds of your newfound feathered friends.

Just let the record show that Dennis Harris is forty, you know. He thinks he's still real sporty. But we all know that's not true, at forty. Dennis thinks he can still play basketball. State Nature Preserves Commission signs option to purchase Blanton Forest Tract

Representatives of the Kentucky State Nature Preserves Commission yesterday signed an option to purchase 1,078 acres of Blanton Forest, located in Harlan County and one of the largest old-growth forests in the eastern United States.

The 2,350-acre Blanton Forest was recognized in March 1992 as the most significant natural forest in the state for its importance to Kentucky's natural heritage. Negotiations began at that time with the landowners for purchase of the property as a state nature preserve.

Anna and Harry Neal and Serena Knuckles, owners of the tract under option, agreed to sell their part of the forest. A second tract of Blanton Forest remains in private ownership. The Commission paid the landowners 1 percent of the purchase price when the option was signed yesterday. The remainder will be paid by July 1, 1993, according to the option.

Some money has been budgeted to help fund the purchase of the property. However, for every dollar spent by the state, $1 must be received from private donations to complete the purchase. Hugh Archer, Nature Preserves Commission chairman, will serve as chairman of a fundraising committee soon to be named.

"This is an important moment for protecting Kentucky's natural heritage," said Bob McCance, director of the Nature Preserves Commission. "Blanton Forest is the most significant unprotected natural area in the Commonwealth. As a nature preserve, it will become an outdoor classroom that soon will be available to Kentuckians and visitors from all across the world."

Blanton Forest was identified as a significant natural area in 1992 by Marc Evans, an inventory ecologist with the Kentucky State Nature Preserves Commission. The Commission is an independent agency attached to the Natural Resources and Environmental Protection Cabinet. It is charged with identifying and evaluating rare and sensitive native plants, animals and other natural features of Kentucky and placing the most significant heritage lands in nature preserves for public enjoyment and use. Currently, the Kentucky State Nature Preserves Commission manages 30 nature preserves statewide.

KERA is better, not perfect

Dear Editor:

I have listened, watched, read and talked with advocates on both sides of the educational fence for almost two years now. There are some who blindly support the Kentucky Education Reform Act, almost as if it was handed to us on tablets by Moses himself. Then there are some who think KERA is the work of the devil, a socialistic experiment whose creation is a conspiracy of the left wing Marxists, big business, and otherwise reasonable politicians. Of course, they're both wrong.

Right or wrong, the Kentucky Supreme Court forced the Kentucky legislature to attempt to reverse our state's history of ineffective education. In 1989, those 138 men and women had a difficult job to do, and less than a year to do it. As the 1994 session winds down we should reflect on what our legislators tried to do in 1990 and what they are still committed to today.

First, the funding in many of the state's school districts was abhorrent. From the top to the bottom, we were spending far below the national average per pupil. It was clear that in many cases, you get what you pay for, and we were getting exactly that. Many districts didn't have money to pay for the most essential of needs - one school I visited even had booklets placed throughout the school to catch the water when it rained. As a consequence, funding has increased by 38% since 1989. No district receives less money than they did pre-KERA.

Second, the legislature wanted to get rid of the corruption that existed in many of our state's school districts. In most communities the school district is the largest employer, making the fight for control of the district's money and jobs very tempting. While there are multiple examples of success stories here, the important thing to note is that the Commissioner now has the authority to do something about it - power that didn't exist before.

Third, it was obvious that children were not coming to school ready to learn. Poverty has taken a heavy toll on Kentucky children. Children worried about being hungry, abused or neglected are simply not going to have the desire to learn. They have more pressing needs. As a result, the legislature created Family Resource and Youth Service Centers, which place a coordinator in needy schools to help channel needs for social services to the appropriate agency. Without question, this has been the most successful strand of KERA to date. Also, KERA created preschool programs for those children in need of it most - at-risk four year olds and children with disabilities.

Fourth, too many children were falling behind, and didn't have ample opportunity to catch up. The end result was inevitably a dropout, a drain on society through unemployment, welfare and/or prison. We needed to have a system where children who needed it could have extra class time before or after school to keep them on track for graduation. Extended School Services was created to fill this need. Research recently released also otherwise treated as such. Fair enough. The legislature looked at the compensation programs across the country, and determined that our teachers' salaries ranked 42 out of the 50 states.

Super Mom at SCC

Phyllis Miller says that working, full time, attending college part time and caring for her family is "hectic." Add to that the fact that two daughters also attend classes part time with her at the Laurel County Center of Somerset Community College, and she has an inkling of what it's like to be "supermom."

Miller has been attending classes at the Laurel Center since the summer 1993 semester, but daughters Kristie and Dyrenda Collins didn't start attending classes until this spring. It was mom's influence that got the girls into college.

"She got us motivated," Dyrenda explains. She adds that she likes the Laurel Center because "it's not too crowded, and it's convenient."

Miller likes the teachers and the environment of the Center. "They've got a lot of good teachers here. And the staff is great," she says.

Miller, who works as an instructional aid at Hazel Green School, wants to go into elementary education. "I don't want to be just the right-hand man," she says. "I want to be the real thing!"

Dyrenda agrees with her mother's reason for attending college. "I want a real job. I want to make good money. I want a career," she says. She plans to go into nursing, and wants eventually to become an RN. Kristie is interested in psychology. She has a bet with a friend that she will finish her education and become a psychiatrist. She has no doubts about achieving her goal. "I love college," she smiles.

But Kristie doesn't want to attend classes this summer. "No school in the summer," she asserts. Both she and Dyrenda plan to work during the summer and save money for the fall semester.

Mom isn't sure about summer classes, either, especially since she has been attending classes non-stop since last summer. "I'm thinking about taking another class this summer, but I'm not sure. I may lay out awhile," she says.

The fall semester will see all three back in classes, although probably not as full time students. "I don't want to go full time and kill my social life," says Kristie.

Anyone interested in attending classes or who wants more information about SCC's Laurel County Center can phone (606) 877-1421, or visit the Center at 380 Faith Assembly Road in London.

Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill present music weekend

Music and dance, the trademark of America's most successful communal society, are the focus of a Kentucky Shaker Music Weekend on April 23-24 at the Shaker Village of Pleasant Hill.

Special performances throughout the two-day event in the second-floor meeting room at Centre Family Dwelling will interpret the emotion and mystique of Shaker music and dance.

Among the Shakers, music was considered a divine gift. All members were encouraged to learn to read and write musical notation; consequently every Shaker was a songwriter. However, it was the trembling, whirling and marching dance of their religious services that earned the sect its distinct place in the history of American religious folk art.

The South Union Quartet will present four-part arrangements of Shaker hymns and anthems on Saturday, April 23. They will also perform simple dance steps based on research into old Shaker traditions. Performances are scheduled for 11 a.m., 1, 3 and 4:30 p.m.

Governor Jones signs legislation into law

Governor Breton C. Jones has signed legislation into law transferring the responsibility of administration of the Kentucky Unclaimed Properties function from the Revenue Cabinet to the State Treasurer's Office.

"We in the Treasury have planned several innovations to increase the revenue return to the state," said Treasurer Frances Jones Mills. "Unclaimed properties will be given priority status."

One major innovation to be implemented by the Kentucky Treasury will be an audit system to recover more unclaimed properties. Auditors-investigators will work the field with various holders of unclaimed properties looking for unreported items.

Treasurer Mills plans a major effort to inform the public of unclaimed properties currently on hand. "It is very important that we take every possible step to find the owners," said Mills.

Participants sought for SBC writer's night

The Minerva McDaniel Library of Sue Bennett College will host a writers' night, Thursday, April 21, 1994 from 7 - 9 p.m. in the library.

This event, the second in the McDaniel Library Arts and Lecture Series, is planned as an opportunity for local authors and artists to present their work in an informal setting.

Individuals interested in participating should send a copy of their poem, short story, or essay or a brief description of their artwork to Lee Nimocks or Shelley Bargett at Sue Bennett College, 151 College Street, London, KY 40741 by April 7.

We try to put our patients at ease . . .

Radiology has a unique function in the hospital. At Rockcastle Hospital, technology is the key to helping diagnose a disease or injury. But, it takes specially trained personnel to utilize this technology.

In the eight years I've been here, Radiology has changed dramatically. It's a much larger department now and we've added new diagnostic services, including mammography and our own CAT scanner.

When patients come in, they're often scared, so we try to explain the procedure and answer their questions. We're like family here, we want our patients to be comfortable.

I think taking time to talk to each patient and being polite is important. "We really care about people at Rockcastle Hospital."

"KERA"

Sixth, the public was demanding more accountability of our education system. With the large tax increase needed to fund the changes the public (70% of whom don't have children in the public schools) wanted assurances that the money was being spent wisely. Additionally, business people were demanding that high school graduates have more skills than just the ability to memorize facts.

They needed to be able think. Using these two guidelines as a beacon, the legislators applied strict and true business principles to education: if you don't succeed in meeting your targeted performance, you have to improve, if you don't improve after getting training, you could lose your job. It's pretty simple. And hard for a business person to understand why some teachers are so resistant to a standard that the rest of society lives with.

There are more issues that I could address, but I'll stop here. The point is that the legislature of 1990 looked at the problems facing Kentucky's education system and did something about them. I applaud them for the solutions they came up with. They addressed nearly all the ills of our state's education system. Only a dreamer would think that we could become a national leader in education if we didn't start with these basic principles.

Was the 1990 legislature divinely inspired? No. Will we continue to identify areas where we need to make adjustments as circumstances change? I hope so. But we need to do so in an honest, factual forum, without the inflammatory, misleading, and - frankly - hateful rhetoric I've heard in the past few months.

My high school history teacher taught us that we needed to study history because he who is ignorant of history is doomed to repeat it. Let's not repeat it here. Our children deserve better.

Sincerely,
Craig Holmes

"Mayor Cromer"
(Cont. from front)

... it by the first Monday in May, of the year the elections were held," Moss said. "If the council wants to raise my salary again they cannot do it until 1999, which is next election for Mayor in Lancaster, of course they pay increase will not go into effect until 1999," Moss said.

The council can vote in cost of living increases during a Mayor's term, according to a schedule provided by the attorney general, but in fifth class city situations, it would be only pennies per month," Moss said.

Cromer said that he had talked to the department of local government before the final vote on a salary increase was taken and it was their impression that the city could vote to raise their salaries as long as they did not exceed limits placed on 5th class cities. Cromer said that it was his understanding that a Mayor of a fifth class city could make in excess of $12,000.

"It has been voted on by the council and as far as I am concerned it is a dead issue," Cromer said.

"The money is not the issue. I do not need the money and if there was anything illegal about what we did I would not touch it with a ten foot pole," the Mayor said. "The department of local government has told me other cities have used the same 1990 attorney general's opinion that they are referring to, to raise their salaries," the Mayor said.

If the city of Mt. Vernon does opt to raise the Mayor's salary in 1998, that salary would not take effect until January of 1999.

Wildflower walks in Daniel Boone National Forest

April is the peak season for wildflowers on the Daniel Boone National Forest. As a way of celebrating the season, the London Ranger District is scheduling public wildflower walks on April 16 and 30 at the Rockcastle Recreation area (London Dock).

Each trip will leave the dock parking lot at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. and will last about 1 1/2 hours.

The walks will be led by Steve Kickett of the U.S. Forest Service and Lynn White, biology instructor at North Laurel High School. According to Kickett, the walks will focus on wildflower identification, folklore, and natural history.

At least one trip each day will be an easy walk along roadsides in the campground. The other walks will follow the Dutch Branch Trail.

Participation is by reservation only. Reservations can be made by contacting the London Ranger District office at 864-4163.

County to buy, demolish homes on Town Hill

The Kentucky Housing Corporation will be sending money this week to Daniel Boone Development in Manchester to finalize the deal with Sylvester Kirby for purchasing four homes on Town Hill.

When done, the four families will be asked to relocate temporarily.

After they have moved, the county will help with demolition and removal of debris and grading of the land.

Following bids for construction of four rental houses, the current occupants of the old houses will have the first option to rent.

Ponds needed for fire hydrants

The Mt. Vernon, Brodhead and Livingston Fire Departments, with the local Soil Conservation Service are looking for farms that have ponds next to the roads that go by their farms so firefighters could put a dry fire hydrant in the pond.

The fire department can then use the hydrants to fight fire in that part of the county.

It will not cost the farmer anything just the use of the pond.

If you have a pond please call Soil Conservation Service at 256-2541.

Mr. Bill Stewart, 94, of Wildie, was honored by the Mt. Vernon Masonic Lodge #640 F & AM, during a special ceremony at the lodge Saturday night. Mr. Stewart was honored for 70 years in the Masonic Lodge. He is shown above receiving his pin from his granddaughter, Mrs. Ann Abney. Several other members of Mr. Stewart's family were also on hand to honor Mr. Stewart. Above from left are: Master Mason Rick Mills, who was Master of the Lodge, Protem; Mrs. Abney, Mr. Stewart and L.C. Masons honor Bill Stewart

Bill Stewart was a young boy when he remembers hearing his father talk of the Masons. His father, a Mason often sent popcorn and walnuts to the Masonic Children's Home. It was well known around the area the home was one of the best places to send orphaned children.

At the age of 24 Bill Stewart became a Master Mason. It was March 1924 when he and Earl Phillips rode horse back to the meeting in Mt. Vernon. The lodge was housed in the same building that houses the lodge at the present time, only then it was known as the Bill Fish building. Tom O'Mara was the Master. John Noe, Bill Fish, Jones Hiatt and Mr. Stewart's father-in-law, Jack Parsons, were also present.

The Masons were part of the Stewart family. Bill's father had been a Mason and the night Bill received his 25 year pin, his son Wayne became a Master Mason. Mr. Stewart is proud to be a Mason and counts it an honor to receive his 70 year pin.

FmHA making guaranteed loans available in Rockcastle

Spring is a great time of the year to think about purchasing that dream home and USDA/Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) may have the answer to your financing problems. Under the Guaranteed Rural Housing Loan Program, more families and individuals are eligible to qualify for mortgages even without a downpayment. Presently, Kentucky has $13 million which could assist 190 moderate income families.

Loans are made through participating lenders with a guarantee from the Federal Government. Banking institutions are actively participating with 51 out of 55 FmHA county offices to accept and process applications. Mortgages are 30-year fixed rate at market interest rates and may be for up to 100 percent of market value.

Since October, eligible applicants across the State have utilized $4,826,695 under this program. Most of these families felt the dream of owning a home was impossible. Guaranteed loans can be made on either new or existing homes. There are no restrictions on the size or the design of the dwelling financed.

To see if you qualify for a Guaranteed Housing Loan, please contact the Farmers Home Administration office at McKeen, telephone 287-7126. Office hours are 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. FmHA is an Equal Opportunity Lender.

FmHA also has an office in Mt. Vernon at the Agricultural Center on Richmond Street. They are open the first and third Wednesdays of each month.

LEAP accepting applications for home repairs

The Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress has begun collecting applications for its 1994 Home Repair Program. In this program, out-of-state volunteers make repairs on homes in Rockcastle County, under the LEAP organization. Their usual tasks include: fixing roofs, building porches, painting and underpinning trailers, etc. Our responsibility is to line up the jobs according to what they can afford and what skills the workcamp groups have; they will provide the materials and the labor.

LEAP is a community organization, which means we do not want to be just a "handout" organization. Therefore, we encourage Home Repair participants to work alongside the volunteer groups if they are physically able. That kind of direct interaction will provide a more valuable learning experience for both the volunteer groups and the local participants, many long-lasting friendships have begun through this program!

In order to participate in this program, please fill out an application at the LEAP office. You must be a LEAP member in order to apply ($5 per person, $7.50 per couple), and you can become a member the same time you fill out an application. A Home Repair Committee will look over each application to determine if the job is suitable for the volunteer groups. There is a possibility that LEAP will be hosting a volunteer group as early as June, but if not, applications will be held until late July.

Please contact the LEAP office if you are interested in the program or have any further questions. Our office is located on Hwy. 25 just 1 1/2 north of Livingston at Callaway, and our phone number is 453-9800.

Local Arts Council announces first '94-'95 production

The Rockcastle Council for the Arts recently announced its 1994-'95 regular season this week with an emphasis placed on Family Issues and 1994 has been proclaimed "Year of the Family" by the United Nations General Assembly.

The Arts Council will be offering a world full of mystery, dreams, love and humor, but also a world where the need for control sometimes results in the loss of freedom, abuse of power and abandonment of responsibility.

The Arts Council has carefully selected programming which will encourage families to participate together as a unit while allowing parents to see the world through the eyes of their children.

To kick off the '94-'95 season, the Arts Council will present "The Dancing Donkey" ... a story of two sound-dreling will to mend their evil ways for love. Production dates for "The Dancing Donkey" are May 13-14, 7:30 p.m. at Roundstone Elementary School. The Summer Musical "BECCA", is a powerful exploration of the inner journey and haunting vision of a child in a world.

Production of "BECCA" is late July. The Dinner Theatre is set for mid-November.

In addition to the Arts Council regular season, a fine arts series will be inaugurated to provide support programming in the new Rockcastle County High School auditorium during the next school year.

According to Bige W. Towery, Jr., Superintendent of Rockcastle County schools, "The Rockcastle County School System recognizes the importance of the Arts and continues to integrate the basic/fine arts into the total curriculum. Our school system appreciates the efforts of the Rockcastle Council for the Arts and is pleased that we are partners in supporting and promoting the importance of Arts Education. The citizens of the Rockcastle community can look forward to full utilization of the new auditorium as a facility where entertainment and information can be presented to the public. We are truly building a Learning Community.

Dear Editor,
When we were children and starting to walk. We did what children do; pull everything possible we could reach on the floor. Touch and hold everything and sometimes even put those things in our mouth. Then "Whoops here comes that adult," who would spank you on the hands and say "baby, No-No!!!" Because "baby" was regulated under a possession law. That dictates what baby can and can not have in his or her hands. Now as adults, we have to ask ourselves as we look at gun laws of today and gun laws yet to come. Do we want government to regulate the people or regulate commerce, as empowered in Article I, Section VIII, Clause II of the Constitution? Regulating people with Baby No-No laws; i.e. What you can and can not have in your hands is not "freedom." Buying the freedom with the goal to sell guns

Blue ribbons for child abuse prevention

Blue ribbons will remind everyone to prevent child abuse throughout April - Child Abuse Prevention Month. Blue ribbons will be worn, flown from car antennas and recognized throughout April to help raise public awareness about the tragedy of child abuse, and the Department for Social Services encourages everyone to participate in Blue Ribbon day on Thursday, April 14. "Expect us to tell us that the only sure way to stop child abuse is to prevent it from starting, and each of us plays a role in that prevention," said Family Services Office Supervisor, Mike Bryant.

The Blue Ribbon Day concept began in Virginia as the result of a child's death by abuse and a courageous grandmother's commitment to preventing this tragedy for other children and their families. To participate in the campaign, the Department for Social Services encourages you to:

- wear a blue ribbon on April 14;
- place a ribbon in a visible spot on your desk, your home or office door, or your car;

- distribute ribbons at work, in your civic, church or other group;
- attend the Health Fair to be held at the Rockcastle County High School on April 20, from 10 a.m. till 5 p.m. Each year more children are at risk of being abused: 1993 was no exception, when more than 24,155 cases of child abuse were reported. This was 1,000 more than in 1992. An average of 66 children a day were confirmed as being physically or sexually abused or neglected in Kentucky. Twenty of those children died as a result of abuse.

The Department for Social Services investigates allegations of child physical or sexual abuse or neglect. The Department for Social Services offers Parenting Classes, Mother's Who Can group, Family Counseling as well as Individual Counseling in an effort to stop child abuse in Rockcastle County. The Department for Social Services suggest you become involved in one of the following ways:

- take time for a parent or child who could use a friend;
- encourage your colleagues and friends to be a "voice for children";
- write letters of thanks to media personalities, teachers, legislators, social workers, or most important, parents of others who have made a significant, positive contribution to the well-being of children in your community; Call the Department for Social Services at (606) 256-2138 about other ways to get involved in child abuse prevention.

How the Blue Ribbon campaign began

The following letter (courtesy of the Virginia Coalition for Child Abuse Prevention) is from the founder of Blue Ribbon day.

Dear Advocate for the Child:
NO! It isn't true! It simply cannot be true! They are telling me that my grandson is dead...they are wrong! There has been some mistake.

...But his fine...but deep in my heart, I knew it was true for I have not seen him in...weeks. It's been so long since I sat by his side in the hospital. Of course I knew something was wrong as I sat there. I saw fear on his face, the bruises on his body, and the healing cigarette burns on his hands. His doctor did not believe my daughter's story...he fell in slippery water in the bathtub...I felt sick...I didn't understand...Are my granddaughters all right? where are they?

I only had one child. She was a beautiful little girl. She was the light of our eyes. We knew she had entered into an stormy marriage, for we brought her home several times in the five years the marriage lasted. We suspected heavy use of drugs...BUT...in those five years three beautiful, healthy children had been born. I loved them dearly, and they loved me. The children were 16 months, 3 years and 4 old.

After the ordeal at the hospital my grandson was placed into foster care for a few weeks. He cried when they came to take him back to his home. He told his foster mother, "my mama don't love me" and he begged to stay. I ached for his dilemma. I was not physically able to care for him. The courts seemed to believe that home was the best place for him when they came to take him back to his home. I begged them and I told...no, I begged them not to return him to his mother. But, I was overruled. My instinct as a grandmother did not count.

I never saw Bubba again. My 16 month old grand daughter was hospitalized after being beaten severely...her leg broken in four places, and her hand burned from the tip of her little fingers to her wrist. It was only then that the "search was on" for Bubba. We learned that he had been killed, wrapped in a sheet, stuffed in a tool chest, and dumped into the Dismal Swamp three months earlier.

My grandchildren had suffered and battled so much throughout their young lives that it sickened me. My life was turned into physical and mental chaos. My efforts to understand became a plea to stop abusing children. I tied a blue ribbon on my van antenna to make people wonder. It caught on locally with restaurants, businesses, police and TV and radio stations supporting me in my efforts to make it a real awareness campaign.

Why blue? I intend never to forget the battered, bruised bodies of my grandchildren. Blue serves as a constant reminder to me to fight for protection for our children. Every day I pray that our children will be allowed to hear the sounds of a different drummer.

Join me...we must protect our most precious gift of all...our children. Please, wear a blue ribbon...put one on your car...give one to your friends...tell them what it means...you may save a child's life!

If you suspect anything is happening to your children...your grandchildren...the child next door...please act! If you get no response try again! You may not hear their screams...you may not see their bruises...so check for the pain and the screams in their eyes...Watch...for the screams in their eyes.

"Not watching this program can be hazardous to your health," says host Susan Anton. "This program can change the way you manage your health and your life."

"Profiles in Survival" teaches through the examples of those who have survived cancer. Viewers see how the disease can be beaten through early detection and treatment.

The program also offers updates on the latest news in cancer control and research, as well as a cancer quiz for viewers to test their knowledge about cancer. This American Cancer Society produced and syndicated program presents all of its information in a positive and entertaining style.

Corn producers get additional deficiency payments, says ASCS

The Rockcastle County ASCS Office issued additional deficiency payments to corn producers who used the 092 provision of the 1993 feed grain program, according to ASCS official, Harold Ballinger.

The 092 program provision gave farmers the option of under planting their program crop acreage while still earning program payments. These producers were guaranteed to receive the minimum payment rate of 72 cents per bushel for corn and 70 cents per bushel for grain sorghum, which were the estimated final deficiency payment rates for these 1993 crops, Ballinger said.

Farmers who enrolled in the regular acreage reduction program and requested advance deficiency payments received 36 cents per bushel for corn and 35 cents per bushel for sorghum. Since these rates exceeded the 5 month rate for final regular deficiency payments, these producers are not due any additional payments," Ballinger explained.

Flooding in the Midwest and drought in the Southeast reduced the corn crop and resulted in higher market prices. Therefore, the final deficiency payment rates are lower than earlier projections.

Ballinger said producers who did not participate in the 092 provisions are required to repay the difference between the amount of the advance deficiency payment received and the amount of the final deficiency payable, which is 8 cents per bushel for corn and 10 cent per bushel for grain sorghum. "This repayment is not due until October 1, 1994, and optional installment payments are available to help ease the burden of repayment for those producers with financial hardships," the ASCS official said.

Refunds may be made before the due date, in full or in part. Producers may also choose to have over-payments deducted from proceeds due them from any other program, including price support benefits.

Deficiency payments make up the difference between the established target price and the higher of either the national average basic loan rate for the crop, or the national weighted average market price received by farmers during the first five months of the marketing year.

Gypsy Moth Eradication

A colony of gypsy moths, an insect that in high numbers can strip the leaves on vast areas of forested sites, has been found in Carroll County.

Larvae of the gypsy moth can defoliate efficiently entire forested areas, causing decline and sometimes death to infested trees. Some five million acres of trees are defoliated each year in other areas of the country, according to Bobby Pass, chairman of the University of Kentucky Department of Entomology.

"The colony appears to be restricted to a 75-acre tract two and a half miles west of Carrollton, on Kings Ridge highway," he said.

Efforts to eradicate the moths from the area will begin in early May by aerially spraying a formulation that includes an insect-specific virus (Gypchek) that affects only gypsy moths, the nun moth and the browntail moth. Pass said. Neither the nun moth and the browntail moth is found in Kentucky.

"Gypchek treatment will have no impact on any species, including humans, other than the gypsy moth," Pass said.

The Carroll County discovery of the gypsy moth is the second infestation of gypsy moth in Kentucky found through routine monitoring. An earlier infestation in Jefferson County was eradicated about three years ago.

"The gypsy moth was introduced into the U.S. by accident in the mid-1800s by a naturalist living in Massachusetts. Since then, it has migrated its way across most of the Northeast and is working its way into the mid-west and south," Pass said.

The earlier Kentucky infestation apparently was derived from egg masses attached to a horse trailer brought in from an infested area. Scientists believe the current infestation was introduced in a similar manner.

The spray to be used on the infestation uses a naturally occurring nucleopolydihydrovirus as its active ingredient. The preparation is made from gypsy moth larvae that have been killed by the virus. The formulation is sprayed on the foliage of trees in the area and as the larvae consume foliage, they become infected with the virus and die within two weeks, Pass said.

Spraying will take place on two to three occasions during the first two weeks of May. Because the effectiveness of treatment is dependent on weather conditions and larval development, entomologists will make the determination on the exact time of spraying on relatively short notice, Pass said.

Entomologists will continue to monitor the area throughout the summer to determine treatment effectiveness on eliminating the pest.

Your Milk is Safe

Bovine growth hormone in milk is safe.

"Recently it became legal to produce milk with the aid of a biotechnology-produced bovine growth hormone, said Joe O'Leary, Extension dairy technology specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Many consumers are concerned over the use of this biotechnology, he said. However, research has shown the process is safe and has been approved by health regulators in the U.S. and many other countries.

"This hormone is bovine hormone and has no effect on humans since we are not closely related to the bovine species," he said. "In addition, all milk is pasteurized and this heat treatment destroys the biological activity of the hormone."

Bovine growth hormone is a protein and therefore it is broken down in the digestive system and loses its biological effect, O'Leary said. It is not known what extent this technology will be used by producers, but consumers can rest assured that milk will continue to be a safe, wholesome food.

causes of sickness or death in farm animals. Forages containing high levels of hydrocyanic acid, such as arrow grass, Bermuda grass and Sudan grass are the usual source of cyanide poisoning. Nitrate fertilizers, as well as some cereal crops, turnip and sugar beet, are usual sources of nitrate poisoning.

While poisoning seldom becomes an epidemic, it usually can be so cheaply prevented by using common sense that it is a good thing about which to ask your veterinarian. "Unless to say, if your animal shows signs of poisoning, call a veterinarian immediately. Treatment is often effective, if started in time.

"Profiles in Survival" (Cont. from B3)

Topic Poisoning and your pet; be careful

If you couldn't feel it in the air and see it in the budding plants, you could still tell that spring has arrived because of the ever-popular "clean up, fix up" campaigns.

It seems a shame that such campaigns do not come complete with warnings for your animals, because accidental animal poisonings are frequently seen during this time of year.

Contributing factors include fertilization of new crops, painting and clean-up, human carelessness and occasionally dietary deficiencies.

While most poisonings are accidental, a few can be traced to dietary deficiencies and therefore abnormal appetites. Conditions which can contribute to a craving for abnormal foods include lack of salt, low calcium, low phosphorus, lack of roughage, starvation and boredom. A properly nourished animal is less likely to eat exotic or unusual items.

Lead remains one of the most common causes of animal poisoning, even with all the attempts to remove it from the environment. Animals normally acquire the lead by licking lead-based paint, which is still on many buildings and fences, or paint buckets, and from putty, old batteries, plumbing materials, linoleum and some fruit sprays.

Arsenic is a common poison among farm animals because of its use in agriculture. It is used in insecticides, anthelmintics, weed killers, sheep and cattle dips and wood preservatives.

Used as instructed there are no problems, but when normal concentrations are exceeded, death can come quickly.

Flourine poisoning usually is followed with contamination of foliage and forage with a fine ash from manufacturing plants which process metals at high temperatures such as aluminum and steel. Only in certain geographic areas of Kentucky would it be a possible problem.

Urea poisoning is becoming more common, as it appears more and more frequently in feed as a cheap substitute for more expensive protein sources. Usually when it is a problem, it is because it has been improperly mixed, added at too high a level or spilled.

Organophosphate pesticides are always a potential source of poisoning. While they are commonly used and needed for animal sprays, systemic and soil insecticides and as treatment for seed grains, improper mixing or application of accidental ingestion of treated seeds can cause poisoning.

While not common, cyanide and nitrate poisoning are occasional Hello to all my good friends and readers.

This is another dark, damp and rainy Monday morning, but this is just another day which the Lord has made so we should rejoice and be glad in it. As we see the world sinking deeper in sin, we Christian people should let our light shine brighter by living a good life and loving and praying for one another. The good Lord loves us and wants to bless us, but I believe the sin in our lives is preventing Him from doing this. But I'm thankful for the blessings we do receive.
