LADY BUG BEETLE: HEROINE OR HEADACHE?

By Tom Mills
County Extension Agent for Agriculture

Rarely does a new species of insect, and a beneficial one at that, cause as much commotion as has Harmoina acyridis in such a short period. This ladybird beetle is new to Kentucky. Our first records only date back to a few specimens captured in Hickman County in 1992. Introduced from Eastern Asia, this species is an important predator of aphids and scales on trees. There were numerous attempts between 1916 and 1985 to establish it as a biological control agent. It is not known exactly how it became established in the United States. The first specimens recovered in the U.S. were collected in Louisiana during 1988. Since then the beetle has increased its distribution to include Mississippi, Georgia, Florida, South Carolina, North Carolina, Virginia, Oregon, Washington and now Kentucky. Last spring, it was observed in apple trees in Fayette County.

This insect has spread rapidly throughout Kentucky. Numerous reports of large aggregations of ladybird beetles on homes and other buildings were first received in the fall of 1993. Usually, we would not be concerned about beneficial insects, but these congregate by the thousands on the sides of buildings, and if given the opportunity, move inside. Fortunately, they are not poisonous, do not bite or sting, are not carriers of disease, and do not eat wood or anything else in the home. But they can be a nuisance when they gather in very large numbers around windows and doors. They have a disagreeable odor and can produce a yellowish stain.

These oval, convex, 1/3-inch beetles are pale orange with 19 black spots on the wing covers. The spots are arranged as a row of five spots at the base of the wings, followed by two rows of six spots, and a fourth row of two spots. The margins of the pronotum are white. They resemble Mexican bean beetles and squash beetles in general appearance, but have a different arrangement of spots. A small number of these beetles can have no spots or only traces of 4 to 6 spots on the wing covers. In Asia, this beetle occurs in at least 100 different color forms including black forms with orange spots.

This lady beetle may be a significant predator of some aphid and scale pests on trees. Whether or not it will aid in managing aphid and scale problems in orchards is not known.

The ladybird beetles congregate on homes in wooded areas in search of overwintering sites. They usually select the west or southwest side of buildings for initial congregation sites. The beetles usually move into leaf litter, underneath boards or logs, or other protected areas after the first frosts as preferred overwintering sites. The problem occurs when they enter homes to overwinter.

As usual, prevention is the key to keeping this ladybird beetle from getting into homes and causing problems. Make certain that cracks along windows and doors are weatherstripped. Ventilation openings in attics should be screened or sealed as appropriate. We do not recommend using an insecticide to kill these beetles. These are beneficial insects that we will need to depend on in the future. If they get into the house or attic, sweep them out. They do not bite or sting and can be handled safely. They can be swept away from around doors or windows if they are a nuisance.

Guild of Artists and Craftsmen Spring Fair

The Kentucky Guild of Artists and Craftsmen Spring Fair is May 20-22 at Indian Fort Theater in Berea, just off I-75 at exits 76 and 77.

The Fair offers something for the whole family to enjoy. Besides the main feature of artists, there are children's educational projects, music, dance troupes, storytelling and good food. This year we are proud to have the Cincinnati Dulcimer Society entertain on Saturday and Sunday. There will also be a 45 member dance troupe, Zelta Stielins, from the former Soviet Republic of Latvia entertaining with traditional folk dances in their national costumes. Zelta Stielins has performed worldwide and this is a unique opportunity for the area.

Conservation partners recognized in the Soil and Water Week

"Partners in Stewardship was the theme of this year's soil and water stewardship week, celebrated April 24 - May 1, 1994 - a week set aside to recognize the vast numbers of people who ecosystems we all depend on and enjoy.

"Millions of people rely on America's soil and water resources and our partners in stewardship are many," explains Roy Brown, chairman of the Rockcastle County Soil and Water Conservation District. "From the farmers, ranchers and timber owners at the grass-roots level to the many USDA Agencies like the Soil Conservation Service and ASCS to Extension Service, Experiment Stations and universities, conservation partners are the reason why this nation continues to lead the world in agricultural products while maintaining the land and water in good condition. Also, even if you're not involved with natural resources, you rely on them every day and your support is important."

"Partners in Stewardship" also signifies the cooperative effort needed to address the complex conservation issue and projects that exist in this country and doesn't just relate to people involved in agriculture or timber production. "Partners in Stewardship" relates to all people - a tremendously diverse audience. "From the people who own land and live in rural areas to those people who live in our great cities, stewardship of our natural resources should be a priority for all of us because it is this land that feeds, clothes and shelters us, and it is this country's water that supports life. Mr. Brown added, "Soil and water stewardship sustains life-giving ecosystems such as wetlands, highly productive farmlands and vast acreages of forestland. Soil and water conservation practices protect the basic resources that produce food, fiber and wood products as well as recreational benefits for the people of this country."

Through 10,000 years of agriculture, 2,000 years of Christianity and 200 years of self-government, people have worked together to accomplish great things. Partnerships have been the foundation of many successful ventures and in this environmentally-sensitive era of history, partnerships are vital to the conservation of this nation's basic resources. "Partners in Stewardship" is indeed an appropriate theme for soil and water stewardship week this year," said Brown. "If we all work together with open minds and realistic and national thinking, I know we can protect our environment and natural resources while producing the products that the people of America and world demand. Please join me and my fellow supervisors: Tommy Mink, Jack Dally, Harold Ballinger, Joe Bullen, Lloyd Cain and Garlan Cummins as we celebrate soil and water stewardship week - April 24 to May 1."

Claxon, safety director for Kentucky Farm Bureau who serves as survey coordinator. In all, farm machinery was involved in all but four of the recorded farm fatalities. Two victims drowned, one was struck by lightning and one died from injuries inflicted by livestock.

A trend toward older victims was evident in the 1993 results. Twelve of the 29 victims were 65 years of age or older, Claxon said, and four were in their eighties. In the last two years, a total of 26 over-65 Kentuckians have perished in farm accidents.

Victims ranged in age from a 4-year-old boy who fell from a tractor and was run over, to an 85-year old man who was run over by a tractor while he opened a gate.

June was the most dangerous month in '93, when eight deaths were recorded. There were five deaths in May, three in February and December, two in April, July, August and September, and one in October and November. March was the safest month, when no fatal farm accidents occurred.

Four Kentucky counties registered two farm fatalities each during the year: Adair, Edmonson, Harrison and McLean.

Twenty-one counties reported one farm-related death. Allen, Breckinridge, Campbell, Casey, Clark, Clinton, Franklin, Graves, Green, Greenup, Jessamine, Lawrence, Logan, McCreary, Mercer, Metcalfe, Morgan, Pulaski, Scott, Todd and Trigg.

In the 11 years that Farm Bureau has conducted the farm fatality survey, a total of 460 Kentuckians have lost their lives in farm-related accidents. The survey is conducted by the organization's safety department to spotlight the hazards associated with farm work and to heighten farmers safety awareness.

Pulaski circuit jury recommends life sentence for killing his wife

Gilpatrick is guilty

Reprinted from the Sunday, May 1, 1994 Commonwealth Journal

Allen Gilpatrick said, "Lord help them, Lord help them" as his sobbing relatives embraced him following a Pulaski Circuit Court jury's verdict that found him guilty of murdering his wife.

The eight-woman, four-man jury deliberated about two hours and 35 minutes before finding Gilpatrick, 49, Mt. Vernon, guilty of beating his wife, Virginia, to death with a homemade, metal and wood club Feb. 7, 1993.

Members of Gilpatrick's family, including one of his two sons and a niece, burst into tears when Pulaski Circuit Judge Daniel J. Venters read the verdict. Gilpatrick, seated with his back to the spectators, showed no obvious emotion.

Just 45 minutes later, the jury recommended Gilpatrick's fate: life in prison. That means he will spend 12 years in prison before being eligible for parole.

Virginia Gilpatrick, Ginny as she was known, was 55 years old on that Sunday in Early February last year. A teacher and counselor, she had conducted a Sunday school class and had sung in church that morning.

Commonwealth's Attorney Ray Carmichael, who prosecuted the case, theorized that she was sitting at the counter between the kitchen and dining room, working on lessons plans, when she received the first of at least 16 blows to her head.

A Mt. Vernon police videotape of the crime scene showed the open textbook on the counter, with Ginny's eyeglasses in a chair nearby. Several lines of text on the open page of the book were underlined in ink, the pen lying in the book. Under the last line, the underlining ends raggedly, the ink zigzagging up the page in mid-sentence.

From there, Carmichael told the jurors Ginny probably ran to the dining room, where she received more blows to the head, based on expert testimony from Kentucky State police crime lab blood spatter interpreters. Blow after blow opened numerous tears in her scalp, as Ginny moved through the living room, perhaps trying to escape her assailant.

"She was literally beaten beyond recognition," Carmichael told the jurors in his closing arguments delivered Friday morning. "This was not simply a crime of violence... this was a crime of passion."

"I think you can conclude from the evidence... that Allen Gilpatrick is a liar," Carmichael said. "He lied to the police, he lied to Anna Lee Rigby, he lied to his wife, he lied to his wife's family, and he lied to you."

Key evidence in the case included a bloody fingerprint, which experts identified as Allen Gilpatrick's, on the bag in which the murder weapon was found; the weapon itself, which Gilpatrick admitted was his; and compelling analysis of blood spatters, found on walls, ceilings, furniture, the back door, soaked into carpeting and spattered on Allen Gilpatrick's clothes and shoes.

John Clontz, the Mt. Vernon attorney who defended Gilpatrick, told the jury the commonwealth presented "a circumstantial case with no motive."

"No one saw Allen Gilpatrick do anything... and they're still going to ask you to convict him of murder," Clontz said.

Members of the victim's family who attended the week-long trial said they agreed with verdict. However, their satisfaction was tempered with grief.

"No murder trial verdict is a victory," Gilpatrick's sister said.

Allen Gilpatrick was taken into custody immediately following the penalty recommendation from the jury. He was jailed in the Pulaski County Detention Center. Venters set final sentencing for May 26.

Clontz said no decision had been made whether to appeal the verdict.

Co-worker told of love affair

A stir went through the spectators in the Pulaski County Circuit Courtroom when Anna Lee Rigby Lingenfelter was called to testify in her former lover's murder trial.

Lingenfelter told the jury she and Allen Howard Gilpatrick were co-workers at the state Department of Social Services in Mt. Vernon, where she was a secretary and he was a social worker.

It was in October 1991 on a work-related retreat in Jamestown when their relationship began to become more than professional, she testified.

In March 1992, she and Gilpatrick slept together and had sex when they stayed in a Bowling Green motel for a weekend, with her two-year-old daughter.

Lingenfelter said she finally broke off the affair in March 1993, after Gilpatrick had become a suspect in his wife's Feb. 7, 1993, death. Gilpatrick was charged with murder the following month, and the trial was moved to Pulaski County at defense attorney John Clontz's request.

"Testimony began Monday in the trial and I expected to continue through tomorrow."

While on the witness stand, Lingenfelter described how Gilpatrick gave her the $2,500 for the mobile home she lived in, helped buy diapers for her child, and made a few car payments for her.

Gilpatrick said his was a marriage of convenience, she testified, and that he and his wife, Ginny, did not sleep together. In fact, his wife "hated Rockcastle County and everything and everyone in it," she said he told her. Lingenfelter believed Gilpatrick when he told her he and Ginny had gotten a divorce on a trip out west.

As soon as arrangements could be made for her ailing father, Ginny intended to leave Mt. Vernon, Lingenfelter testified.

"What were your intentions when Virginia Gilpatrick left?" Commonwealth's Attorney Ray Carmichael asked.

"We were going to get married," Lingenfelter answered.

Lingenfelter read the lavender Valentine's Day card she received from Gilpatrick a week to the day after his wife was killed, which was signed, "have a wonderful Valentine's Day, your love, Allen," she testified.

In another card sent to mark the anniversary of the date he first told Lingenfelter he loved her, Gilpatrick wrote of the "beginning of a life I never dared dream of before you," Lingenfelter testified.

She ended the relationship sometime in March 1993, Lingenfelter said, and returned a necklace, birthday card and notes Gilpatrick gave her the following May.

Under cross examination by defense attorney John Clontz, Lingenfelter said she knew Gilpatrick as a man who helped people. She said they had a verbal agreement that the money he gave her as a downpayment on the mobile home was to be a loan, although he never asked her to begin repaying the money.

Also testifying Wednesday was Kenneth Paur, Ginny Gilpatrick's son by a previous marriage. Paur, an attorney, was appointed executor of his mother's estate by Pulaski Circuit Judge William Cain.

Paur testified that his mother's estate was worth close to $300,000, and that Allen Gilpatrick stood to inherit about $130,000.

However, during closing arguments Clontz introduced evidence that Allen Gilpatrick's own estate was worth $365,000 and that, "he does not need Ginny's money."

Ear's Note: A Very special thanks to Sonny Olfelt from the Commonwealth Journal in Somerset for writing the majority of the stories concerning the Allen Gilpatrick murder trial. There is one additional story from Thursday's newspaper on Page A-10.

No injuries reported

Two local people were reported uninjured in a two-car accident about 3:30 Friday, according to police.

Bryan Carter, 18, was stopped at the intersection of U.S. 150 and U.S. 25 when his car was struck in the rear by Phillip Davis, 78, of Mt. Vernon State Trooper Gary Lane reported.

City to pay $42,000 on railroad parking area

The City of Mt. Vernon is the successful bidder for the city parking area at the CSX railroad, the Mt. Vernon City Council was told Monday night.

The bid was $42,550. An independent audit estimated the price at $50,000.

The city has made a $4,200 deposit on the property to CSX Railroad.

The parking area is currently leased to the city for $200 a year.

Mayor Gary R. Cromer said it was too early to determine what to do with the property.

However, it could be a good revenue source of some kind in the future, he said.

Motorists presently use the parking area as an easy route to West Main street.

Discussed was the condition of the Junior Chamber of Commerce car-pool parked in the area.

The mayor said the Jaycees were waiting to determine the ownership.

Allen Gilpatrick testified he vowed revenge on wife's killer

The Mt. Vernon man accused of murdering his wife testified yesterday he swore vengeance on his wife's killer while standing over her blood-drenched body.

Allen Howard Gilpatrick, 49, took the witness stand Thursday in his own defense as testimony was completed in the four-day murder trial. Gilpatrick was indicted in March 1993 by a Rockcastle County grand jury, charged with beating his wife, Virginia, to death Feb. 7, 1993.

"I ran back to Ginny... swore again I would take that club and bury it in (in whoever had) done that to her," Gilpatrick testified. "I went... out into the family room... I cursed God then."

Gilpatrick's version of what happened that day was different in two critical areas from the two videotaped versions he told police after the killing.

Mt. Vernon police interviewed Gilpatrick on camera shortly after his wife was pronounced dead at Rockcastle County Hospital, then again the following day.

In those two interviews, Gilpatrick admitted the homemade club police believe is the murder weapon was his, but insisted he had no knowledge of how it got into the house. He also said he had no idea how the club got into a paper grocery sack, which was found in the far corner of the family room on the opposite end of the house from where the killing occurred.

Kentucky State Police crime lab experts testified that a bloody fingerprint found later on the sack was the print of Gilpatrick's left middle finger.

Yesterday, Gilpatrick testified he had gone to his office near his home that afternoon, and returned home about 6:10 p.m. to find his wife lying in the dining room floor covered with blood.

I saw Ginny laying on the floor... she was covered in blood," Gilpatrick, who showed some emotion, said. He checked for a pulse and held her head in his hands, he said. Then he saw the club lying on the floor near the back door, he testified.

"I stood up... my hands were covered in blood... I remember standing there, staring at the club, shaking the blood off my hands, yelling that it couldn't be," he said. "... I took the club and I swore that I'd kill whoever did that."

At some point, he put the club in a paper sack that he'd found on the floor and put it in the family room, Gilpatrick said. He also attempted to give his wife CPR.

"I tried to open her mouth but her face was all spongy, it was just... mashed," he said. "I tried to give her CPR... I breathed, I pushed her chest, I breathed, I pushed her chest."

After trying to pick her up, he noticed a brown-handled knife near her left side, Gilpatrick testified. He ran through the house and into the kitchen, he said.

"I remember standing at the sink," Gilpatrick said, thinking, "I can't kill somebody... I can't kill somebody, that's for the courts to do."

He put the knife in the sink and called for help from the kitchen telephone, he said. Police testified earlier that no sign of blood was found in the sink and the white telephone, which was admitted as evidence by Commonwealth's Attorney Ray Carmichael, did not have any blood on it.

After putting the paper bag with the club in the family room, Gilpatrick said he went back to his wife and held her head. "I was between prying for healing and wanting to kill someone," he testified.

Clontz asked Gilpatrick why he did not tell police about finding and removing the club from the living room.

"Because I had vowed to Ginny I was going to take that club and bury it in whoever had done that to her and I had every intention of doing it," he said.

Clontz also asked his client to explain the blood spatters on his clothing. KSP experts testified earlier that blood found on his shirt, pants and shoes came from impact spatters, or tiny droplets of blood formed when wet blood is impacted.

Gilpatrick said the spatters must have fallen when he tried to shake

I've been taking a lot of flack lately because the National Association of Woolly Worm Winter Weather Watchers, (better known to many of you as NAWWWWW) finally mispredicted what we might expect in the way of temperature and precipitation for a winter season.

It makes no difference that NAWWWWW has consistently performed as a much higher level of accuracy over the last fifteen years than highly paid government experts with billions of dollars worth of radar and top secret instrumentation at their disposal. It makes no difference that even more highly paid television personalities, "meteorologists," they call themselves, whose forecasts are certified by the National Weather Association can't get it right from one hour to the next. NAWWWWW is being stuck with the blame for the population's general lack of preparation for what we all know now to have been the roughest winter in recent history.

Contrary to popular opinion, I am not a woolly worm. I'm an Angloid hominid with two legs. Woolly worms are generally much darker in complexion than yours truly and they have dozens of legs. I weigh 200 pounds and I'm over six feet tall. Your average woolly worm is half an inch tall, two inches long and weighs less than half an ounce. Woolly worms are hairy all over. I can't even grow a mustache.

In other words, if you look closely at a woolly worm and then take a gander at me it is not overly taxing to keep observers to discern the difference. I do, in fact, have fewer legs. So stop blaming the winter on me! Get me on television and get me the pay that those weather clowns get paid and I'll take the blame. But if you can't do that, then shut up!

I work without any compensation from NAWWWWW, as a reporter for this newspaper and several other Kentucky weeklies. And if you've never worked for a weekly newspaper, you should be advised that getting compensation from them is often like getting blood out of a turnip. There's not much of a living to be made in the newspaper business. Those of us who write for your entertainment and information needs do so mostly because we love to write.

It's the Public Relations types who make all the money, but I am not a PR guy for NAWWWWW!!! I attend NAWWWWW meetings and I report the facts. It's that simple. They make predictions and I put 'em in the paper.

So don't be blaming me that your apple trees got all busted up during the ice storms. Don't be sending me any more nasty notes about your heat bills and the fact that your kids aren't getting out of school till Labor Day. And for that matter, don't be blaming NAWWWWW either when a bunch of television hotshots couldn't tell you crap about what might be happening between midnight and daylight on a daily basis.

NAWWWWWW did predict a White Christmas well before Halloween and it happened. On Christmas Eve, the immaculately-clothed hotshots on television were still saying, "well... maybe" and generally hum-hawing around and collecting big salaries for their trouble. No body in NAWWWWW—not a single worm earned a nickel for his/her trouble. The next time somebody bad mouths a woolly worm in your presence, ask 'em how well Cindy Preszler and Brian Collins did by comparison and if you want to see some faces get red, go talk to Cindy and Brian. And yes indeed, you can tell 'em I sent you.

But enough of that. I am grievously concerned at this writing because the Executive Board of NAWWWWW has been holding secret meetings. I'm concerned because these meetings have been taking place late at night and covering them takes away from my beauty sleep. I go to my regular job at The Christian Appalachian Project yawn-

It seems I have been living in a "dream world" instead of a real one. My taking ill with pneumonia, being in the hospital for eight days, not knowing what I was doing because the doctor said I wasn't getting enough oxygen to my brain was part of what happened to me in April. I lost the month.

Then I came home after the small operation was done on my throat by a Dr. Allouch who has one of the finest black beards I ever saw. I wanted to run my hands through it but they would have said I was still out of my head and kept me there.

The doctor was the nicest, friendliest person who joked with the nurses.

When he found out I was going to write about my experience there he said, "Be sure and tell that one of the nurses tries to bite my finger off if she gets a chance during this treatment."

All of the staff were in a good mood because of his funny remarks.

He had me swallow a large tube, after they had numbed my throat canal, and he let me see the inside of my stomach on a t.v. screen nearby. I'm telling you that was something you could tell the neighbors about. The walls of the stomach were pushing in and out, moving constantly. He showed me scars on the walls where I had had some diverticulitis but got better.

I noticed a round black hole and asked what it was.

Dr. Allouch said, "That's the rest of your stomach. There's no light down there only what we took in."

Berea Hospital is lucky to have this doctor on their operating staff. He was so kind and nice.

All I came home to take a "back set" of my pneumonia and was threatened by John to taking me back to the hospital.

Even though the hospital is the best place to be when you are sick, I kind of like to be home.

I met Dr. Rausch who does respiratory therapy. He always woke me early to put some kind of clamp on the end of my finger. I have a grandson named Dion. I hope he turns out to be as nice as this one was (and as handsome!) Bernetta Moles, a nurse was kind to me.

Doris Gadd would drop in about every day from her work on the third floor.

One day I asked her how she was getting along.

"Why I'm broke down with laziness, everybody knows that," she said. I asked Kay Burdette Mullins from Rockcastle does a beautiful job of doing her own hair. She said she lived near Snider on old U.S. 25.

She asked me, "Who are you?" I said, "And who are you?" so we learned about each other.

Wilma Jean Clark, wife of Robert Clark from Anglin Falls, who works at the hospital, came to visit me. She said her son, Sean, had a job in Frankfort after riding a yellow school bus for years to high school in Mt. Vernon.

Our bad weather in April was due to the 12 days March had borrowed from April and had to be paid back.

The redbud, and dogwood trees both pink and white, are out in bloom and I like the Bible verse that says, "Oh thou drunken, but not with wine." I simply stay drunk with nature's beauty these days when we happen to drive out.

Mary Eita Cameron and daughter came by the hospital to see me, also my niece, Virginia and husband Raymond Nunn.

Linda Swinford stopped to see me bringing a writing pad which I loved. She said Paris had gone to Pineville for overnight on business where he held the office of County Attorney for two terms. Paris had a birthday on April 4th but can't remember how old

Drivers license changes to be put in effect

If you hold a Kentucky driver license or will ever obtain one, you will be affected by new laws passed in the last session of the General Assembly.

Beginning Jan. 1, 1996 new driver license numbers will be assigned when licenses are renewed but they will no longer be a person's social security number. A person's social security number will be required on the license application form, but will not appear on the actual driver license.

If, after Jan. 1, 1996, a person wishes to change the number on their driver license before the normal time of renewal, they may do so by requesting a duplicate license at their local county circuit court clerk's office.

Laws which also raised fees for driver licenses which will begin July 15 of this year. New fees will be: reinstatement of license, $40; renewals, duplicates and instruction permits, $6.

The new law also requires that a person changing their name or residential address must obtain a duplicate driver license containing the new information within 10 days of the change. This may be done at the circuit court clerk's office. To change a mailing address (if it is different than the residential address appearing on the license) you may contact the circuit clerk's office or write the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet's Division of Driver Licensing at 501 High Street, Frankfort, Ky, 40622.

Another provision was passed that can result in driver license suspension. Anyone that falls more than a year behind on child support will have their driving privileges suspended.

This will begin with arrangements that occur after Jan. 1, 1994. The cabinet for Human Resources will notify the Transportation Cabinet's Division of Driver Licensing in accordance with provisions of the new law.

Any persons returning from military leave with an expired license will be able to renew their license within 90 days without having to retake. Following a federal mandate, driver licensing agencies will offer applicants the opportunity to register to vote.

For additional information or any questions you may have about these new laws, please contact either the Transportation Cabinet's Division of Driver Licensing in Frankfort at (502) 564-6800 or your county's circuit clerk office.

New look at your old phone bill: easier to read

GT E telephone bills will be easier to read thanks to a new telephone bill format which will be introduced to Kentucky customers in May.

According to Met Haight, state vice president and general manager, the new bill is designed to increase customer understanding of telephone service and charges.

"We have a commitment to provide excellent customer service to our customers which includes a readable and understandable bill," said Haight, adding that the changes came about following customer research which showed a desire among customers for a more readable bill.

"We did quite a bit of customer research to find out what our customers wanted in the way of a telephone bill," she continued. "We found they wanted a clear, concise bill that was easy to read."

Haight said the new bill format is much easier to follow. There are major headings which itemize fees for various products and services, such as long distance calls and deregulated offerings.

Whittaker still bitten by show-business bug

In the summer of 1962, a nervous Roger Whittaker walked on stage at Port Rush, Ireland, to finally "get the show-business bug" out of his system. More than 30 years later, the bug is still alive and kicking.

You can catch his smooth mix of old and new when KET airs Roger Whittaker: The Celebration Concert at 1 p.m. Saturday, May 7.

In the program taped during his 1993 tour, the Kenyan-born balladeer treats viewers to his own hits, country numbers, Broadway show tunes, and folk songs from Britain and Africa.

ing and frequently ill-tempered because I've had to sit up all night behind E.J. Hasty's Market on Crab Orchard Street in Lancaster listening to woolly worms argue over the potential outcome of the Kentucky Derby.

NAWWWWW has decided, much to my consternation, that the best way it can make up for missing last winter's weather so bad is to predict a winner of the Derby!!

And that, in my opinion, is foolishness of the highest order. E.J. just got in a fresh shipment of luscious Vidalia onions of which the woolies have been scarfing one or two every night. Not enough so that Hasty will miss them, but enough to throw one heck of a woolly worm party. And a good, sweet Vidalia has the same effect on woolly worms that a bottle of 12-year-old Scotch might have on your average politician. (I've been drinking instant de-caf coffee and diet Dr. Pepper throughout this ordeal.)

But before we run out of space here, it is my sworn duty to let you know that NAWWWWW is predicting that Holy Bull will not win the Derby.

I will also tell you that my money is on The Bull. I'm personally sticking my neck out and putting all six bucks on the big grey horse to win.

NAWWWWW first picked Irgun who subsequently developed some hoof problems so they don't expect him to be in the race. Now the association is placing all its confidence in Southern Rhythm whom they predict will outrun Holy Bull in the stretch.

Dr. Pepper to finish second and the Bull to be number three. If Loretta will lend me a couple of bucks, I'm going to get a win ticket on Southern Rhythm too. And if he does win, I know a bunch of woolly worms who will have some dirt you naysayers will have to eat. I may be getting some of it too.

God knows I did last winter.

he is --shucks, Paris, be any age you want to--I do!

Cleve and Blanche Payne came to the hospital to see me and Blanche brought some large, yellow daffodils which drew attention from many visitors.

Brother Steven Cole, our beloved pastor once at Galilee Baptist Church came by to tell me he and family were moving back to Corbin since he had retired from the telephone company where he worked. We wish Brother Cole all the luck that God can give one of His servants and promised to come down for a church service after he is settled.

Teresa Singleton, my very good hairdresser, came over to the hospital to see me one night after the Hair Plus Shop had closed for the night and brought me a present of some good smelling hand cream but she scared the life out of me by slipping by the foot of the hospital bed and pinching my little toe. But I couldn't be mad for a person who has stood on her feet all day until 9 p.m. at night, then comes to the hospital to see a fussy woman who complains about all she does need a medal so I gave her a hanging basket of flowers.

"Nurses special" reads a saying on one sweater worn by Janice Berryman from Irvine.

I'll say they are. Some nurses bring their home problems with them. You can tell it by their attitude.

Kay Abbey visited me and said the church at Galilee had prayed for me on prayer meeting night after Barbara Spires told me I was in the hospital.

It must have reached the Lord for starting that night, I began to get better. Of course God used all the people who were taking care of me to do His work. If you are ill that is the place to be where the staff are trained in their work.

Diane Delaney, a reader of this column, who lives at 1309 Slate Lock Road, Berea, tells me how she enjoys this stuff.

Sue Hamm moved from Rockcastle to Berea to be near her work here at the hospital said she knew Dr. Daugherty, the dentist here and laughed so at his telling me before Easter that he expected to hunt eggs at Ottawa where his parents live.

Aw, Sue, don't you know men are only boys grown tall!

Mate Byrd gave me my first bath when I went to the hospital and she was very nice about it. But after all she should for she said she've been giving baths for 34 years at the hospital!

I want to thank my faithful readers, Philip and Ruth Gaff of Indiana, for coming to the hospital and found me gone. I appreciate your card so much. Also one from Eva Ebnel of Fort Worth, Texas, and the calls from my granddaughter, Diane Cornett, in Houston, Texas, Henry Vollmer, long time reader friend and playboy in Indiana. A card from the faithful group at the Berea National Club advising me to get another doctor because Dr. Stewart doesn't want me to live it up.

At this time we plan to hold a graveside service for my brother, Nathan Blufford Payne of Michigan, on Saturday at 2 p.m. May 7, 1994 at the Abney Memorial Garden at Macedonia who died October 4, 1993 in Michigan. He was cremated at his wish.

Brother Bill Hammond will conduct the service which will be in charge of Lakes Funeral Home.

I am having an operation on my right eye this Tuesday, May 2nd. Till next week. "The best and most beautiful things in this world cannot be seen or even touched. They must be felt with the heart."

An infantry squad in Alaska uses snowshoes, sleds and whatever else was available to dig out snow to set up their tents during a recent training exercise involving peace enforcement and civilian evacuation situations.

Crab Orchard woman part of peace keeping practice in Alaska

By: Rich Lamance

The Cold War may be a fading memory for the daughter of a Crab Orchard man -- at least the war part. But the cold part may take a little longer to go away since it's in Alaska Army Sgt. Anita T. Colon, daughter of Ernest Todd, Crab Orchard, played an important role in a week-long training exercise at this frigid, remote Alaskan outpost that focused on a totally different strategy from years past -- peace.

A joint force of over 15,000 soldiers, Marines and airmen converged on this large central Alaskan training ground to test how the services can work together to conduct peace enforcement operations and civilian evacuation procedures.

Colon, 29, is a journalist and assistant newspaper editor who played a part in this training drill that moved away from the traditional combat situations and instead hogged in on scenes that depict many of the world situations seen today. The training allowed the soldiers to face many of the complex problems that would come across in a peace enforcement situation.

"During Northern edge, I edit the division field newspaper, producing a capsulated version of news around the world to give soldiers an idea of what's going on outside of the exercise area," explained Colon. "I also do stories for the division newspaper."

Training for a new role as peacekeeper can be difficult enough, but in Alaska training takes on an added measure of concern when temperatures can quickly dip to 30 and 40 degrees below zero, with wind chills at times much lower. Colon finds herself taking precautions she might normally not need to take while training down in the "lower 48."

Protestors in an imaginary country defy U.S. presence in their region during a cold weather training exercise in Alaska that tested soldiers who may one day find themselves in a peacekeeping role. (Photo by Edward Nino)

"The Army has educated me well on what the cold weather can do to my body, and how I need to go about protecting myself," said Colon. "Gloves and correct boots are an absolute must, as well as specially designed clothes to keep out the elements."

To make this training realistic, two fictional countries involved in a border dispute were created, and non-governmental agencies, such as the Red Cross, Feed the Children and the International Medical Corps, were brought in to help paint a realistic picture of what these soldiers would face -- things like civil unrest, widespread protests, disruption of military operations, refugee camps and no-fly zones.

"This exercise is different than most we go through, because our forces have been inserted into fictional countries on a peacekeeping mission, rather than on a combat one."

Colon, like most soldiers stationed in Alaska, brought a certain image of what living in Alaska would be like.

Some soldiers found America's last frontier much like their image, while others found something entirely different.

"When I found out I was being assigned to Alaska, I had mixed feelings. Since I'm from Florida originally, I was concerned about the weather. But, on the other hand, I looked forward to the adventure."

We are much more than a long-term facility. Are you aware of the other services offered by your community hospital's Respiratory Care Department?

There are EEG (electroencephalograph) services for all ages. These tests allow a physician to detect any abnormalities in the brain waves. These tests are transmitted to Lexington where they are read by a neurologist.

Pulmonary Function testing is also available. This type of test helps determine if lung function is impaired and to what degree. Another use of these tests is to determine eligibility for Black Lung Benefits. You can also see the amount of improvement achieved after using a bronchodilator.

Stress testing is a very important step in evaluating cardiac function. The patient has lead wires hooked to electrodes placed at various spots on the chest. He/she will then be asked to walk on a treadmill while the technician and physician carefully monitor the function of the heart during the "stress" of walking.

These are just a few of the services offered by our fine hospital's Respiratory Care Department.

Poet's Corner

Excerpts of old poem
Submitted by William Mullins

Say not "I live!"
Unless the morning trumpet brings
A shock of glory to your soul,
Unless the ecstasy that sings
Sends you upspringing to your goal
Glad of the need for toil and strife,
Eager to grapple hands with life

You have no enemies, you say
Alas, my friend, the boast is poor
He who has mingled in the fray
Of duty, that the brave endure,
Must have made foes! If you have none
Small is the work that you have done
You've hit no traitor on the hip,
Or dashed no cup from perjured lip, You've never turned the wrong to right,

You've been a coward in the fight
Say not, "I live!"
Unless the energy that rings
Throughout this universe of fire
A challenge to your spirit flings
Here in the world of men and things
Thrilling you with a huge desire
To know God's presence, and feel
His power

Say not, "I live!"
Such were a libel on the plan
Blazing within the mind of God
Before the world or star or sun began
Say rather, with your fellow man,
"I grub; I burrow in the sod."
Life is not life that does not flame
With consciousness of whence it came

"Excessive" key to confusing test results

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Too much of a good thing can be bad. This apparently is the case with a recent major study indicating that megadoses of vitamin A increase smokers' risk of lung cancer. Many previous studies have proved that vitamin A and other antioxidant vitamins in food reduce the risk of heart disease and certain types of cancer. The recent study used a dose more than three times the Recommended Dietary Allowance (RDA) of vitamin A. In addition, supplements were used rather than food sources of beta-carotene, which the body converts into vitamin A. The University of Kentucky asserts that megadoses of vitamin supplements are useless and a waste of money. Excessive doses of some vitamins actually are harmful to your health. When it comes to vitamins, where a small amount is good, an overdose is not better and, in some cases, might even be toxic. Fruits and vegetables are the best sources of beta-carotene, which prevents free radicals of oxygen molecules from damaging cells. It is found in dark green, deep yellow and orange produce, such as turnip greens, kale, spinach, peaches, apricots, carrots and sweet potatoes. Based on results of this study, some people might wonder if they should cut back on food sources of Vitamin A. The answer is "No." You won't overdose from eating too many fruits and vegetables. At least five servings of fruits and vegetables are recommended each day. They are an excellent source of vitamins and minerals, as well as dietary fiber. For more information on specific vitamins or minerals, contact Hazel Jackson, County Agent for Home Economics, at 256-2403.

buried or covered with mulch to hide it from view. DIG's Drip Watering Kit is an ideal way for gardeners to introduce themselves to the increasingly popular process of drip irrigation, which is the slow and exact delivery of water to the root zones of selected plants. As a result, no water is evaporated by the sun or blown away by the wind, nor is any wasted on non-growing areas. This slow application, over extended periods of time, helps develop deeper, stronger roots and more abundant vegetables. Also, because drip irrigation operates in gallons per hour, versus the gallons per minute associated with sprinklers, gardeners will reap great vegetables and significant savings on their monthly water bills.

Once planted, apply a balanced fertilizer, one that is rich in the nitrogen, phosphate and potassium needed to produce vigorous plant growth. Look for a time-release fertilizer that will disperse nutrients throughout the entire growing season. Also, check planting instructions for each vegetable to determine if it has additional fertilizer needs. Now that you know the secrets to growing beautiful vegetables, it's time to put them to use. The result will be a cornucopia of delicious delights for you and your family. To educate homeowners about drip irrigation and how it works, the DIG Corporation offers a free booklet on the subject. Simply send a self-addressed, stamped #10 envelope to DIG Booklet, 130 Bossick Boulevard San Marcos, CA 92069.

The secret to growing bountiful vegetables

Have you ever wondered how to grow big, heavy tomatoes, luscious eggplant or mouthwatering watermelons? With proper planning, it's now easier than you might think. The vegetable garden of the '90s is vastly different than that of past generations. Gone are the days of repeated watering and fertilizing to grow meager vegetables; here are the days of using drip irrigation and seasonal fertilizing to create a big, bountiful harvest.

Getting Started
To get your garden started right, choose a planting site that receives at least six to eight hours of sunlight a day. Equally important is soil that drains well and is full of organic matter. If the garden site is deficient in organic matter, nurture it by applying three to six inches of peat moss or compost over the existing soil. Then, till or spade all materials to a depth of eight to 12 inches.

Vegetables come in all sorts of varieties. Some will grow better in sun than in shade. Others grow better in the northern part of the country than they do in the south, west or east. Do you want large vegetables or are you interested in growing miniature vegetables? Will you be starting from seed or with a seedling? If you've chosen a vegetable plant that spreads, do you have enough room for it to do so without choking off the other vegetables in your garden? These are all important thoughts to consider when contemplating what to grow and where you'll grow it.

Before going any further be sure to do some research, and consider contacting your local County Extension service agent for advice. Then, select the vegetables for your garden. Nurseries and garden centers stock a wide variety of seedlings that can be placed directly into the garden soil. Set seedlings just slightly deeper than they were in their original container. If you choose to grow vegetables from seed, ask a garden center representative to recommend planting depths for each type of seed. Also, be sure to place each plant or seed eight to 10 inches or more apart to allow for room to grow. Whether you start from seedling or from scratch remember to read the directions.

Drip Irrigation
Once the site and soil are ready for planting, and you've selected your vegetables, take a step back to visualize and plan a row system for the vegetables. Before planting, consider installing a drip irrigation system between the rows to regulate moisture in the garden. A simple drip irrigation system, such as the Drip Watering Kit from DIG Corporation, can be installed in a small garden in an afternoon with little or no digging. The system uses flexible polyethylene tubing and drip emitters to dispense water to plants in droplets and fine streams. The tubing is usually

Lady Rockets win four straight

By: Jason Coquer

Rockcastle 6 • N. Laurel 20

The Lady Rockets traveled to London to play the powerhouse North Laurel Lady Jaguars but came out on the short end of a 20-6 decision.

Cindy McCauley went 3 for 3 including a double in the second inning and later scored the first run of the ballgame for the Lady Rockets.

The Lady Rockets did have a big third inning as Marika Kivimaki went two for three including a triple that scored off of a McCauley basehit.

Suzie Carpenter then singled to score Angie Moore, with Carpenter later scoring to pull within four at 8-4 with North Laurel owning the lead.

After that the Lady Jaguars took control, scoring twelve times in the next two innings to cap a 20-6 victory.

Rockcastle 3 • N. Laurel 10

In the second game, the Lady Rockets played the defending district champs, North Laurel, taking the Lady Jags to seven innings before falling short, 10-3.

The Lady Rockets took the early 2-1 lead in the top of the first as Marika Kivimaki hit a RBI triple and later scored off of a Cindy McCauley sacrifice to left field.

The Lady Rockets had upset on their mind as Suzie Carpenter homered to pull the Rockets within striking distance at 7-3.

The upset bid grew dimmer as the Lady Rockets offense cooled down as Rockcastle could not muster any more runs.

North Laurel added three more runs to give the Lady Jaguars a 10-3 win.

Rockcastle 7 • Somerset 4

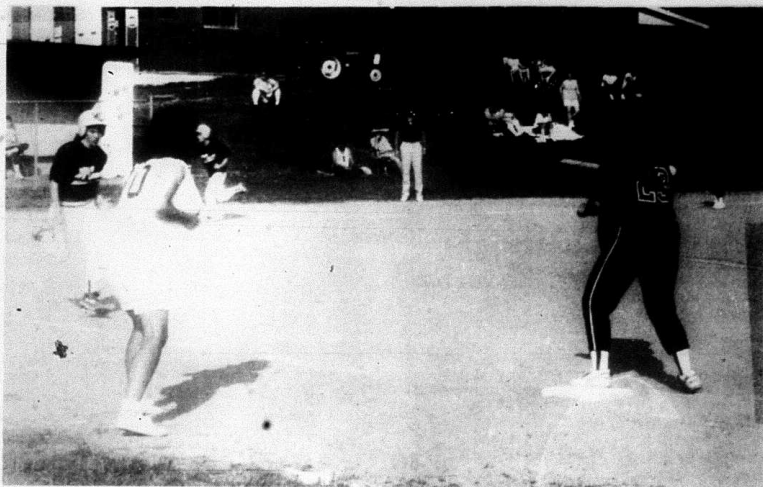

The Lady Rockets lost their fourth straight game to the hands of the Lady Jumpers as they let a one run lead slip away to Somerset last Thursday on the road.

The Lady Rockets dug themselves a hole in the first as Somerset scored three times off three hits.

The Lady Rockets cut the lead to two as Suzie Carpenter hit a one out triple and later scored on a Kivimaki ground out to second base.

The Lady Rockets struck out again in the third as Becky Osborne, who went two for three, hit a two-run scoring double to tie the game at three all.

The Lady Rockets then took the lead in the top of the fourth as Cindy (Cont. to A10)

Lady Rocket pitcher Melinda Smith throws out a McCreary Central Raider in recent high school softball action. Waiting on first for the throw is Angie Moore.

Rockets overpower Jackson, 6-0

By: Jason Coquer

Rockcastle 6 • Jackson 0

The Rockets played host to district rival Jackson County by blanking the Generals 6-0 as the Rockets offense showed signs of life.

Rocket pitcher Kelly Gentry (2-0) continued to anchor the strong Rocket pitching staff by allowing only two hits and picking up his second win in as many starts.

The Rockets got on the board in the first inning as Michael Shaffer hit a two-out single to score McClure from second base giving the Rockets a 1-0 lead.

A Jackson County balk cleared the way for catcher Aaron Cox to score from third, and the Rockets led 2-0 after two innings.

Then in the third inning, J.D. Bussell reached second on a Jackson County fielding error. Bussell then stole third and home to give the Rockets their third run.

The Rockets added two more runs in the fourth as Mickey McClure hit a two run single to give the Rockets commanding 5-0 lead.

The Rockets added another run in the sixth as Dee Thomas smacked a two bagger to left field.

field, giving the Rockets their final score of 6-0.

Rockcastle 8 • Lincoln 6

The Rockets blew an eight to one lead and had to hold off a Lincoln County rally to earn their eleventh win of the season. Saturday, 8-6, at Roundstone Field.

Mikhael Shaffer (3-0) went the distance by working out of some jams to earn his third win of the year.

The Rockets bats exploded in the top of the first as Mickey McClure hit a solo homerun over the left field fence.

Then after a J.D. Bussell single, Shaffer hit a two run dinger to straight away center field and the Rock jumped out to a 3-0 lead.

Scottie Cotton later singled to score Aaron Cox from third to cap off the four run Rocket first inning.

The Rocket offense gave Shaffer more insurance in his second inning as Bussell hit a two run homer to put the Rockets out in front at 6-1.

The Rockets added two more runs in the fourth as McClure hit a RBI single and Bussell hit a sacrifice fly to score Greg Bowman to push the Rocket lead to 8-1.

The Rockets looked like they would cruise to victory, but Shaffer got into trouble in the top of the fifth allowing three runs off three hits and Lincoln County pulled within four, 8-4.

Lincoln County added two more runs, including a Patriot homerun in the top of the seventh, but Shaffer battled his way through and gave the Blood expert said blood on clothes, spatters

The assailant who beat a Mt. Vernon woman to death would have had the same type of blood spatters on his clothing as those found on the clothing of the woman's husband, an expert witness testified yesterday.

Testimony continued for the third day in the Pulaski Circuit Court trial of Allen Howard Gilpatrick, 49, Mt. Vernon, accused of murdering his wife in her home. Other testimony came from the Brodhead woman who admitted to having an affair with Gilpatrick and another expert who identified Gilpatrick's bloody fingerprint on the paper bag holding what police have said is the murder weapon.

Virginia Gilpatrick was killed in her home Feb. 7, 1993. Police believe the assailant used a homemade club, which Allen Gilpatrick admitted was his in a taped interview with police. The trial began Monday.

Edward L. Taylor Jr. with the Kentucky State Police crime lab in Frankfort visited the crime scene 120 days after the killing with two other McCauley hit a lead off double and later scored to give the Lady Rockets a 4-3 lead.

But Rockcastle was unable to hang on for the victory as Somerset had a four run inning in the bottom of the sixth to defeat Rockcastle 7-4.

Rockcastle 9 • Somerset 5
In the second game of the doubleheader, the Lady Rockets battled back from a 5-1 deficit to defeat Somerset 9-5 in eight innings to improve their record to 10-5.

Somerset scored five times in the first inning, but the Rockcastle defense tightened up to hold the Jumpers scoreless through the next seven innings.

Janetta McLemore went 3 for 5, scoring two runs including the tying run in the top of the seventh off a McCauley single.

Then in the extra inning, Donna Cash scored the go-ahead run off Melinda Smith's basehit.

The Rockets then added three more insurance runs as Becky Osborne and Angie Moore hit RBI singles to give the Lady Rockets a dramatic come from behind win.

Rockcastle 9 • Pulaski 0
The Lady Rockets pushed their win streak to three as they swept a doubleheader from host Pulaski County Monday to improve their record to 13-5.

The Lady Rockets won the first game impressively, 9-0, as they got three for four performances from Cindy McCauley and Becky Osborne, including four RBI's between them.

Melinda Smith pitched another solid game, allowing only four hits and recording her first shut-out behind some good Lady Rocket defense to give Rockcastle the victory.

Rockcastle 12 • Pulaski 3
In his second game, the Lady Rocket offense continued the onslaught as they defeated Pulaski, 12-3.

Janetta McLemore liked the Pulaski County pitching as she went four for five, including three runs scored.

Becky Osborne continued her hot hitting as she went two for three including a two-run scoring triple in the fourth.

Cindy McCauley continued to over power the ball as she hit two doubles, going three for five including a game high three RBI's.

The Primary class of Mrs. Caroline Graves and 4th grade classes of Mrs. Cash, Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Scott and 5th grade class of Mrs. Ellington have been studying about the three branches of government, trial procedure and writing persuasively. All classes have learned to produce a mock trial, putting The Big Bag Wolf, Goldilocks and members of the Boston Tea Party on trial. Students have learned how a trial happens, what personnel are involved and how individual rights apply to our system of government. Students have written opening and closing arguments, questions for witnesses and learned how to speak effectively to sway the jury.

In addition, Mrs. Kathy Reynold's class wrote a letter in support of public defenders across the state to Governor Brereton Jones and to Allison Connelly, head of the Department of Public Advocacy for the State Bar.

We would like to thank Robert Pybas and the Rockcastle County Bank for the beautiful concert, Thursday afternoon. We always appreciate seeing and hearing BES alumni as they return for a performance.

The 21st Century class would like to thank their guests: Ms. Salenia Bowles, a representative of McDonald's Inc. who talked to the students regarding applications, interviews and job expectations of their corporation. John McQueary 4-H Extension Agent gave a timely talk to the students regarding their hopes and aspirations for their future. We appreciate those willing to encourage our youth to better themselves by remaining in school.

Attorney John Clontz and District Judge Mike Henry visited the 21st Century class Monday to make us aware of Law Day. Law Day is observed the first Monday in May to recognize and make sure that everyone understands that we have guaranteed certain freedom through our Constitution (Bill of Rights) and to remind us that we are a nation of laws. The topic this year is: Know Your Judge, thus our visit from Judge Henry. Ms. Molly Hamm and Ms. Satica Morgan would like to thank Mr. Clontz for arranging this activity for our students.

Our Primary students are looking forward to a visit from a very special character. Ronald McDonald is bringing his Safety Show to our school this Friday, May 6 at 2 p.m.

Students will be bringing their report cards home Monday. We have less than 20 days of school left, so we are already two weeks into our last 6 weeks grading period. Please help your children by asking to see their homework each evening - often students tell parents they have no homework, when indeed they do. We would like to invite you to the 4-H Fashion Revue Tuesday evening in our gym. Many of our students will model the clothes they have made during the past few weeks in our After-School Drug Prevention Activities and after-school 4-H projects. We will tell you the winners next week!

Parent members (21) of our School-Based Decision Making Council will be elected at the next PTA meeting, Thursday, May 12. Also, our faculty will elect their representatives (3) at their meeting on the same date.

Local girls volunteer for missions

The current Southern Baptist theme, "Here's Hope," will be taken throughout Kentucky, the nation and several foreign countries by Baptist student missionaries, who have volunteered for ten weeks during their college summer break, including two from Mt. Vernon.

Student missions volunteers, sponsored by Kentucky Baptist Convention Student Work Department, are enrolled in Kentucky colleges and have completed at least their first year. Volunteers are given the opportunity to stretch their talents, personal resources, boundaries and faith by facing the challenge of putting their Christian testimony to work in inner-city ministries, general missions, Christian social ministries, resort missions, evangelism, church extension, language missions and chaplaincy.

The department will also sponsor Summer Missions Teams. All have unique ways of sharing the gospel of Jesus Christ in churches and associations, youth camps, day camps, re-treas, national and state parks, campgrounds, youth Vacation Bible schools, nursing homes, inner-city centers, hospitals, special care homes, penitentiaries and children's homes. Son Burst, the state creative ministries team, seeks to communicate the gospel through forms of creative experiences in all areas of ministry.

Son Bound, a co-ed sports ministry team, seeks to share the gospel while teaching sports skills and motivations. Son Celebration music team members are chosen for musical talent, performance abilities and spiritual and dedication. Son Praise, a revival team, is composed of a preacher, song leader, special music person, pianist and fellowship leader.

Son Share Players, a drama performing team, seek to communicate the gospel through the art of drama. Son Life team serves overseas.

Twila Carol Croucher and Kristy Graham, Eastern Kentucky University students and Mt. Vernon residents, will serve in Russia and with Son Praise, respectively.

Partaking of church sacraments does not save an individual. These mainly concern eternal functions of obedience. Only faith in Christ can change the heart. (Hebrews 10:10-14)

Joining a lodge or fraternity does not save an individual. Though some may seek to be of service to persons with special needs, they in no wise should take the place of serving others through the local church. (Hebrews 10:24-25)

Speaking in tongues does not save an individual. In fact, a close examination of the use of tongues in the New Testament informs us that Paul discourages the use of tongues for they have no external merit. (1 Corinthians 14:1-7)

The Bible leads the way to Eternal Life

"Thy Word is a lamp unto my feet, and a light into my path." Psalms 119:105. This important fact about the Bible's influence upon our lives enforces the need for us to be more informed about the nature and purpose of various translations. We must realize the differences between translations of Greek and Hebrew manuscripts and translations, which take for example, the King James and change the old English to modern English. The problem is that some of the meaning is lost or misinterpreted by translations. The most preferred translation of all time is the King James, 1611 authorized version. The beauty of its language, and worshipful nature make it exciting.

Faith in Jesus Christ is the Method

About 2,000 years ago, a predetermined place in time, God the Son became the incarnate Son of Man, the babe born in the manger. At the age of 32-33 years old, after living a life of sinless perfection and fulfilling his earthly ministry. He was crucified on a cross, not for His own sins but for yours and mine. He rose again the third day demonstrating victory over death and the grave which He gladly shares with those who seek salvation in him.

In all points tempted, He never sinned, but died to pardon those who have. Salvation is urgent and there is no torment like hell. The water of life runs freely, discovered a woman drawing water from Jacobs well some 2,000 years ago. Jesus told her that drinking from the well of Jacob she would always thirst, but drinking of Him you will never thirst again. One may ask, how do I give my life to Christ, how can I know that I am saved? Observe the following:

1. Believe that Jesus died for your sins and rose from the grave.
2. Repeat and turn from your sins by asking His forgiveness.
3. Ask Him to be the Lord and Savior of your life.
4. Accept His forgiveness and seek His will for your life.

Which Way? Which Church? Which Bible?

Salvation cannot be earned nor is it deserved, it is offered to humanity simply by the grace of God. If salvation can be attained through living a good life or by meeting certain demands it is no longer a gift. Following are some clarifications concerning salvation.

A brass quintet from the ranks of the RCHS band will perform on the program Monday evening May 9, at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium. The quintet received a superior rating at the recent KMEA Solo and Ensemble Festival at EKU.

Mark Eaton, a junior in the band and member of the quintet will also perform a tuba solo with band accompaniment.

The seventy five minute program will feature three Rockcastle County bands under the direction of Robert N. Pybas. The finale, "God of Our Fathers," will be performed by the blood off his hands, or when he swung the club in his hand.

Gilpatrick also testified that his net worth in December 1992 was about $300,000. His wife's son, from a previous marriage, had testified earlier that Gilpatrick stood to gain about $130,000 from his wife's estate.

"Did you take this club and beat your wife to death with it?" Clontz asked.

"No, I did not," Gilpatrick answered.

Under intense questioning by Carmichael, Gilpatrick denied that he and his wife had had a "violent" argument that day. He also denied having an extramarital affair with a Brodhead woman who testified earlier that they had had a love affair.

He also denied washing his hands and cleaning off the knife at the kitchen sink. Carmichael also questioned him about the homemade club.

"It was your intention to seek revenge?" Carmichael asked.

"Yes," Gilpatrick testified.

"So what you're telling the court and this jury is that you're capable of using that club on another human being?" Carmichael said.

"No, I don't think I am," Gilpatrick answered.

Tom Kelly, former pastor of the First Christian Church, testified that he did not believe Gilpatrick was a violent man.

Kelly also testified that the only blood on Gilpatrick's head the night of the murder was around his mouth.

Blood stain testimony — damaging to defendant experts, he testified. A serologist who specializes in biological evidence, Taylor told the jury that various types of blood stains have unique characteristics that can provide valuable evidence in a criminal investigation.

Taylor took the jury on a bloody tour of the Gilpatrick home, starting in the kitchen. Based on his interpretation of the blood spatters, Taylor said Ginny Gilpatrick "received at least one blow while standing" in the doorway between the kitchen and dining room, after she had already begun bleeding.

In that area, Taylor said blood spatters were found on the kitchen counter, on the archway up to the ceiling, on the edge of the dining room table and on one of the chairs.

In the doorway between the dining room and the living room, Taylor said three large bloodstains on the carpet indicated "contact stains," meaning a bloody object came in contact with a non-bloody object — it could have been a body. That was the area where police testified they found Allen Gilpatrick cradling his wife's bloody head and shoulders.

"By far the largest concentration of blood" was found around the rear living room wall and back door, Taylor said. The door showed contact stains, smears and bloody "hair swipes."

Taylor said they also found "many, many impact spatters around the stains on the door." Impact spatters, he said, are blood patterns made when wet blood is impacted by some object, scattering the blood in tiny droplets. The walls around the doors also showed elongated blood spatters, indicating some angle or direction, Taylor said, coming from the area in front of the door. Blood spatters were also present on the ceiling over the area, he said, "quite possibly blood stains flung from the weapon."

"Virginia Gilpatrick received numerous blows while down on the carpet and some time while against the door," he testified.

Mare blood was present on the adjoining, outside living room wall, he said, and more hair swipes. "Virginia Gilpatrick received at least two blows — one while in front of the bookcase, down low; and another, a minimum of one between the case and the window, on the floor," he said. "Her head was against the wall at one time." Blood matching the woman's blood type was found on her husband's clothing and on the homemade club, Taylor testified.

Taylor donned surgical gloves before removing Allen Gilpatrick's shirt, pants and shoes from evidence bags. Holding up the heavily stained clothing, stains now dark with age, Taylor showed the jury impact spatters from one shirt cuff to the other, as well as on the back shoulder area of the shirt. Taylor showed more impact spatters on the left front leg of the blue jeans and on the athletic shoes Gilpatrick was wearing that night.

The clothing also showed large contact stains, apparently from cradling Ginny Gilpatrick.

"Could you get spatters like that from CPR?" assistant Commonwealth's attorney William Thompson asked.

"In all the testing I have done, you could not," Taylor answered. Earlier in the trial, Commonwealth's Attorney Ray Carmichael admitted into evidence a set of instructions from a chess set found scattered on the living room floor. A partial, bloody shoe print was found on the instructions and a crime lab expert testified it could have come from Allen Gilpatrick's shoes.

However, the significance of the imprint was unclear, since Gilpatrick told police he had run through the house twice after he came home and found his assaulted wife.

Taylor testified he found impact blood spatters over the bloody shoe imprint, indicating the shoe print was made before some of the blows had been delivered to the victim.

In his written report, Taylor testified that Ginny Gilpatrick's assault would have been spattered with blood in a manner consistent with the stains found on the clothing her husband had been wearing.

Defense Attorney Carl Clontz asked whether his client would have had blood spatters on his face, in his hair and beard, if he had been the assailant.

"Highly probably," Taylor answered. There has been no testimony so far that Allen Gilpatrick had such spatters.

Prior to Taylor's testimony, two other KSP crime lab fingerprint experts took the witness stand.

Using chemicals to enhance blood found on the paper grocery bag that the homemade club was found within, Terry Lehnry said he positively identified a fingerprint as being the left, middle finger of Allen Gilpatrick.

Tiger Pause

Kentucky Ms. Connolly was impressed with the letter she not only wrote the students a letter back, but volunteered to come to speak to students about public defenders and the work they do. The fourth graders were photographed for The Advocate, a public defender newsletter sent all across the state. Additionally, a copy of the fourth grade letter was sent to Superintendent Betsy Towery and by Governor Jones to Robert Stephens, Chief Justice of the Kentucky State Supreme Court. This letter may have helped encourage the passage of Bill 388 to increase funding for public defenders in the Commonwealth. Our thanks to Allison and to all the staff at the Somerset office for their help and encouragement.

Fifth graders plan to take a tour of the Rockcastle County Courthouse and present their mock trial there in May. Thanks to Denver Miller for organizing the tour. Congratulations to all Brodhead's "legal eagles!"

Mike and Sue Brown, owners and operators of S&M Grocery and Bee Lick Video at Bee Lick, threw out the first pitch to start the 1994 Rockcastle Little League season. Mrs. Brown, left, did the actual throwing Saturday morning at Thacker Field in Brodhead. The first game of the season went down to the wire, as the Minor League Rockles won 16 to 15 over the Minor League Angels. In opening Senior League action the Yankees beat the Marlins 2-1, and in opening round action in the Major League, the A's beat the Braves 8-7.

Head umpire Jerry Reynolds, left, presented Mike and Sue Brown with the baseball used the throw out the first pitch Saturday morning. The Browns are owners of S & M Grocery and Bee Lick Video and have always help financially support the Rockcastle Little League program.

Derrick Shelton was in deep thought Saturday morning as he prepared to catch the first game for the Rockles Minor League team. The Rockles won 16-15 over the Angels.

Dear Editor,
On Tuesday, May 2, 1994 in the morning hours, a co-worker's wife went to Mt. Vernon to purchase a large garbage can at the Dollar General Store. She placed the can in the back of a truck with a camper. When she got back into the truck she noticed the garbage can was blocking the view of her rear view mirror. She had two small children around the ages of one and five. She had the smaller of the two children in a safety seat. She told the five year old to stay in the truck. When she got out to move the can, the five year old got out of the truck locking the baby in the truck. Called for the baby she called the Sheriff's Department for Assistance. She was informed they no longer did this. What does the sheriff's department do? Yes, this was not a major emergency but you can go to Berea, London, Richmond or any surrounding areas and officers will go out of their way to help a citizen.

This person was a county resident and a tax payer. With all the deputies the county employs surely they could spare one. Remember this the next time you get out and vote.

P.S. We would like to thank the two gentlemen who went out of their way to help. Some people do take time to help others.

Dear Editor:
Please, publish this letter in the paper concerning the Roundstone Baptist Church.

The Roundstone Church always preaches and teaches the Word of God, the Bible.

The church has the following characteristics which make a good church: Bible preaching, praying, spiritual, witnessing, visitation, sharing, friendly, respectful, dependable, agreeable, cooperative, willing to listen and do what is needed to be done, faithful, understanding, confessing, interested in children and anyone being saved and attending church regular, improving the church, the people are always the same and don't try to be better or do more than anyone else, willing to sacrifice for others, financial support, tithing and tithes you good in so many ways you will have to like one of them and come and worship with us.

Thank God for Roundstone Baptist Church.

Every time I go I receive a blessing from the preaching, teaching, fellowship and singing. May God bless the church for all it has done and will do for me and everyone in the future.

Any time, anywhere or anything we can do to help let us know and we will try. You are welcome at all of our services.

Thank you for publishing this letter. God bless you.
Sincerely,
Virginia Holt

Dear Editor,
Almost everyone I know wants to cut down on fat and cholesterol in their diet, including me. We all know that eating foods low in fat, cholesterol and sodium can help protect us from a heart attack or stroke. I know it best of all, because I see it everyday in my medical practice. People who lower their blood cholesterol to normal levels reduce their risk of heart disease. It's that simple.

The trouble is the labels on food packages. With most of them, you need a math degree from MIT to figure out how much fat and salt is in each serving—until now. On May 9th, the American Heart Association joins with the Food and Drug Administration and other organizations to launch a year-long public awareness campaign to help consumers learn about the new FDA-required food label.

The titled "Nutrition Facts," the new label shows at a glance how much total fat, saturated fat, cholesterol, sodium, total carbohydrates, dietary fiber, sugars and protein each serving of the food contains. With this new label, figuring a heart-healthy menu is a cinch.

Best of all, the new label also lists the upper limit of fat, cholesterol, sodium and other nutrients you can safely have every day, if you normally eat around 2,000 calories. These numbers are called daily values. For example, if your food product package lists the percentage of daily value for total fat as 5 percent, you know you have 95 percent of your daily fat allowance still available. If the package lists the percent of daily value for total fat as 60 percent, you know you have only 40 percent of your daily allowance left.

It's a sad fact, but over 15,000 people in Kentucky die of heart and stroke diseases every year. And almost a million nationwide. It doesn't have to be that way. You don't have to end up with heart disease. The formula for good heart health is simple:

- Don't smoke.
- Keep your blood pressure in the normal range.
- Get 30 to 60 minutes of exercise 3 or 4 times a week, and
- Keep your blood cholesterol low by eating foods low in fat and cholesterol.

Do your heart a favor and start reading the new "Nutrition Facts" food label. If you need help, ask your American Heart Association for the brochure, "How To Read The New Food Label." Then choose foods that will be friendly to your heart. Who knows? The rest of your life could depend on it.

Sincerely,
Jerry Lacy, M.C.

Library News

By: Geraldine Robbins

The local art show is over and we're sorry that more of you did not come in to see the fine art work that was exhibited. There weren't as many pieces this year but the work was excellent.

Again, I want to thank all of the artists that participated and we are hoping to see all of you back with new art work next year.

It looks like that spring has finally arrived and that probably kept a lot of people away from the library for the Art Show. Spring is such a busy time for everyone, myself included, with yard work, gardens and just being out enjoying the beautiful sunshine. People are not even reading for pleasure as much now as when the weather was bad but we do have several new best-sellers that you might want to read when resting from all the work. I want to remind you again that we do have a large number of books on gardening, vegetables and flower gardens. I especially enjoy these since a lot of my leisure time is spent working in my flowers and that is usually just a couple of hours until the dark drives me in the house.

Did you know that your local library has many informational resources other than books? Some of these are: 1. University of Kentucky Summer School schedule for 1994. 2. College Credit Telecourses from KET. 3. Balancing the Scales; A publication of Kentuckians for the Commonwealth. 4. Fast Forward; a publication from Forward in the Fifth in advancing education in Eastern and Southern Kentucky. 5. Kentucky Teacher; Published by the Kentucky Department of Education. 6. Perspectives; by the Prichard Committee for Academic Excellence.

Those of you with children in school should especially be interested in the publications about education. It is good to know some of the things that are being planned for our schools. Our children are our most important commodity for they are the leaders of tomorrow. They need all the help that we all can give with their education. We here at the library are especially interested in providing any materials and information to the students.

A lady from Social Services in London visited the library last week and left information concerning foster care in Kentucky. Did you know that there are no foster homes in Rockcastle County? This means that any children that have to be removed from a troubled home have to be placed in another county. Foster homes are a very important factor in the well being of a child that does have to be taken from their home for whatever the reason. I feel that it takes a special family to be able to help these children and if you are interested in this care, we have information available and the phone number of this agency.

Some new books now available are: 1. Remember Me by Mary Higgins Clark... In this new psychological thriller Ms. Clark has created a riveting tale of suspense revolving around a young mother's guilt.

Menley Nichols has never stopped blaming herself for the accidental death of her two-year-old son Bobby, even though she was blameless; her car had been struck by an oncoming train at a railroad crossing.

In the aftermath, as Menley suffers from post-traumatic stress disorder, her marriage to Adam, a high profile criminal defense attorney, starts to fall apart. The birth of their daughter Hannah, however, promises to revitalize their relationship. Menley and Adam are determined to rebuild a life together around their precious new baby—unaware that someone in their midst has a very different agenda for them.

In Remember Me, her most compelling novel, Mary Higgins Clark captures the legends and atmosphere of Cape Cod, where she herself has a home, and the rising terror of people in the grip of menace hovering over their lives.

2. Daybreak by Belva Plain... The emotional charged Daybreak begins when a doctor tells the parents of a 18-year-old boy that their son will probably die. Then the doctor drops another bombshell: bloodstains reveal the boy can't possibly be their son. Eighteen years before, somebody switched two babies in the newborn hospital.

Dear Editor,
I would like you to publish the following letter if you would please as a follow up.

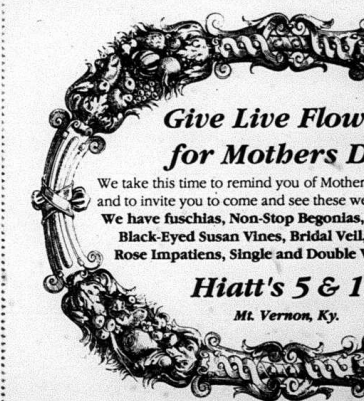

First, I want to thank the editor and the people at the Signal for publishing my letter in the Jan. 27 issue where I tried to bring to the attention of the people of the county the need to try and find a way to pay for the upkeep of all the cemeteries in the county. I want to say the need is still there, but the response from the people was not there. I know there are people who say I give every year for the upkeep of the cemeteries where my family is: Fine, but who will give when you are gone? There are cemeteries now in the county almost gone because there is no one to give. I also want to thank our elected officials of the county for not responding to my tax suggestion. And did not come up with any other way to do the job needed. Maybe these officials would like to see all graveyards turned into garbage dumps like the ones along the road sides or Mr. Editor maybe they don't take the Signal. Also there are those officials once elected just can't find a way to do anything to better the county in any way. No one likes to pay taxes unless they know what they are getting for it. What I suggested would not only take care of the cemeteries but would bring money into the county, give someone a job. The need is still there to find a way to take care of the cemeteries

Local ASCS office reminds foreigners of AFIDA requirement

"Foreigners who have bought or sold agricultural land in Rockcastle County are reminded to report the transaction to the local ASCS County office," Harold Ballinger, County Executive Director of the Rockcastle County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), said. To avoid Federal penalties and monetary fines, foreign owners of U.S. agricultural land must report their holdings, acquisitions, dispositions, leases of 10 years or more, and land use changes to ASCS within 90 days.

"The report is required by the Agricultural Reformation Investment Disclosure Act (AFIDA) which is still in effect," Mr. Ballinger said. Foreign investors are required to file a report if all or part of any agricultural land is sold, or the title is transferred to another person.

Failure to file the AFIDA report could result in a civil penalty of up to 25 percent of the fair market value of the interest held in the agricultural land, he said.

For reporting purposes, agricultural land is any tract of more than 10 acres in the aggregate now in farming, ranching, forestry, or timber production. Land used for forestry production is land exceeding 10 acres in which 10 percent is stocked by trees of any size, including land that formerly had such tree cover and will be naturally or artificially regenerated. This includes land in agricultural use when purchased, as well as land later converted to agricultural uses the ASCS official said.

County government offices, realtors, attorneys, lending institutions and others involved in real estate transactions are asked to notify the foreign investor of these reporting requirements.

How much is a tree really worth? Surprise!

When you think of the value of a tree, you usually think of the price for the wood which will be turned into houses, furniture or other wood products. Right?

Or you think of the value of the apples, pears or other fruit that might be harvested from some of those trees. Right?

"That may be true, but a tree is actually worth a whole lot more to our society than just the dollars and cents it brings to its owner after harvest," said Doug McLaren, Extension forestry specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

McLaren generated some numbers based on today's values for natural resources provided by a tree that has lived for 50 years.

"A tree produces oxygen after taking in carbon dioxide," he said. "The total value of oxygen production over that 50 years is worth $31,250. People today spend a lot for air pollution controls. This same tree will provide $62,000 worth of air pollution control."

Environmentalists and land managers constantly work to prevent soil erosion and to maintain soil fertility. Trees do these things naturally.

McLaren said, "Our 50-year-old tree provides $31,250 worth of erosion control and other soil development. That same tree also recycles water for a value of $37,500 and provides homes for animals with a value of $31,250."

He added, "All these natural occurrences happen throughout the life of that tree for a grand total of $196,250 in value. That doesn't even include the value of the fruit and lumber at harvest.

"Maybe we need to look at a tree with a different point of view the next time."

High school students who attend the Kentucky Forest Leadership Program June 6-10 at UK's Kentucky Leadership Center near Jabez will get an opportunity to learn new perspectives about the value of Kentucky's timber industry. They will explore the value of timber, learn to determine the quality of trees and logs and equate them with the true value of lumber harvested.

For more information about attending the program, contact McLaren at UK, (606) 257-2703 or the county extension agent.

Visiting Mrs. Mary Cope recently were Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Cope of Mt. Vernon.

Attending the funeral of Mrs. Ella Mae Lamb of Berea on Sunday were Eugene and Hallie Alexander.

"Remember church and Sunday School. Thank the Lord for our visitors Sunday. This is all try to be good and kind to each other. Some times we don't like people's ways and actions, but we love their souls."

We welcome you to our services anytime at Fairview. God bless you all.

Busy Bee Homemakers

The Busy Bees met at the extension office April 12 for their regular monthly meeting. Wynona served as hostess with six members and one visitor present. Barbara Frazer taught the lesson on "Caffeine Connection." It was a very interesting lesson, we all learned that we were getting too much caffeine. Irene won the door prize. After the meeting we enjoyed our refreshments and fellowships. The next meeting will be May 10th at Irene Winstad's home at 6:30. The lesson will be "Nutritional concerns of Women." Bring can tabs in, the dead line is May 20th. See you at Irene's.

Farm accidents

Deaths from farming accidents in Kentucky dropped in 1993 to their lowest level in more than a decade, according to results of a farm fatality survey conducted by Kentucky Farm Bureau.

Twenty-nine Kentuckians died in farm related mishaps last year, a decline of 17 percent from the 1992 total of 35, and just half the 1984 toll of 58, the highest number recorded in the 11-year history of the survey.

Tractor accidents accounted for 20 of the 29 deaths, according to Joe

Fairview News

By: Mrs. Hubert Chastean

Rev. Harvey Pensol filled his regular appointment at the Fairview Baptist Church on the weekend of May 1st. On May 1st we only had ninety five (95) for Sunday School but a large congregation for worship services. We enjoyed so much both a.m. and p.m. message delivered by our pastor. Thank the Good Lord for Bro. Harvey and the good ministers everywhere who are preaching God's Word. Let's always pray for them.

More good news; one of our members, Elmer Hale and wife Edith of Roundstone were able to attend worship services at Fairview Sunday morning and oh how thankful, how thankful, how thankful, we all were to see them. Due to Elmer's illness they hadn't attended church since April of 1993. When we look at Elmer today, it is like looking at a miracle, because at one time Elmer was (in our opinion) very near death. But I'd like to say to Elmer and Edith, we love you and pray God's richest blessings upon you both. Hope to see you again soon.

We are also thankful that Mrs. Gertrude Anderkin is able again to attend church. We have known Gertrude and loved her and her family for many years.

But, now as we welcome some, we also miss others. Dewey and Elizabeth Thomas, who are members and were regular attendants of our services, have moved to Murray, Ky. and their seats are now empty. But we still love them and wish for them a good and happy life near their children and grandchildren. God bless them.
