Attendance was good at Fairview over the weekend but our Sunday School was down, only eighty six (86). It seems our attendance is higher Most of the time in the winter months. But we are always thankful for everyone who attends.

We extend our heart-felt sympathy to the family and loved ones of Dola Rader who passed away on Friday of last week. The relatives have our love and prayers.

Nicole Blair was able to attend church at Fairview on Sunday morning. She is now home from U.K. Medical Center, Lexington, where she had spent a few days due to a traffic accident. Accidents are always hard on the family as well as the victim.

Dewey and Elizabeth Thomas who recently moved to Murray visited relatives here last weekend and attended church services, accompanied by Everett Thomas, on Sunday morning May 29th. It was good to see them again.

It seems like everyone enjoyed seeing old friends and neighbors at ceremonies on Memorial Day. At the Chasteen Cemetery Hubert and I saw Mrs. Mary Jane Gadd of Mt. We also enjoyed seeing and talking to several more from Clear Creek, and at Scaffold Cane we saw several more including Bill and Alene Isaacs of Paris. Howard and Gertrude Stephens of Mt. Vernon and Steve Bullens of Scaffold Cane. Allen told me that she always enjoyed my article in the Signal. She and Howard are sister and brother (children of John T. and Bertie Stephens) deceased we have known and loved the Stephens and Bullens families for many years and Gertrude is precious too. They are all good people.

Road workers get $1.00 hour pay increase

By: Ray McClure

The Rockcastle Fiscal Court gave all road employees a $1 an hour raise effective immediately at a called meeting of the court last Wednesday.

The raise is due to the road crew who have worked for a dollar less than other public employees.

The court took the special meeting to do some detailed business.

The Kentucky Association of Counties was awarded the county's insurance bid for one year at $22,616. It was up from $20,458 last year.

The insurance covers real and personal property, general liability, contractors equipment, vehicle fleet, law enforcement liability, public officials liability, boiler coverage and official bonds.

The court opened sealed bids for housekeeping items. Mt. Vernon Produce got the bid for a variety of culverts, Kentucky Stone Co. received the bid for stone. Ashland Petroleum of Lexington got the bid for asphalt and Mt. Vernon Oil and Tire got the bid for petroleum products.

The first reading and tentative approval of the 1994-95 county budget was made. The budget totals $1,809,931.

The court renewed the contract to the Big Sandy Detention Center Inc. in Prestonsburg to house juveniles. It was the same as last year, $75 a day.

The Kentucky Housing Corporations Elderly Rehabilitation Project draw down of funds went to three houses at $350 each. They are Russie Gentry, John Northern and Mitchell Abrams.

The annual safety test for the elevator in the Courthouse Judicial Annex was made. Total cost for each test is $123.

A person to clean and maintain the Courthouse Judicial Annex was passed over until the June 14 meeting when the magistrates and judge failed to reach an agreement after debating about 45 minutes in a closed session.

Mt. Vernon budget over $1 million

By: Ray McClure

The Mt. Vernon city budget for 1994-95 had its first reading by the city council at its regular session Monday night.

Total for the budget was not disclosed but it will be near the one-million mark including water and sewer.

The general fund totals $232,000. The police budget is $193,416. Water totals $437,700 and sewer $318,560, both revenue. All figures are tentative.

The council gave second and final reading to a Kentucky Utilities franchise for the city.

The council and Mayor Gary R.

Cromer discussed use of the new city owned parking lot at the depot and the parking lot across from the courthouse.

The mayor asked the council to consider all types of revenue and report at the next meeting of the council.

He said for the council to consider all areas owned by the city and not just the railroad lot recently bought by the city.

The railroad parking area does not have a "short cut" across to Richmond on West Main Street. It is not a street.

Three more trees are needed for Main Street Councilwoman Karen King reported but said it will be fall.

Grandmother charged with infant's death

A Lincoln County grandmother was arrested Saturday, charged with man-slaughter, in the death of her two-year-old grandson after she allegedly was driving drunk and ran over him.

Edith "Shirley" Perry of 7865 Cedar Creek Road, Stanford, was free on $50,000 bond Tuesday after her arrest Saturday night.

Mrs. Perry was arrested about two hours after her grandson, Christopher Avery Howard, also of 7865 Cedar Creek Rd., was killed. She was charged by Kentucky State Police Trooper Larry Fight with first degree manslaughter. Police reports said she was operating her 1977 Chevrolet pickup truck while intoxicated when the accident occurred.

Young Howard, who would have been three years old next month, was apparently playing in his back yard about 9 p.m. when Mrs. Perry and her son, Jason 11, returned home from doing some farm work, according to Lincoln County Coroner Bill Demrow.

They pulled into the back yard and before getting out of the truck, decided to go visit a neighbor.

They backed the truck up and turned around and apparently backed over the grandson, killing him instantly, without even realizing he was in the yard. Demrow said the child likely was lying or sitting in the grass out of view of the driver and her passenger.

"They never saw him," Demrow said. "They didn't know he had been run over."

Shortly after they left, the youngster's mother, Tracy Perry, came from inside the home to check on her son. She found him lying in the yard and ran to a neighbor's home to call for an ambulance.

Demrow said that he was called to the scene and when he noticed that Mrs. Perry had been drinking, he called Trooper Fight.

A test on Mrs. Perry revealed a blood alcohol level of 0.13, Demrow said. A reading of 0.1 or higher is considered drunk in court. She was arrested at 11 p.m., two hours after the accident, and was jailed for nearly three days before making bail.

The death of the young Howard was the second tragedy in less than a year for the family. The youngster's father, Keith Howard, was killed in a truck collision last July.

Kentucky should have a professional sports team. And it probably should be an NBA basketball franchise.

I'm serious. It may be a sad comment on the societal state of things but professional sports teams can rally the population of an entire state into a single identity with a single cause in mind. A declaration of military war with one of the surrounding states would command far less patronage in Indiana, for instance, than having their beloved Pacers squared off for a conference basketball title.

As I write it is Sunday afternoon and the Pacers will play for just that early this evening. Mike Mitchell is driving and we are headed south on I-75 back to Kentucky. This column is basically a reflection of the way I've seen the last several days. I've been in Indianapolis and over much of the southern part of Hoosierland since last Wednesday. I've associated with restaurant waiters and gas welders, blue collar and white collar box-shots, ultra-conservatives and border-line liberals. I've talked with business types in such competition that they won't even speak to each other. But last Wednesday and Friday nights everybody in Indiana forgot about the differences they had with each other and became the staunchest of allies. For a few hours, at least, the whole state was one big happy family. If there were any New Yorkers lodged in the local motels, they were keeping to themselves and doing an excellent job of remaining inquisitious.

Newspapers sold out shortly after daybreak on Friday morning because most of them carried Spike Lee masks. For those of you who aren't totally wrapped up in this basketball stuff, please allow me to explain that Spike Lee is a wealthy, ridiculously overrated, movie director who also happens to be die-hard fan of the New York Knicks.

Ole Spike gets a courtside seat at every game the Knicks play. And Spike is notorious for running his mouth.

So is Reggie Miller, #31 and shooting guard for the Pacers. The big difference between Spike and Reggie is that Reggie can talk the talk and walk the walk. Spike is a professional hanger-on with a big mouth and a lot of money. But somehow he can stick his foot in his mouth and still make money.

Anyway, Reggie and Spike got a little verbal rivalry going on Wednesday night and the rest is history. Reggie scored 25 points in the fourth quarter and made a point of stopping by ole Spike's seat after every bucket and saying stuff like "Spike that!!!!"

We can only speculate about what Spike might have been uttering in reply but we figure his remarks were unkind. And Reggie continued to pour 'em in and stopping to explain to Spike that he had done just that.

Spike had shut up by game end and Hoosiers everywhere were taking as much glee in humiliating Spike Lee as they were in winning the game.

So, on Friday morning all the papers carried masks of a mousing-off Spike Lee that you could cut out and wear to the game. Or to the gatherings of the faithful behind every television screen in Indiana.

Before the game Spike granted a few interviews in which he referred to Hoosiers in the same breath as the Klu Klux Klan and inferred that anyone who showed up at Market Square Arena besides he and the New York team were apt to be card-carrying members of the Klan. The truth of the matter is that Spike Lee is the King bigot when he gets into the Heartland. And he makes a lot of money being a racist.

But Spike sulked up like a scared possum and the Knicks won the game on Friday night. Perhaps he was paid to keep his trap shut in Indianapolis but we're praying as we cross the river into Kentucky that he'll trade shots with Reggie again tonight. We have to get the column wired out before game-time and we hope to have that done before top-off time.

We hope to be in Paint Lick in time to yell Boom Baby! Boom! every time that Miller gets the ball.

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings from my vinyl-sided domicile in this tranquil domain called Wabed, where, at the time of this writing, we could use a week of slow-soaking rain. I surely hope one of my neighbors was wrong last week when he predicted this summer will be a "dry one." Please, dear hearts, include Wabed in your prayers for rain.

Speaking of prayer somehow reminds me of the time when Ed Mason prayed in public for the first time - and last time. His pastor had asked him to do so, giving a megaphone so he could be heard. Ed, a new convert, worked on that prayer all week, but come Sunday he still wasn't too sure of himself. So, he decided that an ample bell of vodka might calm his nerves and bolster his spirit. That he did right before he got out of his car and entered the church house for the morning service.

After the first hymn, Bro. Haynor called on Ed. He commended the prayer he had prepared and did well - with a couple of exceptions. He confessed, "O Lord, you know we're feak and weebie." Realizing he had goofed, he quickly said, "No, Lord, I mean weebie and feak." That caused a stir around the sanctuary, but it was Ed's other faux pas that cracked up the congregation, so much so that they were still snickering some sermon time. Ed prayed, "O Lord, forgive our falling shorts."

Seriously speaking, have you ever wondered why many prayers go unanswered? I've heard a multitude of explanations, some more probable than others. The major one, of course, is biblical, namely, that if you or I cherish iniquity in our hearts the Almighty won't even listen (Ps. 66:18). That means we need to do some serious confessing before we do any asking. Oft times our petitions are in vain because we talk to the Almighty as if we want him to run errands for us. And sometimes our requests go awry because we put in too many commercials.

Could it be that some prayers are in vain because we haven't thought through what we're asking? Can we honestly pray for rain to save tobacco crops which not only provide the grower with cash for family needs but also cause and increase the incidence and cost of cancer and heart problems? (Let our pastors use that

Births & Birthdays

Grant and April Martin wish to announce the birth of their first child, Megan Elaine Martin, born on April 25, 1994 at Pattie A. Clay Hospital. She weighed 5 lbs. 6 oz. and was 19 1/4 inches long. Grandparents are Jack and Darlene Martin of Mt. Vernon and William and Ramona Jones (Dock and Cricket), also of Mt. Vernon.

Lordy! Lordy! He's looking fine, but he's only 21! Happy Birthday Baker! Love you, Lora, Tammy, Nikki, Sue, and Junior Cameron kind of talk a few times in their sermons and see what happens).

Some say our prayers accomplish nothing because they are "last resort" pleas, as if prayer is a gadget we can use when nothing else works. Do we lie to the Lord and not rely on him afterwards?

Enough of that, dearly beloved. Let's get down to brass tacks. The most current reason for "air prayers" is never mentioned. Many are guilty of this lapse and are unaware that they are, including preachers! I'm talking about synthetic prayer, the kind that mixes King James language and modern English. I can't speak for the Catholics, Methodists, Campbellites and Pentecostals, but Baptists are guilty of it! Just a Sunday or so ago, I heard a man pray, "Lord, you know who's burdened down. Take their load away if it is in keeping with thy will." And that wasn't the only goof. He said, "If you will, Lord" when he should have said, "If Thou will, Lord," little wonder his prayer stopped at the chandelier!

Friends, if you want your prayers answered, brush up on your King James. I'm sure that many of you -- now that I've brought this evil practice into the open -- will take the matter to heart and wonder if you've been saying the right words. So, after I've completed a trip to Europe to promote my latest book, What Saith the Seven Seals, I plan to isolate myself in a Pongo hideaway and work day and night on a book entitled A King James Prayer Primer for Reluctant Righteous Petitioners. Without a doubt, this work will be even more popular than Seals or McGuffey's Sixth Eclectic Reader or Maybe Even The Grapes of Wrath.

In the meantime, dear hearts, practice your King James on each other. Use pious words like Beech and beseech, coolest and wouldst, doth and doeth, lestest and lesteth, bringeth and brangeth, etc. And until next week ponder the prayer of Wille Seymour, tenant farmer and father of five, who went out behind the coal house one evening, stared at the stars, and then said, "Help me, O God. My boat is so small and the ocean's so wide."

Mondella Spurlock, a niece to Myrtle and me was buried there. Armon Neeley, Harriet Miller, Nelly's husband buried Armon there and Mae Miller Gadd, Myrtle's sister is buried close to Betty Chasteen, a young woman who died with cancer. Here's what the family found when they went up recently to clean the grounds. All the shrubbery was dug up, all flowers living or artificial were stolen, along with the pretty vases that were on the graves. I will tell you about it next week.

This is for Alza Shepherd Campbell who lives in Independence, Ky. You wrote to the paper wanting to know about "Payne Reunions." Well, there is going to be one on June 19th at Renfro Valley for any "Payne by name."

I think my brother, Cleve Payne, is planning to go for he likes "preserved turnips" and somebody is sure to bring some.

On our way home from Mt. Vernon recently we stopped at Steve and Joyce Bullen's home. Folks were picking some of the biggest, red strawberries. It was easy to do but every bucket picked seemed to be full and a half gallon jar over was piled on top.

We drove out in the field and John went to pick us some just to eat. I didn't feel like walking so stayed with the truck. Everybody was far out in the field so I thought I'd just slip out by the truck and pick some to eat. But you can't do wrong and get by. Just as I climbed back into the truck to eat mine, a voice spoke to me as Steve went by carrying two buckets. "Oh, you caught me getting berries but I'll give you some free publicity in my column about them being ready to pick!"

Steve laughed and said, "We are about picked out with the berries over here -- we'll move to a new field next week."

His dad, Bill Bullen, on Lower Clear Creek was called "Rockcastle's Strawberry Man" but since Bill has passed away, Steve probably will be given the title.

I talked by phone to a woman who was once editor of the Berea Citizen named Lucinda Denison. She is doing work on a newspaper in Fort Smith, Arkansas.

Lucinda said to give her regards to Dorothy Miller who has worked on the Citizen with her, also to Brenda Rogers of Paint Lick who worked with her on the Citizen for some months.

In last week's Signal, there was a picture of Prince and Princess Court at Roundstone school. I like anything about school and their programs so reading the names of the children who attended the Prince and Princess on stage. I saw a handsome little boy all dressed up and read the name Trenton Harding.

"Oh, no," I said to myself, "that can't be the Harding boy who stayed with his Grandpa John, and Grandma Mary. This handsome looking kid can't be the little six year old who rode up and down Clear Creek (in the Harding house) shooting a (play) gun, drinking from a bottle, until I wondered if he'd ever amount to anything. John and Mary were (and are) yet proud of him because his father and mother lived there in the Harding home."

Well, here's to you, Trenton, whatever you do or where you may be, I stand up for Clear Creek.

I am told to tell you there will be an O.M. Payne and wife Martha Jane homcoming and reunion at the home of John and Joyce Payne in Lexington on July 19, 94. Don't get mixed up on the names and places of the two Payne Reunions. The one at Renfro Valley takes in any Payne by name). The July one is only for my Payne relations.

A woman named Geneva Todd on Hwy. 421, says she gets a blessing from reading this column and I sure thank you, Geneva. It not only helps me, but will raise the spirits of the Anderkin family, including Rick. Last week, I went in to the Signal office and found everybody working late.

"We all work late on Tuesday," said Sara.

I didn't see Rick anywhere so guess he was still celebrating the long holiday weekend.

"Well, my work's done when I did my column so I'll leave you folks to burn the midnight oil."

I'd like to congratulate Tracy Todd who graduated with many honors from the Rockcastle County High School. I know her parents are very proud of her as I am of any young person making a success of her life.

We were in Northern Kentucky to see our children and especially our great grandson, Chase. He is now 1 1/2 years old and has become very grown up wanting his own way. He was cutting a tooth and very fretful, so since I've been having a time with mine, I can sympathize with him. Russ and friend, Wilma, joined us at Chase's home so along with her friend of Chess, we had a great picnic lunch, made pictures and were just all together.

Chess has two boys in the Navy and Russ has one girl in Texas where she works so we made our own celebration for the holidays.

We left early because John dreaded the long drive home. He always says, "I'll not be up there again -- unless I have to."

I mentioned a letter last week that I had gotten after the death of a very unusual woman, Stella Dees, written by her daughter, Myrtle Dees Nadie.

I'll quote a few lines from it and I know Myrtle won't mind. She wrote how much she appreciated my kindness to her mother and for my loving her and being a friend to this crippled, in bad health woman and making her last days more cheerful and bearable.

Stella helped me too with her faith and dependence on the Lord and getting me to see it was the best life for anyone.

I miss Stella and as I told you before, John and I went to see her where she lay waiting to finish her journey and be with the Lord. Tommy, her husband, waits too.

I stood by her grave and talked to Stella, "Old friend, I thought I'd come and tell you how much I miss you and hope you remember my saying to you, 'If you go first, leave the gate open so I can get in and I'll do the same for you,' a joke we always laughed about.

I appreciate your letter Myrtle for it's the nicest thing anyone has done for me since I've been in the writing business. God bless you for your kind heart.

Till next week: "God grant that I may not criticize my neighbor until I have walked a mile in his shoes."

Local students serve at Kentucky United Nations

Sixteen students from Roundstone and Mt. Vernon Elementary Schools recently participated in the 17th Regional Kentucky United Nations Assembly. The three-day event allowed students the opportunity to portray the attitudes and dress of a U.N. member nation, while freely discussing global issues that affect the world both today and tomorrow. Representing the Republic of Haiti, from Mt. Vernon Elementary, were: Cory Bailey, Heather Bray, Nathaniel Bullock, Andy Hale, Megan Holbrook, Tiffany McClure, Dana Mason, Michael Parsons and Lorabeth Payne. Roundstone students who served as ambassadors from Denmark were: Stewart Abney, Matthew Brown, Emily Coffey, Christian Parsons, Mark Edward Parsons, Crystal Smith, and Jeana Thacker. Students were accompanied by their sponsors, Rose Brown, Tracy Gabbard, Nancy Hale and Lorecia Powell.

Mt. Vernon students participate in K.U.N.A.

On Sunday, March 13, nearly 700 middle school students, representing 28 Kentucky schools, descended upon the Holiday Inn North in Lexington. The students were to be active participants in the 18th Annual Kentucky United Nations Assembly. This three-day event is sponsored annually by the Kentucky Youth Association-State YMCA.

Student delegates had previously selected United Nations Countries to represent at the model UN assembly. The delegates began the conference with a Festival of Nations where they showcased their country's cuisine, music, and native costumes. They introduced their countries to other delegates and guests through informative exhibits. Forty-nine countries were presented at the festival.

Mt. Vernon students were honored to represent the Republic of Haiti. The MVS student ambassadors were Cory Bailey, Heather Bray, Nathaniel Bullock, Andy Hale, Megan Holbrook, Dana Mason, Tiffany

McClure, Michael Parsons, and Lorabeth Payne. Sponsors were Mrs. Lorecia Powell and Mrs. Nancy Hale. The students were able to role-play the attitudes, beliefs and traditional dress of Haiti and even learned to speak basic French (Salut d'Haiti). Along with their research, MVS students learned firsthand what life was like in Haiti. They were able to spend time with a Haitian couple enrolled at Berea College.

MVS students also authored a proposal which was submitted for consideration and debate at KUNA. The proposal first went through a committee, then to the Security Council. While in the Security Council, their proposal was deemed worthy of International Importance and sent directly to the General Assembly of KUNA. The proposal, which dealt with the redirection of UN member contributions from nuclear arms development into a fund to raise the standard of living in developing countries (such as Haiti), was delivered by Andy Hale and Michael Parsons. The proposal was passed by a vote of 29-12.

MVS students were asked to relate what they learned and enjoyed while participating at the Kentucky United Nations Assembly. Replies included, "I learned how the United Nations operates. I never knew there were so many countries in the UN!" "I learned how difficult it is to be responsible for your own country." "I loved the Festival of Nations. The costumes were amazing." "The Hunger Simulation was emotional and a little depressing. It nearly made me cry. I saw how blessed Americans are but I also realized how much we must help other less fortunate countries."

When questioned as to whether it was worth the months and hours of preparation, all nine delegates responded, "Yes! Definitely, yes! We can't wait to represent another country in KUNA 1995!"

(This article was written by Megan Holbrook and submitted for competition. It was chosen as the outstanding report by a member of the KUNA press corps.)

The Mt. Vernon Delegation, which represented the Republic of Haiti, received the Outstanding Delegation Award. This prestigious award is presented to only one school and is based on the school's display, native dress, written proposal, and overall participation in the Kentucky United Nations Assembly. The delegation consists of bottom row left to right: Heather Bray, Dana Mason, Megan Holbrook, Lorabeth Payne and Tiffany McClure. Back row from left: Andy Hale, Cory Bailey, Nathaniel Bullock, Michael Parsons.

Megan Holbrook received the only Outstanding Press Delegate Award for the article she wrote as a member of the Press Corps. Andy Hale and Stewart Abney received Outstanding Delegate Awards. Ten delegates, out of over 700, were recipients of this award.

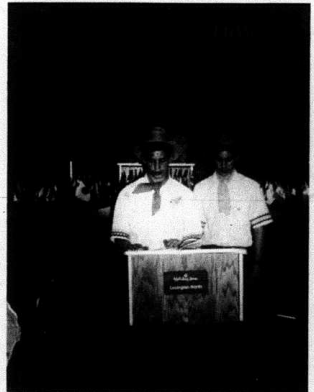

Stewart Abney and Christian Parsons first presented Denmark's proposal to the Security Council. Their proposal recommended that the UN find alternative power resources to phase out the use of nuclear power.

Nathaniel Bullock added to the Haiti display with his representation of a Haitian witch doctor.

Jeana Thacker served Danish cookies to all who visited the Denmark display.

Andy Hale and Michael Parsons are shown presenting their proposal to the 700-member General Assembly. The proposal from Haiti dealt with the transfer of nuclear weapons funds into a fund for developing countries.

Serving as Haitian representatives were Tiffany McClure, Dana Mason, Lorabeth Payne, Megan Holbrook, and Heather Bray.

Aluminum Can Tabs

County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Can tabs were brought to the Extension office in gallon jugs, in check and in ziploc bags. Rockcastle Countians, pages 4 to 90, have been removing can tabs to donate for the last few months. When all the tabs were collected and weighed, 259 pounds of tabs were turned into the Kentucky Cancer Program for their camp for children with cancer and leukemia.

Extension Homemakers across the state collected 6 tons of tabs and netted $3,740.80 for the camp. Fifty children with cancer or leukemia will be camping this week in Estill County. The tab collection project helps to pay some of the costs of the camp which are expensive due to the medical staff required.

The Rockcastle County Extension Homemakers will continue to sponsor the tab collection as an ongoing project. Tabs may be turned into the Extension Office between 8 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Extension Homemakers would like to invite all other clubs, civic organizations, businesses and individuals to be a part of this project. If you would like more information on the tab collection project or the camp, contact Hazel Jackson at 256-2403.

A Home Test for Checking Blood Cholesterol

A recent survey by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention found that fewer than 1 in 3 Americans know their blood cholesterol level. If you are in that category, you can check your own blood cholesterol level at home with a kit that costs under $20.

High blood cholesterol is one of the major risk factors for heart disease. It can be controlled, however, by eating less fat, exercising, drug therapy or a combination of the three.

Managing the tobacco crop to improve net returns

By: Tom Mills
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

Spacing plants farther apart can put more net returns into the pockets of tobacco producers.

As tobacco transplanting shifts into high gear in Kentucky, growers should consider some management strategies that may result in higher net returns for tobacco production.

This is especially important as tobacco growers seek to maintain net income levels in the face of decreasing quotas.

Research and on-farm trials in Kentucky indicate that one of the best ways to increase net returns from a fixed-amount quota is to lower plant populations by spacing plants farther apart. For example, a 10,000 pound quota produced in a 16-inch spacing in a 42-inch row requires about 9,300 plants per acre. Stretching those plants out to 24 inches in the row drops the number of plants required down to about 6,200 plants per acre. This is about one-third fewer plants on each acre. Yields may drop, but not nearly as dramatically as net returns will rise. Yields may drop about 8 percent as plant populations are dropped by one-third.

To produce the same 10,000-pound quota with this strategy, the amount of land required would increase, but only a little. For instance, at 2,600- or 2,800-pound yields, 3.75 acres may be required instead of 3.5 acres. That is less than a 10 percent increase in land costs.

The biggest change will be in labor requirements which will go down. With nearly 8,800 fewer plants to handle on 3.5 acres, the labor requirement drops by more than 20 percent. With labor as the major cost, net returns will increase because the gross returns from that 10,000-pound quota will be the same whether they are produced from a 16- or 24-inch spacing.

In fact, research data suggests that net returns could increase by as much as $1,200 on a 10,000-pound quota. This is similar to having a $1.12 per pound increase in price and should capture the attention of many tobacco growers.

15 minutes. It should be available in retail stores after June under the name Advance Cholesterol Home Test.

To use the kit, you prick a finger and squeeze blood into a plastic canister that contains a "test strip" which changes color as the cholesterol rises on it. After 10 to 15 minutes, you compare the color shown on the test strip with a chart that translates the color to the amount of cholesterol in the blood.

The test is highly reliable if you read the directions carefully and follow them to the letter.

Use of the AccuMeter kit is not intended to replace the care of a physician. No one should self-prescribe a rigid diet or any other treatment based on one reading.

The National Cholesterol Education Program recommends measuring blood cholesterol 2 to 3 times to get an accurate assessment.

A level of less than 200 milligrams per deciliter of blood is desirable; 200 to 239, borderline; and 240 or greater, high. If a diagnosis of high cholesterol is confirmed by your physician, then HDL and LDL levels should be taken by your physician.

AccuMeter can be useful tool for people who want to know whether they should see a physician for more thorough testing or advice. It also may be helpful for those who have been diagnosed with high cholesterol and are trying to lower it. Consumers can check their progress between visits to the physician.

Eagle Echoes

Miss Beverley Owens' Entry Level Primary classes went on a field trip May 26 to McDonald's, the Mt. Vernon Fire Station and the Renfro Valley Candy Kitchen.

The morning class was treated to specially made breakfast "Happy Meals" and the afternoon class had "Happy Meals" also. We would like to thank the McDonald's staff for treating us so special. We really appreciate your hospitality.

Our next stop was the Mt. Vernon Fire Department. John Cox explained all about the different fire trucks and even let us sit on one of them. We were also shown the "Jaws of Life" and were able to hold a fire helmet. We had a great time! Thank you Mr. Cox for taking time out of your busy day to talk to us.

Last, but certainly not least, was our visit to the Candy Kitchen. We were treated to free samples of cream candy and suckers, then we all shopped for different kinds of goodies. Our favorites were the chocolate dinosaurs. We wish to thank the nice nice folks at the Candy Kitchen for making our day so special.

We would also like to thank our chaperones Ms. Campbell, Mrs. Coffey, Mrs. Witt, and Mrs. Hall as well as our bus driver Clyde Burdette and our instructional assistant Mrs. Kathy Reed. We had an exciting day and it was all because of you.

The Roundstone Elementary School Council will meet in regular session on Wednesday, June 15, at 4 p.m. in the school library. This is a change of meeting of the regularly scheduled meeting.

Community Service Learning Grant at MVES

The Middle School Association awarded Debbie W. Bugg, teacher at Mt. Vernon Elementary School, a grant that involved two eighth grade classes: Mr. Taylor's math class and Ms. Abney's language arts class. Students learned about organizations, businesses, and agencies in Rockcastle County. Below are pictures and student's accounts of their activities.

Mr. Taylor's "Future Rockets"
Last week, our group, the Future Rockets, made up of Amy Moore, Angela Reams, Brandy Renner, Robin Stroh, Leighanne Seals and Amanda Radar had fun going out into the community as part of our Service Learning Grant. The organization we were studying was the Family Life Center. The first day we visited the Family Services Center. They provide services for families who are having troubles. We planted flowers in their barrels for them. The next day, we visited the Day Care Center for preschool children. We read giant storybooks we'd written especially for the small children there.

Our third day, we went to the Adult Learning Center. Some of us planted flowers for them and others sorted books. We were able to tour through each place we visited and learn about the service they provide for the community.

Our last day, we were back at the Family Services Center where we did child care. Half of us helped to get their garden begun by planting a row of tomatoes. The ones of us involved in children used sidewalk chalk to write the kid's and our names on their sidewalks. We also played games with the children.

What we learned was what it is like to work. We learned about the services these places provide. We really enjoyed working in the community because it was our first experience with life skills.

We would like to thank Ms. Bugg, the bus driver, Mrs. Bullock and Martha Renner for going with us. Also, many thanks to all those community agencies and businesses who donated money to us so that we could do this. Lastly, many thanks to all those Christian Appalachian Project staff who worked with us.

Health Department honors Eva Brown for remaining smoke-free for one year

The health department honored Eva Brown recently for her success in remaining smoke free for one year after completing the Freshstart Smoking Cessation program.

Eva Brown is an employee at the Bank of Mt. Vernon. The bank joined in congratulating Eva by giving her a break from her regular duties to attend a celebration of her success at the health department.

Super Saver Grocery surprised Eva with a cake. Jean's Restaurant treated Eva to a complimentary meal, and Terry Woodall, owner of A Cut Above, donated a certificate for visits to her tanning bed. Eva was joined in her celebration by Ola Smith who completed the Freshstart Smoking Cessation classes with her. Ola was also honored for remaining smoke free for almost a year.

Beverly Carter-Sexton, facilitator for the American Cancer Society's Freshstart program and Health educator at the health department, conducts the smoking cessation classes. "Many people make several attempts to quit smoking before they actually quit for life," says Beverly. "However, each attempt they make helps them learn more about what works for them and what doesn't. Our classes don't offer any magic solutions. We just get together and learn the facts about the benefits of not smoking and the consequences of smoking." We also discuss several methods of how to quit, how to manage stress, cravings and diet while trying to quit; and how to stay smoke free for life. But one has to make up one's own mind whether or not to quit. Our program does not threaten or conjoin anyone into quitting, but we do offer a lot of education and support in the endeavor to quit. Thirty percent of the people who attended the classes are successful in quitting. That percentage is one of the best in the country for any smoking cessation program."

"I get a lot of sarcasm from people who grow tobacco or who enjoy smoking," said Beverly, "and they think I'm on some kind of mission to take away their rights to do either. The fact is, I come from a tobacco growing family and I am also a former smoker. I quit smoking because of health reasons. I'm not interested in whether someone raises tobacco or not - nor am I resentful of people who smoke. My role as a Freshstart facilitator is to help those people who want to quit smoking, and I believe this program can work for them."

Army Reserve names top scholar/athletes

James D. Russell and Cynthia McCauley of Rockcastle County High school recently received the 1994 U.S. Army Reserve National Scholar/Athlete Award.

Presented annually by the U.S. Army Reserve, this prestigious award goes to high school students demonstrating outstanding ability in both academics and athletics. Staff Sgt. Alton Seymour, local Army recruiter, presented bronze Olympic-style medals and certificates to the students.

Presented by the U.S. Army Reserve since 1981, the National Scholar/Athlete Award has become a tradition in many high schools. Each year, teachers, coaches and administrators from more than 12,000 high schools nationwide nominate their best students for the award. Some 20,000 students receive this honor each year.

When glasses break . . .
By: Lee Cain, O.D.

The sad truth is that glasses do break now and then. The guidelines on what to do about it—repair them or replace them—depends on the damage and the age of the glasses.

If it's the lens that broke, the only option is replacement, of course. Smart move: if the prescription is more than a year old, have your eyes examined before getting new lenses. There may be a change.

If all that's broken on a frame is a screw or rivet, your optometrist will be happy to supply it. But if a broken plastic frame is more than two years old, it's wiser to replace it. Any repairs will stress the rest of the frame, which will break again. It's often better to replace an old frame than try to insert new lenses.

Don't throw away old glasses that aren't broken. It's a good idea to hold onto the old pair when you have new glasses made. If the prescription hasn't changed drastically, the old glasses can be worn in an emergency—for instance, if the new glasses break!

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,
 The 50th anniversary of D-Day stirs old memories, and I am trying to locate one whom I lost on maneuvers in Tennessee in 1944. He came from Mt. Vernon, and attended what is now Eastern Kentucky University after the war.
 Have any of your readers known, or do they know the whereabouts of Opp Bussell, Jr., a former member of the 94th Infantry Division? Assuming he is still among us, I would dearly love to locate him.
 Yours truly,

Dear Editor,
 Here are some thoughts on what will become of the school in Livingston.
 The "Goodbye Ceremony" has been said. The laughing children have all gone away. Learning will no longer take place in this structure we are told.
 What, then, is to happen to this building, that for years has served as a learning center for generations of families?
 Will someone renovate it into a factory, apartments, or a warehouse? Will it be left to sit idly and depre-

"Back again"

Because of the constant inquiry, "what has happened, I can't find Sweet and Sour" and, "I miss your piece in the paper, what's wrong?" and especially because of the young man who keeps asking Polly why I have stopped writing, I am back again.

Think, remembering and putting it all down on paper in a way people can enjoy isn't easy to do when one is wrecked with pain and especially when it is in the writing arm. Thanks to Dr. Stipple my shoulder is doing quite well, and I have a new word processor to take the place of the one that quit on me when I needed it most.

So, thanks to all of you who have encouraged me to continue writing about the sweet and sour memories I have of eighty years of living life to its fullest.

Zi

A Bit of My Childhood

Sometimes the nights become too long and the restless turning and tossing wears me out. It is then I drift off into memories of days long gone by and quietly settle down under the covers and relive some of those days. Or perhaps my hands and I doze off into a semiconscious state of mind and allow visions of people and things to fill the void that surrounded many of us who have nothing to do but dream.

On one of these occasions I found myself back on Wells Avenue, in Wellsville, Ohio, where I lived when I was a child.

All my memories aren't happy ones but I try to only allow the happy ones to come forth. The one that sneaked into my memory the other day when I was half asleep was one of these. And once again I joined a couple of my girlfriends for a hike up Wells Hollow. Each of us had a little picnic snack tucked under our arms. Wells Hollow was a place of enchantment to me. The road into it was only about a half block from our house, and the hollow itself could be explored from end to end in a couple of hours but it was a sanctuary I could spend countless hours in. The rough dirt and gravel road leading into it soon turned into a winding path that led us through a small field and often almost touched the cool mountain stream as the water rushing to get to the river which was only a short distance away. This was a very ordinary path and got muddy when it rained so the girls who lived here had to be very careful of their pretty slippers when they came to town or school. I still remember how the pretty young woman with her spike heels on, would stop to wipe them carefully before she got on the street car that took her to work. The rough road and path served the few people who lived a quarter mile or so up this hollow as their exit to the busy thoroughfare where street cars ran every fifteen minutes to get the passengers to their destinations of play, work or business, and cars whizzed by at the great speed of twenty-five or thirty miles an hour. Remember this was some seventy years ago and thirty-five miles an hour was really speeding.

me and I was always in awe of it. I would still like to know the message left on those ancient rocks, by ancient people for a future world to read and learn from.

I don't know about the other girls but I always went home with a happy but very somber feeling after one of these sojourns into what I now realize was a part of a very ancient past. And so, one of my own little paths has led me back down memory lane and allowed me to once again live in the magic world of a child and wander up a hollow filled with beauty and ghosts of the past. This special hollow with all its mysteries and quaint beauty has probably succumbed to what in today's world is called progress, super highways, subdivisions, drive-in restaurants, etc.

Not far from this hollow, about two miles north, is where the explorer and Indian fighter, Brady, was killed in a very tiny cave overlooking the Ohio River he was trying to escape the Indians. This area was named for him, and is called "Brady's Cut."

There are several different kinds of checking accounts. If you maintain a lower balance, a regular checking account would probably be best for you. With a medium balance you could earn interest with a Now Account. If you maintain a balance of over $2,500, you should have a Super-Now Account which pays a good rate of return.

DAR honors two members

The Rockcastle Chapter of the DAR met Tuesday evening May 10, at Sowder's Nursing Home to honor two of their over-ninety members, Miss Janie Ramsey and Mrs. Laura Hiatt Brown McHargue. Special recognition was given to Mrs. Mary Gay Walker, organizing regent of the Rockcastle Chapter.

Mrs. Mary (Molly) Hamm, chapter regent, led the opening ceremony. Mrs. Jean Towery served as chaplain and Mrs. Laura Whitaker Durham led the music. Mrs. Jean Brown Towery read a tribute to Miss Ramsey, a resident of the home, who, at ninety-five is the oldest member of the chapter. Mrs. Carolyn Gregory Brown read a tribute to Mrs. McHargue, who, at ninety-one, is one of our more active members.

The Rockcastle Chapter was organized in 1970 through the efforts of Mrs. Mary Gay Walker. Charter members in attendance were: Mrs. Walker, Mrs. Ann Lair Henderson, Mrs. Nancy Lambert Williams, Miss Janie Ramsey and Mrs. Jean Brown Towery.

Guests of the Chapter were Mrs. Margaret Saylor Morin, a nursing home resident and cousin of member, Laura Durham. Mrs. McHargue's daughter, Ella Katherine Tidrick, was visiting from Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Vice-regent, Carolyn Brown, carried the Derby theme through to the refreshment table where she served Pierre in silver cups with a sprig of mint and delicious homemade derby pie.

Winning Essay
by Pam Martin

I go through the doors of a morning into a building called Sowder Nursing Home that will probably be the final home for the biggest percentage of its residents. Inside this building people from all walks of life; the rich, the poor, the educated, the uneducated, are brought together to live for their remaining days. They are here because their body has dysfunctioning parts or their minds have stopped dealing with the present and future. They seem only to remember the days before they had trouble and worries and sickness. They are as babies that smile at the simple and funny things in life.

As I walk futher into this building I see all different types of posters hung on the wall. They show information on rules, regulations and organizations that assure you the residents are being well taken care of. All the different equipment my eyes see and my ear hear tell me that medical technology is progressing rapidly. But you know, with all these rules and regulations, organizations that protest and instructions on medical equipment, nowhere will you see a mention of taking 30 seconds per day and give a hug and speak an assuring word. Loneliness is a rampant disease in the fast paced world and people can die from it.

My job title is Activity Aide -- but if I could write a definition I would write a prevention to loneliness. I would write this because I walk into rooms and see the elderly cry from being lonesome. I see them cry because of things that didn't get settled between them and a lovedone. So as I start my job each morning, I ask the Lord to please let me be able to put a smile on the face of a lonely person to replace a tear they have shed because of being lonesome. I hope the Lord will use me to give a hug when it is needed, to assure a frightened little old lady that everything will be okay and that she is loved. I want to use, my voice to read to an elderly the Word of God, of His mercy, and that there are better days to come. I want to use my arms to give hugs when they feel that no one loves them. I want their final days here on this earth to be a little less lonely and when their time expires they can leave with pleasant memories of their final home on this earth, Sowder Nursing Home.

As I walk out the door at the end of each day, I hope I have helped to prevent a little less loneliness for someone that day. I've hugged all the ones I have come in contact with that day and said good-bye as if I might not ever see them again. My job has made me realize more than ever - we have no promise of tomorrow.

I do hope that someone will get a regulation passed that will read something like this: If loneliness occurs - spend time and provide residents with lots of hugs and reassuring words. Thank you.

National Nursing Home Week events

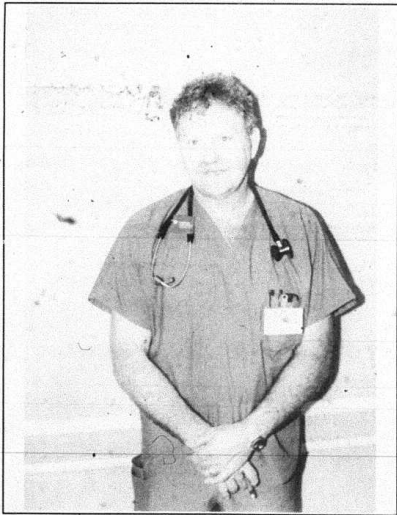

National Nursing Home Week was celebrated at Sowder Nursing Home the week of May 9th with many special activities planned for the residents. They started the week off with a special donation of hamburgers and apple pies from McDonalds. The residents loved them. Thanks so much McDonalds and Celina.

On Wednesday, the winners of the essay contest "Caring for Generations" was announced. The theme was selected by the National Nursing Home Association. Thanks to Judge Bro. Mark Whicker, Sherry Cash, and Geraldine French. The top three essays were selected, Pam Martin placed first, Lola Harrison second and Charlotte Bowling third. First prize essay is shown below. Residents and staff enjoyed the day with cake and punch.

The week ended with a picnic and fishing trip to Renfro Valley. The residents enjoyed an afternoon of hot dogs, drinks, baked beans and sweet. Public Transit provided the transportation to and from Renfro. Their van and Lola, the driver, made the trip very comfortable.

We are much more than a long-term facility . . .

We are much more than a long-term facility. Are you aware of the other services offered by your community hospital's Respiratory Care Department?

There are EEG (electroencephalograph) services for all ages. These tests allow a physician to detect any abnormalities in the brain waves. These tests are transmitted to Lexington where they are read by a neurologist.

Pulmonary Function testing is also available. This type of test helps determine if lung function is impaired and to what degree. Another use of these tests is to determine eligibility for Black Lung Benefits. You can also see the amount of improvement achieved after using a bronchodilator.

Stress testing is a very important step in evaluating cardiac function. The patient has lead wires hooked to electrodes placed at various spots on the chest. He/she will then be asked to walk on a treadmill while the technician and physician carefully monitor the function of the heart during the "stress" of walking.

These are just a few of the services offered by our fine hospital's Respiratory Care Department.

+ The Holy Bible +

As you enter the campus of Clear Creek Baptist Bible College, in front of the first things you will see is the marble Bible in front of the Aldridge building. Engraved on the Bible is the familiar prayer Jesus taught to his disciples.

This Bible is too large to carry to church and it has two pages, but it represents much more to the students of Clear Creek as well as to other Christians. The Lord's Prayer was taught by Jesus Christ and is an example for us.

The prayer acknowledges the Holy Father, and continues by praising him. He prays for the needs of the day and forgiveness of our sins as we forgive those who have sinned against us. He also prays for protection against the temptation of evil and deliverance from evil. God and His kingdom is the glory and power unto the end of the earth.

Will it be turned into a museum for Rockcastle County, to preserve the rich history of this area? We have so much to tell our children and grandchildren about our county, There is the Daniel Boone Trail, The Civil War Battles, our Indian ancestors and contributions made by the Indians, railroading, which played so much a part of Livingston's history. The WPA, Renfro Valley's legacy, coal mining, farming and the advancements made in life in general. There are so many things to protect and maintain.

Dear Editor:

Every week, I read Viewpoints. I especially liked Ike Adams' article in the June 2nd edition. He used some words that I don't normally use, but he really got the point across, and I think the last half of that article bears repeating. Please publish it again so those who may have missed it last week can read it and those who did can read it again. I and the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court, Solid Waste Department agree whole-heartedly with what he said.

Thank you,
Nancy Meadows
Solid Waste secretary

(Last half of Ike Adams' article published in the June 2nd Signal)

We can't blame industry for destroying our waterways now like we had to in the seventies and eighties. The Kentucky River from Neon to Carrollton and the Cumberland from Eolia to the lake and the Rockcastle from the mouth of Indian Creek to Bee Rock are littered with hundreds of tons of garbage that people like you and me toss into them every day. Bleach and milk jugs by the millions litter the banks. Pampers, sanitary napkins, and strings of toilet tissue sometimes fifty feet long hang from the branches on both sides of the river.

And there's absolutely no excuse for it. It's plain old everyday sorrowness and much of it is caused by the same hypocrites who take offense when some tourist notes that we live in filth. And anyone who tosses his or her garbage in the creeks or out the windows of a car is just as filthy as someone who hasn't had a bath in several weeks as far as I'm concerned.

The fish and turtles, birds and snakes, muskrats and otters probably take as much offense at it as I do. And the same environmentalists who stopped the flow of industrial waste into our waterways need not lay down their determination because a larger battle yet looms. In a nutshell, we're going to have to start putting some people in jail for a few days and imposing some stiff fines on folks who treat our streams like dumps.

When average Kentuckians commence disposing of their garbage responsibly, the landscape will take care of itself. It was doing a fantastic job when ole Dan'l Boone arrived on the scene and there's no reason we can't have a world class watershed yet again. If you're littering now, stop it! If you know some who is, go to the courthouse and swear out a warrant. raise #5% until it stops.
