Rogers asking for help to fight federal charges

Kentucky Senate Minority Leader John Rogers is asking for money to fight federal corruption charges with a solicitation letter that displays his state title.

Rogers, a Somerset Republican and former Rockcastle Senator, said Tuesday he "probably made a mistake" by sending out the fund-raising letter on stationery that carries his title, Senate GOP leader.

Rogers said he distributed fewer than 20 copies of the May 5 letter.

Rogers faces trial Oct. 17 in U.S. District Court on two counts of extortion and one count each of mail fraud and lying to the FBI.

He is charged with conspiring to take money from the owner of a Bowling Green Bank in return for helping pass a 1984 bill that would allow banks to expand beyond county and state lines.

Breakin

A breakin at a construction site netted thieves over $5,000 in stolen materials and tools.

James Dobson Construction which has headquarters at a coal tipple at Synder told police he had lost the items in a Sunday night breakin.

Various tools, including power saws, drills and cable totaled $5,020.

Beer, whiskey taken in raid

Vernon Dean Busell of Turk Hill was arrested recently by sheriff's deputies on an alcoholic beverage charge.

He was charged with illegal sale of alcoholic beverages in a local option territory after officers found 969 cans of beer, four pints of whiskey and $49.

JUST A SWAGIN' is the way Devin Davidson, 2, deals with the heat wave Rockcastle has been experiencing recently. Devin, son of Leon and Janice Davidson of near Mt. Vernon, took it easy on a swing at Cedar Rapids recently.

It's hot

It's hot! And folks are complaining about the heat.

But mostly it's the humidity that makes it feel that way.

The high temperature at Cox Funeral Home in June was 93 on June 19. The low was 51 on June 4.

Three days in June have been 90 and above. It was 91 last Friday, 91 on Saturday and 93 on Sunday.

It was in the 80's every other day in June except June 3 and 4.

Rainfall was scarce, only a total of 1.86 inches has fallen in June to date. The most fell on June 7 with 1.30 inches.

It could be worse. Say, 30 below zero, like last winter.

Setting it Straight

Catherine Sparkman of Purr Rigby Road reported she did not report to any official that her mailbox was bombed by a "McGiver" bomb, as reported in a Signal article last week. So we checked again. Mail carrier Oscar Fain reported it to Brodhead postmistress, Liz Tipton, who in turn, reported it to the sheriff and state police.

Ricky Skaggs will be at Renfro Valley July 24

Kentucky-native Ricky Skaggs returns to his home state to perform at Kentucky's Country Music Capital, Renfro Valley. Skaggs will perform in two concerts, at 2 p.m. and 6 p.m. July 24.

A decade has passed since Ricky Skaggs recorded his first album, "Waitin' For The Sun To Shine" on Epic Records. That album, which sold more than a half-million copies, is often credited for igniting country's return to its roots. Skaggs has followed that success with five additional top-selling albums and scores of chart-climbing singles.

Skaggs has been called a visionary for introducing a blend of bluegrass to back-to-basics country music. His vocal and instrumental skills have earned him accolades in both fields. Later career ventures into gospel music met with equal success.

Given Ricky Skaggs popularity in his home state, Renfro Valley recommends fans call to reserve tickets well in advance of the July 24 concerts. Tickets are $13.50 preferred (front, center, sections), $12.50. Reservations may be made by calling the Renfro Valley box office at 1-800-765-7464 or 606-256-2638 or through Select-a-seat at 513-721-1000.

Mail fraud charges get nine more in insurance scam

Rockcastle's ever-expanding insurance fraud case, trapped nine more co-conspirators this week.

Arrested Friday on mail fraud charges were Shirley Keith Mullins and wife Brenda Mullins; Carl and Mary Coffey and Clayton Robinson, all of Mt. Vernon and Raymond Parsley of East Bernstadt.

Arrested Tuesday were Ruben Hammons, his daughter, Shirley Mink, both of Mt. Vernon and Barritt C. Allen of Danville.

Arrested April 14, were Lloyd Pittman of Mt. Vernon and Orville Blackburn of East Bernstadt.

Arrested April 22 were Carl Ed Ramsey and wife, Mary, of Mt. Vernon.

Pittman, Blackburn, Carl Ramsey and Mary Ramsey have all pleaded guilty and are awaiting sentencing about Oct. 7 in Federal Court in London.

Larry Miller, postal inspector, said additional arrests are expected. Among those pleading guilty in federal court in January was Russell E. Ramsey of Mt. Vernon described as the ringleader of the scam. He posted a $10,000 full cash bond.

Others who pleaded guilty before U.S. District Judge Jennifer Coffman in January are Ramsey's children, Gary Ramsey and Debra J. Lunsford; Gary Ramsey's wife, Susan A. Ramsey; and Debra Lunsford's ex-husband, Michael W. Lunsford of Berea.

All admitted guilty as part of a plea bargain.

Randy L. Fyffe Sr. of South Portsmouth and Berea has entered into a similar plea bargain. Fyffe posted a $5,000 bond. The others in the earlier arrests posted $2,500 bonds.

The federal officials have watched the activities for about 2 years. The group were charged with obtaining 1,443 insurance policies, filed 2,778 claims and collected insurance totaling $3,246,440 dated from 1986.

Russell Ramsey faces 31 counts of fraud which carries 5 years in jail or a $25,000 fine on each count.

Most of the money collected from the insurance companies were payments for faked accidents involving the Ramseys and other county people.

The indictment said Ramsey used two doctors from Morristown, Tenn. - Dan Hale and Gene Lynch. They were not indicted or listed as co-conspirators in the original arrests.

Philpot calls for Rogers to step down as leader

Sen. Tim Philpot yesterday called on Minority Leader John Rogers to resign his job as head of the 14 Senate Republicans, but Rogers said he would not.

Philpot, R-Lexington, said Rogers is still using his office, directing staff members and influencing decisions on running the Republican caucus despite an April promise to step down from his duties after being indicted on federal corruption charges.

"It's not right for Senator Rogers to continue as our leader," Philpot said. However, Rogers later said he has honored his commitment not to run the caucus. He uses the office because it is the only place for him to work, but Sen. Tom Buford (Nicholasville and Charlie Borders of Ashland are managing the caucus, Rogers said.

"I basically have become non-political," said Rogers, who is from Somerset.

Buford, the minority caucus chairman, said he and Borders have conferred with Rogers but that he does not exercise any leadership role. Rogers pleaded not guilty in April to two counts of extortion and one count each of mail fraud and lying to the FBI. He allegedly conspired to

Huff resigns after 26 years

State Sen. Gene Huff, a London republican with 26 years in the General Assembly, resigned yesterday, effective June 30.

Huff spent four years in the House and 22 in the Senate, serving under seven governors. He was a former minority floor leader of the Senate.

Huff, said he was leaving because of the "general legislative environment."

He did not elaborate, but the General Assembly has experienced a larger-than-usual turnover in the two years since a wide-ranging federal corruption investigation became public.

Huff represents the 21st Senate District, which contains Knox, Laurel and Lee counties.

His term ends in January 1997. Huff said he had been intending to resign in October, when he turns 65, but decided recently to move his departure date up.

Accident kills Mt. Vernon man

A Mt. Vernon man was killed June 15 in a one-car accident in the Clear Creek section of the county.

Michael Lee McFerron, 34, was eastbound on Johnny King Road when his car left the road, hit a log in a ditch, came back on the road and overturned on top of a fallen tree.

He was pinned beneath the car. He was pronounced dead at Berea Hospital.

Deputy Sheriff Randall Reynolds investigated the accident.

McFerron was born in Rockcastle County on Sept. 14, 1960, the son of Ronald and Ruby Jean Cromer McFerron.

Survivors in addition to his parents are his wife, Mrs. Connie McFerron; two sons, Anthony and Ryan McFerron; two sisters, Connie Childress of Brodhead and Tina McFerron of Mt.

Vernon and his paternal grandfather, Harvey McFerron of Mt. Vernon.

Services were conducted June 19, 1994 at the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home with Bro. Jim Kirby officiating. Burial was in the Elmwood Cemetery.

Pallbearers were Terry Bell, Larry Durham, Ronnie Mink, Eddie Staffsworth, James Phillips and Douglas Rowe.

Autumn Renner escaped serious injury when this car, which she was driving, was heavily damaged after colliding with a pick-up on the Purr-Rigby Road recently. Ms. Renner was taken to the Rockcastle Hospital where she was treated and released.

Michael Lee McFerron, was the driver of this car when he was killed last week in a one-car accident.

Points East

Last Friday morning I ran into friend and neighbor, Roger Hatfield in the lobby at the Bank of Paint Lick. Roger seldom, if ever, takes it upon himself to meddle in other folks' business, but after we had exchanged pleasantries he mentioned that he had read last week's column. Those of you who faithfully read this space may recall that I was more than somewhat bothered last week because numerous items of my summer wardrobe had shrunk during winter storage. (Those of you who don't read ought to be ashamed of yourselves, but that's beside the point.)

I'm still bothered but, Hatfield, who makes a habit of diagnosing such phenomenal occurrences, informed me that he was pretty sure he knew what was going on.

out of his office and looked me up and down. With a nod of approval and an obvious sigh of relief, Joe apologized for interrupting and then let it be known to everyone in listening distance that he had been dreading my appearance for days now because he figured I'd wear my purple shorts into the bank. (Joe does read the paper.) He was glad to see me in dress trousers, he said and wondered whether or not he should go ahead and issue the Writ of Non-Admittance the bank had drafted in concern to any attempt I might make to do business there while dressed in the aforementioned shorts.

Joe is concerned that such a sight might be more than the tellers and several of the single women who hold accounts at the bank would be able to handle and still maintain their presence of mind. Joe is also in charge of riot prevention at the bank. It is, understandably, in his own best interest and that of First Southern National bank to maintain some semblance of business as usual. His fear that me in my purple shorts might cause a disruption in the normal flow of business may be well founded.

I personally think that my shorts could draw in new customers, but, on the other hand, I'm not a banker. And I told Joe that I didn't normally wear those shorts during business hours and, besides that, they've shrunk so much that I may never be able to wear them again anyway.

Joe heaved another sigh of relief and apologized again to Roger and me that he had interrupted. He said he'd tear up the writ and thus avoid being standered in your favorite weekly newspaper.

Whereupon Hatfield announced again that he had the whole thing figured out. It's ozone. Ozone has shrunk my shorts, my golf shirts, my summer suits and if I had been in the same box all winter as my clothes its untelling what else it might have shrunk. Roger said that I ought to count my blessings and put all my stuff in Loreta's Yard Sale and go on about my business.

Joe heaved yet another sigh of relief and it was apparent that he was having a good day. Between Hatfield and myself, we had solved three of his major worries in less than five minutes.

"I've had the same problem," he confided. "My clothing has all shrunk too but I've been blaming it on the cleaners."

"It's the ozone," Roger said matter of factly. "Take my word for it. Ozone is attacking the wardrobes of men over forty all over Central Kentucky."

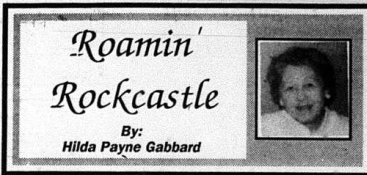

Joe and I just looked at each other for a minute, we literally stood there and stared with our mouths dropped open. There's not a Prophet in the Old Testament who ever made a more astounding revelation than he and I had just heard from Roger Hatfield and I could tell that he was waiting for me to ask the most obvious question on both our minds.

"Does that mean the starvation diets we've been on aren't going to help us get back into our summer clothing?" I finally asked.

Roger took a glance at my midriff and then at Joe's. Then he stuck his head out the door and look up at the sky for a few seconds. He surveyed us both again and shook his head.

"I'd say the ozone has also swelled you fellows up pretty bad," he observed. "And to my knowledge there's

We attended the Payne Family Reunion for the first time in all the years that the Paynes have been having it.

This was luck for I didn't expect anyone there to know about me. I call her one of my "first class" good readers.

Cleve and Blanche Payne from Clear Creek, Peggy Payne Rowlett from Berea, John and I went over to Rentfro Valley picnic grounds this past Sunday to represent our branch of the Payne family in Rockcastle.

There were pictures of someone in the family in that generation.

Out on the floor of the big recreation room, a group formed and began doing "line dancing."

I tell you I felt like joining them but John said, "No, remember you've been sick and not really well yet," so I watched the group following the leader.

Mrs. Bullock said she lived on U.S. 25, about half way between London and Mt. Vernon.

I asked her what was the longest (Cont. to A3)

A recent article in the Lexington Herald-Leader was of great interest to me because it set forth very succinctly my oft-repeated feelings about the disparity in the warnings given about the dangers of cigarettes as opposed to the dangers of alcohol.

I will admit right off, I smoke and don't drink so I suppose I am defensive about my vice -- but, I am not foolish and I resent government deciding that I am more harmful to myself and the general public because I smoke a pack of cigarettes a day rather than drink a pint of whiskey.

You will never convince me that more lives have been lost because of cigarettes than because of alcohol and, give me the choice of my children drinking or smoking and I will choose the latter anytime.

At least with cigarettes, you are not impairing your reflexes until you are a danger to yourself and others. How many bumps on Skid Row are there because of their inability to handle cigarettes? How many lives have been lost on highways because of cigarettes? How many homes have been torn apart because of a person's smoking habits?

Fire, warn children of the harm smoking can do. Stress it as often as possible and, hopefully, we will eventually become a smoke-free nation. But, how much better off we would be as a nation to become alcohol-free. Perhaps if the same amount of time and publicity were given about the evils of alcohol to our young people, great inroads could be made in this national problem.

The article to which I referred earlier was by Anna Quindlen, syndicated columnist. Some of the frightening facts and figures quoted by Ms. Quindlen were:

- Ninety percent of all reported campus rapes occur when either the victim or the assailant has been drinking.
- At least one in five college students abandons safe sex practices when drunk that they'd use when sober.
- Two-thirds of college suicide victims were legally intoxicated at the time of death.
- Estimates of alcoholism range from 10 to 15 percent of the college population.
- There are 18.5 million people with alcohol problems and only 5 million drug addicts.

Fourth of July Safety

By: Kentucky Veterinary Medical Association

New laws restricting sale of fireworks and firearms may now be in effect, but don't let the farm that Fourth of July celebrations are going to be any less boisterous and exuberant than they usually are in Kentucky.

And while typical Independence Day celebrations can be fun for people, they can cause tremendous problems for pets unless the animals are properly supervised.

Traditional Kentucky celebrations have usually included private fireworks such as Roman candles and firecrackers and skyrocket, almost as easily available today as in the past. And cookouts at which alcohol flows freely. Huge crowds of people often attend the public celebrations.

The 1994 celebrations seem to be heading in the same direction. People likely will have forgotten the threats these things cause to both children and animals.

Most obvious -- but perhaps least often considered -- are the huge crowds that can be gathered in urban areas. Small living things that cannot see over the top of the crowds can get easily lost in crowds of tens of thousands of people. If your dog, for example, should get separated from you remember it isn't large enough to see over the heads of the crowd and find you. And its senses of smell and hearing are going to be diminished, because of the noise and the too many people.

There is a danger that your pet can become frightened and possibly injure people. There is also a danger your pet may become lost. Solution? Take a strong leash and pay attention, or consider not even taking the animal unless you need it for protection. Fireworks have always fascinated the American people, and no less so today. The bright colors and the big bangs are an intricate part of the United States.

But remember your animal's hearing is more sensitive than yours, and the big bangs will seem even louder to the animal. The harmonics from some of the fireworks, as well as the bangs, have been known to cause permanent hearing loss in animals. And the continued noise from crowds and parades has been known to make some animals turn tail and flee.

Though firecrackers and such are illegal in many areas, they can still be obtained and are often seen in Kentucky. Remember, the flash and heat from some of these fireworks can cause serious burns and blindness if thrown toward pets, or if the animal wanders into the path of fireworks.

While alcohol consumption and drunkenness in public seem to be diminishing in dramatic measure, the problem has not been eliminated. A drunk driver can still hit your dog (solution, don't turn the dog loose) or, perhaps even worse, a drunk may stumble and trip on it and fall or get bitten and then you get sued.

Your veterinarian will probably be available or have someone available to assist in any emergencies that may occur. But it would be easier all the way around if animal owners would use common sense and not get their animals involved in the crowds, or if they must, if they would keep tight control.

Remember, your veterinarian is as glad to be an American as you are, and he may also want to join the celebration.

For further information contact Dr. Kristan K. Hodges at 4147 Madison Pike, Covington, KY. 41017 or phone 606-356-2242.

"Points East" (Cont. from A2)

not a thing you can do to cure it. "Sit-ups and push-ups and leg-lifts won't help none either?" Joe wanted to know.

"Not a chance," said Roger. "How much weight have you been able to lose on your diet?"

"I've been on water and cornmeal mush for three weeks now," I told him and so far I've gained two pounds.

"If I were you guys," Roger suggested, "I'd just go out and buy some new clothes. But since the ozone won't be afflicting me for a few years, I'd be glad to make a modest offer on any good stuff either one of you have that might fit me."

"That's a marvelous idea!" Joe exclaimed. And then his face fell. "I hope to goodness you're not planning on buying that pair of purple shorts from Adams and then wearing them into this bank. You'd be a worse threat to business than he is!" Joe insisted as he stomped back into his office.

At least the Writ now has Roger Hatfield's name on it. And Joe doesn't know it yet, but Rose's Department store in Richmond is going out of business and they've had some hot pink shorts with chartreuse racing stripes on them for $2 a pair in precisely my size. Roger was shopping for bargains and ran into my kids! He convinced them the shorts were ozone proof.

Guess what I got for Father's Day? Guess what I'm going to be wearing when I go to the dog banking at the end of the week?

"More people who commit crimes are drunk than high."

"Illicit drug use on campus has decreased 60 percent in the last decade. Beer is the dope of the quad."

If the Surgeon General is determined to make nicotine a legal drug that can be controlled, fine, the same label should certainly be given to alcohol.

Ms. Quinden also pointed out that "while even young children know that cigarettes cause cancer, what they know and learn and believe about booze and beer and wine is different because it is the drug their parents keep in the refrigerator and use themselves. And that can be confusing."

Perhaps it is time to demand that our public schools given equal time to the teaching of the evils of alcohol because I guarantee you, that lesson would be of greater value to them as children and adults.

And, for the record, I have no problem with the smoking bans being put in place throughout our country in public places. I have no right to impose the aggravation of my habit on others and, if I cannot dig down eventually and find the willpower to quit something that I know is destructive to my health, than I have no one to blame but myself but, most likely, I will have harmed no one but myself and therein lies my disagreement with the national frenzy afoot to make parks of all of us with this habit.

distance anyone had come to the reunion.

Alabama, she thought, with some from Indiana and Ohio. We promised to come next year in the morning to meet more people. I thought it would be a good time to bring my turnip preserves and let them know we had interesting things here in the hills.

We didn't know anyone there but Cleve said they knew quite a few people.

The one coming from Alabama was probably Ron Payne whom we write to or exchange news of the family generations.

John has taken Arthur Davidson, our next door neighbor, as a partner in the molasses making business. They have three large fields to take care of by plowing and thinning, not to mention all the back breaking striping. I feel sure I won't be well all summer and fall!

I am not raising petunias this year as I filled two long porch boxes years before. I am putting pots of pansies on the porch and in front of the house.

John got the cutest great, grandfather's card from Chase and called his momma to tell her how happy it made his day. John told her he had three grandsons and Chase was the only one to remember him.

We gave Chase a sturdy table and two chairs when we visited Chess not long ago. Now he lives at that table, says Karen, his mom, taking meals at it, watching television, parking his milk bottle there so we're glad he likes the set.

Recently we stopped in Brodhead when we took flowers to my brother, George and wife, Lou's graves. The graveyard looked like a sea of blooms.

The place we stopped as we went back through Brodhead at the Dix Point Restaurant where they serve the best coffee I've had in a long time. It was here I met another "reader" Liz Stewart who served us some french fried onion rings that are out of this world, they were so good!

I have a name Valerie Couch and date April 29 but can't place her. I also had a nice letter from Ruby Alexander Peever giving me the names of her folks at a reunion. She is in another section of this paper.

Flossie Stephens tells this one on herself. She had a fairfather who led the singing at Fairview Church named William and wife Anna Kirby from Florence.

Flossie would sing in the church until one weekend, the old man couldn't come so since Flossie sang well, she got up and led the singing of the church members.

Scaffold Cane graveyard needs more work done on it and they are asking for donations to now the grounds.

Brother Dodson's sermon at Gallie Baptist Church Sunday was on 'Emotional Failure' and very interesting. Of course the singing was beyond compare.

I tell you I've been shocked this past week over the treatment that Lee Abbey has been giving his pretty wife, Kay.

I had heard that he left her on Sunday afternoon crying and that is not like Lee. So I went to talk to her after church and sure enough Kay was crying big and loud. Lee was getting ready to leave so I'll try to talk to them, I said to myself.

"Tell me about it, Kay," I said. "Is Lee leaving you?"

She started crying again and said, "Yes, he is. He goes up to Troy, Ohio, and works for a week then comes home on Friday evening. People think we are separating and gossip has started."

Lee turned to John and said, "I'd like to have some peace and quiet." "Could I go with you," John asked Lee. I gave him a look that meant I was giving a broom later.

June is such a pretty month with wild, pink roses growing on fences and other blooms along with them.

My sister-in-law, Mary Frances Payne, who was married to Howard Payne (deceased) had her 86th birthday celebrated by her family on June 19th with a surprise dinner at Halls On Hill River.

Till next week: "Positive thinking is faith."

$1.6 million approved for new courthouse

U.S. Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-5) said today $1.6 million for site acquisition and design of the new London courthouse has been approved by the House of Representatives.

Included in the 1995 Treasury and Postal funding bill which passed overwhelmingly, the initial funding for the new courthouse's site acquisition and design is the first stage of the $15.8 million courthouse proposal for London.

The old courthouse, built in 1911, is simply too small to handle the steady growth in Federal cases in Southern Kentucky, according to the U.S. General Services Administration (GSA). It will still be used in conjunction with the new building.

Rogers previously testified before the House Public Works Committee stressing the need for a new courthouse and Federal Center in London. At Rogers urging, the Committee directed the GSA to report on the space needs of the federal courts and other federal agencies in London. After an extensive study, GSA recommended construction of a new facility.

Jackson County RECC spent more than $9 million in additions to the electric system over the past year. All in all the financial condition of the cooperative is positive.

Leary also said that the cooperative had been through a tough year of weather related outages, and he thanked the members for their support as employees and outside crews worked long hours to restore power. In his closing comments Leary assured the audience that Jackson County Rural Electric will work with local officials, as needed, to bring jobs and stimulate the economic growth of our communities.

President of Kentucky Association of Electric Cooperatives, Ron Shets, made a brief statement to the crowd; commending Cooperative employees for their dedication and untiring efforts during the worst winter storms on record. Also, Roy Palk was welcomed to his first annual meeting as the new president and CEO of East Kentucky Power. Palk stirred interest throughout the crowd when he commented that there was the possibility of a rate decrease on wholesale power cost in the future.

There were eight youths from throughout the Cooperative service area that were recognized for their achievements in winning scholarships from the Cooperative during the spring of 1994.

The crowd was entertained by Grand Ole Opry Star, Jimmy C. Newman, and ventriloquist Colonel Bill Boley.

Jackson County RECC provides electricity to 40,093 member/owners in Jackson, Laurel, Rockcastle, Clay, Owsley, Lee, and Estill counties.

Congratulations Anthony! Anthony Reams was the feature winner of the 30 lap Butterball Memorial race Saturday night. He started the race on the third row and finished in front. This was the third straight Saturday night win for Anthony. We are proud of you!

million state taxes and another $77 million in local taxes.

Jones announced the figures during ceremonies in Louisville, marking the start of National Tourism Week festivities in Kentucky. He was joined in the announcement by Greg Farmer who, as Under Secretary of Commerce for Travel and Tourism, is the top federal tourism official. The economic impact study was conducted by the Department of Travel Development in the State Tourism Cabinet. The study estimates statewide total expenditures, gauging not only direct spending, but also a multiplier effect that reflects additional economic activity that tourism spending produces. The report includes regional and county direct spending without the multiplier formula.

Jackson County RECC membership meeting

The Annual Membership Meeting of Jackson County Rural Electric Cooperative Corporation was held June 14 at the RECC farm in Jackson County.

At meeting time the temperature was 87 degrees and very humid. Even though the weather was somewhat uncomfortable the crowd was estimated at 3,700 including 1,472 consumer members that registered just prior to the beginning of the business meeting.

Cooperative Attorney, Peter J. Flaherty III, presided over the business meeting of the cooperative. During the business meeting three members were elected to the Board of Directors for three year terms. They were Jim Hays of District 2 in Jackson County, Wm. Watkins, Jr., of District 6 in Clay County, and Fred Brown of District 4 in Estill County. Minutes of the previous meeting and a treasurer's report were approved.

Douglas P. Leary, president and general manager, said in his address to the members that sales of kilowatt hours was up almost 11 percent over recent years, and from the revenue side this is very positive. However, during the same time-frame, load growth or the demand for electric energy also exceeded recent years.

Mobile homes getting smoke detectors

Today the Kentucky State Fire Marshal, in cooperation with the National Association of State Fire Marshals (NASFM), installed smoke detectors in mobile homes located in Richmond, Kentucky. The smoke detectors at Williams Trailer Court were made available through The NASFM Challenge, a continuing program of Public Fire Education to assure a working smoke detector in each and every residence in America.

A recent survey, conducted by the Kentucky State Fire Marshal's office, was undertaken to determine the number of mobile homes, located in mobile home parks, without smoke detectors. The focus on mobile homes comes from a continuing large number of fire deaths in mobile homes. Newer mobile homes, those manufactured after 1977, are built to federal guideline under the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development regulations. Although these newer homes have shown a 74 percent decrease in fire fatalities as reported by the National Fire Protection Association, a very large number of older homes are still inhabited in Kentucky.

During the period of 1-1-93 through 5-31-94, there have been a total of 137 fire fatalities in Kentucky. Forty-four occurred in mobile homes and an operable smoke detector was only found in three of the fires.

"Today marks the first step in our goal of having an operable smoke detector in every mobile home in Kentucky," stated State Fire Marshal, Dennis Decker. "The focus of today's presentation is on the older style mobile home, those manufactured prior to 1977. However, we must not forget that the majority of all fire fatalities occur in single family dwellings. This includes older mobile homes, newer mobile homes as well as conventional site-constructed homes."

The single most common factor in fatal fires in the home is the absence of a working smoke detector. Since none of them are regulated, after construction the best way to promote the installation of smoke detectors is through publicity.

Tourism posts record year in '93

Governor Brereton Jones announced on May 16, that total tourism spending in Kentucky grew to $6.8 billion last year, a healthy 9.4 percent over 1992.

Tourism and travel also supported 143,000 jobs, an increase of about 4,000 over 1992's total. Spending by travelers also accounted for $443

Boats and Water: Play It Safe

Boating safely during the upcoming summer vacations can mean you'll be around to enjoy your outdoor pursuits on Labor Day and beyond.

Traditionally, Memorial Day opens Kentucky's boating season. After the winter we've had with its ice storms and snow measured in feet, people are anxious to get out and enjoy warm days. Just remember to play it safe.

New and experienced boaters need to follow a few common-sense rules for safe outings. First, make sure your boat contains all required safety equipment such as personal flotation devices, fire extinguishers, etc. Operating a boat safely requires undivided attention. This means being alert to other boats as well as people in the water. Be sure to obey regulatory buoys marking idle speed zones and no sking and no swimming areas.

Drinking and boating are a dangerous mix. Boat handlers who consume alcoholic beverages are inviting deadly situations. Alcohol combined with other fatigue factors such as engine noise, heat, sun glare and wind can seriously impair one's ability to see and react to dangerous situations.

Don't be foolish. Be smart. Boat safe.

For more tips on safe boating or to obtain a copy of the "Kentucky Boating Guide," call 1-800-828-2628.

Information on boating safety recall campaign

The Coast Guard today published information on seven more boating safety recall campaigns.

The recalls involve steering problems with Teleflex Marine boats, mast stability on certain Hunter Marine sailboats and faulty wiring, which could cause severe electric shock, on some vessels built by Duffield Electric boats.

Four of the campaigns involve manufacturers who have gone out of business and whose boats have since been found to have either swamped, or incorrectly labeled, which could result in a boat being overloaded and possibly capsizing. Because the manufacturers went out of business before the recalls were complete, the Coast Guard has no way of knowing how many boats have the specific defect.

Consumers who own any of the boats involved in these recalls are urged to have the problem fixed promptly. The law requires that manufacturers correct the safety defects at no cost to the consumer.

Persons who own any of the models identified in the recall campaign may call the toll-free Coast Guard Boating Safety Hotline 1-800-368-5647 for advice on how to proceed in checking for a defect or on how to have it corrected.

Over 19,000 jobs created or saved in rural areas

More than 19,000 jobs will be created or saved in rural areas this fiscal year through the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Rural Development Administration (RDA) Business and Industry Program, according to RDA Acting Administrator Wilbur T. Peer.

"The RDA Business and Industry program is helping to provide new jobs in rural areas by working with banks to make financing available to new or expanding businesses," Peer said. "Thousands of jobs are also being saved by helping companies that would have to go out of business without additional financing."

"The Administration is emphasizing the Business and Industry program as part of its commitment to participate with the private sector to help create jobs and improve the rural economy," Peer said.

Nationally, RDA has invested $114,942,250 for 81 loans this fiscal year, which began last October 1. Nearly $135 million remains available for the rest of the fiscal year which ends September 8, 1994.

In Kentucky RDA has invested $5,195,000 this year in rural areas to create and/or save 175 jobs.

Under RDA's Business and Industry program, guaranteed loans are available for such purposes as the start-up or purchase of a business, working capital, conversion from one type of business to another, expansion and modernization.

"The RDA guarantee helps small businesses find credit that otherwise may not be available. Banking regulations have been tightened over the past few years and some banks, especially small rural banks, may be hesitant to lend to emerging businesses," Peer said.

"Even smaller banks, however, can make loans with the RHD guarantee because the guarantee reduces their risk. And the guaranteed portion of the loan does not count against their reserves," he said. "In addition, banks can sell the guaranteed portion of the loan on the secondary market. Also, these loans help lenders fulfill their obligation to the community in accordance with the Community Reinvestment Act."

Companies of any size can apply for guarantees on loans of up to $10 million. The amount of the Federal guarantee depends on the size of the loan. A maximum 90 percent guarantee is available for loans under $2 million, an 80 percent guarantee on loans of $2 million to 45 million, and a 70 percent guarantee is available on loans over $5 million up to $10 million.

"The Business and Industry Loan program is one of the least costly to the American taxpayer," Peer said.

"Since the Federal Government only guarantees the loan, there is no direct output of federal dollars unless there is a loss on the loan."

The RDA Business and Industry Loan Program is administered at the local level by the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) and is available through FmHA State Offices around the country.

Further information may be obtained from the Kentucky FmHA State Office, 771 Corporate Drive, suite 200, Lexington, Kentucky 40503-5477, telephone 606/224-7336.

Pond and lagoon construction advice

An estimated 25 to 40 percent of ponds in Kentucky don't hold water. Landowners wishing to build a pond or lagoon should follow certain construction guidelines for the best outcome.

Some dairy and hog waste lagoons can be potential sources for contamination of groundwater. How can ponds and lagoons be constructed to hold sufficient water and reduce seepage of waste products?

There are two major items to consider - geology and soils. Kentucky is fortunate to have good soils for construction throughout most of the state. These are soils with a relatively high clay content and a good distribution of silts and clays.

The most important parameter besides good soil is moisture content. An accurate way to determine how wet soil should be during construction is to contact a soils lab to conduct a Proctor test of the soil.

This provides the relationship between how wet the soil is and how much compaction can be achieved.

Research at the University of Kentucky shows that moisture content should be about two or three percent above the value from the Proctor test.

What is the best way to use this knowledge during actual construction?

Have several bags of soil already prepared. Some should be dry, some just right and some a little wet.

During construction, apply water to soil in the pond, disc it up, blend, mix and feel it to determine if it is too dry, too wet or just about right. This sounds very simple, but gives the landowner a good feel for what the right moisture content should be during construction.

Other construction considerations include proper construction equipment and operation of that equipment. Initial soil preparation is also very important.

Water should be thoroughly mixed throughout the soil profile because mixing and blending of soil helps in

UK field day at Princeton to offer new demonstrations

Those attending this year's "All Commodities Field Day" on July 21 at the University of Kentucky's Research and Education Center at Princeton will have an opportunity to view new things visitors in previous years issued.

How about a live insect display? How about a portable saw mill or a personal lumber drying kiln that the home hobbyist or handyman might use?

Or how about a satellite monitoring system that can pinpoint where you are and give agricultural advice for the soil at that particular point?

That's what is in store for this year's participants, according to Doug Overhults, Extension agricultural engineer with UK's College of Agriculture and coordinator of this year's field day.

"Of course, we'll have the regular tours, 15 of them, to show Kentucky farmers the latest in research in corn, wheat, tobacco, beef, swine, and other agricultural pursuits in this state," Overhults said.

But, uh, why would anyone want to go into a live insect display? "The bugs will be in cages, not you," he laughed. "You won't have to fight them off."

Participants will learn about insects important in Kentucky agriculture, and there'll be some "exotic" bugs to look at too. It's not a pesticide or "how to kill bugs" tour, but rather one to look at ways to manage insect problems including use of "good" bugs to control the bad ones.

A new forestry demonstration will offer cable logging (an environmentally friendly method of getting logs out of the woods without using heavy equipment which damages the forest), a portable sawmill and a personal drying kiln.

"That portable kiln is not a commercial thing," Overhults said. "It's something a home hobbyist or occasional handyman might find useful."

And the satellite monitoring device? "The Global Positioning System (GPS) uses military technology developed to locate targets," he said. "In agriculture, you put a lot of data in the system and take a lot of soil samples. The satellite tells you exactly where you are and specifically what the land around you needs in terms of nutrients, weed control or other input for maximum yield potential."

Yes, that science fiction-like technology is not available for most farmers today, but it is being tested today, said Overhults. It's a first step toward the future -- say five years from now.

"Overall, this year's field day fits in nicely with Kentucky's Ag Project 2000," he said. Ag Project 2000 is a joint effort by all Kentucky agricultural groups to increase the state's net receipts in agriculture from $4 billion to $5 billion by year 2000.

"This is an attempt to get current research out to the people so they can meet that goal," he said.

University of Kentucky to offer direct student loans

The University of Kentucky will begin offering federal direct student loans in the fall of 1995 under a new program aimed at saving students some loan costs and cutting weeks off the time it takes for students to get their money.

UK is one of 983 colleges or universities approved by the U.S. Department of Education to offer federal direct student loans, said Robert Hemenway, chancellor of UK's Lexington campus.

Hemenway said UK processes about 9,500 applications for federal student loans, known as Stafford loans, each year on the Lexington Campus and in the 14 UK community colleges. The loans total about $24 million.

Court of Justice legislative update

District Judge Walter Maguire, Jennifer Burton, and Dale Weddle, Court of Justice officials from Pulaski and Rockcastle Counties, participated in a recent regional legislative update meeting.

Also participating were Circuit Court Clerk Denver Miller, Teresa Vanzant and Carla Carpenter. The regional legislative update is designed to provide all employees of the Court of Justice with an opportunity to ask questions and discuss recent legislation passed by the Kentucky General Assembly.

Don Cetrulo, Director of the Administrative Office of the Courts, opened the one-day session with a report on the 1994-96 Court of Justice budget. Specifically, Mr. Cetrulo addressed the Judicial Branch budget for the next two years, including salaries and health care reform for elected and appointed officials.

Following Mr. Cetrulo's remarks, attendees separated into groups, determined by profession. Judges met to discuss the recently-passed legislation and its impact on the court system. The discussion leaders for the judges' group included one circuit and one district judge, both of whom were experienced instructors and had received specific training for the regional meetings. Circuit clerks, deputy clerks and judicial secretaries met with Ms. Cicely Lambert, General Counsel to the Administrative Office of the Courts, who reviewed the Court of Justice Sexual Harassment Policies. The employees identified the types of behavior which may constitute sexual harassment and what procedures should be following if sexual harassment occurs. Circuit and deputy clerks also met with Ms. D.J. Simpson, AOC field services representative, and discussed new legislation and its effect on circuit clerks office procedures.

Court designated workers and pretrial officers also met to discuss the effects of implementation of recent legislation. The CDW meeting was conducted by AOC's juvenile services staff, while pretrial officers met with AOC's Pretrial.

The regional legislative updates were sponsored and conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts' education services department, with special support from the departments of legal services and field services.

passed during the 1994 session of the General Assembly. Using savings estimates from the report, recommendations implemented thus far can save the state $155.3 million over five years. In addition to on-going efforts by the Career Service System task force named to review and strengthen the state's 30-year old personnel system, actions include:

- creating an Office of the Controller to better coordinate the state's accounting and financial management of its $11 billion budget;
- reducing costs in the revenue Cabinet's Unclaimed Property Division, saving an estimated $5.5 million over five years;
- assessing graduated fees for out-of-state probation and parole clients who move to Kentucky from other jurisdictions;

- the state Workforce Development Cabinet has launched a "Bash Bureaucracy" contest asking employees to help eliminate complex, unnecessary procedures, cut costs and save time;

- implementing construction of Kentucky's link to the information superhighway that will reach every county;
- including the state's vocational schools in the computer information system being implemented by state schools;

- the state Auditor's and Attorney General's offices can save an estimated $3.5 million by using in-house rather than contracted services, when more cost effective.

- streamlining of the state's purchasing procedures.
- Passage of a bill sponsored by Sen. Joe Meyer (D, Covington) sets up a new process for improving state personnel management drawing on the expertise of front-line state employees. The Personnel Pilot Project Bill allows state agencies the flexibility to experiment with personnel policy over the next four years with the intent of applying successful programs statewide. For example, pilots may be used to develop ways to better evaluate customer satisfaction, compensation and job-classifications, and performance measurements. While a number of other states are conducting similar reviews, Kentucky is the first to engage such an inclusive approach.

- Commission members are quick to point out that the achievements are only the beginning to a process that can make government more responsive to citizens and employees alike. Jim Gray, of Gray Construction in Lexington who chaired the commission, said "Grassroots and common sense ideas like those in our report have made companies like General Electric, UPS and Toyota, that more and more are true for state government. These efforts are steps to create a system that allows our state employees to get the job done." Finance Secretary Pat Mulloy, who now chairs the task force, said the report stresses the importance of employee involvement and that improvements will take time. "They haven't and won't come over night but we have begun a most innovative process for Kentucky" he said.

WMA's offer squirrel hunting during June

Four Kentucky wildlife management areas (WMAs) operated by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources (KDFWR) will be open for squirrel hunting June 1-14.

The two-week season on Green River Lake, Yellowbank, Higginson-Henry and Clay WMAs is designed to allow harvest of squirrels during a period following the spring breeding season. Populations are highest immediately after breeding, and KDFWR wildlife biologists state that the short, spring hunting season is biologically sound. Game animals are a renewable wild life resource, which means when managed correctly, some animals can be taken from the population which will be replaced naturally year after year.

The daily limit for squirrels on these WMAs is six per hunter. Shooting hours are one hour before sunset to one-half hour after sunset. Information on the location of Green River Lake, Yellowbank, Higginson-Henry and Clay WMAs is available by contacting the KDFWR 1 & E Division #1 (Camp Ram Road, Frankfort, KY 40601; phone: 502/564-4336 weekdays 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

State Government makes cost reducing moves

History proves how typical it is for government efficiency studies to end up on shelves collecting dust, forgotten to all except the people who worked on the project. The last attempt to reorganize Kentucky state government was stymied by lack of employee input and resulting legal difficulties. Little progress occurred. Not so with recommendations presented to Governor Brereton C. Jones in November by the Commission on Quality and Efficiency following a nine-month review which involved state employees and top leaders from Kentucky businesses. Six months after completing the report, Wake-Up Call, Out of Crisis and into Action, recommendations to consolidate postal services, action to increase savings and accountability for state travel and increase use of existing technology are a few of the recommendations implemented either administratively or from bills

Court receives last of grant

The last of a $5,000 grant to Rockcastle Fiscal Court for its part in a Rockcastle River Strategic Development Plan has been received.

The check for the last of the grant was for $1,250.

The payment is based on the review and approval of a recently submitted progress report.

The court's voted to have County Attorney Jeff Burdette to draw up an ordinance for installation of culverts on county roads.

The court pointed out it is illegal to install roads between county roads and private property since it usually falls up the ditch.

Rogers said after the indictment that he would not resign as minority leader but would give up his duties.

Philpot's public call for Rogers to give up his leadership title comes in the wake of news that Rogers had distributed an appeal for help with his defense fund on paper that carried his title as senator and minority leader.

Philpot said Rogers' continued presence as minority leader hurts the GOP at a time when it is poised to pick up more seats and influence in the Senate.

Philpot said several of the 14 Senate Republicans agree with him that Rogers should resign as minority leader.

Rogers said he knows of only one member who agrees with Philpot.

Burford said Rogers' status has not been an issue in the caucus since it approved him stepping aside. Most of the 14 Republicans still support that decision, Burford said.

"I have faith that he'll do the right thing," Burford said.

Rogers fighting increased tax on tobacco farmers

Fighting to protect the livelihood of Kentucky tobacco growers, U.S. Rep. Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-5) urged the House's tax writing committee to reject any proposals to increase the tax on tobacco.

In a letter to the House Ways and Means Committee Chairman Sam Gibbons, Rogers said, "There are more than 67,000 families in Kentucky for whom tobacco pays the mortgage, educates their children and puts food on the table."

"Any tax on tobacco will be devastating to their local economies and their proud tradition," Rogers added.

The Ways and Means Committee currently is debating health care reform and tax increases on tobacco have ranged from 45 cents to $1.25.

Rogers said taxes on tobacco "must not be an option" to finance any health care plan that passes in Congress. It is unfair to place the burden of health care reform on the backs of our tobacco families in Kentucky," Rogers said. "While all Americans are being asked to sacrifice to reform health care, it is plain wrong to ask tobacco farmers to make the ultimate sacrifice."

"Increased taxation on tobacco is a bad policy," Rogers said. It will do nothing but harm families, ruin our economy and destroy Kentucky's great tobacco tradition."

Callahan honored by state association as outstanding CPR instructor

The Kentucky Affiliate of the American Heart Association recently held its 43rd Annual Awards Luncheon at the Seelbach Hotel in Louisville. The meeting's theme was "Heart of Heart: You Make the Difference." More than 50 awards were presented to volunteers and organizations from across the state for their achievements in educational programs, fund raising and communications. Approximately 210 volunteers joined in the festivities and were entertained by Dr. Clifford Kuhn, a psychiatrist and humorist from Louisville.

Diana Joy Callahan, a registered nurse at Rockcastle Hospital in Mt. Vernon, was named one of the state's outstanding CPR instructors. She has been an instructor for six years.

The Kentucky Affiliate has reason to celebrate since projections for the fiscal year which ends June 30 are for its best year ever. The affiliate's fund raising campaign is projected to top $2 million for the first time ever. In the area of education, the affiliate has reached more than 573,000 Kentuckians with interactive programs this year, a 31 percent increase over 1992-93. And in the area of research, nearly a half million dollars was allocated to fund 32 local cardiovascular research projects at the University of Louisville and the University of Kentucky.

The American Heart Association is the nation's largest voluntary health agency dedicated to the reduction of disability and death due to cardiovascular diseases and stroke.

David Randall, PhD, chairman of the board of AHA's Kentucky Affiliate, presented Diana Joy Callahan with an award naming her one of the state's outstanding CPR instructors.

Fourth of July weekend roadblock will benefit R.E.A.P. and local Red Cross

By: Lu Ed Nielsen

As most people know, this year has been a very hard year for everyone and particularly for those who are hungry, ill, disabled and homeless.

The needs of the people in our county have increased, but the income has decreased, grants have decreased or been eliminated. Federal money has decreased and will continue to decrease and donations are needed to keep the doors open so that R.E.A.P. (Rockcastle Emergency Assistance Program), and the American Red Cross can continue to serve our community. The American Red Cross is mandated to help in all disasters, take care of military contacts, teach public education and help in other ways, but the American Red Cross is kept going by donations only. We do not receive government funding. There have been no food drives this year and it has been very difficult to try to furnish a resemblance of a well balanced meal. God's Pantry has been virtually empty. No one knows when they may have to come through the door seeking help from us. Most people are only one payday away from being homeless.

I would like to say thank you to the following churches for their regular gifts which have enabled us to pay utilities, office supplies, and other operating expenses: First Baptist, First Christian, Wildie Christian, Mt. Vernon Pentecostal, Brodhead Baptist, Our Lady of Mt. Vernon, Climax Christian, Kononian Sunday School Class, Willing Workers, Ladies Aid, and the numerous individuals and businesses.

Suit settled

An agreement, and subsequent ruling by Circuit Judge William Hart has settled a roadway suit between James Taylor and Clifford Collins.

Under the compromise agreement, Collins agreed to "re-construct and pave a 16-foot-wide blacktop roadway with a 30-foot right-of-way in accordance with the plans presented. It will be maintained by Rockcastle County."

It calls for the construction of "two concrete pipe culverts and other facilities -- to avoid flooding of the Taylor land."

RCWD paperwork almost completed; construction should begin soon

Work is still underway on the Rockcastle County Water District for the Climax, Three Links and Orlando areas.

There remains only one form to be processed which will complete the application requirements. After this form is accepted, (hopefully by July) the go-ahead can be given the contractor to begin actual construction of the water lines.

"This has been a long, involved process and we realize that subscribers have begun to lose patience," Harold Ballinger, president of RCWD said. "However, we are asking for just a little more patience because we now can see all our hard work about to bear fruit," Ballinger said.

Rockcastle Countians at EKU tutor Destination Graduation students

A veteran tutor in Eastern Kentucky University's Destination Graduation program in Rockcastle County, Chris Frith planned to turn his attentions elsewhere this summer.

"It just wasn't easy to walk away. I had a student last semester say, 'I hope you're back for summer school because I wouldn't have made it without you last year.' Just knowing I'm helping these kids is reward enough."

Frith is one of four EKU students from Rockcastle County who'll tutor at-risk Rockcastle County High School students this summer through EKU's Destination Graduation program, which strives to keep at-risk students in school and make them aware of various career opportunities.

I hope that I've helped them to see that they have to have an education to get any kind of job," said Frith, a 1990 graduate of RCHS and the son of Leon and Norine Frith. "It's not that they can't do it. They just need a little encouragement."

Frith, David Sargent, Darla Shields, and Teresa Wilson will each work with teachers in classroom settings, meaning greater opportunities for one-on-one interaction.

It's also a learning experience for Frith, a senior who plans to teach high school English after graduation.

Eastern also sponsors Destination Graduation programs in Estill and Jackson counties, besides the ongoing school-year tutoring program, which in each case matches the youngsters with EKU students from the same county, a rigorous summer program combines traditional academics with off-campus enrichment activities.

The Destination Graduation program is funded through the Council on Higher Education, with additional funding provided by the BellSouth Foundation and the Federal School, College and University Partnership Program. The majority of the summer school funding is provided by the school systems through the Kentucky Education Reform Act.

Seniors celebrate

The Rockcastle County Senior Citizens held a picnic recently at the Brodhead Fairgrounds and were entertained by Curt Roberts (top photo) and the Rockcastle Grass Band. Band members are, from left: Russell Blackburn, Ken Hopkins, Lloyd Mink, Roberts, Kenneth Mink, Owen Dillingham and Bobby Carpenter. At right, approximately 100 seniors and guests were present to enjoy the day which, along with the entertainment, included plenty of good food. Also present were, bottom photo: Gilbert Wynn, Judge Buzz Carioftis, Harold Jones, Perry Bowman, Charlie French and Albert Lunsford.

Circuit clerks attend statewide conference

Circuit Clerk Denver Miller, Teresa Vanzant, Pat Brown, Carla Carpenter, Joyce Houk and Brenda McKnight, representing Rockcastle County, attended the 1994 statewide clerks' conference in Louisville, June 15-17.

The conference provided clerks and deputies with an opportunity to develop professional technical training and skills. Criminal record checking procedures and legislative mandates affecting the clerks' duties and responsibilities were discussed during the opening session. Attendees were briefed about new legislation, which will enable citizens to complete voter registration procedures when obtaining or renewing a driver's license.

Participants were required to attend at least three additional workshops, which addressed issues involving Sustain, Workers' Compensation and the Family Leave Act, bookkeeping problems, appeals and driver's licensing. An innovative management-skills session offered Fayette and Jefferson counties additional training for clerk supervisors.

Charles Brown, Transportation Cabinet Director of Driver's Licensing; George Russell, Executive Director of the State Board of Elections; and Polaroid representatives, Tom Rizzo and Tom Bundy, joined several AOC managers as guest speakers.

The conference was sponsored by the Kentucky Court of Justice, planned by the Circuit Court Clerks' Education Committee and conducted by the Administrative Office of the Courts.

"Road block"

We are run by volunteers and at this time, we try to be in the office from 12-4 Monday-Friday. I am also on call 24 hours a day, 7 days a week for the American Red Cross.

We deeply appreciate the support we have received in the past, but at this time we are faced with the Bluegrass Army Depot in Richmond and the chemical stockpiles that are on the grounds. The Army is advocating the construction of an incinerator to destroy the chemicals in place and if there should be an accident, at any time, Rockcastle County will be the host county to receive from 9,000 to 13,000 Madison County citizens.

There are many things that are needed to protect our people in Rockcastle, and the people that are coming into our county as evacuees. We feel that having a roadblock to benefit our local Red Cross unit will help us in obtaining some of these specific items.

Volunteers are needed to man the roadblock on July 2, 3, and 4th. If you would like to volunteer for an hour or more on any of these days, please contact R.E.A.P. and American Red Cross at (606) 256-9599.

A few tips for sizzling cookouts

By: Hazel Jackson
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Grilled poultry is a popular choice for summer cookouts. When grilling chicken or turkey, place the meat on a properly prepared grill skin side up to seal in juices. Turn poultry frequently -- every 5 to 10 minutes -- to prevent burning.

Do not use a fork to turn meat because it will tear the meat and release juices, making the finished product dry. Instead, use long tongs to turn the meat. Baste frequently with an oil- and vinegar-based sauce to help retain moisture and prevent burning. A tomato- or sugar-based sauce has a tendency to burn and should only be used for flavor and color when meat is almost done.

Cook poultry until it is well done. When chicken is done, the drumstick will twist out of the thigh joint and the wing joints will open easily. There should be no red meat in the joints and juices should be clear.

To add a different twist to cooking outdoors, try cooking a marinated turkey breast on your grill. It's a tasty addition to a cookout. To prepare a marinating sauce for chicken or turkey, here's what you'll need:

- 1 cup salad oil
- 1 cup soy sauce
- 1 1/2 teaspoons garlic salt
- 2 cups lemon-lime soda

Mix these ingredients together and soak the chicken or turkey overnight in the sauce. Refrigerated meat will marinate. Then, wrap the meat in aluminum foil and place it on the grill. Turn the meat often as it cooks and open the foil a few times to baste the meat with leftover marinating sauce.

To tell if turkey is done, cut through the center of the thickest portion of the meat. Turkey will appear white when it is done. If still pink, it needs to cook longer.

Place poultry on a clean plate after it is done and keep hot until served.

For more information on cooking outdoors, contact Hazel Jackson at the County Extension Office at 256-2403.

Debunking Old Myths

By: Lee Cain, O.D.

Did grandma tell you to eat carrots so you could see in the dark? Or not to hold a book too close because your eyes might cross? While a few old myths do hold up to scientific scrutiny, most don't.

Reading too much or reading in poor light won't weaken your eyesight, and your eyes won't cross if the book's too close. But such bad vision practices can strain the muscles of your eye and cause visual stress--and that can alter the way you see.

Wearing glasses doesn't make your eyes get worse--you just get used to seeing better and notice the difference without them.

Wearing someone else's glasses is not a good idea. Don't do it. It's generally uncomfortable and the distortion it usually causes can result in eyestrain. Regular examinations by your optometrist keep track of the progression of your vision. If correction is needed, eyeglasses or contacts will be fitted especially for your needs.

And about the carrots: yes, the beta-carotene in them is terrific.

National Community Banking Month... Washington Visits Conclude Successfully

More than one-hundred twenty-five community bankers from across the nation descended upon Washington this week to celebrate June as National Community Banking Month. The visits included legislative and regulatory briefings by the Independent Bankers Association of America, the Conference of State Bank Supervisors, and also with Comptroller of the Currency Eugene Ludwig and Acting FDIC Chairman Skip Hove.

"The primary purpose of the visit, however, was to tell the community bank story to our members of Congress," said Gary Traugher, President of the Community Bankers Association of Kentucky. "All too often the industry is characterized as being cold and insensitive to the needs of the community and its citizens. As a result, Congress has saddled the community banks of this country with mountains of new regulations and paperwork. Our message to Congress quite simply is, enough is enough... that community banks build local communities and put America to work."

Independent Bankers Association of America President John Shivers, Chairman/President/CEO of Southwest Bank in Fort Worth, Texas, commended the leadership of the states in the formation of National Community Banking Month. "It is time that we stand up and toot our horn about the enormous contributions we make to our communities. The Community banks of this country need not be painted with the same regulatory brush and we would do well to remind our Congress of these differences."

In addition to reinforcing the Community Banking Month message, the bankers briefed their members of Congress on current issues facing the industry including interstate branching legislation, bankruptcy reform, superfund liability, fair credit reporting, and the unfair competitive advantage enjoyed by the nation's credit unions.

State Independent Bankers Association and the IBAA hope that National Community Banking Month will grow each year.

Farm News

County Extension Agent

Multiflora Roses

Multiflora roses were once promoted to be the living fence as well as an ideal wildlife cover. Many farmers are finding that fields infested with this plant rapidly become a wildlife habitat as gateways grow closed by the living fence. Excretion, maybe, but when left uncontrolled, multiflora roses will creep out from fence rows, taking acres of farm land out of production.

Controlling multiflora roses seems to be the big problem. When cut off by grubbing, bush-hogging or a mowing machine, they come back. The key is in killing the root system. Chemicals are now available to control this problem with little danger of affecting other crops.

During late summer is an ideal time to control this noxious weed. The key to success is to apply chemicals to actively growing leaves. In our area, this means applying treatments before Japanese beetles have stripped the plant.

Chemicals like Roundup and Crossbow when applied to the leaves, will translocate to the root system, killing the whole plant. Approximately 10-14 days after application the results will be seen.

For large areas, farm sprayers may be needed. However, on small groups or single plants out in the field, small hand sprayers are fine. Mixing 2 1/2 ounces of Roundup per gallon of water then applying complete coverage of the foliage along with 4-6 hours without rain is all that's needed.

Crossbow has the advantage of killing only broad leaf plants without killing the grass in treated areas. Mixture for Crossbow is about 1 1/2 to 2 ounces per gallon of water; however, continuous agitation is required.

Farmers wishing to control this weed are better equipped with new chemicals than in years past.

LET'S THANK THE LORD FOR THE FACT THAT WE'RE ALIVE

We're gathered here to celebrate. For what it may be worth. The simple fact that on this date We're living here on earth Let's count the good times we have known, And evils we've been spared, Plus friends and loved ones who have shown The ways in which they cared. Though fame and fortune pass us by, No matter how we strive, The love of God, we can't deny, Is keeping us alive. And so, before we start the feast, Let's all with one accord, For blessings which have never ceased, Give thanks unto the Lord.

—Gloria Nowak

FOR A REAL EDUCATION, TAKE TIME TO READ YOUR BIBLE

In that busy life of yours, so rigidly apportioned among work, home maintenance, TV, PTA meetings, the bowling league or whatever, try to find time to read your Bible; even if it's only one chapter at a time. It contains a great many elements for our education and well-being. It's history, with the story of the earliest days of the world, faithfully handed down through the generations. It's geography, inviting fascinating comparison between the Middle East and Mediterranean lands, then and now. It's a prescription for better living, with its rules for behavior toward our fellow human beings. It's a great comfort, bringing us guidance and solace in times of trouble or sorrow. All in all, it's the world's most perfect collection of writings, and if we know how interesting and helpful it can be, we will somehow manage to find the time for it.

There can be no genuine education without knowledge of the Bible.

—Woodrow Wilson

Down at Thacker Field
The summer program is underway
And one can hear the crackling bats
Ringing sharp almost every day.

The T-batters have their teams
And it's big league in miniature.
As these mighty mites of T-ball
Try to knock it out of here.

For they are mighty gladiators
And T-ball is their game,
Who knows but that some day
One may make the Hall of Fame.

Their coaches are all over
Teaching them how to play,
They're spotting them in positions
And telling them to get the ball if it comes their way.

There's the Mikah, Weston, Chris, Anna, and Zachary
Along with Kevin, Sean, Josh, two Dereks and Jody,
Then there is DeJon, Jeffery, Justin,
Travis, and Courtney
Plus Matthew, Jackson and others like Cody.

On defense they're in the ready position
And they're all hunkered down,
Just waiting for the ball
To come bounding over the ground.

They are all very excited
And their play is intense,
When a ball gets through
They all chase it to the fence.

With cap on backwards
And batting helmet on top,
Their batting glove is on
And their hits are hard to stop.

The batters step up to the T
And take a few practice swings,
Then they smote the ball
And in the stands great applause rings.

For there on the sun drenched bleachers
Sits a mighty vocal crew,

There are moms, dads, mamams,
Papaws and in-laws
Just to name a yelling few.

When the game is over they give high fives

For it's been a great duel,
Then they head for the coolers
Where they all refuel.

It's been an exciting game
And they're all standing tall,
For they're all enjoying playing
This great game of T-ball.

The Magic Words

By: C.E. Whitis

The magic words were gave to me,
by a high school teacher
Who saw the world as it should be.

She said, "The magic words are simple and free and will sometimes Open doors, even without the key."

So each time she returned a test
Paper to us, those magic, simple Words were required to make the grade so just.

And back then I wondered what was
The purpose of us, having to use
Those magic words and not put up a fuss.

Yet, she had worked hard to teach
Us some wisdom and knowledge,
To prepare us for higher learning
In vocational schools and college

As I have gone through life
I have found that few accomplishments are free.
Except for those simple magic words that my teacher had taught me.

I think back to that high school teacher's ideas and beliefs;
I think how hard a job it must have been to teach.

And even today as I find someone
Doing a task for me,
I find myself using those magic words that were simple and free.

For if I saw my old high school teacher today
I know that I could truthfully
Tell her without haste.

That those simple, magic words
Of "Thank You" are always
In good taste.

Do Not Weep For Me

By: Jimmy Hayes

When my days on earth have ended and I am no longer around,
Do not weep for me or wear a tearful frown.

When my life is over and my days on earth are through,
Do not weep for me cause that's not what I want you to do.

Just go on and live your life the best that you can,
Make some one else happy by giving them a hand.

Enjoy life while you are living on this land and the sea
Live life to the fullest do not weep
for me.

Look at life's beautiful sights the heavenly skies and the grass Beneath your feet. Do not weep for me just be happy with the ones you know and the people that you meet.

Whenever you feel the soft summer breeze, just remember
That's a little part of me.

Do not weep for me on that day,

I may not be here but I can be in your memory to stay.

Don't think of the bad times only the good,
Remember me in laughter the way that you should.

This is something I'm asking you to do in a plea,
Whenever you have me on your mind
do not weep for me.

Love Me Not

By: Jimmy Hayes

Love me not for the disability I have but for the abilities that I show,
Love me not for the things I've done but instead for the things that I've let go.

Love me not because you feel sorry
for me,
That's just not the way it should be.

Love me not for the bad things that have happened to me or the pain that I've had to endure,
I want you to love me just because I'm me and that is for sure.

Love me not because you pity me and you think that I am sad,
I want you to love me because I'm happy and I'm thankful for the life that I've had.

Don't Give Up On Your Dreams

By: Jimmy Hayes

If today your dream doesn't come true
You can look for it tomorrow
So there is no reason to fill your today's only with sorrow.

Just lift your head and hold it up high,
Your dreams will come true if you reach for the sky.

You can't give up on your wishes and dreams,
Because they are the things that last it seems.

Yesterdays gone and today is passing,
But our tomorrows are everlasting.

Don't give up on your dreams and they won't leave you,
Just keep on dreaming and they may come true.

Open your eyes to what your dreams have told,
Don't give up on your dreams because you never know what your future may hold.

Accredited by the American College of Radiology. . .

Rockcastle Hospital, Inc. has been approved by the American College of Radiology's Mammography Accreditation Program. The facility has met the necessary requirements, which include a stringent review by a panel of breast cancer-detection experts.

The reviewers evaluate the staffing, equipment, quality control and quality assurance programs facility applying for accreditation. The quality of the image and the amount of radiation are measured and must meet rigid standards. Accreditations must be renewed every three years.

One in nine women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime. Early detection is the key to survival. Mammography done in conjunction with breast physical examinations provides the most accurate diagnosis of early breast cancer.

Only 6,000 facilities have been accredited nationwide in the six-year history of the program. It was started in response to concerns by radiologists, other medical organizations, and the public that only qualified personnel perform and interpret mammograms and that only equipment specifically designed for mammography be used. The goal is to ensure women receive the best mammographic examination with the lowest possible risk.

The American College of Radiology (ACR), the American Cancer Society, the American Medical Association and nine other major medical organizations support the following guidelines for women without symptoms:

- Annual clinical examination with screening mammography performed at 1-to-2 year intervals, beginning at age 40
- Clinical examination and mammography performed annually beginning at age 50.

ACR is a major national medical specialty society, with more than 28,000 members including radiologists, radiation oncologists, and radiological physicists. The organization's headquarters are in Reston, VA.

National award winner

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Vanessa Jones, daughter of Tim Bullock and granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Bullock of Broedhead and Mr. and Mrs. Wilham Jones of Mt. Vernon, was named a United States National Award winner in mathematics.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes less than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Vanessa, who is a RCHS graduate was nominated for this National Award by Mrs. Trina Bustle, a mathematics teacher at the school. Vanessa will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever major in agricultural biotechnology when he begins his studies this fall.

before in America's history. Certainly United States Achievement Academy award winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors or other school sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

Witt awarded UK College of Ag scholarship

William Thomas Witt, Mt. Vernon, has been awarded the Wilderness Trail Area Alumni scholarship and the Emerson Beauchamp scholarship to attend the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture this fall.

Community Service Learning Grant at MVES

The Middle School Association awarded Debbie W. Bugg, teacher at Mt. Vernon Elementary School, a grant that involved two eighth grade classes: Mr. Taylor's math class and Ms. Abney's language arts class. Students learned about organizations, businesses, and agencies in Rockcastle County. Below are pictures and student's accounts of their activities.

Mr. Taylor's Rockets
Last week, our group, The Rockets, which included Jamie Silmon, Tim McNew, Shawn Holsing, Charles Shackleford and Donald Allen went to Carter's Market to work. Each day we had a different job to do. We learned how to make pizza, fill up a pop machine, stock shelves, stock the freezer and price foods with the sticky labels. The reason we did the project was to do community service. This is where you volunteer to do something like what we did. I believe we did this project to help us help others and become a good citizen. Thank you to John Clontz and all the staff at Carter's who worked with us.

By: Darlena Bowles

The Mt. Vernon PTA would like to express their appreciation to supporters, students, parents, relatives, teachers, staff and business community. Jim Conti, Jim Cox, Bittersweet Cloggers, WRVK, Mt. Vernon Signal, Volunteers and a special thanks to Mt. Vernon, all of their hard work in making the Spring Festival the largest fund raiser yet. Please stand and take a bow. It's wonderful people like you who give our children the little extras they deserve. I have really enjoyed the last eight years at MVES as a volunteer. I will miss each and every child, but will be moving onto the Middle School. The new officers are eager and anxious to get started. If they receive the support you have given to me they will have continued success.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of Remy McKINNEY would like to express our thanks to everyone who had a part in making our loss bearable. Thanks for every floral tribute, those who gave love gifts and for the food that was brought to our homes; Mrs. Barbara Faulkner for the beautiful music and songs and the nephews that were pallbearers; Bro's: Charles Shivel and Ralph Reynolds for the consoling words and the Dowell & Martin Funeral Home for their efficient service. Wife and children.
