

Local board member appointed to Education Department panel

A member of the Rockcastle County Board of Education has been appointed to a panel that will counsel state education officials on issues and concerns of local school districts.

George W. Griffith of Mt. Vernon will serve on the local school board members advisory council, a collaborative effort between the Kentucky Department of Education (KDE), the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA) and the state's 176 local boards of education.

Griffith is one of 44 representatives who will advise KDE staff on policy issues, administrative regulations and other issues relating to the operations of local school districts.

"This initiative will get input from local board members in areas of regulatory issues and what their communities want from their schools is very promising," said KSBA President Margie Bradford, a member of the Bardstown school board. "This effort can give a much-needed local perspective to state-level decision making."

Education Commissioner Thomas C. Boyens said, "It is imperative that the department know what communities want, what they are able to provide as resources and how citizens, parents and educators feel about issues that affect the educational climate of their area."

The council conducted the first of its quarterly meetings Oct. 28 in Frankfort.

No school November 8

Rockcastle County Schools will be closed on November 8. This is just one of the changes in the election law made by the 1994 General Assembly, Secretary of State Bob Babbage explained.

This new law states that all schools shall be closed on the day of any primary, runoff primary, or regular election. The law allows this to be designated as one of the days used for professional activities or professional meetings and is effective for the first time November 8.

Cub Scouting News

The Tigers are the first group in Cub Scouts. They visited Levi Jackson Park and had a wonderful time. They made ghost trees for Halloween. And are planning a trip to the hospital to tour the respiratory care unit. They have been having a terrific time. Thanks to all the Tiger coaches and to Chris Mackey for getting them together.

Then there is the Wolf Den which has been working on their Bobcat patch and doing a great job. They have also enjoyed different kinds of games that were lots of fun. That is what Cub Scouting is all about. Thanks David and Dicie Allen for the great job you two are doing.

Next is the Bear Den. They have been observing nature and different animals. The Bear Cubs choose an animal then read about it. Then study about the way that animal lives. Then made posters showing what they learned. They have been having fun also. Thanks to Gerald Alexander and Mrs. Virginia Miller. Keep up the good work.

The last den is the Webelos. They have been very busy, thanks to Mr. and Mrs. James (Sonny) Lambert. They have completed two pins which are the readyman and showman. Thanks Sonny and Vicky for a terrific job you are doing.

And then they have their pack meeting at the end of the month. This month they had their first pack meeting on the Rockcastle River with a two night campout and a hayride. Thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Tom Emily and a great big thank-you to Mr. and Mrs. Roger Bullock for the hay to ride on. Also thanks to Burgess Mullins the chairman and Jerry Bullock the Cubmaster for making Saturday such a fun filled day, for getting the truck ready and preparing for the rain.

Thanks to all - Pack 263.

Mind engaging magic show coming soon

If you want spellbinding family entertainment, then mark your calendars.

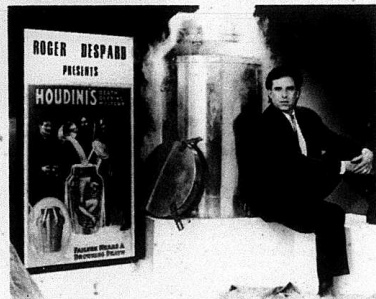

Friday, November 4, 1994 is when the Grand Illusion Magic Show will conduct its high-tech pageant of enchantments at Mt. Vernon Elementary School at 8 p.m. The show is sponsored by the Mt. Vernon Lions Club.

But is this better than TV? Grand Illusion employs over three tons of equipment worth nearly $200,000 - making it the largest traveling show of its kind in Ohio, Kentucky and Tennessee. Plus, the stage show is captivatingly enhanced by stereo sound, computerized lighting, as well as an array of backdrops and special effects, including fog machines, indoor fireworks, flash pots and strobe lights. What are illusions?

Illusions are magic tricks that rely on natural skill, rather than supernatural abilities. So this show is "particularly appropriate for families, young and old alike," according to Grand Illusion's husband-and-wife stars, Roger and Lee Ann. And the couple should know. They reside in the central Kentucky town of Cynthiana, have two children of their own, and are typical church-going folks. Typical, that is, until this husband-and-wife team steps on stage. Are these people really first-rate entertainers?

In recent years, Roger and Lee Ann have appeared on college campuses, cruise ships and at various shopping malls and convention centers in over 30 states;

worked with Ed McMahon; and

Seventh Annual World AIDS Day to be observed December 1

The seventh annual observance of World AIDS Day will be commemorated on December 1, 1994. One hundred eighty nine countries around the world have designated this day to draw public attention to the AIDS pandemic. On the national level, the American Association for World Health, in cooperation with the World Health Organization (WHO), its western regional affiliate the Pan American Health Organization, and the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, is coordinating activities across the country for World AIDS Day.

World AIDS Day will link communities throughout the United States in a unified observance of Dimming Lights. In Washington, DC, the White House will dim their lights from 7:45 - 8 p.m. as a visual demonstration of the commitment to the fight against the AIDS pandemic and in tribute to those living with and those who have died from AIDS. Across the country, communities like ours will stand in partnership with the nation's capital and serve as leaders throughout the world.

Locally, World AIDS Day 1994 will provide a unique opportunity for groups and organizations to sponsor activities simultaneously that will increase awareness about HIV/AIDS and reinforce HIV/AIDS prevention activities. The worldwide effort to meet the challenge of AIDS will be strengthened by stressing how critical it is for individuals and communities to pledge themselves fully to the fight against AIDS. In addition, world AIDS Day will continue to promote support and care for all HIV infected persons and people with AIDS, their families and friends, and help combat discrimination and isolation.

Dr. Michael H. Merson, executive Director of WHO's Global Programme on AIDS (GPA), stated that "If we all do our utmost within our families of choice -- whether they are the people who share our home or those who share our planet -- we shall help immeasurably to defeat AIDS in every family."

All communities are being affected by the continuing spread of the AIDS pandemic. As of mid-1994, WHO estimated that 17 million men, women, and children worldwide had been infected with HIV and that approximately 4 million of them had developed AIDS. In the United States, as of December 31, 1993, 361,164 people in the U.S. had been diagnosed with AIDS; of these, 220,736 have died.

The ultimate goal is to have as many people as possible within U.S. communities and around the world communicating about HIV/AIDS to heighten awareness of AIDS as a global challenge and to create the unity essential to the worldwide effort against AIDS.

For more information on the World AIDS Day activities that are planned nationally call CDC National AIDS hotline at 1-800-344-7432.

World AIDS Day is a community effort but the first step begins with the individual. There are various activities that each person can initiate and continue throughout the year.

What can I do?

- Buy and use the "AIDS Awareness" postage stamp
- Talk to your friends and family about HIV/AIDS testing prevention
- Call your state AIDS hotline to find out how you can help in your community
- Wear/distribute to others a red ribbon as a symbol of hope
- Write to your congressperson and encourage an active response to the HIV/AIDS needs in your community
- Mobilize groups in which you are a member to participate in World AIDS Day 1994
- Promote and encourage on-going HIV/AIDS awareness and prevention programs
- Write a letter or OP-Ed article to your local newspaper demonstrating support for World AIDS Day 1994
- Contact the NAMES Project and bring The AIDS Memorial Quilt to your community
- Sew squares for The AIDS Memorial Quilt and present them to the NAMES Project

Celebrate "DAY WITHOUT ART" to inspire meaningful discussions about HIV/AIDS and increase awareness (For information on planning "DAY WITHOUT ART," please contact Visual AIDS, 212-206-6758.

At Work

- Distribute World AIDS Day information

- Ask your employer to help establish December 1 as a day to address the issue of HIV/AIDS in your workplace

- Organize a meeting to establish (Cont. to B12)

performed on WGN TV, on the Bozo Circus, on A.M. Rochester, NY, as well as on many local TV and radio shows.

Roger, who taught the skills to his wife, is a seasoned pro--having been a magician for over 23 years during which he has maintained membership in the International Brotherhood of Magicians and the Society of American Magician.

So if I go, what will I see?

Highlights from the shows more than a dozen magical illusions include:

- Lec Ann levitating on a neon bulb while completely surrounded by audience members.

- Lec Ann escaping, unharmed, from an "organi box" that Rbger pierces with three razor-sharp samurai swords.

Special Attraction this year will be Harry Houdini's Death Defying Milk Can Escape. Roger Despard will be locked up under water in a large milk can. He will have just two minutes to escape and avoid a drowning death. The famous Harry Houdini milk can escape hasn't been performed in Kentucky since Houdini's death in 1926. Don't miss this once in a lifetime performance. An illusion that you will remember for the rest of your life.

Tickets for the Grand Illusion Magic Show are $5 in advance and also may be obtained at the door for $6.

Willie Hiatt travels abroad

By Willie Hiatt

A German woman on the flight from New York to Munich brought up a good point. To answer her question, no, I wasn't attempting to learn a complicated language like German in two weeks. But it was a start, wasn't it?

I'm not sure whom I was trying to convince, her or myself. But there was no turning back now. In a few hours I would land in the heart of Bavaria and begin a study and travel vacation that was nearly three years in the making.

It wasn't my first such foolhardy adventure abroad. Before the Gulf War I made a similar trip to France and left both overwhelmed and intrigued by the whole idea of Europe. I guess my selective memory conveniently took over in the years that followed.

Sure, I remember how rewarding it was to study a language abroad, but what about the culture shock?

Oh, that. It all came back to me the night I arrived in Munich - precisely as I sat outdoors at a restaurant and jotted down notes in German about what I should say on the telephone to my host family.

My hostess was Frau Katarina Prandl, a sweet, spry widow and lifelong Bavarian who often took foreign students into her home. I had warned her in a letter that I spoke little German, so she enunciated slowly and clearly when she came to the phone.

I regarded it as no small victory when I understood the essentials, that I was to arrive at her home at 2 p.m. the next day. We'd tackle more complicated situations later.

Finding a School
This experience began innocently enough in August 1991, the day I walked into an Elementary German I class at Manatee Community College Bradenton, Fla., knowing hardly ein Wort of German. After two years of grammar and another of literature, I felt reasonably confident I knew my accusative case from my dative, even if I hadn't spoken them a whole lot. Where better to work on conversation skills than in a language school?

One of the most challenging parts of any study vacation is finding the right program. I learned about the Institut München, a nonprofit foundation of the University of Stockholm, through inquiries at another school. It has small classes -- there were only seven in the summer course I took -- and emphasized conversation.

The school is located in the Augustiner House, a lovely building with a Renaissance-style facade built in 1875. It is on bustling Neuhäuser Strasse, a short walk from popular Marienplatz. A restaurant on the ground floor sends fresh aromas wafting through the building, and a circular staircase winds its way upstairs to the two floors that house the Institut München.

The school, directed by Dr. Gerhard Bruckner, has about 350 students a year. Many are Scandinavians who wish to learn business German, although class offerings include other languages and culture courses. I purposely sought a school with few Americans, where the temptation to speak English isn't so great.

There was only one problem: Scandinavians speak better English than I do. It was an interesting group of Swedes: Jenny Wickstrom, Helena Forberg and Anders Svensson, all enthusiastic teens; Margreth Salomonsson, a mother of three; and Helena Gustafson, a young college student.

There was one other American, Cristina Grace of Raleigh, N.C., who was in Europe to pursue a master's of business administration degree. She and I are two of the few Americans who have studied at the school.

Classes met five days a week from 9 a.m. to 12:20 p.m., with additional lectures or tours of the city or museums (all in German) on Tuesdays and Thursdays. We welcomed practical, everyday German -- what to say at a restaurant, on the phone, at the train station.

Many students are placed with families, although some of my classmates would be better described as tenants than family members. I was fortunate. Not only did I have a spacious room, but Frau Prandl enjoys taking students for a spin in her green Mercedes in southern Germany. She drove only about 90 mph on the Autobahn.

Since she spoke only German, it was a good practice for me, even if our conversations were somewhat one-sided. It wasn't like I was discussing Clinton's health-care plan.

Munich is Good Choice
The user-friendly city of Munich was a perfect choice for a study and travel vacation. But even though my primary objective was to improve conversation skills in a language course, I didn't spend all my time conjugating verbs.

Munich, the warm Bavarian capital with a population of about 1.3 million, can easily hold your attention during an extended stay -- especially if you plan excursions by train or car into the surrounding countryside. The Bavarian Alps loom only an hour away.

The city itself has a charm lacking in other large European cities. The Swedish students could explain that in two words -- beer gardens, like the ones you'll find on almost every corner. It's enough to drive Cheers' Norm Peterson crazy.

Germany is officially the beer-drinkingest country in the world, and Bavaria is its epicenter. You don't have to be in Munich during Oktoberfest to enjoy the subject of this great celebration. Even if you don't drink, it's hard to pass up the congenial ambience of beer gardens, the great equalizer in German society.

Young and old, rich and poor, Catholic and protestant coexist here peacefully. Here is where students relax after classes, where businessmen tap away at their lap-top computers. Germans and tourists duck into a corner beer garden for lunch, or hang out there long after sundown, huge soft pretzels in hand.

All of this is interesting for a city whose German name is München, derived from the monks of the Benedictine community established there in the ninth century. Bavaria is devoutly Catholic -- and monks and nuns do their part in devoutly brewing its greatest drink.

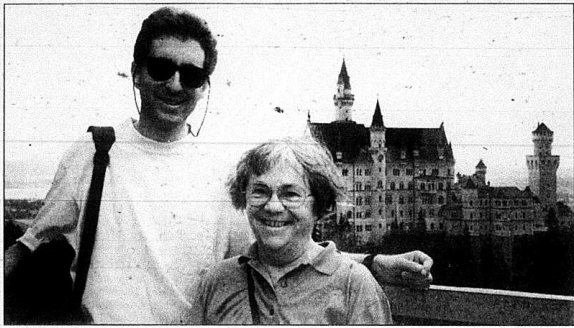

Munich has great museums, churches, rivers, parks, a royal palace and a clean and efficient subway system. Its huge train station, the Hauptbahnhof, is an experience in itself, featuring a hotel, fast-food joints and countless shops. There are peaceful neighborhoods, a charming city center and a lively artists' quarter north of the university district, flavored by outdoor cafes and restaurants.

Excursions Aplenty

I accompanied my hostess on two excursions in southern Germany. My first weekend we headed south and worked our way over to the Romanische Strasse (The Romantic Road) to Neuschwanstein, one of King Ludwig II's stunning castles in southern Bavaria.

On the return trip we stopped by Wieskirche, a Baroque church set off in impressive solitude in the countryside. On another trip we visited Bad Tölz, a pretty spa town, and toured Walchensee, a lake high in the mountains.

One Sunday I validated my Eurail Pass, a 15-day unlimited train pass, and hopped on a train to Passau. This small city, with Italian-influenced architecture and narrow, cobblestone streets, is east of Munich on the Austrian border at the confluence of three major rivers.

Hiatt and his hostess, Katarina Prandl, visited Neuschwanstein, one of King Ludwig II's spectacular castles in Southern Bavaria near the Austrian border.

There are countless excursions just waiting to be planned. Dachau, the notorious site of the Third Reich's first concentration camp, is just 15 minutes by train outside the city. To the south is Berchtesgaden, where Adolf Hitler had his mountain retreat; and Garmisch-Partenkirchen, a popular resort at the foot of the Alps.

Just getting to these places whether by train, car or mountain bike, is a great way to drink in the beauty of Germany. Although the Loire Valley of France is known for its castles, it has a rival in Bavaria. Ludwig's big three (Herrenchiemsee, Neuschwanstein and Linderhof) are worthy any necessary side-tracking.

Munich, although not a cheap city for those like me on a budget, is worth a stop on any whirlwind tour of Europe. But allow time for junkets into the countryside. Only then will you realize the true charm of Bavaria.

Biography of Country Music Star Loretta Lynn to air on KET

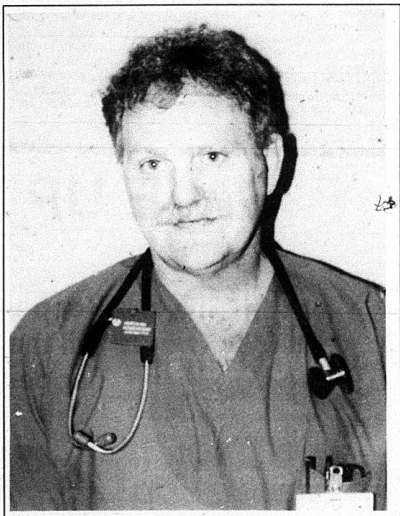

Loretta Lynn is a country music classic whose influence on the popular country music scene is acknowledged by performers and fans alike. Her rags-to-riches story entitled Loretta Lynn: Honky Tonk Girl airs at 9 p.m., Saturday, November 7, on KET. This program presents a lively and personal portrait of her success story, an American dream that would come true. From Butcher Holler, Kentucky, Loretta rose to the pinnacle of the music business by singing and writing for women like herself, who married too young, got pregnant too often, and never had enough money to make ends meet. Through it all and unprecedented stardom, she remains one of the most loved and respected entertainers in the world.

We are much more than a long-term facility. Are you aware of the other services offered by our community hospital's Respiratory Care Department?

There are EEG (electroencephalograph) services for all ages. These tests allow a physician to detect any abnormalities in the brain waves. These tests are transmitted to Lexington where they are read by a neurologist.

Pulmonary Function testing is also available. This type of test helps determine if lung function is impaired and to what degree. Another use of these tests is to determine eligibility for Black Lung Benefits. You can also see the amount of improvement achieved after using a bronchodilator.

Stress testing is a very important step in evaluating cardiac function. The patient has lead wires hooked to electrodes placed at various spots on the chest. He/she will then be asked to walk on a treadmill while the technician and physician carefully monitor the function of the heart during the "stress" of walking.

These are just a few of the services offered by our fine hospital's Respiratory Care Department.

Acid spill closes I-75

It was Dangerous and Aggravating!!

Motorists encountered delays of up to five hours on U.S. 25 Thursday and Friday from Mt. Vernon to Berea after a chemical spill closed the Interstate late Wednesday. Local firemen, law enforcement officers and disaster personnel acted immediately to evacuate the area following the spill which was caused when a truck, carrying hydrofluoric acid, wrecked in the southbound lane. It took EPA officials over two days to clean-up the spill which also caused schools in the county to be closed Thursday and Friday.

Chemical spill paralyzes travel; closes school

By: Richard Anderkin
About 250 Rockcastle countians had to be evacuated last Wednesday night after a hazardous chemical spill on Interstate 75 at the 76 mile marker. The spill occurred when a tractor trailer carrying drums of hydrofluoric acid hit a rock wall and overturned on its side along the southbound emergency lane.

According to Gary Asher, Rockcastle County Director of Emergency Services, the driver of the truck was apparently overcome by the fumes from the acid causing him to wreck his truck.

He was taken to the Rockcastle Hospital and then flown to the University of Kentucky Hospital.

Because hydrofluoric acid is potentially deadly and can harm if inhaled, touched or swallowed authorities closed the interstate in both directions causing major traffic delays and the closing of Rockcastle County schools on Thursday and Friday.

The Environmental Protection Agency took charge of the scene early Thursday morning and obviously took every safety precaution to clean up the spill.

The Interstate was completely closed until 11 a.m. on Saturday when EPA officials opened the northbound lane. Officials opened the southbound lane around midnight on Saturday.

Hydrofluoric acid can cause liver, kidney and tissue damage and its most dangerous aspect is that effects from it may not be noticed for as much as 24 hours after someone is exposed," Asher said.

The closing of Interstate 75 caused delays of almost five hours for some motorists who were routed on Hwy. 25 and it also caused many headaches for local motorists, especially those living in the northern end of the county.

A federal clean-up crew was brought to the scene to clear the acid. Hydrofluoric acid can cause liver, kidney and tissue damage and its most dangerous aspect is that effects from it may not be noticed for as much as 24 hours after someone is exposed," Asher said.

Viewpoints

Points East

By: Ike Adams

It has gotten to the point that the only way I can spend more than an hour or two on any given project or activity is to plan/schedule weeks or months in advance.

Back in August, for example, Terry Lucas, Teresa McNally and I decided it would be nice to spend a couple or three days visiting CAP programs in eastern Kentucky. Since the three of us spend all our work time focused on raising funds to support CAP's work, it makes sense that we spend some time making sure that we know what we're talking about.

On the other hand it's over 140 miles each way from our office in Lancaster to Hagerhill, in Johnson County, where the eastern action starts. Not the kind of situation where you can come into the office on a slow day and decide to go visiting.

But, by planning our visit ten weeks in advance and then doing the secret, sacred handshake wherein we solemnly swear to each other that nothing else is going to get on our calendars we were able to settle on October 24, 25 and 26th. And so, last Monday morning we rushed into the office to take care of all the stuff that had gotten onto our calendars in spite of the handshake and we managed to pull out of the parking lot just before noon with Prestonsburg as our destination.

On Tuesday we planned to visit a mobile/adult education center in Knott County that is parked at Topmost near the Leitcher County line. The center hadn't opened when we got there and I felt Leitcher County taking hold of my car like a big magnet.

In the meantime I've tuned the radio to WMMT (88.9 on your FM dial) so that Teresa and Terry can get a bit of culture shock in the form of non-stop Bluegrass Music. In short order we were topping Deane Mountain because it was apparent that the magnet was pulling from the vicinity of Fleming-Neon.

I told the women that I simply wanted them to be able to say they had crossed a real mountain and also tell their friends and families that they had been to Leitcher County. I didn't mention to them that the farther into Leitcher County we went, the stronger WMMT's signal became. Nor did I let on that I was almost overwhelmed by a need to visit the Fleming Head Start Center.

The center was originally started by Kentucky Youth Research Center, a program that I supervised in Leitcher County for a couple of years back in the early seventies. Something inside me kept insisting that I go see it if it was still there.

I'm not sure what I expected to find, but at first glance the building was still there and when I opened the door I also found forty pre-schoolers just sitting down for lunch. Terry and Teresa decided to wait in the car when I promised I go straight in and out.

I introduced myself to one of the teachers and told her that I had worked in the center 22 years ago when Lois Henson let it. I was informed that some things never change. Lois was still there but she was in another room. So I sneaked in and there she sat surrounded by a group of little ones and talking a mile a minute. When I said hello she stared at me for a couple of minutes and I stared back as both our eyes began to well up.

I glanced around and there stood Sue Blancing with whom I had shared office space. After the three of us had hugged and smothered each other for

We had such a pretty day in the weather on October 30th. Now the 31st is regular Halloween weather and I think I'll stay indoors and let the witches and cats roam.

I tell you I never laughed so much as when we went to Superior Market's Moonlight Madness sale and saw the clerks who were dressed up to celebrate Halloween.

Conley Saylor must be hard up for he was wearing his wife, Virginia's, pink blouse and trying to hide it under a white jacket.

The clerks were dressed up too. One girl, Robin Lamb wore a lovely hold of my car like a big magnet.

Michelle White dressed as a clown and her mouth outline was shaped so that I'm sure nobody would want a kiss. Hank Halsted, a carryout clerk dressed as a soldier in their camouflage uniform. Tommy Saylor, one of the clerks in command when Conley is gone, dressed as a far Eastern prince. I fell into him as I rounded an aisle when he was coming from the other way.

Now Tommy was dressed in a beautiful costume decorated with a kind of glyptic jewels which got me excited to have a prince to catch me in his arms!

Porky Pig was around and I felt like feeding him some corn until I saw it was James Saylor. Conley's young'ner.

He felt real good because his wife, Cheryl, had presented him with a brand new daughter recently and they named her Cheyenne. That kid will be spoiled to death. Conley said Virginia was neglecting him and "Just staying around the new baby girl."

I better tell you something about the one that took the prize down at Superior. I had been looking for Gary Gaye every since we went into the store but could see him nowhere.

Then I went to the window of the front office to speak to Conley. He began laughing so hard that the others up there started laughing too.

Now I didn't dress up and wondered what these men were laughing about. I looked down and there beside me was a large black and white cow with her udder (bag) almost in my face and four teats so close to me I could have turned and drank myself a glass of fresh milk.

I looked some more and started screaming and laughing like the other men when I saw Gary Gaye's face under black and white makeup.

Well, he sure looked like he needed milking, and having no bucket, I ran through the crowd where John waited for me in the truck telling him why there was a crowd was half black and half white as was the rest of his outfit. I'm sorry I didn't bring my camera.

Rachel King, wife of John King, who lives on Todd's Branch Road, was helping her husband do some remodeling on a house, the old Child Linville place, which the family had bought and was going to rent out. Rachel very kindly let me make her picture with her grandson, to put in here later, also I'll have a picture of her dressed in her working clothes.

Gary Gaye who is night manager of Superior Market at Berea laughs at the joke he played on me. But do you think this young man looks anything like a cow?

Rockcastle crafters organize to market handmade items

Do you make crafts at home? Ever wonder if you could get some money for them? In October, a dozen Rockcastle women formed their own craft co-op to market their handmade specialties. The group has organized to ship their items to church sales out-of-state in November. In December, they will have a booth together at a Lexington crafts festival, and in the new year there are plans to market the items in gift stores.

So much artistic talent is hiding out here in Rockcastle County and out-of-state visitors and crafts shops really value Kentucky hand-made crafts

-- quilts, wood carving, decorated baskets and wreaths, t-shirts and crocheted items. With some organization and marketing as a group, you can earn extra income from crafts you always made.

The new program is a project of Livingston Economic Alternatives in Progress (LEAP), a community non-profit that focuses on economic self-development. LEAP is located in Calloway, on Hwy. 25. We have plans to expand the crafts co-op and possibly schedule classes--if you're interested in being a part, or just finding out more, call Alison at LEAP 453-9800.

she told me. I sent a message to Henry Voltmer, me reader in Indiana, who can tell his friend, Mildred Holtz, that we'll be sending her Cypress Vine flower seeds this week. Hope you have good luck with them, Mildred.

The vine will come up volunteer after you start them and they bear a red star like bloom.

The Halloween party that we meant to have didn't come across. I have been sick again. Henry was going to fly down and pick up Susan but we had the worst time between Richmond and Mt. Vernon when a large tanker truck had an accident spilling out chemicals which not only looked dangerous but was explosive. Our people were evacuated from their homes near 1-75 roadway traffic was stopped and towns had to feed and bed the people for two or three days. But it was done. Things are getting back to normal since 1-75 has reopened. So we had no Halloween Party and Henry can't chase Rockcastle girls as he meant to.

Some time ago we drove over to Broadhead and on to Brummett's apple orchard near Level Green.

At the building where they sold yellow and green apples along with other green stuff from their garden, or farm, we bought some of the best frying apples for freezing, or canning, apples. It's a savings too. When I have fried apples for a meal, John doesn't want me to cook anything else so it's a savings too.

On the wall of this building or store they had old time pictures.

Teressa Kay Brummett, the daughter of the one that owns the store, saw I was interested and told me about them.

There was one picture of an old man sitting in a chair wearing big overalls and he wore size 12. It looked like, shoes. His name, if I'm getting his facts right, was Francis Brummett. Now the son of this old man was Michelle, who did art work on the family.

Teressa Kaye Brummett had a horse named "Whiskey" and she had painted him which was great and natural looking.

Michelle was a junior in high school and had the art talent of painting.

There were 11 children in Francis Brummett's family.

As we drove through this country, there seemed to be a tractor and trailer on the lot where much farming was done.

There had been many different colors of chrysanthemum in their garden which were potted and sold.

On the day Edward Mullins' wife was buried at Scaffold Cane, I saw, and talked, to Katherine Green, Margaret Lanville's sister who looks so much like her mother, Eliza Mullins, that it pained me to see her.

Philip Gilbert was there with his family from California to visit the Mullins and Lanville family.

Margaret Lanville came to the funeral of Dorothy Mullins in her wheel chair that she has to spend most of her time in.

I saw a good picture of Executive Judge Buzz Carloloffs in the paper with Governor Jones. Now if I could have been there I would have posed on the side of the Judge -- Ooh what a good looking man and not married either!

I'm putting all the pictures of the Judge on file in my news work, in case someone needs information on him.

The same thing happened to me when I planned to attend the Retired Teachers Meeting at Mt. Vernon and missed the date.

I had read that Rep. Danny Ford was going to be there to speak to the teachers.

I called Mary Thomas in Berea to find out if he was going but Mary said she hadn't been there for almost a year due to the poor health she was having.

Rep. Danny Ford was the citizen who had nominated me for my writings on Rockcastle folks and asked Martha Lane Collins to make me a Kentucky Colonel. I've never had a chance to thank Rep. for the honor. But there should be another time and place.

Last week I took Mr. and Mrs. Anderkin a small jar of the molasses that John had made. I haven't heard yet how they liked them but I'm thinking Mr. Anderkin might go on another buffalo hunt out west and he might bring some buffalo steaks back home and I could hang around to see if he might share them with the employees. (I'm one!)

Don't think there was a single flower left at the florists in Mt. Vernon for they all seemed to be at Dowell and Martin Funeral Home hanging off the walls, standing on the floor, and placed around the room at the funeral of Kaye Hammond Miller, sister of Brother Bill Hammond, our dear friend whose roots are on Clear Creek.

Due to the traffic tie up on I-75 highway John had to drive on back country roads for us to get there to the funeral.

There was standing room only as John and I stood and leaned against a wall.

I had not heard Brother Jimmy Williams talk but he was a man inspired by God for his eulogy for Kaye Hammond Miller was so touching that it lifted us out of being on earth. Several girls in the line ahead of us bent, greiving over the casket and kissed her goodbye murmuring her name as if they could reach her.

Outside we went to Brother Bill and expressed our sympathy. I did not know the woman but she resembled Brother Bill.

We looked for Kathy but could not find her in the crowd.

Brother Bill said, "I'm now a four week grandpa," since his daughter gave birth to a little girl.

Till next week: It's easier to do great things when you have great reasons."

causes of divorce are matrimony and alimony." Speaking of divorce, I remind you that it happens to preachers, too -- as it did to one of my college classmates. Call him Tim.

Tim was at one time the most zealous Baptist I have ever known. He was always looking for "some lost soul." If you hadn't seen him for a while, you could count on him asking, "How many souls have you won to the Lord this week?" Tim took it as his personal mission to "win" Ira Stoker, the only avowed atheist on campus. (At a Baptist church?) Yes! Tim's quest for Ira's soul quickly became Tim's obsession, and the result was that one day in the cafeteria the room Ira told Tim he would break his jaw if he ever spoke to him again. Tim had enough sense to heed that warning, but he compensated by praying even more for Ira's soul. When Tim graduated, Ira was still an atheist.

After a brief spell as an evangelist, Tim accepted the pastorate of a county seat town in eastern Virginia. During his first year there he baptized forty-nine converts and set a goal of a hundred for the next. Meanwhile, a physician who was single, became a good friend of Tim and his wife, Sally. He took them out to eat often, spent several evenings a week at their house, and shared with them his position boat at a nearby lake. However, because Tim's time was so scheduled, Sally often had to go to the lake without him.

The young doctor gave Tim a new public address system for his street preaching and donated a new micrograph machine to the church, on which Tim printed training information for the "soul-winning" class he taught two nights a week. And, the generous physician gave Sally a nice, second car he owned but didn't need, so Sally would have a way to get around town, or drive to Bristol, while Tim was working for the Lord all over the county.

Tim's second year, however, wasn't what he expected. Sally asked him for a divorce, which he agreed to after hearing the full story of her relationship with their doctor friend, whom Sally later married after he set up practice in another state. Tim left the ministry and went to work for the FBI.

Well! As my brother, Chester, often said, "There 'tis!" One of those tragic tales you would just as soon not hear. But, beloved, we learn from the miseries of others. Let me explain. (Read on, but be aware that my remarks apply only to Baptists, that first denomination, founded in A.D. 31 by John the Baptist on the banks of the Jordan River, into which ecologically-minded religious tourists to the east wistfully eyes, coins, and ticket stubs from The 700 Club.)

The above account of Tim's marital woes is but one more reminder that marriage and the ministry don't mix -- and were never meant to. For centuries Baptist historians have theorized that because of the twelve disciples, who were always wanting to go home for a little while, ministers thereafter were required to be celibate before they could be ordained by the First Baptist Church in Jerusalem and sent out into the world. And now, thanks to biblical archaeology, we have proof that such was the case.

Just this past summer, at Hag Namuddhi, a small but ancient village in the Dept. Sir Frinders' Pleasce, a British Baptist, biblical archaeologist, unearthed an earthen urn that contained seven scrolls, all of which date back to A.D. 40-43. (Be sure to buy Sir Frinders' forthcoming book about this find, What Saith the Seven Scrolls?)

One of those scrolls tells how the Copite Baptist Church in Hag Namuddhi once a mission of FBC in Jerusalem, decided to adopt FBC's church-growth guidelines and put their master on salary. (This, of course, is ancient grounds for "paying the preacher.") And the scroll's statement about marriage and the ministry is clear and to the point. On page three it reads: "o axil lum kelavada eternit." In modern parlance that comes out, "Ain't no way'll call a married man -- ever!" (Trust me, beloved. I keep up with my Copite.)

And the Roman Catholics thought they were the first with the celibacy pre-requisite! But never mind that, dearly beloved, the bee is in the Bonaparts to get back to their roots. Baptists must be celibate! If a man is married and wants to serve in the pastorate, let him get rid of his wife and children -- who are surely a hindrance to his work. Those who aren't prepared to take this drastic but righteous step can go into full-time evangelism or the chaplaincy. Tim was a victim of his times -- of Baptists, calling a married man.

The Hag Namuddhi scroll says something else that ought to prick a Baptist conscience. The Copite Baptist Church put their preacher on salary so he would have time to kono agyabe nevanator, "do soul-winning," time the members didn't have because of their work and toil in the marketplace and the mills of life. They even set a yearly "soul goal" for their pastor! One might assume that the preacher would be "let go" if the church didn't grow, although the scroll doesn't say so.

Well, precious souls, you can easily see how Baptists have erred when it comes to a preacher's time and task. The modern pastor has to tend to an office, supervise staff people, publish newsletters, teach study courses, attend deacons' meetings, visit the sick and shut-ins, appear at superfluous social events, maintain ecumenical peace with other local flocks, perform weddings, gub dry the dead. That leaves little time for evangelism. Beloved, do we need to emulate the Hag Namuddhi congregation?

The church where I'm a member will soon consider a man to fill our vacant, pastoral chair (the one next to the organ). It's too late, of course, to institute a "no-married preachers" rule, but we definitely should do that right after our next preacher leaves. I hope our new pastor's time will not be eaten up by non-soul-winning demands. So . . . when he comes to preach a "trial sermon," let's make sure it's a "no-married preachers" sermon. Let me know if you agree with me and that we stand on historical precedent.

You know, that quota thing might not be a bad idea. . .

"Points East" (Cont. from A2)

a minute or two, it became perfectly obvious why that magnetic, irresistible force had been tugging at me all morning.

I ran out to the car to find Terry and Teresa so they could share a bit of the joy and worth I had just discovered and which everybody needs and deserves once in a while.

I can't describe in much better terms why I wound up in Fleming, last Tuesday morning; but I am absolutely positive that it was something a higher power had completely under control.

Don't let anybody ever tell you that you can't go home again. Sometimes you just can't help it.

Fairview News

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend. Our Sunday School attendance was one hundred and sixteen (116) but short of our Sunday School Super Sunday goal of 152.

Maybe some of our shortage was due to several of our people having to be evacuated from their homes, due to the tractor trailer truck overturning on I-75 near the home of Wesley Lambert. The truck was carrying a load of hazardous material (hydrofluoric acid) which is very dangerous. This happened on Wednesday night and several of our church family had to leave their homes and didn't have a choice to work toward our Super Sunday III as much as they would have liked to. But we just thank God for the ones that were able to attend. It's always good to be in the Lord's house every time we can.

We extend our heartfelt sympathy to those who have lost loved ones recently, including Mrs. Dorothy Mullins of Scaffold Cane, Mrs. Ida Mae Lamb of Conway, Floyd Miller of Orlando, Mrs. Nina Cox Peygon of Hustonville and Charles Evans of Conway.

Jerry Chasteen of Fairfield, Ohio (my husband's nephew) son of Marion and Irene Chasteen died Saturday night Oct. 29th. His father died Aug. 22, 1993. Since Marion's death Irene has also lost her mother. So please remember all those grieving families in your prayers. Death comes to all families and we all need each other, especially our love.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Kenny Pickle, who were united in marriage Saturday, Oct. 22, 1994 at the Fairview Baptist Church with our pastor Rev. Harvey Penso officiating. We all wish for them a long life of happiness and success. We love them.

I attended worship services at the Galilee Baptist Church Sunday night Oct. 23 with my nephew Eugene Alexander and wife Hattie. I enjoyed it so much. They have a beautiful new building - big and roomy. The male quartet sang so well and the preaching was just what we all need to hear, and the people were so friendly - I knew a few of them, Jackie Cope, Deborah Alexander, Barbara Spires and J.T. Gadd. All in all it was a real enjoyable evening.

William Cope and a neighbor of Eubank visited his mother, Mrs. Mary Cope Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Ridgell and daughter Sherry were dinner guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Ridgell on Sunday.

Some of our recent guests have been Wayne and Carolyn Chasteen, and Joyce Seals of Berea. Dick and Roger Rucker of Lambert Road and Edmund and Marie Todd of Berea. We always enjoy having friends and loved ones visit with us.

So I'll close on this dark Monday morning, wishing everyone good health, peace and happiness, just remember to love and be good to each other. Hate and envy cannot you up like cancer. Attend the church of your choice and pray for our lost people that we love. God bless you all!

Jerry J. Cox's family first came to Rockcastle County, in the 1820s, having purchased a Revolutionary War land patent. "I presently live near Brodhead, on approximately 160 acres of that original patent. My father, as well as his father and all his brothers, under undertakers. My twin brother has carried on that vocation here in my hometown of Mt. Vernon."

Cox graduated from Mt. Vernon High School in 1961, and then entered Berea College, located in Berea, where he lettered in track and swimming, graduating in 1965. "My reasons for selecting Berea College were twofold: it is one of the finest small colleges in the nation; and they charge no tuition, admitting only people with low incomes. It was one of the few places I could afford to go to college."

Cox next entered the University of Kentucky Law School where he graduated in 1968. Cox says, "Immediately after taking the bar exam, I was drafted and served fourteen months in Vietnam." Upon his return from Vietnam, Cox set up practice with Carl Clontz, whose son John later joined the firm. Their office is located inside the county courthouse, the only private law firm in the county with such an arrangement. "I have worked out of the same office my entire career, and my only involvement with prosecuting cases was in representing the City of Mt. Vernon and the City of Brodhead in police court and a one-year stint as Assistant Commonwealth Attorney during a period of time when one of my partners was running for County Attorney."

"My current practice is a typical small town practice. My partners do the bulk of the civil work and approximately 80 percent of my time is involved with criminal work. I primarily practice in state court, but I find myself in federal court more and more. My cases cover the gamut from DUI to murder and I have recently handled a capital murder case on a pro bono basis. That is now on appeal. I also pursue medical negligence cases and other types of personal injury matters on a selected basis."

Cox says that the first became aware of discrimination while attending college, and "in Vietnam, it was obvious to me that discrimination was widespread. Soon after I returned from Vietnam and began practicing law I joined the American Civil Liberties Union, and have remained a member ever since."

Cox says, "My first experience with criminal law came when I was summoned by a judge — as was customary at the time, the new lawyer in town was always appointed to represent indigent citizens. You have to remember that in those days, in Kentucky as elsewhere, there were many non-lawyer judges and no public defenders. Courts had the power to draft attorneys to serve without pay."

"It was also a time when courts appointed lawyers the morning of the trial and had to be taught that such practice was unconstitutional and that the defendant's lawyer was entitled to time to prepare. At that time, in addition to correcting what were incredible procedural injustices, we had to sue the county to provide transcripts of preliminary hearings and had to pay court reporters — and what we furnished — for their work. Sadly, as late as March of 1994, I found myself back in court in a neighboring county seeking contempt orders against the county judge and fiscal court for their failure to pay for a court-appointed psychologist in a death penalty case. The defendant, who had two previous attorneys, was in jail for over two years before he received the services of an investigator to look into his case."

Cox says that one early case "had a particularly significant impact on me. In the early 1970s, a young black and a young white man passed through our town evangelizing. They held themselves out as Paul and Silas and were going door-to-door in our community when they were arrested and charged with vagrancy and disorderly conduct. Of course, at the time those particular statutes had been declared unconstitutional, but that small matter did not deter our local courts and prosecutors from prosecuting these individuals. After being convicted in a lower court, their convictions were reversed on appeal."

"When Kentucky finally adopted a public defender system, my firm undertook this obligation for Rockcastle County for the grand sum of $4600 per year. We represented all indigents in all courts as well as maintaining our private practice."

After a few years this arrangement simply became unworkable and we were compelled to give it up. Also, during this period, Kentucky adopted a new penal code which I was fortunate to be permitted to work on and offer input from the defense bar perspective. Unfortunately, each legislative session since has succeeded in destroying much of what that code accomplished."

"As I became more involved in criminal defense work, it seemed to me that many of my fellow practitioners routinely pled people guilty in DUI cases. I took the time to read everything I could find in that particular area and began to try those cases. The results were astounding in that while I had won previously what I thought were my share of cases, the advantage of really being prepared was overwhelming. Juries were willing to listen to the defense and would give the accused the benefit of the doubt. By demanding jury trials in all my cases, an enormous backlog of cases occurred in my county, with long delays. After MADD (Mothers Against Drunk Driving) complained about the delays, the Chief Justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court sent special judges from Louisville and special prosecutors from Lexington to prosecute and try the DUI cases. The press claimed that I represented over 1400 of the DUI cases and the most of them contained motions for a speedy trial. The real advantage stems from the fact that our citizens remain fiercely independent people and as such have a proper and healthy distrust of government officials whether they wear robes or badges and guns."

Cox says, "If criminal defense lawyers have one weakness, it is the fear of going to trial. It is essential that we put the jurors in the box and try the case. Even in bad cases, it is only for the fumbles. Juries remain the only roadblock to prosecution oriented judges and unreasonable legislation. In my view, the criminal defense lawyer is the teacher in the field of criminal law. It is the defense lawyer who educates and trains the trial judge and, unfortunately, educates and trains the prosecutor."

"I also feel the defense lawyers' work is extremely important outside the courtroom as well as inside. Where we as defense lawyers often fail is in our failure to educate the public in general. We allow the demagogues in the political field, including prosecutors and judges and the hysterical media, to constantly bombard the citizenry with crime and violence, the current version of commie-bashing, while we remain largely inattentive to combating the hysteria. We have largely failed to rein in these politicians, with a jingoistic fervor, rave against common sense approaches to our incredible incarceration rate, and the draconian sentencing laws now facing our citizenry."

Cox first joined NACDL in 1987, and has attended meetings in Nashville, Atlanta, San Francisco, Washington, D.C. and Traverse City, Michigan. "I also attended the 1993 and 1994 Legislative sessions sponsored by NACDL, and since having been named as NACDL's legislative coordinator for Kentucky, have been writing, faxing and calling members of the criminal defense bar to encourage their participation in the criminal defense lawyers effort when in court, we continue to lose with our legislators. I am proud to be a member of an organization on the forefront of attempting to bring reason to the legislators."

Cox attended the National Criminal Defense College at Macon, Georgia in 1990, after having practiced more than 20 years. "It was the best thing that ever happened to me. I had the good fortune of being involved with a highly devoted, energetic and intelligent group of people during that two weeks which certainly re-kindled old fires within me."

"If I had to describe my law practice and my life in the law — more than half of which has now been as a lawyer — I would turn to a quote in a letter from a former judge. 'Obviously, you take your defense work seriously and have spent a lot of time developing expertise in this area. This is a good time to tell you how much I have admired the way you and Carl have stood up to local police and other public officials on behalf of your clients over the years. To my mind, a real trial lawyer doesn't back down from anyone when principle is involved. I'm sorry to say I haven't found too many who do this, but I believe you guys have.'"

"Of course, a great portion of my intellectual fortitude comes from practicing my entire career with my friend and mentor, Carl Clontz, who certainly provided proper guidance during my formative years as a trial lawyer. He possesses one of the finest analytical minds I have known and remains the perfect wounding board off which to bounce some of my inanities."

Cox is Past Chairman of the Criminal Law Section of the Kentucky Bar Association, comprised of both prosecutors and defense counsel; a member of the KBA Unauthorized Practice of Law Committee, and a director and officer of the Kentucky Association of criminal defense lawyers (KACDL). "For a number of years I have enjoyed the privilege of conducting seminars for KACDL, and have addressed meetings of both KACDL and KBA and written articles for the KACDL newsletter."

Cox says he approaches the practice of law "on at least two levels. On one level I seek to achieve excellence in the field I have chosen by continually updating my knowledge and techniques. On the other level, I attempt to be involved in my community. I believe it to be essential for criminal defense lawyers in communities large and small to actively participate in the activities of their community even though the time available to each of us is limited. Upon returning from Vietnam and commencing the practice of law, I established a swim team and coached it for eight years, and remained involved with the swimming program through the years. I have also been on our youth football and baseball programs and was instrumental in the construction of a track at our high school. I am chairman of the local health department and vice-chairman of our firm routinely participates in many local activities. I also enjoy running and kayaking but the time for the latter evaporates more each year."

Cox and his wife Vicki celebrated their 28th wedding anniversary this past August. "We married after my first year of law school and she supported us while I completed law school and prepared for the bar. Our oldest son, Doug, was born while I was in Vietnam and is now married and in his fourth year of dental school. Our second son, Dane, like his brother, recently graduated from Centre College where they both played football. Our youngest son, Aaron, is a freshman at Cumberland College where he received a baseball scholarship."

"Although Vicki worked for a number of years out of the home and later obtained a degree from Eastern Kentucky University, she has always maintained the home, provided the best services for the kids and all their activities, and continued to be there for all of us. She loves gardening and has our place in a constant array of colors and aromas. In addition to flowers, grasses, shrubs and trees, she grows many herbs and vegetables which we both enjoy. She loves John Wilkes and says I sound like him. How could you not love her?"

"In the final analysis, it has been she who has provided the haven to which I could return each time I have undergone one of those terrible losses all defense lawyers experience and which we never forget."

Certain foods and drugs reduce medication effectiveness

Some foods and drugs reduce the effectiveness of prescription and over-the-counter medications. Interactions also can cause serious side effects.

"You can alter the body's ability to use medication or cause side effects such as slowed reaction, nausea or a potentially fatal reaction by combining certain foods and drugs," said Sandra Bastin, Extension food and nutrition specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Severity of the interaction depends on your age, gender, and overall health.

Bastin said people can reduce the potential interaction by reading the label and following the medical instructions.

"The label warns you to avoid a medication under certain medical conditions, such as pregnancy or high blood pressure," she said. "If you're pregnant, always check with your doctor before taking any medication. The label may also warn you about known food allergies or sensitivities."

Instructions give an average dose for the average person, Bastin said.

"Age, height, weight, and body composition influence the effective dose for individuals," she said. "If a range is given, such as one to two tablets, a short person or senior citizen could take the smaller amount, while someone who is overweight or has a muscular body might require the larger dose."

"Severity of the ailment also affects the effective dose," she said. "But this doesn't always mean more is better. When in doubt about the dose, always consult your pharmacist or physician."

Alcohol, caffeine, acid-producing food and dairy products can reduce the effectiveness or cause side-effects when combined with certain over-the-counter medications and some prescription drugs, according to Bastin.

"Since alcohol is a depressant, it can cause drowsiness and, in some cases, mental and physical reactions when combined with medications that also are depressants, such as anti-anesthetics," she said. "In extreme cases, the combination can shut off the respiratory system."

Avoid alcohol when taking sulfa drugs; the combination causes nausea.

Caffeine is a stimulant. Avoid caffeinated foods and beverages when taking drugs that also are stimulants because the combination speeds up action of the medication.

"To prevent stomach irritation, take aspirin and other anti-inflammatory agents with milk or food," Bastin said. "However, avoid highly seasoned, acidic or gas-producing foods, alcoholic and caffeinated beverages which increase stomach acidity."

Do not take tetracyclines within two hours of eating dairy products (milk, yogurt or cheese) or taking calcium or iron supplements. These coat the stomach and prevent absorption of the tetracyclines. Some antibiotics like amoxicillin may be taken with food. However, food reduces the body's absorption of other types of penicillins.

A potentially fatal interaction can occur when MAO inhibitors are combined with foods containing tyramine, a chemical found in wine, hard cheese, chocolate, beef and chicken livers. Tyramine can cause extreme high blood pressure in people with a sensitivity to the chemical.

Questionable calls hurt Rock

Rockets lose tough game at Middlesboro

Two controversial plays, a field goal that was actually no good and a missed interference call in the end zone helped send the Rockcastle County Rockets to their third loss of the season and a second place finish in the district.

The Rockets fell to host Middlesboro Yellow Jackets, 19-14, Friday night.

Rockcastle, now 7-3 and 3-2 in district play, will face Anderson County in the first round of district play Friday night. The game will be at home with the kick-off scheduled for 7:30 p.m.

The first of the two controversial calls came on Middlesboro's first field goal, a 21 yard boot, in the first half which put the Yellow Jackets up 10-0. Following the kick officials were hesitant but did signal it as good. However, the kick was apparently wide of the goal posts. Why the call by the officials is uncertain.

The coaching staff of the Rockets viewed the tape of the kick several times after the game which only supported their feelings.

"I thought it was wide," said head coach Tom Larkey Monday.

In a game so close, taking away three points could have weighed heavily on how the game would have been played down the stretch.

The second and most crucial call of the game came on the final play of the game with the Rockets seven yards from the end zone and trailing, 19-14.

Following two flagrant pass interference penalties already assessed to Middlesboro, the Rockets again got off a final pass with no time on the clock from quarterback Jamie Linville to receiver Donnie Eversole in the end zone. Again Middlesboro broke up the play. Though it was another obvious pass interference, no flags were thrown.

"It was definitely interference," said Larkey. "I just don't think the officials had enough guts to throw another flag."

"It was Middlesboro's strategy to not let us catch the ball at all costs," he added.

A lot of credit for both teams has to go to the respective defenses, both had outstanding games.

"I thought our defense did a great job in all four quarters of football," said Larkey.

As usual Eversole led the Rockcastle defense in every aspect. Eversole, with 11 total tackles and two fumble recoveries, was near the ball at all times making big play after big play. Also providing the big punch were Jason Childress and Jason Cromer. Both had seven tackles each and played key roles in the Rockets' game.

Leading the way inside were Jason Weaver, Jeremy Lane and Saben Blair, who combined pulled down 16 ball carriers.

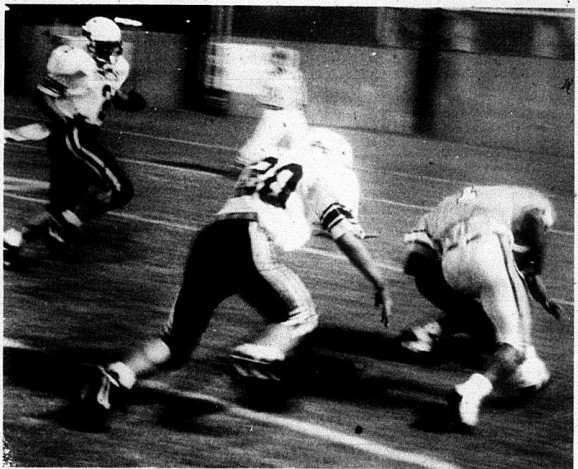

An unusual statistic of the game was the fact that the Rockets threw for more yards than they rushed. Linville connected on seven of 13 pass attempts for 130 yards on the night. The Rockets garnered 104 from the ground.

However, the Rockets' success came only in the second half.

"I don't know why we got things going in the second half and not the first half," Larkey said. "We were stinking up the first half and we really made no adjustments for the second."

"If we would have had any offense at all in the first half there would have been no question who would have won," added Larkey. As it was, the only offense in the first half came from Middlesboro. The Yellow Jackets scored the first touchdown in the first quarter on a 55 yard drive capped off by Eric Witherspoon. Their extra point was good to go up early, 7-0.

Middlesboro posted six more points in the second quarter on two field goals, one from 21 yards and the other from 43 yards out to go up at the half, 13-0.

"Middlesboro has got a good football team with a lot of speed both on offense and defense," commented Larkey.

The Rockets finally got on the board in the third quarter. They put together a drive of 69 yards before Jon Cromer scampered in from four yards out for their first touchdown. Sophomore kicker Raymond Blackburn added the extra point to narrow the margin to 13-7.

The drive was actually lost when the Rockets fumbled the ball inside Middlesboro's 10 yard line. But the Rockets got it back on the next play when the Yellow Jackets followed suit with a fumble that was recovered by Eversole on the 11 yard line.

Middlesboro posted their final score on the ensuing possession. Witherspoon connected for his second touchdown on a 24 yard sprint to finish an 80 yard drive to put the Yellow Jackets up, 19-7. Their two-point conversion was denied.

The Rockets made it a game with 3:48 left in the fourth quarter when Cromer punched it in from four yards out for his second score of the night.

"I was real proud of the team for making a game out of it," Larkey said.

Blackburn again put the final touch on the 68 yard drive with the extra point, 19-14.

"Our kicking game was as good as it has ever been," said Larkey. "I was pleased with Raymond Blackburn and his two extra points, he gave himself a lot of confidence and we have finally found our kicker," he added.

Defensively for the Rockets: Eddie Todd had 2 tackles, a solo, assist and a half sack; Jason Weaver had 5 tackles and 5 assists; Greg Mink had a tackle and assist; Stacey Kirby had 4 tackles and 4 assists;

Jeremy Lane had 5 tackles, a solo and 4 assists; Neil Sparks had a tackle and solo; Donnie Eversole had 11 tackles, 6 solos—5 assists and 2 fumble recoveries; Saben Blair had 6 tackles, 2 solos and 4 assists; Dallas

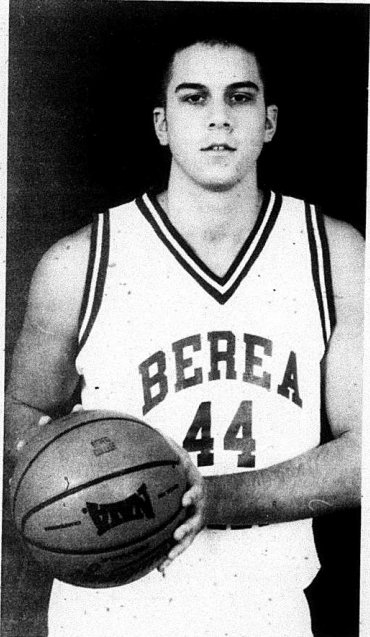

Rigsby had 4 tackles, 2 solos and 2 assists; Jason Childress had 7 tackles, 4 solos and 3 assists; Jason Cromer had 7 tackles, 4 solos, 3 assists and a half sack; and Casey Blaney had 2 tackles and 2 solos.

Offensively for the Rockets: Jon Cromer had 15 carries for 50 yards and 2 touchdowns; Jarrod Singleton had 10 carries for 22 yards and a reception for 30 yards; Zach Cromer had 9 carries for 34 yards; Jason Childress had 2 receptions for 42 yards; Jamie Linville had 9 carries for -7 yards and completed 7 of 13 pass attempts for 130 yards; and Donnie Eversole had 1 carry for 5 yards and 4 receptions for 58 yards.

Casey Blaney grabbed onto a Middlesboro running back after a long gain. The Rockets had a tough time containing the Yellow Jacket running backs all night because of their outstanding speed.

Quail Homemakers celebrate Halloween

Reporter: Bobbie Durham

The Quail Homemakers met Oct. 24 at 7 p.m. at the home of Christine Taylor. She had her home decorated in the traditional Halloween theme. The roll was called by letting each person tell about her best remembered Halloween costume. Twelve members were present. Ruby Thompson and Martha Hamm were our two welcomed guests. Several came dressed in their Halloween costumes. The lesson "Breecing Through Life," was taught by Betty Lou Whitaker. She emphasized the 7-

Spiritual Values which give us food for thought about ourselves. Making a new sign for the Quail Community Park was again discussed. A special meeting will be called, at a later date, to make face pins and to organize recipes for our new cookbook. Carolyn White won the bingo game. Christine had also carried out the Halloween theme in her very tasty refreshments. As usual everyone enjoyed themselves and are looking forward to our next meeting, Nov. 21st, with Millie Eaton.

Removing common stains with common products

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Stains... they can ruin your favorite articles of clothing, damage expensive upholstered furniture and lead to hopeless frustration for the person attempting to remove or disguise them.

In many cases stains are removable, but often the secret is applying a stain remover immediately. Your favorite soap or laundry detergent could well be the best stain remover in your household. Do not allow a stain to dry on the fabric. Immediately soak the garment in cool water and apply a stain remover or detergent to the wrong side of the stain. If you apply the detergent to the right side of the garment and directly on top of the stain, any rubbing, or water, may further set the stain into the fibers of the fabric.

After the detergent or stain remover is applied, allow the garment to soak for 10-15 minutes. Hold the stain under running water so that the water is penetrating the fabric from the wrong side. Further removal of the stain may be accomplished by gently brushing the stain from the wrong side with a soft toothbrush. The garment can then be washed as usual.

If a garment as a stain after the wash cycle, do not dry the garment in the dryer. This could make a stain-permanent.

Some common stains may need special pre-treatments from commonly available products. Mystery stains, upholstery fabrics or dry clean only fabrics should be treated by professionals only.

Here are pre-treatments for some common stains:

Ink: Sponges the area around the stain with denaturated alcohol or cleaning fluid before applying it directly to the stain. Place the stain face down on paper towels. Apply alcohol or cleaning fluid to the back of the stain. Replace towels frequently. Rinse thoroughly. Launder.

Mildew: Launder stained items using chlorine bleach, if safe for fabric, or soak in oxygen bleach and hot water; then launder. Badly mildewed fabrics may be damaged beyond repair.

Grass: Pretreat or soak in a detergent containing enzymes. If stain persists, launder using chlorine bleach, if safe for fabric, or oxygen bleach.

Rust: Do not use chlorine bleach on rust stained fabrics. Chlorine bleach will deepen the rust color.

Pre-treat with a rust remover containing oxalic acid available at most hardware and fabric stores. Remember: A specific pretreatment may not work on all fabrics. Delicate fabrics such as silk are best treated by professional cleaners. If you have a specific question on stain removal, contact Hazel Jackson at the Extension Office at 256-2403.

Rockcastle County awarded federal funds for food and shelter

Rockcastle County has been awarded federal funds under the emergency food and shelter national board program.

The county has been chosen to receive $6,636 to supplement emergency food and shelter programs in the area.

The selection was made by a National Board that is chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and consists of representatives from the Salvation Army, American Red Cross, Council of Jewish Federations, Catholic Charities, USA, National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A. and United Way of America which will provide the administrative staff and function as fiscal agent. The Board was charged to distribute funds appropriated by Congress to help expand the capacity of food and shelter programs in high-need areas around the county.

A local board made up of the County Judge and Red Cross representative will determine how the funds awarded to Rockcastle are to be distributed among the emergency food and shelter programs run by local service organizations in the area. The local board is responsible for recommending agencies to receive these funds and any additional funds available under this phase of the program.

Under the terms of the grant from the National Board, local governmental or private voluntary organizations chosen to receive funds must: 1) be non-profit, 2) have an accounting system and conduct an annual audit, 3) practice nondiscrimination, 4) have demonstrated the capability to deliver emergency food and/or shelter programs, and 5) if they are a private voluntary organization, they must have a voluntary board. Qualifying organizations are urged to apply.

$7,578.99 has distributed Emergency Food and Shelter funds previously with Daniel Boone Development and REAP participating. These agencies were responsible for providing 7140 meals and 455 nights of lodging.

Forest officials offering $5,000

As arson fires begin to occur within the Daniel Boone National Forest, forest officials are offering a $5,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons willfully setting fire on National Forest land.

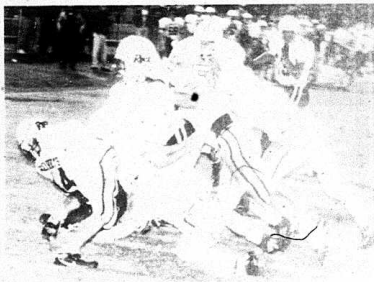

"Arson will not be tolerated on public lands," stated Special Agent Glen Thomas. "We will do everything possible to apprehend and prosecute the individuals responsible for destroying the valuable resources we manage."

Thomas said forest law enforcement officials will work in cooperation with local law enforcement agencies to patrol forest lands, implement courtesy road checks and utilize canine units to prevent additional outbreaks. Last year hundreds of acres were heavily damaged from arson fires. "These fires not only damage forest lands, but pose a serious threat to the lives and homes of local residents," said Forest Supervisor Bradley Powell. "The safety of these residents and the fire fighters is our number one concern."

"The damage to the timber resource will also harm the local economies and may deter any new industry from moving into the area," said Powell. "People rely on healthy forests for economic and recreational uses. These forests belong to the people of Kentucky and those responsible for damaging the resources should be held accountable."

Anyone having any information on arson set fires can call the London Law Enforcement Office at 606-864-8522. To report a fire on federal lands contact the local Ranger District Office.

to Judge/Executive Buzz Carolotis. Woodrum told the court when all bids were in, that probably, phase one of the project would be about $217,000. It's now $230,000.

The court appointed Ken Mattingly to fill a vacancy on the Library Board due to the resignation of Gatliff Craig. The term will expire July 1, 1997.

Forest Ranger Marvin Stone requested and got a new radio for his vehicle rather than replace tubes estimated to cost $380. The new radio cost $366 plus $45 for an antenna.

The court put off until later a request by the Little League to expand the T-Ball field at Broadhead Fairgrounds to include a new detatch basketball court. The court said persons affected by the basketball court should be consulted.

peas and peaches and butter.

Congress cut the commodity food program from $80 million to $25 million for Oct. 1, 1994 to Sept. 30, 1995, and Kentucky will see only $395,400 of that compared to 1.3 million last year.

Separate appropriations for soup kitchens and food banks fell only slightly.

In an attempt to have commodities for the entire year, they expect to have either smaller amounts of commodities distributed bi-monthly, or to go to only a distribution once each quarter.

Meaning, the department and various counties do not expect to have the commodity distribution beyond April 30, 1995.

Known officially as The Emergency Food Assistance program (TEFAP), the commodity food program has been shrinking over the past several years, but the latest reduction will force the Kentucky Department for Social Insurance, which oversees the program, to order food once for the entire year instead of the usual quarterly ordering.

John Clayton, DSI commissioner, said that commodity distributors will determine their own giveaway schedules.

"We plan to spend all appropriated funds for the TEFAP program before December so that commodity food warehouses will be as well-stocked as possible with the money available," he said.

Apparently there will be a lot of disappointed people.

Soup kitchens and food banks, operated by churches, Salvation Army, Volunteers of America and other organizations are allowed to get several hundred pounds of beef, butter, green beans, peaches, pears, potatoes and tomatoes during the first quarter.

Dear Editor,

It is too often that we, as ordinary citizens, fail to thank the many fine volunteers who help things go better during times of crisis, and I want to thank everyone who gave us their personal time to lend support to those who were routed from their homes during last week's chemical spill on the interstate. Too many of us don't recognize the necessity of such volunteer organizations until they are called upon and, indeed, even then don't realize the man-hours expended in carrying out those emergency duties. Not wanting to omit anyone's name, I will just let you know that my hat is off to every person who gave support to the Rockcastle Chapter of Red Cross; Brodhead, Livingston and Mt. Vernon Fire Departments; State Disaster and Emergency Services; Rockcastle's Disaster and Emergency Services; and the Rockcastle County Sheriff's Department for their concern for public safety.

Respectfully,
Buza Carolotis

Calendar of Events

Oct. 31 - Nov. 4 - Annuals will be sold during gym class.
 Wed. Nov. 2 - Report cards go home.
 Fri. Nov. 4 - Magic Show MVES gym 8 p.m.

This year we will have three categories of academic recognition for 4th and 5th graders. They are Principal's Distinguished List, Honor Roll and ABBIT (A's and B's because I try) awards. If your 4th or 5th grade child makes straight A's, she/he will be placed on the Principal's Distinguished List. The requirements for Honor Roll will remain the same - as many A's as B's and no C's. We will also give ABBIT Awards for all A's and B's.

This week in Paula Cowan's class we were very excited! We went on a field trip to Jacobson Park and to the Lexington Singlary Center for the Arts. We saw the play, The Lion, the Witch and the Wardrobe.

In language Arts we wrote a personal narrative about our field trip. We also typed our Halloween stories.

In math we have been renaming with 2 digit numbers.

In connections we did papers on community helpers and talked about our future. For an art project we made a Jack-o-lantern and posted it outside the room.

Next week we look forward to reading Charlotte's Web.

Ky. Kids Week/Crazy Day

Sept. 27 was a day set aside by National PTA to show children how special they are. This day is called "Kentucky Kids Day." We at MVES wanted to show just how special our children are so we had "Kentucky Kids Week" Sept. 27-30. Several activities were planned through the week for the students. The students spelled "Kentucky Kids" on the front lawn in front of the school, Ms. Judy Bullock took a picture. The students painted graffiti murals on paper (which were hung in the lunch room), a clown visited each class and performed a magic trick and passed out popicles. The students had "Crazy Day," they dressed in their craziest outfits and a winner was chosen from each class, then one from each grade.

Halloween Party

The Mt. Vernon Elementary PTA Halloween Party was a great success and everyone had a great time. The students had fun bobbing for apples, dancing and getting their face painted.

(Cont. to B5)

Arnold and Anna Gibson of Brodhead visited Mr. Napier's 5th grade class and showed the students how to make Indian Dream Catchers. Indians made these dream catchers to hang in their homes to catch evil spirits and release them as good spirits. Mr. and Mrs. Gibson brought enough kits for every student in Mr. Napier's class to make their own dream catcher. Everyone had a great time. Above and below, Arnold and Anna Gibson is showing students in Mr. Napier's 5th grade class how to make Indian Dream Catchers.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

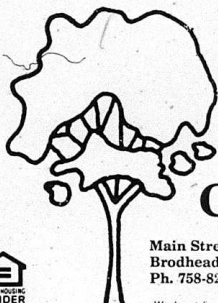

Paul in Phil. 4:8 said "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are just whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good respect; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things." For a few moments, let's consider the importance of right thinking in our lives.

Paul said we should think on things that are true, honest, just, pure, lovely, of good report, virtue, things praiseworthy. Why? For out of the heart proceed the issues of life; "Keep thy heart with all diligence, for out of it are the issues of life" Proverbs 4:23. Jesus said in this way, "But these things which proceed out of the mouth come forth from the heart; and they defile the man; for out of the heart proceed evil thoughts, murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false witness, blasphemies; these are the things which defile a man but to eat with unwashed hands defile not a man." Mt. 15:18-20. Again Jesus said, "O generation of vipers, how can ye, being evil, speak good things? for out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaketh. A good man out of the evil treasure of the heart bringeth forth good things; an evil man out of the evil treasure bringeth forth evil things." Mt. 12:34-35. Far too often, we fill our hearts with the filth of the world; is it any wonder we talk and act like the world? When we fill our hearts with God's word, with spiritual things, with the wholesome things of life, with the love of God, then our words and actions will reflect our thinking and attitudes. Our thoughts are to be brought into the captivity and the knowledge of Christ, II Cor. 10:5. All the vain imaginations of human wisdom and falsehood is to be cast down. God and his truth should reign supreme in our hearts, to guide and direct our thinking. We must be on guard with what we fill our minds with. Just as a computer, that is filled with wrong information, only wrong information will come out. Even so, if we fill our hearts with the wrong things, it will show in our lives. But if we fill our hearts with good things, it will show in our lives.

A LACK OF FAITH CAN BE THE WORST HANDICAP OF ALL

We usually think of handicapped people as the blind, the deaf, and those in wheelchairs, and we should do whatever we can to make life easier for them and help them maintain their dignity and self-reliance. These people are usually excellent prospects for employment, and they will give their all to work to prove themselves capable of it. However, there are other handicaps that are not so obvious, because they are mental in nature. The worst one of all is a lack of faith. Those with physical handicaps soon discover God's sustaining power, and they can be a shining example to the rest of us. Thank Him at your House of Worship for this lesson in faith and courage, and for the doors of opportunity that He opens for these people.

Although the world is full of suffering, it is also full of the overcoming of it. — Helen Keller

Eagle Echoes

The Roundstone Elementary parent meeting is being changed to Thursday, Nov. 10, from 7 to 8 p.m. The meeting will be held to discuss report cards, which will go out on Friday, Nov. 11. The dates have been changed because of the days missed last week.

Mrs. Clark's class is enjoying the company of Mrs. Stansbury. She is doing a great job while Mrs. Clark is home taking care of her new arrival, Derek Steven born Oct. 19. We congratulate her and wish her a speedy recovery.

We are studying hard and awaiting her arrival back in the class room.

Mrs. Stansbury is taking good care of us.

Miss Reams and Mrs. Adams class have been doing a unit on the book, "Where the Wild Things Are," by

"Mt. Vernon Message"

There were two separate parties; Kg - 2nd grades attended from 3:30 to 5:30 and 3rd-5th grades attended from 6 - 8 p.m. Since the pre-school students do not attend school on Fridays and could not stay after school for our party on Oct. 21st, treat bags were made for each preschool student.

We had a lot of volunteers who helped get the party ready, a lot of parents and teachers who brought baked goods and drinks and some of the businesses in our community helped by donating some of the drinks and treats that were served. PTA and Maurice Sendak.

They read the book, then made a bulletin board about the Rumpus Party they are planning. Their class made the menu, which is fried taters, chicken nuggets apple pie, bananas, sliced turkey, oatmeal, fish, pumpkin pie, pizza, snake, orange juice, apples, pears, deer and grapes. The class made the food for the bulletin board.

The class wrote a short story about "When I Feel Wild."

The fifth grade class would like to thank Mr. and Mrs. Sigmon for allowing them to visit their farm. We really appreciate the large pumpkins. We had a great time decorating them. We would also like to thank the Forestry Service, the Soil Conservation Office, and Fish and Wild Life office for their presentations and for organizing the field trip.

Miss Reams and Mrs. Adams' class made this bulletin board about their Rumpus Party they are planning.
