

Too Much Of A Good Thing Can Lead to Malnutrition

By: Hazel Jackson

Fruit juices are excellent sources of some nutrients, but children given too much of them may not get enough of other foods leading to malnutrition.

A recent study investigated whether drinking excessive amounts of fruit juice contributed to a lack of development among eight patients, one to two years old. All of the children were underweight and low in height for their age. Excessive intakes of fruit juice coincided with these lower weights and heights.

Diet histories revealed frequent consumption of fruit juices between meals. The fruit juice's concentrated simple sugars contributed to diarrhea, abdominal pain and bloating in some of the children. Below normal intakes of fat, protein, vitamin D, calcium, zinc and iron were also noted.

What can a parent do to help avoid "juicing out" their kids?

Children should be offered three meals and two to three snacks each day. Be sure to include adequate servings from each of the five food groups. To encourage solid food intake, juice consumption should be limited -- possibly to as little as four ounces per day -- and offered only after meals and snacks.

Apple and pear juices may need to be eliminated from the diet if chronic diarrhea is a problem. Some children are unable to absorb fructose and sorbitol present in the juice.

To help prevent tooth decay, most pediatricians and registered dietitians recommend giving juice by the cup, rather than by bottle. The bottle allows "pooling" of the beverage in the mouth, which allows more time for the sugar to act on and corrode the tooth enamel. For the same reason, a baby should not be put to bed with a bottle.

If you would like more parenting and nutrition information, call the Extension Office at 256-2403 and inquire about the Parent Express Newsletter.

females and is more likely to occur in older animals. Cows are more susceptible during their third and fourth lactations. The animals exhibit milk fever symptoms and may begin to walk stiffly or stagger. Their appetites may decrease, and they usually become very dull in appearance. In many cases they will isolate themselves from the herd. As the disorder progresses, the animal sometimes becomes very nervous and occasionally has muscle tremors and will exhibit rapid breathing. In advanced cases the animal will collapse, go into convulsions and die. The disorder can run its course rapidly, and unless corrective measures are taken, death sometimes can occur less than an hour after the onset of visible symptoms.

If the magnesium level in the blood is low, it is mainly due to a low level of magnesium in the animal's feed. Some reasons why magnesium may be low in the animal's feed are species of grass, soil nutrient status, potassium levels and weather.

Grasses are lower in magnesium than legumes. The early lush growth is likely to be all grass (since legumes start growth later in the spring) and may be deficient in magnesium. Pastures, even grass pastures, should have adequate magnesium content in late spring or summer. Cereal crops such as wheat, rye, barley and oats are poor accumulators of magnesium. Forages of this type are apt to be low in magnesium in the spring or fall.

The plant must get its magnesium from the soil, and soils low in magnesium can cause a low plant content. However, at the present time, it appears that magnesium fertilization on most Kentucky soils would not be feasible. If the soil has a high potassium soil test, the application will do little to increase the magnesium content within the plant. Only coarse (sandy) soils and soils with a low potassium soil test would show an increase in plant magnesium when fertilized. However, massive applications, such as with dolomitic limestone, would probably have a beneficial effect.

The potassium content in the soil is probably the dominant factor affecting the uptake of magnesium by the plant. Potassium competes with the uptake of magnesium in the plant, and, as the potassium available to the plant increases, there is a sharp drop in the uptake of magnesium. A similar type of relationship appears within the animal itself. The higher the amount of potassium entering the animal, the lower the amount of magnesium found in the blood. If the intake of magnesium is constant, the amount in the blood is lowered by higher potassium intake. Because of this, the potassium content of the soil should not be allowed to get into the high soil test range. A medium or high medium soil test should be sufficient for good pasture production and prevent significant reduction of magnesium in the plant, and subsequently, in the animal.

Because animals do not store magnesium, their dietary requirements have to be supplied on a day-to-day basis. The only way to prevent grass tetany is to supplement the diet with additional magnesium. Supplementary should start in mid-December and run through mid-May. This can be done with commercial mineral mixes containing magnesium or with homemade mixtures. Mixing 1 part magnesium oxide, 1 part trace mineral salt and 1 part distillers dry grain will do fine if this is the cattle's only source of salt.

Many farmers feed magnesium year round to avoid the problem in getting cattle back on feed. Not only is this an extra expense farmers do not need, the extra magnesium may interfere with the absorption of certain minerals. When mineral intake becomes a problem, many health problems occur which are hard to explain. For this reason, farmers are encouraged to stop magnesium feeding in mid-May. To help get animals back on minerals containing magnesium, distillers dry grain may be mixed in to take away from the bitter taste.

combines the old USDA crop insurance program and the disaster assistance programs administered by CFSA (formerly ASCS) into one program. In the past, producers who suffered losses due to a disaster might have received either crop insurance or disaster assistance, and some producers received both. Under the new law, producers will be protected under the new, improved crop insurance program.

Under the new law farmers must sign up for at least the catastrophic level of crop insurance coverage (CAT) to participate in USDA programs, including price support for tobacco. Catastrophic coverage will be based on your actual production history.

To obtain the catastrophic level of crop insurance coverage, you will only have to pay a processing fee of $50 per crop per county. If you have more than one crop, the total processing fees you will pay will not be more than $200 per farmer per county or more than $600 per farmer total. Coverage may be obtained through your local CFSA (formerly ASCS) office or from a private crop insurance agent.

The last date a producer may apply for insurance on corn, grain sorghum, soybeans, and tobacco is March 15, 1995. If you grow any of these crops, you must have insurance on time at the CAT level to be eligible for benefits. After March 15, 1995, CAT insurance on these crops can not be obtained.

Winter Tetany In Beef Cattle

What is Winter Tetany?

Winter Tetany is basically grass tetany. Since this disorder occurs during winter months when cattle are not receiving pasture, the term winter is used to denote the difference.

Winter tetany or grass tetany is a cow disorder caused by an abnormally low amount of magnesium in the animals blood. This is caused primarily by the cow's feed being low in magnesium. When grasses are used for feed, this condition will mainly occur in spring. However, some herds will experience the same problem on store feeds during January, February and March.

Grass tetany is usually confined to

Benge named to Who's Who

The 1995 edition of Who's Who Among Students in American Junior Colleges will include the names of 22 students from Somerset Community College who have been selected as national outstanding campus leaders, including two from Rockcastle.

Campus nominating committees and editors of the annual directory have included the names of these students based on their academic achievement, service to the community, leadership in extracurricular activities and potential for continued success.

They join an elite group of students from more than 1,800 institutions of higher learning in all 50 states, the District of Columbia and several foreign nations.

Outstanding students have been honored in the annual directory since it was first published in 1934.

Rockcastle County students named this year from Somerset College are Regina K. Benge and Jane B. McClure.

Recently, Mrs. Virginia Darst's Science students at Rockcastle County Middle School, completed a unit on plants and animal cells. One component of the unit was for each student to construct a cell from found objects. Wood scraps, foil, styrofoam, yarn, coat hangers and even single layer cakes were transformed into the various parts of the plant or animal cell. According to Mrs. Darst, "Constructing the cells from collage material and found objects allows students to retain the vocabulary and the identifying process of the cell and it's structure more comprehensively than simply reading and looking at picture." Public service commission approves RECC rate decrease

The new year will bring savings to Jackson County RECC members. They will see about a 6.5 percent reduction in their electric bill as a result of a rate decrease granted by the state Public Service Commission (PSC).

The decrease was filed with the commission in December by Jackson County RECC. The PSC granted an order allowing the reduction to take effect January 1st, pending future hearings.

The total savings for Jackson County RECC will be in excess of $2.6 million, and the RECC Board of Directors voted to pass the entire savings on to RECC members, according to Doug Leary, general manager.

"The average monthly bill of a household using 1,000 kilowatt-hours will decrease approximately $4," said Leary, "and we're pleased to be able to pass along these savings to our consumers." Jackson County RECC serves approximately 40,000 members in Clay, Estill, Laurel, Lee, Owsley and Rockcastle counties.

my classroom, the students have been bringing a make believe community they chose to call "Tigerville" into a real world situation right in the classroom. The students have been hard at work opening a bank called "Tiger" National Bank, earning money for their work at the printing shop, working on an assembly line in the name tag factory, printing their first edition of their newspaper titled "Paw Print News" and shopping and buying with their earned money at the General Store where gifts could be wrapped with paper students designed themselves. The project continues as a recycling center will open soon.

There are many reasons to commemorate the birth anniversary of Benjamin Franklin. Although he was known primarily as an American statesman of the Revolutionary period, he is also credited with an astonishing list of other accomplishments. He was a diplomat, a scientist, an author, a printer, a publisher, and a philanthropist. Moreover, he was self-educated. Perhaps his greatest legacy to us was his advice on how to live a healthy and sensible life, by acquiring such virtues as temperance and thrift. Indeed, all the world could profit by his example of this, as it has by his many achievements. At our House of Worship, we should express our thanks for such a man as Benjamin Franklin, who set the example for all of us in how to use our God-given intelligence.

Waste neither time nor money, but make the best of both.
— Benjamin Franklin

"We should live soberly, righteously and godly, in this present world."

Assisted living apartments, community center planned

Daniel Boone Council will likely own school property at Livingston

By: Richard Anderkin

Just who has the right to end up with the Livingston School property and who could best take care of it best and maintain it for the entire community.

That question was aired at Tuesday night's meeting of the Rockcastle County Board of Education and the answer from the board was that Daniel Boone Development Council would do the best job restoring and maintaining the property.

The board concluded the lengthy discussion by declaring the facility surplus property and authorized Superintendent Biggs Tower to seek permission from the Kentucky Department of Education to dispose of the property in compliance with state law and further directing the superintendent to write a letter of support for the Daniel Boone Development Council's proposal, to purchase and restore the property.

Mason walks away from local jail

On January 4, at approximately 3:30 in the afternoon, Jimmy Lee Mason of Brodhead, was found to be missing from the Rockcastle County Jail.

Mason was lodged on a charge of DUI, fourth offense, a Class D felony and operating on a driver's license that had been suspended because of a prior conviction for DUI. He was being held pending release on bond.

Mason turned himself in to authorities on Saturday. He is facing other charges.

No school Monday

There will be no school in Rockcastle County on Monday, January 16th in observance of Martin Luther King Day.

Board members assured the Livingston residents that the community would be involved in any decision's made by Daniel Boone concerning the property.

Livingston area residents and Rockcastle County Judge executive Burz Carlotis told board members and a few Livingston residents that the property could be saved and better maintained by the Daniel Boone Development Council and that the council had friends available to refurbish, expand and maintain the school property so that it could be utilized by the entire community.

But, Elsie Jones and Dell Ponder questioned Carlotis as to why he would want to see the school property fall from local control.

Jones, Ponder, Mary McHargue, Maude Mullins and Bill Medley did not seem to back any proposal, at first, that Carlotis had in offer as long as it involved Daniel Boone Development Council, although Carlotis and Ruth Martin, Director of Daniel Boone told the group that the majority of the decisions made concerning the property would be made locally by the Rockcastle County Housing Authority.

Ironically the majority of the discussion about what was best for the school took place between Livingston residents and did not involve the board of education who will make the final and most important decision about the fate of the property.

Carlotis told the group that he was very concerned that if something was not done about the property it would soon deteriorate to the point that it would not be feasible to fix it, therefore losing its benefit altogether.

Carlotis and Martin told the group and the board that Daniel Boone had funds available for the project now, but had a January 17th deadline to submit application.

But, Mrs. Jones said that it was her understanding that most citizens wanted a coalition of the Livingston Alumni, the Ladies Auxiliary, the city council and others to own and maintain the property.

"There are a lot of people in Livingston with ties to Livingston that would donate money to renovate and maintain the property," Jones said.

Mrs. Jones went so far as to accuse Carlotis, a Livingston graduate, of forgetting his own roots.

Ponder voiced concern that if Daniel Boone controlled the property, the gymnasium could not be used for community projects such as Lion's Club Meetings and other local gatherings.

Part of Daniel Boone's plans call for an elderly-low income housing unit in the newest classroom building on the Livingston property.

Martin said that in her work in Rockcastle County she had found

Chestnut Ridge man arrested

A Mt. Vernon man was hospitalized following a disturbance with others on Chestnut Ridge Sunday morning.

Sam Young, 68, was taken to Rockcastle Hospital and transferred to Veterans Hospital in Lexington suffering a concussion.

State Trooper Stacy Trees reported Young was charged with alcohol intoxication and criminal trespassing in the third degree with further charges pending his release from the hospital, soon.

Trooper Trees said he responded to a complaint that a fight was in progress at the home of Mike Denny. He said Denny and his brothers wrestled a 38 pistol from Young who was trying to shoot Mike Denny.

Making the arrest in addition to Trooper Trees were Deputy Sheriffs Randall Reynolds and Bryan Anderkin.

Kentucky Supreme Court Justice Joe Lambert sworn-in in Rockcastle County school board members Dr. G.W. Griffith, left, and Dwight Griffin, center, before the Rockcastle County Board of Education meeting Tuesday night. Deborah Whitehead was re-elected chairman of the local board.

Juvenile offenders in Rockcastle

Ankle bracelets, home incarceration possible

By: Ray McClure

"Ankle bracelets" and delinquent taxes occupied some of the meeting of the Rockcastle Fiscal Court Tuesday.

A change was also made by the court in the Financial disclosure section of the county's code of ethics.

Ankle bracelets, or restraints, are being looked into by County Attorney Jeff Burdette, or home incarceration for juvenile offenders instead of jail.

The bracelets on the ankles of juveniles would "save money" Attorney Burdette told the court.

It costs $75 to $100 a day to house juveniles in a detention center. With use of ankle bracelets it would cost $125 to hook up and $14 a day thereafter.

The fiscal court apparently liked the idea and told Attorney Burdette to pursue the question. Burdette said the use of the home restraints would be used only on misdemeanor offenses.

County Judge/Executive Buzz Carlotis said everyone should pay "their fair share" of taxes and looked to County Attorney Burdette for guidance.

Attorney Burdette told the court he was filing 25 suits today (Tuesday) for those who owe over $1,000 of unpaid taxes, some owing as long as 5 or more years.

Burdette said he had "filed several suits to collect delinquent taxes over the county and intends to file several more in the next few days."

The county attorney's office has taken an aggressive approach to collecting delinquent taxes.

At a recent Rockcastle Fiscal Court meeting, the magistrates "heartily supported" this collection of taxes and possible foreclosures, the county judge stated. He was of the opinion everyone should pay his "fair share of taxes."

A section of the Financial Disclosure portion of the Code of Ethics was revised by the court at the request of the state. It now reads, the name, address and sources of income for all elected officials will be disclosed.

Alexander named to top post at farm service office

Warden Alexander has taken over as the new executive director of the Consolidated Farm Service Agency office (the former ASCS office) in Rockcastle County. Alexander is replacing Harold Ballinger, who retired October 1. Alexander, who has worked with the federal agricultural department since 1988, held the top post in Robertson County before being assigned to Rockcastle. The Ohio county native is a graduate of the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture and is 33-years-old. Alexander says his main goal is to help local farmers make as much profit as possible from their farms. "I am looking forward to working with Rockcastle County farmers," Alexander said. Program assistants Gloria Robbins, Mary Taylor and Dan McKinney are still working with the local office.

A Leslie County man was killed Tuesday morning in a single truck wreck on Hwy. 461 six miles west of Mt. Vernon. Timothy Couch, 30, of Bear Branch was pronounced dead on arrival at the Rockcastle Hospital, after the 10 a.m. wreck. According to police, Couch was pulling a load of sand when he lost control of his truck and hit the guardrail. The truck flipped up on its top throwing Couch from the truck. Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell said that Couch died from massive head trauma. Kentucky State Trooper Jim Silvers is shown gathering information at the scene.

During the last week of December most of the companies who send me free catalogues did just that. Normally they would have started arriving shortly after the first of the year and then trickled in through mid-March but, since postage was scheduled to increase by more than 10 percent on January 2, everybody decided to mail all at one time. You'd see the mail man's Jeep coming up the hill out of Paint Lick with his front wheels just barely touching the pavement because he was so weighted down in the back-end with all those catalogues.

My mail box is big enough that you easily stack four or five regular sized ones inside it and still have room left over. One of our guests over the holidays who aspires to become a stand-up comedian asked me why we had our garage chest high on top of a post like that cause he couldn't figure out how we got the cars up to it. On Tuesday when the mail ran, he apologized, "for calling the warehouse a garage. Now I see why you have it up so high," he observed. "The trucks can back right up to it and unload straight out," he noted as we packed two arm-loads of reading material into the house. A regular mail box wouldn't have held half the mail we received that day.

Anyway, when you are as popular with the direct mail industry as our family is, the big box comes in handy from time to time. It also makes direct people to our place by telling them to "cross the bridge in Paint Lick, drive four miles and then start looking for the big black mailbox on the right. We live across the road from it."

I stopped measuring how many pieces of mail we were getting daily there for a while and commenced doing it by weight. It was easier to step on the bathroom scales before you went to the mail box, then come back in with an armload and bathroom scales before you went to the mail box, then come back in with an armload and weigh yourself again. That meant you'd received 12 pounds of mail that day. Which you could then dump on the kitchen table to "grade out."

I like to dump it right in the middle of the table so that I can use the corners for grading piles. I also put a five-gallon bucket on the floor beside me. First class stuff like bills and personal letters go into the upper left hand corner. For that matter, anything else that someone went to the time and expense of posting first class ought to be read. For right handed people the upper left is the most cumbersome place to reach to and since I know that less than six ounces of my 12 pounds is going to be first class, that's where I put it. "Save yourself work anytime you can," I always say.

In the lower left hand corner, the next most cumbersome place to reach, I put any bulk-rate envelopes that look like they might be worth opening. Sweepstakes entries, letters from magazines and anything that says "free offer enclosed" goes into this pile which will grow to as much as 24 ounces on a twelve pound day. Similar sized envelopes from credit card and insurance companies, vacation resorts, and anything else that looks like it's hitting me up for money go straight into the bucket, never again to see the light of day. In fact the next light they'll see will be inside Mama Bear, our big wood burner in the basement which I recycle them in the form of British Thermal Units.

Newspapers and magazines go into the upper right corner. Several of the PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and cyberspace from bewitching Wabul, birthplace of Dewey D. Arbuclle, late Professor of History at the University of Kentucky, who cogently argued that American history clearly falls into three stages: the passing of the buffalo, the passing of the Indian, and the passing of the buck.

I received recently a package from Sarah Hertinger of Eau Claire, Wisconsin. She is the only child of Dr. Dewey and Alice Throgmorton-Arbuclle. (The Throgmorton clan, older Wabulians will recall, was known far and wide for generations as makers of "The smoothest shine south of Cincinnati.")

The package contained a folder filled with hand-written pages of notes Professor Arbuclle had compiled and intended to incorporate in a book he never got to write, which Sarah said would have been intitled The Glory That Was Wabul. Sarah, a reader of Heresay mailed the notes to me, thinking I might suggest some of the material in my column. How right she was! And so, dear hearts, here for your enlightenment one of the local color anecdotes Dr. Arbuclle recorded. It has to do with the tumultuous origin, or "coming out" as the put it, of a Baptist church he knew personally.

Not long after World War II ended, The FOPTAT Sunday School Class (Friends of Priscilla, Tryphena and Tryphosa) at High Hope Missionary Baptist Church, a grandma-ish group that always had a class "project" or was looking for one, rose up in righteous rage when their teacher, Margie Mae Eddiehouse, let it be known that "near-beer" was being sold at some of the country stores around Wabul, including one that's part-owned by a deacon of this very church." And worse still, Margie Mae said those stores had "that wicked stuff right there in their pop-boxes next to Coca-Colas and RCs and the like, where little children can see it, a-leadin' them precious things to think it ain't no more harmful than a Grapeite. (Near-beer, made from hops and such, contained a wee fraction less than one percent alcohol and could be sold anywhere without violating laws that governed the sale of alcoholic beverages.)

Well, it didn't take the FOPTAT gals long to come up with a plan of action, and it commenced that very Sunday morning, right after the first song of the preaching service. When young Brother Eck Sampsell, half-time pastor at High Hope, called for announcements, Margie Mae sprang to her feet, walked to the front of the church, and stood in front of the communion table - to nearly everyone's surprise.

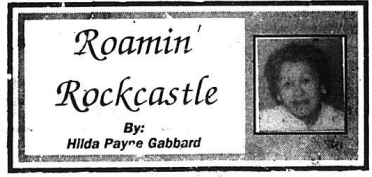

"Friends," she said, "there's evil in our midst, and it's name is 'near-beer.' Ever'one of my Sunday School class has voted to stop tradin' with anybody who sells the stuff, no matter who they are. And we call upon the rest of the church to follow us."

Every head in the church turned in the direction of the second pew on the preacher's right where deacon Wilmer Owens sat with his wife, Hester. His face was three shades of red and her's a pale purple. Wilmer owned a real interest in the store across the road from the church. His son-in-law, Ed Wagers, owned the other half and was proprietor -- and had near-beer in his pop-box.

Bro. Sampsell, taken back a bit by Margie Mae's audacity, was about to say something when head deacon Tom Hurt stood up in the bass section on the back row of the choir.

"Let Sister Eddiehouse be reminded," Tom intoned, "that our beloved Brother Paul commanded the women to be silent in church and that Yesterday was the 9th month of the 12th day for weather the coming year. It told us we were going to have a nice fall. The sun burst through a cloudy overhead and was like gold shining down -- we needed some sunshine after all the gloomy winter weather. Going by the sign on the woolly worm, we are now starting our nice period in between the two black ends of the worm.

There is a change coming for me in the next few months -- I can't tell you now but will when that happens, don't know if I'll be better off.

We went down Clear Creek yesterday and stopped at Parsons Gas Company where we found some of the nicest, friendliest people. They were laughing I guess after the strain of the holidays had gone by.

Roger started laughing and said to us, "Don't guess you stopped in Wilde but I'd better hush," yet he kept on laughing.

"John did," I said, "He wanted to get a calendar, one of those farm kind that tells the weather with dates."

It was for Henry Volmer in Indiana who has been ill and is now in a nursing home.

I missed getting mail or talking to him on the phone. He enjoys my columns.

John was asking them about a gas furnace. David, the brother of Roger, told him about the tank which had been located there a long time.

Their mother, Ione Parsons came in with a becoming hairstyle. One time I had been there and made her picture out front.

A long picture was displayed on the stoves which was of the old Clarence Hays store building which sat papers that carry my column give me free subscriptions and I pay money for a couple of others. It would take half an hour of interviews to determine just how many magazines come into the house. It seems like every day or so Loretta will be trying to find out if someone wants to renew a subscription or wait and see if Ed & Marian has a better offer. On a twelve-pound day we will amass about three pounds of keeper subscription stuff.

The last pile goes onto the lower right corner which, not by coincidence, is also easiest to reach. This is where the catalogues and big old interesting looking envelopes go. Big old uninteresting looking envelopes and surplus catalogues go into the bucket for the one called "I Am a Bear." The reason we have surplus copies of catalogues is that sometimes everybody in the family gets at least one copy each of the same book. Between the four or five copies of, for example nine copies of Gurney's Seed catalogue. So I culled eight of them after making a note to send the company indicating that everybody in my family except for yours truly should be taken off their mailing list. By writing the companies that ask for sending us multiple copies of the same catalogue, I figure I'm saving two or three trees every year. If it's not cycled in the first place, you don't have to worry about recycling it, I always say.

So the lower right hand corner will wind up weighing about three and a half pounds. Which means, if my math is correct, that on a twelve-pound day the biggest weight which will never be open, fully one third of my mail will wind up in the bucket. And now you know why I don't have to worry about cutting kindling.

However, due to my recent demand, we have decided to rekindle a scaled down version of The Great Adams and Mt. Vernon Signal Seed Catalogue Scam for 1995. You may recall that we cancelled the Scam last year because I was having a fit of ethics. I figures that if state and local government could submit to reform I, too, might become a more responsible entity. I cancelled the Scam because the name of saving trees and huffed warmly in my new morality until people started complaining about it. "When it comes down to being publicly popular or saving a tree, the tree loses almost every time," I always say.

Here's the compromise. In the past we have offered to make sure that you get about 100 catalogues in the mail if you will simply send us your name, mailing address and two first class (32 cents now, 10 cents when we started the Scam) postage stamps to my home address. This year we're scaling back to 25 catalogues which will be carefully selected from establishments with which the Adams family has personally done business. Chances are, if you were on the 1993 list, you already receive every one of them so you need not participate. But if you are unhappy with the quality and/or small amount of mail you may be receiving, by all means sign up and we will see to it that you are provided 25 great opportunities to shop at home. The emphasis will be on seed and garden catalogues with a sampling of fishing tackle, hunting gear, farm tools and sexy underwear, etc. outlets thrown in for variety's sake.

Write to Ike Adams, Catalogue Scam Hq., 6945 Highway 52 West, Paint Lick (you can't lick) Kentucky 40461. Then go out and buy one of Doug Rhodus's big steel mail boxes. You may well need it by the middle of February.

any questions they have should be asked of their husbands at home." "For cryin' out loud, Tom Hurt," Margie Mae wailed, "I ain't got no husband, and you know it. So who in the Sam Hill am I gonna ask?" "Well, Sister Eddehouse, the Good Book is right clear on that matter..." But before Tom could give specifics, Margie Mae fired again. "Besides, I don't have a question from several years to get rid of near-beer in Wabed. And if you and Brother Paul don't like it, that's your problem."

"Well, dearly beloved, all you need was concerned. Deacon Owens and his wife walked out and never darkened the doors again. Evie Lou Jones, a POPAT class member, took the floor and leveled an evil eye and a less than subtle barb at "some in this church that's a do-in' business with stores they know handles near-beer." Bro. Sampsel, trying to derail a fracas, asked Evie Lou to "please sit down." That brought her husband, Jake, to his feet.

"Now see here, Preacher. No man talks to my woman that way. Besides, you're still wet behind the ears, and a judgment by your so-called sermons, you ain't got one drop of unction. We'll be there off if you just up and went home."

And when timorous Bro. Sampsel did just that, a silence fell upon the faithful. Tom Hurt rushed to the pulpit, urged the folks to go home and seek forgiveness for their part "in the Devil's doin' here today," and dismissed with a prayer.

Outside, however, the talk resumed and tempers flared hotter. Bertha Hurt, Tom's wife, walked up to Margie Mae, shook her finger in her face, and told her she would have to do a heap of repenting to undo the damage she had done to dear old High Hope. That censured was more than Margie Mae could manage. She let loose with a hymn that was Bertha's jaw, so powerful that Bertha staggered backwards a couple of paces and banged up against the hind quarter of Cy Sneeley's mule, Ahab. The sudden impact of Bertha's spooked out Ahab, and he bolted off, loaded wagon and all, lickerly-splotted into the middle of the High Hope graveyard, finally coming to a stop at the hedgerow on the other side, having knocked over three tombstones, spilled a bushel bag of oats, and scared the Hades out of Martha Sneeley, her sister, Mary, and four Sneeley siblings.

"A-mercy!" As my late mother-in-law often said. Precious souls, this tale is too long for the space allotted me by Sir Richard of The Signal. So, in summation let me say that a month later the church split. A third of the saints departed and organized High Hope Missionary Baptist Church No. 2, whose charter included Dr. Ar-buckle's folks and, of course, sister Margie Mae, whose mother, Clara, had been a most vocal advocate of "women's suffrage" some years before.

Margie Mae continued her FOP-TAT class and the war against near-beer. In fact, according to Prof. Ar-buckle, their protest caught on and quite a few women from several churches in the greater Wabed area joined Margie Mae's crusade. And, because not all of the ladies were Baptists, they held a meeting in Newton Schoolhouse and organized themselves into Sisters Against Goddess Grocers (SAGG), which Dr. Ar-buckle and other noted historians agree was the forerunner of "women's lib" in Rockcastle County.

I must go, dear hearts. So, until next week, the Almighty willing, reflect on the "wisdom" of Rev. C. Samuel Hargrove, who, while being questioned by a pulpit committee from High Hope Missionary Baptist Church No. 3, was asked where he stood on "predestination." (High Hope No. 3 was hopelessly divided over the doctrine of election. Some side with Calvin and contended that God, before creation, predestined (i.e., elected) each and every man (and woman) to salvation or perdition. Others, siding with Arminius, argued that God predestined a "plan of salvation" but that every individual could make his own "free-will" choice about eternity. Rev. Hargrove mulled the query over for a moment and then replied, "Gentlemen, I'm prepared to preach it either way."

for years on the space where the Parsons now have gas supplies. The Sheriff, Shirley Smith's pretty wife was doing some clerical work. I didn't get to stop at Ballard Parsons' store this time where he always has a bargain rate for his groceries as I tell you every time. I go there. Shirley's wife is as sister to Ballard - you know I see him over in Wildlife a lot. He is keeping an eye on those fellows around there but Ballard has nerve for he still does his under the counter sales!

We came back by Cousin Bill and Flossie Stephens' home. He had been out feeding his stock and they were both taking it easy in the warm room. Flossie said all their children were home for Christmas dinner except Grandpa Benny Stephens who went to Georgia. I'll bet there was a pretty girl behind it.

"Tell me about your food and did you have to cook it yourself," I asked her.

"Law no, I couldn't do that. All the girls brought food. I cooked shuck beans, frozen beef and they brought turkey, ham and chicken. We had fruit cake, butterscotch pie, pecan pies, you could hardly get through the house, there were so many here but we enjoyed all being together."

"I was getting hungry hearing all that talk about food."

"I was gonna bill a good year ago and gave him a nice, loving family. Before we left I asked them for a New Year's Resolution.

Bill said, "I tell you I'm going to do as little as I can get by with this coming year."

Flossie spoke up and said, "I'm going to help Bill since he's not well and do the same thing that he is doing," and she looked over at me and winked, I thought.

John was laying back in one of their comfortable chairs and before he could join in the resolutions, I thought I'd better bring him home! Back in Berea, we saw Gary Gaye in Superior Market. His resolution to me was, while he was laughing so hard he could hardly stop, "I'm going to have to stop beating my wife! Now, if I can get one from his wife. In the branch office of Berea National, I talked to Shirley Abney and when I asked for a New Year's Resolution she laughed and said, "I'm going to have a better love life. I tell you!" "Could that mean there's a wedding in the near future? I'll be watching closely."

I talked to Jane Lee Dondanville in Burbank, California and she said, "I'm going to get a divorce, Kevin Costner since his wife divorced him. He's the handsomest man I've seen lately!" Well, being a widow herself makes it easy for the girls to latch onto him.

Aaron Baugh, the carry-out boy from Superior said, "I read your piece in the paper and sure liked it!"

The Mt. Vernon Signal James Taylor in the office up front of Superior Market was cashing a check for me. There was a real pretty woman standing behind him so I said, "Who's the pretty woman there by you?"

"She's my wife Cheryl. Don't you know her?" I had worked at the Citizen with her but she had fallen off in her weight so until he told me, I took a long look and sure enough it was Cheryl. Motherhood agrees with her for she was much prettier.

My mother Martha Jane Abney Payne has a birthday tomorrow, January 11th and if living, would be 121 years old being born on January 11, 1874. She bore dad 11 children in all the years they were married and all lived until they were grown.

John is one fellow who got out of the country but the country is still in fall. In working in molasses this past fall he bought several tons to use such as land cans and he got a long handled iron dipper to dip molasses up with and after all was over, I found the dipper hanging on the middle rod of my curtains in the kitchen. Now that is all he will use to drink from the faucet in the kitchen. He said it tasted

Thursday, January 12, 1995 • P-43 more like hill country water. He is not far off, for Berea's water system comes from Cowbell Hollow Lake and drains off the hills down into the lake. He is so free with it, he tries to get me to drink "hill country water."

We had plans to go to my son, Chesley's house last Saturday in Kenton County to visit with his grandson, Chase for his second birthday in January when he was two years old. But we had to give up on that plan when we began to get news of coming bad weather. And it was bad as you know. Even our three white ducks stayed in their pan we use to give them fresh water. The ice froze up where they were sitting but the ducks didn't get out. They like water so well it's part of their being.

Roamin' Rockcastle is proud of, and congratulates, Rockcastle State Representative Danny Ford for his being elected House Minority Leader of the Kentucky House of Representatives in Frankfort Tuesday. This is the seventh term for Mr. Ford so we in Rockcastle are really proud.

Till next week. No matter what we are doing each day, we are all searching for happiness, even if it comes in the form of survival.

Fairview News
By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Worship services were well attended at the Fairview Baptist Church over the weekend with good attendance. Sunday School attendance was seventy nine (79). Our December average attendance was ninety (90). It's always good to be in the House of the Lord.

Well, winter time has finally arrived, we had a little snow last week, but this morning Jan. 9th the sun is shining and looks so pretty. I think we all dread dark cloudy days. But we take whatever the Lord sends. He is so good to us and blesses us in so many ways, but many times what he does for us is not appreciated.

We extend our sympathy to all those who have lost loved ones recently including Frances Ray. The family, relatives and loved ones have our love and prayers.

Sunday School perfect attendance pins for 1994 were awarded January 8th at our church. First year pins went to: Nancy Isaacs, Frances Gabbard, Josh Lyons and Rebekah Lyons. 2nd year: Tiffany Gabbard. 3rd: Stephany Gabbard. 4th: Brittney Blair. 6th: Amy Croucher, Lucille Ponder, Thelma Thacker and Nancy Williams. 7th: Jo Ann Croucher, Kelly Croucher and Glenn Ponder. 8th: Chad Croucher. 10th: Roy Lee Croucher. 13th: Janica Cummins and Monica Cummins. 17th: Doris Gabbard. 18th: Gail Lee Gabbard and Dreama Cummins. 21st: Shirley Peters. 23rd: Shirley Poynter and Jimmy Cummins. 25th: Judy Cummins. 16th: Buddy Gabbard.

We are very proud of all these winners who have been so faithful and committed to their Sunday school classes. May God help these and others to be on the roll in 1995.

Dewey and Elizabeth Thomas and Elwood and Norma Jean Tyson of Murray, visited relatives here over the weekend. Dewey and Elizabeth, along with Everett Thomas, Douglas Singleton and Todd Cromer attended worship services at Fairview on Sunday morning.

Christmas dinner guests of Eugene and Hallie Alexander were their daughter Jewell Davidson, husband Rex and children Jenia and Jeremy of Bodhead and their son Gerald, wife Irene and children Courtney and Cody of Sand Springs.

Mrs. Mary Cope had Christmas dinner with her son Buddy Cope and family.

Recent guests of Mrs. Cope have been Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Cope of Mt. Vernon, Christine Barnett of Berea, and Frankie and Jean Hayes of Winchester.

Charles Noland (a Signal reader) of Independence attended church services at Fairview recently. We were all so glad to see him. He is my nephew and such a fine man. He told me it had been 30 years since he had attended church at Fairview. He, his sister Barbara Ann Croucher of Berea and I had pictures made while we were all together.

Well, I'm quite sure all of you had a very good and Merry Christmas. We were all blessed to be living in so another Christmas. We all were together at different times during the holidays. Our son Junior and his family have Christmas dinner at home, (like Hubert and I do) so we had dinner with him and his family on Monday -- 26th. I was so pleased to receive so many Christmas cards, 61 in all. But more thankful for my many friends and loved ones. I've always had wonderful friends ever since I can remember, and to each and everyone of them and to all the readers of the Signal I'd like to say, I wish for you the very best of everything in this new year of 1995.

Try to attend Sunday School and church everytime you can. Be good to others and live a good life. God bless you.

Rockets lose to Clinton Co.; Jayvees get first win

The Clinton County Bulldogs came to town Tuesday night to help the Rockets inaugurate their new gymnasium and they weren't very polite, ruining the Rockets' first home game by defeating them 56-47.

It looked like the Rockets would win their first game ever at the new RCHS; they led at the end of the first quarter 15-10 and at the half 28-26. But, in a reversal of what they normally have been doing in games, they were outscored in the third quarter 15 to 9 and 15 to 10 in the fourth to seal their fate.

The varsity team saw several changes in their make-up in their first home game of the season -- Juniors Chad Severance and Scottie Cotton have left the team and five players, three from the freshman team and two from the Jayvee team were added to the roster.

Making their first appearance of the season on the varsity squad were: sophomores Jon Adams and Bryan Bussell and freshmen Dusty McClure, Blake Childress and Travis Anderkin.

There was an unusual twist to the start of the game -- it began with a technical on the Rockets for not having Bryan Bussell's name in the official scorer's book. The Bulldogs missed the two free throws but took possession of the ball to begin the game without virtue of a jump ball.

However, it was the Rockets drawing first blood on a three pointer by junior Eric McGuire and junior Eddie Todd added another field goal for a 5-0 lead for the Rockets.

Junior Matt Baker then went to war and scored eight of his 12 points. Eric McGuire added another basket and it was 15-10 at the end of the first period.

Center Gary Burns revved up his offensive act the second quarter, scoring 8 of his 15 points and Eric McGuire, Ken Hopkins and Adam Powell all scored for the 28-26 halftime margin.

However, in the third quarter, the Bulldogs scored eight straight points to take the third quarter lead 41-37.

The Bulldogs mounted another run at the beginning of the fourth quarter, outscoring the Rockets 9-2 before Gary Burns and Matt Baker hit back to back field goals to pull their team within 7 at 43-30 but the Rockets couldn't pull it out as Clinton Co. went on to pad their lead to the final 56-47.

Leading scorer for the Rockets was Burns with 15 points and six blocked shots; Baker got 12, McGuire 6, Ken Shea Hopkins and Corey Scott 4 each and Eddie Todd, who was in early foul trouble, Adam Powell and Blake Childress got 2 each.

Jayvees Win First

The Rockets Jayvee team salvaged some of the night for fans as they won their first game of the season against the Jayvee Bulldogs 58-43.

The Rockets managed the feat without the services of forward Mark Carpenter who tore ligaments in the Jayvee game at Richmond Model and the prognosis is for him to be out 4-6 weeks.

The Rocket led throughout the game with Adam Powell leading the scoring with 13; Matt Ford got 12; Ronnie Vanzant 9; Jon Adams 6; Malcolm Shepherd and John Brown 4 each and Bryan Bussell and Jimmy Kendrick 2 each.

At Richmond Model, the Jayvees were ahead 10-4 at the end of the first quarter but were outscored in the second and third quarters 35-17 and they weren't able to pull it out in the final period for the 50-41 loss. Jimmy Kidwell led the scoring with 11 points; Ronnie Vanzant got 10; Matt Ford 8; Jon Adams 7; Mark Carpenter 3 and Chris Miller 2.

Freshman win 5th and 6th. The Rocket freshmen and Coach David Sargent continued their winning ways last Thursday night when they hosted the Garrard County Lions for their second meeting of the season and the results were the same with the Rockets winning 56-25.

The game was really never in question, with the Rockets taking over the lead and the game immediately and never looking back.

The scoring attack was well-balanced with four freshmen in double figures led by Travis Anderkin with 15; Dusty McClure and John Brown with 12 each; Blake Childress scored 11 points; Billy Kirby 6 and Chris Miller 1.

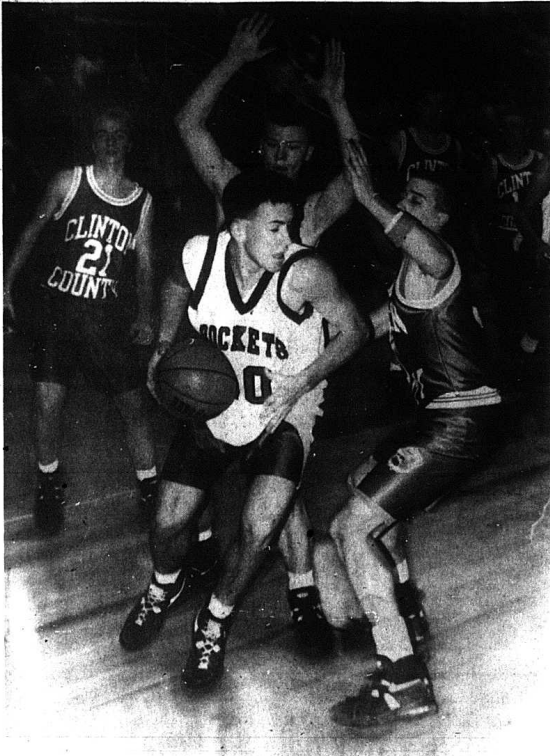

It was a repeat performance at Richmond Model Thursday night as the freshmen took the measure of the laboratory school early and went on to a 56-33 thrashing of Model.

Model had one lead in the game at 4-2 but the Rockets took command of the game at that point and it was just a question of the final score.

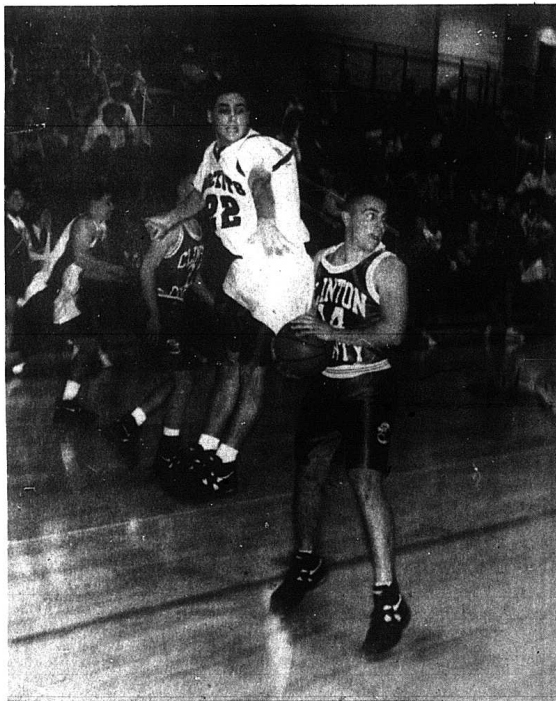

Eight freshmen got in the scoring column for the Rockets with McClure leading the scoring with 15; Anderkin got 12; Childress 10; Kirby 7; Chris Miller and Chris Bishop, 4 each and John Brown and Michael Vaughn 2 each.

The varsity's next game is at Garrard Co. Friday night and Barbourville will come to town next Tuesday night.

The freshmen will travel to Danville Thursday night and will play at Whitley County Saturday in a tournament.

Eric McGuire drives the baseline for two of his six points in the Rockets' loss to Clinton County Tuesday night, 56-47.

Corey Scott attempts a rebound late in the game against Clinton County that he travel Tuesday night. Scott scored four points in the losing effort. The Rockets' next game is Friday night as they travel to Garrard County.

RCMS Basketball Review

Playing a tough schedule with three away games in four days, the RCMS 8th grade Rockets faced strong competition from Pulaski Northern, Somerset Mecca and Lexington Catholic.

The Pulaski Northern Knights are noted in the conference for height and aggressive play. The Rockets zone defense shut down the Knights' inside game while the press adversely affected Northern allowing the Rockets to score several easy baskets. The Rockets left Northern with a 41 to 28 victory.

Scoring for the Rockets was led by Andrew Carrera with 12; Layne Nicely had 11; Andy Hale got 8; Steve Bradley 5; Josh Martin 3 and Jeremy Martin 2.

The Somerset Mecca team was seeking revenge after a previous loss to the Rockets. However, Mecca could just not compete against the Rockets' strong man-to-man defense. The Rockets' bench contributed to the victory, allowing the Rockets to bring home a 34' point win.

Nine Rockets scored in the lopsided win with Layne Nicely leading the scoring with 16; followed closely by Andy Hale with 15. Andrew Cash pumped in 7; Stevie Bradley, Andrew Carrera and William Bryant, 6 each; Jeremy Martin 4 and Blake Clahoun and Jacob Burdette, 2 each.

Lexington Catholic, who finished third nationally last year in the AAU tournament, faced a tough Rockets' squad. Pulling from the entire gymnasium in a three county area, Lexington Catholic has an outstanding reputation across the nation.

Notwithstanding, the Rockets managed to outgun the Knights the first quarter 15-6 by rattling their defense quickly. However, the Knights retaliated with 6 straight points and, by halftime, the Rockets were clinging to a 26-25 lead. With one minute to go in the third quarter, and a 3 point Rocket lead, Catholic's pressure defense forced costly turnovers and the quarter ended with a 38-38 tie. Fatigue set in for the Rockets during the fourth as the Knights' pressure defense did not relent and they outscored the Rockets 10 to 4. This forced the Rockets to foul and the Knights put the game away at the free throw line for the 52-43 win.

However, Lexington Catholic had to fight hard for their win especially without the huge fan support by the Rockets' cheerleaders and fans.

Stevie Bradley led the Rockets in scoring with 13 points; Layne Nicely had 11; Andy Hale 8; Andrew Carrera 7 and Josh Martin and Jeremy Martin, 2 each.

The RCMS Rockets are now 14-4 overall and 6 and 2 in conference play.

6th Graders Win Big
The RCMS 6th grade team took the measure of Northern Pulaski 39-15 with Chris Parsons, the only player in double figures, leading the scoring with 16. However, eight other Rockets scored against Northern Pulaski with Josh Singleton getting 9; Shea Davidson, 3; Derrick Bussell, Jeremy Neely, Thomas Coffey and Josh Lyons, 2 each and Warren Whiter, 1.

7th Graders Win 1, Lose 2*
The RCMS 7th graders got a win over Northern Pulaski also 37-26 with Andrew Cash leading the scoring with 15 points. John Renner was next with 8; Jacob Burdette got 6; Brad McNew 4 and Matt Brown and Chris Parsons 2 each.

The 7th graders didn't fare so well against Mecca, losing 14 to 36. Andrew Cash got 12 points in the

An updated traffic report was made to the Mt. Vernon City Council by Mayor Gary R. Cromer Monday night.

The mayor reported the Department of Transportation has poured the pad to install a traffic signal at the intersection of U.S. 150 and Richmond Street but he was not sure when the light would be working.

He said it was on a trial basis and the city could request it be removed if it proves to be hazardous.

Mayor Cromer said indications are not good that a traffic signal (red-yellow-green) would be installed at Ky. 1326 and 461 as the city requested.

He also said the state does not look favorable on a light at the new high school on 461.

A delegation including councilwoman Karen King and councilman Lee Keene went to Somerset to see about a light at the high school. Councilman Keene said he did not believe traffic lights would be installed anywhere but suggested writing letters to the Transportation Cabinet and governor asking for a light.

The mayor reported he had received a letter from the Transportation Cabinet regarding a traffic signal at U.S. 25 - Newcomb Street - and School Street. The traffic engineer for the state said: "We did a traffic count on Dec. 15, 1994. The volumes were low and did not meet any of the warrants for a signal. We also checked the accident history and it was too low to meet warrants. Taking into account the above information, we cannot recommend a signal at this time."

The mayor told the council he had no new information on 3-lanes south-bound on U.S. 25 and 461 from the Renfro interchange of I-75. It's in the six-year plan of the highway department.

Accountant Joseph Clontz (CPA) brought the city audit to the council. He said during his discussion that city assets total $6,292,000. City liabilities total $1,620,180 mostly in water and sewer. The city's cash balance stands at $1,157,115 with most of it already allocated.

The city passed a resolution on investment policy suggested by the state. Only one change was made in investment guidelines, requested by Councilman Keene.

He said he felt more comfortable with one correction: "Any investment of funds by the city shall be secured by FDIC or other pledged collateral by the institution."

The city has about $679,000 set aside at the Bank of Mt. Vernon for possible investment.

First reading of an ordinance by the city to allow flood insurance to be made available to residents of Mt. Vernon through insurance companies.

Mt. Vernon police report was made by Chief Bill Mink. He reported: Citations issued, 76; total charges, 136; DUI arrests, 5; calls for service, 192; accidents, 18; other agency assists, 38; motorist assists, 10; criminal cases opened, 11; Mt. Vernon Fire runs, 19.

that there is a great need for independent assisted living for Livingston area residents.

"We can convert that classroom to restructured assisted living quarters, with relative ease, the money is available," Martin said.

Bankers from Cincinnati, Ohio, the Bank of Mt. Vernon and First National Bank of Manchester, along with Carolfus and officials from Daniel Boone toured the school property Tuesday before the school board meeting.

"When you are handed a lemon you should make lemonade, the school property can still be a great asset to Livingston," Carolfus said.

Besides the assisted living quarters, Martin said that Daniel Boone wanted to make the gymnasium into a community center, and although Daniel Boone would bear the brunt of the work of restoring it, the control of the center would be left in the hands of the local people.

Martin said that while Daniel Boone did not have any immediate plans for the other large school building, something constructive could be done with it later.

Martin did say that Daniel Boone's plans call for more new assisted housing units to be built on the Livingston property.

Carolfus told the group that it would be very difficult for a coalition from Livingston to obtain adequate funds and that Daniel Boone had funding available now.

"I have become very concerned about the property and its condition and I started pushing buttons to see what could be done," Carolfus said.

"I asked Daniel Boone to look at Livingston, not just the school but the empty store buildings as well and consider the possibilities," he said.

"I did not ask them to look at Brohead or Mt. Vernon, I wanted them to help in Livingston if they could," Carolfus said.

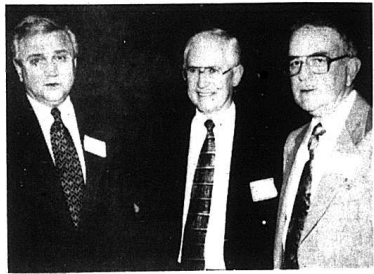

Carolfus and Martin asked the board to give Daniel Boone an option or a letter of commitment on the property, which the board did.

Carolfus told the group that Daniel Boone officials did not want to do anything with the property that Livingston residents did not also want.

All of Daniel Boone's developments in Rockcastle County are approved and administered by the Rockcastle County Housing Authority.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,
 Cockfighting is once again illegal in Kentucky, thanks to recent ruling of the Kentucky Court of Appeals. Prior to the ruling, supporters of this barbaric "sport" argued that the state's anti-crucy law did not cover birds. But cockfighting constitutes, by any common-sense standard, blatant cruelty to animals. Two birds are placed into a pit where they fight to the death in front of cheering spectators. Instruments similar to ice picks and razor blades are attached to the legs of the birds allowing them to inflict serious or fatal injuries upon each other. Eyes are gouged out, bodies are slashed, and wings and legs broken.
 There is a culture of cruelty that is spawned by cockfighting. Children routinely attend cockfights and learn violence against animals is acceptable and even fun. Gambling and drug use are a part of the sordid scene.

Generations of Service.

Some things never change. Even in today's world, there are still views of the past that remind us of our heritage, our strength, and just simple thoughts of days gone by.

We like to include ourselves in those thoughts. Cox Funeral Home has been serving the families of Rockcastle County since 1907. Much has changed with us, as in all businesses, but one thing that has not changed is the dignified and thoughtful service we extend to families in their hours of need.

This photograph is the iron bridge that crosses Roundstone Creek near Mullins Station in Rockcastle County. Just as this bridge has supported families as they have crossed the sometimes raging waters, Cox Funeral Home has served as a bridge of support for families in grief.

Happy New Year to everyone from all of the staff at the Rockcastle County Library! I hope we all may work together and achieve many of the goals that we are striving for in this new year.

The Library Board of Trustees and the staff have established a list of several goals and we will be attempting to make this a year of accomplishments in services to our patrons.

One of our handicaps in the library is the lack of space and we hope this will change soon. We are very crowded not only in shelf space but in being able to serve our patrons successfully. We are not able to have children's program without them falling over each other. Also, we don't have a meeting room for staff and board meetings, the Adult Reading Group and other groups that need access to the library for special meetings.

I feel that we have had a successful year in providing materials such as new books, videos, audio tapes, borrowed materials and other services but there is always room for improvement and we will endeavor to do this. Our patrons are very important to us.

As in most cases, everything cannot be positive all the time. There is also a negative phase to library services that is beyond our control. It doesn't matter how good our service to our patrons is, if the patron in return does not respect and appreciate the services that are offered to them. As in years past, again, there is a large number of overdue books that need to be returned. We even have a few videos that have been taken and not returned. I am not referring to those people that need to keep books longer than the check out time. All that we need is for you to call and check the books or other materials that are due. But those people that keep the books month after month are abusing their privilege to use the library. To help those people who have overdue books, we will not be charging any fines beginning January 14th through the 21st. Please help us clear our files from overdues.

Some new books available are...

... True Colors by Doris Mortman. This is the compelling story of a gifted young artist who is haunted by the memory of her mother's brutal murder. Set against the glamorous backdrop of the international art world and filled with fascinating historical detail, True Colors takes readers on a breathtaking journey across continents and generations.

Two young women, raised as the closest of sisters, become enemies.

One victimized by the other's vendetta against her and emboldened by a search for love and the need to discover the truth about her mother's murder, must dig deeply into her past, confront her personal demons, and face a frightening truth.

2. ... Heaven's Price by Sandra Brown. Blair Simpson embraced a life most people merely dreamed about. She devoted her nights as well as her days to dancing in the chorus line of Broadway musicals and in high-paying TV commercials. Nearly thirty years old, she has never considered another career, believing that dancing was what she had been born for. Now an injury has sent her to a small town for six long months to recuperate. All around her are couples her age who are raising families and building dreams together. And there she meets a man who forces her to come to terms with a part of herself she has long denied.

3. ... You Mean I'm Not Lazy, Stupid or Crazy? by Kate Kelly and Peggy Ramundo. Attention Deficit Disorder (ADD). Doctors across the country report that it's the most common learning and behavioral problem among children. Now adults are being diagnosed in great numbers. What does all this mean? Is ADD a symptom of our too-frantic society or the victim tip of a profound neuropsychological disorder?

Kate Kelly, a clinical nurse, and Peggy Ramundo, a specialist in learning disorders, were both diagnosed with ADD after discovering it in their personal and professional lives. They have founded ADD support groups and institutes, both nationally and in their native Cincinnati. With You Mean I'm Not Lazy, Stupid or Crazy?!, Kelly and Ramundo bring together their personal and professional experiences to create the essential guide to identifying, understanding and managing the dynamics of ADD in adults.

There are also many other new books, both fiction and nonfiction books for your reading pleasure. New books for children are also available. We have received a new collection of videos and audio tapes.

Tax forms, federal and state are available across the counter. Tax forms provided by your public library.

Health Line News

By Beverly Carter Sexton

The Rockcastle County diabetic Support Group met December 19 at the Health Department. Dr. Mancek, a foot specialist from Somerset was our guest speaker. He did a great job and provided some very useful information. There were 18 people present - some for the first time. We hope the new people continue to attend the meetings and we encourage anyone who has an interest in learning more about diabetes to attend.

Virginia Branscum, a retired nurse and diabetic support group volunteer, provided our group with delicious refreshments. She will provide recipes to anyone interested. The door prize, a glucose monitor, was given to us by our Mayor, Gary Cromer. One of our diabetic members was the lucky recipient of the monitor.

This month's meeting will be on the 23rd. We will be meeting in our new location at the home health building. For directions call Beverly Carter-Sexton at the health department 256-2242. We will be meeting at 7 p.m. in the basement kitchen of the new building.

Phyllis Holbrook, a social worker for Homehealth, will be our guest speaker. She will be talking about insurance, overseas programs that may help diabetics purchase supplies and obtain services. This will be a very informative meeting and we encourage anyone interested to attend.

Petty Officer Bowles departs for six month overseas duty

Navy Petty Officer 3rd Class D.C. Bowles, son of Donald L. Bowles of Mt. Vernon recently departed for a six-month overseas deployment with the guided missile cruiser USS Cape St. George, as part of the USS Dwight D. Eisenhower Battle Group.

Bowles is one of 360 crew members aboard the 567-foot-long ship, which departed Norfolk, Va., in late October with 10 other ships and submarines. This is USS Cape St. George's first deployment since commissioning 16 months ago.

The Ike Battle Group, made up of more than 12,000 sailors and Marines, is joined in this deployment by the USS Nassau amphibious Ready Group (ARG) which includes an additional 4,000 Sailors and Marines.

In preparation for the deployment, Bowles's ship spent more than a year training and practicing for various situations they might encounter operating overseas forward deployed.

USS Cape St. George can combat submarines, ships and aircraft, and can carry Tomahawk cruise missiles.

Bowles's involvement in the deployment is an example of how the Navy and Marine Corps team is designed to operate overseas and respond quickly when needed. Whether delivering humanitarian assistance, cargo, or troops from the sea, these highly-trained naval forces provide a unique crisis response option, which can be withdrawn quickly when no longer needed.

Forty five states have banned cock-fighting. Kentucky residents should be pleased that their state has joined so many others in outlawing this cruel sport. We urge the state of Kentucky to vigorously enforce this law.

"What Saith the Scriptures"

In 1. Tim. 6:6-8 we read, "But godliness with contentment is great gain. For we brought nothing into this world, and it is certain we can carry nothing out. And having food and raiment let us be therewith content." Again in Hebs. 13:5-6 we read "Let your conversation (manner of life) be without covetousness; and be content with such things as ye have for he hath said, I will never leave thee, nor forsake thee. So that we may boldly say, the Lord is my helper, and I will not fear what man shall do unto me."

The subject of contentment is one of the much needed lessons in our affluent society. Living in a land of plenty, has it's dangers and pitfalls. Paul told us, that if we have food and clothes, there with to be content. Most of us in our country have these basic needs met, and one would think, that we would have a fairly content nation of people, not so! Far too often, we are very discontent and greedy for more and more, covetous if you please. Covetousness is such a subtle and destructive work of the flesh, that saps the spiritual life out of the people of God. Covetousness leads people into all kinds of other sins, such as stealing, cheating, lying, murder, drug pushing, to the more subtle ways of spiritual compromises and worldliness. We must remember that we brought nothing into this world: no clothes, no money, no watches, no jewelry, no cars, nothing, absolutely nothing! And in the same way, we shall leave this world, with nothing. Absolutely nothing!

I've never seen a hurt pulling a U-Haul behind it, on the way to the cemetery, have you? Contentment brings such peace of mind and heart to those who have "learned" and been "instructed" on this truth, Phil. 4:11. Contentment does not come automatically but must be learned, even as Paul had to learn this important virtue. Discontentment not only can be a manifestation of covetousness but is also a sign of a lack of faith in God. The passage in Hebs. 13:5-6 suggests that we should be content, for the man walking by faith can say, the Lord is my helper. Beloved, let's not down ourselves in greed and covetousness, but learn to be content.
