Spring is a busy time for us here at the library. Some special programs and exhibits are being planned for our patrons and hopefully we will attract many new patrons.

National Library Week will be observed at this library as well as libraries all over the United States April 9th through the 15th. We will be publicizing our many services during this week to let those people that are not familiar with library service know just what we have to offer to the people of Rockcastle County.

This county has a population of 14,800 people and of this number about 1500 are library users. We would like to see this number grow. In the past libraries have been known just as a place to get books but this has changed dramatically. For this reason we invite people to come in and let us show them how libraries have changed. We do offer an excellent selection of books but this is just a small part of library service now. In the following weeks I will be expanding on a special service other than books in each of our libraries.

Another means of publicizing this library during National Library Week will be the Local Art Show. This attracts a lot of people that are interested in art and gives these local artists a chance to exhibit their work. Most are not professionals but we do have a lot of talent here in the county and we invite everyone to come in and support these artists. Several people have already given their intentions to exhibit their art work. The dates for the show is April 8th through the 22nd. I need to hear from anyone that would like to participate no later than April 1st.

Also, several workshops have been planned for the staff to help us serve our patrons better. Betty will be attending a Childrens Service's workshop in Lexington this week. She will be getting ideas to provide better programs for the children. Calma and I are planning to have some special programs for the older children and teenagers.

Pam and I will be attending a workshop on collection management later in the month. This will help us in purchasing new books and in weeding out those books that are outdated and no longer has the correct information.

Without a good Library Board of Trustees no library can grow and excel in their work. But we are very fortunate here at this library. The board consist of five members and they all give a lot of volunteer time in supporting and promoting our library.

Next week I will give some information about each board member and the many duties that they perform for the library.

A lot of our patrons have been asking for more Avalon Books and I have just received 8 new ones and more are on the way. Four of these are romance, two are mysteries and two are westerns.

Some other new fiction books available are... The Glass Lake by Maeve Binchy... Lough Glass is at the heart and soul of the namesake town clinging to its shore. They say that if you go out on St. Agnes' Eve and look into the lake at sunset you can see your future. But beneath the serene surface, the lake harbors secrets as dark and unfathomable as the beautiful woman who walks beside its waters.

In the Glass Lake, Maeve Binchy explores the unspoken language between mothers and daughters in an extraordinary story of a mother's secret, a daughter's courage, and the hidden bond between them that neither deceit nor denial can destroy. Maeve Binchy is the bestselling author of A Circle Of Friends and Light A Penny Candle. Both are available here.

Eyes of a Child by Richard North Patterson... This is Patterson's most emotionally and psychologically complex novel yet. Border Music by Robert James Waller... From the celebrated author of the phenomenal bestseller Bridger Of Madison County, comes a moving, poignant, unforgettable novel of love and life. Border Music is the tale of Texas Jack Carmine, a man who inspires others to take risks and reach beyond the borders of their lives... while his own life is chained to the past and a tragedy he cannot overcome. This novel has already made the bestseller list.

Retired teachers meet

The regular bimonthly meeting of the Rockcastle County Retired Teachers was held Monday, February 28, 1995 at the County Library meeting room.

The session was opened by President Gatliff Craig with some remarks about the business at hand. A short devotion was given by Elmona Burke and the secretary's report by Kathleen Stevens. A report on our county membership in the state association was given by Aslee Bray - we're still up there at 97.5 percent. This is tops in our county district. We're in the top 5 percent state wide, and very proud of it. We just wish our local participation could be better.

The treasurer's report was given by Geraldine Holbrook. Mr. Craig then brought up the Rockcastle Community Scholarship Fund. After some discussion and an explanation as to how the recipient of this fund is chosen, we took up collection among ourselves and contributed $100 to the cause. Mrs. Cola Grace Wilson, a member of the committee who makes the selection, told us the scholarship goes to a local student who qualifies through academics, need, personality, etc. We also voted to again send $25 to the Kimber Memorial Scholarship Fund.

Gatliff Craig and Sue French were chosen as delegates to the K.R.T.A. Convention to be held in Louisville, April 12, 1995. Several other members also plan to attend this meeting.

Hospice of the Ky. River, Inc. host bereavement teleconference

Living With Grief: Children Mourning, Mourning Children sponsored by the Hospice Foundation of America

On Thursday, March 30, 1995, Hospice of the Ky River, Inc. joins more than 100 other community-based organizations across the country and in Canada as local hosts for a live-via-satellite video teleconference on bereavement issued surrounding children. Sponsored by the Hospice Foundation of America, Living With Grief: Children Mourning, Mourning Children, the Second Annual National Bereavement Teleconference, will be moderated by Cokie Roberts, Special Correspondent, ABC News.

"The purpose of this event," said Jack Gordon, president, Hospice Foundation of America, "is to assist professional caregivers, educators, and family members in dealing with both the death of a child and the grief children experience when losing a loved one. We want to help caregivers in these difficult situations so that they may effectively respond to survivors in need."

Through telephone call-ins, participants at Hospice of the Ky River, Inc. and their counterparts at sites nationwide will have an opportunity to exchange comments and questions with a distinguished panel of bereavement educators: Dr. Ronald Barrett, associate professor of psychology at Loyola Marymount University; Dr. Charles Corr, professor of philosophy, Southern Illinois University; Rabbi Earl A. Grollman, a noted author and lecturer on children's grief; and Dr. Catherine M. Sanders, psychologist and director, The Center for the Study of Separation and Loss (N.C.). Also on the program is Paul Alexander, composer and performer of songs about bereavement and a clinical social worker at St. Mary's Hospital for Children (NY).

The Hospice Foundation of America is a nonprofit organization dedicated to providing leadership in the development and application of hospice and its philosophy of care for terminally ill people through education, research, and philanthropic programs. The Foundation is sponsoring this teleconference in cooperation with the Association for Death Education and Counseling. The teleconference is being produced by Eisenberg Associates, a Washington, DC educational consulting firm.

PROCLAMATION

National Middle School Education Month
March 1995

Whereas, middle level education has a special and unique function in the nations educational system, and

Whereas, young adolescents are undergoing dramatic physical, social, emotional, and intellectual growth, and are especially vulnerable, and

Whereas, the habits and values established during early adolescence have critical, life-long influence, and

Whereas, this influence impacts directly on the future health and welfare of our nation, and

Whereas, an adequate public understanding of the distinctive mission of the middle level school is necessary for that mission to succeed; Therefore be it

Resolved, that the month of March 1995 be declared National Middle School Education Month, and that the public be afforded special opportunities to visit middle level schools and participate in programs that focus on the nature of young adolescents and celebrate the ways in which our nation's schools respond to their needs and to the needs of the nation.

Bootleggers arrested by Sheriff Smith

Bootleggers in Rockcastle had a rough time these past few days, courtesy of Sheriff Shirley Smith and deputies.

On Feb. 22, the sheriff and deputies executed two search warrants at the residence of Elsie Mullins on Webb Jones Road, and an abandoned house across the street.

Arrested was Jesse J. Payne, 37, of Mt. Vernon and charged him with illegal sale of alcoholic beverages and illegal possession of alcohol. Mullins was not charged.

Officers confiscated 1,181 cans of beer and 87 bottles of whiskey.

On Feb. 23, officers executed a search warrant at the home of Meriville Brown, 50, at his home in Orlando. He was charged with illegal sale of alcohol and possession of alcohol.

Officers confiscated 707 cans of beer and 20 bottles of whiskey.

On Feb. 24, two search warrants were issued, one at the home of David Frederick on Chestnut Ridge, and another at the home of his son across the road, Roy Frederick.

David Frederick was charged with illegal sale of alcohol and possession of alcohol.

Officers confiscated 132 cases of beer and 23 bottles of whiskey.

At the home of Roy Frederick, he and his wife, Lydia Frederick, were charged with possession of marijuana and trafficking in marijuana. More charges are pending, officers said.

Doan back

Darrell Doan, a deputy in the sheriff's office until September 1994 when he resigned, is back in the sheriff's office as a deputy.

Doan said Tuesday all calls to him at home at night will be referred.

Wreck on 70

James Proctor, 60, and Shelby Proctor, 40, of Mt. Vernon were treated at Rockcastle Hospital after a two-car accident on Ky. 70 last week.

Their car, Deputies Randall Reynolds and Darrell Doan said, was rear-ended by a car driven by Donald Williams of Waynesburg.

Kirby injured

Doug Kirby, 24, of Mt. Vernon is recovering from injuries he received in a single car accident on Purrr Rigby Road last Thursday night.

Kirby received head injuries when he lost control of his vehicle as he rounded a curve. He was taken to Rockcastle Hospital and then transferred to St. Joseph Hospital in Lexington. Family members say he should be out of the hospital this week.

Runoff election

A run-off election for governor in June in Rockcastle will cost taxpayers about $8,000.

Is this a change in election laws? Yes. But the Legislature was kind to us this time when they made the governor's race a run-off. They could have designated a run-off for all elections, local and state and not just the governor.

In a garbled story in last week's Signal some of the lines were out of place. So here are the lines.

"If no one in each party gets 40 percent of the vote, then the two highest in the party will have a run-off."

Debra Lambert hired as Mt. Vernon city attorney

By Ray McClure

Debra Lambert, Mt. Vernon attorney, was chosen city attorney at a meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council Monday night.

But, it took a vote by Mayor Gary R. Cromer to choose Mrs. Lambert, who had submitted a written proposal for the position.

Abstaining in the vote were councilwoman Lou Vanhoose, Councilmen Lloyd Cain and Clark (Joe) Mullins.

Not voting yes were Councilwoman Karen King and Councilmen Terri Owens and Lee Keene.

With a tie vote, Mayor Cromer cast a yes vote, Mayor Cromer said.

Lambert replaces attorney John Clontz. She will receive $150 a month if she attends meetings and, in addition, she will be paid for any legal work necessary. This is the same arrangement as with the former city attorney, Mayor Cromer said Tuesday.

Mayor Cromer also reported a verbal request was made by attorney William D. Gregory concerning the city attorney position.

The vote by councilman Lloyd Cain was his first since his appointment to the council replacing Wayne Gregory, who resigned.

The controversial traffic signal at the corner of U.S. 150 and Richmond Street got the attention of the mayor, who said he didn't know when it will be working.

He had a statement on the light, but warned the press to "get it right." He wanted it clear the light wasn't his idea. He said:

"From the information I've been supplied, the red light came about on a complaint by attorney Jerry L. Horn of Lexington," the mayor said.

"When passing through town in October, 1993, attorney Horn presented, or sent, a written complaint to Judge/Executive Buzz Carlolitis and the judge passed it along to the highway department," he explained.

In other business, a senior citizen group in Mt. Vernon asked the council to donate the water bill at their new location-to-be on U.S. 25 south at the old skating rink.

The council approved the request but stipulated they would look at the water bill after a year to see how much had been used.

Opened were bids on used city vehicles and other advertised merchandise. The high bidders were: Leo Mink of Mt. Vernon, a 1981 Chevrolet, —cruiser, $31,000; Police Chief William Mink, a 1983 Chevrolet cruiser, $125,000; Wilma Deaton, Somerset, a 1982 Buick, $352.

City Policeman Barry Adams, a 1983 Chevrolet cruiser, $100,000; Dennis McClure, Mt. Vernon city employee, a 1973 boat, $701; Elmon Jones of Livingston, 1981 Ford cruiser, $300.

John Bailey of Richmond, garage doors, $355.

Nineteen people bid on a total of 38 bids. The amount taken in was $1,964.

The February police report was given by assistant chief Eddie Delaney. It showed:

Citations issued, 39; total charges, 62; DUI arrests, 6; calls for service, 164; accidents, 11; other agency assists, 52; motorist assists, 2; criminal cases, opened, 6 and Mt. Vernon fire runs, 18.

Unexpected snowfall

Rockcastle County weatherman Bud Cox was busy Wednesday measuring the latest snowfall that hit Rockcastle County Wednesday morning. Cox said that about 2 1/2 inches of the white stuff was recorded at his weather station, the largest single amount of snow to fall this winter season. The snow caused school officials to call off school for the 17th time this school year.

Boy's basketball program discussed again Constitution for cheerleaders adopted by SBDM at high school

The first cheerleading constitution ever formulated was the first item of business taken up by the SBDM Council of the high school at their meeting Monday night. The constitution had been formulated by cheerleading sponsors Jennifer Mattingly, Julie Crews, Cindy Witt and Rita Shafer and by members of the cheerleading committee, made up of parents.

Discussion of the different parts of the document took up the first hour of the meeting and several items were questioned by council members with the result that parts of the constitution had to be edited before the council would officially adopt the instrument.

The item drawing the most discussion was under the "Commitment" section and called for cheerleading being given "top priority," by participants. Council member Ronnie Sears expressed his strong disaffection with the wording "top priority" because he felt cheerleaders should not be punished "for choosing a church activity" over cheerleading. Ms. Crews reiterated that practice sessions were not called for Wednesday nights or Sundays because of that reason but that she did have a problem with cheerleaders choosing to go

Crop insurance deadline March 15

There has been media coverage that the crop insurance sales has been extended to April 28, 1995. This information is very misleading in that it doesn't tell you that in order to be extended you must come to the CFS, Office by March 15, 1995 and sign a register and pay for your insurance before the extension is in effect. If you come in after the March 15 deadline and the register hasn't been signed you can no longer purchase crop insurance from insurers. Remember the deadline is March 15.

Police have already recovered some of the items that were "snatched" from Classy Consignment Shop in Mt. Vernon Sunday night. Mt. Vernon police said that a small person apparently broke out the above window and carried clothes through the opening. Acting on a tip, police have already recovered most of the items and are preparing to make an arrest. Above is Mrs. Wendell Renner, owner of Classy Consignment.

U.K. Coach Rick Pitino posed with Bridgette Lear (left) of Mt. Vernon and Landon Cox (right) of Campbellsville after the Kentucky-Florida game. Points East

By: Ike Adams

Last Tuesday my father-in-law spent the afternoon out and about remarking to friends and kin that his "wind was finally coming back" after his bout with pneumonia that had kept him "penned up," as he put it, through the holidays.

He helped do the feeding and some other small chores late in the day and seemed healthier than he had been in weeks according to everybody who came in contact with him. Then, just before supper, Loretta's father "Daddy" to all of us fell dead with a massive heart-attack.

I had spoken with him for a few minutes on Sunday and the talk centered around the fact that the fish would soon be biting and even the dry-land fish, as we call morel mushrooms, were only a few weeks away. Daddy was a bit anxious that his breath would get back to normal because his secret mushroom patches are located high on Indian Fort Mountain of trails that are challenging even for folks who work out every day.

On Friday he had been to a Lexington Hospital for one of those physicals that start at the top of your head and go out the ends of your toenails, complete with EKG and blood tests. He had been advised that his sugar was high and advised to diet around sweet stuff, but other than that he received a clean bill of health with no mention that he should be concerned about his heart.

Had he survived the heart attack, those of us who knew and loved him would have received long lectures regarding his general skepticism of the medical profession. He would have used his own circumstance as another piece of ammunition for his general assertion that "doctors don't know anymore about what's wrong with you than you do so why waste our money?"

Loretta and her sisters and younger brother finally convinced him to visit a doctor when he had pneumonia and he did so largely because he couldn't put penicillin across the counter without a prescription. He had gone for the complete physical on Friday as much to get his kids off his back as anything else. And, as he told me Sunday night, "there's always a chance they might help a man."

When my father died in 1983, it simply felt natural for me to fall into calling Guy Embree "Daddy." He knew that he was taking my own father's place to the extent that anybody can do that and he was very comfortable in the role. I've sat for hours and listened to his stories about growing up in the head of a long huller, about his service in France during World War II, about the Bluegrass Ordinance where he worked for thirty years, about hunting and fishing expeditions, his bees and his garden which he loved as well as I do mine.

He was a marvelous story teller— one of those rare people with the ability to relate an event and make you feel like you were right there. He could tell you about settling a bee swarm and make you feel a sting if he got one. He could relate a fishing

Roamin' Rockcastle

By: Hilda Payne Gabbard

The voice on the telephone said, "I'd like to speak to Hilda Gabbard who writes that piece in the paper."

"I'm Hilda," I said and I met Clara Huff for the first time.

She said, "I've just moved there to Lambert Road from Ohio. A friend there said, 'Be sure you get a copy of the Mt. Vernon Signal and read Roamin' Rockcastle by Hilda Gabbard. I did and I want to tell you how much I enjoyed it.'"

Well, I thank Clara for being a new reader. She said she had come back here to live but didn't know her neighbors much and she was lonely. She wanted to know and talk to them. This is a good start. Lots of folks read the Signal and now maybe she will have some who can discuss my writing.

When I first talked to Clara, I asked her what she wanted from me. I thought maybe she wanted plumpness, sex, sassiness, roots, or duck feathers. But she said she had just read my column and wanted me to know how she liked it. I thanked her again for making my day.

Harriet Neelcey at Disputanta is in the Berea Hospital with a heart attack. Harriet has a lot of burdens on her life and I guess her heart warned her to take it easy. Her sister, Myrtle Gabbard on Haiti Road in Berea, is spending some time with her until she gets better.

I met Shirley Genry at the hair dresser's shop. She said her daughter, Rebecca who is a teacher in Berea had married Bobby McClure at Blue Springs -- His father is William McClure who lives there. Shirley is a very friendly person who gets tickled when the owner of the shop, Wayne Dollins, tries to steal my lunch that I sometimes take. If I'm reading, I thank Wayne with the newspaper, and Shirley laughs so hard.

This day started out to be sunny and pretty with the sun out but no the sun has gone into hiding and dark clouds are rolling in.

Mrs. Dorothy Chrisman of Berea who organized the Boy's Recall Exercise-class in which women could join and help their bodies become youthful again (I did!) was awarded a special citation for her work by the Lay Award being given her by the Kentucky Recreation conference.

I want to congratulate Mrs. Chrisman for all the fine work she did in helping others, as well as myself, in regaining the use of their body parts.

I see in the paper that some more of my kinfolk is getting married. Not long ago the Stephens family had a big "to do" and all the family gathered in except Bennie Lee Stephens who had missed it all and had gone to Georgia. I said then that there was bound to be a girl behind it and sure enough he now comes out in a wedding to Kristalin Johns on March 18 at the Danforth Chapel on the Berea College campus. The announcement said all family and friends were invited to attend. Dog does if I'm not family I don't know who is, I want to go to get some of the pretty refreshments they always have at those "shindigs."

Benny is a third cousin to me from my mother and his grandmother.

I want to see Nannie Chasteen Shearer at the Berea Health Care Center on her birthday when she became 106 years of age! It's hard to believe she is that age for Nannie doesn't look it.

I took her some candy and went to her home. Donna Anderson the Recreation Director met me saying, "Don't you know our guest of honor has left the party and gone to bed saying she was too tired to stay up so we are having to celebrate by ourselves," she laughed.

I went on to Nannie's room and she seemed asleep but I woke her to give her the candy. She turned and seemed to mumble something but I decided to leave her alone.

I turned and saw Mary Eliza Chasteen Croucher, her sister, lying kindly propped up in her bed across the room. She seemed asleep so I didn't try to wake her.

Three days later I was told Mary Eliza Chasteen Croucher was called home where she had been saying to me when I would go and talk to her. "I'm so tired, I want to go home," she would say and after a long time of lying in the bed I could believe it.

When she seemed asleep as I was trying to talk to Nannie someone said to me, "She was probably dying then."

I went in to see Mary Eliza when

PRECIOUS SOULS CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and cautions from my modest abode, located close by the Waldian tributary known here and there, near and far, and hither and thither as Cummins Branch.

O my aching back! My dearly beloved and I motored up to Indy this past weekend to visit our grandchildren, especially the newest one, Adam Daniel Meadows, who is seven months old. No matter how many times I stop and stretch, a jaunt like that puts me in knots and pain from my butt to the base of my brain. (Hark! A voice wailing in the forest, "WHAT BRAIN?") But, dear bears, physically miserable as I was, I'm very glad I went. 'Twas a most rewarding trip.

There is, however, a down-side to our trek: Nancy and I may get "churched" for attending -- hold on to your dentures, a non-Baptist church! (Let all staunch Baptists now stand and solemnly intone "WOE! WOE! WOE!") Mike and Terri's church has three ministers, one of whom it . . . hold your hat . . . A WOMAN, who . . . here it comes! . . . delivered the sermon! Not only that . . . WOMEN! ushers took up the offering! And we watched while that WOMAN preacher baptized . . . you'll get us on the backslider list for sure . . . our little Adam!

We were shocked "down front" in a section reserved for the families of Adam and his same-age cousin, Hannah, who was also baptized. Consequently, I only counted one gum-chewer, in the choir, in which there were at least eight men over fifty. Both children were dressed in white, and Adam wore his first pair of shoes, made of white leather.

While the congregation sang the first hymn, two children came from the rear of the sanctuary, carrying flaming, brass tapers. They went at the lip up to the communion table and lit two candles, called acolytes, which, in my opinion, weren't necessary since the auditorium was adequately lit.

trip and make you feel like you were in the boat. I've never known anybody as able to capture and recreate the emotions of a particular event as well as Daddy.

He could do that because he had such a passion for life. Daddy wasn't apathetic about anything that touched him. There are dozens of bee hives around his place on Blue Lick Road and most of them have never been robbed. Daddy took bees because he liked to watch them work and he had a great appreciation for industry. He felt the same way about the squirrels that came to depend on him for an occasional hand-out and he'd sit and watch them for hours. He'd marvel when one raised a gang of little ones so close to his house in a box that he put up in a tree.

But perhaps the most admirable quality about Guy Embrose was the fact that he was the walking definition of honesty. He didn't cheat at anything and didn't owe anybody a nickel. Everything he had he earned with the sweat of his brow but he would bend over backwards to share whatever he had with whomever he thought needed it.

He was fiercely independent—his own man in the truest example of that phrase and I have to believe that he did the way he would have wanted to—with his boots on and without his health being a burden to anybody.

I would be happy and satisfied with my own life if I can live to be 79 years old and have both the self respect and the respect of others that Daddy earned and commanded. I will miss him terribly and I will never be able to visit his little farm without some sense of grief.

On the other hand, I have Loretta, and a day never goes by that I don't see something of her Daddy coming through. Her fierce loyalty to family and cause and her insistence on doing certain things exactly her way if I don't want them redone. Daddy may be gone to her, but there's a bit of him for me to talk to everyday and I am so thankful just for that.

she was in the Lakes Funeral Home and as I looked down on her face, she seemed so peaceful in a blue dress with a white lace collar. Her life troubles were over and now I was a different rest she had entered into.

I was raised up on Clear Creek and the Chastain girls, Nannie and Mary Eliza were like sisters to me, a child who thought they wore the cleanest clothes with starched bonnets which were all women wore then. I had always seen Mary Eliza and Nan in one so it wouldn't seem out of place for her to have a bonnet on in her casket, a deep pink or blue.

Mary Eliza was taken back to the land where she came from, The Chastain graveyard and lay beside her husband, Gus Croucher, and family of five brothers and two sisters with father and mother. Her sisters Nannie and Molly Croucher, the youngest child of the family are still living.

While in Ballard Parsons' store last week a man spoke to me saying he was Bill Parsons and I had written of the birth of his son, Blake, who would be three years old on March 20th. The little boy was a nephew of Ballard.

I had forgotten the news I wrote about his son but he said they kept the paper clipping. Gee, I must be getting older than I think. I hadn't seen this man for three years and didn't remember him.

I go back now to a reader, Laura who wrote me for some of her cousins. They live near Roundstone. You can't always believe what Elmer tells you for his tales are tall but they are sure good folks.

Laura says she lives close to the Johnetta graveyard and asks me to keep up the good work. Some people don't think my writing is so good as a man in Scaffold Cane asked me to not put his name in the paper so I'll not and probably people will forget him when he passes on. Send me a picture of yourself to put in the paper I'll be sure to return it.

I send a Happy Birthday Greeting for March 2 to Todd Jennings, Brandon Spurlock and my husband, John.

A sad thing has happened to me. You know of the white ducks that I am raising. I had to give them away for they learned to fly and would go away from me. I could not keep them here. Bonnie Lakes was good enough to take them for she is raising other kind of fowls. I meant to put them on the Hyster Lake but I wasn't sure they could get food even though the people there feed any animal that stops for an overnight rest on their flight north or south.

Till next time; Develop positive, good habits and they will carry you far.

quately illumined already. And at the conclusion of the service, those same gals came back, lit their tapers from the candles, and marched out of the sanctuary. I guess that was something symbolic, fire in a fire out. Whatever, it was nice. But I bet that church has a big candle bill, seeing that have three morning worship services.

About the only thing that congregation had in common with my church was the applause given to the children's choir. The biggest difference—other than that WAMAN preacher—was the absence of a song-leader to announce the hymn numbers. I reekoned they think announcing numbers is unnecessary and tackled-on since the numbers and titles are printed in the order of service. I, however, would go further and say that announcing hymn numbers is excessive and possibly superfluous. Still, song leaders are still needed to announce number in churches where there are illiterates and people who can't read.

At several points in the service, the congregation and the ministers on the podium read respectively confessions, prayers, and Scriptures. I've always liked responsive readings. They involved the congregation and help militate against specialtoritis on the part of preachers. And while I prefer well-said, spontaneous prayers, I do think written prayers teach us how to voice prayers and make us aware that there are different types of

In other words, they use husbands, children, and... WOMEN!

I enjoyed the manner in which the elements were distributed one right on the back of the other. (Get that? Bread and heels. BOOOO! John.) And as soon as each participant had a morsel of bread and a thimble of wine, he or she ate and drank! And all the while, everyone, led by the organist and choir, sang softly: "Jezus, remember me, when you come into your kingdom."

And the benediction was absolutely superb. The whole congregation joined hands, looked upon the cross above the communion table, and sang "The Lord's Prayer." That tremendously uplifting song is in the current Baptist Hymnal, but I have yet to hear it sung in my home church. That, of course, could be said about ninety percent of our hymnal selections. A survey, conducted not too long ago, concluded that Southern Baptist sing in a cycle of the same thirty hymns. (I'll be quick to note, however, that those stats do not necessarily hold true for Methodists, Presbyterians, and Campbellites.)

Well, as I said, it was a fulfilling worship experience. And, all things considered, it was a pretty good show for a dollar. Most notable is the fact that a time or three during the service someone touched me.

That night, Mike and Terri put the two older boys, Andrew (6) and Alex (4), to bed. They talked together about the events of the day. Mike asked them if they understood what Adam's baptism meant.

Alex responded quickly: "Yep, it means that now Adam can wear shoes."

 Fertilizing and Pruning
 Home Apple Trees

Well-managed, home-grown apple trees will yield larger crops and higher quality fruit when they get off to a good start. Fruit trees can be fertilized in February and late March. When fertilizer is applied now, tree roots are able to pick up the nitrogen in preparation for spring growth. If nitrogen is applied mid- to late summer, this may promote winter injury because hardiness development may be delayed.

In most cases, nitrogen in the form of ammonium nitrate is the only fertilizer needed for apple trees. The amount of nitrogen that should be applied depends on a tree's age and the amount of growth it made the previous season.

Evaluate tree vigor by examining the terminal shoots of the apple tree to determine how much growth was made the previous season. The point from which the shoot grew the previous season is marked by bud scale scars that form a small ring in the bark around the shoot. These bud scale scars are left by the bud scales that covered the terminal bud during the previous winter.

On apples, it is best to have an average of 12 to 15 inches of terminal growth. If a tree has more than this, use a little less fertilizer and if there is less than this, use a little more.

For apples, apply a quarter pound of nitrogen per year of age of the tree. For example, a 4-year-old tree would get about 4 pounds of ammonium nitrate. The fertilizer should be sprinkled on the ground beneath the drip line of the tree, not at the base of the trunk, so rainfall will push the fertilizer down into the root zone.

But remember, if a lawn is fertilized, this may supply all the nitrogen fertilizer needed for an apple tree.

Fruit trees should be pruned every year to promote annual fruiting. The goal is to open up the tree to allow sunlight to get into its interior. Pruning is best done between mid-February and the tree's full bloom when the worst of winter is over because pruning dehydrates trees and makes them more susceptible to winter injury.

Young trees should be pruned last because they are most susceptible to winter injury. On older trees, first remove any dead or diseased branches and then start at the top of the tree and cut branches to the desired height. Be sure to make these cuts to an outwardly growing limb and don't leave branch stubs because it is difficult for the tree to seal off or grow over stubs.

If more than two very large limbs need to be removed, plan to remove them over a two- or three-year period. Next, remove any limbs that cross over each other and eliminate limbs that have narrow or weak crotch angles. Try to avoid having more than one branch arising from the same area of the trunk and remove or cut back limbs that crowd other limbs. Also remove water sprouts and try to divert side branches to grow and fill vacant areas of trees.

Since apples grow more on horizontal than vertical branches, pruners should encourage the development of branches that grow at 45 to 60 degree angles from the trunk, which also promotes development of strong branches. Try to remove branches that arise at sharp angles from the trunk. These are often weaker because bark accumulates between the branch and the trunk and they often break off under heavy fruit load.

The only spray required for apple trees at this time of year is a dormant oil treatment. Full coverage with a dormant oil spray will smother scale and mites. Be sure treatment is made when temperatures will not drop below 32 degrees for 24 hours. If freezing occurs, the layer of oil will be broken, allowing air beneath the layer and preventing scale and mites from being smothered.

More information on apple tree pruning and a video tape can be obtained from the County Extension Office.

Another Vacation Scam

By: Hazel Jackson
 Extension Agent
 for Home Economics

Spring break is just around the corner. Along with the traditional annual pilgrimage south, it is also the season for free vacation offers. Usually the "incidental" costs of these offers will cause the overall price of the trip to be much higher than those that you can get yourself through a travel agent.

Typically, you are told by telephone or mail that you have won a free vacation for $100, provided you pay a service fee of $35 to $75. Those taking the offer later encounter a variety of problems, such as additional fees, lack of transportation, inflated claims for expensive gambling coupons, and even ineligibility because of age. Some telemarketers will even ask for your credit card number, so that they can bill you for fees and other costs. Never give your credit card number to anyone who calls you. Once an unscrupulous company has your card number, they can bill your card any amounts they wish. Also, be careful about free or cheap vacations to Florida. Almost none of the trips pay your travel. Accommodations are usually not at the better hotels. Remember, if something seems too good to believe, it usually is.

Do yourself a favor and call your Better Business Bureau at 1-800-866-6668, or the Kentucky Attorney General's Free Hotline at 1-800-432-9257 to check on the particular offer and organization before you pay any money.

ALZHEIMER'S DISEASE

The recent announcement by former President Ronald Reagan that he is in the early stage of Alzheimer's disease has reinforced public interest in this common disability of older adults.

Although an occasional case of Alzheimer's is seen in the population younger than 60, it is the explosion in the numbers of older persons that accounts for the phenomenal growth in the incidence of the disease. The following information is supplied by the Alzheimer's Association. Alzheimer's disease (AD) is a progressive, degenerative disease that attacks the brain and results in impaired memory, thinking and behavior. It is the most common form of dementia. A person with AD may experience confusion, personality and behavior changes, impaired judgment, and difficulty finding words, finishing thoughts or following directions.

Approximately 4 million Americans have Alzheimer's disease.

Unless a cure or means of prevention is found, an estimated 14 million Americans will be affected by the middle of the next century.

Approximately 10% of the population over 65 years of age has AD. This percentage rises to about 50% in those over the age of 85, the fastest growing segment of the US population.

The life span of a person with AD can be as much as 20 or more years.

More than 50% of nursing home patients have AD or a related disorder. The annual cost of nursing home care ranges from $36,000 to $70,000 per patient. Approximately 70% of the care given persons with AD is provided by families. The cost to a family caring for an AD patient at home is $18,000 per year.

Congress has appropriated $311 million for AD research in this fiscal year. This figure represents $1 for every $321 the disease costs society.

By comparison, the National Institute of Health invests 4 to 7 times that amount on research on cancer, cardiovascular disease, and AIDS.

For more information, call the Alzheimer's Association at Louisville at (502)893-3607 or (800)221-1277; or call the Lexington/Bluegrass chapter at (606)252-6282 or (800)288-2323.

Poet's Corner

A Story
 By Vickie Trety

Let me tell you a story,
 One that's dear and true,
 Of the Savior who left His glory,
 To die for me and you,
 Born of a virgin, Jesus came,
 To complete His Father's will.
 He grew up to heal the blind and lame,
 And teach upon a hill.
 Hopes fulfillment, He offered love,
 Yet they hung Him on a cross.
 He asked their forgiveness of God above.

Still concerned about their loss.
 To His followers all seemed back,
 Fear and sadness filled their hearts.
 But on the third day, He came back,
 Alive, no more to part.
 For though He returned to Heaven,
 His Holy Spirit dwells
 In each heart forgiven,
 In each soul saved from Hell.
 So the story hasn't ended,
 But continues every hour.
 For death and Satan blended
 Could not destroy the power,
 Of the greatest love ever given,
 When Jesus left His home in Heaven.

In memory of my brother,
Bill Mason
By Artie Stevens

I go back in memory
Of a brother so dear
Of all the happinesses had
Of all the things we shared.

You were always there for me
When I was in need
You were there to count on
For you always held the key.

You hold a key in my heart
As well as memories,
Of all the birthdays, holidays,
That you will never see
But you're still here, guiding and Showing me the way.

I'll always miss my brothers
And I can't bring them back
But I know they have no pain

As they walked through Heaven's Gate.

VICA club attends leadership conference

On November 18, 1994 members of the Rockcastle County VICA Club attended the Fall Leadership Conference at Pine Mountain State Park. The conference offered workshops for the different VICA offices, in which the local officers could learn more about their responsibilities and duties, enabling them to be better leaders in their local club.

Local officers attending were: president, Kenny Ballinger; vice-president, Scott Angling; secretary, Ronnie Cope; treasurer, Tim Miller; chaplain, Chris Cobb; and voting delegate Brian Brown.

The conference was for the entire southeast region which includes ten schools. Competition for opening and closing ceremonies were also conducted with Harlan Post-secondary placing 1st, Bell County Post-secondary placing 2nd, and Bell County secondary placing 3rd.

The highlight of the day was the election of regional officers as Rockcastle's own president, Kenny Ballinger, was elected to the president position of the entire region. Kenny will serve in that capacity for the 1994-95 school year, representing the southeast conference. He will also be attending Kentucky Leadership Training Institute where he and other regional officers from around the state will learn more valuable leadership skills. Principal, Donna Hopkins and welding instructor, Ralph Baker, were the advisors accompanying the students on this trip.

In celebration of National Vocational Education Week, the student leadership organizations of Harry Sparks Vocational participated in a balloon lift-off on Thursday, March 2, 1995. With a total of about 70 students participating, the following club members were present: FBLA-Business; VICA-Automotive, Electricity and Welding; HOSA - Nursing and Respiratory.

The Rockcastle Vocational Practical Nursing Health Occupations Students of America hosted a brunch and laboratory demonstration February 9, 1995 for Somerset Vocational Practical Nursing.

Ten free shade trees

Ten free shade trees will be given to each person who joins The National Arbor Day Foundation during March 1995.

The free trees are part of the non-profit Foundation's Trees for America campaign.

The ten shade trees are Red Oak, Weeping Willow, Sugar Maple, Green Ash, Thornless Honeylocust, Pin Oak, River Birch, Tulipree, Silver Maple, and Red Maple.

"These trees were selected to provide shade and beauty, and a variety of forms, leaf shapes, and beautiful fall colors," John Rosenow, the Foundation's president, said.

Health Screening

Lake Cumberland RehabCare and the National Stroke Association recently sponsored a health screening for over 40 members of Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital's Senior Friends. The Seniors were able to participate in a healthy exercise program, received tips for a safe summer, learned about adaptive equipment that can help individuals with decreased independence, a thorough hearing screening, and a stroke screening.

Stroke is the third leading cause of death in the United States and the major cause of adult disability. Every year it strikes more than 500,000 people, and many of its victims never fully regain their physical and mental abilities, according to the National Stroke Association.

Lake Cumberland RehabCare's primary goal is to increase community awareness of the risk factors for stroke and motivate people to take action to minimize their chances of having a stroke. About 85 percent of all strokes are caused by controllable risk factors, which means most strokes are preventable. High blood pressure, which affects more than one in three adults, is the leading cause and it can be successfully treated through diet, exercise or daily medication. Heart disease, especially atrial fibrillation is another major cause of stroke. Atrial fibrillation also can be controlled with daily medication. Other controllable factors are cigarette smoking, alcohol abuse, obesity, high cholesterol and physical inactivity.

The Seniors participating in the stroke screening completed a stroke risk appraisal form. Once the results were recorded, special stroke risk screeners tested for atrial fibrillation (through pulse palpitation and a modified ECG, if necessary). Next, participants blood pressure was measured and a cholesterol test was completed. The data will then be reviewed and participants and their physicians will be notified of all the results and possible risks within one week of the screening.

Lake Cumberland Regional Hospital and RehabCare hope to offer stroke community stroke screenings and extensive education programs during Stroke Awareness Week 5/1-5/7. The National Stroke Association estimates that 85 percent of adults over 50 are unable to name one risk factor for stroke.

If you would like more information about strokes, you are invited to attend a meeting of the Lake Cumberland Stroke Survivors, which meets monthly at RehabCare. If someone in your family has suffered a stroke and needs assistance, or for more information please contact Darlene Park, Program Director for RehabCare or Tammy Cornett, Referral Development Coordinator, at (606)678-3333.

Your blood is important

Did you know that your blood can help as many as three patients? When your blood is separated into components, your plasma may aid burn or shock victims, your platelets can help a leukemia patient and your red cells will help restore vitality to an accident victim or surgical patient. Other components are used to treat a variety of less common disease.

The Rockcastle County Homebank will sponsor a blood drive on Tuesday, March 28th from noon to 1:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. to 7 p.m. at the Agriculture Services Building Basement.

All donors will receive a free t-shirt. Your blood donation counts. Call Chris Lawson at 1-800-775-2522 today for more information about donating. Your blood donations is good for life.

Happenings around Sowder Nursing Home

February was a busy month here at our nursing home.

Not only did we have a big winner in our Bingo Tournament, we also crowned a King, Queen, Prince and Princess on Valentine's Day.

Alta Philbeck took home the Bingo Trophy after a hard fought battle of four days. Our residents become very competitive during these games but have decided Miss Alta is hard to beat. This makes her third trophy she has won.

On Valentine's Day, our Royal Court was chosen by the ones receiving the most Valentines.

George Brooks and Alta Philbeck were our King and Queen along with Harold Lee Morris and Clara Ethel Mason as our Prince and Princess.

Thanks to all our friends, family and staff for making a wonderful day for our residents.

to King's Island with a church group rather than attending a practice or game.

However, Principal Ronnie Cash agreed with Mr. Sears and said he felt that everyone involved would just have to use common sense. "Mr. Cash went on to say, "The more that we do not force children to have to make choices (between cheerleading, basketball, band, etc) the better off the children are." The cheerleading sponsors and council decided that if excessive conflicts do become a problem, the matter could be brought before the SBDM for a decision.

Concerning this section, the words "top priority" were changed to "appropriate priority."

Sears also questioned why there was no revenue in the sample budget for cheerleading presented with the constitution from the school. Sears said he felt that if the school bought shoes for the basketball team they should buy shoes for the cheerleaders. Sears also said he felt that if there was some financial help by the school that others who are unable to pay the costs of cheerleading might be able to participate rather than just children of families who can afford the expense involved.

However, Mr. Cash disagreed, saying "you have to draw the line somewhere." Mr. Cash pointed out that cheerleading is a non-revenue sport and that the athletic program ran $18,000 in the red two years ago, $8,000 last year and would probably be about $8,000 short this year. This budget includes all sports -- basketball, football, cheerleading, girls softball, baseball, track, etc.

The cheerleading program is financed by a number of fund-raisers, including advertisements in the various sports programs and the sale of those programs at the sporting events.

In other business, the council approved a tardy policy for the first block time period.

The policy provides for various punishments from the loss of driving privileges for one week on the third tardy to students being removed from class and placed in alternative school with no credit being given for the class for the sixth tardy.

Assistant Principal Connie Hamm, who presented the policy to the council, said this policy was aimed at the "habitual offenders" who are a very small percentage of the students who drive to school (10 or less).

Another policy adopted by the council deals with the loss of A/A (free time for students from 2:40 p.m. until the end of the school day).

The loss evolves from unexcused absences by students, discipline referrals or academic deficiencies.

The seventh unexcused absence will cost the student A/A time for five days; discipline referral will result in a five day loss of A/A and academic deficiencies will result in the loss of A/A for the time until all work is completed to the satisfaction of the referring teacher.

The policy also covers the extended loss of A/A time and the use of alternative school.

Two of the days lost this year by the school system will not have to be made up if the State Department of Education grants a written request approved by the council at the meeting.

The two days are for the time lost due to the chemical spill in October of last year.

Mr. Cash implied that the request was primarily just a formality to having the days granted to the system.

Mr. Cash also made the council aware that the budget process was beginning in which teachers would request monies for needed equipment and supplies.

Cash told the council that about $97,000 is available for supplies and that $34,465 of this money was granted to the school by the local board of education over and above the basic allowance by the state.

The principal said that circumstances were now such that no teacher "needs to spend any personal money for supplies." He also pointed out that zero fees are charged to students at the high school but this might have to change somewhat in the future because of the expense of items in-involved in the teaching of Tech-Ed but that only a small fee ($2-$3) would probably be involved. Cash also told the council that one of the major items in this year's budget would involve microscopes for the science department -- about $10,000.

No action was required on this item.

Several parents attended the meeting and their main interest in the proceedings came out in the final item when they were given an opportunity to speak to the council about their interest -- namely, the basketball program.

Mr. Cash was first asked if there had been any discussion with the council on whether to make changes in the basketball program. Cash said there had not been and that no decision would be forthcoming until April 15th in any case.

Also brought up was the charge of "derogatory" remarks made to players of parents who attended the last SBDM meeting following that meeting and one parent said his son was told by a member of the coaching staff that the team needed to concentrate on the district tournament for the next week not on school work because "you don't do anything in school anyway."

Another parent took issue with his son reportedly being told that the last of September or first of October, whenever open gym began, players would be expected to remain after school on the premises until the boys' 5 p.m. practice. His complaint was that by the time the players arrived home from practice, had supper, showered and did homework it would be very late before they were able to go to bed.

Cash first spoke to the issue of open gym, saying there would not be any open gym held until the October 15th deadline because "we are going to abide by Kentucky High School Athletic Association (KHSAA) guidelines to the letter." Cash went on to say that some parents would probably be upset by the open gym rule but that was the way it was going to be because "we are not going to violate KHSAA rules." Cash also told the group that KHSAA officials said that while many parents from Rockcastle Co. had called their office about alleged violations, all had refused to sign a formal complaint.

Cash also told the parents that he had been contacted by parents in support of the program which brought a questioner by a parent as to whether these supporters had children on the ball team. Mr. Cash responded that they did and that they were upset that they were not present at the last meeting. Cash said his response was that the meetings were public and the date and time were published and that any one could attend.

The upshot of the discussion was that if there were any decisions made about personal changes it would not be until April 15th.

As noted, the Secretary of State will set the election date. Incidentally, the second place winner in the run-off could be the winner depending, of course on how the voters choose candidates in the run-off.

A run-off election is not now, only in Kentucky. Several states have a run-off, not only for governor, but for all elected offices.

"We quickly become close to patients and their families. This is person to person care."

"Our Special Care Unit is a very warm place where the staff becomes a link between the patient and the family. These patients do require intensive care, and that care means nurses that are very skilled in not only the medical and technical aspects, but the psycho/social needs too.

Anxiety levels are high for the patients families...visitation is limited, so we try to update them as often as possible. Plus, we explain the 'whats and whys' of all the equipment. This alleviates a lot of anxiety, especially when there's suddenly something 'different' on a loved one's monitor.

I'm very proud of our unit. Beyond the sophisticated support technology, there's real 'feeling' care here. This is a special place."

Total is second in state

MVES collects $8,275 for Easter Seals

Mt. Vernon Elementary School recently participated in the Rock Pitino Easter Seal Shootout. Mt. Vernon was 2nd in the state with a total of $8,275 collected and 189 students participating. Mt. Vernon Elementary has participated in 12 Eastern Seal Shootouts and has raised a total of $49,568.73. This is an outstanding achievement of which our students and the community can be proud.

Vernon were Josh Hale with $231.00 and Bridgette Lear with $1,325. With Bridgette's total of $1,325, she was the state winner for the second consecutive year. On Feb. 18th, Bridgette and parents, Bill and Joyce Lear, shootout coordinator Judy Bullock, Principal Loretta Powell, Jesse Powell and Sheila McQueary attended a banquet at the Hyatt Regency in Bridgette's honor.

Later that day, the group attended the UK-Florida game and Bridgette was given a seat of honor behind the UK bench. She also visited the Wildcat locker room after the game and met the Wildcats and got autographs which she will cherish for a long time.

Becoming a Parent

Submitted by Rockcastle County Family Resource Center

This article looks at some things to consider before your baby enters your life. Being a new parent can be an exciting time. It can be a little scary, too. It will change your life in many ways. The more you think about these changes beforehand, the more you will feel in charge of your own life. Fathers, don't feel nervous or left out.

Now all the attention seems to focus on the mother-to-be, and later it will center on the new baby. But this is a time when fathers are needed. Pregnant women sometimes may be uneasy about the ways their bodies have changed, especially during the last few months of pregnancy. They may be upset that they don't look like they used to, can't move around like they used to, and feel more tired and heavier than they used to. Talk to your partner. Tell her how you feel about her and the new baby. Listen to how she is feeling. Sharing your feelings can bring you closer together, and can help you feel part of things.

A Time of Change

Having a baby—especially your first—is a time of many changes. Most first-time parents receive little preparation for the "big event" and the many ways the baby will have an impact on their lives.

If you will be raising your baby alone, going to school or working, you will have added pressures on your time and energy. You need to figure out how to juggle your many responsibilities. The decisions and arrangements you make now will help ease the transition into parenthood after your baby is born. Check what resources are available for parents in our community. It is important to find as many supports as you can.

If you are a couple, expect some strains as you make the transition into parenthood. You may both have feelings you could not predict. For example, a new mother usually is very occupied with the baby and as a result the father may feel pushed aside or ignored. Make an agreement that you will talk to each other about your ups and downs and about your many new experiences and feelings. Before the baby arrives also is a good time to discuss the sharing of responsibilities. Family roles are changing and many couples feel more flexible about who is going to do what in taking care of the baby and the household chores. Agree on your roles. The more you agree now, the fewer resentments and misunderstandings will pile up later.

Whether you're a couple or you're single and living alone or with your parents, your new baby will bring new experiences, pressures and worries as well as new joy and excitement. In those first hectic weeks, your life will seem to center around your small, helpless but demanding infant. There may be times when you will feel unsure, moody or even overwhelmed. Most new parents feel this way at first.

It takes time to feel comfortable in your new role as a parent. After all, being a new parent is on-the-job training and you should not expect that you will know how to handle everything overnight. Be patient with yourself. You are not alone in your feelings and this time of adjustment will pass.

who completes this first. Mr. Michael Robbins' class is ahead at this time. Make your appointments now! Please try to make appointments early in the morning or after 1 p.m. so your child will not be counted absent. If your child/children must have different transportation arrangements please remember to send a note in the morning by the child. Please do not call the office during the day!

Mt. Vernon Message

MVES Technology

Mt. Vernon Elementary School has a growing technology network. The school now has 134 computers dispersed throughout our school. Pre-school, kindergarten, primary, intermediate, Chapter 1 and all Special classes have at least one computer in their classrooms or have access to one. We have three computer labs: Writing to Read for kindergarten, Writing to Read for primary 1 and the computer lab with 30 networked computers which is used by entire classrooms. Teachers utilize our varied software programs and access programs that relate their classroom activities. These programs also provide a variety of learning levels with an assortment of educational programs. We have just received five new computers for our fourth grade classes. Shipment of new printers for these fourth grade computers is expected soon. This will aid in portfolio writing. The hardware was purchased with KET's monies.

The library has its circulation system on computer. This aides in the check out of about 300 books per day. Two additional networked computers are used for Accelerated Reader testing in the library. The AR program has been a great addition to our software collection. It is used by students in Primary 1 to 5th grade. The school also has televisions in every classroom with access to cable, KET satellite, and closed circuit. Programs related to thematic units are requested in advance and are shown in correspondence with the lesson being taught.

We have hopes of acquiring a modem to go on-line and communicate with Roundstone Elementary in the near future.

All of these technological advances in our school help provide our students with better educational opportunities as well as keeping up with the world today. Without these various technological programs, our students would be greatly hindered in their ability to meet the demands of today's educational requirements. Access to this new technology will enable our students to be more prepared for middle school, high school, college and the modern work force.

Forward in the Fifth provided a grant to MVES to purchase two more test disks containing 100 book titles and reading incentive awards

Librarian Sharon Lovell displays her accelerated reader books

Principal Loretta Powell dressed as her favorite storybook character

Principal on the Roof

The students at Mt. Vernon Elementary have attained their goal of putting their principal on the roof of the school. In the fall of the 1994 school year, the students proposed a challenge to Mrs. Loretta Powell: if the children reached 6,000 points on the Accelerated Reader program, then Mrs. Powell had to dress as her favorite storybook character and spend thirty minutes on the roof of the school. The students reached their goal last week. Mrs. Powell chose the Fairy Godmother from the fairy tale "Cinderella" as her favorite character. Dressed in a pink ballgown, with a jeweled crown, and a magic wand, Mrs. Powell waded to the various classes as they viewed the results of their challenge: "Principal on the Roof."

MVES using Accelerated Reader program

Mt. Vernon Elementary began using the Accelerated Reader computerized reading management program in the fall of 1993. Since its beginning in our school two years ago, our library circulation has more than doubled. The program uses both literature and technology to instill a love of reading in our children. Students can choose from a wide variety of book titles and reading levels. Children in grades 1 through 5 participate. Both gifted and learning disabled students have been successful with this program. A simple three step process is all the child needs to follow: (1) Select an appropriate book (for which there is an AR test); (2) Read the book; and (3) Test on one of our networked computers (in the Library Media Center, the classroom, or in the computer lab).

The AR computer management program immediately gives the child feedback on his score for the test. It also keeps individualized student records for each child, letting the classroom teacher know the child's test books, dates of tests, score for each test, and an overall average for the grading period.

Thanks to a grant provided by Forward in the Fifth, our library was able to purchase two more test disks containing 100 book titles, reading incentive awards to be given to the children and fifty new books for the library. The test disks purchased were chosen to enhance our Science and Social Studies Curriculums.

Our students at MVES recently met their goal of 6,000 AR points. Each book title is assigned a number of points based on its reading level and its length. Our children passed over 5,000 AR test to get the 6,000 points needed to put Mrs. Powell, our principal on the roof of the school for thirty minutes. She had to dress as her favorite storybook character. Mrs. Powell chose the Fairy Godmother from "Cinderella." Our next goal is to obtain 4,000 more points before the end of school. If the students reach the 10,000 total, then Charles Carter, our Assistant Principal, has agreed to dress as Superman and visit each classroom.

This reading program is extremely popular with our children. They have donated over $400 in pennies to buy more AR books. They want to know if their paperback book club selections are AR titles. The new books purchased by the Forward in the Fifth Grant are all checked out! New AR books move quickly into the hands of the children at MVES!

To reach this goal, MVES students in the Primary and the 4th and 5th grades passed over 5,000 tests on the Accelerated Reader, a computerized reading management program which is being implemented at MVES. The Library Media Specialist, Mrs. Sharon Lovell and the classroom teachers collaborated to instill the fire, and an appreciation of, reading in the children. The children read books from a variety of sources, such as library books, classroom libraries, paperback book club titles, and the titles of their personal libraries. Students then used technological tools to test on the book title on a networked computer. Each title, for which a test is available, is assigned a specific number of points based on the length of the book and its reading difficulty. By answering the multiple choice questions correctly, the student can earn points.

The students have not stopped with this challenge! After attaining this goal, they made suggestions for challenging our Assistant Principal, Charles Carter. Our new goal is to earn an additional 4,000 points to reach a total of 10,000 before the end of the 1994-95 school year. When the children achieve this goal, Mr. Carter has agreed to dress as Superman and visit each classroom.

Parents can help their child by attaining our new goal by encouraging the child to read Accelerated Reader (purple dot) books, by reading to their children, and by discussing the book title with their child. Statistics show that children who read or who are read to, can and do achieve at higher levels.

An evening of angels and inspiration on KET's TeleFund '95

KET takes a look at inspiration and heavenly wonders on two special programs Tuesday, March 14 during TeleFund '95. In Search of Angels, airing at 8 p.m. explores the meaning, history and prevalence of angels in music and popular culture. Next at 9:30 p.m. viewers can continue the theme during Amazing Grace with Bill Moyers, a look at the history and inspiration involved with the popular hymn.

Dear Editor,

I have enjoyed listening to a preacher that comes on WRVK on Sunday morning at about 9:15 for several years.

I've admired his stand on the Word of God. But I've heard him preach many times that a woman was not supposed to run for any public office at all. I could not vote for Mrs. Norma Howell when she ran because of the way she was preached on.

WRVK that his wife is now running for office in the county. What happened to his stand for what he had preached?

"What Saith the Scriptures"

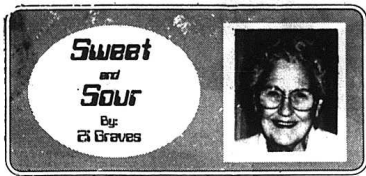

Paul in 1 Tim 1:18 said, "This charge I commit unto thee, son Timothy, according to the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest war a good warfare." Again, in 1 Tim. 6:12 "fight the good fight of faith, layhold in eternal life, where unto thou art called, and last professed a good profession before many witnesses." And finally, Paul said, "Put on the whole armor of God, that ye may be able to stand against the wiles of the devil. For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the rulers of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places," Eph. 6:11-12.

Let's focus our thoughts upon the spiritual battle that Paul describes. God and those who stand with him, are standing for the truth, II Jn. 4:9, "Ye the devil, does not sit idly by doing nothing. No, he is working hard to destroy men, through things like: the works of the flesh, Gal. 5:19-21; through discouragement and persecutions, Mt. 13:21; through the cares, pleasures, and riches of this world, Lk. 8:14. But let me also suggest that the devil is using false teachings, and false teachers to lead men and women away from the truth and down the path of error. Notice, "for such are false apostles, deceitful workers, transforming themselves into the apostles of Christ. And no marvel, for satan himself is transformed into an angel of light. Therefore it is no great thing if his ministers also be transformed as the ministers of righteousness, whose end shall be according to their works." II Cor. 11:13-15 The Bible repeatedly warns of false teachers, Mt. 7:15-20; Tit. 1:9-11, II Pet. 2:1-3, I Jn. 4:1-6, II Jn. 7-11. Yes, we have slaves of them today.

Their wear religious titles like "Reverend" or "Doctor" or "Father" in front of their names. They are called the "men of cloth," they have robes and special religious garments and collars turned around backwards. They fill the pulpits and classrooms of denominational buildings promoting the doctrines of men. All you have to do is to examine their "fruits" i.e., what they teach to see them for who they are, Mt. 7:20, I Jn. 4:1-6. Folks, sometimes wonder why faithful men of God are always in a fight? Just open the Word of God, and look round about, and you see why; a war is raging.

Folklore Remedies

Automatic dishwashers, washing machines and sweepers have taken much of the toil and drudgery out of house work and women are freed to do more pleasant things of their choice. I do have a dishwasher and the other automated things that make house work easier, yet I miss the hours spent doing the extra things that go along with the old time way of cleaning up after a meal. That was the time of polishing the counter tops and scrubbing the grime out of the oven. After all these things are finished there was the floor that always had to be swept and the broom then tucked out of sight behind the door. No dishwasher has ever been designed to do all these things so many of them are left undone until they become a problem and require a special day to do them. Another thing I miss about this chore is the thinking time one gets while doing a job that doesn't require brain power to get it done. Often I choose to hand wash the dishes and clean up the kitchen so I will be free to think. No radio, no T.V., no record player is allowed to intrude on my thoughts, this is my quiet and busy time to think. These thoughts usually take me back in time to other days and a different way of life. You folks reading "Sweet and Sour" get most of the results of these soliloquies.

The other day as I was doing this very thing, some act, such as unconsciously saving the rinse water to use later, or reaching for a nail to hang the dishpan on instead of simply lifting the sink stopper to let the water out, brought me up with a start and I realized I was in my world of day dreaming about the past.

I must have been washing the honey dish which had brought to mind the many good things honey and vinegar is reported to be good for. This in turn brought other old home remedies to mind that I have either used, or been told about. Some of these remedies, many of which are only good old common sense things to do, are still being used. Most of you I am sure have heard, "Chicken soup is good for the flu." Of course it is, nourishment is always good for people and especially if they are sick. So is potato soup. One of the old time doctors in Rockcastle County made me aware of this when he prescribed potato soup for flu instead of strong medicine. It worked, for it had the special nutrients in it that was needed by the sick person.

The old time remedy for a severe cut wound was to moisten a leaf of tobacco, usually by chewing it, put it directly on the wound, tie it up with a clean cloth and let it stay for three days before removing it. Unsantitary? Maybe so, but it worked for one of mom's neighbors when she applied that treatment to my leg when I was a very small child and in an accidental fall had severely cut my leg. When mom would later tell about it she would say, "and you never missed a day's play." I still carry the scar and if it had happened in today's world of modern scientific medicine I am quite sure I would have been hospitalized, plastic surgery done and our family would have been impoverished by the medical bills. For my dad could never have gone along with today's way of allowing other people to pay for his obligations. Now there was one "remedy" I could never quite bring myself around to believing in or use, it was to tie a dirty sock, the dirtier the better, around ones throat when it was sore. I never could see where a stinking sock so close to one's nose could in any way cure a sore throat.

And a brown paper bag soaked in a hot vinegar and salt solution when tied securely around the ankle will remove the swelling and black and blue from a sprained ankle. This I have also used successfully.

Do any of you remember using poultices for everything from pneumonia to an infected injury? There was a time when this was about the only way pneumonia was treated in the areas where doctors were scarce and even many doctors recommended them. There were poultices made of mustard and lard, turpentine and lard, skunk oil, hot onions, and hot wheat meal, and I'm sure there are many more I have never heard of. And fat meat was a sure way to draw out the poison of any infection. Of course Vick's Salve was the cure-all for all colds and sniffles, and castor oil was the only way to stop the belly ache.

If one had a problem with warts all they had to do was bury the dirty dish-rag under the back step and when it rotted the warts would be gone. Or if they could find a person who believed in folk lore cures they may be able to sell them. Hic-cups were cured by a sudden scare, or counting to ten while holding your breath. You got rid of a sty by looking directly at the sun while repeating three times, "sty, sty, go away come again some other day."

When I was a teenager I accompanied a friend to see her doctor who was an American Indian. His office was on Sixth St. in Cincinnati, Ohio, when I stepped inside I could hardly believe my eyes. All doctors offices I had been in had a professional atmosphere in the waiting room that gave one confidence in the treatment he was about to receive. Not so here. The doctor himself looked out of place for his attire was casual, his hair long, (that was before long hair was popular for men) his moccasins were well worn, and his office, if it could be called an office, was a conglomeration of baskets full of "weeds" sheaths of "weeds" hanging from the ceiling, and huge jars of strange mixtures crowding what space was left. It was here I got my first glimpse into the art of herbal medicine and its one that has stayed with me all these years and has been a treasure. Her recommendations for a healthy life.

At that time he said he was eighty years old and was still in his prime. When asked about his marital status his answer was, "I have always said I would wait until I was 100 before I got married, then I would marry and raise my family. I have twenty years to go before I commit myself to being tied down." He diagnosed his patients by watching them closely while he talked casually to them never touching their body. I never knew of him giving a wrong diagnosis. Then while still talking to them about the abuse to the human body by bad habits and chemical medication, he would raid his jars and baskets and a mixture would come forth that he declared would take care of their problem. While this was going on a beautiful animal came strolling out from somewhere and I drew back in alarm for I recognized it as being a skunk. He laughed at my alarm and said, "don't be afraid of him, he is harmless. His skunk bag has been removed so I could use the oil in some of my medicine." Then he further extolled the virtues of skunk oil. He said if one breathed the air where a skunk had recently thrown his oil it would clear up his lungs and kill and cold germs that may be lingering around. Then he went as far as to say he cured T.B. by closing the patient in a room with a live skunk in it and rousing the skunk daily so the patient had to breathe the air. This charming old Indian, with his knowledge of herbs and nature and strange stories of ways to bring healing made an impression on me that has stayed with me all these many years.

I have often thought about him and wondered if he did live long enough to get married and raise that family.

And what happened to that beautiful pet, the skunk.

preached. This shows how weak the flesh is. Money and position will change a lot of people. I can no longer listen to his program because of this. I am so glad that God doesn't change at any time.
