

Generations of Service.

The country store is a reminder of friendly service to rural Rockcastle County families. The country store served as place to buy supplies, as a post office, and even a source for conversation and advice.

Like the purpose of the country store, Cox Funeral Home extends service to Rockcastle County families in their hours of grief and loss. Since 1907 we have extended dignified service to the families of our community. We are proud of our heritage, and our place in the lives of Rockcastle County families.

Fire kills three local family members

By: Richard Anderkin
 Officials are calling the circumstances surrounding the deaths of three Rockcastle cousins on Sunday, "very suspicious."

Sherry Faye Bowles McKinney, 29, her son Brian Lee Bowles, 11, and her daughter, Amy Michelle Bowles, 3 were found in their Plato community home, burned beyond recognition after a Sunday afternoon fire completely destroyed the house.

An autopsy in Frankfort on Tuesday helped officials positively identify the victims.

Officials think foul play may be involved in the deadly blaze mainly because the fire occurred in the middle of the afternoon and no one escaped. Fire officials also found one of the bodies about five feet from one of the doors.

Family members said that Mrs. McKinney had been married about a month to Gary McKinney, and they had moved to Pulaski County about three weeks.

Sherry's sister-in-law, Delina Bowles said that family members had been told very little about the investigation, but that they were meeting with police on Wednesday.

Mrs. Bowles also said that police called her home on Tuesday looking for Gary McKinney, who has not been communicated with family members since the fire.

According to a story in the Somerset Commonwealth Journal, the dwelling was completely burned to the ground when Woodstock firefighters arrived at the scene.

According to the same story, a neighbor, David Burton, arrived at the scene first, but the fire was already raging to the point that no one could even get close to the house.

Witnesses at the scene said that Gary McKinney was at the scene of the fire for a short time on Sunday.

Pulaski County Coroner Alan Stringer said that his office would not release any information from the autopsy except the identities until police finish their investigation.

Stringer did say that the Commonwealth Attorney's office was now involved in the investigation.

Brian Lee Bowles was still enrolled in the fourth grade at Mt. Vernon Elementary school.

MVA's assistance principal Charles Carter said that Brian Bowles stayed with his grandfather at Crooked Creek most of the time.

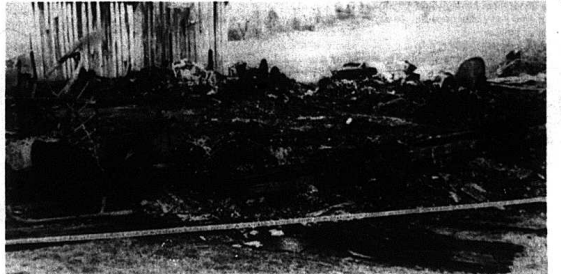

The bodies will be taken to Dowell and Martin Funeral Home where arrangements are still incomplete.

Forgy brings campaign to county

Briefly

Burglar

Billy Gorham, 24, of Valley View Apartments has been charged with burglary in the first degree. He is charged with breaking into the home of Clinton Setser on U.S. 150 on March 29 and stealing about $445 worth of items including a pistol.

Wesley Mullins, 23, of Mt. Vernon, and Kenneth McCowan, 27, also of Mt. Vernon were arrested and charged with receiving stolen property in connection with the Setser burglary.

Mullins and McCowan were lodged in the Rockcastle County Jail under $2,000 bond. Gorham was in jail under $25,000 cash bond.

Arrests were made by Sheriff Shirley Smith and Deputy Randall Reynolds. More charges are expected in the arrests.

Assigned

R.E. "Robbie" Massie is the new state trooper for Rockcastle County. Massie is assigned to the London Post but will operate in Rockcastle. He has been at the Harlan Post since state police school in 1989.

Also to operate in Rockcastle will be Millard Rook a trooper at the London Post from the Morehead Post.

Checks stolen

A purse stolen out of a shopping cart at Wal-Mart in London landed two persons from Mt. Vernon in Laurel County Jail.

Blank checks were taken out of the purse and cashed at Wal-Mart and K-Mart in London.

Arrested was Janet Adams and a juvenile from Valley View Apartments and both were charged with receiving stolen property.

Sheriff Shirley Smith took the couple to Laurel County.

Roosters

John D. Harding of Clear Creek reported to sheriff's deputies that 12 of his roosters were stolen recently from his property.

There were 5 gray ones and 7 red ones taken he said.

By: Richard Anderkin

Republican gubernatorial candidate Larry Forgy brought his campaign and a lot of promises to Rockcastle County last Thursday.

Forgy and his running mate Tom Handy of London told about 70 Kiwanians and guests that if they were elected they would work to reduce taxes, stabilize the tobacco program and make some changes in the Kentucky Education Reform Act.

Monetary rewards from state

Teachers will decide how to spend money

By: Richard Anderkin

Many of the 216 Rockcastle County teachers and administrators are in the process of deciding what to do with award money they are to receive from the state.

Teachers and administrators at Brodhead, Mt. Vernon as well as former Livingston teachers will receive award money from the state for improvement in school test scores.

Central office staff members are also eligible for reward money because of an overall improvement in test scores.

Richard Bray, local finance officer for the district said this week that he had received $256,578 from the state to pass out as reward money. Just when that money will be passed out is up to each school. There are certain requirements that must be met by each school before payments can go out.

At Brodhead and Livingston teachers are eligible for the maximum reward of $2,602, teachers who taught at Mt. Vernon the last two years are eligible for $1,822 and central office staffers are eligible for $1,613 each.

Whether or not those teachers and administrators will keep all or some of money is the question that now faces each school's staff.

The first step for each staff is to decide who is eligible to vote. The second is to decide how the money will be spent.

Forgy told the group that if he and Handy, who is Commonwealth Attorney in Laurel County, are elected life in Kentucky would improve.

Forgy told the group that tobacco was in good shape until at least the year 2015, but that farmers in Kentucky needed to work together to find an alternative to tobacco, however he said farmers should not believe the horror stories about the fate of tobacco, because it was not on its last leg as a lot of people would have them believe.

The Lexington lawyer told the group that while parts of the Kentucky Education Reform Act are good for Kentucky children, some parts of it need to be changed.

Forgy said that he intended to get legislation passed that would allow individual schools to make the decision on whether or not ungraded primary stay in use or be changed. "It is great to teach our children self-care

Red Cross chapter needs local donations

The local chapter of the American Red Cross is seeking donations this week to help local families who have lost their homes to Rockcastle County fires.

Laléd Nielson, local director of Red Cross, said this week that since January 1, her organization has helped seven families with $500. That money is used to help families relocate, purchase clothing and buy food.

Nielson said that the large number of disasters in the nation had caused Red Cross funds to be depleted and the hierarchy in Red Cross had cut off funds.

"Before it is all over Red Cross is going to expect us to be completely self-sufficient on a local level," Nielson said.

The local chapter used to receive $1,000 a year from the Rockcastle Fiscal Court, but those funds have been cut out.

Anyone wishing to donate to Red Cross should mail their tax deductible contribution to: American Red Cross, P.O. Box 60, Mt. Vernon, Ky. 40456.

money will be spent.

Brodhead principal Mark McKinney said that staff members decided to place four options on the ballot. Those options include spending some or all the money on supplies, classified staff supplements, bonuses for teachers and possibly some other options that McKinney said may be added later.

The principal said that it was his feeling that most of the money would be used for teacher's bonuses and that classified staff would receive some money as well.

McKinney said that he had talked to the director of the regional service center and that most of the districts in the state that received award money were keeping it as bonuses for teachers and that about half of them were using some of the money for classified bonuses.

"If the middle school had not opened and our entire staff still been intact, the options that are being considered may have been different, but with the ways things have changed, I would say that teachers here will vote to keep most of the money as bonuses," McKinney said.

Whatever is the decision by the staff that is deemed eligible to vote is what each teacher and or administrator must do with their portion of the money.

Vernon and Livingston staff members and central office staffers will meet this week to decide who will be eligible to vote.

Rockcastle Kiwanis president Rocky Rockwell presented Larry Forgy with a certificate of appreciation from the Kiwanis club.

Council votes to sell caboose

By Ray McClure

It's about the end of the line for the caboose at the city's railroad parking lot.

The city council voted Monday night for Mayor Gary R. Cromer to contact the Jaycees to find out who made an offer at one time to buy it; sell it, and give the money back to the Jaycees.

"To put it bluntly, the council said find an organization that will 'take care' of it, or get rid of it. It was a hard decision, but a fast one. The council expressed its 'close feelings' for the caboose but reported windows have been broken out and the interior damaged. The council said it could fix it up, but the same thing would happen again.

As Councilman Leo Keene put it, "They'll just tear it to pieces, so find a group willing to fix it up, or get rid of it."

The old caboose has been on the railroad site since May 1971. It was once the meeting place for the Jaycees. Then it fell into decay and the Jaycees gave it to the city.

Last summer, work on the caboose was done by Jaycees interested in it, but again it was damaged.

Councilman Leo Keene brought it up at the council, and had little hope for its continued residing place.

"It's almost completely destroyed," he said. "Maybe we can find an organization that will take care of it. But even then they'll tear it up again."

The council left it to the mayor to solve the problem.

Councilwoman Karen King told the council five trees on Main Street need replacement.

She said she had surveyed the trees and found five needed to be replaced. Councilman Terri Owens said he thought the number was six, counting one that was not included in the original planing.

Police Chief Bill Mink gave the police activity report for March. Citations issued, 43; total charges, 61; DUI arrests, 3; calls for service, 176; accidents, 18; other agency assists, 78; motorist assists, 8; criminal cases opened, 5; Mt. Vernon fire runs, 31.

Viewpoints

By now most of you should be familiar with the so-called "Motor-voter law."

Here's a quick review anyway, just in case you missed it. (I get letters from folks who swear that the only thing they ever read in the paper is my column and I'd hate like heck to leave them out on something this important.)

Anyway, the way the motor voter law works is that anytime you need to license your car, sign up on food stamps, get a library card, get your fishing license and so forth, the attendant clerk is obligated to ask if you would also like to register to vote.

Not only that, but they can sign you up right on the spot. And it's a really painless procedure. Believe it or not you can sign up to be a Democrat or a Republican or, for that matter, an "Undecided" (independent) voter without them having to draw blood or give you a shot or cause you any other pain.

Of course, if you're like me and you sign up to be a member of a particular political party, you will often feel pain in your rear end because the person you voted for will sting you like a bumble bee or hit you up for a campaign contribution. If they aren't a pain in your elephant, they will likely become a pain in your "you know." But, hey! that's all a part of democracy. There's nothing in the constitution requiring politicians to be saints.

In fact, in Kentucky, it's not uncommon for politicians to wind up with a few years of jail time on their resumes.

Right now we have eight "viable" (apt to get one or more votes) candidates running for Governor and not a one of them has ever spent more than one night in jail as far as I know. If the truth were known, all of them probably should have pulled a prison term or two but so far they have managed to escape the strong arm of the law. Two or three of them have even served in the State Legislature and managed to stay out of prison.

Is that an attribute or a sign of laziness? I'm just asking. And while I'm asking, does anybody know whether or not there's any truth to the rumor that Eck Rose has so many pals in the Federal Prison in Manchester that they had to build him a guest house so he could come visiting?

I'd just like to know, but the truth of the matter is that several other candidates for governor could walk through that facility and visit at least a dozen inmates on a first name basis. I've been told that Eck has so many buddies in prison in Manchester that he had to buy a panel truck so he'd have enough room in his vehicle to take each one a box of cookies when he goes down to check on them.

But that really is beside the point. And the point is that it's never been easier to become a registered voter much to the chagrin of Newtie Poo and his right wing buddies in Washington. If Newt had his way, he'd select all six of his cousins in Georgia who owe him money and he'd make them the national electorate. The way the Republicans have it figured, the fewer voters the country has, the better off it is. It's a whole lot cheaper to buy ten votes than it is a hundred and heaven knows that anybody who votes for Newt Gingrich had to have his or her palm greased with something.

Newt and company fought the Motor-Voter Bill with everything they had, but it passed anyway, and as a result we may get to the point that nearly a third of the people in this country who are eligible to vote, actually register so they can do just that.

If I were in charge of things though, I would have taken the Motor Voter Bill a few steps farther. I would make it easy to register to vote, but I would require that you vote if you want to live in this country. It simply is not fair that nearly two thirds of the citizens who live in this country and experience the freedoms of democracy take it so for granted and do absolutely nothing to make it work.

If I were in charge of things, every person eligible to vote would have to do just that but I would require that one of the above be "none of the above." And every time that "None of the above" won, I'd require that we start with a new state until we had some leadership that a majority of the folks who live in this country trusted and had some vested interest in.

The biggest thing wrong with America is that far too few people give a damn about what it is or where it's going. It's like having abled bodied bums in your house that don't work, don't make their beds, don't wash dishes, who lay around and complain when you don't do all of the above to suit them.

HERESAY

By:
John Norman Meadows

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and gerundives from the awe-quickenning Dell of Wadd, one-time vacation home of the Most Reverend Doctor Ulysses V. Bigglesworth, that beloved and erudite Professor of Preaching at Southern Seminary back in the Age of Honesty, and part-time peddler of Beauchamp's Boil and Bunion Ointments, who more than twice told his students, "Gentlemen, a pewster's yawn during your sermon may not be polite, but it does let you know how he feels."

Speaking of "letting you know," I'm inundated by reader responses to THE WOMAN QUESTION, and also THE GUM QUESTION. Consequently, I feel obliged to use today's column to reply to a couple of mistakes that epitomize the kind of rejoinders I've received recently.

DEAR JOHN NORMAN: You shouldn't have acknowledged that letter that was signed "A.A." You are man enough to put your ideas out to the public, to whoever sent that letter ought to be man enough to put his name to it. Do you reckon it could have been, as you say, A WOMAN? (From Willy Steppene, Seymour, Indiana)

DEAR WILLY: I thought such might be the case but couldn't bring myself to say so in print. (I wouldn't put it past Arcella Argenta-farkle -- or that gadfly, Amy Amusement.) But being the old-time Baptist that I am, I'm to do my part whenever possible to keep A WOMAN out of the public's eye and where she belongs, which according to Jude 9:2, means "AT HOME doing A WOMAN'S work and not A MAN'S." (Teaching school is acceptable if a man can't be found.)

It's a dying shame, Willy, that THE MAN in many a home has just willfully dumped his eternally deferred responsibilities in the lap of HIS WOMAN. Who, just last week heard that a certain Waddian farmer not only lets his wife write checks but even lets her -- GET THIS! -- balance THEIR checkbook! It's no mystery to me that his tobacco crop is runty year after year.

Then there's this Willailla fellow who wants HIS WOMAN barefoot but NOT pregnant and went so far as to submit himself to a VASECTOMY rather than demand that HIS WOMAN do the right thing and get her tubes tied. And he wonders why his hens don't lay!

And, Willy, the more you inquire the worse it gets. Why, at the annual meeting of the Big Brothers Baptist Association up in the mountains, A MAN moderator up and allowed A WOMAN to stand in the PULPIT to give the WOMAN Missionary Union report, rather than down on the floor in front of the communion table where she belonged. (Oops! Make that "Lord's Supper" table.) And the members of that host church wonder why they're plagued with termies the size of which Orkin has never before come upon!

Truth be told, Willy, I'm having a trying time letting my wife work for A WOMAN boss, who also has A WOMAN boss! That alone goes a long way toward explaining why I have a bad back and an ailing fan-dango.

(I could have been Annette App.) DEAR JOHN NORMAN: You've gone too far when you talk about people who ghem gum in church. I chew in church because I'm a nervous person. You'd chew too if you put in forty hours a week working in a dynamite factory.

And my neighbor chews in church because she has to live with a dead-beat who is forever bickering about something. She can't please the old fool. Sunday is one of the few times she gets away from him, but sitting in church she knows she will have to go home to him, so she chews gum to keep from biting her nails. You've really insulted her and I. And a lot of others' figure. (From Emma Plostky, Lebanon Junction, Kentucky)

DEAR EMMA: I apologize. Your reference to nail-biting made me see the light. I do that, too, especially when the preacher gets on my mind, which is about every time I attend.

My dislike of gum-chewing in church came about over thirtythree years of studying congregations. So many chews reminded me of that blank-brained television character,

Memorandum from Veterans Affairs

1. Since VA stopped sending Eligibility Verification Reports (EVRs) to recipients of income based benefits, certain questions have arisen regarding reporting medical expenses so these individuals can receive the retroactive benefits to which they are accustomed.

2. We prefer that new reports be for the reporting from the end of the old EVR reporting period to 12/31/94. We will pick them up from 1/1/95 when EVR mailings resume.

3. If claimants are unwilling to report in this manner, it will speed up processing if you can at least report the exact date each expense was paid.

4. The minimum reporting requirement is the exact month in which the expense was paid. We also need a current income report with the medical expense report. This will cut down on development and speed claim processing.

5. If you can help us with this, it will speed up processing of these cases and improve service to our claimants.

Funding for practices will be approved by the Soil and Water Conservation Commission at the Kentucky Division of Conservation, Louisville. (Cont. to A-4)

Those of us who do vote and take their responsibility seriously are carrying the equivalent of two worthless burns on our backs because for every one of us there are nearly two dead-beats who take Democracy for granted and do absolutely nothing to make sure it works. That not only isn't fair, it ought to be a crime.

If I were in charge of things, it wouldn't just be possible to register to vote when you license your car or sign up for any other privilege in this country; it would be absolutely required. And if you didn't vote for say two elections in a row, I'd send your butt to Cuba for a year or two. And when you came home, I'll bet any amount of money that you'd be standing at the polls at 6 a.m. on election day hollering for them to hurry up and open.

Or maybe what we need is Newt Gingrich for a few years. Maybe then we'd be standing in line to catch a boat for Cuba.

"Mizzes Uh-Whiggins," played so cleverly by Carol Burnett.

Nonetheless, Emma, I grant that "nerves" is reason enough for chomping in church. Wouldn't you agree, however, that choir members sitting right behind the preacher ought to refrain from chewing? Ain't blowing bubbles during baptisms a bit too much?

Dear hearts, I must leave off writing and go help my neighbor pour concrete into crawdaddy holes in his pond dam. So, until next week, the Almighty willing, consider the weighty words of Sally Uterback, who said one day to her stoutheaded spouse, after he had raved furiously about their meatless meal, "Tobias, turnip greens are better than nothin'. And believe me, some folks have tried both."

When Kids Fight

By Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

It's hard to listen to kids who fight. Parents feel frustrated, angry, and often helpless. They feel irritated because they have to decide when to ignore fighting (which is most of the time) and when to try to stop it (not often). Usually kids fight less if adults:

- 1) Don't compare kids to one another ("If he can do it, so can you.") Comparisons make kids feel as if they are competing and they are more likely to fight.
- 2) Ignore as much fighting as possible. If you pay attention to fighting, kids learn they can hook you into their problems. Let them learn to solve their own problems.
- 3) Don't try to find out who a fight started or who started it ("All right, who hit who first?" or "Well what did you do to her?") Each one will blame the other. If necessary, separate the fighters for a few minutes.
- 4) Let kids say their feelings ("I hate my brother," "I feel like bashing him," "I wish he'd never been born.") These feelings are normal and will not go away because you say you don't want to hear them. Let kids know their feelings are OK ("I can tell you're really angry with him") but hitting someone is not OK.
- 5) Give kids permission to do something to get their angry feelings out (hit a pillow, swing a stick at an old tire in the yard) in ways that won't harm anyone.

- 6) When kids are hitting each other, you can say, "We don't hit!" Give you one minute to solve the problem without hitting or "You have a choice. You can stop fighting and keep playing the game or you can put the game away until you're ready to play without fighting." If this doesn't work, or if the fighting starts again, say "I can see you're still not ready." Take the game away saying, "Perhaps you'll be ready later." When they ask for the game back you may say, "I'm glad you're ready to play together now."
- 7) Set a good example. Don't hit your children or anyone else when you are angry.
- 8) Praise kids and hug them when they cooperate with each other. Praise them for solving their own problems.

Using Urea Nitrogen As A Fertilizer

Solid granular or prilled Urea (45-46% N) has become widely available in Kentucky, as has 28% nitrogen solution (UAN solution), which is half Urea and half ammonium nitrate. When applied to a field, Urea is transformed to ammonium N soon after plants and plant residues. Due to the chemical reactions involved as urea nitrogen undergoes transformation, there is some degree of likelihood for volatilization loss of some N. Whether such a loss will occur, and how much N will be lost if it does occur, relates to temperature, moisture, degree of contact with soil and pH of the soil. Effect of Temperature - Enzymes which convert Urea to ammonium are not very active until the weather warms. Research in Kentucky indicates that it will usually be early April before this rate of transformation will be great enough that risk of volatilization is economically important. Effect of Moisture - There are two thoughts to keep in mind about moisture. (1) If soil, plants or residue onto which Urea is applied are moist, enzymatic activity will be increased and Urea will rapidly convert to ammonium, assuming the temperature is warm enough and (2) If applied onto soil, plants or residues and enough rain occurs within 1-2 days to soak the Urea into the soil, volatilization loss will be minimal. Degree of Contact With The Soil - As Urea converts to ammonium, the ammonium will react strongly enough with soil to minimize volatilization. The less soil contact with Urea or UAN solutions when the N is applied, the greater the risk for volatilization loss of N. When surface-applied to bare soil and worked in, there is little risk unless soil pH is above 6.5. When surface-applied to no-till corn, the risk can vary from great where there are enough residues to prevent much soil contact, to slight where residues are thin enough that most of the N contacts the soil. When top-dressed onto grass soil where there is little initial contact with soil, risk is great after mid-spring. Effect of Soil pH - This has little effect on N loss except where Urea is spread onto bare soil and not worked in. Under such conditions, risk of volatilization can be great if surface pH of soil is above 6.5. If using starter fertilizers which have been blended using Urea, do not place the fertilizer in contact with seed since concentration of ammonia resulting from urea breakdown can be toxic to germinating seeds. Solid Urea (46% N) contains 920 pounds of actual N per ton of material; UAN (28%) contains 560 pounds of actual N per ton of material (approximately 360 pounds actual N per ton of ammonium nitrate (33.5%) contains 667 pounds actual N per ton of material. Carefully consider the price per pound of actual N together with convenience in application and the relative risk of N loss for the particular crop when deciding which source of N is best for you. Sign up for 1995 Wheat and Feed Grain Program is going on now through April 28th. For 1995, the ACR requirement for corn is 7.5 percent of the established base. All other participating crops have "O" ACR requirements. The target price for wheat is $4 with a projected deficiency payment rate of $3.70. Target price for corn is $2.75 with a projected deficiency payment rate of $4.00. Producers are permitted to plant their entire acreage base, less the required set aside. Acreage designated as set-aside must be land that has either been in a row crop in one of the last 5 years, or been used as set aside in one of the last 5 years. weeds are not considered cover. Advance payments are available upon approval of applications. FSCJ insurance is required for corn growers and silage growers to participate in the program. Participation who set their entire base aside are not required to have insurance for this crop. For the Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) practices available include: new seeding, ponds, critical areas, acid waterways, diversion, forestry practices less than ten acres. For a seeding practice, a current soil test is required. The test must be less than one year old and completed through UK. Test results must be submitted upon filing.

More opportunities for squirrel hunters this spring

Kentucky squirrel hunters will have more opportunities to take their limit of bushytail this spring. All wildlife management areas (MAAs) owned or managed by the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources will open to squirrel hunting during the June 1-14, 1995 season. Last year only four WMAs were open to squirrel hunting on an experimental basis. Daily limit and other laws governing squirrel hunting are the same as for the fall season. For more information write the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, I&E Division, #1 Game Farm Road, Frankfort, KY 40601, or call (502) 564-4336.

Fishing in full swing

The temperature is warming up just in time for trout stocking around the state. Rainbow trout stocking in Kentucky begins in April at the following lakes: Bert Coombs, Beulah, Cannon Creek, Fisherman's Park, Fishpond, Upper Game Farm, Lower Game Farm, Kingdom Come, Metcalf County, Mill Creek, Owensboro Park, Stanford and Waterson. Remember, when you catch a fish you don't want to keep (even if you could legally), return it to the water as soon as possible in the best physical condition. The ideal situation is to release the fish while it is still in the water. The watchwords of catch and release are speed and gentle handling.

Trout fishermen must have a current Kentucky Stamp in addition to a valid Kentucky fishing license, unless exempt. A Trout stamp costs $5, a statewide fishing license is $12.50 and combination hunting/fishing license is $20.

THE LOVE OF GOD ENCHANTS US WITH THE COLORS OF SPRING

With the snows of the winter beginning to melt
At the last of the storm and the gale,
Then the season's awakening soon will be felt,
As the gentler breezes prevail.
Now the branches of trees will no longer be bare,
But imbued with a delicate green;
And the perfume of flowers will sweeten the air,
While the birds will enliven the scene.
As religion reminds us, the love of the Lord
Brings this pleasure we all can derive,
For the calendar offers its greatest reward
In the spring, when the earth comes alive.

—Gloria Nowak

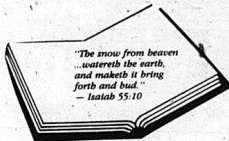

And 'tis my faith,
That every flower
Enjoys the air it breathes.

—William Wordsworth

"It shall blossom
abundantly,
and rejoice, even with joy and singing."

—Isiah 55:12

"The snow from heaven
...sustains the earth, and makes it bring forth and bud."
—Isaiah 55:10

In memory of Mom on her birthday

Happy Birthday Mom, although you're not here - But everyone knows I hold your memory dear.

Your flowers will be blooming here very soon, I set out another rose bush, for you, another bloom. It doesn't seem possible that a year has almost passed, when you were here with all of us, and laughed when you saw the cake that you shared with dad. You, like I, knew it would be the last one

Thank You
The family of Leonard D. Reese wishes to express our sincerest gratitude to family and friends who were there to comfort us in our time of loss. We thank you most of all for your thoughts and especially your prayers. We wish to give a very special thanks to Dowell & Martin Funeral Home for their generous support; Grace Baptist Church and Bro. Raymond Offutt for his kind words; Berea Hospital Intensive Care Unit for their wonderful care and to the Lloyd Clark family for their beautiful songs. We will always remember the thoughtful expressions of sympathy in the form of food, flowers and cards. You will always be counted among our riches blessings.
Victoria Reese & Family.

you had. You remarked "ain't it pretty" when little Cody brought it in, he sang happy birthday and I forced a grin.
We miss you so much, but I think of what you'd say, "Put that out of your mind, and come meet me some day!"
So I'll get on with my day while I think of you and say, Mom on April 10th Happy Birthday!
Love,
Clarice

In Loving Memory

In Loving Memory of Mary Edith Loudermilk and Virgil Lee Loudermilk, Jr. (Bubby) who passed away on April 6, 1994

The morning came to a sorrowful end as a house burned down. Mother and son couldn't be found.

As the fire laid to rest and the smoke blew away They found mother and son together they lay

Our hearts feel such grief as our eyes filled with tears

But mother and son will always be near

It's still so hard to believe that mother and son are gone For the sun still fills the days and the moon still fills the nights All this just doesn't seem right

And even though we know they've gone to a better place And their souls are at rest In our mind and in our hearts Their memory will linger on.

The kid next door

Through the mixing and mingling of people from all walks of life, some searching for their heritage, others searching for friends, or perhaps the heritage of someone dear to them, strange and lasting friendships develop and stories come to light that have too long been kept in the drawer.

This has recently happened in a branch of the DeBord Family tree but I will not elaborate on that. I will allow Lora to tell in her own way how she became interested in the heritage of a neighbor, Cartelle Anderson, and began her research after inheriting some old trunks filled with keepsakes that had been preserved and treasured by Cartelle for nearly a hundred years.

Lora finally caught up with me, a cousin by marriage to the woman she was interested in, by recognizing a familiar name, Mat Graves, in one of my "Sweet and Sour" columns, which she is a faithful reader. This brought her back again to Rockcastle County to try to locate me. She had already been here several times searching for information and interviewing other relatives with familiar names that appeared in the records she had. Polly Graves (Abney), a blood relative of Cartelle was one of them.

My first meeting with her and I finally met in person at Polly's and a friendship began. Polly had already accepted her as a "cousin" for that is what she seems to be. One would never believe she was only the kid next door to Cartelle who she had known and loved all her life. And sometimes when the ball she was bouncing went astray and landed in the flower garden next door it would be kept by the neighbor, Cartelle, who, at that time, treasured her flower garden more than the friendship of a child. The child, Lora, nor her parents were offered by this for they knew it was only a lesson of love and discipline for the actions of a thoughtless child.

This brings me to the heart of my story, what neighborhoods, friends and family are all about. The kid next door can be as important to your future and well being as your own offspring.

When you instill your values into your children, which is the way character is formed, and what good parenting is all about, you are shaping his or her future. The neighbor next door, or next block is doing the same thing with their children and no matter what their beliefs are, they are being instilled in their offspring. When these kids mix, and mingle, and squabble over winning or losing, and then go happily into one or the other's house or yard and settle down they are proving those of different backgrounds and beliefs can get along even if they do not always agree. Prejudice has not entered into their world of innocence as their differences are forgotten and lasting friendships take root.

We know tradition is handed down from one generation to the next, this is true of the uneducated as well as the highly educated, and the gun-totin', liquor drinking, kid from up the hollow or from over the mountain, is living up to his upbringing the same as the young man, or lady, descended from generations of educators. Neither of these extremes should interfere with the growth or well being of the community. When the less educated rub elbows with the highly educated and common sense learns with scientific facts there is bound to be some reaction from each but when they sit down and reason things out a strong and healthy community will be the result. And all problems aren't solved in the board room. Mixing at social affairs or at church is one of the best ways to get to know and understand people from a different background. One may even run into the kid from next door who you thought was a pest and find out he or she had qualities you never dreamed of.

I had a very pleasant experience when I was left a widow and a neighbor's young daughter came to my rescue. Sandra (Gail) Renner, the little kid I had watched grow up, but really had not paid much attention to, recognized the album I was in and told her mom she was moving in with me till I got used to being alone. I had not asked her to, it was her own decision made through her compassion and love of people who were hurting. A relationship began that has seen me through many trials and she is still very dear to me. She will always be "Baby Gail" to me ever though she is now a grown woman, and I am "mommy Z" to her. Our difference in age has never been a barrier to our relationship. The long evenings of playing tri-ominos or cards or walking hand in hand in the moonlight while I reminisced about the past or she told of her high school escapades was a learning experience for both of us. Now this is what good communities are all about. Helping one another when there is a need. Thanks Gail, for your love and help in my time of need.

When I met Lora and she told of her love and relationship to the neighbor next door it brought back all these memories of my experience with the kid just over the hill. This neighbor who kept the errant ball learned a lesson of love when her deeds of discipline were returned with the love she is now receiving. She is widowed, childless, and in a nursing home, but Lora and her family have made her one of them and treat her as such by visiting her regularly and allowing her to talk about whatever interests her, as well as keeping her up on what is going on in the world of today. She has become the symbol of a surrogate grandmother to Lora and her siblings. Her part in this real-life drama is sharing her life with Lora by willing to her the old trunks with the treasures of her life tucked inside.

Anita Bradley of Mt. Vernon and teacher George Isaacs

Adult Learning Center/ School on Wheels

"Everyone needs to go back to school and get their education," says Anita Bradley, an adult learner enrolled at CAP Adult Learning Center. "When I was a teenager, I thought I knew everything, here I am 36 years old and going back to school."

Anita started in the GED program in October 1993. She proudly points out that she has never missed a day and has many certificates for perfect attendance. She comes to the learning center five days a week for four hours each day. Her teacher, George Isaacs describes Anita as "hardworking and dedicated." Anita says she enjoys going to school. She says that she always loved books when she was growing up. She also has an interesting hobby of collecting old books and newspapers.

When asked to share some of what she has learned Anita says, she has "learned a lot that her reading has improved and she learned how to do fractions. One thing she says was of value to her was learning how to be a better listener. "You learn more if you can listen better," Anita says. Anita lives in Mt. Vernon with her husband, Billy and one son who is in high school. When asked about plans after GED, Anita says that her main goal now is to get the diploma, than she will set new goals. She also adds, "Thank goodness for CAP. Because of CAP a lot of people have had a second chance."

Rockets lose to 7th-ranked Blue Devils; come from behind for win over Pirates

In a rebuilding year, the Rockets knew they would have to take it on the chin from the older, bigger teams and they did just that at Henry Clay Monday afternoon in their season opener.

The senior-heavy Blue Devils feasted on Rocket pitching and fielding errors and sent the Rockets home with a 21-8 drubbing.

The high-point of the game for the Rockets came in the top of the first inning which featured a triple by Scottie Cotton and four runs, two unearned, for the Rockets. It was the last time the Rockets would be ahead as the Blue Devils came to back in the bottom of the first and batted around twice in the process of scoring 17 runs. The inning included a three-run homer by Blue Devil Scott Hodges.

Henry Clay scored in each of the next three innings and were ahead 21-4 going into the bottom of the fifth. At that point, they made several line-up changes and the Rockets were able to put four more runs on the board, two on walk-ins and two on a single by Jared Singleton.

Scottie Cotton took the loss for the Rockets. Chad Severance pitched well in relief for the Rockets the last 2 1/3 innings.

Tuesday, at Rockcastle, it looked as though the story would be the same only by a lesser margin when the Rockets, except for a brief 2-1 lead, trailed the Berea Pirates the entire game.

The Pirates took an early 1-0 lead in the top of the first and the Rockets were unable to retaliate.

In the second, the Pirates couldn't put any more runs on the board and the Rockets Derek Tompkins came up with a two-run homer to put the Rockets in front 2-1.

Following a hit batter, a walk and an infield error, the Pirates managed to push three runs across and take a 4-2 lead into the fourth.

Neither team was able to score in the fourth inning but, in the fifth, the Pirates scored one and added another run in the 6th for a 6-2 lead over the Rockets. However, the home team came in the bottom of the sixth. Jared Singleton worked a walk, David King rapped a single, Chris Bishop walked and the bases were loaded for Jason Childress who came through with a single to right field which scored two runs and the Rockets were down by two, 6-4, going into the final inning.

In the top of the 7th, Brooks Ingram, who had come on in relief of George Durham in the 6th, set the Pirates down 1-2-3.

Coach Ryan Riddle inserted Travis Anderkin into the line-up as the lead off hitter and he took a 1-0 pitch over second base. One out later, Jared Singleton was hit by a pitch for his third time on base. King took a walk and Jimmy Houk rapped a single, scoring Anderkin and pulling the Rockets within one at 6-5.

Derek Tompkins then stepped to the plate, on a 2-2 pitch, hit a single, scoring two runs for the 7-6 win.

Sophomore lefty George Durham turned in a strong performance from the mound but Ingram got the win.

Today (Thursday) the Rockets travel to Lynn Camp for a varsity and jayvee game; they are at Lincoln Co. Friday and travel to Corbin Saturday for a doubleheader.

Monday, the Rockets square off at home against Estill Co. for a varsity, Jayvee game and are then off until Thursday when they will travel to Knox Central for varsity/jayvee games.

 said violence in schools was the number one concern of a lot of Ken-

Among other things that Forgy

 Kentucky has one of the highest tax

Humorist Jerry Clower to perform two shows at Renfro Valley April 22

Grand Ole Opry star and world-renowned humorist Jerry Clower returns to the Renfro Valley Entertainment Center in Renfro Valley, for two evening performances on Saturday, April 22. A native of Amite County, Mississippi, Jerry was named "Missis-Comic of the Year" for nine consecutive years by the major Country Music trade and fan publications. He is the author of three top-selling books: Ain't God Good!, Let the Hammer Down, and Life Ever Laughter. His first comedy album was titled "Jerry Clower from Yazoo City, Mississippi, Talkin'". With a dozen chart-busting LPs to his name, he is one of the leading album sellers for MCA Records.

He has made guest appearances on top television and radio programs and receives more requests than he can handle for engagements as a guest speaker and professional entertainer. Performances are at 7 and 9 p.m. in the New Barn. Prices are $13.50 for preferred seating, $12.50 for regular seating. Prices include a $50 handling fee.

Renfro Valley's New Barn holds 1,500 seats. Both performances promise to be sell-outs.

Pam Perry Clark back at Renfro Valley

by Anne Brosnan

The fans of Pam Perry Clark will find her onstage at Renfro now, every Saturday night. She has decided to "go solo," a move that allows us to see the amazing talents Pam has as a versatile performer. After ten years on the road as a member of The New Coon Creek Girls and the country band Wild Rose, Pam has returned to the Valley to become a member of The Renfro Valley Barn Dance.

Along with the solo performances on the Renfro Valley stage, she has completed her first solo album, "Will of the Wind." The album has seen great success since it came out in 1994, and Pam has taken it all in stride, with plans already in the making for a new album. Most of all, she's glad to be able to settle down.

"Most people don't realize it, but life on the road is really hard. When you come home, you're not really home," said Pam. "When I would be home, I'd have to go down to the studio all the time, or be dealing with the label."

When she joined Wild Rose in 1988, their success as a country group took them across the country and the world. Through tours and performances in Europe, Brazil, and Japan, she has gained fans world-wide. Now, working with International Artists Management, her plans for the future will not disappoint her many fans. She's working on new songs - new albums - and doing it all with obvious love for her work.

Pam's song-writing skills are evident in the many titles she has recorded with Wild Rose and The New Coon Creek Girls. Three of the songs on her album "Will of the Wind," were self-written. Pam's roots are in bluegrass music, but like a lot of good musicians, she gathers the best sounds from all kinds of music.

"I have two daughters, and they like the kind of music that's popular now. I can listen to that, and enjoy it as much as the older songs," she said.

Her decision to play music came from being inspired by her grandfather. "I used to hear people (in my family) talk about how my grandfather played music and entertained people...I thought to myself, 'I want to do that too.'"

When her mother bought her a guitar and started taking her to bluegrass festivals, she soon grew proficient at singing and picking guitar as well as mandolin. Her friendship with banjo player Pam Gadd led to the two becoming members of The New Coon Creek Girls for the first time in 1985. She followed Pam Gadd to Wild Rose in 1988, a band which then became the first all-female band to land a major country record deal when they signed with Capitol. Pam is proud of the fact that on Wild Rose's albums, the women in the band did all their own instrumentation in the studio, which is unusual for Nashville studio recording, where house bands normally do the back-up breaks on the records. After learning guitar, Pam progressed to mandolin, and is also proficient with banjo and fiddle. In 1992, she rejoined The New Coon Creek Girls and continued playing and singing with them until the end of 1994.

Pam, who is the wife of Terry Clark, and daughter-in-law of Old Joe Clark, now makes her home in Berea, KY. She will be performing on both the Saturday Night Barn Dance as well as the Friday Night Jamboree, where she will be a soloist. Her combined talents as a vocalist and instrumentalist make her one of country music's most valuable female performers - her experience as an entertainer makes her an outstanding addition to the Renfro Valley stage.

Pam Perry Clark, a former member of the all-female band Wild Rose and of the New Coon Creek Girls, has joined the Renfro Valley Barn Dance cast.

Opening Night...

Kallea Robinson, youngest member of the Barn Dance, always performs her clogging numbers with a smile. Kallea is the daughter of Kenny and Sherri Robinson of Mt. Vernon.

Dear Editor,
One thing I have learned as Governor is that bad news usually travels a lot faster than good news. As I talk with Kentuckians I am often surprised that so many people don't know about some of the good things that are going on right now that affect Rockcastle County and the rest of the Commonwealth. That's why I'd like to share some of those with you here.
Kentucky currently enjoys its lowest period of unemployment in more than two decades. The latest statistics show Kentucky's unemployment rate for February was 5.5 percent, the lowest February rate in 21 years. That compares with the national unemployment rate of 5.9 percent. In fact, for 36 consecutive months, Kentucky's unemployment rate has been below the national average.
In 1994 Kentucky's annual unemployment rate was 5.4 percent, the lowest in more than 20 years and approximately 20 years ago that was approximately 20 percent. Compare that with the 1994 national average of 6.1 percent, and you'll see Kentucky is doing much better than the rest of the country.

The problem is, the jobs aren't evenly distributed throughout the state. In Rockcastle County, the 1994 unemployment rate was 7.2 percent. That's why our Economic Development Cabinet has been diligently working to attract new companies to Kentucky and to keep existing businesses here. So far, the record of the Economic Development Cabinet speaks for itself: More new jobs were created in 1994 in Kentucky than in any year in history. In addition, more than 177,000 more people are employed today than when we took office. People in the Economic Development Cabinet are determined to continue to attract new jobs to the rest of the state that need them the most.

Our economic development efforts are attracting national attention. According to Site Selection Magazine, only two states created more new jobs than Kentucky for every one million in population from 1992-1994. Kentucky also ranked nationally in the number of new facilities and expansions during this period.

More people with jobs means more people are paying taxes. This has helped Kentucky achieve its best financial outlook in modern times. We will pass along to the next administration a "rainy day" fund of $100 million, the largest state reserve in the nation. This is especially noteworthy when you recall that when we took office, the state's finances were in such sad shape that for two years we had to lead sending out tax refund checks because they would have bounced!

Letters to the Editor

While we have more people working in the private sector, we have fewer people working in state government. We have downsized government, eliminating more than 1700 permanent full-time positions through attrition. This has saved the Commonwealth more than $40 million a year.

All of these facts, taken together, gave us the ability to call taxes. As you may recall, we called a special session of the legislature in January to phase out the inheritance tax and the tax on private pensions. When the tax cuts are fully implemented, we will have gone from having the highest inheritance tax in the country to being tied for the lowest; and we will have eliminated pension taxes for the vast majority of Kentuckians. Recent polls show that a majority of Kentuckians have confidence in their government. I wanted to share your good news to let you know that your confidence is well-placed. I also want you to know that we will not stop working until the last minute of the last day we're in office. Kentuckians deserve nothing less.

With best regards, I am
Sincerely,
Bretton C. Jones

Dear Editor,
RE: "Why is the cost of fertilizer so high" from page 30 of the April 1995 issue "Progressive Farmer."

I would like to suggest with plastic-mesh netting on the surfaces of local creek, river, lake, etc beds at the time of the water run-offs from the spring rains, a little of the fertile, mineral rich muds which abound more at the beds of those waterways may be trapped.

With a large vacuum cleaner motor, a portable power supply, etc., fit as a wet-dry vacuum these trapped muds may be vacuumed up to prehaps load a large dump truck or farm wagons at that time to perhaps do a quick mineral soil check for the presence of harmful minerals to plant crops, to haul these muds of the right minerals to farm croplands, perhaps reverse the vacuum hoses to broadcast these fertile muds over croplands to re-fertilize these croplands of minerals which have been washed away to top soil erosion or perhaps have much better crop yields from the spring plantings and it may not be that hard to put these muds into molds and with straw added perhaps make low cost adobe bricks to use as a building material for lower cost housing construction.

Now because of environmental regulations no new fertilizer plants have been built in the United States in 5 years and as it is socially and politically correct we export the bulk of our fertilizer production to so called third world countries and import about 40 percent of our fertilizers from Russia and/or other countries of the former Soviet Union to where the United States consumers is also subsidizes higher costs of food crops for the United Nations to try to build a socialist world topia.

Dear Editor,
I am writing this letter concerning the estate of the late Lefter Lamb. I would like to ask whoever it is that is spreading lies about what is going on concerning the estate to please get your facts straight. Not taking the time to get your facts straight can sure cause a lot of hurt in a family that is already about to fall apart. So I would like to fill you in on the truth. First of all I would like to say I am not trying to break the will, it is the way Dad wanted it. That's the way I want it to stay.

Next I'm not suing anyone trying to take their home, as you seem to be telling. Only thing I am doing is being the land sold. Now if you will give me just a few minutes and read my copy of the will you can see all states it can be sold. So by law it is my legal right as one of his heirs to put it up for sale. You had the same right I did, you could have put it up for sale but I guess you didn't want the trouble. So when I went ahead and got a lawyer, it seems as if some of you are mad saying things that are not true and sure causing trouble and hard feelings in the family. (You know who you are.) Now if you want to know what is going on please stop carrying gossip just pick up your phone or stop by and talk to the lawyer, he is a real nice person and will answer all your questions and tell you what he is doing, that way there will be no reason for all the lies - carrying tales - gossiping - making threats and causing trouble in the family.

You will know the truth and the truth will set you free.

Dear Editor,
This April is Child Abuse Prevention Month. Each of us should make a personal commitment to find ways to end this tragedy. Last year more than 100 children were reported abused in Rockcastle County alone with 139 abuse cases substantiated.

The National Committee to Prevent Child Abuse, The Kentucky Council on Child Abuse, The Department for Social Services and The S.T.E.P. (Students Together Encouraging Peers) Club at the high school are calling on local organizations - professional, business, religious, volunteer and educational - to end abuse in their communities. We are asking individuals including parents, teachers, counselors, social workers, neighbors, friends, business owners and relatives to make a personal commitment to intervene where necessary to prevent child maltreatment.

We should each take a step to assure that growing up is a safe journey for all children. Here are a few suggestions: give a stressed parent you know a "breather"; encourage an abuser to seek counseling, reach out to a family in need.

Today In Banking

Some "Straight Talk" On Banking Today... That Can Make Banking Better For You...

Prime Rate

On occasion a customer will ask us why it is that our interest rate is higher than the prime rate that is often referred to in the news.

The prime rate is the rate that big city banks offer to large corporate customers such as Standard Oil or DuPont. Prime rate is usually given to these customers for very short term loans.

So when you hear on the news that a large city bank has lowered their prime rate, realize the conditions or terms which enable them to loan at prime rate.

Our lending rates are determined by our "costs of funds." When our costs go down our rates go down, and vice versa.

We try to put our patients at ease . . .

Radiology has a unique function in the hospital. At Rockcastle Hospital, technology is the key to helping diagnose a disease or injury. But, it takes specially trained personnel to utilize this technology.

In the eight years I've been here, Radiology has changed dramatically. It's a much larger department now and we've added new diagnostic services, including mammography and our own CAT scanner.

When patients come in, they're often scared, so we try to explain the procedure and answer their questions. We're like family here, we want our patients to be comfortable.

I think taking time to talk to each patient and being polite is important. "We really care about people at Rockcastle Hospital."
