Trial delay unfair to family

By: Richard Anderkin

By: Richard Anderkin You have to wonder these days about some of the decisions being made by our circuit court judges. Last week Circuit Judge William Cain delayed the murder trial of Jerry Lee Denny, again, this time not even setting a specific date, but just a date to set a date. Ridiculous. In an order siened by the Judge to set a date. Ridiculous. In an order signed by the Judge on Oct. 2, the day the trial was sup-pose to start, he said he was delaying the trial because of "prejudicial pre-trial news coverage in the local news-nary."

We believe the judge was reach-ing at best. The story that appeared September 21 was short and only the third story to appear in the Signal since the shooting took place in June of 1993.

Nowhere in that story did we say that Jerry Denny was guilty of mur-der, the crime he is charged with, we did use court records of our set. did use court records of sworn state-ments which are public record. Those tikely a delay of over two and half years, that too is ridiculous. We certainly have no idea if dray, Leo Denny is guilly, but we do know that his day in court should have come a long time ago, it simply is not fair for the victim's family to have to wait, before they know the outcome, either way. Maybo Judge Cain should ask some of his peers in other counties what they do about pre-trial news coverage, because all newspapers has held in other counties none the less. Maybe he can find out their secret for overning such motions. Then last week Cirucit Judge Dan Venters lowered the bond of Gary McKinney who is accused of brutally murdering his wife, and her two small children tals Spring in Pulaski County. Whistles

The other day, breaking into m bughts as I was meditating an thoughts as I was meditating and trying to finish an afghan I had been working on, the noon time whistle aroused me. For some strange rea-son, this was the first time I had really "heard" it. Although it has announced the noon hour every day since I have lived here and I have been aware of I still hadri "heard" it. thoughts lived here and I have been aware of it, I still hadn't 'heard' it. There is a difference, you know, in hearing a sound and hearing the message it is giving. Anyway, this sound of a whistle blowing aroused memories of other whistles that have been a part of my life for as long as I can r binny me tor as tong as tear trenem-ber. As we all know, all whistles aren't blown at non to announce it is mid-day, or time to eat. There are some whistles blown as a warning so beaver of crossing the tracks or getting in its way. Or the long wailing whistle of a or the index of the tracks or getting in its way. Or the long wailing whistle of a night - thave always wondred what they were blowing at and why the sound, often coming from miles away, was so plaintive and awakened in me longings of urayeling to far away places. Those old time engineers pulling the rope attached to the whistle

The Mt. Ver

pulling the rope attached to the whistle could play a tune on them or make them cry as they rolled over the mountains or plans heading for a destination known only to them. Then there was the short frantic dister danger. I remember as a child the chilling sound of one being blown when there was an accident at the steel mill close to where we lived. One day when I heard this frighten-ing blowing of the whistle and knew there had been an accident, I had a foreboding of it being reservous than others and user enough it was. One of my best friend's faher, who operated a crane at the mill, was operated a crane at the mill, was killed that day and the blowing of the whistle was anounce ing the accident that took his life. The mourful sound of a whistle blowing when a steam boat was approaching dam number 8 on the Ohio River, which we also lived close to, aroused other feelings, those of adventure. This long drawnout "whoo ooh" was a welcome sound to those of us who loved the river and the big steam boats that plied the waters between Pittsburgh, Pa. and New Or-

Back then when one took at rip by boat, it waart, called a cruise, it was simply a con-venient and pleasant way to get from Pitsburgh to any port on the Phio or Mississippi Pitver, althe way to New Orleans. And, when these whistles amounce their arrival, it was excit-ing to me for there was no celling who might be on that boat and where they might be on that boat and where they were from, or to where they were going. Now whistles announcing dinner Now wristles announcing unner time, or from factories and trains and boats weren't the only kind of whistles I recall. Somewhere in the back of my memory bank, I can hear the turmoil of a multitude of whistles blowing at of a multitude of whistles blowing at one time and people shouting and flags waving from every house top. "The war is over" was being shouted, and all whistles as well as every bell

Ings waving from every nouse op, The war is over " was being should, and all whistles as well as every bell in town was being blown or rung frantically to their highest pitch. This time they were ringing out the good news of peace on earth once again. Then there was another whistling. This there was another whistling. This there was another every one could whistle some kind of tune And these that couldn't would free And these that couldn't would free And these that couldn't would free And at not bath enriced to whistle and that was also tuncless but he got pleasure of all rules. Missed field goal in final minutes gives Rockets 15-13 victory

By: Richard Anderkin The Rockcastic County Rockess are two and 0 in district play after they barely escaped at Corbin Friday inght with a 15-13 victory. The Redhounds proved to be the Rockest toughestopponent of theyear gaining 315 yards on offense, more than double any other Rocket toppo-nent, but more importantly the Redhounds had a chance most teams do not, a chance to win with just over two minutes to play.

In evolution of the same course as would take the same course as more acceler wins, the Rockets get more Rocket wins, the Rockets get apost Rocket wins, the Rockets get rength and stammina, they wear their opponents down in the second half for the easy victory. But, the Redhounds had different plans. Trailing 15-12 with about five-minutes to play be Redhounds took the ball on their own 30 yard line and proceeded to march to the Rocket-wo yard line where they stalled after linebacker David Coffey and defen-sive cackle Eddie Todd threw the Corbin back for the loss. On fourth down the Redhounds attempted a 25 yard field goal, that statig just barely to the right to seal the Rockets victory, their sixth in seven games this season. Head coach Tom Larkey said last week that he felt Corbin was the toughest opponent on his team's showed why. The Redhoundsfound themselves down 13-0 early in the third period when they ran a double reverse flea-flicker that caught Jarred Singleton off guard. The defensive back came up to play the run when wide receiver

Attention: All Women 35 Years of Age and Older.

Current statistics indicate that one of nine American women will develop breast cancer in her lifetime. Mammography screening has become an important tool in the tight against breast cancer. The American Cancer Society recommends a baseline mammogram at age 35 and screening mammograms every one or two years for women age 40 to 50. After 50 years of age they recommend routine annual screenings. The American Cancer Society has declared October Threast Cancer Awareness Month. For the month of October, the Rockcastle Hospital is offering screening mammograms for the low price of $65.00. This includes the Radiologist fee for interpretation. We have an accredited G.E. Senographe machine and our technologist Janice Mullins, is certified in mammography. For an appointment call 256-2195, Extension 5012. This offer will not be extended into the month of November. offer will not be extended into the month of November.
