Consumer Product Safety Commission & K-Mart Corporation announce shirt recall

By Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

In cooperation with the U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC), the K-Mart Corporation of Troy, Michigan is recalling 11,756 men's cotton fleece shirts. The shirts violate the Federal Flammable Fabrics Act and pose a serious risk of burn injuries.

The men's long sleeve, button-down, 100% cotton shirts were available in four colors: burgundy, hunter green, dark blue and gray; and available in four sizes: small, medium, large and extra large. The shirts, which were made in Korea, have "RN 42000" and "Northwest Territory" printed on sewn-in labels at the neck. The shirts' hang tags read, "Rugged Sportswear Northwest Territory", along with style number 8025, item number 8311, and the size. K-Mart stores sold the shirts nationwide from September to December 1995 for $19.99 each. Consumers should immediately stop wearing these shirts and return them to any K-Mart store for a refund. For more information, consumers should call their local K-Mart store.

K-Mart learned of the shirts' flammability from a customer and reported to CPSC following their laboratory testing.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission protects the public from the unreasonable risk of injury or death from 15,000 types of consumer products under the agency's jurisdiction. To report a dangerous product or a product-related injury and for information on CPSC's fax-on-demand service, call CPSC's hotline at (800) 638-2772 or CPSC's teletypewriter at (800) 638-8270.

Controlled calving season.

By Tom Mills
Co. Ext. Agent for Agriculture

Why should beef farmers be concerned with developing a scheduled or controlled calving season?

Surveys show that two out of three beef herds in our state round calving. Of those herds, 40% of their calves are born in June through August or the summer months. Calves born in summer months can be expected to weigh over 100 pounds lighter at weaning than those dropped at other times. Other reasons are related to a herd's management and productivity.

By following a controlled, seasonal calving program, better care can be given cows at calving time. Percent calf crop is the major economic factor in a cow-calf operation and care at calving time affects percent calf crop. It is very difficult to properly check cows which are on a year-round calving season.

Herd health and management is facilitated. There are many jobs which are important to the health and management of a herd which are more likely to be properly done if your cows are on a controlled calving season. Some of these practices are vaccination, deworming, castration, identification, de-worming, and weaning. If a farmer can perform all these jobs at one time, it is much more likely that they will be done and the labor requirement will be much less. Pregnancy testing and culling open cows can greatly influence percent calf crop and herd profits. However, it cannot be conveniently carried out with year-round calving.

Brood cow nutrition can be improved. Winter feeding of the brood cow is the most expensive phase of cow-calf production. If some of the cows are dry and some are nursing calves during the winter, the herd cannot be fed in the most efficient manner. Since cows nursing calves require at least 50% more protein than dry cows, neither group can be fed properly if they are running together.

Marketing or stocker-finisher operations are improved. A calf crop which is uniform in age and size can be marketed to a better advantage. Large uniform groups of calves will usually bring several cents per pound more than those sold individually. If calves are uniform in age, they will also fit into on-the-farm stocker or feeding programs.

Culling and selection of replacements based on production records can be better accomplished. To make meaningful comparisons among brood cows, calves must be born within a 90 to 120 day period. One of the main criteria for culling cows is the relative performance of their calves. Accurate comparisons between cows cannot be made if the calving season is too extended. Acceptable performance implies not only weaning weight, but also that a cow produce a calf each 12 months.

How Does a Farm Start Controlled Calving Season?

In most herds with a year-round calving season, a natural calving concentration already exists. Nutrition is the major factor responsible for brood cows cycling and conceiving. Since pastures are usually at their peak of quality in spring and early summer, plus weaner conditions are more favorable for breeding, a natural concentration of calving may occur in late winter and spring (March, April). No system of getting on a controlled breeding program can completely eliminate the delaying of some cows from their current calving schedule. However, by taking advantage of the natural concentration in a herd, the problem can be minimized.

A system for converting from year-round to a 90-day controlled calving season over a period of three years would present less loss and fewer problems than to try to convert in one year. The following steps are suggested for getting on a controlled breeding system when a natural spring concentration exists.

- Build a good, strong bull pen or well-fenced bull pasture. An electric fence, in addition to regular fence will likely be needed.
- Remove bull from herd. If a natural concentration of calving exists, remove the bull within 30 days after the first calf is born. In small herds with December and January calves this year, you may still start this program by using Prostaglandins that cause cattle to cycle again. Be sure the bull lot is ready and in use. The first season will require the longest use of the bull lot. After a calving season is formed, 40 days in the bull lot is all that is necessary.

- Put bulls back with the herd so that you decide when calving season will be. For a season beginning March 1st, bulls should be placed with cows on May 20th.
- Late calvers can be handled two ways. Culling July and August calving cows may be the easiest way to concentrate a calving season. Some farmers may choose to move these to a fall herd. However, keeping two calving seasons can be difficult. Over a period of years, adding heifers to calve first will help concentrate the calving season even more.
- Start breeding replacement heifers 20 to 30 days ahead of the final long-range planned breeding date for your herd (May 1).
- By using a bull lot, adding heifers to calve first, and culling late calvers, most herds can be on a 60-day calving season within three to five years.

The ideal season would be 60 days. By starting breeding on May 20th to July 20th, calves would drop March 1st and continue over the next 60 days. Advantages of this concept are as follows: dry cows are taken through the winter and require less stored feed. Rebreding is improved by increased grazing during late spring and early summer. Herd health and other management practices can be done at one time. Calves will be grouped by size better. The feed supply of spring grass will provide higher weaning weight. Replacement heifers may be chosen from larger, older animals by performance records.

The advantages all lead to more efficient and profitable beef production.

Burley tobacco notices for the 1996 crop year are scheduled to be mailed out no later than March 15. They were first scheduled to be mailed by March 1, but due to a delay in receiving computer software, this date has been rescheduled for March 15.

Leasing of burley tobacco will begin after '96 tobacco quota notices are mailed to producers. Producers may post on our bulletin board any pounds that they have for lease and a telephone number where they can be reached if they wish to do this.

All producers who are going to be new producers for the 1996 crop year must have at least a catastrophic level of crop insurance by MARCH 15. This is for new producers only. Producers who already have carried this insurance will be carried over into the 1996 crop year. The $50 fee will be due when you report your crops in June/July. If you are not growing any crops in 1996, you will need to cancel your insurance contract by MARCH 15. This is to insure that you are not charged the fifty dollar fee.

If you have bought or sold any land, the FSA office needs to be notified and the purchaser needs to bring in a deed so that we may change the records over to the new owner. We do not get land changes from the courthouse.

Some changes have taken place with the conservation program for 1996. We can no longer cost share on SL1 practices (General Seeding) nor SL6 practices (Ponds, dugouts, pipelines, tanks). We do have other practices available for cost share. If you are interested, contact the office for more information.

Dairy Refund deadline in MARCH 15. If you wish to file to receive your assessment back, please come in by this date.

Effective January 13, 1996, President Clinton declared a major disaster in the State of Kentucky, based on damages and losses caused by the blizzard of 1995, which occurred on January 5 through January 12, 1996. As a result of this disaster, the entire State was declared eligible for Federal disaster assistance, including Farm Service Agency (FSA) emergency (EM) loans for eligible family farmers.

EM applications will be received through September 13, 1996 for physical and production losses, and applications pending on that date may be processed and completed.

Test results indicate improvement in schools

By: Richard Anderkin
Rockcastle County schools are continuing on the right path to academic excellence, according to Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond.

Hammond said that test results from last year's KIRIS test showed improvement at all county schools. The Rockcastle County High School, which has been categorized by the Kentucky Department of Education as a school in crisis, also showed enough gain in test scores, that they are no longer listed as a school in crisis.

Brodhead Elementary School had the highest test scores once again, while all three elementary schools and the middle school are currently listed as schools that will receive

Trio arrested

Three persons were arrested Saturday when they drove a vehicle into a field "turning do-nuts."

Brian Phillips of Rt. 3, Mt. Vernon was charged with driving under the influence, criminal mischief, criminal trespass and distributing alcohol to a minor, police reported.

Tracy Phillips was charged with alcohol intoxication, criminal trespass and distribution of alcohol to a minor, according to Deputy Sheriff Randall Reynolds. Brian and Tracy Phillips are brother and sister, Reynolds said.

A juvenile in the car was charged with possession of alcohol by a minor and criminal trespass.

All three are out on bond, police reported. Brian Phillips posted 10 percent of $5,000 bond, Tracy Phillips posted 10 percent of $2,000 bond, Deputy Sheriff Nathaniel Price investigated.

monetary rewards, if they maintain their scores for next year.

Brodhead also showed the most improvement from a year ago.

Hammond said that rewards for schools are based on a two-year average and that nothing will be defined until this year's results are in.

"It is hard to compare last year's scores with previous year's because the state department has adjusted some guidelines for the scores so they could get a more accurate average of what our schools should be doing," he said. "However it is quite obvious that all of our schools improved on their test scores from a year ago," he said. "We were pleased about the better scores at the high school, but there is still a lot of room for improvement there, but the staff at the high school is working very hard to continue on the upward scale," he said.

The high school was listed as a successful candidate, while all the other schools in the system are listed as reward candidates.

"We also did very well when you compare our schools to other schools in region 6. The average scores of the grade schools and the middle schools were higher than the regional average and the high school was only 1/4 point lower than the regional average."

The grade school scores and the middle school scores were also higher

Bowling convicted of trying to kill Ricky Smith

It took a Rockcastle County Circuit Court jury only 30 minutes last Wednesday to convict a man, already on death row, of trying to kill a Rockcastle County man in February 1989.

Ronnie Bowling, 26, of Burning Springs had already been convicted of killing two men in Laurel County in 1989. One of those victims was Marvin Hensley, 48, of Rockcastle County, a well known local preacher.

On February 25, 1989, Bowling pulled into Smith's Burr Sunoco gas station and asked for a job, before he and Smith had a shoot-out that slightly injured Bowling.

Bowling was later arrested after a high speed chase that ended at his Clay County home.

Smith gave a description of Bowling and his car to state police.

Police said the gun Bowling used that morning in Rockcastle County was the same gun he used to kill the two men in Laurel County.

Smith, who still owns and operates the gas station at Burr postively identified Bowling during the two day trial.

Senters murder trial scheduled for Monday

The murder trial of Paul Senters of Livingston is scheduled to begin Monday in Rockcastle Circuit Court. Senters, 30, is charged with beating his six-month old son to death in February of 1993.

Buster Wayne Senters died in April of 1993 after he had been hospitalized for over two months at the University of Kentucky Medical Center.

According to court records, autopsy results indicated the child died from massive head trauma.

At the time of his arrest in February, Senters was also charged with abusing Buster Wayne's twin brother Lester Paul.

As part of the condition of his bond release, Senters has been under house arrest since June 15 of last year.

Senters trial has been postponed several times over the three year period.

Tobacco markets close, prices higher, weight lower

Tobacco sales came to an end last week.

"It's been a good season for farmers' price wise, but so many of them came in short," said Danny McKinney, executive director of the Burley tobacco Growers Cooperative Association.

Farmers overall lost about 20 percent of this crop but burley prices averaged about $1.85 a pound.

Kentucky farmers sold almost 382 million pounds this season. Ken-

Streets lights get council's attention

Dryland fishing?

Two Ohio men escaped serious injury last Friday morning when they lost control of their Mazda MPV mini-van as they traveled south on Interstate 75 in Rockcastle County. Police say that Donald Lindsey apparently was not paying enough attention to what he was doing when his mini-van began to swerve from side to side causing his boat trailer to jackknife and his boat to leave the trailer. The boat landed right side up in the median, but the mini-van wasn't as lucky. Lindsey's passenger, William A. Thomason said that after the mini-van came to a stop upside down in the middle of the road, he and his fishing partner were, "hanging in the air." "Thank God we had our seat belts on," he said.

Hospital to offer jobs, training

One of the county's largest employers is preparing to offer even more jobs to Rockcastle countians, as well as training for those jobs.

Rockcastle Hospital Inc., will soon begin training classes for nursing assistants.

Fifteen people will be admitted to the first training class, which will begin at the hospital around April 1. Mrs. Betty Purcell, director of nursing at the hospital said Monday that the hospital recently received certification from the state to offer the classes. Nurse Joy Callahan, who holds a bachelor of science degree in nursing and is employed at the hospital, will teach the class.

Mrs. Purcell said that she was very excited about the opportunity the hospital is providing for local people. "We will not be able to hire all fifteen people that graduate from this class, but they will be on the state register and qualified to work at any hospital

Pitino not given fair shake in Sports Illustrated article

I joined thousands of people, from coast to coast, who refuse to read the Sports Illustrated feature that ran earlier this month about the man we call "our coach". I have enough good, objective, friends who have read it and they are dismayed. I've heard it discussed so much that I'm convinced Coach Pitino was unjustly crucified by a writer who was more interested in making a buck and selling a magazine than he was in portraying some semblance of truth and reality about Rick Pitino.

The ultimate protest to a writer is to ignore his/her written word because it doesn't justify the reading. And I believe, with all my heart, that Sports Illustrated came looking for a crucifixion piece it might use to sell magazines with no thought to balanced, editorial journalism. I believe that innocent people (especially Mrs. Pitino) were hurt and exploited in the process and I'm sure the magazine doesn't give a darn.

You don't have to pay big dollars and sleep with a street-walker to know what prostitution is all about. Nor do you have to read Sports Illustrated to realize the same. And in this case, they are absolutely one and the same.

One school of thought is that Pitino had this coming.

He is, in fact, arrogant, self-centered and greedy. Pitino makes the big bucks by exploiting his position as head coach of our beloved wildcats. He gets a base salary in the half million dollar range EACH YEAR and several hundred thousand dollars a year in kick backs or commissions from auto dealers, athletic suppliers, and the like. And nobody raises an eyebrow.

In fact the whole system is blessed and encouraged by that pious, self-righteous set of superior beings who run the major newspapers in our state. The same folks who moan and groan, belch and fart, and snort indignantly everytime it looks like a legislator has taken a dime for a cup of coffee—these same hypocrites (who have front row seats at the UK games) have no problem with Pitino, Newton and company putting millions of dollars in their pockets from companies that do business with the UK Athletic Department. Yet a couple of dozen members of the Kentucky Legislature are doing jail time for essentially the same practice.

The only difference I can see is that the General Assembly doesn't play basketball. And the seats to watch them are a lot easier to get.

At this writing the University of Kentucky is doing business with an athletic equipment company called Converse. Converse manufactures a wide range of athletic shoes as well as uniforms. Converse pays Rick Pitino many thousands of dollars above and beyond his coaching salary to have our beloved wildcats wear their shoes. Converse manufactures all the uniforms the Kats wear. The uniforms are given outright to the school, but exact replicas are sold throughout the land for $140.00 per set (Jersey & trunks).

I've taken it upon myself to get in touch with numerous companies in the cut and sew industry and determine just how much a Kentucky uniform is really worth at wholesale. Using the exact material and paying fair costs for domestic manufacturing, Kentucky Uniforms (Jersey & Trouser combo) over the last three years are worth about $21.00 a set. In volumes of more than 100 sets of the same size the price drops to $13.00. But that's wholesale.

By: Hilda Payne Gabbard

We woke two mornings to find snow had covered the land like a thick white blanket but the sun came out later in the day and chased it all away.

Now we have high winds in the daytime and for sure at night.

So March is living up to its prophesy of "When March comes in like a lion, it will go out like a meek lamb." Look for nice days with plenty of sunny weather in the last days of March. There will be kite flying and the picking of wild greens.

You can expect early gardening. Blanche Payne said she had already gotten a start by sowing tomato seeds in a small box of dirt which she sets in a sunny window and transplants to the garden later when the weather gets warmer.

Blanche treats her plants like part of the family and it pays off for that woman can grow some of the largest tomatoes while ours will look like cherries.

As we came back toward home, we stopped at Ruth and Joe Abney's house that sits on an outreach of land that shows a good view of down Clear Creek.

Joe likes to sit in the yard and look down the road at the land or sit upon the porch he has which does a lot for the scenery.

Joe can see the hills where he was raised and grew up.

The land down that creek once belonged to Gatliffs, Millers, Paynes, Owens and Everett Abney at one time.

Joe could not see Crouchers nor Gadd's land but they had been there in time and they now were gone with land being farmed by a younger generation.

Ruth came up to where Joe and John were talking as they sat on a large rock in the yard shaped like a young child's bed. Ruth had a piece of young hog's meat, the jowl part, she said someone had given her to cut up for the dogs.

I said to them, "Now anybody in the country who can feed their dogs on good hog meat sure must have things going for them. I feel like coming out and staying awhile. Wild greens are about to come out since it's coming spring. Or Ruth will be sure to have canned. Country people are said to live the best.

Joe is said to hole up pumpkins, potatoes, and cabbage for Ruth to cook on. He even has a few kumquats which can make the greatest pies as she did for my Fantasy Birthday Party, in which Richard Anderkin almost overate.

I asked Joe if he was going to have a garden, and he said, "Law that's all I can hear from my grandson, Jerry Lee who built him a new house on the hill around here. So I've played us both one. I like to get the ground turned over early. They are up on the hill here where the ground is more level."

Ruth has been ill with arthritis and has trouble with cataracts in both eyes. She and Joe are going to Lexington this week to see a doctor and have one she has operated on. I hope she gets better.

Leaving the Abney place after saying we would check on them, again, we went to the old John Payne house at the Three Forks of the road on Clear Creek.

So many of our family have lived there where Elijah Abney first lived many years ago. Now the house, and some acreage, has a new owner, Gertrude Northern. Jennie has bought the house and some land from Hoyle Miller of Florida and Whiteley City who owned all the land he bought from John Payne Heirs and has since been selling parts to others.

Now Gertrude Zennie who is a

PARSONS' SONS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and verbal anticipations from Nod's Little Acre in the Weald of Wabul, home of the late Rev. Adolphus Applechimer, long-time pastor of the Blue Moon Baptist Church in Wabul, who said to his flock more than once, "If you don't make mistakes you might live and die without ever hearing your name mentioned."

Speaking of boners, I still make my share of them, especially errors in grammar, spelling, and punctuation—in this very column. After last week's Signal had gone to press, I found three. There might have been more.

After composition, I run my article through my computer's grammar critic and spell checker. Then, after I've corrected what mistakes I can find, Nancy gives a close eye. She always sees things I don't. But even she did not spy my last week's errors.

I said all that to say this (rather Nixonian, don't you think?); it's almost impossible for a writer to see all of his or her mistakes. That is so because the writer sees on the page that which is familiar to him, that which he wants to be said. Consequently, he will miss a faux pas right in front of his eyes.

I first noticed when I taught at Broughtontown Elementary School in Lincoln County, back in the late fifties. I had to keep an attendance register. Daily records of attendance were totaled in both a horizontal column and a vertical column. And those columns had to match at the end of the month.

After a month of teaching, my columns did not agree. I doubted checked and triple checked, to no avail. The columns still did not match.

While sitting there at my desk, in a dither trying to find my error, a teacher down the hall walked in and said, "Would you take a look at my book?" I'm off, and I don't know why. Within a minute I spotted her mistake. And she spotted the discrepancy in my book to which I was oblivious.

Beloved, that "asking a friend to check" principle saved my hide when I was in graduate school, writing papers and a dissertation. John Joseph "Red Top" Owens was one of four professors on my graduate committee. And he expected error-free papers and doctoral dissertation. One poor soul told me that when he was defending his dissertation before his committee, Owens; in addition to asking several tough questions, pulled out a ruler and meticulously checked page after page to see if he (the student) had maintained a one-inch margin! Students figured that Owens figured that if a man were slip-shod in his related to John and I through the Abney's house bought the old Abney property and has decorated the rooms until I told her she should be proud of the homemaker that she shows she is, by the interesting things she has done to the inside of the rooms.

Hoyle Miller has the other yellow house once a home of John Payne. Now he wants to sell it and hopes someone would want to buy it.

My husband, John, is anxious to buy as he has always wanted to return to Clear Creek but I think I'll stay in Berea.

My youngest son, Chesley Payne Combs has gone to Las Vegas to attend an electrical meeting given by a big company who has given this for all the managers to attend. Since Cal is now the manager of the big High Voltage Maintenance Company in Erlanger, he had to go.

But I miss him so badly just knowing he is far away.

John had a birthday on March 2 and since he has been buying medicine for his heart, he doesn't have too much. When Chess came down a week or so ago, he learned his Dad was going to have to pay $139.00 to license his truck for '96.

Chess sent John a real funny birthday card and inside was a check for $150. for a birthday present. John was so relieved he almost cried.

I tell you this because I know you have trouble too so it's great to depend on the Lord. He never lets us down.

As we drove out on Clear Creek one day this week, we saw snow clinging to the banks of Scaffold Cane Hill and I wondered how long before spring would come to the land and see the green grass growing in spots but I can wait.

We eat a lot at the Dairy Queen Stuckey's Restaurant where I learned the manager, Bobby Lamb has become partner with Conley Saylor. Bobby has a cute wife who is related to the Radars around here.

I told Bobby I was kin to the Radars so he said, "Then you are kin to her, too."

She was awfully pretty, so I asked him what lies he had told her to get her to marry him.

"None for she was glad to get me but boy, she has a temper!" he laughed.

John attended the Berea Masonic Lodge Monday night where the members seemed glad to see him. He is a Past Master of this lodge.

Till next week: Real friends are those who see heart to heart when they don't see eye to eye.

Double the price for retail and you're talking $36.00 to $42.00 for these things are fair. But go to the retailer and it's $120.00 and up.

Rick gets a piece of the action. UK gets a piece of the action. C.M. Newton (who is a sales rep for Converse) gets a hefty piece of the action and I'd bet that the team equipment manager gets a piece of the action and pretty soon you're up to $160.00 or whatever they're charging for this denim nonsense. And that's the way it works. Do the math.

So do you still wonder why they change uniforms three or four times a year on Rick Pitino and company at those sporting goods stores? If you do, you have far less sense than you have money. Nor should you be overly concerned about the denim. I expect a new look by NCAA tournament time. And if you think that C.M. Newton, Rick Pitino and company are such saints, why in God's name do you believe that justice was served when all those legislators went to prison for making a buck or two on the side.

Not that they shouldn't mind you. I'd just like for someone to explain to me what the difference is. I'd especially like to hear that explanation from some editors, publishers and columnists who sit way down near the floor in the good seats behind the cheerleaders.

It's okay that they twist and squirm a bit as long as they let us know.

In the meantime Rick Pitino has done pretty much what he was paid to do and he's done it pretty well as far as I can tell. The University management and the Kentucky fans wanted a championship team. Say what you want about Coach Pitino, but it sure looks to me like he has just that.

And he's dealing with big, big egos. At least 11 men on the roster would easily be starters at any school in the country and he can only start five. Say what you want to about Pitino but the best young basketball players in the country want to play under his tutelage and any or all of them could leave/could have left in a heartbeat if they decided to. He's doing something right.

Personally believe that Rick Pitino is the best individual motivator, and team organizer that college sports has ever known. I trust the kids who make up the basketball team enough to know that he is all I believe he is. But I believe he is doing them a disfavor if they fail to become a bit more civil in common conversation than the coach. Maybe he needs to put Miss Manners on the staff.

Something good (no kidding) comes out of Washington

by: Dr. John Payne

As the politicians fight and try to shut down the government in Washington while of course still collecting their pay, we are all wondering what will come next. There is one bright spot. Que benefit not being cut, but actually expanded by your government is the availability of more immunizations for children at your local health department. Everyone knows about the routine "baby shots" given in the first 15 months of life to protect against diphtheria, tetanus, whooping cough, hemophilis and measles, mumps and german measles or rubella, and drops by mouth to prevent polio.

In addition to these lifesaving vaccines, there are now three more shots that will protect your children even more and help ensure they will grow up to vote and complain about future politicians.

1. Hepatitis B is a serious and sometimes fatal liver infection usually spread by contaminated body fluids. An effective vaccine series is available and has been given to health care workers for years. Now it is available for youth in the 12 months before they enter the sixth grade. This shot will probably be good for life and is quite safe.

2. The flu shot is now available for children under 21 years of age if they have chronic medical conditions such as asthma, heart problems etc. Check with your doctor or the health department if you are not sure if your child needs the flu shot. Flu shots are of course still being given to everyone in the older population, and to adults with special health problems.

3. The MMR or measles, mumps, and rebella shot is now required in a second dose, either at school entrance or before entering the sixth grade.

4. At last there is a chickenpox shot in this country. It has been used successfully in many other countries for years. It is given routinely to children 12 to 18 months of age. It can also be given to anyone who has not had chickenpox in the 12 months before they start the 6th grade or up to age 21 years if someone in the household has a depressed immune system and would be at big risk if exposed to chickenpox.

The chickenpox shot will be available soon in the health department and will prevent one of the most annoying and uncomfortable of childhood conditions.

All of these shots are at what soon be at your local health department at the cost of a dollar each, or free to many patients. This has got to be the greatest bargain since fresh air and sunshine. So you see your government does provide something more for you than the comedy show called "Grudlock in D.C."

writing. He was likely the same in other areas of his life.

So, when I had finished the rough draft of my dissertation, I asked two fellow graduates to read it "for mistakes." Every sentence you cited had to be thoroughly documented. And, since research back then involved what European scholars had said, you could easily misspell a name or a title. And that was very hard not to do when you dealt with German writers whose names were longer than a twelve-mile tether, let alone the titles of their works.

I corrected the mistakes my friends noted and gave my draft to a typist to put into "final form." (If only there had been word processors back then! Talk about saving time!)

Mrs. Sherwood, wife to the senior Registrar, was expected to type my work exactly as it was on the draft I gave to her. And she did just that for a fee of $300. (My dissertation, at two hundred and some pages was shorter than the average dissertation.)

The next step was xeroxing my work so as to provide a copy for each professor on my committee. The xerox machine in the library had been cleaned and set aside for only me on that day.

So, I commenced duplicating, title page, outline, etc. Then I saw it Right there on the first page of actual research was a mistake! At the very beginning of the page! It was the typist's mistake. But it was my fault for not catching it until I got to the "xerox room."

My draft began with the words "B. David Napier wrote." But Mrs. Sherwood had typed "B. David Napier wrote." That had to be changed! Misspelling an author's name you didn't dare do! So, I lost some "xerox" time looking up my typist and getting that page retyped. She thought I had misspelled "David," when "David" was correct.

Well, to shorten my typist tale, let me say that I successfully defended my dissertation. Even got an "A" on it! But after three professors had led the examination room, also known as "The Tiers Terrace," Dr. Owens said, "Good job, John. Here's a list of things you might want to check before giving your work to Deering (the librarian)."

Dear friends, I could not believe it for a moment or so, but he had noted seventeen errors!

It's like some astute soul said, "There are two people who can tell you the truth about yourself: a friend who loves you dearly, or an enemy who hates your guts." Then there's that line that goes, "...and most pitiable of all is he who does not know that he does not know."

Doris! I must take leave of today's mistake and get to work on my next award-winning book, entitled The Inverted Colon: a Common Punctuation Error.

The council has two alternatives presented to the city by Kentucky Utilities.

Alternative one is to start to change all lights to vapor lights and defer the cost for two years.

Mayor Gary R. Cromer said he would check into it to determine the most economy for the city.

Alternative two was to upgrade all the street lights as necessary if it would be more economical to change over that way.

There is no date when changes would be made if any.

The Council did vote to change the location of a light on Lovell Lane to the corner of Lovell Lane and Lovell Court, saying that's where the light should have been in the first place.

Police Chief Bill Mink gave the council the February police report. It showed:

Citations issued: 62, total charges, 107; DUI arrests: 9; calls for service, 199; accidents: 10; other agency assists: 37; motorist assists: 11; criminal cases opened: 9.

The Mt. Vernon Fire Department made 21 fire runs.

Burley Crop

tucky tobacco growers sold 81,849,853 pounds of burley or more than $700 million.

In Kentucky, Maysville had the highest average price for the season of $186.56/short 33 million pounds sold.

Cynthiana was second with an average price of $180.08 on 20 million pounds sold.

Lexington sold more than 52.6 million pounds, best in the state, for an average price of $185.52.

Shelbyville was second in pounds sold of 27 million for an average of $185.62.

London, Somerset and Danville were all in the $185 class.

The federal government last month said the basic quota would increase 15.4 percent next season.

The quota will be 633.8 million pounds. The increase will be the largest since 1991, when it increased 20 percent. The quota dropped to total of 27.7 percent between 1992 and 1994 and increased 1.2 percent last year.

McKinney said demand is high for burley. Manufacturers met the support price, he noted.

That means no burley went to the surplus pool, he explained. In the 1994-95 season, buyers rejected 9.6 percent of the crop.

While many farmers complained about what they considered low prices and excessive losses, McKinney eyed the same sentiments are heard every year.

In the end, he said, "It was just a normal season for tobacco."

It should be noted that some farmers lost a lot of tobacco to disease and drought, this year.

Retired teachers meet

By: Elнора Burke
 The regular bi-monthly meeting of Rockcastle County Retired Teachers was held Monday evening, February 26, 1996, at the County Middle School.

The meeting was opened by Sue French because Gatliff Craig, our president was unable to be there.

An inspiring devotion was given by Kathleen Stevens. She talked about "Happiness on Earth and Treasures in Heaven." Four steps were given as to how this could be accomplished.

- (1) Give someone a pat on the back.
- (2) Be sensitive to another's needs.
- (3) Let someone lean on you.
- (4) Be patient with others.

I'm sure ours would be a happier, better world if we practiced more of the above.

Eighteen people were in attendance we had expected more. A notice had been run in the Mt. Vernon Signal encouraging retirees to come because Mrs. Virginia Shaw, KIRS

President, was meeting with us to discuss insurance proposals before the state legislature. Mrs. Shaw very ably discussed our insurance coverage, mail order drug program, and other points of interest. We really appreciate the effort she made to be with us.

Perhaps some of you like the retiree who said, "It doesn't matter whether I attend a meeting or not-if anybody gets anything-we all will." Let me remind you again, your annuity is protected by law, but your insurance is not. What you "get" may not be what you need or expect. So attend a meeting, talk to someone, let your voice be heard. If you have questions you might call 1-800-551-7979. This is the KRTA office, ask for Lucy Eddins, the insurance representative.

Sue French reminded us of the State Association meeting coming up in Louisville, April 16 & 17. Ashley Bray and Sarah Faye Hamm were selected as delegates to this meeting. If you are interested in going contact Mrs. French.

Membership report was given by Ashley Bray. We're still up there with 96.5% but if our other 3 retirees would join, we'd be 100%.

Delicious refreshments were provided by Shirley Martin and Betty Ann Glovak. The door prize, a lovely,

Our next get together will be a supper-meeting-sometime in late April. Watch the Signal and listen to the radio for time and place.

MVES Writing to Read Lab News

We had some exciting things happen this past week in the WTR lab. Mrs. McClure's class finished their word cycle work books. There are 10 cycle work books the students have to complete. The word cycle work books are designed to teach the students the 45 consonant and vowel sounds used in reading and writing. Upon completion of these cycle work books the class moves on to Bouncy Bee Learns Words. The Bouncy Bee Learns Words is a computer program, that teaches them words. The program includes three games the students play with the words they have just learned. Each week the students move to a new word list.

On Friday, Mrs. Webb's class had a Pet Show. Several of the students' parents brought pets to show. We had several kinds of dogs, cats, a rabbit, a guinea pig and two hamsters. The students really enjoyed the Pet Show and Mrs. Vanzant's class were guests.

I also want to correct a mistake that I made last week's WTR lab news. Mrs. Vanzant and Mrs. Webb were left out of last week's listing by mistake. These students should have been included:

For the week of the 23rd 96
 Mrs. Vanzant's: Author of the Week, Lance Baldwin, Ethan McClure, Cody Robinson and Hallie Barnett; Illustrator of the Week, Britany Robinson, Ethan Connelly and Erin O'Reilly; Best Listener, Brandy Seal.

Mrs. Webb's: Author of the Week, Zachary Stephens, Matthew Carter, Donny Bowling, Larry Lawson, Brittany McFadden and Becky Prewitt; Illustrator of the Week, Nicholas Doan.

Here are the winners for the week of March 1, 1996. Congratulations for the hard work you've done.

Mrs. Anderkin's: Author of the Week, April Bullock, Ashley Mullins and Kayla Stewart; Illustrator of the Week, Megan Bradley, Scott Daugherty, Lisa Robinson, Marsha Swinney and Nicki Wynn; Best Listener, Ashley Mullins.

Mrs. Vanzant's: Author of the Week, Lance Baldwin and Brandon; Illustrator of the Week, Ethan Connelly, Britany Robinson and Ashley Stewart; Best Listener, Jennifer King.

Mrs. Carter's: Author of the Week, Cody Robinson; Illustrator of the Week, Samantha Doan; Best Listener, Justin E. Hensley.

Mrs. Smith's: Author of the Week, John Lake; Illustrator of the Week, Izak McQuary; Best Listener, Kyle Bussell.

Junior Pro All-Star Round-up

The Rockcastle County Jr. Pro All-Stars began play this past weekend at Middlesboro. The JV All-Stars were joined by four other All-Star teams, two from Middlesboro and two from Corbin. In a round-robin competition sponsored by Middlesboro Jr. Pro. The JV All-Stars gave a very nice accounting of themselves as they came home with 2 victories in the four played. Listed below is a recap of the games they played in:

CORBIN REDD vs. ROCKCASTLE COUNTY 41
Rockcastle got the day off to a bit of a rough start when they faced the Corbin White squad. The huge Corbin White front line towered over Rockcastle's squad, and it looked as though they would take every rebound that was available. However, at least from the rebounding point of view, this was not the case. The smaller Rockcastle team used their superior quickness and aggressiveness to out rebound the big Corbin bunch 20-12. However, the difference was the hot handed inside scoring of Corbin White, as they capitalized on scoring in the paint and connected for 72% shooting from the field. For Rockcastle, Chris Settles led the way with 10 points, highlighted by perfect 4-4 shooting from the field. Aaron Cash hit for 8 points and added 3 rebounds. Jason Reynolds fired in 7 points, Michael Hayes had 5 points, Aaron Anderkin added 4 points and 4 steals. Amber Denny scored 3 points, and Stephen Boring and Courtney Alexander added 2 points each, while Clay Smith, Alex Martin, and Steven Colley all contributed hustle and enthusiasm.

MIDDLESBORO BLUE vs. ROCKCASTLE COUNTY 41
Rockcastle went into this one with a distinct disadvantage. The Mid (Cont. to A10)

March proclaimed Middle Level Education Month at RCMS

John Hale, principal of Rockcastle Co. Middle School, Buzz Carlotfis, Co. Judge Executive and Larry Hammond, Superintendent of Rockcastle Co. Schools along with student council representatives met recently to proclaim March as Middle Level Education month at R.C.M.S.

National Middle Level Ed. month is designed to call public attention to the unique needs of students, ages 10-14. This year's theme is Making a Difference in the Middle... The World of Tomorrow in the Hands of Today. Rockcastle Co. Middle schools throughout the nation will be hosting a variety of events throughout March.

John Hale, RCMS principal, stated, "This event gives us an opportunity to focus on the quality learning opportunities that occur in our building everyday. It's one more way we can share with the parents and community members the importance of Middle Level education and the contributions these young adolescents offer our county. The success of the 21st century largely depends on the investments we make in education now." Parents and community members are urged to visit the school and to phone R.C.M.S. VICA members attend leadership training institute

Southeast Region VICA president, Brian Brown, vice president Shawn Yamzani, and instructor Ralph Baker recently attended the Kentucky Leadership Training Institute in Frankfort. The conference which ran Sunday through Wednesday, included four days of vigorous leadership activities. All three people were required to memorize items for the VICA manual such as motto, pledge, creed, purpose emblem, opening and closing ceremony, state officers and corporate structure among others. KLTIT is designed for the officers of the six Kentucky Vocational Education Regions to allow them the opportunities to grow into better training, presentation skills, patriot salute contest, community construction contest and developing a professional development plan.

While there, they were privileged to visit the states' capitol and tour the governor's mansion. Included in the visit was a short discussion with Representative Danny Ford concerning various house bills and steps in parliamentary procedures. The highlight of the tour came when they were able to actually watch congress in session. The House of Representatives were discussing the controversial concealed weapons bill (HB40).

For their efforts in completing all of these duties at KLTIT, they each received the Kentucky Statesman Award. Statesmen is the highest award given at the state level and only about forty people per year receive this award. Shawn and Brian are both seniors, enrolled in their final year at Rockcastle County Area Technology Center. They were accompanied on the trip by Ralph Baker, the welding instructor and VICA advisor.

Jr. Pro All-Stars

desboro Blue team was an "Open" team composed entirely of players from the Middleboro 6th grade Middle School team. However, this did not scare the Rockcastle squad. Rockcastle never backed off or ran from the fight as they hustled, scrapped and played hard and aggressively until the final horn. This fact was demonstrated by the fact that Rockcastle outbounded the bigger, older Middleboro Blue team by a 27-21 margin. For Rockcastle: Aaron Anderkin led the way with 12 points and 4 rebounds; Chris Settles had another fine game, highlighted by 8 points; Aaron Cash, Devin Taylor and Stephen Boren all contributed 4 points each; Jason Reynolds and Matthew Renner each connected for 2 points; while Courtney Alexander added 1 point and led the way on the glass with an impressive game best 7 rebounds. Steven Coffey and Amber Denny did not score in the contest, but each hit the boards hard as they pulled down 4 and 3 rebounds, respectively.

ROCKCASTLE CO. 42 MIDDLESBORO YELLOW 21

Rockcastle picked up their first win of the All-Star season by trouncing the Middlesboro Yellow squad in fine fashion. Rebounding and defense, as they often are, were the keys to this impressive win. Rockcastle stepped up their defense and held M'boro Yellow to a puny 36% shooting percentage from the field, while out-hustling the bigger M'boro squad on the boards to totally dominate the rebounding 35-9. For Rockcastle: Aaron Cash led the way with a great all-around game of 12 points, 7 rebounds, and 5 steals; Jason Reynolds hit for 11 points and 5 rebounds in a very good performance; Aaron Anderkin again tallied 4 points and 4 rebounds; Matthew Renner scored 3 points and pulled down 4 boards, while Amber Denny scored 3 points and pulled down 2 boards. Devin Taylor, Chris Settles, Michael Hayes and Alex Martin all scored 2 points each. Courtney Alexander added 1 point and 3 rebounds.

ROCKCASTLE CO. 51 CORBIN WHITE 40

Rockcastle finished the day in fine fashion with an impressive 11 point victory over a tough, scrappy Corbin White squad and by outbounding their opponents, as they outguffed Corbin to claim an impressive 11 point win. For Rockcastle: Aaron Anderkin put on a show to lead the team by scoring 23 points and hauling down 12 rebounds; Aaron Cash connected for 11 points, 3 steals and 3 rebounds; Matthew Renner and Devin Taylor each hit for 6 points apiece; Chris Settles and Jason Reynolds each hit for 2 points each, while Amber Denny finished with 1 point and 5 rebounds.

work hard to see that our students improve each year. We have a long way to go before we accomplish all our goals, but I truly believe we are on the right path," Hammond said.

Results of the KIRIS test state-wide continues to show steady growth.

-Nearly 70 percent of Kentucky's elementary, middle and secondary schools are on track for success or rewards under the state's school accountability system.

-Schools across Kentucky--led by elementary schools--continue to make strong, steady academic gains as measured by the latest round of statewide KIRIS tests. Gains were realized without regard to geography, with schools in every region of the state showing commendable progress.

Rockcastle County-Schools are in the sixth region.

All-District Honors

Four Rockcastle ballplayers were named to the All-District team, following district tournament action at Jackson County last week. In the top photo are senior Gary Burns and sophomore Dusty McClure, both named to the boys all-district team. At right is junior Kristi Moore who was named to the girls all-district team. Senior Melinda Alcorn was also accorded the honor but was not available when pictures were taken.

The results released today by the Kentucky Department of Education show that--at the midpoint of the 1994-96 accountability cycle--92 percent of Kentucky's schools are making progress toward their improvement goals for the 1994-96 school years. Nearly half of the state's schools would be eligible for rewards if the accountability period ended today, with about 20 percent of those at the highest reward levels.

The most significant gains were realized in the elementary schools, 60 percent of which exceeded their two-year goals and would therefore receive cash rewards if accountability decisions were being made today. More than 95 percent of elementary schools are making progress toward their improvement goals, while just five percent have seen their scores fall.

-Fourth-grade scores statewide rose an average of 8.8 points, meaning that they exceeded their average improvement goal by 2.6 points. Scores for grades 11 and 12, which are reported together to reflect changes in the grades that take certain elements of the test, followed with gains of 5.3 points. Eighth-grade scores rose 4.9 points. The average scores for both 8th and 11/12th grades were about one point below their average two-year goal.

Accountability decisions will be based on the combined results from the 1994-95 test, which were released today, and the 1995-96 test, which is being administered in schools across the state between now and April. Consequently, the number and percentage of schools in each performance category today almost certainly will change by the end of the accountability period. Indeed, department of education officials expect that the numbers of schools qualifying for rewards will rise, assuming continued progress in 1995-96.

Ed Reid, Educational Commissioner Wilmer S. Cody said the results were remarkable. "Although we're just at the midpoint of this accountability cycle, nearly half of our schools have already surpassed their two-year improvement goal, and another 45 percent are making progress toward their goals. It's clear that the hard work of educators all over the state is paying off," said Cody. "It's also clear that schools have made--and continue to make--the kind of instructional changes that lead to a higher degree of learning."

Ed Reidy, the department's deputy commissioner for Learning Results services, who oversees the state testing program, said the results show a very significant and substantial achievement over a very short period of time. He attributed the results in a large part to teacher's growing familiarity with new instructional methods.

"The longer teachers use a particular technique, the more familiar they become with it and the more effectively they do it," he said. "I think that across the state, teachers are becoming increasingly familiar with the assessment system and the instructional approaches it supports, and they are therefore becoming increasingly effective."

Reidy said, "The number of elementary schools showing dramatic improvement indicates that the state's ungraded primary program, combined with effective teaching at the 4th grade level, is having positive effects."

"One of the changes mandated by the 1990 Kentucky Education Reform Act is that students demonstrate what they can do with their knowledge through writing and problem solving tasks. Kentucky developed a variety of assessment tools to measure students' knowledge and skills.

Each spring students in 4th, 8th, 11th and 12th grades participate in the KIRIS assessments. Student academic scores and other non-cognitive factors (attendance, promotion, successful transition to adult life and dropout rates) are used to determine a school's progress toward its improvement goal. Beginning in the 1994-95 school year, schools and district certified staff were eligible for monetary rewards based on their performance on the KIRIS tests. In 1995 the state distributed $26 million in such rewards for performance during the 1992-94 biennium. School whose scores do not improve qualify for assistance and/or state intervention.

High school scores have been adjusted to reflect the shift of the on-demand portion of the test to the 11th grade from the 12th grade. Writing portfolios remained in the 12th grade. Only 12th-graders took the test from 1992 through 1994. In 1995, both 11th and 12th graders took the on-response portions of the test. Adjustments were made in the 1993 and 1994 high school scores to reflect the differences in performance of 11th and 12th graders.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor:
According to Points East by Ike Adams, February 29, Pat Buchanan is a racist.

Where exactly is he getting his information? I am a Christian wife and mother. Also I have just become an electrologist. I do not have a lot of time for politics. I have never met a Black, Hispanic, Asian etc. who was not as good as me, probably better. The greatest achievement in my life has been salvation, for which I cannot take credit.

Pat Buchanan said he did not come from monkeys, he came from GOD. Is that not wisdom itself?

Our nation cannot stand upon filth and not develop and odor!

If Mr. Adams has proof of his statements I would be very grateful for his help.

Sincerely,
Marilyn Reddington

Dear Editor,
If I may borrow the words of Gideon, "Let not thine anger be hot against me, I will speak but this once" in the pages of the Mt. Vernon Signal, in response to Christine McKinney and her letter last week (2-29-96).

Let me begin by commending another well written letter by Christine, in the February 22, 1996 issue of the Signal, on the topic of Abortion. Indeed, some good insights on this divisive issue in our country, she has spoken with clarity and with words of truth and soberness on this topic: who could deny it?

But now, concerning last week's article (2-29-96) she speaks without words of truth in her letter, and it lacks spiritual preception. She says, "The Holy Bible and Constitution are both quite explicit in granting the freedom to worship according to the dictates of our own heart. It's one of our most sacred rights and calls for no explanation or clarification." Yes, as a citizen of the United States, the Constitution says, "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof, or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the government for a redress of grievances."

The 1st Amendment to the Constitution, 1791. Yes, citizens of the United States can build church dining rooms, church gyms, have church ball teams, etc. and worship God as their own hearts dictate. But the Bible, NO WHERE states that we can worship God as our own hearts dictate and still be pleasing to him! Nadab and Abihu tried such and were destroyed, Lev.10:1-2, King Saul tried such and was rejected 1 Sam. 15:1-23. Uzziah the King, sought to worship according to the dictates of his own heart and was struck with Leprosy, II Chr. 26:16-21. Jesus described such folks, who seek to worship God according to the dictates of their own hearts, but he said their worship is vain, Mt. 15:9. Paul talked to a whole group of people who worshipped according to the dictates of their own hearts, and were told to repent, Ac. 17:22-31. Jesus describes people who are surprised at the day of Judgement for worshipping him according to the dictates of their own heart, Mt. 7:21-23. Indeed, the Lord does teach us to worship Him in spirit and in truth. "But the hour cometh, and now is, when the true worshippers shall worship the father in spirit and in truth: for the father seeketh such to worship him. God is a spirit: and they that worship him must worship him in spirit and in truth." In 4:23-24. Our Lord speaks here in these two verses, words that need no explanation or clarification. We must worship God in spirit and in truth, not according "to the dictates of our own heart." Men and women can respect and follow the words of Jesus in Jn. 4:23-24, or disbelieve and reject them and follow the vain reasonings of human beings. But as for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.

"It is Written"

In Lk. 13:17 we read, "And when he had said these things, all his adversaries were ashamed and all the people rejoiced for all the glorious things that were done by him." Jesus can do some glorious, magnificent, splendid things for you today and in the world to come. Let's look at a few of them:

Jesus has given us a superior testament to live under, than is more glorious than the Old Testament, (that was done away). "For if that which is done away was glorious, much more that which remaineth is glorious." I Cor. 3:11, (Read vs. 6-10 to get the full context). Paul calls the New Testament the "glorious gospel" of Christ in II Cor. 4:4, I Tim. 1:11-12.

Jesus will give us glorious liberty to those who become children of God. "Because the creature itself also shall be delivered from the bondage of corruption into the glorious liberty of the children of God." Rm. 8:21. The Liberty is freedom sin, that comes as a result of obeying from the heart that form of doctrine delivered unto us, Rm. 6:17-18. We can enjoy a glorious rest from becoming a disciple. "And in that day there shall be a root of Jesse, which shall stand for an ensign of the people; to it shall the Gentiles seek: and his rest shall be glorious." Is. 1:10. This is a prophecy of the blessings in Christ: Paul quotes this verse in Rm. 15:12. Jesus can give us this glorious rest to those who come unto him, Mt. 11:28-30.

By obeying Jesus, we become a part of the glorious church, his bride, that he may present it to himself, not having spot, or wrinkle, or any such thing, but that it should be holy and without blemish, Eph. 5:27.

As a result of obeying the gospel, and being faithful unto death, Jesus will some day give unto us a glorious body at his glorious return. "Who shall change our vile body, that it may be fashioned like unto his glorious body, according to the working whereby he is able even to subdue all things unto himself." Phil. 3:21

These glorious things, Jesus can do for those who love him, II Tim. 4:8, Jn. 14:15.

We try to put our patients at ease . . .

Radiology has a unique function in the hospital. At Rockcastle Hospital, technology is the key to helping diagnose a disease or injury. But, it takes specially trained personnel to utilize this technology.

In the eight years I've been here, Radiology has changed dramatically. It's a much larger department now and we've added new diagnostic services, including mammography and our own CAT scanner.

When patients come in, they're often scared, so we try to explain the procedure and answer their questions. We're like family here, we want our patients to be comfortable.

I think taking time to talk to each patient and being polite is important. "We really care about people at Rockcastle Hospital."
