Couple injured by runaway CSX railcar

By: Richard Anderkin
An elderly Rockcastle County couple was injured Thursday when their pick-up truck was struck by a runaway CSX railcar.

According to Mt. Vernon police chief Bill Mink, Jessie Mahaffey, 78, and his wife, Ruby Lorene Mahaffey, 76, were involved in the noon accident at the Spring Street crossing behind the Mt. Vernon Signal building.

According to Mink, an eyewitness, Mrs. Darlene Mays, stopped her empty school bus at the Richmond Street crossing as required by law. As Mrs. Mays waited at the crossing, the railcar went by her, traveling toward Spring Street.

Mrs. Mays said the Mahaffey vehicle was crossing the track when the railcar collided with it, hitting the 1992 Chevy S-10 at mid-point.

Mink said that after the railcar hit the Mahaffey vehicle, it traveled about a mile down the track before stopping.

The Mahaffeys were taken to the Rockcastle Hospital and both were transferred to other hospitals. Jessie Mahaffey was flown to the University of Kentucky Medical Center where he was treated for a head injury. Ruby Mahaffey was transferred to Berea and was treated for shock.

According to the Mahaffey's daughter-in-law, Donna Mahaffey, Mrs. Mahaffey is out of the hospital but has been required to stay with family members while she recuperates. Mr. Mahaffey was transferred to Berea from U.K. but has developed pneumonia and is still hospitalized, according to Donna Mahaffey.

Chief Mink said that CSX officials were still investigating the incident, but that the runaway car apparently came from a side track near the Kentucky Stone Quarry on U.S. 150 in Mt. Vernon.

Mink said officials were not sure how the railcar got from the side track to the main track.

Mink said that the car was hauling plastic granules and weighed about 100 tons. A CSX crew was apparently changing cars at the time of the accident.

There are no caution lights at the Spring Street crossing, which may have contributed to the accident. And Chief Mink said that he did not believe the crossing lights at the Richmond Street and West Main Street crossings worked and motorists should always look before they travel across those tracks.

Rockcastle County Ambulance Service personnel assist Jessie Mahaffey at the scene of Friday's crash between the Mahaffey vehicle and a runaway CSX railway car. The car struck the truck at the Spring Street crossing behind the Signal building. Mr. Mahaffey's wife, Ruby, was also involved in the accident and both were taken to the hospital and later transferred. Mr. Mahaffey is still in the Berea Hospital after surgery at a Lexington hospital for a head injury.

Fiscal Court approves land swap

By: Ray McClure
The Rockcastle County Ambulance Service will soon have a new home.

At a called meeting Wednesday, the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court voted to go along with an agreement between the Rockcastle County Ambulance Service board and the Rockcastle Hospital board.

The agreement is basically a swap of property between the two. The hospital is swapping the former Charles Baker property on Newcomb Avenue, for the property where the ambulance service is operating from now.

Besides the swap of property, the hospital will pay an additional $35,000 to the ambulance board to help defray costs of remodeling and upgrading the Baker property.

The action by the fiscal court on Tuesday was needed because of a 1978 action by a former fiscal court that requested the current ambulance service property revert to the fiscal court once it was paid for. However no such condition was ever placed on the deed and the ambulance service board actually owns the property, not the county.

Although some magistrates had questioned the action last week and requested that the clause remain, they all voted yes on the move as did Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carlolius.

Carlolius said Wednesday that it would be ridiculous to try and create a problem for the ambulance board in light of the excellent service they provide to the county at such a low cost to taxpayers. Currently, the fiscal court only subsidizes the ambulance service $23,000 a year. In some Kentucky counties fiscal courts are out as much as $250,000 to operate the service.

Once all of the proper paper work is completed, the ambulance board plans to build a new five bay garage to house their ambulances and remodel the Baker property for offices.

Ambulance Service board chairman David Pensol said the board needed the clause removed so the ambulance board would have a clear title to the Baker property. "We are going to have to borrow money to complete this project and we will need this property for collateral," Pensol said.

Pensol said the board's planned improvements should total about $80,000.

The Rockcastle Ambulance Service is operated by a five member board of directors and is a non-profit corporation.

The board is self appointed and no member of the board receives any compensation. The Rockcastle fiscal court does not approve their budget, get a copy of their minutes or appoint any board member.

Currently, the ambulance service has 17 full and part-time employees with a yearly budget of $266,000. Harry Harmon is ambulance service director.

City council conducts variety of business

By: Ray McClure
Concluding old business and hearing from citizens occupied the Mt. Vernon City Council at its regular meeting Monday night.

Given second reading was the city tax rate ordinance which set real estate property tax at 16.3 cents per $100 and vehicle tax at 16.3 cents.

Passed was a Bank Franchise Rate ordinance that changed the way bank shares are taxed.

The council accepted a sewer bid of $713,382. The bid went to Howard Engineering and Construction Co., of London, the low bidder.

Justina Davis came to the council to complain that she had no water pressure and it took 24 minutes to fill her washer.

She told the council she had no water Saturday and Sunday, and when she had a little it smelled and tasted bad.

The council agreed she had a problem at her home on what is known as Radio Tower Hill overlooking the city.

Mayor Gary R. Cromer said her water supply had been tested. He said the city has written to the Rockcastle Water Association giving them 30 days to change their meter, which will, hopefully, fix Mrs. Davis' problem, or they will disconnect water service.

Mrs. Davis' problem also reportedly affects 8 residences on the hill.

The council reversed a decision by a previous council and reopened the alley between Owens and Craig Streets, but only after considerable discussion.

The vote to reopen the alley was 3 to 1. Council members Lee Kenne, Karen King, and Wayne Bullock voted to reopen. Councilmen Terry Owens and Clark "Joe" Mullins voted no. Mullins vote actually was "to pass" but was counted as a No vote.

Mrs. VanHoose did not attend. The Council voted to enforce the ordinance on loose dogs. Residents should keep dogs tied and from barking.

The Septiember Police report was read by assistant chief Eddie Delaney.

It showed: 41 citations; 75 charges; 8 DUI arrests; 302 calls for service; 17 accidents; 47 other agency assists; 11 motorists assists and criminal cases opened, 7.

The Mt. Vernon Volunteer Fire Department made 8 runs.

Vernon police for a faulty headlight. A check showed the car had been stolen in Georgia.

The trio spent 15 days in an Owensboro facility at $100 a day each.

Items recovered
Six guns and a compound bow were recovered on October 5 on Buffalo Hollow Road by Sheriff Shirley Smith, and Deputies Doug Thomas, and Ronnie Roark.

The items were reportedly taken in a break-in at the home of Tony Mahaffey on Scaffold Cane Road recently.

Break-ins reported

Chet Bowling of Brodhead had a gun and police scanner taken from his car Saturday night. Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan investigated.

Georgia Smith of Brodhead had her car entered Saturday night and a stereo stolen. Deputy Sheriff Nathaniel Price investigated.

Price also investigated a break in at the apartment of Carolyn Williams in Castle Village in Brodhead, Friday night.

The thieves entered through her front door and took a television and keepsakes.

Drug charge

State Trooper Billy Madden made a routine stop on a motorist for a traffic violation October 1, when he searched the car owned by Jerry "Hooch" Cash, 34, of Brodhead, he found considerable drugs.

Cash was charged with possession of a controlled substance, 733 valium pills, possession of marijuana and possession of drugs not in the proper container. The 733 valiums were apparently confiscated during the arrest.

Marlow arrested

Several police officers exercised a warrant on Charles Marlow, Sr., at his home on old Ky. 461, Thursday. Officers said they found five pounds of marijuana.

Making the search were Rockcastle Sheriff Shirley Smith, State Trooper Steve Long and Deputies Nathaniel Price, Darrell Doan, Doug Thomas, and Ronnie Roark.

The case will be presented to the Rockcastle County Grand Jury.

County owes $22,009 for juvenile incarceration

OH, how it costs to incarcerate a juvenile.

Currently the Rockcastle Fiscal Court has bills from juvenile centers for $22,009 to be paid from county funds, according to Rockcastle County Judge/Executive Buzz Carlolius.

The amount is in addition to bills that have already been paid by the county.

But, "the costs seem to have slowed some since the parental responsibility ordinance took effect," Carlolius said Monday.

The judge also reported that he had received a check for $4,500 from Bartow County, Georgia for the cost of housing three juveniles from there. The three were arrested by Mt.

"A Teller of Tales"

Mrs. Beverly Carter-Sexton, a renowned storyteller, was part of the entertainment for the crowd who attended Saturday's Bitter Sweet Festival. Mrs. Sexton was aided in the telling of a "Jack Tale" by Rebecca Bowman, 9, or Orlando.

Viewpoints

Points East

By: Ike Adams

They're gone early this year. The fall beans. Last year and over the last several, for that matter, we've managed to make them last until the first of November or later by letting grass and weeds grow up around the vines so that the early frosts couldn't get to them.

Nothing doing this year. The vines are dying like they've been bitten largely because they thought that Autumn started back in June. And if I hadn't had a calendar handy I'd have sworn the same thing. If anybody saw or felt Summer happen please let me know. I've been right here all the time though and I've been awake most of the time. If Summer happened in Paint Lick, I missed it. Spring lasted until after the first of June. We had frost enough to kill tomatoes during the last week of May. I remember working up a sweat one day in the garden sometime in July. Most nights in August I wanted a long sleeved shirt. Loretta swears that we had the air conditioner on after dark a couple of times but I sure don't remember it nor do the electric bills show it.

The weather over the last six months hasn't been anything to complain about unless you make your living on a farm. Too much rain according to the farmers. Tobacco got too late and too much of it got flooded. Two hay crops instead of three. More like Canada than Kentucky they say, and that comes straight from the mouths of some folks who moved here from Alberta looking for a warmer climate.

I've been around nearly half a century and I certainly don't remember the middle months of the year ever being as strange as this one has been.

Nor does Junior Helton who has been around a lot longer than I have. Junior, who gets out and about during daylight hours 365 days a year instead of being holed up in an office, says that we've had three days this year that he would call hot and not a single one that he would call real hot. Junior says we normally have at least 30 hot days and at least 12 that he would call real hot.

During hot and real hot days, he explained, "Fall beans basically go dormant and if they do any growing at all, they do it at night. But since the weather has been so cool, they've grown around the clock now, like most crops, they've done all the growing they can do and that's why these vines are dying so early."

"Okay, I'll buy that. But why, Mr. Helton, are tomato vines and hot pepper plants that should have been dead weeks ago still blooming and producing like mad?"

"Because the hotter the weather, the faster they grow and the cooler the weather, the slower they grow. In other words, all this coolness has had the opposite effect on tomatoes and chili peppers than it had on Fall beans. Slowed them down while it hurried the beans along," he insists.

"So what does this strange Summer weather portend for the coming winter, I want to know?"
"We'll just have to wait and see," says Junior. "I've never seen anything like this before and it may not mean anything. On the other hand it may be an omen. We'll just have to wait and see. By the way, what are the woolly worms calling for?"

Ahhhhhh. Haaaaa. I know he was going to get to that subject I've been avoiding sooner or later. As I told Junior, I'm still talking to the National Association of Woolly Worm Winter Weather Watchers (NAWWWWWW) see if I can void my contract with them since they were so wrong last year. It looks, however, like I can't get out of it.

Staytuned next week and we'll publish the NAWWWWW forecast along with whatever disclaimers I can negotiate.

HERESAY

By: John Norman Meadows

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and insinuations to you and yours from the yellowing Halls of Wabd, home of the late Artemus E. Artibebery, long-time pharmacist at Fillmore's Apothecary & Emporium in downtown Wabd, and part-time peddler of Evening in Paris bath salt, who, in talking about a certain snob in these parts, said, "He's so egotistical that he thinks that if he had not been born folks would wonder why."

Beloved, I've tried hard all through my sojourn here below to not appear egotistical; but looking back, I realize I likely did just that. And I'll dare say that some of you reading this column have done likewise, although not intentionally. But then there are, of course, some folks who practice snobbery with an intentionally "looking down" on others.

Let me now interject an anecdote that will help us see our egotism for what it really is - vanity.

A couple of weeks ago, I sat in an examining room at the Pain Management Clinic in Lexington. And I waited, waited, and waited much longer than the usual long wait we've come to expect when we go see our physicians.

I hadn't taken anything to read, nor had I carried a magazine from the waiting room to the examination room as I usually do. So there I sat. Finally, I got up and did some exercises that help reduce stress in my upper back. No doctor.

So, I lay on the bed in that room and did some exercises aimed at strengthening muscles in the lower back. No doctor. So, I got up, paced about, almost running in place to warm myself in that icy room. No doctor.

So, I began an examination of the medical apparatus by the bed and attached to the walls, understanding very little of it. I even opened the closets on both sides of the bed. One was filled with sheets, slips, and those pitiful gowns that tie in the back - that almost make you curse trying to tie them in the back. The other closet was filled with boxes of medical stuff and trays filled with plastic utensils of various shapes. Still no doctor.

The only things left for me to scrutinize were the bed and the table on which meals are served. The brand name on the bed was German, and I wondered if it had come from that country or was made in this country by a company that had a German name. I observed the locks on the wheels and the mechanism that raised and lowered the bed. No doctor.

So, I turned my attention to the serving table, which had some levers and push buttons, one of which said, "VANITY RELEASE." And while I mused on that, the doctor finally arrived.

A vanity release, I thought, Oh God, how I could use one of those! Most folks I know could use a vanity release. How a few snobs I've known could really use a vanity release! How much simpler life would be and how much better we would get along were we released from our vanity.

Dear hearts, one book of the Bible makes good use of the vanity theme, namely, The Book of Ecclesiastes. Right up front it reads, "Vanity of vanities. All is vanity." Ecclesiastes is more philosophical reflection than a statement of belief. The author calls himself "The Preacher." (He may or may not have been Solomon.) To him, everything is vanity, nothing more than an insubstantial, fleeting breath. Even a man's character and accomplishments make no difference to his fate, which is the same as that of the beast.

The Preacher tries by reason to explain the mystery of life, but fails to do so. Neither luxury nor learning give life meaning. The same is true for the hedonist, who today would be a disciple of Hugh Hefner. His way is also vain.

The Preacher does, thank goodness, have something positive to say amid his myriad pessimistic conclusions. He advocates life with its limitations. If one will face facts, accept what cannot be changed and enjoy whatever good things God permits, life will be worthwhile, until death brings oblivion. (Remember that Ecclesiastes is a pre-Christian book.)

If one will face facts... ah, there's the rub! One of those facts has to do with our vanity, our endless but ultimately empty attempts to change what cannot be changed about our personality or our circumstances.

A vanity release? Yes, I wish I'd had one when I bought my P.D. The first one when I bought you're somebody! If only I could have hit a button and heard a voice say, "The degree doesn't make the man; the man makes the degree."

A vanity release? How many times I discarded clothes that were worn because the Tempter whispered, "You mustn't stand in the pulpit in that. Folks will say you're out-of-style."

A vanity release? I could have used one when I spent a fortune on trusses in my forties because the Tempter said, "You must look young."

A vanity release? I could have used one several times when what I said or did in the pulpit drew attention to me rather than the Word I was commissioned to declare. Ah, the antics of some preachers! Oh, the vanity of antic preachers!

A vanity release? How many times could you have used one, dear hearts?

When I was a child, I had a piece of furniture in front of which we dressed and examined ourselves. We called it mirrored piece a "vanity."

It was the place where we gave way to our vanity, where we primped and preened, hoping to make ourselves look better than we actually looked. And lying here and there on that vanity were things that would create that effect, generally known as make-up. Women used it more than men then. Today however, men's cosmetics is a billions dollar industry.

My point is this: whatever we did, and regardless of how much better we thought we looked, that piece of furniture, by its very name, said, "That's it. Bearly. Touch here. Brush there. A delicate here. A ash there. O my! What that fur does for you! That's your color! Look at those lines! Just love that tie knot! How alluring you are! How sexy - BUT IT'S ALL IN VAIN! PRETTY AS YOU LOOK, HANDSOME AS YOU SEEM, IT'S ALL IN VAIN!"

Quah! And again I say, "Ouch!" And, bless Bess, beloved, the terrible truth is that, regardless of how consummate our attire and how perfect our grooming, we don't fool many folks. They look beyond that. And that, genuine folks do. They are not interested in our status symbols, nor do they care much about our accomplishments. But, if our souls are heaped in vanity, they might not care for us at all!

A vanity release? If only we could purchase that!

The Scottish poet, Robert Burns went to church one Sunday and sat behind a perfectly attired and well-groomed, upper-class lady of the community, who wore a Lunardi, a balloon-shaped bonnet. During the service, Burns spied a louse making its way higher and thither about that bonnet! He sat there musing about it, wondering how many more kindred creatures dwelled in that mass of hair beneath the bonnet, and silently urging her not to move her head too much lest she stir them!

Bobbin' Burns had a good, ir-reverent time in church that day. And out of that experience grew his delightful, but vanity-exposing, verse. To A Louse, the end of which says, in part:

*O would some Power the Tiff give us
To see ourselves as others see us!*

*It would from many a blunder free us,

Classroom story

Steve the Football Cat

The Rockcastle Rockets are on the football field, right in the middle of a game.

All of sudden, Steve the cat ran onto the field. He grabbed the football and ran with it.

The referees didn't know what to do. A cat stealing the football was unheard of. So, rather than look silly, they decided to let Steve play.

Steve ran the ball all the way for a touchdown.

So if you're going to watch the Rockets play tonight, look around. You might just see Steve the Touchdown Cat!

No exceptions can be made. Our next Family Night is scheduled for October 17 at 6:00 p.m.

Please remember to call the school if your child is going to be absent for any reason. Each student is responsible for bringing in a note the day they return to school after being absent and presenting it to the secretary in exchange for a pass to class. Children that do not have a note are marked excused.

Jason Brown hurt

Great second half propels Rockets over Briarjumpers

By: Richard Anderkin
 The Rockcastle Rockets continued their unbeaten string with an impressive 24-6 victory over the Somerset Briarjumpers Friday night.

However their victory was very costly to the Rockets as senior tailback Jason Brown received a spinal cord injury that could knock him out for the rest of the season.

"Jason is going to be fine, he received a spinal cord concussion and has some blood in his spinal cord, but he was moved into a regular room on Sunday and he is in good spirits," head coach Tom Larkey said. "Doctors have told us that he could be back in three weeks, but any decision on when or even if he plays will be up to him and his family, with the help of his doctors," Larkey said.

Before being moved into a regular room on Sunday, Brown spent Friday and Saturday night in intensive care and more tests, including an MRI, were conducted on Monday.

Before getting hurt, Brown turned in another stellar performance gaining 201 yards on 22 carries. Brown is one of the top rushers in the state, gaining 1031 yards on 100 carries in the first six games of this season.

Before Friday night's game in Somerset, Brown was the eighth leading rusher in the state with 830 yards for an average of 166 yards a game. He helped his average Friday night.

There was some confusion on the part of Rockets fans when Brown got hurt Friday night.

"Most people in the stands thought he got hurt on the second play of the fourth quarter when a Somerset player was flagged for a late hit, but Kevin Bradley was the player hit late and not Brown," said defensive coach Tony Saylor.

"The film shows that Jason got hurt on the last play of the third quarter when he and a Somerset defensive back hit hard and his head hit the ground," Saylor said.

"Jason came to the sidelines at the end of the third quarter and said he was fine, but by the second play of the fourth quarter he was starting to get some numbness in his legs and came off the field," Larkey said.

Local physician Dr. Karen Saylor immediately examined Brown and requested an ambulance for him: Brown was apparently unconscious for a while before he was taken to Lake Cumberland Humana Hospital in Somerset.

"Jason is taking all this in stride and wants to play again, but like I said, that is totally up to him and his family," Larkey said.

Brown won't be the only back missing from the Rockets offense when Corbin comes to town Friday night.

Early in the game, fullback Andrew Carrera apparently received a slight concussion and will miss an entire week's practice and the game Friday night.

"He will not even be dressed," Larkey said.

"Doctors told him on Monday that he would be fine, but he needed this week off," the coach said.

The coach will be depending on juniors Chris Bishop and Dusty McClure to step in and shore up his backfield. "Dusty and Chris have played a lot this year and have played hard for us, they can get the job done and of course we'll still have Jon (Cromer)," Larkey said.

Larkey said he was also moving sophomore Brooks Ingram into the backfield for Friday's game. "He won't be able to learn the entire offense this week, but he will see some action at fullback," Larkey said.

Although Cromer will be ready on Friday night he too is nursing a slight injury from Friday night.

"During the first half Friday, Jon slightly sprained his knee and he is taking it easy this week at practice," Larkey said.

"He is a tough kid and he should be a hundred percent by Friday," the coach said.

Offensive guard Kyle Kirby is also banged up this week, but should play Friday night. "Kyle received a slightly separated shoulder and he is also taking it easy this week," Larkey said.

All of the injuries from Friday night show just how tough the Rocket's game really was.

Somerset took the lead in the first period with a 91 yard run up the middle, but they missed their extra point attempt and only led 6-0.

However, the Rockets roared back in the second period when quarterback Malcolm Shepherd carried the ball in from the two. The touchdown was set up by a eight yard run by Cromer and a pass to Brown for eight yards.

Raymond Blackburn added the extra point and the Rockets led 7-6 at halftime.

In the third quarter the Rocket defense bowed up and the Rocket offense kicked it into high gear.

The Rockets held the Briarjumpers to just 21 yards in the second half, while Jason Brown scored touchdowns on runs of 64 and 50 yards. Brown also added a two-point conversion and Raymond Blackburn kicked his first field goal of the season, a 27 yarder that put the final nail in Somerset's coffin.

Besides Brown's 201 yards, Cromer had 28 yards on ten carries and Chris Bishop picked up 37 on just four carries. Dusty McClure had 7 yards on 5 carries, Brooks Ingram had 6 yards on 4 carries, Anthony King gained 3 yards on a carry and Shepherd ran the ball 3 times for 7 yards. He also completed one pass for 8 yards.

On defense, Brooks Ingram played well, picking up four tackles and assists, along with two quarterback sacks.

Lineman David Coffey had three tackles and assists along with an interception in the fourth quarter.

"Our defense played great football the second half," said assistant coach Tony Saylor.

"Somerset managed only twenty-one yards of total offense the entire game and our kids kept their focus even after Brown's injury," Saylor said.

"We played really well as a unit on defense, but we've got the toughest test of the season coming up Friday night," Saylor said.

Besides Coffey's and Ingram's performances, Slade Calhoun, Anthony King, Jon Cromer, Jason Brown, Dennis Miller, Malcolm Shepherd, Chris Bishop and Dusty McClure all played well on defense.

The Rockets toughest test of the season will come Friday night when they put their unblemished record on the line against Corbin.

"Corbin fans are looking forward to this game more than any other on their schedule," Larkey said.

"There will be a huge crowd and Corbin has a great team," Larkey said.

"We will have to play our very best and not make any mistakes to have a chance to win," Larkey said.

Corbin is ranked higher than Rockcastle in most statewide polls and they, too, are undefeated.

"Those polls don't really mean anything, it simply comes down to Friday night," Larkey said.

Game time is 8 p.m. and it's also Rockcastle County Little League football night.

All youth league players will be honored at halftime and will be admitted to the game free of charge.

All players should wear their respective team jerseys.

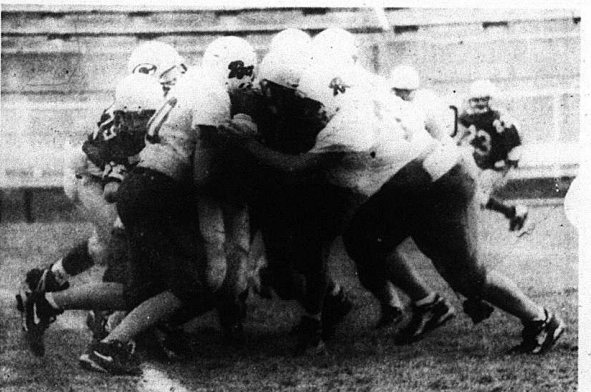

One of the leading rushers in the state of Kentucky this year is #24 Jason Brown. Brown had 201 yards Friday night before he was injured on the last play of the third quarter. Shown blocking for Brown in the third quarter on a 10 yard gain were #25 Jon Cromer, #10 Dusty McClure and #59 Dennis Miller.

Rockcastle County head coach Tom Larkey gathers his offensive unit around him during the first quarter after Somerset took a 6-0 lead. Larkey's offensive unit responded by scoring in the second quarter to take a 7-6 lead into the locker room at halftime. Shown in the above photo are: #2 Andy Hale, #24 Jason Brown, #78 John LaFavers and #17 Malcolm Shepherd.

Rocket tailback Josh Singleton scored two touchdowns and the extra point to lead the eighth grade to their seventh straight victory of the season Tuesday night against Corbin 14-8. The eighth graders were down 8-0 at halftime after they failed to score twice inside the five yard line, once getting the ball on the one yard line after a one yard Redhound punt. The seventh and eighth grades play again next Thursday. Also in the photo are Brandon Bishop and Sean Smith.

William Blair and Rod Shelton make a stop on a Corbin back Tuesday night during middle school action against Corbin. Blair scored the seventh grade's go ahead touchdown in the third period but it wasn't enough as the Redhounds handed the seventh grade their first conference defeat of the season 22-14. Clay Doolley scored the first touchdown for the seventh grade.

IF YOU'RE READY FOR AN EARTHQUAKE, YOU'RE READY FOR ANYTHING!

(And it's not just a California problem)

You've been hearing it for years: Earthquakes really are a threat here.

An earthquake can be the worst natural disaster that ever strikes this area. So if you're ready for an earthquake, you're ready for anything.

But will we ever have one? If the past is any indication, we're actually overdue for a damaging quake. But it can't be predicted or forecast accurately. We ought to be ready for an earthquake--or any emergency--all the time.

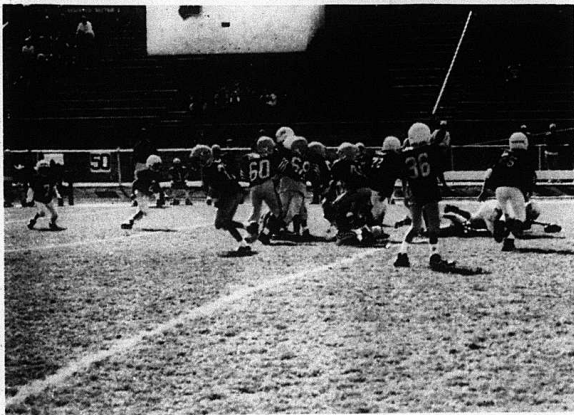

Take earthquakes seriously. And take steps to prepare yourself, your family, your school and workplace for an earthquake. You just might save the life of someone you love.

The throw, by Katy Rader of Mt. Vernon, was a little high but the target, Amy Stevens, got a pie in the face several times during the day. Ms. Stevens is a worker at the Teen Center which set up the booth. Looking on was Katy's friend, Nicole Jordan, also of Mt. Vernon.

The New Hope Baptist Church's table was a busy place as it was loaded with good things to eat and items to sell. Proceeds from the church's table went toward their building fund.

ROTC News

Submitted by Sgt. Leah Adams. On September 28th, R.O.T.C. cadets loaded on the bus, approximately 9:45 a.m. at the high school, and were on their way to London for the Annual Chicken Festival Parade. It was pouring the rain and had been all morning. Cadets from LET 1, LET 2, and LET 3, had been planning to march in the parade for many weeks. Once they reached the London Elementary School, everyone formed up, waiting anxiously for an answer on whether the parade was to continue or not. Finally, the answer came... the whole parade was cancelled. Cadets returned home after stopping at McDonald's for a quick lunch.

Although the parade was deleted from plans, Field Day on Oct. 4th at Lake Linville still went on! Not only were cadets from R.O.T.C. there, but Sergeant Graves from the Kentucky National Guard also attended. They grilled out with chicken, hamburgers, coke, chips, and a variety of other things. Activities were planned, such as the Australian Poncho Raft, (floating device) but due to the chilling winds they were cancelled. Everyone made the best of the day by playing basketball and football numerous times. Even though the day didn't go exactly as planned, a good time was had by all.

Something About: Eugene Alexander

"Eugene was the father in our community, leader among friends, everyone's choice for company. He was a builder of builders. What he has built in our presence made him special in every way. If I ever had a brother, it was 'Eugene'...and I worried about him suffering here on earth.

I see Salvation like the sacred song, 'Gathering Flowers for the Master's Bouquet.' Imagine yourself with others, living like flowers in a beautiful valley, waving in the breeze on a sunny day.

"JESUS" is our Savior and gardener. When each flower reaches maturity, He's gathering the special ones transplanting where they're everlasting. "Eugene" will never wilt... "Why" do we sadden ourselves?

Today "JESUS" picked from our community, the one flower that every eye cherished.

More sunny and breezy days may be coming, flowers waving throughout our community, "JESUS" carefully selecting for eternity.

Until He comes for me, I'm going to really miss our friend... "Eugene" busy with his work.

What if you owned part of a business that regularly increased sales, had paid out $5 million to its owners over the years and provided a needed service?

If you receive electricity from Jackson County RECC you are one of those owners, and since 1938 Jackson County RECC has been lighting the homes and businesses of southeastern Kentucky.

We are the electric cooperative for approximately 42,000 consumers in the area, but even more important, electric cooperatives are locally owned and operated.

A cooperative is a non-profit company owned by those it serves. In our case, by our consumers, or as we like to call them, our members. Any money left over after meeting operating expenses is returned to the members in the form of capital credits.

Over the years, about $5 million has been returned in capital credit refunds to families all across our service area. That's a big investment in the local economy. We also invest in the area by providing rural economic development loans. Through 1996, 157 new jobs have been added to area businesses receiving rural economic development funds.

We are also a proud member of the national rural electric cooperative system, which provides electric service to over 25 million Americans. This system commands a 10% market share of the electric power sold in the country across nearly 50% of the nation's power lines.

To put those numbers in perspective, FILA Athletic Shoes is the third best seller of sports shoes in the United States and their market share is 50%. The market share for electric cooperatives is double that percentage and no other company in the electric util-

Together, electric cooperatives also employ 67,000 workers in communities from Maine to Oregon.

Locally, Jackson County RECC has 130 employees and also uses 80 additional contract employees.

They not only provide reliable electric service, but also a commitment to their communities as members of civic clubs, volunteer fire fighters and church leaders. After all, we're local people, too, and take pride in being active participants in our communities.

Dream Factory fulfills local girl's wish

By: Rachel D. Mantooth
 Reprinted from September 19, 1996 Richmond Register

With three hours left until the mall closed, 13-year-old Suzanne Graves had $1,000 to spend. She was on a dream-fulfilling shopping spree, courtesy of The Lexington Dream Factory Inc.

In order to qualify for a dream, children "have to have a serious or life-threatening illness," said Terry Hagan, director of the procurement committee at The Lexington Dream Factory Inc.

Suzanne said she was most excited by the amount of money she had to spend. Her mother, Louise Bengé, said she was most excited about Suzanne having fun.

"She loves to shop. She wanted to go to California but she changed her mind. She wanted a shopping spree," Bengé said.

Her first purchase was some clothes, but she had plans to buy a radio and a television with a video-cassette recorder in it, Suzanne said.

The non-profit volunteer organization grants the wishes of children ages 3 to 18, according to The Lexington Dream Factory Inc. brochure. Children are usually referred to the organization by a parent, doctor, nurse or social worker, but anyone can recommend a child for a dream."

After a dream request form is submitted, a screening committee evaluates the request, Hagan said. If a child is chosen, he/she is able to choose what type of dream he/she would like.

Many children choose Disney World or some other trip, but Suzanne wanted a shopping spree at the Richmond Mall. Not all children who ask for shopping sprees want to just go to a mall; some want to just go to a toy store or to a sporting goods store, Hagan said.

"We usually keep it (the shopping spree) around $1,000. Sometimes they go a little over, sometimes a little under, Hagan said.

The Lexington Dream Factory Inc. raises most of its funding to fulfill dreams from the annual Impossible Dream Auction. The organization also holds a golf tournament, and donations are always accepted.

Suzanne Graves and her mother, Louise Bengé, look over a rack of clothing at the Richmond Mall. Suzanne was granted a $1,000 shopping spree by Lexington Dream Factory, Inc.

Fall Poisoning Hazards

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

One of nature's most beautiful seasons poses special hazards for the unsuspecting child or adult. Fall's colorful berries and plentiful bulbs are a special problem for the untrained youngster. Here are some of fall's particular hazards:

BERRIES. Nature's bountiful berry crop is most evident in the fall. Berries are a natural food for birds - and small animals. When children view birds eating the colorful berries, they mistakenly believe that they too can eat them. Holly, taxus, mistletoe and privet are just some of those that pose a potentially serious poisoning hazard. Symptoms may include cardiac and gastrointestinal disturbances and dermatitis. In case of accidental ingestion, obtain a sample of the berries and the plant from which they came, for identification.

BULBS. One of the better times to plant bulbs is in the fall. To a youngster's or adult's untrained eye many bulbs can be confused with other items such as the onion. This confusion is compounded whenever bulbs and onions are stored together in the refrigerator. Daffodil, iris and tulip bulbs are a few of the potentially lethal varieties of bulbs. One should take care to leave package labeling on the bulbs to aid in their identification.

FERTILIZER. Horticulturalists sometimes recommend that heavy rates of fertilizers be applied in the fall. Ingestions of large amounts of fertilizer can cause a wide range of symptoms. Another problem with fertilizers is that often children are present in the application area and as the fertilizer is applied they (as well as adults) can get fertilizer dust or particles in the eye, causing a painful experience. Flushing the affected eye or eyes with water for a full 15 minutes is mandatory. Generally, no permanent damage results to the eye if the eye is promptly flushed. As fertilizers are often applied with other toxic chemicals, children should not be allowed to play in an area where fertilizer is being applied or has just been applied.

Other fall poisoning hazards include insect and snake bites, food poisoning, mushrooms, pesticides and carbon monoxide from poorly vented heaters.

In case of accidental poisoning, keep the regional poison center phone number handy. The toll free number is 1-800-722-5725.

Fall Webworm

During the last week of August it wasn't very difficult to not see the construction of the webs of the fall webworm in trees along roads and around the house.

During late July and early August people began seeing webs forming at the end of branches on many tree species. The webs start off small, unnoticed, and soon have a web that encloses three or four feet of the limb and all the leaves.

The larvae of the insect responsible for the silken web over the foliage begin to feed on those leaves enclosed in the web. As the feeding needs increase, so does the size of the web. The web, normally found at the end of the branch, acts as a shelter, protecting the larvae from moisture and other environmental conditions.

The fall webworm is ordinary not of any great importance to the forest community. The fall webworm, like many other insect attacks during late summer and early fall, do not do any damage to the tree because the tree has completed much of its annual growth. It can be of importance on landscape trees because of the potential heavy defoliation and unsightliness of the web.

OSTEOPOROSIS CAN ROB YOU OF YOUR INDEPENDENCE

A bone density test can provide essential information of bone health in five minutes or less Osteoporosis and associated fractures can rob you of your mobility and your independence.

Osteoporosis is a disease that reduces the strength of your bones, causing them to become brittle and prone to fractures. Approximately 50% of women over the age of 50 have osteoporosis and are at risk of an osteoporosis-related fracture. A woman's risk of hip fracture alone is equal to the combined risk of developing breast, uterine and ovarian cancer—and up to 20% of victims who suffer hip fractures die within one year of the fracture.

A bone density test is safe, fast, non-invasive, and painless—and it will provide essential information to help your doctor assess the health of your bones. Ask your doctor about bone density testing, or call us for more information.

RRCC staff recognized for contributions

October 6-12, has been declared National Respiratory Care Week in recognition of the contributions of respiratory care professionals all across the United States.

Quietly working behind the scenes, respiratory care professionals help millions of Americans each year deal with respiratory disorders, ranging from relatively mild asthma to complex respiratory failure.

"People tend to think that breathing problems stem from chronic lung disorders, but that's not always true," said Kim McGowen, director of respiratory care at Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center (RRCC). "Sometimes heart attack, stroke and accident victims develop breathing problems, as do premature infants and patients with cystic fibrosis or lung cancer."

At RRCC, respiratory therapists work with individuals who must rely on a ventilator to breathe. These patients suffer from numerous debilitating problems that sometimes cannot be controlled by medication. The ventilator, or respirator, assists the resident with his or her breathing and, at times, has to do all of the breathing for them.

RRCC is the only facility in the state dedicated entirely to respiratory care and is the only one associated with an acute care hospital. With more than 60 beds and 75 respiratory care practitioners, it is one of the largest long-term respiratory facilities in the United States.

"Our goal with all of our patients is to wean them from the ventilator," said Dr. Kimberly Cornelius, medical director at RRCC. "There are some patients who may never be weaned, but we won't stop trying." RRCC's impressive 38 percent weaning rate is attributable to the staff's commitment to quality care. "Every patient is treated as an individual - from customized treatment plans to special dietary menus," according to McGowen.

"At RRCC, we know that treating patients as individuals is critical to their healing process," Dr. Cornelius said. "Tending to their emotional needs is just as important as tending to their medical needs. A large part of the weaning process is combating the psychological obstacles in addition to the physical ones."

"I feel confident that our respiratory staff is as talented and skilled as any in this country. Our respiratory care practitioners do a tremendous job here at Rockcastle Respiratory Care Center and deserve recognition for a job well done." During the week of Oct. 6, the respiratory care staff at RRCC will offer free brochures to the general public on common respiratory problems and how to combat them.

Kiwanis Club working to solve world health problem

By Bev Rockwell

The Kiwanis Club Rockcastle County is joining thousands of other Kiwanis Clubs around the world in a Worldwide Service Project to virtually eliminate iodine deficiency disorders (IDD) as a global health problem by the year 2000.

Iodine is an essential micronutrient in the human diet. Over a lifetime, a person needs a total of just one teaspoon of iodine. But a lack of iodine can cause mental retardation, stillbirths and a wide variety of other serious disabilities. Iodine deficiency is the leading preventable cause of mental retardation in the world today.

Iodine deficiency disorders are most prevalent in mountainous or flood-prone regions of the world, where iodine has been leached from the soil and washed away. More than 1.5 billion people are at risk of IDD, including hundreds of millions of children.

In partnership with the United Nations Children's Fund, Kiwanis Clubs plan to raise $7.5 million to install and maintain salt-iodization facilities in IDD-affected areas, provide other remedial treatments, and educate at-risk populations about the value of iodized salt in their diets.

"IDD has been documented for at least 4,000 years," said Geraldine Mize, chairperson of the International Understanding committee and IDD campaign committee chairperson. "During this time, uncounted millions of humans have failed to live fully productive lives because of iodine deficiency. Millions are still suffering from IDD today, and now Kiwanis has a chance to virtually eliminate this age-old scourge. Our club wants to be part of this challenging and exciting humanitarian project."

The club has set a goal of a little over $2,000 as its contribution to the IDD campaign. "This may seem a small part of the $75 million needed," says Linda Gregory, club president. "But when we combine our efforts with the thousands of other Kiwanis clubs around the world to virtually eliminate IDD, we will be helping to change world history. And that is an impressive accomplishment."
