FAMILIES CAN STAY UNITED DESPITE THE GENERATION GAP

As more and more activities occupy our lives, they tend to leave family members with very little "quality time" to spend together, recounting the day's events and discussing their problems. This is particularly true of the children, who when they are younger tell Mom and Dad everything that happened in school and elsewhere. However, it has little effect on the teenagers when they reach those double digits and begin living in a world of their own anyway, and Mom and Dad learn to accept it. This generation gap is hard to bridge, but it does help if the family can get together on the Sabbath day and attend the House of Worship. The home should be the center of love, happiness and security, and the lessons of faith can be the best reminder of it.

Beshear bashes McConnell; says he has chance to win

By: Richard Anderkin
Steve Beshear Democrat candidate for United States Senate, brought his campaign to Rockcastle County on Monday.

The former Lt. Governor spoke to several members of the local democratic party, headed by county chairman Leroy Brown.

Beshear told the small group of supporters that his opponent, incumbent Mitch McConnell, was wrong for Kentucky because of his recent votes in the U.S. Senate.

"McConnell voted with Newt Gingrich to cut Medicare, Medicaid and education although all the cuts would have a devastating effect on Kentucky, and especially on seniors," Beshear said.

Beshear said that while McConnell voted to cut all those programs for the working families, he also voted with Republicans to give the wealthiest Americans a $245 billion tax cut.

The former attorney general said that McConnell had turned his back on Kentuckians many times and if his (Beshear's) campaign had the kind of money McConnell's had, he would "beat him (McConnell) like a drum."

Beshear also told the group that McConnell had raised $12 million dollars to keep his job in Washington over the past twelve years. "He has raised $3,000 a day in campaign funds since he has been in office just to keep his job," Beshear said.

"When I'm elected I will represent the people of Kentucky and not spend all of my time raising money to keep my job," Beshear said.

Beshear said that most of McConnell's contributors were wealthy people, and that is why he voted to give them a tax break.

The former gubernatorial candidate told the group that President Bill Clinton had a fourteen point lead in the polls in Kentucky and that McConnell's lead over him had dropped to just 8 percentage points. "We can pull this thing out in the next three and a half weeks," Beshear said.

The Lexington attorney said that if he was elected:

- he would support a balanced budget plan that includes tax cuts targeted for working families.
- fight to keep families safe in their homes, neighborhoods and schools by putting more police on the street.
- work to make health care more affordable, portable from job to job, and available to people with pre-existing conditions.
- protect the family and medical leave law.
- fight to protect clean air and clean water standards.
- require able bodied recipients to go to work.
- end the cycle of welfare dependency brought on by teen pregnancy by requiring teen mothers to stay in school.
- protect the student loan program.

Arrest pending in child abuse investigation

Kentucky State Police are investigating a possible child abuse case that involves a Rockcastle County family.

According to Kentucky State Police Public Affairs Officer Gilbert Accardio, Jr., police received a call from officials at Fort Logan Hospital on Saturday that a 7 week old baby boy had been brought into the hospital with massive bruises down its left side. Accardio said the child was also having seizures.

The 7 week old was flown by helicopter to the University of Kentucky Medical Center where the child is listed in critical condition.

Accardio said that Trooper Millard Root is investigating the alleged child abuse, which apparently took place at the child's home in southern Rockcastle County on Friday.

Accardio said that Trooper Root was not releasing any names of the victim or the alleged assailant until he completes his investigation.

The public affairs officer did say that an arrest is expected in the case this week.

Deputy sheriff foils jail escape

A Jackson County man being held in the Rockcastle County jail tried to escape on Monday but was captured outside the jail by a deputy sheriff.

According to Kentucky State Police at London, Gerald Anderson, 22, attempted to escape from the county lock-up after he pushed aside a deputy jailer, who was unlocking a door.

Gilbert Accardio, Jr., Public Affairs Officer for Kentucky State Police said Wednesday that after Anderson fled on foot he ran into

Child support charges get Brodhead man

A Brodhead man is in the Rockcastle jail awaiting extradition to Union County, Indiana for failure to pay child support.

Donald Crank, 32, of Parr Rigby Road was arrested at his home Sunday night for failure to pay $30,000 in child support.

He is listed in Indiana as the state's most wanted criminal.

He was taken into custody by Deputy Sheriffs Doug Thomas and Ronnie Roark, who executed a warrant from Indiana.

Rockcastle native killed in Lincoln Co. shoot-out

Gunfire erupted at a home on Chestnut Ridge Road near McKinney in Lincoln County last Tuesday, leaving one man dead and three wounded.

Kentucky State Police said the gunfire stemmed from a domestic dispute and that William Edd Bullock, Jr., of 180 Carpenter Road in the Green River area died from gunshot wounds. Bullock was a native of Rockcastle County.

None of the other three involved in the shooting received life threatening injuries, according to police.

Those wounded were Wanda L. Bullock, wife of the man fatally shot; Radford Brock, 33, in whose home the shooting occurred and William Bullock III, 18, son of the deceased.

The shooting broke out at 7:08 p.m., Tuesday at the Brock residence, where Bullock had apparently followed his wife. It was unclear whether the younger Bullock was with his father, with Mrs. Bullock or already at the Brock residence.

Deputy Coroner Scott Ernst said that Bullock was shot with a .410 gauge shotgun in the neck and head. He said he believed that another shotgun and a .22 caliber rifle also were used in the exchange of gunfire. In any case, Ernst said, at least three weapons were involved and it appeared that the three men involved were doing the firing.

State police will present the case to the Lincoln County Grand Jury, but no charges have been filed. Police did say that Radford Brock fired the fatal shot.

All four of the people involved were inside the Brock home when the shooting occurred.

Mrs. Bullock was treated initially at Fort Logan Hospital in Stanford and transferred to the University of Kentucky Medical Center in Lexington. She was further treated in the emergency room there and released Tuesday night.

Brock also was taken to Lexington after initial treatment at Fort Logan Hospital.

The younger Bullock was admitted to Fort Logan Hospital.

lican Party, Republican presidential candidate Bob Dole will be in Somerset Saturday morning at 9 a.m. in the town square.

Hollywood comes to Crooked Creek

Steven Segal, star of Fire Down Below, was in Rockcastle County three days this week, shooting scenes for his newest movie and some local residents were able to meet the famous action-adventure movie star.

Another local resident, Pam Burdette, also got in on the action and posed for the picture at night.

Locations in Hazard and Jackson, Ky. were also used in the movie.

Okay. The National Association of Woolly Warm Winter Weather Watchers (NAWWWWW) forecast, is finally in.

As many of you already know, I have seriously considered ending my relationship with the woolly worms over the last ten months or so.

For these last 25 years, I have been the sole human contact with these insects who make such a big deal out of forecasting the coming winter weather. I served as their press secretary, in effect, and assured them that the forecast would be widely published throughout central and eastern Kentucky.

Last year they called for a generally mild, if not down-right pleasant winter season and hinted of three or four fast melting snows. Which was about as wrong as wrong can be. Or at least that's the way it was here on Fairview Ridge where it seemed like the kids spent most of their time huddled up behind the Sega System and got hooked on day-time soap operas where they would ordinarily have been in school.

It's eight miles from my house to the office and several weeks went by that the odometer on my truck would indicate that I'd only accumulated 2 miles or so each trip. I spent the other 6 miles sliding to and from work and I feel like I aged a decade in the process.

Mild is not a word I would use to describe last winter.

On the other hand, the negotiating team from NAWWWW pointed out that during my tenure as their spokesman, they had only been drastically wrong one time in the past. They came armed with statistics that the television forecasters, armed with millions of dollars worth of sophisticated radar equipment and college degrees are generally right about 50% of the time on a day to day basis.

"Find a television personality who will stick his neck out for an entire season," they told me. "And we'll show you somebody who management will have looking for another job by quitting time."

So, I'm going to publish the forecast for you, precious reader, need to realize that all I do is report what I'm told. The only thing I do is interpret woolly wormese into the English language. No more and no less. If the forecast is accurate, give credit to NAWWWW. If it's wrong, please don't be ringing my phone off the hook at midnight in January complaining that you're out of cold. Go find a woolly worm and stomp on him. Stomp him twice. Once for you and once for me. Then stomp him again for a good measure and maybe these guys will take their work a little more seriously.

Here's the forecast for '96-'97. "Generally mild," says NAWWWW. "And generally wet." The first cold spell will hit around the end of the November with temperatures dropping into the teens for three or four nights. Look for several warm days in December with another cold spell toward the end of the month.

Excellent chances for a white Christmas or a white New Year's Day or even both.

A warming trend through much of January and February. Generally wet and drizzly. Miserable but not all that cold. Look for a good snow around the end of January that may linger around three or four days with several inches of accumulation. March is when the biggest snow of the season will fall. You might even call it a blizzard and that will be around the middle of the month and may be closer to the first of April. It will certainly snow one time in April and look for frost until the middle of May.

That's it, but frankly it doesn't sound all that mild to me. In any event NAWWWW suggests that you use one of those cute little magnets and tack the forecast to your calendar. They're sold by the Lexington Stations that they can get it right more often five months out than the weather people can in 24 hours.

All I can tell you to do is wait and see. In the meantime I'm buying about ten more coats of wool than I think I'll actually need.

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and aberrations from dear ole Wabst, birthplace of the late Dr. André L. DeFoliate, long-time Professor of Botany and Psychology at Milehigh University in Colorado, and part-time collector of broken bidets, who said, "Everybody is crazy, just in different ways. And those in the majority lock out, or lock up, those in the minority."

Speaking of crazy, I've known some souls who were and are, and have myself been put in that category only a week or so ago. A fellow from Level Green was talking with my portly brother-in-law about this very column and asked, "What planet is he from?"

And just a fortnight ago, at church, a lovely, white-haired old woman who has known me since I was a child, said, "You're crazy, but I still love you." I love it!

But, dear hearts, seriously speaking, there is something to be said for being crazy. And with your indulgence, I'll pursue that subject — state-of-mind (By the way, can you tell me in ten words or less just exactly what a "mind" is? O.K., try it in twenty words. And while you're at that, you might try to doing the same with "self," "soul," and "spirit.")

Now, beloved, I could take off on the meaning of "crazy" and it's kissing cousins, "madness" and "insanity." But I won't. Or, I could lay on you a passel of ponderous thoughts from the greats of the past, like George Bernard Shaw, Irish playwright and critic, who reasoned that we could use a few crazy people around, considering where the sane ones have handed us. And he died in 1950!

Or John Milton, the English poet:

*The mind is its own place,
And in itself
Can make a Heaven of Hell,
A Hell of Heaven.*

Or I could quote Erasmus, the Dutch humanist: "I doubt if a single individual could be found from the whole of mankind free from some form of insanity. The only difference is one of degree. A man who sees a gourd and takes it for his wife is called insane because this happens to very few people." (I like that!)

But ah, beloved, you can look up quotes as easily as I. So, let me go in a different direction and wax eloquent about one of the craziest characters I ever encountered — or so he seemed to some.

Now, this fellow — call him Zeke — was a preacher. (Most preachers are nuts, you know. That's not hard to understand, is it? A man — or a woman — who elects to spend his life putting up with a church house full of folks like you and me has to be a little daff. And more so, if he's a Baptist.)

Zeke was a different kind of nut. Some folks think he was a tad psychotic, maybe even catatonic (given to trances). He didn't mind telling you what he "saw" while in those trances.

Just as bizarre as some of things Zeke "saw" were some of the things he did.

Then he flipped and lay 40 days on his right side. Could the fact that he lay more on his left than his right mean he was a liberal? Yes, I know that's ridiculous, but you can hear things just a far-fetched every day from some of the "revs" on TBN.)

One day some folks passed by Zeke's house and spied him making a mud city. He worked long and carefully to shape it and to fashion a mud wall around it. But when it was completed, white passers by looked on, he took an iron skillet and leveled it in one fell swoop!

On another occasion, Zeke, in broad daylight, dug a ditch under his backyard fence and stealthily crawled back and forth through it carrying items of his household furniture.

Zeke never attended weddings or funerals. And when his wife died, he refused to cry.

And then there was the day he cooked a meal over an open fire in his front yard. It was a grain meal cooked on a cow dung fire!

And the day he whipped out a knife, cut off his beard, and threw it to the wind. And the day he took one of his sermons, ate it, and told folks it tastes like honey!

But oh, dear hearts, believe me when I tell you that there was method in Zeke's madness. For you see, in his days there were preachers on every street but none who tried to tell the truth — if they knew the truth. Zeke figured with all the false preaching going on about, he didn't stand a chance of being heard. So, he decided to get their attention in an entirely different manner — pantomime.

Oh yes, his contemporaries thought he was crazy at the time. But as time went by they saw what he was saying in those "stunts."

When Zeke flattened his mud city, he was only telling his hearers what would happen to their city. It would fall. And it did. An enemy conquered them.

His sneaking under the backyard fence was his way of telling his stubborn hearers that some of them would flee like that when the enemy came. Or that they would try to flee.

Zeke didn't cry when his wife died because of a far greater grief was coming on his beloved city.

And when that happened, food was so scarce a man would be glad to have a morsel of grain baked on dung.

Zeke's heard flying away in the wind was but a picture of the way his hearers would be scattered when the enemy came.

Yes, dear hearts, I'm talking about the biblical prophet, Ezekiel. If ever a man seemed crazy, it was he. If every a preacher's sermons were bizarre, his were. A few hearers, however, looked deeper and found something worthwhile — for the present and the future. Ezekiel is considered to be the "Father of Judaism." A crazy man? You'd better believe it.

Still, Ezekiel's strange figures and symbols — the vision of wheels within wheels with eyes on the rims, for example — easily lent themselves to fanaticism. And still do! Pondering those crazy, divine mysteries might have been profitable for the initiated, but they could be fatal to the immature. Consequently, Jewish rabbis forbid anyone under the age of 30 to read certain sections of Ezekiel's work. That might be a good thing to do nowadays — and ought to include The Book of Revelation on which fanatics feast.

Oops! The hour is late, and I grow weary. I'm over fifty and have lost my edge. I must go take my vitamins and take of other pills. So long until next week, the Almighty willing, of course. And watch out for the crazies — they just might have something to say, cloaked though it be in the bizarre.

Report to Kentucky

SENATOR WENDELL FORD

U.S. Senate, Washington, D.C. 20510

HEALTH REFORMS THAT GO THE EXTRA MILE

Since I'm not one myself, I have to admit I got a chuckle out of reading newspaper columnist Mike Royko's criticism of joggers. "It's unnatural for people to run around city streets unless they're thieves or victims," he wrote. "It makes people nervous. I know when I see someone running on my street, my instincts are to let the dog out after him."

But while you won't find me doing laps around the neighborhood, like most people I am concerned about the availability of quality health care.

To address those concerns, Congress not only passed health insurance reforms so Kentuckians will no longer have to worry about coverage if they change or lose their job, but we also enacted new protections for mothers and for those who suffer from mental illness.

Despite some opponents' attempts to put moderate health insurance reforms on the back burner, we were able to help 25 million Americans retain their health insurance coverage by:

- limiting exclusions for pre-existing conditions; ending "job-lock" by making health coverage portable;
- helping individuals who lose jobs maintain insurance coverage;
- increasing purchasing power of small businesses by allowing them to form coalitions;
- prohibiting insurers from denying coverage to employers with two or more employees; and
- increasing the social employer tax deduction for health insurance from 30 percent to 80 percent.

We also put a stop to drive-through baby deliveries, ensuring that new mothers can make decisions with their doctors and their families, instead of a health plan administrator. Under this change, mothers will be guaranteed a 48 hour stay after a normal delivery and a 96 hour stay after a cesarean section.

In response to queries over the disparity in coverage for mental illness, Congress took a landmark step forward in the effort to ensure fair health coverage in this area. Now insurance plans covering mental illness will have to provide the same limits on annual and lifetime coverage that they provide for physical illness.

These reforms demonstrate how many Americans can help without jeopardizing the integrity of the entire health care system, and without creating a huge new health care bureaucracy — two things the public made very clear they didn't want to see happen.

It's my hope that next year we can build on these successes with anti-gag clause legislation ensuring that patients can trust their doctor to give them all the information they need.

Right now, millions of Americans enrolled in HMOs or managed care arrangements are afraid that their doctor might be operating under a "gag" preventing them from discussing all the patient's treatment options. While we failed to win changes this year, I'm hopeful we'll do so next year.

So whether you're in training for a marathon or your athletic endeavors are limited to Monday night quarter backing, look to these reforms for improved health care coverage for you and your family.

Christmas in the Valley restores the Magic of the holiday

Remember when, as a child, the days leading up to Christmas held a magic all their own? When the anticipation of Christmas and the excitement of the holiday preparations was nearly too much to hold inside yourself? For far too many of us, this magic vanished, to be replaced by rushing stressfully through the season without the glimmer of the joy we felt as children.

Fortunately for the world-weary among us, there is a cure, a restorative to give us back the joy and wonder and magic of the days leading up to the year's most important holiday. That cure lies in a tiny village, "turned-wonderland" - Renfro Valley.

So important is the mission to restore the joyful spirit of the holidays that Renfro Valley dedicates nearly a full month to its Christmas in the Valley festivities. The event is a feast for the eyes and ears, but, more importantly, it is a balm for the heart. From every corner of the Village -- along the roof line of the quaint country church and log schoolhouse, from the clock tower of city hall, along the railings of the Mill Pond bridge, circling the eaves of the Old Barn and twinkling from every tree along Main Street -- thousands of sparkling lights turn Renfro Village into a wonderland. Santa's elves, candy canes and Christmas stockings greet the visitor at every turn. Quaint shops, featuring one-of-a-kind and hand-crafted treasures, welcome mall weary shoppers with their country charm. Strangers are greeted as warmly as neighbors along the sidewalks and somehow the hectic pace of everyday life seems far removed.

In this setting, it seems only natural to join the costumed carolers in a song or two or to pause to be entertained by elves clogging to lively Christmas tunes. Or to relax in the log-cabin charm of the Lodge Restaurant, awaiting a feast of home-cooked Southern favorites.

But the browsing, the caroling, the shopping and the dining are but preludes to the centerpiece of Christmas in the Valley, a live performance of the music and memories of Christmas past in the original production of "Christmas in the Valley." This 90-minute show brings Renfro Valley's best entertainers onto the New Barn theater stage to warm your heart with Christmas country style. If the Christmas spirit has eluded you thus far, your moment of redemption is at hand. The sincerity and charm of an extremely talented cast is about to work its magic.

All too often, the responsibilities of daily life leave little room for holiday joy. Rather than surrender to world-weariness, plan a visit that will renew your holiday spirit. Visit Christmas in the Valley. It is a short drive away in lovely Renfro Valley. Renfro Valley is located on U.S. Highway 25 near Mt. Vernon. The popular entertainment complex, which has earned its reputation as Kentucky's Country Music Capital, is just off Interstate 75 (exit 62), 45 minutes south of Lexington and two hours north of Knoxville, TN. The Renfro Valley complex includes two restaurants, motel and cabins, a full-service RV Park, two state-of-the-art show barn theaters, and charming Renfro Village with its crafts and specialty shops. For showtimes, reservations and information, call 800-765-7464 or 606-256-2638.

Hayes shows at Word Dairy Expo

Matthew Hayes of Cedar Springs Dairy Farm in Brodhead, Ky., has been on the road this summer and fall showing cattle. One particular heifer that has been doing great is Matthew's Jr. Guernsey calf. During the summer months Matthew showed at many county fairs across the state; he also showed his Jr. calf at many big shows.

Some of Matthew's accomplishments with his Jr. calf are as follows: Kentucky State Fair - 1st Place in Jr. Show and 2nd Place in Open Show; at the Tennessee State Fair this calf placed 2nd in her class. In Murfreesboro, TN this past weekend this calf was 1st Place in the Dairy Expo. On October 2nd Matthew showed his heifer at the World's Dairy Expo in Madison, Wisconsin where she was 2nd Place in the Jr. Show and 3rd Place in the Open Show and 1st Place Best Bred & Owned in the class. Congratulations to Matthew and his Jr. Guernsey calf on a job well done.

Udder health review can increase dairy profits

A timely review of udder health programs can mean more money for dairy farmers from the sale of additional milk as well as a quality premium from the milk cooperative or plant.

Any improvements in udder health, or mastitis control, can increase production, milk quality and profits for dairy farmers, said Bill Crist, dairy specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Crist suggested that farmers review the teat dip used. At least half of each teat needs to be covered in an effective dip after the milking machine is removed.

He said farmers who spray on teat dip should check to be sure all sides of the teats are being covered and that all teats, even those on the far side of the cow, are being sprayed.

"Most people who spray teat dip do not get good coverage," Crist said. "That is why the recommendation is to use a teat dipper instead of a sprayer."

A fall review of udder health also should be accompanied by a complete check of the milking machine and system to be sure it is functioning to capacity.

Daily tobacco market news available on toll-free hotline

Agriculture Commissioner Billy Ray Smith today announced that updated news from Kentucky's tobacco markets will be available each day of the market season from the Tobacco Information Hotline sponsored annually by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture and the Federal Tobacco Market News Service.

The hotline is free of charge to all callers and can be reached by dialing 1-800-432-9262.

"This is an important resource for tobacco producers, and we're glad to provide it," said Agriculture Commissioner Billy Ray Smith.

Preliminary information will be available on the hotline until the burley market officially opens Nov. 25. Up-to-date information will then be available as the burley, dark-fire and dark air-cured tobacco markets open.

The recorded messages will give average price farmers are receiving for their crops at different locations.

Fall important time for lawn care

With summer over, many gardeners take a vacation from lawn care. But fall is an important time to control weeds, remove leaves and trim and fertilize grass.

"Fall is the number one time of the year to control broadleaf weeds like dandelion, plantain, chickweed, henbit and clover," said A.J. Powell, Jr., turf specialist for the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

Powell said another advantage of fall broadleaf weed control is that grasses are actively growing and will fill in spaces the weeds occupied.

"It's very important to keep leaves off the lawn because they shade grass and this prevents growth of new tillers, or grass plants," he said. "While you can chop up leaves with a mower it's best to remove them, because accumulation of chopped leaves on the crown hurts new plant and stem development."

Fall also is an important time to properly mow and fertilize the lawn. "The calendar has no effect on when to stop mowing grass; keep mowing as long as grass is growing," he said. "Shorter grass maintains its greenness. Mow shorter in the fall than in the summer; grass should be no more than two inches tall going into the winter. Grass that is too tall tends to flop over and smother itself out. This can cause losses of up to half the grass density."

Mowing grass shorter and fertilizing in the fall produces a more lush lawn.

"Short grass allows more light penetration and this, plus a high-nitrogen fertilizer, produces new plants that thicken up the lawn," he said. "It also produces growth and green up several weeks earlier in the spring." Powell said applying a high-nitrogen fertilizer in the fall promotes root growth that increases lawn density without excessive top growth. Conversely, fertilizing in the spring decreases root growth while increasing top growth. This makes a lawn more susceptible to drought stress and means it has to be mowed more often. Spring fertilization also encourages diseases and growth of crabgrass and summer annual weeds.

"In the fall, apply fertilizer at the rate of one to one and a half pounds of actual nitrogen per 1,000 square feet," he said. "The percent nitrogen is the first number in the analysis on the fertilizer bag. To get one pound of actual nitrogen using ammonium nitrate (33-0-0), apply three pounds per 1,000 square feet. Three pounds of 33 percent nitrogen equals one pound of actual nitrogen. With a 10-10-10 fertilizer, apply 10 pounds per 1,000 square feet. Make two applications between now and the end of December."

"It's easier to control broadleaf weeds when they are actively growing in the fall."

"This time of year we have fewer sensitive plants in the yard that might be injured by drift or herbicide volatility. Winds usually are calmer, reducing the chance of drift. Don't depend on frost to control weeds; it stunts or kills the top but won't kill the crowns and roots."

Ford announces over $1.2 million in grants for emergency food and shelter

U.S. Senator Wendell Ford (D-KY) announced Wednesday that 71 counties and a State Set-Aside Committee in Kentucky will share in over $1.2 million from the Emergency Food and Shelter National Board Program.

Rockcastle County will receive $5,877.00 under the program. The grant range from a high of $25,191.00 to Jefferson County to a low of $5,748.00 for Butler County.

Ford said the Program awards grants around the country to supplement and extend ongoing efforts to provide shelter, food and supportive services for homeless and hungry individuals nationwide. Over $100 million will be distributed this year.

"I'm pleased that so many counties in Kentucky will be receiving these needed funds to help provide shelter and food for those in need," Ford said. "From operating food banks to helping citizens pay a monthly heat bill, these local non-profit and government agencies are making a difference in people's lives in times of need. I applaud them for their efforts, and know that will be money well spent."

The Program is governed by a National Board chaired by the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), and includes representatives from the American Red Cross, Catholic Charities, USA, The Salvation Army, United Way of America and other agencies.

Governor declares 4-H Week in Kentucky

Governor Paul Patton, Monday signed a proclamation declaring this week Kentucky 4-H week.

A delegation of 4-H'ers, representing more than 200,000 other Kentucky 4-H members, witnessed the signing of the proclamation in the governor's office Monday.

Visiting with the governor were Michael Odell Walker, Lyon County and David O'Barr, Oldham County.

Walker is president of Kentucky 4-H and O'Barr is secretary of the group. Accompanying the two were Joyce Clifford, Harrison County, who serves as president of the 4-H State Leader Council, and Sharon Garrett, program assistant for 4-H in Montgomery County.

In signing the proclamation, Governor Patton praised Kentucky's 4-H program as a "learn-by-doing" program that helps young people and adults gain knowledge through training and experience in diverse subject matter areas.

He added that 4-H promotes youth, family and community development, which benefits all Kentuckians.

This year's theme for the national 4-H promotion is "4-H: More Than You Ever Imagined." and

By Preston Parrett
He was waiting at the school door. And he wanted to enter in. For he wanted to enroll. So his education could begin.

He was dressed warmly. For he wore a black and brown coat. And he was wearing a leather student-aid necktie.

Around his unshaven throat. His nails were clean and shiny. And his teeth were pearly white. His hair was brushed until it shined. And his eyes were merry and bright.

He was a true brown noser. For he kissed everyone on the hand. The teachers thought he was an exchange student. Because his manners were impeccable grand.

We knew not his nationality. Or whether he came from near or far Kentucky's 4-H program is certainly most than many people imagine, said Dennis Goodman, Extension 4-H Youth Development specialist with the University of Kentucky College of Agriculture.

"This state has more than 200,000 young people and more than 26,000 adult leaders involved in 4-H programs," he said.

The Seniors took him to the counselor. Who tried to act cool. They said "They couldn't enroll him. Because he didn't have transcripts from another school."

The principal was in a meeting. Couldn't tell him his do's and don'ts. So they took him to the vice principal. To see if he could fulfill his wants.

The vice principal took one look. And broke down and cried. Said "You naughty Seniors should know. We don't allow dogs to come inside."

The vice principal led him to the door. And sent him on his way. But the Seniors furry friend. Was back the very next day.

Secretary of State establishes Home Page for candidates

Voters now have an opportunity to discover which issues Kentucky's congressional candidates consider most important.

Secretary of State John Y. Brown III announced today his office has established an Internet Home Page on the World Wide Web that will provide detailed, issue-oriented discussions written by nearly all of Kentucky's candidates for the U.S. Senate and the U.S. House of Representatives.

The "Kentucky Congressional Candidates' Profiles," located at www.state.ky.us/agencies/sos, is a non-partisan information service provided by Brown's office.

"Around election time, we're bombarded with sound bites and bumper stickers, attack ads and sloganeering, but voters really have very little access to in-depth discussion of issues straight from the candidates themselves," Brown said. "We wanted to use today's technology to give voters insight into the candidates' political priorities."

The candidates were asked to submit 100 to 150 word narratives on five issues they consider most important to Kentucky and the nation. They were offered several suggestions, including the Food and Drug Administration's regulation of tobacco, balancing the federal budget and welfare reform, to name a few.

Voters may find their selection of topics as interesting as their discussions of the issues.

All candidates listed on the ballot of the U.S. Congressional races responded to Brown's invitation with the exception of Edward Whitfield, a Republican candidate in Kentucky's First District, and Harold "Hal" Rogers, a Republican candidate in the Fifth District.

In addition to the essays, the web site features candidates' pictures and biographies. It is available through election day, Nov. 5.

"I encourage the media and anyone who finds the site helpful to tell others about where it is located," Brown said. "Spread the word. In today's political climate, voters must take the initiative to discover which candidates best reflect their own views."

Slashing Auto Insurance Costs

By vetoing the Product Liability Reform Bill several weeks ago, President Clinton missed an opportunity to correct some of the most glaring defects in the legal system. The fact is the system is too costly and fails to provide prompt and fair relief to those who are injured. Less than half of every dollar spent on lawsuits goes to the injured.

Spiraling legal costs exact a toll on every American family and business owner in the form of higher insurance premiums and ever-increasing costs for medical care. F.B.I. Director Louis Freeh estimates that fraudulent medical claims arising out of phony car accidents cost every American household $200 a year.

This legal system can be turned around with reforms that will ensure those who are injured are fairly and quickly compensated without resort to expensive and protracted litigation. This is why I have introduced two bills which take aim at the unnecessary costs of personal injury lawsuits. The result will be more money in the hands of the injured more quickly, and a massive savings to American consumers.

The Joint Economic Committee estimates that my "Auto Choice Reform Act" will save the driving public $40 billion annually in insurance costs. Savings would be progressive resulting in savings to low-income drivers of about 45% on their insurance premiums.

My other bill, the "Legal Reform and Consumer Compensation Act," designed to change the monopolistic and anti-competitive contingent fee system and to provide a rapid recovery mechanism for personal injury victims, would also provide substantial savings in the $45 billion paid annually in attorney contingent fees and the $4 billion paid in excess medical claims.

These dramatic savings are achieved without capping punitive damages or limiting the rights of victims. Rather, these bills expand consumer options. By adding a new type of auto insurance, new ways of paying victims fairly for their injuries, and breaking the contingent fee hold, Americans will see relief from the litigation burden that threatens to strangle every family and which burdens the overall economy.

In the meantime, every American pays the price—through higher car insurance premiums, spiraling medical bills, and soaring prices at the checkout counter. And the economy suffers due to slow growth and products, inventions and technologies withheld from the world's markets because of the cost of lawsuits. It's time we cut the tort tax and give every American relief from the costly legal system.

If you would like more information on the "Auto Choice Reform Act," the "Legal Reform and Consumer Compensation Act," or any other issue, please feel free to contact me at my office, 361-A Russell Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20510, or call (202) 224-2541.

Hounds ground Rockets

By: Richard Anderkin

The Rockets just didn't have enough firepower to shoot down those Hounds Friday night.

The battle of the unbent coats took place at the Rockcastle County Middle School before a crowd of approximately 3,000 fans.

What those fans saw was an excellent high school football game, which Corbin won 23-9.

"I'm proud of our kids. They played their hearts out, but Corbin was just a better team than us Friday night," head coach Tom Larkey said.

Turnovers, something the Rockets are very unaccustomed to were probably the major factor in the Rocket's first loss of the season and only second loss in regular season competition in two years.

The Rockets fumbled twice, once on a Corbin punt, that led to a Corbin score and once on the Rocket's five yard line that set up a score by the Redhounds on the next play.

"Things like that happen, you just have to overcome your mistakes, we didn't," Larkey said.

The Rockets by no means laid down for the Redhounds, holding them to just 237 yards of total offense, but the turnovers made the difference.

On the other hand the Rockets gained only 187 yards on offense with senior tailback Jon Cromer carrying the load.

Cromer packed the ball 25 times for 137 yards. The Rocket ironman also scored the team's only touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Although the Rockets coaching staff is upbeat and working as hard as ever after the loss Friday night, they now face many more obstacles than they did just two weeks ago when they prepared to take on Somerset.

One of the state's leading rushers, Jason Brown was, of course, severely injured in the Somerset game. He spent five days in the hospital, two of those in intensive care, after a spinal cord injury. He may be out for the rest of the season. He still hasn't returned to school.

But the Rockets injury list doesn't stop with Brown. The same night, fullback Andrew Carrera also received a slight concussion and was expected to miss only the Corbin game. However he hasn't practiced since the Somerset game and will not play again Friday night.

It gets worse. Sophomore line-backer and fullback Brooks Ingram, who is having an excellent year for a underclassman, is also out for Friday night's contest against the Cardinals. He, too, got a blow to the head in the first half of the Corbin game and although he returned for some action in the fourth quarter, doctors have sidelined him for Friday night.

And there is more. Sophomore starting guard Kevin Bradley received a rotator cuff tear and is listed as day to day. He is being held out of all contact this week. A decision on his status probably won't be made until Friday.

Also, junior offensive center and tackle, John LaFavers tore cartilage in his knee Friday night, but is expected to play on Friday.

"We're a little banged up, to say the least, but we've got some other kids that are ready to step up and play," Larkey said.

With Brown, Carrera and Ingram all out of Friday night's contest, Larkey has moved sophomore Andy Hale in to help Cromer, Chris Bishop and Dusty McClure with the running duties. Hale will also play some at his regular end position.

On the bright side from the Rocket's contest Friday night, placekicker Raymond Blackburn set a school record by kicking a 45 yard field goal in the second quarter to give the Rockets a 3-0 lead.

Blackburn also tied the school record for number of field goals in a season with two. He kicked one last week against Somerset. Blackburn joins Mike Hamilton, who accomplished the feat in 1986 and Curtis Cotton who did it in 1991. Hamilton was also the previous record holder for longest field goal with a 38 yarder also in 1986.

The Rockets may have had four turnovers Friday night, but Corbin had three. The only difference was Corbin's three turnovers didn't give the Rockets the kind of field position the Rocket turnovers gave Corbin.

Corbin fumbled twice, Slade Calhoun and Chris Bishop recovered those and they also threw an interception which was picked off by cornerback Ronnie Vanzant.

Brooks Ingram, David Coffey and Mike Muncy each picked up a quarterback sack, while quarterback/line-backer Malcolm Shepherd led the team with 11 tackles and assists.

Other Rocket defenders picking up tackles Friday night included Anthony King, 5, Brooks Ingram, 4, David Coffey, 6, Slade Calhoun, 2, Mike Muncy, 2, Jon Cromer, 5, Dennis Miller, 6, Chris Bishop, 5, Dusty McClure, 5, Ronnie Vanzant, 3, Andy Hale, 2.

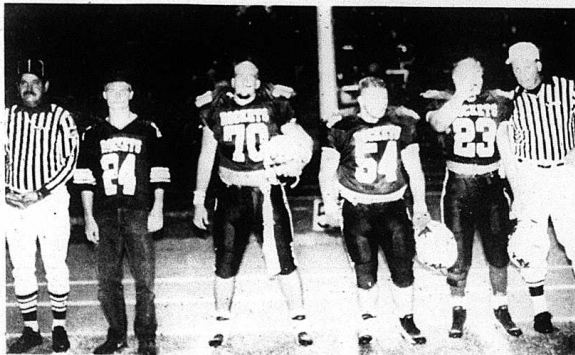

On offense, besides Cromer's 137 yards, Shepherd had 22 yards on six carries and 22 yards of passing on three completions in seven attempts. Shepherd also had two passes picked off.

Hale had five yards on one carry and Ingram had one yard on a carry. Andrew Gisker caught two passes for 15 yards and Bishop caught one pass for seven.

During halftime of the Rocket's game Friday night, all seniors will be honored.

Thirty-three football players, band members, dance team members, cheerleaders, color guard members and rifle team members and their parents will be recognized at halftime.

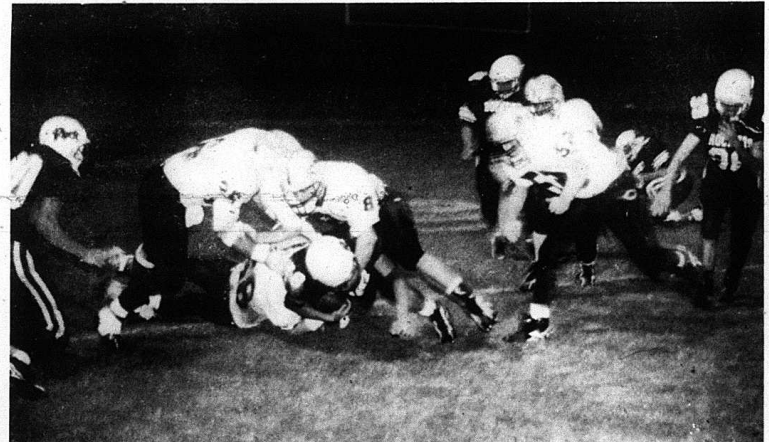

Game time is 8 p.m. and it is the last regular season home game for the Rockets.

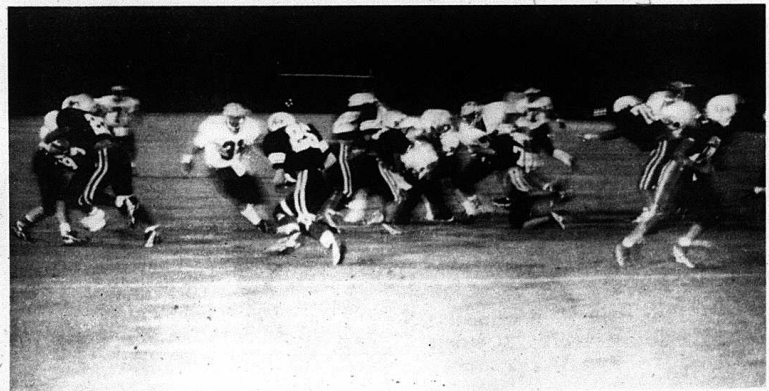

Injured Rockcastle County player Jason Brown took his position along side the other captions for Friday night's contest against Corbin. From left: Brown, captain Slade Calhoun, co-captains David Coffey and Jon Cromer. Cromer had 137 yards for the Rockets.

Rockcastle County Rockets tried to block Corbin's first extra point attempt Friday night to no avail. The kick gave Corbin a 7-3 lead over the Rockets at halftime. Shown above are Brooks Ingram, David Coffey, Dennis Miller and Mike Muncy.

Junior fullback Chris Bishop is shown above returning a Corbin Redhound kick to the Rocket's 40 yard line. Bishop also caught a pass Friday night for seven yards. Also in the photo is #39 William Henry Bryant.

Sophomore fullback Brooks Ingram follows #23 Jon Cromer and #2 Andy Hale through a hole in the Rocket line Friday night. Ingram suffered a concussion in Friday night's game and will miss this week's contest against Wayne County.

Firearm deer hunt days begin Oct. 19

Taking deer with muzzle-loading firearms is regaining some of its historic popularity. The obvious reason is that it gives firearm deer hunters more time in the field. Another reason is the challenge of taking a deer with just one well-aligned, well-planned shot.

On October 19 and 20 firearm deer hunters can take advantage of two more days in the field by using muzzle-loading firearms. These two days, as well as a five-day season December 14-20, will be muzzle-loader deer hunt days which run concurrent with deer archery season. Check special zone restrictions for antlered/antlerless deer. As always, during any gun deer season hunter orange requirements apply. These requirements are outlined in the Deer & Small Game Hunting and Trapping Guide.

New youth gun hunt weekend goes into effect

For two consecutive days, beginning the fourth Saturday in October (Oct. 26-27), persons under the age 16 will be allowed to hunt deer with firearms or archery equipment. This special season allows young people, under supervision by an adult, to learn the skill of deer hunting without the competition from older, more experienced deer hunters.

During this weekend junior hunters may take deer of either sex in zones 1-4 and antlered deer only in 5-7. Participants must be accompanied by an adult who shall be in a position to take immediate control of the junior hunter's firearms at all times while hunting. Participants must also comply with hunter education and hunter orange clothing requirements.

Adults accompanying junior hunters during this season must not carry firearms and must also comply with hunter orange clothing requirements.

Easter Seal basketball fever underway

The 17th Annual Rick Pitino Wildcat Basketball Shootout is underway for the 1996-97 season with schools registering statewide to participate. Chaired by Coach Rick Pitino, the event raises funds for Easter Seal programs throughout Kentucky. The Shootout is sponsored by Dairy Queen Restaurant and Toshiba-Triple M Business Products, Inc.

Students participate in the Shootout by soliciting sponsors to pledge them for each basket made during a 3-minute period. Prizes are awarded to students based on the amount of money they raise. The boy and girl who raise the most money statewide will sit behind the players' bench at a Wildcat home game and will take a post-game trip to the players' locker room.

Last year, $102,687.63 was raised by 42 schools who participated in the Shootout for Easter Seals during the 16th Annual Rick Pitino Wildcat Basketball Shootout. St. Lawrence Elementary School in Louisville was again the top fundraising school in the state by collecting $12,000 for Easter Seals. Josh Anderson raising $1,722 from Harlow Elementary and Kristy Jenkins raising $1,468 from Morganfield were the top boy and girl in the state.

Corporate underwriting of the Shootout enables the funds collected

"Women - Look Before You Leap"

We have all read about the gender gap that is plaguing Bob Dole. We are told he has lost the interest of moderate women because he cannot relate to the challenges of our lives. As a woman who is supporting Bob Dole, I am frustrated that many women are turning their backs on Bob Dole and Jack Kemp. I'm also concerned that so many women are going to stay home on election day. Kentucky has the lowest percentage of women voters in the nation. When you consider how long and hard we have fought for the right to vote, this is a terrible shame!

Let me tell you a little about who I am and why I'm voting for Bob Dole. I am the proud mother of two active teenagers. Like most women, I've worn different hats at the various stages in my life. I have been a stay-at-home mom, a single mom, and a working mom. But one thing has never changed—I have always voted.

Bob Dole and Jack Kemp represent the party of self-reliance, low taxes, and small government. The Republican party in general and Bob Dole in particular don't pander to women or any other subset of American society, and I appreciate that. Bob Dole speaks to us as Americans, not as members of a particular group or special interest. Bob Dole views women as individuals, not as a voting block.

I have had the opportunity to speak with many, many women. They are the course of this campaign and heard the concerns they all share. Women today are feeling stretched—they are working full time, trying to raise their families, and are barely keeping their head above water. They are particularly worried about the quality of care their children are receiving when they are working and unable to be with them. I have heard women say they are working harder, but not getting ahead, and that they don't have enough time to be with their families. Bob Dole understands our frustrations with the never ending demands of modern life, and he wants to help. By reducing our tax burden, Dole hopes that men and women will be able to spend more time with their families, and less time working to pay the IRS. Under the Dole plan you can have a $500 per child tax credit and a 15% tax cut the average Kentucky family will save $1,622.00 annually for college tuition, retirement or however they see fit. The choice is clear, you can either makeout a check for $1,622.00 to the IRS or you can make out a check to yourself. You decide.

Bob Dole also understands that these issues are family issues, not just women's issues. Just what exactly are these "women issues" that Bill Clinton talks about? I personally have always been insulted by Bill Clinton's efforts to pigeonhole women into certain issues. It's an affront to both men and women. Don't men care about the education of their children?

Don't women care about tax rates? The message I get from Bill Clinton and Al Gore is, "Girls, you worry about family issues and let us boys worry about the big stuff, economic and foreign policy." By singling us out for special treatment Bill Clinton and Al Gore are marginalizing us. I don't want special treatment. I just want to be treated like a man.

There is one final reason I am supporting Bob Dole and it is something Bill Clinton and the media don't want us to talk about—Character. The ancient Greeks knew that character was destiny. You see, Bob Dole has it and Bill Clinton doesn't. There is no comparison on this issue. We cannot trust Bill Clinton to keep his word on anything. He serves as a terrible example for our impressionable children. I am embarrassed that our President is the defendant in a sexual harassment lawsuit (a first in our nation's history). I was appalled when Clinton said on MTV that he would inhale next time if given the chance. Maureen Dowd, the New York Times columnist, calls the Clinton Presidency the "Limbo Presidency". Inch by inch Clinton lowers the standards and then we lower the bar to accommodate him. And I have not forgotten about Whitewater, Travelgate, Filegate, and Clinton's demagoguery on Medicare. We as parents spend a lot of time steering our children away from drugs. Clinton has sent a different message, however, by tolerating drug usage in our White House. Bob Dole may not be as glib or as telegenic as Clinton, but he's a man of substance and a man of honor. That should matter!

This is one woman who is saying, "no thanks" to Bill Clinton's over-scension and his invitation to make me feel like a helplessness victim of male oppression. I am casting my vote for Bob Dole because he takes women seriously. He doesn't take our votes for granted. I urge all women to rally those who are sitting on the fence, to take a good hard look at Bob Dole—you'll like what you see.

The simple hop of a child . . . a big leap toward a cure

Public and private schools throughout Kentucky and Southern Indiana are invited to sponsor the most popular event of the year—the Leukemia Society's Hop-A-Thon. This is a perfect way to channel a child's energy into a worthwhile and educational experience while earning gifts for your school and helping children fight leukemia. Teachers who have participated in the past are impressed with how easy it is to plan, and just how much money can be raised by . . . Hoping!

Not only is "Hopping for Leukemia" fun, it makes a difference! It teaches children about health, setting personal goals, and most importantly, helping others who aren't as healthy as themselves. Leukemia is a disease of the blood and is the number one disease killer of children. It makes children very weak so they can't run, play, or even walk far without becoming really tired. Each year, thousands of youngsters are diagnosed with leukemia and other related cancers. More than one third of them do not survive. Your students can make a difference...the simple hop of a child is one big leap toward a cure for leukemia!

Last year, over 600 schools and daycare centers nationwide "Hopped for Leukemia", raising almost $500,000! (That's about a dime a Hop, in "Hop-Speak.") This year, we're hoping to double-Hop! Researchers believe that, with the necessary funding, they can accomplish their goal—to eradicate leukemia and its related cancers by the year 2000. We're Hoping to make it happen! Participation is as easy as Hopping. Choose the day for your Hop-A-Thon, then enroll your school. The Leukemia Society's Hop Coordinators will send you everything you need to run a successful program—free. For more information, simply Hop-Skip-Jump to the nearest telephone and call the Leukemia Society office at (502) 584-8490 or 1-800-955-2566 (outside Louisville).

SECURING A STABLE FUTURE FOR TOBACCO FARMERS

Kentucky writer and farmer Wendell Berry wrote that "Though I would just as soon get along without it, a humbling awareness of the complexity of moral issues is said to be a good thing. If such an awareness is, in fact good -- and if, in fact, have it -- I have tobacco to thank for it."

Like Berry, any awareness I have of moral complexities is also thanks to tobacco. Now I know there are some people who don't think there's anything at all complex about the tobacco issue. For them it's simply money versus morality.

There is no family business. There is no tradition. There is no farmer. And perhaps most disturbing -- there is no appetite for reason.

That's something that we seem to be in short supply in Washington. From those who are determined to regulate an industry out of business to those who would rather play politics than protect our farmers. These opportunists are thinking only of themselves and tomorrow rather than all of us and tomorrow. And in the process, teenagers keep smoking, farmers fret about their futures, and the litigation continues.

I'll admit that when it comes to Kentucky, I can be as hard as a bull's head. But, on the issue of teen smoking, I've been as reasonable as they come. I am one of the biggest defenders of tobacco, yet one year ago I introduced legislation putting restrictions on the tobacco industry in an effort to reach a reasonable solution to the problem of teen smoking.

Don't get me wrong. I'm as angry as I can be that the FDA is being given jurisdiction over tobacco. Bringing in the FDA will only create a whole new bureaucracy when tobacco is already regulated by at least seven federal agencies, including USDA, HHS, BATF, IRS, SAMSHA, EPA, and the FTC.

But despite my frustrations and complete opposition to FDA regulation, I know that simply ignoring the problem is not going to fly, just as putting tobacco out of business is not going to fly.

With good reason, tobacco supporters are deeply troubled that the FDA regulations go beyond what is needed to target youth smoking. We don't believe Dr. Kessler's desire to reduce smoking is his only motivation for regulating tobacco, and the regulations themselves further undermine his credibility on the issue.

To counter this and the possibility of endless litigation, the only answer is to find a legislative solution. Unfortunately, instead of working with me over the past year to come up with a legislative solution for my farmers, many in Congress have chosen to use the FDA regulations as a campaign rallying cry. But while they're stonewalling to win the tobacco farmers' vote today, where will they be if the courts rule against our farmers tomorrow? They must be prepared to answer for their inaction.

No matter who is in the White House next January, you've got a problem that is going to be solved one of two ways -- in the courts or in Congress. It's a fact that farmers have a bigger voice in the halls of Congress than they do in a court room. Without a legislative solution, we're forcing farmers to play Russian Roulette with the court system and giving them an uncertain and ambiguous future.

I introduced my legislation because I am fiercely opposed to government interference in the legal decisions of adults in this country. I introduced this legislation because I believe someone needs to truly look out for the tobacco farmers' interests. And I introduced this legislation because I believe the problem of teen smoking calls for reason not rhetoric.

I hope my colleagues and those affected by this issue will work with me so we can return to our farm families not only a sense of security and stability, but a sense of dignity about the work they do.

American Employers Recognize Ability to Hire

By Tony Coebo, Chairman, President's Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities

(DM)—As America celebrates October as National Disability Employment Awareness Month, recent data from the U.S. Census Bureau reveals American employers are discovering the competitive advantage of hiring people with disabilities, the most underutilized yet highly skilled and talented labor pool in this country. In just three years -- from 1991 to 1994 -- the employment ratio for persons with severe disabilities increased from 23% to 26%. This means that approximately 800,000 more severely disabled individuals were working in 1994.

Two Coebo says that in 1991 -- a significant increase for a group that historically has had the hardest time gaining employment.

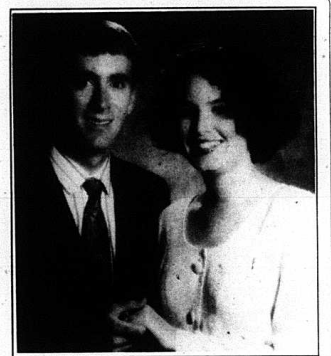

What's the reason behind this good news? Certainly, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) has broadened awareness of the talents, skills and abilities of people with disabilities; but more important, the act itself has had perhaps the most significant effect. In high-profile jobs on network television and in routine, everyday jobs in thousands of ordinary workplace settings, people with disabilities are proving day in and day out that they make excellent, dedicated workers contributing to the bottom line of the companies for which they work.

Yet while we have made progress in the hiring of Americans with disabilities, millions remain unemployed and eager to work. The ADA may prohibit open discrimination against people with disabilities but it cannot force fairness. We must expand opportunity. Working together, we can change not only physical barriers but attitudinal barriers as well. That's what October is all about.

If you would like to learn more about job accommodations and the employability of people with disabilities, call the Job Accommodations Network, a toll-free service of the President's Committee on Employment of People with Disabilities, at 1-800-ADA-WORK.

How to prepare for an earthquake--and anything else

- Prepare an emergency kit, stocked with essential supplies.
- Know how to turn off the gas, power and water. They may cause problems, including fires, after an earthquake.
- Anchor taller, heavy items to walls and move heavy items to lower shelves.
- Plan family, school and workplace emergency responses; conduct drills and make arrangements to reunite family members if a quake happens while the family is apart.
- Know how to respond during a quake:
  - Drop, cover and hold* if you're inside
  - If outside, move away from structures
  - Pull over and stop if you're in a car

Best students name best teachers for 1996 Who's Who Directory

A select group of America's teachers are being honored by their toughest critics...their former students, in the fourth edition of Who's Who Among America's Teachers, 1996. Ten Rockcastle teachers are included in the 120,000 teachers being honored across the county by being selected by their former students who themselves are currently listed in Who's Who Among American High School Students, or The National Dean's List publications which recognize 5% of our nation's high school and college students, respectively. Paul Krouse, publisher, said,

"there is no greater honor teachers can receive than to be recognized by former students for their excellence and dedication. In this publication, we clearly have the best teachers in America selected by the best students."

Teachers from the county included in the publication are: Dottie S. Williams, Brodhead Elementary; Ruth Allen, Trina Bustle, William Lynch, Cathy Short, James Wells and Dale Whitaker, all from RCHS; Mary H. Belcher and Pamela C. Martin from RCMS and Michael D. Roark from Mt. Vernon Elementary.

The students were requested to nominate teachers who "made a difference in their lives" by helping to shape their values, inspiring interest in a particular subject and/or challenging them to strive for excellence.

Many of the students commented about the enthusiasm and knowledge their teachers demonstrated in the classroom and many praised their teachers for their ability to relate to youngsters on a personal as well as a professional level. One student wrote about her teacher saying, "she made education something pleasurable, instead of a dreadful ordeal, by letting me spread my wings and showing me the best way to fly."

Kiwanis part of historic gathering

By Bev. Rockwell

The Cumberland Gap Tunnel, slated to open later this month, was visited last week by members of the Kiwanis Club of Rockcastle County, seven other Kiwanis Clubs throughout Kentucky, one from Harrogate, Tennessee and a club from as far away as Indiana. The reason for the gathering was to install the new officers and directors of the Middleboro, Tennessee Club and those of the Wilderness Road Kiwanis Club of Harrogate, Tennessee. Meeting at the half way mark of the tunnel, the Kiwanis representatives were treated to a "first look" at this remarkable example of engineering technology. In addition, everyone enjoyed the fact that this was a first ever assemblage of Kiwanis clubs from joining states at such an historic building project.

Rockcastle County Kiwanis Club members present were: Kiwanis past-LT. Gov. of the Ky., Tenn., District Division 6, Geraldine Mize and a past-president of the Rockcastle club: past-presidents Calvin Mize, Lee Keene, and Lorin Rockwell. Club member Henry Robbins; reporter, Bev. Rockwell and Pat Keene also attended.

Kiwanis clubs participating were from Corbin, Laurel Co., London, Pineville, Middleboro, Wilderness Rd. Tenn., and a club from Indiana.

Seniors celebrate games!

The Rockcastle County Senior Citizens had a busy month in September! We had a variety of interesting activities and socialization at each of our centers as well as great lunches. The big event this month was the Senior Games held at Williamsburg, Kentucky!

Senior Games is an annual event, sponsored by the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, where Rockcastle County seniors are joined by seniors from surrounding counties in skill and endurance challenging games. They competed in softball throw, horseshoes, shuffleboard, a checkers tournament, casting, and other events. Everyone enjoyed the carnival games for which they also won prizes.

Following the games, a wonderful lunch was served, entertainment was provided and award were given for the best players. Nine (9) gold medals were taken by the Brodhead Adult Day Center participants. Livingston had five winners and Mt. Vernon had ten! Congratulations to each of you! You can be sure we are all looking forward to next year!

Senior Games is only one of the fun things that Rockcastle Seniors are involved in. Visit your local Senior Center and join the activities!

Tobacco groups oppose federal regulations

Kentucky burley growers joined forces with Louisville tobacco workers last Thursday to oppose federal regulation of tobacco products. The two groups rallied at a downtown Louisville park, just hours before a nearby political appearance by President Bill Clinton. Spokesmen for three Kentucky farm groups expressed their opposition to Clinton's plan to place tobacco under the regulatory jurisdiction of the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. Kentucky Farm Bureau Vice President Marshall Coyle, a Bath County farmer, told the rally audience that tobacco carries a big economic punch in the Louisville area. The industry provides thousands of jobs at a Philip Morris cigarette plant, at the headquarters of Brown and Williamson, and a score of agribusiness and retail firms which supply tobacco growers, warehouses and manufacturers. Paul Hornback, who produces burley tobacco in Shelby County, said FDA regulation could wreck the tobacco economy, but would likely have little impact on youth access to tobacco products. Hornback, vice chairman of the Council for Burley Tobacco, said Kentucky's low sales, setting stiff penalties for new factories to minors, will prove to be a more effective approach in curbing youth smoking.

Ron Kuegel, a Daviess County grower who serves as president of the Burley Tobacco Growers Cooperative Association, said the FDA rules go far beyond their stated intention of protecting young people. He said the FDA bureaucrats are trying a back-door approach to regulating adults' smoking through advertising restrictions and marketing curbs.

"They're shooting at smokers of all ages," Kuegel said, "and in the process, they're placing our communities, churches and school systems in jeopardy all across Kentucky."

Well-known farm broadcaster Jack Crowner emceed the tobacco rally. He was surrounded on the Jefferson Square park stage by several large pro-farmers, including one which read, "Mr. President: No Tobacco - No Village."

The banner's message played off the phrase, popularized by President Clinton and his wife Hillary, that "It takes a village to raise a child." Crowner noted that hundreds of communities - or villages - around the state of Kentucky would find themselves in dire financial straits if Kentucky's chief cash crop is eliminated.

"Kiwanis part of historic gathering"

Officiating at the ceremony were Lt. Col. of the Ky. Tenn. District Division 6, Matt Smallwood, from the Laurel Co. club, Harry Houe, President of the Middleboro, Ky. club and Joyce Ricker, president of the Wilderness Road Club.

The twin vehicular tunnels, joining Kentucky and Tennessee, are approximately a mile in length. The project is funded by the Federal Highway and National Park Services. "The project will reroute traffic from America's second largest national historic park with minimal environance company. You may get a portion of your money back (yeah, right!). The DA says he can't help because the officer did not do an investigation. The thieves are having a ball laughing at the law. In the meantime you may have to stand on the street corner or steal to feed your kids and pay the bills. I mean what the hay, nobody cares right?

mental impact." Before construction began, years of study by several design consultants and construction firms went into the planning of this monumental undertaking.

A trip through the tunnels might, in time, seem a rather routine trip. But, for those of us who have witnessed this creation, it represents a tremendous advance in tunnel construction and rerouting of a major highway. The effort will "enable the restoration of the area to resemble as closely as possible the path used by the pioneers of the late 1700's - all while adhering to ongoing concerns for safety. National Park Service interests, and the Gap's unique environment."

Members of the Kiwanis Clubs privileged to attend the ceremony and tour of the Cumberland Gap Tunnel will always remember the event. The project is an awe inspiring undertaking, which brings to mind the saying by Thomas Carlisle, "The block of granite which was an obstacle in the pathway of the weak becomes a stepping stone in the pathway of the strong."

Odobenus Rosmarinus

The walrus has developed a thick layer of fat to protect itself from the cold.

This fat layer, also called blubber, is approximately 20 cm (8 inches) thick and provides the insulation key to its survival.

When Mother Nature was handing out protection against the elements, she left humans out in the cold. Fortunately, there's electric heat from Kentucky Utilities Company. Electric heat is safe and clean. And thanks to KU's low rates, you can afford to make yourself as comfortable as you please. Even if nature didn't dress you for cold weather, relax...KU's got you covered.

Ms. Sexton is speaker at Virginia symposium

Beverly Carter Sexton, a health educator with the Rockcastle County Health Department, recently spoke at a symposium of farmers and anti-smoking activists whose aim is to grow trust and heal wounds created by the tobacco and health debate.

Ms. Sexton recalled an incident when a man she was talking with stuck some chewing tobacco in his toddler's mouth to quiet the child. Sexton grew up in a tobacco-growing family, she said. And she meets with a lot of hostility when she talks about the health dangers of tobacco use.

"My family resents somebody out there trying to take tobacco away from them," she said.

Participants who came from six southeastern states, seemed to agree that both the economic health of tobacco communities and the physical health of tobacco users are important. They also agreed that simply telling farmers to grow some other crop will not help them face the upheaval wrought by new public policies regarding tobacco.

Health professionals outnumbered tobacco growers among the 145 people at the meeting. Many farmers who might have participated are now busy trying to save crops damaged by Hurricane Fran.

The meeting's organizers made a special effort to get health professionals to the meeting because of their need to better understand the impact of anti-smoking trends on tobacco growers, according to Rebecca Reeve, director of the Virginia Tobacco Communities Project at the University of Virginia.

Sexton may have best summed up

"It is Written"

In Luke 12:51-54 we read, "Suppose ye that I am come to give peace on earth? I tell you, Nay; but rather division: For from henceforth there shall be five in one house divided, three against two, and two against three. The father shall be divided against the son, and the son against the father; the mother against the daughter, and the daughter against the mother; the mother in law against her daughter in law, and the daughter in law against her mother in law." Again Jesus teaches us in Matthew 10:34-37, "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth: I came not to send peace, but a sword. For I am come to set a man at variance against his father, and the daughter against her mother, and the daughter in law against her mother in law. And a man's foes shall be they of his own household. He that loveth father or mother more than me is not worthy of me; and he that loveth son or daughter more than me is not worthy of me." Jesus teaches us a very important concept in these passages.

When it comes to serving the Lord there are times that issues of truth will be at stake and that we must be willing to stand with Jesus. Households have been divided over the teachings of Jesus. Think in the first century when Jews were sometimes converted to Christ and their proud unbelieving relatives would disown them. Yes, a man's "foes" (or "enemies") would be those of his own household. Families torn asunder because of the Lord's teachings, three accept them and two reject them, or two accept them and three reject them. Even today, families and close friends have been set at "variance" (to cut apart, divide in two.) Nine) over issues like baptism and the plan of salvation, over the singleness of the Lord's church, over an issue like divorce and remarriage; over the issue of instrumental music in worship, over matters like homosexuality. Jesus tells us that we must love him more than father or mother, son or daughter. There is a temptation that comes when those of our own family err and reject the truth, to compromise in order to accommodate and get along. Those in error sometimes will demand that we accept their sin, but the faithful know this cannot be! Yes, we should seek to get along and be at peace with our family and neighbors. Romans 12:18. Hebrews 12:14, but this does not mean peace at any price!

Local sophomore member of award winning EKU society

A Broadhead resident is a member of a prestigious Eastern Kentucky University sophomore honor society that was recently recognized as one of the nation's best.

Chris Hurt is a member of EKU's chapter of Lambda Sigma Society, which received the highest honor bestowed by the organization, the Honor Chapter. Of 36 campus chapters nationwide, only about 20 chapters were so recognized, according to Dr. Ron Wolfe, co-advisor along with Dr. John Gump.

Lambda Sigma is a national honor society for sophomores—men and women of all academic disciplines. They join for the purpose of fostering leadership, scholarship, fellowship and the spirit of service. At EKU, Lambda Sigma has a rich history of campus and community service, Wolfe said.

Consideration for membership in Lambda Sigma is an honor in itself, Wolfe said. The chapter takes applications from all freshmen with at least a 3.3 GPA, then accepts only those applicants (up to 50, out of as many as 150) who survive a selection process that includes an application review interview and informative and social meetings.

"We even look at their activities in high school," Wolfe said. "Anyone who had a 4.0 GPA their first semester at Eastern but had no activities in high school probably wouldn't get selected."

In recent years, members in Eastern Kentucky Sigma Society have:

- delivered Meals on Wheels to the community's elderly and shut-in; tutored school children.
- helped to build a playground for the children in Brockton, the family housing area on campus.
- hosted cross-cultural mixers for EKU's international students, as well as collecting coats and sweaters for them.

•constructed a flower garden for a Richmond woman with a disability.

•organized food drives in EKU's residence halls.

"Lambda Sigma gives students a really good opportunity to develop a sense of service, leadership skills and friendships that last a lifetime," Wolfe said. "they will have to work at it, but the students are willing to get involved in lots of activities."

Because the membership changes completely every year, Lambda Sigma faces challenges that many groups don't.

"They have to hit the ground running," Wolfe said, "but by the end of the year, they say it was worth it."

For more information about Lambda Sigma at EKU, call Wolfe at 606-622-1871 or Gump at 606-622-1382.

Poynter completes basic training

Navy Seaman Recruit Marty J. Poynter, son of Marquita L. Hamilton of Route 4, Mt. Vernon, recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill. During the eight-week program, Poynter completed a variety of training which included classroom study, practical hands-on instruction, and an emphasis on physical fitness. In particular, Poynter learned naval customs, first aid, fire fighting, water safety and survival, and a variety of safety skills required for working around ships and aircraft.

Poynter and other recruits also received instruction on the Navy's core values—honor, courage, and commitment—and what the words mean in guiding personal and professional conduct. Poynter joins 55,000 men and women who will enter the Navy this year from all over the country.

Men and women train together from their first day in the Navy just as they do aboard ships and at shore commands around the world. To reinforce the team concept, Poynter and other recruits also were trained in preventing sexual harassment and ensuring equal opportunity.

Even as the naval service gets smaller over the next few years, highly motivated young people like Poynter are still finding an opportunity to improve their knowledge and education as they become part of the most highly technical naval force in history. This year alone, the Navy will have more than 57,000 job openings and opportunities, most of which include guaranteed training.

TANK veteran plans to ride last bus out of Dixie Terminal

(Reprinted from The Cincinnati Enquirer, Thursday, October 3, 1996)

By Carol Ream

The last trolley operator in Northern Kentucky said he'll be on the last bus out of the Dixie Terminal in Cincinnati on October 18.

Rising from bus driver to operations director, Bobby G. Mason, 63, gave 40 years to Northern Kentucky's public bus system. He played a role in the creation and survival of today's Transit Authority of Northern Kentucky (TANK).

A native of Rockcastle County, Mr. Mason is married to the former Norma Jean Murphy and is the son of George Mason of Orlando and the late Mary-Mason and the step son of Gladys Mason.

Last week, TANK's board of directors kicked off his retirement with a gold watch and lifetime TANK pass. The board also dedicated its dispatch center in Fort Wright to Mr. Mason, naming it the Bobby Gene Mason Dispatch Center.

But none of that could be done before Mr. Mason promised to be on that last bus out of the Dixie Terminal.

"I'll drive it if they want me to," he said of the bus that departs at 12:45 a.m. Oct. 18.

The bus system, unable to secure a lease with Dixie Terminal owners since its contract expired in December, 1994, will cease operations from the terminal after 60 years. The last full day of operations will be Oct. 17.

Mr. Mason began his career with the old Green Line, after being laid off as a railroad worker.

"I didn't know where Monmouth Street was in Newport. I thought I'd stay long enough to paint the house, and it's been 40 years," he said.

He also was a toll man for the company, which owned the 12th Street bridge between Newport and Covington, collecting 10 cents a car to cross the Licking River.

He is the last remaining TANK employee to have driven the electric trolleys, which operated in Covington and Newport until the 1960s.

In 1972, Mr. Mason was a key player behind overwhelming voter support of a bond issue to buy out the Green Line and create TANK.

In 1978, he canvassed neighborhoods again for passage of a ballot issue to permanently fund bus operations, today providing 60 percent of TANK's income.

For 19 years, Mr. Mason was a dispatcher, scheduling 134 drivers. He became operations director in 1990.

He is credited with starting a driver-training program that won national attention in 1992 for reducing driver accidents by 35 percent to 40 percent.

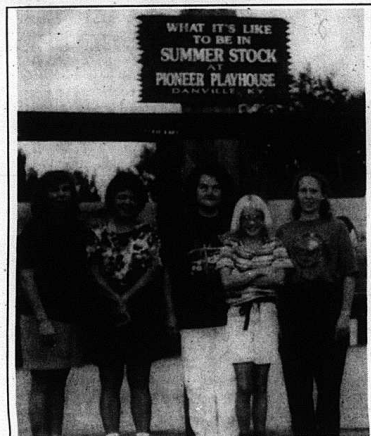

Also in 1992, Mr. Mason began incentive and discipline programs that reduced absenteeism so effectively, it trimmed $200,000 a year off TANK overtime.

Congratulations,
 Uncle Bobby
 I Love You, Alicia

"Traveling John" Sullivan travels to Roundstone

Roundstone Elementary students were recently treated to travels all across Kentucky by the well-known Channel 27 Reporter, John Sullivan. Mr. Sullivan, who is well-known for his weekly features on interesting people and places across Kentucky, had recently visited Ron and Janice Owens at their Mockingbird Hill home on Clear Creek while the children were at school. Mr. Sullivan left word with the Owens family that he would come and visit the girls' school sometime.

Third grader Jill Owens and fifth grader, Jenna Owens made sure their teachers set up a visit with the WLEX reporter, and they and their classmates scheduled their program for the Media Center. "Traveling John" Sullivan brought a variety of interesting Kentucky items to the students by way of video. He told the classes about his work and how fortunate he felt himself to be able to have such an enjoyable job. He encouraged the students to become "good communicators," and to believe in themselves. The students thoroughly enjoyed their visitor and gave a hearty round of applause when they were treated to the "Traveling On" segment featuring Jill's and Jenna's artist parents.

"Traveling John" Sullivan was at Roundstone Elementary recently to share with students his travels all across Kentucky.

First Baptist to show dramatic film "The Homecoming"

Peer pressure. . . . The need to belong. . . . Choices.

Jordy Rembrandt (Jeremy Peter Johnson) is a big-city tough guy who's faced with these issues in ways he hasn't experienced before.

When a judge decides to send him away from the city, hoping for a turnaround, Jordy finds himself in a small-town high school. He understandably looks and feels out of place. But despite their obvious differences, Jordy is immediately befriended by Wally (G. Riley Mills) and Pam (Aimee Garcia). They form an unlikely friendship that eventually teaches Jordy what it means to be a friend and to belong.

With the homecoming football game and an intense rivalry with a neighboring school forming the background for THE HOME COMING, we find Jordy struggling with how to fit in this vastly different world. He finds that even becoming a star athlete doesn't supply all the answers. Pam, too, is faced with a choice to honor the boundaries she's set for herself as a young Christian, or to cross those boundaries as feelings for Jordy grow. Wally has his own struggles to deal with as a "physically challenged" teen striving for acceptance, but remains the strength the others come to lean on.

THE HOME COMING - a brand-new dramatic movie from World Wide Pictures, the motion picture ministry of the Billy Graham Evangelist Association - speaks to everyone who's had to struggle with peer pressure, belonging and making the right choices. . . in other words, all of us.

Pastor Maynard Head and the congregation of First Baptist Church would like you to attend their showing of this outstanding new film.

THE HOME COMING will show on October 18, at 10:30 p.m. and October 20, at 7:00 p.m. at First Baptist Church on West Main and Craig Streets in Mt. Vernon. For more information, please call the church office at (606)256-2922.

Library News

By Geraldine Robbins

The Bittersweet Festival was a great success for the staff that participated in the booth and the Storybook Parade. We enjoyed seeing many of our friends that are not regular patrons at the library. We handed out flyers and bookmarks to all those that came by and those that bought our sale books were given bookbags, the flyers gave information about the library staff, board of trustees, services, new books purchased in September, exhibits and events that will be happening in the library during October and November.

We are planning on having the Storybook Parade each year but hopefully the timing will be better next year and a stage will be available for the children to be recognized for their costumes.

Don't forget our "Great Pumpkin Night" at the library October 29th at 6:30 p.m. Children should come in costume and prizes will be given in some categories. We will have pumpkin decorating. The children may bring their own pumpkins or we will have some for sale at $1.00 each. Please let us know in advance if you do want to buy one. There will also be story telling and refreshments will be served.

Things are looking up at the library. The painting has been started and shingles are here and hopefully they will be put on soon or at least before the weather gets too bad. Also, we are expecting to have our new computer to be hooked online to internet by October 19th. The public will not have access to go online for a short time. The staff has to be prepared with at least one person here at all time to give assistance to the patrons.

But we are certainly closer then we were at the beginning of this fiscal year. At that time we were not sure just when the library would be able to purchase the needed equipment. We have the promise of a very generous donation which will help tremendously. More information will be available about the source of this donation later.

We at the library feel the responsibility to be able to give any service that is required by our patrons. The budget is limited and it is not always possible to achieve this without help and any help is greatly appreciated. We received a donation from C.C. and Mary Ponder last week and we want to publicly thank them for their help. Mary brings her little grandson Logan to our story hours and I feel she has seen the advantage of having programs for the preschool children.

We invite anyone with children at home to bring them to the library each Tuesday at 1 p.m. for the story-hour. Ms. Betty gives the children the opportunity to play together for a time, then she reads a story and usually helps the children with a craft. She then shows the children a film or a video and refreshments are served.

Some new books now available to be checked out are:

1. DESPERATION by Stephen King. . . Nevada is mostly a long stretch of desert you cross on the way to somewhere else, if you are lucky. . . because it's a scary place. Headed down Route 50 in the brutal summer heat are people who are never going to reach their destination. Like the Jacksons, a professor and his wife going home to New York City; the Carvers, a Wentworth, Ohio family bound for a vacation at Lake Tahoe; an aging literary lion Johnny Marinville, inventing a gonzo image for himself astride a 700 pound Harley.

A deal cut trailed to a road sign heralds the little mining town of Desperation, a town that seems withered in the shade of a manmade mountain known as the China Pit. But it's worse than that, much worse. Regulating the traffic there is Collie Entangran, an outside uniformed madman who considers himself the only law west of the Pecos. God forbid you should be missing a license plate or find yourself with a flat tire. In Desperation, Stephen King paints an apocalyptic drama of God and evil, madness and revelation. His genius (for suspense has never been so finely honed and his imagination so shudderingly vivid.

Stephen King at his best: TO THE HILT by Dick Francis. . . Alexander Kinlock is a true eccentric, the twenty-nine year-old son of the (dead) fourth son of an earl, he lives in a broken down house on a weatherbeaten Scottish mountainside, far from the affairs of the world and the noble relations who think him weird. The isolated solitude of a painter is the life he's chosen, and he emerges from his remote and quietly profitable artistic life only every two weeks to secure provisions and pick up his mail.

Then one day Alexander receives a postcard from his mother, summoning him to London to the bedside of his dying stepfather. Surprise!

And there Alexander faces a dilemma: just how far should one go in the defense of honor - to the hilt?

Some new non-fiction books are:

1. COUNTRY FABRIC SCRAP CRAFTS 2. MAKE YOUR OWN GREAT VESTS. 3. QUILTS, QUILTS, AND MORE QUILTS. 4. BETTER HOMES AND GARDENS WOOD, SMALL FURNITURE YOU CAN MAKE. 5. AMERICA ONLINE FOR DUMMIES.

Come in and visit the library and let us show you the many services available for our patrons. For information about bookmobile service call us at 256-2388.

Snacking is Fun and Nutritious

By: Hazel Jackson
County Extension Agent

Young children enjoy snacks. Sometimes we are not sure just what to eat. As long as snacks are foods that we know children need, they should be encouraged. Just be sure the snack foods follow the same nutrition guidelines used in meal planning.

Remember that young children have small stomachs and cannot eat much at a time. Snacks prevent hunger between meals. Planning your children's snacks will help ensure nutritious snacks are served.

Serving packaged snack foods saves time and effort for busy parents. Packaged foods now have "Nutrition Facts" labels that can help you make healthy snack choices. Choose foods high in fiber, calcium and other minerals.
