NOTICE OF INTENTION TO MINE

Pursuant to Application Number 902-6001, Major Revision

In accordance with the provisions of KRS 350.070, notice is hereby given that R.B.S., Inc., PO Box 15352, Cincinnati, Ohio 45215, has applied for a major revision application to an existing coal processing facility located approximately 0.57 miles southwest of Fairview in Rockcastle County. The major revision will not add any surface disturbance acreage to the permit area.

The proposed major revision area is approximately 0.15 miles south of US 254 junction with Fairview Church Road and located on the west side of Roundstone Creek. The Longitude is 37 degrees 29'40". The Longitude is 84 degrees 19'29".

The proposed major revision is located on the Wildlife U.S.G.S. 7 1/2 minute quadrangle map. The surface area to be affected by the major revision is owned by Roy B. Schwitzer.

This major revision proposes to change the approved post mining landuse of pasture to a post mining landuse of commercial/industrial. This will allow the owner to reclaim this site for commercial development. This revision will also represent a change from the original pre-mining landuse of pasture. The operation will affect an area within 100 feet of Interstate 75, US 25 and Gabbard Road. This operation will not involve the closing of any of the roads.

The major revision application has been filed for public inspection at the Department for Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, London Regional Office, Regional State Office Building, 85 State Police Road, London, Kentucky 40741-9008. Written comments, objections or request for a permit conference must be filed with the Director, Division of Permits, 42 Hudson Hollow, US 127 South, Frankfort, Kentucky 40601.

Births & Birthdays

Hi! My name is Haley Amanda Danielle Blair. I turned one year old on February 21. My mommy and daddy are Steve and Veronica Blair. I have two big brothers, Stevie and Caleb. My maternal grandparents are Mandy Howerton of Livingston and the late Joseph W. Howerton. Maternal great grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Gray of Louisville. My paternal grandparents are Sandra L. Johnson of Berea, and Kermit Blair, Sr. of Scaffold Cane. Paternal great grandparents are Charlotte Nickerson of Berea and the late Noel C. Johnson. Ed Blair of Little Clear Creek and the late Mary Lakes. A very special thank you to all of my family and friends for helping me to celebrate my very special day.

Timothy and Loretta Hodges would like to announce the birth of their daughter, Sydney Jade, born January 2, 1997 at Pattie A. Clay Hospital. She weighed 7 lbs. and 7 ozs. Sydney was welcomed home by her sister, Jessica. She is the granddaughter of Tommy and Claretta Hodges of Mt. Vernon, Leroy Howard of Berea, and the late Betty Linnville of Conway. She is the great-granddaughter of Clarence and Louise Carrier of Mt. Vernon, Estil and Alene Hodges of Glendale, and the late Walter and Mary Miracle of Conway.

neighbors) Visiting in our home have been our son, Wayne and wife, Carolyn and our daughter, Joyce and husband, James Seals, all of Madison County.

Visiting Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Phillips and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Cabbard of Berea recently were Mrs. Hallie Alexander and Mrs. Irene Alexander.

Connie Adams recently visited her mother, Mrs. Janet Ridgell and family and her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Chastain. I'd like to send a special hello to my nephew, Charles Noland and wife of Independence. He enjoys my news article very much. He and Anna are very dear to us and we love them.

Irene Alexander and Hallie Alexander attended the mother, daughter and grandmother banquet at the Mt. Vernon First Baptist Church, Mt. Vernon, Sunday afternoon and enjoyed it so much.

Please remember Church and Sunday School try to attend with your family every time you can. Pray for and love one another. God bless you.

Clifton, 29 years ago on July 5, you walked into my life, nothing has ever been the same since.

Thanksgiving, Christmas, your birthday February 28, our 27th wedding anniversary on March 3rd, will forever more go on without you.

I've said why, why, why a thousand times, cried a million tears. My heart is broken, my life turned upside down.

God took you away, November 5, 1996, but, oh how I thank him for bringing you into my life.

I love and miss you so much. Love your wife, Rita Mizz

Mrs. Lena McClure visited Charles McClure in the VA Hospital in Lexington one day during the week. Sheila Hines called on Thursday just for a chat. She reports Mr. Cromer is doing better but is still in the Berea Hospital. Mr. Bill Loudemilk, wife and daughter, were here Saturday to attend the funeral of Mrs. Gregory. Mrs. Lelia Jones celebrated her 82nd birthday, February 20th.

Mount Vernon Signal

Mount Vernon, Ky. 40456

Volume 111 - Number 21

Thursday, February 27, 1997

Becky Smith, 29, of Clear Creek was severely injured Thursday afternoon in a single car wreck on Clear Creek Road. Ms. Smith told police she lost control of her 1996 Dodge Intrepid as she traveled over Dark Hollow Hill. She was trapped in her car for about an hour before members of the Mt. Vernon Fire Dept. were able to free her, using the Jaws of Life apparatus. Both of Ms. Smith's legs and an arm were broken. She is at the University of Kentucky Medical Center and will be transported to Cardinal Hill for rehabilitation.

Traffic light to be installed at RCHS

Teachers, students and parents alike got some very good news this week as, State Representative Danny Ford announced that a traffic signal will be installed soon at the entrance

Rape charges dismissed

Rape charges against an Orlando man were dropped Monday after Rockcastle Commonwealth Attorney Ray Carmichael entered a motion to dismiss the charges.

Charles Durham, Jr., 63, had been indicted in April of last year for the rape of a MVES first grade boy.

Durham was also indicted for using the same child in a sexual performance that involved a dog.

Carmichael had said two weeks ago that he would try the case on Monday but, according to his (Carmichael's) motion the child recanted his allegations against Durham, preventing Carmichael from being able to prove his case against the Orlando man.

Abe Harper acquitted

It took a Rockcastle County Circuit Court jury only one hour Monday to acquit a Buffalo Hollow man of assault and receiving stolen property.

William "Abe" Harper, 51, had been indicted in July 1995 in connection with a shooting incident near his home on June 19 of that year.

Harper was accused of shooting Isidro "Poncho" Cadena, also of Buffalo Hollow Road after the two had an argument over land ownership.

to Rockcastle County High School on KY 461 Bypass.

Word of this decision by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet came from Secretary James Codell, in response to an earlier request from Rep. Ford.

A study was conducted as to the actual need of the light at the high school and the type of traffic control device that would be used, according to Ford, who said residents have been interested in a light for the high school since it opened in 1994.

The traffic signal will be equipped with multiple vehicle detectors on KY 461, due to the relatively high speeds frequently maintained by vehicles in this area, according to Ford.

The detectors will be programmed to sense the approach of higher speed traffic and will extend the green signal to allow this traffic to move through the intersection without stopping.

The new technology will reduce the potential for conflicts between the school exit, according to Secretary Codell.

Because of its location at the entrance to a school, the signal will stop KY 461 traffic infrequently except during times when school and related events are convening and dismissing.

Rep. Ford said that the new light would help congestion and make access to the school easier, but also noted that due to the irregular frequency of the light changes, folks would need to exercise caution and appropriate speed in the area.

Renfro to donate half of March 7th show proceeds to Project Graduation

In keeping with the community spirit, Renfro Valley Entertainment Center, Inc., will be donating one-half of the proceeds from their 7:30 p.m. show on March 6, to Rockcastle County High School's Project Graduation.

This is a special show and will be filmed by KET, according to Jane Thorne, Chief Executive Officer of Renfro Valley's entertainment complex.

Project graduation will celebrate its tenth year this Spring. Students and their parents are once again planning an all-night, chemical-free graduation celebration for the 1997 seniors.

Renfro Valley's donation, which should exceed $1,000 will go a long way toward defraying the $18,000 cost of the Celebration.

Advance tickets are available for the show by calling 256-2638, or 800-765-7464.

Tickets for the show have been discounted to $7.00.

Breathitt Magistrates spent time in the "poky" Magistrates could land in jail if budget not balanced

By: Richard Anderkin
 When Rockcastle County Magistrates Bill McKinney, Jack Bradley and Donald Bullock voted down an insurance tax two weeks ago, they no doubt thought they were keeping their constituents from being exposed to higher taxes.

What they may have done is expose themselves to some jail time.

The state department of local government requires that all county governments balance their budgets annually. Unlike the federal government they cannot operate with a deficit.

In 1992, three Breathitt County Magistrates Arch Turner, Hubert Hollen and Hershel Manns were jailed by a Circuit Judge after they repeatedly failed to balance the county's budget.

Their lack of action caused Breathitt county's courthouse to be shutdown and many services stopped. For several days the county was without ambulance service, police protection from the Sheriff's office and no county jail.

The three men were also heavily fined before they finally came up with a budget that included a tax increase.

Breathitt County was facing a $500,000 deficit and Magistrate Helen Combs and Judge-Executive Cecil Clair voted for a tax that would have balanced the budget. Those two were not jailed or fined.

Rockcastle Judge-Executive Buzz Carolotis told the court during their meeting two weeks ago, when they voted down a second reading of the insurance ordinance tax, that the state would "step in" if the court failed to meet their statutory duties.

"We are required by law to balance our budget, there is no choice, no one wants to raise taxes, but we do not have enough revenue to operate on," he said.

Rockcastle County Attorney Jeff Burdette has also notified each member in the court in writing that they are in violation of the law, when they do not pay their bills within 30 days.

"I've been telling them for some time they are violating the law, that's part of my duties as County Attorney," he said.

County Treasurer Joe Clontz also said that he would present a complete breakdown of expenses, outstanding bills and revenues at Thursday's meeting of the court.

"I've been telling the court for months that we cannot keep operating the way we have been," Clontz said.

"We keep getting further and further behind and come June 30 there is absolutely no way the general fund budget or the jail budget will balance, no way," Clontz said.

Although McKinney, Bradley and Bullock voted against the insurance tax, Magistrates John Holbrook and Amos Burdette voted in favor as did the County Judge.

Ironically, Bradley and Bullock both voted for the insurance tax at the (Cont. to A11)

Fire heavily damages home

A fire at the home of Anthony Hanzel on Hwy. 70 Sunday night caused heavy damage to the structure.

According to fire officials, the two story cabin was completely gutted on the second floor by the fire with the rest of the cabin sustaining water damage.

Officials said the fire apparently started when one of Hanzel's sons was playing with matches.

No one was injured in the blaze, but most of the items in the house were destroyed.

Mrs. Geraldine Robbins, seated, Rockcastle Co. Librarian, is shown with some of the computer equipment purchased with supplemental donations of over $6,000 from local banks, the Rockcastle Co. Bar Assn. and one large anonymous donation. With Mrs. Robbins in the picture are, from left: Attorney William D. Gregory; Connie Graham, representing Citizens Bank; Jess Bullock, president of the Bank of Mt. Vernon; Attorney John Clontz; Jenny Bray, BMV loan officer and Rockcastle County Attorney Jeff Burdette. James Smith of D&S Computers in Mt. Vernon also gave the library one new computer.

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and invitations to you and yours from the woe Wabedian habit that Nancy and I call Nod's Little Acre, which is just up the road from the home place of the late Julius "Muley" Castleberry, long-time operator of Wabed's One Stop Tack Shop, and part-time peddler of Durweiler's Really Red Rubber Hat Water Bottles, who said, "The doctors say walking is good for your health, but have you ever seen a mailman who looked like he could beat up a truck driver?"

Speaking of health, beloved, reminds me that churches, like humans, have their seasons of stamina and their spells of frailty.

Now the church where my dearly beloved and I are members seems to me to be in a state of well-being. I'm sure, nonetheless, that there are some among us whose unbridled egos could at any moment infect the body and precipitate an outbreak of ecclesiastical paralysis. Such I know from experience.

While I am a member at First Baptist in Mt. Vernon, I take a back seat. (Are you aware that Mt. Vernon was Wabed's first subdivision?)

But taking a back seat hasn't been easy. Having stood behind the sacred desk for thirty some years, I've learned by experience what makes for genuine church growth, fellowship, and worship - and I'm keenly aware of things that thwart church growth and mitigate against genuine fellowship and adoration of the Almighty.

But still I pretty much keep my mouth shut about what goes on at my church. Why? I think the late Thomas Wolfe answered that question in his epochal novel, You Can't Go Home Again. You can't go home again if you are a writer because people know you know them. So, fearing what you might tell, they shun you with a zeal that would put a Puritan to shame.

You can't go home again if you're a preacher because you people remember some things about you that don't exactly help a preacher's image.

The Bible says much the same: "A prophet is not without honor except in his own country."

When Jesus, who knew no sin, came home to Nazareth for the first time after he began preaching, some folks were astounded by what he said, but the majority saw in him nothing more than a carpenter's son and before the day was over they ran him out of town. So, if Jesus couldn't go home again, who am I to think I can?

Having said all that, let me hasten to say that I dearly love ole FBC. And some of the folks at FBC dearly love me. That's enough to keep me going as long as my mind and lumber will allow.

If - and again I say if - I did have some say so in my home church, a few things would change. One change in particular is sorely needed.

Beloved, FBC should RESTORE THE CUSPIDOR. When I was a child, they were everywhere, four-per-pew, if I recall correctly, and in the balcony, but none in the choir loft.

Big, shiny brass spittoons they were, with extended rims. In those days FBC had an abundance of tobacco chewers and snuff dippers, women and men. My lovable old grandfather dearly loved sitting in his favorite pew, working over a wad of Applejack, and meditating on the imparted Word. Occasionally, when his jaw began to bulge, he quietly bent over, pursed his lips, and spat an ounce or two of amber into the well of the cuspidor. And then he resumed his mastication and meditation.

I also remember a royal ruckus that ensued when a handful of wiley women in the church used their womanly ways to get their deacon husbands to vote in favoring of removing the spittoons - because they were afraid the spitters and dippers in the church would mire and stain the new carpet that had just been laid.

Well, that was the straw that broke the camel's back for my Grandpa. He was already put out with the earphones the church had installed for hard-hearing members. Every Sunday someone was wrong. A wad battery, a kiosk wire, a sleeping sound system attendant. Grandpa rarely heard all of a sermon but kept attending. But when they took out the cuspidors, he stayed home on Sunday and listened by radio to Cadel Tabernacla in the morning and Charles E. Fuller in the afternoon.

And he wasn't the only one to quit. Several faithful souls liked a lump of something in their jaw while they worshipped. But when they had to bring their own makeshift cuspidors or spit into a hanky or a pocket, it was too much. So, they up and left.

I remember overhearing a proscriber discussion that took place on the church steps right before an evening service. (You are aware, beloved, that I am blessed with keen powers of recollection.) One bearded member said, "If we're modern enough to allow gum chewing, then I don't see any harm in chewing tobacco or dipping snuff during a service."

Another fellow said, "Them la-de-da carpet women don't know diddle-de-quait about spittin'." Why First Baptist has some of the best spitters in the association. Every man in my Sunday School class can hit that can dead center from fifteen feet away with nary a drop going anywhere else.

Now, dear hearts, some of the older heads at FBC will recall that the cuspidor was actually a part of worship. It was customary in those days for a preacher to get an "Amen!" now and then. Some of our men, however, were too modest to speak out, so they used the spittoon to register their approval of what the preacher had just said. They would purse their lips real tight, then spit extra hard at the cuspidor, aiming for the rim rather than the well. The resulting sound was a resonant "sp-DONG!" And believe me, beloved, a well-spit "sp-DONG!" was just as forcefully affirmative as a boisterous "A-a-a-men!"

Folks, today's preachers need "Amens" and "sp-DONGs". They help a preacher gauge how his message is being received. It's so hard to read congregations nowadays. The average pewster just sits there as if he's listening to a re-run of the evening news. A hearty "Amen!" here and a ringing "sp-DONG!" there could inspire a preacher, maybe even cause him to wax eloquent.

In fact, proscribers back in the early years of FBC one of the requirements for a man to be deacon called for him to be able to loudly spid-DONG a spittoon at fifteen feet, along with the other biblical qualifications, such as being the husband of one wife, and not being well over his house, and not being given to too much wine, and being the husband of one wife.

I would suggest, brethren and cisterns, that if we do indeed restore the cuspidor to my sanctuary, that more prayer times be added to the order of service. And let's get back to the biblical mode of prayer - on our knees. I don't think we're presently over-praying at First Baptist. And getting down to pray would help in a practical as well as a heavenly way. Some older chevrons tend to be weak-lipped. They could never hit the spittoon while sitting up in a pew. But down on their knees they'd be looking right into the mouth of a cuspidor and couldn't miss if they tried.

Alack and alas, beloved, if my idea prevails at First Baptist we will have to buy new cuspidors. The old ones were sold to Anglin's Good and Bad Furniture. Steve and the money guy took them to the Home for Non-Wed Preachers (Anglin's store stood about where Young's Pharmacy stands today).

New cuspidors will cost a pretty penny. Have you priced a brass spittoon lately? Suffer. So, I think you'd think cuspidors would be relatively inexpensive. But they aren't, not even at Wal-Mart. But money should not be a problem. Most churches have money to blow or can easily get it. And if we have to I'd see borrowing money to purchase new cuspidors would be money well borrowed.

By the way, one of the clerks at Young's Pharmacy, who is a member at First Baptist, told me that she heartily favors cuspidor renewal. She's also in favor of putting prayer rails in every pew. I told her I thought that was a good idea. She's a dipper but has a hard time getting up and down. A prayer rail would help her get down close to a cuspidor. But I also told her that some folks would vote against prayer rails simply because they smack of Catholicism. But I bet there are quite a few folks at First Baptist who would be pro-prayer rails.

Precious souls, I hope you take me seriously in my quest to restore the cuspidors. In fact, at this stage of my life I see their restoration as my raison d'être, and also as my reason for being. I have a sense to which I can give my energy and talent, such as they are. And who knows? Once that task is completed I might take up writing letters to editors of newspapers all over the USA telling people what's wrong in their lives and what's perfectly right in mine.

Oops! I'm writing long again. Until next week, beloved, give a measure of thought to the words of Silas D. Hausdinger, long-time Wabedian chimney sweep, and part-time scissor sharpener, who said, "Whatever the cost of living is, it's worth it."

Is It Cost Effective To Seed Better Varieties Of Red Clover?
Research from the Agronomy Department of the University of Kentucky has compared the performance of common or unimproved red clovers to certified varieties at research farms throughout Kentucky. Their results found that the certified improved varieties yielded an average of 1,000 pounds more forage per acre in the first year of production for a spring seeding.

In the second year, seeding a better variety was worth 2,500 pounds more forage per acre. Even if the improved seed cost $0.75 more per pound and you seeded 10 pounds of seed per acre, that extra $7.50 was worth over 3,500 pounds of forage over the first two years.

Stands of the improved varieties were thick and vigorous going into their second winter, while the commons were clearly thinning. A comparison of the lowest yielding common clover vs. the best certified clover over a 3-year period showed a 11,000 pound advantage to the certified clover. Getting an extra 220 square bales over three years can easily pay the additional $7.50. Don't settle for anything less than an improved, certified variety of red clover. You can tell if the variety is certified by the presence of a blue tag on the bag. The blue tag is the only guarantee that the genetics in the bag match the name on the tag. Contact your farm supply dealer 6 to 10 days before you need the seed so they can be sure to have a certified variety on hand.

The bottom line is that seeding an improved, certified variety of red clover pays, period.

Complete data on these trials are available at your local County Extension Office.

it out. Therefore, children need to become savvy, critical consumers of media products. If they do not become media literate, they are not going to be prepared for responsible participation in our media-saturated society.

Media literacy is the ability to access, analyze, evaluate and produce communication in a variety of media forms. These forms include television, print, radio, CD's, the Internet, computers, videos and video games.

Becoming media literate doesn't mean learning through media. It means learning about media. Children can learn about media at school, in after-school and summer programs, in community-based organizations and from parents at home.

Parents who want to help their children become media literate can begin by analyzing and evaluating some of the media messages they watch, hear or experience together.

After watching a television program, ad or video, for example, a parent and child may want to explore the following "key questions":

- Who is the author and what is the purpose of the message?
- What values, lifestyles or points of view are represented by this message?
- What techniques are used to attract your attention?
- What techniques are used to enhance the authority or authenticity of this message?
- How might different people interpret this message differently?
- What was omitted from this message?
- Who makes money from this message?

Questions like these encourage media consumers to develop an active relationship with the media instead of simply being a passive recipient of it. While making a special point to discuss such questions may seem awkward and artificial at first, thinking about such issues becomes automatic after a while. When that occurs, a person is well on the road to becoming a critical media consumer.

Being media literate is more than analyzing and evaluating media messages. It also includes being able to produce communication in a variety of forms. Parents can look for opportunities for their children to learn how to do this. This may mean looking for nonformal, community-based classes as well as encouraging more opportunities for media education within the schools.

As media have become ever more pervasive, raising children who are media literate has become ever more crucial. Becoming media literate allows them to use the media rather than be used by it.

DANGER OF gamma hydroxybutyric acid (GHB)

RDA has reissued a warning on the use of GHB which is used for body building and for its intoxicating effects. GHB is a chemical that has been promoted as a steroid alternative for several years, but it is an illegal and potentially dangerous drug.

In the past GHB has undergone clinical testing for several indications, but it has not been approved for sale as a medical product in the U.S. Numerous GHB-related illness has been reported including vomiting, dizziness, tremors and seizures. Many of those injured have required hospitalization, and some deaths have been linked to the consumption of GHB.

FCIC Insurance is now available for purchase through FSA. Producers who did not purchase the insurance in 1996, and wish to purchase it for 1997, should come in no later than March 15, as this is considered a new policy. Limited resource producers (who net less than $20,000 per year) are offered this insurance coverage at no charge, but they must come in and fill out the required paperwork to take advantage of this offer. Deadline for application of new policies is March 15. Producers who purchased the insurance for 1996, and wish to keep the coverage have until June 30 to pay fees. Producers who had the insurance in 1996 and wish to keep the coverage have until July 15 to pay fees. Producers who do not pay their 1997 premium by July 15, their policies will be canceled. If you have any questions concerning the FCIC program, please feel free to contact this office.

The Dairy Refund Payment Program is open for applications thru close of business March 17. Producers who qualify may get a refund of withheld amounts if they can show that they marketed less pounds in the refund period (1996) as compared to the base period (1995). Receipts with the monthly marketing must be submitted at the time of application.

We have received notification that there will be an increase of 11.2% to burley tobacco basic quotas for the 1997 crop year.

We would like to remind owners or burley tobacco farms that tobacco quotas MUST be produced or leased 2 out of every 3 years. The quota will be dropped on any farm that does not have a record of production of tobacco OR transfer of quota by lease in at least 2 of the preceding 3 years. Tobacco must be grown on the farm or transferred by lease to another farm. This means that farms which have leased out every other year in the past can no longer skip in this manner, or they will fall into the category that will have the base dropped.

The following are some dates that producers should be aware of: APRIL 29 is the deadline to report production from 96 corn (for insured producers); MAY 31 is the final plant date for corn (for insured producers), but a late planting period with reduction in coverage is in effect for an additional 25 days; JUNE 30 is the final plant date for burley tobacco (for insured producers), but requests for late planting agreement may be signed by this date also if the crop will be planted late.

Media Literacy Important for Children

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Most people think of reading and writing when they hear the word "literacy." While reading and writing remain fundamental, today's children also need to be media literate.

Children are growing up in a media-dominated culture.

Watching television, listening to CD's, renting a video and surfing the internet are as much a part of a young person's life as eating and sleeping.

While it may be possible to reduce children's media exposure, it is impossible to completely shut

Ceremony for new bank building held

USDA announces open sign-up for Wetlands Reserve Program

The Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS), an agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA), is working with landowners to develop management options which protect and enhance wetlands. NRCS is announcing a sign-up for interested landowners beginning February 24, 1997.

The Wetlands Reserve Program is a voluntary program pertaining to the restoration and protection of wetlands on private property. It is an excellent opportunity for landowners to receive financial incentives to enhance wetlands in exchange for retiring marginal agricultural land.

Landowners who choose to participate in WRP may sell a conservation easement or enter into a cost-share restoration agreement with the USDA to restore and protect wetlands. The landowner voluntarily limits future use of the land, yet retains private ownership. A plan for the restoration and maintenance of the wetland is developed by the landowner with the technical assistance of the NRCS. A landowner continues to control access to the land and may lease the land for hunting, fishing and other undeveloped recreational activities. At any time, a landowner may request that additional activities be evaluated to determine if they are compatible uses for the site. This request may include such items as permission to cut hay, graze livestock or harvest wood products. Compatible uses are followed if they are fully consistent with the protection and enhancement of the wetland.

The program offers landowners three options: permanent easements, 30-year easements, and restoration cost-share agreements of a minimum 10-year duration.

A landowner must have owned the land for at least one year prior to enrolling the land in the program unless the land was inherited or the landowner can prove the land was not obtained for the purpose of enrolling it in the program. The land must be restorable and be suitable for wildlife benefits.

The local NRCS representative will coordinate and conduct a site visit with the landowner and a multi-agency ranking team. After each application is ranked by the team, applications will be selected and approved as funding becomes available.

For detailed information contact your local USDA Natural Resources Conservation Service located at USDA Ag. Service Center on Hwy. 150 or call 256-2541.

FSA offers sign-up for the conservation reserve program

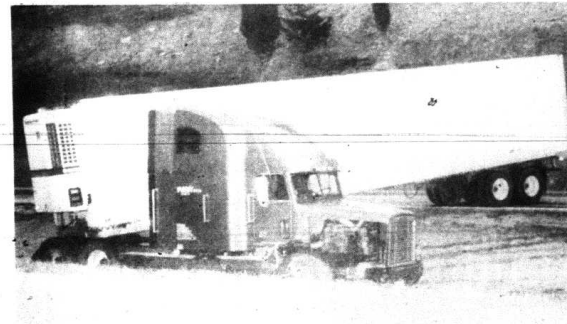

The sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) is scheduled for March 3 through March 28, 1997, to accept offers of environmentally sensitive acreage for new 10 to 15 year contracts to enroll acreage for program years 1998 and 1999. CRP is a voluntary program that offers annual rental payments, incentive payments for certain activities, and cost-share assistance to establish approved cover on eligible cropland.

The program encourages farmers to plant long-term resource-conserving covers to improve soil, water and wildlife resources. The duration of the contracts are between 10 and 15 years. Offers for CRP contracts are ranked according to the Environmental Benefits Index (EBI). The Natural Resources Conservation Service collects data for each of the EBI factors, based upon the relative environmental benefits for the land offered. Bids are then ranked in comparison to all other bids offered and selections made from that ranking.

Eligible acreage devoted to certain special conservation practices such as riparian buffers, filter strips, grassed waterways, shelter belts, living snow fences, contour grass strips, salt tolerant vegetation and shallow water areas for wildlife may be enrolled at any time under the continuous sign-up, and are not subject to competitive bidding. All other eligible acreage must be enrolled during the CRP sign-up period of March 3 through March 28.

For more information contact the Rockcastle Farm Service Agency at 256-2525.

A Tennessee couple's vehicle was completely destroyed Monday morning when a semi-truck struck their 1987 Buick Grand National. The car had broken down at the 67 mile marker of I-75 and the couple left it to find help. The 6 a.m. accident occurred when Terrell Parkey of Kingston, Tennessee drove his truck into the rear of the vehicle. Ironically, the couple had had a dispute about whether the woman would stay in the car or go along for help. Luckily, she made the correct decision. Both lanes of northbound I-75 were block on different occasions while the accident scene was cleared.

The Family Room

By Dr. Don Whitehead

"I loaned him some money when we first began dating," Vera told me when she came for counseling. "He needed it to get his car fixed so that he could get to work." (All characters are fictitious)

"That was over a year ago, Vera," I reminded her. "Has he ever repaid you?"

She looked embarrassed. "No," she replied, "but he tells me he will soon."

"Is that all the money you have loaned him?" I asked.

She wouldn't answer at first, but she finally said, "I guess I loaned him some more a couple of times. I'm not sure how much, because I didn't keep a count on it."

"Is that more than a hundred dollars?" I asked.

"Yes," she replied. "More than $200?" "Yes." "More than a $100?" "Yes."

After much persuasion Vera finally admitted that she had loaned her boyfriend over $4000! Vera still has hopes of getting her money back even though she has heard nothing from him for two months now.

"Why did you loan him so much money?" I asked Vera. (Why questions are not usually good questions for a counselor to ask, but I had to know the answer.)

"Because I loved him and he needed it," she told me. "I am forty years old and I probably won't get another chance at having a relationship, so I wanted to do everything I could to make this relationship work."

"I know a lot of people (including myself) who do think of forty as 'old,'" I told Vera. "If you believe this is your last chance, as you say, then you will put up with almost anything from a boyfriend."

"No, I wouldn't put with everything," she said thoughtfully, "but I guess I would come pretty close."

Vera was not wealthy by any means and could not really afford to hand over $4000 to a boyfriend. "What would you have done with that money if you had kept it?" I asked her.

"I was going to pay off my car and then go on a vacation," she informed me. "It's been a long time since I had

Local Counselors Attend Informational Event At EKU

Les Grigsby, center, director of admissions at Eastern Kentucky University, welcomed about 35 counselors from area high schools and community colleges for an informational workshop at EKU recently. Others pictured, from left, are Dale Whitaker and Janice Miller, both of Rockcastle County High School. The annual event brings the counselors up to date on academic programs, services, scholarships, financial aid, etc., so they can assist students in making their college choice.

also chosen as the overall winner. Matthew will represent the chapter at the Regional Contest April 10th at EKU. We would like to thank Mrs. Iris Young, Mr. John McQuay and Mr. Scott Adams for judging the Creed contest. Fall winner for the quiz contest was Robbie Gibson. The spring winner was John Renner who also won overall. He will also represent the chapter at the Regional contests. We look forward to these members' continued involvement in our organization and encourage them to go far in the FFA.

Eaton named to Dean's List at Georgetown

Angela Suzanne Eaton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Gilbert Eaton, Jr. of Mt. Vernon, has been named to the Dean's List for the 1996 fall semester, announced Dr. Charles N. Boehms, senior vice president/academic dean. Students named to the Dean's List must have completed 60 semester hours with a cumulative grade point average of 3.5. Continued attainment of a grade point average of 3.5 for two consecutive semesters is required to remain on the Dean's List. Located 12 miles from Lexington, in the heart of the Bluegrass, Georgetown College is a four-year private liberal arts institution affiliated with the Kentucky Baptist Convention. The college has been named by U.S. News & World Report as one of the top 161 national liberal arts colleges for the third consecutive year. Founded in 1829, the college is dedicated to its role as an innovative community of scholars developing scholars committed to its heritage of Christian discernment. Dr. William H. Crouch, Jr., is the 23rd president at the college, which has an enrollment of more than 1,400 undergraduate and graduate students.

Local students named to EKU Fall President's List

Four Rockcastle Countians are among 533 students at Eastern Kentucky University named to the President's List for fall semester. The List includes: Amy Childress of Berea, Rita Hayes of Brodhead, Jenise Masters of Brodhead and April Abney of Mt. Vernon. "We're delighted that some of Rockcastle County's best and brightest students are studying with us at Eastern, where the top priority remains teaching," said Les Grigsby, director of EKU's Division of Admissions. The President's List was established by the University to recognize outstanding academic achievement. It is bestowed upon full-time undergraduate students who attain a perfect 4.0 grade point average for a semester. "All of us at EKU are committed to academic excellence," said EKU President Handy Funderburk, "so it is very fitting that we should lift up for special attention those students who have excelled to the point of perfection during a semester's work." Eastern Kentucky University is a comprehensive university serving about 15,200 students on its 560-acre Richmond campus, throughout its 22-extended service region, and beyond.

Social Workers: Providing Direction and Resources to Those in Need

When a medical catastrophe strikes, it's not just the victim who suffers. The family, too, must sort through the haze of choosing the right care, navigating the complexities of insurance coverage, or just coping with their own anxieties.

Carolyn Stevens, BSW, director of social services at Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center, describes her staff's role in providing comfort and care.

"Medical social workers provide a wide range of services," said Stevens. "We refer families to agencies for appropriate assistance, such as the Department of Social Insurance. We intervene in domestic and child abuse cases and find suitable shelter and counseling. We arrange psychiatric counseling and evaluation for patients suffering from emotional problems. The list is endless."

Rockcastle prides itself on the familial atmosphere it creates for patients and their families.

"Patients and their families know they can turn to us for assistance," said Stevens. "They trust us to help them with whatever problem they are having—from a family crisis, to a medical crisis, to an emotional crisis—we're there."

March is National Social Work Month.

LEAVING NO STONE UNTURNED

Dealing with and preventing kidney stones

KIDNEY STONES. Two of the most feared words in the English language, ranking right up there with "You're fired" and "brussell sprouts."

If you haven't experienced kidney stones, consider yourself lucky.

According to the National Kidney Foundation, 10 percent of the male and 3 percent of the female population will experience kidney stones in their adult lives. And, as anyone who has suffered from kidney stones can attest, the pain can be excruciating.

During March, which has been designated as National Kidney Month, the foundation is promoting health information to help keep kidneys healthy.

A kidney stone is formed primarily of calcium, although some stones contain other substances, such as uric acid and oxalate.

"Kidney stones originate as a small grain in the kidney or upper urinary tract," said Dr. George Griffith, a physician at Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center. "The stones usually grow larger as compounds in the urine attach themselves to the stone." Stones become lodged in the ureter, a tube between the kidney and bladder. Griffith said that while most stones remain fairly small, some can grow to more than an inch in diameter.

"When the stone passes into the ureter, it can lodge and block the flow of urine and back up the kidney," said Dr. Griffith. "That's when the pain really kicks in. Between the movement of the stone and blocked flow, the pain can become nearly unbearable."

Some typical kidney stone symptoms include lower back pain, frequent urination, inability to urinate, or pain and burning while urinating. If you experience any of these symptoms, Dr. Griffith recommends seeing a physician immediately. These symptoms accompanied by a fever may indicate an infection, so seeking medical care is even more urgent.

Kidney stones usually are caused by poor diet—especially one that is high in fat and lacks frequent water intake.

"The most common cause of kidney stones is that people just don't drink enough water," said Dr. Griffith. "Everyone should have at least eight to 10 glasses of water per day—even more if you already have suffered from kidney stones."

Because most kidney stones consist primarily of calcium, some people mistakenly believe they should cut calcium from their diet in order to help alleviate the problem. But, according to Dr. Griffith, that's just not good sense.

"Bodies, especially women's bodies, need calcium to build strong bones to help ward off health risks such as osteoporosis," said Dr. Griffith. "Robbing your body of calcium is not the answer."

Instead, Dr. Griffith explains that you should continue to consume calcium-rich products, but also consume large amounts of water. It is the amount of calcium in the urine that creates problems, so as your water intake increases, the percentage of calcium in your urine decreases.

There are a few ways to treat a kidney stone. One way is to simply let it pass. It can be extremely painful, but is the least invasive. Another option is to have the stones surgically removed, but physicians often are reluctant to try this approach unless the presence of the stones is life threatening. The third, and most popular option, is a new technique called lithotripsy.

Lithotripsy, which is Greek for "stone crusher" generates shock waves that harmlessly penetrate body tissue, but exert enough pressure on the kidney stone to disintegrate it into smaller granules, making it easier to pass them in the urine. The advantage of lithotripsy is that there is no invasive surgery. But, it is not without risk because the patient does require a local anesthetic and may experience some temporary side effects, such as bruising, nausea, or blood in the urine.

Typically, lithotripsy patients can return to regular activities within a few days.

"Kidney stones should be taken seriously," said Dr. Griffith. "Proper treatment is necessary to ensure there is no long-term kidney damage. And, under medical supervision, a proper diet can be prescribed to help alleviate the potential for future stones."

If you think you may be suffering from kidney stones, or have any questions about this subject, please call your primary care physician.

NATIONAL POISON PREVENTION WEEK

March 16-23

The Poison Prevention Council wants to remind families with small children to look around for dangerous poisons lurking in the nooks and crannies of their homes. Grandparents and other people who often have children has house guests also should be aware, too. Obviously dangerous chemicals, such as lighter fluid, antifreeze, bug spray, and paint, should be kept of sight of children. But some other potentially dangerous products, such as medicine, should be kept out of the reach of children as well. Kids are naturally curious and do not always understand that medicine is not candy, so be sure to explain these and other poison dangers to your children.

Here are some other poison prevention tips for households with small children:

1. Never leave the cap off of medicine bottles.
2. Always use household products that come in child resistant packages.
3. Do not assume small children cannot open bottles, even when they say "Child Resistant."
4. Refer to medicines by their proper names. Never refer to them as candy.
5. Install child resistant safety latches on cabinets and doors.
6. Never put unemptied containers in the trash.
7. Keep the Poison Control Center telephone number nearby.

In case of a poison emergency, call 1-800-722-5275

ARTHRITIS: WHEN AN AGING DISEASE STRIKES A YOUNG BODY

The word arthritis means "inflammation of the joints." It is a cruel, painful disease that usually strikes the senior population. But, make no mistake—it strikes children, too.

Juvenile arthritis affects nearly 300,000 children under the age of 16. That makes arthritis more common in children than diabetes and as common as cystic fibrosis. About 75,000 children are diagnosed with a rheumatoid form, referred to as Juvenile Rheumatoid Arthritis (JRA).

When JRA strikes, the joints, such as knees or hips, become inflamed and swollen, making it painful to move.

"JRA causes different types of symptoms in children," said Dr. Kimberly Cornelius, a pediatrician who also serves as medical director at Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center.

According to Dr. Cornelius, there are three types of JRA—polyarticular JRA affects five or more joints; pauciarticular JRA affects four or fewer joints; and systemic JRA affects both joints and internal organs.

"No one really knows what causes JRA, and it is difficult to diagnose," said Dr. Cornelius. "It often takes many tests and a complete medical history to determine if a child suffers from JRA."

Generally medication can be used to treat JRA by controlling inflammation and relieving pain.

"Getting the child to exercise, such as walking or swimming, is especially important in keeping the joints from becoming stiff and painful," said Dr. Cornelius.

Fortunately, 75 percent of all children struck with juvenile arthritis will grow out of it to lead normal, healthy lives.

If you think your child may be suffering from juvenile arthritis, please call your primary care physician.

Girls trounce Oneida; will play Lady Generals in Championship

For the first time in girls basketball history in the 49th district, a team besides the Clay Co. Lady Tigers will be representing the 49th as winners in the 13th region -- and chances are good that that someone will be the Lady Rockets.

Clay Co. got knocked off in first round district action Tuesday night by the Jackson Co. Lady Generals 50-47 in a hard-fought contest that wasn't decided until the final buzzer sounded.

The Lady Rockets shouldn't have any trouble with Jackson Co. as they soundly defeated the Lady Generals during regular season at Jackson Co. after losing to Jackson Co. at home in one of their worst executed games of the season.

The Lady Rockets and Lady Generals will match-up for the district championship Friday night at 6:30.

The Lady Rockets advanced to the finals with an 82-34 trouncing of the Oneida Lady Mountaineers Monday night.

The bad news of that game was the Rockets got off to a very slow start -- going to 4:27 of the first quarter before getting on the scoreboard on a free throw by Jessica Albright. The good news was that the Lady Mountaineers had only managed to score one free throw in the game to that point so the Rockets slow start didn't do any damage.

Following Albright's free throw, the girls regrouped and led Oneida 11-5 at the first quarter stop and, in the second quarter, the Rockets went on a 10-2 run and when the dust settled, the Lady Mountaineers were down for the count, behind 42-10 at half-time.

All the Lady Rockets contributed in the quarter with Albright and Tiffany McClure takes a pass on the move in the girls game against Oneida Monday night. McClure scored 7 points in the 82-34 win.

Sophomore Stevie Bradley came off the bench Tuesday night to score four three-point baskets for the Rockets in their two point loss to the Generals in first-round district action.

Freshman Andrew Cash was high point man for the Rockets in the game with 23 points. Here he goes for a shot over the Generals big man Brian Miller. Also in the photo is Blake Childress who scored six of his 12 points in the first quarter.

Amy Robison heads for the basket and lay-up in first round 49th district action at Jackson Co. Monday night against the Lady Mountaineers.

Jessica Albright stepped up in the Rockcastle-Oneida game Monday night to spark the Lady Rockets from a slow start. Albright led the scoring in the game with 13 points.

Boys fall to Generals in district 69-67

It would have been the first time in 11 years for a Rockcastle boys team to be represented in the 13th Region and it almost happened as the Rockets fell to Jackson Co. 69-67 Tuesday night.

In the first quarter, the Rockets fell behind 5-0 before Andrew Cash put the Rockets on the board with two free throws and the Rockets then went on to knot the score at 9 all before the Generals scored 6 unanswered points. However, the Rockets fought back, coming to within one 21-20 before a basket by Jackson Co. put the Generals up 23-20 at the first quarter stop.

In the second quarter, a three point basket by Stevie Bradley again tied the score at 28 all but the Rockets again fell behind by five at 36-31 before the score being tied at half-time 36 all, again on a three point shot by Bradley.

The Rockets drew first blood in the third quarter, on a basket by Dusty McClure and it turned out that this was the Rockets' only lead of the game 38-36. Travis Truett then went to work and scored the General's next eight points to help give Jackson Co. their longest lead of the game 51-42 at the third quarter stop.

The third quarter proved to be the Rocket's undoing as they managed only three baskets in the period, the one by McClure and two by John Brown.

However, the Rockets fought back in the fourth quarter as Cash went to war, scoring 16 of his game high 23 points in the period. However, the closest the Rockets could get was at 65-62 with 39.8 seconds left and the Generals made 6-11 from the free throw line in the final seconds to seal the victory.

Besides Cash's game high 23 points; Bradley got 12 on four three-point baskets, along with Blake Childress with 12; John Brown scored 8 points; Dusty McClure 7 and Layne Nicely 5.

The Rockets ended their season with 9 wins and 16 losses.

The Lady Rocket cheerleaders exhorted their team to try harder in early action against the Oneida Lady Mountaineers Monday night. The Rockets had a hard time getting started but once they did, it was an 82-34 drubbing which put the Rockets in the championship game against the Lady Generals Friday night.

The RCMS 6th grade boys basketball team captured the annual Lion's Club Tournament held at the middle school last week. The Rockets beat Berea 42-16 in the first round and Jackson County 46-45 in the championship game to capture the third Lion's Club tourney in as many years. Aaron Anderkin led the Rockets with 12 points in the win over Berea. Other Rockets scoring were: Marty Reagan with 9, Chris Settle and Jason Reynolds with 4 each, Cole Hammond had 3, Stephen Boreing, Austin Miller, Clay Smith, Jeff Carpenter, and Dustin Robinson all had

Burton advances in PDP

A member of the Rockcastle County Board of Education has been recognized by the Kentucky School Boards Association (KSBA) for achieving a new level of continuing education specially designed for school board members.

Mr. Terry Burton has achieved Level Three certification in the KSBA Academy of Studies for completing more than 90 hours of training for school board members. Mr. Burton has served on the local board of education since 1992.

Since 1986, Kentucky law has required school board members to complete a minimum number of in-service training hours annually. In 1996, for example, an overwhelming majority of Kentucky's nearly 900 local board of education members actually exceeded the legal minimum requirements in order to maintain up-to-date knowledge of the needs of students, school professionals and communities.

KSBA President Anna Dean Hammond, a member of the Caldwell County school board, said, "Serving on a school board means always looking for ways to improve the educational product our children receive in the classroom. Finding those new ideas and keeping up with requirements of state and federal laws and regulations make professional development a must for school board members."

"When a board member reaches a new plateau in the Academy of Studies, it reflects the depth of commitment, by that individual to being the most effective representative that she or he can be," said Hammond. "It's another measure of a member's dedication to the community and its children."

The KSBA's Academy of Studies was created specifically to offer local board members development and training opportunities to strengthen their abilities to provide general school district management and to ensure student achievement.

LOOKING OUT FOR THE "LITTLE PEOPLE"

"Only the little people pay taxes." Hotel magnate Leona Helmsley's opinion on taxes landed her a stay in Kentucky minus the room service and mints. But her comments probably had a lot of middle income families shaking their head in agreement.

A capital gains tax cut is a perfect example. When most Kentuckians hear about proposals to cut capital gains taxes, they envision millionaires and Wall Street financiers cutting deals right and left and then writing them off.

And they're not too far off base. Most capital gains proposals we've considered in recent years provide a disproportionate benefit to those making six-figure salaries and above.

That's why I recently introduced capital gains legislation that targets middle income families, family farms and small businesses.

My legislation would provide a sliding scale for capital gains relief, lowering the rate at which capital gains are taxed based on how long the assets have been held. Starting with the current rate of 28 percent, for every year an asset has been held the applicable rate would be reduced by two percentage points down to a rate of 14 percent.

Not only is my proposal aimed at helping family farms, small businesses and middle income families, but I wrote it with both the need to reach a bipartisan solution and balancing the budget in mind.

Congress has rarely been able to pass lasting legislative changes without bipartisanship. And now here is that more true than when it comes to taxes. Capital gains reform has been a hot button campaign issue for several years and if we're ever going to move beyond this stage we must find common ground.

I believe middle income families, small farms and businesses represent that common ground.

But we also have to get over a major hurdle -- a balanced budget -- before we reach that common ground. If a capital gains proposal is going to pass this Congress it must be included in an overall balanced budget package.

The Congressional Budget office estimated that proposals floated in the last Congress could add more than $40 billion to the deficit over seven years. Finding offsets would be nearly impossible. And not only is this more than our nation can afford in the context of a balanced budget, it's also far more than what's actually needed to target relief to middle income families.

But make no mistake, while my proposal is directed at middle income families; it does not discriminate between assets. Instead it applies to all assets covered under current law. But because the sliding scale benefit is based on how long an owner has held onto an asset, there's no doubt it will benefit long-term family assets over a speculator's short-term deals.

I'm sure Leona Helmsley is probably much more careful about what she says when it comes to paying taxes. But just in case, my legislation will assure the "little people" get a break on April 15th.

Carloftis and Clontz said two major factors are the reason the county is basically broke. A loss in local sales revenue and increased expenses in dispatching emergency calls.

The court did take a step two weeks ago to help alleviate the cost of dispatching when they passed the first reading of an ordinance that would implement the emergency 911 system in the county.

However, for 911 to be put in place the court will have to publish the ordinance and have a second reading and vote. To date the ordinance has not been published, which means it can't be voted on either.

for their services. Your thoughtfulness and caring concerns will always be remembered.

In loving Memory, Flossie Payne, children and grandchildren.

In Memory of Jim "Scratch" Northern

Jim, you'll be 40 this year, that's no fake, if only you were here for a birthday cake. I miss you so much, so many words left to say. Because you died so suddenly, on that horrible day.

You were my big brother, my friend, my pal. I even fixed you up, with my friend Sal. Those are only memories now, in my heart. Where you'll always be in a special part.

Your babies (now grown) have missed their dad, They'll never know the great one, they had. Nobody can ever hurt you, or cause you pain. Leave you out in the cold, walking in the rain!

I know you're now with our Mother, in Heaven above. Know our days are filled with happiness and love. I wish you were here to see your nephew, he's three. We could hang out, my big brother and me.

We're so much alike, we can't forget and forgive. We hide behind the pain and scars, for as long as we live.

Happy Birthday (40th) My Big Brother. I love you and miss you so very much. Alice L. Northern Wical

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,
I see in last week's paper that the State Police have slaughtered another young Leitch County man. This man's name was not suspect, perpetrator or any other dehumanizing term the police want to use. It was James Bowling, human being. It could just as well have been one of your children. It also appears that, as was the case in our family tragedy, the State Police will get first or any witness. Those who can be convicted will be. Those who can not be convicted will be intimidated. Those who will not be intimidated will be charged with crimes and discredited. The State Police being investigated by their friends and colleagues is a sick joke that can only result in perversion of justice. As usual they kept shooting (six times) until they knew he would never testify in court.
Those interested in doing something about the police state, and the restoration of justice under the constitution should write to: Concerned Citizens for Justice in Eastern Kentucky. You may write in care of: Alford T. Ford, 205 Keller St., Cumberland, KY 40823, or in care of: Ronnie Irvine, 130 Carview Ln., Speedwell, TN 37870, or in care of: Charles Clark Sr. Mayking, KY 41837.

involved. Our goal is to reach as many families as we can and stretch the resources as far as possible.
The new Welfare guideline are already causing many new clients to come in for assistance, and it is vital that the community work together to help these families adjust to the changes that are occurring at this very time.
During the past 6 months, (July 1 thru December 30, 1996) we have already given out 18,071 meals and served 924 people. This does not count those who have been helped in Ashlee's House Homeless Shelter, given help with gas and lodging when stranded on the highways, assisted with clothing, furniture, dishes and other basic necessities to start over. Also, help for families who have gone through the loss of a home thru fire and other disasters. The needs continue to increase on a daily basis, and no one knows what the future holds for them.
Your continued support of REAP and all that the agency accomplishes is deeply appreciated by all the volunteers, and those who are on the receiving end.
A special thank you to the following persons and agencies for Christmas donations: Faith Chapel Pentecostal Church, Climax Christian Church, Woodmen of the World, Janet Urbrne-Lexington Herald, Edith Lunford, Marie McKinney, Lula

Dear Editor,
Rockcastle Emergency Assistance Program has completed the 6th Annual Food and Gift program for Christmas. Although we encountered some unexpected obstacles, such as a break-in with Christmas food, gifts, and cash, and loss of corporate sponsor, and having our turkeys given away and not knowing if we were going to be able to purchase hams, the programs was a great success.
It is estimated that over $17,000.00 in food and gifts were given out to 615 people (consisting of 365 children, 24 elderly and 64 disabled adults, and 85 single parents and a total of 167 families.)

McFerron, Joe and Pearl Howard, First Baptist Church, WRVK 1460, Trinity Independent Baptist Church, Eleanor West, Happy Gabby, Florida Cracker and Fruit Jar, Jimmy and Eva Clark, Johnny's Music, Betty Fletcher, Night Crawler, Ray Owens, Pearl Childress, Garbage Man, Jerry and Cora Dowell, Fisherman and Wife, Minnie Harrison, Gary Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Norton, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Falin, Burdine's Cabinets, Verna Burke, Arlas and Granny Calks, Sue Howard, Bob Howard, Poor Boy and Poor Girl, Sarah Adams, Lorene and Henry Falin, Rhonda and Melvin Cromer, Darrell and Mary Clifford, Charles and Carolyn McKinney, Delno Mink, TJ

Without the help of a great many people donating food, gifts and thousands of cans of food, we would not be able to do this project for our community. The volunteers give many, many hours to make this work. Forms are checked and re-checked to try and eliminate duplication or abuse, but there is always a chance that a family will be missed or receive more than their share from several sources. It takes cooperation by everyone in-ogy, the Rockcastle County Library is now comparable with many of the libraries in much larger counties.

Thanks go out to all of these organizations and businesses from the Board of Trustee and staff at the Rockcastle County Library.

The next goal of the library will be to automate the library system. This will enable patrons to better access their holdings and help the staff in the circulation department. This is also an expensive service but with help from Friends of the Library it is hopeful that this may become a reality in the future.

Thank you,
Geraldine Robbins

Fairview News

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Hello to everyone. Hope you are well and happy and enjoying life and the beautiful weather we have had for the past few days. God is so good to us, we should always remember that.

120 persons attended Sunday School at Fairview, February 23rd, with several more for worship service. It was a beautiful spring-like day and we all enjoyed it very much.

We extend our deepest heart-felt sympathy to all those who have lost loved ones recently, including the families of Mrs. Eva Mullins, Mrs. Delia Peters, Mrs. Elsie Banks and Evelyn Mason Gregory. They and all others will be greatly missed. Evelyn and I graduated from Mt. Vernon High School in 1936. She was a wonderful person, so friendly and nice all down through her life, a loving wife and mother. The loved ones left behind have our love and prayers.

Bert Croucher of Berea recently suffered a bad fall at his home. Thank the Lord he is some better and recuperating at home. Bert is a fine man, a member of our church and we love him. May God bless him and his wife, Barbara (who is my niece).

Visiting Hallie Alexander recently were Mr. and Mrs. Mike Gay, Edd Gabbard, and Mrs. Kay Abney. Birth-day parties have been given at the home of Mrs. Hallie Alexander for her daughter, Mrs. Jewell Davidson on her birthday February 5th and Jewell's daughter, Jenia Davidson's birthday, February 7th. Attending both parties were Mrs. Alexander, the Davidson family, Rex, Jewell and children, Jenia and Jeremy of Brodhead, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Alexander, Courtney and Cody of Mareburg, also Mr. and Mrs. Ray Isaacs and two little sons. Time—we make it mean money for your family.

Many young families don't have much extra income. But they have another asset—time.

Modern Woodmen life insurance can build value to meet financial goals as the years pass. In the meantime, it helps protect your family if something happens to you. Let's talk it over.

Our affordable protection gives your child a head start on life.

With the Junior Protector plan from Modern Woodmen, the cost of a $5,000 life insurance plan is as low as $18 a year until the age of 16.

Plus, it guarantees that additional permanent protection can be purchased when your child reaches age 16—without showing evidence of insurability. Call for details.

A blessing for those who need it most.

Terminal illness destroys more than a life. It can ruin your family's financial independence.

Modern Woodmen's Accelerated Benefits program helps if you become terminally ill. It provides a portion of your Modern Woodmen life insurance death benefit while you're living. Accelerated Benefits—benefits when you need them most.

It's called "universal" life because of the way it adapts.

Life insurance offers financial protection. But your circumstances may change. You need a plan with flexibility.

That's the appeal of universal life insurance from Modern Woodmen. It accommodates change and earns competitive interest rates. Ask me for details.

welcome everyone.

THE FINEST WAY TO SPEND THIS DAY IS TO HELP SOMEONE

Now, what kindness did you display
By the things you accomplished today?
Did you do a good deed
To help someone in need,
Which that person can never repay?

And whenever you feel so inclined,
There are numerous ways you can find,
If they know you are near
When they've lost someone dear,
To help people regain peace of mind.

Then you'll learn what these lessons

God is above all earthly rulers,
and his law above
all human laws.
— James H. Fairchild
