Hello everyone.

We are well and happy this cool rainy morning, April 21. We are having so much odd weather, warm days and cool days and a lot of wind the weather has been very dry for several days.

But, the good Lord, has control of everything and I'm so glad. We take whatever he sends and are so thankful for his many blessings. Our weekend services at Fairview were well attended and the Sunday School attendance was 116.

Our Spring Revival closed Sunday night. Our Evangelist Rev. Seymour Waterbarger delivered some wonderful messages. We now have eight awaiting Baptism, plus we had so many re-dedications. We were so happy and glad to have a large number of visitors with us every night, some very good friends we hadn't seen for some time. We also enjoyed the special singers and thank God for them. All in all we have had a very

Retired Teachers meet

By Elinora Burke
The Annual Convention of the Kentucky Retired Teachers Association was held at the Executive West Hotel in Louisville, April 15-16, 1997. This is the 40th Anniversary of our Association.

Sue French, Executive Council Member, attended both days. Our local president, Betty Ann Glowak, along with Kathleen Stevens, Asyle Ray and Elinora Burke, attended the second day meeting.

Morning refreshments were served compliments of National Health Administrators.

The meeting was opened by KRTA President Robert Estes. After the Invocation, Pledge of Allegiance and the National Anthem, we were welcomed by Frances Miller, President Eliza.

President Estes then called on Pearl Miller, AARP/NRTA Representative, who introduced the Retired Teacher of the Year nominees. The winner was Richard Jet of Campton, Kentucky, Wolfe County. Jim Shackelford, from the office of the Attorney General, spoke to us about Consumer Fraud. He warned us of things to be aware of that could cost us. If it sounds like too much of a bargain, it probably isn't a bargain at all.

We are pleased the Rockcastle County membership is still good. Better than 95%. However, we are envious of Carlisle, Fulton and Greer for keeping their perfect records of 100%.

We were given the gold award and a certificate for our good efforts. Luncheon was served in the Mary Room of the Executive West. Music was provided by the Corkey Rable Trio. Guest were entertained by Loyol Jones - writer, speaker, humorist, storyteller of Berea.

A number of issues were covered in the afternoon session. Executive Director, Frank Hatfield, gave the Treasurer's Report. Virginia Shaw reported on Membership and Pre-

Retirement. Robert Kelly, reported on Health and Insurance; Bobby Humes gave an update on Legislative Programs and Proposals. All in all this was a very productive meeting.

Our next local meeting will be a supper get together at the Kastle Inn, April 28, 1997 at 6 o'clock.

Library News

By Geraldine Robbins

The Student's Art Show is still on display at the library and will be here through Saturday, April 26th. If you haven't been in to see this, please try to come in and see the student's work. They have done an excellent job with many different types of art. We had a great turnout for National Library Week and the special day "Kids Connect @ the Library." One hundred and fifty three people came in to the library on the special day. We were very encouraged by the turnout and hope that a lot of the visitors will come back to use the library again.

A definite date has been set for the OPEN HOUSE and this will be May 22, 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

We plan on having special articles and pictures of happenings at the library each week until the end of May. We are hoping to especially encourage those local people that still haven't visited the library to do so this evening.

There are services offered at the library that will help everyone, whether it be for information, pleasure or simply to spend some free time with us. There is a large number of magazines available and the Lexington Herald if you just want to relax for awhile. Also, the computers are available for our patrons to use.

I will be gone Thursday and Friday to attend a Director's Retreat at Lake Cumberland. This is always a pleasant experience for me. There are sessions both days on some facet of library work and just getting together with other directors prove to be a valuable asset. We all share our experiences, mostly pleasant things but sometimes those times that have not been so pleasant. This helps to work out difficulties that may arise at our own libraries.

New books now available at the library are: EVERY DAY by Elizabeth Richards... A novel for everyone who has wondered what if... In the rare moments when Leigh Adelman has time to consider her chaotic life, it takes her breath away. Fourteen years distant from her first love, an electric adventure that produced her first child, Leigh's Simon, her devoted husband. That intense, hopeful time she has left behind is just a memory... until the summer morning when Fowler pops back into her life.

Unfinished business compels Leigh to take the brilliant, uncompromising Fowler and, as she hears his voice, she understands that she has always loved him. But this rendezvous turns out to be about first love but more about a last chance.

For it is clear that Fowler is dying...
A THIN DARK LINE by Tami

Hoag... The best-selling author of night Sins and Guilty As Sin takes readers on a search for the truth through the bayous of Louisiana that reaches deep into the dark recesses of the heart. Deputy Annie Borussard is drawn into a dangerous, deadly game when she pursues the investigation of a killer whose case has been dismissed on a technicality. A great suspense novel.

ACTS OF LOVE by Judith Michael... All eight of Judith Michael's previous novels have been New York Times bestsellers. They are beloved by their readers for their richly emotional takes of life and love and this one proves to be no exception.

When theater director Lucas Cameron discovers a box of letters written by Jessica Fontaine, an actress who disappeared from the stage following a tragic accident, he begins to fall in love with her and seeks out this passionate, talented woman. Instead he finds a reclusive wallowing in despair, through Lucas' love and belief in her, Jessica hesitantly begins her journey back to her art and to life.

Ms. Betty's Little Artists

The Student's Art Show is now on display at the Rockcastle County library. Also, Ms. Betty's Story Hour Children are showing off their talent with a display of their own. The Story Hour is held each Tuesday at 1 p.m. All preschool children are welcome to attend.

Ms. Betty's Bunnies

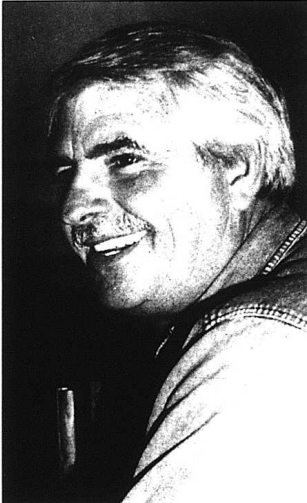

The Rockcastle Co. Library held an Easter Egg Hunt at the children's reading program. The children had a very good time trying to find the eggs that the bunny had hidden. Rain threatened but we got to hunt before it hit. The parents as usual were a big help. Without the parents my job would be much more difficult. I wish to thank them. I would also like to encourage people to come see our Art Show. My kids did a fantastic job. Considering that most are two to four years old, they have a delightful imagination. We are already planning our summer reading program. The theme is "Book a Trip to the Stars." I think it will be a useful topic. Please keep this in mind and be sure and bring the children on Tuesdays between nine and two. I think they will enjoy it.

Betty Lindblom, Children's Librarian

Betty Lewis Children's Service Award presented

Cornelia Short, missionary to Rockcastle County Schools for 50 years, recently received the Children's Service Award given annually in memory of Betty Lewis. The award is open each year to nominations by the public and 85 letters of support were received by families in the county and from other states. Some of the comments from the nominations included "She loves all the little children of the world," and "She taught high moral standards and exemplary values." The presentation was made by last year's recipient Cora LaPorin, left. Miss Short lives at Pine Hill.

Fiscal Court finally passes 911 system

By: Richard Anderkin The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court finally made official on Tuesday. Rockcastle County will have a 911 emergency dispatching service. By a unanimous vote, the court approved the second and final reading of the ordinance more than two months after they gave unanimous approval to the first reading. "Thank you, we finally got this in here," Rockcastle Judge-Executive Buzz Carlotus told members of the fiscal court after the vote. Carlotus told the court that the 911 emergency dispatching would not be ready for service in the county until sometime this summer and that dispatching for the service would still be done from Rockcastle County Sheriff Shirley Smith's office.

Part of the ordinance dealt with the formation of a county 911 board that will consist of 13 members and be chaired by Carlotus for the first two years. After Carlotus's term ends the board will appoint its own chairperson. The 13 member board will consist of two members of the Rockcastle fiscal court, a representative from the Rockcastle ambulance service, the sheriff's office, a representative from each magisterial district, one representative for all of the county's fire departments and a representative for each of the city governments within the county. Carlotus said the board should be in place in about three weeks. Although the Judge said the emergency dispatching would continue at the Sheriff's office, the actual site will be determined by the board. Although the ordinance stipulates that all of the current certified dispatchers in the Sheriff's office will have the first chance at being employed by the 911 board. Each telephone customer in the county will pay for the service at a rate of $2.00 per month, which will be added to the telephone bill. Third district magistrate Bill McKinney asked the Judge if the $2.00 charge would be added to the bill before the service actually starts, but Carlotus never gave McKinney a clear answer, saying only it would take some time for the service to be implemented. Rockcastle countians will have only basic 911 service, when the number goes into effect, but the Judge said the county will move toward enhanced 911, which will take about 20 months to put in place. Enhanced 911 is also much more expensive, but the Judge said the $2,000 a month charge would probably be enough to cover the cost of implementation of enhanced service. The most time consuming part of putting enhanced 911 in the county will be the mapping of the entire county. Enhanced 911 will enable dispatchers to know who is calling and from where as soon as the phone rings. Information about the people living at the residence such as illnesses or current medications will appear on the dispatchers computer screen. For now residents will simply have to tell the dispatcher what they need and where they are at, but everyone in the county will be able to call 911 for help. "We probably would not have gotten that passed a year ago, but I think the magistrates understand the need and realize the move will save the county about $32,000 in dispatching costs," Carlotus said after the meeting. G.T.E. has told the county it would take 30 to 60 days to begin collecting the $2.00 a month fee.

Carmichael passes buck to Judges

Rockcastle County's Commonwealth Attorney Ray Carmichael effectively passed the buck Tuesday when he told the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court if they wanted quicker court proceedings to talk to the (Circuit) Judges. In a letter to County-Judge Executive Buzz Carlotus, Carmichael said, "like you I wish to expedite felony trials for several reasons, including to alleviate the financial burden in housing, 'non-paying' prisoners. Thus I share your concern and pledge to do all I can to assist your efforts. To accomplish this common goal we must solicit the support of the Circuit Judges. For only the Circuit Judges can assign priorities for matters pending on their criminal docket," Carmichael wrote. The fiscal court had asked Carmichael to attend this month's meeting to discuss speeding up court proceedings in Circuit Court because the county must foot the bill for any prisoner not making bond, until their case is disposed of. Carlotus has said the slow actions by Carmichael are costing the county lots of money. The court took no other action on the matter except to instruct the Judge-Executive to write Circuit Judges William Cain and Dan Venters a letter requesting that they help speed up the process. Since June of last year only five trials have been held in Rockcastle Circuit Court.

However Magistrates Bill McKinney, Donald Bullock and Amos Burdette all voted no. The three said they thought Mrs. Meadows should make a recommendation in the matter and that she had not done so. "She is supposed to be on top of this stuff, that is her job. I think she may be passing the buck," McKinney said. The court did however vote unanimously to give United Waste Systems a thirty day extension on removing their dumpsters until Mrs. Meadows can make a recommendation at the court vote on the permit again. Mrs. Meadows was not present at Tuesday's meeting. The court did approve a garbage hauler permit application for Bee Garbage. Mrs. Meadows had recommended they do so.

Court denies United Waste System's application again

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court deadlocked Tuesday on a vote that would have allowed United Waste Systems to continue to operate in Rockcastle County. The action came during the court's regular monthly meeting, which had been delayed once again. During the court's March meeting, they voted to deny a garbage hauler permit for United Waste Systems and ordered them to remove their eighteen dumpsters from the county by the end of April. At that meeting Nancy Meadows, the county's solid waste coordinator, told the court that United Waste Systems had been operating in the county for about two years without a permit. She said that after United Waste Systems bought Helton Sanitation they had never made proper application, although several requests had been made. Also at that meeting Third District Magistrate Bill McKinney voiced concern that United Waste Systems would try and lower prices and run their competitors out of business. However on Tuesday, Carl Towne, Division Manager for United Waste Systems told the court that his company has never engaged in the predatory pricing discussed at last month's meeting and it has never been the company's practice to lower prices to drive out competition. "I think you all may have us confused with another company," Towne told the court. Towne said United Waste Systems' 18 customers in the county were satisfied with their service and wanted to continue to do business with his company. Towne also pointed out that United Waste Systems is one of only two companies that provide containerized service in Rockcastle and if they were denied a permit, competitive pricing in the county would be eliminated. Towne also suggested the court talk with Bee Garbage about their business dealings. "We have never had any problems working with Bee," Towne said. Bee uses United Waste Systems' landfill. Second District Magistrate Jack Bradley said he had talked with David Eaton of Bee Garbage and they did not have any problems with Towne's company. Bradley made the motion to permit United Waste Systems, magistrate John Holbrook seconded the motion and Judge Executive Buzz Carlotus voted for it. However Magistrates Bill McKinney, Donald Bullock and Amos Burdette all voted no. The three said they thought Mrs. Meadows should make a recommendation in the matter and that she had not done so. "She is supposed to be on top of this stuff, that is her job. I think she may be passing the buck," McKinney said. The court did however vote unanimously to give United Waste Systems a thirty day extension on removing their dumpsters until Mrs. Meadows can make a recommendation at the court vote on the permit again. Mrs. Meadows was not present at Tuesday's meeting. The court did approve a garbage hauler permit application for Bee Garbage. Mrs. Meadows had recommended they do so.

Kentucky 89 proclaimed scenic by-way by state

Recently, the segment of KY 89 located in Jackson and Rockcastle County was designated a Kentucky Scenic Byway. This designation was a joint effort on the part of the Jackson County Development Association, the Kentucky Chapter of The Nature Conservancy and the Northern Jackson County Committee. All of these organizations have a vested interest in the protection and appropriate development of the wealth of natural resources that Kentucky has to offer. The total route that is included as a Scenic Byway includes the three miles of KY 89 in Rockcastle County and twenty-eight miles in Jackson County. Of the five Byways designated by the Kentucky Transportation Cabinet in 1996, four were in Fayette County and KY 89 rounded out the selection. The dedication for the Byway will be on Tuesday, April 29, at 10:30 a.m. The location will be at the historic wooden bridge over Horse Lick Creek on Kentucky 89 at the

Points East

By: Ike Adams

Almost Heaven, West Virginia. John Denver sings and it is a pretty song. It's also true, because Heaven for me at least, starts just across the Tug Fork of The Big Sandy River that separates the eastern Kentucky mountains from West Virginia.

finish high school. Too many of our clearly folks live in pitiful housing conditions and have no way to get to the doctor's office or even grocery shopping. Too many families live in well-lit pavements which is better than not living at all, but not by much.

verbal bowl of porridge. As a consequence we mountaineers have had no real choice but to watch long trains haul away the wealth and make millions of men far away, many of whom have never laid eyes on our hills. But there's nothing to be gained by misgivings over a situation like this.

Last week I spent three days roaming around the hills to visit old family haunts along or near the West Virginia line where I spent my college summers and weekends at work and play. When I take my mindst away from the socioeconomic problems that plague our region and let myself simply experience the sheer joy of just being in these hills of home, I am at once in perfect peace with myself.

There is no other place I'd rather be and it doesn't much matter which hollow or mountain top if the wild turkeys are gobbling and the squirrels are astir, which river of crooked creek if the red-eye and small mouth bite. It doesn't even matter much which country so long as the hills are high and steep.

It's not that I don't love living in Point Lick and Garrard County because I do. My wife and kids would never feel at home in the mountains on the one hand. On the other they don't have any real sense of place running through their veins the way the hills run through mine. These mountains are truly in my blood.

I would not mind spending eternity in them and is that not what Heaven is all about? When you're standing on the far bank of the Tug Fork looking over Kentucky and whistling "Almost Heaven," West Virginia... the song rings true because in fact, you're almost there.

Billerica to a crossing seven miles downstream that Ralph Waldo Emerson immortalized:

*"By the rude bridge that arched the flood,
Their flag to April's breeze unfurled,
Here once the embattled farmers stood,
And fired the shot heard round the world."*

We raked and sacked winter-fallen leaves, picked up a ton of pine needles, so it seemed, and gathered broken branches from beneath the oaks and elms in our spacious yard.

That Saturday evening we ate our meals in the living room, in front of the blazing hearth. A sense of satisfaction for a job well done made our evening memorable. While Nancy got the children to prayers and bed, I changed my sermon for the next morning. I would speak on "The Good God of Spring."

"Jumpin' Jehoshaphat! Come Sunday morn we were ever surprised by the eleven inches of snow that covered our manicured yard! I quickly dug out the message I had shelved in favor of the "spring" sermon.

That was our first encounter with a Nor'easter. And as the weeks passed it was not until late May that we experienced anything that resembled Spring. Dear hearts, there is no Spring in New England. You just go into winter, and then suddenly in June Summer is upon you, but still cool enough to keep you humble.

I remember that April in Billerica for another reason. Mark, our eldest son was playing second base in a recess baseball game. One of his opponents side into second, put the clip on Mark, threw him over, and broke his leg. Mark was rushed to Lowell General Hospital where a doctor, out in a hallway, set the bone and affixed a cast. The doctor boomed the setting. To this day Mark has problems with that leg. The doctoring of a malpractice suit never entered my mind back then.

There is an aspect in which April touches all, some more than others, namely, the Infernal Revenue Service. A-murcy! Let's not get into that. But all Wabblans, and others who are displeased with the present system of taxation, are encouraged to attend a Flat Tax Rally next Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. in the town square, by the Tomb of the Unknown Taxpayer. Several notable personalities will speak, including the renowned, Wabbl-born historian, C. S. McKinty.

My most beautiful remembrance of April has to do with our first grandchild, Andrew Michael Meadows, who was born on the nineteenth day of this month nine years ago. Alack and alas! There's little hope for him. He's a Hoosier.

One of my most trying times in the pastor-to-be took place in April of '68. On April 4, Martin Luther King, Jr. was murdered. The following Sunday I expressed my dismay in the pulpit of the magdab Baptist Church. I praise King for his philosophy of non-violent confrontation and then went on to say that our racial prejudices find no sanction in Scripture and speculated that our country will never be blessed as long as we practice segregation and advocate violence. (A few black folk attended that church, mostly children.)

Well by mid-week I had my ears filled with dissenting voices telling me to just stick to preaching the Bible and saving the rest. I heard by the grapevine that one fellow had said to me, "I hate his guts."

The next Sunday morning the deacons gathered with me in my study for prayer. They were a sullen looking crew if every I say one.

"Something wrong, gentlemen?" I asked.

Clinton Smith had his mouth opened but John Barnett, and arch-conservative, and about it John Bircher, beat him to the punch and said, "Yes, Bro, Meadows, something is wrong. We here at Bagdad are not accustomed to having Martin Luther King, Jr. added to in the Holy Trinity."

"What?" I almost screamed.

"John, you know very well that I never said anything like that!"

"Yes," John said, "but you seemed so enamored with King that we thought you had him on a level with God, Jesus, and the Holy Spirit."

I told the deacons that I needed a few minutes alone and told Bill Lancaster, a deacon who was our song leader, that I'd be out shortly without me, that I'd be out shortly.

When I stood up to preach that morning, I said, "I thought a preacher was allowed to follow the only Spirit who has to say from this sacred desk. My sermon last Sunday came after much soul-searching. But throughout this week, and most notably this morning, I've come to realize that this is not a 'free' pulpit. And because it is not, I resign as your pastor, effective immediately. I ask only that you allow us to live in the parsonage until the boys finish school next month."

So, what happened? I'll tell you what I would do. I had an offer from other churches. I hadn't put out the word that I felt it was time for me to move on.

So, what happened? I'll tell you what happened! Now, influential members of that church lobbied me to stay.

Not the one

HERESAY

By: John Norman Meadows

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EVIL AGE, greetings and inclemencies to you and yourn from Nod's Little Acre in the heart of breezy, bargeoning, baculic Wabld - the true Heaven's Gate - where beds are made every morning the evening meal is called supper, and automobile on the Sabbath is still frowned upon.

My theme for today, beloved, is April. Just that and nothing more. And with good reason: my last column was the longest ever and so filled with points that is was quite pointless. Forgive me, precious creature. That won't happen again. I hope.

I have an explanation. My verbosity, I do believe, was a direct result of the low-fat diet Nancy has me on. (My cholesterol and triglyceride count has gotten a way up into the danger range.) I had been on the diet for only two days when I sat down to write that article. My mind was in a state of shock, having been so suddenly deprived of the likes of such culinary delights as country ham, biscuits, red-eye gravy, fried potatoes, and ice cream with cookies.

Also, I was most likely afflicted by ruminandio allatobito, a malady discovered in 1991 by Dr. Appleby Dingus, a Welsh-born physician who is Director of TAADS, (The Anglo-American Dieter's Society, headquartered in Poundshire, England). Dr. Dingus's research proved that a preponderance of carrots in one's diet increases the probability of ruminandio allatobito in males over age fifty-five. The condition in layman's terms, Dr. Dingus explained, could be called "mind wandering." Those so afflicted cannot maintain a single train of thought. (Do thoughts ever travel by truck, automobiles, airplanes, or landcaircs?)

Where was I? Oh, yes. Verbosity and my rite.

I'm still on it. Been on it for twenty days. Will be for the rest of my life. Haven't broken it one time. Never seen so many carrots. Am starving! Never seen so much celery. Am on the border of berserk!

Beloved, I may write a book about dieting. If I do, I'll note up front that the first thing you lose is your temper.

But away with dieting discourse. I have a theme to develop. Besides, you, precious soul, are like well aware of the rigors (torments?) of low-fat dining.

Let's talk about April. And the first thing I want to say is that Mother Nature's '97 issue of April has been a bitch - the flower that bloom in May notwithstanding. (Did I just use profanity? I think not. But if you're offended by "bitch," substitute "witch.")

Beloved, there is something to the notion that certain folks suffer when the temperature yo-yos from the seventies to record below freezing marks. I felt it in the marrow of my arthritic frame. "Dad, raise doryll weather!" said I to a friend who stopped by last week. Thank heavens for our hot tub. (Dad, dear, hearts, is not exactly what I said.)

The Anglo-American poet-critic, T. S. Eliot (1895-1965) wrote,

April is the cruellest month, breeding
Lilacs out of the dead land, mixing
Memory and desire, stirring
Dull root with spring rain.
Opening lines of The Waste Land, p. 1,
"The Bunial of the Dead" (1922)

I concur with T. S. Although he was talking about the obvious - buds and blooming things stunted or destroyed by vile temps and nefarious breezes - Eliot had more than weather in mind, right-brained readers will likely note.

I remember our first April in New England. It was April 10. Nancy and I, with the help of Mark and Mike, who took turns looking after six-month old Malissa, set about to clean up our yard at 3 Dickinson Street in Billerica, Massachusetts.

Mullins steps down as CEO of Mental Health Board

At the April meeting of the Lake Cumberland Regional Mental Health Retardation Board, Inc., Roland Mullins announced his intention to step down from his position as Chief Executive Officer at the end of his current contract.

"I have been serving the Behavioral Health Care clientele all along the Cumberland River, from its headwaters in Harlan County to Turkey Neck Bend in Cumberland County for the past 31 years. The Community Mental Health Center system in Kentucky has been a very exciting endeavor. With the income related fee scale, full behavioral health care coverage has been available to all—the equivalent of universal needs based insurance coverage. I leave Adanta feeling good about what we are doing," he said.

Mr. Mullins was appointed by the Board in October, 1993. During his tenure, the Board realized a 38% increase in Equity and a 22.5% increase in clients served. During the period from 6/30/92 to 6/30/96, profits saw an increase of 182%. A former teacher and school administrator, Mr. Mullins, was the Executive Director of Cumberland River Comprehensive Care in Corbin for twenty years. In addition, he served several terms as Mayor of the city of Mt. Vernon, and as County Judge Executive of Rockcastle County.

"Roland Mullins has proven one of the most effective managers of Mental Health/Mental Retardation services I have ever known," said Dan Howard, of the Kentucky Association of Regional Programs. "He is an effective planner and communicator — not only among the staff and Board, but within the community.

The Board is fortunate to have appointed him, for he brings a fuller vision to a very complex organization."

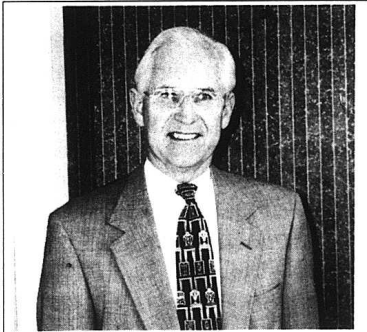

In his letter to Board Chair Dr. Forest Shely, Mr. Mullins expressed a desire to pursue other interests and indicated that he felt his work here was pretty much completed.

Nurses of the Year

Joy Callahan, RN, has been a nurse at Rockcastle Hospital for 16 years when she began her career with an Associate degree in nursing from EKL. She has since completed her BSN from Eastern. Joy is the Infection Control Nurse and Training Director at the facility. She is an active member of Northside Baptist Church and does CPR and Nurse Aide Training for the community.

Greta Thompson, RN, is a nursing supervisor who works in the Emergency Department. Greta began her health care career as a nursing assistant and decided to go back to school for her nursing degree from Berea College. She knows the value of adult education and encourages others to pursue nursing careers. Greta enjoys living on a farm with her husband and children. The Nursing Department is proud to have these two nurses as 1997 Nurses of the Year.

Roland Mullins will step down as Chief Executive Officer of the Lake Cumberland Regional Mental Health Retardation Board, Inc.

deacons' frames, and by the end of the next week, every single deacon had visited with me — not all of them were as biased as the one who spoke out. One by one they urged me to rescind my decision and stay at Bagdad. And I did stay for two more years. I earned my second graduate degree, and then accepted the call of the New Colony Baptist Church in Billerica.

So much for my Aprils. I hope yours bring more fond memories than regrets.

Oops! I'm about to write too long. So until next week, beloved, ponder the insight of Seamus McHareldie, longtime proprietor of Wad's Knobby Men's Wear Shop, and part-time Director of FODAWOS (Friends of Dandelions and Wild Onions Society), who said, "There is one good thing about pants that are too tight — they teach you not to drop things."

My Precious Wildwood Flower
Each year in my garden wildwood flowers used to grow.
Each so tender and beautiful in winter I couldn't bear to let them go.

I took great care of them, making sure they'd last.

But each day grew colder as Spring time passed.

All season long I showered each one with nurture and love.
They were all breathtaking, but there was one which always stood alone.

You'd sway in the wind to a beautiful melody.
And I'd watch you knowing you were dancing for me.

With your angelic face looking toward the sun and your leaves extended to the sky.
Winter is here and it's time to say goodbye.

As I shed another tear and miss you so.
I hope I'll see you next year when it is time for flowers to grow.

Another Spring has passed and you're still not here, and I wish with all my power.
You'd come back and play me a song.
"My Precious Wildwood Flower."

You will be forever loved and missed by your family and friends.

You Kissed the Wind

You kissed the wind,
I wonder why,
You kissed the wind,
I stand and cry,
We never thought it would go this far,
Know one thought but here you are.
Questions,
Answers,
Never clear,
We all thought you would always be here,
We didn't know, but yet we did,
Why didn't we,
Is it I or us?

You kissed the wind,
With a hard goodbye,
You kissed the wind,
Why did you die?

By Mrs. Warren Poynter
Oh, Lord in your Heaven, only you know how I feel,
I can't seem to accept
Lord, I can't believe it's true,
I know that he's happy with you upon your throne,
And I'm so glad he doesn't know,
that I feel so alone.

What I would give to see your smile,
And how I'd love to hold you in my arms for awhile,
My heart would be so happy,
But God in Heaven knows I couldn't turn loose to let you go.

We miss you so much, since you went away,
But we treasure the memories that we have of yesterday,
Home is so lonely since you've been gone,
So we try to help each other and go on.

Until we meet in Heaven on that long awaiting day,
We'll remember each other and you when we pray,
So very much loved and missed by his family and friends.

Host families needed in Rockcastle

Foreign high school students are scheduled to arrive soon for academic program homestays, and the sponsoring organization needs a few more local host families.

According to Pacific Intercultural Exchange (P.I.E.) Executive Director, John Doty, the students are all between the ages of 15 and 18 years, are English-speaking, have their own spending money, carry accident and health insurance and are anxious to share their cultural experiences with their new American families. P.I.E. currently has programs to match almost every family's needs ranging in length from a semester to a full academic year, where the students attend local high schools.

P.I.E. area representatives match students with host families by finding common interests and lifestyles through an information in-home meeting. Prospective host families are able to review student applications and select the perfect match. As there are no "typical" host families, P.I.E. can fit a student into just about any situation, whether it be a single parent, a childless couple, a retired couple or a large family.

Families who host for P.I.E. are also eligible to claim a $50.00 per month charitable contribution deduction on their itemized tax returns for each month they host a sponsored student.

For the upcoming programs, P.I.E. has students from Spain, Denmark, Germany, Poland, Russia, Finland, Argentina, Brazil, Colombia, Paraguay, Australia, New Zealand, Croatia and many other countries. P.I.E. has also been invited to participate in a special government-funded program to bring scholarship students from the Newly Independent States of the former Soviet Union to the United States. P.I.E. is a non-profit educational organization that has sponsored more than 18,000 students from 40 countries since its founding in 1975. The organization is designated by the United States Information Agency and is listed by the Council on Standards for International Educational Travel (CSIET), certifying that the organizational complies with the standards set forth in CSIET's Standards for International Educational Travel Programs.

Doty encourages families to contact the program immediately, as it will allow the proper time for the students and hosts to get to know one another before they actually meet for the first time.

Mt. Vernon area families interested in learning more about student exchange or arranging for a meeting with a community representative may call P.I.E., toll-free, at 1-800-631-1818. The agency also has travel

Annual Life Chain April 28th at high school

Who we are...
What we do...

"The guarantee of the right of life of every human being no matter how young (unborn), how old, how poor, or how handicapped, is the single issue that will determine the future of America. That's why we here in Rockcastle County volunteer our time to this cause. The world we bequeath to our children rests upon our willingness to be involved. The many ways we work to get the job done include building a strong and viable membership, educate ourselves and others, legislative action, voter surveys, promoting alternatives to abortion, annual Life chain and Walk for Life.

study program opportunities available for American high school students as well as possibilities for community volunteers to assist and work with area host families, students and schools.

Please join us April 28th, 7:00 p.m. at the Bible Baptist Church for a very important meeting concerning future events we will be hosting.

May 4th will be our annual Life Chain. We will form the chain along US 461 By-Pass in front of the Rockcastle County High School. Parking is available at the school. I want to urge all citizens of Rockcastle and surrounding counties to help in this great public testimony of standing in defense of those who cannot speak for themselves; the unborn babies.

Poet's Corner

Poem By Timothy Earl Hammeck

Presented By Fannie Coffey
It's been raining.
On a day like this.

I've been dreaming.
About the people I miss.
I've been crying.
While I think about you.

We've been separated,
There's nothing I can do.
I've been thinking,
There's still time.
I keep praying,
You all are still mine.
I've been hoping that,
It will still come true.
I've been feeling,
The Love from you.

County Attorney explains seat belt law

The statistics are alarming. In 1995 alone, nationwide, nearly 42,000 people lost their lives in motor vehicles crashes - an increase of 2.7 percent from 1994. That's an average of 115 people each day - one every 13 minutes. Motor vehicles crashes are the leading cause of death for every age from 5 through 27 years old.

But even more frightening than the statistics is an accident close to home. "We all are aware of the dangers posed by Kentucky highways and roads," said Rockcastle County Attorney Jeff Burdette. "But the danger never seems real until it affects us personally."

Those accidents, Burdette said, often are the reasons people begin driving safer and wearing their seat belts.

The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration emphasizes that seat belts, combined with airbags, are the most effective protection people have today from injury and death from vehicle accidents.

Burdette said the recent controversy over air bags has made some unsure of their safety. Recently, air bags have proven deadly to children and people under five feet three inches tall. The force of a deployed air bag is strong enough to kill a person seated too close to the dashboard.

"What some people don't know, though, is that adults and children are less likely to be injured by an air bag if they're wearing seat belts," Burdette said. However, he cautioned that the safest place for children is buckled up in the back seat.

Even though seat belts have been proven life savers, Kentucky was one of the last states to pass a seat belt law — 47th out of 48 states that have seat belt laws.

"It took Kentucky longer than most to pass a seat belt law," Burdette said. "There were concerns that such a law would infringe on people's rights."

Several reasons led to passage, including the threat of losing $10 million in federal road construction money. Because seat belt usage lowers the number of serious injuries and fatalities, the law continues to save money in health care and automotive costs. Studies showed that unbelted motorists injuries were two of five times more costly to treat than those who wear seat belts. "If the seat belt usage in Kentucky could be raised from the current 55 percent to 70 percent, we would see an estimated 163 fewer fatalities and a savings of $286 million," Burdette said, citing numbers from the Kentucky Transportation Center.

While actual health-care and automotive costs decrease with fewer and less serious accidents, recent information from the Kentucky Department of Insurance revealed that automotive insurance premiums have not decreased as expected since the passage of the seat belt law.

"The overriding factor is safety," Burdette said. "It's been proven that seat belt laws increase the number of seat belt users. Kentuckians who wear seat belts decrease their risk of a fatal or incapacitating injury by 63%. Burdette said drivers cannot be pulled over simply for not wearing their seat belts. However, they can be cited for not wearing a seat belt if they are pulled over for another reason, such as speeding. The fine for not wearing a seat belt is $25.

Kentucky's seat belt law took effect in 1994. Since then, seat belt usage across the state has increased from 42 percent in 1994 to 55 percent in 1996. The county attorney's office is responsible for prosecuting traffic violations in district court.

This should be the only thing that gets hit.

Baseballs are meant to be hit. Children are not. If you are getting hit and you are not a ball, chances are you're being abused. You can get help. Strike out at the problem. Write:

Bluegrass Games expanded to two weekends in July

Because of the growth in the number of participants and the addition of two new sports, the Bluegrass State Games will be held over two weekends this year instead of one.

The 1997 Games will be held July 18-20 and July 25-27 in Lexington. The sports that will take place the first weekend are Men's "D" Softball, Women's "S/D" Softball, Adult Soccer, Adult Three-on-Three Basketball and all Diving.

The two new sports—a 5K run and In-Line Hockey—will be held the second weekend, along with the remaining Adult Softball divisions plus all Youth Softball, Youth Soccer, Youth Three-On-Three Basketball, Volleyball, Swimming, Archery, Equestrian, Track and Field, Shooting, Bowling, Chess, Canoeing/Kayaking, Croquet, Cycling, Golf, Gymnastics, Horsemanship, Karate, Power Tumbling, Racquetball, Table Tennis, Tennis and Wrestling.

Opening ceremonies for the '97 Games will be held on Friday evening, July 25, at the University of Kentucky's Commonwealth Stadium.

"We are going to a two-weekend format to create room for growth," explained Games' Executive Director Eric Ward. "Lexington is bursting at the seams during the Games and this will hopefully make it easier for our out-of-town participants to find hotel rooms. It will also allow us to handle increased participation in some of our more popular sports like softball and soccer."

The new 5-K run will be held at 8 a.m. on July 26 starting and ending at the University of Kentucky's Commonwealth Stadium. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be given to the top three overall male and female finishers and the top three in five-year age groups. The race is open to all but is considered a demanding physical event. There will also be a wheelchair division. The 5-K will replace the 5,000 meter run that has been part of Track and Field.

John Sensenig of Lexington is the race director. In-Line Hockey will feature three youth directors with a maximum of eight teams per division and a maximum of 10 players per team. Registration will be accepted on a first come, first serve basis.

Nick Champa of Lexington will serve as Sports Commissioner. Individuals who participated in the Games last year will be mailed an entry booklet this spring. If you did not participate and would like an entry booklet or information on the Games, call 1-800-722-2474.

Last year the Bluegrass State Games drew nearly 20,000 amateur athletes from throughout the state to participate in the various team and individual events held in Fayette and surrounding counties.

The Bluegrass State Games is sponsored by the Valvoline Co., the Commonwealth of Kentucky and the Lexington-Fayette Urban County Government.

The girls continued their domination of middle school track and field with their 3rd consecutive victory. They remain undetected this season.

Commission sets hunting dates

The Fish and Wildlife Commission voted on March 7 to create even more hunting opportunity for Kentucky sportsmen. They voted to open fall archery seasons one week earlier beginning with the 1997 seasons. Fall turkey season and deer archery seasons will open the third Saturday in September (Sept. 20, 1997 instead of October 1).

The commission also adopted a longer statewide squirrel season. The season will still open the third Saturday in August (Aug. 16, 1997) but instead of closing December 31 it will now be closed after January 31, 1998.

Other items approved by the commission were:

- > In zones 1-5 youth season hunters may take either sex deer. Allowing the youth season deer hunter to take a doe in Zone 5.
- > Minimum caliber restrictions on muzzle-loading firearms were eliminated.
- > Special regulations for hunting on wildlife management areas are approved and will appear in the 1997-98 Deer and Small Game Hunting and Trapping Guide.

- > Quota hunts that include adults on state-owned Wildlife Management Areas will no longer count as bonus deer. State tags must be used for these hunts. Youth quota hunts on state-owned WMAs will still be bonus deer.
- > Protection for the Copperbelly Water Snake Conservation Agreement was approved. This motion is in keeping with the landmark agreement and will remove the copperbelly water snake from the list of "unpro-TECTED" species.

- > Beginning with the 1997 deer seasons, an 800 number will be in place so that farm landowners can report their deer harvest. This over-the-phone check-in will give more accuracy to total deer harvest numbers by county.
- > Beginning with the 1998-99 seasons, the youth hunt weekend and early muzzle-loader weekend will switch. The Youth-Only Deer Season will switch from the 4th weekend in October to the 3rd and vice versa for the October muzzle-loader deer season.

In addition to these items, the 1997 deer hunting seasons and zones were approved. Zones 1-6 have a modern gun deer season for ten consecutive days beginning Saturday, November 8, 1997. Zone 7 has a modern gun deer season for five consecutive days beginning November 8. Bowhunters

The Family Room

By: Dr. Don Whitehead

"I don't want to remember my childhood," Sherry told me. (All characters are fictitious) Sherry and her husband had come to see me for marriage counseling, because Jack wanted divorce. When their marriage situation improved and the threat of divorce was past, Sherry remained in counseling to deal with her memories.

"I've always known I was abused," Sherry said. "But the memories are bothering me more now than ever. I can hardly think of anything else."

Jack's threat to leave had brought out Sherry's anxiety and along with it came her memories of childhood. She was reliving the abuse in her mind.

I told Sherry that remembering and telling about the abuse were her best hope for getting over its effects. "But those memories are so painful," she protested, "that I don't want to remember them, and I sure don't want to tell them to anyone."

Soon Sherry decided that she had no choice but to deal with the memories. "I can't stop them," she admitted. "They are just too strong."

Sherry had been sexually abused by her father from age 5-11. When she was six or seven she told her mother that "Daddy is hurting me."

Mom said, "You know your father would never hurt you," and Sherry never mentioned the subject again. Sherry had always remembered two incidents of abuse. When Jack filed for divorce, she began to remember more and more. Telling her counselor about those memories seemed to trigger even more memories. Sherry remembered abuse that she had totally forgotten. While she had always thought that the abuse began when she was eight, in therapy she remembered incidents that occurred as early as five years.

Some of the memories began to come back to Sherry in her dreams. She described several vivid dreams that turned out to be actual memories of what Dad had done to her.

"Mom worried a lot," Sherry remembered, "and Dad took care of us kids. Every night he put the younger kids to bed before me. I couldn't boller because it would awaken the others, and I couldn't stop him because he would hold me tight. It was the only time he ever held me. I didn't know what to do or what to say. I was very confused."

That confusion had carried over into Sherry's adult life. She often started too many projects at once, and then could not get everything done on schedule. She stayed confused 90% of the time.

Sherry was also sexually irresponsible. In an age of AIDS and other sexually transmitted diseases, Sherry seemed unaffected by the possibilities of transmittal. The only reason she stopped her sexual activity was that her husband found out and threatened to leave. "A man wouldn't stay with me if I didn't have sex with him," Sherry told me.

Though the experience was painful, remembering and releasing the memories proved to Sherry's route to a better life.

Steve and Betty Phelps would like to announce the birth of their daughter, Rachel Cecile, born Feb. 12th at Patti's A. Clay Hospital. She weighed 8 lbs. 11 oz. and was 21 1/2 inches long at birth. Rachel is the baby sister of Monica Robbins and Chris Powell of Berea. She is the granddaughter of Melberta Whittemore of Broodhead and Edward Phelps of Hawsaville, Ky., Leroy Howard of Berea and the late Betty Miracle Linsville. Great grandparents are the late Cecil and Jessie Sargent, Martha Phelps of Mt. Vernon and the late George Phelps, the late Walter and Mary Miracle and the late Luther and Lety Gibson Howard.

"I just wanted the baby to stop crying. I only shook him for a few seconds. But he'll be blind for a lifetime."

It's tragic but true. Every year thousands of babies suffer blindness, brain damage or even death because someone didn't realize just how much harm can be caused by shaking an infant hard. Please remember, never shake a baby.

Patient uses Morse Code to communicate

By: Richard Anderkin

Some of the work that goes on at Rockcastle Hospital is truly amazing. Rockcastle Hospital is already recognized as one of the top ventilator care facilities in the United States. Just a short visit to the hospital and you will know why.

From helping one young patient attend high school on site through the use of a wheel chair equipped with a ventilator, to creating a system by which an Atlanta woman can communicate with the help of Morse code.

In 1992 Brenda Cook arrived at Rockcastle Hospital suffering from ALS or Lou Gehrig's disease.

When Cook was admitted, she was in the early stages of the disease and could still talk and eat. Since then her condition has deteriorated to the point that she cannot do anything but grove her eyes and mouth.

However on Tuesday she told me, via Morse Code and a small computer, that she thanks God everyday for the staff at Rockcastle Hospital and her communication system.

Brenda Cook wrote me that her form of communication has been a blessing from God. Brenda Cook also told me that she was very thankful for Donna M. McMahan a former practicum student at the hospital that came up with the idea for her to communicate with Morse Code.

Becky Powell, a speech pathologist at the hospital said that Mrs. Cook has been an inspiration to everyone that knows her.

"She has an illness that is incurable, but she has a better outlook on life than many people, she seems to look forward to everyday, especially now that she can communicate with everyone," Powell said.

Powell said that Mrs. Cook learned the Morse Code chart in only two days.

Morse Code creates words with short beeps and long beeps. Mrs. Cook first learned to make words with her eye movements, quick movements for short beeps and slower eye movements for long beeps.

Now Mrs. Cook creates her words with a mouth piece that is connected to her computer.

But before Mrs. Cook got her computer she used Morse Code to communicate with the hospital staff. She would eye blink poems, (she has an entire collection), articles for the hospital newsletter and prayers for her weekly prayer meetings.

Now with Morse Code and her computer it is much easier for her to write her poems or whatever else she desires.

With the mouth switch she can load her Morse code program, write her documents, save, and reload them herself whenever she wants.

Before we took Mrs. Cook's picture she asked Mrs. Powell to remove a towel on her shoulder. Without her new form of communication she would not have been able to even do that, it is truly amazing.

Mrs. Powell said that she is working now to get Mrs. Cook a printer so she will be able to print out her writings. Until then, hospital staff members will continue to copy Mrs. Cook's writings from her computer. A task most of them don't mind to do for a person with such a special outlook on life.

Currently there are 63 patients in the extended care facility.

Mrs. Brenda Cook and Speech Language-Pathologist Becky Powell.

Vern Gosdin in Renfro Valley Saturday May 3

Country is as country does, and no one is more country than Vern Gosdin. He didn't earn the name "The Voice" by his peers for nothing.

The Alabama-born singer and musician has been a favorite for nearly two decades and is bringing his rich baritone to the Renfro Valley stage once again this May.

There is perhaps no one else who has been involved in as many music scenes as Gosdin. From the influences of the legendary Blue Sky Boys and Louvin Brothers, Vern, with his brother, Rex, performed duets at rural schoolhouses and radio stations. He sang for a time with his family's gospel band, and then, during the late '60s and early '70s, became part of the country rock scene in Los Angeles. It wasn't long afterwards that Gosdin broke out on his own, establishing himself as a solo country singer with the talent and experience to become a legend.

While singing with Elektra Records in 1976, his successes included Top Ten hits "Yesterday's Gone," with Emmylou Harris, and "Break My Mind." Like so many other classic country artists, Gosdin's popularity was a steady growth, not an overnight sensation. It was his enduring love of music that not only made him determined to sing, but which is demonstrated in his songs and performances.

His 1986 album, Chiseled in Stone, established Gosdin with the authority deserved by a man whom Tammy Wynette describes as "the only other singer that can hold a candle to George Jones." The album's title song was awarded CMA's Song of the Year in 1989.

Gosdin's plans are as simple and profound as the man himself. As he concludes, he wants to "do a little bit more of what I've been doing" and do my best to do it better.

After an outstanding performance in 1994, Gosdin will be returning to Renfro Valley by popular request. He will perform live in the New Barn Theater on Saturday, May 3, 1997 at 7:00 p.m. and 9:00 p.m.

For tickets and reservations for all Renfro Valley shows, concerts and special events call 1-800-765-7464 or (606) 256-2638.

Vern Gosdin will be at Renfro May 3.

Like To Trade Your UK Sweatshirt For This?

NO? DIDN'T THINK SO. Well, the students at the UK Community Colleges don't want to trade in theirs, either. But they'll have to if the scheme to strip UK of its community colleges is approved.

This takeover, conceived in part by an out-of-state consultant and opposed by 62% of Kentuckians* would deny UK Community College students a degree from the University of Kentucky, and destroy their pride in being part of UK. A degree from the Kentucky Community & Technical College System would not have the same value.

Does it make sense to you to have a costly new political bureaucracy in Frankfort running the community colleges? Fight for the UK Community Colleges. Keep Us One.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,
As a School Board member, I am writing to alert the community of a very important issue that will be discussed at our May Board meeting. This issue is concerning the access our children have to obscene materials while in school.

The computers in our schools allow our children to access a world of information that would otherwise be unattainable, and are necessary for the proper education of our children in today's high-tech world. However, without proper filtering and control, they are also providing access to the most obscene materials imaginable. Former Senator James Exon, the Nebraska Democrat who sponsored the original Communications Decency Act bill, said during debate on the Senate floor, "It is not an exaggeration to say that the worst, most vile, most perverse pornography is only a few click-click-clicks away from any child on the Internet." The Internet, Exon said, was filled with "the most disgusting, repulsive pornography...featuring torture, child abuse, and bestiality—all within easy access to children with a computer and a modem. Let me explain how this can happen.

Computers provide our children with a doorway into the largest library in the world. This doorway is referred to as the "Internet." On the Internet, books of information are referred to as "web sites." By simply typing in the topic you are researching, almost instantly there is a long list of "web sites" that you can access concerning that topic.

Although the Internet is like the library in many ways it has much more to offer.

First of all, when you access the list of web sites concerning the topic you are researching, you get more than you intended. Among that list are sites that include the most vulgar and obscene materials imaginable.

Secondly, unlike a book, web sites provide interactive communications with the user including video sound and pictures.

Realizing the impact that access to such abhorrent materials can have on our society, especially our kids, the companies that provide Internet access have developed a rating system that could be used to filter out inappropriate materials. At the present time our schools are not taking advantage of this rating system but rely on the following two policies to protect our children:

1. An agreement that the parent and child sign at the beginning of the school year stating that the child will not access materials that would be inappropriate.

2. The teacher is expected to monitor a classroom of children while they are on the computers.

These policies are very important and should remain in place. But, much more can be done to protect our children from these obscene materials. My recommendation is that we take advantage of the filtering system that may be freely available to us by our Internet provider. I would like to see that we go a step further and purchase one of many filtering programs available to greater ensure that our children can log onto the Internet without being bombarded by the temptation to view obscene materials.

To do nothing would be the same as putting porno magazines between every other book in our school libraries and then telling our children to not look at them.

The Kentucky Department of Education has recommended that we do nothing more. Their reasons are totally unfounded and completely ignore the impact this type of material will have on our children.

As a community we are free to set our own policies for what we think is best regardless of what the educational hierarchy may recommend.

Now is the time to voice your concern about this issue. The Board meeting is scheduled for May 13 at 7:00 p.m. at the Board of Education office. Please attend the meeting to learn more about this issue and what you can do to ensure that something is done to protect your children from pornography while they are in school.
