

Agricultural News

By Warden Alexander

A severe snowstorm on February 4 and 5, 1998 has caused severe damage in all areas of the county. Farms suffering severe damage may be eligible for assistance under the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP) administered by the Rockcastle County FSA Office if the damage:

- will be so costly to rehabilitate that Federal assistance is or will be needed to return the land to productive agricultural use

- is unusual and is not the type that would recur frequently in the same area
- affect the productive capacity of the farmland
- will impair or endanger the land

A producer qualifying for ECP assistance may receive cost-share levels not to exceed 64% of the eligible cost of restoration measures. No producer is eligible for more than $200,000 cost sharing per natural disaster occurrence. The following types of measures, may be eligible:

- removing debris from farmland
- grading, shaping or releveling severely damaged farmland
- restoring permanent fences
- restoring conservation structures and other similar installations.

Producers who have suffered a loss from a natural disaster may contact the local County FSA Office and request assistance immediately and up to May 1, 1998. To be eligible for assistance, practices must not be started until:

- an application for cost-share assistance has been filed
- the local County FSA Committee or its representative has conducted an onsite inspection of the damaged area.

The Agency responsible for technical assistance, such as the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) has made a needs determination, which may include cubic yards of earth, moving, etc., required for rehabilitation.

On April 3 beginning at 11:00 a.m. Secretary Dan Glickman will host a forum on production agriculture. The forum will be held at the Century Tobacco Warehouse, 736 South Broadway in Lexington. All farms are urged to attend. The FSA office will be holding an EQIP sign-up starting April 1 and will run thru May 29, 1998. Practices eligible thru EQIP are Land Management Practices, Animal Waste Facilities, Grassed Waterways, Livestock Water Development, Filter Strips, Critical Area Planting, Permanent Wildlife Habitat Development, Tree Planting, and Pasture Planting. All the practices that are available will be cost-shared up to 75% by the FSA Agency. For more information contact the FSA Agency. The Rockcastle County FSA Office is now leasing tobacco. All producers must remember that their burley quota will be dropped permanently if not planted, leased or sold two out of the three preceding years. Producers must return marketing cards to the FSA Office as soon as possible after all burley tobacco sales.

Former residents struck by car in Florida; one dead

An elderly Dayton, Ohio couple, formerly from Rockcastle County, were hit by a car in Florida last week while they were attending the funeral of their daughter.

According to a story in the "St. Petersburg Times", Helen Hysinger, 77, died in the accident and her husband, Ray, 81, suffered five broken ribs, a broken leg and head injuries.

According to the newspaper, the Hysingers were crossing the road on their way to get some iced tea, when they were struck by a car driven by a 21-year-old Port Richey, Florida woman. Mrs. Hysinger died instantly. Jim Hysinger, Ray's son, said that despite his injuries Ray Hysinger managed to crawl to his wife's side before paramedics arrived. "He rolled her over and knew she was gone. He's just devastated," Jim Hysinger told the "Times."

Jim Hysinger said his father told him he saw a car coming as the couple crossed the road but thought they could make it. The "Times" said Ray Hysinger had to help his wife across, as she did not walk as well as he could. The couple had been married for over 50 years.

Mrs. Hysinger's body is at Dowell and Martin Funeral Home where arrangements are incomplete.

Bill Dowell of Dowell and Martin, said the family was waiting for Ray Hysinger to be released from the hospital before arrangements would be made for her funeral here.

The Hysingers were attending the funeral of their daughter, Frances Fry, 58, who died of cancer.

Mt. Vernon awards bids for $5 million water project

There is good news this week for water consumers in Rockcastle County.

Monday night the Mt. Vernon City Council awarded bids for their water plant expansion project totaling $5 million.

The bids were awarded to three different companies, all for different parts of the project.

Mt. Vernon Mayor Gary Cromer said he was very pleased with the bids and the fact they came in so close to the city's estimated cost of the project.

The bid for the actual addition and renovation to the water plant was awarded to W. Rogers Company of Lexington for $2,657,000.

The bid for the new water lines and relocation of other lines was awarded to Laurel Construction Company of London in the amount of $2,067,227.

The bid for the construction of the new 500,000 gallon water tank, which will be built on property donated by Clarence Carter, near McDonalds went to Phoenix Fabricators, which is based in Illinois.

Mayor Cromer said he hoped the project could get underway in about three weeks with a completion date set for December 31.

The project will double the city's capacity to provide water to its own customers and its commercial users.

The project will be paid for with low interest loans and grant from the Rural Development Association and a bond issue.

Mayor Cromer said he hoped the bond issue could be held to $1.5 to $2 million, with the balance of the project being paid for by the loans and grants.

In order to qualify for the grants and loans and pay for the bond issue the city said they had to raise water rates.

In July of last year, they did just that. The minimum water charge for customers inside the city limits increased by $2.26 to $6.76 for the first 2,000 gallons. The minimum charge for customers outside the city limits increased by $3.00 and wholesale customers are paying on the average of .72 cents a gallon more.

And because of the city of Mt. Vernon's water plant expansion project, customers of the Rockcastle Water Association will benefit.

Two weeks ago, the federal government's Rural Development Office gave their approval to Rockcastle to go ahead with a project they had been working on for three years.

In 1995, the Rockcastle Water Association was awarded grants and loans for $1.7 million to run water lines to 400 more Rockcastle County homes that currently do not have water.

The project had been held up because the Rural Development agency would not release funds because Rockcastle could not get a solid water users agreement from the city of

Judge: Court may consider taking over cable

Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carlolius told members of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court last month that he was receiving a large number of complaints about cable television service in the county and that the court should consider the possibility of taking the service over and running it themselves.

"I think that ninety percent of the complaints that I get are legitimate - they complain about poor service, poor reception and ever-increasing monthly bills," Carlolius said.

"The majority of the complaints are against Falcon Cable and Lewis Cable," the judge said.

"We get very few complaints about Wilcop and Rapid," the Judge said.

The Judge told the court that neighboring Laurel County was very serious about spending $8 or $9 million to provide cable service in their county and if they do, Rockcastle could contract with them, to run cable service in Rockcastle.

"It is certainly something to think about - at least when someone complains - you could do something about it. Now there is not much that can be done," he said.

Carlolius said another bone of contention with cable customers is that fact that Wilcop is the only cable company in the county that has an office here. Carlolius said Laurel County was considering a Wireless Cable system that provides 15 channels for $15.95 a month. The stations are NBC, CBS, ABC, FOX, USA, CNN, DISCOVERY, TBS, WEATHER, WGN, TNN, A&E, AMC, ESPN and QVC.

Some county officials could get $8,000 annual pay raise

Thanks to the generosity of the Kentucky General Assembly, some county officials may get a raise.

House Bill 110 was passed by the General Assembly and will allow County Clerks, Sheriffs, Jailers and the County Judge-Executive to receive a raise.

In Rockcastle County the raise will amount to $8,000 a year.

But, County Judge-Executive Buzz Carlolius said he doesn't know where the money will come from.

"We already have a problem meeting some of our obligations - especially in the jail fund and $8,000 is a lot of money," he said.

Currently Carlolius and Jailer Howard make the same salary of approximately $43,000.

Rockcastle Sheriff Shirley Smith made $42,000 last year and County Clerk Norma Houk made $48,000.

Carlolius could have made as much as Mrs. Houk, according to state law, but according to fiscal court records, he has not taken his raises since he has been in office.

Carlolius said he did not take his raises since 1993 because the county could not afford to pay him.

The jailer's salary is also set by the fiscal court when they approve the jail budget and they have not increased a raise for that office since 1993 either. That is because of the same reason, Carlolius said, no money.

According to state law, the County Judge's salary has to be as high as any other elected official. Therefore in 1997, Carlolius could have made the same as Mrs. Houk, if he had opted to take the raises.

Houk said that because of House Bill 810 she can earn $56,000 next year, if her office generates enough fees. Last year Mrs. Houk's office returned over $20,000 to the county in excess fees.

The same would be true of the Sheriff's office. If the fees are sufficient to pay for the raise, the Sheriff would be allowed to make $56,000 next year. Although, he could have earned $48,000 this year, he did not.

Allegations of too much teacher involvement on writing works

Allegations that at least two teachers helped their students too much in developing their portfolios have sent over 30 Rockcastle County High School students scurrying to finish their required work before April 24.

Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond said last week that allegations were made about three weeks ago against two senior English teachers for helping their students too much.

But, Hammond said that all senior portfolios are being thoroughly examined to see if there is any problem with any of them.

Hammond said the first allegations were made against English teacher Ms. Julie Cruse and later another other minor allegation was made against Mrs. Iris Young. Hammond said to his knowledge no allegations have been made against the other senior English teacher Jennifer Mantually.

"Most of the problems were with students in Ms. Cruse's class, but to be on the safe side we have had assistant principal Ruth Allen (a former English teacher) and another staff member, also an English teacher check all of the portfolios," Hammond said.

Writing portfolios are a collection of six or seven written pieces by a student. In most cases, students work on them most of the year. They write a rough draft, then change it several times and get some guidance from their teacher, as to grammar and punctuation and so on, it is a very fine line, as to what teachers can do and can't," Hammond said.

Head of Rockcastle's testing, Claudina Cash, said that Allen and her assistant had almost completed their examination of the seniors' portfolios and that no problems were found with the portfolios in Mrs.

Man arrested after stabbing

A Mt. Vernon man is being held in the Rockcastle County jail after he was charged with assault.

Ben E. Bull, 21, of Ramsey Trailer Park, Mt. Vernon, was charged with second degree assault after he was arrested by Mt. Vernon police officer Matt Bryant.

Bull is accused of stabbing, LeRoy F. King, 30, of Mt. Vernon in front of the Dollar General Store on Hwy. 150 in Mt. Vernon on Thursday evening.

King was treated for a stab wound to the left arm at the Rockcastle Hospital and released.

Bull will appear in district court for a preliminary hearing on Thursday.

parley, they marched out of the Great Teepee and went directly to the tent of Leaping Ewe, the squaw, and her elongated son, then called rah-hah-tee-tum-eech-lah, which being interpreted, meaneth "tree."

The spokesman of the tribe stood in front of Tree, looked up at him, and said simply and forthrightly, "U-tah Wee short U be the new chief."

And as the legend goes, Tree became U-tah. Then, night after night, the braves of the tribe brought their squaws to U-tah's teepee. And the little braves borne of those teepee trysts were called "Utes," which means "seeds of U-tah." By and by, the children of the tribe grew taller and taller, until finally, after U-tah rolled over dead from a seizure during a squaw session, the elders changed their name from Anasazi to U-tah, for indeed, they were no longer short.

Holy chronicles! How reviving history is! Digging out this story whetted my research appetite and reminded me of seminary days when I spent hours and hours "in the stacks" of the library at Southern Seminary, reading and learning this and that about the Bible.

You, too, dear hearts may have a "research" flair, so the following are some of the sources I consulted in bringing this "Ute" story to you, sources you might want to look into: The Encyclopedia Britannica, Elmer Ederer's History of the West, Moby Dick, The History of the World - from Jericho to Juneau (by the late, great Wabdonian Hyran L. Haributt), Mormons, Utes, and Salt by Ilse C. Inghu, McGuffey's Eclectic Second Reader (Revised), The Congressional Record, The Reader's Digest, The Farmer's Almanac, Poor Richard's Almanac, and The Grapes of Wrath. There are, of course, reams of material in Wab'd's Noe-Jones Memorial Library that have no author but may be authentic data about the Utes of the rocks, hills, and templed hills of Utah.

Dear hearts, I'd like to answer more letters, but I must take leave of you and go get the long ladder and bucket from beneath our house so Nancy can wash windows when she gets home from work.

So, until next week, beloved, if the Prime Mover keeps me moving ("prime" went out years ago), give a measure of meditation to the insight of Estefor Q. Dedelemann, long-time spokesperson with Greater Wabdonian Whaling Enterprises, Inc., and part-time tobaccoist, who said, "The man who says he is too old to learn new things probably always was."

the jury his client's innocence.

For those who would meet the challenge head-on, however, the role of defense counsel in defending the guilty can be amply justified, whether the goal be truth, justice or the vindication of public morals.

Consider the alternatives.

This may seem most surprising when the goal is promoting the truth. How can making a guilty man seem innocent ever advance the truth? The answer, in part, is to consider the alternative. Those systems in which a lawyer is called upon to reveal, rather than conceal his client's guilt have usually degenerated into systems that utterly subvert the truth. Thus, it is a tenet of most communist legal systems that (in the words of one such criminal code) "The defense must assist the prosecution to find the objective truth in a case," including ridiculing a client's defense where they appear to defend counsel to be untruthful and educating the guilty client to his need to accept punishment. The next step turns out to be public confession and Guag.

Put more broadly, the defense counsel who must conform his defense to what he believes to be the objective truth becomes de facto an inquisitor, rather than an advocate. But experience suggests that the inquisitorial cast of mind tends to pre-judge: to categorize too swiftly and assume too readily, "to reach a conclusion at an early stage and to adhere to that conclusion in the face of conflicting considerations later developed."

These all-to-human tendencies "to judge too swiftly in terms of the familiar" can only be counteracted if counsel is honor-bound to ferret out and advance every fact and argument that can be turned to the client's benefit, regardless of whether they accord with the lawyer's personal beliefs about the client's ultimate guilt.

This is the genius of the adversary system at work. Such a system is premised on the belief that the best way to arrive at the truth is to hear both sides of the story, subject each proponent's assertions to the vigorous criticism of the opponent, and then have neutral arbiters decide which assertions make sense. But if such a system is to work at all, it requires that those who are called upon to advocate one side's story and criticize the other's not be diverted from this essential role by their own beliefs or conclusions, however strongly held.

A SYSTEM FOR THE INNOCENT ONLY?

The broader goal however, is justice; and this may mean more than just ascertaining the truth. The medical rack may have been a successful device for eliciting the truth, but no one now suggests that its use was just. Conversely, would we today regard a just system that provides counsel for the innocent only? Yet, if one is forbidden to defend an accused of whose guilt one is certain, a large number of criminal defendants will be deprived of counsel altogether.

Of course, one could narrow the group by encouraging guilty defendants never to confess or even to hint at their guilt to their attorneys, on pain of losing their lawyer or at least effective advocacy. The rule of such a system is: lie to your lawyer or lose him. The belief that such a system is calculated to promote the truth seems dubious on its face. But in any event, can such a system remotely claim to be just, when it conditions one's right to voice and a champion on the denial of candor? One would suppose that citizens both guilty and innocent would have considerably more confidence in a system that permits them to confide their innermost secrets to their counsel without having no fear that such confidences will be turned against them.

Furthermore, there is more involved here than individual peace of mind and confidence in the fairness of the system, important though those be. Vigorous advocacy on behalf of every defendant, guilty or innocent, is also the surest guarantee that due process will be preserved and that the government will be held to fair and decent standards. "It aims at keeping sound and wholesome the procedures by which society visits its condemnation." As every defense counsel knows, most of what occurs in the criminal justice system occurs out-of-sight of any court; at the point of arrest, at the police station, in the prosecutor's office, in the grand jury. In every place, the accused is effectively presumed guilty, and the government's work is law. Only the threat that what happens in these places will eventually be the subject of vigorous scrutiny by defense counsel prevents these points along the process from degenerating into star chambers or worse.

To defend the guilty therefore serves the causes of truth, justice and liberty. But for all this highfalutin' pretensions, does it still not fly in the face of conventional morality? Is there not something downright wicked in trying to get some known villain off the hook?

Such a question presupposes a narrow and artificial view of right and wrong. Even the simplest criminal case involves questions of principle and policy with broader implications than simply achieving an equitable result in the case at hand, important though that may be. (Footnotes deleted)

To sum all this up, would you expect a doctor to refuse treatment to a crook, a priest to deny confession or a minister to not "forgive"?

That we defend the "crooks" helps to keep the system in place to protect the innocent.

This is especially true today where prosecutors routinely charge defendants with crimes they did not commit based solely on the word of an "informer" who is trying to get a light sentence or where defendants are charged a much higher degree of the crime in the hopes that the jury or defense lawyer will plea bargain the case.

In Loving Memory

In Memory of Mama:
Cora Lee Graves Renner
April 10, 1926 - April 28, 1994
By Clarice Kirby, daughter
Mama time doesn't erase
Your memory or face
I see you every day in my mind.

And remember how you would feel.
Love has a way of helping me say
This too shall pass in time.
'Cause you're the one who taught me
the way
To always stay in line.

With every new case
I try to place,
Myself in you to find.

The things you gave
Were Love-Hope-Faith
I hold these dear to my heart.
I'll do as you did
And give as you gave
As long as we're apart.

A good way to deal
With things that are real

Legislative Update

By State Rep. Danny Ford
The 1998 General Assembly heard requests and acted on a wide and diverse smorgasbord of needs and proposals as we addressed the environment, the economy, tourism, transportation, education, health care, social issues, industry, and more. Much of the more comprehensive and important work of the General Assembly was accomplished in the final legislative week.

One of the more vocally-expressed needs has been with the state education program. Elementary had secondary education changes were made in House Bill 53. It includes provisions to maintain school accountability, phase in of a revised testing system, continuance of cash awards to districts that improve, and provides failing districts with skilled educational assistance. House Bill 536 sets requirements and establishes programs for further professional development for teachers. Senate Bill 265 provides for alternative certification for teachers. This bill enables persons skilled in various professions or occupations to be certified to teach in public schools through an eight week training course rather than going through the traditional teacher education program. Cost of living salary adjustments for teachers and classified employees of school districts are provided in House Bill 469 and House Bill 36, respectively. House Bill 532 enhances the teachers retirement system benefits.

The Commonwealth Merit Scholarship program for Post Secondary Education is established under Senate Bill 21. This program is to be funded with lottery proceeds, which will also fund the two existing need based scholarship programs and the establishment of the new Literacy Resource Centers.

House Bill 52 makes sheriffs, full-time deputies, and university police who complete extra training eligible for the supplemental pay incentive fund for police officers. It also increases the allotment to voluntary fire departments from $5,000 to $6,500 until July 1, 1999 and to $7,500 annually thereafter.

Health Care was addressed by House Bill 315. As it passed both chambers this week, the bill maintains guaranteed issue for all Kentuckians, deletes the $0.25 prescription tax, and allows individuals to deduct insurance premiums from taxable income. The bill allows insurance companies to base premiums on health status, but anyone with serious health conditions will be able to purchase insurance at 135% to 150% of the standard rate.

Late into the evening of what was originally to have been the last day of the Session, the House debated for almost five hours before passing House Bill 121 and 217. With the passage of these bills, the procedure for partial birth abortions became illegal and abortion clinics became more strictly regulated.

Comprehensive changes in criminal law are stipulated under House

Bill 455. Included in the language of this bill is the new sentencing alternative of life without parole, restitution by perpetrators, allowance of victim impact statements in court proceedings, and DUI regulations that will allow stiffer penalties for blood alcohol levels of .18 or higher.

Veteran's Day celebrations will be returning officially with the passage of Senate Bill 33. This legislation deletes President's Day as an official state holiday and replaced it with the observance of Veterans' Day. This action follows the authorization for two new Veterans' nursing homes, to be located in the eastern and western areas of the Commonwealth.

The end of the Session was punctuated with the passage of House Bill 74 relating to automobile taxes. Under this legislation, the 6% usage tax on vehicles will now be based on the actual amount paid for new and used vehicles rather than the average retail value - in the case of used cars, and 90% of the sticker price in the case of new cars. This bill also reduces the personal property tax on automobiles by basing the tax on average trade-in value rather than retail value. The bill continues the practice of allowing a trade-in allowance against the usage tax in the purchase of a used vehicle.

Once again, I would like to thank all of you who assisted in the legislative process, especially as you shared your thoughts and ideas. As always, please continue to let me know how I may be of assistance. The legislative message line will remain available for your messages, toll free at 1-800-372-7181.

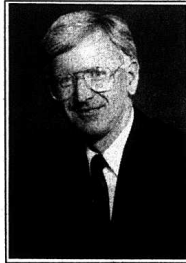

Still Is.

We're not a big impersonal corporation headquartered in a far distant city or even foreign country. We're a family. And, like you, we make decisions that suit our community...not necessarily someone else's. We think that makes a great difference in the care and service we offer the families who come to us.

DeLeon gets solo homer to beat Eagles

Rockets extend season record to 10-0

In their last three outings, the Rocket baseball team chalked up wins over Madison Southern, Knox Central and Garrard Co. to run their season record to 10-0.

Last Thursday night, with senior Scottie Moore on the mound, it was a close ballgame for the Rockets who were hosting the Madison Southern Eagles. Senior Nathan DeLeon decided the game for the Rockets with a two-out solo homer in the bottom of the seventh to seal the 7-6 Rocket victory and eighth win of the season.

The Eagles drew first blood in the game, scoring two runs off two hits in the first inning. But the Rockets came right back in their half of the inning, scoring two runs off three hits, a double by Travis Anderkin and singles by Dusty McClure and Chris Bishop. Anderkin scored on Bishop's hit and McClure came across the plate when Andrew Cash was thrown out at first.

The next scoring came in the third when the Eagles got one run on three hits. Again, the Rockets played catch-up ball, getting a two out single by Bishop and an RBI and an RBI single by Cash to make it three all.

Neither team scored in the fourth but the Eagles pushed a run across in the fifth to go ahead 4-3. In their part of the fifth, the Rockets came back on a two out single by Bishop and Nathan DeLeon and Cash drew walks, bringing freshman Greg Harper to the plate. Harper hit the ball to right field and the fielder misplayed the catch, allowing three runs to cross the plate and giving the Rockets a 6-4 lead.

The Eagles weren't done however, scoring twice in the top of the sixth when the Rocket defense broke down and Moore was lifted for freshman Brandon Bishop who got the final out in the 6-6 ballgame.

The Rockets went down in order in the bottom of the sixth. Coach Ryan Riddle brought Cash on to pitch the top of the seventh and Cash set the Eagles down in order. There were two out in the Rockets seventh when DeLeon came to the plate and took the Eagle pitcher out of the ballpark to give the Rockets the 7-6 win.

Rockets 11 - Panthers 6

Monday night, the Rockets traveled to Knox County to take on the Knox Central Panthers. The Rockets had their bats in working order, sending 24 men to the plate in the first three innings and collecting 9 runs on 7 hits and two Panther errors. Meanwhile, senior Nathan DeLeon, making a bid for his third win of the season, sailed through the first two innings, giving up only one run on one hit. However, a raucous Panther crowd unsettled DeLeon in the third and the Panthers came back with five runs on three hits and two Rockets errors making it a 9-6 ballgame.

The Rockets got one run back in the top of the sixth and another in the seventh for the final 11-6 win and a 9-0 season record.

DeLeon was lifted with two out in the fifth and Brandon Bishop came on to pitch a strong 2 1/3 innings for the save.

Rockets 9 Garrard Co. 5

Tuesday night, the Rockets were at Garrard Co. for a return match with the Golden Lions and the outcome was another win 9-5 for the Rockets which upped their season record to 10-0. Chris Bishop got his third win of the season and his brother, freshman Brandon Bishop, came in to close out the game in the bottom of the seventh.

The Rockets jumped on the Lion pitcher early. Lead-off man Travis Anderkin was beamed by a pitch, bringing Dusty McClure to the plate. McClure came through with his second homer of the season and the Rockets were up 2-0. Chris Bishop followed with a double but was stranded when the Lions pitcher retired the next three men.

Bishop set down the Lions in order in the bottom of the fifth. In the second, Jacob Burdette got a one out single, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. One out later, Anderkin walked and went to second when a balk was called on the Lions pitcher. Burdette went home to make it 3-0 for the Rockets. McClure singled Anderkin home and went to second when the throw went to home.

McClure went to third on a wild pitch to batter Chris Bishop, who then walked, and both scored when DeLeon was safe at first on an error on the shortstop, making the score 6-0. The lions picked up one run on two hits in the second.

The Rockets were scoreless in the third and fourth innings and the Panthers added a run on three hits in the third to make it 6-2.

In the sixth, the Rockets came back to pick up three runs on hits by Harper, Burdette and a walk to Cash. Pinch-hitter Josh Martin brought all three runs home on a double to center field to make it 9-2. The Panther's catcher Brian Moberly greeted Bishop in the top of the fifth with a solo homer to make the score 9-3. The next Panther drew a walk but the Rockets got out of trouble on a double play from Bishop to Anderkin to Christopher Parsons. Bishop struck out the next man to end the inning.

After a scoreless sixth and seventh for the Rockets, Coach Riddle infered freshman Brandon Bishop to finish the game. Bishop met with some problems, facing seven Panthers and giving up two runs on two hits before getting the last out on a line drive to Burdette in center.

The Rockets will travel to Model

Thursday for a 4:30 game (V&JV) and Saturday will host Wayne County in a varsity doubleheader. Next week, the Rockets begin Monday at Madison Southern, Tuesday they host Oneida for the first district game of the season, Wednesday Harlan comes to town for a varsity game, Thursday they host Clay County in a district game, Friday they go to Bell County for a varsity, jayvee game and Saturday they are at McCreary Central for an afternoon varsity game.

Tough Transitions

Reprinted from Capital Classic By Don Londerec (a student assistant in the Marshall sports information office)

Somewhere in southeastern Kentucky sits a house with a basketball goal in the driveway. In that driveway, at any given time, there was a little girl with a basketball - she practiced her shot for hours each day. She played against her father. She shot foul shots. She worked on her jump shot.

In that driveway, a basketball player was born. "Dad and I would play out in the driveway all day long," says Cindy McCauley, a senior guard on Marshall's women's basketball team. "I remember some of the older boys in the neighborhood, they would knock on my door and ask if my dad could come out and play."

"It was when I was really little and he would always let me play," she says. "I loved to go out there and just shoot with my dad, he would always take me out back and rebound for me as I shot free throws and jump shots. It was a bonding time for us."

McCauley says her love of basketball comes partly from within, and partly from her father.

"He played ball in high school, but then he got hurt," she says. "He hurt his knee. But he's always had a love for the game. I just grew up around it, I guess. We've always had a basketball goal ever since I can remember."

Shooting basketball with her father, in her driveway is where McCauley started her hoop career. And now, as she finishes, the time has come to reflect on the challenge it has presented.

She says one reason she made Marshall her school of choice out of high school was because of the distance from the very place where she first learned to shoot a basketball.

"Marshall wasn't too far away from home, so I could go back when I wanted to," she says. "But it was far enough so that it was a break from the usual."

McCauley let her intentions be known quickly.

"I signed early, so I really didn't have a chance to look around a lot," she says. "I took a couple of other visits - I visited Morehead and Kentucky. A couple of other schools around home came to visit also, but I didn't want to be too close. All my friends were going to the same places and I guess that could have been cool. I just wanted to get away from everything, meet new people and have new experiences."

McCauley says her journey through the years has been like many other players before her - working her way up each season. "I started until halfway through my freshman year," she says. "I had a sort of 'breakthrough' game at Radford that first year. After that, I think I started for the rest of the season. But I really don't remember."

But she does remember things that, but I don't really keep up with it. "Freshmen come in with the desire to do anything possible just to contribute to the team. By the time players leave they are supposed to be team leaders. I'm supposed to be a leader and a role model for younger players. I'm not really a vocal leader. I don't say much, as far as telling people what needs to be done. I'll tell somebody when they've done a good job. I lead more by example."

This quiet leader has been faithful to her team. During her first two years, Marshall showed signs of being champion. Last season Marshall captured the Southern Conference title and it was McCauley who touched the ball last time out in Greensboro and eyes turned to the NCAA tournament. A fitting end, in a fantasy world. But Marshall was faced with a move into a new league - the Mid-American Conference.

Not long after, Marshall's head women's basketball coach resigned. Yet another transition would have to take place. In the midst of it all, McCauley stood fast.

"For me, that was the first time that I had ever experienced switching coaches at the same school," she says. "I had different coaches at different levels of school, but I had the same coach throughout each level. You kind of get into a flow. Then this year, being a senior, it may have been a little more difficult. The freshmen didn't know anything different."

"But Coach (Julienne) Simpson's rules and ways are a lot different from what we were used to. Her style of play is different as well. I really like it. She's made the whole transition as easy as it could be and she understands that we may have been a little bit slow to get into things. She's helped things to go."

Still, the switch to the MAC has added new challenges to the team's journey. McCauley says the feeling is especially different for a senior who has played three years in another conference.

"It's tough being a senior at this time," she says. "I know our record isn't that great right now, but I also know we can play in the MAC. I just wish that maybe we would've done it sooner, like before I got here. I think we just didn't know what to expect. As far as offense goes, we can hang with any of the teams in the MAC. But we need to work to improve our defense and we need to work on playing against the tough defenses in the MAC."

Besides the change in the style of play, McCauley also says the unfamiliarity of the players and schools in the MAC compounds the challenge.

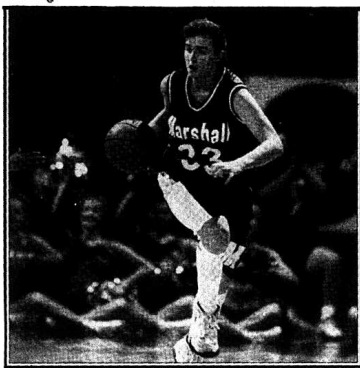

"In the Southern Conference, we knew every player on every other team and what they could do," she says. "Now we're playing against a lot of players we've only seen in game films. Transition is always tough."

Challenges, transitions, obstacles. "McCauley has seen it all. But when all is said and done, she only wants to be remembered as someone who gave her all, every day."

"I just want people to remember that every single day I gave it all I had," she says. "I just play from my heart. I'm not a tremendously talented player. I just worked really hard at it, and that's what I pride myself in - heart."

Somewhere in southeastern Kentucky, a young girl is bouncing a ball off the asphalt surface of her driveway. She practices jump shots, layups and ball-handling drills. As the sun sets, she can be seen going through the routine of foul shot after foul shot.

She's learning what it means to play from the heart. Cindy McCauley did years ago.

Albright ends solid season with Transy

Mt. Vernon native Jessica Albright ended a strong season with Transylvania's women's basketball team earlier this month. Albright, a 1997 graduate of Rockcastle County High School, played 4.8 minutes a game as a freshman, and learned Transy's system from a team full of players from the league.

The Pioneers finished the season ranked No. 20 in the nation and posted a 23-8 record, their third-straight 20-win season.

Track Team competes at South Laurel

Rockcastle's varsity track and field teams competed in the South Laurel Invitational this past Saturday. Both boys and girls teams fared well despite missing several key members.

The girls team had an excellent competition. They finished in second place out of 13 teams; just behind first place, Palaski. The girls were led by freshman Cheyenne Carmack, who won the award for most outstanding female athlete. Cheyenne scored 28.5 points and defeated 300m hurdle state champion Misty Clark of Green County and Palaski's five-time state cross-country champion Rachel Sanford for the overall honor. Cheyenne ran great races in the 100m dash and 400m dash, finishing second in both. Cheyenne also ran very well in the 200m dash and won the gold medal for first place. Sophomore Jessica Cobb also had a great day. Jessica ran very well in the 200m dash and the 400m dash finishing second and third, respectively. She also ran well in the 100m dash, placing fifth. Jessica and Cheyenne were easily the best sprint tandem at the meet. Freshman Rachelle Hammond had an awesome long jump competition and finished in second place, only three inches from a gold medal. Freshman Theresa Chislum performed very well in the 100m hurdles.

CARLOFTIS
County Judge/Executive
"Working For Change"

I greatly appreciate the number of people who have offered their support for my re-election as County Judge/Executive. In all honesty, I had no intention of making major changes when I came into office. However, it quickly became apparent how far behind our county had gotten compared to our neighboring counties and I realized what had to be done to change our course. These things take time and they have to be done one step at a time. While a few things have been controversial, they were necessary to help our county lay a foundation for future growth. I want to live in a county that is going to prosper - and I know you do, too. We are laying that foundation for the future. During my term, we have:

1. Cut Debt from previous administration by more than $700,000 (on courthouse annex building and chip and seal project)
2. Initiated 911 emergency service scheduled for this spring
3. Construction of new industrial park
4. Two new industries located here
5. Expansion of jail to house state inmates who pay Rockcastle County for incarceration

We must continue our work to expand job opportunities and place Rockcastle County on the right track to . . .

Mt. Vernon.
Mayor Cromer had told Rockcastle from the start that the city of Mt. Vernon would provide the water needed once their project was completed.

But without a solid water users agreement, Rural Development would not release funds.

That, however, is no longer a problem for Rockcastle. Mayor Cromer said Rockcastle should have started their project a year ago.

"Pay Raise"

earning $42,000. The bill made no provision for funding the raises.

The largest benefactor from House Bill 810 will be Jefferson County's County Clerk, where the salary will go from $48,000 to $81,000.

State Representative Danny Ford of Mt. Vernon, voted for the raises for county officials. Ford said he thought it was necessary in order to keep good qualified people in county offices. "They have a lot of responsibilities and we need good people in those positions," he said.

Ford also voted for a 48 percent increase in pay for himself and state legislators.

It was the first pay increase in Frankfort in 14 years and the raise was included in the state's budget.

The increases raise legislators pay from $106 a day, while in session, to $151 a day. It also raises the legislators' monthly pay while not in session from $1,002 a month to $1,431.

Ford admitted that it was a tough issue, but he said that if Kentucky wants to keep a citizenry legislature that represents all of the people, the pay must be adequate enough so that not only the rich can run for office. Ford said the pay increase would not have passed if the money was not available. "In 1982, when I first took office, the state's budget was in trouble and we rolled back our pay from $123 a day to $100 in order to balance the books," he said.

Young's, or Mrs. Mattingly's classes. "We simply followed up on every allegation, no matter how minor and nothing was found," she said.

"The portfolios have been gone over tenaciously."

"We called the State Department of Education as soon as we found out there may be a problem and have been instructed by them as to how to proceed with our investigation," she said.

"We don't think anything was done by any teacher intentionally, it probably was a matter of time deadlines and the fact the seniors needed to get their writing portfolios finished, so they could do other things, such as fill out the necessary paper work for college admittance," she said.

"Everyone has been very cooperative in this matter in an effort to correct the problem," she said.

Mrs. Cash said the seniors at RCHS have until April 24 to complete their portfolios so they can be sent to the state for grading. "I think all but a couple of seniors are correcting their portfolios, but none of the students who were involved are being required to finish them," she said. "If the students don't have time or do not want to do something over they have worked on all year long, then they won't be punished. Their portfolios will simply not be submitted to the state and will be graded as a zero, or Novice," she said.

"It will not affect their grade or graduation," she said.

Mrs. Cash said the high school will not submit any portfolios to the state. Department of Education that are in question. "If the state decides that a portfolio or any portion of the KIRIS test has been unduly tampered with, they throw all of the scores out from the entire school and the school is listed in crisis. We don't want that happen and we are going to make sure it doesn't," Cash said.

Mrs. Cash also said that in most cases only a portion of each portfolio in question had problems. "These students work on a lot of pieces during the year and it is a matter of pulling out another piece from their working portfolio and submitting it instead of one there may be a problem with," she said.

Rockcastle County participated in the regional PRIDE (Personal Responsibility in a Desirable Environment) clean-up on Thursday, April 1. Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carlisle helped in the cleanup on Calloway Hollow Road along with prisoners from the county jail, volunteers, community service workers, and the Rockcastle Litter Patrol. Above: Robert Shackelford and Danny Hansel pick up trash. Others assisting were Nancy Meadows, Bobby Bullen, Charles W. Bullock, Tamara Harg, Robert Chesnut, Brenda Johnson, Joe Bullen, Raymond Dixon, Aaron Shanks and Carlitus.

Mrs. Cash said teachers would receive more training in portfolio development to stave off any possible problem in the future. Some of the training will take place before the end of the school year.

RCHS principal Ronnie Cash did not comment on the situation.

The principal is currently involved in a personnel matter with Ms. Cruise, who filed an harassment charge against Cash with Superintendent Larry Hammond two weeks ago.

Hammond said last week he could not comment on Mrs. Cruise's charges, but that the matter had been forwarded to the state department of education's professional standards board for review. Hammond said the charges and the findings of the board would be made public after the board had reviewed the case.

County Judge/Executive

Dear friends,

Many of you have contacted me recently to express concern that county resources (example: gravel, chip and seal, blacktop and other road materials) are not being distributed fairly; and to ask what would be my policy concerning this if I were your County Judge/Executive.

Folks, this comes down to a matter of basic fairness—as well as legality—in my opinion. We are all citizens of the county, and we all deserve equal treatment from the county. County government exists for all of us. My policy, therefore, would be to expend county supplies fairly and legally, and in a manner that benefits each of us, and not just a select group.

You are also telling me that you want all county repair jobs to be awarded fairly as prescribed by law. It is only right, you say, and I agree, that all county residents have a fair chance at these jobs, and not just a favored few.

Sincerely,

James H. Lambert

Jerry Clower returns to Renfro Valley May 2

From the Grand Ole Opry to Renfro Valley - Jerry Clower will bring his stories and laughter back to the Valley stage for two big shows on May 2nd.

One of the top requested performers by Renfro Valley fans, Clower will perform at 7 p.m. and 9 p.m. in the new barn theater. Tickets are $13.00 and $15.00. Clower's history of sell-out performances in the Valley encourages reservations. For tickets and reservations call the ticket office at (800)764-7464.

These are several reasons Clower, better known as the "Mouth of the South" stands apart from other country performers - but probably the best reason is that Jerry Clower is real. He uses his real name, his stories are about real people. He is as funny off stage as on and he is sincere about his life's work.

In the past several years, the popular comedian has kept Renfro Valley crowds laughing from his opening story to last humorous tale of life in his hometown of Yazoo City, Mississippi. No less is expected at his May 2nd performances.

Jerry Clower began his professional life as a fertilizer salesman. His love of people, coupled with huge imagination and a natural story-telling gift, led friends to support him in a project to record his stories. That first album, "Jerry Clower from Yazoo City, Mississippi, Talk-in" led to a chain of twelve chart-topping LPs and four books.

The "Mouth of the South" is indeed one of the true masters of country comedy. He has been an MCA recording artist longer than any other performer, with a total of 25 albums and he is the only non-musical member of The Grand Ole Opry.

In today's comedy world, Clower is set apart from the "norm." His stories are clean, and his Christian convictions are evident. "I wouldn't tell a story that I wouldn't let my nine-year-old granddaughter hear," Clower says.

Whether Clower is telling stories about the infamous Ledbetter clan, talking about his wife, Homerine, or just reflecting on life in the rural

Local golfers get more rounds with '98 Golf Tour Card

The American Lung Association of Kentucky invites golfers to swing into spring with the 1998 Kentucky Golf Tour Card—a fantastic booklet of savings at more area courses than any package ever offered!

This year's "Lung Card" includes free rounds of golf or discounts at 167 Kentucky courses and driving ranges, over 40 courses and ranges in Tennessee, plus additional courses in Indiana, Ohio and Georgia. Listed in the package are courses in and around Rockcastle County, including Cedar Rapids Recreation in Mt. Vernon. Over 38 courses are new to this year's card.

Each participating course offers the cardholder one or more 18-hole rounds of golf. Many courses, including most state parks, offer multiple rounds and three or four unlimited rounds, for a total of over 450 rounds of golf. Valued at over $3500, the Kentucky Golf Tour Card may be purchased for only $35 a piece or four for $105 (Buy 4 get 1 FREE). All proceeds benefit the fight against lung disease.

"The Kentucky Golf Tour Card is a golfer's ticket to excellent benefits throughout the year," said Buddy Demling, professional golfer and trickshot artist, who is honorary chairman for the program. "Each purchase of a 'Lung Card' offers tremendous savings to the golfer, while helping to save lives from being lost to lung disease," he said.

Kentucky Golf Tour Cards may be purchased by calling the American Lung Association of Kentucky at 1-800-586-4872 or by sending a check for $35 ($105 for the four package) to the American Lung Association of Kentucky, P.O. RCMS conducts "Reality Store"

RCMS recently conducted a "Reality Store," which was based on interests and research conducted in their Careers course. Students selected a career which they may consider pursuing. With their salary, students were required to meet monthly expenses. Booths were set up for them to pay such bills as taxes, groceries, insurance, and house payments.

The Reality Store goal was that students understood how expensive it is to care for families based on a set income, as they learned firsthand about careers, expenses and day-to-day living. RCMS had approximately 20 booths set up for this event.

RCMS would like to thank all the businesses and volunteers who helped to make this "Reality Store" a success for the students.

Cadets attend Kentucky School Board Association Conference

The KSBA (Kentucky School Board Association) held their annual Conference in Louisville this past February over the 27th and 28th.

Five Cadets from the ARMY JROTC Program attended the Conference as representatives for Rockcastle County Schools' integrated JROTC Program. Junior ROTC has very successfully managed to integrate subjects such as math and science into two projects: "Technology and the American Military" and "The Military History of Rockcastle County."

Through "Technology and the American Military" Cadets were given the opportunity to construct a model rocket or missile that is used by the military today. They not only had to build the models, but a research paper was required to pass. Cadets were instructed to find as many facts as possible and compile a research paper about the rocket or missile. Cadets also had a brief class on how to calculate the distance each rocket would travel, vertically, using simple trigonometry formulas.

"The Military History of Rockcastle County" is a project performed by LET 2 and LET 4 Cadets. These Cadets are putting together a booklet consisting of pages with pictures and information about Rockcastle Counties veterans. An advertisement was run in the local paper to attract veterans and encourage them to contact the high school for more details. If veterans were interested in the project, they were given a questionnaire to fill out. Once finished, veterans were asked to return the questionnaire and if possible, any photos or certificates they may have (all which were returned) that they would like on their personal page. The booklet is not yet finished, but the JROTC Cadets have had a wonderful response from the public.

One Thousand and Thirty Hot Dogs
For the Quail Homemakers, it was quite a day
We were determined to sell hot dogs, come what may.

And we have to say that all went quite well (almost).

We were thankful that the weather was so great
But we were short of help but didn't get irate.

There were hot dogs, chili dogs and chili buns too
Ham sandwiches, pop and coffee to brew.

The farmers began the hour of nine
Eating hot dogs and chili and standing in line.

We had no time to take for a spell
We had to move on, we had hot dogs to sell.

Gone were the hotdogs but the farmers kept eating
Chili buns, ham sandwiches, the food depleting.

Leaving chili bread, they ate this as well
We soon realized we had nothing to sell.

Candy, chips, cakes, pop with no ice
The food all gone, it certainly was nice.

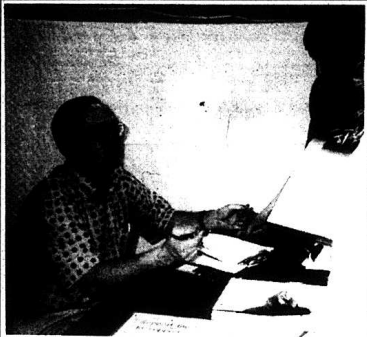

All SOLD OUT, a day of success
Just leaving us ladies to clean up the mess.

Thanks to you farmers, you're our bread and butter
Don't worry about us, we'll clean up the clutter.

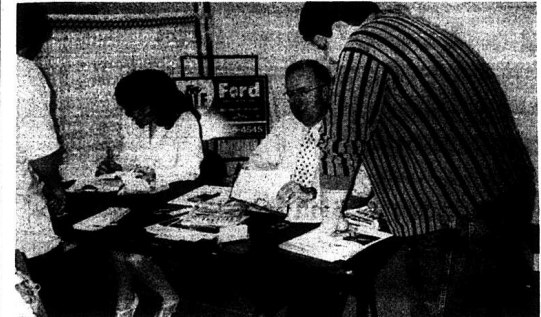

Our hope is to see you, the year of ninety-nine
We'll have more help so you won't stand in line.

To The Voters of Rockcastle County

I want and need your vote and your support in the upcoming election for Sheriff of Rockcastle County. After completing a 2-year enlistment in the U.S. Marine Corps, and receiving an honorable discharge, I joined the Kentucky State Police. After graduating from the Academy, I was assigned to the Harlan Post, where I was based for several years. We did not have screens between the front and back seat, and were not fortunate enough to have back-up. Most of the time we were alone. My reputation as a Kentucky State Trooper was that I was hard and fearless, but fair. I have a combined total of 17 years experience in law enforcement. I want to put that experience to work for you, the people of Rockcastle County. I am a father and know what it is to worry about your kids when they are away from home. I know what it is to have your home broken into and your property stolen. I was able to recover my stolen property, after finding it myself in Crab Orchard. Many of my fellow citizens have not been so fortunate, due to lack of training or the time to investigate on their own. If I am elected Sheriff, I promise to do my very best to find the persons responsible for such crimes and arrest them. I believe an investigation should begin at the scene of the crime and proceed from there. I believe an officer of the law should diligently investigate crimes, to make our county a safer place in which to live, and to serve as a role model for our youth. I will do what is right!

I ask you to compare all the candidates, our education, training and experience. If you do this, I truly feel I am your best choice. If you want a change.

Sincerely,
BILLY M. HAMMONS

Dear Editor:
To the voters of Rockcastle County: I ask you to support my friend, Bill Hammons. I have spent many hours with Bill and I know him to be a family man, a Christian man and sober man whom you can trust to treat your kids and your family members right. Bill and I have hunted and driven many miles together, and I have had an opportunity to talk with him about many things, including his concern for the welfare of our county. He has given many kids a coonhound to get him interested in something other than drugs. I truly believe that Bill is the best qualified candidate for Sheriff of Rockcastle County.

Shane Thacker
A Concerned Citizen

We have people from all over the country to call or write to find out their family's history. Most people came through the Cumberland Gap to go to all parts of the country. Some were just passing through and some settled. Maybe your family stopped long enough to raise a family and went on or maybe they decided to settle for good. We can help you find out.

Due to time limits we can't research for you but we can help start you in the right direction. We try to be as helpful as possible.

I went to a summer reading workshop a few weeks ago and I always get excited about planning our summer program. I think the theme is interesting this time and I hope to see a lot of children involved. They tend to get bored after they are out of school a while and it keeps them interested in reading and learning through the summer.

As always we still have our Story hour on Tuesdays from 1:00 till 2:00 p.m. I haven't had some of my regulars lately and I have been missing them. We have had so many with illness it seems, but I also have new children which is fun.

Please try and bring your little ones. They have such fun!

Keep Spring Events Festive: Handle Foods Properly

By: Hazel Jackson
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Spring is an especially festive time as Kentucky blossoms out of a winter sleep and we look forward to special observances and celebrations of the season.

Some traditional foods associated with spring festivities might contain organisms that can make people sick. Therefore, it is important to prepare, handle and store these foods to destroy disease-causing bacteria present as well as prevent the development of these organisms in foods.

Whether you're going to an egg hunt, graduation party or neighborhood picnic, keep this season festive by cooking raw eggs, lamb, poultry, or ham sufficiently to destroy organisms that can cause illnesses. Remember to keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold. To keep cooked foods safe, maintain hot foods at 140 degrees F. or refrigerate them at 40 degrees F. or below. Don't let hot or cold foods stay at room temperature for more than two hours because bacteria will multiply rapidly.

Here are some food-handling tips for a healthy, festive spring:
• Store eggs in their cartons on an inside refrigerator shelf, where the temperature remains cooler than the door. Storing eggs in the refrigerator door risks movement that could crack shells.
• Wash your hands thoroughly with warm water and soap each time you handle eggs, including cooking, cooling, dyeing, hiding and storing. Also wash utensils, equipment and work areas with hot, soapy water before and after they come in contact with eggs.

• Buy eggs with clean, uncracked shells that have been kept refrigerated at the store. Don't eat hard-cooked eggs that have been out of the refrigerator for more than two hours. Refrigerate hidden eggs immediately after they're found.

• Use a meat thermometer to be sure raw meats reach an internal temperature sufficient to kill disease organisms. Cook fresh, raw ham to an internal temperature of 160 degrees F.; raw lamb and beef roast to at least 145 degrees F., and poultry to 170 degrees F. for white meat and 180 degrees F. for dark meat.

For more information on food safety, contact the Extension Service at 256-2403.

James Miller JAILER

Rockcastle Republican Primary
May 26, 1998

Helly, my name is James Miller and I am a candidate for jailer of Rockcastle County. I appreciate the kindness and support given to me thus far in my door-to-door campaign. I am a life-long resident of Rockcastle County. My father is Denver Miller—Circuit Court Clerk of Rockcastle County. I am married to Dee Ann Sargent Miller and have been for seventeen years. Dee Ann is the daughter of Phillip and Gernice Sargent of Brindle Ridge. Dee Ann and I have one son, Austin, who is thirteen years old and a seventh grade student at Rockcastle County Middle School. Dee Ann, Austin, and myself are members of the First Christian Church of Mt. Vernon.

I would like to tell you a little bit about my work history. After graduating from Rockcastle County High School, I worked for fourteen years at Tecumseh Products (a factory) in Somerset. From 1992 to 1994, I served as a deputy jailer at the Rockcastle County Jail. For the past four years, I have been maintenance and community service work supervisor for Rockcastle County.

The previous experience of working in the jail has given me insight and good ideas of how to better our county jail system. When elected, I will use that insight and those ideas to implement policies of safety and security, both for the public's sake as well as for the inmates. I will begin an aggressive approach to streamline the budget and handle the jail as a business. I believe I have good communication skills which will enable me to work with other local and state officials. I also believe I have good administrative and money managing skills.

I believe that my previous experience in working at the jail, my ability to communicate, and my administrative and money managing skills are all qualities that make me the best choice as the next jailer of Rockcastle County.

If you would like to have a jail that is an asset to the county and a jail that you, the taxpayers, can be proud of, then I urge you to elect me as your next jailer

Living In The Present Is The Key To Happiness

"Harvey," a play about a man who has a six-foot rabbit as a friend, is coming to the Rural Development Center in Somerset April 16-19. I play the role of Elwood Dowd, who has this imaginary rabbit as a friend. It is your invitation to come and join us.

Elwood is pleasantly added, sometimes sane and sometimes not so sane. (Several of my friends have hinted that it is the perfect role for me. I pretend not to understand what they mean.)

While Elwood has his peculiarities, he is also extremely perceptive.

Elwood knows how to live. While many are unhappy with their lives, Elwood enjoys every part of his life.

When turning down the opportunity to go somewhere else and do something else, he says, "I have never been able to think of anyplace I'd rather be. I always have a wonderful time just where I am, whenever I'm with."

To live in the present is to fully experience whatever is occurring at that moment. It means to feel the emotions, both the joy and pain, of every part of our lives. To live in the present is to be fully alive and aware.

John would like to live in the present, but he does not. (All characters are fictitious.) John spends much of his time berating himself for the mistakes he has made in life. When he has a quiet moment or two, his mind inevitably drifts to the mistakes he has made. He replays those moments over and over in his mind.

His divorce is one thing that John cannot get off his mind. When his wife left him, John was devastated and blamed himself. Even though his wife had left him for someone else, John thought it was all his fault.

He agonizes over the effect the divorce will have on his children. When his son's grades began to get worse, John was nearly beside himself with guilt. "Look what I've done to him!" John lamented. "I have not been a good father." John was living in the past, not the present.

Janie's anxiety made her live in the future. As the mother of two young children, she was always worrying about what might happen to them. She tended to be over-protective of the children, worrying that they might get hurt if she let them out of her sight.

When the children spent the night with their grandparents, Janie was up half the night worrying. She finally decided not to let the children go anywhere overnight, because it was just too hard on her. "I'm so afraid that something might happen to them when I'm not there," she told her husband.

Janie also worried about her children's future. "I don't know what I'll do when they get to be teenagers. What with drugs and AIDS and everything else, I'm so afraid that one of them will get into trouble."

Janie was effectively missing out on the joys of rearing children. She could not enjoy her role as parent, because her mind was in the future, spotting problems that might never happen. She was missing out on the present.

The past is gone. The future may never be. All we have is the present. Enjoy it. Elwood does. Come see

"Harvey" April 16-19 at the Rural Development Center. (Send questions or comments about this column to Dr. Don Whitehead, 101 Zachary Way, Somerset, KY 42501.)

Farm News
By: Tom Mills
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

Nodding Thistle Robbing
Farmers of Pasture Land

A controllable weed is robbing Kentucky farmers of pasture production. The weed, called nodding-thistle, can be controlled by attacking them at the right time. The weed produces thousands of seed each year capable of producing thousands of new plants.

The key to controlling the weed is to take measures to control it before it sets seed, which is usually in late May and early June. Once seed has set, it is difficult to control the spread of the seed and farmers will need to wait until fall or next spring to obtain control of even more weeds.

The nodding thistle emerges as a rosette which is a circular cluster of leaves with the growing point close to the ground. The dark green rosette is 6 to 8 inches in diameter. Rosettes appearing in the spring can be sprayed and killed. Herbicides such as 2,4-D and Banvel are more effective when the rosette is small and actively growing. They can be sprayed in the spring as long as daytime temperatures are above 50 degrees. Timing is critical for good control. The weed must be attacked when it is small if the sprays are to be most effective. This means late April will be the last chance for farmers to get an effective chemical control this spring.

If spraying is delayed until the plant is older, it can be controlled by either mowing the plants or hoeing it out by hand. However, with either method, the weed must be destroyed before it sets seed. Mowing at or after bloom may mean that the seeds produced will be scattered in a larger area.

Chemical control is the best means in eliminating seed production. The Department of Agriculture and Local Extension Service will be conducting 5-acre Demonstrations on April 22nd. If you have pasture or hay fields infested with nodding thistle and would like to participate, call Tom Mills at 256-2403. The Department of Agriculture supplies the chemical and sprayer. The farmer supplies the water and applies the chemical with his farm tractor.

Disease resistance important in Corn
Hybrid selections

Kentucky corn growers need to consider the risk of gray leaf spot disease as they select hybrids for the 1998 crop.

This fungal disease can reduce yields 10-20%, even as much as 35%. At $2.50 a bushel corn, the disease can cost growers $50 to $100 -- as much as $175 -- an acre. Gray leaf spot kills leaf tissue plants use to make grain. It also weakens stalks and can cause severe lodging.

Corn hybrid resistance ranges from slight to moderate. The greater the resistance, the more slowly the disease develops. This allows grain fill to occur and limits yield losses.

In Kentucky, even moderate resistance can minimize losses. The goal is to slow the disease down with hybrid selection so outbreaks don't occur during grain fill and hurt yields. Just how much resistance growers need depends upon the risk of an outbreak in a particular field based on field history.

Rotation helps control gray leaf spot because this fungus primarily infects corn in Kentucky. If a field and surrounding fields have been out of corn for two years, the fungus will die out. Reduced tillage fosters outbreaks because infected leaf residue is poised waiting for the next crop instead of being buried and decomposing. However, the environmental benefits of reduced tillage far outweigh the potential for gray leaf spot.

The greatest risk is in a field that had continuous, no-till corn. In this situation, growers need to select a high-yielding hybrid with partial gray leaf spot resistance.

Fields with intermediate risk either were in a corn/soybean rotation or in a corn/wheat/doublecrop soybean rotation. In these situations determine how much resistance is needed by how much disease was in the last corn crop.

A minimal risk situation is when a field and surrounding fields have been away from corn for two years. An exception is when a grower plants corn 2 to 4 weeks later than normal in this field. Infection could occur from spore clouds in fields several miles away where crops were planted on time.

Hybrids react differently in locations, soil types and weather conditions. We don't know why. But the bottom line is that growers should consider the reactions of hybrids in different locations over several years to decide if a specific hybrid has enough resistance for a particular field.

Kentucky Springtime
and fertilizing lawns

It is Kentucky's April awakening, and everyone is ready to fertilize their lawns. But hold that nitrogen; springtime may not be the best time to fertilize a Kentucky lawn. The bulk of fertilizers on lawns of cool-season grasses should be applied during autumn months, not during springtime.

Leaves of cool-season grasses grow fast enough in the spring on their own. Any excess nitrogen fertilization during the springtime causes abundant leaf growth on grass as well as summer weeds. Fertilizing in the spring can mean more mowing in the summer as well.

In addition, excess nitrogen can aggravate certain diseases, such as brown patch on tall fescue and leaf spot and melting out of Kentucky Bluegrass. An acceptable amount is a light springtime application of not more than one-half pound of nitrogen per one-thousand square feet. This is 1 1/2 pounds ammonia nitrate per 1,000 sq. ft., almost too small an amount to spread. Most nitrogen fertilizer should be applied after Labor Day.

The best time is last October up to Thanksgiving. Nitrogen applied in the fall strengthens fescue root systems without fertilizing weeds. Excess nitrogen leaches out over winter and doesn't cause excessive mowing.

"IT IS WRITTEN"

We would like to study for a few moments today concerning the will of God. The scriptures have much to say on this important topic.

First we need to understand the will of the Lord, Ephesians 5:17 "Wherefore be ye not unwise, but understanding what the will of the Lord is." This is going to take some effort on our part, to seek and search the scriptures; doing so with an honest and humble heart. We must prove what God's will is, not just assume it to be so, Rm.12:2 "And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God." By doing God's will, it will make us a part of Christ family. Mark 3:35, "For whosoever shall do the will of God, the same is my brother, and my sister, and mother."

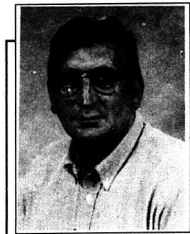

We must give ourselves to God, but not on our terms, but according to his will, 2 Cor.8:5, "And this they did, not as we hoped, but first gave their own selves to the Lord, and unto us by the will of God." Doing God's will, shall bring suffering for his names sake, 1 Pet.4:19 "Wherefore let them that suffer according to the will of God commit the keeping of their souls to him in well doing, as unto a faithful Creator." After we have done the will of God, not before, we shall receive the promise, Heb.10:36, "For ye have need of patience, that, after ye have done the will of God, ye might receive the promise." Only those who do the will of God shall abide forever in heaven, 1 Jn. 2:17, "And the world passeth away, and the lust thereof: but he that doeth the will of God abideth for ever." Are you doing the will of God? If we can help you in the study of the Bible feel free to call upon us.
