

The Family Room

By Dr. Don Whitehead

To Get What You Want, Ask For What You Want
"I am tired of being ignored and neglected," Vera said loudly. "I want out of my marriage." (All characters are fictitious.) "I do all the child care," she continued. "He doesn't help with cooking or cleaning or laundry. He never takes me to dinner any more, and he never just hugs me. His hugs always lead to something else."
Sam and Vera's twelve-year marriage was in jeopardy. Vera had insisted that they come for counseling and Sam had reluctantly come along. "I didn't even know we had a problem," Sam told me. "And all of sudden Vera wants a divorce! I was shocked."
"You shouldn't be surprised," Vera told him. "I've been telling you all along that I was unhappy."
"You never told me any such thing!" Sam defended himself.
"Vera," I interrupted. "How have you told Sam that you were unhappy?"
"He should have noticed that I wasn't as talkative and cheerful as I used to be," she replied. "And that I've been spending more time by myself." "But you never really said to him that you weren't happy?" I asked.

After a pause she replied, "Well, po. He should have known!"
Vera was very adamant about this. "He should have known that I was unhappy and asked me what was wrong," she added. "If he really loved me like he says, then I wouldn't have to ask him for anything; he would just know it. If I have to ask him to help, then his help doesn't mean as much as if he did it on his own."
"How is he supposed to know that you are unhappy?" I asked.
"He just said," Vera added.
Vera was assuming that Sam could read her mind. Couples make many assumptions during marriage, at least half of which are wrong. "So you believe that Sam can read your mind?" I inquired gently. "No! Yes! Oh, I don't know," Vera said dejectedly. Sam said the right thing at this point. "Honey, I do love you," he said softly. "And if I had known that you were so unhappy, I would have tried to help. I had no idea you felt this way."

Vera looked at Sam as if she had just discovered the law of gravity. "You mean you really haven't known that I was mad at you for the last three years? Boy, you men are dense!"
Sam also made the right response here; he laughed. "I guess I am dense, honey. You have to ask for what you want when you're dealing with me," he replied.
"Asking for what you want is a good idea no matter with whom you are dealing," I suggested to Vera. "Most of the people we deal with are not mind readers. How did you come to believe that men should read minds? Did your mother believe that?"
"Maybe she did," Vera acknowledged. "She never said anything to Dad about her wants. Dad always told us not to whine. He hated whiners."
"Asking for what you want would have been whining according to Dad?" I asked.
"Exactly," Vera agreed. "Therefore no one at our house ever asked for anything. I think Mom is a lonely person, but she never talks about it. Dad would call that whining."
"I'm not your father," Sam reminded her. "I would like it if you would tell me when you are unhappy, and I will try to help." Again Vera looked as if she had just discovered the law of gravity. She was amazed!

"It is Written"
One of great dangers of living in our country is materialism. We live in a land of plenty, so very abundantly blessed. Jesus warns in Matt. 6:24 "No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon." Mammon is a word that means riches. For so many in our country, (Yea in the whole world) mammon is the #1 pursuit of life. It is the god that many worship and serve. That too many put their trust and confidence in money. Paul said in 1 Timothy 6:17-18 "Charge them that are rich in this world, that they be not highminded, nor trust in uncertain riches, but in the living God, who giveth us richly all things to enjoy; That they do good, that they be rich in good works, ready to distribute, willing to communicate." In the Old Testament they were warned of this problem. Deut. 8:11-14. "Beware that thou forget not the LORD thy God, in not keeping his commandments, and his judgments, and his statutes, which I command thee this day: Lest when thou hast eaten and art full, and hast built goodly houses, and dwelt therein: and when thy herds and thy flocks multiply, and thy silver and thy gold is multiplied, and all that thou hast is multiplied. Then thine heart be lifted up, and thou forget the LORD thy God, which brought thee forth out of the land of Egypt, from the house of bondage." Take heed beloved, we can easily be led astray.

Lambert chosen as Chief Justice of Supreme Court

Rockcastle County's own Joseph E. Lambert is now Kentucky's highest ranking member of the state's judicial system.

Lambert, 50, of Mt. Vernon was chosen Chief Justice of the Kentucky Supreme Court by his colleagues on Monday.

Replacing Justice Robert Stephens, who served as the court's highest official for 15 years, Lambert is probably the youngest person, at age 50, to ever sit at the top of the state's highest court.

Lambert, the only Republican member of the court was first elected to the Supreme Court in 1986, when he easily defeated then Laurel County Circuit Judge Charles Luker by 11,000 votes. Lambert is still the youngest person, at age 37, to ever be elected to the Supreme Court.

Lambert represents the state's third Supreme Court District, which is comprised of 27 counties. In 1994, Lambert ran unopposed for a second term which ends in 2002. Lambert's appointment on Monday was for four years.

"Judge Lambert brings to the court a very bright and agile mind," said Stephens. "He is very much a people person and an excellent writer," Stephens added.

"I am deeply grateful to my colleagues for their confidence," said Lambert. "We in Kentucky have one of the finest court systems in this nation and I will strive to maintain and improve our Court of Justice. Chief Justice Stephens is the principal architect of our present court system and every Kentuckian owes him a debt of gratitude," he said.

Described as a more practical than ideological, Lambert began his law career in 1975 after graduating from the University of Louisville Law School. He joined his father, long-time Rockcastle County Attorney and politician James W. Lambert, in his Mt. Vernon law practice.

Justice Stephens also said that Lambert brings a unique perspective to the court because of the fact that he was a trial attorney in a rural area of Kentucky. "He will be a wonderful chief justice," Stephens said.

Lambert, who has served as deputy chief justice under Stephens since 1996, was elected by a majority vote, not a unanimous one.

Two other justices, Martin

County to move some inmates from local jail

By: Richard Anderkin
The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court has instructed Jailer Joe Howard to move several of the prisoners in the county jail to other facilities during the remainder of the jail renovation project.

The court is making the move because demolition of the kitchen area in the cold part of the jail is getting ready to take place.

The court discussed the jail project at length Tuesday during their regular monthly meeting. On more than one occasion, the court had considered moving all the county prisoners in order to speed up the jail renovation project.

But on Tuesday, Jim Woodrum, who heads up the renovation project, told the court that if they moved all the prisoners from the jail, the state would consider it closed, and the entire project would have to be completed before the state would allow them to re-open it.

So the court told Howard to move as many prisoners as he could or needed to be moved, without moving them all and to find someone to cater meals in for the prisoners while the kitchen is being fixed.

"It is going to be expensive but we don't have any choice," Judge Executive Buzz Carlolitis said. Woodrum also told the court they could speed up the jail project by getting the required demolition completed as soon as possible. The county is responsible for the demolition, which should take about two weeks.

The court also discussed water and the jail.

Court approves new development board

By: Richard Anderkin
The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court approved a resolution on Tuesday that will create the Rockcastle County Development Board.

During the regular monthly meeting of the court, local attorney John Clontz, who is chairman of the Rockcastle Industrial Authority, asked the court to recognize the new board, which will help develop the commercial, industrial and tourism potential of Rockcastle County.

Clontz, who has been Chairman of the Industrial Board since 1985, told the court that he had not had the time to recruit jobs for the county in a manner in which he should have.

He said he thought the new organization could do a better job with the help of a new Executive Director.

The Executive Director will be former Rockcastle County School Superintendent Bige Towery, Jr.

Towery's main duties will include: being a spokesperson for the Rockcastle County Development Board and the Rockcastle County Industrial Authority.

He will promote county economic development and serve as a liaison in

Two Madison County men arrested for stealing Bobcat

Thanks to a tip from a Copper Creek resident, two Madison County men are behind bars this week.

According to Rockcastle County Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan, fourth district constable Dale Miller received a call from a resident on Copper Creek at 4:30 a.m. Tuesday, about two suspicious men in a GMC truck.

When Miller arrived on the scene, he found Pete Segedy, 36 sitting in a 1991 GMC truck. He also saw another man, Thomas Alexander nearan overturned Bobcat backhoe.

Miller arrested Segedy and when Deputy Doan arrived a few minutes later, he and Miller arrested Alexander, 33. Both men had no addresses.

According to Doan, the Bobcat and the trailer were stolen from Vernon Sowers of Richmond, sometime Monday night. "They just hooked to the trailer and drove off," he said.

Miller said the two men had apparently run their truck into the ditch as they went up Copper Creek hill.

"They unloaded the Bobcat to try and pull out the truck, but they did not know how to operate it, so they turned it over - and then they proceeded to tear the transmission out of the truck," he said.

Warrants for the two men were obtained in Madison and Rockcastle County. They are currently being held under a $25,000 cash bond.

Police also recovered a set of cabinets from the men but their owner has not been located.

Laswell was taken to Rockcastle Hospital and later flown to U.K., where he died. Delaney said the death was being ruled as a suicide.

PRECIOUS SOULS, CHILDREN OF AN EYE, AGE, greetings and mementoes to you and yours from Nod's Little Acre, located fast in the bosom of the Atticap-blessed Dell O' Wab, home of the late Wester L. Bloopsfarke, long-time Wabdonian litterateur - who had a penchant for criticizing and infuriating the orthodoxes of his day - and was a part-time lecturer on the theory of fluxions. It was Wester who got me, and age sneaks up on us so quickly that very soon we find that whatever it is that makes us tick needs winding. "Aks, dearly beloved, on the eighth day of this month I completed three score and one years here below. That day went by without faufter, at my request. Not to marry a young woman, Not to keep young company, un less they really desire it. Not to be peevish, or morose, or suspicious. Not to scorn present ways, or wits, or fashions, or men, or war, etc. Not to be fond of children. Not to be coywast. Not to neglect decency, or cleanliness, for fear of falling into nastiness. Not to be over-severe with young people, but give allowances for their youthful follies and weaknesses. Not to be influenced by or give ear to knavish tattling. . . . Not to be too free of advice, nor trouble any but those that desire it. Not to boast of your good friends to inform me which of these resolutions I break or neglect, and wherein; and reform accordingly. Not to talk much, nor of myself. Not to boast of my former beauty, or strength, or favour with ladies, etc. Not to hearken to flatteries, nor conceive I can be beloved by a young woman . . . Part Two New, dark hearts, I noted above that Swift's sentiments represent mine in part. The following selection, however, sent me to my firstborn, Mark, suits me to a tee. His birthday card reads:

"Another birthday? Time to take the OLD GUY OATH: Raise your right hand and repeat the following: I, John of Wab, being of questionable mind and aging body, do solemnly declare myself an 'OLD GUY' and on hereby permitted to:

Scratch my butt in public, Drive forever with my left blinker on, Pass gas on a crowded elevator, Mumble incoherently to myself, Sore love a chain saw, Wear old hats, Call all teenagers 'stupid, little punks', Constantly kvetch about my bad back, And fall asleep with absolutely no warning. . . .

Now that, beloved, rings the bell, although the Dublin cynic's ideas are quite cool . . . cr . . . swiff?

The following first appeared in the Mount Vernon Signal on July 13, 1906. It was recently transcribed from microfilm of this issue of the Signal. One of my internet genealogy friends, Mrs. Cindy Durham Crawford of Batavia, Ohio loaned me some of her University of Kentucky King Library microfilms of the Signal. I thought it would be a nice gesture to share these gleanings with the Signal's present readers. Wildie must have been quite a little community at the turn of the century. Anyway, they had a good bit of social and business activity.

We are very busy here at the library trying to get things prepared for the summer reading program and now that school is over for a couple of months we are expecting to see a lot of children as well as adults.

The children enjoy being out of school for a little while but they are soon wanting something to do. They get bored quite easily. We have a lot of interesting things at the library for them to participate in and enjoy when they need something to do.

The older children might enjoy building a castle for the summer reading program. Betty gave some details last week but if you need more information, call and we will help. The computers are here for those children that enjoy using them. We limit the time to one hour but if there is no one waiting, they may be used longer.

We have subscribed to some new magazines that might interest some of our patrons. We now have SEVENTEEN for the teenagers. Also, BIOGRAPHY which highlights the lives of a lot of important people in the news. TODAY'S HOMEOWNER for those who like to be fixing up around the house, gives details with building plans and etc. SUCCESS, is another new one. This month some of the features are, Find Your $1 Million Idea, Up Your Pay by 48%, Are You Sitting on a Sexual Harassment Time Bomb? 5 Tactics That Made Muhammad Ali the Most Famous Person in the Universe and others. Finally we are getting the new bookmobile, or it is like new to us. It is about four years old but we are hoping we will get a lot of service from this one. We have been very fortunate with the old one, but it is now 15 years old and just ready to start giving us a lot of problems. Pam is hoping to have it on the road by July 1st. She will probably give more details next week.

The Fourteenth Annual Kentucky Archives Institute will be held in Frankfort July 10, 1998. We have been asked to give some information to our patrons on this program, especially those people interested in doing genealogical or historical research. The fourteenth annual institute offers programming which introduces participants to the use of public records at the Public Records Division, Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives. The institute is sponsored by the Friends of Kentucky Public Archives, Inc. The Friends is an organization of private citizens concerned with the proper management, preservation and use of the historical public records of the Commonwealth. The Friends is a membership organization open to all.

For more information and registration form contact us at the library. Some new books that are available for your reading pleasure are: 1. LOST INNOCENTS by Patricia MacDonald. It has been suggested that you don't read this alone at night. High school teacher, Doug Blake, Maddy's spouse and Amy's father, has been cleared of all charges of sexual misconduct brought by a student. Throughout the whole ordeal, Maddy stayed by her man because she refused to believe any of the ugly accusations. After a celebration dinner, Maddy is involved in a car accident in which the other driver, Terry Lewis is hospitalized. Maddy invites the Lewis family to stay with her to save on expenses. That is when more trouble erupts. Patricia MacDonald has written a suspense thriller that is similar to the best of Mary Higgins Clark and Barbara Michaels. One you must read.

2. THE CHIMNEY SWEEPER'S BOY by Barbara Vine. This is the utterly absorbing story of Gerald Candor, a best selling novelist whose sudden death from a heart attack leaves behind a wife and two daughters. To sort through her grief, Sarah, decides to write a biography of her intentionally celebrated father. Within hours of beginning her research, Sarah comes across the first of what will be many shocking revelations. As her life is slowly torn apart, a tragic logic finally emerges to explain her mother's remoteness and her father's need to continually reinvent himself in his work.

This is a sophisticated, revealing exploration of the boundaries between sexuality, obsession and love. One of Barbara Vine's best.

3. THE TIN MAN by Dale Brown. Some called him a terrorist. Others called him a vigilante hero. Dressed in a carbon-filament bodysuit that can instantly harden into a stronger-than-steel protective armor, a mysterious figure the public has dubbed the Tin Man roams the urban landscape of Sacramento, California, on a search-and-destroy mission.

While some want him dead and others want him decorated, only a handful of people know the truth of who he is: Patrick McLanahan, the nation's most heroic aerial warrior, now retired, who for fifteen years risked his life for his country in the U.S. military. In Patrick McLanahan, a patriot becomes a renegade. Dale Brown has given us a hero who must ultimately decide between his own ability to single-handedly take on the forces of violence and the power of established laws to secure a peaceful society. THE TIN MAN is a novel of consummate suspense.

4. A non-fiction book,

GANGBUSTERS, by Ernest Volkman. The American Mafia, legendary for its ability to survive and flourish in the face of all attempts to stamp it out, now lies in ruins. The most successful and powerful group of organized criminals in history has lost a long war with its law enforcement adversaries, an astonishing defeat that no one could have anticipated.

Gangbusters is the story of how this supremely successful criminal gang was finally destroyed: it is the tale of how a colorful coterie of FBI agents, prosecutors, and police detectives-among them such single characters as Dr. Bug, Marathon Moan, Jaws, Kenny the Giant, The Falcon and Ghost Who Walked-overcome the early years of bureaucratic inertia, high-level political corruption, and interagency rivalry to achieve final victory. In a decade of hand-to-combat, they destroyed the men long considered untouchable. Mr. Volkman has written extensively on organized crime. One of them, the improbable Rise and Fall of John Gotti and His Gang, was nominated for an Edgar award.

It may be more than heartburn. Is chronic heartburn putting a damper on your life?

Heartburn. More than 44% of all adults in the United States experience this uncomfortable burning sensation at least once a month. Many wish they only had heartburn once a month.

Thousands of adults nationwide experience heartburn on a daily basis, and it has changed the way they live their lives. For these people the problem may be more than just heartburn. They may have a problem known as gastroesophageal reflux disease, or GERD.

GERD may be treated with extensive drug therapy, or it may be corrected by a minimally invasive surgical procedure known as laproscopic Nissen fundoplication. This procedure allows your physician to treat your GERD in a way that will have a minimal effect on your life. In fact, most patients go home after 2 or 3 days.

A thorough medical evaluation by your physician, in conjunction with a general surgeon can determine if laproscopic Nissen fundoplication is appropriate for you. If you do not have a physician, call our physician referral line at 1-800-265-8624.

Pack A Picnic For Your Kids

By Hazel Jackson
County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

The weather is warmer and a favorite pastime of both children and adults is a picnic. Grand memories are created during this fun time of the year. When we talk about the food to take on a picnic, the choices are almost endless. Fruits and vegetables are great to take on the outing. They can add color to the meal or can be eaten as snacks during the day. Select fresh fruits and vegetables that are not bruised.

Fresh fruit has a lot to offer in terms of good taste and good nutrition. Many fruits are stored in their own containers and travel well on picnics. For example, apples, bananas and peaches make great picnic foods. By eating different colors of raw fruits you get fiber, vitamins and minerals that are needed by the body.

Vegetables also make good food to take on a picnic. Carrot sticks, celery sticks, radishes and green peppers make snacking on a picnic easy. These vegetables can be cleaned at home and then put in a sealed container with water, put in the cooler with ice and taken to the picnic. Children will love these snacks.

Hamburgers go to a lot of picnics. If you are taking raw hamburger patties to the picnic, be sure to pack them in an ice cooler. When the coals on the outdoor grill are ready, remove them from the cooler to the grill. Do not use the same plate for the cooked hamburgers that you used for the raw hamburgers. Use a different plate.

Casseroles should not be taken to picnics because they cannot hold their heat for the period of time needed. Always keep food safety tips in mind. Keep hot foods hot and cold foods cold, especially on picnics. Enjoy your picnic season.

Lower plant populations: cost savings for Burley producers

By Tom Mills
County Extension Agent
for Agriculture

Decreasing plant populations on burley tobacco might lower yields per acre but actually increase net returns from a given amount of quota. The increase in net returns occurs because several production costs (especially labor) decline dramatically as plant populations are lowered.

Consider the following example of producing a 10,000 pound quota at two different plant spacings: 16" in a 42" row and 24" in a 42" row. The data in the example are based on six years of university field research.

10,000 LB. OF QUOTA
Plant Spacing	16x42	24x42
plants per acre	9234	6223
yield per acre	8922 lb	2633 lb
land requirement	3.46 ac	3.77 ac
labor requirement	782 hr	626 hr
total no. plants	32300	23300
barn nails required	360	312
gross return	$18,300	$18,300
net return	$7,569	$8,753

The higher population spacing out yielded the lower population by 239 lb/acre but required 50% more plants. The lower population actually yielded 38% more than the high population on a per plant basis.

Because of the lower per acre yields, slightly more land is required to produce 10,000 pounds of quota, and the land related costs

(such as fertilizer and tillage) would be higher for the wider spacing. However, almost all other production costs are lower at the lower population. The wider spaced tobacco requires about 20% less labor than the narrower spacing, primarily because there are 27% fewer plants to handle.

Producing a given quota with fewer plants offer other cost savings as well. Growers using float plant production methods have become conscious of costs per plant. Lower field populations mean more acres from a given greenhouse plot being used. Barn space, another costly and scarce resource, is also used more efficiently with lower field populations. A 13' x 12' barn space is required to hang the 3.77 acres of wide spaced tobacco even with the assumption that the heavier plants of the lower population treatment were hung with 5 stalks/stick as opposed to 6 stalks/stick for the higher population.

The cost savings of the wider spaced tobacco more than offset its lower yield per acre. With no observed quality differences, the gross return from either spacing treatment is about $18,300 at 1997 average prices. Adopting the cost savings of lower populations can result in nearly $1,300 extra for 10,000 pounds of quota... the same as a $12/cwt increase in price.

Growers facing transplant shortages in 1998 might stretch those plant supplies and take advantage of cost savings by changing to wider plant spacings.

Recent raids leading to illegal migrant remind farmers who use migrant workers it is very important that farmers who use migrant workers are aware of the new labor laws as they are being enforced.

The Rockcastle County FSA Office is now assisting farmers in the lease and transferring of tobacco. A bulletin board is available for listing your tobacco for lease. Producers who did not lease or market tobacco in 1997 is urged to remember burley quotas will be dropped permanently if not planted, leased or sold two out of the three preceding years.

Davidson finishes 8th Carmack places 4th in state championships

Rockcastle's varsity track and field teams ended their season in exciting fashion with seven members qualifying for the state 2A track and field championships held at the University of Kentucky's Shively Track Complex. Rockcastle had six girls qualifying in six different events, while the boys team had one representative seeking a state title.

Rockcastle began competition on Friday afternoon against the best competition that Class 2A had to offer. Most events held preliminary or qualifying rounds, while other events completed finals as well.

The girls got off to a great start thanks to the efforts of junior discus thrower, Jenia Davidson. Jenia threw exceptionally well considering the intense pressure of state competition. In the preliminaries, Jenia's impressive throw of 95'8" was her best of three attempts and easily good enough to qualify her for the finals. In the finals, Jenia fared eight other very strong and talented athletes. Jenia performed well, but could not match her school record best of 97'6". Jenia's overall performance was awesome and earned her an eighth place finish out of 16 total competitors. Jenia won Freshman Tara Abney completes her anchor leg of the girls' 1600 meter relay. The team placed 11th overall.

Sophomore Brandy Reynolds prepares for the 1600 meter relay. Brandy also competed in the 800 meter run and placed 15th.

an eighth place medal and earned her team's first point of the afternoon. Jenia's performance was hampered somewhat due to a misinterpretation of meet rules by one of her coaches, Coach Brunetti. Jenia did not receive proper assistance during her event, due to her coach's fear of possible disqualification. State track meets are much more strict in rule enforcement, especially concerning the assistance of athletes by coaches. No doubt, Jenia would have placed much higher if not for the mistake of her coach. Jenia's accomplishment was impressive due to the fact that she has endured multiple knee surgeries in the past few years. Nevertheless, Jenia has been the model of perseverance and has never let anything stand in the way of her success.

Next for Rockcastle, freshman Cheyenne Carmack sought to qualify for the finals of the 400 meter dash against a stellar field of 15 other competitors. Cheyenne also sought another place in the record books as she looked to eclipse Lisa Spencer's record time of 1:01.03. In the preliminary round, Cheyenne had to place in the top four in her heat to qualify for Saturday's finals. Coming into the competition, Cheyenne ranked seventh out of the 16 competitors according to regional times. Cheyenne ran an awesome race and easily qualified for the finals with a time of 1:01.41.

Next for Cheyenne came the qualifying round of the 200 meter dash. Cheyenne faced a tough group of 15 competitors including Paducah Tilghman's Danielle Carruthers, last year's state champion at 200 meters and an Indiana University signer. Lined up beside Carruthers, Cheyenne ran a great qualifying race and one of her best times ever - 27.4. Cheyenne finished third in her heat and easily qualified for the finals on Saturday.

The last event for the girls' team was the 1600 meter relay preliminaries. Freshmen Tara Abney, Rachelle Hammond, Theresa Chislum and sophomore Brandy Reynolds were seeking a trip to Saturday's finals by placing within the top nine teams. Fifth grade alternate Johnna Abney had also practiced with the team in case she was needed. As of Friday afternoon, it appeared that Johnna would get her chance. Johnna's sister, Tara, the 1600 meter relay team's anchor, struggled with nausea and flu-like symptoms the entire day and felt no better at race time. Tara fought off the illness in an attempt to provide her team with the necessary stability they would need in the decisive anchor leg of the relay. Each girl ran a tremendous leg of the relay and combined for a season best time of 4:34. The team just missed qualifying for the finals and finished in 11th place overall out of 16 of the best teams in Class 2A. The 1600 meter relay team has had a very successful season and will continue to improve as its youthful runners gain confidence and experience.

Saturday's finals included the boys long jump competition. Junior Jeremy Saylor, last year's Region 4 champion and this year's runner-up, sought to improve upon his personal mark and make a successful run at the state championship.

Jeremy jumped an impressive 19'4", just a few inches short of his personal best. Jeremy just missed qualifying for the finals and finished in 13th place overall. Jeremy's season has been a successful one as he broke his own personal records in both long jump and triple jump, as well as regional titles and a berth in the state championships.

Freshman Rachelle Hammond competed in the triple jump competition on Saturday, which was contested at state for the first time ever. Rachelle was coming off an impressive performance at the regional competition which included a school record jump of 32'6.25". Since the event was new to the competition, most of the girls battled nerves the entire time. Rachelle had several impressive jumps with her best being 29'4". Rachelle just missed qualifying for the finals and placed 14th overall. Rachelle's personal best jump would have easily placed her ninth overall. Rachelle's growth and improvement in strength should put her in strong contention for a regional title next year, as well as a chance for a state championship.

In the early part of Saturday evening, Cheyenne Carmack squared off with nine other competitors for the 400 meter state championship finals. Cheyenne sought to break the school record of 1:01.03, as well as place as high as possible since the top eight earn medals. Cheyenne got off to a great start over the first 200 meters. Even though she was placed in a dreaded outside lane, Cheyenne's quick pace set the tempo for the race. After the first half of the race, two of the favorites were crushed due to the extreme fast sprinter's pace set early in the race. This included four-time 800 meter state champion, Marie Perry of Western Hills. Cheyenne fought hard with three other girls for the state title and finished a very close fourth place, missing the championship by only eight tenths of a second. Cheyenne finished fourth overall with a new school record time of 1:30.96. Cheyenne should be one of the favorites to win next year's 400 meter dash championship.

Next for the girls came the 800 meter run. Sophomore Brandy Reynolds had already broken the school record in becoming the regional runner-up. She sought to improve her time, as well as make a successful attempt to score for her team. Brandy got off to a tremendous start in the race and remained on the heels of defending state champion Marie Perry for the entire first lap. The quick start eventually wore on all competitors, especially when coupled with the hot weather conditions. Brandy ran an impressive time of 2:36, missing her own school record by only one second. Brandy placed 15th overall. She has had a tremendous season and will improve drastically next year with the added experience she has gained through this year's state competition. She should have a great chance at the regional title next season and another opportunity to compete at state.

Cheyenne had the last opportunity to compete for the girls' team as she faced the daunting task of dethroning Danielle Carruthers for the 200 meter dash state title. Carruthers had already won three state titles in the 100 meter dash, 100 meter hurdles, and the 400 meter relay, not to mention the numerous state records that she set along the way. Cheyenne ran a great race but was somewhat fatigued from her 400 meter dash that had been ran only 40 minutes before. Cheyenne finished in ninth place with a time of 27.9 - a great time, but eight tenths of a second off her best ever. The entire race runners were close, except for Carruthers who cruised to victory and set another state record in the process. Cheyenne capped off a very successful season with impressive performances at state. She earned five points for her team in the 400 meter dash, which gives her the distinction of being the girls' all-time leading scorer in state competition. Equally as impressive Cheyenne now holds eight individual school records (both indoor and outdoor) and is part of six record-holding relay teams.

Overall, the girls' team finished with six total points, five more than last season. Their overall team ranking also improved from 34th last year to 25th this year.

Both the girls' and boys' teams experienced many successful moments this year. Next year should prove very exciting as the girls' team should be favored to win the regional championship and the boys seek to make a successful run at the Region 4 title. Many records have been broken and meets have been won, but the very best is yet to come. Thanks to all of those who volunteered to make this season such a successful one including those who were gracious enough to spend their evenings and nights helping run the home track meets. Thanks to all of the parents for their continued support throughout the year. Most of all, thanks to the athletes who have made this season such a memorable one. Your hard work, dedication and pursuit of excellence is greatly appreciated and admired. You have represented our county well and established our team as a force to be reckoned with in track and field for years to come. Congratulations on an awesome season! Once again, the best is yet to come!

Freshman Cheyenne Carmack finishes strong in the 400 meter dash. Cheyenne placed fourth in the state. She also placed ninth in the 200 meter dash.

Junior Jenia Davidson warms up for the discus competition. Jenia made the finals and placed eighth overall.

Camper's of the Week for grades 5-8 were Johnna Abney and Amy Barnett.

Megan Anderkin, right, won the one-on-one competition in the younger group and Victoria Clontz was runner-up.

Campbellsville University honors 91 teachers for excellence

"We appreciate the opportunity to offer our congratulations and encouragement to the strong teaching that is occurring within our service region," Campbellsville University President Dr. Kenneth W. Wilcox recently told 91 Kentucky public school teachers from 33 districts as they were honored by Campbellsville University during its 12th Annual Excellence in Teaching Award program.

Selected by their school districts, teachers in the elementary, middle grades and high school levels were recognized for outstanding achievement in the classroom.

Turning impossible dreams into the American Dream

By Thomas G. Fern, State Director for USDA Rural Development

If anyone has reason to celebrate National Homeownership Week June 6-13th, it's Beverly Johnson and her two daughters. Johnson (her name has been changed for this article) was locked in an abusive marriage, but one day decided she could stand no more and fled to a shelter for battered women. She escaped with nothing but her children a suitcase. Johnson has been living in a public housing project and needed food stamps to support her family. But she had a strong desire to create a better life for her daughters and so enrolled in a community college and studied hard, graduating with honors. She now has a full-time job and is full of hope for the future.

Despite this remarkable comeback, the idea of owning a home seemed like an impossible dream until she heard about the Mutual Self-Help Housing Program of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Under this program, USDA provides technical assistance grants to nonprofit housing organizations, which acquire land and hire a construction supervisor who works with groups of 8 to 12 low-income rural families. They perform at least 65 percent of the labor on their homes, and no one moves in until all the homes are completed.

During 1997, 66 percent of assistance through this program went to minorities. One-third of all self-help loans belong to single women homeowners.

Johnson signed up for this "sweat equity" program, and was soon learning to frame walls and hang drywall. As a result, this week Johnson and her children will be moving into an attractive new, three bedroom home in a rural community in the Mid-Atlantic region.

"To think of where I was just three years ago—it just doesn't seem possible," she said. Johnson is far from alone as a single mother in pursuit of a home to own. And like her, many others are succeeding. In the United States today, 51 percent of all homes are owned by female-headed households.

Nor is one's income level the barrier that many think. Indeed, half of all homeowners nationwide earn less than the median family income.

In all, a record of nearly 66 percent of all American households now own their homes. And President Clinton has vowed to create 8 million new homeowners by the end of year 2000, which would boost homeownership rates to 67.5 percent of all U.S. households.

In Kentucky in the past year, 530 rural residents became homeowners thanks to over $20,949,120 in assistance provided through USDA Rural Development homebuyer program.

This trend is being fueled by low mortgage interest rates and the information of new public/private partnerships, including many that involve USDA.

Every year, USDA Rural Development helps 50,000 to 60,000 rural people buy homes. In addition, USDA programs help 450,000 rural Americans acquire decent rental housing each year.

Because USDA programs target historically underserved areas with need for help is greatest, it is able to help level the playing field for low-to-moderate-income families, many of whom would not otherwise be able to afford housing.

Through its Single Family Guaranteed Loan program, USDA works as partners with local lenders to provide a federal loan guarantee of 90 percent on a home loan, in effect co-signing for the borrower. The buyer pays closing costs and a guarantee fee, but no down payment is required. This program helps borrowers by allowing them to get the loans they need, and reduces the risk to the lender.

In the past year, 920 rural Kentuckians have purchased homes through this program.

USDA rural housing program also helps existing homeowners. Low-income families can receive repair loans of up to $20,000 to make their homes safe and sanitary. Money is also available to help make homes more accessible for handicapped residents. Depending on their income, elderly residents may be eligible for grants or a combination of grants and loans.

Last year, minorities received 37 percent of all home repair loans and 39 percent of repair grants awarded throughout the nation. During the fiscal year 1997, 409 families received over $1,695,650 in repair funds through this program.

USDA is also paying a key role in the National Partners in Homeownership, a diverse group of federal, state and local government agencies, for-profit and nonprofit housing industry groups, charitable organizations and civic groups. The 65 national and 132 local partners work together to increase homeownership opportunities in America by cutting the costs, opening markets to increase choice and remove discriminatory and regulatory barriers, and expanding opportunities through education, counseling and community involvement.

Site manager Billy Curtis told the court the City of Mt. Vernon was requiring an additional vault for the sprinkler system at the jail that will cost the county an additional $7,900. Curtis asked the court to approve the change order, but he didn't get approval.

Judge Carlotis was very upset by the request and said he could not believe the city was requiring something extra, other than what had already been approved by the state.

"The plans for the jail project were approved by the state, what has been approved will more than take care of the sprinkler system," he said.

"It is absolutely ridiculous that the city would require us to put something that expensive, that isn't needed, on our line on our own property," Carlotis said on Wednesday. "We are certainly going to find out what is going on, before we approve any such change order," he said.

The jail project is slated to be completed in approximately four months.

Lambert

Johnstone of Louisville and Donald Wintersheimer of Covington had confirmed they were interested in the Chief Justice's job.

The Chief Justice said Monday that Kentuckians should not look for any major changes under his direction.

"We have one of the most progressive court systems in this country. If not only would be presumptuous one to talk of changes, it would be unwise," he said.

Though the public sees little of the chief justice, the $103,800-a-year job is one of the most powerful in state government. (Associate justices earn $98,800 annually.)

Lambert will be the top officer in the state's court system, which has operations in every county, a two year budget of $160 million and 2,400 employees.

Circuit Judges, District Judges, Commonwealth Attorneys, County Attorneys and Circuit Court Clerk's fall under Lambert's jurisdiction.

Lambert will also preside over arguments and decisions before the court and will assign the writing of the court's opinions, after preliminary votes on the outcome of cases.

Lambert, who has been active in Republican Party politics, called his election "a testament to the non-partisanship of this court." He noted that judges in Kentucky are elected on a non-partisan basis.

The press puts too much emphasis on a judge's political party affiliations, said David E. Shipley, dean of the University of Kentucky Law School.

Lambert has written several high-profile decisions. In 1996, he wrote for the court its decision to uphold a statute that makes it illegal to drive with a blood-alcohol level of 0.10 percent, regardless of how impaired the driver is.

Roundstone Creek at Wildie, was impassible at least 31 school days this year due to high water.

The money will come from the state's Rural and Municipal Aid program, work being completed this summer.

New board relations with state, federal and independent agencies which have resources to support local economic development initiatives.

Clontz pointed out to the court that the new board and Towery would only make recommendations to the court, with the final decision being theirs.

Clontz said he thought the Economic Development Cabinet in Frankfort had overlooked Rockcastle County on many occasions when they had an industry wanting to locate in the state. "I think simply because we weren't set up in the right way," Clontz said.

Towery told the court that he was looking forward to serving the county in a public capacity again. "I've worked in public service all of my life and I'm looking forward to the challenges that lie ahead. I think we have great potential in this county to attract new jobs, in whatever field it may be," Towery said.

Clontz said that some members of the group had already discussed the role of the new board with Governor Paul Patton and the deputy secretary of the Economic Development Council. "We were able to do that because of a contact person we have in the county (referring to Lee Keene, Administrator of the Rockcastle Hospital)," Clontz said.

"Mr. Towery's appointment is an effort that will help us move forward and we expect to see a lot of movement toward broad based development in Rockcastle County," Carlotis said.

In 1992, he disagreed with the court's 4-3 decision that said Kentucky's sodomy law is unconstitutional because it unfairly singles out gays for punishment.

Lambert also dissented when the court in 1987 declared unconstitutional a statute that restricted coal mining under notorious "broad form" deeds. When voters amended the constitution to include a restriction, he wrote the 1993 opinion upholding the amendment.

In cases with implications for abortion, Lambert has chided his colleagues for continuing to uphold the court's 1983 ruling that a fetus is not a person.

Besides sitting on the state's highest court, Lambert also is chairman of the board of directors that owns Rockcastle Hospital Respiratory Care Center Inc. He has served on that board for many years.

His wife Debra Hembree Lambert is the City Attorney for Mt. Vernon and maintains a private law practice in the county.

The Lamberts have two sons, Joseph Patrick Lambert, 13, and John Ryan Lambert, 7.

350 attend Car Show at RCMS

The Rockcastle Region Street Rodders held their 18th Annual Car Show at the Rockcastle County Middle School Sunday afternoon. 200 cars were entered in the show which drew about 350 spectators. Above, Larry Senters, of Livingston, brought his Harley Davidson to compete in the motorcycle class. Below, Justine Hale's 1966 Ford Mustang won first place in the '64-'66 Mustang Division. At left, Street Rodders president Robbie Phillips and Car Show DJ Charlie Napier look over the large crowd.

Two Northern Kentucky men and six show horses escaped serious injury Monday afternoon when their F-350 Ford pickup and horse trailer overturned at the 56 mile marker in Rockcastle County. The horses had to be transferred to other horse trailers before the scene could be cleared. The interstate was blocked on and off for nearly four hours.

The Brodhead Lion's Club held their annual horse show at the Brodhead Fairgrounds last week. Included in the winners were: Wayne Sparks, of Conway, who won the Rockcastle Residents Class Only, on his three-year-old mare "Remarkable Sue". Below, Ring Master Todd Cromer and Bobby and Clara Proctor present Sam Sarrell, of Lexington, with the Grand Champion's Award for the show. Sarrell was riding "They Call Me Dock."

State Police Officer Jimmie Silvers recovered a 1990 Ford Econoline van owned by Silver Creek Baptist Church in Berea last week.

Smith said the van was stolen from the Church on June 3 and recovered on June 5 off Buffalo Hollow Road.

The van had been heavily damaged.

Last week deputy Sheriff Doan also recovered some bleachers that had been stolen from the Livingston school gymnasium.

Doan said he located the bleachers at the home of Larry Mounce, 39, of Gaudy Branch. Doan said Mounce told him he bought the bleachers for $100 but would not tell him from whom.

Doan said the case would be presented to the Rockcastle County Grand Jury.

Deputy Sheriff Charles Gray also recovered a 1997 Nissan Pick-up last week that had been stolen from David Gardiner of Mt. Vernon.

Gray found the vehicle wrecked and left in the Pine Hill curve on U.S. 25 around 6:30 a.m. No arrests have been made.

Rockcastle County Deputy Sheriff Darrell Doan, right, returns a bobcat to Vernon Sowers of Richmond, on Tuesday morning. Doan and constable Dale Miller recovered the stolen bobcat on Copper Creek at approximately 5 a.m. Tuesday morning. Two Madison County men have been charged with the crime and are being held in the Rockcastle County Jail.

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor,
When thinking about the month of June, few holidays come to mind. Yes, June has Flag Day on the 14th, and we must not forget our fathers on the 21st. However, June is actually a month long holiday, Dairy Month. Each day in June we should be celebrating the importance and success of our very own dairy industry right here in Kentucky.

Unfortunately, the number of dairy farms in Kentucky has dwindled in recent years. It is estimated we are currently losing a dairyman per day in this state. This is due to low farm level milk prices completed with extremely high costs of production, a situation that makes it remarkably difficult for dairy farmers to make a profit. Kentucky has recently, however, joined the Southern Dairy Compact. If Congress approves this compact, it would set a price floor for milk prices in Kentucky, which would allow dairy farmers to make long-term plans and investments in their future. Even with the current problems in the dairy industry, the sale of dairy products continue to generate enormous revenue for Kentucky. In 1997, cash receipts from dairy products totaled over $240 million dollars. With this type of revenue, it is easy to see why an entire month is devoted to the recognition and support of our dairy industry.

June Dairy Month was created in order to generate awareness and excitement for milk and other dairy products. What can you do to help? First of all, you can use real milk and real milk products during June as well as throughout the year. Be sure to remain educated and educate others on the many nutritional benefits of dairy products. Whatever you do, just remember the thousands of dairy farmers in Kentucky who work extremely hard 365 days a year. Please watch for various festivals and promotional activities in your area and try and participate in honor of June Dairy Month and Kentucky dairy farmers.

Sincerely,
Billy Ray Smith
Commissioner
Kentucky Department of Agriculture

Dear Editor,
I'm writing this concerning the upkeep of the Elinwood Cemetery. I can't believe the way it looked this Memorial Day, as if it hasn't been mowed in two or three weeks before Memorial Day or not even after. This important day, our father's grave had spilled motor oil around it.

And on Saturday, June 7, 1998 when we went to remove the flowers and mow around the plot, to our disbelief we found all of the flowers, to be gone. When the flowers should have been there because today would have been the two weeks when the flowers should have been removed but the plots on each side of our father's all had flowers on the ground. So, why our father's grave. We take care of the grave ourselves and no need for the ones taking care of it to remove anything. We're very much aware of mother nature with all of the rain but believe it or not there have been more sunny days than rainy days. And no excuse for the way it looks. Maybe as citizens need to voice our concerns, by letting it be known, so we can have a cemetery to visit and be proud of. Instead of trying to walk in grass that should be growing in a pasture field. When our father and his brother took care of the cemetery, I'm sure everyone remembers those days can say they had a beautiful cemetery to go to visit on Memorial Day and everyday. We're asking for a written apology from the ones that are responsible for seeing that we have a pretty cemetery to visit and one of our father would have been proud of. Like he was when he mowed it.

Child Abuse...

A Matter of Fact

By: Peter O. Samples,
Educate Your Children About Sexual Abuse

Unless you are clinically trained and given the opportunity for diagnostic assessment, it is unlikely that you can identify a child sexual abuser. He usually does not suffer from pathological mental illness. He is likely to engage in ordinary work or social activities, and he appears normal. It is difficult to "avoid" a child sexual abuser, even the most cautious and vigilant of parents cannot, nor would they want to, keep a 24-hour watch on their child. Besides, the adult who is prone to sexually abuse children often chooses work or activities which bring him into contact with the children. The best line of defense against sexual abuse is education. The second is communication. Parents are primary teachers of children and are responsible for showing them how to survive and how to cope with life. The first thing parents can do to protect their children is to teach themselves by communicating their fears and by talking about their daily activities.

Local woman reunited with family after 68 years

Mrs. Imogene (Allen) McGuire has found a sister she knew she had but had never seen and a brother she didn't even know about -- after 68 years.

It all began when Mrs. McGuire was visiting in Florida last winter and told a friend there that she had never seen her mother or sister, Betty Jean (Hasseman) Temple. Her friend told Mrs. McGuire to give him their names and he would look them up. Mrs. McGuire said about a week later, he found her sister and also a brother, Ronald Beard, she didn't even know she had. The three are actually half brother and sisters since they all had the same mother but different fathers. In addition, Mrs. McGuire got to see a picture of her mother, who passed away in 1980 and to meet an aunt, her mother's sister, Louise.

She and her sister and brother met for the first time at Mrs. Temple's home and another reunion is planned for August of this year at Mr. Beard's home.

Mrs. McGuire said of her reunion with her half brother and sister, "there has to be a reason from God (for us to meet) after all these years -- 68 of them." She added, "there is a love there that they are a part of you."
