A look back at Rockcastle County

Reprinted from the 1992 Rockcastle History Book which was published by the Rockcastle County Historical Society.

Renfro Valley
In 1956, when the WLS Barn Dance in Chicago was the height of its popularity, John Lair, a Renfro Valley, Kentucky, native, made a decision that was to affect not only the rest of his life, but the lives of thousands of others.

Mr. Lair observed that if live audiences were coming from all over the mid-west to hear "Hill-billy music" (as it was called then) and to see Red Foley, Slim Miller, Lily May Ledford and the rest of the WLS Barn Dance cast, why wouldn't they drive from the cities to the country... to Renfro Valley? He spent the next three years gathering financial backing and building a huge barn, restaurant building, and log marist cabins. On November 4, 1959, the doors opened on the first Renfro Valley Barn Dance.

Fifty-three years later, the Barn Dance is still going strong. Other shows, the "Gatherin'", The Jambores, the Mountain Gospel Jubilee, and many special events and festivals - have been added to the line-up. In 1990, a building and renovation project, under the direction of new owners, saw the completion of a new 1500-seat barn and crafts-village, as well as the remodeling of all the old log-and-stone buildings.

The Renfro Valley Barn Dance, from its beginnings, sought to showcase local talent. Many of the Renfro Valley folks are, or have been, Rockcastle County folks. Over the years the stage of the Old Barn has welcomed Rockcastle residents Lily May, Rosie and Susie Ledford of the

Some of the Renfro Valley Folks have gone on to far-away places following their musical careers, others have chosen to stay near family and friends in Rockcastle County, and some have returned home after tasting "life on the road." Renfro Valley also welcomes visitors from all over the United States and other countries. For all these folks, visitors and kin-folks alike, Renfro Valley in Rockcastle County, offers both a place for family entertainment and a quiet haven, a place to reflect on the past while looking toward the future.

Testimony begins in McKinney murder trial

Defense attorney says McKinney was framed for the murders of his wife, her children

The fate of a Rockcastle man accused of a brutal triple murder rests in the hands of eight men and six women who heard opening arguments in his trial.

Gary Casper McKinney stands accused of murdering Shirley Bowles McKinney, his wife of 32 days, and his step-children, 11-year-old Brian Bowles and three-year-old Amy Bowles on April 2, 1995.

Shirley Bowles McKinney and her children had lived in Rockcastle most of their lives before moving to Pulaski County with McKinney. McKinney was also charged with three counts of abusing their corpses after he allegedly set fire to the house in which the bodies were located.

Jury selection in the case took almost two days last week and opening arguments began Monday.

One of Kentucky's Assistant Attorney General, Michael Wright, who is handling the prosecution's case against McKinney, began by reading, word for word, the indictment against McKinney charging him with three counts of murder and five other counts.

As Wright said the state "would prove beyond a reasonable doubt" that McKinney had committed the crimes, he looked directly at the defendant as he sat with his attorneys Mark Stanziano and Mike Williams. To his right were pictures of the three victims and an overhead shot of the property on which the murders occurred.

He told the panel McKinney and Bowles had an 18 day courtship before marrying and settling in Pulaski County.

Wright told the jury the marriage ended 32 days later when Bowles and her children were shot.

Wright told the jury Shirley Bowles had been shot with a shotgun. Her son suffered three shots to the back of the head and her daughter had been shot in the mouth.

Members of the victim's family were clearly upset by hearing the unsettling details that Wright recounted for the jury.

Wright briefly recounted the events which led up to the shootings. He said on April 1, 1995, McKinney had hurt his ribs moving rocks. Later, Wright said, McKinney played cards with Brian. That evening when his wife came to bed, McKinney told her to leave. Wright told the jury there was but one road leading to and from the McKinney home, located at 829 Poplar Hollow Road.

On April 2, Wright said David Burton, who owned the property and lived up the road, was eating lunch at approximately 1 p.m. when he heard a car traveling on the road. He heard no other cars.

At 1:45, Burton received a call telling him the house in which the McKinney's lived was ablaze.

A short time later, Wright said,

McKinney drove up to the property and at his vehicle for several minutes.

He told Burton he and Shirley had fought the night before.

Wright said McKinney walked around briefly and then abruptly left, had hurt his ribs moving rocks. Later, Wright said, McKinney played cards with Brian. That evening when his wife came to bed, McKinney told her to leave. Wright told the jury there was but one road leading to and from the McKinney home, located at 829 Poplar Hollow Road.

He told the jury the house was nearly gone when the fire department arrived and what began as an arson scene turned into a crime scene.

Firefighters first found the burned, partial remains of two bodies. Then the located the third.

Wright told the panel over the next several days, several items of potential evidence were located, including bullets and casings for a 22 gauge shotgun and an SKS automatic pistol.

Brian and Amy Bowles were shot to death before their bodies were burned.

Shirley Faye Bowles McKinney had been married one month, when she was murdered.

New fire truck for Brodhead

Brodhead City Fire Chief Brian Bussell stands beside the new city fire truck purchased recently by the department. The new truck was manufactured by Emergency One Inc., of Ocala, Florida and has a 1,000 gallon water tank and a pump that has a capacity of 1,250 gallons per minute.

The truck cost the fire department approximately $96,000 and will be paid for with money from the state and insurance tax money collected by the city. The new truck will be used only on city runs. Brodhead currently has four trucks and a tanker truck.

County jail likely to close completely

Until renovation project finished

By: Richard Anderkin
Unless there is a dramatic change in the attitude of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court, the county jail is going to close.

If you want to visit the incarcerated in your family you'll have to hit the road to another county.

Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carlifolis told members of the court on Tuesday, during a special called meeting, that he thought it would be best to close the jail completely while the renovation project is going on. The jail would be reopened when the $800,000 project is complete, assuming the state will approve the jail for reopening.

Magistrates Amos Burdette, Donald Bullock and John Holbrook along with Jailor Joe Howard and County Treasurer Joe Clontz discussed the jail's situation for 90 minutes before tabling any decision until the court's regular scheduled meeting next Tuesday.

Magistrates Bill McKinney and Jack Bradley were out of town. The Judge-Executive said that because a few prisoners still remained in lock-up, the state required that two deputy jailers be on duty at all times.

Carlifolis said the county was paying out about $400 a day in salaries and about $100 a day to cater food to the prisoners. The Judge said those expenses could be completely cut out if all the prisoners were moved to Laurel or Pulaski counties.

"It doesn't make good business sense to keep a few prisoners in the jail when you can send them out and save, at a minimum, $350 a day," Carlifolis said.

The rate for keeping prisoners at other jails is about $22 a day and currently seven local inmates are being held in the county jail.

If the court closes the jail, which seems imminent, all of the deputy jailers and the cooks would be laid off. Because of side law the jailer cannot be laid off, but can be forced to act as transportation officer. He will receive his full salary either way.

But completely closing the jail does not alleviate the problems and decisions of the fiscal court, said Burdette. They have to designate a county transportation officer, get contracts with other jails to hold the prisoners, decide where law enforcement officers are going to turn over the prisoners to the transportation officer and pay the bills for holding the prisoners.

Depending on who is transportation officer, the court may also be required to furnish a vehicle with a two-way radio and security screen.

All three magistrates at the meeting, Holbrook, Burdette and Bullock told the Judge they would like to see a more detailed plan about such a major decision before they voted next Tuesday.

They also suggested talking to Rockcastle County Sheriff Shirley Smith about the situation because he could also be designated as transportation officer for all local prisoners.

Kentucky law is very clear about who a fiscal court can appoint to transport prisoners.

KRS 441.510 says in a county where there is no jail or the county operates a holdover jail the fiscal court shall adopt a transportation plan which establishes the party responsible for transporting prisoners as necessary.

The law further states: the fiscal court may require the jailer to serve as transportation officer, to be responsible for transporting prisoners as necessary, or the fiscal court may require the sheriff to serve as transportation officer, to also be responsible for transporting prisoners as necessary. The fiscal court may also adopt any reasonable transportation plan so long as the party responsible for transporting prisoners is specified.

Jailor Joe Howard made his feelings about being transportation officer very clear to the court. "I'll be transportation officer for eight hours a day, but I don't know any fool that would do it 24 hours a day seven days a week," Howard said.

Rockcastle County Attorney Jeff Burdette, who attended the meeting briefly because he had to be in juvenile court, said that the KRS statute was clear about who the court could designate to transport prisoners.

Burdette went on to say that even the District Court Judges and Circuit Court Judges could designate whom-ever they so desired to transport prisoners and that person would have to do it.

The county attorney said that a 1983 Attorney General's Opinion clearly shows that if the Jailer is

Tourist commission gets $400,000 grant

A grant of $400,000 from the Appalachian Regional Commission (ARC) will help the Mt. Vernon/Rockcastle Tourist Commission purchase and relocate an historic log cabin village on land within the Renfro Valley Entertainment Center.

U.S. Senator Wendell Ford said the nine original cabins and two framed structures, all located near Levi Jackson State Park in Laurel County, will house antiques, tools and cultural heritage products from the area.

Loom crafters, soap makers, candle makers and wood carvers will practice their crafts at the village when it opened in front of the museum on the Renfro Valley Entertainment Complex property.

"Not only will this new village become a fine tourist attraction in the state, it will also create employment opportunities for about 50 citizens," Ford said. "This will be a great opportunity for many to learn about Kentucky's special heritage."

The ARC grant is being supplemented with contributions from the Renfro Valley Entertainment Center and Mt. Vernon/Rockcastle County Tourist Commission, as well as an in-kind donation of the land parcel.

County to receive only $242,372 for resurfacing

Rockcastle County is getting very little money this year from the state's rural secondary road program.

Kentucky Governor Paul Patton announced this week that Rockcastle project this summer.

The total state budget for road improvements in the state is $37 million, which means Rockcastle County is getting almost no return on their tax dollars, according to Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carlifolis.

The rural secondary road program is funded by taxes on gasoline. "You know our residents are paying a lot more than $247,372 in gasoline taxes to the state each year and it is really a shame that other counties benefit from that tax money and not our residents," Carlifolis said. This year's 5 miles of the Mt. Vernon-Sand Springs Road (Ky 1249) and 2.46 miles of the Brodhead-

Kentucky Governor Paul Patton will bring his "Government to the People" forum to Rockcastle County on Monday.

County to borrow up to $50,000 to pay past bills

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court voted Tuesday to borrow up to $50,000 to pay past due jail bills.

County Treasurer Joe Clontz said that the jail owes East Ky. Foods, $15,500 and Laurel County Detention Center $12,000.

He also said that numerous other debts were owed including the jailer's salary and the payroll for deputy jailers and cooks which was due Friday.

Clontz said he thought the county could borrow the money from the Bank of Mt. Vernon.

The treasurer said the county had paid back $41,000 borrowed there this winter to pay bills connected with the February snow storm.

The money would be borrowed for one year and paid back by the jail fund on June 30, 1999 or earlier if possible.

Rockcastle County Judge Executive Buzz Carlifolis told the court that once the jail renovation project is complete the jail will have enough income from state and federal prisoners to pay its own way and to pay back the note.

"There is extreme overcrowding in the state's county jails, so we will not have any problem keeping our jail full," the Judge said.

Viewpoints

Points East

By: Ike Adams

Last year, in a fit of ambition I planted two rows of potatoes over a hundred feet long. Someone gave me the seed and I hated to see them go to waste.

Ordinarily, I don't grow more than a few hills of taters. Just to have a few when they get about the size of a banty egg to cook with green beans and peas. When they get over half grown I can prove to you that it's a lot cheaper to make a run to the store when you run out of spuds than it is to grow them yourself. It's also a lot less trouble.

Anyway, four or five families had all the young potatoes they wanted out of those two rows. We'd just gravel them out, hit or miss, when we wanted some and that went on 'til up in July before the weeds finally took 'em.

The ground was so hard last Fall that I didn't even consider trying to dig taters. I figured there weren't that many left anyway so we just sort of forgot about them.

In late Spring, however, right after the garden had been disked, taters started coming up in what can better be described as a bed than a row—about 30 feet long and four or five feet wide.

It's been too wet to plow them up and besides that, they were about the only thing growing in the garden anyway. They proceeded to bloom but I hadn't put an ounce of fertilizer on them. They attracted a million tater bugs that proceeded to infest my eggplant and tomatoes which is another good reason to not grow taters. I hate tater bugs almost as much as Japanese beetles.

Finally, two weeks ago, when it got dry enough to do a little weeding, buddy Dave Maggard who is down in the back but whose vision takes a dramatic turn for the better when it comes to identifying work that someone else can do while he's stove up, suggested that somebody ought to see if the taters were making anything.

I swear that I broke the handle out of a manure fork. That's how hard the ground was packed, but I got a mattock and before you knew what was going on we had nearly a peck of new potatoes about the size of the aforementioned banty egg and up. They're getting almost too big.

So I've been eating new potatoes every day and sometimes twice ever since. Cooked with ribs, green beans and back bone and shoulder. I like em cold or hot. I'll get a bowl full straight out of the fridge, sprinkle on a little salt and pepper and clean a green onion or two and I'm just as happy as I'd be at a five star restaurant.

Few things out of the garden are better than new potatoes but they need to be cooked within minutes of being dug if you want them to keep their flavor.

The mystery is why they only came in this year on one little bed. They should have come up all over the garden. We're pretty sure that we planted Kennebecs, Indiana Reds and Irish cobbles and we think the cobbles are the ones that survived the winter in the ground. I don't care what they are because as soon as they start getting a little bigger, we're going to stop traveling them out and let the vines die.

I want to see if they'll come back next year.

If they do and they do as well as they're doing now, I may have found a way to grow spuds that's actually worth the effort.

Dear Editor & Livingston Town Board,

I am speaking for myself. As a handicapped, retired person, I know most of us are glad we have a full time policeman here in Livingston, but our needs are for our safety.

We as early retirees, can protect their property in the day, but about the wee hours, after we are in bed asleep?

There are about two to three hours of day light protection we can provide for ourselves. How about the wee hours in a.m. I was broke in at 3:00 a.m., asleep and hearing impaired.

It's nice to look out and see your cruiser, but how about 3:00 a.m. a man trying to get in your front door and back and you have to call 911, 10 miles away to get help.

Thank you to Sam Stallsworth, who was filling in on the morning of June 27th. He made the arrest. How about it Town Board? Can we be protected the wee hours of a.m.? Like 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. or 9 p.m. to 5 a.m. through the summer?

Thanks, J.D. Rice Livingston, KY

Dear Editor:

The Central Kentucky Blood Center would like to thank Rockcastle County for their support of the Central Kentucky Blood Center and our mission of "Saving Lives Together" by holding a county blood drive on Tuesday, June 16, 1998. Rockcastle County plays an important role in Central Kentucky Blood Center's success in supplying our hospitals and clinics with life-saving blood. C.K.B.C. depends heavily on donor groups like Rockcastle County's to maintain a safe and adequate blood supply. Rockcastle County's willingness to hold blood drives is essential to our ability to meet patient and community needs. Volunteer blood donors are important and provide a valuable and needed service to their communities. You really do make a difference!

At the Rockcastle County Blood Drive we were able to register 51 people, with 46 able to donate. Since each unit can be broken down into three parts (red blood cells, plasma and platelets), 138 people can be given the gift of life. What a wonderful gift the residents of Rockcastle County have given to patients in central and eastern Kentucky hospitals! With your help in the future, we will continue to save lives together.

The Central Kentucky Blood Center would like to thank Hazel Jackson and the Rockcastle County Extension Homemakers for their kind work and dedication in making Rockcastle County's blood drives a success. But most importantly thanks to all the volunteer blood donors who shared the gift of life. Central Kentucky Blood Center, your community and most importantly, the patients in central and eastern Kentucky hospitals appreciate your life-saving donation.

Our next Rockcastle County community blood drive is scheduled for Monday, July 13th from noon to 5 p.m. in the basement of the Rockcastle County Cooperative Extension Office. Mark your calendars now to share the precious gift of life on Tuesday, September 15th.

Sincerely, Kelley Tackett, Donor Resources Consultant Somerset, KY 42501

Dear Editor, We have had Attorney Jerry Cox joining in the O.J. Simpson-type defense of Bill Clinton's strange-than-fiction antics (Mt. Vernon Signal, June 25). It is fast becoming accepted practice to accuse the President and prosecute the prosecutor!

"Regardless of the culpability of the First Family," says Cox, "Mr. Starr has extended all bounds of decency and propriety." Some of us might say to demand that the President and first lady—even if just one-tenth of the allegations are true. And, judging from evidence gathered thus far, the odds are great that the tip of the proverbial iceberg has scarcely been scratched. Now a certainly not the time to "cease and desist," as Mr. Cox suggests.

This has proved to be a difficult task for Starr, as more hard evidence has been held than allowed to be properly presented and dissected. And executive or attorney-client privilege appears to be of greater concern to many citizens than getting at the truth.

The wringing of hands and gnashing of teeth over the millions being spent by Starr's office is so politically transparent as to be ridiculous, particularly in view of what it's costing us to defend the accused. Why doesn't someone toe up that expense?!!

I remember there were no liberal exceptions. 45 cabinet members, wasted tax dollars and no defenders of decency and propriety when Richard Nixon's White House was under siege, the hearings televised daily and news bulletins provided an antidote. And who could ever forget the Iran-Contra hearings where a decorated war hero was on the hot seat for months, callously treated with all the contempt and dishonor formerly reserved for traitors, deserters and draft dodgers?

I had to laugh at one of Jerry Cox's irrational statements: "The right of a citizen to confine his attorney about secrets which do not involve wrongdoing does not involve such issues as racism, children, spouses, parents and many, many matters, remain the lynchpin of the attorney-client relationship." Well? Who's interfering with "secrets"? If Mr. Cox has no clearer concept of Kenneth Starr's investigation than this, it is he who should cease and desist in his efforts to defend the President. If there had been no evidence of wrongdoing, a special prosecutor would never have been appointed and requested.

I've a feeling Mr. Cox knows, as do the rest of us, that there has simply been too many "... gates" through which Bill Clinton and his cohorts have passed; too many good women supporters used and savagely trashed after he is finished with them; or had his enormous advances spent; too many sudden deaths mysteriously away as "suicide" or "accidental" when the deceased was scheduled to testify under oath about his knowledge of or duties with the Administration.

It is all too obvious that Jerry Cox, et al, would prefer to read, see and hear only those news items that tend to shield or vindicate the Clintons. Others among us need to know the bottom line on this stuff. If, in fact, there is nothing to hide then why the flurry of activity to do just that — shred or conceal subpoenaed documents that would put an end to the investigation and leave Ken Starr with "egg on his face"? Why are witnesses fearful of testifying under oath without assured protection against retaliation from the Justice Department?

According to an article in the March 25, 1998 issue of The Wall Street Journal and one on March 26, in USA Today, such protection was granted to Nolandia Hill, a former business partner and confidant of the late Ron Brown, Clinton's Commerce Secretary. And even with this protection Hill has, since her latest deposition on March 23, resisted testifying further and even tried successfully to take the Fifth Amendment. Brown's body, you will recall, was one of those pulled from the burnt wreckage of a government plane that crashed in April 1996 over Asia while on one of many controversial foreign trade missions.

Mr. Hill's first testimony, January 17, 1998, in Federal District Judge Royce Lamberth's courtroom, revealed what she personally knew or was told by Brown about the Clinton trade junkets, including trips to Communist countries. She testified that seats on these planes were sold for a minimum of $50,000, another illegal means of raising money from the Clinton-Gore reelection campaign. Hill said she saw stacks of letters being mailed out to businessmen and corporate heads across the country. The idea, she said, originated with Hillary Clinton, but was eagerly embraced by the President and others in the Administration.

When Judicial Watch, a legal watchdog group, filed a Freedom of Information Act lawsuit for trade mission documents, Hill said top White House officials instructed Brown to delay the case by withholding the protection of documents until after the 1996 elections, and to devise a way not to comply with the court's orders." She insisted that Brown was unhappy with the situation and well aware of the illegality, but he often signed and said, "Oh well, I'm doing my chores."

At the time of Ron Brown's plane crash, he was scheduled to be deposed by lawyers for Judicial Watch, and Chinese ballistic missiles were an indictment was expected momentarily. Hill said that just days prior to his death, Brown had personally informed Clinton that he intended to enter a plea of agreement with the federal prosecutor and testify against the Administration. "Clinton responded with a terse 'that's nice' and left the room in a icy silence."

Judicial Watch is now representing several of the pathologists and a photographer of the Armed Forces Pathology Institute who examined Ron Brown's body and observed "an unmistakable 45 caliber bullet wound in the head." Those professionals are considering filing whistleblower suits for Pentagon retaliation against them, thereby providing Judicial Watch the ability to investigate the apparent cover-up of Brown's death. Freedom of Information Act requests have been filed to obtain from the military, the Commerce Department, as well as the Justice and Transportation Departments, all available data on the Brown plane crash. At last report, response of these requests was overdue and suits are now being filed. Again, if there is nothing to hide, why has the Clinton-Gore Justice Department offered to pay all Judicial Watch's attorney fees if they would agree to stop their lawsuits against the Administration?

Would Cox ignore all this and wipe the slate simply because he wants to take a mile over zealously questioning a witness? If, for one, would like to know why, where, and certainly when Brown's bullet wound was inflicted. Was it before or after takeoff? I read somewhere that Brown's son is asking some "hard questions." Perhaps he, too, finds it strange that the President himself is not leading the charge to learn what happened, how his good friend and generous financial supporter received such "spin" lawyers and new movements for "executive privilege."

For those of us still reeling from the so-called suicide of Vince Foster, it becomes easy to visualize another final departure equally bizarre or more so. Are we a bit paranoid? Perhaps. But how can these doubts and suspicions be dispelled when even the slightest question brings in additional "spin" lawyers and new movements for "executive privilege."

Aside from the unwelcome advances toward female employees, volunteers, etc., and the obvious pervy connected with that sorry episode, there are several more pressing matters that need attention right now. Like, for example, the selling out of our country for political gain. Congress is currently looking into the transfer of satellite technology to China in return for more than $1 million in donations to the Democratic Party since Mr. Clinton became President. The Commerce Department on August 7, 1997 passed export controls of devices necessary to develop and test nuclear weapons such as those exploded in India last month. And Clinton says, with a straight face, that campaign contributions played no part in the decision to ease restrictions. Yeah!

Sen. Arlen Specter, Pennsylvania Republican, tells us there is "strong evidence the exports have materially strengthened China's defense system and Chinese ballistic missiles are now pointed at the United States?"

"It's absolute madness," said Stephen Bryen, former deputy undersecretary of the State Department. "It's a deliberately malevolent effort by the Clinton Administration to export anything and everything to China. And it's extremely harmful to our national security." Bernard Schwartz, president of Lorin Space and Communications Systems, was the largest single contributor of "soft money" to the Democrat Party during the 1996 election cycle.

Why do these officials have declassified the military significance of advanced oscilloscopes, which are used to measure the intensity of nuclear explosions at intervals as tiny as a billionth of a second. But according to Risk Report, a publication by the Wisconsin Project for Nuclear Arms Control, "no other instrument has been more important to the development of nuclear weapons than the oscilloscope." Jim Nicholson, chairman of the Republican National Committee says, "they (the Administration) ran a fire sale on sophisticated equipment that's needed for nuclear weapons development, no questions asked, all sales final."

On second thought, perhaps it is time to stop the investigations and start turning more people behind bars. National security in the hands of a reckless president is no security. I fear we're gonna live to regret 1992! Thanks for the space.

Sincerely, Christine McKinney West Chester, Ohio

Our Readers Write

Dear Editor, I am writing concerning Bales Cemetery at Livingston?

First I want Robert Oliver and family to know how I appreciate what all they have done to improve the looks of our cemetery. They ask for donations to buy a monument. It is beautiful. Then money to buy more land and have it surveyed. This needed to be done so we would know what was ours.

I know our family has gave any way we could to help I know you who are concerned and love the cemetery have done your part too.

Folks we need a fence around parts of the cemetery. We find beer and whiskey bottles, drug evidence, all manners of food, papers and cups and much more in our cemetery.

Robert tells me, we need $1600 for a fence.

Please, won't you help again. He has done so much, a lot out of his own pocket. The archway and flag pole setting that he did is beautiful. This was the beginning, clearing of land and new road was second, monument was third, buying of property and survey was fourth. Let's make a new fence, fifth on our list.

God bless you all - Robert has poured out his heart and lots of hard Services were Thursday, July 2, at the Wallace Baptist Church with Rev. Earl Yanwinkle and Rev. Gary Bonnell officiating. Burial was in the Berea Cemetery.

Casketbearers were Greg Williams, David Williams, Michael Williams, Arthur Boggs, Steve Williams and Alfred Wylie.

Honorary casketbearers were Ben David Prother, Harvey King, Charles King, Charlie Combs, Vernon Payne, Harold Eden and Allan Wayne Wallace.

Williams Funeral Home in Berea was in charge of arrangements.

Maxine Cook

Maxine DeWeese Morvauchik Cook, of Berea, died at the Berea Hospital Skilled Nursing Facility on Wednesday, July 1, 1998 after an extended illness. She was born in Goldsboro, Ohio on October 29, 1910. She was a member of the Berea Bible Baptist Church in Springfield, Ohio, whose pastor is Rev. Glen Greenwood. She was also a member of the Berea Baptist Church in Berea, whose pastor is Rev. John Chapman. For many years she worked in a home for abused and abandoned children in Springfield, Ohio.

Survivors are one brother-in-law, and sister-in-law, James and Anna L. Welch of Man, West Virginia as well as several other relatives. She was preceded in death by her father and mother, Edward A. and Lavina DeWeese Wiseman; her first husband, Johnny Morvauchik to whom she was married thirty-four years until his death in 1969 and her second husband of twenty-four years, Howard Bruce Cook, who passed away in 1997.

Services were Friday, July 3, at Fisher-Edgington Funeral Home in Wilmington, Ohio with Rev. Glen Greenwood. Burial was in the Fletcher Cemetery in Springfield, Ohio.

Local arrangements were made by Williams Funeral Home in Berea.

to express their heartfelt thanks for all the love and compassion shown during the passing of our loved one. We deeply appreciate all the food, flowers, prayers, money, cards and words of comfort. We want to thank Bro. George Baker for his song and comforting words of comfort, the singers: Vickie Robinson, Cordie and Marie Smith and Charles Howard, and to each of the pallbearers. We would like to especially thank Doyell and Martin Funeral Home for their help, compassion and services.

Sadly Missed By, Dorothy Allen, Judy, Fred, Wayne, Regina, Pat and Sue Grandchildren, brothers and sisters

Donations wanted for upkeep of High Dry Cemetery, Mail donations to High Dry Cemetery Fund, Rt. 1 Box 327P, Mt. Vernon, Ky. 40456. All donations appreciated.

Roberts' Cemetery
Donations for the Roberts' Cemetery, "Old Freedom", would be greatly appreciated, if anyone can give. I have paid for it to be mowed and raked for the first time this year, $165.00. Would like to keep it mowed and taken care of. If I can get some help from donations. For info., call 758-89054. Thank you, John D. Croner, Rt. 3 Box 830, Brodhead, Ky. 40409. I can keep it mowed for the sum of $50 every two weeks.

Cards of Thanks

Mabel Taylor

The husband and family of Mrs. Mabel Taylor would like to extend our thanks to all the people that extended their sympathy and condolences in the loss of our loved one, the Dowell and Martin Funeral Home, Rev. Rick Reynolds, Barry and Stephanie Hurst for the beautiful music and songs, the people who stopped by the funeral home, attended the funeral, sent flowers, offered to prepare food, and all other acts of kindness.

Thank You Very Much,

Mt. Vernon Message

Open House at MVES will be held on Thursday, August 6 from 6:00 to 8:00 p.m. New students will also be registered during this time. Items needed for enrollment include an official birth certificate, social security card and an up-to-date immunization record. Request forms for birth certificates can be picked up at the school weekdays between the hours of 8:30 and 3:00.

Just a reminder that our Family Resource Center will be reopening on July 13 with hours from 8:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m., weekdays. If you need assistance please call 256-5173 or 256-2953.

MVES Summer School was a very rewarding experience for students and staff alike. Students were engaged in one-on-one and small group problem solving activities, reading enrichments, technology and writing activities and much more throughout the two week session. As a culminating activity, parents and/or family members of students were invited for a parent involvement day which consisted of guest speaker, Allen Pensol, delivering a brief message regarding the arts and KIRIS assessment, a straw painting art activity involving students, staff and parent and family members, door prizes and student selection of a free book sponsored by Title I.

Lawhorn named to UK Dean's List

Rebecca Lawhorn has earned academic honors for the 1998 Spring Semester at the University of Kentucky. Students named to the Dean's List must be enrolled in at least 12 hours of classes and earn a 3.5 grade point average.

MVES Summer School students benefited from small group and one-on-one instruction in an attempt to enhance reading, writing and problem solving skills. Shown above are Primary 2 students engaged in a variety of activities designed to do just that.

Entry level students practiced forming letters and numbers in a tactile manner by using shaving cream and their fingers.

RGHS competes in Cumberland College Math Contest

The Cumberland College department of Mathematics, Physics, and Geography, sponsored the 1998 Annual - High School Mathematics Contest, held recently on the Cumberland campus. Rockcastle County High School participated in the competition with other high schools from all over Kentucky.

The purpose of the contest is to prepare students in the fields of mathematics, mathematics education, physics, physics education, and engineering.

Eight high schools from eastern and central Kentucky were represented by over 100 contestants and 15 sponsors. This year's contest consisted of exams in six categories: Algebra I, Algebra II, Geometry, Pre-Calculus, Calculus, and Cooperative Group. Each school was allowed to enter up to two students in each of these five individual categories and a team of four students for the group competition.

JobStart Graduation held

There were laughs and smiles galore at the JobStart graduation on Friday, June 19, at the Rockcastle Teen Center, as two people graduated and four more joined the new job skills training program.

Virginia Griffin and Rachel Renour celebrated their accomplishments of the past 12 weeks and shared their aspirations with fellow classmates and staff, while also welcoming four newcomers, Lisa and Bill Barrett, Neville Hacker and Melissa Mendoza. The newest JobStart participants were invited to the festivities to get a first hand look at the JobStart program and its offerings through some who have completed the course.

Paula Woodman, Program Manager of CAP's Adult Education and JobStart programs, spoke to the graduates, thanking them for their commitment to JobStart and wishing them continued success. Everyone enjoyed light refreshments of coffee and doughnuts while meeting new friends and congratulating the graduates.

JobStart, a program offered by Christian Appalachian Project, seeks to empower people with the job skills and training necessary to be successful in the work-place. Topics that are covered include conflict resolution, job ethics, reading comprehension and writing skills. It relies on teaching in a functional context i.e., learning math through balancing a check-book. "It helps the participants understand better when they can relate to how they will use a particular skill," shared instructor Anne Elkins.

Renour felt the individualized attention was the strongest aspect of the program. "What I liked was that it was very personalized with one-on-one teaching, which allowed you to go at your own pace." Griffin, who joined JobStart after obtaining her GED, was very interested in computers and improved her typing speed greatly. "Virginia rarely missed class and was always willing to assist and participate in class activities," said Elkins.

Anyone over 16 years, interested in acquiring new job skills at JobStart, can call 256-4919, and ask for Judy or Anne. Classes meet Monday thru Friday, 8:30-12:30, at the Rockcastle Teen Center.

Child Abuse...A Matter of Fact

By Peter O. Samples, State Chairman

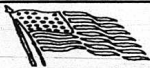

The Child is Always The Victim

A seductive or promiscuous child often is the result, but never the cause, of sexual abuse. One characteristic common to sexual abusers is a capacity for rationalizing their actions, mentally justifying and illegal, unacceptable and inappropriate behavior as necessary and all right. Perpetrating the myth of the fault is one way of doing this. Through this type of reasoning, the abuser shifts the blame for his actions onto someone else. In the same manner, inattentive parents often justify their own sexual behavior as a way of teaching the child or keeping him off the street. These justifications ignore the abuser's responsibility as an adult, the child's vulnerability and dependency on the adult, and the long-term harm to the child.

To obtain more information about child abuse and neglect, call our hotline number at 1-800-468-8920.

Virginia Griffin, Instructor Anne Elkins, Rachel Renour.

WE CAN ALL FIND GOOD REASONS TO GIVE OUR THANKS

Though fortune seems to pass you by, There's something that you can't deny; At times we all, have things going wrong; But manage still to get along. If you can somehow pay each bill, And no one at your house is ill, And if your children get good grades And don't indulge in escapades, And if you have just one good friend, In case misfortune should descend, Then you have blessings by the score, Of things you should be thankful for. Your House of Worship will convey This message for Thanksgiving Day. So let us all, with one accord, Extend our thanks unto the Lord.
— Gloria Nowak

without sweetening, as sugar is not necessary to safely freeze fruits. The method used to pack the fruit will depend on how you plan to use it. There are several ways to pack fruit for freezing: syrup pack, sugar pack, dry pack or unsweetened pack. Whichever method you use, leave the appropriate head space. Fruits packed in a syrup are generally best for dessert use, while those packed in dry sugar or unsweetened are best for most cooking purposes because there is less liquid.

For more information on canning or freezing or approximate yields of fruits, contact the Extension Service at 256-2403.

Bale storage areas located under trees or allowed to grow up in weeds will have even higher losses than reported earlier.

New bale tarps are on the market that allow large stacks of hay to be covered. Special pockets allow pipes and ropes to secure the sides to prevent wind damage. Farmers find, with care, that bale tarps last up to 5 years and store hay just as well as barns.

One might look at hay loss like a mowing machine or rake that left 25% to 30% of the hay in your field. Most farmers would not stand for a shoddy job, but accept large bale storage losses as unpreventable.

Educational programs of the Kentucky Cooperative Extension Service serve all people regardless of race, color, age, sex, religion, disability or national origin.

Cut Large Round Bale Hay Losses

Decisions now on where and how large round bales of hay are stored will determine how much and of what quality this winter's feed supply will be. One should also look at the financial consideration for using round bales by measuring hay losses.

Studies on the weathering effects of hay stored in different ways show some interesting facts. A round bale that is 4.5 feet in diameter and 4 feet wide occupies a total volume of 64 cubic feet. Even though 4 inches is only 7% of the bale diameter, a weathered layer 4 inches deep over the entire surface of the bale, including ends, would contain 39% of the total package volume. Even a layer that was only 2 inches deep over the surface would occupy 22% of the bale volume. Losses on the ends of exposed round bales do not penetrate as far into the bale as on the outer circumference of the bale. When losses on the end of the bale are disregarded, a 4 inch deep layer contains 28% of the total bale volume. Since the ratio of surface area to volume decreases with increasing bale size, larger round bales should have smaller storage losses on a percentage basis.

With these facts in mind, what can be done to save hay? Whenever possible, store hay inside. Better quality hay and alfalfa hays should be stored inside first. Long stem fescue will bale tighter and shed water better.

Bale storage sites should be well drained. Any method such as crushed stone, poles, tires, and pallets which will keep round bales off the ground will prevent damage from ground water. And don't forget the obvious. Store hay so that weeds and trees do not prevent good air movement for drying.

Freezing Fresh Fruits

By: Hazel Jackson
County Extension Agent for Home Economics

Freezing fruits has advantages over other methods of food preservation. Freezing keeps the natural color, fresh flavor and nutritional value of fruits. With the exception of pears, which become mushy, most fruits freeze very well. Fruits are best frozen soon after harvesting when they are firm and ripe and at the peak of their quality. For thawed fruits with a pleasing color, texture, flavor and maximum nutritional value, select varieties suitable for freezing, follow sanitary procedures and follow the guidelines in this publication.

Before you begin the freezing process, gather all the ingredients and equipment you will need. Begin by washing the fruit in cold water. Wash a small quantity at a time as too much handling may bruise delicate fruits. Immediately drain the fruit thoroughly. If you allow fruits to soak in water they lose water-soluble nutrients and flavor, as well as becoming waterlogged. Cut or crush larger fruits into smaller pieces. Less-than-perfect fruit is suitable for crushed or pureed packs. It is best to prepare enough fruit for only a few containers at one time, around two to three quarts. A list of approximate yield of frozen fruits from fresh can be obtained free from the Extension Service. Remember that yield will vary with the size, quality, maturity, variety, trim and cut size of the fruit.

Most fruits have a better texture and flavor if packed in sugar or syrup. Some may be packed

Library News

By Geraldine Robbins

The Summer Reading Program will be completed next week with a pizza party and a visit from Ronald McDonald. Prizes will be awarded for most books read in different age groups and for other activities. We have eight castles on display made by the children. Please come and vote for the one you like best. These children have a lot of imagination and have done a fantastic job on the castles. We want to commend all the parents for encouraging their children to read this summer.

Those of you who read Betty's article last week know she has resigned her position with the library. Betty has been the children's service director for about seven years and has done an excellent job in this capacity. She not only worked with the children's programs but has served as the genealogy liaison for the library and has done all the other jobs that go with library work. We surely have to say her leave but we want to wish her the very best in the future.

In continuing with the information on our staff members, I'd like to tell you about Pearl Rash. Pearl has also lived in Rockcastle County all of her life and now lives in Mt. Vernon. She attended elementary school at Broadhead and high school at Rockcastle County High School. She has two sons, Jason, who is eighteen, and enjoys motorcycling and Derrick is nine and will be in the fourth grade at Mt. Vernon Elementary School. He enjoys using his computer and loves automobiles.

Pearle began work at the library in January of 1996 and has proven to be a very valuable asset to this library. She enjoys her work and likes being with people and especially meeting new patrons.

Pearle is a very creative person and enjoys making different crafts and crocheting is her favorite hobby. I think everyone will find all of our staff to be helpful, friendly and always willing to assist you. If help is needed when a patron is in the library, all that is required is to just ask one of the staff for assistance.

Again I want to remind everyone that the library will be closed for approximately two weeks beginning August 10th. We will be doing an inventory and it is necessary to close the library so books won't be going off the shelves during this period. If any patrons want to get extra books before this time the due date will be extended.

Some new books now available are FINDERS KEEPERS by Fern Michaels... I have just finished this book and really enjoyed it. It is a brilliantly sunny day in the mountains outside Atlanta, a beautiful two-year-old girl is left to nap in front of her family's gas station. Suddenly a stranger woman snatches her from her stroller and takes off. Barking furiously, the child's loyal golden retriever breaks its rope and chases the speeding car until it vanishes into the distance.

Growing up in a magnificent Charleston home, Jessie Roland wants for nothing but something is always missing in her life. She feels a lack and desolation and has terrible dreams from which she wakes screaming.

She is sheltered by an overprotective mother and it is not until she is nineteen that she finally finds a way to break free. This is Jessie's story, the story of a child stolen from a poor but loving home...of a woman lost in a life that is not her own...of a family shattered by the bitter secret of an unspeakable crime that happened so long ago.

FLIGHT OF EAGLES by Jack Higgins... It is the early days of World War II, and two brothers find themselves on opposite sides. Max and Harry Kelso were born in the United States of a German mother and an American father. They were separated as boys when their mother took Max with her to Germany. Now he has grown up to become a expert pilot with the Luftwaffe and Harry is a tank ace in the RAF. Each has kept track of the others progress, but neither could possibly predict the extraordinary circumstances under which they are about to meet again.

The result of their action will hang, unalterably, the course of the war itself. Filled with harrowing twists and high-tension action, this is Higgins at his very best.

DEATH IN A COLD HARD LIGHT by Francine Mathews... Detective Merry Folger's career-hi new heights of terror and self-doubt in Death in a Mood Indigo and now Merry is more than ready for a peaceful vacation, so she is not pleased when her police chief father calls her home from Greenwich to investigate what looks like an accidental drowning.

The Coast Guard has just pulled a lifeless body from the frigid water near the harbor jeties. Twenty-one-year-old Jay Santorski, athlete, Harvard scholar, and part-time scalloper should never have drowned in the December seas. What was the young man doing out along in the storm-churned bay? And where is Merry's police detective colleague, the shifless Matt Bailey, who vanishes the night Santorski dies?

To learn what happened in the midnight waters of Old North Wharf, merry must confront the truth about her own past to help solve the mystery. A biography, STILL ME by Christopher Reeves. Mr. Reeves is a cryptic from an accident of falling from a horse. He has not let his trauma slow him down. An excellent story of overcoming one of the worst tragedies that could happen to a person in the spotlight.

Where ever you are, visit your public library and see what libraries now have to offer to the people of the community. We always welcome suggestions and comments.

In Loving Memories

In Loving Memory of Our Precious Parents who have gone on to be with our Lord Jesus Christ.
Harrison Ramsey, who passed away January 30, 1957
Grace Hines Ramsey, who passed away July 12, 1991
 As morning breaks his love shines through
 To bring sweet memories of the both of you.
 We miss you so, but someday we know,
 That we'll walk hand in hand,
 Down that golden road.
 You worked so hard and raised us well
 And taught us about Jesus where now you dwell.
 So rest sweet ones, until we meet - again,
 In that bright kingdom where there's no hurt or sin.

Sadly missed by all of your children, sons, Frank, Thomas and Billy Ramsey & daughters, Glenna French, Christine Blackburn, Irene Penner and Sadie Pittman, and all their grandchildren, great grandchildren and Hazel Hines, a buddy, Anna Rose and Emily Mullins.

In Loving Memory of My Beloved, Eugene Wynn, who passed away July 6, 1996
 Love, Regina
 All those moments alone make me realize
 How empty this old world is without you in my life.
 You're not I long to see.

you meant so much to me.
 I see you in my dreams
 And chances are I'll be dreaming of the future with you by my side.
 I have a million memories in my heart that will never fade no matter how long we're apart,
 I know someday in the end.
 Our days are yet to come.
 You were taken from life to soon.
 Some things you can't explain anyway,
 But the heartaches with me to this day.
 All the times we were close,
 I remember these things most.
 Somedays when I'm sad and lonely
 Wishing you weren't so far away.
 Then I remember things we said,
 My Love.

In Loving Memory of Sonja Rogers who died July 10, 1996
 God saw she was getting tired,
 And a cure was not to be.
 So he put his arms around her
 And said, "Come with me."
 With tear-filled eyes we watched,
 her suffer and fade away.
 Although we loved her deeply,
 We could not let her stay.
 A golden heart stopped beating,
 Hard working hands put to rest.
 God broke our hearts to prove,
 His angels takes the best.
 Sadly missed by her daughter,
 Peggy Cooper and her grandsons, Jacob and Willie Cooper.

First dance big success for USABDA

The first dance at the Swiss Decedents' Club was a big success with 42 attending. Five people chose to become members bringing the membership to 35. We all had an opportunity to meet new people and to dance to a variety of music. Special thanks to dance instructors Judy Hatterman, Albert Balla and Jeff and Kelly (soon to be) Fisher. We look forward to each of these teaching a lesson at future dances.
 At USABDA sponsored events the music is primarily the type that lends itself to traditional ballroom dancing.

17th Annual Berea Craft Festival opens July 10th

Seventeen years ago, the Berea Craft Festival opened to rare reviews and has continued to build on that success ever since. At this year's festival, over 120 craftspeople will be exhibiting and selling their work. These juried craftspeople, who come from across the United States, will gather at the historic Indian Fort Outdoor Theater near Berea, on July 10, 11 and 12.
 Highlighting this year's Festival will be the record number of demonstrators. Ann Brown, new to the festival, will bring her sheep and demonstrate the traditional art of spinning and rug making. Another first time exhibitor, Larry Herbs of Berea, will show the intricate hand skills needed to create a hand carved rocking horse. The Sheltoewe Artisans, from Somerset, will be showcasing watercolor, silk painting and stained glass. Papermaking by Katy Dement of Georgia and wooden stamping by Pawly Prints of Indiana will give the children and the young at heart ideas for their own new projects. Basketmaking, blacksmithing, dollmaking, silversmithing, pottery, piercing, puzzle making, glass blowing and dried floral demonstration will give visitors an appreciation of the artist's commitment to handwork and the intricacies of each craft.
 Giving an international flavor to the Festival, Lidia Amanda de Lopez, a Guatemalan native, will be weaving some of the extraordinary patterned fabrics that are indigenous to her village. Also, Jamie Rodriguez of Peruvian descent, will demonstrate and sell his hand carved Native American flutes.
 Nearly 30 new exhibitors will be showing at this year's festival. Among the newcomers will be Dinosaur Dirt Farm from Grossburg, Tennessee, who will bring ceramic dinosaur sculptures; basketmaking; basketball;

Jail Likely To Close

designated to transport county prisoners he must carry out the wishes of the fiscal court.

"An Attorney General's Opinion on this exact situation echoes my opinion, and I believe that if Joe Howard is chosen as transportation officer he will follow the law," Burdette said.

According to that same state statute, if the Jailer is not transportation officer and the Sheriff is the Jailer would become Bailiff of the court in order to free a deputy to transport prisoners. Howard said being court Bailiff would be fine with him.

Burdette also said he thought the county would be required to provide a place to book the prisoners before transportation.

Carloftis suggested that the city police in Mt. Vernon, Livingston and Broaddus hold prisoners at their city hall's until the transportation officer arrives and that the Sheriff's department and state police hold them at the Sheriff's office until the prisoners are turned over to the transportation officer.

The Judge-Executive said after the meeting that he would strongly recommend to the court that Joe Howard be made transportation officer. "It only makes sense, if he is going to get paid his salary and he is, he should transport prisoners while the jail is closed," Carloftis said.

As for contracts with other jails, the Judge said there were enough in place to handle Rockcastle prisoners.

Currently about 15 Rockcastle county prisoners are incarcerated.

The Judge said he would also work to get a car to transport prisoners by next Tuesday when the court meets again.

Site manager Charlie Robbins and contractor Mike Cameron both said on Tuesday, that it would certainly speed things up on the jail project if all the prisoners were gone.

The project is scheduled to be completed in September, however the project is several weeks behind.

Architecture Plus site-manager Charlie Robbins and General Contractor Mike Cameron discuss the jail renovation project at the Rockcastle County Courthouse on Tuesday afternoon. The Rockcastle County

Fiscal Court will most likely close the county jail completely until the jail renovation project is finished. The roof for the new addition at the jail is scheduled to be put up on Thursday.

McKinney Trial

were removed, Wright said there was a leafy material found near her body. Wright said in interviews conducted with McKinney, he said some revealing things.

There were "no signs of emotion on that man," Wright told the jury. On April 13, McKinney was still denying shooting his family but did say he purchased rounds for the SKS pistol.

Wright said on that April 13, McKinney was with his friend, Daniel Owens and discussed his wife's death. The prosecutor said that all three victims were dead before the fire started. He said law enforcement officers recovered two bullets from Brian and one from Amy. There were unique markings on the recovered bullets, he said.

He said scientific tests showed there was a fueling agent of the leafy material found near Shirley Bowles' body.

Wright said Owens testified that McKinney confessed to him that he killed Shirley, Brian and Amy and told him how he did it.

He said Owens' statement of his conversation with McKinney indicated he shot Brian several times as he tried to escape his attacker. He killed Amy as she slept on the couch. Wright said the investigation confirmed Owens' statement.

"This man is guilty of the murder of his family," Wright concluded.

Mark Stanziano delivered the opening statement for the defense. "The light of hope and love" came to Gary McKinney in the form of Shirley Bowles, he said. "The light of hope was extinguished when Shirley McKinney was killed."

Stanziano said during the investigation of the arson and murder, information was missed, discounted or ignored by law enforcement officials. In their "rush to judgment, they have left on the streets of Pulaski County or Rockcastle County" the two people who are truly responsible for the death of Shirley and her children. Stanziano told the jury.

Not only did Stanziano say the wrong man stood accused, but he said the defense would offer proof as to one of the killer's identity.

Stanziano said he would use tests conducted by the state to reveal the identity of one of the killers. The real killer "knew things only the killer could know," Stanziano told the panel.

He said McKinney's alleged confession to Owens was nothing more than a conversation in which the McKinney was telling his friends the things which police were saying he did.

He said law enforcement officials resorted to "parlor tricks" to feed McKinney information that only the killer could know.

Stanziano said during an interview with Pulaski County Sheriff's Detective E.T. Swartz, McKinney was fed all of the important, unknown details about the crimes.

"We will show you he did not (kill his family)," Stanziano said. Stanziano discussed Daniel Owens' role in the case and said on April 13, he and McKinney were drinking and went to Ballard's Parsons' grocery to play pool. He asked the jury to take note that Owens denies stopping at the store to play pool with McKinney.

He did that because he wanted to appease the police," Stanziano said, answering why Owens' story about his conversation with McKinney has frequently changed.

He told the jury that Owens has a drug or alcohol problem and is of below average intelligence, which he said was "a reason for you not to believe what he says."

McKinney, his attorney said, was "a small craft in a large ocean" he turned to Owens as a friend in crisis over losing his family. Under most circumstances, Stanziano said, McKinney would have turned to one of his sisters to talk things out, but because he had been drinking, McKinney turned to Owens.

The attorney said Owens has spoken with the defense and indicated what he told the police was not true. Now, he is saying the defense scared him and he has recanted the story he told McKinney's attorneys.

"Daniel Owens is a liar and he is not to be believed," Stanziano said. Daniel Owens' version of McKinney's confession does not match with the scientific evidence, Stanziano said. He added that the crime scene was improperly excavated.

Stanziano maintained the arson investigation was not done properly and that in reality it took 20 or 30 minutes for the house to become fully engulfed in flames, which is different from what the prosecution is claiming.

Stanziano said that state's investigation does not account for venting, or the circulation of air involved in the fire.

"They were murdered," Stanziano said. "The question is not what, but by whom."

Stanziano said if the state is using arson to prove murder, then the arson investigation must be done properly.

The floor mat and brake pedal from McKinney's car were subjected to the snif test and all failed, Stanziano said.

Stanziano also discussed blood found on McKinney's boot. He said the blood was consistent with Amy Bowles blood type, but that the blood could not be dated. He said testimony would be offered showing that the child cut her hand and the blood could have potentially come from that incident.

There is no blood anywhere from anyone else, he added. There was also no gunshot residue found on McKinney.

Stanziano also disputed the state's claim that there was only one route to the property.

Stanziano said there were three, however, not all were as easily accessible as the gravel road leading to the McKinney's home. He said the property was also accessible from numerous directions on foot.

Stanziano also challenged the prosecution's contentions about his client's behavior around the time of the killings.

"Gary McKinney did not act like a guilty person," Stanziano said, saying his client was cooperative and submitted to all tests he was asked to.

McKinney is quiet and a loner, according to his attorney, and is not a person with a great deal of self-confidence.

Stanziano said members of McKinney's family said he has the same reaction when his brother died - information the police failed to take into account.

"He is not the killer," Stanziano said.

Stanziano discussed the relationship between McKinney and his wife. He said Shirley loved her children and saw them on weekends because they lived with their father. He said she made enemies through her lifestyle choices.

There were "guys who used her," he said, clarifying that he was "saying she was a prostitute, but that she gave others money.

He said McKinney came from a fundamental background and that their lifestyles had the potential to clash given their short courtship.

"It (their marriage) wasn't perfect," Stanziano said.

He said Shirley made a lot of changes during the short marriage and McKinney made changes to care for his step-children.

Stanziano said there was another reason McKinney could not have killed his family, especially three-year old Amy.

"It is universally accepted that Amy loved him," he told the jury. He said there was no evidence there was any physical violence within the family, only that on occasion Shirley threw things.

Stanziano said when McKinney left his house on April 2, 1995, all three members of his family were alive.

Stanziano painted a very different picture of how Shirley and her children were killed.

He said the evidence would show at least two people were involved in their murders.

He claimed that after her husband left, Shirley had visitors and she refused to participate in activities she had in the past and perhaps refused to give them money.

He said Shirley was shot outside the house with a high velocity bullet probably from an SKS.

Stanziano said Brian was killed while someone blocked the door - the boy's only exit.

But, "the real killers made a mistake," he said.

They talked about it and the conversation was overheard by the Pulaski County Sheriff.

On April 10, Jamie Allen told Pulaski County Sheriff's Detective Brett Whitaker that the "little girl had been shot in the mouth, a detail withheld from the police.

"Only the killer could have known that," he said. He said Whitaker ignored the information because the police were developing a case against Gary Casper McKinney.

"This man (McKinney) has been framed by at least two other people," he said.

Two Roads Resurfaced

Chestnut Grove Road (CR1365) will be resurfaced.

"It is the least amount of road work we have ever gotten from the rural secondary road program," Carloftis said.

Good cars make happy happy customers. We have both!

Our Reputation is Your Guarantee

The Family Room

By Dr. Don Whitehead

Steps To A Happy, Healthy Life
Is there a "secret" to living a happy life? No, but there are some steps you can take to head yourself in the direction of a happy and healthy life. Here are my suggestions:

1. Find and maintain a spiritual connection. To know that you are spiritually connected to other people and to God is a comforting, supportive bit of knowledge. The expression of your spirituality may take many forms, but the basic connection can always be there.

2. Set aside twenty minutes each day for quiet meditation. This is the time to strengthen the spiritual connection within you. It is a time to focus on your future plans and how those can come to pass.

3. Visit your doctor for a complete physical examination. If you are a regular reader of this column, you know that I am convinced that depression is partly a physical problem. High blood pressure, high cholesterol, high or low blood sugar can also affect the way you feel emotionally. See your doctor and do what he or she recommends.

4. Exercise regularly. Whether it's in front of the television on your treadmill, at the YMCA or outdoors on your bike, physical exercise helps you feel better. Rather than draining energy, as you might expect, it increases your energy.

5. Eat healthy. A steady diet of high fat, high sugar foods will not help you feel your best. Cut down on the sugars. Cut down on the fats, especially the saturated kind. Eat more whole grain products. Eat more fresh fruits and vegetables. Do most of your shopping in the outside aisle of the grocery store; that's where you'll find more of the healthy foods.

6. Take vitamins. Inadequate levels of Vitamins A, B, E and others can affect physical and mental health. Find a good, potent multi-vitamin and stick with it.

7. Get rid of any addictions. Eliminate caffeine and nicotine from your diet. Other addictions such as drugs, alcohol, gambling or shopping need to be stopped. This is often more than you can accomplish alone, so do not be afraid or ashamed to ask for help. Self-help groups such as Alcoholics Anonymous, Gamblers Anonymous, Overeaters Anonymous can help. Individual or family counseling can help break the addiction cycle.

8. Remove yourself from any abusive relationships. Whether you are the abuser or the abused, the relationship is harmful to you. If you can't get out on your own, get help so that you can leave!

9. Dream dreams for yourself and family. In the past I have told myself, "Don't get your hopes up, Don," to try to save myself from being disappointed. I have decided that is not a good thing to say to myself. Don't be afraid to dream dreams about what can be in the future.

10. Stop negative thinking. Stop it immediately. Change your focus to something else (like dreams for the future). If you need help to change your thinking, get it.

11. Find a friend. You and I need someone to listen. If you don't have such a friend, then start being that kind of friend to others. You will be pleasantly surprised at what happens.

12. Find a way to relax. Meditation, walking, therapeutic massage and listening to music can all help you to relax.

Outpatient cancer treatment center opens

The University of Kentucky Chandler Medical Center opened a new outpatient cancer treatment center for patients in Madison and surrounding counties. Kentucky Clinic Berea Cancer Treatment Center, located at 305 Estill Street adjacent to Berea Hospital, is a collaborative effort of the University of Kentucky Markey Cancer Center and Berea Hospital. It is the first of several free-standing cancer treatment centers the Medical Center plans to open in Eastern Kentucky.

"Right now patients have to drive beyond Richmond to come to UK Hospital for radiation treatment," said Jack Nyiri, department administrator, Department of Radiation Medicine, UK College of Medicine.

sponsor the next Rockcastle County blood drive from noon to 5 p.m. on the bloodmobile at the hospital.

Central Kentucky Blood Center requires 230 units of blood daily to meet the needs of patients in area hospitals. At this time, only five percent of the American population are blood donors. Rockcastle County Hospital and Central Kentucky Blood Center urge you to take time to donate. The simple process of donating blood will produce life-saving results for the community.

The following first appeared in the Mount Vernon Signal on December 23, 1887 (Note: At that time the Mount Vernon Signal was called the Mountain Signal). It was recently transcribed from microfilm produced by the University of Kentucky King Library of that issue of the Signal by Mrs. Cindy Durham Crawford of Batavia, Ohio. This information and other interesting things about Rockcastle County and Kentucky is available for browsing on the KyGenWeb/KyFootsteps site on the Internet. The URL is: <http://www.rootsweb.com/~kygenweb/kyfootsteps.html>. Search for Mt. Vernon in the search box. After you get to KyFootsteps site, then search for C.L. Crawford.

This article profiles the prominent professional and business people who were here just prior to the turn of the century. Perhaps you will find some of your ancestors among them.

J.W. NESBITT

A native of Canada, came to this country from Chicago, an agent and vice president of the Oley State Co. interest in Rockcastle, succeeding B. Geo. Prall, former manager for that company. After the Oleys withdrew their works from the county Mr. Vernon continued the business under his own name, which grew to large proportions, until two winters since when the weather was so bad and his works far from the railroad, it was impossible to do anything and having sold quantities of goods before with the expectation of getting timber. Today he is running a large business, shipping from four to eight cars per week. Quantities of his staves go to England, West Indies, Australia and South America. He recently purchased the timber on 1700 acres near town and has his mills and buckers turning out staves at a lively rate. From $600 to $1000 per month is being paid out to carpenters for labor, material, etc. He has just started another mill at the mouth of Skaggs Creek, this county.

ALBRIGHT & CO.

This house was established by J.H. Albright about thirteen years ago, at Brodhead. They have always carried a large trade in general merchandise, beginning with the late Dr. Fisher, gentleman and head of the firm Mr. Albright has been instrumental in building up his town in the various business ventures. The Brodhead tobacco factory, the Brodhead livery, which that they should feed, was put on foot and successfully operated by himself and R.S. Martin for several years when the establishment was purchased by Martin & Perkins. The Brodhead flouring mill was started and put on a good footing by Mr. Albright. School buildings, churches, etc., have received substantial benefits from him, in many ways, in fact, he has an enterprise or institution has been started in that thriving village but that Mr. Albright was generally found at the head of it. Sometime since the time of the misfortune to lose their store building with a large stock of goods, but with commendable enterprise for which the house is noted but a short time elapsed before they had up a new building and fully stocked with a full line of everything kept in a general store. Mr. Albright has a farm in Kansas on which he spends most of his time now. Thomas Cherry his clerk looks after his interest in the store.

MRS. J.W. NESBITT

Who has a class in music at her residence is a fine musician, understands all the principles thereof and is an accomplished and capable instructor either piano or organ. Few ladies are better skilled in the higher arts than Mrs. Nesbitt. Besides being a thorough musician, she possesses fine literary talents and as a poetess has no peer in this section of the state. Her musical accomplishments, coupled with her maternal duty make her peculiarly fitted for the position of preceptor in the highest and most ennobling of arts and her pupils, in that they attend to their duties, cannot be other than brilliant ornaments of the drawing room and social circles.

MRS. M.E. BROWN

Mrs. M.E. Brown has been in the military business for the past six years and keeps in stock a nice line of hats, trimmed and untrimmed; laces; millinery and notions generally. She is also our accommodating postmaster. Office is in a brick store room formerly owned by H. Carpenter. One cannot find what they wish in Mrs. Brown's assortment, they can easily get it by giving her a few days notice. In her management of the post office too much praise cannot be given her. Since she has had charge of the office a night mail has been established which is a great convenience to the business public. R.A. Brown is the efficient assistant.

The business house of L.B. Adams, who full page advertisement has appeared in our paper for the past month, was established in 1851 by Capt. Jack Adams, one of the pioneer merchants of Mt. Vernon. The sales during the thirty six years of his business life amount to over a million dollars. The captain went through the Mexican War with honor to himself and credit to his native county and state. A few years since he sold out his interest in the store to his son Jack, who in turn sold to L.B. Adams, eighteen months since. The business is under the management of Willis Adams, Jr., who has had experience in the mercantile business from his boyhood up. Willis is enterprising and goes to work with a vim. In his eighteen months since coming here, he has done a big business and has secured as customers a majority of the population through the county. County and state claims receive a share of his attention. As stated in the big ad they are closing out their stock at very low prices. Special bargains are being offered in such things as dry goods, prints, ginghams, flannels, linseys, ladies cloaks, gents furnishing goods, hats, caps, boots and shoes, hardware, harness and saddlery. In fact everything kept in a general store, all of which will go at a price to suit purchasers. Mr. Adams knows the value of printers work and his liberality in that line is very commendable, and ought to be contended for. He has been very successful and is satisfied with the results of his big ad in our paper and of course it is a pleasure to us to know that he is reaping the benefits of his investment in printers ink.

NEWCOMB HOTEL

Newcomb Hotel is located on the north east corner of Main and Broadhead streets. M.P. Newcomb proprietor. This large and commodious building was erected by the original proprietor in 1868. It is well furnished throughout. The old gentleman is yet spry, and waits upon his guests with his old time vim. His place is the commercial travelers headquarters in the city and is a pleasant laboratory. The preacher on his rounds with his bible, stops there, he is prepared to attend to their meals, and never go away hungry. A night porter is always on duty to wait upon travelers and show them to and from night trains. The cuisine is excellent, and the service is the best. The order of this paper (the writer of this article) avers that those who prepare the edibles are alike an adornment to the parlor or kitchen. Mr. Newcomb has a good sample room and has a splendid run of custom which he richly deserves.

DR. L.S. BURDETTE

Dr. Burdette located at Brodhead some ten years since. Is a graduate in his profession. He has a wide practice, not only locally, but has patients from all parts of Kentucky and many from other states. His specialty is in diseases of the eye and ear and as he is successful he has no superior in the state. Many patients who have been cured by him can gladly testify that they owe a debt of gratitude to the doctor for his wonderful success in the treatment of their cases.

DAVIS & WHITE

The firm of Davis & White is composed of W.A.B. Davis, who is from Pulaski County and followed school teaching for some years with success, afterwards entering the mercantile business at Wab about five miles south west of this place where he remained six months. Selling out to Geo. Livesay he, with James L. White, opened up a store in the store house formerly owned by J.T. Clark. Mr. White came here some years since from Lincoln County, was appointed deputy sheriff under H.H. White, which office he filled satisfactorily and at the August election of 1886 was elected to the office of sheriff of this county. The new firm was not long under headway before they had worked up a good business and today they have a big piece of the trade that comes to this place. Besides carrying a full line of dry goods, notions, boots, shoes, ladies cloaks, hats, caps, clothing, tinware, crockery, hardware, table cutlery, glassware, cigars, tobacco, harness, saddlery, nails, horse shoes, etc., they handle agricultural implements such as chile plows, hoes, rakes, Johnson's moving machines, wagons and the celebrated engine grain drills also, tilling for flues and salt by the car load. We notice they are with the procession and are prepared with a full supply of holiday goods for Christmas. They have just received 150 lbs. assorted candies, oranges, lemons, apples, etc., which will be found on hand during Christmas.

GRIFFIN & HANSEL
Griffin & Hansel, proprietors of the Mt. Vernon Mills. This mill was established by the senior partner, Willis Griffin in 1869. It is situated at the east end of Main Street near the old Tan Yard. They grind corn and wheat, card wool and deal in wheat and corn which are on hand at all times, including ship split, mill feed, wool and wool-waste wool, etc. A pleasant firm to deal with and customers receive proper treatment at their hands. Mr. Griffin was formerly police judge of our town.

M.J. MILLER

That old and well known house of M.J. Miller was established in 1848 by Krtley & Miller, in the old brick house where the Joplin House now stands. The firm changed to Carpenter & Miller, then to Smith & Miller, and afterwards to M.J. Miller and run for some years. Then Williams & Miller was the style of the firm up to 1863, when the firm was sold to the interest of his partner, J.J. Williams has run the business since in his own name. Mr. Miller was for some years county clerk of Rockcastle, before he went into the mercantile business and discharged the duties to the satisfaction of all. He has been an extensive tankard dealer and shipper, and has handled, we believe, as much or more in that article of commerce than any man in our county. He has commanded an immense trade for years and his influence among the people of the county is second to none. In fact, no important move is proposed or made in our county without the business ventures until Mill Miller is consulted as to the proper course to pursue and his advice is generally followed, and the result found satisfactory. In the last three years Mr. Miller has been talking of closing his store or turning over to his sons and taking a well earned rest, but he finds that after an active business life it is more difficult than he anticipated to give up the mercantile business and nearly half a century. He still keeps up his stock of general merchandise and is also agent for the Oliver chilled plow, of which he has sold many. For years after Mr. Miller began business, goods were hauled by wagon from Louisville at $1 per hundred. Many wagon loads of bacon were sent by him each year from the city and it is now the reverse. The bacon comes here from the city.

M.C. & D.N. WILLIAMS

The drug house of M.C. & D.N. Williams was established by Wm. Weber about twenty years ago and has done a large portion of the business in this city and affords the best to the present proprietors three years ago. M.C. Williams, the junior partner is manager of the store. By strict and close attention to business he has retained a big portion of the old firm's trade, besides gaining other customers. They keep a full line of first class drugs, paints, oils, varnishes and druggist sundries. A large and complete line of Christmas goods just received. Dressing cases, manicure sets, shaving sets, odor cases, infants sets, photo and auto-graph albums, dolls, china sets, milk sets, matchbox caps and saucers, toys of all descriptions, for children and adults, and since his death in 1886 the business has been conducted by Mr. Moore, with the assistance of Miss Kate, his daughter, who is clerk and manager of the business. Their establishments is nicely arranged and everything is as neat as a pin and it is a pleasure to deal with the polite accommodating clerk, Miss Kate. They keep in stock, coffee, tea, sugar, molasses, syrups, starch, spices, a big assortment of plain and fancy candies, flavoring extracts, canned goods, such as peaches, tomatoes, apples, beans, oysters, salmon, mackerel and sardines. Hominy, rice and oatmeal, rad, bacon, corned beef, wood, wood cases, hair, soda, soap, coal, oil, etc. Also lemons, oranges, dates, figs and a big lot of Christmas tricks, and numerous other articles kept in a first class grocery store.

MR. MOORE

Mr. Moore's is the only house in town that deals exclusively in groceries. The business was established some fifteen years since by J.W. Moore, a son of the present proprietor, and since his death in 1886 the business has been conducted by Mr. Moore, with the assistance of Miss Kate, his daughter, who is clerk and manager of the business. Their establishments is nicely arranged and everything is as neat as a pin and it is a pleasure to deal with the polite accommodating clerk, Miss Kate. They keep in stock, coffee, tea, sugar, molasses, syrups, starch, spices, a big assortment of plain and fancy candies, flavoring extracts, canned goods, such as peaches, tomatoes, apples, beans, oysters, salmon, mackerel and sardines. Hominy, rice and oatmeal, rad, bacon, corned beef, wood, wood cases, hair, soda, soap, coal, oil, etc. Also lemons, oranges, dates, figs and a big lot of Christmas tricks, and numerous other articles kept in a first class grocery store.

J.L. WHITEHEAD

The drug business of J.L. Whitehead is the oldest drug house in our place and was established by W.T. Brooks, sometime in the sixties, who afterwards sold to S.W. Brown and Willis Adams, who run it for some time under the style of Adams & Brown. It is now run by W.M. Weber, owning an opposition drug house across the street. J.L. Whitehead clerked for him for a time and purchased the business which has been run in his name since. Mr. Whitehead, after being in the business three or four years branched out and established another store at Williamsburg, leaving his brother C.L. Whitehead to manage the Mt. Vernon store. The business has made showing under his management and his house does a good business. As a pill maker and filler of prescriptions, he gives general satisfaction. Steve is somewhat of a humorist as will be seen in his ad: for quinine, mixer paints, and chewing gum, cuff buttons, rough on rats and perfumery, tobacco and shoe polish, etc. He has faith in the benefits to be derived from a liberal use of printers ink, as will be seen by glancing over our columns. Watches, clocks, jewelry, stationery, daily papers and books, combination safes, dressing cases, decorated china bisquit figures, and plug smoking sets, toys by the wheelbarrow load. This house keeps in stock at all times a full line of pure drugs and prescriptions with care all the year day or night.

J.E. ALLEN

J.E. Allen undertaker and cabinet workman came from Virginia to this place in 1868 and immediately opened up in the above line of business. His shop is located on Brooks Street and M Avenue, where a good assortment of coffins, caskets, burial robes, linen, cuffs, etc., at prices to suit all. Orders by telegraph or express prompt attention given. Customers will find Mr. Allen always at his shop ready to wait upon them on short notice. There's no necessity to send off to other towns for goods in his line. It is to our justice to at least examine his stock before sending orders. Patronize home institutions and enterprises thereby keeping money in circulation in our town instead of sending elsewhere when you can do well at home.

GEORGE LIVESAY & SON

George Livesay and W.D. Livesay compose the firm of Geo. Livesay & Son. At Wab a post office six miles south of this place. Their principal business has been carried on by them since. They carry a good stock of general merchandise, consisting of dry goods, groceries, boots, shoes, hats, caps, hardware, nails, horse-shoes, tinware, queensware, etc., which they sell at low prices as can be seen by the immense quantities of produce they ship from this point for which they exchange goods. They have shipped more eggs than any house we know of in the county. The junior partner was lately married.

C.W. & J.W. PING

C.W. & J.W. Ping, whose stores is at the old stand formerly run by C.W. Adams, was established four years since by C.W. Ping, who came here from Pulaski County. They deal in dry goods, clothing, hats, caps, boots, shoes, hardware including horse shoes, nails, metal, flour, bacon, potatoes, oysters and other canned goods, cigars and tobacco and general groceries. They have a good run of trade and are increasing their stock as the occasion requires. The oldest partner is present traveling for a Louisville house.

JUDGE JAMES G. CARTER

Judge James G. Carter, was born September 20, 1821 in Clinton County, Ohio. Read law under Thomas Corwin of that state. Moved to Kentucky in 1850, and was admitted to the bar in 1851 in Campbell County. He has by Judge Walker, Reed and Ryan. He moved to Rockcastle County in June 1863. He was county attorney eight years and has presided as circuit judge pro tem in various sessions and cases. He sat on the bench when Tom Adams was sentenced to be hanged for attempted rape, some twenty years since. The Judge is a genial old gentleman, and has a host of friends and has enjoyed a good practice at this bar. He lives on a snug little farm at Cummins station, five miles west of this place, from which he comes to town on the train about twice each week: At one time just after the rails were laid to this place, the Judge had a wooden hut constructed which he used for a time, but concluded it was too much up hill work to run it, so he abandoned it. Judge Carter is one of the brightest Masons in Kentucky and he takes great interest in that order. Sam M. Burdett was a law partner of the Judge's for some years at his place and the firm of Carter & Burdett had a big practice.

D.G. A.G. LOVELL

Dr. A.G. Lovell is a native of Bedford, Indiana. Coming here about nine years since where he and J.L. Whitehead, carried on a successful school in the building now occupied by S.L. Whitehead. The doctor had been reading medicine for a time before coming to this place. After some years teaching, he attended lectures at a medical college in Louisville where he received his diploma. Returning here he soon built up a lucrative practice. Thinking he would like city practice he moved to Louisville something over a year since where he soon had a good practice but he concluded he loved the mountains best, returned here a few months since and is fast regaining his old practice. Dr. Lovell is very unassuming man, not prone to boast of his abilities at any time or place, but it is nevertheless a fact that he has few equals and no superiors in his profession in this section of the state and moreover, his entire time is devoted to medicine and he makes a study of it in all its phases.

"It Is Written"

Today we would like to begin a study of the work of the church. God has given the church a work to do, and it is the fold in the world. We shall see from a study of the New Testament, that the church in the first century was involved in evangelism, edification, and benevolence toward needy saints.

Let us look at the work of evangelism. The word evangelism carries the idea of preaching the good news, spreading the gospel. In 1 Thessalonians 1:8, "For you sounded out the word of the Lord not only in Macedonia and Achaia, but also in every place your faith to Godward is spread abroad; so that we need not to speak any thing." The phrase "sounded out" carries the idea of trumpeting forth the word of God. This is what evangelism is all about. Also in Philippians 1:5, Paul spoke about the church there supporting him in the work of spreading the gospel. "For your fellowship in the gospel from the first day until now." Philippians 4:14-16, "Notwithstanding ye have well done, that ye did communicate with my affliction. Now ye Philippians know also, that in the beginning of the gospel, when I departed from Macedonia, no church communicated with me as concerning giving and receiving, but ye only. For even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto my necessity." Yes the church is to spread the gospel according to its ability.
