Jury recommends death for McKinney

A six man, six woman jury last week recommended that the man they found guilty of the day before murdering his wife and stepchildren be sentenced to death for the crimes. This is the first time in memory that a triple death sentence has been recommended by a jury for a Rockcastle County resident. The jury, instructed by Judge Daniel Venters to consider four possible sentencing choices, recommended the most severe punishment for 31-year-old Gary Casper McKinney of Rockcastle County. The panel unanimously recommended that McKinney be sentenced to death on all three counts of murder in connection with the shooting deaths of 79-year-old Shirley Bowles McKinney, 11-year-old Brian Lee Bowles and 3-year-old Amy Michele Bowles. The recommended sentence was pronounced by the jury at 3:37 p.m. about an hour and a half after the panel began deliberations. Venters read aloud the recommended sentence of death on Counts 1 and 3 of the indictment regarding the charges of murder in connection with the deaths of Amy Bowles and Shirley McKinney. The circuit judge was unable to read the jury's recommended sentence in connection with

Count 2 regarding the murder charge in Brian Bowles' death because he said part of the form had not been completed properly. He asked the jury to return to the deliberating room and briefly complete the form. The third and final recommended sentence of death was read by Venters shortly thereafter. Jury sentencing on the other five charges listed in the indictment were waived, Venters announced. McKinney also was charged with second-degree arson, tampering with physical evidence and three counts of abuse of a corpse. The charred bodies of the three victims were found inside a four-room house destroyed by fire April 2, 1995, in rural Pulaski County. Gary and Shirley McKinney, married for about a month, had moved from Rockcastle County to the Poplar Hollow Road house in northeastern Pulaski County a few days after their marriage. McKinney, who sat most of the time during the two-week trial with his head bowed and eyes cast downward, appeared to show some emotion when his family testified on his behalf during the sentencing portion last Thursday. McKinney's family wept throughout the proceeding, and several members had to leave the courtroom when the recommended sentence was read. Two of his sisters wept softly on the stand while making a plea for the jury to spare their brother's life. Members of Shirley Bowles' family also shed tears when assistant attorney general Michael Wright talked about the things Amy, Brian and Shirley would not be able to do because their lives had been snuffed out by a bullet. Formal sentencing for McKinney is scheduled for September 21 at 9 a.m. in Pulaski Circuit Court. (Cont. to A14)

Gary McKinney was convicted of three counts of murder.

School board requests audit of curriculum at RCHS

By: Richard Andrenkin The fact that the Rockcastle County Board of Education took no action on a request by the Site Based Council at RCHS last Tuesday - has the council scurrying to take action of their own. The council had asked the board to abolish driver's education and create a math position. But Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond recommended that the board table the item until the high school does a complete audit of their curriculum. "I think it would be beneficial to all students and even the staff at RCHS to take time to look at the current needs of the student body and to get input from all staff members at the school on their curriculum," Hammond said Tuesday. "In their motion not to abolish or create anything at this time, the board asked for additional supportive information for the request," Hammond said. The board discussed the school's curriculum and student ratio at length with RCHS assistant principals Ruth Allen and Barry Noble. Principal Ronnie Cash was out of town and unable to attend. The board also questioned why such an important request was made only a few weeks before school is to begin. Hammond said the board was also concerned about the apparent absence of in depth research and input from the RCHS council which should represent the needs of everyone when it comes to classes offered and the number of students in each class. The superintendent said the board was also concerned that some classes at RCHS had more than 20 students in them, although there were plenty of teachers on staff that would alleviate any overcrowding. RCHS principal Ronnie Cash said Wednesday that his council was currently taking the necessary steps to get a complete curriculum audit before school starts. "With the help of the board, a curriculum consultant will meet with our staff on Tuesday, July 28 to help us determine our needs and if indeed we have any 'fat' in our curriculum," Cash said. Part of the school's curriculum and staffing was criticized by one teacher earlier this year at a SBDM meeting, who said some teachers were not pulling their weight at the school. "There were some comments made about our in-school detention program, but we have a very safe school and that is one of the reasons, those teachers do a good job," Cash said. However, the principal said that each staff member would be notified of the meeting so they could give input on the school's curriculum. (Cont. to A14)

Local doctor sued by former patient

A Mt. Vernon doctor and 26 pharmaceutical companies have been sued in Rockcastle Circuit Court. Last week, Linda Potter, of McKee, sued Dr. James A. Cunningham and the pharmaceutical companies for an unspecified amount of damages, in connection with the use of weight loss drugs. Dr. Cunningham has been practicing medicine in Rockcastle County since 1993 and has operated the Mount Vernon Weight Loss Center for the past five years. Mrs. Potter alleges in her suit that Dr. Cunningham prescribed and provided pharmaceuticals which contained fenfluramine, phentermine, (fen-phen) and dexfenfluramine, or a combination after she became a patient at the Weight Loss Center in June of 1996. Potter claims in her suit that in (Cont. to A14) Prisoners are gone Rockcastle County Jailor Joe Howard has gone along with the wishes of the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court and cut his staff from 12 to three. ## $6 million water project underway

Financing for the City of Mt. Vernon's $6 million water project is completed, according to Mayor Gary Cromer. The last piece of the financing came about through the sale of $1.7 million in Farmers Home Administration (FHA) bonds at 4 1/2%. The private issue bond sale of over $3 million was completed earlier at an excellent 5 1/4% rate, Cromer added. The rest of the six million will come from grant money from Rural Development and the state. The project is divided into three phases - the laying of new and bigger water lines which for one thing will help improve volume and pressure to the water districts served by the city system, a new water tank to be constructed on property donated by Clarence Carter across from McDonald's and the renovation and expansion of the water plant. The expansion project will double the plant's capacity to 4 million gallons daily

A major part of the $6 million water project is to totally renovate and expand the current water plant at Renfro Valley.

Points East

By: Ike Adams

When summer camping season winds down at the Christian Appalachian Project's camps in Jackson, Floyd and Lawrence counties, more than 1,100 Appalachian children will have spent a week enjoying everything from chemistry to crafts, swimming to singing, nature to nurture and a host of other activities they will remember the rest of their lives.

Last week I spent an afternoon at Camp Shawnee, CAP's camp on Dewey Lake near Prestonsburg and Jenny Wiley State Park. I like to visit Camp Shawnee frequently because it played such a major role in my life through my college years. From mid-May till the end of August I lived there in the summers of 1968 through 1971. And when I was there last week among 50 or so teen-age boys it was like the last 30 years of my life were no more than a moment and I had traveled back in time.

The camp was owned by the Boy Scouts of America when I was there and much more primitive than it is now. Campers lived in old army tents mounted on wooden platforms and they were more akin to saunas than sleeping quarters this time of year. There were two commodes with running water on the entire premises, one for the cook and one for the caretaker. We used "larrines" as they were called in the old days and lined them down every night.

Shower facilities consisted of black rubber hoses with faucets on the end installed at each of nine campsites and gravity fed from a huge cedar water tank on the mountain above camp. Usually the hose was clamped to a tree limb and the shower stall itself consisted of a piece of canvas draped around four tent poles. Cooooooooold. Pumping water from the lake to a purifying station and then up the mountain to the storage tank involved machinery that had to be fixed daily.

There were only three buildings on the premises which consisted of several hundred acres leased from the Army Corps of Engineers and the National Forest Service. There was a small caretaker's/scout masters' cabin, a small chapel and a lodge/kitchen that could accommodate around 100 campers at meal time. In it's heyday, we might have so many campers that they had to eat in two shifts.

Camp Shawnee was built in 1950 and 1951, meaning a road was constructed around the side of the mountain and some campsites graded out so that they were flat enough to pitch a tent on. The buildings were constructed in 1955 and 56 and an Olympic size swimming pool was constructed in the late fifties. However the 1963 flood destroyed the pool and by the time I arrived on the scene what had been one of the classiest swimming and water skills training facilities in the state was mostly buried.

For a number of reasons, mostly related to economics, scouting began to decline in the late sixties. Large coal companies that provided much of the financial support to keep the camp and the Scout Council going were dropping like flies in the last 23 Kentucky and three Virginia counties served by Camp Shawnee. In the summer of 1971, we need 1,500 campers to break even on expenses and we had about half that. On top of that the water system needed a $30,000 repair job. And so the camp was closed in 1973 for anything other than weekend camping.

If Father Ralph Beiting had not discovered the facility in the early eighties, there probably wouldn't be much sign of it these days. Under Father Beiting's leadership has been rebuilt far beyond it's original utility. The lodge has been renovated and the chapel is used daily. The old caretaker's cabin has been torn down and a new building now houses the camp director's office and living quarters for some of the staff. Modern dormitories have replaced the old camp sites and a new house has been built to house the caretaker and his family year round.

A new swimming pool has been built along with a new boat dock on the lake. There's a softball field, volleyball and basketball courts. There's a running water (hot and cold) in abundance and most of the buildings are air conditioned. The place teems with wildlife. White-tail deer, wild turkeys, rabbits, squirrels, snakes, frogs and numerous other species are everywhere.

Since the late eighties the Christ-goe novels of this century. They claimed objectivity. A horde of others and I doubt that.

For one thing, the committee of ten had only one woman. And of the one hundred authors chosen only eight were women. (Southern Baptists at Random House?) One of the best novels you will ever read is Alice Walker's The Color Purple. It didn't make the list.

Another book, equally as good as Walker's novel, written by a Wabdonian writer, Hesterbell Armaday, didn't make the list. Truth be told, her monumental story, Two Women from Wab, wasn't even considered by the committee!

Two Women from Wab tells of the plight and peril of Elle Jones and Kathleen Kirtse, college graduates who joined the Serve-A-Year Graduate Corp in the late forties. They alone survive a train wreck in the depth of the Nigerian jungle and begin a hundred mile trek back to the safety of camp quarters. The novel is a testimony to the willpower of Wabdonian women.

Elle and Kathleen, after being hedgehopped by a boatload of drunken witch doctors returning from a convention in Congo, manage to keep their sanity and respect for each other in tact through the frightening and dangerous trials of the wild until they reach civilization. You may remember the movie version of the book, Two Women. (Wabdonians protested the shortening of the title - to no avail.) The voluptuous and enchanting Sophia Loren, who played the part of Elle, won an Oscar for Best Actress in a Leading Role (1960).

And ask you, beloved, why was that book shunned? We Wabdonians know. It's the ol' anti-Wab demon at work again. You've heard it, so have I - "Can anything good come out of Wab?"

It's just another manifestation of Pulaskianite jealousy that has been at work ever since Vivien Leigh got the part of Scarlett in the movie, Gone with the Wind, back in the late thirties. People in Pulaski County wanted their part to go to Claudette Colbert, whose uncle on her step-mother's side once ran a hostelry in Somerset.

But Vivien got the part! And Vivien's second cousin on her father's side, Gividen, married Agnes Ersooby, who was born and reared right here in our blessed Wab!

The Pulaskianites just couldn't abide our connection with fame. So they commenced their anti-Wab hoopla, and they continue to this day. You can bet your bottom dollar that some Pulaskianites had some pull with Random House and saw to it that Two Women from Wab was never mentioned in the committee discussion.

I do agree, however, with the editorial board's choice for number one. It is Ulysses by James Joyce. That splendid, stream-of-consciousness story recounts a single day in the life of a group of Dubliners. And the number three choice was Joyce's A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man. Furthermore, Joyce's Finnegans Wake came in at slot seventy-seven. (Some scholars say this work surpasses Ulysses.)

A few other selected novels, which may be popular because they were made into movies, were: The Great Gatsby by F. Scott Fitzgerald (2); Tobacco Road by Erskine Caldwell (9); From Here to Eternity by James Jones (52); The Sound and the Fury by William Faulkner (6); A Farewell to Arms by Ernest Hemingway (74); Sophie's Choice by William Styron (96); and, one of my favorites, The Grapes of Wrath by John Steinbeck (10).

A-mercy! Hollywood really screwed up the ending of The Grapes of Wrath, which in turn diminished the real intent of Steinbeck folks, don't think that you know a book if you've only seen the movie version.

Most of all, beloved, I'm personally offended by the 100 book's failure to consider my biblical novel, To Shake a Skekel out of a Skeik, which is the story of a parsimonious seminary professor of archaeology. B.

HERESAY

By: John Norman Meadows

Precious souls, children of an evil age, greetings and disquisitions from the blistering, summery climes of dear Wab, birthplace of the late Sylvia

Trusseloff Wenchover, long-time Superintendent of the Greater Wabdonian Museum of Art and Agriculture, and part-time spokes lady on behalf of SUSAW (Sisters United to Save the Allegheny Woodrat), who said, "It's a lot easier to form an opinion if you don't have all the facts."

Ah, Sylvia, I know what you mean. Being a minister meant putting up with a heap of equine excrement without telling the dispenser of such that he or she was full of Shinola. But, bless Bess, now that I am no longer a man of the cloth, I don't tolerate even a smidgin of it (especially political and religious Shinola), which may partially explain my reclusive existence.

But oh, beloved, let's not meddle in that morass. The Nazarene said, "Ye have the poor with you always." He would have added "and the opinionated." I don't fully understand such folk, but I do know that they will give you their views - whether or not you ask for them - and aren't apt to say, "I'd be interested to know what you think?"

Instead, dear hearts, let me bring you up to date on some literary hoo-doo that has really piqued a passel of Wabdonians. Let me explain.

The editorial board of The Modern Library, a long-standing division of Random House, selected a committee of ten scholars and writers to create a list of the best 100 English-lan-

Blue Mold threat continues

Agriculture Commissioner Billy Smith announced that blue mold continues to threaten this year's tobacco crop. "To date, there are 87 counties with confirmed cases of blue mold and the disease is now threatening the eastern part of the state," said Smith. Foggy, low-lying areas are at increased risk for blue mold development this week. The entire state is still under a blue mold watch and warning areas include northern, central and eastern Kentucky.

"I urge farmers to destroy all abandoned plant beds and unwanted plants immediately. These areas are staging grounds that encourage blue mold's spread," said Smith.

Smith added that in order to control the problem, farmers should continue spraying Acrobat MZ according to label guidelines, and consult their county extension agents when new developments occur.

Blue mold has been detected in the following counties: Adair, Allen, Anderson, Barren, Bath, Bracken, Breckinridge, Boone, Bourbon, Boyle, Butler, Caldwell, Calloway, Carlisle, Carroll, Carter, Casey, Christian, Clark, Clinton, Cumberland, Daviess, Edmonson, Elliott, Estill, Fayette, Fleming, Franklin, Gallatin, Garrard, Graves, Grayson, Green, Greenson, Hancock, Hardin, Harrison, Hart, Henderson, Henry, Hopkins, Jackson, Jessamine, Letcher, Lewis, Lincoln, Logan, Lyon, Madison,

Child Abuse...A Matter of Fact

By Peter O. Samples, State Chairman
There Are Different Forms of Abuse

Child abuse represents an action against a child. It is an act of commission. Generally, child abuse is categorized as physical, sexual and emotional. To be more specific, CHILD PHYSICAL ABUSE is the non-accidental injury of any act of CHILD SEXUAL ABUSE is any act of a sexual nature upon or with a child. The act may be for the sexual gratification of the perpetrator or a third party. This does, therefore, include not only anyone who actively participates in the sexual activity, but anyone who allows or encourages it. CHILD EMOTIONAL ABUSE is defined as the chronic attitude or acts which interfere with the psychological and social development of a child. Each of us probably is guilty of having unkindly snubbed a child or perhaps criticized a child too harshly, but CHILD EMOTIONAL ABUSE is consistent and chronic behavior. It usually is related to a constellation of interactions and is cumulative.

Fairview News

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

On this cool Monday morning, July 20th we are getting a nice gentle rain, following a thunder storm and strong winds earlier. But, as I've said many times, God is so good to us and blesses us in so many different ways. I realize there is so many disasters happening in our world but that is (I feel) because of our disobedience. How many people do you see today that truly love and respect God? They want His blessing but they don't want to hear His name mentioned. We all need to know and understand that He is in control and can do anything He wants to do. How do we feel when we do some good deed for someone and never get thanks for it? I'm sure God feels the same way and now is showing us what He can do. We, as Christians need to read II Chronicles 7:14 and abide by it. More money will not solve our problems, until people decide that they want to change and live a better life, our problems will remain the same.

Rev. Harvey Pensol conducted worship services at Fairview over the weekend with good attendance. 151 persons attended Sunday School. Thank the Lord.

One young lady was baptized Sunday night. We welcome her into our fellowship.

Recent guests at the home of Mrs. Mary Cole have been her children, Christine Barnett and Helen Powell of Berea and Mr. and Mrs. Frankie Hayes and grandson, of Winchester. Mrs. Carol Knapp and daughter, Mrs. Johanne Harwood and three children of Ohio visited Carol's sister, Phoebe Sarah in Berea over the weekend. On Sunday evening they all visited in our home, and also visited Mr. and Mrs. Tip Reppert.

Our three daughters also visited us Sunday afternoon, Janet Ridgell, Joyce Seals and Darlene Abney and daughter. Our son, Wayne and wife, Carolyn visited with us on Saturday. Aunt Edith Mullins of Snider celebrated her 98th birthday on July 2nd. Guests for the occasion were her children, grandchildren and others. Cake and ice cream were served.

Poet's Corner

Illegal Dumping
By Preston Parrett
The beauty of the countryside
Was being spoiled by many an illegal dump.
That's when the state stepped in
And they played their trump.

They called on our Judge Exec.
Whose name was Buzz,
For when he caught someone dumping.
He'd report it to the fuzz.

The state set up cameras
With a wide angle view.
So when you went to take a dump
They'd have a picture of you.

The cameras were spread around
Wherever the state took a notion,
And they were all motioned
Whenever there was motion.

So when you enter an illegal site
Don't let your briches down.
For the cameras will be rolling
Before the first load hits the ground.

And when you go to court
There's no use to whine and bawl.
For they'll get their tape out
And show your butt on the courthouse wall.

Aunt Edith, we wish for you this coming year good health and happiness. You are such a dear sweet lady and loved by everyone who knows you.

Rev. and Mrs. Johnathan Lewis of Pineville visited her mother, Mrs. Janet Ridgell and family Sunday.

Some of our recent guests have been Mr. and Mrs. Buddy Gabbard and Gail; Mrs. Nancy Williams; Mr. James Lambert; Tip Reppert and Mr. and Mrs. Nicky Chasteen.

My news is rather short this time, maybe more next time. It is difficult to gather it up sometimes. So until next time take care and God bless you.

The sun breaks through the clouds
And starts drying up the soil,
Then he gets out his plows
And begins to labor and toil.

From can see to can't see
He works at a furious pace,
To get the soil prepared
And plants and seeds in their place.

Throughout the growing season
He keeps an eye on the sky,
For when rainfall is short
Plants begin to wither and die.

Leaves begin to curl
And everything is hot and dry,
Dust is flying everywhere
And there's a pallor in the sky.

Leaves and blades turn yellow
Then plant growth slows down,
And on the farmer's face
There is a worried frown.

At the local churches
They offer up a prodigious prayer,
Asking the good Lord's mercy
And to send down a shower.

All through the season
Before green turns to harvest gold,
He has to worry about insects
And the potential enemy blue mold.

Yes, farmers are optimistic
And they're always full of hope,
But many things keep them
Walking on a tight rope.

Jeremy Shuwall, who solicits a bundle of money to finance a dig in "Phoenicia" where, according to ancient scrolls, the skeletal remains of the fish that swallowed Jonah are preserved in a temple that was turned under during a mighty earthquake. The plot thickens when, during the dig, B.J., who has an eye for femme fatales as well as a pluribus unum, is trapped over night in a well with Sally Goforth, a curvaceous student digger. (You'll have to buy my book to learn the rest of the story.)

Alack and alas, dear hearts, I have much more to tell you, but my maniacal lunatic insists I quit. So, until next week, the Almighty willing, give a measure of ponderation to the words of Luther "Scat" Shipwiler, long-time molasses maker, and part-time peddler of Duvelier's Home Labotomy Kits, who asked, "If you try to fail and succeed, which have you done?"

Himmum...

Appalachian Project has provided high quality, week-long, camping experiences to several thousand kids who wouldn't otherwise have been able to afford to go to summer camp. The fee is $5.00 a week and those who can't afford even that are enabled to work something out.

The camp is staffed by a full time manager and in the summer volunteers, mostly college students, from all over the country serve as counselors at Camp Shawnee, basically working for room and board. In the off season school groups, scout troops, churches and other organizations utilize the camp for retreats, seminars and general recreation.

Still, though when I drove by the fishing pond last week and watched a couple of counselors showing a group of young boys how to tie on hooks, stick them through redworms and take bluegill off the hook it was as if nothing at all had changed. It was a moment that could have happened almost exactly the same way 30 years ago. Thank you Christian Appalachian Project for keeping this place alive and important.

In Loving Memory

In Loving Memory of My Angel of Laughter,
Wesley Mays
Died July 25, 1998
He's gone but never forgotten. His love and kindness will remain. He gave us precious memories. And loved us all the same.

Although he's not here in body, He's always here in heart. He was the greatest man we knew. I'm sad that we're apart.

"It's the best medicine," he said. It makes life not so tuff. That's laughter you know And, "Don't sweat the small stuff."

His wisdom we understood. His love we accepted, please. His laughter kept us all aloft. He gave it all with such ease.

A year has come and gone, And we miss you so much. But can feel, comfort in knowing, You are taking care of things and such.

We miss and love you, Darlena, Sabrina and Jodi

Card of Thanks

Marvin Bowling
The family of Marvin Bowling wishes to thank all their friends for their kind words of comfort, flowers, food and cards. We want to especially thank his school classmates for their kindness and a special thanks to Kathy Bond. A special thanks to Dorell and Martin Funeral Home and a big heartfelt thanks to Bro. attention has focused on bluegrass gospel music. While I always knew the famous "I'll Fly Away," I have now learned, "Using My Bible for a Roadmap" and "The Fourth Man." My dream was to sing bluegrass gospel, backed up by a banjo, fiddle and guitar.

This past Saturday the Master Musicians' Festival was held in Somerset. This annual event brings musicians of every kind together for a weekend of music. One group this year was the McClain Brothers' Band, a bluegrass band from Berea. For years the group had been called the McClain Family Band, but Dad is now retired and his two sons are in charge.

After their part on the program, the McClains set up under a tent away from the main stage and began playing. The crowd that gathered around them was only 15-20 people, with me in their midst. I requested "Mountain Railroad" (an old bluegrass gospel song) and they sang the first verse. None of them knew the second verse, so one of them asked me if I knew it.

Here it was! My moment had come! With the McClain Brothers' Band playing singing harmony, I sang the second verse and chorus. Here I was, singing bluegrass, backed by a bluegrass band. Their picking and beautiful harmony made my singing sound almost passable. The total elapsed time was probably 45 seconds, but that is OK. I fulfilled my dream.

Don't Forget to Dream
Saturday I had one of those blissful moments that comes only too rarely. My dream came true!

You have probably had one of those moments too, a time when something you had wanted for a long time becomes possible and you did it! Perhaps it was a new job, a difficult problem to solve or a new home. Or perhaps it was an achievement by one of your children that made you extra proud. My children have given me some of those moments this summer.

Or perhaps you fulfilled a dream that you had for a long time. Dreams are very personal, and sometimes do seem insignificant to others. What others think of your dream is not important. What you think of your dream is the crucial fact.

Some people are afraid to dream. "Too much of a chance of disappointment," they might say. Others feel their dreams are silly. "People would laugh at me," they say.

David's dream was to get his GED. (All characters in this column are fictitious, except me.) He didn't tell many people about his dream. "They wouldn't believe I could do it," he told me. "Most people don't think I'm very smart." David had his GED in less than a year.

Dotty's dream was simple: she wanted to go on a cruise. Many of her friends had been but she never had the money to go. Until, that is, a distant relative left her a small inheritance. The money was just enough to pay for her cruise. "It was a dream come true," she told everyone.

Marilyn hasn't gotten her dream yet, but she is still dreaming. Her dream is to own a franchise for the fast food restaurant where she works. She works all the overtime she can get and saves the money. Her parents have promised to help her finance her dream. There is still not enough cash, "but I'm closer than I was six months ago," she says. "I will probably have to move," she told me, "because this area is saturated with franchises. But I'm willing to move. I just want my own place," she declares.

So what was my dream that was fulfilled on Saturday, you ask. I have been a fan of bluegrass music for a long time. In the last several years my

"It Is Written"

We continue our study of the work of the church. Thus far we have seen the church is to be involved in evangelism, and edification

Today we will notice that the work of the church is benevolence toward needy saints. In Acts 11:28-30, "And there stood up one of them named Agabus, and signified by the Spirit that there should be great dearth throughout all the world: which came to pass in the days of Claudius Caesar. Then the disciples, every man according to his ability, determined to send relief unto the brethren which dwelt in Judaea: Which also they did, and sent it to the elders by the hands of Barnabas and Saul." In Romans 15:25-26, "But now I go into Jerusalem to minister unto the saints. For it hath pleased them of Macedonia and Achaia to make a certain contribution for the poor saints which are at Jerusalem." Also, in II Cor 8 Paul speaks about the Macedonian's work to help the needy saints, "For to their power, I bear record, yea, and beyond their power they were willing of themselves: Praying us with much entreaty that we would receive the gift, and take upon us the fellowship of the ministering to the saints." Finally, let's notice I Timothy 5:16, "If any man or woman that believeth have widows, let them relieve them, and let not the church be charged, that it may relieve them that are widows indeed." Yes, the church is charged to help needy saints in benevolent aid.

Library News

By Geraldine Robbins

I want to remind all of our patrons that the library will be closed for two weeks for inventory beginning August 10th. It is with regret that we have to close but it is impossible to do an inventory with books going out and coming in. We want to see just how many books we really have in the library. We are working toward that big step of automation.

The library board of trustees will soon be hiring a new children's services librarian since Ms. Betty has resigned her position. This is a very important position in the library. Children are our future and we want to keep them interested in reading and enjoying the services of the library. If they lose interest in the library when they are young, it's hard to get them interested when they get older. We like to work with the schools in promoting programs and helping with assignments with books and via the internet. Mrs. Betty has done an excellent job and we want this to continue. See our ad for employment in another section of this week's paper.

To continue with the introduction of our library staff members we have Carolyn Jones (Carol) who has worked with us since September 1997.

Except for the nearly seven years she and her husband Don resided in southern California, they have always lived in Rockcastle County. In addition to her role of wife and mother, Carol has worn many hats over the past twenty-five years: manufacturing, nursing home, post office, and substitute teacher, to name a few. But she claims library work is her favorite job. Her husband is one of our rural mail carriers in Rockcastle County.

During the past ten years Carol has earned a Bachelor's degree in English at Eastern Kentucky University and hopes to use it one day to do some creative writing. She and Don have two children, Donald Harper Jones of Seattle, Washington and Heather Alexandra Scarborough, recently of Seattle, but soon-to-be resident of Los Angeles, California. Son, Don has alternately worked with computers and taught at University of Seattle, while Heather, alongside her job, is a working actress toward that infamous "big break."

In her leisure time, Carol loves to read, garden, walk and cavort with their two dogs and five cats.

I hope many of you have noticed our "new" bookmobile. To us it is new and we hope to continue giving our patrons this special service for many years to come. Thanks go to Pam for getting all those odd jobs done to the bookmobile in getting it ready for service and especially we want to thank our regional librarian, David Wilder and the Kentucky Department of Libraries for getting this bookmobile for our library.

Some new books now available for our patrons are: A Historical novel... ..COAST ROAD by Barbara Delinsky... ..AMERICAN DREAMS by John James... ..POINT OF ORIGIN by Patricia justice in her thrilling and complex new novel. A gripping story that pits Kay Scarpeta, Virginia's Chief Medical Examiner, against an audacious and wily killer who uses fire to mask his crimes... ..COAST ROAD by Barbara Delinsky... ..AMERICAN DREAMS by John James... ..POINT OF ORIGIN by Patricia place on an international stage as the children of the German-immigrant Crown family prepare themselves for the excitement of a new century.

Corps of Discovery '98 travels west for 19 days

By Sergeant Major Keith Taylor

This is a continuation of last week's article in the Signal of the Return of the Corps of Discovery from their adventure west. This is a day to day recount of their adventure including photos.

Students and chaperones going on the trip were: SGM Keith Taylor, Mrs. Jenny Taylor, Melissa Looney, Julie Burdette, Kathy Mullins, Jessica Childress, Tami Taylor, Chris Phillips, William Leger, Robert Payne, Joe Clark, Joe Gigold, Eugene Robinson, Kristen Cobb, John Abrams, LeeAnn Frith, Carolyn Griffin, Kyle Fletcher, Miranda Seiber and Adrian Isaacs.

Day 1 through 3. The first three days of the journey West were highlighted by a visit to the St. Louis Arch in Missouri. While camping at the Lewis & Clark S.P. in Iowa, we viewed replicas of the original keelboat and pirogues used by Lewis and Clark during their expedition and visited the monument of Sergeant Floyd who was the only member of the expedition who died in 1804 on the trip West. Up to this point the terrain and vegetation was basically the same as that found here in Kentucky, maybe a little flatter.

Upon entering South Dakota the scenery changed. Vegetation gave way to vast expanses of open farmland, with the majority of trees being deliberately planted and cultivated for the purpose of blocking the winds which we began to experience. All in all the terrain was uninteresting. This changed drastically as we crested a long hill and found ourselves overlooking a beautiful reservoir formed by a dam across the Missouri River. We spent our third night camped on a hill overlooking this beautiful view in Snake Creek State Recreation Area. While here, we celebrated the 16th birthday of team member, Jessica Childress with a cake, including candles and balloons.

Day 4. The next day was filled with beautiful scenery as we traveled up the Missouri River, with canyons and rugged hills. We toured an 1880's Prairie Town site near Murdo, which was filled with buildings transported from all over the state, filled with items used by homesteaders from South Dakota's early days. After that we traveled a short distance to a 'town' full of tame prairie dogs. Many of the students were able to coax some of the animals close enough to touch. For some reason, Newt Robinson and Joe Gigold were unable to get too close to the critters. (Maybe prairie dogs are more intelligent than most people give them credit for.)

After we left the prairie dog town we stopped to allow the kids to fly on a H13 Helicopter for a short flight over the Badlands of South Dakota. For many this was their first helicopter ride and their first view of the Badlands. It is difficult to describe the Badlands to those who have never actually seen them. Photographs can never capture the sheer size and desolation of the Badlands National Park.

After supper, (spaghetti dinner) we celebrated another birthday, the 15th birthday of Chris Phillips with cake, candles and balloons. Camp was set up that night just in time to allow the group to visit the gift shop as a tremendous thunderstorm rolled through the area. After the storm we found that our camp was secure, while many tents belonging to other visitors were scattered around.

Day 5. After visiting the gift shop and visitors center we bussed out to Heck Table in the Buffalo Gap National Grasslands. Students and Jenny were off-loaded in one location and the bus was relocated along the road with the assistance of my mother and father who accompanied the group. Upon rejoining the students, the group was divided into three separate groups, which then hiked 6-miles across the prairie, traversing hills, cactus and broken ground, rejoining periodically at predetermined landmarks along the way. Did I mention the mosquitoes? Until finally, the bus was spotted far off in the distance. On reaching the bus, most students emptied the remaining water in their canteens over their heads trying to gain a little relief from the heat.

The remainder of the day was spent taking showers, swimming in the pool and eating buffalo burgers at the campground of friends located just outside the National Park entrance. That night we attended an interpretive talk about the importance of water and the people who inhabited the area before the white man came.

Day 6. After a big breakfast, we went into the town of Wall, South Dakota, where we did laundry for 20, toured Wall Drug, and visited the Buffalo Gap National Grasslands Headquarters. On the way into Wall, we stopped and talked with paleontologists at a site where they are recovering the bones of one of the many dinosaurs which have been found in the area.

That night, Jenny accompanied the majority of the students on a midnight walk along the road above the visitors center, where Kristen Cobb counted twenty-seven shooting stars and Adrian Isaacs counted four satellites while enjoying the night sounds and the gentle wind of the Badlands.

After breakfast we broke camp and departed the Badlands. After stopping at Ellsworth Air Force Base, we stopped in the base exchange and ate pizza. We went to the Rushmore Waterside Park in Rapid City, where the kids spent some time relating the National Grasslands Headquarters. From there we traveled through Keystone where we got our first look at Mt. Rushmore. That's one of the moments that meant the most to Jenny, seeing the looks on the faces of the kids with the first sighting of the monument. We drove on by Mt. Rushmore, because the day was getting short, and set up camp in a KOA. That night we relaxed in the pool and hot tub in the Black Hills.

Day 8. This morning we attended a pancake breakfast where several team members fell victim to a Lakota Indian who counted coup on them with his highly decorated coup stick, while he engaged them in innocent conversation. Most of the kids did not realize that touching an enemy and riding away was how Indians gained individual respect and admiration for their bravery. All I can say is he's lucky he didn't hit some of the kids we had with us. After breaking camp, about half the team attended a non-denominational church service before we all headed up to visit Mt. Rushmore.

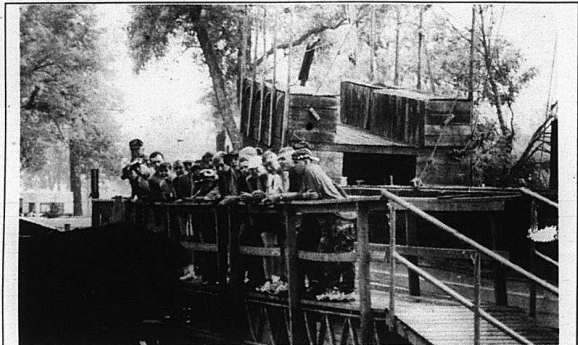

At Mt. Rushmore, we broke into groups and toured the entire area to include the new Presidential Trail, the Sculptor's Studio, and yet another gift shop. After eating an early lunch in the parking lot, we all viewed a short film about the monument then left to find a place to spend the night. We ended up at what was probably our favorite campsite of the entire trip in the peace and quiet of the National Forest. An area located about a mile from the monument with only a pit toilet for services. The area was absolutely perfect, with a great view of the Black Hills.

After setting up just our pup-tents we left to go back toward Rapid City where we attended the National Native American Heritage Association powwow. There were American Indians from all over the United States and also a group of Aztec Indians from Mexico. While many of the students found the costumes and dancing fascinating, I was struck by the intense pride and respect that all the tribes demonstrated towards the members of their tribe who were veterans. There were areas reserved for veteran organizations which appeared to be common in most tribes.

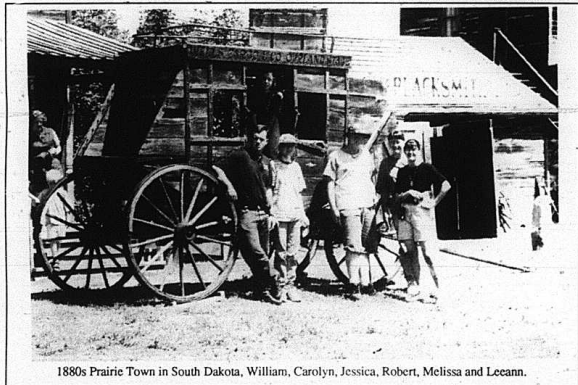

After eating supper and cleaning up, we went to the lighting ceremony of Mt. Rushmore. A movie was shown in the huge amphitheater, about the four presidents and the workers who built this great monument. By the time the movie ended it was completely dark. As the entire crowd of thousands of people quietly sang our National Anthem the lights were gradually turned on, highlighting the faces on the mountain. I highly recommend this experience to anyone visiting the area. Many of the kids, along with myself thought this was the best part of the visit to Mt. Rushmore.

Day 9. After a great breakfast of bacon and french toast, (good job Kyle), we reorganized the bus and headed into Keystone, where we rode an 1880's train through the Black Hills into Hill City. While on the ride to Hill City the conductor promised us we could all ride together in the one open car which was located in the back of the train. After a one-hour layover in Hill City, we reboarded the train for the trip back to Keystone. Good to his word, the conductor boarded us first in the open car. What he hadn't told us was that now the car was at the front of the train, attached directly behind the engine. Steam engines are loud when they're going up a steep hill. Steam engines are VERY LOUD. The whistle will also raise you right out of your seat every time it blows for the seventeen road crossings. It was great!!! The best part was some one in our group (William Leger) surprised Sergeant Major by having his birthday announced and the whole train sang Happy Birthday. (His birthday is in February.)

After the train ride, we visited the Crazy Horse Monument which is currently under construction. When completed, this monument will be so large that Mt. Rushmore will fit on the arm of Crazy Horse. I don't believe I'll live to see the monument completed though. While at Crazy Horse we toured an American Indian museum which was fascinating. We also watched the Aztec Indian group which was at yesterday's pow wow perform several of their traditional dances.

Day 10,
 After breaking camp, we stopped in the town of Custer to restock our food supplies, than on to Custer State Park. Arriving at Sylvan Lake, we ate lunch before starting the three and a half mile climb to the top of Harney Peak, a 7,242 ft., the highest point East of the Rocky Mountains. Even though most of the kids breezed up the mountain, Jenny and I felt it was a real work out. The view from the top was well worth the effort though. According to the trail guide you can see five states from the top on a clear day. But I couldn't make out any of the lines marking the borders. Ha! When we got back down the mountain the kids cooled off by swimming in the lake and jumping off some tremendous boulders into the water. Most of them were blue with cold when they finally got out.

 After thawing out the kids, we moved on to Wind Cave National Park where we planned to camp that night. Along the way we traveled the eighteen mile Wildlife Loop Road. We were extremely fortunate to top a rise and find the second largest Buffalo herd in the world spread out before us covering an area approximately one-and-a-half square miles. It was an absolutely amazing sight, especially photographing the twin calves right by the road. As we continued traveling the loop, we also encountered antelope, mule, deer, prairie dogs, Bighorn Sheep, not-so-wild burros (we spent an hour feeding them the carrot supply) and other small groups of buffalo. When we arrived at Wind Cave we set up camp and cooked 'pincho-lomas' (shish-ka-bobs) which I think were the kids favorite supper meal on the trip.

Day 11,
 Slept in today, since we all decided we needed a day of rest. After a big breakfast, we went through the town of Hot Springs to a place the kids could go on a trail ride. Only nine of the team members wanted to ride, Newt and Gigold insisted on riding mules, while the rest of the group swam or waded in the swimming hole that the owner of the ranch had scooped out in a small creek. On the way back to Wind Cave we stopped in Hot Springs to get fuel, groceries and an ice cream at DQ.

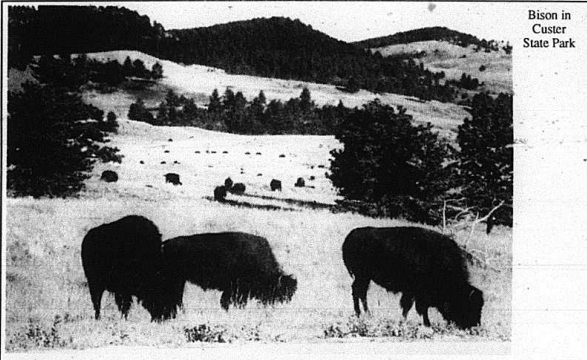

After reorganizing all our gear the kids went back up to tour the cave. The hour long tour only covered a quarter of a mile of the 81.7 mile cave, but the kids had a good time, probably watching one of the team members being shot down in flames after flirting with the ranger from Texas who led the tour.

Dear Editor:
 Several people lately are thinking that any cat or dog that is not penned, chained or collared does not have a home. They are taking it upon themselves to take these animals to shelters, give them to new homes, or have them euthanized. There have been several incidents of this in the past few months, and these people need to be made aware of a few things:
 1. The leash law applies only to dogs within city limits.
 2. Many pet owners of Rockcastle County are rural dwellers, and generally do not mind dogs and cats passing through their property, as long as there is no threat to livestock.
 3. These unofficial "pick ups" are causing dog and cat owners unnecessary emotional distress.
 People who have an animal's welfare in mind need to understand that rural residents will not, and should not be expected to play by the same rules as urban populations regarding pet ownership and responsibility; and they need to have the decency to advertise in the local newspapers, radio and animal care sites, searching for a dog or cat's rightful owner before taking "responsibility" for giving it to a new home, or taking its life. Think of others before you act!

Dear Editor,
 During the 1998 4th of July holiday weekend, Troopers at the London State Police Post, issued a total of 1,158 citations. Of these citations issued, 545 were speeding citations, 148 failure to wear seat belt citations, and 18 failure to utilize child restraint systems; 31 people were arrested for DUI, 31 criminal cases were investigated and 49 criminal arrests were made.
 There were also 263 complaints answered and 23 accidents were investigated. There were no fatal accidents reported during this holiday period within the Post 11 area.
 On behalf of the Kentucky State Police and the Troopers assigned to the London Post, I would like to thank those motorists who obeyed the posted speed limits, refrained from drinking and driving, utilized seat belts and child restraint systems, and any other action they may have taken to make this a safer holiday for everyone.

OUR PRAYERS SHOULD THANK THE LORD FOR HIS WISDOM

Those of us who pray regularly know how easy it is to turn a prayer into a "wish list" of material advantages, and then we are disappointed when our wishes aren't granted. All too often we pray for silly, trivial things, or things that would be harmful to us, or even those that would benefit us at the expense of others. For example, we may pray that our team will win the game tomorrow, when our opponents have just as much right to a victory. We should pray for good health, wisdom, and self-improvement, some of which may require a little cooperation on our part. The best prayer simply affirms our belief that God knows what's best for us and will provide it. We can learn this at our House of Worship, or wherever we happen to be.

Hale wins National Discover Award

John Andrew Hale, a junior at Rockcastle County High School, has been named as one of six state winners in the American Association of School Administrators' (AASA) annual Discover Card Tribute Award Scholarship program. Hale is the recipient of the $2,500 Tribute Award Gold Scholarship. Other winners from Kentucky include Jillian M. Florence, Gold ($2,500), Harrison County High School, Cynthiana; Sarah L. Carter, Silver ($1,750), Monroe County High School, Tompkinsville; Shawn E. Okpebholo, Silver ($1,750), Tates Creek High School, Lexington; Jessica A. Moore, Bronze ($1,250), Sacred Heart Academy, Louisville and Quintessa S. Peake, Bronze ($1,250), Jenkins High School, Neon.

The Kentucky Association of School Administrators coordinated the panel of judges who based their decisions on information from application materials submitted by each student. The judges represented Kentucky communities as well as the state's business and education sectors.

For the seventh year, Discover Card awarded close to a million dollars in scholarship money to high school juniors. The Discover Card Tribute Award scholarships, given in cooperation with the AASA, were awarded to the outstanding high school juniors in Washington, D.C. on June 25th.

"The Discover Card Tribute Award scholarships were designed to assist students who excel beyond academics," said Lisa B. Lambert, vice president, Discover Card Marketing, NOVUS services, Inc. "We reward extraordinary high school juniors for their accomplishments because we believe these students will become well-rounded achievers of the future."

"This year's Discover Card Tribute Award winners not only represent the ethnic and economic diversity of the youth in our schools," said Paul D. Houston, executive director, AASA, "but what they have achieved—in their personal lives as well as in the community and at school—provides strong evidence that they will become committed and involved citizen leaders, working to improve our communities and this nation."

Personal recognition of Andy's award was also made by Kentucky's United States Senator Wendell Ford and Congresswoman Anne M. Northup. "Andy's commitment to academic excellence and civic responsibility has served as an inspiration to our entire community," said

Congresswoman Northup. "I encourage him to keep up his selfless dedication of time and talent to improving the world around him."

Andy, who will be a senior at RCHS this fall, is the son of John and Nancy Hale. Mr. Hale is the principal at Rockcastle County Middle School and Mrs. Hale is the Gifted Education Teacher for Rockcastle County Schools. He is the grandson of Rev. and Mrs. Jack Bruce of Mt. Vernon, Mrs. Jean Hale, also of Mt. Vernon and Mr. H.E. Hale of Somerset.

Browning attends leadership seminar

Mary Beth Browning recently attended the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation (HOBY) Annual Leadership Seminar at Transylvania University. Mary Beth was selected as a junior counselor for the 1998 Kentucky east seminar held at Transylvania in June and has been invited to attend the 1999 seminar as a senior counselor. In 1997, Mary Beth attended HOBY as the sophomore ambassador representing Rockcastle County High School. She is the daughter of Jim and Janice Browning of Mt. Vernon.

For the past 39 years, HOBY Leadership Seminars have brought together select groups of high school sophomores from across the United States and 62 foreign countries, who have demonstrated leadership abilities in their high schools and communities. The goal is to provide the ambassadors with a stimulating forum for learning about the American incentive system and democratic process and for broadening their understanding of their leadership potential through interactions with distinguished leaders in business, government and education.

The Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation was established in 1958 by veteran actor Hugh O'Brian following a visit to Africa where he was inspired by a meeting with Dr. Albert Schweitzer, the 1952 Nobel Peace Prize recipient. "One of the things Schweitzer said to me was that the most important thing in education was to teach young people to think for themselves," says O'Brian. As one of the nation's foremost non-profit, non-tax-supported youth leadership development organizations, HOBY is respected worldwide.

James Hensley enlists

James J. Hensley, of Mt. Vernon, recently enlisted into the United States Air Force, according to Tsgt. Todd Haddock, the local air force recruiter. Upon successfully completing the air force's six week basic training course at Lackland Air Force Base, near San Antonio, Texas, Hensley will receive technical training in his designated career area.

Hensley, a graduate of Rockcastle County High School, will earn credits toward an associate degree in Applied Sciences through the Community College of the Air Force while attending basic and technical training schools.

Magistrates decline to drop Mt. Vernon's seat on 911 dispatching board

Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carlotis suggested to the Fiscal Court last week that they drop the City of Mt. Vernon's seat from the county's 911 emergency board.

However, he got no support on the recommendation. The Judge explained this week that the city of Mt. Vernon's police department does not participate in 911 dispatching and therefore really should not have any say in what goes on.

"Currently when a call for Mt. Vernon police comes to 911 it is routed to their own dispatchers - causing some delay," Carlotis said.

"I just didn't think the city should have a say in what 911 does when they really don't use the service," Carlotis said.

The magistrates however didn't agree with Carlotis and no motion was made to take Mt. Vernon's seat. Currently Assistant Police Chief Eddie Delaney represents the city on the board.

911 does, however, dispatch fire and ambulance calls for city residents.

The board did approve three other requests by the council at the high school, which included increasing the math requirements from three to four.

"The latest survey of high school graduates in our region showed that about 60 percent of those entering the workforce or college required some type of math remediation so we thought this was very important - to provide as much instruction in that areas as we possibly could," Cash said.

The board also approved a request to abolish one administrative position and create one assistant principal's position. The board also approved the request by the council to abolish one instructional assistant position and create another school secretary position.

McKinney Gets Death

"I want you to think about the consequences that man gave Shirley McKinney when he blew her skull apart," Wright said. "The last thing that boy saw was the head of his mother exploding. That little girl was asleep on the couch, protected by her mommy and the person she called daddy."

Wright said parents are supposed to protect their children from "monsters." But where were they when the "monster" came out and inserted a rifle into Amy's mouth and the bullet came crashing into her brain.

"Shirley, Brian and Amy didn't get a jury. They got an execution," Wright said.

Several members of McKinney's family spoke of their love for Gary and the support he has shown them throughout the years.

Debra Lou Mitchell, Gary's sister, talked about how Gary was "good to us... and tried to protect us." She described Gary as a person who liked to be outdoors, to walk in the woods and hunt ginseng.

Gary appeared to be the happiest of his life when he married Shirley Bowles, she testified. Mitchell said her brother did not ever mention being unhappy about the marriage and he seemed to smile more after he married Shirley.

Brother Michael McKinney talked about Gary's good nature and willingness to help the family with financial needs. "He treated me good," his young brother testified.

McKinney's fifth-grade teacher, Claudia Cash, who is now the One and assessment coordinator for Rockcastle County schools, told of a shy, little boy who taught her a lesson about fairness.

Wanda McKinney spoke of her son's relationship with his brothers and sisters. She said Gary was the "shy, quiet type," but he got along well with his siblings.

Sister Tammy Nickle said Gary didn't show his emotions. "You wouldn't see him cry, but to us you could tell he was sad," she said.

She said she saw Gary the day after the fire and "I could tell he was hurt. I could feel the pain."

Another sister, Vickie Graves said Gary has "always been quiet." She spoke of Gary McKinney who loved to go walking in the woods, play basketball, ride a bicycle and go swimming.

Williams also appealed to the jurors' emotions to spare McKinney's life.

"He is a child of God," Williams Mark Stanziano, who argued that McKinney's life be spared, said an appeal cannot be filed until after the formal sentencing.

Stanziano, a member of the defense team, appeared shaken by the jury's recommended sentence. He indicated the defense planned to raise some questions about the discovery process and some late information Stanziano said was turned over by the state to the defense approximately 45 days before the trial was scheduled to start July 6.

The defense, headed by Michael Williams of Frankfort, argued that life imprisonment was a punishment more appropriate for this particular crime.

Stanziano, in a passionate plea to the jury, asked for "compassion, love and kindness" in deciding McKinney's fate.

While imposing the death penalty may be allowed under the law, Stanziano said it doesn't make it "morally" right. He described the culture of today filled with violence, where a woman and her children are gunned down in their home. But does that justify taking another person's life? Stanziano asked the jury.

"We have become a culture of death," he said.

He asked the jury to consider a sentence of life imprisonment because to lock away a man who likes to take walks in the woods, doesn't like crowds and is shy, like McKinney, is punishment itself.

"I don't think you are going to make the world brighter by killing someone else," Stanziano said.

Gary McKinney was able to have his day in court, but Shirley, Brian and Amy didn't have the benefit of telling their side of the story, Wright argued.

He said death is the appropriate punishment in this case. Wright asked the jury to consider for a moment the victims' deaths.

He noted that there is no mandatory death penalty in Kentucky.

Other possible sentencing choices reviewed by the jury was life imprisonment, confinement in prison for 20 years or more or confinement in prison without the benefit of probation or parole until the defendant had served a minimum of 25 years.

Kirby enters basic infantry training

Army Pvt. Kyle W. Kirby has entered basic infantry training at Fort Benning in Columbus, Georgia.

During the training, the soldier will receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, map reading, tactics, military customs and courtesies, and first aid. He will develop basic combat skills, and experience using various weapons available to the infantry soldier.

Kirby is the son of Hazel L. and Coy S. Kirby of Livingston.

He is a 1997 graduate of Rockcastle County High School.

Curriculum

"We want to have the best curriculum possible for our students," Cash said.

If the high school does abolish driver's education, it will cost many county residents who have teenage drivers.

Currently most insurance companies across the state give about a ten percent discount for teenage drivers who have completed the driver's education course at their schools. Without the course that discount would not be possible.

The classes currently offered at RCHS are: English I, English II, English III, English IV, College English 101, College English 102, French I, French II, French III, Spanish I, Spanish II, Spanish III, Spanish IV and Journalism.

Prisoners Gone

wife Dee Dee, Greg Hurley and Ruth Coffey were transporting all county prisoners to other county jails. Howard said that Deputy Bill Lawrence was also volunteering his services and transporting many prisoners.

"We are all working seven days a week, splitting time with each other to transport these prisoners," he said.

The jailer said that even people charged with D.U.I. were being held in other counties elsewhere - mostly Laurel county, but that those charged with alcohol intoxication were allowed to stay the required four hours in jail before bonding out.

The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court had considered closing the jail all together last week, but decided to leave it open and move all prisoners, while the renovation project is being completed.

Doctor Sued

September of 1997 she became ill and contacted a different doctor who performed an echocardiogram showing enlargement of Potter's heart, fluid on her heart and defective performance of several valves.

The suit alleges that the defendant was eventually referred to a cardiac specialist who, on October 15, 1997 advised Potter that the drugs (fen-phen) prescribed by Dr. Cunningham caused or contributed to Potter's medical problems.

Potter claims in her suit that the pharmaceutical companies named manufacturer, marketed, distributed, sold and placed into the stream of commerce (fen-phen) which was defectively designed, marketed, manufactured and unsafe for their intended purposes at the time they left the control of the drug companies. The suit alleges the drugs were unaccompanied by proper warnings regarding pulmonary, valvular and cardiovascular injuries associated with the use of these drugs.

A civil suit states only one side of a case when initially filed.

Agri-Business tour visits seven states

The Rockcastle Agri-Business tour of 1998 left Mt. Vernon, July 6th on a tour of seven states under the leadership of Roy G. Brown.

Agriculture crops were looking pretty good in most areas we visited. Some crops were planted a little later due to the weather.

We saw corn, tobacco, soybeans and hay in Kentucky and Tennessee; rice, cotton and soybeans in Arkansas; corn, soybeans, wheat and hay in Oklahoma and corn, soybeans, milo, and wheat in Missouri, Illinois and Indiana. Much of the wheat had already been combined and many wheat fields had been double cropped to corn and soybeans. Some corn was tasseled. In all, crops were very good.

We visited an Asgro Research Farm. The Asgro Research Company is introducing disease resistant herbicide tolerant and quality grain products. Their goal is "Disease Free Crops."

Other places visited along the way were 1) The Casey Jones Home, Railroad Museum at Jackson, Tennessee. Casey Jones was from Cayce, Kentucky. 2) The National Cowboy Hall of Fame at Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. We also visited the site of the bombing of the government building at Oklahoma City. 3) The Bass Pro Shop at Springfield, Missouri and Lambert's Restaurant (hell roll throwing restaurant) somewhere between Springfield and Branson. 4) The Mel Tellis country show, Brandon, Missouri. 5) We enjoyed a cruise on the Tom Sawyer down the Missouri River at St. Louis, Missouri. 6) Last but not least, we toured the St. Louis Arch where the east and west meets.

There is usually a little misfortune on a long trip like this. The air conditioner went out about an hour before we got to Tulsa, Oklahoma. The outside temperature was 104. We had a two-hour wait the next morning while the a/c was being repaired. Some of us slept late while some walked to a Super K-Mart. We didn't mind the delay.

Everyone enjoyed the trip very much. We arrived back in Mt. Vernon at 6:45 p.m. July 11th.

Gregory receives A. Paul Nestor Creativity Award

In recent ceremonies, Mr. Bill David Gregory of Lexington, received the 1997 A. Paul Nestor Creativity Award through the University of Kentucky. This award honors its recipients for accomplishments that have resulted in "improved productivity, more efficient operations, safer operations, and/or cost savings that support the mission of the University of Kentucky."

Mr. Gregory was nominated by Dr. Alan Male, Director of the Center for Robotics and Manufacturing Systems, for his "original ideas and technical expertise" in establishing an intranet system that enhances internal communication and data exchange as well as establishing a link with the UK Engineering facilities in Paducah.

This permits on-line design and development of manufacturing engineering projects between the two programs. A reception was held in the Patterson Office Tower on July 2nd to honor all the nominees. At that time, Mr. Gregory received a plaque recognizing his efforts. His name will also appear on a plaque on display in the university's student center that includes all prior winners of the award. The award was accompanied by a cash honorarium.

Mr. Gregory is a graduate of Rockcastle County High School and holds degrees in physics and mechanical engineering from the University of Kentucky. He is employed by the Center for Robotics as a Program Manager for Computer Aided Engineering and teaches classes in engineering computer programs.

Mr. Gregory is married to the former Shelli Renne Johnson of Philpot. They are expecting their first child in early 1999. He is the son of Attorney and Mrs. William D. Gregory of Mt. Vernon.

At annual convention

Cox named chairman

Funeral directors, suppliers, and their families, numbering 1,386 were at the Hyatt Regency in Louisville June 9-11 attending the 116th annual convention of The Funeral Directors Association of Kentucky. During this three-day meeting, 50 and 75 year old firms were honored; the 50 year licensed funeral directors were honored; the 25, 50, 75 and 100 hour continuing education awards were presented; 95 exhibitors displayed their different businesses in the 80,000 square foot exhibit hall and several educational seminars/presentations were given. The 1998-99 leadership was elected and is as follows:

Jerry B. Patton, President, Brownsville; Randolph B. Orr, President-Elect, Paducah; Dennis E.

Stanley, Vice President; Verona; James W. Davis, Secretary Treasurer, Shelbyville; James H. Caines, Sergeant-at-Arms; Belfry; Robert L. Cox, Chairman of the Board; Mt. Vernon and Joe Ben Tucker, Policy Board Member, Central City.

All-Night Gospel Sing August 1 in the Valley

The tradition continues. At the stroke of midnight on Saturday, August 1, 1998, both of Renfro Valley's show barn theaters will ring with the sounds of pure gospel music. Until dawn's early light, gospel music's faithful followers will sit, wide-eyed and in rapt attention as some of gospel's best loved groups share the stage.

All-star lineup includes The Easters, The Crab Family, The Neltons, Charles Johnson & The Revivers, The Bishops, The Crossmen Quartet and Poet Voices.

Tickets to this inspiring event are $12, $14 for preferred (front center sections), plus tax and handling fee. Children aged 12 and younger pay one-half price. Because this event attracts a faithful following, reservations are recommended.

The All Night Gospel Sing is just one of several events which shine the spotlight on Renfro Valley's gospel music roots. The Mountain Gospel Jubilee, an hour long live performance, is held every Saturday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. And in mid-October, gospel's best quartets entertain during Gospel Music Celebration.

For tickets and reservations for this special event all other Renfro Valley shows, concerts and special events call 800-765-7464 or 606-256-2638. You may also visit Renfro Valley on their website at renfrovalley.com.

The following first appeared in the Mt. Vernon Signal on July 9, 1897. It was recently transcribed from microfilm produced by the University of Kentucky King Library of that issue of the Signal by Mrs. Cindy Durham Crawford of Batavia, Ohio. This information and other old interesting things about Rockcastle County and Kentucky is available for browsing on the KyGenWeb KyFootsteps site on the Internet.

LOCAL NEWS AND OTHER-WISE

Someone stole a calf from Fred Krueger's stable one night last week. WANTED 10,000 pounds of wool, free from burrs and trash. Jonas McKenzie — Rolla Pike who was news butchering on the L&N has gone to the Southern News Co. Lee Porter, of Bengie, is the guest of his brother-in-law, Dr. Monroe Pennington. Miss Mattie McFerron was up from the farm this week to visit her sisters, Misses Georgie and

???? Dr. E.J. Brown was up from Stanford, Saturday. He still looks after a large practice in this county. W.D. Wallen of Crab Orchard, who has been a subscriber to SIGNAL since it started, renews his allegiance. Bruce Richardson of Conway, Martin Hoagland and Wm McHargue of Pine Hill were at Brodhead, Saturday. John Shaw Edmiston the candy man of Crab Orchard was at Saturday's picnic making delicious sweetmeats. The funeral of T.J. Coffey will be preached at the Christian Church at Wildie on the fourth Sunday in this month. Harry Brownlee, a talented young gentleman of Lebanon, was the guest of the Misses McFerron on Sunday last. The statement in last week's issue of the Republican that I had government license to sell whiskey is false. J.J. Cook, Jonas McKenzie is agent for the Champion mowing machines and Birdell Wagons now on hands. Miss Ida May Adams leaves tomorrow for Elizabethtown where she will take part in Democrat contest and thence to the Nashville Centennial. A.P. Pendleton of Rowland took the trip to the reunion of the U.C. Veterans at Nashville. He has been thinking of going into the lumber business. Mr. and Mrs. W.H. Brannaman of Wildie and Mrs. Tobe Lair, of Livingston were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. S.C. Franklin Tuesday last. R.S. Martin, the man who has gained a big reputation on Brodhead tobacco, is doing a big lot of advertising by tin signs also by neatly tagging each twist that is made in this factory. Our thanks are given J.J. Mullins, A.E. Albright, R.H. Hamm, G.P. Ramsey, the Fullen Francisco, J.H. Dunn, W.S.

Cummins, and others for courtesies extended while at Brodhead Saturday last. The will of the late T.J. Coffey was set aside by the court and L.T. Stewart was appointed administrator. J.J. Smith, W.G. Hiatt and J.B. Lair were appointed appraisers to set apart the widow's share. John Woodruff, section foreman at Ford on K.C., was visiting relatives at Mareburg during the past two week. John is one of the best and trusted employees in the department of the L&N system. Andrew Thompson, Bogue Brown and Wm. Lawson, were over from Garrard attending the Brodhead picnic. Andrew liked the swing so well, he closed a trade for it and will take the road with it soon.

Judge Burnam republican member of court of Appeals from this district had a street fight at Richmond, Friday or more properly possibly might be called a "street whip."

The trouble grew out of the fact that Burnam prevailed on some overzealous republican and bolotcar directors of the Madison National Bank, of which he was president up to his candidacy to subscribe $500 of the institution's funds to aid in his election. Settlement day came last week and ex Sheriff N.B. Deatherage, who is a leading democratic director objected to such use of the funds. This precipitated a quarrel and the result was that when the men met on the street afterwards, Mr. Deatherage landed two vigorous blows with his fist in the appellate judge's anatomy before the judge could do anything more than protest. Deatherage was an old Confederate soldier. Mrs. R.A. Welsh of Withers is visiting relatives here. Joe Gatliff of this county was shot and killed at Big Hill, Madison County Saturday afternoon by Green Chiles of Jackson County. Chiles mounted his horse and fled pursued by Henry Ramey a half brother of Gatliff. After a two mile chase Chiles was overtaken by Ramey who fired and killed the horse. Chiles was riding. The horse fell and rolled over on Chiles who begged for his life. Ramey consented not to kill him. Chiles was taken to Richmond and lodged in jail. We failed to learn the particulars of the killing. Gatliff had the reputation of being an upright, honest man. Rev. McDonald was here Tuesday. T.J. Nichols was in from Cedarville Monday. There is a new girl at W.B. Smith's. Squire Henry Brannaman was here Monday. Clever Gus Stewart was here on Tuesday last. M.F. Brinkley was in from Louisville Tuesday. John Buchanan died at Crab Orchard last week. J.C. Taylor is blacksmithing near Level Green. Dan Holdam, of Crab Orchard, was here during the week. Isaac Baker, son of Joseph Baker was sent to Lexington Asylum. Mrs. Polly Martin and children of Rowland are visiting relatives here. W.C. Mullins the Livingston and Withers merchant was in town Friday last. Prof. Dickerson and Miss Georgie McFerron will teach the Livingston school. Mrs. Judge John

B. Fish has returned from a visit to parents at Williamsburg. Jop McCall has fresh country ground corn meal, also groceries all at low prices. Mrs. Ed Woodall went to Hazel Patch, Saturday to attend the burial of Mr. Geo. Carpenter. This office turned out a good batch of job work this week for R.S. Martin the Brodhead tobacco man. Let S.V. Davis make you a good saddle, bridle or set of harness and be happy in knowing you have first class work. Mrs. Nancy Hooker accompanied by her sister, Misses Lina and Clara Kennedy are visiting Mrs. M.C. Williams. A.R. Scott of Calera, Alabama, was here Monday looking up the lime business. It is likely he and our hustling contractor, Fritz Krueger will form a co-partnership and go into the business on a large scale. Fr. J.W. Lawrence had added to his outfit a couple of dozen forelegs for extracting teeth and it is now ready to do tooth pulling painlessly or otherwise as desired by patients with troublesome teeth.

ORLANDO NEWS

Mrs. Abe Evans is very sick this week. Miss Martha Gill has been very sick with measles but is improving. Logan Sayers and wife were visiting friends at Livingston Sunday last. ## Vegetables: Count on Three to Five Servings

By: Hazel Jackson

Just imagine Italian food without tomato sauce, Mexican food without salsa or a stir-fry without broccoli. Vegetables add taste, color, texture and nutritional value to many favorite meals. Many people think that they are too busy to eat enough vegetables or that vegetables just don't taste very good. But there are lots of easy ways to enjoy great-tasting vegetables without spending hours shopping and chopping.

The Food Guide Pyramid recommends eating three to five servings of vegetables a day. Vegetables contain very little fat, no cholesterol, plenty of dietary fiber, and lots of vitamins, minerals and phytochemicals.

Phytochemicals are the chemicals found in plant that may protect our cells from the damaging effects of toxic substances, which can result in cancer and heart disease. Eat Three to Five Servings is Easier Than You Think.

Three to five servings may sound like a lot of vegetables, but 1 cup of raw leafy vegetables or salad or 1/2 cup of cooked, frozen or canned vegetables counts as a serving.

Whatever type of vegetables you choose, be careful not to overcook them. Cooking vegetables just right retains nutrients and preserves their appealing colors and flavors. Usually frozen and canned vegetables need only to be heated, while fresh vegetables should be cooked until tender but still crisp.

Whether eating at home, in restaurants or on the run, you can find many easy ways to eat more vegetables every day. Remember you don't have to eat three to five different vegetables every day you could eat a whole cup of broccoli to count as two servings.

Fresh vegetables are available locally at the Farmers Market on Wednesday at the Broadhead Fair ground and Saturday at the Renfro Valley Festival Field. For information on canning and freezing fresh fruits and vegetables, call the Extension Office at 256-2403.

By Warden Alexander,
FSA Director

Hampton Henton, Jr., Kentucky State Executive Director for the U.S. Department of Agriculture Farm Service Agency, announced July 15, 1998 that effective July 1, female representation has been added to every FSA County Committee in Kentucky. "If the elected County Committee did not include a female member, a female has been appointed as an advisor to the local FSA County Committee," Henton said. "Likewise, if the County Committee did not represent the diversified population in the county a minority advisor has been appointed."

"We hope County Committee Advisors will assist FSA and USDA to increase awareness of and participation in FSA programs," Henton said. "Farmers should get to know their County Committee members. If they have a problem, they should contact their local FSA County Committee."

County Committees are elected by their peers to make important decisions about how FSA programs are administered in the county. Kentucky is one of the first states to add both females and minority representation to every County Committee. "Advisors are non-voting members. For additional information on FSA programs, contact your local FSA County Office or the Kentucky FSA State Office by telephone at (606)224-7601, fax (606)224-7691 or E-mail at the following: "KentuckyState@bbs.fs.usda.gov". Rockcastle County Committee members are: Clarence Raymond Brown, Darrell Wayne Whitaker and Joe C. Bullen with Charlotte Carrera, being the County Committee Advisor.

Rockcastle County producers who have suggested losses from natural disaster during the time period of November 27, 1997 through May 1, 1998 may be eligible to receive payments under the Livestock Indemnity Program and the Dairy Production Disaster Assistance Program. Eligible producers are those who: own a substantial beneficial interest in an eligible dairy/livestock operation, suffered a financial risk in the eligible operation, suffered the loss as a direct result of the natural disaster for which the President Declaration was made and are a citizen, or legal resident aliens in the U.S. Producers MUST provide documentation to support loss claims and file the application during the sign-up period from July 6th-September 1, 1998 at the FSA County Office.

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) prohibits discrimination in all programs on the basis of race, color, national origin, gender, religion, age, disability, political beliefs, sexual orientation, and marital or familial status. (Not all prohibited basis apply to all programs.) Persons with disabilities who require alternative means for communication of program information (Braille, large print, audiotape, etc.) should contact USDA's TARGET Center at (202)720-2600 (voice and TDD). To file a complaint of discrimination, write USDA, Director, Office of Civil Rights, Room 326-W, Whitten Building, 14th and Independence Avenue, SW, Washington, DC 20250-9411 or call (202)720-5964 (voice or TDD). USDA is an equal opportunity provider and employer.

The school house was still standing until about 1975. Its only use was for a polling place during elections. A decision was made to sell the building. Junior Mullins, Sonja's grandpa, purchased it and tore it down, and used the lumber on his farm.

One of the unusual things about Quail's history was a form of past recreation. The Indians had an oblong race track on top of a hill where the radio tower now stands. This is where the Indians raced, fought and performed many other activities.

As years passed, Ben Albright became owner of the general store and post office which had been moved across the road where Ruth Mink lived. Next, Richard Gentry became owner and ran it until 1947, when Mr. Sherman Mink, Ms. Ruth Mink's father, took over. Ms. Mink remembers helping in the store and post office. The postage for a letter was only three cents and customers could buy a pound of coffee for fifteen cents. Community folk would frequent the store, bringing chickens and eggs to trade for their groceries.

In 1965, the store was completely destroyed by fire. Ms. Mink rebuilt the store across the road from her house. The Quail Community has certainly come a long way since the days of horses, covered wagons and Indians. We now have a store, service station, church and most recently, a park with facilities, known as the "Quail Community Park." The plot of land for the park was donated by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Brown. Submitted by Sonja Bullock and Ruth Mink.

A look back at Rockcastle County

Reprinted from the 1992 Rockcastle History Book which was published by the Rockcastle County Historical Society.

Quail got its name from the Bob-White, better known as Quail. The story goes that when people first settled in Quail, there were so many Quail that one could see them lined up along the roadsides and in the fields with many clusters of eggs in their nests. Hunting Quail was a popular sport that not only provided food for the family, but also, to sell for profit at the country store.

Quail's grist mill and country store were very popular and well-known as Quail was once the center for trading and shopping over a very large area.

The old grist mill, located on the corner of what is now known as the Charlie Hasty farm, was first owned by Craig Cromer. It was later moved to Skaggs Creek and owned by Ed Bullock.

Willie Dillingham and his brother came to Quail from North Carolina in covered wagons, but his mother, Nancy and father, John came by train because they were afraid of the Indians. John and Nancy had eleven children. One of their daughters, Lori, married Old Doc McWilliams, a local physician.

Lillie Dillingham, another one of their daughters, married Barto Dillingham. He opened one of the first stores in Quail. It was located in a field near the present home of Mrs. Ed Whitaker.

Later, the Gilfretts owned the store that Barto had operated. They opened a post office in the store. There was a little room in back where Vic Todd, the community barber, gave "wind-blown" haircuts for only ten cents.

Sometime during this period of Quail's history a country school was erected. Some of the teachers were: John Scott, Isabelle Davis Jones, Richard Gentry, Molly Davis Bryant and Mary Ida Adams, who later became the first woman judge of the California courts.

Multiflora Roses

Multiflora roses were once promoted to be the living fence as well as an ideal wildlife cover. Many farmers are finding that fields infested with this plant rapidly becomes a wildlife habitat as gateways grow closed by the living fence. Exeration, maybe, but when left uncontrolled, multiflora roses will creep out from fence rows, taking acres of farm land out of production.

Controlling multiflora roses seems to be the big problem. When cut off by grubbing, bush-hogging or a mowing machine, they come back. The key is in killing the root system. Chemicals are now available to control this problem with little danger of affecting other crops.

During late summer is an ideal time to control this noxious weed. The key to success is to apply chemicals to actively growing leaves. In our area, this means applying treatments before Japanese beetles have stripped the plant.

Chemicals like Roundup and Crossbow, when applied to the leaves, will translocate to the root system, killing the whole plant. Approximately 7-10-14 days after application the results will be seen. For large areas, farm sprayers may be needed. However, on small groups or single plants out in the field, small hand sprayers are fine.

Mixing 2 1/2 ounces of Roundup per gallon of water then applying complete coverage of the foliage along with 4-6 hours without rain is all that's needed. Crossbow has the advantage of killing only broad leaf plants without killing the grass in treated areas. Mixture for Crossbow is about 1/2 to 2 ounces per gallon of water; however, continuous agitation is required.

Farmers wishing to control this weed are better equipped with new chemicals than in years past.
