New school year underway

About 2,800 Rockcastle County students attended the first day of classes Wednesday, including seven-year-old Kimberly Hall. Hall, above center, is a resident of the Rockcastle County Respiratory Care facility and suffers from Larsen's Syndrome. Miss Hall will be a student in Jerri Lynn Smith's first grade class at Mt. Vernon Elementary School. She is thought to be the only Larsen's Syndrome child to attend public school in the nation. She was escorted to school Wednesday by, from left: Kim Reynolds, bus monitor; Amy Breeding, social worker; Jr. Middleton, bus driver; Angel Thompson, RT and Ellen Miller, RT.

State says portfolios at RCHS untainted

Only one will receive Novice score

By: Richard Anderkin
The Kentucky State Department of Education has made a final ruling in favor of an English teacher at Rockcastle County High School. Kentucky Education Commissioner Wilmer S. Cody notified Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond on July 24th that only one of 57 senior writing portfolios, which had been questioned in March, would receive a novice or zero as a grade. Allegations of cheating were made against senior English teacher Julie Cruse on March 31.

The allegations was that Ms. Cruse had interfered with her students' work to the point that students had lost their ownership of the pieces in their portfolios.

But according to the letter received by Hammond, the extensive investigation by the state department and the local school district, confirmed that Ms. Cruse had made direct corrections on only one piece of student writing.

The letter also said that Ms. Cruse demonstrated many appropriate and sound instructional practices in the teaching of writing.

The Commissioner also wrote that because Ms. Cruse has already attended a code of ethics training no other disciplinary action will be taken by the state department of education's professional standards board.

The state's division of management assistance (DMA) which handles such allegations was made aware of the problem at RCHS by the personnel at the central office before they actually received the allegations in writing.

Teresa Vanzant only candidate for clerk

Seven file for council seats in Brodhead, eight in Livingston

Rockcastle Circuit Court Clerk Teresa Vanzant will be the only candidate for that office on the ballot this fall.

Her potential opponent Brenda Lovell, who was nominated by the local Democrat Executive Committee did not file.

Mrs. Vanzant joins thirty-one other Rockcastle Countians to file for office for this fall's races by Tuesday's filing deadline.

Mrs. Vanzant was appointed last week by Chief Circuit Judge Dan Venters to replace her father, Denver Miller as clerk. Miller officially returned July 31, after serving since 1982. Mrs. Vanzant will now serve the remainder of her father's term, which runs through the year 2000.

Mrs. Vanzant is married to Lonnie Vanzant and they make their home in Orlando. She is a 1980 graduate of Rockcastle County High School and is very active in local republican politics.

Petition presented to school board

A concerned grandparent presented the Rockcastle County Board of Education with a petition Tuesday night asking that a local bus driver not be allowed to continue to drive for the school system.

Homer Brown of Roundstone presented the board with a petition with about 170 signatures requesting that a veteran bus driver be stopped from hauling students.

Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond told Mr. Brown that the board could not discuss such personnel matters in open session, but would accept his petition.

Hammond also told Brown that there was a report concerning the matter in question that had been filed by the Kentucky Department of Social Services and that he should get a copy of it and review it, before coming back to the board.

The driver in question was suspended with pay last Spring after the incident, but after the investigation by social services he was put back on the road for the 1998-99 school year.

Hammond said Wednesday that any other discussion on the matter would be held in closed session.

In other action, Superintendent Hammond announced his lengthy personnel actions for the past month. They include hiring:

Robert E. Phillips, Teacher, RCMS; Dana Bullock, Wanda Gonzalez and Angie Brown, Substitute Teachers; Carla K. Howard, Teacher, RES; Gina L. Nicely, Teacher, RCMS; Kevin (Cont. to A8)

Body in river probably not "Toddy" Baker

More human bones have been located along the Rockcastle River in southeastern Pulaski County.

Pulaski County Sheriff Sam Catron said the skull, lower jawbone and what appears to be a shoulder blade of man were recovered last Thursday night.

It is thought to be the remainder of a body recently found in the river in July.

Catron said the torso (from the chest down) was found about three-fourths of a mile downstream on July 9.

The body is believed to be that of a white male, from 5 feet 7 inches to 5 feet 10 inches tall and 25-35 years old. The person is thought to have been dead between three and 10 months.

He said that no one in the missing persons file matches this description. Kentucky State Police Detective Gary Lane said that police also do not think the body is that of Charles "Toddy" Baker, 31, of Mt. Vernon who has been missing since May of 1997.

Lane said that Baker has a bullet wound to his right foot and the body that was found in the river did not Injury Accident . . .

Three young people from Northern Kentucky escaped serious injury Monday morning when the Chevy Lumina they were driving south on Interstate 75 ended up on its top in the ditch line. At left, ambulance personnel Steve Clark and Jeff Smithern prepare to transport Megan Shroock, 23, of Owenton, to the Rockcastle Hospital. Above, Livingston firefighter John Kuhn talks with one of the passengers, Joshua Hearne, 19, of Jonesville about the accident. Hearne and Shroock were treated at the hospital for minor injuries and released.

Points East

By: Ike Adams

Several years ago I swore off writing about depressing stuff. Which is largely the reason that I don't write every week anymore. Peace of mind seems very hard to come by these days. Every time I turn around somebody is unhappy or ticked off either because of something I've done or haven't done.

I forget who invented the old saw that goes, "You can make all the people happy some of the time and you can make some of the people happy all the time but you can't make all the people happy all the time." It sounds like Winston Churchill but it may have been Roosevelt or Truman. The point is that I can count on my fingers the number of people I've made happy some of the time over the last three months and none of them were exactly over-joyed. I sure haven't made anybody happy all the time.

Every time the phone rings I wonder who on earth is mad now. And I'm not deliberately trying to make anybody mad. In fact, I try hard to avoid just that. But every time I think I've done something right and good and start to feel good about myself, people fight to get in line to burst my bubble. And if they're not first in line they fight among each other to get to see who gets to stomp the foam when it trickles to the ground.

When I was little and got a bad case of the down and out my Mom would tease me with a little song that went:

"Nobody loves me, everybody hates me."

I'll go to the garden and eat worms
Real long skinny worms, big fat juicy worms

UGHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHHH!
Mom would do a lot of animation when she sang the piece and invariably I'd end up laughing. Don't let anybody tell you that Mountain mothers didn't know anything about child psychology back in the fifties.

So I was discussing my current

Spring, isn't very much larger than some beetles I've seen lately and has the personality of a Saint, has had puppies. Dave Maggard and I have been mid-wives of late and late at night. In spite of all our loving care and careful arrangement of a delivery box, June-bug sneaked out to a lumber pile under which she had her pups.

Only four of five survived pup-birth because June-bug's lover was obviously much larger than she. But she'd do fine and so are the puppies. They're all girls and fussing is already going on as to who gets one. I figure it will cost $100 to make sure June-bug doesn't get pregnant again so I'm requiring that anybody who gets a pup contribute to that cause and sign a written contract that the pup be "fixed" before she is six months old.

Now I'm probably in trouble with the "Right to Life" lobby. So go ahead and call and give me heck. Everybody else is. I'm real used to it.

state of shell-shock with my younger brother Keith last week and he told me he went through the same thing back when he was 35. He says it's called a mid-life crisis. And I said to him, "Keeter in less than 5 months I'll be fifty years old. Does this mean I'm going to live to be a hundred and have to bury you to boot?"

"I think that's the way it works," he said and I could feel him grinning on the other end of the line. And he actually thought that was funny. I, on the other hand, saw myself in a walker making his funeral arrangements and that's not exactly the sort of thing that makes me doze right off to sleep. I called him back and told him that if I got stuck with that responsibility he could count on being buried face down. Here's betting that if he beats me to the grave, I will have had nothing to do with the arrangements.

In the meantime, a little stray dog that somebody had set out that we've called "Lulu" because she likes to like a bug and showed up back in late

Often. Back in '83 a church member loaned me a set of Adrian's sermons tapes. One of them, on "The Devil," was particularly impressive, both for some captivating phrases and for some stuff about Old Scratch that absolutely didn't come from Scripture.

In that sermon, however, Adrian coined a clause that stayed with me: "Satan is the sinister minister of deceit."

Pretty catchy, aye? Now, back to last week when I stopped a moment in my channel cruising to see what Adrian had to say - of substance. Well! What on my itching ears should I hear? Adrian said, "Satan is the sinister minister of deceit."

Aha! I caught him. Preaching an ology! I listened longer. It was the same sermon. He, of course, had added some contemporary references. But I had caught him. John, you impish sleuth!

That night after we had gone to bed, and Nancy was moments away from slumber land which is always the minute her head hits her pillow, I told her about Adrian. She wasn't interested and shut me up with, "You've done the same thing."

Ouch! Aaah! Ugh! Aagh! Where are the band aids? I've been stuck - by my dearly beloved who is supposed to support me and agree with everything I say. I thought I might succumb before breaking of day. More band aids. I'm mortally wounded!

Dear hearts, I spent the next hour or so, lying there on my right side with a big pillow between my knees (the least aggravating position for my manual lumbar), thinking about sermons...

Yep, I did warm over more than a few - a foregone conclusion - almost a joke - among preachers that you can preach sermons over and over to the same congregation by changing your introduction, rewording your points, and adding new illustrations - all of which comes to this bottom line: churchgoers aren't very attentive and won't recognize an oldy.

In Adrian's case there was a span of fifteen years. He didn't have to change much of his sermon because there had likely been a great change in membership.

Furthermore, a good sermon ought to be preached again, and again. Adrian's predecessor, R.G. Lee, did often, and with panache.

Nonetheless, diligent preachers strive to present fresh content to their congregations. But, beloved, in a Baptist church that ain't easily done, pardon my grammar and grandpa, too. Why? A Baptist preacher has three

HERESAY

By:
John Norman Meadows

Precious souls, children of an evil age, greetings and proserium arches (no kin to fallen arches or the Arc de Triomphe) to you and yours from the Dog Days world of Wabed, home of the late Eli J. Chipperman, long-time sculptor at Schmidt's Stone Works on Big Split Pike - they make everything from cornstones to cenotaphs - and part-time peddler of ventilated, aluminum hat boxes, who, when told that the Mariani Trench in the Pacific waters southwest of Guam is almost seven miles deep, gave his bewildered chive a pensive scratch and then proffed this puzzled-faced reply, "Whew-e-e-e!" said Eli to his better shop buddies, "That's hard for a feller like me to fathom."

Proserium arches? Yes, that's what I said last week while on the "procedure" at the Pain Treatment Clinic in Lexington. The aides had "prepped" me and had administered something to "relax" me via the needle in my forehead. Dr. Ballard Wright, chief sticker at the clinic, came into OR and said, "Good morning, John." And I, a little high, replied, "Greetings and proserium arches, Dr. Wright."

(Beloved, believe me when I tell you that what followed had no earthly connection with relaxation or proserium arches as Dr. Wright set about to "dead" the nerves in my left leg, nerves that had been greatly aggravated by some kind of "slippage" in my lumbar. Sufferin' Shadrach and Heavens to Murgatroid!)

Dear hearts, accept my apology for not writing last week. I was all set to do so when a problem I have from time to time sidetracked my assaying. I use Equate daily to control my dandruff, but sometimes I don't let it "set" long enough and "dander" builds up in my eyebrows and then drops into my eyelashes - and within a few hours causes agitation and a condition akin to "pink" eye.

There I was with my laptop fired up and a story in mind, but it was not to be. I was tearing up and couldn't see what I was writing, and was so distracted by a "something-in-your-eye" feeling that I could not continue. So, I called Editor Rick to explain and apologize for not having a column. He was nice about it. But a mercy! There was not a single column in last week's edition. We writers must not let that happen again. (Not all was lost. There was It Is Written.)

Pink eye - whatever became of it? Do children still have it? It was fairly common when I was a child. And contagious. It was a well known fact that someone afflicted with pink eye could look directly into the eyes of another and infect that person right then and there. Within a day, the one who looked into the reddened retina of a pink-eye bearer would break out with the same condition.

I had the pink-eye when I was in the sixth grade. And I didn't let it go to waste. I evil-eyed several people: the class bully, a girl in the seventh grade who had spurned my overtures of love, two cousins, and three Campbellites, one of whom was their preacher.

Enough! John. Get to the stuff you didn't write last week.

Oh, yes. That stuff had to do with preachers and sermonizing. It all came to mind when I happened to come up Adrian Rodgers sermonizing on television. "Adrian," as he is called by both friend and foe, was the fundamentalist pastor of Bellevue Baptist Church in Memphis, Tennessee. He was very instrumental in the fundy coup of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Now, as much as I dislike Adrian, I have to hand it to him: he is quite good at multilateral eye when his theology sucks. And it does suck.

preparations per week: two on Sunday, and one on Wednesday evening. Now, he can pull it off if he has adequate time to prepare. But I don't know very many preachers who do given the demands congregations of size lay on their pastor. Caring for sheep and feeding sheep are time-consuming chores. (I may be writing in vain. You'd have to be a preacher to fully understand what I'm trying to say.)

A-mercy! Where did I get my sermon stuff when I was the fifteen-year-old pastor of the Sand Springs Baptist Church? I had to preach two times each week: once on Saturday night, then again on Sunday morning. I got one sermon by "borrowing" the Sunday evening message of the pastor of my "home" church, FBC, Mt. Vernon.

Sometimes I got another sermon from reading Clarence Walker's Ashland Avenue Baptist Church weekly bulletin. But there two thing wrong with those sermons (lead articles): first, there was a sameness to them; and, second, everybody and his sister received that paper - and everybody and his sister knew Clarence Walker was Mr. Fundamentalist in Kentucky. My Uncle Ben Hillard held that same title in southern Ohio. Now, beloved, it didn't set right for a young Southern Baptist to be preaching fundamentalist stuff, even if it was biblical.

Today, Southern Baptists and those fundamentalists of yesteryear are one and the same, which is why I am no longer a Southern Baptist, although my name is on roll as one. And I'm sure the fundys couldn't care less what I think. I'm no threat to them. But I keep trying.

When I got to college, I could count on a sermon or two from chapel and from my bible classes. And when I got to the seminary, I was running over with good stuff. If you took Dale Moody, Clyde Francisco, or Wayne Ward, you couldn't help having stuff.

But even then, there was a catch. Most seminary students were student pastors. And that meant those poor, tolerant souls in these churches got round after round of Moody, Francisco-Ward-et al! They recognized oldys!

The water hit the wheel when I finally got out of school and was left out there in the pasture, on my own to come up with good sermons while attending to the needs and whims of a congregation. And, to be downright truthful, I did a pretty fair job, if I have to say so myself. Buy even then, I resorted to an oldy now and then.

Oops! I've written long, and I must take leave of you, beloved, and go prepare some insecticide for Nancy to spray on our trees and other greens when she gets off work. Some horrible looking creeping things are working here and there in our yard.

Next week, dear hearts, try to remember this of all I've said: Don't expect your pastor to ring the bell every time he stands behind the sacred desk. Given the helter-skelter life of a church in these untoward times, there will be times when your pastor has something to say, and there will be times when he has to say something.

Threading My Needle

By Juanita Fordyce

I really, truly love to sew,
One thing takes part of the joy alike.

My eyes are not what they use to be,
Threading my needle is hard for me.

One thing gets my nose out of joint,
When I find I'm trying to thread the point.

Oh I hate running out of thread,
Threading my needle I really dread.

Sometimes it looks easy or can be,
I have to go to the window to see.
Wet my finger, shut one eye,
Threading my needle can be a try.

Sometimes after all the struggle I've tried,
I'm threading the small piece I cast aside.

Friend I just about blew my head,
Any wonder threading my needle I dread.

But I'll keep sewing long as I can see,
Sewing is just my thing, oh gee,
And threading my needle the price I pay,
For doing what I love to do each day.

VA Cemetery system in limelight

Reprinted from The Fighting Fourth of World War II (April/May/June Issue)

Submitted by Clayton Ponder
VA manages 115 national cemeteries containing more than 2 million dead. Some 22 are now closed to burial and 36 are open only to cremated remains.

Even though only 10% of veterans request burial in a national cemetery, the 1 million remaining VA spaces may not be enough. Deaths among WWII veterans are projected to peak in 2008, when 620,000 veterans deaths are projected, according to a USA Today article.

A crisis in the availability of funeral honor guards is brewing, too. Because the number of WWII vets - they form the bulk of honor guards - are rapidly diminishing, military funeral rites cannot always be carried out.

In January, VA created a task force to study the problem. Moreover, Rep. Paul E. Kanorski (D-Pa.) and Sen. Patty Murray (D-Wash.) have introduced bills authorizing each state's National Guard to use federal funds for honor guards.

"It Is Written"

Recently, with all the attention about the Power Ball Lottery, the question arises about gambling. How should we feel about gambling? Is it wrong? Let us look to God's word for the answer.

First the word "gambling" is not found in the Bible, but neither are the words, incest, rape, abortion, shopping, bootlegging, larceny, etc., yet we shouldn't conclude that all of these things are OK.

God recognizes 4 legitimate means of gain:

1. The Law of labor, where by one works to earn money, or something of value. Lk 10:7, Eph 4:28
2. The Law of exchange, where we buy, sell, trade and make a gain. Jm 4:13
3. The law of giving, of my own will I choose to give another something. Ac 24:17
4. The Law of inheritance, that by family decent I receive goods of a dead relative. Lk 12:13

Now as we study gambling it does not fall under any 4 of these means of gain. It is not working, it's not "horse trading" or receiving a gift nor is it an inheritance. Where then ought we to classify it?

Actually gambling is stealing by consent. Based on some element of chance, one wages or puts up a certain stake, against another man's wager or stake, and whatever the outcome of this element of chance determines who gets the other man's money. You see God teaches, "Thou shalt not steal" Rm 13:9. Though it is done with consent it still does not make it right. Dealing is murder by consent. An unmarried couple may mutually consent to have sex, yet it still is fornication.

Covetousness is generally the root cause of gambling. The Bible is very plain in it's condemnation of the covetous spirit. Luke 12:15, "And he said unto them, Take heed, and beware of covetousness: for a man's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth." Also, Col 3:5.

Your best "bet", is not to make one!

We know funerals aren't something people want to discuss or even think about.

But unfortunately, avoiding the topic doesn't make it go away. In fact, the easier and less stressful way of dealing with funerals is making funeral arrangements in advance. You can decide the music, the place, the service, and how much you wish to spend. For many years, the Dowell & Martin Funeral Home has been offering these thoughtful, caring pre-arrangement services to the families of the Rockcastle area.

Dear Editor,

Some members of Congress have suggested that the President's "apology" might be acceptable to wipe the slate clean. This is an insult to law-abiding, taxpaying citizens who pay his salary!

Though our family has never been polled on the sex, lies and "gates" of the past six years, we believe that Clinton's violating the oath of office, taken with one hand on the Bible the other raised toward Almighty God, warrants the same punishment we peons would receive for the same thing. It's doubtful this President knows the words in either the Bible or the Constitution. He certainly shows little respect, or fear of retribution. It's time he learned!

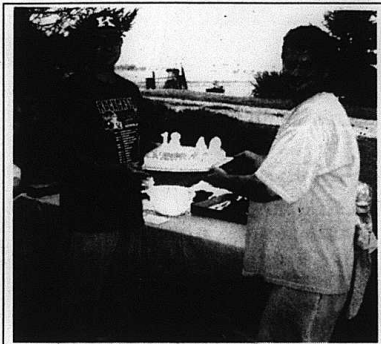

If Congress forgives this abuse of power that really is the point in administering the oath of office to future presidents? Or to anyone dealing with legal matter? The precedent has been established by the First Couple, both of whom have rendered perjury laws quaint and obsolete. So in the future, why not dispense with this once sacred oath instituted by our Founding Fathers to scare the truth out of would-be liars!

Disregard for the Bible, in my opinion, is the real definition of taking the name of the Lord in vain having no intention of keeping the oath that ends with "so help me God." Like the women in his life, Clinton uses and abuses God when it serves a purpose. Furthermore, his arrogance has produced a vast number in denial and an even greater number who undoubtedly believe he is guilty, but are

Women take to the outdoors at the first Kentucky Women in the Outdoors event

For Joan Garrison from Mt. Vernon, summer fun included a weekend seminar learning about the outdoors during the fourth National Wild Turkey Federation Women in the Outdoors program event held in the United States. The event was held at the 4-H Camp, Lake Cumberland, Jabez, July 24-27.

This event brought together 50 other women who represented more than 20 cities throughout Kentucky, Tennessee and Ohio. Participants learned about shotgunning and gun safety, camping, deer and turkey hunting, canoeing, fresh water fishing, turkey calling and archery. For many of the women, it was the first time they ever shot a rifle, a shotgun or a compound bow.

Nationally known entertainer and a national spokesperson for Women in the Outdoors, Irene Mandrell, attended the event and joined in to learn more about archery from Kentucky Afield's show host and executive producer, Tim Farmer.

On Sunday, Joan Brown with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, brought a collection of live snakes and snake skins to teach the women how to identify native snakes.

The NWTFF launched the Women in the Outdoors program to teach women about wildlife management, increase their participation in outdoor recreation and encourage support of the NWTFF's mission to conserve wild turkeys and preserve hunting traditions. In addition, this program will provide the foundation to train women to become outdoor educators themselves and develop a network of outdoors enthusiasts with similar interests.

"We're especially excited these outdoor learning experiences will be one-day events offered at a very affordable cost that will appeal to today's busy and budget-conscious woman," said Rob Keck, NWTFF executive vice president/CEO.

"Our events will be self-supporting and will receive funding from the NWTFF's Wild Turkey Super Fund, along with other corporate contributions. I am proud to announce that Bass Pro Shops, Patton Pictures, Federal Cartridge Co., Hunter's Specialties, Beretta U.S.A. Corp., International Paper and Realtree Outdoors Products have signed on as major sponsors of this new program."

These events will be hosted across the country through the NWTFF's local chapters, which now number more than 1,000.

Plans calls for 100 local NWTFF chapters to host Women in the Outdoors program in 1998, which will reach 5,000 women nationwide. By the year 2000, NWTFF Women in the Outdoors, is projected to reach 20,000 females per year.

Each event offers several activities and courses. Among the possible courses and activities that may be offered also include birdwatching, turkey, and deer hunting, canoeing, kayaking, hiking, habitat improvement, primitive cooking and boating.

For more information about these Women in the Outdoors program events, please call Trish Berry at (803)637-3106 or 800-THE-NWTFF.

RHRCC sponsors Heart Disease and Stroke Awareness Month

Heart disease is the leading cause of death in the United States and strokes are not far behind as the nation's third leading killer. Kentucky ranks fifth in the nation for heart disease related deaths and nearly 158,000 people are killed each year by strokes.

Taking these statistics into account, Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center, Inc. (RHRCC) has designated August as Heart Disease and Stroke Awareness Month.

"We want to educate people about heart disease and stroke, and let them know that these health risks can be avoided with proper preventive measures," said Dr. Karen Saylor of RHRCC.

To aid in the prevention process, RHRCC will be offering free cholesterol screenings in the lab on the main floor of the hospital located at 145 Newcomb Avenue. The screenings will be offered August 24-28 from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. The screenings take only 10 to 15 minutes and consist of having blood drawn from the arm.

"These screenings are an opportunity for Rockcastle Countians to find out if they are at risk for heart disease or stroke," said Larry Bullock, director of laboratory services at RHRCC. "Appointments are not necessary, but to ensure an accurate reading, participants should not eat or drink anything other than water for at least 14 hours before the screening."

The results will be mailed to participants' family physicians so they can be guided on the right path toward prevention. RHRCC will keep all results confidential.

In addition to the screenings, participants can stop by display tables in the hospital lobby or to obtain more information about heart disease and stroke throughout the week. To thank participants, RHRCC will give away a miniature flashlight key chain or baseball cap to everyone receiving a free cholesterol screening.

"It is extremely important to control your cholesterol level to prevent heart disease and stroke," Saylor said. "A cholesterol reading of 200 or more is high and should be reduced with a change in diet and increased exercise, as directed by your physician."

The Facts about Heart Disease and Stroke:

A heart attack occurs when a part of the heart is blocked. Arteries clogged with a buildup of cholesterol often cause this blockage. Blood that tries to flow through the arteries can form a clot, clogs block blood from reaching a part of the heart, causing it to shut down.

A stroke occurs when circulation of blood to the brain is blocked or significantly decreased. As a result brain cells are left without oxygen, which can lead to severe damage or death of those cells. Symptoms of a stroke can include sudden numbness of the face, arm, or leg, especially on one side of the body; sudden blurred vision; sudden severe headache; or sudden dizziness and confusion. The blockage can be caused by the movement of a clot from one part of the body to the brain or neck, the formation of a clot in the brain or neck, or a severe narrowing of an artery leading to the brain. As with heart attacks, the narrowing of an artery can be caused by a buildup of cholesterol.

In addition to knowing your cholesterol level, Saylor recommended the following guidelines to help prevent heart disease and stroke:

- Treat high blood pressure. Consult with your physician to determine a treatment plan.
- Maintain a diet low in salt, cholesterol and fat.
- Quit smoking.
- Only drink alcohol in moderation.
- Get plenty of exercise.
- Always visit your doctor for regular checkups.
- If you are diabetic, follow your doctor's order carefully to control it.

Because of that and the cooperation of the staff at the central office and the high school, each of the fifty-seven portfolios in question were extensively reviewed and some students' work was replaced by other works they had done before the April 24th testing deadline.

"We are glad we were able to resolve this matter and appreciate the work of everyone at the high school and at the central office," Superintendent Larry Hammond said.

The one novice score will affect the overall scores at the high school only in a minor way, Hammond said. Ms. Cruse, who was relieved of teaching her two senior English classes during the investigation, was re-hired by the board of education and is still teaching English at RCHS.

"On The Air...with John Lair"

New book about John Lair on sale now

"Hot off the press," here's a new book that's bound to be of interest to Rockcastle Countians and to all fans of Renfro Valley.

"If you remember listening to John Lair on the radio, or if you'd just like to know more about the man who founded Renfro Valley, this is a book you will treasure for many years to come," said his daughter, Ann Lair Henderson.

The 120 pages are filled with more than 80 of the songs and poems written by John Lair, most of which were heard on the wide variety of radio programs that he produced in his 50-plus years of broadcasting.

"You'll learn a little bit about why and when these songs and poems were written, and in some cases, the person for whom they were written."

Mrs. Henderson said. "By means of direct quotes, and excerpts from some of his program scripts, you'll come to know the influences and dreams that shaped his life and his radio career," she said.

The 31 photos and illustrations throughout the book trace events from his boyhood in Renfro Valley, to his years in Chicago on station WLS and in Cincinnati on WLW, and finally back to Renfro Valley in 1939, and on until his death in 1985.

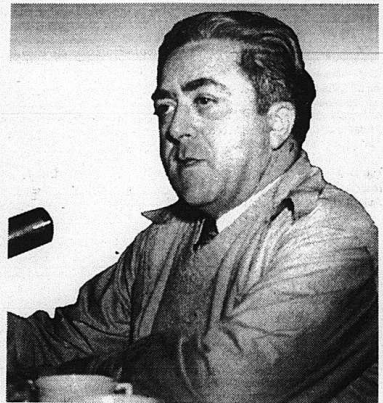

Also included are cast pictures from each decade along the way. Of special interest to Renfro Valley fans will be the list of performers and musicians who brought Lair's words and music to life via the airways from 1939 to 1989.

"We know you'll enjoy 'ON THE AIR...with JOHN LAIR," so be sure to order your copy right away; the first edition will probably be the only printing." Mrs. Henderson said. "If ordering my mail, the price is $15.50 per book, plus $2.50 for postage and handling or $4.00 p&h for two or more books. Please send your name and address, along with a check or money order for the number of books you want to purchase to: POLLY HOUSE PUBLICATIONS, P.O. BOX 127, MT. VERNON, KY 40456.

School Has Started. Watch Out For Our Children.

BE ALERT TO VISUAL CUES:

Watch for school zone signs, cross walks, school crossing guards, buses, and kids walking along the roadway. Around parked cars, watch for shadows and motion-signs that a child may be present.

SLOW

SLOW DOWN: At only 20 mph, a car travels 41 feet between the time you see a child and actually stop. If you're sleepy or distracted, reaction time and stopping distances increase. Worn tires and wet pavement have a similar effect.

SLOW

ALLOW YOURSELF TIME TO REACT: On two-lane streets, move as close to the center line as possible, allowing room for bicyclists and pedestrians. As mornings become darker this fall, drive with your headlights on so that you can see and also be seen.

SLOW

USE YOUR HORN JUDICIOUSLY: A light touch is all that's really necessary, whereas a blast might scare a child.

SLOW

USE CAUTION AROUND BUSES: Motorists are required to stop for loading/unloading buses and remain stopped as long as the bus has its red lights flashing and stop sign extended. However, drivers on multi-lane highways (more than 4 lanes) need not stop for loading/unloading school buses traveling in the OPPOSITE direction. Keep in mind that buses require extra room for turning at intersections.

SLOW

BE PATIENT, PARTICULARLY ON THE WAY HOME: Risk of accidents is FOUR times greater in the afternoon - due to human psychology. Drivers are less alert and are irritable after a long day at the office. Kids, however, are excited to be out of school. As frustrating as it may be, keep your temper. Being two minutes late for dinner won't kill you or anyone else. Rushing just might.

Mrs. Maryland Painter Meyer, of Houston, Texas and originally of Brodhead, recently sent me a copy of the cast from a Brodhead Grade School play that was held about 1938. Maryland indicates that she was in the fifth grade. I thought the Signal's readers would enjoy seeing it. Perhaps some of the readers will recognize themselves or their parents that were in this play long ago. It is said that many of the children in the play have passed on.

ter of social life for the community, with peak interest being on Friday night and Sunday evening. Those were the times the workers would come home on Friday and leave on Saturday, with weekend visitors arriving on numbers 21, 22, 23 and 24.

As the trains arrived, you hear the word go through the crowd, "Who's that?" "Wonder who they are visiting?" "Why, there's old Jim Jones, haven't seen him for some twenty-five years, if who got off the train were greeted with a hug or a handshake, no strangers here."

Many people in the town of Brodhead still remember the "good old days" of the Depot.

Charlie Hurt, agent/operator, was Mr. Louisville and Nashville Railroad. One had to see Charlie to ship freight, buy a train ticket and even find out if the train was on time. It was said he could even get a ticket for you to go "clear to California" by railroad.

A true story was told many times about Charlie's efficiency as the station agent. A shipment of live bees arrived at the depot in Brodhead and Charlie was faced with the problem of getting the bees in a hurry to Henry Crawford who ordered them. It was Sunday and no delivery was possible. There was no phone on the Crawford farm.

Soon, however, Charlie saw Crawford's dog outside the depot. He lured the dog in with some food, wrote a note about the arrival of the bees, attached it to the dog's collar, and then "shoed" the dog home. Within the hour Crawford arrived to pick up his bees. Efficiency? I'll say.

Each freight train crew had his own signal, or whistle, when passing through Brodhead. Two short blasts let all know Sam Long was the engineer. One short blast and two longs, it was Ed Hurt, brother to Agent Charlie. One short, one long and a short toot, toot was Russell Atkinson. Thus, the message went out to say hello to family and friends alike — all is well, don't worry.

The depot was built at four different times. The freight room was built in 1880 and used only that purpose. Offices, and passenger waiting rooms, were added in 1914. The company maintained 24 hour service, with three operators, an agent, an assistant agent and a freight handler.

At that time, the depot served as a water station for engines and for all trains on the Lebanon Branch of the L&N. The depot also served as a lunch stop. Many people still remember one could order a box lunch of sandwiches, or, if you were really hungry, a two piece chicken dinner with the vegetables, homemade bread, drink and a piece of home baked pie. This would set you back thirty-five cents! Three local restaurants handled the task, these were the Frith, Murphy and Clark establishments.

But then, the unthinkable happened. A fellow by the name of Ford invented a contraption called a horseless carriage. Dirt roads became two-lane highways. "Cars," as many people called them, could zip along the highways at 25 to 30 miles per hour. From that day on things were never what they used to be at the Brodhead depot or, for that matter, on the entire L&N system, or anywhere else. An era had ended, "progress" had taken over, and on December 31, 1954, the order came down to close the passenger service. A freight station was maintained for a few more years, then that too was closed.

After fifty-five years of service with the L&N forty-eight as agent at Brodhead, Charlie Hurt closed and locked the door for the last time. Maybe, just maybe, we all shed a small tear when that was done. Soon the depot was torn down and all trains ceased to run. The three restaurants are gone, the water tower was dismantled and the tracks are in need of repair. What is the old depot site now used for - a parking lot for that contraption, the horseless carriage.

The Brodhead Depot
"Here she comes." "Is she on time?" "All Aboard." Magic words that made the heart beat a little faster. Words that made many of us dream of faraway places with strange sounding names.

What is all this? Why, of course, it's one of the four daily passenger trains pulling into the station at Brodhead.

The Louisville and Nashville Railroad was to the residents of Rockcastle County, and Brodhead, what the Mississippi River was to Mark Twain.

Brodhead was considered somewhat of a railroad town with so many of the men living there while working away on the section gangs, or as station operators, engineers, conductors, or on bridge gangs and other railroad related jobs.

The Brodhead depot was the cen-

Service-Learning to the "Core"

By Susan R. Coffey & Cynthia W. Rogers

Believing in meaningful, student-centered learning and knowing that not only must student learning be authentic but that it must serve as preparation for accountability—all as real-life, we set out to find a way to address Kentucky Core Content and academic expectations as well as KERP requirements while incorporating the DVoK model's, What's Up in Our Neighborhood? and America's Family Stories. Through these we wanted to help our students' awareness of their own neighborhood while helping them to see the influence of other cultures upon it. Most importantly, we wanted them to come to see the value of their own contributions to our neighborhood, that they too can contribute to making their neighborhood successful in hopes that the experiences we provided them would help to someday make them assets to their own neighborhood as citizens in the "real-world."

We set out to do this by providing our students with an opportunity to do a service-learning project which would be meaningful to them and yet serve as a wheel that allowed us to address the content our students needed to come to know, to not only have had addressed in instruction, but come to "own" the knowledge because they had a real need to learn in order to successfully complete their project.

Our team worked under a year long theme, Our Neighborhood Past and Present: A Celebration of Diversity in which students came to better understand and appreciate their neighborhood and themselves through a variety of experiences which led them to have a need to research, go into their school neighborhood and extend into other neighborhoods within Rockcastle County. As a result of their research and experiences, students decided they would like to make a contribution to their school community. They chose to take on a service-learning project in which they might apply the knowledge they had obtained from their study of neighborhood animals and plants to honor the alumnus of Broadhead Elementary School by renovating the Alumni Garden that had been previously created in honor of the last graduating Broadhead High School class.

Our students set out to attract neighborhood animals to our garden, because they thought by doing so it would increase the awareness of local citizens of them and result in a better place for them to live. To do this we had to focus our research on neighborhood animals we hoped to attract to our garden, learn how to attract them which leads us to learn more about plants. We also wanted them to learn more about the history of our neighborhood and school to better understand why the alumnus had created the garden in the first place.

Many of us request the permission of our school's principal, Mr. Mark McKinney, by writing persuasive letters, to adopt the Alumni Garden in order to renovate the garden along with honoring those of B.E.S. who had come before them. With Mr. McKinney's gracious consent, the project got underway leading to:

1. unit of study of neighborhood animals (goal being to attract more neighborhood animals to the Alumni Garden for students to see and study)
2. students collaborate to write "Animal Adoption Contracts" to share with other classes and local schools studying animals
3. (Mrs. Kim Woolums worked with students to do this.)
4. students produce a music video, after using their knowledge of visual arts to create costumes, to be shared with other classes and local schools studying animals
5. to be presented during rededication
6. write a persuasive letter to Mr. McKinney to ask permission to renovate Alumni Garden
7. Negotiate creation of Neighborhood Museum for those attending rededication to visit in order to learn more about our neighborhood
8. publish feature articles for team's NEWSFLASH magazine which will be distributed during the rededication of the Alumni Garden
9. do study of Native Americans and African Americans to discover their influence upon and contribution to our neighborhood
10. study simple machines, electricity and their contribution and connection to the functioning of our neighborhood
11. SWAT teachers along side high school FFA clean up glass in garden to make it safe for students to work in
12. write a budget for purchases for project (practical/workplace reading, economics)
13. classes pick up trash in and around garden
14. study of plants in an effort to make wise choices for garden to ensure we meet our objective
15. create neighborhood quilt to share history of school, school neighborhood, and county (to be presented to school in honor of alumnus on day of rededication)
16. publishing Neighborhood Resource Guide to be shared with school and other local schools studying about their neighborhood. (This will be contributed annually as we learn more about our neighborhood and that which influences it.)
17. work on garden and plant a few plants and/or bushes (clean, mulch, possibly repair broken lights, clean pond and add goldfish)
18. students make invitations and distribute

To share what we learned and to share this with others in our school and neighborhood we set out to create a Neighborhood Resource Guide for other local schools and groups to have in order that they too might take advantage of learning through their neighborhood. The students also created a quilt about our neighborhood (past and present) that will be shared with students, teachers and visitors of our school.

The best part about this project is that it provided meaningful learning for our students and in turn our students took ownership of their own learning which resulted in "owned learning", a learning that is retained. In turn, it...

- * offered students choices
- * promoted independent thinking
- * engaged students in higher level thinking process
- * related to real-life experiences
- * embedded opportunities for authentic assessment well as our school. In turn, it...

- * promoted collegial sharing, support and development
- * encouraged collaborative planning and curriculum development
- * promoted team building and community networks
- * invited a variety of participants such as team members, school staff, parents, local businesses, community organizations and content resources fact that it plays not only in our students' lives, but our lives as well as it made us more aware of the neighborhood in which we teach and its resources. Students are not only actively engaged in learning but also in their school and neighborhood through service!

Local resident attends Summer Orientation for incoming freshmen at EKV. Heather Shivel, Brodhead, recently attended a summer orientation session for incoming freshmen at Eastern Kentucky University. In addition to informational and advising sessions and tours, students completed the day by registering for fall classes, which begin Monday, August 24. For more information, call EKV's Division of Admissions at 606-622-2106 or toll-free in Kentucky, 1-800-465-9191. EKV's home page on the World Wide Web can be accessed at <http://www.eku.edu>.

About 15,500 students expected at EKV this fall

Approximately 15,500 students are expected to be enrolled at Eastern Kentucky University this fall. Registration for fall semester classes continues through Thursday, August 27. The deadline for degree-seeking students to apply for admission is Wednesday, August 5, and day and evening classes will start Monday, August 24. EKV's residence halls will open at 8 a.m. Wednesday, August 19.

Les Grigsby, EKV director of admissions, said he expects little change in the number of students from last year, when 15,425 students enrolled for the fall semester. Roughly the same number of first-time freshmen, about 2,300, are expected. Almost 2,000 Eastern students will attend classes at one of the University's three educational centers in Corbin, Manchester and Danville.

This year's incoming freshmen were welcomed by the University's new president Dr. Robert Kustra, at their summer orientation sessions. Also during orientation, the students were able to register for their first semester of classes through the Colonel Connection, a telephone system implemented to simplify the lives of EKV students. Besides registration, students also use the Connection regularly to check on housing, admissions and financial aid status, even their final semester grades.

As part of an ongoing effort to better meet the needs of students and potential employers, several academic programs have also been modified.

Returning students will also note a modest increase in tuition, as set by the Kentucky Council on Postsecondary Education and approved by the EKV Board of Regents. Tuition for the 1998-99 academic year will be as follows: resident undergraduate, $960, an increase of $60; non-resident undergraduate, $2,880, up $180; resident graduate, $1,060, an increase of $70; and non-resident graduate, $3,180, up $210.

But that's still among the lowest in Kentucky, Grigsby said, adding, "The combination of innovative academic programs, affordable costs and a competitive financial aid program make Eastern an educational bargain and a wise investment."

Many prospective students and their parents are surprised to learn that about 77 percent of EKV students receive some type of financial assistance, which last year totaled about $49 million. More than $11 million of that amount was in the form of grants, which do not have to be repaid. Also, the maximum Pell Grant award for 1998-99 has been increased from $2,700 to $3,100.

For more information, call EKV's

Division of Admissions at 606-622-2106 or, toll-free in Kentucky, 1-800-465-9191. EKV's home page on the World Wide Web, which also contains valuable information, can be accessed at <http://www.eku.edu>.

Cromer graduates from Berea College

Rockcastle County High graduate Barbara Cromer was one of 206 seniors who received degrees from Berea College on May 24 at the Scabury Center. Wilma Dykeman, author and lecturer, gave the commencement address. Cromer is the daughter of Larry and Alice Cromer of Mt. Vernon.

Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center expands consulting staff

Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center, Inc. (RHRCC) announced the addition of four new physicians to its consulting medical staff. In an effort to continue bringing high-quality specialized medical care to Rockcastle County, the consulting staff has been expanded to include an otolaryngologist; a plastic surgeon; a neurologist; and a heart, lung and vascular surgeon.

"The addition of these four specialties strengthens our ability to provide necessary and accessible medical care to the residents of Rockcastle County," said Lee Keene, administrator of RHRCC.

The new consulting physicians are Dr. Robert D. Woods II, a board-certified otolaryngologist from Lexington; Dr. David Brabon, a plastic surgeon from Louisville; Dr. Kalvarayan Viswalingam, a neurologist from Cincinnati; and Dr. Sibup P. Saha, a board-certified heart, lung and vascular surgeon from Lexington.

Woods will work at the Rockcastle Hospital Medical Arts Building on the second and fourth Tuesday of the month from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Woods has been in practice for 18 years, specializing in the medical and surgical treatment of the ear, nose, throat and related areas. He evaluates patients with ear disease, hearing or speech problems, sinus infections, allergies and other related problems.

"Joining Rockcastle as a consulting physician has allowed me to provide more accessible care for patients and has lowered the expenses for transporting patients to out-of-town offices," Woods said. "I am glad to be a part of the impressive, caring staff at Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center."

Brabon began consulting at RHRCC almost two years ago. He consults at Rockcastle Medical Arts Building on the second and fourth Friday of each month from 8 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Previously Brabon worked for 13 years as a missionary in Bogota, Colombia, at the largest burn and plastic surgery center in the country. He served as chief of plastic surgery there from 1993-1995. Currently, Brabon's practice is in Louisville.

Brabon specializes in restoring function and beauty to the extent possible after injury, cancer, birth defects and aging. He performs procedures such as skin cancer removal, rebuilding of the facial structure, revision of unsightly scars and removal of spider veins, birthmarks, moles and warts with laser technology.

"Staff members at Rockcastle are exemplary in their skill, scientific knowledge and compassion, making it a pleasure to associate with them," Brabon said. "I enjoy helping out at Rockcastle and easing the long delays sometimes faced by patients with skin tumors or similar problems."

Viswalingam consults at Rockcastle Medical Arts Building from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month. He evaluates patients with neurological problems such as severe headache, seizures, strokes, neck and back pain and nerve and muscle problems. In order to be treated, patients must have a referral from their family physician. Viswalingam has been in practice for 20 years in the United States and previously worked in England before opening his neurology practice near Cincinnati.

"I decided to help at Rockcastle because I like the small, unique town and know many of the physicians there," Viswalingam said. "I am glad that I can help make needed services available to Rockcastle County residents."

Saha is the co-executive medical director and surgeon-in-chief of the Baptist Heart Institute at Central Baptist Hospital in Lexington. He comes to RHRCC from 1 p.m. to 3 p.m. on the first and third Wednesday of each month. Saha performs heart, lung and vascular surgery. He has been in practice for 22 years.

"I have seen patients from Rockcastle for many years," Saha said. "Now it will be more convenient for the patients because I will be coming to them."

"The Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center facility is one of the finest I have seen in a rural area." The staff is competent and courteous.

Woods, Brabon, Viswalingam and Saha are accepting appointments at the Rockcastle Medical Arts Building. For more information, contact your family physician or call 256-4148.

still be short of the actual time, but it will be much closer to reality than the "two weeks" the contractor estimated.

2. If you and your wife are working together on a project, men, keep your mouth shut. Do not offer suggestions. This is not the time for constructive criticism. Saying "Honey, that piece of paper is more crooked than your mama's hind leg," is not a good idea. Speak only if spoken to.

3. Stay out of your wife's way. Move only if she tells you to. Hold the ladder for her and hand her the tools when she asks and not a minute before.

4. Realize that women know more about painting and wallpapering than any male does.

Now that I think about it, men, probably the best thing you can do during a HOME IMPROVEMENT PROJECT is to stay out of your wife's way. Why not check out the Braves' game on TV?

Home Improvements Cause Marital Stress

So you think your marriage is in pretty good shape, huh? Think your relationship could stand up to any challenge? Well, don't be so sure. Just try making some HOME IMPROVEMENTS and see how quickly you retain legal counsel.

This weekend my wife and I did some painting and papering. It had been twenty years since we had tried to hang wallpaper together. (This tells you something about how horrible that first experience was.)

This long-ago fiasco occurred just prior to the birth of our first child. We wanted to get the nursery ready for the new arrival and decided to paper one wall (that's right, just one wall). We began at 10:00 a.m.

The house in which we were living at the time was an older home. This meant that NO WALL IN THE HOUSE WAS STRAIGHT. If you can, picture two novice wall-paper hangers trying to match an intricate pattern of cows, ducks and chickens on a crooked wall.

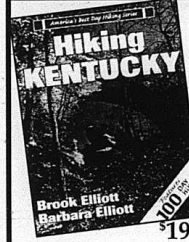

By 11:00 we were angry at the wall. Soon thereafter we began to take it out on each other. By noon we weren't speaking and by 1:00 each had decided that the other was in league with the devil. It was not a pretty sight.

Thus you can imagine with what fear and trembling I approached the wallpaper hanging of this past weekend. Thankfully it went better this time. There were no harsh words, because I have learned some basic rules for husbands in a home improvement situation. For those men who may not have discovered these rules yet, I list them now. Memorize them. Your very existence depends on it.

1. Every home improvement job takes longer than you think it will. This is the most basic rule of all. If you figure the task will take thirty minutes, allow at least four hours. And if you are into a major remodeling and have been given an estimate of "two weeks" by the contractor, double that. Then triple that. Then add two months. This will probably
