Carmichael indicted by federal grand jury

The former chief prosecutor in the 28th Judicial District entered "not guilty" pleas to charges against him in relation to an alleged shake down of a Somerset pawnshop owner.

Ray Carmichael, commonwealth's attorney for Rockcastle, Pulaski and Lincoln counties, was arraigned Monday in U.S. District Court at Lexington. His trial was set for Oct. 5, and his case has been assigned to U.S. District Judge Karl Forrester.

A spokeswoman in the U.S. District Court clerk's office in Lexington said the paper work on the case has been mailed to U.S. District Court in London "because it is still a London case." However, she said the trial probably will be held in Lexington because the case has been assigned to Judge Forrester.

She said Carmichael was released on bond after arraignment. Because the paper work was in the mail, neither court location could recall the amount of bond set for Carmichael.

Carmichael was indicted August 12 by a federal grand jury in Covington. The indictment charges Carmichael with extortion and attempted extortion.

The indictment alleges that Carmichael, 39, of Somerset, extorted a total of $5,500 from Rodney Adams and attempted to extort between $50,000 and $100,000.

The federal grand jury indictment alleges that Adams had both a felony and a misdemeanor charges pending against him and that he allegedly was involved in a gambling operation.

The grand jury alleges that Carmichael, in his capacity of commonwealth's attorney, requested and received $500 from Adams' attorney to decorate his office last Christmas.

Convicted murderer seeks new trial

The attorney for convicted murderer Gary Casper McKinney, 31, of Rockcastle County, is asking for a new trial.

McKinney, through his attorney Mark Stanziano of Somerset, has filed a motion in Pulaski Circuit Court listing at least seven reasons why a new trial should be granted.

In July, a five-man, six-woman jury also found McKinney guilty of second-degree arson, tampering with physical evidence and three counts of abuse of a corpse. The defendant and the commonwealth waived jury sentencing to all charges except murder.

Shirley McKinney died from multiple gunshot wounds. Amy died

Reward offered River claims Laurel man

A $200 reward has been offered for the return of a 12 gauge shotgun that was stolen last week from the residence of John D. Bullens at Brindle Ridge.

The Revelation shotgun is 75 years old and was stolen from Bullens truck.

Anyone with any information should contact the Rockcastle Sheriff's office at (606)256-2032.

A Laurel County man apparently drowned in the Rockcastle River at Bee Rock Recreation Area Saturday night, according to Pulaski County Sheriff Sam Catron.

Billy Lee Johnson, 38 of 58 Burnes Lane, London, had been the subject of an all-night and all-day search after he had been reported missing from a campsite on the Pulaski County side of the park since about 6:30 p.m. Saturday. Catron said the body was found at 4 p.m. Sunday in about 10 feet of water near where witnesses said they had observed a man sitting on a rock about 7:50 p.m. Saturday.

Catron said the man is believed to have drowned. "We have no reason to suspect foul play at this point," the sheriff commented.

RCHS principal Ronnie Cash let go Monday

By Richard Anderkin

In an unprecedented move concerning Rockcastle County educators, local Superintendent Larry Hammond on Monday terminated the employment contract of Rockcastle County High School principal Ronnie Cash.

Hammond confirmed on Tuesday that he had given Cash his letter of termination on Monday - making August 17th Cash's last official day on the job.

Cash, who has been a teacher and principal in the Rockcastle school system for the past 27 years was beginning his twelfth year as principal at the high school.

Hammond would not comment on the reason for the termination letter and said only it was a personnel matter.

Ronnie Cash

Under state education guidelines, Cash has ten days to file an appeal of his termination with the commissioner of education, Wilmer S. Cody. If an appeal is filed by Cash, the commissioner has 45 days in which to set a hearing before a tribunal.

The three member tribunal is made up of a school administrator, a teacher and a lay person from another county located in an area of the state that would know nothing about Rockcastle's situation.

The Kentucky Education Reform Act, which totally overhauled the way school systems in Kentucky operate, gave all hiring and firing power to school superintendents for each employee in the school district. A superintendent only reports his or her personnel actions to local boards of education. Local boards of education hire and fire only the superintendents and board attorneys.

In March, RCHS English teacher Julie Carse filed charges of sexual harassment against Cash, which are still pending before the state department's professional standard's board.

Last year, two former RCHS teachers, Joyce Ponder and Johnna Ward, also filed charges of harassment against Cash. Ponder charged sexual harassment and discrimination. Ward charged Cash with harassment, degradation and intimidation.

But, the professional standard's board in Frankfort completely dismissed both of the women's charges against Cash last Spring.

But, Mrs. Ponder later filed suit in federal court against Cash. Superintendent Hammond and the Rockcastle County Board of Education. That law suit is also still pending.

Hammond said that by law he could appoint an interim principal and probably would until the Site Based Council at the high school picked a permanent replacement for Cash.

Hammond said that he would submit a list of qualified candidates to the council for their consideration and they would pick a replacement from the applications he gave them.

Under state law the council can only consider the applicants which are presented to them by the Superintendent, but they have the final say in who is hired.

Members of the SBDM council are parents members Debbie Brown and Yvonne Carmack and teachers Tom Larkey, Debbie Cash and Jeff Hayes.

Martin, others indicted here

A Rockcastle County Grand Jury handed down three indictments on Friday for crimes ranging from attempted murder to burglary.

Glen "Tommy" Martin, 27, of Conway, was indicted on six counts after a July 21st incident at Snyder, in which he was arrested by constable Dale Miller.

Martin was indicted for attempting to murder Miller, Jesse Mullins, Rodney Mullins and Kelly Mullins, with Miller's 9 mm pistol.

Miller and Martin had become involved in a scuffle when Miller attempted to arrest Martin on an outstanding warrant.

During the scuffle, Martin tried

Two Rockcastle County High School students escaped serious injury Saturday night when the car they were riding in flipped over several times. According to police, Jessica Cobb, a junior, and Brandy Reynolds also a junior at RCHS, were traveling east on Hwy. 150 around 9 p.m. Saturday when the car apparently had a blow-out. Above, Freddie Cromer of Town and Country Chevron prepares to roll the car back over on its wheels. Cobb and Reynolds were treated at Rockcastle Hospital and released.

Mt. Vernon fire captain Timie Bostic looks into what is left of an empty mobile home that burned in Hammond's Trailer Park on Saturday. Bostic said the fire was apparently set by children, who ran off.

It's a tad early to be doing any weather forecasting but Byron Crawford is already onto me to let him know what the National Association of Woolly Worm Winter Weather Watchers (NAWWWWW) has to say about the coming winter.

Crawford likes to beat everybody else to the draw and wants his research finished before by the first day of September. The only reason he puts it off that long is because he has somebody counting the number of foggy mornings in August. Otherwise he'd be aiming to get a forecast for the coming year published in the Easter Sunday issue of the Courier Journal.

Unfortunately the NAWWWWW convention is not scheduled to happen until October. In fact they're still looking for a place to hold it. I talked to a couple of members over the weekend and they tell me they'd like to tie it into a sorghum stir-off. If anybody knows where it is going, please let me know.

It's not that the woolies would be in the way or underfoot at the stir-off. What they like to do is show up on about the third or fourth day and crawl under the cane stalks that have already been mashed. Apparently, once the stalks have soured a few days, they secrete a liquor that makes the woolies loosen up and have a good time. I have no idea what it does to their forecasting ability.

Anyway, if the number of foggy mornings in August has anything to do with the weather, Paint Lick is already scheduled for 17 snows and the month is just a little over half gone. It's been so thick a few mornings that you could have shoveled it and it's been heavy enough every morning this month to qualify for the definition "foggy."

But the few wooly worms that I have spoken with don't think it's going to be very bad. They insist on being quoted only as "unnamed sources" and not necessarily in line with NAWWWWW but they think the winter is going to be warmer and wetter than normal. They foresee three big snows, one of which will fall in December, another in February and one in March. They say they'll see several overnight dustings that will melt off when the sun comes up.

Now, again, all this is unofficial but Crawford wants to know right now and this is the best I can come up with. I simply figured that if I was going to spend half the day Saturday tracking down a few woolies in my basement and in the garage, I might as well get some mileage out of the effort myself.

Look for Byron's report from all across the state during the first week of September. Look for NAWWWWW's official version right here around the end of October or the first week in November. In the meantime, if you see snow chains on sale real cheap, buy them anyway. If it doesn't happen this year, sooner or later we're going to have a rough winter and those chains will keep for a long time.

ster. Sick of Washington jokes, folks? So am I.

Until next week, beloved, breathe a little prayer ... like ... "God, bless America. She sure could use it."

HERESAY

By: John Norman Meadows

Precious souls, children of an evil age, greetings and confabulations from Ned's Little Acre, my blissful abode situated hard by the babbling waters of Covens' Branch in the heart of wistful Wab, birthplace of the late, late C. Fincherhan, long-time Wabdoman mussel diver, and part-time radio announcer for the now defunct Wab'd Dirt Daubers, the National League's only eight-man baseball team ... back in the late thirties, if memory serves me well. It was Tate who said, "The main difference between football and baseball is that in baseball it's the bases, not the spectators, that get loaded."

Well, bless Bess, beloved, I've had a time writing this column. I've started three times only to erase everything after the first paragraph. Why? Because I felt that I should say something about the sad state of the Union due to the Clinton-Starr-Lewinsky, state of affairs in Washington. But when I had penned some of my opinions, I was not satisfied with the way I was saying what I had to say. After the third round I quit, telling myself I'd do better after a supper break. (Yes, we still observe "supper" in Wab ... in the evening ... and "dinner" happens around noon.)

(Supper break) Beloved, it's now 8:28 and I still don't have a worthwhile word about the Washington fiasco. And, after watching the evening news, I realize that by the time this article is printed and hits the street, anything worth saying will have been said.

(Say "Goodnight" to dogs break) So ... it's 9:15. Any word about Washington, John?

No, but I have an idea. I'm going to take another break - a back porch, rocking chair, pipe break! The dogs will understand. They always do. I'll take pen and pad in case Ophelia, the muse of would-be journalists, comes near and speaks.

(Rocking chair, pipe break) Ah, my soul, Ole One Eleven is hard to beat. My grandfather, Sidney Hellard, dearly loved his pipe. He got his tobacco from twisted leaves directly from the tobacco fields of Ernest Bulluck. I wish he could have pulled Ole One Eleven. Does he have his pipe in Beulah Land? I like to think so.

(Still puffin') I'm back, beloved. It's 10:07. Did Ophelia drop by? Nope. Not a hint of her. My doggies would have told me if she were anywhere in the vicinity.

So, beloved, in the face of my inability to say anything insightful that hasn't been said about Washington's mess, you will just have to settle for a few "insights" about Washington that I've culled along the way, some of which may help us understand what has happened to our Commander-in-Chief, Tourism in grave. (Been there. Done that. Bad scene. How bad? You don't want to know.) Here goes!

1) A lot of folks flock to Washington to ask what they can do for their country and what the salary is.

2) It appears that a lot of things being aired in Washington really need fumigating.

3) Every man and woman who takes office in Washington either grows or swells.

4) Washington is a city where half the people wait to be discovered, and the other half are afraid they will.

5) In Washington the favorite form of transportation is riding the president.

6) The city of Washington is divided into two classes: Who's who and Who's through.

7) Tourists visit Washington, D.C., as if it were a zoo. And it's no wonder. That's where the bull is shot, the buck is passed, and you get a bun

"It Is Written"

Today we want to consider an exhortation found in Hebrews 3:12-13. "Take heed, brethren, lest there be in any of you an evil heart of unbelief, in departing from the living God. But exhort one another daily, while it is called to day; lest any of you be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin." The context shows us that the people of God in the O.T. times had hardened their hearts in unbelief and disobedience. They had tried the patience of God and had pushed him over the limit, thus God swore that they would not enter into his rest. God's people today can be hardened through the deceitfulness of sin. When an evil heart of unbelief develops in the mind of a Christian, it will cause one to depart from the living God. Some folks try to tell us that you can't fall from grace if you are a Christian, but this doctrine is not so. The people of God back then did not enter in because of unbelief, and neither shall we. Thus we must "hold fast the confidence and the rejoicing of the hope firm unto the end." vs 6. "And we must "hold the beginning of our confidence steadfast unto the end." vs 14. God wants his people to children to grow and be faithful, there is no promise and hope for saints who quit believing. "But a certain fearful looking for of judgment and fiery indignation, which shall devour the adversaries." Hebrews 10:27

Telephone Solicitations No-Call List

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent
for Home Economics

Senate Bill 199 was passed by the 1998 Ky. General Assembly and went into effect July 15, 1998. SB 199 amended the law that regulates telemarketing practices in Kentucky.

SB 199 provides that certain "telemarketing companies" are prohibited from calling consumers who are listed on a No-Call list maintained by the Attorney General's Office Consumer Protection Division.

Consumers completing a written authorization to be on the no-call list will have their telephone numbers put on the list which must then be honored by telemarketing companies who are not exempt from this requirement.

Under the law passed by the legislature, only "telemarketing companies", defined as companies "engaged primarily in the business of conducting telephone solicitations" are prohibited from calling consumers on the no-call list. Thus, companies and non-profit organizations who conduct their own telemarketing sales calls will not be affected since they are not engaged primarily in the business of making telephone solicitations.

You must sign written authorization to be put on the no-call list. There is no fee to have your name listed. Telemarketing companies are charged a fee to obtain the list and pay for the cost of the program.

The list is published for the telemarketing companies on a monthly basis. Your name will be included on the list, the first business day of the month following the date our office receives your signature card.

You can get a card to be put on the no-call list by calling the Extension Office at 256-2403 or the Ky Attorney General's Office at 1-800-671-7701.

Health snacking with fresh fruits

Anytime is the perfect time to enjoy your favorite fresh fruits. From strawberries, blueberries and blackberries, to nectarines, pears and plums, fruits appeal to even the pickiest eaters. Fruit is an important part of a healthful eating pattern and many fruits are available throughout the year. Having so many choices should help meet the recommended two to four servings of fruit each day. One medium apple, banana or kiwi; 12 grapes; 1/2 cup of strawberries, melon or other fruit counts as one serving.

Nutritionally, Fruits Pack a Powerful Punch

There is more to fruit than meets the eye. Nutrition-wise, fruits are a bargain because they are low in calories and high in vitamins, minerals and fiber. For example, strawberries, cantaloupe and oranges are rich in folate and vitamin C. Folate (or folic acid) is a B vitamin that has been shown to lower the risk of birth defects. This vitamin is especially important for women during their childbearing years. When consumed in adequate amounts (400 Micrograms Daily) before and during pregnancy, folate can greatly reduce the risk of neural tube defects, such as spina bifida. Over 2,500 babies are born with these defects every year.

Many fruits are also good sources of fiber. Fiber keeps the intestinal tract in good health and some fibers may decrease risk of certain cancers and heart disease.

Keeping Fruit Fresh

Fruit tastes best when fresh. When shopping for fresh fruits, consider ripeness. If you are buying fruit to eat today, buy ripe. For tomorrow or the next day, look for fruit that needs just a little ripening. And if you don't plan to eat fruit until later in the week, buy fruits that aren't ripe. To hasten the ripening of some fruits, such as pears and peaches, put them in a loosely closed paper bag at room temperature.

Use this list to identify fruits you have never tried before. Look for them the next time you are at the Supermarket or farm stand.

- * Fruits that will continue to ripen: apricots, bananas, cantaloupe, kiwi, nectarines, peaches, pears, plantains and plums.
- * Fruits to buy ripe and ready to eat: apple, cherries, grapefruit, grapes, oranges, pineapple, strawberries, tangerines and watermelon.

it illegal for a man to strike his wife with any object thicker than his thumb. Hitting was OK, as long as the man didn't use a big stick!

History shows that often women have been considered nothing more than the property of a man. The Ten Commandments lists women along with donkeys and servants. This belief still exists in too many places.

Men, we must teach our sons that a woman is not a piece of property to be treated as a man wants. Women are individuals created by God, just as men were. As children of God they deserve loving treatment by spouses and friends. We men must publicly and privately demonstrate that hitting a woman is not acceptable behavior.

Part of the problem for Christian men is that we have focused too much of the "wives, submit yourselves unto your husbands," part of Ephesians 5: 22 in which husbands are commanded to "love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church and gave himself for it." We men need to focus more on loving our wives and less on trying to control them. The whole problem with abuse is a control issue. Abusive males are usually jealous, possessive and controlling. They cannot stand for the spouse to control her own life, so they attempt to take complete control. Men, we do not have to have control over the women in our lives. A strong marital relationship means each spouse give up the idea of controlling the other.

Brothers, being masculine does not mean hitting a woman. It is time we spoke out.

The Family Room

By Dr. Don Whitehead

Brothers, It Is Time To Speak Out!

Men, it is time for us to speak out against domestic violence! It is time for us to stand up and say that the true definition of masculinity does not include threatening or hitting a woman.

Domestic violence continues to be a massive problem for our society. Each week I talk with women who have been abused by spouses. Some of them show me the bruises on their arms and legs. Others tell of being threatened with guns or knives. One woman reported that her husband held a knife to her throat while her daughter watched.

Many women are verbally abused by spouses and boyfriends. Being called names and told they are fat, stupid and ugly, these women find their self-esteem shattered. They no longer believe in themselves. They give up hope and remain in the abusive relationship.

For more proof of the scope of the problem, one has only to keep up with the news on television, radio and in print. Local news in Somerset has been full of accounts of a man recently convicted of killing his wife and her two children and burning them up in their house.

Women have mobilized their resources to speak out about and to solve the problem of abuse. Now it is time for men to take up the cause.

A recent cover of Sports Illustrated reveals part of the problem. In a story about the National Football League, the headline is "The NFL's Real Men." The article focuses on the toughest, meanest men in the league. Identifying masculinity with the ability to inflict physical pain is a part of the problem. Some men perceive that problems can be solved with violence, and they live this out in their families.

In some parts of our society, hitting a woman is considered the man's right as her husband. This belief has a long history. The phrase "male of thumb" comes from the law that made manage, or even have a horse; just show up for the evening meal and other activities starting at 6:00 p.m. Remember, all funds raised will go to Indian Summer Camp, located at Irvine. The camp is designed to help children stricken with cancer find a little joy and happiness in an otherwise painful and perilous journey of cancer treatment. The camp is a non-profit organization, staffed by trained and screened volunteers. Health professionals supervise all medical needs including routine chemotherapy, blood counts, and other medical emergencies. It is a very worthwhile cause, so please, come out and have a good time...so that we can give a few special children a good time too! Questions? Call 256-2494 or 758-4706.

Agricultural News

By Warden Alexander, FSA Director

Warden Alexander, County Executive Director, of the Rockcastle County Farm Service Agency, recently announced a new effort to match farmers suffering from hay shortages with producers having hay surpluses.

"Some areas have surpluses, and some have severe shortages," said Mr. Alexander. "This is a new and exciting way to get producers in both situation in touch with each other."

Hay Net is a national clearing-house for producers with shortages or surpluses of hay. Farmers are encouraged to sign up and register their hay situation at the Rockcastle County FSA Office. FSA will use its nationwide computer network to share the information. Producers in need of hay will be provided with lists of the closest producers with hay to spare, and vice versa, allowing them to contact each other and make arrangements.

"I'm very pleased to be a part of this effort," said Mr. Alexander. "It's a great tool for getting badly needed hay to people who need to as quickly and efficiently as possible. The more people sign up, the better the system will work."

Hay Net will remain in operation for six months. Further information on Hay Net is available at Rockcastle County FSA, Hwy. 150 - Freedom School Road, Mt. Vernon and/or by telephoning our office at 256-2525 during office hours Monday-Friday 7:30 a.m.-5:00 p.m.

Rockcastle County producers who have suffered losses from natural disaster during the time period of November 27, 1997 through May 1, 1998 may be eligible to receive payments under the Livestock Indem-

In Loving Memory

In Memory of Bennett Burton, who passed away 17 years ago August 16, 1981

How my heart aches since that sad day, When they told me Bennett had passed away. I'll never forget the ones that stood by,

But oh, have I wanted to die and leave him here.

With his family he loved dear, The Lord's will must be done for He gave up his.

Only son to save us from this world's sin.

If we'll only repent and do His will, We can never understand why. We have to give our loved ones so young.

But we'll understand it, by and by. Sadly Missed By Mother, Vallie Burton

Mt. Vernon Message

Welcome Back! The halls of MVES are now filled with anxious, smiling faces, creative writings and artwork and busy faculty and staff. We look forward to a productive and exciting school year ahead.

In an attempt to increase home-school communications, school counselors and/or Family Resource personnel will be available every Tuesday after school until 7:00 p.m. We realize that school hours are not always convenient and do not always fit parents busy schedules, so this night is set aside for parents to come in and share information, concerns, ask questions, etc. Guidance counselors Deborah Cummins and Cindy Anderkin and Family Resource personnel Regina Jett and Gail Lainhart welcome you to take advantage of this opportunity and we hope that we can all work together to remove any educational barriers that may exist for our students.

Open House was held on August 6 and was very successful. We had approximately 400 in attendance! Students and parents were busy finding new classrooms, meeting new teachers and instructional assistants and school personnel and visiting Title I, Family Resource and PTA Booths.

Bus safety is always a priority at the beginning of each new school year and to be sure that this issue is addressed, bus safety videos have been shown and bus evacuation drills have been conducted. Ask your child to share with you what he/she has learned about bus safety this week.

Thought for the week: We must view young people not as empty bottles to be filled, but as candles to be lit.

At the end of the call, a confirmation number is given. Hunters must write down this number and keep it until the quota hunt. There is no way to replace this number if it is lost.

Bonus deer permits available

You may have heard talk about the sporting goods store about some changes in deer hunting regulations this year. While the hunting stories you usually hear aren't always true, they truly are some big changes for the upcoming deer hunting seasons.

can be used by hunters participating in a quota hunt.

First of all, hunters will have the opportunity to take more deer by using bonus deer permits. Hunters that buy their regular statewide permit can also purchase as many as three bonus deer permits at $10 each. The first permit is an antlerless archery permit which can be used statewide. The second is an antlerless gun or archery permit which can be used in one zone during gun season. The third bonus permit is a quota hunt permit which

It is important to remember that in order to purchase any bonus permit, you must first purchase your regular statewide deer permit. If you fill your statewide permit first, be sure to hold onto the attached stub when you use a bonus tag. This will prove that you are using your bonus tag legally.

Nutrition education soars with the help of Rockcastle County beef producers

A new education tool for this country's middle school science teachers is helping improve nutrition skills by capturing the imagination of children. The Fueled for Flight video education kit, created with checkoff funding from Rockcastle County beef producers, uses the exciting world of space travel to deliver a message about good nutrition and the role of beef in a healthful diet to fifth and sixth grade students.

Fueled for Flight is effective because it uses space travel and science — two subjects that fascinate children — to deliver a nutrition message, according to Beth Ratliff, Director, Promotion & Consumer Affairs, Kentucky Beef Council. "It's a simple message in a fun, informational package," says Ratliff. "By using astronauts Mark Lee and Jan Davis, as well as NASA food and fitness experts we can provide interesting facts to students that leave lasting impressions. Astronauts and scientists are excellent role models for children."

Among the message the kit sends is that variety and moderation, are the most important things to remember when eating for good health. In addition, it recognizes that beef can be a part of a healthful diet and provides protein and vitamins for energy and building muscle. The kit includes a 20-minute video, a 20-page teacher's guide, 16 activity masters for duplication, and a pre- and post-test.

Fueled for Flight was developed by the Education Department of the National Cattlemen's Beef Association, which has been creating and distributing valued education materials to teachers for more than 70 years. "Beef producers in Kentucky and across the U.S. continue to be committed to providing the best in education information to tomorrow's budding muscle," says Ratliff.

A recent direct-mail campaign to promote the Fueled for Flight kit generated a 20 percent response rate for these teachers—a tremendous return for this kind of tool. In fact, 10,000 kits are already in use, and additional kits will be available after school begins this fall.

During the 1997 school year, more than 100,000 U.S. teachers from preschool through high school received check-off funded audiovisual kits and posters carrying positive messages about beef. These materials will have the potential to reach 5.2 million children during their first year of use alone.

from a single gunshot wound through the roof of her mouth, and Brian was shot in the back. Their bodies, burned beyond recognition, were found among the charred remains of a four-room house on Poplar Hollow Road in the Plato-Vanhook community of northeastern Pulaski County.

In the motion, the defendant moved for a new trial for at least the following reasons:

(1) Denial of pathologist expertise

Stanziano maintains in his motion that the court denied funding assistance for a forensic pathologist who the defense says would have assisted McKinney in the planning, preparation of the defense, including the cross-examination of the commonwealth's experts.

The denial of this assistance resulted in the defendant's being deprived of state and federal rights to due process, a fair trial, equal protections of the laws, and effective assistance of counsel," Stanziano stated.

(2) Jurors excused for cause

According to the motion, certain jurors were excused because they equivocated on death-qualification questions.

(3) Prejudicial effects of discovery violations

The defense contends in the motion that the commonwealth withheld certain information from the defense team relating to the testimony of one of the witnesses, Jamie Allen.

(4) Dan Owens' mental records

(5) Accusations against defense counsel

The defense claims "the commonwealth's attorney repeatedly accused the defense counsel of encouraging the witness, Daniel Owens, to avoid coming to trial..."

Stanziano stated in the motion that this was a "blatant misrepresentation."

(6) Denial of testimony of Gary McKinney's mental status

The motion contends "the commonwealth was permitted to argue that McKinney had or showed no emotion" during the hours and days after the murders and during the trial. As stated during pretrial hearings, the defendant's outward demeanor was to be an important issue for the state," Stanziano stated in the motion. "In effect, the state's evidence went un rebutted and from it the jury was allowed to infer guilt."

(7) Denial of proof of prior statements of prosecutor

"The denial," the motion contends, "prejudiced the defense by not allowing the defense to show the prior theories of the state which were not substantiated by evidence or proof contrary to KRE 801 (B) (3) and (4)."

The motion for a new trial is scheduled to be heard at 9 a.m. Monday, September 21, before Judge Daniel Venters. The hearing is slated to be held an hour prior to McKinney's formal sentencing.

"Indictments"

to fire Miller's gun, but did not know how to get a bullet into the 9 mm's chamber. The gun had 14 bullets in the clip. Miller said that Martin never did have complete control of the gun when he was trying to fire it.

Martin is being held in the Laurel County Detention Center under a $50,000 cash bond.

Also indicted were, Aaron L. Blackburn, 20, of Livingston, on three counts of burglary in connection with a June 27th incident in Livingston.

Blackburn is accused of breaking into the home of Vonie Mink, Ricky Barran and a garage of James Rice with intent to commit a crime. Blackburn is being held in the Laurel County jail.

Johnny Bussell, 26, of Brodhead and his wife, Connie Bussell, 22, also of Brodhead, were indicted on two counts of trafficking in a controlled substance.

The Bussells are accused of selling cocaine to a confidential informant, 1000 yards of a school on August 23 of 1995.

The Bussells are free on bond until their September 11 arraignment.

The grand jury indictment also alleges that in March, Carmichael told Adams' attorney that he wanted Adams to provide him with $100,000 cash to be used for political purposes as Carmichael saw fit.

The indictment says Adams informed Kentucky State Police of the solicitation. On March 24, under supervision of state police, Adams allegedly met Carmichael in the parking lot of the commonwealth attorney's office and gave Carmichael $5,000 and promised to deliver the remainder later, according to the indictment.

Two days later, Adams allegedly contacted Carmichael to deliver the remainder of the money, according to the indictment. However, Carmichael allegedly got suspicious of an observing lot and did not take the money, the indictment said.

Somerstate attorney David A. Tapp, Carmichael's legal counsel, issued a statement following the indictments claiming state investigators had turned Carmichael's investigation into criminal wrongdoing against him. Tapp said Carmichael welcomed a jury reviewing the evidence as soon as possible and that Carmichael expects complete vindication of the charges.

Immediately upon being the subject of two federal felony charges, Carmichael was disqualified as prosecutor in the 28th Judicial District. Attorney General Albert B. Chandler III appointed Eddy F. Montgomery, top assistant in the commonwealth attorney's office, to serve as special prosecutor and acting commonwealth's attorney during the title charges are pending against Carmichael.

Carmichael will retain his title of commonwealth's attorney and will continue to draw his salary during the period of disqualification. However, as a full-time prosecutor, it appears he cannot have a private law practice, according to Daniel Venters, chief circuit judge in the 28th Judicial District.

Montgomery was the prosecuting attorney in the Gary McKinney death penalty case held last month in Pulaski County.

Kimberley D. Walters, daughter of Don and Roma Eckland of Berea, was among 38 students who received doctor of optometry degrees from the (UAB) University of Alabama at Birmingham School of Optometry during commencement.

Rockets open season with Lexington Catholic Saturday

By: Richard Anderkin
The Rockcastle County Rockets are looking forward to another good season - but may be not to a good start.

The Rockets have drawn the unenviable task of playing one of the better teams in the state on opening night.

The Rockets will make their third trip to the oldest bowl game in the state on Saturday when they travel to Mt. Sterling to play in the Recreation Bowl against Lexington Catholic.

Game time is 6:00 p.m. Ironically Catholic is the same team that ended the Rockets season in the first round of the play-offs last November.

This season, Catholic may be better than they were a year ago, according to Rocket head coach Tom Larkey - who said that because of Catholic's ability to recruit - they simply rebuild instead of rebuild. Catholic is a large private school.

Last year after beating Rockcastle in the opening round, Catholic went on to beat Danville and then lost to eventual state champion Bourbon County.

"They are loaded with speed and quickness and we will have our hands full on Saturday night," Coach Larkey said.

In one pre-season scrimmage Catholic had Madison Central, a 4A school, down 35-0 at halftime.

This year's edition of the Rock, Larkey's 14th, has eleven seniors and several returning starters. They are however, a little slow.

"There is no Jason Brown on this team - but they work hard and play well together. I think we will have a good year - even if Catholic is a little rough on us," Larkey said.

Larkey also expects a tough game at Scott County when the Rockets will face the Cardinals at Rawlings Stadium, the same field the Bengals practice on. Scott is a 4A school and was tied with Bell County at 14 during a scrimmage Saturday night.

The Rockets also face South Laurel again this season for the third time. The Rockets travel to London for that game. The Rock lost to them last year.

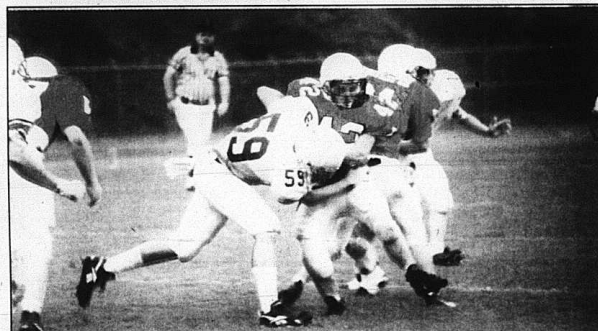

The Rockets will face always tough Corbin on October 9 and open their district play with Somerset on October 2.

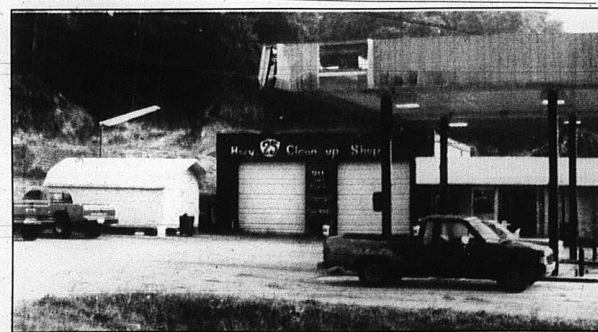

Senior Andy Hale #2 attempts to pass a grab from Christopher Parsons in the Rockets 3-0 win over Whitley County Saturday night in a scrimmage in Bell County. Also in the photo is #10 Derrick Bussell.

Senior Josh Jones, 59, puts a stop on a Whitley County player in Saturday night's win over Whitley County. Sophomore Greg Terry, accounted for the Rockets only points with a 25 yard field goal.

F.B.I. agents and agents of the department of Drug Enforcement Agency in Lexington searched the Hwy. 25 Clean-up Shop in Burr and two other locations in the county on Thursday afternoon. Assistant Commonwealth Attorney Mike Pratt said that agents found an undisclosed amount of drugs but no arrests were made. Pratt said that the case may be presented in federal court or state court.

Mount Vernon Signal

Second Section - Thursday, August 20, 1998

Special student goes to first grade at Mt. Vernon

For Kimberly Hall, the first day of school doesn't signal the end of summer. It represents a new beginning. Her school supplies include more than the traditional chubby green pencil and thick-ruled paper. She carries with her a ventilator, the courage to change her life and support from the hospital that has become her home. Kimberly has Larsen Syndrome, a rare genetic disorder that has stricken only about 150 people nationwide. She has lived at Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center, Inc. (RHCC) since she was three years old. When she came to RHCC, Kimberly wouldn't get out of bed. She didn't want to spend time with anyone. She didn't want to leave her room. And she certainly didn't want to do schoolwork in the hospital classroom.

At age seven, that all has changed. A visitor who saw Kimberly then wouldn't recognize her now. Full of enthusiasm and confidence, Kimberly started her first day of school last Thursday, August 13, at Mt. Vernon Elementary.

"Based upon available information, it is believed that Kimberly may be the only ventilator-dependent child to go to public school full time," said Dr. Kimberly Cornelius, a pediatrician and medical director at RHCC. "The most common characteristic of Larsen Syndrome is multiple bone dislocations or abnormalities. This syndrome also can be associated with heart problems, respiratory difficulties, deafness or weakened mental capabilities."

"Kimberly is a beautiful, bright young girl who has stolen the hearts of everyone here at the hospital," said Carolyn Stevens, director of social services at RHCC. "For a while, she didn't want to interact with anyone. But we all kept trying to motivate her and worked with her until she came around. Then one day she read her first book to Dr. Cornelius, and we knew we had to do everything in our power to place Kimberly in public school."

Kimberly will have a full-time respiratory care practitioner, Angel Thompson, with her in Jerr Lynn Smith's beginning primary class. Kimberly will remain in the classroom throughout the day except for brief breaks for periodic medical attention, if needed.

Larsen Syndrome is associated with a number of symptoms. Kimberly's symptoms include multiple bone dislocations that limit her body movements and respiratory problems that leave her dependent on a ventilator.

"Despite all of her physical limitations, Kimberly is an enthusiastic seven-year-old who is mentally and emotionally ready to start school," Cornelius said. "She is a wonderful child who inspires all of us."

In many respects, Kimberly is a typical seven-year-old who loves to play. She gets a kick out of playing with water. Whether it is having a tea party or playing with Barbies, Kimberly manages to incorporate water into the activity. And it is evident from her room that Shania Twain is her favorite country music singer. Kimberly has been known to sneak wheelchair races between her evening activities and is enthusiastic about going to school.

"I'm really excited about going to school," Kimberly said. "I think it will be a lot of fun."

"We were very pleased to be able to provide the services needed by Kimberly to attend public school," said Mt. Vernon Principal Rose Brown.

"After leap school is just that, for the public and the more students that are able to benefit from our programs, the better," she said.

"We are looking forward to Kimberly's first year at the school and will do what it takes to make the learning environment for her and her classmates the best possible," Mrs. Brown said.

In addition to working with the school system to make her big transition possible, personnel at the hospital have gone out of their way to prepare Kimberly for school. Any Breeding, medical social worker at RHCC, has taken her on a school shopping spree to make sure she has all of her school supplies and a new wardrobe.

"She is special in all of our hearts," Breeding said. "We all consider her family and are inspired by her bravery and dedication to beat the odds." Kimberly feels at home at RHCC, and she returns that love and kindness by putting a smile on people's faces everyday.

"Everyone here is really nice to me," Kimberly said. "They always tell me I'm their No. 1 girl."

Kimberly's parents, who are supportive of her entry into public school, visit her at RHCC on a regular basis.

Above, seven-year-old Kimberly Hall is the first person with Larsen Syndrome to attend public school. She is in the first grade at Mt. Vernon Elementary School, although she is on a respirator 24 hours a day. At left, Rockcastle Hospital Social Worker Any Breeding has helped prepare Kimberly for her first year in public school. She is a student in Mrs. Jerr Lynn Smith's class.

Orlando girl takes a bite out of "Big Apple"

Once again, students from Images Model and Talent Agency have swept the competition! Thirty-fives students ventured east to be one of the newest finds at the International Modeling and Talent Association's (IMTA) New York City Convention. The convention was held July 25 through August 1 at the New York Hilton and Towers.

"This is truly a once in a lifetime opportunity for the potential model or talent," said Jamie Olmstead Head, Images' Owner. "Our students met and auditioned for scores of modeling and talent agents that they would never have had the opportunity if it weren't for IMTA's convention."

The top modeling and talent agents in the industry attend this convention searching for new faces and fresh talent. This convention continues to open doors and broaden horizons for Images' students.

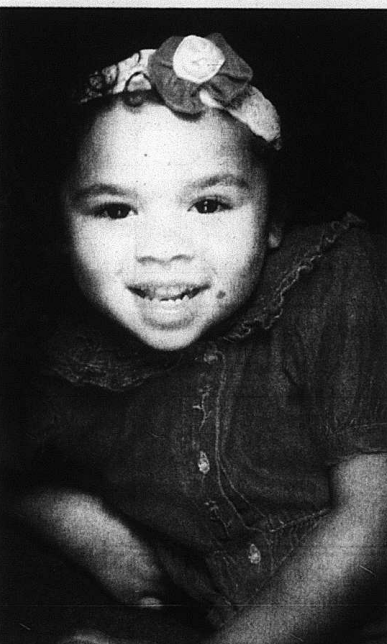

Sydney Jones, 4, of Orlando, recently returned from the IMTA Convention where she made her mark in New York City. Sydney received top honors in: Child Model of the Year (3rd Runner Up), Theatrical Headshots (2nd Runner Up) and TV Beauty (1st Runner Up). She received Honorable Mentions in Swimwear, Jeans, Best Smile and Fashion Print. Agencies from Los Angeles and New York are very interested in representing her. Acne Talent from LA and Mega Models from NYC have been offered her contracts. Sydney is the daughter of Amelia and Ivan Jones and the granddaughter of Carolyn and Kent Earhart, of Orlando.

Over 3,000 aspiring models and actors attended this event where Images' students received many awards. In all, Images brought home over 200 contracts, trophies and honorable mentions. The IMTA annually holds two conventions (one in Los Angeles and one in New York City) to search for the world's brightest stars.

Images students have had a great success ration with the IMTA convention helping them to get their careers off the ground. Some of the stars that were "discovered" at an IMTA convention include: Elijah

Wood, Beverly Peele, Joel West, Faith Ford, Jennifer Biel, Chaz Harbin, Katie Holmes, Miami Daughtery and Dalton James.

A look back at Rockcastle County

Reprinted from the 1992 Rockcastle History Book which was published by the Rockcastle County Historical Society

Little World's Fair And The Hefner & Vincent Show

One week out of each year, the Brodhead Fair is in full swing. This is a very exciting time for the young and the old. Some people come to the Fair for the entertainment and others to have reunions with old friends.

The original Fairground was located in Brodhead, just west of present day West Street on property currently owned by Mr. Cleston Saylor. It was later moved to the present location, which is part of the old Martin farm.

The first Brodhead Fair Board was established in 1895. Shares were sold for about $5.00 per share and the Fair was owned and operated by the stockholders. Mr. D.A. Robbins recalls that families of the stockholders received free passes and hence, his father, Frank Robbins, being a stockholder, he never had to miss a day. Little did he dream, in those days of his youth, that he would one day be a co-owner.

In later years the stockholders sold the Fair Company to Dr. M.M. Phillips and Mr. W.O. Yaden, who in turn sold to Millard Shafer. Millard Shafer sold to D.A. Robbins and his brother-in-law, Clarence "Teddy" Frith and after several years ownership, they sold it to the county. Rockcastle County now owns the Fairground property and each year at "Fair" time, leases the land and buildings to William Gentry and Frank Martin. They continue to have crowd-drawing exhibitions and carnivals in August of each year.

In earlier years, the Fair was more agriculturally oriented than it is today. In those days, it served as the Rockcastle County Agricultural Fair, although it was never so named. Farmers brought their cattle, hogs, chickens, sheep and farm produce for display and judging. Their wives and daughters vied for ribbons and prizes for their cakes, candies, canned vegetables and fancy needlework. The Flora Hall continues to be an important part of the Fair. The mule and pony races were replaced by more sophisticated horse shows. The Horse Shows drew participants from all areas of Kentucky and surrounding states and was the main attraction of the Fair for many years. The prohibitive expense of prizes forced the owners to drop the horse shows from the program. In recent years, the horse shows have been replaced with special events scheduled for each night of the Fair, usually a rodeo provides free entertainment on the last two nights of the Fair.

Before World War II and the opening of the Gray Theater, another cultural event coincided with the Fair.

At the same time the Fair was in progress at the fairground, the Hefner and Vincent Tent Show came to town and set up their huge tent in a vacant lot on Main Street in Brodhead. The lot is now occupied by Brodhead's U.S. Post Office.

In those days, the Fair, was only open from dawn until dark and, following a day at the Fair the crowds drew their evening entertainment at the Hefner and Vincent Show. Quite an extravaganza it was! In addition to a drama to keep the audience on the edge of their seats, each evening the attendees were thrilled by a chorus line and performances of acrobatic and graceful dancers. Accompanying music was provided by full orchestra which traveled with the show. Boxes of individually wrapped salt water taffies were available for a dime and each box, in addition to the candies, contained a slip of paper with a number printed on it. During the show's intermission, several matching numbers were drawn from a drum placed on the stage and the lucky person holding a candy box number and calling the number drawn and matched went toward the stage to receive his or her prize. The prizes ranged in value from can openers and shoe polish to diamond rings. At least two young Brodhead maidens did win diamond rings in separate years.

The Hefner and Vincent Show was a some-what more elegant affair than the Fair. Mary E. Carson recalls that on the days when her father, Dock B. Chandler, was taking his family to the Fair only, they were transported in the farm wagon pulled by a team of mules. But, if they planned to late attend the Hefner and Vincent Show, arrangements were made for a taxi to pick them up at their home, and carry them to the Fair. At the end of the day, the taxi would meet them at the fairground and convey them to the Hefner and Vincent Show in a bit more classy style.

Another recollection of the heyday of the Hefner and Vincent Show was provided by Ruby Atkinson McKinney. She remembers attending the Show when she was a young girl of twelve years of age and the next day, recruiting cast from her classmates at Negro Creek school. After a few days of practice, under her direction, the drama was reproduced for the entertainment of teachers, other students and parents at the regular Friday afternoon program held at the school. Mrs. Lou Payne, teacher at the school, was thrilled with Ruby's creativity.

Some of the people who will always be remembered for making the "Little World's Fair" a success are: J.B. Messer, Eddie Hurt and C.N. Scott, who served as Managers. Mr. J.B. Messer was the person responsible for naming the Fair "Little World's Fair" because apparently, at one time, it attracted more people than any other county fair in the country. Jimmy Gover was the voice you could always hear announcing the horse shows. Henry Blankenship was always in the ring to see that the races were executed correctly. Those of you who were faithful of "Fairgoers" will surely recall the beautiful music of Jimmy Richardson and his Hammond Organ during the horse shows.

I personally believe the Fair to be a place of meeting old and new friends, hearing the laughter of the young riding the exciting carnival rides, cotton candy, a juicy hamburger, picking up a duck to see if you won a prize and just having a fun time. In August of 1950, I met this boy, Don Stevens from Negro Creek at the Fair. He asked me to ride the Tilt-A-Whirl with him. I did! I became Mrs. Don Stevens in June 1952. So, the Fair means different things to different people.

Maggie Martin Kidwell remembers the Brodhead Fair in 1933. The Fair only operated during the day and the two big events were the "lifting off" of the hot air balloon and a "free show." Maggie was dating Willie Kidwell, who was working at the Fair. She and Willie's sister, Pearl Kidwell went to the Fair and Willie met them at the gate and gave each a dime for admission. Later in the day, Willie received some money for working and he gave each girl two more dimes. Maggie used one dime to ride the Ferris Wheel and the other dime to have her fortune told. Maggie's fortune was that she would soon be married and they would have two daughters and one son. This would make you a believer in "fortune telling" because this is exactly what happened to Maggie. She and Willie were soon married and became parents of Juanita Kidwell Norris, Eva Kidwell Vaughn and Larry Kidwell.

During the 1920's, the "glory days" of the Fair, the crowds were so tremendous the Louisville and Nashville Railroad added an extra coach to their passenger service trains between Louisville and Corbin to accommodate the Fair clientele. Mr. Willis Bussell, grandfather of Brodhead's current mayor, Mr. Billy Bussell, would meet the passengers on L&N passenger train No. 23 (the "Noun Train") with his "hack," an open hordsrawn wagon with seats along the sides, and transport them to the Fairground.

Danny Sargent said he began working at the Fair in 1935. His first job was to watch the fence to make sure no one climbed over, there-by escaping paying admission. Later he assisted in parking cars and after several years in that position transferred to ticket sales. During the 1992 Fair, Danny sold tickets, making his fifty-seventh year of employment with the Fair. He remembers when the women would come dressed in fine dresses, hats and gloves and the men attired in suits and ties. "Now," he says, "they hardly wear anything at all."

Benjamin Joseph Taylor, when he was five years old, was so excited about the Fair that he wanted to keep one close-by all the time. He came up with the brilliant idea of buying his granddaddy, William "Bill" Gentry, one for Christmas, thus having one handy all year. It was a great idea. Ben, but the Fair is a seasonal thing, and more than one week a year would detract from its tradition and charm.

Some men and ladies (boys and girls, too) went to the Fair to sneak a peak at the "Girls Shows", but they are hesitant about seeing their name in print. They would go to the show, hoping no one they knew would see them, if they saw someone they knew, they would try to be inconspicuous and crawl under the tent wall just before the show was over. There were two young ladies who were caught sneaking out the back of the tent. I will not put anyone on the spot, but those ladies' first names were Jean and Penny. Who could they be? There were witnesses who can testify it happened. They are: Jack Holmes, Bill Gentry, Billy Bussell and Eugene Bengel. I would wager they could identify them.

Worse still, in the 1940's, a quartet of teenage girls decided to "do the thing that good girls didn't do" and check out the star attraction. She was billed as the "Muscle Grinder." Nina Atkinson, Corrine Bussell, Doris Houston and Barbara McBebe bought their tickets and slipped into the back of the tent just as the show was about to begin. And, the first head they spied in that all-male audience was the father of one of the girls! The girls beat a hasty retreat, and if their father saw that daughter at the "girls show", he never called her to task for being there. Some things are best forgotten.

The Fair was certainly a place for romance to blossom. Salena Royce Bailey and A.J. "Bud" Bailey were spending the day at the Fair on August 19, 1920, when they decided to get married. They left the Fair and went to Preacher Pike's house in Brodhead. He solemnized the marriage and they returned to the Fair and spent the remainder of the day. They are the parents of Lorena Bailey Jacobs of Crab Orchard and Billy Bailey of Mt. Vernon.

I hope the "Little World's Fair" continues to excite the hearts of Rockcastle Countians for years to come.
