"I Still Know..." a disappointment

by Stephen Hopkins

For those who have not seen the first installment of "Last Summer," which introduced the vengeful hook-wielding Fisherman serial killer, this sequel opens with guilt-ridden surviving character Julie (Jennifer Love Hewitt) in a church confession booth, conveniently recapping in detail what happened and who still knows.

Our class saw a Native American play entitled, "The Boy Who used dialogue to show the plot. The only scenery used was a toten

I think the play was great. If I was in the play, I would like to be Tricked the Moon" presented by high school students.

Despite her harrowing adventures and troubled conscience, Julie agrees to go on a trip to the Bahamas when her best friend Karla (Brandy Norwood) wins tickets from the local radio station. Only after they've gone does Julie's boyfriend Ray (Freddie Prinze Jr.) discover that the Fisherman is still alive and out for blood. Unreachable at the island paradise, Julie has no idea of the danger she and her friends are in. Tired gimmicks, like confusing

Tired gimmicks, like confusing reality with nightmares and blaring scary music for false alarms, are frustrating, but the film does effectively pump the audience to the point of being ravenous for the hook-handed villain to start his spree. After a long wait, the gored bodies quickly begin to pile up, to the delight fans of the genre.

If you like the "Scream-esqe" type movies, you might be a little disapointed. I know I was. I gave it a  (2 stars). The plot was lacking, and the cliff hanger of an ending was not at all satisfying for the audience. I would not recomend this move to anyone except those of us who are lucky enough to get a date, then "I Still Know" is a great movie to pay absolutely no attention to.

Have patience with the English Patient

by Mindy Bullock

If you see yourself as a hopeless romantic the English Patient is a film you'll want to rent. I wasn't sure what I was going to think about it because of the length and the subject, but it held my interest throughout and kept me guessing, hoping, and wondering what would happen next.

Ralph Finnes' character tells the long narrative from his deathbed; he is being taken care of by a Canadian nurse, played by Juliette Binoche. After a disfiguring plane crash he was left nearly debilitated, and at first you're not really certain of the patient's true identity.

The film is set in the time period right before the WWII and directly after; through flashbacks you learn more and more about his life prior to the accident. You learn that he participated in an archeological expedition where he met his true love Katharine (Kristen Scott Thomas), but it was to be a forbidden love because she was married. They carry on a secret affair, and unfortunately true love does not prevail for this couple.

A few subplots surround the movie as it is taking place. The biggest one deals with Juliette Binoche's character, Hana. Several of her acquaintances were killed during the war and she feels that everything that she tries to love dies. She takes the estranged English patient under her wing and finds a safe place for them at an abandoned villa, but they are not alone for long. Fairly soon after the two decide to stay in their make-shift home, soldiers searching for landmines appear.

Helen then finds love with the leader of the men, whose name is Kip. You get the feeling that this one won't die on her, and he will last.

This film tugs on the heart strings of even the most cynical critics. The cruel mix of tragedy and romance reminds me of Romeo and Juliet. I give this superior picture four stars. ****

USIC REVIE

By Stephen Hopkins

THE LAST TIME, Jerry Seinfeld

By August of 1998, when this concert was recorded for broadcast on HBO, Seinfeld had rung down the curtain on the most popular sitcom of the decade and earned enough money to buy Jason Alexander a different toupee for every day of his life. As I'M TELLING YOU makes clear, no matter how big a pop culture icon he's become, Seinfeld's roots are in standup comedy, and he still knows how to make a live audience bust a collective gut. His natty, neurotic urban Jewish shtick is far from new, dating back at least as far as the early '50s, but Seinfeld puts a decidedly '90s twist on his humor. Tackling everything from modern love to the medical profession, Seinfeld puts contemporary society on a satirical skewer, enabling listeners to simultaneously identify with him and laugh at themselves. This album provides tons of laughs, but it's hard to listen to more than once. It ranks a strong (3 stars), but after you hear it, it will most likely become a coffee table coaster.

*SUPERNATURAL. DC

Thirty-plus years after John Lennon proclaimed the Beatles more popular than Jesus, a generation of musicians who weren't even born at the time bring the Man upstairs back into the conscience of the worlds' youth. DC Talk began life as a group of college friends rapping with a good message and developed into one of the '90s' most successful Christian rock groups. On SUPER-NATURAL, they continue to expand their sound and show their love of God. Mixing rock, R&B, funk, solid songeraft and a slick production typical of more secular pop vocal groups, DC Talk brings new meaning and respect to the phrase "Jesus freak." But delving deeper you discover that they are sincere in their beliefs. And rather than set out to convert the faithless, they hope that their music and conviction will be what leads others to discover their own spirituality. This album gets a *(4 star) rating and my personal seal of approval for great music with a great message.

SUPPOSED FORMER IN-FATUATION JUNKIE, Alanis Morisette

You should have know from the album's awkward title alone: Alanis Morissette is feeling extremely wordy these days. The confessional album's first single, "Thank U," actually reveals what appears to be a kinder, gentler, and happier Alanis, one who went to India and suddenly came to terms with her own existence. But in typically, um, ironic Morissette fashion, the outcome of Supposed Former Infatuation Junkie is almost directly opposite to what might be expected after hearing the song. The new recording may not contain a song as singularly raging as "You Oughta Know," the jilted lover's anthem that provided the galvanizing moment in 1995 pop, but Morissette still continues to find that the clouds hovering over her damaged or doomed relationships are lined with lyrical gold. Here, she taunts a former lover ("Are You Still Mad"), flagellates herself for erroneously investing so much emotion in a man she calls her "savior" ("Sympathetic Character"), sarcastically criticizes a spiritual guru ("Baba"), and comes up emotionally empty as she tries to become the person she swears we want her to be ("Would Not Come"). Due to the overly crowded and dense lyrics of this album, listening becomes troublesome and loses its enjoyment. If you want to sulk over lost relationships, this is the album for you. Otherwise, don't bother. I give it a (2 star) rating, and admit it doesn't live up to the Alanis of the past.

* UP. R.E.M.

The departure of drummer Bill Berry in 1997 no doubt unsettled his former R.E.M.-mates, who found themselves straddling not only creative, but personal crossroads. Rather than giving up, the remaining members of R.E.M. reinvented themselves and released UP, a stunning, eloquent album of dark vulnerability and experimentalism. Songs like the agonized "Sad Professor" and the wary, hypnotic "Suspicion" seem almost too naked for Stipe, who spent years cloaking his words in mumbles and misnomers. For the first time, lyrics are even included in the packaging. "Hope" is a breathless, galloping piece of pseudo-electronica that raises the ghost of Leonard Cohen's "Suzanne" before ending in a heady roar of noise. The gorgeous jangle of "At My Most Beautiful" is pure poetry, an unabashed disclosure of Buck's giddy reverence for Brian Wilson. Although a drum machine is used at times (Beck drummer Joey Waronker and Tuatara percussionist Barrett Martin also guest on many tracks). an array of disparate sounds, from vibes to violin, infuses the songs with a newfound expressiveness. UP is unlike any other album in the band's long catalogue -- a bold, brilliant spark of musical genius and genuine empathetic revelation. I feel this fresh look at music from R.E.M. deserves a well earned *(4 stars) rating and recomendation to buy this CD if you enjoy mellow tunes and deep, expressive lyrics.

drew averaged 18 points per game and was a big reason for the success of last year's team.

Forward Blake Calhoun jokingly stated, "We are going to throw a saddle on Andrew and ride him staight to the district title, just like the Horsemen did (Ric) Flair to thirteen (WCW) World Titles."

Coach Cash feels like the Rocket back-court is extremely talented and looks for the front-court and newcomers to come around by late in the season. "I feel like we have possibly the best guard trio in the region. I look for Matt Brown to come around and be a big scorer. He has a good shot, but needs to work on his defense. I look for the new players to step up and come around by January of February."

The Rockets begin their season with an away game against Somerset, December 1.

Good luck, Rockets!

Advice Column

Madeline & Finch

Dear Madeline & Finch,

I have this certain English teacher who is biased against me. He/she makes me feel dumb, even though I make good grades. He/she seems to be against me and the work I do in their class, no matter how the great the efort I put forth. All of my previous teachers have really loved my English work, but they act as if everything I do is awful. He/she picks me out of all the other students in the class to criticize. I feel as though he/she dislikes me because of the things my family has done in the past. Personally, I think that if he/she wanted to become a teacher he/she should leave such feelings and opinions out if the classroom where they belong. I know if I tell him/her how I feel I will only recieve a punishment. I don't think that I should have to put up with being treated like this. What should I do?

Sincerely,

Mistreated student

Finch

I have one word for you: Whaa! Here are two more words: Boo-hoo! All some people do is just whine and whine and whine. If you think your teacher is biased, then why don't you tell them? If your teacher thinks you feel like this then they're going to go out of their way to make up for it.

Madeline:

You're right when you say that this person has no right to treat you this way if that's the case. Sometimes when you're in a class that you dislike it's easy to make the teacher the bad guy, but if you legitimately feel that the teacher is abusing you, then go to a power higher than them, such as the assistant principal. I'm sure that they will do everything they can to help you, and just remember that no one can make you feel any kind of way. When you feel bad, it's just yourself believing the negative things that they say. If all your other teachers like your work then don't worry about what this one says.

Aries (March 21-April 20) A trip is just around the corner. You'll find no greater experience nor a greater happiness. Be sure not to miss it.

Taurus (April 21-May 21) An old flame will come back into your life. You may seem happy, but beware of the one they are involved with now Problems may arise

Gemini (May 22-June 21) "Don't worry, be happy" will be your motto this month. Be careful, because to much partying may result in lower grades.

Cancer (June 22-July 23) True to your sign, you will be crabby this month. Watch out because your moodiness will result in house arrest if directed toward your parents.

Leo (July 24-August 23) Your pockets will no longer be empty when you take the initiative and get a job. Money will soon be in your life and lots of it.

Virgo (August 24-September 23) This may be a bad month for you but keep a positive attitude and you will make it through. The end of the month will result in a great surprise.

Libra (September 24-October 23) Your outgoing pleasant nature wil enable you to make an old friend a close one. Stay jolly and luck will befall you. Stick with that special Libra and all will be well.

Scorpio (October 24-November 22) An argument with a close friend will evolve soon. Though you may be angry, forgive and forget, because the argument won't be as important as it seemed at the time.

Sagittarius (November 23-December 21) A speciasl relationship is just around the corner. Though you may have your doubts you must not let it pass by because this may be that special someone.

Capricorn (December 22-January 20) Relatives may drive you crazy this month, but be patient, because they re having hard times. Your patience will be rewarded.

Aquarius (January 21-February 19) You will find happiness in a new relationship with a Sagittarius. At first it will be stormy but stick around for better weather Pisces (February 20-March 20) This month you will experience many pressures, but if you talk with a friend it will help. Warning: choose the right friend or everyone will know your problems.

And at my request Chad was the assistant at my baptismal service. In fact, when we entered the water, Dr. Head aum'd the service over to him and he did the baptizing. Dr. Head said it was the first time to have a grandson help in the baptizing offisiown grandmother. I'm really proud of that "youngun."
Now for the biggest change in my life and the one that has almost broke my heart and health. On Saturday.

my heart and health. On Saturday. September 20, 1998, just one week before my 84th birthday, I was awakened early by Polly and Chuck opening my kitchen door. I knew something tragic had happened and my first thoughts were to their wealful the cause of their saff faces and early wist. When I asked them what was wrong the answer didn't sink in for a few minutes. I just couldn't be hearing what they were saying. A first where? Then the ruths struck me. The farm home, the home I had helped to build and the home Polly was going to be living in in the near future gone? What happened, were they there? Was it really gone or was some of it left up salvage? My mind become a whirthwind of thoughts and grief. They salvage? My mind become a whirthwind of thoughts and grief. They asked if I wanted to go down and see for myself and of courte sare was yes, and I hurriedly dressed with Polly's help. I could not even fasten my own clothes because of my shaking hayds and trembledy seeds with Polly's help. I could not even fasten my own clothes because of my shaking hayds and deven the limitar road was a nightmare, memories were crowding all emotions saide and I thought we would never arrive and when weld first would all turn out to be a big mistake and the house would salb wrapped in the early morning dawn. Not so. When we topped the house, I could see the smoke still boiling up and could small the arrisd scent of destruction. They were right, my home was gone, totally gone. There was not one timber left standing. For home was gone, totally gone, to the saddest things of losing one's home fore its to see familiar marks of one's labor still standing with bits and pieces.

I've never laid eyes on Lloyd Murphy who lives in Tarpon Springs, Florida, but he is one of my favorite people on the face of God earth. We have exchanged correspondence a few times a year over the last fifteen years or so and we tend to call each other from time to time when the moon is full to jaw bout gardening and mutually develop solutions to find the part of the moon is full to jaw bout gardening and mutually develop solutions to Lloyd is up in his eighties, a vectoran of Wordt War II and an attitude of Rockeastle County (I think?). We've talked so much that I forget exactly where he was born, but it doesn't matter anyway. We are both Kentuckians from what outsiders consider a peculiar part of the world and county lines don't mean diddly-squat to them. But when I need a reality check I cail Lloyd Murphy.

In the first place he can solve pest problems in the garden in the blink of aney. "Set fire to the garden and use the money you'd be shortly or more of the control of the development of the develop you grow, your neighbors would gladly give to you just so their conscious wouldn't bother them for letting it go to waste. Since bean bugs and potato bugs hit you first, burn your garden and they won't spread. Neighbors ought to stand in line to see what you need."

Lloyd's cooking three turkeys for Thanksgiving. Two of them are going to other folks who have lost the nack for properly baking the bird and a 22 pounder that be intends to get in the oven on Thanksgiving Day for his own family. But he's also baking three high/dramstick combinations along with the big bird because everybody else likes the white meal. "I djust as soon graw on an ash log as a piece of turkey breast," he told me tonight. At least the log has a little moisture in it and it doesn't taste nearly as much like saw dust as white early as much like saw dust as white key meat." And I said, "Amen." If it wasn't for And Isaid, Amen. If It wasn for the thighs and those little niblets of dark meat along the wings and back-bone, I personally, would rather have bologna through the holidays than And as for country ham. "Might as well go out and buy a ten pound salt block and then melt down ten pounds of lard and pour livover the salt and let it sit outside for a few days. Let it get to stinking real good and presso, you've got a twenty pound country ham at about ten percent of the going price of one of these molded and mildewed messes, wrapped in sack cloth, that would be far better off buried than presented for human con-sumption. Put a dead skunk and a cured ham out in the field and the buzzards will light on the skunk ev-ery time, and finish it off before they touch the ham.

Amen again. Lloyd and I agree that the best way to fix ham is about ten minutes after it comes off the hog. We'll sprinkle on a little salt and pepper if it needs it after it's finished baking or frying. But I'm like Lloyd. It's a poop hot that can't expensively baking or frying. But I'm like Lloyd. It's a poor hog bate can't season itself. When Lloyd left France at the end of The Big War he brought home a wife who has taught him the subtle nuances of French cooking. "Napoleon's great, great, niece," he says. "About as French as you can get, but she cooks better than Napo-leon made war. Lloyd said that the other night a

"It Is Written'

In Eph. 3:3-5 Paul says, "How that by revelation he made known unto me the in Eph. 3-5-3 Year Says. Thos that by revisition the made known unto me in mystery. (as I wrote afore in few words. Whereby, when ye read, by ena-understand my knowledge in the mystery of Christ). Which in other ages was not made known unto the sons of men, as it is now revealed unto this holy apostless and prophets by the Spirit. Youlce, Paul's knowledge came by direct read from the Spirit, and that he wrote these things down. Then Paul, clearly states that we can read and understand the Bible, (of course some things are harder than other understand, II Pet. 3:16, Heb.5:12-13).

Many people are taught they need the Catholic Church to understand the word of God. They are told that the church is the "divine interpreter" for mankind. Yet Paul aid we can read and understand what he did Jehovah's Witnesses. Mormons and other cults, say we need their writings to erstand the Bible, without which we can not learn the truth. But again, Paul still avs we can read and understand what he wrote down.

Then, we have those who say we need the Holy Spirit to personally and direct nlighten us concerning the scriptures. Yet they too are wrong. Paul said we ca read and understand his knowledge of God

People who teach and say that we can't understand the Bible, are blasp ewords of God in Eph. 3:3-5! Friends, don't you think God was powerful to reveal a message that we could read and understand? I believe he could and did for that is what Paul said happened in, Eph. 3:3-5.

Praise Your Children

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent for Home Economics

Have you noticed how good it feels when somebody gives you a storer compliment? Or how nice it is to have someone notice an extra effort that you've made? Your holders also like positive attention. In fact, they thrive on it. It is one of the ways they learn to feel good about themselves and others.

To praise your child means to express approval or admiration, another word for praise is encouragement. When skillfully succeed, praise builds an individual's confidence and oddler or a teenager, your child is a marvel – a one-of-akind soul with special abilities and aleans. He or she is a wonderful, precious human being who has so much to teach and learn and give.

One of your important jobs as a arent is to see the goodness, beauty and talents of your children. Them make sure they know exactly what you see in them and how filled with appreciation, pride and admiration you are.

As a parent, you are one of the appreciation, pisse and of the most important people in your child's world. When the properties, kinds a high difference. Never underestimate your influence. Never underestimate your influence or she is, and for the many gifts he or she is, and for the many gifts he or she brings into our world.

Winter Beef Feeding Workshop

How can a cow starve to death on a full feed of hay? No, it is not the old joke "because she can't get a square meal when eating round bales of hay?" What sounds like a joke can actually happen with poor quality hay. A large percentage of delayed by rain. Most fescue hay was cut in late June or early July, which means that this hay was 4 to 5 weeks past maturity.

was cut in inte June or early July, which means that this hay was 4 to 5 weeks past maturity.

Different production stages in a beef cows life determine her nutritional meds. A dry cow in the fall actually has the lowest nutrient needs. Her nutrient needs start to increase 30 - 60 days before calving. At calving, and for the next 4 months, the nutrient needs are at their highest. This is the point that we see the greatest stress and weight loss. However, if we plan ahead we can help the cowberpeared for this additional was and weight loss of the means of the nutrient needs. Touring theatre at elementary schools

As part of AMERICAN EDUCA-TION WEEK, the Rockeastle County High School Touring Theatre pre-sented a children's theatre produc-tion at the three county elementary schools on November 16 and 17. The play, "The Boy Who Tricked The Moon", is adapted from the native folklore of the Pacific Northwest, in particular a site from the Thunderfolklore of the Pacific Northwest, in particular a tale from the Thunder-burd Clanof the Tlingit Indians. While the play is not meant to be an authen-tic re-telling of this story, the influ-ence of the Tlingits is evident in all aspects of the script. Through the use of storytelling, creative movement, musical effects and masks, the cast musical effects and masses, sur-brought to life the customs and art-feccinating and unique istry of a truly fascinating and unique culture.

The serint and subject matter was chosen specifically to address the 4th and 5th grade component of the Arts and Humanities Core Content for Assessment, Native American cul-Assessment, Native American cul-tures along with Early American and African are the three cultures tar-geted to be assessed. At the end of each performance, cast members answered student questions regardanswered student questions regard-ing the Tlingit Culture in addition to questions based on theatre produc-tion. According to cast member Ressie Griffin, "The students' were very interested in the production process. The teachers were sent edu-cation materials about the play and cation materials about the play and Iringit Culture so most questions showed that the students were pre-pared to see this play." Jeremy Say-lor, cast member added, "All three audiences listened very attentively and were very appreciative. We hope to make the Touring Theatre a per-manent part of the High School's Outreach Programming." Cast members for "The Boy Who Tricked The Moon' included: Natha-nel Bullock, Jeremy Saylor, Jessie niel Bullock, Jeremy Saylor, Jessie Clouse, Ressie Griffin, Becky Davis and Mario Cadena.

The Family Room By Dr. Don Whitehead

Panic Attacks Are Real
"My doctor says there is nothing physically wrong with me," Jan told me, "but! 'm afraid! 'm going to die!"
Obviously distressed Jan had come to her first counseling session in a desparate mood. (All characters are ficticious).
"It hampens almost every day

"It happens almost every day now," she continued. "I get knots in my chest and stomach. My chest gets so tight I almost can't breathe. My heart beats faster and I begin to perspire."

"How long has this been going on?" I asked Jan. "Too long!" she told me emphatically. "It began about six months ago and keeps getting worse."

"I'm almost afraid to go into a store anymore," Jan continued. "My husband has to do all the grocery shopping. When I go into a store, I feel as if the walls are closing in on me. It's embarrassing to have to run out the door and leave a full grocery cart in the checkout line. I'm getting so I don't want to go anywhere."

Jan was an otherwise healthy wanty-six-year-old who had recently married her longtime boyfriend. She reported that the marriage was won-derful and that she was very happy. We've he ad a few adjustments to make, but it's been very good." Her propried that the had begun a couple of weeks before the wedding. "The first one suprised me more than anything," she said. "My chess got ight and I had rouble breathing. It quickly went away and I hought nothing about it. Then about a week later it happened again." In the most wall was a supplied by the complete physical. She said I was in great shape. When the attacks contin ued, I went to another doctor who told me the very same thing. They have done EKGs, stress tests and everything else under the sun, and it all comes back normal. But something is very wrong!"

"What's wrong Jan is that you are having panic attacks," I told her. She looked stunned. "That's what my doctor told me," I agreed. "This doesn't mean you are crazy, and there are some things we can do to help." "Why me?" Why now?" she wanted to know. "My life is going so well." "Has anyone else in your family ever had these attack?" I salked. "Now that you mention it, Mon told me she used to have something like this when she was younger." Jan remembered. "She said it went away." "The tendency to have panic ai-

"The tendency to have panic at-tacks does seem to run in certain families," I told Jan. "Add to that family history the stress of getting family history the stress of getting married and then there is a panic attack."

Jan and I did several things to help Jan and I did several things to help ber fight the attacks. It was hard work and she occasionally wanted to give up. Jan learned how to breathe slowly and deeply and help herself relax. She learned to distract her mind when the attacks began. (She counted back-ward from 100 by threes. Try it sometime.) She reluctantly agreed to

LET LOVE ADORN YOUR HOME WITH HOLIDAY HAPPINESS

Your favorite stores are all a-glitter with lights, or Your favorite stores are all a-glitter with lights, ornaments, tinsel, candles, wreaths and gift wrappings.
However, these seasonal adornments may not put you in a gala holiday mood, and if so, assuming that you have no major problems or sorrows, something must be wrong. Have you quarreled recently with a relative or friend? Are you normally impatient with people?
Then it's time to get rid of these negative tendencies.
Mend that quarrel, no matter whose fault it was. Let your House of Worship put some love and kindness in your heart before you plug in the Christmas lights or ignite the Chanukah candles. Then your home and your life will be much brighter during the upcoming holidays, as well as at all other times of the year.

As for him who voluntarily performeth a good work, verily God is grateful and knowing. -The Koran

"They helped every one his neighbour; and every one said to his brother, Be of good courage."

WE CAN ALL FIND GOOD REASONS TO GIVE OUR THANKS

Though fortune seems to pass you by, Though fortune seems to pass you by, There's something that you can't deny: At times we all have things go wrong, But manage still to get along. If you can somehow pay each bill, And no one at your house is ill, And if your children get good grades And don't indulge in escapades, And if you have just one good friend, In case misfortune should descend, In case mistortune should descend, Then you have blessings by the score, Of things you should be thankful for. Your House of Worship will convey This message for Thanksgiving Day, So let us all, with one accord. Extend our thanks unto the Lord. Gloria Nowak iggler was doing his actat a dive in Tarpon Springs but intead of tossing balls or blowing pins around the guy was tossing knives with blades about 18 inches long and so sharp he could shave the hair off your arm with them. Dangerous devices and murderous looking and the fellow had a dozen of them going in all directions without missing a beat. It was a frightening yet thrilling thing to see and the guy was playing for tips. But the football game was on and hardly anybody was paying him any attention. Around midnight he left the bar with maybe twenty bucks and an arm load of knives. Instead of putting them back in the carrying case, he just tossed the whole load helter skelter into the back seat and headed down the highway in his rusty old car. not happy with the night's take and a sure bet to be pulled over by the state patrol at that hour. Which was exactly what happened.

The cops pulled him over, flashed a light into the back seat and ordered him out of the car, hands up. There wasn't as sniff of alcohol on his breath nor a hint that he'd been on drugs, but the law was concerned about the knives. The fellow tried to explain that how as ingiger and that he'd had a bad night but the cops were not convinced.

While the blue lights were flashing and they held spot lights on him, and the was a ligager and that he'd had a gad night but held spot lights on him, and the was a ligager and that he'd had a gad night but he'd beyon king and they held spot lights on him,

Between his legs, over both shoulders and high above his head until he had all twelve in motion at the same time, sometimes catching hem in his teeth and between his toes. It was a wonder to behold. About that time two of Lloyd budies who had watched the end of the game, came along and they slowd down enough, when they saw the blue lights, to see what was going on.

That's the most important news from Paint Lick and Tarpon Springs this week but not quite all. If you this week but not quite all. If you know anything about growing papayas, please give me a call. Lloyd has planted some and they're growing quite well except that they came from Brazil, exactly 28 degrees south of the equator and he lives exactly 28 degrees. degrees north. In Tarpon Springs, it's degrees norm. In I arpon springs, its winter. In Brazil, it's summer, so his papayas are behaving in Florida's winter as though it were summer in Brazil. And Mr. Murphy would like to figure out a way to make them adapt, or, better still, turn the seasons would find later after the ashes cooled down. I went from side to side, from front to back, looking, thinking, shaking inside and visibly termbling all over. I couldn't believe what I was seeing, that had to be a nightmare. I need to be a nightmare in being only a dream. But it couldn't be that way, it was alloo true. In o longer that way, it was alloo true. In o longer that way, it was alloo true. In o longer that way, it was alloo true. In o longer that way, it was alloo true. In o longer that way, it was alloo true. In o longer to be fair in our when things become too bettie in own. In o longer would be able to go to the farm and sit for hours listening to the sounds of the country and refresh my memory so I could write about things of the past. I could not longer go down and take Bessie along to spend a night or two there so we could awake to the twittering birds as they drowsily left their nests to seek food. Nor could we sit on the front porch and listen to the frogs and whipporvills in the evenings. All these things kept going over and over in my distorted and troubled mind.

After an hour or so we went back After an hour or so we went back our town homes and tried to get some rest but there was none for any of us so we went back down to put up not respassing signs, etc. Then I noticed the chimney was still standing. The big stone chimney above the fireplace that everyone loved, especially Mat. Althis handiwork of building the house was gone but the work of some stranger who built the fireplace was all that was left of our once beautiful home. That seemed ironic that our love and careful building of a house that had stood through formackes and the was held to five the control that our love and careful building of a house that had stood through formackes and ne rest but there was none for any that had stood through tornadoes and storms without a quiver had now been consumed by fire and the big stone chimney, built by someone who could have cared less was, still standing. The devastation of all the treatures buried under those smoldering ashes was overwhelming and kept us going back several times that day simply to stare at the ruins and place in our minds eye the position of every piece of furniture and treasure stored there sometime in the future site had already moved many of ther better things to the properties of the standard of the sta that had stood through torn in such as her best dinnerware, linens, keepsakes, and her collections of dolls and Chad's toys. Both of us seemed mesmerized by the enormity akes, and her collections of seemed mesmerized by the enormity of the loss and couldn't stay away. The next day when we were once again looking over the smoldering mess I thought I saw something shire on the could see it too. 'Yeah, I see something and it looks like a little angel.' I caught my breath, that is what I thought I saw too. Polly came over and immediately recognized it as one being on top of a jewelry box her Aunt Kate and made for her when she was a little had made for her when she was a little and made for her when she was a little and made for her when she was a little wa had made for her when she was a majeril. The Angel was lying down on her tummy with hands folded under her chin, when we were able to rescue her from the heat the next day she was nearly standing up straight with made for her when she was a little was nearly standing up straight with hands folded and her face looking nands fouced and her face looking upward. And close by was a shard from the top of a decorated cup that had belonged to Polly with the words in bright blue color saying "Be Happy" surrounding the brim. In an-other section where I had displayed a other section where I had displayed a small baby cup that had belonged to Mat when he was a baby. Chad found it under the ashes as he gently show-eled them away from anything sal-vageable. The cup was still unbroken and plainly had the words under a picture of an old house. Forget me not. 'That was enough to tell me there had been no foul play and the message was plain, God had his rea-sons for this tragedy. Just the night before I had awakened crying out in my deranged mind, "Did my house call out to me, did it hurt, did it ask for help?" Those questions were answered in those three messages, an Angel looking upward, be happy and forget me not. There were two more things never undercovered and they still lie buried beneath the ruins, two broken hearts belonging to Polly and me.

THE FACTS ABOUT ANEMIA

eel like you've run out of steam? Most people blame it on too much work or the balancing act of raising a family and Naving a career. However, some people feel this way all of the time due to a medical condition called anemia

Anemia is characterized by a low amount of red blood cells in the blood or a low amount of hemoglobin, oxygen-carrying proteins, within the red blood cells. This reduction makes it difficult for the blood to carry enough oxygen to parts of the body.

Due to the lack of sufficient oxygen to each part of the body, an anemic person may experience weakness, shortness of breath, increased heart rate, a sore tongue, bleeding gums, headaches, dizziness, nausea, loss of appetite, yellow pigmentation of the eyes and skin, and in severe cases, heart failure.

There are several types of anemia, with iron-deficiency anemia being the most common. Children with poor nutri tional diets are prone to develop iron-deficiency anemia. It is important to catch children's conditions early due to develop mental delays and behavioral problems that can occur as a result of the condition In addition, 20 percent of all women in the United States that are within childbearing age have iron-deficiency anemia

"Iron-deficiency anemia is more abundant in women because of the increased blood flow during menstruation," said Dr. Karen Saylor of Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center. "Pregnancy plays a factor since it also contributes to a reduction in the amount of iron in the blood."

> Even though irondeficiency anemia is the most common type of anemia, it can be the most treatable

"If you think you may be suffering from anemia, you should visit your doctor to have the proper blood work done," Dr. Saylor said. "And if you do suffer from anemia, you should consult with your doctor to see if there are any iron supplements you should be taking or if you can control it by merely changing your diet."

The most common dietary changes Dr. Saylor recommends are the following:

- Try to eat foods high in vitamin C, such as strawberries, tomatoes and citrus fruits. Vitamin C helps your body absorb iron from food.
- Limit the amount of tea you drink. Tea contains tannins, which stop iron absorption.
- Try to eat more green, leafy vegetables, beef liver, poultry, fish and red meat. All of these foods are rich in iron.

If your doctor determines that your condition can be improved by changing your diet, be sure to follow any specific lmost everyone has had trouble sleeping at one time or another. Most try counting sheep, drinking a glass of warm milk or mind relaxation. Although these techniques seem to make the postponement of sleep less disturbing, the true answer to restful sleep may lie in exercise.

A study in the Journal of the American Medical Association found participants that had previously complained of disruptive sleep were sleeping nearly an hour longer per night, spending less time napping during the day, and taking less time to fall asleep after 16 weeks of moderate exercise.

"Exercise, if done at the right time of day, can be very beneficial to your sleep," said Steve Cov, director of physical therapy at Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center (RHRCC). "The main thing you don't want to do is exercise right before bed."

Most people enjoy exercising when they first wake up or right before bed. However, exercise first thing in the morning can create a temporary burst of energy and then a lull around noon. Not to mention, it has not been linked with restful sleep. In addition, exercise right before bedtime can prevent sleep or cause restlessness. On the other hand, exercise in the afternoon has been proven very beneficial to sleep.

"It is best to exercise in the afternoon, maybe before dinner," Coy said. "It also is important to avoid exercising too much. Do not put your body through a workout that it cannot handle. Take things slowly and consult with your doctor if you are unsure of what is too much.

Coy recommends the following to increase your chances of better sleep.

- · Avoid drinking caffeine within six hours of bedtime.
- Keep your bed as a relaxing place. Don't use it for eating, studying or reading.
- · Keep a regular time to go to bed and a regular time to wake up.
- · Get out of bed if you cannot go to sleep within 15 minutes. Don't let your body associate the bed with alertness. Read a book, listen to music or watch television until vou feel tired.
- . Do not take over-the-counter sleep medication.

Rockcastle County Schools Plan for Inclement Weather, Schools Closings and Early Dismissals

Every effort will be made to keep parents and concerned citizens informed as to school closings, early dismissals and possibly a delay plan.

The number one concern is the safety of students. After an extensive evaluation of road conditions in the county, taking into consideration all roads, a decision will be made in regard to closing school.

School closings will be announced on radio stations and three television stations. They are as follows: Radio - WRVK (AM 1460), WVLK (FM-93), WBUL (FM 98.1), WMXL (FM 94.5), WLAP (630 AM), WAHY (FM 107.9), WLKT (FM 104.5), WKQQ (FM 100.1). Television - WKYT (Channel 27), WLEX (Channel 18), WTVQ (Channel 36). If possible, the closing will be announced the evening before the closing date. If a determination cannot be made the day prior to the closing date, every possible effort will be made to reach a decision by 6 a.m. The announcement will be made no later than 6:30 a.m. This will be conducted the same for the delay plan, if it is concluded the delay plan would be the approriate plan of action.

If the delay plan is used, breakfast will be served upon the arrival of students at school.

Early dismissal of school due to inclement weather will be appounced on WRVK. Roads will be closely monitored as school is in session to determine if there is a need for early dismissal. If the need for early dismissal does occur, parents should make arrangements to meet children as they arrive early.

Parents and students should not call any radio or television stations to inquire about school closings. This could delay the information distribution to the necessary channel by tying up phone lines.

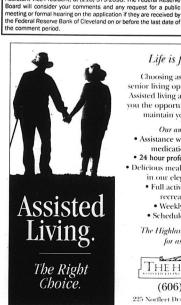

Rockcastle County School System Delay Plan

Occasionally, there are mornings when an additional hour is neded to check bus routes and temperatures/weather conditions sometimes can change between 6 a.m. and 7 a.m. As a result, the Rockcastle County School System will consider a one hour delay in school opening due to weather conditions.

If a one-hour delay status is warranted, the delay will be announced by the following radio stations: WRVK (AM 1460), WVLK (FM-93), WBUL (FM 98.1), WMXL (FM 94.5), WLAP (630 AM), WAHY (FM 107.9), WLKT (FM 104.5), WKQQ (FM 100.1), and the following television stations: WLEX (Channel 18), WKYT (Channel 27), WTVQ (Channel 36), at 6 a.m. or as soon as possible.

There may be a time when a few isolated bus routes may not be made or may be delayed for an hour while the rest of the bus routes will be made on the regular schedule. These bus routes will be announced only on WRVK radio station.

In instances of a delay schedule, breakfast will be served as soon as students arrive

RCHS Touring Theater visits county schools

by Lee Ann Frith & Alex Tyler

On November 16 and 17, a group of high school students put on a play for the fourth and fifth graders at the county's three elementary schools. These aspiring actors performed a Native American tale called "The Boy Who Tricked the Moon".

The story comes from the Thunderbird Clan of the Tlingit Indians, of the Pacific Northwest. This story was chosen because the Native American culture is one of the cultures studied by the fourth and fifth graders.

Since the play was performed at all three elementary schools, the set and props had to be very easy to move. The set consisted of a screen and totem poles, making it very portable.

Six thespians made up the cast of this play. Nathaniel Bullock. Jeremy Saylor, Becky Davis, and Rissie Griffin, all seniors, made up four of these. Senior Jessie Clous and Mario Cadena, a sophomore, played multiple roles.

The play was very successful. The actors and the audience seemed to enjoy it.

Mr. Allen Pensol, Basic Arts Coordinator, calls the play "spiritual."

Jessie Clouse said, "The play is an up -lifting experience. I found enjoyment in having played multiple parts." With such a successful play having already been performed, what's next? When asked, Mr. Pensol replied, "What we're looking at is making this an ongoing project." He also said that in the future open auditions may be held.

Ms. Allen, Interim Principal, says that an Arts and Humanities class may be added next year and a "...drama class could come out of this." She says that a certified teacher, such as a Language Arts teacher, and a number of students to signup for the class is all that is needed in order to start the class.

See a review of "The Boy Who Tricked the Moon" on page 17

SBDM Council meets in special session

by Rachel Ott

On Wednesday, November 4, the SBDM Council met for a special session to discuss changes for RCHS. The agenda consisted of making a new jacket policy, hiring a new custodian, and continuing discussion of the principal's position, which still remains open.

During the meeting, members amended a new jacket policy. This policy allows those participating in sports sanctioned by the Kentucky High School Athletic Association to order blue letterman jackets. Individuals participating in chorus, band, dance, and academic teams will be required to order red jackets.

The Council also made arrangements to hire a new custodian. They recommended Ms. Mildred Reynolds to fill the position vacated by Ms. Stella Cook.

School Superintendent Larry Hammond met with the five SBDM members during a closed session. The purpose of the meeting was to develop interview questions for the applicants.

The SBDM Council will meet again on November 30. Further decisions regarding the principalship and other topics will be made during this meeting.

Board passes new school safety proposals

by Alex Tyler and Christina Cadena

The Rockcastle County Board of Education passed two proposals involving safety in schools, November 10. The two proposals were to acquire more cameras for school buses, and to use dogs to search the school for drugs.

Ten new video cameras will be purchased, bringing the total to 15 cameras. Transportation Director David Perkins said, "We're striving for more cameras every year." According to Mr. Perkins, the cameras will be placed on those buses with the most discipline problems. The cameras should be in place by January, 1999.

The use of dogs to search the school for drugs was also passed. The dogs will search the school for a variety of drugs, including marijuana, methanphetames, cocaine, and substances that contain codeine, which can be found in prescription drugs. The dogs will also be searching the parking lot. The dogs made their first appearance on Friday, November 20.

The searches may be conducted by two different individuals: an officer from Somerset, or Mt. Vernon Chief of Police, Bill Mink. Students and faculty will not be given prior notice of the search.

School Superintendent Larry Hammond said, "We [the school principals and board] believe this would be a good means of preventing drug use."

Mr. Hammond went on to add that there will be an educational program for the parents, students, and faculty concerning the dogs. The date has not yet been determined.

Some students don't make the grade and don't care

by Jimmy Payne

There are many mysteries one encounters in life. There are many questions that will never be answered. Throughout my high school years at RCHS there is a question that I have to asked myself in almost every class I have taken. This question I fear I will never find a true answer for; it is an enigma that I will take well beyond my life-time.

Why does a student over the age of sixteen come to school with absolutely no intention what-so-ever of trying to pass their classes? If a student plans on not doing their work or even making the slightest attempt to pass, why do they not stay home or get a job?

These are the kids who come to class and either go and catch up on sleep or come and exagerate about how much alcohol and drugs they have taken into their body the weekend before. These kids are the reason that our teachers have to spend their time guarding the restrooms as if it were Fort Knox.

Every year when students have to fill out the discipline handbooks I hear the same word "why." Well, I have solved the great question that has plagued students for years. If kids who don't want to come would stay home, a big part of the discipline problems at RCHS would be gone.

Now that one poblem would be gone, it is immediately going to lead to another. What are these kids with no high school diploma supposed to do once they get on their ow?. If they are too lazy to try and succeed in school it makes you wonder, are they going to have what it takes to get a job and support themselves and a family once they get into the real world?

Five or six years down the road the one thing I don't want is to have to pay out of my hard earned money for these people to live. Frankly, I have no use for someone who is not willing to make something out of themselves.

I want these people to realize that they only get one life to make something out of themselves; only one chance to make something out of themselves. If they do not start making the effort right now they are going to find themselves locked out of the American dream we see advertised on T.V. Now is the time in life where you will begin to decide what the rest of your life will be like.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Editor,

The "Rocket" is a school paper and should be used for reports of school activities.

"Rocketown" is not a school activity. It is a church activity. If one church, one denomination has space in the "Rocket" to report its youth program, other churches should have equal space.

Not signed

The Rocket Response

The Rocket is a school newspaper which is produced by students for students. All of the articles which are included in the newspaper are intended to present a complete picture of student life and interests.

The students make every attempt to cover all stories which relate to the youth in our high school.

The students develop their own story ideas; they make no attempt to favor any group.

The Rocket's primary objective is to showcase students--their interests, their activities-- be they conducted within the school or within the community.

STUDENT OPINION

Down the Hall

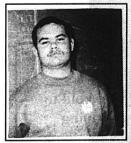

If you could invite anyone to your house for Thanksgiving dinner, who would it be and why?

Bridgette Feltner-Stone Cold Steve Austin, because he is really HOT! He is my favorite wrestler.

Matt Cromer--Baywatch girls. Ithink everyone knows why!

Stephan Carrera-Joe Montana, because he is my favotite football player

Marisa FrederickI would invite Kenny Allen because Thanksgiving is a time to give thanks to the people you love.

Robin Childress-All my friends because I care about them. I would also invite Mathew Cromer, because that is the only way I could get him to go on a date.

Jason Cromer--Carmen Electra. My reasons aren't very nice.

Thanksgivings more than turkey and dressing

by Christina Mahaffey

When people hear the word "Thanksgiving" they automatically think of turkey and their grandmother's dumplings, but Thanksgiving means more than that.

It's a time to spend with your family and share all the blessings you have been given that year. It's also a time to reflect back upon the Thanksgiving pasts and what they meant to you.

Most importantly it's a time to give thanks to the Pilgrims for being brave and staying in the wild new land called America. Had it not been for them there wouldn't be any passing out on the couch after eating a huge dinner and watching football.

Before you sit down to dinner reflect silently on what Thanksgiving means to you because just by being able to eat dinner with your family means you are thruly blessed.

New law passed by KGA

by Jessica Lowery

This summer a new law was passed by the KGA, (Kentucky General Assembly) assuring that students in public schools are free to pray and worship as they please. The law was created to verify that students can exercise their rights of freedom and religious liberty.

The law states that students are free to express their religious viewpoints in school just as they can talk about anything else.

I think that this law is an excellent thing and was very much needed in public schools. Students' beliefs shouldn't stop as they walk inside the school doors. We should be able to express our opinions and beliefs no matter where we are.

This law is the reason R.C.H.S. has so many religious based clubs and activities. It allows us to have F.C.A. (Fellowship of Christian Athletes), and S.O.C. (Soldiers of Christ). It also allows us to have prayer group in the mornings, "See you at the Pole" every year, and begin several clubs with and opening prayer.

Kentucky Senate Majority Leader David Karem said, "We've established a common ground where students may pray, read from religious material, and even invite other students to join them in group discussions."

I agree with Mr. Karem and I think this law was long overdue. Students should be allowed to express their views no matter if they involve religion or not.

Lying: Right or Wrong?

by Sahlena Sebastian

Lies...fibs... stretching the truth, no matter how you put it a rumor is a rumor. They hurt people, cause trouble, and may start something that in the end causes problems for you.

For example, recently a rumor was started about several distinguished members in our community and how they were supposedly involved in the distribution of illegal substances. A retraction was written in the Mt. Vernon Signal explaining that this rumor was not true. However, many people are still spreading this rumor.

Rumors here at the high school are different but none the less harmfu Just because people dress differently or act differently doesn't make them some kind of freak. Treat people as equals.

Just because someone may not have a boyfriend/girlfriend doesn't mean that they do not like the opposite sex. Maybe they're just afraid to get into a relationship, maybe they don't want one.

The main problem is people do not pay enough attention to others feelings but instead highlight their own. If more people worried about each other instead of just themselves then we wouldn't have war, world hunger, or poverty.

Nobody will ever know why people spread rumors or tell lies. Take the time to get to know someone before you open your mouth and start degrading them, trying to make a fool of them just to impress your friends.

Always remember do unto others as you would have them do unto you.

Addictions unmasked at "Masquerade" by Dackery Larkey

On November 14, addictions were unmasked at Rocketown's "Masquerade." The program's purpose was to show how drugs and alcohol are harmful to today's youth.

The night began with a video presented by Darren Allen, a state police officer. The video gave a strong message to the youth about the dangers of drug abuse. Several people gave testimonies about the problems drugs and alcohol had created in their own lives.

Local youth participated in the event by performing several skits which illustrated the negative effects of alcohol, cigarettes, marijuana, and other narcotics.

The evening ended with music and food. D.C. Talk, a Christian band, was displayed on a giant screen television. Pizza and soft drinks were provided for all of the youth who attended.

Rocketown is sponsored by Youth Pastor Scott Stayton, and the youth program at Bible Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon.

Brodhead Baptist begins new youth program by Lindsey Parsons

Matthew 5:16 reads, "In that same way, let your light shine before men, that they may see your good deeds and praise your Father in Heaven." This verse provides the basis for the local event held by Brodhead Baptist Church called Shine.

On November 11, 55 people (many of them high school students) attended the first ever Shine. This was a night for youth to join together and worship the Lord through many different activities.

As well as the youth, the band Exit 11 provided music for the night. R.C.H.S. students Jessica Lowery, Natasha Bishop, Mary French. Brooke Roberts, and Shalanta Nicely also performed. A praise team made up of youth from Brodhead Baptist performed two skits. A guest speaker from Cumberland College was also present.

This event is planned to be held each month, and everyone is invited to join in the worship of the Lord.

"(It's a) hip way to teach teenagers about the Lord," junior Jonathan Bishop said.

Several attend All-State Chorus auditions

by Heather Kirby

All-State Chorus auditions were held October 20 at Lincoln County High School. Several Rockcastle County High School students in Mrs. Tammy Reynolds' Chorus Class participated. The students included: Jaci Durham, Stephanie Dobbs, Theresa Chislum, Rebecca Kirby, Natashsa Bishop, Mary French, J.W. Erwin, Collin Williams, Brad Spears, and Jeremy Saylor.

were graded on a 100 point scale. The three highest scores were: Collin Williams with a 98, Jaci Durham, 97, and a 97 to Brad Spears. All three of these students, including Jeremy Saylor, were accepted in All-State Chorus.

As the first part of the audition, the students were expected to sing a piece which was written for graduate school students-mistake free. During the audition, the students sang in quartet and then performed a solo. They were given a pitch to start on, but the piece had to be sung a capella, or with no accompanying instru-

The students that auditioned had their scores compared with those of other students from across the state. The All-State Chorus consists of those students with the highest scores.

The students who were selected will stay 4 days and 3 nights in Louisville, Kentucky, where they will perform a college level repetoire. The Choir will be directed by college professors while the high school directors (such as Mrs. Reynolds) will be attending work shops.

Girls' Cross Country participates in State Meet FHA and FFA attend national conventions

by Mindy Bullock

The Girls' Cross Country season had been going really well, and ended in a rather momentous event. On November 7, the girls participated in the State meet at the Kentucky Horse Park. It marked the team's first appearance ever.

"I feel like it was a big accomplishment for the team because we were the first girl's' cross country team from Rockcastle to go to State, " said sophomore Tara Abney.

The girls who participated in the meet are: Brandy Reynolds, Jessica Cobb, Rachelle Hammond, Cassandra Ramsey, Chere Embs, and Rebecca Lyons. Cheyenne Carmack and Tara Abney were unable to compete.

Coach Dawn Quigley is quoted as saying, "We're really proud of the girls for making it to the state meet, and for their effort that day-and all season. They did really well for their first time at State, especially considering that they were running against two hundred girls from fifty other schools."

The girls finished twentieth at the meet.

Recently, two R.C.H.S. clubs attended national conventions. FFA visited Kansas City, Missouri from November 10 to November 15. FHA traveled to Albuquerque, New Mexico from November 12 to November 17.

Fourteen members of FFA, and chaperone Mr. Jeff Hayes, attended the convention. Members who attended were: senior, Eric Helton; juniors, Jason Whicker, John Dyehouse, Roy Adams, Jonathan Bishop, Jeremy Reynolds, Nick Leger, and Josh McClure; sophmores, Aaron Mobley, Warren Whitaker, Thomas Coffey, Josh Lyons, and JJ Clark; freshman, Eric Adams. Also in attendance was 1997 R.C.H.S. graduate Matt Chaliff. While in Kansas City, they attended sessions which included speeches by motivational speakers and the national FFA officers. They also attended the American Royal Rodeo and saw country singer Trace Atkins in concert.

The FHA attended the National FHA Cluster Convention. Ms. Robyn Johnson took eight FHA members on the Albuquerque trip. Those members were: seniors, Mary Beth Browning, Jessica McClure, Jamie Settles, and Kristie Lovell; juniors, Shalanta Nicely and Brooke Roberts: sophmores, Rachelle Hammond and Ashley Lawson. Also in attendance were Ms. Darlene Martin and Ms. Rebekah Hammond. While in Albuquerque, they toured and visited many historical sights. Ms. Robyn Johnson had this to say about the trip, "It was a great learning experience for the girls. Not only did they see new sights, but many of them got to fly for the first time. It was a great experience for us all."

Both clubs enjoyed the conventions very much and were pleased with the results of the long trip. They got to see many new sights and learned a lot about their clubs.

Clubs

Attention Spanish students! Those students in Spanish I and II who received a B or higher for the first 9 weeks qualified to go on a trip to E.K.U. The trip is scheduled for Tuesday, November 24, to see a dramatized production of Don Quixote. Also, those students who have maintained a B or better average will receive a first or second year pin at the end of the semester. The Spanish Club is an honorary club that will be noted on the students transcript.

JROTC took a repelling trip on November 14th at a tower in London. The trip was reported to be a success. The drill team and rifle team will be traveling to Clarksville for a major competion on November 21. The rifle team will be going to Atlanta, Georgia on December 12.

Upward Bound applications are down in the counselor's office. See Mrs. Miller for more information. The Upward Bound Reunion will be held on Berea College's campus, December 5.

FCA

Many students attended the October FCA meeting. Free ride performed, and a lot of important decisions were made. For the November meeting; Shannon Isaacs gave the devotion, and Amber Thacker sang. Members can look forward to hearing from brother Dan Brown, who will give the devotion for the December meeting.

FHA

We attended a National cluster meeting, in Albequeque, New Mexico, from November 13-15. At the November club meeting we had a guest speaker, that talked about safe driving skills. We also will be getting gifts together for the unfortunate for the December club meeting.

FFA

We attended a National Convention in Kansas City, Missouri November 10-15. Poinsetta sales will begin next week. Many styles, and colors of poinsettas are available. Freshman parlementary procedure, landscape and horticulture, and the small engines team will perform at Eastern Kentucky University on December 3.

Key Club

November 7 we attended a statewide project called the Pride Pickup at the Rock Quarry in Burr. This was a group project shared between the Beta, Key, and Yclubs. December 7 the Key club will be sponsoring a blood drive, and anyone 18 or over can donate blood. The Key club will be donating clothes to the needy around Christmas, and all club members should participate. The Key club also visits the nursing home, and respiratory care center periodically.

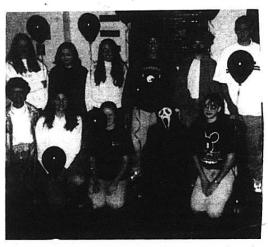

Beta Club

During the month of October the Beta club sponsored a clothing drive. We gathered many items of clothing that helped the needy. December 4, and 5 the Beta club will be attending a convention in Louiville. During these two days, the members will be participating in academic competitions, talent competitions, an arts and crafts festival. Crystal Mink will be running for State Office.

ACT tips could help on test

by Christina Cadena

Unlike the PLAN or the ASVAB, which are only taken by the sophmores and juniors, anyone can take the ACT. Also, many colleges look at ACT scores to determine whether or not they will accept you. Many students have already taken the ACT this year, and some will be taking it in December. For those of you who havent taken the test yet, here are some test-

- Pace yourself. The time limit set for each section of the ACT gives nearly everyone enought time to finish all the questions.
- 2. Read the directions for each test carefully.
- 3. Read each question carefully. It is important that you understand what each question asks.
- Answer the easy questions first. The best stradegy for taking the ACT is to answer the easy questions and skip the questions you find difficult.
- Review you work. If there is time left after you have answered every question in a section, go back and check your

How the "Rock is Hard" came to be

by Billy Hackworth

At the beginning of every football game, peprally and basketball game, you hear it. It's on every poster and in every cheer. It's the phrase "hard as a rock" Have you ever wondered just where and how this phrase got started?

Football game in at a 1976, young freshman Robert Owens spoke out to his team to encourage them to fight hard in the final moments of the game. In the huddle Robert told them that the "Rock is hard" and you can't break it."

That single phrase gave the freshman the courage and adrenaline they needed, to comeback and defeat there opponent to win the game.

They adapted the song "Hard as a Rock" from AC/DC and named it the school song. They afterwords chose it as the school song because it fit the school and the football teams' will to overcome their opponent.

Now every day, week and month we hear that phrase. It comes from the heart and is meant to encourage not only athletes, but students to achieve all their highest goal. Since 1976, that phrase has been quoted and will always be a large part of the Rocket Spirit.

1976 second string linebacker Robert Owens started the phrase which has fueled Rockcastle County High School students every year since "The Rock is Hard." The phrase will probably live on through the next milleneum.

Winter will soon be here, along with Christmas Break, snow days, and---- AACHOO!-- sneezes, sniffles, and flu days.

ORTS

The new WWF champ "If you smell what the Rock is cookin"

by Jimmy Payne

I'm not the kind of guy that would say I told you so, but I told you so. For all of Wrestling Ramblings' loyal readers who doubted my prediction that the Rock would take over Stone Cold's position as the #1 wrestler in the World Wrestling Federation, I got two words for ya!

For over a year I have been praising the Rock. For over a year I and very few of my loyal colleagues have been saving that the Rock would be the future of the WWF and up until very recently I have been criticized for believing so.

So when the Rock became the sole survivor at the Survivor Series becoming the WWF champion by winning the tournament I felt full satisfaction. What makes me sick is how most of the fans jumped off of the Rock's band wagon as quickly as they jumped

I for one was glad that the Rock turned back to his rulebreaking ways. I hope he stays a rule-breaker for a long time, because as soon as he "changes" his ways I'm sure there will be a hall full of Rock shirts here at RCHS and a gazillion people claiming that they have been Rock fans all

With the new World Champion fresh off his first world title defense, he is going to get very little time to celebrate his newly won belt. Austin is already on the Rock's back about a title shot and I look for Mick Foley to make a run for the title before the Royal Rumble. Speaking of the Royal Rumble, I have read on the internet (www.scoopscentral.com) that Shawn Michaels will be back in wrestling condition from his back injury by the Royal Rumble. With Wrestlemania XV right around the corner it looks like 1999 is already shaping up to be an exciting year in wrestling.

What about Raven?

Time and time again I wonder why World Championship Wrestling does this and does that for no apparent reason.

Why is a injured man (Dia-Dallas Page) their United States Champion when they have a whole oganization full of talent that is ready and phyically able to have the title?

Why do they let Tony Schiavone and "Stagger"Lee Marshall comentate?

Why do they pay "Mean" Gene Okerlund and J.J. Dillon?

There are more but I don't want to get a headache, however, their are two questions that come into my head about WCW that I can't

The first question is about Raven, it goes like this "What good do you intend on getting from letting Raven go on a losing streak?" I just don't understand.

Is this angle supposed to have a reverse psychological effect on the fans? Raven is an awesome wrestler and a great character. Does WCW want Raven's popularity to go down? I don't know if this method makes sense to anyone else, but it has me totally confused.

The character of Raven was extremely popular in ECW (Extreme Championship Wrestling).

He has also been popular in the Global Wrestling Federation where he held their Television title, the United States Wrestling Association, and in the WWF where he was known as Johnny Polo and managed the Quebecers to three WWF Tag team titles.

For those wrestling fans who haven't watched wreslting for an extended ammount of time, Raven was in WCW once before only he wasn't known as Raven. He was then named Scotty Flamingo and he held the Light Heavyweight title. Flamingo captured the title from the late Brian Pillman and lost the title to the great Brad Armstrong "ha! ha!"

I am hoping that WCW makes a decision before to long that they will actually let Raven do what he does best and that is to get HARDCORE . With the recent WCW signing of the Sandman maybe he can bring the EX-TREME side out of the troubled

Next Question

My next question for WCW is why, since they have a stable full of talent are they allowing Rick Steiner and Marcus Alexander Bagwell's mother Judy, who I might add is the most annoying person ever to be on television excluding Glacier and Steve McMichael of course, defend the tag team titles at World War 3.

For one thing, Scott Steiner is two times the size of Rick and Judy put together and could probably pin them both with one swoop from his silicone implanted biceps. For another, this ignorent, out of shape old woman can hardly walk much less wrestle. I feel that to let this match go on would be a complete embarassment to the sport of wrestling

In Closing

I would like to ask that with the exception of Eddy Guerrero the entire Latino World Order look for new jobs. The same goes for Glacier, nobody cares if you're Ernest Miller's friend or not.

Lady Rockets look strong as season nears

by Stephen Hopkins

The 1998-1999 R.C.H.S. Lady Rockets are expected to have a very successful season. Returning three starters and three players with very favorable varsity experience, the Lady Rockets look to perform well in the regular season, district, and region tournaments.

The Harlan Enterprise has the Lady Rockets ranked 4th in the region in their annual preseason poll. They are ranked behind Harlan, Middlesborough, and Clay County, who are always regional favorites.

Head JV and Assistant Varsity Coach Ken Hopkins says, "Our strong point this year will definitely be our guards. Between Tiffany McClure, Brandy
Reynolds, and Jessie Rickles, there probably aren't any better guards in the region. We're shooting the ball very well right now and expect to do very well this season."

Also returning, Senior Guard, Tiffany McClure, is a 2nd year starter. She is very aggressive and physical for a guard, and is expected to be a team leader.

Senior Center, Suzanne Brown, is very motivated this season and playing the best basketball of her career. For this team to be successful, she needs to step up inside as far as scoring and rebounds.

Junior guard, Brandy Reynolds, has worked very hard during the off season. She has improved on her strength and shooting ability, as well as her endurance by participating as a part of the R.C.H.S. Cross Country team.

Also signing on for another year, Junior Forward/Guard Brook Roberts will be looked for to play a post-position, even though she has been wing player in the past. She will be expected to pull down quit a few rebounds in her second year as a varsity member.

Junior Forward/Center, Jessica Cobb, is possibly the strongest and most athletic member of the team. Her post moves are greatly improved. She will see a lot of minutes and will be called on to produce a lot of rebounds.

Sophomore Guard, Jessie Rickles, is by far the quickest guard on the team. Her outside shot has been significantly improved due to some minor mechanical changes, She is expected to be a big part of this year's team, even as a 10th grader.

Sophomore Guard/Forward, Amber Falin, is probably the smartest player that the Lady Rockets have. She makes very few mistakes and will be called on to do many things in both the Guard and Forward positions.

Sophomore Guards Rachelle Hammond and Ashley Lawson will also see significant playing time. Rachelle will see time in an offensive roll, and Ashley in some defensive situations.

This team's strength will definitely be its defense in the full court press. They may lack in the post and rebounding. The Lady Rockets play a very difficult schedule, which includes two Christmas tournaments, including the Berea Holiday tournament at Berea College. They play Hopkins County Central in the opening round of that tournament. Win or lose, they will play either Lexington Catholic or Bowling Green.

With Assistant Coach Greg Parett leaving to take a headcoaching job at Jackson County, Barry Noble will make his return to the hardwood as a Varsity Assistant Coach. Coach Ken Hopkins will move up to JV Head Coach and Varsity Assistant.

Rockcastle Rockets preparing for upcoming season

by Jimmy Payne

Coming out of the shadow of an exceptional 97-98 edition of Rockcastle boys' basketball is not going to be an easy task for this year's Rockets. Last year's record of 20-9 was the best by a boys' team in Rockcastle history.

The loss of seniors Blake Childress, John Brown, Billy Kirby, Travis Anderkin, and Dusty McClure will not help the Rockets' quest for a district title. When senior forward Blake Calhoun was asked what he felt the team lost the most from last year's team, he quickly answered, "Rebound-

The goal for this year's team is very clear. No longer does the team want to win, they expect it. "I expect for us to go back to the district championship game and make another run for the region title," said junior forward Daniel

Last year's Rockets gained a lot of respect but this year they are working on getting even more. "This year we are working on getting respect from everyone. Last year we gained some, but this year we are working on getting respect from everyone. Respect is not given, it's earned," said Morgan.

Last year was the most wins we ever had. I think this years team will be as good or better than last year's team," said Calhoun. "We have three starting guards from last year's team returning and with the post play of Matt Brown and myself we can do anything we want to do."

Morgan added, " I feel that with the triple threat of the post with Blake, Matt and myself and the triple threat at the guard position with Stevie Bradley, Layne Nicely, and our all-state point guard Andrew Cash, we have what it takes to win the district title.

When asked how he felt about the 98-99 Rockets, Head Coach Clayton Cash said, " I'm optimistic. Our inside game needs work.

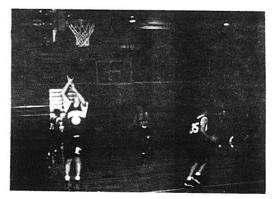

fense and Blake Childress' rebounding. If we can get someone to step up and fill the void we will have the same team as last year with experienced play at the guard position."

We are missing rebounding more than anything. We should be able to score with most teams, but we won't be able to press, because we don't have the strength, quickness, or the depth," Coach Cash went on to say.

Coach Cash is looking forward to this year's season even though he says practices aren't going as well as they did last year." If we can get our defense in line we could be exciting."

The schedule is expected to be very tough. Coach Cash says that he can look down the schedule and there is no one team that he can look at and guarantee victory.

Twenty wins is going to be hard to duplicate, but once you get into the region anything can hap-

Not only are the expectations high for the Rockets as a team this year, but a lot is expected out of junior guard Andrew Cash. Andrew recieved honorable mention by the All-State selection in the Courier Journal and was selected to the All-Region team last year, and he was selected to the All-District team as a freshman and a sophmore. Cash was also selected to the Kentucky All-Stars as a freshman and a sophmore.

Coach Cash said, " I feel like Andrew is as good of an allaround player as we have had in Rockcastle in a long time." An-
