After five years, 390 homes to get water

Construction of new water lines may finally start in February

After nearly five years it looks as if the Rockcastle County Water Association's $2,438 million dollar project to extend water lines may finally get underway.

Project engineer Darcy Stewart said that construction on the new water lines could begin in February, weather permitting.

"The board of directors of the Rockcastle Water Association would like its members and customers to know that the 1999 water project is nearing start-up," Stewart said.

The water association has filed an application with the public service commission for a certificate of public convenience and necessity and the contractors have been given notice of award for preparation for pre-closing of the financing and preparing for issuing the contracts in about a month," Stewart said.

"Basically it boils down to satisfying the conditions of Rural Development, which is funding most of the project," Stewart said.

Money for the project was approved during the Breerton Jones administration, but numerous delays, mainly the fact that Rockcastle Water Association could never get solid water user's agreement from the City of Mt. Vernon, caused the project to be put on hold.

When completed about 390 more households in the county will have city water.

The areas where the new lines will be laid are Three Links, Chimax, Red Hill, Sand Hill, Sand Springs and Pongo.

Stewart said he expects the construction of the lines to take about one year, depending on the weather.

Three interviewed for principal's position at RCHS

Three local applicants for the vacant principal's position at the Rockcastle County High School were interviewed Wednesday afternoon.

Rockcastle County Middle School Principal John Hale, current interim principal at RCHS Ruth Allen and former RCHS language arts teacher Betty Jo McKinney, who now works with the state department of education as a language arts consultant for the region six service center were interviewed by the state based council at RCHS.

Five other people have applied to fill the position, which has been vacant since last week of August, but none of those were interviewed on Wednesday.

According to the by-laws of the council, the vote for a new principal at RCHS must be unanimous.

Members of the council at RCHS are parent members Debbie Brown and Yvonne Carmack and teachers Jeff Hayes, Debbie Cash and Tom Larky.

Morris pleads not guilty

Accused murderer Johnny W. Morris, formerly of Rockcastle County, made his first appearance in a Jackson County courtroom during his preliminary hearing in Jackson County District Court last week in front of presiding Judge Hon. Renee Muncy, who passed the case on to the Jackson County Grand Jury which will have the opportunity to make an indictment.

Linda Campbell and Jennifer Hall, public defenders, as he heard the charges that included two counts of murder, robbery first degree and theft of an auto.

Two witnesses, Kentucky State Police Detective Myles Owens and Timothy Reynolds, the Lexington Metro officer that arrested Morris, after the alleged murders occurred, took the stand to testify.

Sex offenders to be tracked by Megan's law

The effects of sexual abuse are life-long for the thousands of children who are abused every year in the United States.

But now the penalty for sexual abuse will be life-long for those convicted of such heinous crimes.

Last Friday marked the effective date of Kentucky's version of Megan's Law, a community notification process that alerts victims and law enforcement agencies of a sexual offender's release date. This law, according to Justice Cabinet Secretary Dan Chery, is "an additional tool in keeping our families and children safe from sex offenders."

Megan's Law was established as a result of the 1995 murder of Megan Kanka in New Jersey. Megan was violently killed by a neighbor, whom police later acknowledged was a twice-convicted violent sexual offender. Megan's Law was established in 1996 and applies to sex offenses against adult victims, too.

Thanks to the VINE system (Victims Identification and Notification system), victims are notified when a convicted sexual offender is ready for release from prison, as well as the

Delinquent property tax collection increases

Although most residents of Rockcastle County have paid their 1998 property taxes, there are still those who have fallen behind and let their taxes become delinquent. As of December 31, 1998, several people have not paid their 1998 property tax bills.

"The sheriff's goal is to get at least 95 percent or more of the people to pay their property taxes on time," said Rockcastle County Attorney Jeffrey T. Burdette. "Then, the list of delinquent taxes is turned over to our office, so we can try to collect according to our duties under the law."

Although collecting five percent of the property taxes does not seem like much, county attorneys across the state collected approximately $21 million in delinquent property taxes from July 1996 through June 1997. In Rockcastle County, $109,541.94 was collected during that same time period. Each year since taking office in 1994, Burdette's office has increased collections of delinquent taxes by over 30% annually according to records in the County Court Clerk's office. And, the Kentucky Revenue

Cabinet has approved those collections quarterly since 1994.

"We take our duty to collect delinquent taxes seriously," Burdette said. "It becomes unfair to those who pay when some people renege on their responsibility, because that costs all of us more in the long run."

In order to collect overdue taxes, county attorneys send numerous notices to people who owe delinquent property taxes before action is taken on their property.

"Our goal is to encourage people to pay before going to court," Burdette said.

Those who have fallen behind in paying their property taxes should contact the County Attorney's Office at 256-2730 to discuss their plans in paying those taxes.

Burdette has recently added Melanie Lyons to his staff, who administers the program. Melanie, of Scaffold Cane, has a BBA in Accounting from Eastern Kentucky University. She is married to Jeff Lyons and has two children, Joshua, 16 and Rebekah, 14 years old.

Man who owes $14,000 in child support put on probation

A Richmond man who was indicted last year because he owed $38,200 in child support for his three minor children and placed guilty to a misdemeanor has been put on probation.

Larry Wayne Lawson, 39, of Richmond was indicted in October for failing to pay child support from December of 1994 to September of 1998.

Last week Rockcastle Circuit Judge William Cain went along with the recommendation of the Commonwealth Attorney's office to amend the charges against Lawson to a misdemeanor. Lawson was placed on probation for a 24 month period and ordered to pay $200 a month until his child

No one was seriously injured in a head-on collision on Level Green Road Saturday morning. According to Deputy Sheriff Charles Gray, Paul D. Evans, 23, of Rt. 1 Brodhead apparently pulled his 1986 Toyota pickup into the path of a vehicle driven by Michael Barron, 27, of Rt. 1 Brodhead around 10:30 a.m. Barron was pulling a livestock trailer behind his pickup.

There was an old saying in my family years ago that if it thunders in January it would frost in June and if it thunders in February it would frost in May.

If the weather we had here in Paint Lick last Sunday night is any indication of what we might see in June, there's no sense in even thinking about gardening until next Fall. I've talked to several people who have been around a lot longer than I have and none of them can remember seeing such a violent thunder storm this time of year.

We're not talking about a distant rumble or a fleeting flash of lightning. We're talking about windows and doors shaking and one big flash of lightning after another like you'd expect to see in June.

We're supposed to be getting blizzard warnings in January. Instead we had a torrid watch for most of the evening.

The upside to all this rain however, is that if it had fallen in the form of snow, we'd be up in June digging out.

Depending on who's rain gauge you trust the most, and I'm not naming any names because I don't want to get caught in the middle of an argument, we've had between 4.2 and 5.3 inches here in the suburbs of Paint Lick since the first of the month.

An inch of rain is roughly the equivalent of 12 inches of snow which means that we'd have had somewhere between four and seven feet of snow in 18 days. Suddenly, the prospects of a frost in June don't sound nearly as bad as they did a few minutes ago. And, incidentally, I do know some folks in Letcher County who will swear that they've seen it snow so hard in June that it broke the blades off of corn stalks.

I've seen it snow in July, but I was near the top of Pike's Peak where it happens all the time.

In other news, several of my younger friends have been calling to ask how it feels to be fifty. I wish I'd never let that I was having a birthday because I've had to take some heckling. One prankster even sent along a bottle of what is supposed to be Viagra, but my get up and go has not got up and went just yet.

The thing that bothers me most about aging is the fact that neither my hearing nor my eyesight are what they used to be. The word that I utter more than any other on any give day is "what?" I probably have a dozen pair of reading glasses stashed in my truck, my office desk and at various locations throughout the house where I may need to read something. Ten years ago my vision was 20/20 and I could hear a mouse from the bedroom to the kitchen with the door closed. If our weekend storm did nothing else, I still have the assurance that I can hear it thunder.

However, it is embarrassing to ask a store clerk if I can borrow a pair of glasses off the rack for a few minutes so that I can read the planting instructions and recommendations on a seed packet back in the gardening section.

Sweet and Sour

Recently the cost of postage stamps went up one cent. Not much of a raise according to the United States Postal authorities, only a penny more per stamp. But that one penny more in my way of figuring is three and a three cents per dollar more for the post office department. And quite a bit for those of us who send a few birthday and get well cards to those we love. Now compare that raise to the one we folks living on a Social Security check received the first of this year. It was 1.3 percent or a fraction over one cent per dollar. Oh yes, I really made a boo-boo last week when I added a 1 before the 4 and made it $14 instead of a $4.00 per month raise. So much for my mistake, that is one I can't blame on the Signal's typesetter. Now, back to the raises we do have to contend with.

My 1.3 percent raise was nothing to compare to the raise I have to pay for my AARP health care. When I took out my first policy with AARP it was $19.00 a month. How can the senior citizens on limited income pay these inflated prices?

Are those in charge of laws that govern such increases in prices for the necessities of life and the decrease of cost of living for the necessities of life and the decrease of cost of living for the poorest of their constituents doing the jobs we elected them to do? They always seem to know how the cost of living has increased when they vote an increase in their own benefits as well as their salaries and pension plans. This, I assure you, is much more than we are allotting to seniors living on retirement who have paid their dues into the system that was supposed to make life a little easier when they could no longer work a long shift in the factory, dig coal to furnish the factories and homes with electricity. Our furnish work for building. These people along with the farmer have been the backbone of the nation and now S.S. check whose cost of living raise will now buy 12 postage stamps.

Those twelve stamps will at least be enough to send a payment for one bill a month. What more could we ask for?

OK, OK, OK. I will try to change the subject and get on to a few pleasant memories of other days when mail was handled differently.

When I was a young boy, I remember in postage stamps, now I will go back to mail delivery and the old days of twice a day mail delivery when postage stamps were two cents a piece. Do any of you remember those days?

I wonder if any of you ever lived in a place where the mailman came twice a day with his heavily loaded mail bag strapped on his back and personally dropped your mail in the slot in the door made for that purpose. Well, I did.

My memory goes back to 317 Wellsville, Ohio. It was a small industrial town on the Ohio River. Steelmills, potteries and brickyards furnished work for any and all who wanted to earn a living. This was all hard work but the good pay and security kept them going till long after my family moved to Cincinnati. Our house was located on the main street leaving town and was the only road leading to the next town, East Liverpool, Oh, a few miles away, so it was quite a busy street. The street car tracks were also located on this street and the red street cars ran past our house every fifteen minutes and stopped at every corner. And big yellow Enturbancars, much bigger than the local one, ran every hour. This one connected Steubenville, Ohio with Beaver, Pennsylvania, a distance of about fifty or seventy-five miles. Therefore we had good transportation to almost anywhere we needed to go.

In back of our house, across an alley, was the big Bethlehem steel mill that was two blocks long, and on the other side of it was the railroad tracks and beyond that the beautiful Ohio River where steam boats piled with their cargo of passengers and cargoes. Noisy? You bet. Did we mind it? Of course not, it was our way of life and we loved it. That steel mill not only furnished the world with the finest steel, but also furnished us with things we never dreamed of. We had a recreation house on our street supervised by a wonderful nurse that and to our scraped knees and bruises and taught me how to tape up my blistered heels that appeared every time I wore new shoes. She also taught classes in sewing for the girls and woodwork, etc. for the boys. And always there was talk about cleanliness and good health.

There was also a playground that had all the things that any child could wish for, including swings, slides, a maypole, (that was my favorite) a sand box for the little ones and tennis and volleyball courts plus a shelter for adults to sit in while they watched their youngsters at play. None of this cost. It was a courtesy of the Steel Mill industry.

The school system here was the best I have ever heard of.

Beginning in first grade we had to make the grades or we didn't pass and passing was uppermost in our minds, at least in mine. But if we failed it was only for a half a year. The system was set up on two semesters, one beginning in September, the other in January. One started in the B class and had to pass to the A at the end of the semester. If one failed he only did so for that semester and if he passed he went to the next grade and so forth all through school. That way the slow learners never held back the rest of the class. And he/she never fell far behind. And it was then I learned to both motivate the teachers. They recognized ability and encouraged it even if they had to stay late themselves to help some child over a rough spot. My reading teacher recognized my spelling ability, my fifth grade teacher recognized my writing ability and both encouraged me to continue with it. I did the principal of the school. I think of them often when I begin one of these rambling essays. Then we moved to Cincinnati, Ohio. When I was in my first year of high school.

At this town, Wellsville, Ohio, is where my memories of mail being delivered twice a day took place. Our mailman was a cheerful one. I remember him as being kind of heavy set, but made the heavy sack on his back maybe him look that way to me. He was dressed in blue, as all mailmen were then. Even his sack slung over his shoulders was blue. He seemed to be always singing, humming or whistling but it never interrupted his cheerful good morning or evening if he happened to see one of us around. By mail morning, he could be seen coming up the street and going from porch to porch dropping the mail into the slot in each door. Then by mid afternoon he would once again appear never lingering or changing his stride. Snow, sleet, nor rain could damage his pace or keep him from doing his job six days a week. And Christmas Day was no exception. Cards and packages that came in after his last delivery were carefully slipped through the slot in the door or the doorbell would ring and the package handed to the one opening the door. My name, Merry Christmas ringing out. Today, in honoring this man in blue with the huge pack hanging from his shoulder patiently going from door to door, year in and year out, seeing to it every piece of mail was in the right slot. And to think, there were only two cents a piece back then.

Now please don't get me wrong, we still have wonderful dedicated mail men - women today. I know, for they have served me well. Especially so when I lived on the farm. I won't name names but there was one whom I will never forget for his kindness when I was alone and a big snow covered my porch and walk. He not only brought my mail to the door, he swept the snow off so I could get to the car if I needed to.

Thanks, I hope the cookies left in the box were as appreciated as your kind deed was. And also hope your job was not jeopardized.

Dear Editor:

I was born and raised in Mt. Vernon. The reason I am writing this letter is to give credit to a man who did all he could and more to help me.

We would like to either the person who owned the dog that bit me worked with us.

I want to thank Mr. Buck Farking for saving me from having to take rabies shots. He checked on the dog at least five or six times and called me to let me know when the dog was working hard at his job and gets the job done. Thank you, very much.

P.S. The dog was not destroyed or hurt in any way.

Dear Editor:

If we are to believe the polls, the majority of Americans are on the side of President Clinton and his nose-thumbing of the nation's Constitution which he swore to protect and defend against all enemies, both foreign and domestic. Well, I shall charitably consider him the domestic variety, so how does he plan to defend us, short of resigning? Our system of government cannot long endure such humiliation and abuse!

What is happening to us? A school bus driver recently told me how a teen-age passenger insisted he sit on board that oral sex is not bad; in fact it's even sex at all. Another mother came home and found her two young sons practicing this non-sex and was horrified at their plea of innocence. The President is profane.

Such is the example he sets by our leader, while talk of compromise and allowing him to dictate what he will accept as punishment for his "mistake" abounds in Senate chambers; whether he will or not accept weaknesses. And he has been very adamant about that. He will sign off on any and all charges, while denying their validity, in order to avoid facing witnesses? What kind of plea bargain is that?

But, of course, he doesn't want witnesses. Why on Earth would he want us to hear from Gennifer Flowers, Paula Jones, Dolly Kyle Browning, Kathleen Willey, Monica Lewinsky, et al! But since when does the accused take charge of the proceedings and wrest concessions from the prosecutor and jurors? Are we seeing the establishment of a precedent that will apply to us pooms? To future presidents? Will the oath of office and legal testimony be abridged as outmoded?

Those who would have us "forgive" President Clinton's error(s) on grounds that it was a part of his private life and nobody's business make me ill. If he wanted privacy he should never have entered public life where a sacred oath is part of the package. That oath made him a public figure, a servant of the people. My servant, if you will. He lives in my house, eats my food and rides around in my limousine and airplane; all the perks that we taxpayers can provide in exchange for the private life we thought he was relinquishing. He should have known he couldn't have it both ways while we pick up the tab.

While we feel the pain of Clinton's loyal supporters, some of whom went broke in his behalf and were subsequently mangled and trashed, for most of us it's his utter contempt for the law and the insult to our intelligence that repel us, i.e. that we don't understand the Constitution or know the definition of simple words we learned in kindergarten! The nerve of this man, trying to skirt the greatest documented evil written and redrafted by Mr. President, the most heinous of all, was and has been. Alas, you are about to become the latter!

Sincerely,
Christine McKinney

Consider the following scenarios. (All characters are fictitious.)

Jim is not happy with his job. He thinks he does not get the same consideration as other employees. His impression is that the boss talks to everybody but him, and he was recently passed over for a promotion that he thought should have been his. He complains to his wife, "I'm afraid I'm going to get fired. I've got to do something."

Jim decided to have a heart-to-heart talk with his boss. Normally this would have been a good idea, but Jim was so angry about the perceived mistreatment that he "went off" on his boss and was fired. Now he is unemployed and feels worse than before.

Marge has not slept in two weeks. Her anxiety is worse than it has ever been. "I worry about my kids, my car, job, just anything!" she told her friend. Her friend suggested that they go out together on the weekend. "A little excitement is just the thing for you," her friend said.

Marge and her friend had a good time Saturday night, especially after Marge had several drinks. "Alcohol always relaxes me," Marge told her friend. On Sunday morning though, Marge felt worse than ever. Not only was she anxious but now she had a hangover.

Sunday afternoon Marge began drinking again. "Just a couple of wine coolers," she told herself. "That will get rid of this hangover." When two drinks did not help she tried more. When wine coolers did not take care of the problem she switched to hard liquor. By Sunday night she was very drunk.

Monday morning she called her workplace. "I'm too sick to work today," she told them and went back to bed. By the end of the week Marge was drinking steadily, had missed three days of work and was in worse shape than ever. While the alcohol made her forget her anxiety, in the long run drinking made her feel worse. Marge was not a happy man. His wife had just given birth to their first child. "Shannon used to pay attention to me," he said to himself, "now she has no time for me. The only thing she has time for is that baby."

As Bill grew more depressed, he began talking to a friend at work. Jane was also unhappy in her marriage, and she and Bill loved to talk to each other. Bill invited her to meet him after work "just so we can talk," and the relationship soon progressed into a full-blown affair.

For the first month of the affair Bill felt wonderful. He and Jane spent as much time as possible together. "I have never had a woman I could talk to like this," Bill told her.

After a month or so Bill began to feel guilty. He had never done anything like this before. He began to berate himself that he was being a poor husband and father. He tried to break off the relationship but Jane was not easily cast aside. He would tell her it was over, and the next day she would call him and they would meet again. His wife suspected something was wrong. Now he felt even worse than he did before the affair. "How did I get myself in this mess?" he asked himself.

None of these people set out to feel worse, but the actions they took brought only short-term relief. In the long run they felt worse than before. Most of us have "been there, done that." We know how they felt.

The moral of these stories is "look before you leap." Consider the possible consequences of your actions in order that you do not end up feeling worse than you already do.

How Can I Make Myself Feel Worse?
"How can I make myself feel worse?" Have you ever asked yourself that question? Of course not. No one wants to feel worse than he already does but sometimes our actions leave us in worse shape before.

Mr. and Mrs. Orville Alcorn standing in front of the Fountain of Youth in St. Augustine, Florida.

Dear Editor,
 Congratulations to my parents, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Alcorn, on their 50th wedding anniversary. Throughout the years they have been blessed with nine children, eleven grandchildren, one great grandchild and another on the way.
 I'm sure that fifty years ago on the cold, snowy day of January 19, 1949, they had no idea if their marriage would last this long. But it has, enduring the test of time. And what a test it has been. Much sorrow, tribulation and tragedy, as well as triumph, great joy and even miracles have been a part of these fifty years together. Their devotion and love for one another, the love they have for their children and their strong belief in the Lord has kept the family together all these years. I truly believe the loving, caring hand of God has touched us all.

 I am thankful today I am able to celebrate the 50 years of my parent's marriage. God has enriched all of our lives in so many ways, and so have my parents with their enduring love. So now 50 years have passed and we your children, grandchildren and great grandchildren would like to say "Thank you" for giving us all the gift of life.
 May God bless you on this very special day and always.
 With all our love,
 Your daughter Cynthia, brothers and sisters, grandchildren and great grandchildren

82nd Birthday Celebrated

Edith Nicely enjoyed a surprise birthday party for her 82nd birthday at the Bank of Mt. Vernon on January 7th.  I want to thank everyone for coming and for the nice gifts and thanks to all who had a part in the celebration. I love everyone of you—Edith Nicely.

very much better. Hon. N.D. Miles was here from Nicholasville yesterday. We are glad to note that Capt. M.F. Smith is able to be out again. J.J. McCall has returned to his place of business at Hazel Patch. Mr. and Mrs. Robert Cox spent Sunday with relatives in Mareburg. Mrs. Mahala Carson is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Dick Cummins. Miss May Magee, of Brookhead, spent Sunday with Mrs. L.B. Adams. Charlie Symphon is rapidly recovering and will soon be himself again. Miss Elizabeth Adams will enter Campbell-Hagerman College in Lexington. Mr. and Mrs. T.G. Reynolds, of near Widdie, were here Wednesday shopping. Dr. D.B. Southard is now a citizen of our town and we gladly welcome him into our midst. Mrs. L.R. Hughes will arrive Sunday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. F.L. Thompson. John Marcot, of Madison County, is telegraphing nights at the depot here while Jack Lawrence is on the sick list. T.A. Stewart left Wednesday for Jacksonville, Florida. Where he will locate for the practice of his profession. W.E. Smith has sufficiently recovered from his injury sustained a few weeks since, to return to his work in Corbin. Miss Mat Williams and Mrs. Fannie Adams returned Friday from a visit to their sister, Mrs. B.J. Bethurum, in Somerset. Morris Brown was down from Farriston Tuesday to vote, but like many others having failed to register, was compelled to winter his vote. Miss Richards the cooking teacher at the Langdon Dormitory has returned to her home in Ohio, on account of ill health. She hopes to be able to resume her work here the first of the year.

Dr. M.L. Myers, one of the most energetic and enterprising citizens of our town is having installed a furnace for heating his residence. It may seem a little expensive at the time but it is certainly a money saver in the long run, besides the many comforts and pleasures to be derived, and the lessening of work in order to keep a clean house. The railroad company having given their consent to the building of the crossing connecting Taylor Avenue with the main Mt. Vernon and Somerset road, the work of constructing the fill has begun in earnest and the road will soon be ready for the traveling public. It will be a great benefit as it will shorten the route by more than one half mile, of those coming from the west end on the county and especially those having heavily loaded wagons, as it is impossible for them to pass the lime kiln and are compelled to go around the old road. The spirit of improving the roads within the corporate limits of the town is on and we trust will continue until every road within the limits will be improved. FIRE: Chint Lear, of the Oak Hill section, lost his house, contents and all his out buildings except the barn, a few days since by fire. He suffered a great loss and no insurance. James Bowling, L&N brakeman, of London, a son of Mrs. Elizabeth Cornet, was struck by the water spout on the tank at Barbourville, and knocked to the ground, the train carrying one leg and one arm. He lived only a short while. DEAD: Mr. Logan Brown aged about three scores years and ten, of the Glades section, died Wednesday of pneumonia after an illness of only a few days. He was a brother to the late John Brown, also Jonas, Mace and Henry Brown and Mrs. Mat McMullin of this county. The burial took place yesterday at the old Providence burying ground. W.J. Sparks, the contractor, will soon have the tunnel between Sinks and Livingston completed. S.W. Davis has begun the foundation for a new building on the vacant lot, between the present place of business and the store room of Fritz Krueger. One week longer, which is going to be a beauty and a credit to any town.

Four graduate from JobStart

On December 22nd, Tammy Martin, Pam Mason, Dorothy Thomas and Jane Bradley said good-bye to classmates and teachers as they graduated from 12-weeks of JobStart.

Throughout the course, they became more confident in themselves and realized they had more job skills than they thought. JobStart helped these four students become aware of their potential, boost their self-esteem and recognize many hidden strengths and talents.

During the time spent at JobStart, students formed closer friendships than they ever expected and will remain in contact with each other for support and networking as they pursue employment.

Pam shared that during the beginning of her session with JobStart she began doubting that she was gaining benefit from the classes. But gradually her attitude changed. As she gave her graduation speech, her words encouraged others to continue. Pam stated, "As I reflect back, I look inside and find that I am coming away from this (class) more confident and courageous than before."

Tammy had lost her self-confidence, but said that thanks to the friends, family and JobStart staff she was able to regain it and also recognize that she had more potential than she thought.

Jane has seen many changes in her life since she began class. "JobStart has taught me to like myself and feel good about myself. I have learned about computers, writing resumes and I understand job situations. I would encourage anyone who is seeking a change in their life to join us (JobStart)."

Dorothy talked of friendships that will not be forgotten and learning something from everyone here. In closing her speech said, "I have become something I needed to be, and that was me."

JobStart is a 12-week job skills training program of Christian Appalachian Project that is open to anyone over the age of 16. Classes are free and supplies are furnished. For more information call Judy or Anne at 256-9612.

Rockcastle County Middle School Science teacher and local affiliate member, Anthony Coffey, presents a copy of Encarta '99 to Computer Lab Instructional Assistant Joann McClure.

Area schools receive Interactive Encyclopedia

Through a donation from the Microsoft Corporation, Forward in the Fifth is distributing nearly 400 copies of Microsoft's Encarta Reference Suite '99 to schools in southern and eastern Kentucky. The suite combines the Encarta Encyclopedia '99 Deluxe Edition, Encarta Virtual Globe '99 and Microsoft Bookshelf '99.

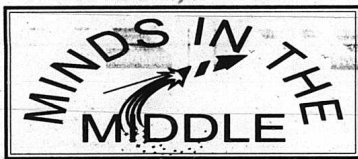

"Our schools have made great strides in implementing technology that can greatly enhance student learning. With this kind of resource, we can help them stay up-to-date on the latest materials available," said Ginny Eager, executive director of Forward in the Fifth.

In Rockcastle County, The Rockcastle Council for the Arts, which is the local Forward in the Fifth affiliate, has distributed this encyclopedia to each of the county schools' technical programs as part of its ef-orts to support bringing schools and communities together to improve education.

Microsoft has distributed 10,000 copies to the nation's public schools through the Public Education Network (PEN), of which Forward in the Fifth is a member. The Public Education Network is a national school reform association dedicated to improving student achievement of all children, especially those who attend the nation's most needy public schools.

Forward in the Fifth is a private nonprofit local education fund that serves 55 public school systems in 39 eastern and southern Kentucky counties. It works to bring communities and schools together to ensure all children have the educational opportunities necessary to live full and productive lives.

After three full weeks of Christmas break, we are back to learning at RCMS. We had three former students return to RCMS last week: Jessica Mayfield with the 8th grade Challengers team and Mary Beth Durham and Joseph Beaudin with the 8th grade Comets team.

Eighth graders applying for the Robinson Scholar Program should have mailed their applications by now. Those must be received by the Robinson Scholar office by this Friday, January 22.

There will be a dance this Friday after school. Students who wish to stay must have a permission note from their parents.

The Rocket boys basketball team will be competing at South Laurel Thursday night and at Southern Palisade on Monday night.

The monthly SBDM Council meeting will be Monday, January 25, at 3:30 p.m. Our RCMS Student Council will be conducting their monthly meeting next Wednesday, January 27, at 12:30 p.m.

Also next Wednesday, there will be a morning program for the student body entitled "Out of This World." The cost of admission is 50 cents.

Our students are busy once again preparing for the annual Science Fairs. The 8th grade science fair will be the first one held and is coming up on Friday, January 29. Parents are invited to come and see the displays.

Our seventh graders and their teacher helpers are trying to show off students' writing skills with their portfolios. Here are some ways parents can assist with all their child's writing. Help your child choose topics that he/she is really interested in and likes to talk about. Encourage your child to revise writings they are doing at home. Also, encourage them to read aloud the papers to you. This is a good way for them to realize their mistakes.

Beef Cooking Workshop held by Advanced Foods Class

The Kentucky Cattlemen's Association, local Beef Association and Cooperative Extension Service sponsored a three day Beef Cooking Workshop for Mrs. Darlene Martin RCHS Advanced Foods Class. A Beef Promotional Grant, from the State Cattlemen's Association to the Rockcastle Beef Association, was used to fund the workshop. County Extension Agents, Hazel Jackson and Tom Mills, worked with Mrs. Martin to plan and conduct the workshop.

A meats identification session was used to show how the beef carcass is broken down into retail cuts. This was followed by cooking methods as well as nutritional information. Students were shown how lower priced cuts of meat, which traditionally require longer preparation times, can be prepared easily. Methods such as stir fry, roasting bags, pressure cookers and boiling were used to show how sirloin tips, chuck roast, round steaks and beef briskets can be prepared. About 33% of the class did follow up with an at-home project by preparing a beef dinner to show their families what they had learned.

LET FAITH GUIDE YOU ON YOUR VOYAGE TO HAPPINESS

Old Columbus set sail on a definite quest. For a route to the Orient, traveling west. Though he never succeeded he nonetheless found He was right in believing our planet is round. For a land called America stood in the way; But he wasn't aware when his voyage was through That he'd done what he never intended to do. His belief in the Lord gave him courage to try, So remember this lesson we all can apply: To embark on your voyage, let God lead the way; He will help you discover a happy new day.

— Gloria Nowak

Since money was invented by Those folks of long ago, We've often seemed to magnify The need for earning "dough." It's handy to a great extent To cure financial ills, As well as for the food and rent, And paying doctor bills. Yet some of us will break our backs To seek excessive wealth, Which only brings a higher tax And undermines our health. It's time we let our faith explain The best of life's reward: That we receive our greatest gain By trusting in the Lord.

Rockets lose to Bobcats and Eagles

The Rockcastle Rockets are now 10-6 on the season with two losses, one to Bell County and the other to Madison Southern.

Last Friday the Bell County Bobcats visited Rockcastle to avenge an earlier season loss to the Rockets in the Cumberland Falls Invitational Tournament. It would not be an easy task, however, and it took the Bobcats to the wire to gain the 57-50 win.

Rockcastle came out hustling on the first few possessions of the game, going after several loose balls. The Rockets scored first with two made free throws by Matthew Brown.

Bell County scored the next four points, but Andrew Cash tied the game with a basket. The Rockets then went ahead with a three also by Cash.

A Bobcat turnover led to the Rockets next score on a Layne Nicely layup. The Bobcats called a time out with the Rockets up 9-4.

Bell County scored on their next possession and the Rockets could not answer. However, Brown took a charge for Rockcastle and Blake Calhoun scored on the subsequent Rocket possession.

With the Rockets up 11-8, the Bell County coach was called for a technical foul, sending Cash to the line where he hit one of two free throws.

Bell County hit the last three points of the first quarter, cutting the Rockets lead to one, 12-11.

Rockcastle would only score seven points the second quarter, three less than the Bobcats ten. The Rockets could not convert ten possessions into points and went into the locker room down two, 21-19.

Cash, Nicely, and Stevie Bradley all took charges for Rockcastle in a good defensive effort for the Rockets during the second quarter.

Bradley scored first for the Rockets in the third quarter, tying the game at 21-21.

Rockcastle and Bell kept the score tied over the next three possession with Rockcastle baskets by Calhoun, Brown and Cash.

Bell County scored the next four points, however, before Calhoun scored for the Rockcastle and keeping the Rockets within two, 31-29.

Two unfruitful possessions and two turnovers for Rockcastle gave the Bobcats the next six points, going up 37-29.

The Bell County run sent the Rockets to the bench for a time out and Brown scored on the Rockets next possession.

Brown scored again, as the Rockets and Bobcats traded baskets. With the Bobcats up 42-33, Cash and Brown scored the final four points of the quarter to cut Bell's lead to five, 42-37.

The fourth quarter started with a bang for Rockcastle as a Jacob Burdette three cut the Bobcat lead to two, 42-40.

Bell County did not like what they saw and called a time out, then coming out to score and going back up four.

Cash answered though, with good defense that led to a steal and a basket for Rockcastle, also by Cash.

After a Rockcastle foul on a made-Bell County free throw, Calhoun took the fourth charge of the night for Rockcastle and Cash scored on the next Rocket possession.

Down three, 47-44, Cash took two charges, but Rockcastle could not convert their possessions into points. Bell County scored the next six points of the quarter before Brown was fouled and made two free throws.

A double foul was called on Rockcastle and Bell and the Rockets were given the ball. Christopher Parsons was fouled on a shot attempt and sent to the line where he connected for one of the two free throws.

Cash scored the final points of the night for the Rockets as he sank a three, but it was not enough for Rockcastle as they lost 57-50.

The Rockets went on the road Tuesday night, visiting rival Madison Southern and coming home with the 64-50.

The first quarter saw the Rockets down by two at the buzzer, 18-16. The Rockets gave up two threes to start the game, but Andrew Cash answered with two threes of his own to tie the game.

Rockcastle and Southern traded turnovers before the Eagles went on a 9-0 run, going up 15-6.

Cash stopped the Eagles run with a three and Layne Nicely also hit a three to bring the Rockets to within three, 15-12.

Rockwell takes first at Games

More than 19,600 amateur athletes from throughout the state have already participated in the second annual Bluegrass Winter Games which continues through March.

About 770 medals were awarded to athletes representing 58 counties this past weekend. Eight sporting events were held. Two events, flag football and the 5K road race were rescheduled to January 23. Registration for the 5K race is open until the day of the race.

One highlight of the weekend was a perfect 500 game rolled in bowling by 15-year-old Stacey Wyatt of Louisville. From Rockcastle County Lorin Rockwell, competed in the Singles Table Tennis 60 and over placing first.

Fencing will be held in Louisville on January 30 and youth ice hockey will be held in Lexington and Louisville, March 5-7 and adult ice hockey will be held March 13-14 in Louisville. Basketball was held January 2-3 in Lexington.

For registration or other information about the Games call 1-800-722-2474.

Now 14-3 on season

Lady Rockets beat Whitley, PC and OBI

The Lady Rockets added three games to their win column in their last three outings, starting last Thursday night with a 62-38 blow out of the Lady Colonels from Whitley County.

On Saturday, the Rockets played a make-up game against Pulaski County and had to work harder than usual before finally pulling out a 52-49 win.

But, it was back to blow-out city Monday night as the Rockets met district foe Oneida Baptist Institute and came away with an 80-19 win.

The Rockets started slow against Whitley County and only led by two, 9-7, at the end of the first quarter. Tiffany McClure was the Rocket offense in that period, getting two baskets and three free throws, to account for seven of the Rockets first quarter points. Brooke Roberts got the opening basket of the quarter for the Rockets.

However, in the second quarter, with the help of three baskets by Roberts, the Rockets got on track offensively and, at the half, led the Colonels 26-13.

The Rockets added to their lead in the third, with Jessie Rickles getting 7 of her 11 points in the game and Roberts adding four points. Brandy Reynolds was high point player for the Rockets in the quarter, getting eight of her 13 points in the period to give the Rockets a 47-22 lead.

Coach Chrysti-Noble got to substitute freely in the fourth quarter as the Rockets cruised to the 62-38 win.

The Rockets scoring attack was balanced, with four starters getting into double figures. Tiffany McClure led with 15; Reynolds got 13; Roberts 12 and Rickles 11. Suzanne Brown got 7 points and sophomore Rachelle Hammond came off the bench to score the last two baskets of the game.

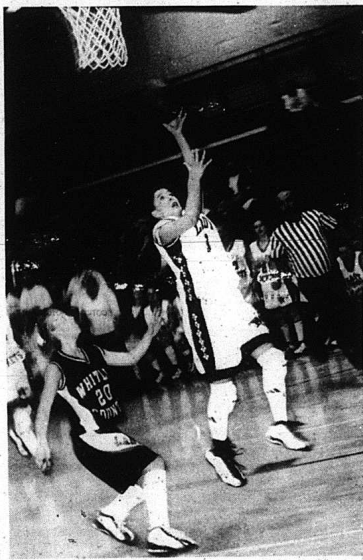

The Lady Rockets found themselves behind 26-21 at the half but came back in the second half to beat Pulaski County 52-49. Sophomore Jessie Rickles led the scoring for the Rockets with 15 points. Suzanne Brown got 11 points, 8 rebounds and two assists; Tiffany McClure also had 11 points; Brandy Reynolds 10; Brooke Roberts 3 and Jessica Cobb 2.

Following the Pulaski Co. game, it was a breather for the Rockets against district foe Oneida Baptist with 12 Lady Rockets getting in the scoring column in the 80-19 trouncing of the Lady Mountaineers.

The Rockets led 33 to 2 in the first quarter stop; 45 to 11 at half time and 72 to 11 at the third quarter stop.

Brooke Roberts led in scoring with 23; McClure and Rickles, 12 each; Reynolds 9; Brown, Cobb, Laura Beth Bell and Amber Falin, 4 each; Ashley Lawson, Amanda Barnett, Amber Sophomore Jessie Rickles goes in for a lay-up again the Lady Colonels of Whitley County. Rickles had 11 points in the 62-38 win.

Junior Brandy Reynolds goes for the goal against Whitley County. Reynolds got 13 points in the game, including two three point baskets.

Burdette says dismissed indictment not his fault

Sometimes even those on the same side of a criminal case can't seem to get along.

This time it's the Commonwealth Attorney's office and the County Attorney's office.

It seems that Rockcastle Circuit Judge William Cain dismissed a indictment against the man who was accused of stealing a Chevrolet Blazer from the county garage in January of 1997 because according to court records the county attorney did not notify the commonwealth attorney that the man was seeking a speedy trial.

That according to the commonwealth attorney's office, who said that they did not receive proper notification from the county attorney's office after the case went to Circuit Court.

Timothy Joe Bradley, 31, was arrested in January, 1997, indicted in November of 1997 and the indictment was dismissed in April of 1998 because according to Judge Cain's ruling, Bradley requested a trial within 180 days on August 27, 1997.

According to court records, Cain ruled that Bradley made the proper request of the county attorney and the request was not passed onto Commonwealth Attorney Eddie Montgomery.

After Cain's ruling County Attorney Jeff Burdette filed a motion to alter, amend and vacate the order. "Our office did everything by the book, we sent them proper notice, every time Bradley sent us something," Burdette said.

"Someone at the commonwealth attorney's office is mistaken," he said.

In his motion, the county attorney says the statements made in the case are incorrect and should be altered in the interest of fairness, justice and truthfulness.

Burdette said he contacted assistant Commonwealth Attorney Mike Pratt by phone and mailed a copy of Bradley's first request on October 1, 1997, which was with-in 30 days of receiving it in his office.

He said he sent a second letter on January 12, 1998 and on August 17, 1998 he mailed a complete copy of his file on the case to the Commonwealth Attorney.

Burdette has asked Judge Cain to alter the order dismissing the case to properly amend the case to include the facts that the Commonwealth Attorney's office was properly notified and the petition immediately after his filing and in writing.

local sheriff's department where the inmate will be returning following his release. Kentucky is the first state in the nation to provide an automated, statewide victims notification system in which critical information about inmates housed in local jails and adult correctional facilities can be accessed 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Through computer generated telephone calls, all registered persons will be contacted at a pre-termined phone number when an inmate is scheduled for release.

This system will apply only to those incarcerated and convicted after July 15, 1998 and released after January 15, 1999, and will not apply to sexual offenders who move to Kentucky from another state, regardless of whether or not that person is on supervision in another state.

Kentucky also has segregated sexual offenders into three types, with notification sent to various agencies involved. The three levels of offenders include high risk, moderate risk and low risk. Those termed low risk receive that the sheriff's department notify any law enforcement having jurisdiction at the time of conviction, victims, and Kentucky State Police.

Moderate risk offenders require notification of the same as low risk, in addition to notification of "any agency, organization, or group serving individuals having similar characteristics to the previous victims of the offender," which has requested notification.

High risk offenders entail an even greater area, including "the general public through statewide media outlets and by any other means as technology becomes available."

Information released about high-risk offenders will include name, hair and eye color, aliases used, residence, vehicle registration data, brief description of the crime or crimes committed, and may include a photograph.

Even though victims are notified of the offender's release from jail, the general public where the offender may return may not be aware of the offender's past history. Through the designated levels of risk, parents and children might recognize the face of offenders.

According to Missy Bundy, state Crime Victims Advocate, the notification system would alert child care agencies, schools, and other agencies dealing with children of potential danger of contact abuse. It would also send "red flags" to employers who might be located near facilities where children could be susceptible to the offenders.

"Of all types of violent crime, none is more disturbing than the molestation or murder of innocent children," Justice Secretary Dan Cherry said, "No parent or family should suffer this ultimate nightmare. The Justice Cabinet and the Patton administration will use everything in its power to prevent such acts."

The Department of Corrections will notify the sentencing court 120 days prior to a sex offender's release date, said Corrections Commissioner Doug Sapp.

"The judge orders an evaluation by a specially certified mental health professional who will review all the records related to the offender, conduct an assessment and make a report," said Sapp.

"After this, the sheriff begins the notification process," Sapp said.

Owens described the crime scene and what apparently caused the death of the two victims, and said the house appeared that it had been ransacked, including the kitchen drawers, which were pulled out. He also said there was no forced entry.

He said Eddie Williams died from a .32 caliber single gunshot wound while Kate Crowfield from the force of a blunt instrument to the head area.

Owens said he was at the scene, but that the lead detective is KSP's Robert Stephens, who is managing the overall case.

Reynolds testified he was called to the BP convenience store in north Lexington where Morris allegedly was attempting to sell a shotgun to a clerk. Reynolds said Morris kept insisting on bringing the shotgun in, according to the clerk, who said that made him uneasy and caused him to call police to report a suspicious person.

Reynolds said when he arrived at the station, he drove around back and saw Morris in his vehicle, who had a piece of cardboard in the driver's window. When Reynolds blighted, Morris turned and drove into an embankment and was subsequently captured.

He said when he stopped him and asked for a driver's license, Morris said he had none and Reynolds noticed there was a shotgun on the front seat with the barrel down to the floor.

Reynolds said Morris told him the shotgun belonged to his father. He said Morris seemed to be intoxicated and had a strong smell of alcohol on his breath.

And, according to Reynolds, Morris initially told him when asked about the car, said he didn't know the owner but that a girl had loaned him the car.

Reynolds said he noticed quite a bit of blood on Morris' shirt, pants and shoes, had a cut on his hand that Morris said he had gotten from working in lumber.

The shotgun, according to Reynolds, was fully loaded and sitting on the seat covered with a small floor mat next to Morris's was a .32 pistol Smith and Wesson along with a small amount of marijuana.

The window was broken in the vehicle and Morris was sitting in the glass from the window.

When the search warrant was executed for a search of the car, Morris asked if they were accusing him of a double murder. The officer said at that time there had been no mention of murder.

According to Reynolds, Morris remarked, "Everybody in Jackson County knows me as a thief."

Reynolds also said Morris made contradictory statements about the car including that he had taken it from a business parking lot in London.

Later, according to Reynolds, word came in that authorities were searching for that very vehicle.

Three motions were entered by Morris' attorneys including a bar questioning of Morris by anyone other than his attorneys, that the defendant has invoked his state and constitutional rights. Judge Muncy said she would allow that motion.

The motion to preserve evidence was also allowed by Judge Muncy, while a third motion to preserve and view the crime scene was objected to by Jackson County Attorney George "Tommy" Hays, who said the county does not have the resources to preserve the crime scene.

Muncy allowed the defense team to view the crime scene Monday, but ruled it did not have to be preserved.

Kentucky retirees get bigger taxation break for 1999

Retirees will get something of a Christmas present as they figure their estimated tax payments for 1999. In 1998 retirees could exclude up to $35,000 of their pension income. Starting January 1, 1999, $35,700 is the new pension exclusion for Kentucky taxation purposes.

retirees this year of tax break really makes a big difference in the quality of life."

The Kentucky General Assembly provided for indexing the exclusion amount beginning in 1999 to offset the effect of inflation. Typically, as the cost of living increases, pensions usually increase to offset these costs.

Governor Paul Patton called this pension exclusion, "a good break for Kentucky retirees," Patton said. "We are pleased to announce this tax savings for 1999. For those Kentuckians living on a fixed income, such as pensioners."

For additional information about the pension exclusion contact the Revenue Cabinet's Taxpayer Assistance Office at (502) 564-4581 or the RCT taxpayer service center nearest you.

Lady Rockets win three

Denney and Leslie Carpenter, 2 each. The Rocket Jayvees won their game against the Lady Colonels 37-28. The Rockets were led in scoring by Rachelle Hammond with 11; Amber Denney got 10; Ashley Lawson 6; Angie Borcing and Amber Falin, 4 each and Amy Barnett.

Freshmen Lose

After being blown by earlier in the season 42-20 by Jackson County, the freshmen team almost pulled one off at McKee Friday night, losing by only two, 31-29.

The freshmen were down 19-11 at half time and 22-18 at the end of the third quarter. Jessie Hayes put in a three to open the fourth quarter and pull the Rockets within one at 22-21 and, with 7 seconds on the clock, and the Rockets down 31-29, a longer than half court shot by Leslie Carpenter just missed its mark which would have tied the score.

Amanda Barnett led the scoring for the freshmen with 9; Carpenter got 7; Hayes 6; Allison Anderson 3; Laura Beth Bell and Amy Barnett, 2 each.

Bryan E. Welles killed this 10 point buck on his grandparent's farm in the Walnut Grove area in Somerset on Sat., Nov. 14. This was Bryan's first deer. He is the son of Dennis and Teresa Welles and grandson of Luster and Helen Bullock of Somerset and Jane Welles of New York and the late GR Welles.

Rockets lose

Southern scored an old fashioned three to go back up six but Sicve Bradley and Matt Brown each score a basket for Rockcastle, cutting Southern's lead to two to end the quarter 18-16.

Brown sank two free throws to start the second quarter tying the game 18-18.

Rockcastle and Southern traded possessions with out a score and Cash took a charge to give the ball back to the Rockets. It was no avail, however, as each team traded a turnover before Brown scored for the Rockets, giving them their first lead of the game at 20-18.

The Eagles scored on their next possession but Brown sank two free throws to keep the lead for Rockcastle. Two Rocket turnovers, however, turned the momentum to the Eagles as they hit a three on their possession.

Cash was fouled on the next Rockcastle possession and was sent to the line where he connected on one of two free throws.

Rockcastle could not score on their next two possessions, giving Southern the next four points and the 31-23 lead.

Rockcastle again scored the last four points of the quarter, a basket each by Cash and Bradley, sending the Rockets to the locker room down four 31-27.

The Rockets self-destructed the second half, only scoring twenty three points to Southern's thirty three.

Rockcastle only scored eight points in the third quarter with Brown having half of those.

Three Rocket turnovers in four possessions at the beginning of the third set the tone for the quarter as the Rockets did not score for another three possessions before Brown hit a jumper to end Rockcastle's drought.

Two more Rockcastle scoring opportunities would pass before a good defensive steal by Nicely led to a layup for Rockcastle, also by Nicely.

Brown scored the final two points for Rockcastle in the third, and Southern widened their lead to seven, 42-35.

Rockcastle fired no better in the fourth quarter, giving up twenty two points and scoring only fifteen. Rockcastle did not capitalize on six possessions in the fourth quarter.

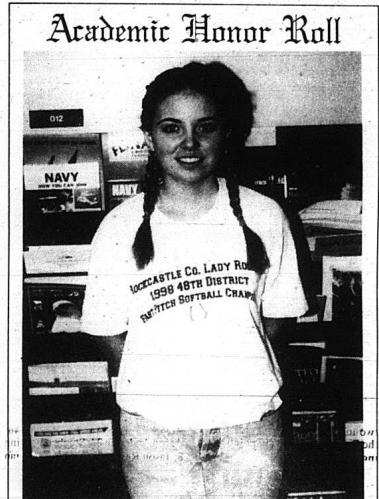

Nicely and Brown led the scoring in the fourth with four points each. The Eagles handed Rockcastle their sixth loss of the season. The Rockets go on the road for district play at Oneida Baptist this Saturday.

In Memory

In Remembrance of My Dear

Sister, Nona Mae McFerron,

who passed away January 2, 1999

It's only been a short while,

Since God called you home.

To be with your loved ones.

Up there around His throne.

Leaving us here,

With all our pain and sorrow to bare.

But He knew you needed rest.

That's why he called you home.

Each day how I miss you.

But oh how much more.

It won't be long, till I see you

On that beautiful shore.

Love your sister,

Pearl Newton

Lice Control on Beef Cattle

Lice populations build up on livestock in the colder periods of the year when the environment on the animal is more conducive to lice survival. The entire cattle lice life cycle (eggs, nymphs and adults) exists only on cattle. None of the life stages can survive off the host. They cannot survive on other types of livestock or humans.

Lice are transferred from animal to animal by body contact. In this fashion, an entire herd can become infested. During the summer, lice numbers are very low and usually concentrate on a few "carrier" animals. Late summer and fall is a good time to try to eliminate lice from the herd. However, if this is not followed, there is still time to eliminate lice before they have a great effect on cattle. Lice biology makes it feasible to totally eliminate these pests from a herd if all animals are thoroughly treated.

1. All animals must be treated - if only one animal is left infested, that animal can serve as the reinfection source for the rest of the herd.
2. Treat each animal twice - the first insecticide treatment kills the adult and nymph stage lice but leaves the eggs unaffected. The second treatment, 2-3 weeks after the first, kill the nymphs that have hatched from these eggs.
3. Keep the herd isolated from non-treated cattle - any non-treated animal serves as a potential reinfection source. Any new animals brought into the herd must be put through the "Double Treatment" program before they are allowed to join the herd. Also, cattle should be kept out of contact with neighboring herds unless those animals have also been put through a similar "lice elimination program." As you think about controlling lice, there are many effective ways and the cost varies with products used. Contact your local vet for the proper type of compound to use many products are available in a pour-on form which will allow you to treat animals without using a head gate. As cattle line up at the feed bunk, pour-on can be applied with very little work.
Using the "Double Treatment" on all cattle can assure you very little chance of lice problems in your beef herd.

Ready For A Change?

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Science

As we enter the last year of a millennium, many people will take time to reflect on the past and make plans for the future. Some will decide they are ready to make some changes to improve health and well-being. There is a fresh, new approach to healthy weight advice for the new year. Research suggests that people who are successful at managing their weight have three things in common:

1. They have carefully considered what goals are right for them.
2. They have made a commitment to be more active.
3. They know what eating habits they are willing to change.

Advice about how to manage weight has usually focused on eating behaviors such as portion control and fat intake. While these are still good ways to manage weight, your odds of success are better if you make a commitment to be more physically active and set some goals for better health habits.

We know that perhaps the most important step toward better health is to take a good look at what changes you are willing to make. Carefully consider what is important to you and how you can achieve your goals. Identify behaviors you want to change with success such as drinking more water, walking to the mailbox, or eating more fruits and vegetables.

It is important to design a plan for better health that works for you. To succeed, research shows that you need to be at least moderately active on most days of the week. To eat a healthier diet, there are many ways to change eating habits. It is a good idea to first look honestly at what you are in the habit of eating and drinking. Then decide what you can do to move your diet closer to the recommendations for good health. Over 30% of Kentucky adults need to lose weight and over 60% are inactive. These Kentuckians can benefit from the good news that losing even a small amount of weight or getting moderate amounts of activity will benefit health. The key to success is to decide what is right for you.

vide eligible farmers time to take advantage of the discount by either applying for insurance or increasing their protection. The final percentage of premium discount will depend on how many farmers choose to insure or increase their protection and will be announced after sales have closed. Farmers growing crops with sales closing dates between July 31, 1998 and February 15, 1999, are eligible to increase their protection and/or obtain crop insurance by the following March 15, 1999.

The FSA Office has a listing for insurance agents in your locality. Call or stop by the local FSA office for more information or a copy of the insurance listings.

Application for New Burley

Tobacco Farm Quotas
The Rockcastle County Farm Service Agency wishes to announce it is once again time to accept applications for new burley tobacco farm quotas. These applications will be taken through February 16th.

Before an allotment or quota is recommended it must be determined that each applicant meets all eligibility requirements as set forth in the guidelines for burley tobacco. Eligibility requirements include: Producer has NO burley tobacco production, has land suitable for tobacco production, has 2 of 5 years marketing history of burley tobacco and 50% of all household income is received from farming.

Any person wishing to make an application for a new burley tobacco farm allotment should contact the FSA office in the county where the farm is located NO later than February 16th.

FSA programs are open to all regardless of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, marital status or disability.

Hog Producer Payment Program
Vice President Gore announced Friday, January 8, 1999, that the Department of Agriculture (USDA) will make approximately $50 million in direct cash payments to small hog producers to help them weather the current economic crisis.

Producers will qualify for direct cash payments if they (1) marketed fewer than 1,000 hogs during the last six months of 1998, and (2) are still in operation. Two restrictions apply. First, producers are not eligible for payments on hogs marketed under fixed-price or cost-plus contracts. Second, any operation whose gross income for 1998 was greater than 2.5 million dollars will not be eligible for payments, as is true for USDA's crop disaster assistance programs.

Eligibility is based on marketing during the last six months of 1998 to avoid disrupting current marketings. The six-month period also accommodates the marketing practices of small producers who may not market hogs every week or month, but who need help to weather current economic crisis.

Payments will be made through USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) local offices. From February 1, 1999 to February 12, 1999, FSA will conduct a sign-up for the payment program. During this sign-up period, producers will be required to apply for the program at their local FSA office.

Payments will be made about two or three weeks after the end of the sign-up period.

By Warden Alexander,
FSA Director
USDA Lowers Crop Insurance
Premiums

Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman announced an estimated 30% premium reduction for farmers on their crop insurance policies. To ensure that all farmers have the opportunity to benefit from this one-time premium reduction this year, crop insurance companies will accept insurance applications on crops having sales closing dates that have already passed.

For example, an insured winter wheat farmer having a sales closing date of September 30, 1998, for crop year 1999 coverage, now has until March 15, 1999, to evaluate the benefits of increased production at a lower cost. Producers choosing not to insure last September will have the same opportunity to use the discount to obtain "buy up" protection. "Buy up" protection is an amount of coverage that is at least 50% of a farm's yield and 100% of an established market price.

"Given low crop prices, we want to ensure that as many family farmers as possible take advantage this year of the opportunity to increase their crop insurance coverage or benefit from reduced cost," said Glickman. "The plans we announce will help provide farmers greater security."

The funds for this one-time incentive are part of the $2.375 billion that Congress appropriated to assist farmers suffering from crop and economic losses. This initiative is the first element of USDA's plan to strengthen the farm safety net.

The application period will pro-

Library News

By Carol Jones

I suppose most of you who read the library news each week in the Mt. Vernon Signal may have noticed that it has become customary for different members of the library staff to alternately share this writing task with Mrs. Robbins. This generally means that each of us will usually write one article a month - not normally a difficult chore - but one over which each of us seems to worry unduly that we will rehash the same information.

We sincerely ask for your patience and understanding if, as this should happen occasionally, our purpose is not only to keep you apprised of new and upcoming events happening within the library, but also to remind those of you who do not frequent the library as often as our regular patrons, of the many services that are available to you.

In the past few weeks, Mrs. Robbins, Pearlie and I have attended several workshops held at the Center for Rural Development in Somerset on First Search and Empower Kentucky's Administrative Aspects of Internet Access, both of which will help us to our computer patrons in their various information searches. The latest workshop that we attended enhanced our knowledge somewhat, of computer copyright laws and of the blocking/filtering software products which give parents, and other users, the ability to block access to various categories to objectionable material on the Internet. Just how all the new information we gain from the various classes and workshops will eventually be used to help our patrons, depends first on discussing and sorting out the information by the board and staff members so that it can be processed and transferred to the library patron in the most efficient and helpful way possible. Striving for the best educational and recreational resources for our patrons is a real challenge, but it is challenge the library board and staff members take seriously.

We at the library encourage all of you to visit us as often as possible, if you don't already. Perhaps everyone doesn't derive as much pleasure from a library as I do, but I actually miss my co-workers on the days I don't have to work, especially Pearlie, who laughs at all my dumb jokes. I rather enjoy all that good reading material, too, which brings me to the part where I say that we have more new books available for your reading pleasure, as well. In addition to several new children's books and a few new western paperbacks, we also have the following novels:

An Ocean Apart by Robin Pilcher. There was a time when David Corstorphine considered himself a lucky man. His wife, Rachel, was all he could hope to find in a woman - lovely, smart and full of spirit - though after their awkward first meeting, he never would have dreamed that they would go on to share the joyful struggles of raising a family together.

Even as she faced cancer, she did so with the thrust, for life that David adored, a smile always playing on her face.

Now she is gone and David's life is in ruins. In search of solace, he and his children seek refuge at Inchevie, his parents' home in the Scottish countryside. Devastated, by overwhelming grief, David withdraws from his parents, friends and business responsibilities. Rather, he spends his days knee-deep in mud, focusing all of his energies on the reinstatement of Inchevie's gardens. It is only while working in the gardens that David finds respite from his pain.

In a crisis at the family business that forces David to begin his tentative return to the world of the living. Though he has steeled himself for this urgent trip to the United States by staying in the home of an old army friend, he quickly learns that he is ill-prepared emotionally to face the world once again. But David is also surprised to find a certain degree of comfort in being a stranger in a strange land. In America he is free from all that has happened to him and able to reconstruct his shattered life.

Wandering the village streets, he happens upon a sign that reads: Gardener/Handyman Required. Soon he is spending his days working in a large garden on a Long Island estate. With the heat of the American sun on his back and in his new surroundings, David begins to feel alive again.

Gradually he comes to know the lively housekeeper, Jasmine and Benji, a lonely boy whose parents own this beautiful home, though they are rarely in it together. He befriends Benji, teaching him how to swim, to play the ukulele and tennis, and comes to see how Benji's parents' strained marriage has taken its toll on the young boy. But David needs this boy's friendship as much as Benji needs his.

It is some time before Benji's mother also notices the mysterious Scottish Gardener, who is making her son smile and laugh again.

By caring for another family, David becomes able to care for his own again. By loving another family, David becomes able to love again.

Olivia by V.C. Andrews... Olivia was always the sensible one. The responsible sister. She took after their father, a man as cold and driven as the Cape Cod wind, a man possessed by an inner need to be respected and successful. She would be the one to take over his million-dollar businesses. She would become the unwavering compass and resilient career of the Logan family - whether she wanted to be or not.

But Belinda belonged only to herself. Flighty, flirtatious, and possessed of a beauty that promised her a privileged life, Belinda was lavished with attention. Mother and Father, family, friends, boys from school, they all adored Belinda. And as she matured into a young woman, her beauty became even more haunting. She vowed never to grow up, to remain forever an enchanting little girl to be worshipped and cared for.

Then came that fateful night, when Olivia was awakened by the low whistle of the wind off the ocean... a whistle that became an unearthly wail coming from Belinda's bedroom. It was the tragic night that their father would forbid them to speak of ever again. The night they would never forget. The night that would send generations of Logans down an unavoidable path of lies, deceit and heartbreak.

The Midnight Hour by Karen Robards. Judge Grace Hart seems to have it all. A successful career, a bright, beautiful teenage daughter, and a comfortable home in a quiet Ohio suburb. But beneath the placid veneer, darker truths lie waiting. Her daughter is testing the limits of Grace's patience, exploring a world of liquor and drugs, and a stranger has been lurking about, threatening their safety and peace of mind.

Unwarned by the prospect of a stalker, Grace calls the police and that's where Detective Tony Marino comes in. But his presence creates as much confusion as it does security. While outwardly they seem to be opposites, the undercurrents of a romantic attraction between them are undeniable. When it becomes clear that the stalker has the power to destroy all that Grace holds dear, Grace and Tony join forces to stop him, soon learning that any hope for their future will require a reckoning with their past.

Karen Robards pulls out all stops to create her most nerve-shattering book to date, keeping readers breathless and guessing what will come next until the very last page.

"It Is Written"

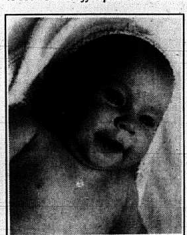

Last week we studied some about the oneness of the church or body of Christ. Folks in man made churches seek to justify denominationalism by different arguments, even though the scriptures are pretty plain about the oneness of the Lord's church.

Passages like Gal 1:2, Rm 16:16, Rev 2:3 that speaks about a plurality of churches are offered as proof of denominationalism. But this IS NOT SO! This plurality of congregations were simply local churches, that were taught the same thing! Look at 1 Cor 4:17, "For this cause have I sent unto you Titimachus, who is my beloved son, and faithful in the Lord, who shall bring you into remembrance of my ways which be in Christ, as I teach every where in every church." Paul did not teach sprinkling for baptism in one local church, and immersion in another. Peter did not teach a separate priesthood in one local church and the priesthood of every believer in another. This would have to be case to justify human denominationalism of today.

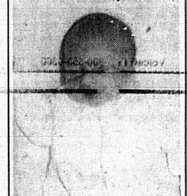

Sometimes John 15:1-8 is offered to justify the division in churches. Jesus is the vine and has various branches, like the Methodist branch, and the Holiness branch, and the Baptist branch, and the Pentecost branch etc. Now, the problem with this is in 15:6, "If a man abide not in me, he is cast forth as a branch, and is withered; and men gather them, and cast them into the fire, and they are burned." The branches are men, NOT churches. There is no justification for denominationalism.
