Body found at Tark Hill

State and local officials found a partially decomposed body at Tark Hill Tuesday afternoon. A positive identification has not been made but local speculation is that it is the body of Charles "Toddy" Baker who has been missing since May 1997. Above, Dr. Emily Craig, the state's forensic anthropologist, and KSP Detective Gary Lane wait while a dozer removes mud from around the body. Police are investigating the case as a homicide.

Boil water advisory still in effect locally

By: Richard Anderkin
Don't drink the water, at least not until you boil it first. And therefore the majority of Rockcastle Countians will remain under a boil water advisory for a couple more days.

The advisory was issued last Friday by Mt. Vernon Mayor Karen King after unpurified water from lake Linville got into the water plant at Renfro Valley.

Workers at the plant, who are in the process of completely upgrading the plant, were putting in a new filter system when a pressure release valve malfunctioned and allowed the unpurified water into the system, according to Mayor King.

The city is also having trouble getting the cloudiness out of the water because of a surge of lake water that got into the plant.

The water is actually fine, but the advisory was issued because of the cloudiness," Carlos Maggard, an engineer with Nesbitt Engineering, said Wednesday.

The division of water and engineers from Nesbitt, the company who is working at the plant tell us that in nine out of ten cases there is probably nothing to worry about, but people should boil their water for at least three minutes before using it to cook with or drink," King said.

Rockcastle County Health Inspector Steve Midkiff said that he had been notified by the Kentucky Division of Water that the water from the plant was o.k. to bath in or wash clothes in and that the boil water advisory may be lifted by as early as Thursday, (today).

"They took another sample Wednesday and it may be that people can stop boiling water on Thursday, but it may be Friday," Midkiff said.

The health inspector said he had notified all of the restaurants, groceries, gas stations and the schools about what they should do, which includes using canned or bottled drinks and bagged ice that is produced in other cities, such as Corbin and Somerset.

Rockcastle County School Superintendent Larry Hammond said that school officials were taking every pre-caution when preparing food and providing drinking water.

"Each school has drinking water available for the students and staff and any water used in cooking is thoroughly boiled before it is used," Hammond said.

The water fountains have been turned off at each school, he said.

"Some parents have said that we (the schools) are charging for water. In fact that is not the case, we have free water available for our students and staff in all our schools," Hammond said.

Body found Tuesday

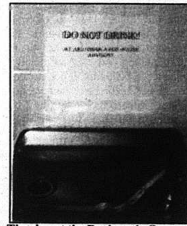

By: Richard Anderkin
Police and members of the Kentucky State Medical Examiners office may have found the body of a local man missing for nearly two years.

Tuesday afternoon a partially decomposed man's body was found at Tark Hill in Western Rockcastle County.

Although authorities would not confirm the identity of the body it is believed that the body is that of Charles "Toddy" Baker, 31, of Mt. Vernon, who was reported missing last May after he did not show up for a District Court appearance.

Rockcastle County Coroner Bill Dowell said Wednesday that the body was taken to Frankfort for an autopsy on Wednesday, but that no results were available at press time.

The body was found only a few feet from where police searched unsuccessfully last April.

On Tuesday a Case 880D dozer dug for nearly six hours before the body was located approximately 13 feet below ground.

Rockcastle County Sheriff Shirley Smith released very little information on the case, except to say that police had received a tip as to the body's whereabouts.

Smith also said that whoever buried the body at Tark Hill had to use some type of bulldozer.

Rockcastle County Attorney Jeff Burdette, who wrote the search warrant for the area where the body was found, said that new detailed information was received that warranted the search of the area again.

New manufacturer locates in county

A Rockcastle County native and his family have relocated their Springfield, Ohio manufacturing plant to Brodhead.

A. Eugene Taylor, President and CEO of EST Tool and Machine, Inc., said in a prepared news release that his company plans to create 20 new jobs in Rockcastle County over the next two years.

EST has purchased the former Long-Airtox building on Dug Hill Road and has already moved most of their equipment into the building after renovating it.

Taylor's two sons, Steven F. and Timothy E. Taylor are vice-presidents and co-owners of EST.

Steven Taylor is in charge of sales for the company and Timothy Taylor is in charge of production.

Although their father started EST only four years ago, Steven and Timothy both have years of experience in the tool and machining business.

"We are delighted to have found a site in Rockcastle County that will become the home of EST Tool and Machine," commented A. Eugene Taylor.

"We are anxious to move closer to our existing Kentucky customers, and we look forward to serving the central and eastern part of the state with our quality machining service," Taylor added.

Timothy Taylor said his family decided to move their business mainly because of the growth in the area of Kentucky.

"This area is growing extremely fast all up and down I-75 and simply felt like this was a better place to market our company and sell our products," he said.

"It's always good news when we are able to announce new jobs for Kentucky and we are especially pleased EST chose to locate their business in Rockcastle County," remarked Gene Strong, Secretary of the Kentucky Cabinet for Economic Development. "We stand ready to assist them as they grow and prosper and we will continue our efforts to bring new jobs to boost the economy in rural Kentucky and all other areas of our Commonwealth," Strong said.

A consortium of regional non-profit small business lenders, including the East Kentucky Corporation, Kentucky Highlands, MACED, and the Mountain Economic Development Fund are working with EST and community-based banks to help EST realize its expansion opportunities in Rockcastle County.

Chapter 2 - Change in My Life

I think this was the first week of May, 1937. I spent my night in what was to be our new home in Kentucky, under the stars. Since the log house we were to call home for the next several months was unfit to sleep in. We chose the great outdoors with a canopy of stars over us, a pallet of quilts under us and Judy safely tucked in her buggy.

So when morning came at last it found me still tired and stiff from the long ride of the past two days and the rough lumpy ground beneath us hadn't added much comfort to our tired bodies. I would like to say I awakened to a beautiful sunrise and birds awakening us with their twittering morning song, but that would be stretching things a bit. What I did wake up to was a baby crying for attention. There was no place to bathe and dress her but I did manage to change her wet diaper and clothes and dig out another blanket to tuck around her before I fixed her bottle with some warm water. Leonard had heated in a big kettle on a fire we had built between two stones. Thank goodness for a formula made with warm water and carnation milk.

Early that morning, Mat had found the spring of water we would be using for the next several years. That is when it had water in it. There were many times during dry weather the spring was also dry and we had to haul water from other places. But now he had a bucket of fresh cold water, ready to use. And Leonard had heated a part of it to be used in fixing oats or something for breakfast. I really can't remember what we ate for the first day or two. But necessity is the mother of invention, or so I have always heard, so we made out some way, or rather with a cartful fire-bait between rocks and a kettle or skillet blackened by smoke meeting our daily needs. After a breakfast of something or other and while I fed and dressed Judy, and made her comfortable in her buggy in a nice sunny spot, Mat and Leonard had begun the cleanup of the house.

First it was emptied of all the accumulation of trash we had seen the night before. Then the cobwebs, dirt, dober nests, inches of dust on every thing, including the ceiling walls had to be tended to. They used the broom, a hoe, mop, anything that would loosen and remove things clinging to the walls and ceiling. This was followed by sweeping, and scrubbing with cold water the filthy floors caked with the dried contents of whatever was in the bottles, jars and cans left by whomever had been camping out there.

I tried to help but by now it was Judy's feeding time. She was on a strict schedule and always let me know it. I had enough warm water left from the morning meal to mix her formula. She was a good baby and lay quietly in her buggy in the open air and warm sunshine while I tended to my other urgent duties.

Next came the job of unloading the furniture and placing it inside that little two room log house. When we bought our furniture, before we were married, I had no idea the future held this two room log house in waiting for me so I talked Mat into buying the prettiest bedroom set I have ever laid my eyes on. It was a full size, six piece set made of walnut and polished to a satin finish. The vanity was full length with a mirror all the way to the floor. The dresser with a mirror all the way across the top. The bed had four tall bedposts delicately curved and carved. It truly was my pride and joy. So here we were unloading it and wondering where in the world we could put it. Well it took some figuring but we finally got it all located although crowded together till one couldn't see the beauty of it. Then they lifted out my hope chest, my engagement gift from Mat. He had asked if I wanted a ring and I said, "Well if I have a choice I would rather have a 'Hope Chest.' You see, this was during the depression and rings were a luxury and furniture something that would be used for years. So, here it was and no place to put. My ring would have been on my finger but I

Even though we had no stove as of yet, we did have a five-piece oak dinette set and kitchen cabinet to match, and a large oak ice box. Why did we bring it along? Who knows, except it was a part of my kitchen in Ohio and it belonged with its buddies. I had to leave my gas cook stove behind so that is where the ice box sat till a new wood burning cook stove was purchased some time later. Of course, there were the things such as a couple of trunks, my rocking chair, end tables, etc. to be put somewhere. There was also the couch that served as the spare bed. Where, oh where, could we put all this furniture, which by now I was calling "stuff"? We managed but please don't ask me how.

Now, I was in my first home in Rockcastle County, Kentucky. We were a family of three and the future and what we made of it was ahead. As I described in the previous chapter this wasn't much of what one would want to call home. It was an old old log house with two large rooms and a big front porch with loose boards and a rock for the step. A solid wooden door led out of each room onto this porch. There was the semblance of a window in each room. This was about a two perhaps three-foot square hole saved through the logs for some strange reason; a narrow board was nailed across the middle of it. I never did figure out why that board was there for it sure didn't keep out the rain or cold air. There was no glass in them and I don't know if there had ever been any since there were no signs of framework. There was a very big fireplace in the front room, which was our bedroom, and a blessing for us since it not only served as the only heating element in the house it also served as my cook stove.

Now you may never believe this but I used a tub, yes, a tub used to wash clothes in, to cook on for about a month or until the cook stove we had ordered arrived. In trying to figure out how I could cook without going to the campfire to do it, Mat looked at my big

Renfro Valley begins 60th season of entertainment

Sixty years of traditional country entertainment. That's what Renfro Valley will celebrate on the season opening, March 5, 1999. The performance of the world famous Barn Dance show at 7:30 p.m. in the historic Old Barn Theater will start another season of concerts, events, festivals and down-home, wholesome family entertainment at "Kentucky's Country Music Capital."

Rehearsals are now underway; new songs and fresh sounds are giving a spirit of expectancy to the cast. In April, a variety of shows will be offered for the full season featuring the best in traditional country, gospel, bluegrass and comedy for the family. The Jamboree show highlights today's country music — the hits you hear on the top country charts. Classic Country on Thursday nights (comedy of stars Bud Wilson and Betty Lou York) and Saturday matinees also begin in April. In May, the MASAL show (Music and Singing and Laughter), this show features five great entertainers and comedy by Pete Stampler.

In addition to weekly productions, the Headliner Concert series brings some of the biggest names in country music entertainment to the stages of Renfro Valley. Entertainers to perform this year include Ray Stevens, Charley Pride, Loretta Lynn, Trace Adkins, The Oak Ridge Boys, The Statlers and many more great performers are scheduled.

Renfro Valley will also present a number of special events and festivals in 1999. Three separate talent contests allow rising young talent the opportunity to perform in the Valley. The first annual Corvette Roundup will be held in Renfro Valley this year. Some of the best pickers and singers gather in the festival grounds for music filled days and nights at the Old Joe Clark Festival. The All Night Gospel Sing is a legendary celebration of gospel music featuring the nation's top Southern Gospel acts. Another outstanding gospel event is the Gospel Music Celebration. The Appalachian Harvest Festival is an old-fashioned celebration of the fall harvest and the Fiddler's Festival brings fiddle players in from as far away as Canada and California. For the past three years Christmas in the Valley was rated one of Kentucky's top ten holiday events by the Kentucky Tourism Council, and exciting plans are in store for 1999.

As a Renfro Valley guest you can expect the best in Southern hospitality, continuing on a tradition that was started sixty years ago. "We feel that Renfro Valley is a special place with a special ambience," said Jane Thorne, the Valley's General Manager. "We enjoy being 'discovered' by people who come to feel that Renfro Valley has become a second home."

For reservations and information for all Renfro Valley shows, concerts and special events call 800-765-7464 or 606-256-2638. Renfro Valley is located just off I-75 at exit 62. You may also visit Renfro Valley's website renfrovalley.com.

The increase in first class stamp prices to 33-cents means another billion dollars a year in revenue for the Postal Service, money members of the Coalition to Make Our First Class Mail FIRST CLASS say the agency doesn't need and will almost surely waste.

"There is not one good reason advanced by the Postal Service to justify the upcoming billion dollar increase in first class mail rates," said John F. Robinson, president and CEO of the National Minority Business Council (NMBC) which is a member of the coalition.

"Combine that with the fact that no one — not even Congress — was able to halt this greedy money grab from the captive customers of the first class mail monopoly and you can see why we must have more protection for postal customers in 1999."

"The final say on first class mail rates must be taken away from the Postal Service Board of Governors and given to the independent Postal Rate Commission."

Robinson pointed out that Congress — outraged by Postal Service shenanigans — voted 393-12 to demand no first class rate hike. Even that didn't deter the Postal Service Board of Governors who voted to approve the increase anyway.

While the controversy raged, postal executives were busy throwing a retirement party for outgoing Postmaster General Marvin Runyon. The tonny affair included a three-course dinner, live music and a beautiful location inside the elegantly restored Union Station.

You can choose new nature license plate

The Kentucky Heritage Land Conservation Fund Board is giving people with a valid Kentucky driver's license a chance to vote on the next nature license plate. Choices for the third nature license plate are: a Kentucky bass, a bobcat, a white-tail deer or Kentucky's state butterfly

The final bill was more than $124,000. All paid for by the same postal customers who these executives claimed must save the Postal Service from a crushing debt!

Robinson said the retirement party is just the latest example of Postal Service mis-spending money. Others include:

- Millions of dollars spent on feed-good advertising for the first class mail monopoly.

- Sponsoring a bike team in the Tour de France with its largely European audience.

- Losing almost $85 million on starting up new non-delivery related products that largely compete with private business and do nothing to help get the mail delivered on time.

- 1998 year-end bonuses to 900 postal executives that averaged $10,400 each despite ongoing serious delivery problems.

"The Postal Service is clearly an agency that is out of control and Congress has the power to rein it in," said Robinson. "We would be great if consumers would use their first 33-cent stamp to send a letter to their congressional representative demanding more control over postal rates."

More information on the Coalition to Make Our First Class Mail FIRST CLASS is available at www.firstclassmail.org.

More than 200 organizations representing more than five million Americans are members of the coalition. They include the Association of Retired Americans, American GI Forum, National Ass'n of Realtors, Aging in America, National Federation of the Blind and the American Farm Bureau Foundation.

(Vicroy) on a goldenrod stem.

Currently, Kentucky automobile and light-truck owners can display a license plate with a Kentucky warbler on a tulip poplar limb or a cardinal on a Kentucky coffee tree limb. The Kentucky Heritage Land Conservation Fund Board is requesting input for the third nature license plate.

A ballot is available online on the Kentucky Department for Natural Resources page at <http://www.nr.state.ky.us/nrpec/dnr/plates.html> or <http://www.nr.state.ky.us/nrpec/dnr/dnrhome2.htm>, or by contacting Caragh Moloney at the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources, 800-858-1549. Last names and valid driver's license numbers are required for the vote to count. Ballots must be in by March 31, 1999.

The nature license plate costs $10 above the regular registration fee.

The extra $10 goes to the Kentucky Heritage Land Conservation Fund. Money from the fund is used to purchase land from willing sellers for nature preserves, wildlife management areas, state parks, recreation and environmental education areas. This forests, wild river corridors and wetlands. Local government, colleges and universities can also apply to use these funds for these purposes.

washtub, turned it upside down, cut a hole in the top a stove pipe would fit in, cut an opening on the lower side to feed small pieces of wood into and slipped it into the fireplace so the stovepipe would go up the chimney and low and behold I had something to cook on. It would hold a small pot to boil things in; a skillet to fry hoe cakes or bacon and eggs and a teakettle or small coffeepot to keep water warm. What else does one need? Well, for one thing, a real stove, lacking that plenty of patience, plenty of small pieces of wood to keep the fire going, a strong back, for it takes a lot of stooping to turn hoe cakes and frying potatoes. Most of all it takes a lot of courage to keep from packing up and heading 'back home'.

Getting the furniture arranged the best I could, putting curtains over those two holes in the wall, dressing my baby every day in her pretty little white dresses, washing diapers every day in water I carried up from the spring and hanging them out on a line to sun dry took a lot of my time but there was much more I had to learn about.

I hadn't had a chance to meet my new neighbors yet but one sunny day while I was taking a much needed break to play a while with Judy, whom I felt I had been neglecting, I heard voices close by and put her down to see who it was. And there coming up the dusty path leading to the house was two small handsome boys. The one with dark hair and eyes looked about eleven or twelve-years-old and the other one with dark red curly hair above a freckled face and eyes almost the color of his freckles about eight or nine. Both boys were shy but friendly and they had come to see the baby they heard we had. What a surprise and thrill that was for me. I had been wanting to show her off and now I not only had company, I had someone to admire my adored baby. They were my very first guests and I will never forget them. Still the other day I saw Bill Mize, the dark headed one, and we reminisced about that day. My own Bill's nephew with the red curly hair, died several years ago with cancer. They and their whole family became my very dear friends and I have always been considered a part of their family. And to this day Judy and Bill are very close friends.

My life in Rockcastle County now had a meaning. This little act of friendship by the little boys melted the ice that was beginning to form around a lonely heart that had been used to another way of life.

Greedy $1B stamp hike hit consumers January 10

Congress denounced it, four years of record profits preceded it, postal executives planned on a $124,000 retirement party while demanding it and now postal consumers will pay for it.

The most controversial stamp hike in Postal Service history took effect Sunday, January 10 and the nation's largest collection of everyday consumers of the Post Office says the process that brought it about screams

Lloyd Shell

When Lloyd A. Shell, formerly of Rockcastle County, visited DeLand more than 26 years ago, he fell in love with it. Almost immediately, he knew this was the perfect place to raise a family and start a business.

Shell, the owner of Best Cleaners and Laundry in downtown DeLand and the former owner of the Chimney Corner Motel, died, Tuesday, January 5, 1999 at the age of 61. He suffered from various heart ailments and had had a heart attack, family members said.

"He was very outgoing and very ambitious, but always very friendly," his wife, Norma F. Shell said. The couple, sweethearts since childhood, were married for 43 years.

In the early 1970s, Shell was a mechanical engineer for General Electric in Massachusetts. A promotion that would have required him to travel and be away from his family led him to rethink his career.

So he moved his family to DeLand and bought the Chimney Corner Motel, a 31-room red-brick inn on South Woodland Avenue.

"It was a very big career move for him, but he loved DeLand. He liked the small-town atmosphere. And it gave him time to be with his family," said daughter, Darla Van Alphen of DeLand.

In the late 1970s, to reduce motel cleaning costs, he bought Best Cleaners and Laundry on South Florida Avenue. He sold the motel in 1982.

He was a member of the First Baptist Church of DeLand. In Loving Memories

In Loving Memory of Edna M. Morris

Sadly Missed By All
Today Mamaw I heard a song you used to love. The one about the Lord taking us home when we grew weary. I remember how with hands raised in prayer you sang. Oh how you praised the wonderful God above.

Thirteen years since he called you to his throne. Where you said you would walk streets paved with gold. Where there was only peace and happiness to fill your time. Now I know you can see those streets you tread upon.

Mamaw today I knew that you were gone away. Forgive me God, I miss hearing her sing those songs. Her strong will and that never ending courage she had. Only once again I would love to hear that sweet voice today.

Mamaw I would not wish you back into the misery you bore. I just know that I remember how you sang from your soul. Now when I think of you it will be in my prayers. To hear your voice lifted to Heaven once more.

The tears come freely down my face as I miss you and hold my memories so dear. The one and only angel I ever heard sing know that at least you're in your right place. Please Mamaw sing once more for me.

In Memory of Betty C. Whitehead July 1960 - November 1998
Remember how we built play houses in the woods. Picking wild flowers to surprise Granny. Her secret hide out that no one could find.

Not even out of earshot, but Granny understood.

The many secrets we shared, the hours we laughed. All these are memories of you. I called you Mafie you called me Bess. Now those sun filled care free days have passed.

You stood rock hard by your family and faith. Blessed with beautiful daughters and a perfect son. You wore your happiness like a golden crown. Life was plentiful and you loved each new day.

The Lord knew you were one of his most precious. You are missed every day and we will never forget. Yet I know you are the most beautiful of The Masters Bouquet. Just knowing you makes me feel we were all blessed by Jesus. Missing You My Friend

In Loving Memory of Eugene & Liddie Repper
and other family members
So when evening shades are falling and we sit all alone. To our hearts there comes a longing if only they would come home. Friends may think we have forgotten. When at times they see us smile. But they little know the heartache. Our smile hides all the while.

Agricultural News

By Warden Alexander,
FSA Director
EMERGENCY RELIEF FOR FARMERS

Farmers are eligible for compensation either for losses suffered to the 1998 crops or losses in any three or more crop years between 1994 and 1998. Farmers can receive payments under either the single or multi-year provisions, but not both and USDA will make payments at the higher of the two levels. Eligible crops are crops that were insured and uninsured crops that were not eligible to be insured. For 1998 single-year losses, farmers will be compensated if their losses exceeded 35% of historic yields. The payment formulas provide greater benefits to farmers who bought insurance on their eligible crops. Farmers with eligible losses of insured crops will be compensated at 65% of crop insurance market price elections. Farmers with eligible losses to uninsured crops will be compensated at 60% of the crop insurance market price elections, and must agree to buy crop insurance for the 1999 and 2000 crop years. Farmers with eligible losses on non-insurable crops will be compensated at 65% of the five year average National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS) price or crop insurance yield. Non-insured Crop Disaster Assistance Program (NAP) area loss triggers will not apply. Sign up will begin February 1, 1999. Farmers should contact their local USDA Service Center or FSA office at that time for more information.

MARKETING CARDS

Producers are reminded to turn marketing cards to the FSA office immediately after sales. Producers who had marketing cards at the London Tobacco Warehouse, London, which burned are reminded of the following:
1. furnish the local FSA with tobacco sale bills for report of marketing (sales bills include pounds sold and amount received)
2. request the issuance of another card for additional sales as necessary.

DISASTER LEASING
As a condition for approving a burley tobacco disaster lease, the producer must file an application for disaster credit. For those who suffered a 20% loss due to a natural disaster in the approved disaster leasing program is available through February 16, 1999. A listing is made public with the use of bulletin board space.

If you are a producer with extra tobacco to market, shall produce to the FSA office the amount of additional tobacco to market above the 103%. Producers shall provide FSA a factual estimate as to the extra pounds or acopy of the tobacco weight sheet for those pounds. These extra pounds determine the amount of poundage which a producer may lease into the farm under disaster provisions.

Prior to disaster leasing producers which fall short and those who have extra pounds should contact the local FSA office for computation of the amount of pounds available for disaster leasing purposes.

APPLICATION FOR NEW BURLEY TOBACCO FARM QUOTAS

The Rockcastle County Farm Service Agency wishes to announce it is once again time to accept applications for new burley tobacco farm quotas. These applications will be taken through February 16, 1999. Before an allotment or quota is recommended it must be determined that each applicant meets all eligibility requirements as set forth in the guidelines for burley tobacco. Eligibility requirements include: Producer has NO burley tobacco quota, has land suitable for tobacco production, has 2 of 5 years marketing history of burley tobacco and 50% of all household income is received from farming.

Any person wishing to make an application for a new burley tobacco farm allotment should contact the FSA office in the county where the farm is located NO later than February 16th.

FSA programs are open to all regardless of race, color, religion, national origin, age, sex, marital status or disability.

Tobacco-Stolen or Destroyed
According to regulations stated in 107B paragraph 941 pertaining to stolen tobacco a police report must be filed within 15 days of the theft and be submitted to the County FSA office. Filing the police report according to regulations will possibly avoid a penalty and/or a reduction of next years quota.

Producers are reminded to contact the FSA office when destroying more than 500 pounds of tobacco. The destruction must be witnessed by a FSA employee.

HOG PRODUCER PAYMENT PROGRAM

Vice President Gore announced Friday, January 8, 1999, that the Department of Agriculture (USDA) will make approximately $50 million in direct cash payments to small hog producers to help them weather the current economic crisis.

Producers will qualify for direct cash payments if they (1) marketed fewer than 1,000 hogs during the last six months of 1998, and (2) are still in operation. Two restrictions apply. First, producers are not eligible for payments on hogs marketed under fixed-price or cost-plus contracts. Second, any operation whose gross income for 1998 was greater than 2.5 million dollars will not be eligible for payments, as is true for USDA's crop disaster assistance programs.

Eligibility is based on marketing during the last six months of 1998 to avoid distorting current marketings. The six month period also accommodates the marketing practices of small producers who may not market hogs every week or month, but who need help to weather current economic crisis.

Payments will be made through USDA's Farm Service Agency (FSA) local offices. From February 1, 1999 to February 12, 1999, FSA will conduct a sign-up for the payment program. During this sign-up period, producers will be required to apply for the program at their local FSA office.

Payments will be made about two or three weeks after the end of the sign-up period.

USDA ANNOUNCES 1999 CROP BURLEY TOBACCO PROGRAM

The U.S. Department of Agriculture announced the following provisions of the 1999 burley tobacco program.

The national marketing quota for the 1999 crop is 452.9 million pounds. Down from the 1998 quota of 637.8 million pounds and is based on the following:

—Purchase intentions by domestic cigarette manufacturers: 291.0 million pounds

—Unmanufactured exports (3-year average): 185.9 million pounds

—Reserve stock adjustment: 37.2 million pounds

—Discretionary adjustment: 13.2 million pounds

The support level for the 1999 crop is $1,789 per pound, up 1.1 cents per pound from 1998.
For each farm, the 1999 basic quota will decrease 28.8 percent from 1998. The effective quota is expected to be about 700 million pounds, or 167 million pounds below 1998.

EQIP in Kentucky receives $2.10 million for 1999

Eight approved EQIP priority area projects in Kentucky will receive a total of $1,400,687 in assistance. The remaining funds will be for statewide concerns in areas not covered by a priority area and assistance for EQIP education.

David G. Sawyer, NRCS State Conservationist, stated, "Kentucky received less funding for 1999 than 1998. However, we are able to fund more projects as higher ranked projects were less."

Under EQIP, USDA can provide cost-share assistance to land users for up to 75 percent of the costs of certain environmental protection practices such as grassed waterways, filter strips, manure management facilities and wildlife habitat enhancement; USDA may also provide incentive payments to encourage producers to apply selected land management practices that are not currently in use on their land.

In 1999, approximately 65% of the funds will be used by the eight locally identified priority areas and 30% will be used for statewide natural resource concerns including water quality, animal waste management, soil erosion and wildlife concerns.

Please contact your local USDA Service Center located on Hwy. 150, Mt. Vernon or call 256-2525 for additional information.

more projects as higher ranked projects were less."

The EQIP application period is continuous and the next ranking period will end on February 26, 1999. If the remaining funds are not allocated at that time, another ranking period will be announced.

EQIP is a USDA program created by the 1996 Farm Bill to address agriculture's priority natural resource and environmental concerns.

Poet's Corner

By Kim Parker
I wonder if you think me
The way I think of you.
And if you hear a sad, sad song
Does it make you blue.
I wonder if you feel the pain
That's deep inside my heart.
And if you see the kinds of things,
That's torn our world apart.

I wonder if you'll hear my plea
Of heartache - hurt and shame.
And know that I can't stand it.
That you feel you are to blame.
I wonder if you'll see it
The love I have for you
And if you will retrieve it
Knowing I am true.

RHRCC continues its dedication to communication

Communication is a vital part of life. Because it is used daily, most people take communication for granted. But for some, communication disorders make this normal part of life a difficult experience. That is why Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center, Inc. (RHRCC) has a speech-language therapy department dedicated to preserving and enhancing the speech of its patients.

And in order to maintain high-quality care, RHRCC has hired Emily Soard as a speech-language therapist.

"During my senior year of high school I was able to observe the work of a speech-language pathologist," Soard said. "And ever since, I knew I wanted to make it my career. I've always wanted to help people. My job allows me to do not only that but to help people in a way that will affect the rest of their lives."

Soard started at RHRCC on December 28. She received her bachelor and master's degrees from the University of Kentucky. Before working at RHRCC, Soard worked at Smith Abner Speech Language Services.

As a speech-language pathologist at RHRCC, Soard will work closely with patients to restore their abilities to communicate by facilitating speech and by providing adaptive communication systems. Her duties also will involve evaluating and treating language, fluency, voice and swallowing disorders. Her patients will include inpatients and outpatients and will range from children to senior adults and from acute-care to long-term care.

Applications being accepted for WHIP

The Wildlife Habitat Incentives Program (WHIP) is a U.S. Department of Agriculture conservation program that pays 75% cost-share to landowners to improve, create and restore wildlife habitat on their land. The primary focus of Kentucky's WHIP for 1999 is the restoration and creation of early successional habitats.

Planting of native grasses, shrubs and wildlife-friendly introduced grasses are practices eligible for cost-share under Kentucky's 1999 WHIP. Creation of wetland habitat is a secondary focus of the program. Other practices that are eligible for cost-share include filter strips, forest borders, wildlife corridors, tree plantings, riparian buffers, forest openings, wildlife watering holes, and fencing to exclude livestock from streams, woodland, wetland and wildlife lands.

Since WHIP is competitive, an environmental evaluation and ranking process is used to determine which applications provide the most habitat benefits. Applications with the most habitat benefits will receive funding.

"Last year's WHIP program was very successful in improving and restoring wildlife habitats," said David Sawyer, State Conservationist.

"This year, we will continue cost-share practices to preserve additional habitats." Applications must be submitted to the Natural Resources Conservation Service (NRCS) by the close of business on February 26, 1999 to be considered for 1999 program funding.

To apply for WHIP contact Randall Templeman, District Conservationist, at 256-2525 Ext. 3 and/or visit your local USDA Service Center or your local wildlife biologist with the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

RES fifth grade presents holiday drama

The fifth grade class at Roundson Elementary School completed a unit of study on American Explorers just before the holidays. As one culminating activity, Mrs. Milkoff and Mrs. Eversole, the Arts & Humanities instructor, combined the historical 1804 Lewis and Clark Expedition with the story of drama.

The plot of the drama revealed a little known historical fact that made history a little more relevant to the young students. The Corps of Discovery spent one Christmas together at Fort Clatsop of the Pacific coast, and exchanged gifts of handkerchiefs and tobacco. Sacajawea presented William Clark with 24 weasel tails to decorate his jacket.

Students, parents, and school personnel enjoyed getting a closer look at the costumes which were constructed by students, parents and friends. Authentic Native American music served to set the mood before and during the presentation.

Eastern Kentucky University Division of Special Programs recently presented Mt. Vernon Plastics an Award of Appreciation for the plant's support, dedication and commitment to excellence through education and training. EKU Division of Special Programs recognizes Mt. Vernon Plastics Eastern Kentucky University and Mt. Vernon Plastics have enjoyed a productive partnership for several years.

But the relationship never would have developed without a commitment from plant officials to continuing education for Mt. Vernon Plastics employees. EKU's Division of Special Programs recently recognized Rockcastle County's largest industry for its "support, dedication and commitment to excellence through education and training."

The most recent beneficiaries of that partnership are plant supervisors and managers who participated in EKU's First-Line Supervision Program.

"The long-standing relationship that we have enjoyed with Mt. Vernon Plastics has been strengthened by the plant's commitment to continuing education," said Lucie Nelson, director of EKU's Division of Special Programs. "The investment Mt. Vernon Plastics has made in its employees shows great foresight and concern for their personal growth."

Required topics in the First-Line Supervision Program include management style comparisons, leadership versus management, expectations of supervisors, personal style inventories, safety, planning, organizing, decision-making, monitoring, communication skills, problem solving and team presentation skills.

The goal of the program is to enhance participants' skills, help them become more effective supervisors and increase their confidence level," said Kathie Drake, training and development coordinator for EKU's Division of Special Programs.

Christine Zoeller, human resources manager for Mt. Vernon Plastics, said the plant has invested heavily in TQM (Total Quality Management) training, but "we want to take our management staff to the next level. We want to bring leadership to the forefront and reinforce what they already knew was right."

"We want to promote from within," explained Wayne DeCamp, executive vice president and general manager. "That's why we've made this investment in education. We wanted to make sure our employees have the technical skills and the people skills they need to succeed."

Mt. Vernon Plastics, which employs about 300, manufactures plastic containers and lids for a variety of clients in the food industry.

Classes in the first-line supervision program are continuing on EKU's Richmond campus and at the University's Tri-County Center in Corbin. Eastern also offers customized training, often on-site, for area businesses and industries. Instructors design and tailor their materials to specific customer needs, blending unique customer requirements with state-of-the-art training.

"We establish partnerships with these companies," Drake said. "When the training is over, we are still there to offer assistance. We never leave the partnership."

Rockets beat Panthers, lose to Colonels; are 13-8

The 13-8 Rockcastle County Rockets traveled to Knox Central Tuesday night and survived a poor night from the free throw line to pull out a thrilling double overtime victory 71-69.

With Rockcastle down by one, senior guard Stevie Bradley knocked down a three pointer with nine seconds left in the second overtime to give the Rockets a two point lead over the Panthers who are 7-11.

Knox Central inbound the ball to half court and quickly called a time out with eight seconds left.

Knox Central's fifteen foot jumpshot fell off the back of the iron as time ran out, giving Rockcastle the win.

The Rockets had an opportunity to win at the end of regulation but could not connect on key free throws in the final minute.

The victory was bittersweet for the Rockets as senior guard Layne Nicely went down with an ankle injury late in the fourth quarter and was unable to return to the game.

Nicely is expected to be able to play for the Rockets this Friday night against district rival Jackson County.

The Rockets had balance scoring as four players were in double figures. Andrew Cash led the way with 21. Stevie Bradley had 16 points; Layne Nicely scored 12 and Christopher Parsons scored 11 points.

The Rockets were ahead 11-7 at the end of the first quarter but fell short 27-25 at halftime.

Rockcastle outscored Knox Central 16-13 in the third quarter to re-take the lead 41-40 but the game ended in regulation with the 56-56 tie.

The first overtime was a low scoring affair as each team scored six points to go into the second overtime tied 62-62.

Rockcastle scored nine points in the second overtime to take the 72-70 win.

The Rockets did not fare as well last Friday night as they visited Whitley County and came home with the 88-81 loss.

It was not a pretty night for Rockcastle as two starters fouled out and the other three played the fourth quarter with four fouls.

Rockcastle got down by ten, 14-4, in the first quarter before the Rockets scored the next nine points to cut the Colonel lead to one, 14-13.

Rockcastle could not gain the lead, however, and ended the first quarter down four, 20-16.

The Rockets dug themselves a deeper hole the second quarter, going into halftime down eight, 42-34.

The Rockets kept the scoring more even during the second half by outscoring the Colonels 19-18 in the third quarter and scoring even with Whitley County 28-28 in the fourth quarter.

Poor free throw shooting down the stretch in the fourth quarter sank the Rockets as they were only 5-13 from the line.

The Rockets went four straight possession in the fourth without a score before Matthew Brown stopped the drought with a bucket from fifteen feet.

Seven Rockcastle players scored in the effort with three in double digits.

Layne Nicely had another big night, leading all scorers with 22. Andrew Cash scored twenty and Matthew Brown rounded out the double digit scoring with 15.

The Rockets travel to Jackson County Friday night to play girls and boys varsity games against the rival Generals.

The Rockets next home game is Saturday night against Hartan.

Girls beat Model and South Laurel; are 19-3

The Lady Rockets continued their winning ways last Thursday night with a 61-29 blow-out of Madison Model. The team was without the services of starter sophomore Jessica Rickles and their sixth man, coach Cobb but, according to ass. coach Barry Noble, "the younger players stepped up when they had to."

The girls jumped out to an early 20-6 first quarter and held Model scoreless in the second quarter for a 39-6 edge at half-time.

Suzanne Brown led the scoring for the Rockets with 22 points; Brandy Reynolds got 15; Tiffany McClure 9; Brooke Roberts 6; Amber Falin 3 and Rachelie Hammond, Ashley Lawson and Leslie Carpenter, 2 each.

It was a little different story Monday night as the Lady Rockets had to give up the first quarter to get their offense on track. After trailing 13-4 at the end of the first period, the Rockets came back with a vengeance in the second quarter and, behind 14 points by Brandy Reynolds and two three point baskets by McClure, the Lady Rockets took the quarter 23-12 and a 27-25 lead into the dressing room at half-time. The Rockets also got the third quarter 17-11 and the fourth 15-14 for the 59-50 win.

This time, Reynolds led scoring with 21; Jessica Rickles and Tiffany McClure each scored 11; Suzanne Brown got 9 and Brooke Roberts 7.

Jayvees lose to Lincoln, beat South Laurel

After leading at half-time 19-14, the Lady Jayvees were outscored the second half by Lincoln County 22 to 13 for the 36-32 loss.

Rachelie Hammond led the Jayvees in scoring with 13; Angie Ford got 7 and Amber Falin, Angie Boring and Amber Denney had 4 each.

Monday night at South Laurel, the Jayvees coasted to a 30-20 win.

Seven Rockets scored with Amber Falin leading the way with 9; Leslie Carpenter had 7; Angie Boring 5; Ashley Lawson 4; Rachelie Hammond and Amber Denney 2 each and Angie Ford 1.

Freshmen win

Avengeing an earlier 10 point loss, the freshmen girls beat Lincoln County 27-25 last Saturday. Leslie Carpenter was high scorer for the freshmen with 11; Angie Boring got 5; Amber Denney, Amanda Barnett, Laura Beth Bell, Jessie Hayes and Jessica Riddle, 2 each and Ashley Mink 1.

Junior Brandy Reynolds, shown here in a recent game against Madison Central, sparked the Rockets to a comeback over South Laurel Monday night with 14 points in the second quarter. Reynolds was 4 for 5 from the free throw line and canned two three point baskets and two two point shots in the period to help the Rockets to their 23-12 edge for the quarter.

Important priority date nears for financial assistance

It's only appropriate that April 1 is an important "priority date" for Rockcastle Countians seeking financial assistance to attend college in 1999-2000.

For, according to Susan Luhman, it would be foolish for a student to squander a chance for assistance by delaying the application process beyond that key date.

Luhman, director of Eastern Kentucky University's Division of Student Financial Assistance, said increased dollar amounts are available through a variety of grant, loan, work-study and scholarship programs, but "certain programs run out of funds very quickly."

Prospective students may pick up a copy of the Free Application for Federal Student Aid from a high school guidance counselor or at EKU's financial aid office in the Coates Administration Building. The federal form should be mailed by March 1, Luhman said, adding that Kentucky residents applying for state College Assistance Program (CAP) funds need to apply no later than March 15. When the federal information from the FAFSA form is received at EKU, the University will mail the applicant an EKU Request for Aid form.

"Those who have all their forms on file in our office by April 1 will be the first to receive a financial aid package," Luhman emphasized. "The earlier you apply, the better chance you have of receiving maximum consideration for all types of financial assistance. Timing is very important."

"There's no one program to pay the total cost of an education," Luhman added, "so many students have to use a combination. Some are helped by as many as five or six programs."

About 77 percent of EKU students receive some type of financial assistance, which last year totaled about $50.6 million. More than $12.6 million of that was in the form of grants, which do not have to be repaid. The maximum Pell Grant award has been increased from $3,000 to $3,125 for 1999-2000, Luhman noted.

In addition to financial assistance programs are available to veterans or families of deceased or disabled veterans.

"Eastern has always been successful in identifying sources of funding for our students," Luhman said. "The best form of financial assistance is modest tuition, and we believe we offer a quality education at an affordable price, coupled with opportunities for financial assistance."

Another source for financial help is a campus job. More than 2,500 Eastern students help finance their education through either the Federal Work Study Program or the EKU Institutional Work Program.

Also, various academic and athletic scholarships are available, including several automatic scholarships for qualifying students.

And, for the first time, Kentucky high school seniors will be eligible to compete for Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship monies, which are awarded based on students' grades and ACT or SAT scores.

In an effort to better serve EKU students and prospective students, the financial assistance office is open beyond normal working hours two days a week. Office hours are 8 a.m.-5:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and 8 a.m.-4:30 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. (The office remains open noon-1 p.m.)

"Non-traditional and evening class students, especially, have told us that these hours are more convenient," Luhman said.

All first-time Federal Stafford Loan borrowers must attend an entrance counseling session or follow a procedure on the office's web site (<http://www.finaid.eku.edu>) prior to the first disbursement. Counseling is provided daily at 2 p.m. and on Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 4:45 p.m.

For more information, contact the Division of Student Financial Assistance at 606-622-2361. Those wanting to know if their Federal Stafford Loan disbursement has arrived at the University may access The Colonel Connection voice response telephone system at 606-622-2020 and follow the prompts for that and other financial aid information.

For more information about EKU, visit the University's home page on the World Wide Web at <http://www.eku.edu>.

Rockcastle County Sheriff Shirley Smith and Deputy Darrell Doan talk with State Medical Examiner Dr. Barbara Weakly-Jones after a partially decomposed body was found at Tark Hill Tuesday afternoon.

citizens and all law enforcement agencies helped to bolster this investigation by providing evidence to secure the search warrant for the area where the body was found," Burdette said.

"I'm sure a positive identification will be made soon and the case will be presented to the Rockcastle Grand Jury - I'm satisfied that police are investigating this death as a murder," he said.

Besides Sheriff Smith, Deputy Darrell Doan, Kentucky State Police officers Ron Sears and Gary Lane, Dr. Barbara Weakly-Jones, the state's medical examiner and Dr. Emily Craig, the state's forensic anthropologist helped in the search.

Other officers also assisted.

Deputy Doan said that the property where the body was located is owned by David Lovell, 31, of Mt. Vernon.

Detective Lane is heading the investigation.

"This consortium of non-profit lenders provides financial assistance to smaller businesses allowing them to capture unique market opportunities for their business," said Tom Jones, Executive Director of the East Kentucky Corporation, a regional economic development organization serving 43 counties in eastern Kentucky. "We look forward to having EST in our business community."

The Taylor family has deep roots in Rockcastle County.

Eugene Taylor's mother, Mary, still lives in Livingston and his father who passed away last year, Arnel, was postmaster at Livingston for many years.

Eugene's wife, Sarah, is also from Rockcastle County. Her mother Maxine lives in Brodhead and she has two sisters in the county, Mary Ponder of Mt. Vernon and Judy Owens of Brodhead. Her father, Basil Moore, died several years ago.

Timothy Taylor and his wife Danna have two children, Renee, 10 and Jacob 3. Steven Taylor and his wife Patricia, have a one-year-old son, Bradley. All three families are now living in Rockcastle County.

For employment information or questions related to the business call EST at (606) 758-4626.

"Boil Water"

"At some of the schools students and staff have been able to purchase bottled water all year long - if they wanted it, but it would be silly to think that we (the school system) would make students pay for water at a time like this," Hammond said.

Randall Robbins, owner of Food World Grocery Store in Mt. Vernon, said Wednesday that his store alone had sold 1,700 gallons of water since the advisory went into effect.

"I'd say we all (groceries) have a pretty good supply on hand, although we (Foodworld) have had to make at least one trip of our own to the warehouse and the warehouse has had to send at least one truck with just water on it," Robbins said.

The City of Mt. Vernon's water plant provides water for its own customers, Brodhead, Western and Rockcastle Water Associations.

The only people not under the boil water advisory are Livingston residents who purchase their water from that city. Livingston gets its water from the Woods Creek Water District in Laurel County.

Mt. Vernon firefighters were called to a fire on Crawford Lane in Mt. Vernon on Tuesday morning. Firefighter Timie Bostic said the fire started in the back of the empty house, but he was unsure what caused the blaze because there was no electricity in the house. The owner of the house, Tim Young, told firefighters just to allow the old house to burn because of its poor condition.

If Tom does not find some place in the west which he like, better than Jacksonville, Florida, at the end of the third week, the Baptist church is being sought to seek him fame and fortune in the practice of law.

LOCAL NEWS

Rev. J.T. Turpin will preach at Hummel Grove church the third Sunday at 11 o'clock a.m., also at the west. The Baptist church is being papered and the seats remodeled, a much needed improvement. A good coat of paint for both the Baptist and Christian churches would be very much in order. Judge Behrman is evidently realizing that there is something in running for congress, even though he is a lawyer, he has been besieged by an many callers and those who cannot call just write to tell him which post office they want. The bird law expired yesterday and every nirdy, who could possibly go, went carly yesterday morning in search of much converted "Bob White." In this connection we might claim for Rockcastle some of the best marksmen to be found anywhere in the state. This office has just finished printing for James Maret, manager of the Rock castle, a directory in the form of an eight page folder, which gives every toll station of all the Independent Telephone systems in Central and South Eastern Kentucky. The book which is systematically and artistically arranged is a source of great benefit to the general public. Every toll station will be supplied with one of these directories.

Apologizing Is Dangerous For Some

"I try to do what is best," Vera told me, "but our marriage just keeps getting worse!" (All characters are fictitious.)

"What kind of things do you do to improve your marriage?" I inquired.

"I'm always the first one to say 'I'm sorry,'" she replied. "Momma told me that this is the Christian thing to do, so any time there is trouble, I apologize first."

"What if it's not your fault?" I asked.

"Well, it usually is," she laughed. "Or at least that's what Norm tells me. Even if it's not my fault, I can't stand for it to be mad at me, so I always make up with him."

"Be the first to say you're sorry" for many marriages, "is good advice. Some of us are stubborn (you know who you are!) and refuse to give in. We will defend our actions even in the face of overwhelming evidence that we are wrong. We need to learn to say 'I'm sorry.'"

However, Vera's marriage is a different matter. Vera (and others like her) apologize too quickly! They are the victims of emotional or physical abuse who believe that somehow the abuse is their fault.

Josie did what Vera did. She always apologized after she and her husband had a "fight." The fight could be more accurately termed "physical abuse." It happened each time her husband got drunk, which was almost every weekend. "Even when he hits me," Josie said, "I apologize because I can't stand for him to be mad at me."

Marcie's story is much the same. Her husband doesn't drink but is physically abusive to her. "I keep apologizing to him for making him mad," she said, "but he keeps on showing me. What am I doing wrong?"

What Marcie is doing wrong is being the first to say she's sorry. This is not what Marcie or Josie or Vera need to do. They need to say "goodbye" and get out as soon as possible before being seriously injured or killed.

Women (and men) who are being abused often apologize even if they have done nothing wrong. For these women (and men) the advice to "be the first to say you're sorry" is not helpful. They already say "I'm sorry" too much! They already say "I'm sorry" for themselves and get out of a dangerous situation.

For those of you who never apologize try it some time. It will wonderers for a relationship. But for those who are always apologizing, try something else: stop apologizing and get help!

"IT IS WRITTEN"

We continue our study of Col 3:18-21 as we talk about the home. Today we shall be talking about husbands.

In verse 19 we read, "Husbands, love your wives, and be not bitter against them". Yes, husbands are to be the head of the house, but their headship is tempered by love. Consider Eph 5:25, 28-29. "Husbands, love your wives, even as Christ also loved the church, and gave himself for it... So ought men to love their wives as their own bodies. He that loveth his wife loveth himself. For no man ever yet hated his own flesh, but nourisheth and cherisheth it, even as the Lord the church." When husbands have this kind of sacrificial love like Jesus had for the church, there will be no domineering, tyrannical, dictatorial or bossy spirit about a husband's headship. The wife will know that he leads and commands out of love. Then Paul said that husbands are not to be bitter against their wives. The cure for this is to communicate, to dwell with her according to knowledge. (1 Pet 3:7). Most men become bitter toward their wife because they don't understand her, the way she thinks, the way she feels, her view of things. Husbands, make your wives your study project.

Winter Tetany In Beef Cattle

Winter Tetany is basically grass tetany. Since this disorder occurs during winter months when cattle are not receiving pasture, the term winter is used to denote the difference.

Winter tetany or grass tetany is a cow disorder caused by an abnormally low amount of magnesium in the animal's blood. This is caused primarily by the cow's feed being low in magnesium. When grasses are used for feed, this condition will mainly occur in spring. However, some herds will experience the same problem on store feeds during January, February and March.

Grass tetany is usually confined to females and is more likely to occur in older animals. Cows are more susceptible during their third and fourth lactations. The animals exhibit milk fever symptoms and may begin to walk stiffly or stagger. Their appetites may decrease, and they usually become very dull in appearance. In many cases they will isolate themselves from the herd. As the disorder progresses, the animal sometimes becomes very nervous and occasionally has muscle tremors and will exhibit rapid breathing. In advanced cases the animal will collapse, go into convulsions and die. The disorder can run its course rapidly, and unless corrective measures are taken, death sometimes can occur less than an hour after the onset of visible symptoms.

If the magnesium level in the blood is low, it is mainly due to a low level of magnesium in the animal's feed. Some reasons why magnesium may be low in the animal's feed are species of grass, soil nutrient status, potassium levels and weather.

Grasses are lower in magnesium than legumes. The early lush range is likely to be all grass (since legumes start growth later in the spring) and may be deficient in magnesium. Pastures, even grass pastures, should have adequate magnesium content in late spring or summer. Cereal crops such as wheat, rye, barley and oats are poor accumulators of magnesium. Forages of this type are apt to be low in magnesium in the spring or fall.

The plant must get its magnesium from the soil, and soils low in magnesium can cause a low plant content. However, at the present time, it appears that magnesium fertilization on most Kentucky soils would not be feasible. If the soil has a high potassium soil test, the application will do little to increase the magnesium content within the plant. Only coarse (sandy) soils and soils with a low potassium soil test would show an increase in plant magnesium when fertilized.

However, massive applications, such as with dolomitic limestone, would probably have a beneficial effect.

The potassium content in the soil is probably the dominant factor affecting the uptake of magnesium by the plant. Potassium competes with the uptake of magnesium in the plant, and, as the potassium available to the plant increases, there is a sharp drop in the uptake of magnesium. A similar type of relationship appears within the animal itself. The higher the amount of potassium entering the animal, the lower the amount of magnesium found in the blood. If the intake of magnesium is constant, the amount in the blood is lowered by higher potassium intake. Because of this, the potassium content of the soil should not be allowed to get into the high soil test range. A medium or high medium soil test should be sufficient for good pasture production and prevent significant reduction of magnesium in the plant, and subsequently, in the animal.

Because animals do not store up magnesium, their dietary requirements have to be supplied on a day-to-day basis. The only way to prevent grass tetany is to supplement the diet with additional magnesium. Supplementation should start in mid-December and run through mid-May. This can be done with commercial mineral mixes containing magnesium or with homemade mixtures. Mixing 1 part magnesium oxide, 1 part trace mineral salt and 1 part distillers dry grain will do fine if this is the cattle's only source of salt.

Many farmers feed magnesium year round to avoid the problem in getting cattle back on feed. Not only is this an extra expense farmers do not need, the extra magnesium may interfere with the absorption of certain minerals. When mineral intake becomes a problem, many health problems occur which are hard to explain. For this reason, farmers are encouraged to stop magnesium feeding in mid-May. To help get animals back on minerals containing magnesium, distillers dry grain may be mixed in to take away from the bitter taste.

Don't Fall Victim To Credit Identity Fraud

By: Hazel Jackson County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Science

Identity theft occurs when a con artist assumes your name, address, Social Security number, or other personal information and uses this information to obtain new credit cards, access existing credit accounts, obtain loans in your name, or steal from your checking, savings, or investment accounts. Thieves usually are able to steal someone's identity by rummaging through mailboxes or trash cans for credit card receipts. Government records also provide additional information enabling thieves to steal your identity, such as driving records, civil and criminal court records, licensing records, and property records. According to the Federal Trade Commission, identity theft is one of the most difficult crimes to prove in court. Usually, consumers are not able to provide law enforcement officers with ample evidence that the identity thieves incurred the charges, rather than themselves.

To protect your identity, do the following:

- * Using a shredder, safely dispose of all items that may contain personal information.

- * Disclose your Social Security number only when absolutely required. Try to use alternative numbers whenever possible.
- * Limit the number of credit cards you carry with you. If you lose a credit card, notify the creditor immediately and ask that "fraud alert" be placed on your file.
- * When you dispose of mailings as "pre-approved" credit card offers, tear or shred those mailings before putting them in the trash. The same goes for advance loan checks from credit card companies.
- * Pay attention to credit card billing cycles. If bills do not arrive on time, your monthly statements may have been stolen by thieves.
- For more information on keeping your records private, call our office at 256-240 and ask for the publications entitled "Do You Know Where Your Social Security Number is Right Now?" and "Do Your Medical Records Really Belong to You."
- A free lesson entitled "Protecting Your Privacy" will be taught at the Extension Office on February 25, at 6:00 pm.

New Boater's Laws

By John McQuerry
Ch. Ext. Agent for 4-H/Youth Dev.

New laws are now in effect for boaters under the age of 12 in Kentucky. Please read the following new regulations carefully.

1. A person under 12 years old shall not operate a personal watercraft or motorboat over ten (10) horsepower on the public waters of Kentucky.
2. Personal watercraft used to tow individuals engaged in water-skiing or other similar activities shall have adequate seating and an observer aboard to watch the person being towed, or shall be equipped with a field of vision at least 160 degrees.
3. All persons operating or riding on a personal watercraft in public waters shall wear a U.S. Coast Guard-approved personal flotation device.

4. Personal watercraft without self-cleaning capability shall not be operated on public waters in Kentucky unless equipped with a lanyard-type engine kill switch which shall be attached to the person, clothing or personal flotation device of the operator.
5. Persons operating a personal watercraft or motorboat shall not endanger human life, human physical safety or property by:

considerable damage to her physical and emotional health.

Studies show that women still do at least 80% of the housework even when both spouses work. Men, it is time for us to stop calling it women's work and take on our share of the household and childcare responsibilities. We can learn to vacuum, do dishes and laundry, clean the bathroom and make beds. (Women, if you want some help with these, do not criticize the way we do it even if it is not always up to your standards.)

My own observation is that some men have gotten the message and are doing more work around the house. However, there are still some males who have not updated their thinking. Men, if we do not participate in the rearing of our children we are depriving ourselves of one of the significant pleasures of life. This means being involved from the beginning and not waiting until the child is ten years old. Men can change diapers, give baths, get up at 2:00 a.m. and prepare meals. Becoming involved when the child is young results in a better parent-child relationship later in the child's life.

And what of the single parent? She or he has at least two full-time jobs; the outside employment and the house-child tasks. Single parents who manage this have my sincere admiration.

Men, some single moms have told me that being a single parent is easier, then when they were married. As one woman put it, "At least now I only have to take care of two children. When I was married, I was taking care of two kids and my husband, too!"

Today's Moms can learn to get go of their perfectionism when it comes to housework. Because she is employed outside the home, she cannot do all that her mother did. Accepting that fact and acting accordingly is a great help. Women who manage to cut down on their household chores will find that they have more time for the kids; their husbands and themselves.

Men who do their share of the household tasks will feel better about themselves. Men who spend more time with their children pave the way for good relationships with their offspring when they become teenagers.

Library News

By Lynda Mullins

It's hard to believe that February is already here, time flies so fast it seems. I, for one, will be glad to see spring arrive, but I guess that's rushing things a bit so I'll just have to settle for February and all that it brings.

Valentine's Day is on the 14th of course, and Carol has put together a nice display of books for the occasion. Titles range from "Chocolate Fantasies" cookbook to the timeless love story "Gone With The Wind," so if you want to spice up your appetite or your love life one of these books will put you in a valentine frame of mind.

As always I want to mention that the library offers Story Hour for any and all preschool age children every Tuesday at 1:00. I would also like to take this opportunity to thank the mothers, grandmothers, and babysitters, who bring children to Story Hour each week. Thanks also to Casey, Lexie, Courtney, Taylor and Matthew who come to the library ready to read, learn and have fun. We all have a good time together at Story Hour and there's always room for more children to join in.

Someday in the near future we will be receiving several more computers for public use. I'm very pleased that one of these new computers will be placed in the children's area of the library specifically for their use. I've been told that there will be lots of wonderful programs installed on the computers as well as internet access. This will be a great learning tool for those children who may not otherwise have access to a computer. Please take advantage of this and allow your child to come in and learn to use the computers.

Later this month I will have the honor of attending the UK McConnell Literature Conference in Lexington. The conference will include seminars of topics that are very relevant to libraries in small communities such as ours as well as book discussions with some of the popular authors of the day. I'm very excited to have been chosen to attend the conference and am looking forward to going.

I've searched our children's book collection with Valentine's Day in mind and I've found a few books with heart that beginner readers may enjoy.

"Silly Tilly's Valentine" by Lillian Hoban.

Silly Tilly mole can't remember why today is special. Is it because it's snowing and the wind is swirling colored snowflakes all around her? Or maybe it's the bright red something in her mailbox that means a special day? Beginning readers will enjoy discovering what Tilly forgot to remember in this lively story about Valentine's Day.

"One Zillion Valentines" by Frank Modell.

Marvin and Milton are as eager as anyone to celebrate Valentine's Day. But as Marvin points out, you don't send any valentines if you don't send any. And that's all it takes to start this inventive and invincible twosome off on a fun adventure.

The countdown to the year 2000 has already begun and everyone is talking about the new millennium, with these things in mind I've found a few books for the young adults that focus on the future and technology.

"The Kid's Guide To The Millennium" by Ann Love and Jane Drake.

Our third millennium begins January 1, 2000. How can you celebrate? This book is full of fun ideas - some challenging others wacky. Make a countdown calendar, or create a time capsule. Send a millenniumogram or give a millennial gift to the earth.

This book also takes a look into the past and future: step back in time to discover what life was like in 1000 A.D., then step forward to 3000 A.D. where schools go virtual and robots do all the housework.

With lively information, and hands on activities, this book is your guide to the future. "The World Wide Web" by Christopher Lampton.

This book explains the history and uses of the web and develops such skills as navigating and locating sites of interest using search engines nd web indexes. Just imagine having the biggest library in the world at your fingertips. This library has more than just books, it features pictures, movies, cartoons and music. And it can be accessed instantly by anyone with a phone line and a computer. This is the World Wide Web.
