Adams rejects changing RCHS by-laws on principal selection

By: Perlina Anderkin

Very little progress was made Tuesday to facilitate the selection of a new principal at Rockcastle County High School by the newly elected school based decision making council then it looked for a while as if the council might get approval for a first reading of a consensus policy amendment when two proposals were presented to deal with the council not being able to reach a unanimous vote, during the special called meeting.

The fact that the vote for a new principal has to be a unanimous one, was the reason the last council at RCHS could not hire a principal. And in order to change the by-laws to a 4-1 majority the council has to vote unanimously for that as well. One of the proposals presented would dissolve the council after a limited time (four meetings or two months) if they could not agree on a principal and a second proposal for the vote reverting to a 4-1 majority after three attempts by the council agree unanimously on a candidate. The second proposal, presented by Jennifer Mattingly, vice chair of the council and an English instructor at the high school, was the proposal that finally got a mentor by parent member Cindy Anderkin to accept for a first reading. Calling her proposal a "safety net," Mrs. Mattingly said she had contacted numerous other school districts and an attorney for the state board of education before compiling the two page "Alternative to Consensus."

Mattingly told the council that the attorney for the state board said that Rockcastle was one of the few schools in the state without a backup plan in case the council was unable to reach a unanimous decision. The county's middle school passed a "safety net" provision last year. Mattingly's proposal, in essence, provides for three attempts by the council to unanimously agree on the recommendation of a principal to the superintendent and, failing that, the vote would revert to 4-1 majority. If this majority could still not be reached, then the council would be dissolved and new elections would immediately be held. Anderkin's motion was seconded by faculty member Adam Coleman and members Janet Wells and Mattingly voted yes. However, parent member Roy Adams voted no, saying he had no problem with changing the policy to a majority (4-1) vote on other issues but he felt the selection of a principal was too important to be decided by less than a unanimous vote. Adams did say he had no problem with the council being dissolved if they could not come up with the unanimous decision. However, Anderkin took issue with this reasoning, saying she didn't feel it was right that one member of the council held the power to cause the council to be dissolved. RCHS assistant principal Barry Noble, who was at the meeting, suggested the council table the issue of a

Indictments returned for rape, theft

The Rockcastle County Grand Jury handed down four indictments Friday for alleged crimes, ranging from rape to failure to pay child support.

Berry Ramsey, 33, of Livingston was indicted for a June 19th incident, in which she is accused of third degree rape for having sexual intercourse with a male less than 16 years old. Rockcastle Deputy Sheriff Danny Keeney is working the case.

A Berea man was indicted for allegedly stealing over $300 in surveillance equipment from the Kentucky State Police on June 4.

James Daren Sturgill, 33, of State Lick Road, is accused of driving off in a undercover police car, which was doing surveillance on a local home on June 4.

When police recovered the car, the equipment was missing. KSP Detective Allen Layne is investigating.

C.H. Brown, 38, of Lexington was indicted in conjunction with a June 5th case that began in Rockcastle County on Interstate 75.

Deputy Charles Gray began the pursuit after Brown drove off, after Gray stopped him because of reckless driving on Interstate 75. The chase ended in Corbin, when police

Local man charged

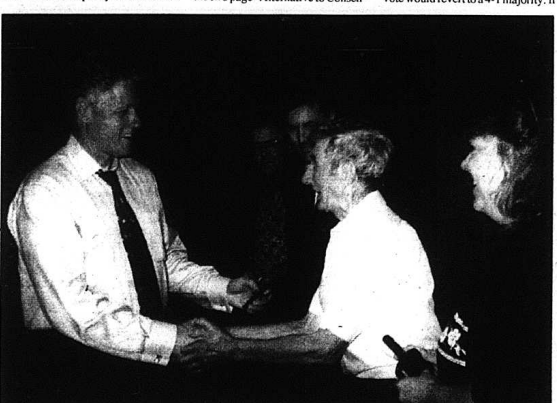

A Mt. Vernon man was arrested Saturday-afternoon after an incident at Rockcastle Villa Apartments.

David B. Hood, 32, was arrested by Mt. Vernon city police officer Mike Hamblin at 4:24 p.m., two and a half hours after the alleged incident.

According to Hamblin's report, Hood is accused of cutting Bryan Phillips, 24, of Mt. Vernon several times during the altercation.

Court delays action on building code ordinance

Brodhead resident Virginia Branscum told the Rockcastle County Fiscal Court on Tuesday that the court should adopt some type of building code for Rockcastle County in order to protect homeowners and to help the county move forward.

Mrs. Branscum's comments came during the court's regular monthly meeting.

At last month's meeting and on Tuesday the court did discuss a 1998 state law that may or may not require counties to employ a full-time building inspector for all new construction.

There was much confusion surrounding the matter including whether or not the court could exempt single dwelling houses.

The Rockcastle County Attorney Jeff Burdette called the attorney general's office during the meeting for his spin on the issue, and the court members agreed to table the ordinance once again.

Magistrate Bill McKinney said he wasn't clear on what a building inspector would even do, because all new buildings must pass electrical and plumbing test before they can be approved.

Burdette said Wednesday that because the state building code allows counties to exempt single dwelling homes there is no need for such an Ribbon Cutting Ceremonies were held at the new Rite-Aid on Richmond Street in Mt. Vernon on Monday morning. Mt. Vernon Mayor Karen King got the honors of the ceremonial task as Rite-Aid employees and others looked on. The new store is actually located at the junction of Richmond Street and the Hwy. 661 by-pass, across from McDonalds Restaurant. Those attending the ceremony are shown above, from left: Jenny Bray, Bank of Mt. Vernon, Trenea Burdette, BMV, Carol Bryant, BMV, Daryl Helton, Rite-Aid Asst. Manager, Kathy Roy, Rite-Aid Store Manager, David Jury, CEO, BMV, Mayor King, Jan Troxell, Rite-Aid Asst. Manager, Tina Hasty, Pharmacy Manager and E. Howard Saylor, former owner of Saylor's Pharmacy and now pharmacist with Rite-Aid, which bought his business during the move to their new store. The ribbon cutting was held in honor of the store's grand opening which runs through Sunday.

Travel was slowed to a crawl on U.S. 25 at Renfro Valley Tuesday afternoon after a large dump truck carrying a load of gravel was involved in a collision with a transfer truck. According to Mt. Vernon police chief Bill Mink the truck overturned and lost its' load when the transfer truck pulled out in front of him as he traveled north on 25.

First Baptist Youth work in Galveston, TX

Jennie Chionsini of Galveston, Texas doesn't know what she would do without the World Changers. "They are just wonderful people," she said. "They are so busy." At 83, Chionsini can't do the work that her deteriorating home needs. And on a fixed income, she can't pay anyone to do it either.

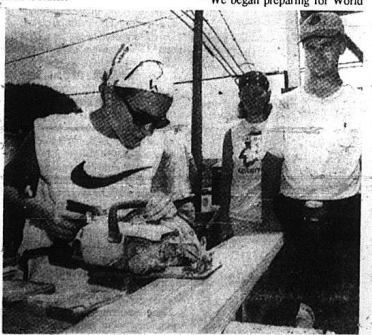

Enter the World Changers. The Southern Baptist mission group travels the country helping people just like Chionsini repair their old homes and reconstruct their porches. Participating in World Changers '99 were 16 members from First Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon.

"We began preparing for World Changes back in January when the youth went through interviews and participated in a seven week study on putting Christian faith into action," said Jesse Adkinson, FBC Youth Pastor. "Then we had to have some training on how to build porches, paint, etc. One of the men in our church, Chet Woods, spent several hours with our young people on a project here in the county helping us get ready for our work in Galveston."

The young people from Rockcastle County joined with 270 other youths from eight states to work on 22 homes in Galveston. For the participants, the work was a secondary reason for the mission trip. Many say the fellowship and a personal worship experience are why they chose World Changers as a summer activity. Mindy Bullock stated, "For me, God had a plan and a reason for me being on this mission trip. This was unlike anything I've ever experienced before. The hard work didn't bother anyone because you knew you were making a real difference in someone's life." According to Billy Haddix, "I had never done this type of work before. It was really hard and we were tired, but it was a life-changing experience." For Josh Hale, the theme, "We Do Home Work!" came to mean several things to the young people. "The first way we did home work

Points East

Last Wednesday Loretta and I both had the day off with nothing else to do than entertain ourselves. Just we two in the house and the first time we'd had absolute privacy in months.

Now we may be getting up in years, but we're still capable of looking at each other sort of moon eyed when we sit in the front porch and a gentle breeze is stirring and the birds are chirping their little breaks off on a cool summer morning. And that's exactly what we were doing when I finally broke the spell.

"Honey," I said as I caressed the back of her neck, "I think I know what we need to do."

She put her head over on my shoulder, tenderly held my hand and sort of dreamily said, "Tell me what you have in mind."

"Well that cabbage is gonna bust all too pieces if we don't do something with it real soon," I said. "I think we ought to make kraut today."

Loretta was silent for a moment before she let out a long, low sigh.

"You never cease to amaze me," she said as she gently shook her head in awe of my sudden inspiration.

In short order she was scalding jars and lids and I was lugging cabbage heads in from the garden. I had some that weighed over 15 pounds and when you have big ole heads like that you can afford to waste all those greenish leaves and strip them right down that white stuff in the middle so your kraut comes looking as lovely as fresh bloomed Easter lily.

Loretta took charge of the chopping. We have a food processor that I'd gladly pay a hundred bucks for even if I knew it would never be used for anything except chopping cabbage for kraut and cole slaw.

I point this out because I don't want you feeling like Loretta was doing all the work and bistering her hands on a cabbage chopper.

All you have to do is chunk the cabbage up, stuff it into the container, hit a button and kash-hoooonk, you've got cabbage chopped to perfection. I stuff the jars, because Loretta never does it to suit me even though she likes kraut and soup beans as much as I do. I'll tell you bout that in a minute but first let me explain how I make kraut.

First I fill the jar loosely almost to the top. Then I add a teaspoon each of pickling salt, sugar and white vinegar and one-third cup of water. Then I cram cabbage into the jar till the water rises to about half an inch below the brim. I screw a lid on rather loosely, rinse the jar and set it in a cool dark place to ferment for two weeks. I put it somewhere so the stink doesn't permeate the whole house because kraut can do some stinking while it's working.

Once it's finished working, I take the lids off and wash them real clean, fill the jar back up with water, screw the back on tight and cook it in a water bath canner — not a pressure canner — for about five minutes after it starts to boil. You want to make sure the jars are completely covered with water. Sit it out and let it cool and seal, and it will keep for years. In fact, I think it's better when it gets about three years old. We took our time and we were close all day, but it's hard to get moon eyed when you're up to your elbows in chopped cabbage. We quit when we reached 28 quarts. That's four canners full and it ought to last awhile.

Week-before last Loretta was helping run the Garrard County Fair and I wanted to enter a head of cabbage. She talked me out of it because, as she put it, kraut tastes better than a blue ribbon and my fair entry would be fit for anything after laying in an exhibit booth for several days. Loretta was actually worried that we didn't have enough cabbage in the garden to make as much kraut as she allowed me to get up to put up.

To make a long story short, I had thirty heads of cabbage in the garden when we started the kraut project and I still have twenty left. I'm still grieving over that blue ribbon.

Next year I aim to make kraut before the fair starts and enter a quart in the exhibit. In the meantime, stop by the house in a few weeks and we'll treat you to some blue ribbon kraut. If you want to stop by sooner, I'll give you a few heads of cabbage and you can make your own.

are being replaced by new and bigger things. But big and new is not necessarily better.

I believe in growth and changes when and if it is needed, but the unnecessary changes brought about by developers with only one thought in mind, "bigger is better and much more profitable" is not a way for the betterment of the community. The disappearing of the local drugstores that are being eaten up by the conglomerates of today's growth pattern is one example. The latest victim is Mt. Vernon. I say victim because I am seeing a town die as it gives way to growth. When the familiar "Saviors" drug-store on the corner of Newcomb and Richmond St. and the Rite Aid pharmacy on Richmond St. moved to a bigger and more up to date building on the outskirts of town it was a shock and blow to those of us who could walk to the local ones close by and get service day or night if it was needed. Or stop by on the way from the doctor or hospital, just up the street, to have their prescriptions filled and brought around while waiting. The Saylor drugstore was owned and serviced by our good friends and citizens of our county, and the pharmacists, Howard and Johnny, were on the same level of respect by their customers as their doctor was. A good pharmacist that knows his clientele and has their health records up to date is an invaluable asset to a community. The location is also important. The supposition that everyone drives is wrong. There are many people, older ones especially, that have no way of walking or paying someone to take them even though it is only a mile or so away.

These small businesses are necessary to keep a community alive and healthy. Wal-Mart has already devoured the little dress shops, small grocery stores, hardware stores and five and dime stores, places where people could meet old friends and purchase their needs from old acquaintances. Now it is a hassle and a trying experience to find anything in the oversize, overcrowded Wal-Mart when one does find what he has been looking for it is a copy of what is in every other Wal-Mart so variety of choice is long gone. Does anyone remember when a woman could go into a nice little dress shop and buy a dress that was different from the one her next door neighbor was wearing? Does anyone remember when you went to Somerset? Was shopping in one of the small dress shops where I could find quality clothes and know they would be different. Or remember going to grocery stores where you could hand the clerk a shopping list and it would be filled by the clerk so one didn't have to search for it before finding they were out of stock. And remember when there were clerks at every counter in the general merchandise department to help the customer with her purchases, and could buy four or five pair of curtains or linens that matched without waiting for another order to come in. So, big is not always better. It is a shame that we are losing those who remember the "olden days." Who would ever dream, back then, that a day would come when the grocery store and dress shop, $4.10, hardware, furniture, electrical supply and a wide variety of other things all the little things too numerous to mention would be rolled into one operation that was so big it needed wheelchairs and electric carts at the door to assist the infirm and elderly customers with their shopping? Granted, they are a help to the infirm or aging population, but they can also be a detriment to some of us when they block the aisles and hinder our shopping by blocking the merchandise and price tags. But this is progress?

Now lets go back and look at a few more changes that have affected our lives. School, for instance, has changed more than anything I know of since my school days some seventy-five years ago. Back in those days small schools were located in different sections of the town or county to accommodate the young people. I remember attending a small school for the middle grades with the high school close by located so the children could walk to school. Oh yes, children used their legs and propelled themselves to and from school safely. In "my day" when classes changed at the end of each period there was no running in the hall nor quick trips to the restroom for a cigarette break for it was against the rules and there was a monitor on each floor that kept order, her class they at least had the fundamentals of math to rely on in the future. My memory of Mrs. Boyd is one I will always treasure. If one did not make the grades she was failed and had to repeat the class, and parents did not sue the education system for picking on their child. Usually if a child was punished in school for a misdemeanor he was also taken to task for it at home. Learning to read and write began in the first grade and when we graduated we were ready for higher education or join the work force. Our teachers were respected and many of them became role models for us to try to live up to. My eighth grade math teacher was mine. She knew her subject well, and even though she was strict and demanded attention while she was presenting the lesson, she had on each floor that kept order, her class they at least had the fundamentals of math to rely on in the future. My memory of Mrs. Boyd is one I will always treasure.

Back then it was unheard of for a kid to be failed and had to repeat the class, and parents did not sue the education system for picking on their child. Usually if a child was punished in school for a misdemeanor he was also taken to task for it at home. Learning to read and write began in the first grade and when we graduated we were ready for higher education or join the work force. My three kids went most of their years to a one room school at Buffalo which was entirely different from mine but they also learned to read, write and do their "numbers" early. Their teachers were usually young but they were dedicated and performed their duty well. They didn't need remedial classes for they were

Old Things Pass Away Chapter 22

Sometimes it is easy to get things a bit mixed up when applying what we are reading to the things happening around us, especially when it is the Bible we are reading. "Old things are passed away Behold, all things are become new. II Cor. 5: 17." Of course we know the Apostle Paul was talking to the Church about the change in one's life when Christ takes control and he/she becomes a new creature in Christ Jesus. But it suddently brought to mind the material changes that have taken place in my life time. Old things have passed away and new ones have taken their place for sure. Whether they are for better or worse it is for us to decide. Oh no, I am not going to preach, condone, condemn or proselytize anyone's belief or faith in the higher power, I am only quoting a part of a verse that describes the reality of what we go through, and facing more or, in the next few years as old things we have been accustomed to taught the right way to begin with. Whether it was the teachers skill or our interest in their education they learned and retained enough of it to see them through college. They walked over a mile each way to school and seldom missed a day even when there was a big snow on the ground. In fact they loved to walk on the snow covered ground. They carried their lunch in little baskets and exchanged parts of it to others who had something different, often a "light bread" sandwich was exchanged for a biscuit with fried potatoes and gravy on it. They had fun in their playground and sports area. Their gym class was exercise play, toss the ball, hopscotch, skip the rope and anything else that was fun and exercised their muscles. The games were their own ideas, the teacher was their coach. They drank water drawn from the well with their own cup brought from home. The older kids would take turns helping take the younger ones. And all students learned many lessons from listening to the upper class recite theirs.

"Sweet n' Sour"

They took part in spelling bees when all the kids would line up in the front of the class and take turns at spelling difficult words.

When my children arrived home in the evenings there was work to be done before supper was ready. A snack of canned berries, peaches, milk and perhaps a leftover biscuit from breakfast had been eaten before their 'tasks had begun but a full supper of vegetables, cornbread and usually a cobbler pie was waiting for them and their appetites had not been curbed by the previous snack. After supper was play or study time. If it was studying or playing table games it was done by lamp light. If it was outside games the moon and stars furnished what light we needed. Visits to see a doctor was almost unheard of.

Today's standards of child welfare would cause these kids underprivileged, illiterate little kids from the hills of Appalachia that needed the advantages of a bigger school where lunches were served and gym games organized. And where kids learned at their own level and egos are more important than order and discipline. Also where reading, writing and arithmetic are almost a lost art. My children had a higher level of competition and more advance books but they feel they did quite well and wouldn't change places with anyone living in today's world of crime, out of control in schools, and teachers without the authority to discipline. They feel they were taught the important things; reading, writing and arithmetic and enough of the other subjects to prepare them for higher learning. At the same time they were learning about honesty, work standards and how to get along in the world from parents interested in their future. The books from our scant library, especially the big dictionary, Harvard Classics, and many of Mat's school books were well used. And lessons on honesty, a high standard of morals and speech that didn't contain foul language nor using God's name in vain was practiced in the home. Mat believed in living a life others preached about and set the example for his offspring to follow.

"What Saith The Scriptures"

Today we conclude our study of the high priesthood of Christ, by talking about the blessing from his work.

First, we have a perfect sacrifice for our sins. In Hebs 9:14 I read, "How much more shall the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without spot to God, purge your conscience from dead works to serve the living God?" Yes, the blood of Christ can cleanse the conscience, which animal blood could not! Jesus can save to the uttermost. His blood does not need any help or supplement from us. As the old song goes, "There is pow'r, pow'r, wonderful working power, in the blood of the Lamb."

Secondly, Jesus understands, he is merciful, and is ready to help us in time of need. "Wherefore in all things it behoved him to be made like unto his brethren, that he might be a merciful and faithful high priest in things pertaining to God, to make reconciliation for the sins of the people." Heb 2:17. Also in Heb 4:15-16, "For we have not an high priest which cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was in all points tempted like as we are, yet without sin. Let us therefore come boldly into the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need." Yes, the child of God can come boldly, confidently, not arrogantly, to the throne of grace to obtain grace to help in time of need.

Lastly, Jesus is a faithful high priest. His priesthood is unchangeable. "But this man, because he continueth ever, hath an unchangeable priesthood." Heb 9:24. This means, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, every week of every year. Our Lord is there to listen, help, and act in view of our prayers, supplications and intercessions to God. He can and will give us the help, aid when we need it, it is there if we ask. Thanks be to God!

Fairview News

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Hi to all readers. Another cloudy Monday morning but after all, "This is the day which the Lord hath made, we will rejoice and be glad in it." We need to be thankful, for all the great blessings of life, for we have so many.

Rev. Kale Connor of Berea is still filling in as our pastor at Fairview. He is a good servant of God and we enjoy his spiritual sermons so much. Our Sunday School attendance July 11th was 125 for which we are thankful. I am so proud of parents who bring up their children in the House of the Lord.

Our heart-felt sympathy goes out to those who have lost loved ones recently including Mrs. Eva Sturgill of the Scaffold Cane vicinity and Mr. Raymond Phillips of Madison County. Mrs. Sturgill had many friends and relatives who loved her. She was a good lady, and Mr. Phillips also had many friends. May God comfort the loved ones at this time.

Congratulations and best wishes to Jamaica Cummins and Mark Anthony Richards who were united in marriage Saturday afternoon, July 10, 1999 at the Fairview Baptist Church by the Rev. Mike Bryant. It was one of the most beautiful weddings that we have seen and Bro. Bryant did such a good job. We wish for Jamaica and Mark many years of happiness together. May God bless them always.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Cope visited Mrs. Mary Cope on Saturday. Mrs. Edith Mullins of Snidercelebrated her 99th Birthday, July 2nd. On Saturday, July 3rd. A host of relatives and friends met at her home to show their love and congratulations. A bountiful dinner was served on the front lawn. 65 relatives and friends enjoyed the evening. Aunt Edith is one of the most loving and kind and humble ladies I have ever known. Bless her heart. I hope the very best for her the rest of her life. We all love her dearly - God bless her.

Attending the funeral of Mrs. James Wattenbarger in Crossville, Tennessee, Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Rex Davidson and Gerald Alexander and son, Cody.

Visiting Mrs. Mary Cope this past Wednesday were her three daughters, Helen Powell and Christine Barnett of Berea and Jean Hayes of Winchester, and her grandson, Eddie Barnett and wife and two children of Fairview. Jean Hayes also spent the night with her mother.

Visiting Mrs. Hallie Alexander recently were Mrs. Wanda Ingram and Mrs. Shauna Barnett and little daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Alford Davidson of Campbellville spent the weekend at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rex Davidson.

Mr. and Mrs. R.J. Ridgell and Mr. and Mrs. Kelly McCuddy visited Mr. and Mrs. J.W. Lewis of Eubank on Sunday.

Please remember Church and Sunday School. Let's all try to be kind and loving. God bless you all.

Library News

By Lynda Mullins

The Summer Reading Program is winding down and ends July 15th here in the library. The program will continue until August 6th on the bookmobile. Book logs have been turned in, and though it is too early to tell who will win first prize for reading the most books, I can say that many of the kids in Rockcastle County have spent a great deal of time reading this summer. This is an accomplishment that many can be proud of, especially the children who read the books, the parents and grandparents who brought them to the library again and again, and the businesses in our community who have realized the importance of supporting a program that motivates children to read. The businesses I speak of deserve some recognition and include: McDonald's, Renfro Valley Entertainment, Richmond St. Eyecare, Bob's Carwash, and The Bank of Mt. Vernon.

The big night for finding out who wins first prize will be Thursday, July 15th at 6:30. The Arstief will include food, fun, and games. Everyone who signed up for the program and read at least one book will receive a prize. Don't miss out, be here at the library for the party!

Throughout the summer we have continued to have a great turnout of children for Story Hour. However, with school starting soon many of these children will be heading back to school or going for the first time. I want to encourage anyone who has a small child at home to bring them to Story Hour. We have a fun time reading stories, playing games and making simple crafts. These children are not expected to sit very still or be very quiet. My purpose in doing Story Hour is not to teach children their ABC's or colors, but to help foster a love of books and the library. Story Hour is every Tuesday at 1:00. Please come!

If you have an infant or very young child at home and feel that the crafts and games that are a part of Story Hour would be too much for your little one but would like to get them involved in library activities please give me a call at 256-2388. I am interested in developing a program for these very young children and would like to hear from you.

In closing, I would like to remind the teenagers in the community about our new teen section located in the front of the library. This space has a selection of fiction, non-fiction, Christian fiction and magazines for teens. Stop by and take a look. If we don't have a particular book or magazine that you are interested in we can certainly try to get it. All you have to do is ask!

McClures visit with Clinton, Patton and Jackson

United States President William Jefferson Clinton spoke to local resident and Kentucky Highlands board member William McClure during his visit to Kentucky last week. The notepad artist and craftsman asked the President if he would like to visit his Blue Springs home for dinner sometime. The President asked McClure if the offer would still be good after he was out of office and, of course, McClure said yes. McClure has had plenty of visitors to his home for dinner, including former Governor Kentucky Governor Breerton Jones. (Photo By Doug Brock)

Dear Editor,
I want to thank the new care taker at the Elmwood Cemetery for the good job they do. It doesn't look like a jungle anymore. I was over there and they were sweeping the stones off with a broom. We can't have to worry about our loved ones grave being torn up. It is great to have someone like them that care for the ones that have gone on. I know the flowers will not be gone or torn up for this family as a loving, caring family. I want to thank them again for the good job they are doing. And I hope we can keep them forever.
May God Bless them all and keep them.

Dear Editor:
I would like to take the time to thank the class of 1979 for a job well done at the reunion on Saturday, July 10. I hope to see you all at the next reunion and I am looking forward to talking to the people I didn't get a chance to talk to. I am hoping that the people that could not make it will be able to make it to the next one in the future. Thanks to you all.
Your friend,
Deborah Witt

Dear Mr. Evans,
My father, Vernon Taylor, is from the Quail section (Brohead) in Cincinnati, Ohio. He subscribes to the Mt. Vernon Signal, and never misses reading an issue from first page to last. He particularly enjoys your column, especially when names are mentioned of "old folks" that he knew, most recently he read the name of his maternal grandfather, Jacob Elder. As you are probably aware, the Taylor name is pretty common in this part of the country. Dad is the son of Bill and Lela (Elder) Taylor. My grandparents, great grandparents as well as many other relatives are buried in the Providence Cemetery.

My question to you is, would it be possible to purchase from you a compilation of "Quail News" only? If this is not possible, I thoroughly understand, but it would make his-day to receive such a gift! I guess you can take the boy out of the country.

Dad will be 78 years old in October. He is quite an amazing man in addition to being a devoted husband and devout Christian. He married my mother, Mae Arney in 1944. Around that time, he owned Taylor Broom & Mop Co., in Mt. Vernon. They soon moved from Brohead to Xenia, Dayton and then to Cincinnati, OH in the early 1950's. He retired from GE Aircraft Engines after 33 years and now owns and works full-time at his business of calibrating tools and gages. He is also an Elder in the Church of Christ and continues steadfastly in that work. In the last couple of years, his health has begun to deteriorate (diabetes and heart problems) so we are not sure how much longer he can keep up the pace. My brother, sister and I deeply admire and respect him.

I am hoping to hear from you even if this request is out of line. Either way, I am enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope for your convenience in answering. I appreciate your taking time to read this letter.

Sincerely,
Dana Moore

Legislative Update

By State Rep. Danny Ford

Parades, picnics, flags and fire- works are now memorable activities of the last 4th of July in this century. Among the memories we will take into the new millennium, I hope for all of us would be the reason for the great national celebration that began on July 4, 1776. That was the adoption of the Declaration of Independ- ence by the Continental Congress. The great document which created our democracy and changed the course of history reflects the strength and determination of a people who fought for a better life.

The flags of July 4, 1999 waved a special farewell to a century of more progress than our forefathers could have imagined. History may record these last one-hundred years as the beginning of the Space Age, the Age of the Atomic Bomb, the Space Age. History will record too, that on this pathway of life, we have continued to make our way through the trials and tribulations. Despite the political debates of the century, the rights and wrongs of individuals, or the mis- guided efforts of power, our strength and principles as a people remain our greatest asset.

As we wave goodbye to the 1900's, let us learn from the past but move forward stalwartly in service to all. With truth, love and natural law we may be guided past the corruptions of old Rome and toward a glorious new century. As we move toward celebra- tion of the first 4th of July of the next Century, let us stand tall in our af- firmations and be not afraid to speak truths. Let us share with each other the opportunity to work for peace and freedom within ourselves, within our world. For this world is not for one to lead and others to follow. It is for each of us to bring forth our talents and abilities in making the world a better place.

For every 4th was a happy and that the remainder of your summer is safe and joyous. To share your ideas and concerns, please continue to call me anytime, or you may leave a message toll-free at 1-800-372-7181.

County Attorney explains new boating laws

Before boaters hit the water this summer, they may want to study up on some of Kentucky's new boating laws, according to Rockcastle County Attorney Jeffrey Burdette.

"Over the last couple of years, our legislature has tried to make our waterways safer by enacting new laws," Burdette said.

Among other things, the laws require a minimum age for operating a boat, establish standards for pun- ishing those charged with driving boats while intoxicated, and set guid- lines for children to obtain safe-boating certificates.

The new laws establish these stan- dards:

- Any person younger than 12 years old cannot operate a personal watercraft or motorboat with more than 10 horsepower.

- Those convicted of operating a boat while having a blood-alcohol content of 0.10 percent or more can be charged with drunken boating. Drunken boaters can be fined $100 to $250 for first offenses, $250 to $500 for second offenses and $500 to $1,000 and/or up to 30 days in jail for third offenses. A boater who refuses a breathalyzer test can be fined.

- Beginning this year, children ages 12 to 17 will not be allowed to operate watercraft of more than 10 horsepower unless they have safe-boating certificates or are accompa- nished by someone at least 18 years old or someone who has a safe-boating certificate. A safe-boating certificate can be obtained by taking safety classes. A guide to responsible boat- ing and a study manual for the test are published by the state's Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources.

- The 10-horsepower restrictions include most personal watercraft such as Jet Skis and Waverunners.

Joe Husband, Amy Jones, Jessie Evans participate in Summer Student Leadership Initiative Program.

Local students participate in leadership camp

Students from six counties participated in this year's Summer Student Leadership Initiative Program (SLIP) sponsored by Forward in the Fifth, a local education fund headquartered in Berea. The four-day workshop, held on the Berea College campus, gave 18 students an opportunity to build leadership and team skills.

Three students, who will be freshmen in August, attended from Rockcastle County. They included: Joe Husband, Amy Jones and Jessie Evans. Husband and Evans participated in a community service activity in Berea. Their experience gave them new skills that they can put to use on community service and other activities in Rockcastle County.

"I saw a great deal of leadership potential within this group and during the week they demonstrated exceptional skills in team work and communication," said Lisa Gay, a Forward in the Fifth staff member who helped with the week's activities.

Summer SLIP is sponsored by Forward in the Fifth and the Prudential Youth Leadership Institute. It is a part of Forward in the Fifth's Student Entrepreneurship Center. Local affiliates of Forward in the Fifth have sponsored SLIP locally in eight counties since 1996 and the program will gradually be expanded to other counties in the region.

Forward in the Fifth works in 39 eastern and southern Kentucky counties to bring school and communities together to ensure all children have the educational opportunities necessary to live full and productive lives.

Graves named U.S. National Award winner in Mathematics

DeJon Graves, who will be in the seventh grade at R.C.M.S., won the following awards at the final awards ceremony on May 21st, 1999: highest average for the year in math for the Enterpriser's team, highest average in science for the year for the Enterpriser's team, 4.0 grade average for the entire year, honor roll every seven weeks, participation in the Challenge Gifted Program, participation in the Cumberland College Science Fair, music award and V-Club member award.

The United States Achievement Academy announced that DeJon Courtney Graves of Brodhead has been named a United States National Award Winner in Mathematics.

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10% of all American middle school students.

DeJon, who attends Rockcastle County Middle School, was nominated for this national award by Mrs. Brenda Ballinger, a teacher at the school.

DeJon will appear in the United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA

winner upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability and recommendation from a teacher or director.

DeJon is the son of Loyal and Nelson Graves of Brodhead and the grandson of Alene and Preston Parrett of Brodhead and the late Mary Graves and Charles Graves of Brodhead.

Volunteer donors asked to save lives on July 15

Before blood is available for patients in Central and Eastern Kentucky, a volunteer donor must first give the gift of life. The Rockcastle County Hospital joins Central Kentucky Blood Center in encouraging local residents to help our community by giving blood on Thursday, July 15 from 12:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. in CKBC's bloodmobile located in the hospital parking lot.

"When you give blood, you help people in your own community who are battling life-threatening illnesses," said Loreta Robinson, spokesperson for Central Kentucky Blood Center. "There is no substitute for a volunteer blood donor."

Nearly 250 units of blood are needed daily for Central and Eastern Kentucky Hospital patients. A heart surgery patient may need five units of blood, a trauma victim may require 50 units, and an organ transplant recipient may use up to 200 blood components.

While it is estimated that nearly 85 percent of Americans will give blood during their lifetime, only five percent of those eligible to give blood actually do. The next person whose life depends on the generosity and civic spirit of a volunteer donor may be your neighbor, your family member or you.

Give blood on July 15. All donors will receive a free gift. For more information, call Noretta Thompson, blood drive chairperson at 606-256-2195.

City Council discusses privilege licenses

A discussion on new rates for privilege licenses was one of the main topics discussed at Monday night's regular meeting of the Mt. Vernon City Council.

Mayor Karen King told the council there was a big disparity between what businesses were paying and that some categories, such as restaurants, were not even covered by the present ordinance, only concession stands. King gave council members a revised rate schedule for the licenses but Councilman Joe Mullins objected to the over 140 rates, saying he believed they could be grouped into fewer categories making billing and collection simpler for the city clerk.

The discussion on revising privilege licenses legale license rates led to one about the fact that Renfro Valley is not paying any license fee for two restaurants, a motel and the two barns in the valley.

Mayor King said she had talked with Warren Rosenthal, owner of the valley and the businesses in question, and had been told that they had never received a bill. Councilman Jackie Renner immediately made a motion to bill Renfro for the privilege licenses but later withdrew the motion with the understanding that the council would move quickly on setting a new rate schedule.

Action on the new rates was postponed to another meeting.

Police business took up a good deal of the council meeting with Chief

Bill Mink making a report on several items.

The matter of poor reception by city police officers from the 911 center was brought up by Chief Mink who told the council it was because the 911 office was using a 25 watt antenna when the city had been using a 100 watt base when they were dispatching their own calls plus the antenna was now mounted on the courthouse instead of the water tank on Sand Springs Road. If the city's radios have to be reprogrammed to run through the larger watt base, the cost will be about $300 each. The council decided to look into letting the county use their 100 watt radio to dispatch city calls.

The matter of the city police patrolling outside the city limits was also discussed with a motion by councilwoman Clarice Kirby not to allow this practice nor being a second.

Chief Mink told Mrs. Kirby that while the city police had arrest powers throughout the county, they had to be outside the city limits at times to get from one point to the other since the city's limits are not squared off.

On question by councilman Jackie Renner, Chief Mink said that three unmarked patrol cars will be getting official decals as soon as money becomes available from forfeiture of confiscated money and property.

The council received the 97 audit report and will take action on it at the next meeting and Mayor King told the council that city employees will be getting a 3 1/2% raise, retroactive to July 1st. This rate increase will be 5% when the ordinance can be amended at a later date.

RHRCC reminds everyone to play it safe this summer

The sun is shining; the kids are out of school and plans are underway for a great summer vacation. However, it is important to remember to play it safe when it comes to popular summer activities. Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center, Inc. (RHRCC) wants everyone to have a safe and happy summer by knowing the facts and protecting themselves.

For instance, this year alone, the American Cancer Society estimates that over 200,000 people will be diagnosed with melanoma, the most serious form of skin cancer. The number of people with melanoma has more than doubled in the past two decades, increasing about four percent a year.

"The sun's rays are strongest from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., so don't spend much time in the sun during those hours," said Dr. Karen B. Saylor of RHRCC. "Also, protective clothing, such as sunglasses and hats, and sunscreen with an SPF 15 or higher are a must. Be sure the sunscreen protects against both UVA and UVB rays."

Special attention should also be paid to the Ultraviolet (UV) Index when planning outdoor activities. The UV Index describes the next day's likely levels of exposure to UV rays on a zero to 15 scale. While you always should take precautions against overexposure, you should be especially careful when the index predicts exposure levels of moderate (5 on the scale) or above. The local paper or local news station will provide this important information.

"In addition to protecting your skin from the sun and heat, you also should protect yourself from dehydration by drinking plenty of water," Dr. Saylor said. "Don't rely on soda or juice to quench your thirst because sugar and caffeine speed up the process of dehydration. "Also, don't wait until your are thirsty to get something to drink. Remember, being thirsty is one of the first signs of dehydration."

During the summer, it is necessary to take precautions not only in the sun, but also on the water. More than 80 percent of all boating fatalities occur as a result of drowning because the boater was not wearing a life jacket or personal flotation device, according to the U.S. Coast Guard. Also, the National Center for Health Statistics reports that drug or alcohol use is involved in about one half of all accidents and deaths associated with water recreation.

Here are some tips to keep you safe in the water while operating a personal watercraft:

• Remember to always wear a life jacket or other personal flotation device;

• Wear proper riding gear including wet suits, goggles, sunglasses, gloves and footwear; and

• Never operate a personal watercraft under the influence of alcohol. Alcohol slows the body's reflexes, which can be especially dangerous in an emergency situation. Alcohol use is involved in about one half of all accidents and deaths associated with water recreation.

It is important to remember that infants and young children drown in as little as two inches of water," said Dr. Saylor. "In 1997, 53 people drowned in Kentucky, many of them children."

"A child never should be left alone in a pool, near a bucket filled with water, or even in a bathtub."

Residential pools should be enclosed with a fence at least five feet high. Wading pools and hot tubs should be covered when not in use.

Finally, as you pile into the car for that long-awaited vacation, don't forget to buckle up. In 1998, 1,700 children died in car crashes - six out of 10 were unrestrained. And, despite the fact that it is illegal in every state, 40 percent of children ride unbuckled every day, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

"Buckle up before every car trip, whether you are preparing for a long drive to the beach or a short trip to the grocery store," Dr. Saylor said. "And make sure young children are placed in car safety seats that are installed properly."

Rockcastle Hospital and Respiratory Care Center reminds you to follow these tips to have a safe and happy summer.

KSP offers tips for the road for summer travelers

The 100 Days of Summer can be the best days of the year, but they can also be some of the most dangerous.

In an effort to bring greater awareness to crime prevention and safety this summer, the Kentucky State Police's 100 Days of Summer campaign offers citizens practical tips on how to keep themselves, their families and their property out of harm's way.

This week's topic is Safety On the Road.

As you hit the road to your favorite destination this summer, the KSP offers these suggestions for a safe and secure trip:

• Be aware of your surroundings. Don't talk about your travel plans or routes in the presence of strangers.
• Try not to carry large sums of cash. Use traveler's checks instead.
• Keep records of traveler's checks numbers and credit card numbers and have the numbers to call in case your checks or credit cards are lost or stolen.

• If your car breaks down, raise the hood and attach a white flag to the antenna or door handle. If someone stops to assist, stay in your locked car and ask them to call the police or a garage. If you must leave your car, keep all passengers together.

• Do not stop to assist stranded motorists. Use your cell phone or go to the nearest telephone and call for help. The Kentucky State Police toll-free emergency hotline is 1-800-222-5555.

• If you think someone may be following you, drive to the nearest service station, restaurant or business and call the police. If you feel it is unsafe for you to get out of your car, sound your horn and flash your lights to draw attention to the situation.

• Males are advised to carry their wallets in an inside pocket or front trouser pocket or to carry their money separately in a money clip.

• Females are advised to carry their purses under their arms.

• Do not let your guard down when stopping in a rest area. Lock your vehicle and be aware of your surroundings. Do not exit the car if you notice suspicious individuals and activities at the rest stop.

was when we went through our Bible study and had homework to do each week. Another way was when we were actually working on people's homes, fixing them up and repairing them. The final way was the most important and that was working on our own eternal home."

World Changers began in 1990 when 137 young people, representing the Southern Baptist North American Mission Board, descended on Bristolville, Tennessee. They painted, rooled, cleaned, scraped, made new friends, and changed their world. Since then, the number of young people serving through World Changers has grown to over 68,000. Homes and lives have been changed in more than 250 communities and 10 foreign countries. World Changers will continue their work in the year 2000, as thousands of young people pick up ladders, brushes, hammers, and sleeping bags and lay down their lives to DO HOME WORK!

For the mission team from First Baptist Church, their experience was best summarized by Mrs. Vickie Arnold, one of their adult chaperones. "World Changers was just awesome."

Josh Hale, Anna Varner of Natchitoches, La., and Jason Morton of Tuscaloosa, AL, work together on a home in Galveston, Texas as members of World Changers.

Mindy Bullock was a member of the World Changers '99 work crew called the "Drips and Runs".

Jesse Adkinson and Jess Mariott (crew chief) with their work crew, "The Glueless," upon completion of their job.

Michael is the son of Bryan and Cefina Carroll of Berea. His grandparents are Margaret Burdine and the late Billy Burdine of Livingston and Elmo and Edith Carroll of London. Great grandparents are Nora Burdine of Livingston and Virginia Carroll of Corbin.

Happy Birthday to someone tall, you make everyone else feel very small.
You are very tall, make no mistake
You can't kill a turkey, not even a jake.
So as you turn another year older the weather will sure turn a lot colder.
So just remember from all your pals
and also remember you can't kill the fowls,
so have a fun day its yours to enjoy you're getting to be a very "old boy".

Agricultural News

By: Warden Alexander, FSA Director

ACREAGE REPORTING
DEADLINE IS HERE!

Farm acreage reports of crops are now being taken for the current year. Producers are encouraged to report acreages of crops for history, disaster programs and loan deficiency programs. The final reporting date for all crops, except small grains and tobacco is July 15th. After th final reporting date, a large reporting fee will apply. REMEMBER: JULY 15TH IS THE DEADLINE AND THAT IS TODAY!

LOAN DEFICIENCY PAYMENTS

Producers who have wheat, corn or soybeans planted on their farm for 1999 may be eligible for a loan deficiency payment (LDP). The LDP is the difference between the loan rate for the applicable crop and the posted county price for a particular date. Loan rates for 1999 are as follows: Wheat - $2.44; Corn - $2.00; Soybeans - $5.42

In order to be eligible for the LDP producers must meet the following requirements:

1. have a crop acreage report on file for 1999 for the report is not on file by the deadline of July 15th a late filed crop report can be taken if the producer pays for a late filed charge
2. the farm must have an active AMTA contract

3. the crop must be harvested before signing applicable forms
4. producers must NOT have lost beneficial interest in the commodity
5. producers may choose which day they wish to complete the necessary forms in order to receive the loan deficiency payment

Producers need to check with the office as harvesting of crops begins or is completed if they are interested in obtaining a LDP payment.

FARM OWNERSHIP & ADDRESS CHANGES

Producers should keep the FSA office informed of any changes in their farm records. If you have purchased or sold land, or if you have a new address, please inform the office. A copy of the deed or sales contract is required to make ownership changes. Remember: our records are only as current as producers inform the office.

KENTUCKY JAMESTOWN NOTES

Returns are expected from all counties by February 15, showing the exact amount that has been subscribed to the $40,000 fund sought by the Kentucky Jamestown Exposition Commission. It will be just seventy days from the date before the opening of the Exposition on April 26, and the Commission has announced that it must hear from each county by the middle of the month. Much interest has been taken in the canvass which started under the name: "Kentucky Jamestown Week" and it is believed a sufficient fund has been subscribed to erect a State Building and make a handsome display of Kentucky's products and resources.

Ballard county was the first to turn into the State Commission its entire pro rata of $157.93. Chas. Wickliffe is the vice-chairman of the Division of Finance for Ballard county. The Fiscal Court of the county raised the entire portion.

Clark County has exceeded the quota of $309.87 asked as its subscription for the State fund. B.R. Jonette, of Winchester, is the county chairman and the sum which was collected by popular subscription was turned over to the Commission through Judge J.M. Benton, a member of the Board. There were over 100 subscribers to the fund in Clark County.

Mercer and Montgomery counties are among those which have announced the raising of their entire quotas. W.W. Stephenson is chairman of the Mercer County committee and H. Clay McKee is in charge of the canvass in Montgomery county.

A unique plan has been adopted by the Garrard county committee to raise its share of the fund sought by the State Commission. John M. Ferra, of Lancaster, is vice-chairman of the Division of Finance for Garrard county. A musical will be given at the opera house in Lancaster on February 14th in order to raise the county's share of the fund. Home talent gave a performance in the opera house at Earlington and also at Madisonville to help secure funds for this movement.

One of the most active county committees is that of Adair county which is headed by Prof. W.K. Ashbill, of Columbia. The campaign for funds in Davies county is being conducted under the auspices of the Business Men's Association of Owensboro, with Geo. H. Cox, secretary of the organization, in charge of the committee.

Geo. L. Payne is chairman of the Franklin county committee which already has a goodly sum in Frankfort and vicinity to assist in bringing about the erection of a State Building and the making of an exhibit the World's Fair.

Prof. C.J. Norwood, of the State Geological Survey has the Mineral Exhibit well under way and cases for the display are now being made. The Mineral Exhibit will probably be the first to be shipped to Norfolk.

All logs to be used in the construction of the fort of Boonesboro Kentucky's Building at the Exposition, have been secured and the first shipment will be made during the week of February 10.

An unusually attractive Forestry Exhibit is to be made by Kentucky for the Exposition. This is being collected by Col. M.H. Crump, of Bowling Green, Director of the Forestry Exhibits for the Exposition.

What is being done in Rockcastle? Ed.

Some Deli-Type Sandwiches Layered With Fat and Sodium Traps

By: Hazel Jackson
County Extension Agent for Family and Consumer Science

Although deli-style sandwiches provide a quick lunch fare, some traditional ingredients often are fat and sodium traps. The classic tuna sandwich is among the worst fat and sodium offenders. Vegetarian sandwiches also often contain unnecessary fat.

A tuna salad sub can contain up to 60 percent of the fat and over 50 percent of the daily sodium quotient. Vegetarian sandwiches can be a mixed bag of healthful and high-fat ingredients. Tomatoes, sprouts, cucumbers and onions are healthy; but avocado and regular cheese and dressings are fat traps. Eat high-fat foods in moderation.

To reduce fat content, ask for reduced or no-cheese, and low-fat dressing on the side.

You can reduce the fat content of a chicken salad sandwich by asking for an all-white meat mixture, which contains less fat than dark meat. Also request low-fat mayonnaise on the side.

Low-fat alternatives include turkey breast and lean roast beef or lean ham. Another way to reduce fat intake is by substituting mustard, horseradish, reduced-fat mayonnaise, or fat-free dressing for regular mayonnaise or sauces. Skip potato chips, or ask for a small portion. Avoid croissants.

To lower sodium intake, avoid processed meats such as bacon, corned beef and ham. Many processed meats have an extremely high sodium content, supplying up to 1,000 milligrams or more, which is almost half the daily requirement. Ask for unsalted or low-sodium meats. Traditional pickles and potato chips also add sodium.

It's always good to increase the fiber by requesting extra lettuce, tomatoes and onions, or asking for whole-grain or whole-wheat bread. Eat a six-inch sub with a cup of soup or fresh fruit instead of a foot-long sub. If the deli has a salad bar, stuff a pita pocket with fresh vegetables and low-fat dressing.

For further information on fat or sodium, contact the Extension Office, at 256-2403.

Farm News

Multiflora Roses

Multiflora roses were once promoted to be the living fence as well as an ideal wildlife cover. Many farmers are finding that fields infested with this plant rapidly become a wildlife habitat as gateways grow closed by the living fence. Exaggeration, maybe, but when left uncontrolled, multiflora roses will creep out from fence rows, taking acres of farm land out of production.

Controlling multiflora roses seems to be the big problem. When cut off by grubbing, bush-hogging or a mowing machine, they come back. The key is in killing the root system. Chemicals are now available to control this problem with little danger of affecting other crops.

During late summer is an ideal time to control this noxious weed. The key to success is to apply chemicals to actively growing leaves. In our area, this means applying treatments before Japanese beetles have stripped the plant.

Chemicals like Roundup and Crossbow, when applied to the leaves, will trans-locate to the root system, killing the whole plant. Approximately 10-14 days after application the results will be seen.

For large areas, farm sprayers may be needed. However, on small groups or single plants out in the field, small hand sprayers are fine. Mixing 2.5 ounces of Roundup per gallon of water then applying complete coverage of the foliage along with 4-6 hours without rain is all that's needed.

Crossbow has the advantage of killing only broad leaf plants without killing the grass in treated areas. Mixture for Crossbow is about 1.5 to 2 ounces per gallon of water; however, continuous agitation is required. Farmers wishing to control this weed are better equipped with new chemicals than in years past.

For more information on multiflora rose control, call the Extension Office at 256-2403.

The Family Room

By Dr. Don Whitbread

Every Family is Functional in Some Way

"I guess I grew up in a dysfunctional family," Norm admitted. (All characters are fictitious.) Norm and his wife, Vera had come for counseling with their sixteen-year-old daughter Diane, who had been sneaking out of the house at night and not doing well at school. They had tried everything they knew, and finally Diane's school counselor suggested they talk to a family counselor who could help all of them.

Norm and Vera each had his or her own way of handling Diane: Vera screamed at her, and Norm said nothing. After they had talked several times, Norm and Vera began to realize that she was parenting Diane was not working. We began to look for alternatives.

At one point Norm asked, "I know I ought to speak up more and tell Diane what her limits are, but I just can't. Why not?"

"Norm," I replied, "you probably learned to be a father from watching your father. What kind of a parent was your father?"

"Well, he never had much to say," Norm admitted, "so I guess that's were I got it."

"And what about your mother?" I questioned. I had noticed that Norm said very little about his mother.

Norm hesitated before answering. "Mom was a screamer," he replied,

"especially when she was drunk."

"Did she drink a lot?" I asked.

"She got drunk every weekend," he answered quietly.

"Your mother was an alcoholic," I said.

"Well, she would never admit it, but I've thought that myself for a long time," he replied. "But nobody ever talked about Mom's drinking. I tried to talk to my Dad once, and he pretended not to hear me. Dad would never say anything to Mom when she was drinking. He'd just sit in his chair reading the paper or get up and leave as if nothing was happening. I guess I learned not to hear me."

"There were a lot of problems in your family, Norm," I agreed, "but I bet there were some good things that you got from your parents. Every family has both dysfunctional and functional ways of operating. A functional family is one in which the emotional and physical needs of the family are taken care of - at least a little bit. Where did you get your love and acceptance growing up, Norm?"

He thought a minute. "Sometimes from Mom when she wasn't drinking, from Dad when he occasionally took me fishing, and from Grandma who lived down the street and baked me cookies. I used to love to go to her house."

Even though Norm grew up in a
