Library News

By Geraldine Robbins

Thanks to everyone who helped to make the library's part of the Bittersweet Festival a huge success. The weather was perfect. Even if we did get a little rain, this was much better than rain. A lot of our old friends came by and we met some new people that had not been to the festival before. I especially want to thank my staff members for helping me at the booth and in setting up the displays. A large number of our used books was sold, especially the westerns. We had two boxes of these and they were sold as soon as we set them on the table. There was a good selection of books this year since we had pulled a lot of duplicates off the shelves. A good number of these were by popular authors.

Carol has a new autumn display at the library. She does a great job with preparing creative displays suitable for different seasons and occasions.

Some in and see her handwork, and perhaps you would like to check out some of the books on display.

During the week of October 17-23, we will be celebrating "Teen Read Week." The theme is "Read Around the World...Celebrate!" We are continually adding new books and magazines for the teenagers in their special section. We would like to see them being read! Encourage teens to come in and look at the materials available for them.

The weather will soon be getting cooler and the outside work will slow down. This is always a good time to visit the library to get a good book to read, borrow a video or audio book, spend some time on the computers or just visit with us. Perhaps you would like to read the daily paper or books through the magazines.

Some of the new fiction books

now available are:

Yesterday by Fern Michaels.....A sultry South Carolina landscape is the backdrop for a story of four childhood friends who must relinquish cherished memories of the past to embrace the painful truth that will change their lives forever. With the event of her wedding to a wealthy local man, Wyn Archer, Callie Parker promised to be a delightful whirl of luxury, beginning with their wedding. But her wedding would not be complete without her three friends from childhood.

On the eve of her wedding, Callie is involved in a terrible accident that leaves her a coma. On the arrival of the three friends, they are unprepared for the shocking truths that surface in the wake of the crash. They soon discover how little they know of their beloved yesterday and one woman's darkest secret threatens to tear them apart.

Second Wind by Dick Francis.....The catastrophic power of a giant hurricane can raise coastal winds thirty feet high and blow through houses at devastating speeds. For TV meteorologist Perry Stewart, however, such predictions are usually hypothetical, as he chiefly predicts periods of drizzle with bursts of heavier showers and sunshine to follow. Stewart has profound knowledge among forecasters by no physical baptism of major storms until...a fellow forecaster offers him a ride in a small airplane on a Caribbean hurricane chase. But a frightening accident teaches Stewart more secrets than wind speeds and back home in England he faces threats and danger as deadly as any thing nature can devote.

The Lamorna Wink by Martha Grimes.....Just bring me a pot of poison, So says Melrose Plant as he sits gloomily in a tearoom in Cornwall. Seemingly by a remarkable young man named Johnny Wells. The gloom (and the pot of poison) is all for Agatha, the aunt who has followed Melrose to Bitchley Village, where he had planned to escape his Long Piddington lethargy by renting an old house high on a rocky promontory overlooking sea. Stewart House looks like the set of a romantic film of the forties or fifties, but Melrose is unprepared for the onslaught of memories it triggers. In examining his own past, he is caught up in the tragic past of the Bitchley family.

Check the library's web page for information about library happenings. The Director Corner and the Children page is updated regularly with dates of coming events and new books now at the library. The address is www.users.kh.net/~repl/index.html.

abused her may marry a man who also vents his rage at her. The man whose father abused him may grow up to be an abuser. Thus, the cycle of violence is continued from one generation to another.

Anger can cause divorce. Many couples come to me for marriage counseling. For some of these, they are too late in seeking help. Why? Because the anger between them has built to such an extent that the relationship cannot be repaired. When one spouse says hurtful things out of anger, he cannot take these back. Even though he may apologize, the damage has been done. The other spouse cannot forget what has been said. As the anger builds over time, the damage can become irreparable. Anger can split families and leave children disabled, emotionally and physically. Alcohol and other drugs make the problem worse, but they are not the cause. The root cause of many family problems is anger.

What can be done? One can learn to manage one's anger in more productive ways. The feeling of anger is OK, but hurting someone because of that anger is not. Anger can be channeled into physical activity. (The next time you become angry try running until you are exhausted and see what happens to the anger.) Also, couples can learn to deal with the problem at hand and not bring old anger into the discussion.

Sometimes "emotional surgery" is necessary. With the help of a counselor, the angry person can discover and heal the old wounds that cause the anger.

Being angry is not a license to hurt someone else. Do not let anger kill your family.

"What Saith The Scriptures"

In 1 Pet. 2:5&9 we read, "Ye also, as lively stones, are built up a spiritual house, an holy priesthood, to offer up spiritual sacrifices, acceptable to God by Jesus Christ. But as a chosen generation, a peculiar people, that shall show forth the praises of him who hath called you out of darkness into his marvelous light." In this passage Peter is affirming the priesthood of every believer. For the book was addressed to the Christians scattered abroad, chap. 1. In the N T order, there is not a separate group of the saints that serve as priest for the rest, as was in the O T. (and as seen in churches of men). Now every child of God has the exalted privilege of becoming a part of the holy priesthood, this royal priesthood. Priests are those that offer sacrifices to God. Now we offer up spiritual sacrifices today under N. practice, by Jesus Christ our high priest. The Hebrew writer put it that this was about these spiritual sacrifices. "By him therefore let us offer the sacrifice of praise to God continually, that is, the fruit of our lips giving thanks to his name. But to do good and to communicate forget not. For with such sacrifices God is well pleased." Heb 13:15-16. We become a part of this priestly order when we believe and obey the gospel of Christ. Have you turned to the Lord Jesus Christ in faith and obedience? The reward of heaven awaits those who do so!

The Family Room

By Dr. Don Whitehead

What is the number one problem facing American families?

Part 2

In last week's column I reviewed suggestions that others have made as to what is the number one problem facing American families. Suggestions have included alcohol and other drugs, divorce, violence, moral decline, poverty, lack of education and abortion.

This week I want to tell you what I think is the most important problem families face. From my experience as a husband, father, minister and counselor, I think it is ANGER. Specifically the problem is the inability of adults to handle or manage their anger.

It is important to acknowledge that anger is a normal emotion. Everyone feels angry at times. Anger is a normal part of family life. Normal anger is not a problem as long as it is handled well. It is possible to express anger without blaming or hurting a spouse or child.

An excess of anger that hurts others is the biggest problem with which families have to deal. Where does this anger come from? Some of it comes from the past. An adult who was mistreated as a child may have anger built up from that abuse or neglect. Some anger comes from insecurity and jealousy. The husband who imagines that his wife is seeing someone else may become very angry. Anger also comes from hurt. If a person is hurt enough, he or she may become angry. Anger can also originate in the continued frustration of being poor and never being able to escape that poverty.

What does anger do to families? Anger causes violence against children. An angry, out-of-control parent may verbally, physically or sexually abuse his children. While physical abuse gets more attention, verbal abuse is every bit as painful. It hurts to hear Mommy say, "You are a good-for-nothing just like your father."

Anger also causes domestic violence. The woman whose father

Brodhead hires new police officer

By: Richard Anderkin
The Brodhead City Council hired a new police officer during the regular monthly meeting of the council on Monday night.

Willie Skeens, 21, of Lancaster was hired by the council on a temporary basis, to replace officer Greg Richards, who was fired by the council this past summer.

Skeens, who is a native of Pike County, told the council he had moved to Lancaster with his mother several months ago after she took a job with the Lancaster Police Department.

The council discussed at length how exactly to employ Skeens and how long he should be put on probation.

The council agreed that Skeens should be put on at least three months of probation and then have his job performance reviewed after that.

The council agreed that Police Chief Joe Buswell would be in complete control of Skeens, but councilman Larry Doyle instructed Buswell to bring any complaints about Skeens to the council.

"We'll see what he is made of, some people can't be a police officer, so we'll have to see," the chief said.

Skeens, who had already been interviewed by most of the council members, had a short interview on Monday night.

Brodhead fire chief Brian Buswell asked Skeens if he wanted to be a police officer so he could "run up and down the road with his lights and sirens on and be all gung ho."

Skeens, who has no experience as a police officer, said that he wanted to be a police officer so he could help the community. "I will be as good a police officer as people will let me be," Skeens said.

Brodhead will pay Skeens $1,000 per month and $175 for health insurance.

If Skeens works out during his probation period, the city will send him to Eastern Kentucky University for 16 weeks of training.

Councilman Curt Brown suggested that if Skeens worked out he be placed on some type of employment contract that would pay back so much of his school costs for every month he worked.

Brodhead man arrested

A Brodhead man was arrested Monday and charged with "wanton endangerment in the first degree and criminal mischief in the first degree."

Chris Newland, 26, of Brodhead was arrested by Brodhead Police Chief Joe Buswell, after Newland fired shots into his dad's truck on School Street.

According to Buswell's complaint, Newland also threatened his parents during the 2 p.m. altercation.

Newland is currently being held in the Rockcastle County Detention Center. He is scheduled to be arraigned on October 18.

Ribbon cutting ceremonies were held Monday for the Brodhead Family Health Care Center in Brodhead. The center is located on Main Street next to Citizens Bank. ## KACO tells court they will not pay for legal defense

By: Richard Anderkin
The Rockcastle County Fiscal Court was told on Tuesday that they would not receive any help from their insurance company in paying for legal representation if the county was sued for posting the Ten Commandments in the courthouse.

Joe Greathouse, who represents the Kentucky Association of Counties, told the court that it was KACO's position to follow a 1980 U.S. Supreme Court ruling that banned the posting of the Ten Commandments in public buildings, such as courthouses and schools.

Greathouse said that the American Civil Liberties Union had already filed suit against a couple of counties in the state for posting the Ten Commandments and that KACO was watching the outcome of those suits very closely.

"We think you should be allowed to post them if you want to," Greathouse told the fiscal court.

But Greathouse told the court that because of the 1980 ruling and the fact that the laws suits now in progress does not call for any money damages, KACO would not pay attorney fees for the counties it represents in the state. Greathouse said that county attorneys should be able to handle the type of suits now being filed.

The Ten Commandments are currently posted in Rockcastle Judge-Executive Buzz Carlotis' office, but not in any of the hallways in the courthouse.

When asked if Carlotis would treat all religious organizations the same and give them the same opportunities to post their beliefs in the courthouse, Carlotis said that he would not allow that.

Carlotis basically said that he would treat those associated with the Ten Commandments different than other religious groups.

The court also received two petitions concerning roads in the county. The first was presented by Jay Abner who asked the county to reduce the speed limit on Burnt Ridge Road to 25 miles per hour.

Abner told the court that because people drove too fast on the road it was dangerous and that numerous families with small children lived in the area.

Carlotis accepted Abner's petition, and asked fourth district magistrate Fred Mullins, whose district Burnt Ridge Road is in, if he wanted

Burning ban still in effect

Rockcastle County Judge-Executive Buzz Carlotis announced Tuesday that a full burning ban remains in effect for the county.

Carlotis said that he had received a notice from the Secretary of Natural Resources on Monday, stating that the conditions in Kentucky were still too dry to allow any outdoor burning.

Like much of the rest of the state, Rockcastle received a significant amount of rainfall over the weekend. Local weatherman Bud Cox recorded 2.35 inches of rain at the weather station on Saturday and Sunday.

300 find out where new 150 may go

By: Richard Anderkin
Over 300 citizens turned out Tuesday night to see the state's proposed plans for a new Hwy. 150, from Crab Orchard to the 461 by-pass in Mt. Vernon.

The informal public hearing was held at Brodhead Elementary School and many of those in attendance found out what many of them had already feared. Their homes and property will be taken by the new road.

State officials told those in attendance that four plans had been developed but that only three were still under consideration and one of those, plan B, was currently the preferred plan.

Design Engineer Paul Francis said Tuesday night that basically all of the plans were the same, except that plan B called for the road to go south of Crab Orchard and south of Cedar Rapids Country Club.

Francis said that after an environmental impact study was completed the state would make their final decision on which corridor the road would follow.

He said that it would probably be about six months before that takes place and that it would be another three to four years before the work actually starts.

The project is slated for two phases. Phase one will be the construction of the road from Crab Orchard to just west of Brodhead where the road will head south. Phase two will be from there to 461.

Francis said that phase one will begin in October of 2002 and phase two is slated to begin in October of 2003.

During the hearing residents were shown maps and given information packets.

Those packets included information on right of way acquisition and relocation and assistance payments.

The packets also included a comment sheet for which residents could comment on which route they preferred.

Francis said that the preferred route skirts the south city limits of Crab Orchard then parallels the existing route to Brodhead, on the north side of the road and then crosses the road and bypasses to the south of town.

The road would go south or behind Piney Grove Cemetery and Castle Village Apartments.

The new route then extends to the south of Houston Point Estates across Painter Hill and south of Cedar Rapids Country Club, before taking David's Tire Center. The new road will then head back to the old road before actually crossing existing 150 and tying back into 461 at the current intersection.

Francis said that the road would actually tie back in at the same place on 461, but at a different angle and would have to be rebuilt to accommodate four lanes.

Bomb threat at Comp Care

A bomb threat was called into the Comprehensive Care Center in Mt. Vernon on Monday afternoon.

According to local 911 director Tim Cameron, members of the Mt. Vernon Fire Department, Mt. Vernon Police Chief Bill Mink and Kentucky State Trooper John Yates, searched the building after the threat, but nothing was found.

Cameron said that the center was shut down for the rest of the day on Monday as a safety pre-caution.

Livingston man indicted on rape charge

The Rockcastle County Grand Jury handed down three indictments on Friday.

Roger Wayne Rector, 42, of Livingston was indicted on one count of third degree rape.

He is accused of engaging in sexual intercourse with a female less than 16 years old who was mentally incapacitated.

Rector's bond was set at $25,000 cash or property and he has been ordered to stay away from the victim and her family.

Delbert Wayne Leger, 24, of Mt. Vernon, was indicted on one count of criminal possession of a forged instrument.

He is accused of cashing his dad's social security check in the amount of $1,686.52 without his dad's knowledge.

His bond was set at $100,000 cash. Robert G. Hubbard, 34, of Richmond was indicted on a charge of fourth offense driving while under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

Well known local man dies Tuesday

A well known Rockcastle County man died Tuesday afternoon in Richmond.

Eric D. Ponder, a licensed electrician was working on some outside lights at KokoKu Rubber Inc., in Richmond when he fell from the roof of the structure, according to the Madison County Coroner's office.

Ponder, 37, of Brindle Ridge had been working on a photo sensor that was not operating correctly when something happened, causing him to fall some 15 feet to the ground. The accident occurred between 5 p.m. and 5:30 p.m.

Kevin Fletcher, of Mt. Vernon, who was working with Ponder at the time of the accident, said that Ponder had climbed out of Fletcher's bucket truck and onto the roof of the building to work on the sensor.

Fletcher said that he was standing on the ground and had walked around the corner of the building to see if a light was working when he heard Ponder yell. Fletcher said that when he looked around Ponder had fallen off the building.

Ponder was taken to Pattie A. Clay Hospital, where he was later pronounced dead by Madison County Coroner Jimmy Cornelison.

An autopsy was performed on Wednesday to determine the exact cause of death. Family members said Ponder had been complaining of chest pains lately.

Ponder is survived by his wife, Sharon Caudill Ponder and a ten-year-old son, Douglas-Dell Ponder, both of Brindle Ridge.

He is also survived by his parents Dell and Gwen Ponder of Red Hill and a sister, Cynthia Lynn Versailles.

Dowell and Martin Funeral Home in Mt. Vernon is in charge of arrangements which were incomplete at press time.

Points East

By: Ike Adams

A lot of people in the blue grass, imagining that their blood is also royal blue, are up in arms about their neighborhoods. As a result, different groups of snobs are competing to see who can outdo the other in the form of deed restrictions.

Deed restrictions are just that. When you purchase a piece of property in certain neighborhoods there are restrictions as to what you can and can't do with that property. They may require that your house be built of certain materials and to certain size specifications. No vinyl siding and nothing less than 3000 sq. feet for example.

Some neighborhoods even have entrance signs proclaiming that they are deed restricted, which is a pointed reminder that you should check with your real estate agent so that he or she can tell you whether or not you meet the snob standards set for that particular community should you be considering purchasing a property within it.

Some of the restrictions on these places can be so numerous and so detailed that they are several pages long. Among the things you may not do is build a swimming pool, have an out building, paint your house certain colors, have a satellite dish, own a dog or cat, park your car where it can be seen, plant anything but certain colors of roses, no trees or only certain types, no vegetable gardens, no sunbathing, no outside holiday decorations on the one hand or must have them on the other, and on and on and on. In some cases you may not even be able to own a lawn mower and the deed may specify exactly who can mow your grass and how often.

Break any of these rules and your neighbors can and will sue you to prove what good neighbors they really are.

I swear that I ever win the lottery, the first thing I'm going to do is find the most deed restricted neighborhood in Lexington and buy it up the spot, and spend the rest of my life, aggravating the heck out of my neighbors. I will not be content unless they are filing and average of one suit per day in protest of my violations of every deed restriction of the property.

The first thing that goes up, right in the middle of the front lawn, is the out-house that proudly sits in my back yard right now. It's a two boler and I intend to use it for precisely the purpose it was intended. After the courts made me tear it down, I intend to purchase three or four rusty old cars and have three or four high school boys to commence work on them. I want hobs, radiators, spare wheels, fenders, bumpers and the like stacked on the porch.

I intend to buy people in once or twice a week for free beer and pizza on the front lawn. I intend to raise some pigs in the garbage and have a hog killing every week or two somewhere in the yard to which I will invite all the neighbors in for free chitlins.

When they put a stop to that, I'm gonna purchase a big flock of chickens and when the court orders me to get rid of them, we're gonna have a chicken killing in the front yard, this time advertising free gizzards to the local folks. My goal is to make the Beverly Hills look like high society.

In short, I intend to fight slobbery with slobbery.

I'm not even going to look for loop-holes until a judge informs me that the next time I'm found guilty of violating the deed restrictions I might have to spend a little time behind bars. At that point I intend to go over the restrictions and see what they might have left out.

For instance, if it isn't against the rules to stand in the front lawn, I intend to hire several ladies of the night to do just that. I want the tashie women I can find wearing as little as it's legal to wear in public along the front porch posts and giving every appearance that the place is open for business and I want the law driving by every few minutes to make sure it isn't.

I intend to invite known criminals to my house and then turn them in so that the front page of the paper will have glaring headlines about the fact that thus and such was arrested in Snoblovia and on weekends I aim to walk around the neighborhood in polka dotted Bermuda shorts pushing an empty sroller and ask all the neighbors or anybody driving by if they've seen my baby. I also want my eccentricity to be so newsworthy that all the columns mention it regularly along with my address.

Why would I go to all this trouble, you may be asking yourself?

The answer is really simple. All my life I've heard that if people look down their noses long enough they'll go cross-eyed. I just want to see if I can make it happen to some folks who deserve nothing less.

So if you have some friends who live in one of these exclusive places, though it's highly unlikely that anyone reading this column has such acquaintances, tell them that they need to keep an eye peeled on the lottery results. If I do win the thing, they might want to find a new residence in a quiet little trailer park.

bacco as they are in felling timber, then sawing it into precise pieces of lumber. They are hands that are as adept in hand milking a cow as in building a house, in darning a sweater as in surveying a track of land. They are as adept in hand carving a heart shaped bowl as in fixing a car's generator, in peeling an apple with only one long thin peel as in figuring an improbable math problem using calculations that could boggle the mind. They are hands that could be grimy with farm dirt or well manured flipping through a book of poems or the Bible. They are hands that are strong enough to control a team of mules, yet gentle enough to hold a child's hand. The Hands of Knowledge are those of my dad.

Polly Graves Abney

Above is a picture of those hands drawn by Polly when she was in college and is a perfect replica of the hands of her father, Mat Graves. Her words paint an even clearer picture of how she saw them. When I read this tribute to him the other day it brought back memories of not only his hands, but of the character of the man owning them.

Every word she wrote was true. Mat was an unusual person. His talents were many and he used them for the benefit of mankind. His honor was beyond reproach and the love of the land was second only to his love of the Creator of all things great and small.

He cleared a new ground so there would be more land for farming and worked hard to improve it. At one time he skill as a millwright was in demand when he worked in a factory. He felled timber with minimum damage to the tree and saved it into lumber that did not have to be run through a planing mill for accuracy. Before he began building our home he studied carpentry and building so the house he built would stand the winds and storms. He also studied mechanics so he could fix his own truck and car and became recognized as the community mechanic. He was a born mathematician with the ability to solve problems that stumped his teachers in college. Beyond that he was a student. He never tackled a job without first learning how to do it correctly. His books were numerous and he was an avid reader of all of them, including The Harvard Classics. He studied surveying under Mr. Oscar Scott, the county surveyor who used the old as a surveying instrument and Mat could survey a track of land in the roughest part of the wooded hills and never miss a corner. Then do a plot of the survey before going to bed that night that showed every crook and turn he had made. If he died said a corner was at a chestnut tree and the instrument pointed to a spot where there was no tree. Mat would dig till he found the old roots and sure enough they would be those of a long gone chestnut tree. He had learned his job well and stored it safely in his memory box where he could bring it forth when needed. He did not have a college degree in engineering, but his knowledge of surveying and ability to use it surpasses many of the graduates of today's engineers.

His mother had taught him the art of mending a sweater and he could mend a run in one that would make it good as new. It was a man with an interest in every phase of life and had the skill and ambition to do something about it.

One incident stands out in my memory as very special. I had been visiting Judy and her family in Hazard and returned home a few days after Valentine's Day, a day I hadn't celebrated since school days, so I was not expecting a fancy card that said, "I love you" and true to my expectations, I didn't get one. But soon after I arrived he reminded me of what I had missed by presenting me with a hand carved bowl in the shape of a heart and said, "Happy belated Valentine's Day." It had been carefully shaped and carved, sanded and rubbed with pumice till it was a perfect candy sized bowl without a spot or blemish. This is a treasured keepsake. Later he carved one for each of his children which are also treasures.

Mat may have been the man who settled in the foothills of Appalachian with a wife and a baby to care for, but his skill and love of learning made him an asset to not only his family, but to the community as well. I often accused him, perhaps falsely, of thinking more about the community people than he did of his family. But none-the-less his family thrived and the Buffalo community was a better place to live in after he patiently, and I impatiently, brought about changes that benefited all the people. He will always be remembered by those who knew as a man of honor, integrity, knowledge, and interest in his community and above all an interest in having a road built from Highway 80 to the county seat, Mt. Vernon. This was accomplished after 35 years of attending road meetings and getting acquainted with people of influence in the highway department. His work was not in vain.

Dear Editor,

I would like to say thank you to the All American Club president Wayne Bullock and vice-president Joe Lewis for picking up eight bags of litter from along the railroad tracks in Mt. Vernon.

Your diligent and conscientious efforts in helping keep Rockcastle County beautiful are an inspiration to all of us.

Dear Editor,

I would like to thank those who displayed their talent at the Mt. Vernon High School Class Reunion meeting on September 11, 1999, at the middle school. The displays were thoroughly enjoyed and hopefully next year we can make it bigger and better.

Dear Editor,

I read the piece in the Signal about Cordia Marie Gibbons.

I would like for Martha Renner to write me. I would write her if I knew her address. I would like to know if Cordie is the daughter of Mary Gibbons. If she is I was her closest neighbor when Nancy and Cordie were little girls. I was with Mary when her little girl was born and Mary named her after me. Her name was Ella Mae. I would like to know if she is still living and about Nancy. They had a little boy named John Henry, died when he was just a child. I have thought about them a lot.

Thank you,

Dear Editor,

Due to the support of the Rockcastle County Community Health Council, the Rockcastle Health Dept. was able to secure two grants which will enable our community to impact two of the health problems identified by the council.

One of the goals was to reduce unplanned pregnancies in teens under the age of 17 years. We have received a grant to implement the Postponing Sexual Involvement Program for Parents of Young Teens. This program is designed to provide parents the tools they need to help their young teens cope with the social and peer pressure that lead to early sexual involvement.

Another goal was to increase community resources regarding the health and social consequences associated with the abuse of alcohol, tobacco and other drugs, as well as increasing the availability of community resources to address these problems. The health department has received a grant to hire a full time tobacco prevention and reduction activities at the community level, and to assist in the enhancement of tobacco prevention and reduction activities at the community level, and to assist in the enhancement of tobacco prevention and reduction partnerships. A state of the art resource center is being developed which will enable the community to obtain cessation resources, training materials, fact sheets, guides to implementing environmental change, smokeless materials, promotional materials, videos-on-loan, speakers, statistics and more.

These resources would not be available to our community had it not been for the active support and dedication of the Rockcastle County community Health Council. On behalf of the Health Department, I want to thank the council members for their support.

Sincerely,

Our school year has been very interesting. We have been studying food chains and habitats in science. We created a habitat for a chameleon. Our chameleon is named Lizzy. It lives in a terrarium with grass, rocks and mud covering up the rocks. We feed it crickets and give it water every day.

Do you know what an owl pellet is? We dissected owl pellets. When an owl eats, it eats all of the animal. Later it coughs up the part of the animal it can't use. We found bones, fur and dirt in the pellets.

We earn money for good behavior and attendance. Then we get to visit the class store. In the class store we spend our money on toys, candy or we can save it.

We studied about apples and trees. Then we went to Haney's Apple Orchard in Somerset. It was fun. We got to pick apples off the trees. The date was September 17, 1999.

Thought for the week: Great schools are the result of great cooperation. Let's remember that it takes both the white and the black keys of the piano to play "The Star-Spangled Banner."

Brodhead Elementary micro-society recently held a campaign and election for the school's Mayor and Vice Mayor. To be a mayoral candidate you must be an intermediate student and have submitted a letter of intent to Mr. McKinney stating your interest in the office and why you would make the best mayor.

Each Candidate addressed the intermediate student citizens stating why they would be the best mayor. Each candidate did a superb job. The citizens of BES micro society voted Ainsley Bussell as the new mayor. Megan Bradley and Lance Baldwin will be serving as Co-Vice-Mayors.

At BES we believe cooperative learning is more than a buzzword and this is very evident in our school media center. Mrs. Sandy our Media Specialist has students working cooperatively to read in the library. The students know this as "Buddy Reading."

October is "measurement" month as we focus on the scientific process skills. Measuring is finding out size, volume, mass, weight, temperature of objects, length of an event and comparing it to a unit of measure. Mrs. Dyehouse and Mrs. Bishop's class problem solved using non-standard means of measurement to find the length, height and width of various objects in their classrooms.

All Intermediate students will be visiting the Kentucky History Museum in Frankfort on Wednesday, Thursday or Friday of this week.

The STA team will be visiting several locations in Rockcastle and Berea on Friday in conjunction with their study of Kentucky and our community.

The Cubs team is taking a field trip to Shaker Village on Friday.

Mrs. Fairchild and Mrs. Rogers classes will be visiting the Louisville Zoo on Thursday.

The PTA will have their regular monthly meeting Thursday, October 14 at 7:00 p.m. in the school cafeteria. Static will be performing.

He plans on attending Transylvania University or Georgetown College and major in Computer Science and Computer Information Systems. He is a member of the National Honor Society. His hobbies include designing web pages.

We welcomed two new students to our student body this week Dawnnell and Anastasia Baker who joined the eighth grade Challengers team.

Yearbook order forms were mailed home last week with report cards. If you would like to purchase a yearbook, the forms and $20.00 should be returned to the homeroom teachers by November 1. Parents may also have a personal message printed in our message section for $5.00 extra.

Thursday, October 14, is "Turn Off the Violence Day." The RCMS Y-Club asks that the community join with them in their efforts to become more aware of violent television programs, movies, videos, and music.

Congratulations to the Enterprises team for having the best team attendance for the month at 96.77%. Ms. Regina Burton's class had the best homeroom attendance at 98.1%. Mrs. Angie Hunt's Class received pizza this week for having consecutive days of perfect attendance.

There will be a dance this Friday after school until 5:00. Students need a note from parents and team permission in order to stay. The cost is $3.00.

Our extended school services tutoring program began Wednesday, October 13, and will be held every Wednesday and Thursday. The buses do run for those students who need to take place during this time.

This Thursday evening there will be a football game and a girls basketball game at RCMS. There will also be a chili supper beginning at 5:00 p.m. On Monday evening, the Lady Rockets will be taking on Jackson County at home and Tuesday evening will play at South Laurel.

Thanks to those parents who visited us Monday evening for our parent-teacher conferences. We had a great turnout.

Parents and students will have another opportunity to earn RIST points next Tuesday, October 19. This is a new program we will be starting at RCMS designed to better prepare students for our future. Michael Pritchard will be the guest speaker. Mr. Pritchard's voice has been used in a variety of commercials, cartoons and animated specials. The RCMS Chorus will also be performing and refreshments will be provided. All parents and students are invited.

RIST points may also be earned by attending at least two PTA meetings during the school year. PTA meetings are held the first Monday of each month at 5:00 p.m. Remember that RIST points can be redeemed for cash upon completion of high school.

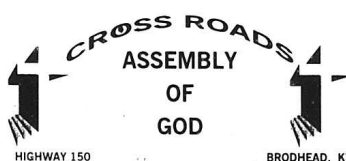

The Y-Club will meet next Wednesday to discuss KYA. Parents are invited to attend. Mrs. Clontz will also present SBDM Council meeting beginning at 3:30.

Red Ribbon Week is nearing (October 23-31). On Wednesday morning at 8:15, former Kentucky State Policeman Leo Maddox will present a program entitled "The 47's of Drug Education." There is no cost to students.

Emergency Conservation Program

Rockcastle County has been approved for providing assistance to landowners under the Emergency Conservation Program (ECP). The deadline to sign up for this cost share in Rockcastle County was established as October 29, 1999.

The right Emergency Assistance (ECA) is only for assistance approved to date. ECA provides for assistance for measures to: permit grazing of pasture by livestock, supply emergency water for existing irrigation systems serving orchards and vineyards and for emergency water for confined livestock.

The practice is considered temporary and is to be cost shared at a rate of 64% of the actual cost to exceed $300.00 per tank. If a participant elects to permanently install a practice considered as temporary, the landowner is responsible for the additional expense. For example, a pipeline and a tank is to be cost shared at 64% of the actual cost. This is for the pipe, he/she must bear the expense. If the tank is to be permanently installed by anchoring with concrete and placing gravel around the tank, then the landowner must bear the expense.

REMEMBER: OCTOBER 29th IS THE DEADLINE!!

1999 Burley Tobacco Assessment Rate

The U.S. Department of Agriculture's Commodity Credit Corporation has announced the 1999 burley tobacco assessment and penalty rates. No net cost for the producer will be 3,000 cents per pound and 3,000 cents per pound for the purchaser. The marketing quota penalty is a $1.43 per pound.

Marketing Cards

Marketing cards have been received in the county office and will be mailed approximately Nov. 1, 1999 to all producers who have filed the necessary paper work. The paper work includes MQ 38, AD 1026 and FSA 570. Producers and tenants who have not completed their paper work will not receive the marketing card until these forms are completed.

Hay Hotline

Producers who have hay for sale or for donation should notify the local FSA office at 606-256-2525. We are collecting this information for a list of the hot line for producers who are seeking hay.

Producers who are seeking hay

may stop by the local FSA office and receive a copy of the hay list available from Kentucky and other states. USDA Sets Dates for Soybean Request for Refund

From Oct. 20, 1999, through November 16, 1999, the Department of Agriculture will provide producers an opportunity to participate in the Request for Refund on the Soybean Promotion and Research Order at local FSA offices. This request for refund is being carried out under the authority of the Soybean Promotion, Research and Consumer Information Act. The Order provides that the Secretary, 5 years after the conduct of the initial referendum which was held on February 9, 1994, will give soybean producers the opportunity to request a referendum on the order.

Producers may request a referendum by mail or in person at the county FSA office from Oct. 20, 1999 through Nov. 16, 1999. Individual producers and other producer entities will be provided the opportunity to request a referendum at the county FSA office where FSA maintains and processes the producer's administrative farm records. For the producer not participating in FSA programs, the opportunity to request a referendum would be provided at the county FSA office serving the county where the producer owns or rents land. Mail in request must be postmarked by Nov. 16, 1999 and received in the FSA office by Dec. 1, 1999. All other requests made by facsimile or in person, must be received in the county FSA office by Nov. 16, 1999.

To be eligible to request a referendum, you must have been a person engaged in the growing of soybeans in the United States who owns, or shares the ownership and risk of loss of such soybeans from Jan. 1, 1997 through Jan. 6, 1999. The term "person" means an individual or legal entity (for example, a corporation, partnership, estate, etc.), or a group of individuals with a joint ownership interest in soybeans (for example, a family, a cooperative, an association, etc.).

In this Request for Refund, each eligible "person" may request a referendum once. Spouses who jointly own soybeans are considered to be a "family" (i.e., a group of individuals). And are not entitled to separate request even in community property states. No one is authorized to request a referendum on behalf of an individual producer.

Questions about eligibility, the challenges, the challenge resolution process, appeals of eligibility determinations, counting, reporting, and related topics should be directed to the county FSA office. Questions about Request for Refund procedures (e.g., how to obtain ballot materials where and when to request a referendum) should be referred to Rajni J. Tapp, at the Agriculture Marketing Service, Washington, DC, at 202-720-1115.

If the Secretary determines that at least 10 percent of the U.S. producers engaged in growing soybeans (not one excess of one-fifth of which may be producers in any one State) support the conduct of a referendum, the Secretary must conduct a referendum within one year of the decision. If these requirements are not met, no referendum would be conducted.

Supplemental Feeding: What Should I Feed?

Rockcastle County beef producers are well aware of the history making 1999 drought. Deep soils have helped ward off the drought much longer than northern Kentucky counties. Only during August and September did moisture levels get so low as to affect pasture and hay production. The country's hay supply is basically from first cutting since many hay fields second cutting have been utilized as pasture. Some farmers have been feeding hay for 4-8 weeks, lowering what is available this winter.

What should beef producers do to feed their herds through the winter? First, inventory the herd and hay supply. Make plans to cull any cows which are open, have age or health problems and may not be paying their way. Compare available hay and past feeding experiences to determine if a shortage exists and how much it may be.

Meeting the nutrient requirements of cattle is what is important for producers. Which fields are used to meet these requirements is of less importance than the fact they are met. Energy is the nutrient needed in greatest quantity by cattle. Forages are most often fed to meet this need because they can be grown on the farm. When drought prevents or limits forage production, the producer must consider several factors.

First of all, are other potential feeds available on the farm? Is corn for silage or grain available? Can corn residue be utilized for feed?

If alternatives are not available on the farm purchased feed should be considered. Hay may be purchased, however feeds that are high in energy content such as grains or certain commodity feeds, are generally cheaper per unit of nutrients than hay. Cattle can be wintered on high grain rations safely and economically if the ration is limit fed. Keep in mind that feeding grain requires more facilities and time than the conventional round bale feeders.

Current prices for commodity feeds such as corn gluten feed and soy hulls are getting producers attention. Both feeds are higher in protein and lower in energy and less likely to founder cattle as shelled corn may. These feeds are excellent for calves and stocker cattle. As long as their prices remain low they will do an excellent job for cows as well. Shelled corn with approximately 80% of the corn nutrients absorbed.

With a short hay supply, farmers are encouraged to start supplemental feeding now to make available hay supplies last through the winter.

By Mrs. Hubert Chasteen

Hello to all, this rainy Monday morning. Hope you are well and happy.

This summer has been hot and dry, but we have been blessed to have very good gardens and crops. But of course we hear some complain because we didn't have crops as good as usual. We need more complements and less complaints in this world. We need to be more thankful for what we have instead of wishing for more.

After all we receive many more blessings than we deserve. Just always remember that God is good to us, when you pray remember to give Him your thanks and praise.

Our worship services were well attended over the weekend, but our Sunday School attendance was down to 120, but we thank God for that number.

We have lost some dear friends recently. Mrs. Helen Barrett Vars of Indiana was buried this past Thursday and Mrs. Pearl Ann Chasteen was buried Monday. The Barrett family and our own Repper family have always been good friends and we love them all. Mrs. Chasteen is related to my husband, Hubert and we also love them too. Our prayers, love and sympathy goes out to both families in this time of sorrow.

Mr. Glenn Ponder underwent major surgery in Lexington a few days ago and bless his heart, he attended Sunday School yesterday. Glenn is such a friendly, nice man and we thank God that he is doing so well. He and his family have our love and prayers.

Rockets play hard, pick up big victory

By: Richard Anderkin

The Rockcastle County Rockets pulled off the biggest win of their 1999 season on Friday night when they beat Whitley County 21 to 20 in Williamsburg.

The Colonels had the same 5 and 1 record as did the Rockets when they entered Friday night's district game.

But it was some key plays on defense and a kicking game that allowed them to come from behind to beat the Colonels and up their record to 6 and 1 on the season and 2 and 0 in district play.

It was a furious high school football game that saw the Colonels take the lead twice in the second half, only to eventually lose when placekicker Greg Terry calmly nailed an extra point with only minutes left in the contest.

Rockcastle wasted no time in putting the Colonels on notice that there would indeed be a hard fought contest on Friday night when they scored on the first play from scrimmage.

After a good runback by freshman Marty Reagan, junior tailback Derrick Bussell scampered 50 yards for the score.

The Rockets then bowed their necks on defense and forced a Colonels punt.

But a terrible punt by the Colonels which traveled only about ten yards, hit a Rocket player and the Colonels recovered, giving them a first down and new life.

The Colonels wasted little time as they rammed the ball down the Rockets throat and tied the game at seven.

The Rockets and Colonels played a scoreless second quarter, although the Rockets blew one scoring opportunity after a mishandled snap on a Colonel punt gave them the ball on the Colonels 15 yard line. The Rockets were penalized twice and pushed back out of field goal range before they gave the ball up on downs.

The second half began with Whitley County score that gave them a 14 to 7 lead, but the Rockets fought right back.

The Rockets drove the ball down the field to the one yard line where junior quarterback Christopher Parsons took the ball in for the score and another Terry kicked tied the game at 14.

The next series the Rockets held the Colonels on third down, but a roughing the punter penalty gave Whitley County life once again and once again, they responded with a touchdown.

The Colonels led 20-14, but missed their extra point attempt, which gave the Rockets hope.

On the very next series, after another good return by the Rockets on the kick-off, the Rockets scored again when Bussell took the ball in from the five. The Rockets took the lead with Terry's extra point kick.

Terry then kicked the ball deep into Whitley County's territory and a good tackle by the Rocket kicking team left Whitley in poorer field position.

The Rockets gave up one first down before they were able to stop Whitley County, who actually gained more yards on offense, than did the Rockets by 50 or so yards.

Possibly the biggest defensive play of the game came on fourth down and three when cornerback Dustin Crawford came from his position to stop a Whitley County runner with an open field tackle before he was able to pick up the first down.

Whitley would get one more chance after the Rockets turned the ball over on downs, but Bussell picked off a Whitley County pass and the Rockets had come away with the hard fought victory.

On offense Bussell had 15 yards on 24 carries, caught one pass for 6 yards and scored two touchdowns.

Senior Josh Dooley picked up 24 yards on seven carries and senior Derek Bradley had 12 yards on 3 carries.

Greg Harper caught two passes for 32 yards and Dackery Larkey caught one pass for 18 yards.

Placekicker Greg Terry was a perfect 3 for 3 in extra point attempts. All total the Rockets had 190 yards of offense.

On the defensive side Rockcastle gave up 236 yards of offense, but made the big plays when they had to have them.

Middle linebacker Travis Ingram had 17 tackles and assists and recovered a fumble to go along with two quarterback sacks.

Bussell also had 17 tackles and assists and picked off a Colonel pass.

Greg Harper had 11 tackles and assists. Gary Coffey and Dustin Crawford were in on 10 tackles and assists each and Josh Hale got into 9 tackles and assists.

Matt Smith and Shaun Smith each had six tackles and assists and each of them also picked up a sack.

Joel Deaerhage and Derek Bradley each had five tackles and assists and Chris Kirby had two tackles and assists.

The Rockets will host the wireless Knox Central Panthers on Friday night. Game time is 7:30 at the Rockcastle County Middle School.

Dackery Larkey puts down the ball for placekicker Greg Terry, who kicked the game winning extra point on Friday night against Whitley County. The Rockets won 21-20.

The Rockcastle County Rockets went into Williamsburg Friday night and defeated the host Whitley County Colonels 21-20. It was the biggest win of the season for the Rockets, who are 6 and 1 on the year. Above, head coach Tom Larkey and assistant coach Chris Larkey talk to the Rocket offense near the end of the game on Friday.

Shaun Smith, Derrick Bradley, Chris Kirby and Greg Harper combine to stop a Whitley County runner on Friday night. The Rockets will face Knox Central at home on Friday.

Middle School basketball round-up

The sixth and seventh grade continued their winning way in their last two outings but the eighth grade split with their opponents, beating Corbin in a lopsided 51-14 win and losing to Northern Pulaski 54-44. The loss at Northern was actually a vast improvement for the eighth grade who had lost to the Knights in their first meeting by a much bigger margin.

Against Corbin last Thursday night, Stephanie Price led the scoring for her team with 15 points; Krystal Parsons got 10, Jessica Riddle 6, Allison Anderkin 4, Anna Guilfoif 3 and Amanda Rogers, Lauren Clontz and Jenna Owens 2 each.

At Northern, Lauren Clontz came through with a career high 18 points to lead the scoring for her team.

The girls were down 13-8 at the end of the first quarter and by twelve at half time 30-18. However, in the third quarter, the girls made a run at the Knights which pulled them to within 7 at 40-33 and, in early in the fourth, got the margin down to 6 at 41-35. However, the Knights held on for the win.

Besides Clontz's 18, Price got 8, Anderkin's 6, Rogers's 5, Parsons, Riddle and Jenny Durham 2 and Jenna Owens 1.

The sixth grade team had their way with Corbin, winning 33-13. Ashley Kimberl led the way with 17 points, Jessica Asher and Heather Hopkins, 4 each and Ashley Lumford, Krystal Farthing, Jessica Robinson and Elizabeth Scarborough, 2 each.

At Northern, the 6th graders got off to a slow start, scoring only 11 points in the first half. That was the bad news, the good news was that the 6th grade Lady Knights could only put one point on the board in that period and five for the game and the Rockets won 20-5.

Megan Anderkin and Ashley

Kimberl had 10 points, Parsons with 6 each, Kayla Williams 4, Clontz and Ashley Lumford 3, and Jenny Durham got 2 each.

The Corbin Redhounds played better with the Rockets in the second quarter than most do but it was still a 39-20 win for the Rockets. With Heather Hammond leading the way with 19 points, Hollyanna O'Connell 8, in the game, Tara Rowe 6, and Jenna Owens, Gina McCreary and Krista Parsons scored 4 each and Krista Hill and Ashley Moore 2 each.

Against Northern, the Rockets looked themselves a bit in the end of the first quarter 10-8 scoring. In the time this season but that of mostly only motivated them since to game back and outsized the Knights 21-6 and went on to win 32-13.

Johanna Ames and Janna Owens led for scoring honors with 15 each; Heather Hammond and Ashley Bell got 6 each, Kayla Williams, Hollyanna O'Connell and Sarah Parsons scored 4 each and Gina McCreary 3.

Family Life Abuse Center observes Domestic Violence Awareness Month

Around our nation and throughout Kentucky, battered women's advocates are working to focus public awareness on the epidemic of domestic violence, while encouraging all Americans to become part of the solution, during the month of October.

Domestic violence has reached epidemic proportions. In the United States, four million women are physically abused each year by the men who promise to love them. Within southeastern Kentucky, over five hundred women and children had to seek shelter, due to domestic abuse over the past year. These families were served by The Family Life Abuse Center, a spouse abuse shelter, of the Christian Appalachian Project.

The Family Life Abuse Center, serves victims in the Cumberland Valley Area Development District, comprised of Bell, Clay, Jackson, Harlan, Knox, Laurel, Rockcastle and Whitley counties. Among offering victims safe harbor from the abuser, the facility also provides counseling, legal advocacy and assistance in obtaining educational, employment and housing opportunities.

The shelter has recently undergone some renovations and cosmetic changes that were possible through a financial windfall given by Governor Paul Patton to Kentucky's domestic violence shelters. Shelters throughout the Commonwealth benefited from the monetary assistance. Improvements at Family Life Abuse Center included: a handicap accessible bathroom; additional storage space; an expanded playground area; a group activity room for the residents; an upgraded security system; new furniture; new carpet and new tile.

"All the changes are resident focused improvements," stated Anita Seals, Assistant Director of Human Services for Christian Appalachian Project.

No woman should fear violence in her own home. No child should dread coming home. During the month of October, domestic violence prevention advocates will be raising public awareness of domestic violence, providing people with ideas for action, and letting women who are abused know that they are not alone and that help is available.

Domestic violence affects all of us—every community, every workplace, every family. And we all have a responsibility to end domestic violence. Action can be simple as contributing money or clothing to a local women's shelter. Some people might prefer to volunteer their time in a local program or shelter. Individuals who are looking for ways to help or would like to participate in Domestic Violence Awareness Month activities can call (606)256-9511.

right of ways, they will buy enough for a four lane road, but the initial construction project will be just two lanes, according to Francis.

Francis also said that even once the final corridor is approved, there still could be some slight changes to the route and some people who thought they would have to re-locate may not have to or vice-versa.

One local resident, Dennis Harris, wasn't exactly happy with the preferred plans. "We moved from Hwy. 70 because of the road noise and built a new house, now the new road will probably come within 500 or 600 feet of our home," Harris said.

Other people like Jenny Taylor and her husband Keith simply showed up to confirm what they already knew. "We have been to Somerset and looked at the plans and the road takes our house, but we came down tonight to just make sure nothing has changed," Jenny Taylor said.

Roger Bullock and Richard Owens, who live just outside Brodhead said they had originally thought the road would not take their house, but last night's plans showed that both of them would have to go. "I don't like this at all," said Roger Bullock.

A proposal by Lincoln County Judge-Executive R.W. Gilbert that would send the new road through Copper Creek and Conway, to a new interchange of I-75 at Conway, was not discussed and there are currently no plans for such a route in the works, according to Francis.

Francis said that residents could still look at the plans at the highway department offices in Somerset and that residents still had 15 days to submit written comments on the project. They can submit them to R.E. Coffey, P.E. Chief District Engineer P.O. Box 780, Somerset, Kentucky 42052.

to make a motion to change the speed limit, but Mullins declined, saying he may bring it up later.

To change a speed limit on a county road, the court must have a majority vote and must decide a starting and ending point for the speed limit change. It must then be published in the local newspaper before it becomes officially changed.

The court also heard from Bobby Bussett and Carl Bullock, residents of Burdette Subdivision, concerning Rainbow Valley / Burdette Subdivision Road.

The two presented the court with a petition asking them to force Bill and Mary McFerron to comply with residential zoning codes.

Bussett said that McFerron drove a loaded coal truck over the road all of the time and that the weight of the truck was ruining the road.

Judge Carltoft accepted the petition but he and magistrate John Holbrook told the two that this type of matter would have to be handled in circuit court or by officers of the Department of Transportation.

In other business the court discussed a new program which will help local residents that do not have water, get it.

Carltoft said the department of local government had a new program that would provide money for materials for property owners that do not have city water.

The water lines must be run on county and state right-of-ways and must be maintained by an association once completed.

Carltoft said that anyone interested in the program should contact his office.

During a special called meeting of the court last week, the court voted to borrow up to $26,000 for Brindle Ridge Fire Department from the Kentucky Association of Counties so that fire department could pay off a loan at Citizens Bank that they had used to buy equipment for the fire department. Because the fiscal court is borrowing the money for Brindle Ridge they will get a lot better interest rate.

Carltoft said that Brindle Ridge will pay the money back through their own fundraising efforts.

Turn Off the Violence Day is October 14

October 14, 1999 has been declared "Turn Off the Violence Day" by the hundreds of organizations across the country that make up the Turn Off the Violence Coalition.

On that day, the coalition asks people to choose non-violent ways to resolve anger and conflict and to turn off violent television programs, not to listen to violent music, not to view violent movies or rent violent videos. Perhaps for many people, that can be the beginning of life-long changes in attitudes and behavior.

The Rockcastle County Middle School Y-Club asks the citizens of our county to join with them on October 14 in their effort to "Turn Off the Violence" in our community.

Turn Off the Violence is an upbeat, positive campaign with two goals: (1) to teach people non-violent ways to deal with anger and conflict, and (2) to help people realize that violent entertainment influences our attitudes about the acceptability of violence...and among all the influences on violent behavior, that is one influence we can choose to turn off. We can reduce violence in our lives...one day at a time.

Rockcastle County Middle School Y-Club recognizes that violence is a problem today. According to Sarah Mullins, "Our students are working to meet the goals of the Turn Off the Violence campaign. Through our Peer Mediation program, the school is attempting to educate students in dealing with anger and conflict. The Y-Club is also making information available to the students and parents about the influences of violence on attitudes and behaviors through posters and handouts. Every student at RCMS is going to be given the opportunity to sign our pledge banner, which says: "To help my world, I pledge to turn off violent entertainment and to never use words or actions to hurt others." Just making everyone aware of violence should help reduce violence."

Turn Off the Violence does not advocate censorship! If people are educated about violence, they can make informed decisions about their entertainment. When enough people choose to Turn Off violent entertainment, there won't be a market for it. If televisions can sell products and induce billions of dollars are spent each year in the belief that television does influence human behavior, then it can sell images and values," according to Noel Johnson, Television Critic for The Star Tribune Newspaper, Minneapolis.

Turn Off the Violence was born in Minnesota in 1991 after a series of highly publicized violent crimes left many Minnesotans feeling frightened and powerless to change the situation. Amid the familiar public outcry for tougher criminal penalties, a group of Minnesota teachers, police officers, civic group leaders, clergy, and social service providers met to discuss ways to work together on a public awareness campaign to teach people how to make personal differences in the violence around us. The result was the Turn Off the Violence program.

Jamie Orrella, Y-Club executive council member states, "Each of us has the power to Turn Off the Violence, beginning in our own homes, businesses and communities. There is a great deal of concern today about school safety. We believe that if non-violent behavior is first taught in the home, then it won't be a problem in our schools! I hope that everyone who participates in this Turn Off the Violence campaign will see how easy it is, and will continue to help eliminate violence by Turning Off every day!"

For more information about the Turn Off the Violence campaign, call 612-593-8041 or write to Turn Off the Violence, P.O. Box 27321, Golden Valley, Minnesota 55427.

As a part of recognition of the day, Mt. Vernon Mayor Karen K. King signed a City Council Resolution which states:

Whereas the citizens of Rockcastle County recognize violence as an epidemic that affects our daily habits, our children, and our overall quality of life in our neighborhoods, businesses, and schools; and whereas we believe we have the power to help reverse the growing trend of violence by educating ourselves and our children about healthy ways of resolving conflicts and responding to anger;

Now, therefore, I, Karen King, Mayor of Mt. Vernon, do hereby proclaim the date of October 14, 1999 to be Turn Off the Violence Day in our community. Turn Off the Violence Day is a day for citizens to begin using their individual power to choose to turn off violent television programs, not to listen to violent music, and not to go to violent movies. Furthermore, on that day, citizens are encouraged to examine the way they resolve anger and conflicts and to begin to resolve them without violent words or actions. We dedicate our celebration of this day to all the victims of violence.

The Cumberland College Knight Mentoring Program is proud to announce that Lora Payne has been chosen as a 1999 Mentor. Lora is the daughter of Dennis and Faith Payne of Mt. Vernon. Only 22 Cumberland students were selected to serve as mentors to local middle school students. Lora is a sophomore undergraduate student at Cumberland College.

The Knight Mentoring Program was started in 1994 as a collaboration between Cumberland College and Whitley County Middle School. Approximately 25 college students are selected each year and matched with a middle school student. Middle school students who have potential for academic success, but need more encouragement, are recommended for the program. The mentoring program provides the younger student with a friend who meets with them weekly to work on homework, go out to eat, take a shopping trip, or just hang out and talk. College students are also encouraged to bring the middle school student to campus events. The program also provides field trips, such as a trip to the Knoxville Zoo or visit to a local nursing home. The program allows college students to polish their leadership abilities and learn the value of volunteering; while providing for the middle school student a mentor who demonstrates the value of education and doing kind things for others.

Christmas in the Valley restores the magic of the holiday

Remember when, as a child, the days leading up to Christmas held a magic all their own? When the anticipation of Christmas and the excitement of the holiday preparations was nearly too much to hold inside yourself? For far too many of us, this magic vanished, to be replaced by rushing stressfully through the season without glimmer of the joy we feel as children. Fortunately, for the world-wide among us, there is a cure, a restorative to give us back the joy and wonder and magic of the days leading up to the year's most important holiday. That cure lies in a tiny village - turned wonderland - Renfro Valley.

The annual tree lighting ceremony will be held Saturday, November 20 with Santa's arrival at 5:45 p.m. Join ern Baptists, has grown from one family to more than 15,000 people in average weekly attendance. The growth is largely due to Rick Warren's five-step strategy that attracts and wins the unchurched, develops them to spiritual maturity, equips them for the ministry and then helps them to establish a life mission in the world.

Learn these principles with the perspective to see how it all fits together by registering today for this event. Registration deadline is Thursday, October 14. Call 256-5862 or 256-5913 to register for the simulcast at Bible Baptist Church.

You won't want to miss the brand-new "Christmas in the Valley" show, each Friday and Saturday night at 7:00 p.m. beginning November 19 through December 18, with two additional 9:00 p.m. shows on Saturday, December 4 and 11. This 90-minute show combines all of the Renfro Valley's entertainers onto the New Barn Christmas stage to warm your heart with Christmas country style. If the Christmas spirit has eluded you thus far, your moment of redemption is at hand. The sincerity and charm of an extremely talented cast is about to work its magic.

Cornelius outlines program for Governor during visit to Bittersweet Festival

Republican Lieutenant Governor candidate Wanda Cornelius visited the county during the Bittersweet Festival and outlined her proposals for state government and gave a short background history.

Mrs. Cornelius of Taylor County is a small business owner married to a doctor practicing in Campbellsville. She is one of ten children whose father was a coal miner. She is presently on the school board for Taylor County, is vice-chair of the Republican party in her county and treasurer of the Republican Woman's Club.

"I am running because I have a great interest and concern for the people of Kentucky and to give some things back to a state that has given me so much," Mrs. Cornelius said.

"I also want to emphasize that I am not for gun control," Mrs. Cornelius said. "I don't know where this rumor started but it is completely false."

The platform on which Mrs. Cornelius is running, along with Peppy Martin, candidate for governor, includes:

- improve health care insurance rates
- more jobs with better pay in your home county
- lower taxes, especially: no vehicle tax, no inventory tax and lower personal income tax

-adjust workman's comp
-help farmers

-improve discipline in schools
Mrs. Cornelius also emphasized that she and Mrs. Martin are opposed to land-based casino gambling and to an increase in the gasoline tax.

She and her husband have three children, ages 27, 21 and 19 and Mrs. Cornelius also has a master's degree in elementary education.

Lieutenant Governor candidate Wanda Cornelius.

Domestic Violence and the Civil Courts

By Kara L. Daniel,
Domestic Violence Attorney
He choked me. He got angry. He threatened to kill me. He was pulling me by my hair. He called me names. He grabbed me around the throat and threw me into a door. He body slammed me on the floor and was choking me again. He accused me of sleeping with someone else. He forced my car out of the road. I was crying to leave. I had my little boy in my arms and he pushed me down. I went to the hospital.

These are just a few of the statements made by victims of domestic violence in our area over the past few weeks. I am a domestic violence attorney with the Appalachian Research and Defense Fund in Barbourville and I work with domestic violence victims in eight counties, including Rockcastle. Because October is Domestic Violence Awareness Month, the Rockcastle County Domestic Violence Council is presenting a series of articles about domestic violence. This article will focus on an advocate's perspective on the remedies available to victims through the civil court system.

Domestic Violence
What is domestic violence? An act of domestic violence is legally defined as any physical injury, sexual abuse, or assault between family members or between an unmarried couple, or any threat of imminent physical injury, sexual abuse or assault between family members or an unmarried couple. That includes pushing, slapping, choking, punching, kicking, hair-pulling, threats to kill, threats with weapons or other physical violence or threats of physical violence. All of these constitute domestic violence, even if the victim does not seek medical treatment as a result and even if the abuser uses an open hand instead of a fist to strike the victim. Except when acting in self-defense, it is never acceptable for a person strike, push or threaten his or her spouse or boyfriend or girlfriend.

An Advocate's Perspective
My job is to provide community education about the laws regarding domestic violence and to represent victims in civil court when they need assistance in obtaining a protective order or enforcing an order in effect. I also advise clients about their legal rights and to help them obtain any other assistance they might need, such as housing, financial assistance and education, since those are some of the barriers that prevent victims from leaving their abusers. It is very difficult for a victim to leave if she is dependent on her abuser for the necessities of everyday life for herself and her children.

Most of my time is spent meeting with victims or talking to them on the phone and accompanying them to court. I advise them about the legal process and their legal rights and I listen to them. I listen to their stories about what they have gone through, about how many times they have been beaten and how badly and for what reasons. They tell me the explanations they gave their doctors about their injuries and they tell me about the effect the violence has had on their children. Some victims are terrified; some are defiant; some are fearful; but they are all struck by the intelligence and resourcefulness they reveal in their stories as they explain the means they have adapted to try to survive and keep their children safe.

People ask me about my work, "How can you stand it when they just go back?" Certainly it is disappointing to learn that a victim has returned to an abusive relationship, but it was the victim's life and the victim's decision. It was never mine to make. Victims care about their abuser, or they wouldn't have gotten involved with them in the first place, and everyone has had a relationship it was difficult to end. Statistics show that a victim will leave and return to the abuser several times before she or he leaves for good. I am here to provide support and assistance every time a victim finds the courage to leave an abuser. If she leaves once and the court system fails to protect her, even if she returns to the abuser, hopefully she and the abuser will know that the courts will protect the victim next time there is violence incident. Maybe that will make it easier for the victim to leave the next time and maybe the next time she won't go back.

People always ask why victims stay in abusive relationships. There are many barriers to leaving. One of the important ones is that the victim may be taking a greater risk by leaving the abuser. As every victim knows, the most dangerous time for a victim is when she or he tries to leave. At that point, the abuser knows he or she is losing control over the victim and may be willing to resort to deadly force to get it back. This is when victims are most at risk and need the most protection. Part of my job is to try to help victims leave safely by helping them obtain and enforce emergency protective orders (EPO's) and domestic violence orders (DVO's).

Emergency Protective Orders
Anyone who is a victim of domestic violence can go to the courthouse and seek to get an emergency protective order or EPO. Some people call these restraining orders. The victim must fill out a petition and describe what happened that caused her or him to seek an EPO. She or he must swear by a judge or trial commissioner who decides whether the allegations in the petition show there is an immediate and present danger of domestic violence and abuse. If there is, and EPO is issued to protect the victim. EPO's are available 24 hours a day, so if the courthouse is not open and a victim needs one, he or she will need to contact local law enforcement.

An EPO is a temporary order that restrains the abuser from any contact or communication with the victim and usually orders the abuser not to destroy any property belonging to the parties. If needed, the victim can also ask for temporary custody of their children and ask that the abuser be ordered to leave their home. At the time the EPO is issued, a court date is assigned for a hearing. The abuser is served with a copy of the EPO and notified of the hearing date. Both parties must appear at the hearing and they will each have a chance to tell the judge what happened.

Domestic Violence Orders
If, after listening to the evidence, the judge decides an act of domestic violence or abuse has occurred and may again occur, she or he will issue a domestic violence order or DVO. The judge will decide how long the DVO will be in effect but it can be good for up to three years. The DVO may restrain the abuser from any contact or communication with the victim during that period, or if the parties wish to try to get back together, it may just restrain the abuser from committing any further acts of violence toward the victim. With a DVO, the judge also has the power to award temporary custody of children, receive child support, order either party to receive counseling and order the abuser to leave the parties' home. When the DVO expires, the victim can ask the court to renew the order if he or she feels that protection is still needed. If the parties wish to reconcile, the victim can return to court and ask that the DVO be amended to allow contact between them.

Enforcement
Once an EPO or DVO is issued, it is entered into the Law Enforcement Network of Kentucky (LENK) protective order file, and police officers can access the conditions of the order 24 hours a day. Even if an order has not been entered into LENK for some reason, the victim can show her copy to police officers who will enforce it if it appears to be valid. Violating an EPO of a DVO is a crime. An abuser who violates either type of order has committed a misdemeanor which can be punished by up to twelve months in jail. Alternatively, a victim can seek to enforce the DVO by asking the civil court to hold the abuser in contempt of court for violating the order. The judge has broad discretion in punishing the abuser and may sentence him or her to jail time or community service or may assess a fine. EPO's and DVO's are enforceable throughout Kentucky and the United States.

By Hazel Jackson
Co. Ext. Agent for Family Science

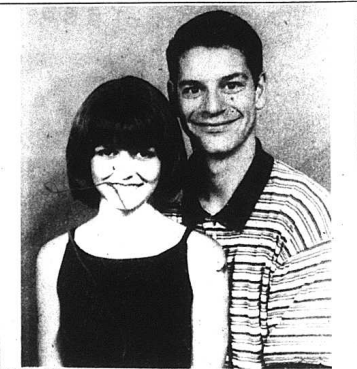

It has been Extension Homemaker Week across the state. Rockcastle County Homemakers have celebrated by displaying signs in their yards. Some clubs will also have celebrations during monthly meetings.

Rockcastle County has 75 Homemaker members. There are 4 clubs in the county, but county-wide membership is available to anyone unable to attend monthly meetings. County-wide members remain on the newsletter mailing list and receive lesson leaflets as requested.

The purpose of the Extension Homemakers is to provide educational lessons to its members on topics related to health, home and the family. Clubs also provide service to their individual communities. Last year clubs sponsored 4 county blood drives, provided Christmas gifts for 4 needy children in local schools, provided bears to children in the hospital, and gave volunteer time to Extension Homemakers and several other organizations. The Quail Club continues to provide a needed service to its community by maintaining the Quail Community Park.
