Rogers secures $8 million more for UNITE

U.S. Congressman Harold "Hal" Rogers (KY-5) announced today that he has secured an additional $8 million in federal funding to continue the efforts of Operation UNITE, the comprehensive counter-drug initiative that is working with local, state and federal officials to combat drug abuse in southern and eastern Kentucky.

This funding is in addition to the $8 million received in September for 2005 and brings the total funding for UNITE to $32 million.

"Operation UNITE is doing its part to remove the darkness that illegal drugs have cast over our region," said Rogers. "For those heroes about changing their lives, there are now more opportunities to do so. New drug treatment centers in Manchester and Pikeville have been funded and UNITE has created a voucher program to help those that cannot afford treatment. Drug Court is now being offered as an alternative to jail time for non-violent offenders that choose to do better for themselves. UNITE is also reaching out to our kids and has started more than 50 anti-drug clubs at schools. This funding will allow UNITE's efforts to continue going strong."

At Middle School Veterans honored Friday

Friday, November 11th, the Rockcastle County Middle School honored our veterans, the men and women whose commitment to their country and to peace on earth will forever serve as an inspiration to each of us.

Approximately 120 local veterans of war time and peace time, along with their families, attended the service which started with a reception and was followed by a student-led program of tribute.

The 1st Battalion 149th Infantry of the United States Army presented the colors following the entrance of the veterans and their families into the gymnasium.

The pledge of allegiance which was led by Chelsea Whiteley, was followed by a vocal presentation of the Star Spangled Banner. "We were honored to have State Representative Danny Ford and State Senator Ed Worley participating in our program as featured speakers," said Pam Martin.

Other featured speakers to the students were Larry United States Air Force Master Sergeant Chris Mason, and Michael Haynes, Executive Director

Christmas in the Valley begins November 19th

Travel back in time to the 1940s for a nostalgic country Christmas. "Christmas in the Valley" has once again been selected as one of the top ten holiday and winter events by the Kentucky Department of Tourism.

"We are so proud that for the 10th year in a row, we have been honored," said Connie Hunt, General Manager of Renfro Valley.

The event, featuring one of the largest light displays in the Commonwealth, begins with Renfro Valley's annual tree lighting ceremony on Saturday, November 19th at 6 p.m.

Following the tree lighting ceremony, Santa and his elves will be on hand to open his workshop for all the boys and girls. Santa's Workshop will remain open until all the children have had an opportunity to visit with Santa amidst a winter wonderland and have their picture taken with him if they wish. All village activities are free, however, there is a small charge for photos with Santa.

Throughout the remainder of the Christmas in the Valley season, Santa's workshop will be open on Fridays from 4 until 7 p.m. and on Saturdays from 2 to 7 p.m.

When all your holiday shopping in Renfro's Village shops is finished, you can take in the Valley's newest production of "Christmas in the Valley." This 90 minute show brings the entire Renfro Valley cast of entertainers onto the stage of the New Barn Theater for a music and comedy filled evening of country-style Christmas Magic. "Christmas in the Valley" is presented every Friday and Saturday, November 18 through December 17 at 7 p.m. with a special 9 p.m. show on December 10th.

Clarification

The car show held last week at Renfro Valley was sponsored by the Rockcastle Leadership committee and proceeds are divided between the three towns in the county for special events, according to Charlie Napier, a member of the committee.

Other members of the committee include: Larry Hammond, Jeff Smithers, Michael Shaffer, Connie Hunt and Robert Lawson.

The Kentucky State Police are investigating a fire at a mobile home on Barnett Road on Tuesday morning. A neighbor saw the suspect arsonist driving away from the mobile home around 10 a.m. The mobile home is owned by Roger Isaacs and was rented to Shannon Nicely and Thomas Daugherty. Daugherty's younger brother was asleep on the couch when the fire was set in the heating and air conditioning unit. Mt. Vernon firefighters, including Steve Griffin, right, extinguished the blaze, but not before $5,000 damage was done.

Program was fantastic...

I just came from a fantastic program at the high school auditorium. Director Allen Pensol, Music Director Chris Mullins and a group of talented students performed brilliantly in a musical adaptation of The Legend of Sleepy Hollow. The Legend was changed to give the musical a bit of local color and the music, which was all composed by Mullins and performed by a student group with guitars, mandolin, keyboard, violin, upright bass and bongo, was flawless. What an absolute joy to see a group of teenagers giving this project their all and enjoying it so. Hats off to all involved and especially Allen Pensol, who always goes beyond the call to promote the arts in our county.

I also applaud the Rockcastle County Board of Education for realizing the importance and for always lending full support to the arts.

Need donations...

Dear Editor,

My mother, Mary, and I have both been ill. In addition to spasmodic dysphonia, which I've had since 1998, I recently was diagnosed with frontal lobe, high blood pressure and a heart condition. I have not been able to work since January 1998 and receive no S.S.I., food stamps, Medicaid or any other type of assistance at all. My mother and I have struggled alone on her small monthly S.S.I. check. She is almost 67 and I am 37.

I have received $2,000 in medical bills from various specialists and labs, with more bills likely on the way. Unless we can get some money donations from people in the community who know, or remember us, we may be forced to sell our home and property that was given to us by my grandfather upon his passing.

We may have to sell it and move to Florida to live on my brother's land, so we can pay for all my medical bills.

I hate to have to be reduced to begging but sometimes a person must swallow their pride when they are facing dire straits.

So, if any of the Mt. Vernon Signal readers can help us with a few dollars or more, it would be forever remembered and appreciated.

We would be sad to have to leave Mt. Vernon, where we have lived our entire life, and go to a strange place far away.

If you can help, please send your gift to Mary and Don Howard, 70 Williams St., Mt. Vernon, KY 40456-2852.

Thank you and God bless you.

The spirit of Christmas...

Dear Editor,

I want to tell your readers something that touched me. I was thinking about Christmas and one year stood out particularly because I didn't get what I wanted. I patiently waited all year, just knowing that I would open the pretty wrapped package with my name on it and inside would be my very own baby doll that said "Momma."

Some of you can relate to how I felt when I didn't get her. My heart sank. I was happy with what I did get but I longed for this doll.

This was many years ago, several holidays have passed since and when I hear someone say what their favorite Christmas gift was when they were a child, I think I was very fortunate to have a mom and dad and sisters and a brother and a warm home with lots of love. I remember every single year, up to December 22

by Tonya J. Cook

The low-hanging clouds blended with the gray, foggy mist that was slowly rising from the valley to blanket the countryside in a thick blanket of gloom. This was pretty much the scenario for the entire day last Sunday. It was the kind of day you just wanted to stay in bed and watch TV or read. However, I couldn't do that as I had places to go and people to see.

My first stop was back home to London. I had promised to visit my Uncle Junior, and to a favor for him for at least two weeks. I also visited with my niece, Sandy, and her family. While I was there, I got to see my brother, Don, also. Sandy lives in my Grandma and Grandpa Norton's old house. We all sat around the kitchen table, and before long the conversation turned to the "old days." We talked and reminisced about kin-folk and neighbors who had long been gone. This was the case at my uncle's house, as well.

I don't know why, but when kin get together, especially families in the country, they retell old family stories of events that happened long ago. I suppose it's our way of reminding ourselves of our loved ones, and an attempt to pass these accounts to younger generations. While I was there, I was given a huge box of old cards and letters that my grandma had saved down through the years. I don't know exactly what all was in it, but it was sure it contained a treasure.

Time was passing quickly. That was the time to meet Stanley for lunch, and go to Richmond. We had a quick lunch, and he went shopping for the afternoon. He had dropped me off at the Richmond Health and Rehab, where I spent the afternoon. I've been spending quite a bit of time there for the past few days. It is very reminiscent of all the time I spent at Laurel Heights, a nursing home in London.

Yes, it seemed almost the same, only the faces had changed. It was room after room of what at one time was a vital part of society, not that the residents still aren't a vital part of society now, but only their focus has changed. Each face represented a remnant of society. These human remnants were at one time the workforce and the backbone of our area... factory workers, business people, secretaries, teachers, fire

Unlawful Belligerency and the Courts

They "just want to die" according to two Denver area self-described civil-rights lawyers speaking of the Guantanamo detainees. "They starve themselves the long periods of time and attempt bloody suicides." And despite the U.S. Supreme Court's 2004 ruling the federal habeas corpus statute confers jurisdiction upon the federal trial courts to hear claims that prisoners are being unlawfully detained, "not a single one of the more than 500 men and boys still held in abysmal conditions" of confinement in Guantanamo has seen the inside of a U.S. district courthouse."

The problem is the complications made by John and Anna Cayton-Holland just aren't true. Fresh from a visit to Guantanamo to work with their clients, these two attorneys leveled serious charges earlier this week regarding the maltreatment of detainees and continued efforts to thwart access to U.S. courts. Among the sweeping charges, the Hollands claim that courts, by failing to act upon their historic functions (which presumably means to act in the manner the Hollands would like) will "abdicate their responsibilities in supreme delegations of power to the president" and thereby permanently weaken the courts as "guardians of our most valued rights." Perhaps the Hollands, though themselves representing detainees, have neglected to note some important developments in the rights of the Guantanamo prisoners, all of which came about by action of the courts.

The right to counsel has been extended to detainees. Unlike traditional prisoners of war, Guantanamo detainees are permitted legal representation—a fact conveniently glossed over by the Hollands. The mere fact of representation gives prisoners some access to the courts even where courts decline to grant the relief sought.

In Rasul v. Bush, the U.S. Supreme Court affirmed the notion that any person who claims to be held in

Points East

By Ike Adams

If you are driving a pick-up and you meet somebody in another truck on a gravelled or black topped road in Garrard, Lincoln, Madison, Rockcastle, Laurel, Whitley, Bell, Harlan, Letcher, Pike or some your favorite Kentucky County east of that line; certain things are almost sure to happen in your driving behavior.

You will start to wriggle your pointing finger off the steering wheel and nod your head to the passing driver if you are out on the main road. Here's why: you know the gas hand. This is common courtesy even if you know and despise the guy or gal going the other way.

If you are on a narrow road, you tip your cap and then do a subtle, one-handed wave with your left hand as you nod your head.

If you meet on a gravel road and, one or the other of you pulls over to the side so the other can get by and you do half arm waves to each other the window as you pass.

This means, "Thanks for pulling over" and, conversely, "Happy to oblige."

And this is why I drive a pick-up. I'm a friendly person, by nature, and I like friendly people. And the friendliest people on earth drive pickup trucks.

Ask any owner of a late model car if you can borrow it to haul a major appliance in.

Or, for that matter, just ask if you can borrow it to make a trip to town.

Most of the time you'll be told to call a cab.

Make the same request to an owner of a pickup and chances are that you'll be told that the keys are in it. In today's economy you may also be told that the fuel gauge doesn't work very well and that if you are going very far, you might want to put a little gas in her.

A recent borrower of my truck swore that he put in $15 worth of gas and the gauge needle didn't move a bit. He was satisfied that I was telling him the truth about the gas hand. I didn't tell him that she holds thirty gallons and that if he had jockeyed very closely, he would have noticed that there was a slight budge.

Anyway, it does not matter if they are big V-8 four-wheel drives or two-wheel full sizeders or your little bity,

Severe Diabetic Complications

Presented by Dr. Kevin Rowe

Despite better insulin's and oral medications, severe complications of diabetes still occur, often when a person has another illness such as a heart attack or severe infection. Sometimes, these complications are the very first indication of diabetes.

One of the complications that can occur as the first sign of diabetes is called hyperosmolar coma. With hyperosmolar coma, the blood sugar gets extremely high—600 or more. The person will lose consciousness and suffer severe dehydration.

In treating this, care must be taken to reduce the blood sugar, treat the dehydration, and control the potassium and sodium in the blood. Once a person has begun treatment for diabetes, this complication is much less likely to occur.

The other major complication is called diabetic ketoacidosis. Here, a marked deficiency of insulin causes poor metabolism of sugar and the body begins to burn fats for energy instead of sugars.

Burning fats is not nearly as efficient for the body, and ketones and acids accumulate in the blood. This is called ketoacidosis and is often brought on by a major infection, such as pneumonia, or a major illness, such as a heart attack.

Diabetic ketoacidosis can usually be avoided by careful attention to the treatment of your diabetes. Checking blood sugars more frequently during infections, illnesses, or other illnesses is very important.

Since heart attacks and infections can have atypical symptoms, a person with diabetes, you should consult any unusual symptoms, fevers, severe illnesses or difficulty controlling your diabetes with your doctor.

The problem is the complications made by John and Anna Cayton-Holland just aren't true. Fresh from a visit to Guantanamo to work with their clients, these two attorneys leveled serious charges earlier this week regarding the maltreatment of detainees and continued efforts to thwart access to U.S. courts. Vote William K. Bullen County Judge-Executive

I, William K. Bullen, wish to announce that I am seeking the office of County Judge-Executive - subject to Republican May primary, 2006. I am married to Betty Sue Thacker Bullen, the daughter of Former Judge and the late Hubert Thacker and the late Zella Martin Thacker. I have three children - William K. Bullen, Jr., Marlene Lawson and Sonja Bratcher. I have been a farmer and worked 33 years as Manager of the Rockcastle Farm Bureau Insurance Agency.

Many fellow citizens of the county have encouraged me to seek the office of County Judge because of their concerns. Three of the main concerns are:

1. A plan to bring all segments of the county together to create a stronger, more unified county.
2. Seek ways to bring more industry into the county and to create more jobs for a stronger economy.
3. To seek all means to identify all roads and houses so that the emergency vehicles, ambulances, fire department or police department can easily identify where they are going without getting lost.

I will address these issues and others more thoroughly in the following weeks through the Mount Vernon Signal. Please let me know of any concerns or issues that you feel are important. Your support and vote would be appreciated.

Seeking to be your public servant,

Today is another year gone by without you here on your birthday Papa! And it's really hard for me to deal with, each time your birthday rolls around. It hits me like a ton of bricks! I get really sad, depressed, very lost and very empty feeling. All I have is memories of you now, no more hearing your laughter or seeing your beautiful smile. That had always brightened my day! I've been full of sadness for the past 5 1/2 years, that just won't go away! I miss you so very much that it drives me insane! I love you very much Papa John!
Happy 61st Birthday Papa!
Saddy missed on your birthday,

In Memory of Luster Chasteen No Goodbye

The seasons have changed. The leaves are falling. Winter will soon be here once again. A year has slowly passed. The days seem to drift on by. An anniversary is coming. One that is too painful to celebrate. However, I pretend that you are still here.

For the truth to me is too hard to bear. My heart has broken. But no tears do I shed. To stay strong, is what I tell myself. As I stand here though, the realization is all too clear. On the stone is where your name appears. The grave is all too real. I am no longer able to lie to myself. Answers have yet to come. I pray for understanding.

He was a man most people knew. No strangers did he meet. A loving husband and wonderful dad. A man most men strive to be. There is not a day or night that drifts by. That he is not in my thoughts and Forever in my heart. To me, he wasn't a father, he wasn't a dad. For me he was my daddy and the best God could've given me.

I have yet to say goodbye, something I refuse to do. For I know I will see him, one day soon. I love you, Daddy.

Local craftsman creates ornament for Governor

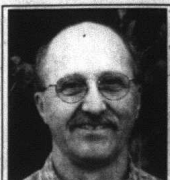

Local craftsman, proprietor of Creative Gourds in Brodhead and fifth grade instructor at Mt. Vernon Elementary Michael Robbins has designed and created the Rockcastle County contribution to the Commonwealth's Christmas Tree.

The Governor invited the 119 counties in the state to decorate a very special Christmas Tree. "My Old Kentucky Tree" will be dressed with ornaments from around the Commonwealth, one ornament representing each county in Kentucky.

Robbins' design is an engraved home-grown gourd bearing a textured outline of the county, a forested depiction of Salt Peter Cave, and the local tourism commission's motto "

Easy To Find...Hard To Forget" while the entire piece is encircled with musical notes. According to County Judge "Buzz" Carloftis, "We Rockcastle Countians can be very pleased with Michael's ornament. He has captured our local color while focusing on the particular attributes that make Rockcastle County a spot truly "Easy to find...Hard To Forget". This representation is one that will make us all extremely proud."

"My Old Kentucky Christmas Tree" will be displayed for all visitors who come to experience the Capital during the holiday season. The official lighting of the Commonwealth Christmas tree will be Monday, December 5, 2005.

Local craftsman Michael Robbins designed and created the Rockcastle County ornament for the Commonwealth's Christmas Tree.

Christmas stamps available

Christmas stamps are now available at the Mt. Vernon Post Office and there are also some new items this year and dates for packages going overseas during the holidays have been set.

Also, winter is just around the corner and it's not a minute too soon to be prepared for snow and ice.

Rural or curbside delivery customers are asked to clear the snow in front of their boxes. It is the customer's responsibility to provide safe access for mail delivery vehicles.

Customers with computer connection can shop for stamps online and browse selections by price, subject or type. Go to USPS.com for more information.

For security, flexibility, convenience and peace of mind, nothing beats renting a P.O. Box. We have all sizes available. With a P.O. Box, your mail is secure, protected under lock and key and by federal statute. It affords flexibility in retrieving your mail any time. The lobby is open 24/7.

Also, if you plan foreign travel and need a passport, stop by for a passport application. The form and instructions tell you everything you will need to get a passport. In brief, you need to present proof of citizenship, proof of identity, provide two passport photos, a social security number and pay the fees.

Stamps by mail is a convenient way to order stamps -- in booklets, coils or sheets, postcards and other services.

Stamped envelopes can be purchased in any quantity at post offices around the nation.

Another great idea is placing your own photo on stamps. This would be great for wedding invitations, Christmas cards and birth announcements. We have the information, you need or you can go to <http://photo.stamps.com>.

We have some great retail products this year for those NASCAR fans. Please stop in to see our collection of prints and other retail products. Also, we have a box in our lobby for the local food banks during the holiday season.

4-cylinder, run-to-towners. Doesn't matter if it's a mucky truck, a luxury ride, a hay-bale-hauler, or something just to toilet in.

You got a truck. And you are making statements. (As in "try hauling this freezer home in your pitiful, low-riding, closed-in car.")

You simply step up and slide and relax into seats of most pickups. Getting out is a simple step down. As opposed to squatting and squeezing and wiggling down into a regular car and wondering how the heck you are gonna ever get out without help.

Please note that we are making statements about SUVs here because we believe them to be cars that wannabe pickup drivers. And we pick drivers not regularly wave to them on the road unless they are driven by single-looking women without kids, with carriages strapped to the rear seats.)

In which case, we may flash our headlights, not that that's ever stopped traffic for your truck. I wink too, but apparently they can't see my flashlights all that stained glass that comes on the windshields of SUVs these days.

Speaking of headlights, the coolest thing in central KY, and I assume it's catching on all over, is to flash your lights when you see someone coming in the other direction driving a truck just like yours.

So you flash just before you pass each other and wave if you can; even out on the main road it's a truck thing and you won't understand unless you drive and love one.

I have a '93 red Chevy 1500 series pickup, my main ride, which is the love of my life except for Loretta. (I have found a way to put sexy panties on the truck.)

About ten thousand guys (no kidding) in Garrard and surrounding counties have near carbon copies of my truck, the body parts of which was manufactured from about 1988 to 1998.

You can't find one in a junk yard if you need spare parts. If you really love your truck, and it finally ends up in the shop and you put a new one before you'll let it get ripped apart at a salvage yard. But mostly, these old Chevy trucks don't die.

So what we're wondering about is how we can get replacement flasher switches in bulk?

We like to say hello to one another when we pass, but we're wearing out our lights.

fighters, waitresses, carpenters, mothers and fathers from all walks of life. Each I'm sure had a lot of knowledge, life stories and history to share, if their book was only opened. If anyone only had the time to stop and chat with these individuals, imagine the human interest stories you could hear, the advice about living, and all the history they have witnessed. What a treasure.

Monday morning came. I was on my way back to the facility at Richmond. The day was still thick with the gloom of the clouds and fog. The previous night I had finally gotten a chance to look through the box of old cards and letters that my grandma had saved. I've only scratched the surface, as I only had time to go through a few items on the top.

In the few items I've gone through, I've found letters from my great-great aunts written to my grandma, birthday cards to various family members from other family members, long-since dead, children's drawings from various grandchildren, nieces, and nephews (some of which have grandchildren of their own now), old Christmas cards from decades ago, and a variety of other memorabilia. Each old letter contains a chapter of family history. Each card celebrated a milestone in a lifetime. What a treasure.

There was even one mystery. I found a huge handful of Valentine's cards that had been sent to a next-door neighbor boy back in the late '30s or early '40s. The cards had been sent by neighborhood children who are around seventy now. They were, by judging their writing, in the second or third grade then. The recipient of the cards had been killed in military service in the early 1950s at about age eighteen or twenty. His parents, grandparents, aunts, and uncles are all dead now. He was an only child. These cards, as well as all the others, are in excellent condition. They have been stored in my grandma's attic, and had even seen the light of day for probably thirty years. I'm sure if he had any family left, they would be quite appreciative of these cards. I'll try to find them. The mystery is how, when, and why our family came to have these cards.

As I drove through the fog and mist, I thought how much the old cards and letters were much like the residents at the facility at Richmond. Each is precious in its own way, contains a lot of history, and there is even a mystery involved in here and there. What a treasure.

custody in violation of the Constitution or laws of the United States may petition the courts for their release from custody, and "in Hamdi v. Rumsfeld, a recent U.S. Court of Appeals decision, the court addressed a detainee's claim that the Geneva Convention conferred a right to sue in the federal courts for confinement in violation of the Convention's provisions.

Hence, contrary to the implications of the Hollands, detainees are afforded access to U.S. Courts. The real gripe, it seems, is that the Courts are not always aware of the underlying theme that these detainees, determined to be enemy combatants by the Executive, should be released from U.S. custody.

The issues presented by the Hollands are not new. Similar, though not identical, issues have been addressed in prior military conflicts.

"In Eisenstarr v. Forestal, a post-WWII decision, the federal court was faced with the issue of whether German citizens could seek court orders of release where the Germans had been captured by U.S. forces in China, convicted of war crimes by a U.S. military commission, and held in prison in occupied Germany.

"In Ahrens v. Clark, another post-WWII decision, a federal court addressed the issue of 120 Germans detained at Ellis Island who were pending deportation.

"In a post Civil War case, In re Milligan, the U.S. Supreme Court addressed the issue of an Indiana resident, supposedly dedicated to the overthrow of the United States as a member of the Sons of Liberty, who was detained for plotting an attack during the war on U.S. military sites.

"In Application of Yamashita, the U.S. Supreme Court dealt with the challenge to a military tribunal's findings regarding the Commanding General of the Fourteenth Army Group of the Imperial Japanese Army in the Philippines prior to 1945.

Our judicial system historically recognizes that the duty of the courts, in times of war as well as peace, to preserve constitutional safeguards. Nevertheless, our system of government also recognizes that the status of wartime vests the Executive with powers relating to the treatment of enemy combatants, including trial and punishment by military tribunals.

The issues presented post-9/11 are no less complicated than those faced by Courts following other military conflicts. The status of non-military prisoners following the World Wars, Civil War guerrillas, or military combatants during any other period of war, were no less compelling than the concerns of Guantanamo detainees.

Let us not forget, however, that in determining what rights those prisoners may possess, the Courts are fulfilling their traditional historical role even when determining that the Executive is appropriately ended authority which it may be lacking in peace. As advocates, the Hollands have every right to strike hard blows at administration, which from the Hollands' perspective is doing everything to thwart efforts to obtain the release of the detainees. That advocacy should not, however, undermine the role the Courts have played in addressing the concerns of detainees—even if the Hollands don't like the result.

When you are sick and old(er), you hold on to every memory you can. I will not forget it. I didn't have the makings for a Christmas dinner and couldn't afford to buy any. I re-checked the freezer and cupboard to see what I would prepare in a few days. It was a toss up between Tuna Salad or Tuna casserole. I settled for the casserole. I don't have company. I am alone with no children so I didn't have to make a big fuss about it. I had some lights and a can of snow and sprayed the window and all was looking real good.

It was in the early evening when a neighbor called and asked if she could give my name out so I could get a Christmas dinner. (It was a little over two weeks before Christmas 04.) I said yes but if someone else needed it more, that I would rather them get it and it was maybe too late to put in for a meal because it takes time for planning.

I forgot about it almost until on the 22nd, when I was taking a nap, the phone rang. I answered it and the person said she had Christmas for me but needed directions to my house. I had all decorated and was excited that I was getting visitors not just a meal.

I won't soon forget the day. I heard a vehicle pull up and a door shut. I peeped out my window and saw two people with boxes. I opened the door and the lady said, "Merry Christmas, Mattie. We have a meal and some gifts for you." She brought a fruit basket, ham, cider, potatoes and all the fixins' for more than one person. I couldn't talk. I was speechless and I watched, in tears, these ladies put gifts under the garland I had hung around an Angel on a stand.

She talked for a little and the lady said I was her daughter. She was very kind and prayed with me as I asked her to. She said don't peek in these boxes until Christmas Day. We laughed and then these people left.

Finally, it was here. I baked the ham and the aroma gave the house a nice scent. I lit the candles and sat for a while and thought, it's time to open my gifts. I opened the first of many and was sure happy to get a pair of gloves and a Wal-Mart gift card. I sure could use that. There were nice gifts to follow. Then I did as the note on the box said, open last. I tore the paper carefully. I got anxious to see what I was going to get. There was absolutely no way this person could have known about me. I am older than her and never met her before. Inside the box was a baby doll, with a pink gown. I picked her up and was stunned when she so softly said, "Mamma."

I told all my friends about this. I later learned, from an acquaintance, that my Christmas was paid for personally by the lady. I don't recall her last name but her first was Kathy. She is over the Rock of Ages Mission in Rockcastle County.

Please support this lady. I never ever expected a meal and I don't even live in Rockcastle County.

Thank you,
Mattie Jones
London, Ky.
P.S. Keep the spirit of giving in your heart all year long. I lived in Berea up until April of this year. I have no phone at this time.

Livingston still beautiful...
Dear Editor,

I live in Livingston and find it just as beautiful as when I moved here in July. I don't quite understand if Ms. Jenny Dore was saying she wanted to "reinvest" in the town but feels she better rethink or she better wait and see what Tina says.

I was raised to mind my own business and feel it was extremely rude for Ms. Dore to bring up someone's name and slander it. If I were Tina, I would go to the police station alright but not for a lie detector test. It would be to file slander charges.

I do not personally know Tina or the other people you mentioned but feel you should go to people and ask them if you're that nosy instead of making accusations that I'm sure were prompted by gossip.

I would also like to see people with business ideas in Livingston but, mostly, I'd like to see people that can mind their own business come to Livingston.

Just my opinion,
Deborah Brunert

Farm-City Week...

Dear Editor,

On Thanksgiving Day, Americans gather with family and friends to reflect on our many blessings. As we do this, let's all take a moment to reflect on the abundance that we enjoy, not just on Thanksgiving Day, but every day. In this information Age we live in, it is easy to forget that the safe, plentiful and affordable food that is available to us, and the materials used to produce the clothing, housing, medicines, fuels and other products that are essential to our lives, didn't just magically appear in the store. They got there thanks to a complex partnership that includes farmers, processors, researchers, brokers, bankers, truckers, railroads, advertisers, wholesalers and retailers.

In appreciation of this partnership, I asked Governor Fletcher to proclaim November 18-24, 2005, as Farm-City Week in Kentucky. It is an opportunity for all of us to give thanks for the hard work of Kentucky's tens of thousands of farm families as well as those whose combined efforts have developed the most efficient and productive agricultural system in the history of the world.

Kentucky is blessed with fertile soil, abundant water and a temperate climate. But we are further blessed by the fact that this partnership between town and country has used these rich agricultural resources to create the health and prosperity with which we have been so richly blessed. This partnership has also been responsible for preserving so much of our rural heritage. Our beautiful countryside and rural communities where faith, family and patriotism flourish are just two of the many reasons that this Commonwealth is such a special place.

For this, my family gives thanks. I call upon your family to do the same.

Sincerely,
Richie Farmer
Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture

Report child abuse

About 28 of every 1000 Kentucky children are victims of abuse or neglect each year, according to state reports. The majority of those children are ages 1 to 3. The abuse takes many forms -- neglect, physical abuse, emotional abuse and sexual abuse.

Quite often, those who suspect child abuse feel they may not have enough information to prove their suspicions. However, proof is not required for an initial reporting of child abuse. Suspicion is ample grounds for a preliminary inquiry into the home life of a child.

Kentucky law requires child abuse to be reported. According to Kentucky statutes, only attorneys and members of the clergy are exempt from the mandatory reporting of child abuse or testifying in court. That means everyone else -- husbands, wives, siblings, doctors, nurses, teachers, professional and concerned citizens -- is required by law to report the abuse or neglect of a child. Those who ignore their duty can be found guilty of a Class B Misdemeanor punishable by up to 90 days in jail and up to a $250 fine.

Often people are afraid to report child abuse or neglect for fear of being sued. Under Kentucky law, anyone acting upon reasonable cause and in good faith in reporting child abuse or neglect is immune from all civil and/or criminal liability.

On the other hand, any person who knowingly makes a false report concerning child abuse or neglect and does so with malice can be found guilty of a Class A Misdemeanor, punishable by up to a year in jail and a $500 fine.

Reporting child abuse is extremely important. Studies show that mistreatment during childhood increases the likelihood of the child being arrested as a juvenile by 53 percent, as an adult by 38 percent and for a violent crime by 38 percent. For females who were abused as children, the likelihood of arrest increases by 77 percent. Children who were sexually abused are 28 times more likely to be arrested for prostitution as an adult.

A report of suspected child abuse is not an accusation. It is an expression of concern and a request for an investigation. The names of people reporting their suspicions are not given to families suspected of child abuse or neglect. You may make your report anonymously.

When you make a report of child abuse, the following information would be helpful to investigators.

- The child's name and location.
- The inspected perpetrator's name and relationship to the child (if known).
- The description of what you have seen or heard regarding abuse or neglect.
- The name(s) of any other people having knowledge of the abuse; and
- Your name and phone number.

To report suspected child abuse in Rockcastle County, call Community Based Services, at 606-256-2138. A report can be made statewide to 800-752-6200. On evenings and weekends, contact the sheriff's office at 606-256-2032. If a child is in immediate danger call 911.

If a report is found to have enough credible information, it will be referred for investigation. They may speak with the child, the parents and other people in contact with the child (teachers, doctors, child care providers, etc.).

If abuse has occurred or is likely to occur, the family may enter the judicial system. In those cases, the Rockcastle County Attorney's office will represent the interests of the abused child in family court. The court may order counseling, mental health care, medical care, parenting classes, employment assistance or other financial assistance. In some cases, the child may be removed from the home to ensure his or her safety. The parents also may face criminal punishments for their actions.

Although protecting children is of foremost importance, strengthening families is also a priority. Parents may sometimes need guidance and education on becoming better parents. Many times, physical abuse is the result of excessive discipline or punishment that is too severe for the child's age. Some parents are not aware of the severity of their actions.

Parents experiencing extreme frustration can find help through the Parent Helpline at 1-800-432-9251, which can provide information and referrals for parents. Calls will remain anonymous and confidential.

Remember, as a concerned citizen, it is not your job to prove child abuse. Mere suspicion is ample grounds for requesting an inquiry by local officials. Your courage in making such a request may indeed better a child's life in dramatic ways.

You're more than a policy number. You're a friend.

Local judges attend 2005 Circuit Judges College

Circuit Judges Jeffrey T. Burdette, Debra H. Lambert and David A. Tapp, who serve Lincoln, Pulaski and Rockcastle counties, took part in the 2005 Circuit Judges College offered by the Administrative Office of the Courts for circuit judges throughout the state. The conference took place in October at the Embassy Suites Hotel in Covington, Ky.

Judges look forward to sharing ideas and concerns with their judicial colleagues at the annual college," said Jefferson County Chief Regional Circuit Judge James Shake, outgoing president of the Kentucky Circuit Judges Association. "The goal of the college is to share updates and best practices on issues judges face in their courtrooms."

Among the topics on this year's agenda were domestic violence and elder abuse, racial fairness, death penalty cases, election law for the judiciary, judicial writing, cyber fraud, evidentiary issues and court security.

Chief Justice Joseph E. Lambert delivered an address on racial fairness and the courts in which he restated his belief that Kentucky courts must provide "equal treatment for all, regardless of race, gender, religion, ethnicity and sexual orientation."

The faculty for the college included several Kentucky circuit judges along with Secretary of State Trey Grayson, Minnesota District Judge James Hoolihan, Dr. James Clark of the University of Kentucky College of Social Work, Professor Louise Graham of the UK College of Law and Dr. Marc Rogers of Purdue University.

Circuit Court is the court of general jurisdiction and hears all criminal matters and civil matters involving more than $4,000. It has jurisdiction over capital offenses and felonies, dissolution of marriage, adoption, termination of parental rights, land disputes and contested probate cases. Family Court is a division of Circuit Court. The Administrative Office of the Courts is the operational arm of the Kentucky Court of Justice and supports the activities of more than 3,400 court system employees, including the elected offices of justices, judges and circuit court clerks. The AOC provides training and education to the state's judges.

What Saith The Scriptures

In Hebrews 1:1-2, "God, who at sundry times and in divers manners spake in time past unto the fathers by the prophets, Hath in these last days spoken unto us by his Son, whom he hath appointed heir of all things, by whom also he made the worlds." The writer is affirming that God spoke in Old Testament times in various portions and in various ways. Yet today, under the New Testament order, he speaks by his Son, Jesus Christ. Jesus is that prophet Moses talked to come, Deut. 18:18-19. Peter quotes these verses in Acts 3:22-23, "For Moses truly said unto the fathers, A prophet shall the Lord your God raise up unto you of your brethren, like unto me; him shall ye hear in all things whatsoever he shall say unto you. And it shall come to pass, that every soul, which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people." Notice the warning again "I've do not listen to that prophet," "And it shall come to pass, that every soul, which will not hear that prophet, shall be destroyed from among the people." The Hebrew writer sounds a similar warning in Hebrews 12:25, "See that ye refuse not him that speaketh. For if they escaped not who refused him that spake on earth, much more shall not we escape, if we turn away from him that speaketh from heaven." Folks who refused to listen to Moses did not escape, then certainly we shall not escape if we refuse to listen to Jesus. Are you listening???

The Rock is "SOLID" defeating Ashland 32-14

By: Richard Anderkin
The Rockcastle County Rockets traveled to Ashland on Friday night where they defeated the Tomcats 32-14 in the second round of the state football play-offs.

The Rockets will now face a team who has defeated the Rockets in their last two meetings, the Bell County Bobcats.

That meeting will come at Bell County where the Rockets were clearly cheated on the last play of the game in regular season, losing 33-29 when a quarterback sneak was called a touchdown. Game films have since shown that the quarterback did not cross the goal line.

"I can't comment on officials' refereeing," Head Coach Tom Larkey said this week. "We are simply focused on the re-match and all fans know how hard it is to win down there. Our team will give it all," he added.

The voice of the Rockets, Jerry Penzol, said the officials for Friday night's game are coming from northern Kentucky. "I think we will have a more even playing field and I can comment on officiating from the last game. They did not score but, because we were on Bell County's field, things went just like Dudley Hilton wanted them to," Penzol said this week.

Last week the Bobcats defeated the Madison Southern Eagles 38-7 to advance to the regional championship game.

In the Rockets' game with Ashley last week:

Quarterback Matthew Burkhart scored on a one yard run with 5:02 to go. The extra point kicked failed. Ashland then scored with 2:25 to go in the first quarter to take a 7-6 lead.

Running back Bucky Skinner then scored on the opening series of the second quarter on a 17 yard run and the Rockets would never trail, after Skinner's score.

Senior Gabe Stallworth scored on a 21 yard run and Alex Centers caught the extra point throw from Burkhart to make it 20-7.

Burkhart would score again on a one yard run in the third quarter and Shawn Childress caught a four yard touchdown pass from Burkhart in the fourth quarter.

The Rockets had 429 yards of total offense and held onto the ball 35 minutes compared to Ashland's 13 minutes. The Rocket defense gave up only 179 yards.

Offensively the Rockets were led by Stallworth, who had 192 yards on 35 carries. He also caught one pass for eleven yards. Burkhart had 37 yards on 13 carries and was 15 for 17 passing for 166 yards.

Skinner rushed the ball six times for 49 yards and Shawn Childress caught four passes for 59 yards. Alex Centers caught three balls for 30 yards.

Defensively, the Rockets were led in tackles by sophomore Zach Burkhart's eight tackles. He also picked off one pass.

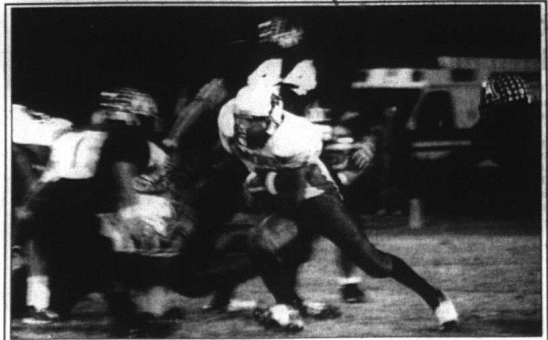

Other Rockets with defensive stats were: Donovan Pigg, who had three tackles and two sacks; Adam Mink had one, a sack; Skinner, three; Childress, two; Charles Cumagin, four; McQueary, two; Matthew Burkhart, three; Stallworth, two and Centers, one. Centers is questionable for Friday night's contest because he has not been in school this week. "Our offensive and defensive line is continuing to dominate our opponents and I think our team is getting better by the week," Larkey said.

A large crowd is anticipated due to the fact that Friday night's game will be the only high school game played in Southeastern Kentucky on Friday night.

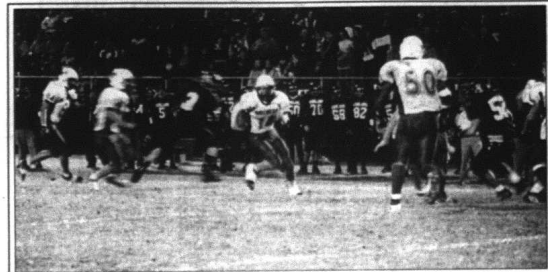

The winner of the Rocket, Bell County contest will face either Lexington Catholic, who are 11-1 this season with their only loss handed to them by reigning 4A state champions, Saint Xavier or Fort Thomas Highlands.

Highlands, who Rockcastle County destroyed 45-6 in 2002 to go to their second straight championship game, is 9-3 this season.

"We have never overlooked any opponent since I have been here, but if we get by Bell County, we have a lot of work to do to prepare for ei-

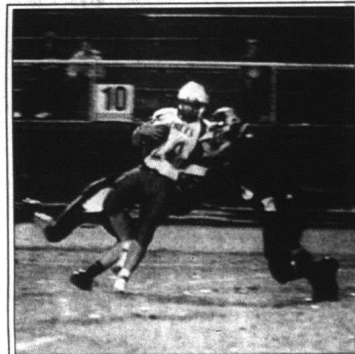

Gabe Stallworth gained 192 yards on 35 carries on Friday night.

Sophomore Zack Burkhart is shown with the football after intercepting the ball on Friday night at Ashland. Burkhart also had eight tackles and assists. The Rockets play at Bell County this Friday night in the regional championship. Also in the photo is #50 Donovan Pigg.

Quarterback Matthew Burkhart was 15-17 passing for 166 yards and threw two touchdowns rushing and threw for another at Ashland on Friday night.

Bucky Skinner had 32 yards on six carries and caught one pass for 17 yards. He scored one rushing touchdown.

Shawn Childress is shown making a block on Friday night in Ashland when the Rockets defeated the Tomcats 32-14. Childress caught four passes for 59 yards, one of which was a touchdown.

ther one of those teams," Larkey said. "I hope we have a good crowd. Friday, it always helps our players," he added.

Misses state title by only seven points

RCHS Girls' Cross-Country finishes third in Class 2A State Championships

The RCHS girls' cross-country team competed in the Class 2A State Championships this past Saturday at the Kentucky Horse Park. A week before, RCHS won its 4th straight Class 2A Region IV title at Masterson Station Park. Coming into state RCHS was ranked 4th, however, the girls had defeated 3rd ranked Lexington Catholic at region and every time they've squared off this season. RCHS had also defeated 2nd ranked Bell County on more than one occasion.

The meet proved to be a very exciting one, as the RCHS girls made a strong bid for Rockcastle County's first team state title in school history. Last season, RCHS was defeated by Highlands by twenty-eight points while finishing as state runner-up. Highlands came into the meet as the favorite having been ranked number one the entire season, as well as the fact that they were the three-time defending state champions.

Rockcastle got off to a great start in the race under awesome weather conditions very suitable for racing. Blazing the way were Senior Kayla Hayes and 8th grader Laura Dollins remained in the top four for most of the first mile. They were followed closely by 5th grader Michaela Hunter and 7th grader Sara Hammond. RCHS was senior Jessi Asher, followed by sophomore Courtney Bullock, and senior Ashley Bullock. Highlands and Bell County also got off to strong starts through the first mile.

As the girls approached the two-mile mark of the 3.1-mile race, RCHS had a grasp on first place with a chain of runners strung close enough together to take the title. Michaela Hunter made a strong move in the last mile to move into third place overall. Kayla and Laura followed closely, with all three girls remaining in the top ten. Sara and Jessi held on to the fourth and fifth spots for RCHS, followed closely by Courtney and Ashley.

Within the last mile, the team made a valiant effort to hold on to the state title, but saw it relinquished by mere seconds. When all was said and done, the RCHS girls' team finished a very close, but rather disappointing 3rd overall. Bell County took the team title, finishing with 99 points and the individual winner in junior Rachel Blank. Highlands held on to second by only one point, finishing with 105 points. Rockcastle's 3rd place effort saw them score 106 points, only 1 away from a state runner-up finish and 7 away from the state title. RCHS defeated 4th place Lexington Catholic by over 80 points. Impressively, Rockcastle's region placed three teams in the top six, including Boyle County who finished 11th.

RCHS was led by Michaela Hunter who had a career day. Michaela finished an amazing 6th place overall with an awesome new personal best and RCHS season's best time of 20:16. She defeated the regional champion from Lexington Catholic by over 8 seconds. With her top fifteen finish, Michaela has a chance to put herself in elite company. Only Pulaski County's former distance runner and five-time state champion Rachel Sanford has made the top fifteen at state for eight straight seasons. No other runner in state history has made the top fifteen state in six times. Michaela now has an excellent opportunity to match this feat if she can place in the top fifteen for the each of the next seven seasons.

Kayla Hayes ran her final high school cross-country race the way in which she ran them all - with a fast start and a strong finish. Kayla, a three-time list all-stater, finished another amazing season in 8th place overall. Her impressive time of 20:27 was one of her best efforts of the season. She also received the prestigious Class 2A Outstanding Sportsmanship Award for her great attitude towards her teammates and others. Kayla finished her career as a three-time regional champion and two-time state runner-up. She also placed in the top five at state each of the last three seasons while leading her team to a school record four straight regional titles. Kayla is currently being recruited by Morehead State University, Centre College, Cumberland College, and Lindsey Wilson, as well as several in state and out of state schools. At this time, she is undecided on her college choice.

Laura Dollins ran the best race of her career during the state championships, remaining in the top ten form wire-to-wire. Laura, a 2nd team all-stater last year, finished an impressive 10th overall with an awesome personal best effort of 20:33. She has had a tremendous season, despite missing some practice time earlier in the season due to her participation in basketball. Laura, along with Michaela and Kayla, were the only three teammates to finish in the top ten in Class 2A. Laura and Michaela will be strong favorites for the individual state title for years to come as they try to deliver the cross-country team's first individual or team state championship.

Sara Hammond finished fourth for Rockcastle with a superb effort. She finished an exceptional 34th overall, her highest finish ever at state. She also established a new personal best effort with an impressive time of 21:24. Sara has had a difficult road this year since she doubles as a talented basketball player for the RCHS 7th and 8th grade teams. Immediately after her performance in the state championships, Sara traveled to Frankfort to compete in the 7th and 8th grade conference championships for RCHS where she helped the 7th grade to the conference championship title. She was also a state champion for the RCHS track team as part of the 1600-meter relay squad that won it all a year ago. Needless to say, her future is bright in many different sporting areas.

Jessi Asher completed the scoring for Rockcastle and her brilliant cross-country career with an impressive 53rd place finish overall. Her exceptional effort of 21:45 represented her best time of the season. Last season, Jessi made 1st team all-state with a top ten finish while helping the girls' team to a state runner-up finish. She will now begin practice with the RCHS Lady Rockets basketball team as they seek their third regional title in a row.

Courtney Bullock finished an awesome race in 112th place overall. Courtney's time of 22:57 was her best effort of the season. Next year, Courtney will play a very important role on a team that will lose three seniors. If she improves as planned, RCHS could find themselves back in the hunt for a state championship.

Ashley Bullock finished her impressive career at RCHS with a great performance at state. Ashley finished 186th overall with an exceptional effort of 29:18. The past few seasons, Ashley has had knee problems which have prevented her from improving her sub-25 minute races of her early career. Despite the pain and aggravation of it all, Ashley never gave up and always gave it her best in practice and in the meets. Her perseverance has meant a great deal to her teammates and coach over the past few seasons.

In the next few weeks, several members of the RCHS girls' team will likely be named to the all-state team, as well as the All-Area 8 teams for both middle and high school. Perhaps even more impressive is the fact that several members will be named to the academic all-state team which is a reward for the combination of athletic achievement and outstanding classroom performance.

Next season, the girls will be looking to win their fifth straight regional title while having an opportunity to

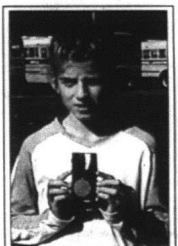

At the state cross-country championships in Class 2A, senior Kayla Hayes, a three-time first team all-stater, finished another amazing season in eighth place overall with an impressive time of 20:27. She also received the prestigious Class 2A Outstanding Sportsmanship Award for her great attitude towards her teammates and others.

The RCHS girls' cross-country team finished third in the Class 2A State Cross-Country Championships this past Saturday at the Kentucky Horse Park. The team was only one point away from another state runner-up finish and seven points from the state title. Team members included: (1 to 7) - Michaela Hunter, Jessi Asher, Sara Hammond, Kayla Hayes, Courtney Bullock, Ashley Bullock, Laura Dollins.

complete once again for the state championship. Michaela Hunter, Laura Dollins, and Sara Hammond represent a very talented returning trio who will all have an excellent chance to win the individual title while easily making the top ten. Middle school athletes Samantha Smith, Kristen Bullock, and Jasmin Johnson, along with high school runners Courtney Bullock and Katie Burdette, will seek to fill in the void left by the graduating seniors.

MVES fifth grader Michaela Hunter led RCHS at the state cross-country championships, finishing an amazing sixth place overall with an awesome new personal best and RCHS season's best time of 20:16. She defeated the regional champion from Lexington Catholic by over eight seconds.

At the Class 2A State Championships, RCHS seventh grader Laura Dollins finished an exceptional 10th overall while establishing a new personal best effort with an impressive time of 21:24.

Motorists should exercise caution in November as deer movement increases

Motorists need to be aware that deer movement across roadways increases dramatically in November as the whitetail mating season (commonly called the rut) reaches its zenith.

"This is the time of the year deer breed," said David Yancy, deer biologist for the Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources

(KDFWR). "Males are running around patrolling their territory and looking for females to breed. If females aren't in heat, they run away to avoid being harassed by the male until ready to allow breeding to take place. All of this activity causes deer to cross roads more often than usual."

The peak of this "rutting" activity is the middle two weeks of November, when the majority of deer breeding occurs, but it can extend a few weeks earlier and later. The shorter days and longer nights signal to deer that it is time to breed. Not all deer breed at exactly the same time, but rather when their internal biology says it's time.

"Deer have a 200 day gestation period," Yancy said. "In order to give birth in the late spring to protect fawns from cold frosts, they've evolved to drop fawns in mid-May to mid-June."

Some people mistakenly blame hunting for November deer movement, but this natural increase in activity level occurs with or without hunting. "They would be running out in the road much more frequently than we have now," Yancy said. "Hunting is by far the most effective method of controlling the deer population and keeping deer numbers manageable. The potential for collision"

Oscar Melvin "Toad" Chasteen was one of the 120 veterans honored at the Rockcastle County Middle School on Friday. Mr. Chasteen was inducted into the United States Army three months before World War II began. "Toad" was the third oldest of a family of ten boys and one girl born to William and Bertha (Houndshell) Chasteen. He is married to the former Dorothy Fingleton Chasteen and has been for 58 years. They have three children, LaVerne Winstead, Brenda Hamilton and Judy Parrott. During his service to the United States he received the Bronze Star and the Purple Heart. Twelve other medals were awarded to the Staff Sergeant.

State Representative Danny Ford gave a welcome to all the Veterans during ceremonies last Friday.

CAP opens substance abuse recovery center for women

A new substance abuse recovery center for women, "Healing Rain," opened its doors on September 12, operated by the Christian Appalachian Project (CAP). The twelve-bed facility is located in Rockcastle County.

The opening of the center was in response to the drug epidemic that plagues Appalachia and targets a growing population that is being arrested for illicit drug use: women. According to recent statistics from Operation UNITE, nearly 40 percent of drug arrests in the Fifth Congressional District are women. When women are drug users, the whole family suffers, according to CAP Human Service Missions and Substance Abuse Recovery Director Tom Connor. "In cases of mothers who are addicted, the impact on children is absolutely destructive," he says. "Women are much more apt to keep their addiction hidden and have custody of the children. This creates an explosive and dangerous situation for the children. One of the more recently identified issues is the impact on children who are present with methamphetamine as it is being manufactured. Beyond the emotional impact on children whose parents are addicted, there is apparently serious physical damage. Mothers who have a drug arrest will almost always lose custody of her children. In many cases family, especially grandparents, will have the children. In other cases, the children are in foster homes, which is adding an additional stress to an already overburdened system."

With a curriculum that closely models materials such as "Walking the Twelve Steps with Jesus Christ," residents will journey within to unleash the power of spirituality when faced with the difficulty of addiction. The participants are a part of "therapeutic community," an environment that encourages responsibility for self and for others. "Healing Rain" Manager John McQuay views the program as a place where addicts learn to control their addiction and live a productive life in our communities. "The approach is not just a fight against drugs," he said, "but an opportunity to rebuild their total life so that the addict may go out and impact their community. Appalachia has suffered from devastating poverty and I think that our Kentucky needs to heal and become what God envisions it to be. Healing Rain, represents not only the overwhelming love of God that reaches down to all of us, but also the tears of fear and guilt that washes the soul clean and restores life."

The Christian Appalachian Project is an interdenominational, non-profit Christian organization committed to serving people in need in Appalachia by providing physical, spiritual and emotional support through a wide variety of programs and services.

"Deer"

ing with a whitetail would be greater if we were in the woods. Deer caught in the road by an approaching vehicle may not automatically move out of the way, even after honking the horn. Nothing in their natural world is as bright as the headlights of a vehicle, and their bright eyes transfixed them. Motorists who encounter deer in the road should slow to a stop if possible and allow the deer to cross to the other side. When dark, it is a good idea to keep the headlights on so other approaching motorists see slowing or stopped vehicles. Turning off the headlights would necessarily get the animal moving again. Patience and alertness are required to best avoid a collision.

Deer routinely travel in groups, so if you see one, you'll likely see more. Watch areas where roads traverse through a wooded area. Deer can quickly dart out from the wooded area and into the road in front of an approaching vehicle.

If you are traveling at night over the next month or so, be vigilant. This time of year, deer can appear in unusual places, and expect the unexpected when driving through areas where deer are likely to be, and chances are you'll be able to react in time to avoid an accident.

Regardless of how careful you are, the possibility still exists that you may collide with a deer. In urban areas, where whitetails can become accustomed to a lot of human activity and traffic, they learn that sounds and traveling vehicles generally pose no threat. Deer in these areas aren't as afraid as they otherwise would be.

Slow down, watch for deer crossing signs, and expect the unexpected when driving through areas where deer are likely to be, and chances are you'll be able to react in time to avoid an accident.

The Family Room

Is it Christmas yet? Christmas decorations are already in the stores so it must be. One of my friends begins playing Christmas carols in August each year. Christmas is his favorite time, and he makes it last as long as possible.

Christmas at Bethany House Abuse Shelter in Somerset is an exciting time. The staff makes sure that victims and their children have a special Christmas with gifts and food, and that is only the beginning. Children who are no longer residing at the shelter also receive their own presents. In past years Bethany House has provided Christmas for more than 200 children in Pulaski and surrounding counties.

This would not have been possible without the help of people like you who took the time to give. This year these women and children who have been traumatized by domestic violence need your help again. Your donation of presents or money to buy presents will guarantee that these little ones have a special Christmas. The following are the kinds of things Bethany House needs for Christmas. If you can help, bring these items to the shelter.

For drop off times and more information, call 679-1553 or 1-800-755-2017.

Perhaps your club or church group could make this a special project.

We are especially grateful to Somerset Mall, The Pink Bee and to Somerset Community College and McCreary Center for making us a part of their Christmas with an angel tree at each location.

If you would like to make a monetary donation, send your check to Bethany House Abuse Shelter, Inc. at PO Box 864, Somerset, KY 42502. These funds can be used to purchase items that are not donated by others. Domestic violence victims in Rockcastle and Laurel counties are served by the Family Life Abuse Center in Mt. Vernon. Call them at 256-9511 or 1-800-755-5348 for information on donations.

Yes, the anticipation of Christmas has already begun. My friend is playing his Christmas carols and the stores are decorating. Help Bethany House help the ones in need by bringing Christmas gifts to the shelter or by sending a check. Thank you.

$77,600 in agricultural funds awarded to Rockcastle County

The Kentucky Agricultural Development Board, chaired by Governor Ernie Fletcher, mailed checks totaling $77,600 in support of agricultural diversification programs in Rockcastle County. The Rockcastle County Cattlemen's Association/Southeastern Kentucky Agriculture Development Association (SKAD) submitted proposals for cost-share assistance to the Rockcastle County Agricultural Development Council and the Agricultural Development Board.

The Rockcastle County Cattlemen's Association/SKAD received $29,000 for the Cattle Handling Facilities program. This program offers cost-share assistance to individual beef and dairy producers in Rockcastle County to implement best management and health practices that augment efficient production and marketing opportunities for beef and dairy producers in the Commonwealth.

The Rockcastle County Cattlemen's Association/SKAD was awarded $20,400 for the Hay, Straw and Commodity Storage program in Rockcastle County. This program offers cost-share assistance to individual producers seeking to increase income by implementing the best practices related to hay, straw and commodity storage and utilization. Using these practices will then improve feed and straw quality.

The Rockcastle County Cattlemen's Association/SKAD received $28,000 in support of the Forage Resource and Improvement program. The forage program provides cost-share assistance with individual producers in Rockcastle County through improved forage quality, quantity, and efficient use. It also encourages science-based forage management decisions.

The Kentucky Legislature continues to make great strides towards reducing the state's dependence on tobacco production, while revitalizing the farm economy by investing 50% of Kentucky's Master Settlement Agreement into the Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund. To date Kentucky has invested over $190 million to an array of county, regional, and state projects designed to increase net farm income and create sustainable new farm-based business enterprises. The Rockcastle County diversification programs represent over 2,200 projects that have been funded through Agricultural Development Fund, since the inception of the program in January 2001. For more information about the sign-up period and the guidelines for programs administered by the Rockcastle County Cattlemen's Association/SKAD, contact Tom Mills with the Rockcastle County Cooperative Extension Office at (606) 256-2403. To learn more about cost-share and loan programs available in your area contact the Governor's Office of Agricultural Policy at (502) 564-4627.

I should do a better job

I am writing this column because of personal reasons.

I apologize to all veterans who attended the ceremony at the Rockcastle County Middle School on Friday for not being there myself, although we have coverage of the ceremony in this week's paper.

My father, and all his brothers, my father-in-law and a brother-in-law are veterans and I deeply respect every person who has served our country.

Mrs. Pam Martin, a Social Studies teacher at the middle school, has written a story about the event and Mrs. Leola Cromer has provided pictures for us. Both did a great job. Again, thank you to our veterans to whom we can never give enough credit.

The Rockcastle County Lady Rockets volleyball team went to the state tournament for the third straight year and I am very proud of these young ladies.

Coach Larry Lee does a great job, obviously, and volleyball is now just like any other sport at Rockcastle County High School - a winner. The number who turned out for the banquet held this week was nice and I know all the girls appreciated it. Congratulations, ladies.

I also appreciate all the work that family members do for the teams. As in any sport, and I have been involved in many in my years, I think that extracurricular activities such as band, track, football, cheerleading, basketball, baseball, softball, ROTC, student government, academic teams, etc., help keep our children focused.

The reason we are successful in we have good leaders in the school system and great parental support.

Again, congratulations, Lady Rockets and to future Lady Rockets, good luck and stay the course.

"UNITE"

tions, Treatment & Education, serves 29 counties in southern and eastern Kentucky. The region-wide program has three main tasks: creating regional drug task forces for interdiction, confiscation and undercover operations; organizing local citizens' groups and coordinating drug treatment programs; and working with educators to expand drug awareness and education programs. Since 2003, Rogers has directed $32 million for UNITE.

Through September 2005, UNITE detectives have confiscated more than $4.6 million worth of drugs, dismantled 44 methamphetamine labs, made 1,857 criminal arrests, and had 20 cases adopted for federal prosecution. To assist with the high demand for treatment services, UNITE has dedicated $1.6 million toward a voucher program that helps low-income residents suffering from substance abuse to obtain treatment services. UNITE has also funded 17 drug courts and placed drug counselors in schools throughout southern and eastern Kentucky.

The federal budget also includes $7.5 million for a national grant program that helps states track and combat prescription drug abuse. Created in 2001 by Rogers and later named in his honor, the "Harold Rogers Prescription Drug Monitoring Program" allows states that are either looking to create a monitoring program, or upgrade their current system, to apply for federal money to supplement state funding.

"Prescription drug abuse is a national epidemic," said Rogers. "As we've seen here at home, these drugs are killers. State monitoring programs, like Kentucky's KASPER system, are helping fight prescription drug abuse and bring hope to communities around the nation."

Kentucky has used $940,000 in grants from the program to enhance and expand the KASPER system. In March 2005, Kentucky became the first state in the nation to provide a self-service, Internet-based system for tracking all schedule II-V prescription drugs. The program, called eKASPER, allows pharmacists, physicians, law enforcement and other authorized users to obtain KASPER reports 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Prior to the implementation of KASPER in 1999, state drug control authorities took an average of 156 days to complete investigations into abuse of the prescription drug system. The average investigation time has now dropped to 18 days. With the addition of eKASPER, reporting times have dropped significantly to allow for what is essentially real-time reporting.

Funding for Operation UNITE and the prescription drug monitoring program is included in the final version of the Fiscal Year 2006 Science, State, Commerce, Justice Appropriations bill, which was approved by the House of Representatives on November 9. Once the legislation is passed by the Senate it will go to President Bush to be signed into law.

Rogers works to secure funding for projects throughout southern and eastern Kentucky in his role as a senior member of the House Appropriations Committee.

Deadline for News and Advertising for Nov. 24th issue of the Signal will be 4 p.m. Monday, Nov. 21.

Do You Know?

Winter Weather Safety

Winter Storms can do much more than canceling school for a few days, or causing inconvenience in travel. Although there is usually plenty of advance warning before a winter storm strikes, just as with any storm, life-threatening conditions can develop in a very short period of time. It is essential to know what to do quickly before the weather turns nasty. Winter weather provides its own set of hazards with cold, hazardous travel that may last for days, and snow that may be heavy enough to collapse your roof.

The greatest threat to life in winter weather, outside of traffic accidents, is the potential for the long term loss of electric services when combined with extreme cold. Loss of power can quickly become more than an inconvenience if outside conditions are serious enough. Alternate heating sources can also pose a significant fire danger if improperly used. So long before winter weather poses a threat, whatever source of alternate heating that you decide to have for your home should be properly serviced, and be thoroughly familiar with how to properly operate it. Some alternate heating sources include fireplaces, woodstoves, and kerosene heaters. Fuel should be stored outside of your home that will be easy for you to access. Remember that kerosene heaters are a good alternate heating source, but used improperly, they can kill your family. The burning of any fuel produces Carbon Monoxide, the deadly, colorless and odorless gas. With advanced planning, proper ventilation will not only enhance the efficiency of your equipment, but will also protect your family.

In addition to advance planning for alternate heating sources, there are some other things that you can do well in advance of a threat from winter weather. That entails putting together a disaster supplies kit, which should be on hand to help you survive any disaster. This includes a 3-day supply of food and water for each person in your household. The food supplies should non-perishable, and require little or no cooking. Rotate your food and water supplies about every 6 months. Examples of an excellent choice of foods include peanut butter, ready-to-eat soups, canned meats, etc. Your disaster supplies kit should also contain at least 1 complete change of clothing for each family member. 1 blanket or sleeping bag per person, first-aid kit, prescription medicines, emergency tools, battery-powered radio, and NOAA Weather Radio, flashlight with extra batteries, extra set of car keys, cash and a credit card, special items for infants, elderly, or disabled family members, and whatever is necessary to care for family pets in the way of food and water. A second, smaller version of this kit should be kept in the family car. Preplanning with these simple, common-sense precautions can save hours of time, when time is of the essence. For more information, contact your National Weather Service office, your American Red Cross, or your county emergency management agency, or look for us on line at: <<http://www.weather.gov/jacksonky>>.

Yards to Paradise

By Max Phelps
Fall Lawn Care Tips

Changing of seasons, with cooler temperatures and falling leaves, warmer clothes and early darkness with the changing of the clocks all remind us it is time to put the yard to bed for the winter and find winter-time activities to entertain ourselves with.

Before you put away the mower though, a little additional care now may mean a prettier experience in your yard next season.

Don't procrastinate on grabbing your rake and cleaning up the leaves covering your lawn. The grass needs all available sunlight this time of year, and may yellow and die if the leaves lay around all winter. (Better still, a leaf vacuum or a mulching mower can make useful composted leaf mulch.)

Speaking of the mower, take it out at least one more time. The normal clipping height: a closer cutting will be good for the lawn this winter.

Cool season grasses should be fertilized before winter, with a high potassium mix. A weed and feed product may be used if you have need of a pre-emergent herbicide to keep weeds from germinating in your lawn during the cool months.

Sprinklers should be winterized, you should not need them past November.

Lawn aeration or tilling, then re-seeding, may be something you ought to do before it gets too cold for new grass to germinate and get a start before freezing weather.

Consider a compost program with the leaves, rather than blowing them onto the neighboring property or having them go to the landfill. Cutting dead limbs and brown foliage in the fall makes spring a happier experience.

Runnoff water is greater in winter as the ground does not absorb as much. Keep this in mind and don't pollute your or your town's drinking water supply with debris, pesticides, petroleum based products or fertilizers.

Mulching done in fall helps keep the soil much warmer during the winter, so keep this in mind for your shallow rooted shrubbery, bulbs and tender perennials.

And if some areas in your lawn just grow grass nicely, fall is a wonderful time to plant shrubbery or trees, or do a hardscape project, and transform that dull spot into a beautiful spot in your home paradise.

With your yard work squared away, you will be better able to appreciate the changing colors of the season.

Letter writers needed for troops

In his Independence Day remarks at Ford's Theater in Washington, President Bush urged Americans to "write a letter" as one way to support the troops. "We're happy to break the news" Members of the Friends of Our Troops have a four-decade head start on this," said G.B. Wiser, Executive Director of the group. "Since the founding of Vietnam Mail Call in 1965, many millions of pieces of fan mail have been sent to our troops, both at home and abroad."

"Thank you for writing me. This is a quick note to let you know that I received your mail and that I appreciate your support." This was the message on a postcard a U.S. Marine wrote to the Friends of Our Troops office after receiving a package of fan mail to share with his buddies.

Writing has been underway all across the nation -- by individuals and families, in schools and churches, with campus groups, scout troops, 4-H clubs and other youth organizations, veterans groups and auxiliaries, etc., to prepare cards and letters for the Christmas 2005 Fan Mail for the Troops Campaign.

Mail from all over the nation is now being received at Friends of Our Troops headquarters, where it will be thoroughly mined, then prepared into well over 1,000 packages to be sent out. The fan mail goes to every branch of the military -- Army, Navy, Marines, Air Force and Coast Guard. An overview of how the campaign functions has been posted in the on-line photo album, <http://www.troopfanmail.net/album.htm>. In addition, there are special pages for schools, colleges, churches, veterans groups, youth groups, Catholics, etc.

Special thanks to those who prepared fan mail for the most recent campaign, including the sixth grade Voyager team at Rockcastle Middle School, led by Gretchen Roland.

Readers' military friends and loved ones can be VIPs when they receive a big package of fan mail to share with their buddies. Send their name and complete military mailing address, along with your name, address, phone number and email address (if any). All military names/addresses are kept strictly confidential. It also helps to know how many are in the military unit, and what date the military address will be valid.

Words of Hope

The second myth I want to expose is the idea that God is some cosmic cop trying to rain all our fun. We want to enjoy life, but feel God wants to spoil our fun. Many think Satan is so cool because he encourages us to 'live it up'. The truth is Satan does want you to live wildly because he wants you to suffer in eternity like he will. God wants you to have a great life now and forever, but to do that we must allow him to guide us through. Letting God be your shepherd is the greatest joy you will ever experience. Don't settle for anything less.

MVES students begin Pride Club butterfly garden

Students from fourth grade Pride Club have made plans for a butterfly garden. They spent an evening planting various plants that will attract butterflies. This garden is at the front entrance of our school. Students in the Pride Club have been working on several projects this year related to our environment. In addition to the garden, they have also started a recycling project in our school for paper, plastic and aluminum! Good Job Pride Club!

Hurricane Katrina Adopt a School Project

Hurricane Katrina created a great deal of devastation throughout several states. Many communities are now faced with rebuilding their homes, businesses and schools. Brodhead Elementary School has begun a project to help one of these communities restore their local elementary school.

The school is Eastlawn Elementary. It is located in Pascagoula, Mississippi. The school has 429 students. Most of these students suffered loss or damage to their homes. The school has 55 staff members. Of these, 50 had flooding and damage to their homes as well.

During the hurricane, the school was damaged by three to five feet of water. Everything below that level was destroyed. They were able to make repairs to the building for students to return to school on October 6th. However, in the flooding, they lost over 4800 books from the school library. They also lost teaching supplies, office equipment and classroom material.

Each teacher at Eastlawn has made a wish list of items that were lost in their classroom. Donations are being taken to help replace these items. Orders will be placed with various school supply companies. The orders will then be shipped directly to the school.

If you would like to help replace some of these items for the students at Eastlawn Elementary, donations may be sent to Brodhead Elementary at P.O. Box 187, Brodhead, Ky. 40409.

They are also accepting donations of new or used children's books. Donated books will be used to replace the 4800 books lost in the school library or by the individual classrooms. Books may be brought to Brodhead Elementary.

Anyone who would like more information on this project, or to make arrangements to have books picked up, may contact Debbie Mobley at 758-8512.

"This is at least one small way we can help these children rebuild their lives," Mrs. Mobley said.

Library News

Pam Chalfin and Emily McElhiney

With the full support of the community, schools and businesses from time to time your library keeps growing and becoming a vital part of daily activity for many. We are so happy with the partnerships we have with the schools and daycare facilities. Working together forms a bond between these organizations. The bookmobile service provides a vital part to linking the public library to the community as well. Ms. Pam Chalfin has several faithful patrons who are serious readers. Literacy is so very important! We can work together to come up with creative ways to encourage reading, for the young and old alike.

The Rockcastle County Public Library has always tried to meet the needs of its patrons. The library has certainly grown over the years and there are so many resources available than ever before. We have eight public access computers, two of which are in our career room on the side of the library next to the Kentucky-Genology room. The career room also houses a tremendous amount of college brochures and financial aid information, along with some wonderful career books. It has been a while since the career room has been mentioned in the paper, and we want our patrons and the general public to be aware of the career room and what is available. We intend to set up a booth at the High School's career fair on December the 6th as we have in the past, this is always a very enjoyable day for me personally.

Children's Book Week is this week and we have a couple of special programs planned and they will be in next week's Signal. We would like to encourage you to come down and check-out some of the new children's books we have on display for the week in the adult area of the library.

A note of thanks to Brenda Saylor, Letha French and Shirley Martin for doing a wonderful job with the story hour children while I was away.

The library has many items for check-out. There are magazines, newspapers, periodicals to read in house. We have a fax machine and copier which are used for a small fee. The Kentucky-Genology room is full of Kentucky authors and family history of Rockcastle County. We hope you will take the time to visit your library, if you don't have a library card all you need is local identification and it is absolutely free. You too can have access to a world of resources at your fingertips. Make the connection, connect @ your library! www.rockcastlelibrary.org

We, the Rickels family, were recently blessed to have in our home, the Payne family, home for the burial of their mother, Dorothy. We grew up along with this family and went to school with them. We are very pleased that they came to our home for lunch before heading back to their homes from the funeral.

Thank you, The Rickels Family

Talking Turkey

Family and Consumer Sciences
Hazel Jackson
 Rockcastle County Extension Office

Cooking guidelines are simply that, guidelines. Each turkey cooks a little differently. Many factors can affect the cooking time – pan and oven shielding, temperature of the bird, depth of the roasting pan, and oven temperature. The best way to determine the safety and doneness of the turkey, as well as prevent overcooking, is to check the turkey in several places with a meat thermometer.

The following tables give approximate cooking times for fresh or thawed breast or whole turkeys cooked at 325 degrees F as suggested by the USDA. Use a meat thermometer to be sure the whole turkey reaches a minimum of 180 degrees F in the thigh (turkey breast must reach a minimum of 170 degrees F in the thickest part before removing from the oven).

Pop-up temperature indicator devices activate very consistently in birds under 15 pounds. Manufacturers of larger birds, over 20 pounds, should pre-place a temperature indicator device in the thickest part of the breast.

How long to thaw it?

Rinse the bird inside and out with cold water, drain and pat dry. Place turkey on a rack in a shallow pan and rub with melted shortening. Roast at 325 degrees according to the times below:

Weight in pounds	1 1/2 to 2 1/4 hrs.
4 to 6 (Breast)	2 1/4 to 3 1/4 hrs
6 to 8 (Breast)	2 3/4 to 3 hrs
8 to 12	3 to 3 3/4 hrs
12 to 14	3 3/4 to 4 1/4 hrs
14 to 18	4 1/4 to 4 1/2 hrs
18 to 20	4 1/2 to 5 hrs

Thawing

If you have chosen a frozen turkey, there are two possible methods for thawing: refrigeration or cold water immersion. Safe thawing requires cold temperatures. As with any perishable food, turkey should not be left out in temperatures be-

94th Birthday Celebration

Mrs. Della Mason recently celebrated her 94th birthday at the Rockcastle Health and Rehab Center in Brodhead.

She received many cards and letters, was greeted by the staff of the Rehab Center, friends, relatives and her immediate family.

She has good health, eats well and loves to read. She enjoys reading the Bible the first and last thing of each day.

Asked what she enjoys most and she stated "visitors." She enjoys talking to people!

tween 40 degrees F and 140 degrees F. This range promotes active bacterial growth and sets the stage for food poisoning.

To thaw, place the turkey on a tray in the refrigerator. Do not remove the outer wrap. Thawing time varies with size. For whole turkeys, an easy formula is 24 hours of refrigeration for each five pounds of weight.

Holiday Food Safety
 Food safety practices can easily be forgotten in a busy situation such as during a party, at a potluck meal, or in a function in which food is left out for longer periods of time. During the holiday season, many such gatherings are common as families and friends get together for day-long events or evening celebrations, both involving food.

The most important rule to keep in mind is hot foods should stay hot and cold foods should be kept cold. "Hot" means the food should maintain an internal temperature above 140° F. Perishable foods left out for up to two hours and which are not kept hot can grow enough bacteria to cause food-borne illness. Some of those toxins are strong enough to stay alive even if the food is reheated. Foods such as meats, poultry and those containing eggs or milk fall into the perishable category. To prevent possible bacteria growth, hot food can be refrigerated and then reheated later if the food does not need to be left out for the entire party. Leftovers should be refrigerated in small, shallow containers so they cool faster. When they are reheated, foods should be brought to an internal temperature of 165° F.

Food which is intended to be cold should be kept at a temperature below 40° F. Once the food is allowed to sit for more than two hours at room temperature, it becomes susceptible to growth of bacteria. Colds foods can be kept at their normal temperature when they are put in bowls of ice or if they are replaced often from the refrigerator.
