Bustle pleads guilty to drug trafficking

Kenneth E. Bustle, 26, of Mt. Vernon, has entered a guilty plea to one count of trafficking in a controlled substance in or near a school.

In April 2005, a confidential witness with Operation UNITE purchased 10 Xanax pills from Bustle at a residence in Mt. Vernon. This residence was within 1000 yards of Mt. Vernon Elementary School.

UNITE Prosecutor David L. Dalton indicated he would recommend a sentence of five years imprisonment for this trafficking conviction.

In addition, at the time of this offense, Bustle was on probation for a 2003 burglary charge. Dalton stated that the new trafficking conviction would run consecutive with Bustle's prior burglary case for a total of 10 years imprisonment.

Bustle's attorney requested that Rockcastle Circuit Judge David A. Tapp allow his client to remain free pending final sentencing. Judge Tapp, noting the

A severe storm blew through the Blue Springs area last week before causing the Oak tree to fall on the barn, causing a lot of damage. Lester Kirby is shown on the roof of the barn and workers John McCormick and Tammy Kirby are shown in the forefront. Local weatherman Bud Cox said 3.72 inches of rain fell in May. The recorded high was 91 and the low was 41. So far in June, rainfall has been recorded 11 of the 28 days, for a total of 5.5 inches.

Rockcastle Memories

By David J. Griffin

When I was 25 years old, my love of back-road travels enticed me to purchase my first motorcycle, a 1969 Honda CB350 Super Sport. The 350 was comfortable, quick, and agile enough to elicit excitement on meandering, scenic country roads. It delivered 36 horsepower and asked for little fuel. It had dual carburetors that produced a steady flow of power. The bike was designed for the road with two tail pipes that created a "throaty" sound.

Since this was my first experience with riding motorcycles, I found myself consistently amazed with the smells of nature that I experienced. Who wouldn't love the aroma that permeates the air as you drive through winding country roads? Honeysuckle, pine, and the smell of freshly cut hay fill your head as you concentrate on the road ahead. Even in the summertime, temperature fluctuations are always a surprise. It may be 80 degrees, but suddenly you can move through an area that is 70 degrees. That always shocked me.

When I first began to ride, I tried all kinds of roads, including interstate highways. It soon became evident that only back roads were for me. I decided that interstate travel was just too treacherous, especially at the speed that I preferred. I was totally satisfied while riding at a maximum of 50 mph on country roads.

My first Saturday ride took me to Lexington via US 60. I rode around the city and eventually drove out Tates Creek Road, stopping at the bank of the Kentucky River. There I pushed my cycle onto the Valley View Ferry and crossed into Jessamine County. I ended up at Shaker Village before returning home late that afternoon. It felt as if I had experienced a major excursion on my new set of wheels. I was hooked on the idea of motorcycle travel.

My second weekend ride took me through Renfro Valley, down US 25 and eventually to Levi Jackson State Park. This adventure caused me to think that camping on a cycle could be a real treat. I purchased the needed gear and started riding with some friends that I had made while riding. One of those friends was a youngster called Bubby, and we rode our bikes together almost every weekend for a while. We camped at Natu-

Points East

By Ike Adams

Between the efforts of Billy Hale and myself, I have managed to build up the soil in my little 50'x50' garden so that a tiller will go through it almost effortlessly.

It has taken eight years, probably 250 heavy bags of composted cow manure, countless bales of straw, truck loads of peat moss; a ton or so of sand and as much very fine limestone gravel to make the original clay surrender into tillable soil.

Billy has dutifully turned it under every spring with his tractor and then run his big tiller, which operates on the power take off on his tractor, through it so many times that a plow wasn't necessary this year. He did the original tractor tilling in a matter of minutes and it worked up like a lettuce bed.

So I planted peas, cabbage, brussel sprouts, onions, several varieties of lettuce, radishes, spinach, etc in early April and they took off like Olympian athletes. In the meantime I started several varieties of tomatoes in peat pots with full intentions of setting them out in May.

But it rained and rained and rained. When the garden was dry enough to plow I was on the road, but somewhere along the line I managed to plant two rows of beans and three rows of sweet corn. I also got several varieties of eggplant and peppers transplanted, then came more rain and with it weeds and morning glories in abundance.

My corn came up to maybe six inches tall and my beans were making leaves before wet weather got the best of them. Apparently they developed liver disease. At least they turned bright yellow and commenced rotting off at the ground. I decided that the only thing to was till them under and start over.

That task would have taken me several hours with the Troybilt so I called Billy back into action. He did the same job in less than twenty minutes with his tractor, so now I have started over.

Most other gardeners hereabouts are eating golden crook-neck and zucchini squash. Mine are two weeks away from blooming. Ditto for cucumbers, Roma beans, blue lakes, beets and all the other stuff that should be coming in right now. I used to pride myself by having a ripe tomato by July 4th. This year I'll be lucky to have a bloom on one of the 40 plants I have set.

Hopefully, before sunset today, I will have my corn replanted along with my main crop half runners and Bufford Caudill fall beans. It has not seriously rained here in three days now and I believe my tiller will crawl out of the mud in which it has been mired for nearly two weeks.

In the meantime, I have to drive by Billy Hale's garden two or three times a day. His corn is tasseling and he has two more long rows right behind. I slow down enough to check out his tomato plants but so far I haven't seen a ripe one. His beans have long vines and are perfectly trellised.

His garden, which lies on a well drained slope, is lushly green and so full of veggies that a weed wouldn't have a chance. It's also twice a big is mine.

I know that envy is a sin but I do it anyway.

I've had good luck with peas, lettuce, spinach, green onions and radishes.

T.J.'s Journal

by: Tonya J. Cook

Dear Journal,

Father's Day has come and gone for another year. It seems to have a whole different concept than Mother's Day. Both are meant to honor mother or father, but they are so completely different.

Mother's Day is all about spring bouquets, rose corsages, boxes of candy, going to tea or brunch, a new hat, or a collection of lovely poems. However, Father's Day is all about cook-outs, watching NASCAR, going to a baseball game or a favorite fishing hole, working on a classic car, and going bowling with the "fellas."

Stanley's Father's Day was pretty typical. He had a big cookout with all the trimmings, and his children came to visit. Of course, the sky threatened to produce rain at any time but we were fortunate enough to get everything cooked without any rain. We had barbecued chicken, ribs, hamburgers, and hot dogs. I had already prepared in advance some baked beans, cole slaw, and potato salad; and for dessert, a great big "nanner-split" cake.

I didn't know what to get for Stanley as a gift, so I thought and thought, and finally came up with something. He has an old 1969 Camaro that is sitting under a tarp out in our yard that is rusting away. He had gotten it when he was seventeen. He says that if he had some parts for it and the time, that it wouldn't be long before she would be on the road again. Guess what? He got some of the parts for Father's Day...now all he needs is the time.

I know the guys at the NAPA store got a real hoot when I was ordering the parts. They probably wondered, does this lady know anything about a car at all? They asked, "What kind of engine does it have?" I replied, "I don't really know, but I'm positive it's got one." I was thinking to myself, it's one that is all dirty and grease-covered for the most part if you want to know the truth about it. "What kind of brakes does it have? How long are the brake lines? What kind of '69 Camaro is it?" These are only a few questions that I can remember. They might as well have asked me about the parts for the space shuttle. Poor ol' Kelly at NAPA.

Stanley had been pretty good this past year, so other than the auto parts I got him another couple of things. I think he just enjoyed having his family together better than anything.

Now that he has the parts, he just needs the time. His "honey-do" list is so long now, I suppose he may get the time about next Father's Day. Maybe for next Father's Day I'll surprise Stanley. I'll sneak out there in the yard, and get under that tarp that is covering the Camaro when he's gone to work, and put on some of those parts. I know he'll sure be surprised...and I will be, too.

Next week's classified deadline is Noon Monday - News deadline is 4 p.m. Monday. The Signal office will be closed Tuesday, July 4th

Sprains and Strains

Presented by Dr. Kevin Rowe

We all sprain an ankle at one time or another. Usually we can just ignore it and the pain and swelling goes away over a few days.

Sprains can, however, be more troublesome than most people think. A person may easily re-sprain the ankle once there has been a bad sprain, especially if proper rehabilitative exercises have been ignored.

Sprains vary from mild ones, where there is just a minor stretching of the ligaments, to severe sprains where the ligaments on the outside of the ankle are completely torn.

When the ligaments are completely torn, the ankle joint is unstable and needs to be given time to heal. Since ligaments heal as slowly as bones, treatment must be continued for six weeks or more. If the tear does not heal well, an unstable ankle joint is apt to cause further problems with "weak ankles," recurrent sprains and eventually arthritis.

When you sprain your ankle, there are three things to do to help speed recovery. These are applying ice immediately to keep the swelling down, elevating the leg, and using an elastic wrap to compress the swelling. Resting the joint used to be included but it is now considered better to use the ankle to the point of inducing mild pain.

These days, early rehabilitation is a part of therapy. An air splint is often used. This allows the foot to flex up and down while preventing the unwanted side to side movement.

A person is advised to keep the ankle healthy by gentle exercises to stimulate the nerves that sense ankle motion and control muscle balance. This is done by "writing the alphabet" with the great toe several times a day.

Same-Sex Parenting: A Kentucky Update

June seems to be the month to update readers on recent developments involving earlier columns. Only four weeks ago, we discussed the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal to hear an appeal from a Washington state case which implicated the custody and visitation rights of same-sex couples.

You may recall that the issue involved whether a "de facto" parent, that is an adult who has exercised the role of parent, could successfully maintain an action for visitation after separating from the same-sex biological parent. Since de facto parents have the same rights as biological parents under most state's laws, a de facto parent would be entitled to visitation over the objection of the biological parent.

While the U.S. Supreme Court refused to become involved in this dispute, the Kentucky Supreme Court addressed a very similar issue. In facts similar to the Washington case, the Kentucky case pitted members of a Louisville same-sex couple against each other. For purposes of the opinion, the couple was identified by their initials only.

T.D. and B.F. lived together for eight years before deciding

they desired to adopt a child. Due to uncertainty about Kentucky adoption law and its application to same-sex couples, only T.D. was named as the adoptive parent. The parties raised the child for six years before the couple split up. Predictably, B.F. sued for custody and visitation rights as a "de facto" custodian.

Kentucky law provides that a de facto custodian is one who shows by clear and convincing evidence to have been the primary caregiver for, and financial supporter of, a child who has resided with the person for a period of one year or more if the child is three years old or older.

The trial court found that B.F. was the primary financial supporter for the child but that T.D.--the adoptive parent--was the primary caregiver. This distinction was crucial because Kentucky law emphasizes the role of caretaker more than that of economic supporter. Accordingly, since B.F. was not the primary caregiver, no standing existed to pursue a custody claim.

The Kentucky court distinguished the Louisville case from the Washington decision by noting that Washington has no statutes defining and granting de facto custodians any rights. Instead, the Washington court utilized its common law and equitable powers to grant standing to seek custody and visitation rights.

This unanimous case is significant because of the emphasis placed on one traditional role (the caregiver) versus another traditional parenting role (the economic provider). The case leaves for another day the issue of whether two co-equal members of a same-sex relationship will qualify as de facto custodians under Kentucky law. Inevitably, this issue will be addressed by the U.S. Supreme Court as the states struggle with divisive same-sex issues.

"Points East" (Cont. from A2)

In fact we've given big sacks of lettuce and green onions to every neighbor who would take it off our hands.

Last Saturday evening, I took a five gallon bucket of Walla Walls onions out of the garden along with a cabbage that weighed around ten pounds after it was stripped of outer leaves.

"Oh Honey, you ought to enter that cabbage and some of those onions in the County Fair next week," Loretta advised. "They're almost too pretty to eat."

"Not a chance," I told her. "They might win blue ribbons and then somebody might want to see the embarrassment that I call a garden."

"Just tell em your garden is on Charlie Brown Road and they can drive right by it. Maybe they'll think the Hales' garden is yours."

ral Bridge, at Boonesboro State Park, at Cumberland Falls, and at Cave Run Lake. We cooked our own meals, took gear for fishing, and made lots of friends during our weekend travels.

In March of 1969, a television show called, "Then Came Bronson" hit the small screen on NBC. The pilot show revolved around a character named Jim Bronson (played by Michael Parks), who was a young reporter for a San Francisco newspaper. Bronson set out on a series of adventures riding a fire-apple red Sportster in the setting of the Colorado Rockies. One of my friends, Doyle, started calling me "Bronson," and some continue to use that nickname for me today. (NBC cancelled the show after its first and only season.)

One weekend my best friend, "Tank," and I got the bright idea to ride together on my motorcycle to Gatlinburg to tour the Smokies. We packed our gear and doubled up on the bike as we headed down US 25 toward Tennessee. The idea had seemed exciting -- until we realized that it had taken hours to reach London. We were hot and tired. At that point, we decided that two large, grown men should restrict their travels to an air-conditioned automobile. We stopped, rented a motel room, and spent that night watching TV in air-conditioned comfort. We headed home the next day. (The moral of this failed vacation is that you need two bikes for two men on a road trip -- or go in a car.)

When my son Andy was about two years old, I would seat him on the gas tank, tie a rope around both of us to keep him secure, and go on short bike rides around the small town where we lived. He absolutely loved to ride on that motorcycle. When I would stop at a stop sign, he would say, "Go, Daddy, Go!" What I would give for another ride like that!

I look back on my cycling days and wonder if it was an early mid-life crisis or just an expression of the vigor of youth. The craze lasted for about five years, and I then migrated back to my love of automobiles. Once in a while, I still get the urge to throw my leg over a bike and hit the road. Bob Seger expresses the feeling in "Roll Me Away."

Took a look down a westbound road, Right away I made my choice Headed out to my big two-wheeler,

I was tired of my own voice.... I could go east, I could go west, It was all up to me to decide Just then I saw a young hawk flying

And my soul began to rise And pretty soon

My heart was singing
Roll, roll me away,
I'm gonna roll me away to-night...

Agricultural News

By: Warden Alexander, FSA Director

July 17th final date to file crop reports

Farmers who participate in USDA programs through the Farm Service Agency should file a crop acreage report annually to retain program eligibility. The deadline to report spring and summer seeded crops and avoid a late reporting fee is July 17, 2006.

A complete crop acreage report is required for farms participating in the Direct and Counter-cyclical Program (DCP) some call the "corn program", Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) or request a commodity loan or Loan Deficiency Payment (LDP). Producers are required to provide the planting dates for all crops that are reported.

Farmers who plant tobacco are urged to report tobacco acreage for history and informational purposes.

For additional information contact our local FSA Office or on-line at <http://www.fsa.usda.gov/ky>.

County Committee nominations open

The Farm Service Agency (FSA) is soliciting candidates for the County FSA Committee (COC) from June 15 through August 1, 2006.

Nominations for candidates to run for the Farm Service Agency county committee election representing producers in Local Administrative Area (LAA) 2 will be accepted during this time period. LAA's are election areas. Elections are held each year to elect or reelect a member(s) whose term will expire.

Rockcastle County will be holding an election for a person to represent LAA 2 beginning January 1, 2007. That position is currently held by Darrell Wayne Whitaker. LAA2 includes the southeast section of the county bound by Laurel and Pulaski County. Highway boundaries are Hwy 70, Hwy 150 and Hwy 25.

Nomination forms will be mailed to all eligible voters registered with the FSA and must be postmarked or returned to the Rockcastle County FSA Office not later than August 1, 2006.

TTPP transfers

Transfer of Tobacco Transition Program Payments may be issued under one of the following: transfer to family members, transfer due to a death or transfer of a contract to a party who had purchased a tobacco marketing quota and placed the quota on a farm with the owner's consent prior to Oct. 22, 2004.

To transfer a contract a producer must file a CCC-971 followed by the CCC-955 or CCC-956 as applicable.

Sales and purchases of land

Producers who have purchased or sold land should inform the FSA office of the change. A copy of the deed or land contract sales is required to update FSA records with correct ownership.

Producers are also reminded to inform the FSA office of any change of address and bank account changes.

REMEMBER: FSA's records are only as current as producers provide.

Spousal signatures

A husband and wife may sign FSA and CCC documents on behalf of each other UNLESS written notification is on file in the FSA office denying a spouse this authority. Spouses may sign most documents, except promissory notes, CRP easements, and certain security agreements.

Account changes

If you make any changes in your bank account or change banks notify FSA immediately to ensure payments reach your account timely.

This is very important to those receiving TTPP payments as payments can be delayed if we are not aware of changes to your account or routing numbers.

Rural Development

The Rural Development Representative with concern to low income housing loans will be in Rockcastle County at the Rockcastle FSA office the second Tuesday of each month from 9:00 a.m. to 11:30 a.m.

"Hundreds of these beacons of hope will illuminate Rockcastle County Rockets football field and it will be a poignant reminder of why we continue this fight."

The American Cancer Society Relay For Life began in 1985 and remains a celebration of survivorship and remembrance that raises funds for and awareness of the fight against cancer. After sunset, luminaria, decorated with the names of those who have battled cancer, are lit and left glowing throughout the night to remind participants of the incredible importance of their contribution.

"What Saith The Scriptures"

Let us study and consider the 3 crosses at Calvary.

A Cross of Rebellion: One of the crosses next to the Lord, was a rebellious sinner. He was proud and arrogant. "And one of the malefactors which were hanged railed on him, saying, If thou be Christ, save thyself and us." Luke 23:39. This man symbolizes humanity in general, rebellious and sinful, thinking only of saving his neck, not his soul, carnally minded unto the end.

A Cross of Repentance: Now the other thief, had joined in the railing. But as the seriousness and gravity of the situation began to sink in, he repented. "And he said unto Jesus, Lord, remember me when thou comest into thy kingdom." Lk.23:42. He accepted the responsibility of his sin, and humbled himself before the Lord and Jesus extended him mercy.

A Cross of Redemption: Now the cross of Jesus speaks to us of God's grace, God's love, God's mercy. The sinless Son of God, is suffering and dying for our sins and transgressions. "But he was wounded for our transgressions, he was bruised for our iniquities: the chastisement of our peace was upon him; and with his stripes we are healed." Isaiah 53:5. In this cross we see divine justice. "Whom God hath set forth to be a propitiation through faith in his blood, to declare his righteousness for the remission of sins that are past, through the forbearance of God; To declare, I say, at this time his righteousness: that he might be just, and the justifier of him which believeth in Jesus." Rom.3:26. Have you turned in repentance to the cross of Christ?

In High Jump at NCAA Championships

Bowman earns All-American Honors

University of Louisville high jumper Kelley Bowman reached new heights on Friday, June 9 when she earned All-American honors with a school record performance on the third day of competition at the NCAA Outdoor Championships at A.G. Spanos Sports Complex on the campus of Sacramento State in California.

Bowman, a senior from Mt. Vernon and the daughter of Carol and Lynn Abrams of Mt. Vernon and Edward Bowman of Berea, cleared a school record height of six feet, 1.25 inches in the women's high jump to break her previous top mark of 6-00.00 set earlier this season when she captured first place in the BIG EAST Championship and became the highest finisher in school history, male or female, at the national championships. Bowman, the 2006 BIG EAST champion in the high jump, becomes the second U of L women's All-American in program history, and the first since Michelle Borgert first earned the honor in the 10,000 meter run in 1995. The third place finish by Bowman also scored six points for U of L, the first time in school history the Cardinal women have scored at the NCAA Outdoor Championships. With these six points, the women's team tied for 37th place, while Auburn captured the title with 57 points.

"It's an amazing feeling to earn this type of finish and I still can't really believe it," said Bowman after the event. "I really didn't expect to finish as high as third because my main goal was to be in the top eight and earn All-American honors, but I'll definitely take this."

Though this NCAA Outdoor Championship closed out Bowman's 2006 collegiate season, as well as her collegiate eligibility, she will compete at the USA Track & Field National Championships on June 21-25 in Indianapolis, Ind. in an attempt to advance to the IAAF World Junior Championships in Beijing, China in August.

Bowman, a 2001 Berea Community High School graduate, holds the Kentucky all-class high school high jump record of 5-10.5. A 2006 graduate of the University of Louisville, she also holds both the indoor (5-10) and outdoor (6.125) high jump record at Louisville. She is currently ranked 5th nationally behind such greats as Olympians Amy Acuff and Chaunte Howard and is currently ranked 53rd in the world.

A new metal barn, reportedly big enough to house 200 bales of round hay, was completely destroyed by a storm on the Emmitt Foster Road just off U.S. 25 South. The barn was strewn down the hill and pieces were left hanging from trees.

A Walnut tree was completely uprooted at the home of Paul Payne just off U.S. 25 South, during a storm which hit last Tuesday around 6 p.m. Luckily, the tree fell to the side of the house. Payne said his father, Cecil Payne, set the tree out thirty years ago.

The sign above tells all potential visitors, that for now, Roundstone school is off limits. Mullins said all asbestos in the building should be removed by next week. Environmental Services from Lexington is in charge of the asbestos removal at the school. However, new principal Patty Renner and other staff members are conducting school business from the preschool building next to the school. Roundstone Elementary is the oldest county school, built in 1958. Roundstone has an average yearly enrollment of 300. Construction on the new gym, at a cost of $1.6 million, has already begun.

of 2-5 years are overweight or at risk. We are becoming more sedentary and it is beginning to show! Physical activity can help decrease the risk of obesity and improve overall health and Rockcastle residents are being challenged to increase daily physical activity.

The Community Health Council would also like for Rockcastle County to consider ways to make our community more physical active friendly. Participants of the event were asked what kinds of new activities we need to promote or enhance physical activity opportunities in the county. The following are some of the suggestions offered: a public pool, water park, more activities offered for families and children, indoor walking tracks and more indoor sports, a women's sports facility, a bigger fitness center, skate and bicycle park, non-competitive sports/games offered, and more tennis courts. Some of the barriers identified to regular physical activity and easy access to exercise were lack of sidewalks and lack of exercise resources in the county.

We would like to thank everyone who made this event possible and to each individual who participated. Remember to "Play Everyday!"

Las Vegas, Nevada. Their contract with consumers states that the consumer will be guaranteed a certain amount of money that can be used in their catalog or to obtain cash.

"I have read numerous complaints on several websites and found that this offer appears to be a scam," Jackson said. "When you sign up for this card, the company withdraws money, or fees, from your checking account and you can't cancel the card so you have to change your checking account," Jackson added.

Jackson also reports that other complaints concerned consumers not being able to cancel the card because they could never speak to a live person and that the catalog sent out has only knick knacks "overpriced junk."

If you receive an offer for this type of card, go online and punch the name into Google and, if there are any complaints, you can find them.

Peters made the arrests around 3:30 in the morning after a complaint from a neighboring apartment's residents. "I believe a nephew of Cromer's was trying to break-in. He was trying to cut a hole in the wall to get into the apartment," Chief Peters said.

Plan for the Rodeo at the Little World's Fair

What is a RODEO? It probably started something like this. Two old boys named J. Bubba and James Edward, got to arguing about who could break a bronc better and faster. First thing you know, they went and got a horse to settle it right there. Then a few other cowboys drifted over to watch, and there we had the West's first rodeo.

The first rodeos were pure tests of cowboy job skills out on the range. Then, cowboys and cowgirls started gathering in towns for organized competitions and, before the turn of the century, they moved under the lights in Fort Worth for the first indoor rodeo. The setting has changed, but the testing of human and animal is still the same.

What do I wear? Comfortable and country. Jeans, boots, cowboy hats, big belt buckles. Sneakers are OK if you don't have boots. Penny loafers are questionable. Wingtips might start a fight. No madras shirts, wool suits, or punk hair. Wear something that can get dirty, because if you sit near the action, you're going to get brown stuff kicked on you. (Try to look cool when it happens. If you're lucky, it'll be dirt.)

Who are those guys? Think of the rodeo clowns and pickup men as safety gear. Clowns only look funny. They earn their money when a bull rider is down or "hung up" - meaning he cannot free his hand from the bull rope. The clown's job is to get in close and help free the cowboy or lead the bull away so the thrown rider can scramble to safety.

The pickup men ride in to help the cowboy off the horse (assuming he is still on) and clear the arena of wild stock after each round. In "rough stock" events, a "flank" strap encircles the animal behind the curve of its belly - a very sensitive area. It does not cause pain, but since it is a foreign object, it spooks the animal and makes it buck harder. The pickup men release the flank strap and chase the animal back to the pens.

What is Saddle Bronc Riding?

Saddle bronc riding is rodeo's classic event, both a complement and contrast to the wilder spectacles of bareback riding and bull riding. This event requires strength to be sure but the event also demands style, grace, and precise timing.

Saddle bronc riding evolved from the task of breaking and training horses to work the cattle ranches of the Old West. Many cowboys claim riding saddle broncs is the toughest rodeo event to master because of the technical skills necessary for success.

Every move the bronc rider makes must be synchronized with the movement of the horse. The cowboy's objective is a fluid ride somewhat in contrast to the wilder and less controlled rides of bareback riders.

One of the similarities shared by saddle bronc and bareback riding is the rule that riders in both events must mark out their horses on the first jump from the chute. To properly mark out his horse the saddle bronc rider must have both heels touching the animal above the shoulder of the horse. As the bronc bucks, the rider pulls his knees up, rolling his dull spurs up on the horse's shoulder. As the horse descends, the cowboy straightens his legs, returning his spurs over the point of the horse's shoulder in anticipation of the next jump. Making a qualified ride and earning a money-winning score requires more than just strength and an eight second ride. The dependency of a cowboy has on his rein makes the difference between a good and a championship rider. A man, who is not dependent on the rein alone but can rely on balance, will get a higher mark for his full arc strokes. Equally important is the fact that some horses which the judges also score on how hard they buck, will "turn on" better if this passenger isn't hanging on the rein with brute force. The rider is down graded by the judge if he loses control. Cowboys call it "getting into a storm," and if this happens, the saddle makes recovery more difficult. The cantle of the saddle, and the swells in front, get under a man and knocks him out of it. The possibility of hanging up in a stirrup is always in the back of the rider's mind and is a great hazard to saddle bronc riding. Saddle bronc riding has less competition than any other event in professional rodeo. There's a reason, the instinctive reactions required to keep their feet in the stirrups, sense what a horse will do next, and the rhythm required, because there is nothing solid to hang onto makes this event, one of which you cannot substitute for years of experience.

Come join the fun and watch the Saddle Bronc Riders at the upcoming International Professional Rodeo Association, World Championship Rodeo, produced by Broken Horn Rodeo, at the Little World's Fair, Brodhead, Kentucky, August 7 and 8, 2006, 7:30 p.m. Locals and permits will be accepted, call in entry is July 31st, 2006, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. CST, 800-639-9002.

Education helps to strengthen Democracy

Democracy. We learn about it in history and civics classes. We celebrate it on July 4. As citizens of the United States we pledge to defend and uphold it. And when we support public education, furthering our own learning, and ensuring that others do the same we are taking a necessary step in strengthening democracy.

"Public schools are intricately important for our democracy," says Trey Grayson, Kentucky Secretary of State. He points out two of the ways a good public education is connected with the continuation of a strong democracy.

First, students gain knowledge from school. Students not only practice critical thinking skills that help them make decisions, but they also learn how a democratic government operates. Grayson says a good public education helps young people prepare to actively participate in a democracy.

Secondly, he points out, "Public education is critically important because it becomes a base in our community that people rally around." Schools bring people together to interact with and learn about one another.

"One of the struggles we have in our society is an 'us versus them attitude'," Grayson says. We're often not very familiar or comfortable with people who are different from us. In the school setting, children and adults from various backgrounds come together to learn from each other therefore breaking down some of the barriers that have a tendency to divide.

Those relationships, Grayson says, are especially important when we are asked to make sacrifices – like paying taxes – that might help fund programs that seem to benefit some people but not us directly. "It's helpful to know why you're making sacrifices and who we're making them for," he says.

Grayson also sees continuing education after high school, in a formal or informal setting, as an important factor in ensuring democracy. He says he has always been impressed with his own parents, college graduates who never stopped reading or thinking about issues. To keep up with how the world and democracy are changing, Grayson says, we must continue to read and to learn.

Grayson has seen evidence that Kentuckians understand the importance of being a "life long learner". He recently spoke to students at a community college and discovered all but one of the students were nontraditional - they didn't attend college immediately after high school but enrolled later. These nontraditional students understood what Grayson believes "You can never have enough learning."

Cox Hardware: A century of family business

By David J. Griffin

Where do you go when you get a hole in your screen door or need to replace a wooden porch swing? For over 100 years, the people of Rockcastle County have relied upon the Cox family at their hardware store on Main Street in Mt. Vernon. And over those five generations, folks have had the additional pleasure of sitting around the pot-bellied stove located in the middle of the store, sharing stories and visiting with neighbors and friends. □ □

Jim and Martha Cox have been operating the hardware store together ever since the death of his father, John, in 2001, but their involvement in the business goes back much farther in time, as does that of the entire Cox family.

When asked to give a brief description of the store's involvement with the community, Marty replied, "The store has always catered to the farmers with all the old necessary tools...such as stove pipe, wash tubs, well buckets, dog collars, wash boards, dish pans, pressure cooker supplies, glass, screens, plumbing and electric supplies, keys-keys-keys, and knives-knives-knives."

The business currently owned and operated by the couple originated when Jim's great-grandfather, William Henry Cocks, relocated in the late 1800's from Pennsylvania to Rockcastle County and built a blacksmith shop. He made quality wagons and other necessary wooden items for his friends and family in the Hopewell community. It was there that he met his wife, Matilda, in church. They had six children: William (1871), Robert (1872), Edward (1875), Nettie (1876), Grace (1879), and Claude (1884). (The children decided to change the spelling of their name to Cox.)

In 1901, brothers William, Robert, and Claude (Jim's grandfather) moved to Mt. Vernon and purchased the old Joplin Hotel on the same site as the hardware store sits today. An early morning fire in December 1907 destroyed that building. The brothers then built the structure that currently houses the store at the same site. Claude had his hardware store where it is now, while brother Robert had a dry goods store on the other side (now also occupied as the hardware store). Brother William opened an undertaker business upstairs.

Operating the store has continued to be handed down through the generations of the family. Claude's son, John Cox, started working with his dad full-time following his return from World War II. Claude remained as proprietor until his death in 1973, when John became the owner.

John Cox not only spent his entire adult life in loyal service to his customers, he died while literally behind the counter at the business on February 6, 2001. At 82 years of age, he had been with the Mt. Vernon Volunteer Fire Department for 62 years. At the time of his death, he was the oldest fire chief in Kentucky and the third oldest in the nation.

Although John's son, Jim, did not adopt the hardware store as his primary profession, he recalls working in the store on weekends and during the summer during the 32 years that he spent as a teacher in the Rockcastle County School System. He began his career in 1965 teaching biology in Livingston. In 1966 he moved to Mt. Vernon High School, remaining there until 1972 when he moved into the new Rockcastle County High School. By 1990, he had become Assistant Principal and remained in that position until his retirement in 1997. It was then that Jim again began working full-time alongside his father at the store.

Jim's wife, Martha, however, has been working consistently at the hardware trade for a longer period of time. □ She joined the family business in 1976. □ Jim says of her service, "Marty saved the store!" He also recalled his father, John, once remarking about Martha, "The girl has spent most of her time in the store moving things around, cleaning, and then moving things some more."

It is obvious that Martha's heart resides in the family business. "It has been a joy to work in this place... there has been a special feeling that cannot be duplicated anywhere else," she said. That special feeling may in some sense be nurtured by the assortment of antique tools, photographs, and signs that adorn its walls and speak of days long past.

Jim and Marty's favorite memory of the old store with the hardwood floors revolves around the "smell of the stove and the stories being told around it." She said, "We have made generations of friends here...and the memories are just too many to describe."

There is certainly a warmth in the space occupied by Cox Hardware. Evidently, it can be detected by virtually anyone who walks in the door. Countless numbers of both locals and tourists continue to stop by — often just for a visit. □ There seems to be a sort of peace that lingers in the air. Maybe it has its source in all of that history — a spiritual result of generations of those caring souls who have taken the time to sit around that stove and listen to one another. Cox Hardware Store: sales, service, and hospitality offered up southern style — courtesy of the Cox family.

Team recruitment underway For Relay for Life of Rockcastle

It's a team building activity like no other, and it is a fun way to take part in the fight against cancer. It's Relay for Life, the American Cancer Society's Relay for Life, the nation's largest fund raiser.

Team recruitment is now underway for the Relay for Life of Rockcastle County, which will take place on July 28th at the Rockcastle County Middle School. Relay for Life is a non-competitive, overnight event. Teams are recruited from businesses, clubs, families, friends, hospitals, churches, schools and service organizations. Each group chooses a team theme, and member stake turns walking or running around a track during the night.

"We invite everyone in the community to take part in the Relay for Life," said, Robin Kelly team recruitment chair. "Where else can you have so much fun and support such an important cause?"

Money raised from the event supports American Cancer Society research, education, advocacy and patient service programs.

To register a team or find out more about Relay for Life, call the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 or visit www.cancer.org.

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy and service.

NOTICE TO CUSTOMERS OF KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY RECOVERY BY ENVIRONMENTAL SURCHARGE OF KU'S 2006 ENVIRONMENTAL COMPLIANCE PLAN

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on June 23, 2006, Kentucky Utilities Company ("KU") filed with the Kentucky Public Service Commission ("Commission") in Case No. 2006-00206, an Application pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statute 278.183 for approval of an amended compliance plan ("KU's 2006 Environmental Compliance Plan") for the purpose of recovering the capital costs and operation and maintenance costs associated with new pollution control facilities through an environmental surcharge on customers' bills beginning February 2007, under KU's existing rate mechanism known as the environmental cost recovery surcharge or "Electric Rate Schedule ECR."

Federal, state and local environmental regulations require KU to continually build and upgrade equipment and/or facilities in order to operate in an environmentally sound manner. Specifically, KU is seeking Commission approval of a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity ("CCN") to construct a new Selective Catalytic Reduction System ("SCR") for Ghent Unit 2 at the Ghent Generating Station in Ghent, Kentucky to comply with federally mandated Nitrogen Oxides requirements. Additionally, KU is seeking recovery of costs associated with environmental projects necessary for compliance with the Federal Clean Air Act, Clean Air Interstate Rule, Clean Air Mercury Rule, and the Clean Air Visibility Rule. These additional projects primarily relate to installation of an SCR system on Ghent Unit 2, mercury emissions monitoring, precipitator upgrades, Air Quality Control System equipment necessary to operate Trimble County Unit 2 within the approved environmental limitations and sulfur trioxide mitigation on electric generating units which burn high sulfur coal. The total capital cost of these new pollution control facilities is estimated to be $325 million.

The estimated impact on a residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt hours per month is expected to be an initial monthly increase of $0.82 for KU customers during 2007, with the maximum monthly increase expected to be $2.67 during 2010.

The Environmental Surcharge Application described in this Notice is proposed by KU. However, the Public Service Commission may make an order modifying or denying KU's Environmental Surcharge Application. Such action may result in an environmental surcharge for consumers other than the environmental surcharge described in this Notice.

Any corporation, association, body politic or person may, by motion within thirty (30) days after publication, request leave to intervene in Case No. 2006-00206. That motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, 211 Sower Blvd., P.O. Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40602, and shall set forth the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party. Intervenor may obtain copies of the Application and testimony by contacting Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 40202, Attention: Kent W. Blake, Director, State Regulation and Rates. A copy of the Application and testimony will be available for public inspection at KU's offices where bills are paid.

Rickels' Hawaiian Reunion

By: Ann Rickels Whitaker

The Rickels Family held their reunion June 17th at Custer Lodge at Custer, Ky, hosted by Jane and Bill Robinson. There were 63 present, coming from Ohio, Kentucky, Illinois, Florida and Arkansas.

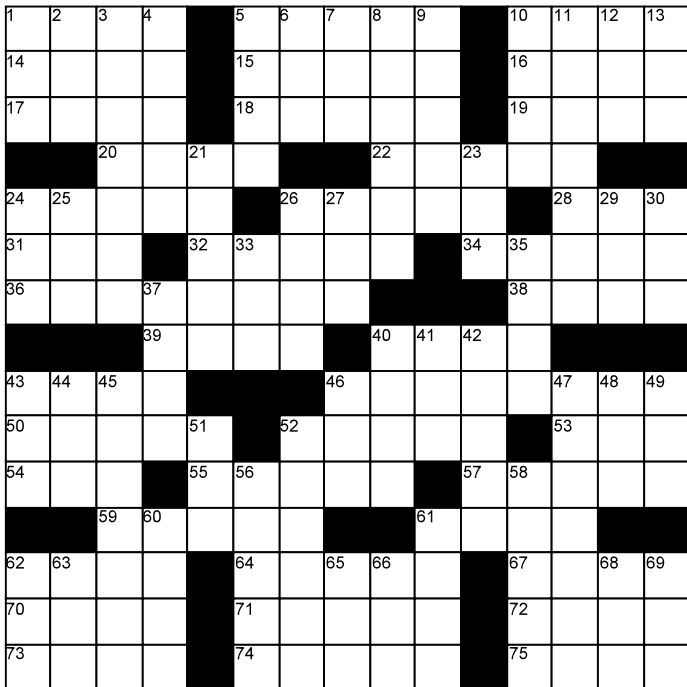

The theme was Hawaiian and all dressed accordingly. There were games, water dunking and a Bible quiz and plenty of food and desserts.

It wasn't the same without Mother and Daddy but knowing they are with our Lord helped a lot. All nine children were present: Ray, Jr., Gene, Midge, Rodger, Ann, Glenna, Douglas, Jane and Jimmy.

Our attendance was the lowest ever this year as so many had other plans already or were working. But we all enjoyed it so much and look forward to next year. Keep us in your prayers as some are not in the best of health but are very blessed in so many ways.

For Jr. and Sr. High Students cleftRock Leadership Training Retreat June 24-29

Through a variety of fun and challenging activities, Junior and High School students will have an opportunity to identify and sharpen leadership skills by attending a Leadership Training Retreat at cleftRock Retreat Center in Mt. Vernon June 24-29. Events will include an adventure recreation course, rappelling, rock climbing, building wigwams and zip-line - riding a rope and dropping into the Rockcastle River. The youth will also learn about the forest and are encouraged to bring their cameras to photograph wildlife in the 400-acre wilderness area.

"We are trying to encourage and strengthen the potential that is there for all kids," said

Bob Fields, who along with his wife, Eddie, has directed cleftRock Retreat Center since 1974. "A variety of events will provide an opportunity for each child to become a leader in an event. The Fields were missionaries in the Middle East for 17 years.

During the retreat, the theme emphasis will be "Growing my Kingdom Life in a Hurting World." Zack Caldwell, Youth Minister of First Baptist Church in London, will teach Biblical studies in the morning. Then youth will work in teams of five with camp facilitators who are Megan Holbrook, a missionary; cleftRock Retreat Center is located in the Daniel Boone National Forest on the Rockcastle River, a natural setting for "being still and experiencing God's presence." Six cabins and Brookfield Lodge, which includes a dining hall, kitchen and meeting area, provide a comfortable setting for retreats. "We remain committed to providing a quiet place where peace and stability can be restored by God's Spirit," Fields said.

Keri Swinson, a Missionary Kid from the Middle East and Laura Tabor and Josh Hale, seniors at Georgetown College. As leadership skills surface, the youth will begin to mentor each other. Bryan Phelps, Associate Pastor at First Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon, will serve as assistant to Bob Fields during the camp.

"Our desire is that every youth will leave cleftRock better equipped to live the message of Jesus Christ," he said. "We hope the retreat will give each participant a healthy spiritual alternative to the illegal drugs and sexual perversion of the hurting world."

Cost of the retreat is $250.00 per person which includes food and lodging. Scholarships are available. For reservations or information please call the office at cleftRock, 1-800-719-0600 or 1-606-256-2336.

Darlene Martin, a Family and Consumer Sciences teacher at Rockcastle County High School, was one of forty-five educators to receive a grant and attend the training. A total of 105 educators, from 25 states attended the conference. FEFE's unique family finance training provides educators with the skills and educational materials necessary to teach a semester long family economics and finance course, "Take Charge of Your Finances."
