Renner filed his papers last week and joins incumbent mayor Clarice Kirby, Subway/Godfather owner-operator Jerry Pensol and city councilwoman Betty Carter Bussell as a candidate.

Renner has served on the council for five terms, dating back to 1983, serving two terms as vice-mayor.

He said Wednesday that his platform would include expanded tourism, efficiency in city government and equal treatment for all individuals and groups.

Renner said he would also institute a program of regular public meetings, outside of his regular office hours at city hall, at which city residents could express their concerns and ideas.

Help to fight cancer through Relay For Life

More than two million people in the United States have done it. They've joined the fight against cancer by participating in Relay For Life, the signature event of the American Cancer Society.

Relay For Life of Rockcastle County will take place on July 28th at the Rockcastle County Middle School.

Last year, more than 4,300 communities nationwide participated in Relay For Life and raised more than $340 million, making the event the largest fund raiser in the U.S.

Relay For Life is an overnight fund-raising event filled with activities, fun and community spirit. All funds raised at Relay For Life support American Cancer Society programs designed to reduce cancer incidence and mortality through research, education, advocacy and patient services.

The impact of cancer is clear. More than 9 million cancer survivors are living today. This year in the United States, an estimated 1.3 million people will be diagnosed with cancer. Additionally, more than 1,500 people will die of cancer each day.

For more information about participating in Relay For Life, contact the American Cancer Society at 1-800-ACS-2345 or www.cancer.org.

Part of county hit by storms

A bad storm blew through the Brodhead area on the fourth of July, damaging some homes and doing other damage to property.

John Dean Cromer on Bowling Ridge said he hadn't seen a worse storm come through the area for some time. "We were actually lucky," he said as Jackson Energy maintenance worker Roger Carpenter worked to repair a damaged power line.

Carpenter said only a few Jackson Energy customers were without power on Wednesday morning, after the storm blew through the western part of the county.

No one was injured in the early morning storm. So far this month, the record high was 91 on the fourth of July and the low was 60 degrees on the first.

Local weatherman Bud Cox said he recorded nearly one third of an inch of rainfall on the morning of July 5th.

From Transportation Enhancement Funds

County turned down for Jones project; Mt. Vernon gets $300,000 for sidewalks

It was the "good news/bad news" scenario for Rockcastle County and the City of Mt. Vernon recently.

The "good news" was that the city got $300,000 for a sidewalk replacement project from Transportation Enhancement Funds and the "bad news" came to the Rockcastle Fiscal Court which was turned down for a grant to renovate the old Jones building on Main Street.

The county received funding in the state budget this year to purchase the building and funds had been applied for to renovate the building so it could be used as a Chamber of Commerce office with a crafts area and a room detailing of this part of U.S. 25 in the history of the state.

County Judge Buzz Carloftis was none too happy with the results of the application. After receiving notification of the turndown Wednesday, and being asked what the reason for the non-funding was, he said "I don't know and I'm mad."

Mt. Vernon Mayor Clarice Kirby, however, was quite happy when contacted about the city getting the money needed to build a new sidewalk to Rite-

Aid from the existing one on the same side and to repair existing sidewalks on both sides to the railroad tracks.

Kirby said she did not make application to redo the sidewalks on Main Street yet because plans are to eventually replace all the underground water and sewer lines and then to renovate the sidewalks.

Senator Ed Worley, commenting on the award, said "This funding will help make Mt. Vernon a more desirable place for residents and visitors alike."

State Representative Danny Ford said, "This is a much needed project that will certainly help Mt. Vernon and provide a route for our tourists who want to exercise and walk, as well as our local residents."

Vet Rep here Tuesday, July 7

County applies for $230,000 makeover for the Quail Park

If two grant applications are approved, Quail Park on Hwy. 70 will get a much needed face lift.

The Rockcastle Fiscal Court Friday, at a special meeting, approved two grant applications, one for $60,000 for a new building at the park which would be heated and air conditioned and have restroom facilities for year-round use. Application for this grant is being made to the Governor's Office of Local Development (GOLD) for coal severance funds.

The second grant will be made for a Land and Water Conservation grant and will be in the amount of $150,000. These funds will be used for blacktop for drive and parking area, a septic system, ball field lighting and fencing (girls softball field), bleachers, wheelchair accessible picnic tables, swing sets, new roof for the existing shelter, etc.

The county will have to provide 50% of the $150,000 grant and County Judge/Executive Buzz Carloftis said Monday that $63,000 of the $75,000 would be provided by county labor and equipment, $9,000 in cash from the county and $3,000 in cash from the Quail Homemakers who manage the facility.

The several acres of land for Quail Park was donated by Roy and Flora Mae Brown in the 70s and became a project of the Quail Homemakers Club. With only $500 of borrowed money, that was personally guaranteed by club members, the park has provided limited facilities for Rockcastle countians for years. The park's shelter is completely booked every week end from Spring through October.

Now under county ownership, the park is still managed and supervised daily by the Quail Homemakers Club.

Other projects applied for

During the special meeting, the Fiscal Court also applied for an additional $1,296,000 of projects through GOLD from coal severance fund.

Carloftis told the court that the county's total of coal severance funds available is $501,355. However, he also said the county has no guarantee of getting the $501,355 from the fund but that there is also the possibility of getting more, if the GOLD office deems the projects presented as worthy of

Agricultural development funds awarded to Rockcastle

The Kentucky Agricultural Development Board, chaired by Governor Ernie Fletcher, mailed checks totaling $150,000 in support of agricultural diversification programs in Rockcastle County.

The Rockcastle County Conservation District submitted proposals for cost-share assistance to the Rockcastle County Agricultural Development Council and the Agricultural Development Board.

The Rockcastle County Agricultural Development Council continues to support cattle diversification efforts in the county.

The Rockcastle County Conservation District received $40,000 to support the Genetic Improvement program. This program was created to increase the genetic quality of dairy and beef cattle in Kentucky through the selection of superior sires, either through purchase/lease of sires or artificial insemination (AI).

Ruth Hamilton hired as RCHS assistant principal

Rockcastle County High School Principal Jennifer Mattingly hired her former boss on Friday evening, following a second round of interviews by the Site Based Decision Making Council.

Mrs. Hamilton has been in the Rockcastle County School system for 29 years, 25 as a teacher and four years as an administrator.

She was principal at the high school for three years and then taught at Lake Sumpter Community College in Florida after retiring. She has been principal at the ROCK Christian Academy between Berea and Richmond for the last year.

The home of Rissie Robinson on Purr Rigsby Rd. was completely destroyed Saturday evening by fire. Ms. Robinson said she was not even able to get her purse out of her trailer. Mt. Vernon Fire Chief Garry Hansel said the fire apparently started by the shooting off a firework which hit the house. Both Mt. Vernon and Brodhead firefighters responded to the call.

A West Virginia teenager, traveling north on I-75, was killed Wednesday when her truck crossed the median and hit an 18 wheeler, causing a four car pile-up. I-75 southbound was shutdown for four hours. Northbound I-75 was shutdown for a couple of hours, according to Deputy Coroner public affairs officer Bud Cox. Rockcastle County Deputy Steve Griffin said officials thought she went to sleep at wheel. As of press time the victim's family had not been notified, Cox said.

Rockcastle Memories

By David J. Griffin

I have always been somewhat of a fanatic about radios. I purchased my first transistor pocket variety when I was about ten years old and carried it with me wherever I went. Every night I took it to bed, and usually fell asleep with the earphone in my ear. From that point on, I have been addicted to radio. When my automobile starts, the radio comes on, and I never consider going anywhere without it playing. I keep a replica of an old tube type model playing in my kitchen 24 hours a day, and it is never turned off. I believe that this fascination is the result of my grandfather's (Eugene Stokes) love of his old wooden floor model -- a Wagner console radio, which now sits in the front room of my home.

Pop pulled a chair up to the front of this radio and sat with his hands on the top as he listened to his favorite programs. He was totally involved with whatever specific show he was hearing at the time. As a young boy, I learned that he did not want to be interrupted when he was "connected" to his radio. Over the years, I was able to place his programming into three categories: news, religion, and entertainment -- in just that order.

Every morning and evening -- without fail -- he would listen intently to either Lowell Thomas or Edward R. Murrow to get the latest news of the world. I think he preferred Lowell Thomas to all other news reporters. At night Pop would turn up the volume when Thomas would say, "Good evening everybody, this is Lowell Thomas." Thomas always ended his newscast with, "So long until tomorrow." During World War II, Thomas broadcast detailed accounts of the war, often from a mobile truck behind enemy lines. Pop admired his solid voice of authority.

To the best of my memory, Pop's choice of religious programming was limited to two sources. One of my favorite memories of him was sitting with his hands on the top of the radio as he listened to Oral Roberts preach. Even though Pop was a staunch Baptist, he loved to listen to Roberts, who was a Pentecostal preacher. By 1950 Roberts was traveling the country with a huge tent and broadcasting simultaneously on over 60 radio stations. For some reason, Pop felt connected to Roberts' ministry. The other religious program that he loved was the "Sunday Morning Gathering," which originated from Renfro Valley. He simply would not miss a single episode of that show. I can see him now patting his foot as singers performed the old standard hymns.

Pop also loved comedy and adventure. I believe his "all time favorite" show was Amos and Andy, which was a weekly situation comedy. The show ran from 1943 until 1955 and was the story of two black comedians. He also never missed the Red Skeleton Show on NBC which began in 1941. Red portrayed several characters on his show, with the most famous being the dim-witted cab driver Clem Kadiddlehopper.

Another of Pop's favorites was called the Inner Sanctum. It featured one of the most memorable openings in radio history: an organist hitting a chord, a doorknob turning, and the famous "creaking door" slowly opening. As a matter of fact, Pop called the show the Creaking Door. We actually sat

Points East

By Ike Adams

I was demonstrating the fine art of catching soft crawfish and grampus to a couple of aspiring, adolescent fisherboys the other day on the lower reach of Paint Lick Creek.

Any fisherperson knows that these are the ultimate live bait if you are in pursuit of any game fish that inhabits a Kentucky stream.

There's a long, wide shoal there on the lower end of the creek where the water is only about ankle deep and the current trickles over a series of flat limestone rocks about the size of turkey platters and maybe an inch or so thick.

The bottom is too rocky to use a seine and the water is too shallow for the ever-wary small mouth bass to venture into so it's about as perfect a place to hide if you are a vulnerable, shedding crawdad or a hellgrammite (which I call grampus) as there is on the creek.

But the water is just swift enough and the bottom just clayey enough that, if you lift a rock up, the water immediately gets muddy and you can't see if there's anything under it or not. Nine times out of ten your quarry goes skittering down stream and crawls up under another rock before you have time to even think about grabbing it.

So, as I explained to my protégé, the best, if not the only effective way to catch soft craws and grampus is to hunker down and use both hands and gently feel back under the rocks and grab anything that moves. This is called noodling. "What if they bite you," one of the boys wanted to know? I explained that it wouldn't hurt much and that a little pain was a small price to pay to tie into some of the lunker small mouth and redeyes waiting in the deep holes there under the towering elms upstream. I promised them that a grampus couldn't bring blood, etc.

After I had fetched three or four big peeler crawdads and a grampus nearly three inches long came out latched onto the end of my finger, Robert and Joey got into the act.

"This is actually more fun than fishing," said Joey as he and Rob were on their knees and getting big soft crawdads crawdad from under nearly every rock. Joey even caught a couple of grampus but Robert slung them away every time one latched onto him.

Then we came upon a big flat piece of shale that was roughly the size of a coffee table top. There were little holes around it with little sand piles around them.

"This is the Mother Lode," I told the boys. "What I want you fellers to do is grab hold of the rock and lift it up about six inches and I'll do the noodling.

Sure enough, I raked my fingers across the bottom of the upturned rock and came out with 4 grampus.

"WOWWWWWW, exclaimed Joey. "Yuckkkkkkk," Robert echoed.

I poked around the bottom and came out with two or three more soft-as-dough crawdads and by this time we had like 9 grampus and probably 30 soft craws. But I told them to lift the rock a little higher and let me poke around a little more.

No sooner had they lifted the rock than I felt something latch onto my thumb. No crawdad or grampus this and I actually figured it was a turtle so I grabbed as hard as I could and gave a yank. And in one swift jerk, ejected a water snake as big around as a corn cob and probably thirty inches long, hanging onto my thumb for all it was worth, and twisting like a bad dream apparition.

Rob and Joey dropped the rock in unison. The water was only 6 inches deep and they could have waded, but instead they walked on it. The splash from the dropped rock covered me from the top of my head, and in the meantime, I was slinging my arm for all that I was worth.

The snake turned loose and landed about fifty feet down stream. In the meantime I had become an example of why there is fecal bacteria in Paint Lick Creek as I sat shaken on my behind in the middle of the stream.

Instead of swimming away, the darn snake came slithering back upstream, swimming against the current at a rapid pace and headed straight toward me, ready to continue the

Individual Right of Defense Gaining Popularity

It seems that 2005 amendments to Florida's deadly force statutes have prompted similar recent measures in numerous other states. This trend has peaked the frustration of such groups as the Brady Campaign who continue, largely without success, to urge stricter gun control laws. Florida's new law, known derisively as the "Shoot First law" or the "make my day law" broaden the right of Florida citizens to defend themselves against attack in any location where the victim has a lawful right to be present. The NRA has championed passage of similar legislation throughout the United States.

As expected, large urban media sources sharply criticize such legislation suggesting that it provides merely another excuse for aggressive individuals to justify the unrestrained use of deadly force in an exaggerated response to minor threats. Proponents of similar legislation cite anecdotal evidence of rebuffed attacks by street thugs.

Of course, the truth is probably somewhere in the middle. No doubt, some will abuse such laws and presumably be prosecuted and punished. And let there be no doubt, lives will be saved because of the judicious and lawful use of force in self-defense.

Bloggers are everywhere on this issue, usually vehemently for one side or the other. One particular, though trivial, issue emerged from a recent review of these sites which requires edification: nowhere in the U.S. Constitution is the right to "bare" arms reserved to the citizenry!

Kentucky's deadly force statutes have long provided for self-protection only when the defendant believes that such force is necessary to protect himself against death, serious physical injury, kidnaping, or sexual intercourse compelled by force or threat. The protection of others statute is even more restrictive.

Numerous court cases have interpreted these statutes since their enactment and the propriety of individual circumstances which prompted criminal prosecutions. After all, these statutes are legal defenses--someone has to be charged with a crime before asserting the statutory right of self defense. The ultimate decision of whether the use of deadly force was proper is usually the province of the jury once a prosecutor determines that sufficient evidence exists to support an indictment--a situation no reasonably sane person wants to find themselves in.

The right of personal defense is a compelling issue for Americans, one deeply rooted in our heritage and collective psyche. Given the proliferation of new statutes similar to Florida's and expanding laws legitimizing the concealed carry of deadly weapons, it appears that the former swell of anti-gun legislation has eased, if not altogether reversed.

In memory Of "Uncle Gene" George Eugene Gray October 10, 1931- June 27, 2006 I'll Be Waiting

We have come today to say goodbye to our father and our brother

He is a special man dear to our hearts-He is like no other.

For some of us here, he was a uncle, a cousin -

And to us all a faithful friend.

He was a special ray of sunshine from the beginning of his life until the end.

He had laughter, joy, and yes, there was pain.

But never a moment did he ever complain.

The lives that he touched, we may never know,

But the testimony he has left us-more precious than gold.

Many years ago, while upon a bended knee,

He accepted the Lord, our Savior.

He made a reservation for his Destiny.

He knew that life was like a flower, soon its beauty fades away.

And like a tiny vapor, we are here for just a day.

He made a commitment; for all of us to see,

And he left it here with us- It is his Legacy.

If he were here with us, right now, today,

These are the words I believe that he would say.

"When I closed my eyes in death, Jordan,s waters I did see,

I was not alone- They were waiting for me.

I saw their faces; loved ones young and old,

They were all there- They were waiting for me.

On the banks of the River, there I did see,

Our precious Mother-She was waiting for me.

With her loving smile and outstretched hand,

She welcomed me home into the Promise Land.

Her heart,s desire; us all, she,d someday see

She kept her faith- She was waiting for me.

We all knew her heart, we all knew her prayer,

"Lord, Jesus, save my children, so they can one day meet me there."

What a glorious sight, with my eyes, I did see,

The morning I left you- She was waiting for me.

I am just one, there are eight left you see,

Will the circle be unbroken, throughout Eternity?

I bid you now; this is my plea-give your hearts to Jesus,

And with Mama we will All be. Oh, the good times down here, yes we did share,

They will not compare, to the Reunion up There.

When you pause to think of me,

perhaps just to ponder,

Remember where I am, I am waiting Yonder.

I know your hearts may be heavy and I know that you will miss me,

But do not grieve for me; because with you, I will Always be.

It is just for a season and His coming is nigh,

Please make your reservation to meet me on High.

Dear brothers, dear sisters, and my dear children too,

I will be waiting....I'll be waiting for You."

In loving memory of "Uncle Gene"

Senate Week in Review

By Senator Ed Worley

Small businesses -- in many ways the lifeblood of Kentucky's economy -- will save more than $40 million in taxes each year under a plan approved by lawmakers in special session this week. We took only five working days to approve the plan while also providing tax incentives to help lure a $1 billion clean-coal, zero-emissions power plant to Henderson County, making this an incredibly efficient and successful special session.

Gov. Fletcher called the session last week so we could revise portions of his "tax modernization" plan that proved to be a burden on small businesses. Under the Governor's plan, many small businesses and other groups saw their tax bills grow dramatically.

Under the fix we approved, businesses with less than $3 million in profits will be exempt from the what's called the alternative minimum calculation (AMC), while businesses with profits of more than $3 million but less than $6 million will have the AMC gradually phased in. Certain charities, cooperatives and other groups like homeowners associations will be exempt.

The AMC under the Governor's plan had proven extremely problematic and even unfair to many of the state's 70,000 small businesses, because it is based on gross receipts or gross profits rather than net profits. As a result, some high-volume businesses with narrow profit margins -- and even some businesses that showed no net profit at all -- had seen their tax bills soar. In addition, the corporate tax rate will also decrease to 6 percent.

In addition, the bill also eliminates significant confusion caused by the Governor's tax plan. It conforms to federal language on the "pass through" -- allowing small business income to be taxed with an attachment to the individual return of the owner, as does the federal government. Under the Governor's tax modernization, Kentucky no longer recognized "pass-through" status, resulting in two very different tax systems and a great deal of confusion and consternation among Kentucky taxpayers.

The second issue taken up by the special session was tax incentives to help lure FutureGen, a demonstration and research facility focused on clean-coal, zero-emission power, to Kentucky. The federal Department of Energy is leading the consortium that will build the $1 billion facility. FutureGen would produce hydrogen and electricity from coal, while capturing carbon dioxide and containing it underground instead of releasing it into the atmosphere. The result is a cleaner environment, a beneficial use for a reclaimed surface mine on the Green River in Henderson County, and untold economic gains for Kentucky.

Seven states have submitted 12 bids for the project, with 3-5 finalists expected to be named in July. If Kentucky is one of the finalists, several site tests will be conducted to compare our proposal to the others. The winning bid should be announced late next year.

Our package could total as much as $90 million in tax incentives. The bill sets up a sales tax exemption for the purchase of materials needed to construct, repair, renovate, or upgrade FutureGen.

It is estimated FutureGen will generate 1,300 jobs during its construction phase, and 125-150 high-paying professional jobs after that. There will also be the benefit to related industries -- the extra coal that will be needed for the plant, the mining equipment and other heavy machinery necessary for the plant's operations, and other economic sectors -- and the various spin-offs that could come from hydrogen energy and coal gasification.

The simple fact of becoming the world's center for clean-coal and hydrogen energy research would have a positive impact on every Kentuckian. Our universities would edge closer to their educational and research goals, and our economy would expand in even unrelated areas because of the focus on our area.

Barring another special session, the General Assembly will not meet as a whole until January. Regardless of whether I'm in Frankfort or here at home, I urge you to call our toll-free Message Line in Frankfort at 1-800-372-7181 or e-mail me at ed.worley@lrc.ky.gov and let me know how you feel on any topic.

in front of the radio and listened as if it were a television set. (Of course, we did not have television at that time.) He would "shhhhh" us if we talked while the show was playing. He wanted to hear every word, and we honored his request for silence.

It was quite a transition for my grandfather when we finally did purchase a TV. He never gave up his connection to the old wooden radio, and that is why it will always be one of my most cherished possessions -- even though it may not be worth much to anyone but me. When I look at that radio, I still see him there in front of the set just as he was for years and years.

fight. I, too, walked on water. Throughout the afternoon, we caught ten keeper small mouth that we only kept because they had swallowed the bait and released probably fifty. We had a couple dozen redeye and even more shellcrackers (red ear sunfish) in the one pound range that must have escaped from a stocked pond back during high water. We had four blue catfish each about 20 inches, say three pounds each and four drum (white perch) that easily topped five pounds each.

Not a bad day on the creek. Probably sixty pounds of live weight that would render about twenty pounds of prime filets. Good grilling for the Fourth of July we figured.

As we dragged our stringers and fish baskets back down stream at dusk, we passed the bait shoal and the big flat rock.

"You reckon that snake went back under that rock," asked Joey and he was ready to turn it over to see.

"You leave that snake alone", said Robert and he literally shuddered. "The next time we go fishing, I'm gonna buy my own bait or use artificial."

As for me, I'm gonna stick to noodling under the little rocks that are no bigger than a turkey platter.

Northside Baptist Church's sanctuary seats nearly 1,000.

Two Seminary classes visit Northside Baptist

Dr. Art McPhee, Professor at the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminary, in Elkhart, Indiana and Dr. Ronald K. Crandall, Dean of E. Stanley Jones School of World Mission & Evangelism and a professor at Asbury Theological Seminary in Wilmore, Ky., brought 25 seminary students to Northside Baptist Church in Mt. Vernon, Ky. for a class tour June 16th. Dr. McPhee's wife, Evie, also accompanied the group. The students represented a wide geographical area including Nigeria, British Columbia, Canada, Virginia, North Carolina, Mississippi, Pennsylvania, Michigan, Texas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Indiana, Ohio, and New Jersey.

The class tour was the second time Dr. McPhee brought students to Northside as he ended a one-week summer class titled "Turnaround Strategies for Local Churches." The course is described as "help for small churches that are plateaued or declining and also for those who want to maintain their church's vitality. The approach is based on new ways of understanding local churches and how they function, and from data from churches that have recovered and regained vitality."

Dr. Larry Martin, Missions Growth Team Consultant for the Ky. Baptist Convention, Louisville, Ky., gave the seminary students at Northside an overview of a prayer movement in Kentucky that began in 1996. "That year," Martin said, "participants at a Mountain Missions Conference in Oneida were still on their knees, crying out in desperation to God, two hours after the meeting was scheduled to end." He said that no one knows exactly how the prayer began but those prayers led to prayer meetings that were scheduled in the five state parks in Kentucky in 1997. "In 1999, God opened the windows of heaven," Martin said in describing God's movement in Kentucky.

As a result, many new ministries have developed in different parts of the state but the movement has been particularly felt in Eastern Kentucky. "Five years ago," Martin said, "Eastern Kentucky had four ministry centers to distribute food and clothing and building materials. At last count, 47 ministry centers, from food closets to large ministry centers, like in Lynch, Ky., are operated throughout Kentucky by local people. God is doing the humanly impossible and it is happening through prayer."

Mission Service Corps missionary Shirley Cox told the students the story of Northside Baptist Church, which had dwindled to 30 active members six years ago. Bro. Chad Burdette, who was called to preach in a drug treatment facility, has pastored the church during a period of extensive growth of the church. New ministries are still emerging, including a large Outreach Ministry Center that is scheduled to be under roof in October. In each of the past two years, Northside Baptist Church has baptized over 100 new converts. The church's rapid growth has brought recognition from associational, state and national levels of the Southern Baptist Convention. Cox also showed a video, "Battered to Beauty," an award-winning film produced by Barbara Adams, a Berea College student.

The following day, the seminary class visited Meridzo Center, a multi-faceted ministry in Lynch, Ky. operated by Mission Service Corps missionaries Lonnie and Belinda Riley. The multi-faceted ministry includes food and clothing, home repairs, child care, equestrian, literacy and job training. Over 2,000 people have accepted Christ since the ministry began in 1999. In addition to directing a staff of 17 full-time volunteer missionaries from six states, the couple coordinates the work of more than 3,000 volunteers each year.

In a letter to the Dean of the Associated Mennonite Biblical Seminary, one student who attended the class tour wrote, "We were inspired as we heard testimony after testimony of answered prayer, of changed lives and communities which are continuing to change. We are certain God will use this experience as we practice the presence of God in our lives."

"We were delighted with the presentations and the hospitality we received at Northside and Lynch," Dr. McPhee said. "I firmly believe that when students move from their textbooks to actual ministry settings they acquire a far richer understanding of God's Spirit at work through the church. This trip is yet another confirmation of that conviction."

and the new building for Quail Park, the application also includes $41,785 for a sidewalk in Mt. Vernon on Lovell Lane, from Richmond St. to the four way stop, and $15,000 for each of the five fire departments and one rescue squad in the county.

Carloftis also told the court that, discounting the application for the Eastern Rockcastle funds, there would be about $9,480 left of the $501,355 in coal severance funds that he recommended be used to help build public restrooms at the city park in Mt. Vernon. Carloftis said the project was estimated, by Mayor Clarice Kirby, to cost $25,000 and the city had said they would come up with the balance of the funding needed for the project.

The court approved the recommendation.

Other project applied for

Judge Carloftis also presented three road projects to the court for approval to advertise for bids for. Carloftis said he had been told by an official of the State Transportation Cabinet that they were always “willing to help with special projects” so he was going ahead and advertising for bids for the projects.

They include: the Copper Creek Bridge into Garrard County; a box culvert on Mullins Station Road and a low water crossing on Lambert Road into Garrard County. The last project will enable children in the area to attend Rockcastle schools which is closer for them.

In other business, the court also approved the paying of a claim to the Division of Forestry in the amount of $2,596 for 129,800 acres at 2¢ an acre; approved the purchase of a truck for the Dog Warden, a rebuilt 2004 Toyota Tacoma, 4 cyl., 2x4, 17K for $11,500; approved the payment of $2,535 for postage notifying county residents of their new address.

gram offers cost-share assistance to individual beef and dairy producers in Rockcastle County to implement best management and health practices that augment efficient production and marketing opportunities for beef and dairy producers in the Commonwealth.

The Rockcastle County Conservation District was awarded $70,000 for the Hay, Straw and Commodity Storage program in Rockcastle County. This program offers cost-share assistance to individual producers seeking to increase income by implementing the best practices related to hay, straw and commodity storage and utilization. Using these practices will then improve feed and straw quality.

“I am pleased that the Kentucky Agricultural Development Board saw fit to award these funds to Rockcastle County. The agricultural community of Rockcastle County is fortunate to have this funding available to them. These programs will be a tremendous asset to the agricultural economy of our County,” said Representative Danny Ford.

The Kentucky Legislature continues to make great strides towards lessening Kentucky’s dependence on tobacco production while revitalizing the farm economy by investing 50% of Kentucky’s Master Settlement Agreement into the Kentucky Agricultural Development Fund. To date Kentucky has invested over $212 million to an array of county, regional, and state projects designed to increase net farm income and create sustainable new farm-based business enterprises. The Rockcastle County diversification programs represent over 2,549 projects that have been funded through Agricultural Development Fund, since the inception of the program in January 2001.

For more information about the sign-up period and the guidelines for programs administered by Rockcastle County Conservation District, contact Tom Mills with the Rockcastle County Extension Service at (606) 256-2403. To learn more about cost-share and loan programs available in your area contact the Governor’s Office of Agricultural Policy at (502) 564-4627.

“Bark”

The other case of slippery elm bark theft occurred in Jackson County.

Once the bark of slippery elm tree is removed, the tree soon dies. The life of the tree is essentially cut off once the xylem and phloem layers of the bark are removed. These inner layers of bark provide for the flow of water and nutrients that sustain the tree.

The theft of natural resources from national forest lands is nothing new. Ginseng has been illegally removed from public lands in the eastern United States for decades, causing serious decline and even extirpation of this plant in some forest areas. Other forest products commonly removed from national forest lands include timber, mosses and lichens, wildflowers and rocks.

Under the 36 Code of Federal regulations, “removing any timber, tree or other forest product, except as authorized by a special-use authorization, timber sale contract, or Federal law or regulation” is prohibited (36CFR, Section 261.6h). “Violations of this code are a federal offense and will be prosecuted in federal court,” said Patrol Captain Dennis Whitehead with the Forest Service.

To help prevent the illegal taking of important natural resources on national forest lands, the public is encouraged to report the theft of forest products to their nearest Forest Service office. For more information, the public may contact the forest headquarters of the Daniel Boone National Forest at 859-745-3100.

The Family Room

By: Dr. Roy Don Whitehead

The modern world is tremendously different from the world of fifty years ago. For those of us who remember back that far, we remember those days when modern conveniences did not exist. Many of these are things we now take for granted. They are so much a part of our lives that I wonder how we got along without them.

1. When I was a kid, we did not have air conditioning in our house. All we had were a few shade trees, and yet I do not remember fretting about the heat. Perhaps this was because kids just do not notice these sorts of things or perhaps I just did not know any different. It may be true that "you can't miss what you never had." Today, I would give up a lot of things before I would part with my air conditioner.

2. Computers are a daily part of many people's lives in the modern world. I can remember learning to type on a manual typewriter. (For you youngsters, that's the kind of thing you see in movies made in the forties and fifties.) It took a firm keystroke just to make the key strike the paper. In my high school typing class we even had one electric typewriter!

Yes, we were uptown! Students took turns typing on it, just so we would know what it felt like.

3. And what about copy machines? We continually run to the copy machine these days. If the copy machine breaks, whole offices come to a standstill. In the old days we used carbon paper. If you missed the experience of making five carbon copies on a manual typewriter, be thankful. Making a mistake meant that you had to stop and individually erase the mistake on each page before you could continue. It took awhile.

4. We had never heard of video cassette recorders, CDs or DVDs. Records were played on the stereo with the old LP record albums. These gradually wore out and would skip and hiss as they aged. If you wanted to watch a movie, you had to wait until it came to the local movie theater. There were no video rental stores for movie-goers.

5. How many storage buildings are in your town these days? Where I live it seems there are thousands and almost all of them are rented. In the old days only businesses had warehouses. Now individual families rent warehouse space. What did we do before storage buildings? Did we have more room at home to store stuff then? Do we have more stuff now than then? My hunch is that we have more stuff and just need a place to put it all.

6. Does your car have air conditioning? Can you imagine traveling without it? When I was a child, my grandparents lived in the southern part of Georgia. My dad always got his vacation in July. Do you know how hot it is in an un-air conditioned car with two adults and two children in Georgia in July? In the days before I-75, the drive took sixteen hours. My sister and I only barely avoided doing major bodily harm to each other. I can only imagine how my parents must have felt.

7. Talked to anyone on your cell phone lately? Cell phones have both advantages and disadvantages. You can call from anywhere, anytime, which is especially helpful when your car breaks down, and you are stranded in the middle of nowhere. The disadvantage is that you never have a moment's peace. Anyone who carries a cell phone as a part of his job is always at someone's beck and call. If you younger folks can imagine this, when I was a child, we had no phone at all! We walked to the neighbors to use the phone. That was quite a chore but, on the positive side, no tele-marketers ever called us either. And we were never awakened in the middle of the night by a wrong number.

KENTUCKY UTILITIES COMPANY
RECOVERY BY ENVIRONMENTAL SURCHARGE OF KU'S 2006
ENVIRONMENTAL COMPLIANCE PLAN

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE that on June 23, 2006, Kentucky Utilities Company ("KU") filed with the Kentucky Public Service Commission ("Commission") in Case No. 2006-00206, an Application pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statute 278.183 for approval of an amended compliance plan ("KU's 2006 Environmental Compliance Plan") for the purpose of recovering the capital costs and operation and maintenance costs associated with new pollution control facilities through an environmental surcharge on customers' bills beginning February 2007, under KU's existing rate mechanism known as the environmental cost recovery surcharge or "Electric Rate Schedule ECR."

Federal, state and local environmental regulations require KU to continually build and upgrade equipment and/or facilities in order to operate in an environmentally sound manner. Specifically, KU is seeking Commission approval of a Certificate of Public Convenience and Necessity ("CCN") to construct a new Selective Catalytic Reduction System ("SCR") for Ghent Unit 2 at the Ghent Generating Station in Ghent, Kentucky to comply with federally mandated Nitrogen Oxides requirements. Additionally, KU is seeking recovery of costs associated with environmental projects necessary for compliance with the Federal Clean Air Act, Clean Air Interstate Rule, Clean Air Mercury Rule, and the Clean Air Visibility Rule. These additional projects primarily relate to installation of an SCR system on Ghent Unit 2, mercury emissions monitoring, precipitator upgrades, Air Quality Control System equipment necessary to operate Trimble County Unit 2 within the approved environmental limitations and sulfur trioxide mitigation on electric generating units which burn high sulfur coal. The total capital cost of these new pollution control facilities is estimated to be $325 million.

The estimated impact on a residential customer using 1,000 kilowatt hours per month is expected to be an initial monthly increase of $0.82 for KU customers during 2007, with the maximum monthly increase expected to be $2.67 during 2010.

The Environmental Surcharge Application described in this Notice is proposed by KU. However, the Public Service Commission may make an order modifying or denying KU's Environmental Surcharge Application. Such action may result in an environmental surcharge for consumers other than the environmental surcharge described in this Notice.

Any corporation, association, body politic or person may, by motion within thirty (30) days after publication, request leave to intervene in Case No. 2006-00206. That motion shall be submitted to the Public Service Commission, 211 Sower Blvd., P.O. Box 615, Frankfort, Kentucky, 40602, and shall set forth the grounds for the request including the status and interest of the party. Intervenor may obtain copies of the Application and testimony by contacting Kentucky Utilities Company at 220 West Main Street, Louisville, Kentucky, 40202, Attention: Kent W. Blake, Director, State Regulation and Rates. A copy of the Application and testimony will be available for public inspection at KU's offices where bills are paid.

We will have regular story hour on July 11th at 1:00 p.m. Book logs must be turned in by Saturday July 8th before 4:00 p.m., preferably 3:45 p.m. Ronald McDonald will be here Tuesday July 18th @ 1:00 p.m. to do his magic show and we will have a pizza party, prizes will be given on that day! Make the connection, connect @ your library!

There was a huge crowd that gathered for the magic show.

Mr. Ron Mayhew started the magis show off with a bang.

Some of the children got an opportunity to touch the animals after the show.

Steer Wrestling at the Little World's Fair

What is Steer Wrestling?

Steer Wrestling is probably the most exciting event in the rodeo arena. When a man drops from a running horse onto the steer, stops the steer and throws him to the ground. Spectators have seen skill overcome heavily weighted odds.

The secret is this, as the cowboy catches up to the steer, he reaches with his right hand grabs the right horn and as his horse speeds by the steer the cowboy gets the horn in the crook of his right elbow. At the same time, his left hand pushes down on the other horn while his horse veers off to the left. The cowboy's heels drop ahead and at a 45 degree angle to the path the steer is taking.

The cowboy digs in his heels, turns the steer's head, and pulls it toward the center of a left hand turn. As the steer stops, his rear having swung around, the cowboy grabs the animal's nose with his left hand and with this sensitive hold, throws the steer onto his side. In addition to the steer wrestler, a second man, the hazer, is alongside the steer and to the onlooker all he seems to do is retrieve the wrestlers horse after the jump is made. Actually, he watches for mishaps which happen if the steer slams on his brakes or veers away from the wrestler or sometimes called the dogger. The hazer has to foresee these possibilities and correct them, often in a split second. This event is judged on the fastest time.

Join the fun and watch the Steer Wrestlers at the upcoming International Professional Rodeo Association's Rodeo at the Little World's Fair, Brodhead, Kentucky, August 7 & 8, 2006, 7:30 p.m. Call in entry for the Rodeo is July 31st, 2006, 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. CST, 800-639-9002. Locals and Permits accepted. For information contact Jim McElroy, Broken Horn Rodeo at 937-392-4608.

Local judges attend conference

Chief Justice Joseph E. Lambert brought together circuit and district judges from across Kentucky to attend a child protection conference in Covington June 12-13. Chief Justice Lambert proposed the idea for the conference, titled "Justice for Children: the Critical Role of Judges," after participating in the National Leadership Summit on the Protection of Children in the fall of 2005.

Circuit Judges Debra Hembree Lambert and David A. Tapp, who serve Lincoln, Pulaski and Rockcastle counties; and District Judge Janet C. Booth, who serves Garrard, Jessamine and Lincoln counties, attended the conference, which was sponsored by the Administrative Office of the Courts with a federal grant from the Children's Justice Act.

"Children are our most vulnerable citizens and one of the foremost duties of Kentucky judges is to see that they are protected," said Chief Justice Lambert. "While Kentucky is making progress in moving foster children toward safe and permanent homes, there is always more we all can do to improve this process with due regard for the rights of the children and their parents. This conference is designed to give judges practical ideas on how to handle these sensitive cases and achieve an outcome that best serves the children."

Jefferson County Family Court Judge Patricia Walker Fitzgerald and Christian County District Judge James G. Adams served as co-chairs for the conference.

Several presenters from the National Leadership Summit joined Kentucky judges, social services professionals and officials from the Cabinet for Health and Human Services to serve as faculty for the conference. Guest speakers included Judge William Byars Jr., director of the South Carolina Department of Juvenile Justice; Drs. Otto Kaak and James Clark, primary investigators for the Comprehensive Assessment and Training Services Project, University of Kentucky; and Commissioner Tom Emberton Jr., Department for Community Based Services, Kentucky Cabinet for Health and Family Services.

The Administrative Office of the Courts (AOC) supports the activities of more than 3,500 Kentucky Court of Justice employees, including the elected offices of justices, judges and circuit court clerks. The Education Services Department of the AOC provides continuing education to these elected officials through conferences and judicial colleges.
